No bank in New York State pays higher rates on savings than we do at Catskill Savings Bank.

That goes for Certificates of Deposit and 6-Month Money Market Certificates.

That goes for Day of Deposit to Day of Withdrawal Savings and Regular Savings.

We pay the highest rates...the maximum interest...permitted by law.

So, why not save where it's most convenient, and get the top rate, too...at Catskill Savings Bank.

Get hometown interest... and get all your money's worth.

Let your Personal Banker counsel you on our Investment Savings* that earn you higher yields at maturity

You've undoubtedly heard the expression "putting your money to work" many times. It simply means investing your idle money in something that is perfectly safe, and will pay you dividends, or interest, over the period of the investment.

Union National Investment Savings are, of course, safe since they are insured under F.D.I.C. Equally important, they pay a fine return. The keys to getting the most return on your investment are twofold: (1) determine how much money you can invest and (2) for how long. The bigger the sum and the longer the term, the greater the return. On the other hand, it's important that you don't tie up your funds beyond a time in which you may need them. Talk it over with your personal banker, like Dave Dean. He'll work out the best investment plan with you carefully—and confidentially.

*Federal regulations provide that you may withdraw all or part of this deposit before maturity, but if you do, you lose three months interest on the amount withdrawn, and the interest rate on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the regular savings (Passbook) rate.

The effective annual yield to maturity is computed by compounding interest from day of deposit to day of withdrawal.

BETHLEHEM

Planners wrestle commercial zoning

After another round in the continuing dilemma of how to regulate commercial development in the town of Bethlehem, the town board is leaning toward a "site plan review" procedure for all but residential developments in the town.

Site plan review, a proposed amendment to the existing zoning ordinance for commercial development, would give the town planning board the authority of determining individual building placement for all commercial structures.

The only restriction now for commercial developments is a 10-foot setback from the street, a situation that many residents find both dangerous and aesthetically unappealing.

The subject of controlling commercial development has dominated the agenda in the planning board's weekly meetings for some time. The board has been studying the option of increasing the distance of the front, back and side yard restrictions, or establishing an "averaging formula" that would determine building placement by the configuration of neighboring buildings. The seven-member board, unable to reach a consensus, decided to recommend to the town board the new "site plan reviews" where each new building would be evaluated separately to determine its location on the lot.

If the town board approves the amendment, each developer would have to appear before the planning board for a specific site plan review to determine building placement that would be beneficial to the developer, the surroundings and the community.

W. Gordon Morris

Comments Councilman Edward Mocker: "Site plan review would give the board more authority and flexibility in the placement of businesses in zoned areas."

Town Attorney Bernard Kaplowitz agrees, noting that the proposed amendment would "put lots of teeth" into the present zoning ordinance. He said that if developers refused to comply with the findings of the site plan review, then the building inspector could withhold a building certificate.

But W. Gordon Morris of Elsmere, a member of the Albany County Legislature who has long campaigned for tighter regulation of setbacks along Delaware Ave. and who brought the matter to the forefront two months ago, isn't sure that site plan review is the answer.

"The planning board couldn't decide before on a setback guideline, so how are they going to do it when a building application is in front of them?" he says. "Site plan review without guidelines will cause problems." Doug Payne

Marti B. McSharry

BETHLEHEM

A new candidate for school board

A pivotal school district election that could change the complexion of the Bethlehem board of education with three of the seven seats at stake has drawn another candidate.

Mrs. Marti Bratcher McSharry, 34 Euclid Ave., Elsmere, this week declared her candidacy for the seat now occupied by Mrs. Ann Patton, who is completing a five-year term and her second year as board president. Mrs. Patton has told friends she will not be a candidate for reelection.

Bethlehem Central district voters will ballot in May for two three-year terms and an interim one-year term. John H. Clyne of Elsmere, senior member of the board, has indicated he will run for another term. Last week Mrs. Marjory C. O'Brien, 29 Preston Rd., Delmar, declared for the unexpired term of Mrs. Mary Anne Stringham, who has moved to New Hampshire.

