Let your Personal Banker counsel you on our Investment Savings* that earn you higher yields at maturity

You've undoubtedly heard the expression "putting your money to work" many times. It simply means investing your idle money in something that is perfectly safe, and will pay you dividends, or interest, over the period of the investment.

Union National Investment Savings are, of course, safe since they are insured under F.D.I.C. Equally important, they pay a fine return. The keys to getting the most return on your investment are twofold: (1) determine how much money you can invest and (2) for how long. The bigger the sum and the longer the term, the greater the return. On the other hand, it's important that you don't tie up your funds beyond a time in which you may need them. Talk it over with your personal banker, like Dave Dean. He'll work out the best investment plan with you carefully — and confidentially.

*Federal regulations provide that you may withdraw all or part of this deposit before maturity, but if you do, you lose three months interest on the amount withdrawn, and the interest rate on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the regular savings (Passbook) rate. The effective annual yield to maturity is computed by compounding interest from day of deposit to day of withdrawal.

GLENMONT

Town studies emergency water hookup at Job Corps

When the U.S. Labor Dept.'s New York regional office was busy bumbling negotiations to establish the Job Corps center in Glenmont two years ago, aroused citizens and embittered town officials pointed out that the water supply at the river-front site was fragile. Neighboring property owners given short shrift by federal officials used the water situation as one of the arguments in their efforts to block the move. So did Bethlehem officials, smarting at several snubs by Labor Dept. field representatives.

Last week the New York Job Corps center observed its first anniversary as a successful full-complement facility of 275 youths in a genial atmosphere of full acceptance by their neighbors, the emotions of the negotiations long since replaced by mutual respect. Last week, also, the center's water supply ran dry.

When the third of the center's three wells slowed to a relative trickle and its 50,000-gallon water tank was empty, center officials called for help. On Thursday, the call from John N. Acquilano, regional director for the Singer Corp. which administers the facility, went to Bethlehem town hall and Supervisor Tom Corrigan.

Within hours a crew from Bethlehem Water District No. 1 had rounded up 3,000 feet of spare fire hose from the Delmar and Slingerlands fire companies, and were making an emergency hookup on Rt. 144.

Under the supervision of Paul Wagner, director of operations for the water department, and Gerald Day, work supervisor, the crew strung more than half a mile of hose from the terminal of the town water line on River Rd. to the Job Corps water tower.

Because the Albany County Dept. of Health has been pressuring Bethlehem to develop new sources of supply for the town's water system, Corrigan cleared the Glenmont emergency request with the department before releasing the water to the Job Corps.

"We're just so glad the town has responded," said Acquilano, who asked for the connection to guard against fire and other emergencies.

Corrigan said the town board would consider installing a permanent emergency connection or expand the water district boundary to provide the center with year-round water. The facility, which supports more than 100 staff employees in addition to the corpsmembers, uses an average of 23,000 gallons a day, Acquilano said.

The shortage gave most of the 275 youths at the center an unexpected long weekend. Acquilano said the corpsmembers were given weekend passes on Thursday, a day early.

Accused in theft

An 18-year-old Glens Falls youth was sent to Albany County jail last Thursday after Officer Raymond F. Linstruth of Bethlehem police spotted him driving a 1967 vehicle with stolen plates on Delaware Ave., Delmar, at 4:15 a.m. The youth, whose name was withheld, was arraigned on a charge of criminal possession of stolen property and several vehicle violations.

Artifact stolen

Bethlehem police have broadcast a description of a large Egyptian canvas tent stolen Oct. 9 from a barn in Cedar Hill. The tent was described as an artifact.

Job Corps staffers hook up emergency hose at base of water tower at former Our Lady of Angels Seminary in Glenmont: Peter Britt, left, facility logistics supervisor, and Don Sitterly, later gave the signal to Bethlehem Water District operations director Paul Wagner to turn on the terminal hydrant on Rt. 144 half a mile away. Gerald Day, work supervisor, left above, checks the meter in the emergency connection. It's the first time town water has been pumped to the Job Corps. Spotlight photos

Quick now: where's our Tri-village airport?

A short half mile from one of the busiest roads in the area lies the almost undiscovered Tri-Village Airport. As one drives on Cherry Ave. Extension and crosses busy New Scotland Road, a dirt road leads back into the town of New Scotland less than a mile. It is a scenic drive down a one-lane dirt track. At the end are two farm houses in the midst of corn fields and wide open land.

It is in this unlikely setting that Ralph Mosher, owner and operator of the airport, gives flying lessons and works on planes that need repair. He uses his Cessna-150 as an airborne classroom as "these have taken over from the Piper Cub as the most popular of all planes to learn in."

Ralph Mosher runs a flying school from a farm field.

Takeoffs and landings are practiced on Mosher's 600-yard private airstrip adjacent to his home, a grass runway that was scraped and leveled in 1947. Mosher believes that operators of small planes have to be "sharp on short fields" in order to land safely. Visitors occasionally land, only to take off immediately for practice purposes, but most other traffic, if staying for a period of time in the area, is referred to the Albany County Airport.

Mosher began flying strictly as a hobby before the second World War. He lived in South Bethlehem and kept his plane in Troy. After the war, he moved to his present residence and leased the farm accommodations and the land, but since that time he has become the owner. His land, lying in the interior of the triangle formed by New Scotland Rd., Krumkill Rd. and the Normanskill, numbers over 100 acres, with more than 50 leased to corn farmers.

A master of many trades, Mosher was putting shingles on a three-story, 90-year old barn when a reporter came by. He said that being a mechanic, which was what he was doing inside the barn, requires that a person know a "little bit about a great number of trades." His wish is to keep flying uncomplicated despite all the licensing and necessary hours required to pass tests. He points to the difference between the words "license" and "certificate."

