WHY NOT THE BEST?

There are a number of ways to lose weight, of course. Some methods use group therapy, others use diet, while others even use exercise. Some of the better ones incorporate diet and exercise, but only Gloria Stevens uses the most effective method—the MED Method, Motivation*, Exercise* and Diet*.

- *Motivation - Continual support in your drive to reach and continue your weight control program.
- *Exercise - The method in which you strengthen and develop your body, tone your muscles and insure yourself of more energy. Considered by the medical profession as vital in fighting the problems of age, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries.
- *Diet - Eating a balanced diet, nutritionally sound, not only controls weight, it plays an important role in your good health. The adage, "You are what you eat" is true.

"Don't be fooled by fads or instant solutions for weight loss. The combination of Motivation, Exercise, Diet, is the correct comprehensive formula for losing weight—and keeping it off."

Michael Krugman

Statistical evidence (and the genetic patterns) reveal that men are overwhelmingly more apt to be color blind than women. In our total population about eight percent of men have color vision problems but less than one percent of women have any. These data are confirmed by a national health survey on color-vision deficiencies in children six to 11 years old which shows that of the 3.8 percent of affected children, 6.95 percent were boys and only 0.53 percent were girls. Amazingly, many color-blind people don't realize they have any difficulty at all. It is, however, possible to test for color blindness.

"It just doesn't make any sense not to have Charter Check Credit."

—says Cathy Donovan, Personal Banker
"For openers, it's a line of credit."

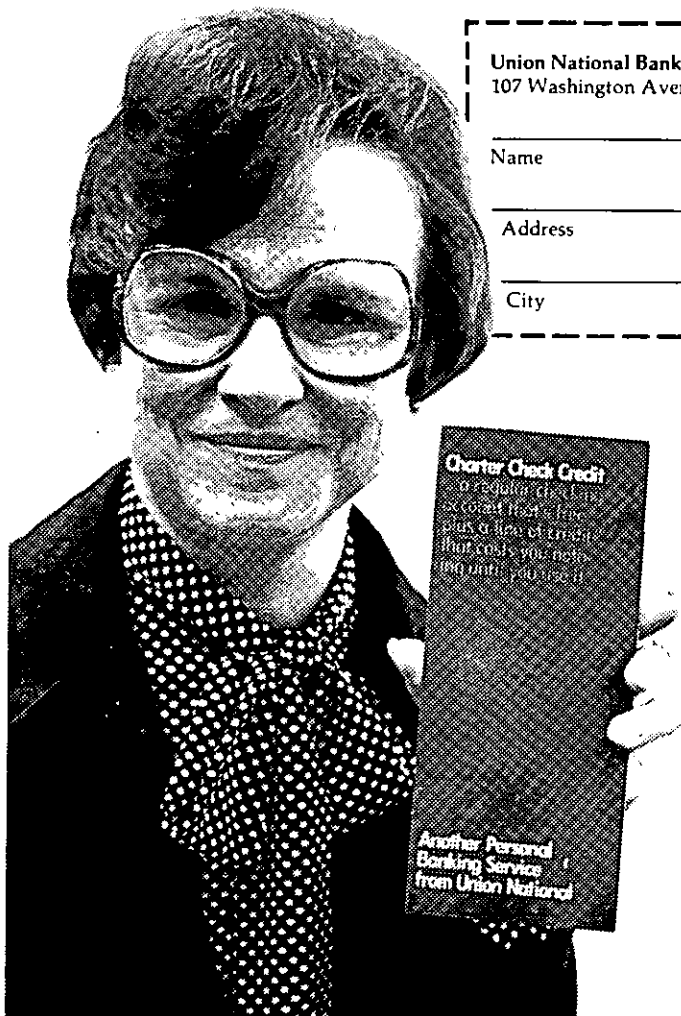

"As a personal banker at Union National Bank, one of my very first recommendations to my customers, and every new customer, is to apply for Charter Check Credit. It doesn't make any sense not to!