All three seats are expected to have contests, although no opposing candidates have appeared to date.

The voting could alter the future stance of the board on budget matters, and two of those elected will be participating in the next round of negotiations with the Bethlehem teachers' union in 1980. The board is presently composed of four liberals, Mrs. Patton, Bernard E. Harvith, Robert Zick and Mrs. Sheila Fuller; one moderate, Bertold Weinberg, and one conservative, Clyne.

Mrs. McSharry is a certified medical technologist and works part-time as a research assistant at Albany Medical College, where her husband, Dr. James J. McSharry, is associate professor of microbiology and immunology. They have two children, a daughter in the Middle School and a son at Elsmere Elementary School.

Mrs. McSharry is active in the Delmar Progress Club, a member of the Capital District chapter of the Embroiders' Guild of America, a past treasurer of the Tri-Village Welcome Wagon and a former Girl Scout leader. She is a member of the parents' steering committee at the Middle School and a past president of the Elsmere School Community Organization (ESCO). She also has served as a science and library volunteer at the school.

A graduate of Westhampton College of the University of Richmond, she received training in medical technology from the University of Virginia. She is a member of the administrative board of the First United Methodist Church, Delmar.

Wins lottery cash

William J. Nash of Glenmont is one of four $5,000 winners in the New York State Lottery's "Slot Machine Game."

A Delmar teacher looks at Iran

Tom Collins of Delmar thinks the U.S. government should "leave the people of Iran alone — let their own forces for stability assert themselves."

Collins' opinion is based on more than what he reads in the newspapers, because he came home just last summer from a two-year teaching stint in Tehran. As a social studies educator, he's always had a greater-than-average interest in world affairs.

He ended a long career in public school education as supervisor of the social studies department for the Bethlehem Central school district from 1970 until 1976, when he retired to accept the overseas teaching assignment. "Retirement" obviously means something different to this eclectic 60-year-old than it does to many people his age.

What is difficult for Americans to understand, Collins said recently, is that Islam — meaning "submission to God" — in the form of the Moslem religion has been a total way of life in the Middle East for centuries. "They don't separate religion from their culture the way we do," he explained. The Shahs have been political leaders, he said, but they have never contested the authority of the Islamic clergy and "a very real tension" between the two roles has existed for many years.

Mohammed Reza Shah Pahlavi, who held the country's political reins from 1941 until his recent "vacation," is viewed by Collins as "a great modernizer" who oversaw progressive and technical advances in Iran, especially since the early 1960's when the influx of thousands of Americans began. Whatever the Shah's personal ethics have been, however (and Collins admits he's unsure about that), Pahlavi was "surrounded by corruption."

His forced departure reflects "an elemental urge" among Iranians for a more moral and decent society, Collins believes. This represents the "mass thinking" there, he said, but "our intelligence experts either didn't notice this or discounted its importance."

Having miscalculated the country's basic mood by paying attention only to "military and strategic considerations," according to Collins, our government has subsequently felt compelled to officially "back" successive Iranian leaders. "It's in our own best interests to stay out of their affairs now," he said, "because a great many Iranian people fear what they call western imperialism, so our sanctions cause a backlash."

The Delmar resident conceded that the U.S. has good reasons for concern about Iran's future. We rely heavily upon their oil supplies and upon oil from the entire Middle East, which is funneled down through the Persian Gulf, and we don't want Iran taken over by Communism. Collins is convinced, however, from his own observations, that most Iranians are just as resistant to pressure from their northern neighbor, Soviet Russia, as from western influences.

Creating recent headlines from Iran is a Marxist group (Fedaheen) centered at the University of Tehran, which claims the allegiance of many terrorists. The youthful faction is challenging the Islamic authority of the Ayatollah Khomeini, according to Collins, but this is essentially an internal conflict between advocates of traditional and modern lifestyles.

Collins taught history and philosophy at the Iranzamin International School, a K-12 private school of about 1,500 pupils. He and his wife, Marjorie, lived in a nearby apartment and "didn't socialize much," but did travel to all parts of Iran to try to "get inside and really understand the country's culture."