"In flying," Mosher says, "certification means competence, and a license is more or less a permit to fly." In his own right, Ralph Mosher is a certified flight instructor.

350TH ANNIVERSARY REFORMED CHURCH "AMERICA"

Joyce DeVelder and Gerard Van Heest, ministers of the Delmar Reformed Church, point to a banner proclaiming the 350th anniversary of the Reformed Church in America. To celebrate this occasion the church is sponsoring a Homecoming Sunday on Oct. 29. There will be a commemorative worship service at 10 a.m., followed by brunch in the dining room. The congregation, former pastors and staff and friends of the church are invited.

BETHLEHEM

Citizen charges rebuff by town

A longtime Bethlehem resident-businessman says that Bethlehem's town supervisor and town board members have repeatedly refused to hear his complaint that he has been harassed by town officials, presumably because of local political activity.

Louis Alteri of Bethlehem Terrace apartments, Slingerlands, and a well known local restaurateur, has accused Supervisor Tom Corrigan of "evading us because he knows some of the nature of the information" Alteri says he wants to discuss. He says he and his wife, Barbara, have been trying to get Corrigan's attention since last March, but have been rebuffed on each attempt.

"I personally feel that Corrigan is evading us because he didn't want this information divulged," Alteri said last week. "It's apparent there's a double standard in town."

The Alteris, who sold the Glenmont restaurant bearing their name last December, contend they have "15-20 pages of notes, memos and information of harassment and unethical procedures by people holding office in the town of Bethlehem" over the past five years.

"Last year we were actually threatened by an official personally on a visit to the restaurant," Alteri said. "We were scared down there." Asked if the alleged threats were of a physical nature or involved his business, Alteri said they were "of an economic nature."

Alteri declined to identify any of the town officials involved in the alleged incidents.

Corrigan last week confirmed that Alteri had approached him several times at town board meetings, which are open to the public, and that he had told Alteri to document his charges in writing. Corrigan also said he had suggested if Alteri had evidence of criminal actions, he should contact the district attorney's office in Albany. Corrigan declined further comment.

Alteri got a similar suggestion last March from Ralph A. Tipple, Bethlehem commissioner of public safety in response to a request by the Alteris that he and the police department assist them in an investigation. At that time

Alteri presented a letter to Tipple with Capt. Robert Foster present, stating that he had information that "may show gross misconduct or other unethical procedures by persons now in political positions" in the town government.

Alteri said he called District Attorney Sol Greenberg last month and "had a nice talk with Ray Kelley." Kelley is Greenberg's staff assistant assigned to Bethlehem. "He suggested several alternatives, one being sitting down with the town board and discussing the information in my possession," Alteri said.

Alteri's father, Louis Alteri, Sr., operated the family restaurant for 25 years in Selkirk, starting as a fish fry stand on the site now occupied by LaCasa Restaurant. LaCasa is owned by Edward Mocker, Glenmont dairyman and a member of the Bethlehem town board. Friends and associates of Alteri, Jr. and Mocker have long been aware of strained personal relations between the two men. When Mocker was campaigning last fall, the appearance of a crudely printed anonymous flyer in the Glenmont area was attributed to the fact that Alteri and Mocker were not on speaking terms.

Both men have spotty political histories. Alteri joined the Young Republican Club when he was in his 20s, but now calls himself "an independent Republican." Mocker, an outspoken critic of the (Bertram E.) Kohinke administration in Bethlehem in the Sixties and early Seventies, was accepted by the town's reorganized GOP leadership as a candidate in the 1977 elections. Within a few weeks of taking office, he assumed a prominent role in the investigation of Police Chief Peter Fish that resulted in the chief's suspension and subsequent indictment on perjury charges by the county grand jury.

A personal feud between Mocker and Fish has been public for some time. Alteri was in the town hall audience on several occasions during the televised board meetings and public hearings in the Fish investigation.

Burglary at library

Bethlehem police are investigating the theft of $32.82 in cash from a drawer in the main desk of Bethlehem Library after the library had closed Saturday night, Oct. 6. Police said that entry was gained to the building through an unlocked window and that a paper clip was used to pick the lock of an interior door. A telephone also was reported missing.

Town counting its net worth

The town of Bethlehem will begin taking inventory of its total worth because of a new state law requiring communities to list all fixed assets.

The town board is considering hiring an appraisal firm to determine the historical cost, the original value, of all town assets over $100.

Supervisor Tom Corrigan has reservations about the required accounting practices. "It's not a true reflection of worth. A truck bought 10 years ago for $30,000 can't be replaced today for anywhere near that price, but this is what the state wants."

Stratton at camera club

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, an amateur photographer in spare time, will give a slide talk on his recent trip to Russia, on which he visited high Soviet officials in Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev, for members of the Delmar Camera Club at their meeting Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 7 p.m. at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Elsmere. Because of the unusual content of the program, club members are opening the meeting to interested travelers, Russia watchers, history buffs and camera enthusiasts. The program will start earlier than usual because of the speaker's other commitments.

Coffee for candidate

Barbara Selmer of Greenville, Democratic candidate for Assembly in the 102nd district, which includes the towns of Bethlehem, New Scotland and Coeymans in Albany County and all of Columbia and Greene counties, will be guest speaker at a coffee at the home of Mrs. Carole Newell, 347 Wellington Rd., Delmar, on Friday, Nov. 3 at 10 a.m. All interested persons are invited, but are asked to RSVP to the hostess at 439-4051. by Nov. 1, if they plan to come.

Bicyclist held on 3 counts

An alert Bethlehem policeman arrested an Albany bicyclist less than an hour after the man had allegedly made improper advances to a 12-year-old youth near his home in Colonial Acres, Glenmont.