"When you qualify for Charter Check Credit, here's what happens. You receive a free checking account, free checks with your name imprinted and a monthly statement. If you overdraw your account, we automatically cover your overdraft up to the limit of your credit line, and if you want to borrow money you simply write a check, again up to the limit of your credit line. Equally important, credit life insurance is available to cover any unpaid balance in your account."

For further details and an application form for Charter Check Credit, simply complete and return the enclosed coupon.

Town museum: Cedar Hill schoolhouse or Delmar?

Unofficial plans to convert Bethlehem's stately and historic town hall into a museum to house historical displays and artifacts when town offices are moved next year have touched off a lively debate.

Although there has been no formal announcement that the town's government will be moved to the now vacant Delmar Elementary School building, the switch is considered a foregone conclusion. Renovation plans and a survey of floor space for offices already are well along.

When the move takes place, in the undetermined future, shall the present town hall be retained as the future home of the town museum, now housed in the "little red schoolhouse" in Cedar Hill?

Emphatically no, insist officers of the Town of Bethlehem Historical Assn., custodians of the former schoolhouse on Rt. 144 at Clapper Rd.

Positively yes, insist town historian T.E. (Ed) Mulligan and other local residents.

Opinions were divided at a public forum at town hall last week at which suggestions by the 16-member town facilities study committee were aired. The committee, appointed by the town board last winter, is headed by two retired architects, Clifton Flather and Julius Tauss. The panel has conducted an exhaustive survey of town-owned buildings, which include such major structures as the justice department and community center on Adams St., the town garage in Selkirk, the water department treatment plant in New Salem and the town hall annex on Delaware Ave.

The museum issue highlighted the discussion at last week's forum. In addition to airing citizen suggestions on facility usage, the forum revived a longstanding controversy that two years ago caused a rift in the administration of the historical association at the schoolhouse museum.

When William Tinney, chairman of the association's board of trustees, read a statement outlining the historical society's position favoring retaining the Cedar Hill museum, Mulligan, central figure in the 1976-77 controversy challenged the statement as containing "serious omissions of facts." Mulligan's statement was denied by James Vander Vort and Charles Crangle, both of Delmar. Crangle is president of the association.

Mulligan said the association had expelled the town supervisor and town historian as ex-officio members of the association board. He charged that at a meeting of the museum officers a year and a half ago at the home of the association's then president, Mrs. Lois Dillon, Crangle had said that "the historical group was a private club that didn't want town hall looking over their shoulders." Crangle denied making such a statement.

Mulligan said over the weekend he was collecting sworn affidavits from persons who were present at the meeting at the Dillon residence. Mulligan said he favored establishing the museum in the present town hall "because it's more historic than the red schoolhouse." Mrs. Helen Adler, a Bethlehem Central High School teacher, suggested the town hall would be more appropriate for its convenient location and more spacious facilities.

The present town hall was built in 1838, two decades earlier than the Cedar Hill schoolhouse, which dates to 1859. The stately town hall, once a hotel, figured in the "rent wars" of the 19th century when Gov. William Marcy marched from Albany to Delmar, then known as Adams Station, to put down rebellious tenants in 1840. The powerful political machine in the state capital, known as the Albany Regency, had aligned itself with landholders in the 20-year struggle against tenant farmers who contended they were prevented from owning land and were denied citizen rights.

The structure at 393 Delaware Ave. has served as Bethlehem's town hall since 1953, when the town board moved from quarters now occupied by Ehrlich's Auto Parts at Delmar Four Corners. Previously, the town government was headquartered in the residences of the supervisor and town clerk, who were said to "carry the town government in their hats."

New Scotland Republicans turned out 450 strong for their annual steak roast Sunday at Picard's Grove, New Salem. With Supervisor Steve Wallace, left, and town chairman Fred Edmunds were two visiting candidates, Paul Tocker of Schenectady, running for Congress, and Larry Lane of Windham, right, seeking another term in the Assembly. Spotlight

NEW SCOTLAND
Next tax bills
via computer

Tax bills in the town of New Scotland will have an entire new look in January, but the dollar amounts are still tied to assessments and equalization rates.