Anxious to be on the move again, Collins has re-applied through the International Schools Service in Princeton, N.J. for another overseas teaching job. He and his wife rented their home at 60 St. Clair Dr. in Delmar while in Iran, and probably would do so again if another travel opportunity becomes available.

The Collinses have two grown children: John, an attorney for the New Jersey School Boards Assn., and Susan, an anthropologist at the University of Colorado.

While home for a while, Collins is doing substitute teaching and tutoring, participating actively in the First Unitarian Church in Albany, and helping a group of friends plan an organic farm (the first in this area) as a food cooperative. During March he is serving jury duty for the State Supreme Court.

Tom Collins fizzles with enthusiasm — as effervescent as the tall drink with the same name — and would be happy to share his first-hand knowledge of the Middle East with any interested individuals or groups. Ann Treadway

Car slams tree;
2 are critical

Three persons were injured, two critically, when a speeding car crashed into a large tree on Elm Ave. near Longwood Dr., Delmar, shortly after 4:30 a.m. Sunday.

The driver, Glenn R. Hoffman, 30, Krumkill Rd., Slingerlands, and Margaret Sneeringer, 17, of Albany, a passenger, were reported in critical condition in the intensive care unit at Albany Medical Center Hospital Tuesday with multiple injuries.

A third occupant, Bonnie Fearnside, 17, of Albany, was ejected through the canvas roof of the 1969 convertible and thrown clear, Bethlehem police said. She was treated and released from the Albany Medical Center Hospital.

Bethlehem police said Hoffman faces a number of charges, including a possible charge of unlawful imprisonment, after the Fearnside girl stated he had taken the two girls on a wild ride through Slingerlands and Delmar despite their pleas to stop the car and let them out.

The girl told police at the hospital Hoffman had picked the two girls up on Western Ave., Albany, as they were hitchhiking a ride home. Instead of taking them home, her statement said, he turned west on Rt. 85, refused to let them out of the car, and "drove like a crazy man, very fast and all over the roadway."

Members of the Delmar Fire Dept. and Slingerlands Fire Dept. rescue squads were called to the scene and helped extricate the victims from the wreckage.

Bethlehem police said the investigation of another one-car accident that claimed the life of Perry T. Spain, Jr., 24, on Blessing Rd. last Thursday night was continuing.

Spain was fatally injured when the car in which he was riding veered off the road to the right, bounced off three trees and came to a halt across the road shortly after 10:30 p.m., police said. Another passenger, Paul Degener, 31, was reported in critical condition at Albany Medical Center after surgery on Monday.

The driver, Brent E. Bosworth, 25, of Bethlehem Terrace Apartments, Slingerlands, was reported in good condition at Albany Medical Center with a fractured ankle. Police said Bosworth, who was ejected from the car, has been charged with driving while intoxicated and driving at an unreasonable and imprudent speed.

Musicians offer a free concert

The Northeast Concert Band, with Henry Carr of Delmar directing, will present a concert at the Bethlehem Middle School on Tuesday, March 27, at 8 p.m.

The band is comprised of music educators and professional musicians from the Albany Symphony Orchestra, Schenectady Symphony Orchestra and Colonie Coliseum Orchestra, along with other local musicians. Members from the Bethlehem area are Henry Carr, Roger DeNucci, George Smith, David Bitner, David Calarco and Leonard Tobler.

The program includes, a suite from "Star Wars," the overture from "Die Fledermaus," by Strauss, "Black Horse Troop" by John Philip Sousa, and selections from "The Wizard of Oz" and the TV series, "Roots."

Faculty wins on court

The Voorheesville Central faculty basketball team again proved too strong for the students' team and won the annual game sponsored by the Key Club, 67-63. Robin Locke, volleyball coach, one of the first women to play in the event, contributed clutch free throws. Howard Smith, former varsity basketball coach, led the faculty team.