Officer Keith T. Becker took the complaint and a description of the suspect when the report was phoned to police headquarters minutes after the incident at 6:30 p.m. Monday. Shortly before 7:30, while on a road patrol, Becker noticed a man fitting the description standing in the Petrol service station on Rt. 9W, Glenmont, a mile from the scene. Becker called the boy's residence, and the boy and his father came to the station and identified the suspect as the man who had reportedly made a sexual advance and offered the boy money while the boy was playing across the street from his home. A search of the man's backpack turned up a pipe containing a quantity of marijuana, police said.

Bethlehem police booked Scott A. Samore, 23, on charges of endangering the morals of a minor, criminal solicitation and possession of marijuana. He was remanded to Albany County jail and later released on bail pending an appearance in Bethlehem justice court Nov. 9.

Grape growing and wine making will be topics of a meeting for home gardeners Oct. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the Albany County Resource Development Center off Rt. 85A, Voorheesville. Deth, senior horticulture inspector for the state Dept. of Agriculture and Markets, and David Reville, cooperative extension agent. A $2 fee will be charged.

Albany Panhellenic Assn. plans a champagne-punch party on Sunday, Oct. 22 from 3-5 p.m. at the Bethlehem Library to introduce area women to its organization. Panhellenic invites conference sororities. Mrs. Frank Shipp, of Elsmere, chairman of the event, asks that any woman who is a member of a national sorority and would like to attend, call Mrs. Lewis Welch, Slingerlands, 439-3123 or Mrs. Leslie Maercklein, Delmar, 439-6508 to make a reservation. Subdivisions set for board action

Two more major residential subdivisions are closer to the construction stage in the long process through the Bethlehem planning board.

The board last week granted preliminary plat approval to the 12-lot, five-acre Wellington Acres subdivision in Delmar, and this week was expected to do the same for the Moorings, the controversial 52-apartment complex proposed for Hudson Ave., Delmar.

The Wellington Acres project is proposed for the area bordered by Wellington Rd., Delmar, Pl., Palmer Ave. and an undeveloped extension of Adams St. The property is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Van Hoesen of Adams Pl., and contains a dwelling and a large barn.

Several recommendations were offered by the board at last week's meeting before the project clears the second hurdle, conditional approval. The board suggested a more elaborate turnaround at the end of Palmer Ave. and greater width for easement on the northeast boundary. It also offered a reminder that the channel stream along the northeast corner may have to be cleaned.

Board members have voiced concern about possible problems with drainage and slip-page at the Moorings site. Town engineer Alvah Worth said no drainage plan was developed, but added, "I see no reason why a proper drainage system can't be worked out."

Police seeking young vandals

Bethlehem police are questioning several juveniles in the Kenholm area of Delmar in connection with a series of reports of criminal mischief in the neighborhood.

Police youth bureau officers declined to say how many youngsters have been questioned other than to say the investigation is continuing.

Detectives said there appeared to be a relationship in three incidents reported in the area on Oct. 6-7. Two men's shirts hanging on a clothesline on Valley View Dr. were slashed with a knife, a convertible top was slashed on a car parked on Brookview Ave. with damage estimated at $400, and a swing in the back yard of a Devon Rd. residence was cut down and an estimated $80 damage inflicted on other gym equipment in the yard, police said.

Building site looted

Bethlehem police are investigating the theft of 30 sheets of 2x8-foot foam insulation from a construction site at Murray Ave. and Darnley Green, Delmar, the night of Oct. 7.

Police arrest 'meanest thief'

A 15-year-old Ravena youth has been taken into custody and charged with the theft of three bags of luggage from two hitchhiking tourists visiting this country from Italy.

Bethlehem police said an investigation by Officer Paul Roberts led to the arrest of the youth at his home Oct. 9. The juvenile, whose name was not disclosed because of his age, was turned over to Albany Family Court and sent to the Samaritan Shelter on Rt. 144, Glenmont, a rehabilitation facility operated by the New York State Division for Youth. He is being detained there pending an appearance on two counts of grand larceny.

Police said the youth picked up the two tourists, residents of Milan, Italy, aged 21 and 20, at 4:30 a.m. under a bridge on Rt. 9W, Ravena, where they had sought shelter from a severe rainstorm. The juvenile, driving a pickup truck, accepted their offer of $5 worth of gas for a ride to Albany. After refueling, when they had stopped for a snack at the Glenmont diner, the youth drove off with the bags and packsacks valued at more than $1,000.

The youth reportedly told police at his arrest that he had dropped off the luggage in a parking lot at Colonie Center. The packsacks, containing clothing, musical instruments, passports and a plane ticket to Switzerland, had not been recovered by last weekend, police said.

Common Cause president David Cohen and New York State executive director Ellen Ledley will be the guests of honor at a Common Cause banquet at the Crossroads Restaurant, Latham, on Friday, Oct. 20. Zoning hearing in Voorheesville: firehall crown hears Mayor William J. Wenzel read documents, above, and later . . .

VOORHEESVILLE

New phase in village zoning

For Herbert W. Reilly, Jr., a funeral director seeking to establish a mortuary down the street from his home in Voorheesville, the next step is the village board of appeals. That means another public hearing in Voorheesville's celebrated flap over an amendment to its zoning ordinance.

But in the wake of last week's approval of the zoning change by the village board, Reilly's application for a use permit appears to be a formality. The zoning board of appeals, headed by Edward R. Smith, will advertise a public hearing as a procedural formality and base its decision on Reilly's compliance with eight conditions spelled out by the village board in adopting Local Law No. 1 of 1978 last Thursday. The conditions deal with the building, property layout, parking, noise and landscaping.

Reilly's petition also will be reviewed by the village planning board.

Preliminary approval granted earlier by the Albany County planning board was a key factor in last week's split decision by the village board, in which the mayor and five trustees cast the identical ballots they cast a month ago in the 3-2 vote, and in the same order.

