...one to a customer.

And, that's a statement only we can make. Our Personal Banker program is more than an air of friendliness. It is a structured program of service of which I, and others like me, are an integral part.

"Personal Banker is a title we have earned through intensive training that covers all aspects of our family customers' needs. Whether they are in the area of bank services or just plain-talking, sound financial advice, we'll work with you to find an answer.

—Mike Gallagher,

SLINGERLANDS

Lyndhurst: an old bugaboo with a new name

Slingerlands residents who habitually turn out in large numbers when they feel highway planners and subdivision developers threaten the quality of life in their hamlet are facing a new crisis next month—a public hearing on the remaining sections of Lyndhurst.

It has been three years since the last citizen outpouring on the Lyndhurst ogre—August, 1975—and almost a year since the last residential rescue effort—the widening of New Scotland Rd. that drew 400 people to the hearing.

Last week the Rosen-Michaels development first submitted its preliminary plan for Phases II, III and IV of the giant residential development, now rechristened Deerfield, to the Bethlehem planning board. Phase II has 18 lots, extending from the previously approved 34-lot configuration of the original Lyndhurst off Surrey Mall and Middlesex Dr. Phase III links the first two sections with Font Grove Rd. and has 22 lots. Phase III completes the loop with another 22 building sites. The

62 new lots lift the subdivision's total to 96, all single-family designs in a Double A zone.

The planning board, which granted preliminary plat approval for the first section of 34 lots off Surrey Mall on June 15, 1976, will set a date for a public hearing on the new layout, probably in late August, and then decide whether Lyndhurst-Deerfield will be compatible in drainage, density, traffic, water, sewage and other compliance factors. It also has been disclosed that Wolf Krahrmer, Slingerlands financier, and his former partner in the original Lyndhurst complex, John Wheeler, have given Rosen-Michaels a purchase option for the 77-acre tract embracing Phases II, III and IV.

Krahrmer said the option is conditional on subdivision approval by the town. He also confirmed that he had sold outright the first section, a 17-acre parcel, to Rosen-Michaels, which will complete the 34 proposed dwellings. The firm is headed by James Michaels, who lives on Font Grove Rd., Slingerlands.

Both Michaels and Krahrmer, anticipating a possible inquisition from skeptical neighbors, have said they are aware of the community's concern. "We want to keep it forever green, keep it natural and undisturbed," Michaels told the Spotlight after the planning board session last week. Krahrmer, who did not attend the meeting, said the lots "will be large, and probably expensive." He pointed out that the lots in Lyndhurst I average two to an acre, and in Deerfield 1.7 to an acre. The houses, he added, will be in a variety of designs, and will be "in the medium range."

Police probing house break-ins

Bethlehem police are investigating daytime burglaries at two Slingerlands residences in the same neighborhood the same day.

Police said a dwelling on Grove St. was ransacked between 11 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. last Wednesday and a quantity of women's jewelry taken from a bedroom. The intruder broke a window in the front door to gain entry.

A break-in on Arthur Terr. a short distance away during the same time span netted $1,400 in cash in $100 bills taken from a nightstand in an upstairs bedroom, police said. Names and addresses were withheld to protect the owners.

A motorbike stolen from Elm Ave. Park at 3 p.m. July 10 was recovered that evening by Albany police responding to a teletype description broadcast by Bethlehem police, according to a report on file at headquarters.

A New Scotland resident, Donna Caswell of Unionville, has begun her reign as Albany County Dairy Princess. She was crowned by the 1977 princess, Valerie Adams of Glenmont, at the coronation banquet last month at Clarksville Community Church. Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Caswell.

Law clarified on youth work

Minors 14-15 years old must have an employment certificate to use power-driven equipment in lawn and garden work, regardless of whether the work is "casual" or not, according to New York State law. Minors 14-15 do not need "working papers" if no power equipment is used or if the work is casual, but they do need the certificate if the work is "regular."

Minors 16-17 must have certificates for lawn and garden jobs if the work is regular, but not if it is casual, regardless of whether the equipment used is powered, the law states. A student general employment certificate is issued to a minor 16-17 who is attending school, a full-time certificate is issued if the minor is not attending school and is good for work others than jobs classified as hazardous, involving certain machinery, construction work or helping on a motor vehicle.