William C. Bailey of Feura Bush, town assessor, has completed the long task of converting New Scotland's assessment roll to a computerized system. In electronic language, the system is called ARLM, assessment roll levy module, developed by the Armstrong Assessment Administration, Schenectady. The firm was hired last year by the town board to mastermind the conversion, and assigned Janet Ostrander of East Chatham as consultant to work with town officials.

Said Bailey: "Now that we have all this on the computer, we no longer have to go through the long manual process of printing those big books with the addressograph. Now the whole roll is on computer printout, and the tax rolls and tax bills will be printed by computer in December, and from now on."

Bailey added that "we'll be getting the tax bills to the people much earlier, which will cut down some of the complaints." That means, he said, property owners will have their bills the first week of January instead of the middle of the month.

On the present printout there are 3,239 parcels of real estate in the town of New Scotland, with a total assessed valuation of $17,436,695. Of this total, $12,518,026 is taxable.

The move to computer not only saves time and money in the town budget, but puts town hall in a better position to handle the proposed change-over to true valuation in 1981, when taxes will be computed on full market value. New Scotland's equalization rate, determined by the state, is 11.67 for the current year. (If you want to know what your January tax bill will be, multiply your assessment by 11.67.)

When the assessment rolls are converted to market value, Bailey said, property owners currently below the equalization rate can expect to pay a somewhat higher tax in 1981, vice versa for those below the current equalization rate. "The purpose is purely equality," Bailey said, referring to the statewide changeover coming up. "This is not a money-making project."

Residents plan forum on park

Configuration and land use of the proposed town park on New Scotland Rd., Slingerlands, will be the main item on the agenda of the Slingerlands Homeowners Assn. meeting next week. Association members will hold their first gathering of the year Tuesday, Oct. 3, at 7:30 p.m. at Bethlehem Public Library.

Edward Kleinke, a Bethlehem town planner and a resident of Slingerlands, will present conceptual drawings of several alternative proposals for the property. Town officials will be on hand to answer questions, according to Dominick DeCecco, president of the association.

Mrs. Ruth Bickel, town councilman serving as liaison with the town highway department, said work crews from the department were scheduled to start preliminary grading this fall.

Other officers on the 1978-79 association slate are Charles C. Cross, vice president; Marylou Stracke, secretary-treasurer, and Sylvester Bowers, Robert Keyes, Wallace Erlichman and Roger DiNucci, directors.

Dog census set

Louise Edwards and Robin Shufelt, both of New Salem, will share the job of taking the New Scotland dog census. Their appointments were made at last Wednesday's regular town board meeting. At the rate of 50 cents per dog, the annual nosecount will cost the town just over $1,000.

BETHLEHEM

School enrollment holds steady

Most Bethlehem classes aren't about to overflow, but the trend in recent years toward declining class enrollment shows signs of levelling off.

Last year 4,078 students enrolled in the Bethlehem district, a decline of 95 students from 1976. This year 4,009 enrolled for a decline of only 69.

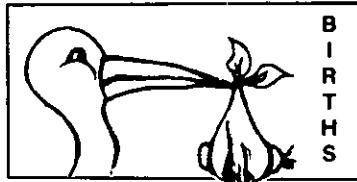

In grades K-5, 165 new students have enrolled, for an overall loss of 29 students. Of the new students, 142 live in "turn-over" homes and 23 in new homes.

Enrollment was heaviest in first grade, which had to add another class because of the influx, school officials said. Bethlehem Middle School had nine more students enroll than projected, and the High School had seven more than expected.

Lawrence A. Zinn, superintendent of schools, feels that the numbers are a good sign. "It's an indication that the decline may be tapering off," he said.

School jobless claims denied

Five employees of the Bethlehem Central school district whose claims for unemployment insurance over the two-month summer vacation were denied have lost appeals to the New York State Dept. of Labor, school officials disclosed this week.