This time, however, Reilly did not need a majority-plus-one vote to counter the county planning board. Voting against the proposal to add funeral homes to the list of permitted uses in the Residential-B zone were Mayor William J. Wenzel and Trustee Richard Huber. The motion was carried by the votes of Trustees William Gray, Milton Bates and Al Wilcon.

The voting climaxed a lively public hearing that brought out some 65 villagers, many of whom voiced opinions on the controversial proposal. Sentiment in the audience, which represented a cross-section of village demography, appeared to be evenly divided between the pros and cons.

At issue was preserving the village's 20-year-old zoning statute intact vs. permitting a resident to renovate a large, 10-room house in the center of the village that otherwise might become a multi-unit dwelling or a college fraternity house. The 10-week municipal debate was enlivened by a vigorous campaign by the owner of Voorheesville's only funeral home, Bruce G. Brunk, to block the amendment. Brunk, whose business has been in his family for more than 50 years, has been active in a number of local organizations and was a member of the citizens' group that drafted the original zoning ordinance 20 years ago and compiled the list of permitted uses.

The vote was a bitter disappointment to Brunk, who had opened last week's hearing with a rehearsed scenario reminiscent of Perry Mason. The prepared dialogue between Brunk and his attorney, Karl H. Schrader of Delmar, was staged in front of a zoning map of the village, which shows about 60 percent in Residential-B.

Reilly and his lawyer, Robert Roche of Albany, also addressed the audience during the

Cyclist is killed in police chase

A 19-year-old Albany youth was killed when he lost control of his motorcycle in a high-speed chase by a Bethlehem police car early Wednesday morning.

Albany police said Edward E. Deaton was "driving at an unsafe speed" during the pursuit by Officer Ted Wilson of Bethlehem police. The fatality occurred on New Scotland Ave., Albany, between Krumkill Rd. and Whitehall Rd. at 5:30 a.m.

Wilson's report stated he saw the youth speeding north on Delaware Ave. at the entrance of the Normanskill Viaduct, and gave pursuit. The chase reportedly led from Delaware Ave. to Whitehall Rd. to New Scotland Ave., where Deaton reportedly turned east. There was no report on whether the youth struck another object or was struck by the pursuing police car.

SALEM HILLS Board to rule on sewer rate

The Voorheesville village board is expected to end more than five months of suspense for 276 households in the Salem Hills subdivision when it makes a ruling on the size of the rate increase for the private sewerage system serving the area.

Mayor William J. Wenzel said the board, which also has regulatory powers as the public service commission for the village, would take final action at its regular monthly meeting Nov. 26.

Meanwhile Louis Dempf, Delmar attorney representing Rosen-Michaels, Inc., the subdivision's developer, has notified the board that the private utility has modified its application for a rate increase. The utility corporation, a subsidiary of Rosen-Michaels, last spring applied for an increase from the present $10 per month per dwelling to $29.05. The proposal aroused residents, who voiced angry protests at a public hearing in June and formed an advisory committee to temper the boost.

Last Thursday Dempf amended the rate increase petition to $21.85. Wenzel said he would arrange another working session with the developer and an independent auditor when he returns from a business trip to Australia on Nov. 6.

Town selling house

The Bethlehem town board has decided to put on the market a two-story frame dwelling on a tract of land owned by Bethlehem Water District No. 1 in New Salem. The house, which has been owned by the town for more than 40 years, was leased for a number of years to a maintenance employee at the water treatment plant nearby. The house has been vacant since the employee retired in 1977.

Local girl is down the hole

Twass brillig and the slithy toves did gyre and gimble all over Delaware Plaza. "Alice calm, Alice right," Carrolled an early morning shopper. "Here's a little girl out walking her Cheshire Cat; I'll bet she'll tell us what's going on." The little girl grew into Delmar's famous mock-person, Yora Dreamer, 15½.

"I've Marched Hare to take advantage of all the bargains at Rogers Sport and Ski Shop. You'll have a real tea party with the savings. It's no Dodge, son; Pete has a wonderland of great equipment. You really Hatter be there, or you'd knaver believe it. You can make a queen sweep while his competitors just tweedle dee thumbs."

Jabbered Whacko, U.R. (town carpenter), "I walrus said those Dreamer kids were snark-raving mad."

A new manager for OCF plant

Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. has appointed Joseph H. Curl of Newark, Ohio, as the new manager of the company's Delmar plant. He succeeds Walter B. Reed of Delmar, who has been named manager of the Owens-Corning plant in Barrington, N.J. The announcements were made from the company's plant in Toledo, Ohio.

Curl has been insulation factory superintendent at the Newark, Ohio plant. He joined the company in 1954 and held supervisory positions in furnace, production and plant engineering at the Newark and Barrington plants. He was transferred to corporate headquarters in Toledo in 1966 as supervisor of engineering purchases. He was appointed manager of project-engineering in the corporate engineering department in 1970.

Curl is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and served seven years as an engineering and operations officer with the U.S. Navy. Reed is returning as plant manager to the plant in which he served nearly 10 years in a variety of managerial positions. He joined Owens-Corning in 1962, was assigned to Barrington and in 1972 was transferred to the Santa Clara, Calif. plant as insulation factory superintendent and insulation operations manager. He has been plant manager of the Delmar plant since the facility went into production three years ago.

What's Bethlehem's $64,000+ Question?

- (A) Is it the payment of legal fees which are three times the Police Chief's salary?
- (B) Is it payment of two Police Chief's salaries pending an unscheduled hearing?
- (C) All of the above?
- (D) None of the above?

Obviously, this alludes to a waste of our tax dollars. It also stresses the fact that public officials should not be allowed to negotiate open-end contracts for services or supplies.

On occasion, similar abuses occur at the County level. In particular, after proclaiming that an emergency exists (usually fictitious), the County adopts resolutions that by-pass competitive bidding for demolition of condemned or abandoned County buildings.

As your incumbent County Legislator, I will oppose any effort to by-pass the competitive bidding laws—such a procedure also wastes our tax dollars.