Hospital benefit set

Proceeds from the St. Peter's Promenade Gala Saturday evening, March 31, will complete the St. Peter's Hospital Auxiliary's $100,000 pledge to the hospital in honor of Sister Margaret McCarthy. The gala, to be held at the Wolferts Roost Country Club. Peter's Pantry will feature a wide variety of articles for Easter gifts, starting at 7 p.m. There will be dancing until midnight to Tommy Ippolito's orchestra. Screening set for amblyopia

Trained volunteers from the Tri-Village Welcome Wagon Club will hold their 13th annual vision screening for amblyopia for children 3-5 years of age Wednesday through Friday, March 29-30, at the First United Methodist Church, 428 Kenwood Ave., Delmar.

The screening, which is free, will be conducted by Dr. Stephen J. Sills, ophthalmologist, and Mrs. Marge Gilmour, a volunteer from the Albany Association of the Blind, from 9 a.m. to noon on each of the three days.

Amblyopia, sometimes called "lazy eye blindness," is the failure of a normal eye to develop vision adequately, and is rather common in pre-school children. One eye sees sharply, the other poorly. If not detected by an early age, experts say, the disorder could lead to permanent loss of central vision.

Last year 370 children were screened in the three-day Delmar clinic, and some cases of amblyopia in addition to other visual problems were detected and referred to family ophthalmologists. Local co-chairmen are Mrs. Carol Dowley, 439-2650, and Mrs. Rita Mallery, 439-1794.

ELSMERE

Police probing store burglaries

Bethlehem police are investigating two store burglaries and an attempted break-in at three Elsmere stores over the St. Patrick's Day weekend.

Burglars forced their way into the Courtside Tennis Shop and Handy Dandy Cleaners, but were unable to gain entry to Tri-Village Dry Cleaners, police said.

A small assortment of clothing and an undetermined amount of cash were taken from the tennis shop Saturday night or Sunday morning, and a cash register containing $97.70 was taken from the Handy Dandy store the previous night, according to the reports.

Overpayment for water

Only one user in Bethlehem Water District No. 1 overpaid his bill during the recent period instead of the usual six or seven, but the overpayment was, according to Tax Collector Kenneth Hahn, "unusually high"—79 cents. State law requires town board approval of any refund, so last Wednesday night the overpayment was on the board's agenda and the refund was duly authorized—by a unanimous resolution.

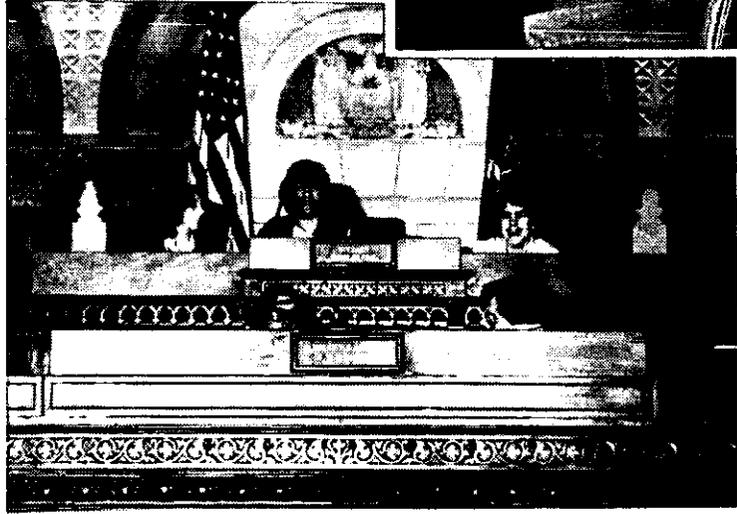

BC hosts Model Congress

Bethlehem Central's Model Congress representatives were host to nearly 200 delegates from 24 schools at the Capitol in Albany March 2-3 (see story in last week's Spotlight and Vox Pop, this issue). More than 175 visitors were housed in Bethlehem homes during the committee sessions and general sessions in the Assembly and Senate chambers.

VOORHEESVILLE

Langford unseats a political veteran

A 25-year-old political neophyte making his first bid for public office has won a seat on the Voorheesville village board displacing a two-term incumbent.