A spokesman at 90 Adams Pl. said the five who appealed were among "quite a number" of non-instructional employees who had filed claims under a controversial interpretation of the state labor law that permits unemployment benefits for 10-month employees. The appeals were turned down after hearings at department offices in Albany.

School officials said letters were given each 10-month employee in June, giving assurance that the employee would have his or her job back at the start of the new school year in September. The letter was sent to comply with one of the specifications in the labor department's disputed legal interpretation. The form and content of the letter was suggested by a private consulting firm specializing in unemployment insurance retained earlier in the year by the Bethlehem district, the administration spokesman said.

The board of education has appealed a department decision that upheld the claim of one employee, a replacement bus driver who did not get a letter of assurance. No decision has been handed down by the hearing officer in the case, the spokesman said, and the claim has not been paid. The driver in question has been hired by the district as of September, according to the spokesman.

Ambulance misdirected

A Bethlehem Central football player who broke his arm in the Sept. 16 JV contest with Colonie had to wait almost a half hour for an ambulance that was delayed because of confused directions as to the site of the game.

Jim DeAngelis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald DeAngelis, Delmar, suffered a fractured arm in the fourth quarter, and was later treated at Albany Medical Center's emergency room. The game, a one-sided contest in Colonie's favor, was called off by mutual consent of both coaches when it was realized that no doctor was present, as required by suburban council rules.

Residence looted

Bethlehem police are investigating the theft of jewelry, silverware and electronic equipment valued at $15,000 from a Jordan Blvd. residence the weekend of Sept. 16-17. Detectives said entry was gained by removing trim from the window of a rear door and breaking the glass. The house was ransacked, police said. Included in the loot were two diamond rings, a set of ruby earrings, stereo equipment and a 19-inch color TV.

SLINGERLANDS 2 are injured in 3-car crash

Two Slingerlands women were injured in a three-car accident at Kenwood Ave. and Cherry Ave. during the home-bound rush hour last Wednesday.

Mrs. Marjorie A. Thurlow, 50, of 30 Bridge St., was treated for a whiplash injury at Albany Medical Center. Lucille G. Sweatland, 67, was taken to St. Peter's Hospital with injuries to the elbow and arm.

Bethlehem police said Anne Finney, 40, of 497 Livingston Ave., Albany, was driving west on Kenwood Ave. and had her directional signals blinking for a left turn onto Cherry Ave. when Mrs. Sweatland pulled into the right lane to "go around" her. When the Finney car suddenly swerved sharply right instead of left, police said, it struck the passing car and sent it out of control. The second car then struck Mrs. Thurlow's car on the eastbound lane on Kenwood Ave. and hit a house at 612 Kenwood.

A Delmar driver, Kristy E. Reynolds, 28, of 2A Ridge Rd., suffered minor cuts when her car was struck head-on by a truck as she turned into Delaware Plaza from Delaware Ave. at 2:20 p.m. last Thursday. Bethlehem police ticketed the driver, Paul A. Pignatelli, 21, of Troy, for driving the wrong way on the inbound land. The truck was owned by Crisafulli Bros., Inc., of Albany.

Methodist women meet

Over 200 women are expected to be at the First United Methodist Church, Delmar, on Oct. 5 to attend the Albany District United Methodist Women fall meeting. Muriel Chatterton of Delanson, president of the Albany District, will be in the chair. Carole Carver of Voorheesville is program chairman. Sally McNitt and Priscilla Stevens of Delmar are in charge of luncheon, and Maxine Chesbro of Delmar is registrar.

Tale of a dog: abandoned

She came along the driveway on Sunday afternoon with a neighbor: "Is this your dog?"

"No," Connie said, "but we're getting one tomorrow."

The dog whimpered and came to Connie. When Connie patted her head, the little hound nuzzled against her, looking up with pleading brown eyes, long ears flopping.

The visitor and dog left, but in the morning, the dog was there in the yard, looking especially hangdog in the damp chill of the morning...and hungry.