Blackbirds on home stretch

Voorheesville football fans won't have to take to the road to see their Blackbirds in action this week. After four straight travel dates, the team is at home this Saturday in a Southern Conference game against Cocksackie-Athens.

After a "good overall effort" in a thumping 22-8 win under the bulbs at Chatham Friday, Coach Tom Buckley's major problem is guarding against a letdown. Cocksackie is 0-3 in the league, while the Blackbirds still have a shot at the championship at 3-1. Averill Park, the undefeated leader, was tied by Hudson and is 4-0-1 with two games remaining, one against Chatham.

"We have an outside chance," observed Buckley. "We need help from the others. We should win our last three games. We're shooting for an excellent season."

His cast put their act together at Chatham after giving up an early touchdown for an 8-0 deficit and after a 75-yard punt return by Tom George for a TD was nullified by a roughing call. Greg Hawkins fired a strike to senior split end Gary Wager for a 55-yard gainer, then ran the two-point conversion himself.

Voorheesville broke the 8-8 tie with an 80-yard drive just before the half, George taking it in from the 2 and kicking the point for a 15-8 bulge. The Birds frosted the cake with a fourth-quarter drive of 65 yards, Jim Cillis scoring from the 3. George, who has kicked 8 for 9, added the 22nd point.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Harriers win more laurels

Bethlehem Central's cross country runners continued to score high in meets against Capital District rivals. The Eagles swept Mont Pleasant, 15-50, and Linton, 22-39, in a double-dual meet last Friday while the girls team was defeating Linton, 20-35, and losing to Mont Pleasant, 23-32.

Nick Sullivan placed second in the boys' meet and Trisha Morris won the girls' race. Earlier, Sullivan won the Lansingburg Invitational, with Paul Garvin fourth and Mike Nucci, Matt McCall and John Nyilis 13, 14 and 15 respectively. Bethlehem was narrowly edged by Troy, 43-45, for first place in the team scores in the 12-team meet.

In the girls' meet at Lansingburg, Leslie Warren set a new course record in outrunning the field, Trisha Morris was third, Mary Nyilis eighth, Debbie Schauble 18th and Sandi Thomason 26th as Bethlehem won the team trophy.

The girls' team also won over Niskayuna, Mohonasen, Guilderland and Scotia to raise their record 6-2.

ENERGY REPORT: Prompt Service

VERINO CARLITTI is one of 375 trained representatives providing 24-hour-a-day, everyday service to Niagara Mohawk customers. These men work to restore power if it is interrupted. They check on the safety and efficiency of utility equipment, and even certain customer appliances when asked. They make many of the in-home emergency repairs necessary to keep lights and heat on.

These jack-of-all-trades experts study hard and long in company schools to qualify for their important jobs. It costs approximately $31,000 to train each one, and that investment is part of the continuing effort to make sure Niagara Mohawk customers have the best in safe, trouble-free service.

These representatives are also equipped to put right almost anything that happens to go wrong with your home's power supply. Last year "Reno" Carlitti and other qualified service personnel traveled 4 million miles and answered 1,300,000 calls for help - service provided without charge to customers.

House call service like this has always been important but never more than during this period of national energy concern.

MODERN PHARMACY

Michael Krugman

Dandruff is so common it's almost considered normal, although it definitely is an abnormal condition of the scalp. On the dermatologist's list of most common diseases, dandruff ranks number two, right after acne. The majority of Americans have it at one time or another, and they'd like to get rid of it! Dandruff isn't always what it seems. What you think is simple dandruff can sometimes be a symptom of a more troublesome disorder, such as psoriasis or seborrheic dermatitis. Until a permanent cure for dandruff is found, many of us—in spite of our best efforts—may find ourselves a little flaky from time to time.

Find service as you like it—fast and friendly—from the efficient staff at KRUGMAN'S DELMAR PHARMACY. We handle a full line of drugs and have a large, well-equipped pharmacy to handle your prescriptions. You can depend on KRUGMAN'S DELMAR PHARMACY, 239 Delaware Ave. 439-9914 for all your prescription needs. Reach us after hours by calling the store phone or 439-4582. Hamagrael graders peer into past on tour of historical sites

by Cheryl Marks

History sleuths spent Columbus Day canvassing the town of Bethlehem in search of clues revealing the area's past. Mrs. Gail Dale wanted the Hamagrael School fourth graders in her class and that of Mrs. Teddy Archer's to understand that history was not something that happened just in other lands, so she planned a day-long tour to give the students an opportunity to delve into the town's past.

The young detectives got a clue as to the town's history when they passed the former Delmar Library, now the Educational Services Center, erected in 1916. The first stop, however, was in Slingerlands, where they met Ed Mulligan, town historian.

Mulligan led the classes, clutching their clipboards for note-taking to the recently publicized burial vault of the Slingerland family. Then the group went to the former Adams Hotel, now known as the Bethlehem town hall, where they passed under the building's original lantern.

Inside and upstairs, Mulligan introduced the students to Town Supervisor Thomas Corrigan. In a question period that followed, the sleuths inquired about the fate of Henry Hudson and his ship, the Halfmoon. Finding out that Hudson was mutinied didn't bother the fourth graders, but learning that Mulligan hadn't looked for remains of the Halfmoon, marooned 369 years ago, disappointed a few.

The detectives saw signs of the town's past as they drove by the Haswell House and Center Inn on Rt. 9W and through Van Wies Point. The history hunters were met by Mrs. Mary VanOostenbrugge at the town museum at Cedar Hill, where they lined up outside until she rang the former schoolhouse's bell and allowed them to enter the way their predecessors did on school days a century ago.

The detectives scoured the museum for evidence of Bethlehem's past, then left for the riverfront town park, where Henry Hudson "accidentally" discovered this area when his ship ran aground. After lunch at the park, the investigators went to the Nicoll-Sill house and saw the family cemetery.