In surprisingly light balloting, Richard Langford, a sandy-haired father of two, upset Richard (Dick) Huber, who was seeking a third two-year term on the board. Langford ran on the Citizens Party slate in the three-cornered race for two trustee seats.

Huber's running mate on the Peoples Party ticket, Allen Wilcon, led the balloting to easily win reelection for a second term.

The vote totals were: Wilcon 356, Langford 294, and Huber 227. There were no write-ins, and the only absentee ballot went to the two winners.

Despite the intensity of the race, only 490 voters took time to go to the two booths at the Voorheesville firehouse, 76 fewer than last year when a spirited contest for town justice took center stage as the mayor and two trustees ran unopposed.

Huber took the setback philosophically. "It's one of those things," he shrugged as well-wishers offered condolences.

Langford, 25, an outstanding distance runner in his high school days, is employed by Suburban Propane.

Wilcon, 44, grew up in Revere, Mass., graduated from Boston University and settled his family in Voorheesville 12 years ago. He is a salesman for Interstate Uniform Service, and is married with two children.

A tough winter for highway crews

While most people anxiously await the end of the cold weather and winter blues, springtime for the men in local highway departments only means the beginning of the never-ending job of road maintenance.

"It was the worst winter we ever had on the roads," says Martin Cross, Bethlehem's superintendent of highways.

He says the snowfall this winter was light, which was good, but the intermittent frigid and thawing spells this winter caused water in the cracks in the roads to freeze and break up the road surface.

"After a cold spell the frost goes deep in the road and this also causes pavement break-up," he says.

Cross, who has had limited crews out all winter to patch up pot-holes, says the worst is not over on the town's 130 miles of roads.

"The frost hasn't come out of the roads yet, and when it does the roads will break up even more."

He says his department, limited by budget considerations, has no specific plans or special target areas for the 1979 season. "We'll go out on the roads and see," he says. "We will go as far as our budget takes us."

The road repair process, including complete repaving for some areas, will continue throughout the year and on into the winter.

"As soon as we get all the roads fixed it'll be winter again," he says. "Road repair is an ongoing thing. We take it as it comes."

Winter isn't the highway department's only worry because spring brings its own particular problems for the 45 men in Cross's department.

"When it rains, you can't work," he says. "It's like any other job. No one likes to stand out in the rain, so we don't even send the men out. The rainy season slows you down. It does that to any construction job. The weather is a big factor determining what you can do."

But his crews will be busy during the upcoming rainy season as they cart away the debris from the town's spring cleaning. The spring cleaning will begin April 2 and continue throughout the month of April, with highway crews collecting household throw-outs accumulated during the winter. Cross cautions that large appliances, like stoves and refrigerators, will not be picked up.

After spring clean up, the crews will turn their attention toward road repair, including a portion of Blessing Rd. That project will be resumed from where it was left last year.

Then there's the town's blacktopping schedule, which usually calls for resurfacing five to six miles of town roads per year.

When the weather lets up one of his first projects will be repairing a block on Groesbeck Pl.

"We didn't get it done last year, so it will be one of the first repavings we do," said Cross.

 Delmar florist
 business sold

The first time Linda LaPointe heard that the "Flowers by Thomas" store at Delmar Four Corners was for sale, she knew she had to have it.

"It was as if it was meant to be," she says, remembering that first time. "I saw it offered in an advertisement and ran down to the store immediately to look into it."

It was love at first sight for Mrs. LaPointe, who lives with her husband and three children in Latham. She bought the shop and now she's in business with her daughter and co-partner, Valerie LaPointe.

Mrs. LaPointe, who has been active in some aspect of the florist business for almost 10 years, found that owning a flower shop and running the business end can be different and more complicated than arranging flowers for someone else.

"Just my daughter and I run the business," she says. "We opened up the first week, which was just one week before Valentine's Day, and I almost went out of my mind."

She says her inexperience with the business end caused a few minor mistakes that first week, for which she apologizes. Now, since the pace is less frantic, she is able to devote more of her efforts toward the creative and artistic end of the business.