Joseph A. Morrison

and Trust Co., according to an announcement this week by Victor J. Riley, Jr., president. Morrison joined the bank in 1962 and has served in the equipment leasing area. He is a graduate of Providence College. He served in the U.S. Army from 1942 to 1945 and continued in the Reserves until 1962. He is a member of the Blanchard Post, American Legion, president of Gamma Phi Upsilon military fraternity, and a member of St. Thomas Church.

Contrasts in bicycle safety: above, Albany County has installed a protective barrier and a painted line on Elm Ave. for bike-riders on the heavily used route to the Bethlehem town park. Right, after two months the state DOT still hasn't painted the promised side-lanes on Rt. 85, Slingerlands, one of the most densely-biked arteries in the Capital District. After assuring residents New Scotland Rd. would not be widened in a resurfacing job, the state in May payed the shoulders to within inches of poles and guard posts, leaving cyclists, joggers and pedestrians to dodge traffic as best they can on the now-shoulderless speedway. Spotlight photos

Teachers elect slate

Mary Pilkington has been reelected president of the Voorheesville Teachers Assn. The association, which is affiliated with the New York State United Teachers (NYSUT) AFL-CIO which has more than 200,000 members statewide, also elected a full slate that includes building representatives for the first time, Karen Boyea for the high school and Patricia Thomas for the elementary school. Marie Meyer was named vice president for the high school and Gertrude Modell was reelected vice president for the elementary school. Mary Petrones was reelected secretary, Anne Lennox corresponding secretary and Janet Roth treasurer. John Piechnik was renamed delegate to the NYSUT convention, with Joanne Lehmann as alternate.

Bethlehem Central High School students used advanced techniques and unusual subjects to compose their photos on display in the library lobby. Also in the lobby are 12 batiks by Suzanne Seaver of Woodstock, a former resident of Delmar known for her detailed animal and flower batiks. Inside the library, Kelly Kruegler and Susan Czeru of Delmar have prepared a dollhouse furniture display.

Scout camp open

Cynthia Bingham of Framingham, Mass., will be the director of Camp Little Notch, Girl Scout resident camp near Lake George. She has been a counselor for six years at the camp, which is operated by the Hudson Valley Girl Scout Council, Delmar. The camp offers 6, 8, 10 and 12-day sessions during July and August to Girl Scouts and girls who are non-Scouts.

Arrested on warrant

Elly Ann Rogers, 27, of Albany was arraigned before Bethlehem Justice Harry B. Rezzemini last Thursday on a bad check charge and released in custody of her attorney for an appearance on Aug. 17. She was arrested by East Greenbush police on a warrant issued by Bethlehem police after she allegedly cashed a fraudulent check at an Elsmere store April 28.

Displays at library

The Bethlehem Library offers a variety of art displays during the month of July.

Carnival promoters Kim Burkhardt, Katie Roth, Meg Manion and Vicki King contemplate profits for charity at Delmar carnival. On the cover: Spotlight reporter Jean Sharkey interviews chief coordinator Vickie Manion as Susan Israel contemplates buying a 10-cent ticket.

MS the winner at Delmar carnival

A group of 12 local philanthropists with Vickie Manion, 10, chairman, held a multiple sclerosis carnival at her home in Delmar on Saturday. With raffles, refreshments, games and an admission price of five cents the group raised $51 in three hours.

"I didn't think that many people would come," Vickie said. "I thought we'd only make six dollars."

Preparations for the event began last week when the promoters petitioned local merchants to donate prizes. Their solicitations reaped one case of soda, two bone china doves, seven necklaces including two expensive ones, 10 jump ropes, 14 cheeseburger certificates, 600 lollipops, $5 in cash and a wide assortment of other items.