During the day's exploration of the town, the class took slides of the buildings and sites they visited. They will be busy in the next few weeks putting together an audio-visual presentation of their Columbus Day discoveries.

Author's note: Having just returned from a tour of Europe, where we marveled at castles centuries old, and saw Roman ruins dating from before Christ, it was ironic that my first assignment was to take another tour—a tour of the town of Bethlehem, where the wonder of the fourth graders seeing the grave of Caesar the slave and the church in Normansville was no less than the feeling of awe at seeing St. Mark's tomb in Florence or Notre Dame in Paris.

TENNIS

A banner year for BC netters

Bethlehem Central's girls varsity tennis team, which finished the regular season with a record of 8-1 and a first-place tie with Shenendehowa in the Suburban Council, is top-seeded going into this week's Sectionals with finals today and tomorrow. The team, which was undefeated at 7-0 when it lost a 5-4 decision to Burnt Hills, beat previously undefeated Shenendehowa 6-3 in its last scheduled Council match last week, ending that team's two-year, 26-match winning streak and earning the top-seed position in this week's tourney.

The Sectionals include teams from the Suburban Council and from Saratoga, Linton, Hudson and other Section 2 schools.

Coach Tom Walencik, who headed both the boys and girls teams last year but only the girls team this season, said that "The big difference for us this year was in our doubles teams. We had about 40 girls out for the team this year, including some talented freshmen, so some of last year's singles players formed strong doubles teams which have been the deciding factor in most of our matches." He also noted that the team posted several decisive reversals of last year's match scores, most notably over Niskayuna, Shaker and Shenendehowa.

Co-captains Jessica Treadway and Joanne Mulkerne, both seniors, play in the top two singles positions respectively, with sophomore Molly Treadway, senior Barb Spinosa, freshmen Judy VanWoert and Ann Weber rounding out the roster. Betsy Ruslander and Pam DosPassos, seniors, led the doubles teams, with Joy Shenian-Terry Simon at No. 1 and Kathleen Bragaw-Randi Frank in the third position. Other participants in team matches included Betty Bardwell, Sue Marden, Donna Mulkerne and Beth DeGroff.

Both Joanne Mulkerne and Molly Treadway were undefeated in singles play during the season with records of 9-0. Both played in the individual Sectional tournament to be completed this weekend, while Jessica and Molly Treadway, Ann Weber and Barb Spinosa competed in last month's Suburban Council tournament along with the top three doubles teams.

Bethlehem near Suburban crown

A smashing 30-14 win over defending champion Shenendehowa on a slippery field has put Bethlehem Central in a commanding position for the Suburban Council football championship.

The undefeated Eagles, 5-0-0, now take a two-week hiatus from league play while the others scramble to catch up. BC entertains Whitesboro of the Utica area at 2 p.m. Saturday, then travels to Scotia for a non-league clash Oct. 28. The Eagles can clinch by winning one of their final two Council games against Shaker and Columbia.

At Clifton Park the Eagles took an 8-point lead in the first period, surrendered six points in the final minute of the first half, then turned loose the heavy guns. The big play was a 17-yard slant into the end zone by Buddy Nevens on Art Ritchko's patented halfback option, capping a 65-yard march in the third period.

Steve Nowak, 6-for-8 in the air for 65 yards, pitched to Bill Hannmann for a 23-yard TD early in the final period for a 22-8 lead. With the reserves in, Shenendehowa scored, but the Eagles came back with a 34-yard scoring romp by Nowak on a keeper. Jim Giaccone snuffed out the last Plainsmen threat with an interception in the final two minutes.

Bethlehem's last outright championship was in 1967 with a 7-0 team. In 1969 the Eagles were 6-2 in a triple tie for the crown. Ritchko's other undefeated team was 8-0 in 1961.

VC booters find new netminder

A mainstay of the basketball team has become a late bloomer for Voorheesville Central's soccer team. Steve Smith, a senior, has done a good job as goalkeeper for the struggling Blackbirds, thus releasing regular goalie Phil Mitchell to the front line.

Voorheesville had "down game" in a 2-1 loss to Maple Hill, then came back with a strong performance in a 3-2 defeat inflicted by powerful Waterford. Tony Tomei boot-ed both goals home in his best game yet. "They (Waterford) were surprised how well our team played," said Coach Dave Cady. "We outplayed them half the time."

After this week, the Blackbirds have three games left, all on the road, including a make-up game Tuesday at German-town.

Crisis week for Eagle booters

With four teams crowding each other for the Suburban Council soccer crown, every game is critical. Bethlehem Central's eager Eagles had a bye in the schedule Tuesday, and now enter the crucial stage of the race with five games left.

Bethlehem began the week one point out of first place and tied with Guilderland for second with 15, breathing down the backs of Burnt Hills and Colonie at 16. The schedule is rough: Mohonasen today (Thursday), Columbia Saturday, both at home, then the payoff week, at Colonie Tuesday, at Niskayuna Thursday, and the windup with Guilderland in Delmar Oct. 28.

Last week the Eagles lost at Guilderland, 2-1, then came back with an aggressive 5-1 win over stubborn Niskayuna and a muddy 4-2 victory over Shenendehowa, both at home. "Our front line has played much more aggressively in the last two games," said Coach Dale Walts. "And Guilderland helped us by beating Burnt Hills."

Dan Narahara, senior fullback who has been out for three weeks with an ankle injury, played a few minutes on Thursday, but Walts held him out of the Saturday game with the field a quagmire and the rain pelting the players.

BUSINESS

New store opens in Slingerlands

Gina Tomei, mother of three teenage children, is known on Scotch Pine Dr., Voorheesville, for baking the best pizzas in the neighborhood. Last week Gina baked pizza after pizza for relatives and friends at a ribbon-cutting for a new business venture, a fish store on Rt. 85A, Slingerlands.