"If we feed her, she'll never leave," Betsy warned Connie. But they fed the stray, who ate ravenously. Connie kept calling it Sherpa.

"Why Sherpa?" asked Betsy.

"It's a survival dog," her sister said. "Sherpas are good at survival."

So Sherpa is with us, temporarily, the innocent and lovable victim of man's cruelest crime against his faithful friend—abandonment. An unwanted dog, taken by car out to the country, turned loose on a rural road in rolling New Scotland, where the houses and farms are relatively far apart. Its "protectors" gun the motor and flee, leaving an unwanted dog, wanting only to be wanted.

On Monday, when the Lab puppy arrived, Sherpa was lying happily and hopefully in the sun on the warm blacktop. She got up to greet the newcomer, long tail wagging in pure joy. But the new puppy got the attention, and Sherpa returned to the sunny blacktop in front of the garage.

parentage, the best of all breeds, strong and straight, back pure black like a Lab, blending into blond on the head and paws, a bit of terrier, perhaps, long nose, touch of beagle and the United Nations. She radiates pure love, craving affection. She's an outdoor dog, like a Sherpa should be.

The telephone man came, a longtime dog lover. "She's a healthy one, she'll be a fine family dog for you."

But Sherpa can't stay here. We can't go from no dog to two dogs in one day. Trouble is, Sherpa has won the hearts of all of us. "If only this had happened a week ago, we wouldn't have taken the Lab."

Connie remarked, and everyone agreed.

"But we certainly can't let her go to the pound," Betsy insisted.

Where can Sherpa go, that happy, free spirit, with just one desire in life, to be part of a family?

Your family, perhaps?

If you like happy, healthy hounds of undetermined origin, about six months old, with floppy ears and a loving nature, call Connie today, 768-2695, and come out and see Sherpa. If you have a yard, a family and a kind heart, you will have a happy young dog at your house tonight.

Taxpayers get a brief respite

Bethlehem property owners will gain two extra days this year to complete payment of their 1978 school tax bills. Because Sept. 30 falls on a Saturday, school tax payments may be paid on Monday, Oct. 2, until 4:30 p.m. without a late fee, according to Kenneth P. Hahn, receiver of taxes.

Hahn urges everyone to beat the surcharge by paying in person or by mail between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the Tax Office in Bethlehem Town Hall. All mail received Tuesday morning, Oct. 3, will be honored without additional fees.

Property owners may elect to defer payment after Oct. 2, but do incur a 2 percent late fee. All unpaid bills still outstanding on Nov. 2 must be transferred to Albany County for late collection.

other bag in the car. She placed her purse on the sack while she opened the car door. A moment later she reached for the second bag and discovered the purse was gone. She told Bethlehem police the purse was found a few minutes later leaning against the wheel of a nearby parked truck. Police said the sneak thief got $10-12 in cash and personal cards, but no credit cards.

Football films on

Films of Bethlehem Central varsity football games are being shown each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 46 at BCHS. Commentary will be given by the coaches. The films, which are open to the public at no charge, are sponsored by the Bethlehem Athletic Assn., local booster group.

Lamaze classes set

Classes in the Lamaze method of prepared childbirth will begin in Albany starting the weeks of Oct. 9, and Oct. 23. Women interested in attending the six-week series should plan to begin at the end of the seventh month of pregnancy. Early registration is advised. For information contact Melody Brennan, 439-6353, of Ethel Cooper, 765-4572.

Bikes recovered

Two 15-year-old boys were arrested by Bethlehem police in connection with thefts of two bicycles in Elsmere last Wednesday. Police said the bikes were taken from the garages of 11 Pine Tree Dr. and 117 Poplar Dr. around the corner. Their names were withheld because of their age.

Vandals sought

A report that youths were seen in a house under construction sent Bethlehem police to a building site at Huntersfield Rd. and Ax Bridge Rd., Delmar. They found that several insulation panels had been kicked out in a dwelling being built by the Klersy Construction Corp. Police are investigating.