The fun fund-raising on Huntersfield Rd. began promptly as Vickie, dressed as a carnival ringleader, greeted neighbors, sold game tickets and gave each guest an "I'm cool" sticker donated by Stewarts Ice Cream, Delmar. Eight booths were set up in the driveway, and each operator's dress reflected the game they were running. Tina Manion, in a gypsy outfit sat inside a makeshift fortune-telling parlor while she peered into a tin foil-covered ball and revealed the unknown destinies of her clients. Elizabeth Bartoletti collected tickets for toss-the-ball as Tania Stasiuk, dressed in an over-sized stuffed shirt giving her the appearance of a huge tennis ball, explained the game and retrieved balls. The Las Vegas roulette game was run by Andy Manion and Ed McCall. Maura Schnurr, dressed as a giant blue balloon, organized a balloon race for eager contestants. With a tic-tac-toe sewed to her shirt, Kim Burkhart was an obvious skill for the game she operated. Laura Fordham and Renna Komisar sat patiently in opposite corners at the tag sale and raffle booths. On the front lawn contestants were led by Meg Manion for a peanut treasure hunt. Vickie King and Kathie Roth were busy selling refreshments and taking bids on a jar filled with jelly beans.

Bids on the jelly bean raffle ranged from 1.236 to 289. Mark Glassman had the nearest bid of 636 and won the jar of 683 jelly beans.

SLINGERLANDS

Postmaster ends 15-year career

Maurie G. Flanigan, a postmaster for 24 and a half years, has retired from her position at the Slingerlands postoffice. She was one of the first approved postmaster appointments made by President Kennedy in 1963.

"I just loved working there because meeting people every day is marvelous. Every morning I'd wake up and I couldn't wait to get down there and work," she said the other day.

An active woman, Maurie will continue in her position as secretary of the Federal Executive Association of North-eastern New York and as vice president of the Bethlehem Business Women's Club. Recently she was given a lifetime membership in the Albany-Schenectady postmasters group.

Her mother, Sophie Gleason, also worked for the postoffice for 25 years and retired when she was 70. When her mother worked, the postoffice was located next to the Slingerlands firehouse and the mail was delivered by train. Currently many people are enraged about the jump in postal rates, she noted, but commented that Ben Franklin, the first postmaster in the U.S., charged those who received mail 25 cents.

Maurie Flanigan's future plans include attending the national conference of postmasters in Atlanta and to volunteer at an area hospital.

Tomboys' picnic set

Bethlehem Tomboys and their families and friends will close another successful season with their annual picnic Friday, July 28, at Picard's Grove, New Salem, from 5 to 8:30 p.m. All players will be guests of the league and the cost for others is $3.25 for each adult and $1.50 for each child 7 and under. Supper will consist of hamburgers, hotdogs, salads, relishes, ice cream and soda. Prizes will be awarded to members of winning teams, and all players will receive team pictures. Picnic reservations and checks should be sent by Friday, July 21, to Ann Treadway, 5 Ridge Rd., Slingerlands 12159.

Mother of 7 bids for Lane's seat

A former president of the Greenville PTA who served as campaign coordinator for Mary Lou Bartolotta in the 1976 Assembly race is the 1978 challenger for Larry Lane's Assembly seat.

Barbara Selmer, a former candidate for the Greenville town board who later served on the town's park commission, has been endorsed by the Democratic committees of Albany, Columbia and Greene counties in her bid to unseat Lane in the 102nd district. The district embraces the towns of Bethlehem, New Scotland and Coeymans in Albany County and all of Columbia and Greene counties, and has not had a Democratic incumbent in 40 years.

Mrs. Selmer, mother of seven children, has been active in grass roots politics in Greene County for many years. She has also worked at the Cox-sackie Correctional Facility and is now employed by the State Assembly as a senior-administrative assistant for the Speaker of the Assembly.

William Burkhard of Delmar, vice chairman of the Bethlehem Democratic Committee, has been named Albany County coordinator in the Selmer campaign cabinet.

Novel in Bethlehem

An English course in the modern novel will be offered on Tuesday evenings at the Bethlehem Library as part of an off-campus program by the State University at Albany. The course for undergraduate credit will begin Aug. 29, and one-stop, walk-through registration and admission may be accomplished during the summer.

The College of General Studies, which offers the course, does not offer degree programs. Credits earned may be transferred to a program within the university at a later date. Among other courses available are anthropology,

Summer theater an abundance within

For many local households, summertime is the best opportunity in an otherwise busy year to relax and enjoy stage productions, especially fast-moving musicals and light-hearted comedy. A random poll of Bethlehem-New Scotland residents show that more people are taking advantage of nearby theatricals, of which there is a surprising abundance within 40 minutes driving time.