Gina will manage the store, a franchise operation of the Two Cousins markets, Albany. Her husband, Alberto, 45, and Felice Murgo of Milan, Italy, who operates a chemical importing business, hold the franchise in a new corporation called M.A.G. Fish Corp. Maria dePaul, Murgo's secretary, is secretary-treasurer of the new corporation.

Gina and Alberto are natives of Rome, Italy, who came to the United States in 1960 and settled on Genovese La., off Font Grove Rd., Slingerlands, 15 years ago. They have lived in Voorheesville for the past 11 years, where Alberto has operated a tile and terazzo business in his own name.

The store will carry fresh, fried and frozen fish and prepared dinners. The corporation plans to operate an affiliated business, Gina's Delicatessen, in an adjoining storefront at a future date.

A special worship service is being planned by the pastors, Gerard Van Heest and Joyce DeVelder. Dr. LeRoy C. Brandt, pastor emeritus, will be preaching. Following the worship service a brunch will be served in the dining room at 11 a.m., chaired by Mrs. Robert Taylor. A slide presentation of Delmar Reformed Church activities over the years will be given by Benjamin French. Reservations for the brunch are being taken by the church office.

"Cents-Off" Sales

Federal regulations require that products advertising "cents off" must be clearly labeled with the usual price and the reduced price. The regular price must be displayed on the label, or near the product on a sign.

Federal regulations also require that there be a regular price. Cents-off promotions can't last more than six months, and cannot be repeated for the same product more than three times within a 12-month period. Somewhere between those cents-off sales, the product must sell at its regular price.

It is still left to consumers to decide if the product is a good purchase for them, whether or not it's marked "cents off."

Series revisited

One of mankind's vanishing species is the incorrigible baseball sentimentalist. This breed, which emerges in a haze of nostalgia at World Series time, clings to the glories of the days when baseball dominated the attention of American sports fans, when baseball was played in daylight, before the days when the national pastime was played on synthetic carpets, before prima donnas with player agents made headlines, before pipe organs and dancing scoreboards gave new dimensions to the term "bush league" and before the ridiculous and sacrilegious intrusion of the designated hitter deprived fans of one of the game's most fascinating managerial stratagems — when to pinch hit for the pitcher in a tight spot late in the game.

Ah, those were the days.

Being an incorrigible of ancient vintage myself, I revelled in a pre-strike New York Times column written by Red Smith last April that touched a local nerve. I only met Red once, at a baseball writers' post-prandial at the 1950 World Series in Philadelphia when he was famous and I was not, so I assume that in the quarter century since, he has been unaware that we have at least two strong ties, a deep dedication to baseball lore and a mutual friend in Herb Shultz, an Albany product and frequent visitor to Slingerlands, where his sister lives.

Red's column was one-third Smith and two-thirds Shultz, describing a baseball fan's vignette. Quoting from the column: "It began," Herb writes, "in 1926 — still one of my all-time favorite years — when I was eight years of age, going to P.S. 19 on New Scotland Avenue in Albany. All my schoolmates were for the Yankees in the World Series and I bet my week's allowance — 10 cents, a small fortune — on the Cards. After I won that bet I never bet money on the Cardinals again. I became too emotionally involved to put both my heart and pocketbook on the line.

"To explain how Bolly and I celebrated the 50th anniversary of the seventh game, when Grover Cleveland Alexander struck out Tony Lazzeri with the bases loaded and Rogers Hornsby put the final tag on Babe Ruth two innings later, I have to tell where this great event happened in my life. . . ."

Herb then recounted to Red how, on Sunday, Oct. 10, 1926, he was riding in the family Marmon from Connecticut to Albany with his parents when the suspense of not knowing how the game was progressing overpowered the boy and his father. As they passed through Hudson, they spotted a firehouse where they knew the radio was on (it was one of the first Series to be broadcast, as I recall), so they installed Mother at a nearby restaurant for tea and crumpets. They completed their thrilling mission at the firehouse where they were welcomed and tolerated by Yankee fans. It was Herb's account of taking his wife back to Hudson 50 years later to locate the firehouse and the restaurant that triggered the column.

"So on the morning of Oct. 10, 1976, I say to Bolly how about driving up the St. Charles Hotel in Hudson for lunch and she says how come and I start to explain and she loves the idea. I put on my St. Louis Cardinal button which I wear on important occasions. We get in the 1972 Buick and start driving.

"The St. Charles Hotel was still there but looking pretty seedy; the bar was closed and they don't serve Sunday lunch. But the desk clerk let us take a look in the backroom of the restaurant where Mother had waited stoically 50 years before.

"Down the block was the firehouse with a sign reading: 'Phoenix Hose Co., Est. 1861,' which I calculated was 65 years before Alexander came out of the bull pen to strike out Tony. The place was locked up tight. We were peering through a glass in the door when a young guy drove up, unlocked the door and went inside for a minute. An officer of the hose company, name of DiCappio.

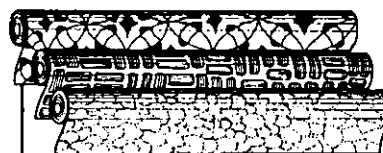

"We asked him if we could look around the inside, he said sure. Asked if we were interested in fire engines. I said not particularly and tried to explain why we were there. He didn't get it and I can't say I blame him. As he locked up and we parted, he said, 'There's a brand new hook and ladder in the firehouse down on Warren Street if you want to take a look.'

"Having made our pilgrimage to the shrine, we drove back happy to Kingston and had lunch at home, preceded by toasts to all members of the 1926 Cardinals, living or deceased."

Now, as with so many sentimental pieces, there has been a follow-up exchange of correspondence, which Herb's sister, my delightful neighbor in Slingerlands, Eleanor Shultz Adams has let me read. I hope Red and Herb will forgive El and me if I pass pertinent excerpts from the nostalgia along to you.