Her fragrant and colorful shop on Kenwood Ave. is stocked with almost every kind of fresh, silk and dried flowers with an extensive selection of plants.

"It may look peaceful here," she says, gesturing toward the rows and rows of flowers. "But it really isn't most of the time. But I'm happy that I'm with flowers, and I like best to create with flowers, especially the more unusual settings."

She says her flair for original creations comes naturally. "At my last job they let me do as I wanted. Arranging flowers is something I like and do well."

Business is better than expected, but Mrs. LaPointe would like to see it get better, with the hope of expanding the shop around springtime. Meanwhile, she has one of the most spectacular shop windows in town — the side "picture" window that catches the afternoon sun and gives eastbound motorists on Kenwood Ave. a dazzling display of color. That's what flowers are all about. Doug Payne

Delmar welcomes a music store

The Bethlehem-New Scotland area's foremost jazz impresario, Skip Parsons, has taken his talent to Delmar in the form of a music store. The new business, which opened informally a few weeks ago at 340 Delaware Ave., in the Roger Smith building, is the only store of its kind in the Tri-Villages.

Skip calls his store a "musician's music store for people who play music." Skippy's Music offers a wide variety of wind instruments, guitars and drums, and musical accessories like mutes, reeds, strings, drum parts, sticks and even sheet music. For those who want to learn to play an instrument, Skip will offer a rental program.

Skip, known throughout the East for his leadership of Skip Parson's Riverboat Jazz Band, hopes his popularity will help his new store. "There's a lot of interest in this kind of store," he says, "and there are a lot of talented musicians who have accepted it."

Skip stresses that all kinds of musicians will find something at his new store. "I'm not just catering to jazz players, but to all kinds of musicians, and all kinds of music including big band, rock classical music, country music."

Skippy's Music will be open afternoons Monday through Friday until 6 p.m. and all day Saturday. Doug Payne

Resident receives a papal letter

When Rev. Kenneth Gregory of St. Thomas Church, Delmar, embarked on a trip to the Vatican to attend the installation of Pope John Paul II, he carried a letter from a Delmar woman congratulating the new pontiff.

Last week, five months after writing the letter, Mrs. Lee Grady, 488 Haskell Pl., received a reply. The note, typed on official stationery of the Secretariat of State at the Vatican, stated: "His Holiness Pope John Paul II has received the kind message sent to him at the beginning of his Pontificate. In expressing his gratitude for this devoted gesture, the Holy Father sends his greeting of joy and peace. He also gives the assurance of his prayers and imparts his Apostolic Blessing." The letter was signed by Msgr. L. Scaccia, department head.

"So many good things have happened since the letter came," an elated Mrs. Grady said this week. "I've won prizes and got a part-time job."

Mrs. Grady has two children, Susan, 11, and Leo John, 2. Although her son bears the names of two Popes, he was named, she said, for his two grandfathers.

Historian to speak

Mrs. Edward Dillon, past president of the Bethlehem Historical Society and currently engaged in a research project of Old Bethlehem, will lecture on that subject before the Delmar Camera Club at the club's March 27 meeting. Mrs. Dillon will show slides and play tape recordings made by prominent residents of the past.

The meeting will be held at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Parish Hall, Elsmere Ave., Delmar, starting at 7:30 p.m. with a workshop on "black light" conducted by Dean Stout. The March slide and print competition is also "Old Bethlehem," with a second competition on general subjects. The public is invited.

Nursing scholarships

Three Bethlehem Central High School seniors and one from Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk High School have been awarded Regents Professional Education scholarships for nursing worth $250 a year for up to five years of nursing study at a professional nursing school in New York State. They are Susan Nagle, Lisa Thorndike and Donna Warren of BCHS and Gail Canuteson of RCS.

Bank takes title to Elsmere site

City and County Savings Bank has purchased a tract of land on the northeast corner of Delaware Ave. and Euclid Ave., Elsmere, and will erect a new building to house the bank's Delmar office.