Comfortably within that radius are the Mac-Haydn Theatre in Chatham, the Valhalla Country Club dinner theater, the State University Summer Theatre, the Tower Troupe repertory company in Troy and the ever-popular Coliseum Theatre in Latham. Only a little farther out, but still easily accessible for an evening of dining and stage, are the Berkshire Theatre Festival just over the Massachusetts line in Stockbridge, the Woodstock Playhouse in the Catskills, and the Lake George Opera Festival. Several of these troupes, notably Mac-Haydn, Stockbridge and the Coliseum, have special productions for children.

Apart from the Coliseum, 25 minutes away from most of our area, the most accessible and one of the most colorful is Mac-Haydn. The troupe does a thoroughly professional job on musicals, and stages their productions "in the round" in a converted doll furniture factory on Rt. 203 this side of Chatham hardly five miles from Valatie. It's only 20 minutes from Selkirk via the Castleton bridge, somewhat longer by I-90 over the Patroon Bridge and down Rt. 9.

The actors, singers and backstage cast worked furiously on the large barn-shaped structure in June to get ready for the opening of "Fiddler on the Roof," acclaimed by Delmar people who have caught on to this theatre. The troupe is finishing "Man of La Mancha" this week, and will stage "Irene" next week. There are four more on the summer slate.

"Once Upon a Mattress" Aug. 2-6, "Paint Your Wagon" Aug. 9-13, "Superman" Aug. 16-20 and the Lerner-Loewe classic, "Brigadoon," for two weeks up to Labor Day. On Saturdays you can catch the show at 5 p.m. and then stop for dinner on the way home, or have dinner and catch the 8:30 performance. On Sundays it's a pleasant 7 p.m. "curtain."

The new site, after nine seasons in a converted barn on the Chatham Fairgrounds, features a massive cobblestone fireplace in the lobby, box office windows that once served the old Chatham post-office, and superb acoustics. Lynne Haydn and Linda MacNish are devotees of the Broadway musical format, and MacNish is a Chatham product herself.

The Valhalla operation is in Rexford just a short way from the Balltown Rd. bridge over the Mohawk. It is the brain-child of Joseph Futia, who also owns the Coliseum Theatre. The package price includes dinner, a pleasing view of the golf course along the Mohawk, and such local stage favorites as Joe Kilgallen and Martin Kelly. Valhalla opened with "Barefoot in the Park," and is now doing "Mary, Mary," with two more productions in rehearsal.

Closest of all is the SUNYA operation, now doing the second of a three-part summer schedule. On stage is "Feiffer's People," a collection of witty sketches, to be followed by "Little Foxes." Jinx Lindenauer, a Delmar actress, has a major role in the play.

Stockbridge gets more famous names, like Joanne Woodward and Shirley Knight, and steeper prices, like $9.95 and $8.50. Woodward and Knight open July 26 in "The Children's Hour," a drama set in a New England girls' school.

In Troy, at the Chapel and Cultural Center, 2125 Burdette Ave., it will be Neil Simon's "Come Blow Your Horn" July 28-29 and "The Fantasticks"

Aug. 4-5, good-fun amateur productions at $2.50 and $2.

VOORHEESVILLE A new hearing for Salem Hills

Embattled homeowners in the Salem Hills subdivision in Voorheesville are girding for a second public hearing on a proposed 200-percent fee hike in the development's privately owned sewerage system.

The hearing, called by the Voorheesville village board sitting as the municipality's public service commission, is set for Thursday, July 27, at 7:30 p.m. at Voorheesville Elementary School. At the first hearing on June 5, residents bombarded spokesmen for the developer, Rosen-Michaels Real Estate, Inc., with protests over the firm's application for a boost in the monthly sewer fee from $10 to $29.05 per dwelling.

Michael W. Malark, 133 Stonington Hill Rd., president of the Salem Hills homeowners' association, heads a committee of accountants, engineers and lawyers who have been preparing a detailed challenge to the developers, who operate the Salem Hills Sewage Treatment Corp. serving the subdivision's 276 dwellings. The utility claims a cumulative operating deficit of $78,017 as of the close of its fiscal year last April 30, and insists the rate boost is necessary to make an estimated $30,000 in required repairs and to maintain the system.

