BETHLEHEM

Democrats name November slate

Bethlehem Democrats will try to take advantage of a rift in Republican ranks by concentrating their 1979 campaign energies on electing a town justice.

The town's minority party emerged from last week's caucus with a full slate of candidates for the November election, headed by Kenelm R. Thacher, town chairman, who is running for supervisor.

But party workers are pinning their hopes on Michael Breslin of Delmar, an Albany attorney nominated for town justice, as having the best chance of 10 local candidates to make the first breakthrough in Bethlehem's dominant Republican administration. Bethlehem voters have never elected a Democrat to a local office.

Breslin will oppose the winner of the Sept. 11 GOP primary that puts Peter Wenger, the party's designated candidate for town justice, against incumbent Harry B. Rezzimini, who was bypassed for the nomination when the Republican committee picked its ticket in May. Breslin last year narrowly lost to Rezzimini in a special town-wide election for an interim term on the town bench.

The caucus Friday at the Center Inn in Glenmont drew a small but enthusiastic crowd as the 1979 slate took shape. The caucus put up three candidates for the Albany County Legislature, already heavily Democratic but with Bethlehem seats held by Republicans, and for the seven town offices on the ballot.

Nominated for the county legislature were Terry Mitchell of Delmar, who will oppose Sue Anne Ritchko for the seat now held by Earl Robinson in the 34th district; Matthew Clyne of Elsmere for the 35th district seat held by W. Gordon Morris, Jr., and Robert Cadell of Cedar Hill for the 36th district seat occupied by Edward Sargent, Jr. Clyne is a grandson of John H. Clyne, senior member of the Bethlehem Central school board. The county legislature controls a $130-million budget and has some 3,600 employees on the public payroll.

Others nominated were Patricia McCord of Selkirk and Joseph Feller of Delmar for town council, Joan Uhrík of Delmar for town clerk, Harold Houghtaling of South Bethlehem for superintendent of highways and Marilyn Picarazzi of Selkirk for receiver of taxes. It will be Uhrík's second try at unseating incumbent Marion T. Camp of Delmar.

It will also be the second run for Thacher, party chairman for the past 11 years. Thacher ran for supervisor in 1969, a campaign he described last week as "an exercise in futility" in the face of the town's overwhelming Republican registration. But he feels that race was a significant one that "marked the beginning of a two-party system in the town of Bethlehem."

In the 10 years since, Democratic workers have turned out several strong votes, notably in 1973 and in 1975, a year they polled 49 percent of the vote for supervisor.

At the caucus Thacher also sounded the note of what may be the party's campaign theme this year. "Tom Corrigan (incumbent supervisor) is a nice guy who is mesmerized and paralyzed," he said. "He has done nothing and he will pay for that in November. This government is paralyzed, they're not moving."

Added William Burkhard, Democratic vice chairman who served as moderator at the caucus: "There is a viable and vigorous Democratic party in this town."

VOORHEESVILLE

Wenzel to keep post as mayor

Bill Wenzel sees no reason to step down as mayor of Voorheesville if he is elected to the New Scotland town board in November, unless . . .

"Unless a majority of the people in the village wanted me to resign, or the majority of people in the town of New Scotland objected, I feel I could handle both jobs effectively," Wenzel said last week before leaving for a short vacation with his wife.

New Scotland Republicans in May nominated Wenzel along with incumbent Wyman Osterhout as candidates for the two seats on the town board up for grabs in the municipal elections on Nov. 6.

At the time, there was speculation Wenzel might have to relinquish his village post in order to serve on the town board. That thought chilled town GOP leaders, who were fearful many villagers who ordinarily would vote the Republican slate in the town elections might vote against Wenzel in order to keep the popular mayor from vacating his village job.

"That's all very flattering," commented Wenzel. "Right now I really haven't made up my mind what I'm going to do. I'll have to think about it. I would like to continue as mayor, of course, because my heart is very much in the village, but I also feel I could be of service to the town."