The transfer was closed last week with the seller, Mrs. Anne Ebel, whose husband, Lawrence Ebel of Albany, had operated a Texaco service station on the site for the past several years. The sale was handled by Arnold M. Kaplan and Michael A. Jackson, both of Delmar, affiliated with Wellington Properties, Inc. in the Century 21 network. The purchase price was not disclosed.

The bank's Delmar office currently occupies leased space in a commercial building next door owned by the HMC Corp. The site has 224 feet frontage on Delaware Ave., 200 feet on Euclid Ave. and 302 feet abutting the HMC tract housing the present bank.

A spokesman for City and County said the proposed building will provide "a more efficient lobby area inside and more convenient drive-in facilities and improved parking on the outside."

The new bank is expected to be open by late winter or early spring, the spokesman said. The transfer is subject to approval of the New York State Banking Dept. and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

The site at Delaware and Euclid was the center of a public controversy nearly two decades ago when residents of the area waged a successful campaign to block approval by the Bethlehem town board of a proposal to install a car wash at the intersection.

Cancer volunteers sought

The American Cancer Society is seeking volunteers for the annual door-to-door campaign in April. For information, contact Doris R. Rowland, executive director, Albany County unit, 449-8722.

Philip Ackerman

Praise for officer

A Bethlehem police officer has received a commendation from the commander of Troop G, New York State Police, headquartered in Loudonville, for his quick action when a state trooper was stricken with a heart attack on Rt. 9W in Bethlehem on Feb. 20.

Officer Marvin Koonz, who responded to the call for assistance, "utilized expert medical technique (and) took the necessary steps prior to the arrival of the emergency unit," according to Maj. Thomas A. Constantine. In a letter to Commissioner Ralph Tipple of Bethlehem, Constantine commended Koonz for "his rapid response and his immediate knowledge and grasp of the situation." The state police inspector involved was reported as "resting comfortably in good condition."

Young poets cited

Seven pupils from the Slingerlands Elementary School participated Wednesday night (March 21) in a children's poetry festival co-sponsored by the Albany Public Library and the State Education Dept. Their original poems were among 50 selected from 800 submitted by elementary pupils in a three-county area for inclusion in the festival.

The young poets who have gained this recognition are David Carroll and Steve Jensen, third graders; Toby Dunmore, John Van Arnam and Megan McGinn, fourth graders, and Jennifer Mosmen and Jennifer Scott, fifth graders.

TENNIS

Delmar net star named BC coach

A former Bethlehem Central varsity tennis player who went on to play for Albany State and who also has held the Bethlehem singles championship has been named varsity tennis coach at BCHS.

Philip Ackerman, who played No. 1 singles for one of Don Camp's many Suburban Council and Section 2 championship teams before moving up to the SUNYA varsity, has been directing indoor workouts for team candidates at Southwood Tennis Club for two weeks. On Monday, the combination of a cloudless sky, mild temperatures and the early appearance of nets at the high school courts motivated Ackerman to take his players outdoors for the first time this year.

Ackerman has been coordinating the junior tennis academy at Capitaland Tennis Club in Guilderland and has been teaching tennis for two years. He also is tutoring in math at Albany Academy for Girls. He succeeds Tom Walencik as BC coach. Walencik gave up the post to devote more time to his family after serving two years, but will continue to coach the Bethlehem girls' team in the fall.

Ackerman's team will open its league season April 9 against Scotia on the Delaware Ave. courts, then will travel to Niskayuna two days later.

Dr. Bernard C. DeLeo
Executive moving here

Dr. Bernard C. DeLeo has been appointed professor and chairman of the department of anesthesiology at Albany Medical College and anesthesiologist-in-chief of the Albany Medical Center Hospital.

Dr. DeLeo comes to Albany from Columbus, Ohio, where he was associate professor and formerly acting chairman of the department of anesthesiology at the Ohio State University College of Medicine. He is a 1954 graduate of St. Vincent College, Latrobe, Pa., and received his MD degree from St. Louis University in 1958. He served his internship at the St. Louis City Hospital and residencies at St. Louis City Hospital and the Cleveland Clinic. Dr. DeLeo and his wife, Antoinette, will reside in Delmar. They are the parents of six children.