Kenneth J. Connolly, 6 Danbury Ct., an attorney who is serving as spokesman for the homeowners' group, said the information given at the June 5 hearing "wasn't sufficient to make any conclusions," and indicated the utility was reluctant to turn over financial records. He said the Salem Hills committee had met earlier with Rosen-Michaels accountants.

The village board has regulatory authority in such matters, and will rule on the fee application at a later date. Mayor William J. Wenzel is due back from vacation on Monday, and will chair the hearing. The board in 1974 granted a fee increase from $7.50 to $10 per month.

Bible school starting

The Glenmont Community Church (Reformed) will sponsor its annual vacation Bible school during the week of July 24-28. Each morning's session will include singing, Bible lessons, refreshments and a choice of crafts and activities such as macrame, woodworking, cooking, softball, basketball and latch hook wall hangings. Each participant will have an opportunity to contribute to the project of providing medical supplies for a Reformed Church missionary in Chiapas, Mexico. There will be a picnic on Friday for all who have taken part in the program. Young people from age 4 through middle school are eligible. Pre-registration is necessary, 439-2137.

Engagement told

James H. Carnahan of Glenmont announces the engagement of his daughter, Sharon Lee Carnahan, to David Charles Gerber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Gerber of Slingerlands.

The future bride is a senior at Hope College, Holland, Mich. Her fiance is a student at New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, N.J., and is now the summer student assistant for the Niskayuna Reformed Church. A June, 1979 wedding is planned.

Jams and jellies class

Pinnacle marks 80th anniversary

Camp Pinnacle, which claims the distinction of being the first girls' camp in America when it began in 1898, will celebrate its 80th anniversary this weekend with special observances. The camp has been co-ed since 1940 and now has three divisions — for children 8-12, a teen camp and an adult bible conference and family camp.

The weekend celebration July 21-23 starts Friday at 7:45 and will feature the music of Dorothy Master Green, Wayne and Arlene Thomas, international gospel singers from York, Pa., and a speaker, Rev. Robert Shelton of Greenville, S.C. Dorothy Green is a pianist who has written many new songs, which will be part of the Friday and Saturday night musicals. On Saturday at 8 the sacred concert will highlight songs by the Thomases and members of the Pinnacle staff. Wayne and Arlene Thomas are Eventide recording artists and have sung around the world. Sunday services will be at 11 a.m. and at 7:45 p.m. The public is invited and there is no admission charge. A free will offering is taken at all meetings.

One of the regular weekend highlights is a hot and cold dish smorgasbord from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

Skip, Hoagy rebooked

They got rained out on the Fourth of July, but Skip Parsons and his Riverboat Jazz Band and Hoagy the Clown will be at Elm Ave. Park, Delmar on Sunday, July 30, for a make-up engagement. When July 4 turned blustery and cold, with rain, too—the town of Bethlehem cancelled most of its Family Day activities. Skip Parsons will set up at poolside and play from 1 to 6 p.m., and Hoagy will do balloon and other clown-type tricks between 2 and 4 p.m.

Luncheon speaker

Frank Dobisky, managing editor of the Troy Times Record, will be the speaker at the July 27 luncheon of the Retired Men's Fraternity at Mario's theater restaurant, Troy.

MODERN PHARMACY

Michael Krugman

Blood has long been recognized as a precious vital fluid in the body; ancient warriors knew that blood loss from battle wounds could cause weakness, dizziness, fatigue, or even death if the bleeding was severe or prolonged. But for many centuries physicians had no clear idea of what blood was, how it moved through the body, or exactly what vital functions it performed. Today, of course, there's no longer any mystery about why this red body fluid is one of the body's basic tissues and has a very important job of transporting life-supporting oxygen to all parts of the body.

Find service as you like it—fast and friendly from the efficient staff at KRUGMAN'S DELMAR PHARMACY INC. Blue Jays win on hit barrage Delmar Blue Jays gave their hometown fans an impressive demonstration of strong amateur baseball Saturday when they combined good pitching with timely hitting in an 11-2 rout of the Colonie Travelers at Elm Ave. Park. The Blue Jays will be back in action this Saturday, July 22, at 1 p.m. when they take on the Shelburn Falls (Mass.) Mohawk Giants at Bleecker Stadium, Albany.