Wenzel said he had determined there is no legal barrier to his holding both jobs if he is successful at the polls in November. A section of the New York State General Municipal Law states that an elected official of a village is not prohibited from holding an official with a town or country, according to Wenzel's interpretation.

Wenzel added that he had "felt for a long time that since the village is an important part of the town, the village should be directly represented on the town board."

The village is located wholly within the town of New Scotland, but maintains its own water system and highway department, as well as its own planning board, zoning board of appeals, building inspection, parks and recreation program. Property owners within the village limits pay taxes to both village and town, but their town taxes are adjusted to reflect a tax forgiveness in certain budgetary areas.

Wenzel, a vice president and sales manager for the Walter Motor Truck Co., has had a remarkable record as mayor.

Voorheesville's street program has served as a model for a number of other villages, and the village trustees have been able to reduce local property taxes twice in the last three years.

Housing sites raided

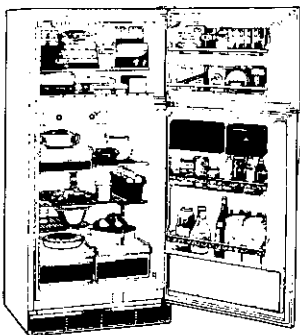

Thieves entering through an empty cellar window opening stole eight cartons of aluminum siding worth $800 from a house under construction at 26 Hancock Dr., Delmar, the night of Aug. 8. Police said once inside the intruders opened the overhead door on the garage to remove the cartons. Police also are investigating the theft of approximately $375 worth of assorted lumber from a building site at 28 Carolanne Dr., Delmar, on the same night.

Guided walk set

A guided walk exploring the world of ferns will be given at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 18, at Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, Game Farm Rd., Delmar. This program will last 1½ hours with participants investigating the characteristics and legends of some common ferns in our area.

The school is under the direction of Mrs. Dale Hester, who also teaches a class of 4-year-olds that meets three days a week. Mrs. Hester has a BS degree in education from Illinois State University and previously taught third grade in Oberlin, Ohio. She is presently pursuing her master's degree in art education at the College of Saint Rose.

Miss Ruth Powers teaches the school's second 4-year-old class which meets four and five days each week. She holds a BS in education from the State University College at Oneonta and was music and drama teacher and performing arts coordinator for the Lincoln Farm Camp. She was also a substitute teacher with both the Albany and Bethlehem school districts. She is presently pursuing her MS in music education at the College of Saint Rose and conducts a private piano studio in her home.

Mrs. Grace Ridsdale teaches the 3-year-old class that meets in a combination of two, three, four or five days per week. She holds a BA in social sciences from Russell Sage College and, before joining Tri-Village Nursery School in 1968, was a teacher at Vanderhyden Hall Nursery School, Troy, and the Pied Piper Day Care Center, Albany.

Miss Holly Debes will be working with all three classes as a teachers' assistant. She holds a BA degree in art from the State University College at Oswego and was previously employed as a teachers' assistant at the Morgan Road Elementary School, Liverpool. She also spent five summers as arts and crafts instructor with the Village of Nyack recreation program.

Talent show planned

Bethlehem Library will be sponsoring a talent show on Wednesday, Aug. 22, at 7:30. Anyone under 14 who would like to perform may sign up in the Children's Room.

This week its a pleasure to expound in a ditty,
About a girl named Christa
a gal oh so witty.

She came here from Germany back in the 60's.

A very pretty girl
although not a pixie

Her position at Hilchie's
a cashier and greeter.
Helps solve many problems
no one could be sweeter

You may know her already
A great many people do
With her some folks chatter in German, it's true.

We know what they're saying by the expression on her face
They can't use that language and not leave a trace.

When with Christa you talk,
you must take a stance
When she starts to unwind
you don't have a chance

Please tell her hello:

You'll be rewarded

EDUCATION
Raub decries fund shortfall

The cost of educating handicapped youngsters in New York State "is out of control," according to Stanley L. Raub, of Delmar, executive director of the New York State School Boards Assn.