First a letter from Red to Herb: "David Markson, a friend of mine who writes . . . novels, wants to know whether Miss Emmons was principal of P.S. 19 in your time, and whether Miss McCabe taught math. You would like David Markson in spite of his novels. He is commissioner of the Bobo Newsom Memorial Fan Club — we hold our semiannual meeting tomorrow night in Joe Flaherty's apartment — and his fund of baseball information is phenomenal. The Bobos are a group, mostly writers, who drink in a Greenwich Village pub called the Lion's Head and ask one another: 'Short man on a bridge over a swamp.' The answer is 'Stubby Overmire.' When Vic Ziegel of the N.Y. Post wanted to join, Wilfred Sheed said, 'Sorry, Vic, unless you pause at Next, Herb replies to Red: "Indeed so, please advise David Markson, Miss Anna Emmons was principal of P.S. 19 during my years there which were circa 1922-29 and she lived in a brick house out New Scotland beyond the school near the corner of South Pine Ave. Miss McCabe was there too; she taught 8th grade and I never had her, as we used to say, but . . .

"Now as to the Bobo New-som Memorial Fan Club and their admirable pastime. I'm not sure how far back these guys go with that game but let me try out on you: Young woman gets herself pregnant. The answer: Chick Fullis. I'm also into one the answer to which will be Firpo Marberry but to be honest it needs quite a bit more work done on it."

Joy of Stitching

by ELSA WILLIAMS

THE INVENTIONS OF CHOTTIE

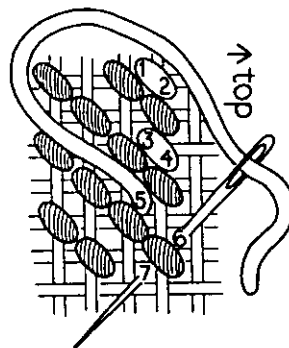

Even students who've never been lucky enough to study with Chottie Alderson at my School of Needle Art know her name. She's famous across the country as the inventor of Chottie's reversible Plaid needlepoint stitch.

When Chottie comes east to my school from her California home, stitching is done at a lively tempo. "I want my students to leave class feeling they don't need it — or me — any more," she says. "They can enjoy coming back but they don't HAVE to."

That's how Chottie teaches. Her goal is to encourage her students to develop their own stitches rather than to show them how to do three new stitches by rote every day

If you ask her how she happened to invent the reversible plaid stitch she'll tell you she was just "playing around" with needle and canvas one evening while watching TV with her husband. When he left to go up to bed she called after him, "I'll be up when I figure out what I've just done."

It took her until 6 o'clock the next morning to figure it out!

She had no idea what an impact her invention would make on needlepoint fans until she made a guest appearance at a national seminar. "I taught my own group the reversible plaid in the morning," she says, "and by noon everyone in the place wanted to learn how to do it."

The stitch is fine for any plaid or tartan. It's perfect for anything you don't want to line, be it a small envelope bag or a vest. And it's particularly useful for mobiles and room dividers, which are visible from both sides.

Since the success of her reversible plaid, Chottie has gone farther with the idea and invented a whole Reverse Needlepoint repertoire of stitches which look the same on both sides.

How did she do it? "Well," she says smiling, "it takes a devious mind — like mine — to think them up. But seriously, I wish embroiderers would experiment more."

"My students," she says with a twinkle in her eye, "never make mistakes. They just invent a lot of new stitches!"

Dear Elsa,

I've always knotted my thread when starting a piece of embroidery. Now I hear that knots are a no-no, and that the reverse side of your embroidery should be as neat as the right side. How do I anchor my first stitches?

B.C.S.

Dear B.C.S.,

When you're doing crewel embroidery you can take two or three tiny stitches in a section of the fabric that you know will be covered by later stitches. Work over these and they'll "disappear." When you want to end your thread, weave it through several stitches on the wrong side of your embroidery to anchor it. If your work is in a large frame and it's difficult to see the wrong side, take a tiny Back stitch or two on the right side of your work.

E.W.

Conrail taxes in

Consolidated Rail Corp. said in Philadelphia this week that it has paid 1978-1979 property taxes of $161,789.66 to the Bethlehem Central School District in Delmar. Conrail was formed by combining most of the rail properties of six bankrupt railroads in the Northeast. Those companies ceased paying real estate taxes at the time of their respective bankruptcies. Conrail has estimated that in 1978 it will pay a total of $34.5 million in property taxes throughout its system.

What's Bethlehem's $16,000+ Question?

- (A) The requested 33% increase over the present $12,000+ salary of town justice, a part-time job, that is in the tentative budget?
- (B) The cost of hiring the ex-town attorney?
- (C) All of the above?

The present salary for town justice is $12,000+. A 33% increase over that salary is uncalled for.

A stronger minority

Editor, The Spotlight:

Gordon Morris, the Republican candidate, is the man to elect to the Albany County Legislature in the 35th District for one important reason, inasmuch as both candidates are well qualified by virtue of background and experience.

Unless the Republican minority can be strengthened this year and next, there will be no chance of a two-party system and its accompanying balance of power in Albany County. Republican legislative proposals and decisions on all substantive issues will continue to be ignored or "sent to committee."

During the past year the leadership of the majority party was heard to say that we have too few Republicans in this legislature that we don't have to pay any attention to them.

Although the Democratic incumbent has shown his desire to be independent, as have a few other Democratic legislators, in the 10 years I have served, experience has taught me that an effective coalition of Republicans and "independent" Democrats is impossible, given the overwhelming majority of 29 Democrats and 10 Republicans.

Gordon Morris has worked for effective open government in Albany County for over 20 years. He deserves your vote as the Republican candidate for the 35th Albany County Legislative District.