Manager Rudy Toffenetti's newest acquisition, outfielder Tony Naglieri, continued his torrid hitting with 4-for-4 against Colonie, including a double and three RBIs. Shortstop John Terko, centerfielder Mark Kleinke and pitcher Shawn Fitzgerald had two hits apiece as the Blue Jays sprayed 15 hits around the premises.

Fitzgerald rationed seven hits to the visitors and fanned 10 in a six-inning stint. Frank Venezia finished up with a hitless seventh inning.

Sheree Wright of Delmar has been awarded a varsity letter for playing on the Bentley College women's tennis team. She also earned the Coaches Award. She is the daughter of Mrs. Marie E. Wright, of North St.

Michael Hupp

Named to pulpit

Michael Hupp has become the pastor of the Normansville Community Church, Rockefeller Rd., Delmar. He is a former Tennessee resident, attended Milligan College, Tenn., majoring in theology, and received a BA degree from Asbury College, Kentucky. He is the director of Albany Bible Institute, a non-denominational adult bible training center.

Job Corps diplomas

The awarding of high school equivalency diplomas at the New York Job Corps Center has been announced by center Director John N. Acquilano. Each month, corpsmembers at the residential training center in Glenmont take the New York State administered General Education Development (GED) exam required to be awarded the high school equivalency diploma. Corpsmembers who have recently been awarded the GED diploma are: Chris Bessette, Malone; John Baughman, Irving; Michael Cizek, Rome; Thomas Eng, New York; Vicky Gardner, Rochester; Vernon Jock, Malone; Konstantinos Kopulos, Buffalo; Elizabeth Lebron, Brooklyn; Calvin Maxfield, St. Regis Falls; Dawn Mayeau, Williamson; Frederick Warren, Plattsburgh, and Howard Welch, Rochester.

In Glenmont, the Spotlight is sold at Atchison's Five A Superette, Heath's Dairy store and Van Allen Farms.

Delmar loses devoted volunteer

Pat Baltzel, who has worked diligently with the FISH community service organization in Delmar, was forced to leave the group when she moved to East Nassau with her family. Her volunteer service began about six years ago when the local chapter was established.

"I found working there very rewarding," she said. "We are people helping other people who need assistance with transportation, meals or babysitting."

To Pat Baltzel every call is unusual because no one's needs are the same. One call she received was from a woman who needed a ride to a local drycleaner. The caller explained that she only had one good dress and had to pick it up because a friend had died.

During her service Pat was president of FISH and worked uncountable hours answering the phone and driving people around the area. After she is settled in her new home she plans to join another community service organization.

BUSINESS

Center opens for skateboards

Keith Patterson, co-manager of the area skateboard center located in The Bike and Boat Shop, Delaware Ave., Delmar, believes that skateboarding is a sport, not just a fad. Keith, 15, and his brother Mark, 16, are in charge of this division of their father's business.

The Pattersons sell skateboards and the safety apparatus needed for the sport. Padded shorts, knee and elbow pads, helmets and gloves are now used by skateboard riders. In the past few years skateboard parks have been installed and they require safety equipment and provide riders with a supervised and safe place to ride.

Skateboards used today are safer than those used in the 1960's. Clay wheels are no longer used, and synthetic wheels that are wider and that offer more traction have taken their place. Dave Sterzing, Glenmont, a skateboard rider says: "It's the old equipment that gave this sport a bad name. If a person buys the right board and knows their limits, then they won't get hurt."

Dave Sterzing and other skateboard riders have circulated a petition in Glenmont to gain support for a proposed skateboard facility at the Bethlehem town park. They have obtained 300 signatures and the petition will soon be circulated in the Delmar area.

CUISINARTS, INC.

Buy the $160 Cuisinart® food processor at Pearl Grant Richman's in July and receive the $27⁵⁰ Cuisinart® kitchen scale FREE.

And this is no ordinary kitchen scale. It must be excellent to carry the Cuisinart name. It bears the official seal of accuracy of the French government bureau of weights and measures. It comes with two different shatterproof, dishwasher-safe weighing trays and uniquely shows the weight in pounds and ounces and grams at the same time in two different windows. So when you add it all up, our weigh-out offer is not so way out after all.