Woman arrested in boy's assault

Stephanie Ann Rowen, 24, Menands, turned herself in to Bethlehem police headquarters four days after police had issued a warrant for her arrest on an assault charge involving a 12-year-old Albany boy.

Police said Rowen apparently had become angered when the boy and a companion fired a cap pistol at her face and shouted repeated obscenities at her on the walkway at Delaware Plaza shopping center Sept. 16. According to the police report, the woman allegedly grabbed the boy and shook him, and his head struck a plate glass window and shattered it. A police spokesman said the boy was given first aid at the scene and was taken by his mother to an Albany hospital, where 33 stitches were required to close the wound. Rowen was charged with third-degree assault at her arraignment before Justice Harry B. Rezzemini in Bethlehem town court.

Held in burglary

A 16-year-old Delmar girl is scheduled to appear in Bethlehem justice court tonight (Sept. 28) in connection with a Glenmont burglary last June 7. Police said the girl, whose name was not released, was arrested Sept. 17 following an investigation of a break-in at Ashford Park Apartments on lower Kenwood Ave. She was arraigned before Justice Harry B. Rezzemini on a charge of possessing stolen property and released in her own recognition pending appearance this week. Police said jewelry and clothing valued at $1,200 was taken from the apartment.

Jazz program on

A non-credit jazz studies program has been initiated by the State University at Albany's College of General Studies. Included will be classes on appreciation, business and jazz improvisation as well as a three-hour seminar with internationally famed saxophonist, Sal Nistico and two jazz concerts, one with Nick Brignola and a second with Stanley Turrentine. For information, 472-6695.

Talk on opera

Dr. Karl Peterson will speak on the opera to the music group of the Delmar Progress Club Oct. 2 at 1:30 p.m. in the Bethlehem Library. Peterson has been a professor of music at the University at Albany for 31 years.

Student honored

Thomas Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Robinson, Delmar, a graduate of the Agricultural and Technical College at Delhi, has been awarded an admissions assistantship from the SUNY College of Technology at Utica/Rome. The award, given to students with high academic standing, enthusiasm and campus activity, will involve Robinson in the recruitment of new students, visiting two-year colleges and coordinating special activities for prospective students.

Burglary balked

An intruder tried unsuccessfully to break into the Honey Comb restaurant at Delaware Plaza the night of Sept. 21, according to a complaint filed with Bethlehem police. The report said the would-be burglar broke a rear window and pushed in the screen, but was unable to get through iron bars on the inside.

VOORHEESVILLE Schools off 2% in enrollment

Enrollment in the Voorheesville Central School System has dropped by 2 percent, from 1,809 a year ago to 1,766, according to figures released this week.

Supt. of Schools Werner Berglas said the falloff was "entirely in the elementary levels." By an odd quirk, enrollment in the high school stayed the same, 844. Elementary school registration dipped from 965 to 922.

"We feel we've levelled off," Berglas said, commenting on a statewide trend of falling enrollments. "I don't feel our numbers are going to change substantially."

Eagle booters in thick of it

Judging from the early going, Bethlehem Central will have a lot to say about who wins the Suburban Council soccer crown. The Eagles were 3-1 as of the weekend, and except for a bad quarter and an overtime goal by Colonie, might have been 4-0. No council team survived the first week undefeated.

The Eagles were booked for a trip to Burnt Hills Tuesday, have a day off today (Sept. 28) and play Mohonasen at Rotterdam Saturday. Burnt Hills represented the big test: the defending league and Sectional champions have more depth in talent than any of the others, according to BC coach Dale Walts.

Walts is happy with the way his new players have fitted into the BC pattern with his strong cadre of experienced hands, or in this exercise, toes. He moved Chip Schantz, a reserve last year, from the line to halfback, and "he's done a great job spelling the halfback line." So has Danny Horne, and Danny Narahara has been "exceptional" at center fullback, along with Jeff Nichols at full and half.

Bethlehem bounced back from the overtime setback Tuesday to whitewash Columbia, 2-0, and overpowered Shenendehowa, 3-1, Saturday. "That was a nice win," beamed Walts. "We dominated play most of the game."