In letters to the members of the New York congressional delegation, Raub points out that the federal government is supposed to be providing $2.2 billion for handicapped programs as required under public law, but instead is supplying only $874 million in the 1980-1981 school year.

Pointing to figures just released by the National School Boards Assn. that show the cost of handicapped programs is rising twice as fast as the cost for regular educational programs, Raub told the lawmakers that in New York State it costs anywhere from two to seven times as much to educate the handicapped as it does to educate students in regular programs. He said that the federal contribution is supposed to be 30 percent, but the government has budgeted 12 percent. "This is totally unrealistic for New York State," he said.

Raub added that state handicapped programs are funded under an out-dated formula that ignores inflation and increased costs, so that local school districts are at a loss as to how they can comply with either state or the federal mandates for educating the handicapped.

Saturday courses popular

To meet the needs of the expanding adult market, the College of Saint Rose has scheduled more Saturday courses this fall in addition to regularly scheduled evening courses. Republican Candidate for Bethlehem Town Justice

When the Bethlehem Town Board needed an experienced and able jurist to fill a vacancy, they chose Harry Rezzemini. They knew from his record he would do the job and do it well. The townspeople thought so, too, and three times they have elected him to the office. Let's keep petty politics out of Bethlehem. Let's re-elect the man who has already proven himself.

Armed robbery story changed

Half an hour after midnight last Friday, the attendant at the Upstate Petrol gas station on Rt. 9W Glenmont called Bethlehem police to report that two black males wielding a sawed-off shotgun had held up the station and had escaped with approximately $500 in cash.

During the course of their investigation, Officer Paul F. Roberts and Det. Charles Rudolph found that the robbers were not two black males, but a white male and a female accomplice who had taken the cash at gunpoint. At 3:10 a.m. Roberts and Rudolph arrested David J. Bochicchio, 19, of Fonda del Sol Apts., Ravena, on charges of first-degree robbery, first-degree grand larceny and criminal possession of a weapon, second degree, all felonies.

Bochicchio was arraigned before Justice Roger Fritts in Bethlehem town court and remanded to Albany County jail pending action by the county grand jury. No bail was set.

Police said further investigation led to the arrest of the Petrol station attendant, Duane C. Branatron, 18, of Lasher Rd., Selkirk. Police accused Branatron of giving false information in reporting the incident. He was arraigned in Bethlehem justice court and released pending a court appearance.

Late Monday night, police arrested the girl alleged to have been with Bochicchio in the holdup. Juliana Spath, 17, of Averill Park was arrested at her home by Roberts, Rudolph and Investigator William Morris of the East Greenbush state police patrol on a warrant issued by Fritts. She was returned to Bethlehem for arraignment on the same robbery, grand larceny and weapon felony charges as her companion, and was remanded to the county jail pending grand jury action.

Police said the investigation was continuing.

Skycrest speed cut

The Bethlehem town board has designated a 30-mile speed limit for all streets in the Skycrest subdivision (Elm Estates) in Selkirk. Previously Fairlawn Dr. and Peel St. had been zoned for 30 miles an hour, with no restrictions on the other streets other than the state's mandatory 55 limit. Streets affected by the new amendment are Sherbrook Dr., University St., Linton St., Vista Lane, King Ct., Rigi Ct., Belmont Ct. and Ellendale Ave.

School lunch signups

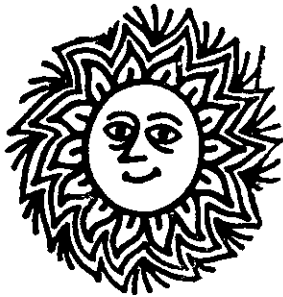

Parents of pupils enrolled in Bethlehem schools may apply for their children to receive free or reduced price lunches during the next school year if they meet updated income eligibility levels. The National School Lunch Program eligibility standards take into account family income, family size, and certain hardship conditions, such as unusually high medical expenses. Applications can be made at any time during a school year.