Vox Pop is open to all readers for letters in good taste on matters of public interest. Letters longer than 300 words are subject to abridgement by the editor, and must be signed. Names will be withheld on request.

A vote for youth

Vox Pop has received the following open letter addressed to an important segment of the community:

Dear BCHS Parents:

There was a party at our house last Saturday night. About 100 young people from Bethlehem and 20 other schools in three states participated in the Model Congress, and wanted to get together just to visit in the midst of a hectic weekend.

They brought their own food and made sure everyone was served. They conversed intelligently with their peers and with the chaperones. They listened to their music, played charades, Yahtzee and pool and watched Saturday Night Live.

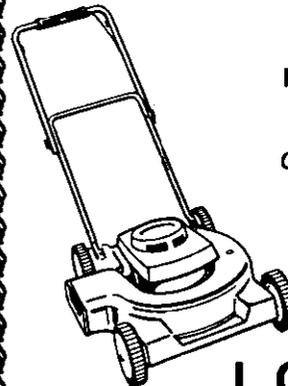

They observed without complaint our request for no smoking in the house. They cleaned up after themselves and said "thank you" on their way out.

They are lovely young people.

You should be proud of them.

'Sensational' Journalism

Editor, The Spotlight:

Media Raw — The Further Recycling of Trash.

Your March 8 article, "Media Rare — Recycling Trash" dealing with the WRGB TV news show featuring deposed Bethlehem Police Chief Peter Fish was a despicable act.

Ostensibly, the editorial was an indictment of WRGB for granting television time to convicted felons. In the process, your "newspaper" drew several analogies that were so absurd as to be laughable, even to the most opinionated readers. To compare Chief Fish with convicted murderer Lemuel Smith is as foolish as to compare the New York Times with the Spotlight.

You charged WRGB with the production of non-legitimate news stories, but the value of these stories is not to be judged by a small town weekly editor or by the town fathers (who may well have ghosted the article). It is to be determined by those who watched the show. While it is true that a panel of 12 peers convicted Peter Fish of lying under oath, is it possible that others may have lied to produce that conviction? It has happened before. The American system of jurisprudence is far from perfect, contrary to what the Spotlight so narrowly believes. And that, sir, is why the appeals system exists.

The Spotlight spoke of the WRGB program as being "... designed for the gossip population still hungry for sensational stuff ..." Have you not also fed this sort of sick hunger with your very own brand of irresponsible sensationalism?

The Spotlight was accurate in one assertion, however. The Dodgers shouldn't be granted any extra innings after the World Series ... but, they should be allowed to speak to the press after the games have been played.

Voorheesville

Deane P. Fish

The Spotlight editor, with a career spanning 39 years on daily newspapers, the AP wire service and magazines, stands on his judgement. All media carried repeated statements by Peter Fish denying his guilt, but no newspaper took the ex-chief up on his vow to "tell all" after the trial, not even the pro-Fish, anti-Bethlehem Albany Times Union.

Fish's vigorous fight against the charges is understandable and accepted, his vindictiveness is not. In granting him a forum to accuse Bethlehem officials and police officers of lying and cheating, WRGB showed how shallow its background in professional journalism is. In the March 4 telecast, which might have been introduced as "the following program is brought to you as a public disservice," there were unfortunate losses: Peter Fish's dignity and the WRGB news operation's credibility.

Vox Pop has received a long letter critical of the Bethlehem police department, but the writer did not identify himself.

Free Vision Screening

A free vision screening for pre-schoolers for amblyopia will be conducted Wednesday through Friday, March 28-30, from 9 a.m. to noon at the First United Methodist Church, Delmar. Trained volunteers from the Tri-Village Welcome Wagon Club will be sponsoring the program for the 13th consecutive year.

Under the direction of Dr. Stephen J. Sills, ophthalmologist, and Mrs. Marge Gilmour, an Albany Association of the Blind volunteer, the volunteers will screen children 3-5 for the disorder sometimes called "lazy eye blindness."

The screening is brief and there is no charge.