The experienced players are carrying the brunt of the attack. On the line, Mike Lewis was in on eight of the Eagles' first 11 goals, scoring two and feeding on six. Mark Dean and Wayne Allen had three goals each in the first four games and Jay Guinn two.

Others up from last year's JV "have done very well." Walts said. He is especially pleased with David Propp, a fullback, and Billy Duffy. Ed Gilligan, a senior goalkeeper, played the second half against Columbia with a broken toe he didn't know he had, and is out for another two weeks. Jimmy Hedderman, a junior, played well in the nets against powerful Shenendehowa, and Walts has brought up Wes Hotaling, the jayvee goalie, as insurance.

Luncheon program

BC eyes No. 3 in home debut

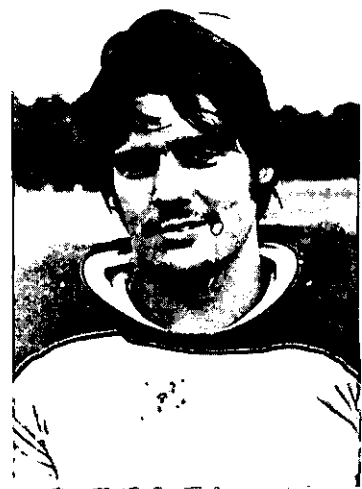

Bethlehem football fans will get their first glimpse of the 1978 Eagles on Delmar turf Saturday when Burnt Hills comes to town for a 1:30 kickoff.

The 2-0 Eagles, their goal line still uncrossed, will be heavy favorites, a situation that causes Coach Art Ritchko and his staff to guard against a letdown. Burnt Hills lost, 12-0, last week to Colonie, pasted 14-0 by BC a week earlier.

Last Saturday's 42-0 romp at Niskayuna gave Ritchko one of his happiest afternoons in two decades of coaching. Most of the smiles came from watching the battery of Steve Nowak and Jim Giacone connect for 148 yards and four touchdowns, including scoring plays of 42 and 22 yards, and not counting a 60-yard TD strike that was called back, a distinct reversal of the week before when the overhead game was a fizzle.

The newfound air power puts Bethlehem in a good position for the heavy part of the schedule coming up. The Eagles face the league's two most feared powerhouses, Guilderland and Shenendehowa, on consecutive Saturdays starting next week. "That should tell the story," observed Ritchko warily.

Everything clicked for the senior-dominated Eagles team at Niskayuna. "We passed and ran very well," said Ritchko. "The inexperienced kids had a chance to play a lot and did a good job. This was a great game for us. We did a lot of good things out there."

Among those good things was a stonewall defense that surrendered only two first downs to a team that had beaten Bethlehem a year ago. On the attack, Nowak threw for 158 yards on 11 for 14. Mike DeAngelis ran for 52 yards on 12 hauls, Buddy Nevens had 68 on 11 carries, and the team total on the ground was 260.

Young Blackbirds hanging in there

Voorheesville Central's young soccer team, doomed to the second division of the Central Hudson Valley League, has already made its coach happy despite a string of losses.

"This team has a really good attitude, they're working well together, but were losing," said Coach Dave Cady. "We're playing in a strong league, but we'll be competitive."

The Blackbirds lost their league opener under the lights at New Lebanon. 2-1, then took a 10-2 pasting from powerful Berlin at home Friday. Cady said the New Lebanon contest was "about as fine a game as I've seen in my 10 years here . . . everybody did well, and we made no mistakes." New Lebanon was second in the league last year and has another strong outfit. The Berlin game, he added, was "a disaster," despite the obvious talent of the visitors, who are expected to challenge Waterford for the title.

The Blackbirds were in for more trouble this week, meeting Maple Hill, bolstered by a flock of displaced football players, Waterford, the league favorite, and Averill Park, the latter a home game at 4 p.m. Friday.