SPOTLIGHT PROFILE

Teenage superstar with wings on her feet

Although most of her rivals are older than she and have been running in varsity meets for many more years, Leslie Warren of Delmar has already made her mark in the world of high school track competition. At 16, she is the current Albany County cross country champion of high school girls, a title she earned only a year after she began running in serious competition in her freshman year at Bethlehem Central.

Leslie, now a sophomore, is about to complete her second year as one of BC's best long-distance competitors. The girls' varsity track season is almost over, but she plans to continue in the sport throughout the summer with the Capital Track Club, which is headed by former Bethlehem coach Dave Herrington.

While she competes most often in cross country runs (the courses are usually between one-and-a-half and three miles long), Leslie also specializes in one- and two-mile races. Lately, she has been working to improve her times for these events, although already they have proved fast enough to win first place in such prestigious races as the Schenectady and Lansingburgh Invitationals. Her other firsts include the Grout Invitational and the Class A Sectionals in high school competition, where she broke the tape in both the mile and two-mile events. Her current record times for these are 5:13 and 11:41 respectively.

During the varsity track season, Leslie also competes in the two-mile relay event, in which she runs the anchor leg, on the BC team with Trish Morris, a freshman, and Judy Parker and Cindy Caswell, both sophomores. The team, coached by Nancy Booth, has done well during the past season despite injuries sustained by several members. Leslie herself has never been injured in competition, although she did suffer from leg cramps last year during a long-distance race. "It was nothing serious," she says, "and I'm in pretty good shape now so I don't get cramps too often anymore."

What does she think about while she's running? "I really have to concentrate hard on what I'm doing, so I really can't think of anything else," she replies. "Towards the end of a race, my legs get sort of numb and I have to think about keeping them moving. Once you stop, you'll stop again, and you can get into bad habits that way." Has she ever had to stop during a race? "No," she says, smiling.

Leslie, who lives near Five Rivers Center in Delmar, says that her father got her interested in running "because he ran in high school and college, too." Together they run two to three miles a day, and lately

Local Boy is a Monkey's Uncle

As he swung thru the trees in Delaware Plaza, he let out a blood-curdling yell, causing all the animals to look up from their watering hole. "Who greased the viiine?" he screamed, as he landed with a thud. Dressed only in a loin-cloth, he was immediately recognized as Ima Dreamer, 17 of Delmar. "I've hunted all the Burroughs, and no one has bargains like Rogers Sport & Ski Shop, and that's no lion. The bucks you save will be a real pygmy-up. Safari's I know, Pete's no cheetah; he'd go ape if you're not Ghana return." Town zookeeper U.R. Whacko said, "if he was singing 'Gorilla My Dreams', we'd tarzan feather him."

have been working on short sprints to keep a steady speed during competition. She lives with her parents and a brother and sister; Steve, 13, and Jenny, 11, who are also interested in running.

She hopes to pursue a career in physical education recreational activities, "so that I can always be near running." She also hopes to coach a competitive track club and wants, simply, to "keep running forever." She says that the best part of competing in area meets is "meeting new people and making new friends" and that "even when you're scheduled to run against someone in competition, you get to know them really well. I've made a lot of friends through my running."

She chose running instead of another sport or activity because "I really wanted to be good at something, to excel at something." Her coach and most of her competitors would probably agree that she has achieved her goal.

Gretchen Pfalzer

Delmar man engaged

Gretchen Mary Pfalzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Pfalzer of Buffalo, and Stephen Robert Siy, son of Mrs. Lucille D. Siy of Delmar, have announced their engagement.

The future bride is a graduate of Vardin Academy and is attending the State University of New York at the Buffalo School of Engineering. Her fiance graduated from the School of Engineering at the State University of New York at Buffalo. He received his Master's degree in Business Administration from the university in May. He is employed by the Ralston Purina Co., Dunkirk.