River safety

Robert Carr, chairman of water safety and small craft for the Eastern New York Division, American Red Cross, and James H. Carnahan, director of safety services, both of Glenmont, recently graduated from a three-day river safety course sponsored by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and Bureau of Waterways at Harrisburg, Pa.

Blackbirds face sternest test

A big, aggressive Averill Park team stands in the way of Voorheesville Central's road to the Southern Conference football championship this week. For the Blackbirds, Saturday will be a moment of truth in a clash of two unbeaten teams, perhaps the two best in the league. Kickoff is 1:30 at Averill Park.

"They're big and they just come atcha," remarked VC Coach Tom Buckley. "Nothing fancy, just straight, hard football."

But Buckley's boys are ready, physically and mentally "in excellent shape." Last week's 34-6 romp at Taconic Hille gave Buckley's shock troops the opportunity to play the entire second half after the regulars had run up a 28-6 bulge by intermission. "We got a lot of game experience for the younger kids," he said. "We did some good hitting and got hit a bit."

For the books, Voorheesville scored on its first drive, quarterback Greg Hawkins pitching 15 yards to Craig Gleason for the score. Moments later a bad snap in the enemy backfield was recovered by the Blackbirds, and Tom George went in from the 10 on the first play. In the second quarter Hawkins connected with senior end Bill Kavanaugh for a 50-yard TD, and a short time later Jim Becker, a reserve halfback, scampered eight yards into the end zone. George booted all four extra points. The shock troops got the final six late in the game on a 2-yard sneak by Greg Picard. Rich Coote kicked the point, but when a penalty moved the tee back, he was wide.

Career workshop

A free workshop series, "Career/Life Planning—For Women Only," sponsored by the Bethlehem Library, is designed to provide women with methods for exploring, evaluating and choosing a satisfying and a meaningful career or life direction. The first session, "Self Assessment," will be held Sept. 29 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Workshops are limited to 16 participants. Register at 439-9314.

Take dance prizes

Mirinda Lynn Staats (left), 5, of South Bethlehem and dancing partner, Cynthia Jyll Gordon, 7 of Albany, placed first in the mini-talent contest, ages 9 and under at the Cobleskill Fair doing a jazz routine. In the 15 and under contest, Cynthia Jyll won first place and Mirinda Lynn took second.

Niagara Mohawk stated that there was no interruption of power in the Unionville area on the evening in question. Obviously the spokesman was misinformed. The Spotlight regrets the erroneous report, which was based on information furnished by the utility company. Ed.

Historical features

Editor, The Spotlight:

When my father gave me a gift subscription to the Spotlight a couple of years ago, making me the only Colorado subscriber to this magazine, I confess I was dismayed at the prospect of another piece of "junk mail" in my mailbox. I am pleased to report that this prophecy has proved inaccurate. I enjoy reading the Spotlight as it provides one of the few links I have with my old home town apart from my parents' letters; and I find that the lively reporting style and features concerning the whole Capital District area provide a coverage beyond the Spotlight's primary circulation area.

I especially wish to commend the recent article on the 1929

Slingerlands baseball team. Your reporter, Larry Boynton, shows much promise as a writer and I hope to see more of his work in the future.

May I suggest more historical feature articles. It was also a pleasure to read in the election results that my old friend, Roger Fritts, had been elected town justice. Keep up the good work.

Judge Frederic B. Rodgers Breckenridge, Colo.

Thank you for your kind words. We trust you enjoyed the recent article on the Slingerland family burial vault as well as Allison Bennett's descriptions of historic homes in Bethlehem and New Scotland. We've lost Larry Boynton to the Watertown Daily Times.

Non-popularity pole

Editor, The Spotlight:

Regarding the article in the Sept. 21 issue of the Spotlight concerning a damaged power pole on the Delaware Tpk.: there certainly was an interruption in power in the area. The "interruption" lasted from 6:10 p.m. until 11:45 p.m. It's very strange that the power didn't go on again until a new pole was set up. The residents of Unionville were greatly inconvenienced by this lack of power. If the damaged pole wasn't responsible, where was the power?