Susan Cecile Weber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Weber, became the bride of Raymond Paul Fortman, son of Mr. Theodore Fortman of Chicago, Ill. and Mrs. T.E. Kumlander of Grand Island, N.Y., in a July 8 ceremony at St. Mary's Church, Albany. Rev. Msgr. Edward O'Malley officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Colleen Havill was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Kendra Weber, Amy Weber, sisters of the bride, Kathy Fortman, sister of the groom, and Maria Ieraci. Best man was George Soloyna. Ushers were Douglas Fortman, brother of the groom, Steven Moreno, Thomas Connell, Jr., and Albert Gardiner.

The bride attended Boston University and graduated from SUNY at Albany. She is employed by Bankers Trust Co. of Albany. The groom is a graduate of SUNY at Albany and is employed by Almart's Dept. Store as a department manager.

Delmar man engaged

Edward Menzies and Mrs. Roberta Jacobs of Ithaca announce the engagement of their daughter, Penny Lee, to Duane George Devenpeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Devenpeck of Delmar.

Miss Menzies graduated from Guilderland Central High School and is employed by the Good Samaritan Home, Delmar. Her fiance attended Bethlehem Central High School and is employed by Chez Renee, Glenmont.

The wedding will take place on Aug. 26 at the First United Methodist Church, Delmar.

In SPAC concert

Ann Cooper of Windsor Ct., Delmar, is a member of the Saratoga-Potsdam Chorus, which will join the Philadelphia Orchestra in Verdi's Requiem under Eugene Ormandy at Saratoga Performing Arts Center on Aug. 10. The chorus will also participate in an all-Brahms program under Robert Shaw on Aug. 16. Miss Cooper is a student at the Crane School of Music, Potsdam.

New counselor to join staff

The Capital Area Christian Counseling Service has appointed a new counselor to its staff. Kathy J. Law has joined Eric Van Dusen in this counseling ministry, located in Delmar.

Miss Law is a graduate of Georgia State University and the Psychological Studies Institute, both in Atlanta. She completed both her Ed.M. and Ed.S. in counseling psychology, attending both schools simultaneously. Her experience includes work with alcoholics and drug addicts, individual counseling, marriage and family therapy. She has worked in counseling centers and clinical care facilities, and was in private practice.

The Capital Area Christian Counseling Service is a not-for-profit agency providing counseling for individuals, couples and families. The counselors may be reached at 439-9492.

In Feura Bush, the Spotlight is sold at Houghtaling's Store.

At Audubon workshop

Wendy Repass Suozzo of Slingerlands, an associate at the Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, Delmar, last week completed a one-week course in field biology and environmental studies at the Audubon Ecology workshop in Greenwich, Ct.

Wildflower walk

A guided walk entitled "Summer Wildflowers" will be offered at 7 p.m. on Thursday, July 27, at the Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, Game Farm Rd., Delmar. This walk will last approximately an hour and a half. Walking shoes are recommended.

Free tennis clinics

Southwood Tennis and Swim Club, Rt. 9W and Southern Blvd., will conduct two sessions of free clinics for anyone who wishes to learn to play tennis. The clinics are open to adults only, and will be taught by Southwood's new director of tennis, Roger C. McCammon. The clinics are scheduled for one-hour sessions, 6-7 p.m. on Tuesdays, Aug. 8, 15 and 22, or Wednesdays, Sept. 6, 13 and 20. Registration is required and limited. Call Southwood, 436-0838.

Elsmere leader honored

Robert C. Greenman received the Silver Beaver Award from the Boy Scouts of America at their annual recognition dinner on June 1. The Silver Beaver is the highest recognition that a scouter can achieve. It denotes many years of service, not only to Scouting, but to community organizations, youth and society.

Greenman is a 1949 graduate of BCHS and a 1953 graduate of Clarkson. He is employed by the New York Telephone Co. and lives in Elsmere with his wife, Marilyn, and three of his four sons, all of whom have been involved in Scouting.

Community Corner

Public Concert

A free band concert will be presented by the Town of Bethlehem Summer Band on Thursday, July 20, in the town park on Elm Ave., Delmar. The band, under the direction of Alison Voorhees and Phyllis Willey, consists of students and alumni of the Bethlehem area. A variety of works will be presented.

The concert will begin on the lawn at 8 p.m. The public is invited to bring lawn chairs or blankets for an enjoyable musical evening.

Community Corner, a public service column of important community events, is sponsored by