Information on eligibility and application forms are being mailed this week to all school district residents with the Aug.-Sept. issue of Central Highlights. Application forms also are available at the Educational Services Center, 90 Adams Pl., Delmar, and at all district schools.

Children who qualify for reduced price lunches will pay only 10 cents per lunch. Bethlehem's lunch prices, unchanged since 1975, are: elementary schools—45 cents; Middle School—50 cents; and High School—55 cents. Steps are taken in every Bethlehem school to assure that no one knows who is paying for a lunch and who is not.

Last year, about 150 Bethlehem pupils qualified for and received free lunches daily, and about 65 pupils received reduced price lunches.

VOORHEESVILLE Regrading set for Swift Rd.

The Voorheesville village board has authorized a regrading project designed to make the intersection of Swift Rd. with Rt. 85A in the village less hazardous.

A construction crew from the village department of public works is expected to start shortly on reducing the grade and modifying the angle of the intersection. Swift Rd., which serves a residential area and the New Scotland town park, meets the state road at a 45-degree angle on a steep grade. Village officials long have been concerned with the safety of school buses and other vehicles at the intersection.

John N. Acquilano Acquilano promoted

The man who turned neighborhood fears into community confidence as the first director of the New York Job Corps Center in Glenmont has been appointed director of the Singer Co.'s 11 Job Corps centers from coast to coast.

John N. Acquilano, a resident of Delmar for the past two and a half years, has been serving as executive director of Singer's Northern centers, responsible for centers in Casadaga, near Jamestown, and Vermont as well as Glenmont. He was director of the San Jose, Cal. center before being assigned to Glenmont when that center was established in February, 1977.

The announcement from Singer Career Systems headquarters in Rochester said the three Northern centers would continue to report directly to Acquilano. He and his family, who have been living at 45 Carolanne Dr., are moving this week to a new home in Fairport, a Rochester suburb.

VOORHEESVILLE

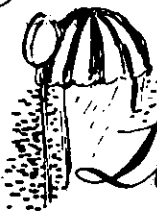

Adults work for children's play

Despite unseasonable temperatures for August, the playground area of the Voorheesville Elementary School was a beehive of activity Saturday morning as more than a score of volunteers turned out for hard work.

The occasion was a community revamping of the playground area as a major step in a long-range program implemented by the Voorheesville PTSA Committee on Safety and the Family.

"We recognized that our playground didn't meet the needs of the community and the school, and needed extensive revamping," said Sandra Clark Hoffman of Crow Ridge Rd., chairman of the committee, a psychiatric social worker by profession. "We want our children to be exposed to situations appropriate to their age levels which will encourage decision making, increased social interaction, and the imaginative use of their environment in the co-operative attainment of various goals. We feel that as part of an over-all program, positive play experiences although by no means an answer to today's social problems, can, nevertheless, be used as a tool by parents and educators in the development of good self-images, better physical fitness and thereby promote better all-around students."

At the start, the committee sought help from Bernard Hungerford of Elsmere, a State Education Dept. authority on health and physical education, and Edward W. Patnode, Jr. of Voorheesville, a professional draftsman, to advise them on designing and building a creative playground. In their early research, spearheaded by the project's leaders Ranate Czapski, Ann Patnode and Mrs. Hoffman, the committee recruited parents, teachers and the school nurse

The equipment constructed in the first phase, now being readied for the opening of school next month, is designed to handle large numbers of children in a limited space. Work crews including Dale LaDuke of the Voorheesville-based LaDuke Construction Co. and Don Belcer, assistant principal of the High School, spent hours designing and constructing the stepping stones, tire cargo net, tire mountain and free standing tires. The LaDuke firm contributed equipment and materials, along with Kenneth Tice Trucking, Crannell's True Value Hardware, Gage Sales, Callanan Industries, Sears Roebuck, Niagara Mohawk and the village department of public works.

Other prime movers were the New Scotland Kiwanis Club, Voorheesville 4-H Club and Robert Farrell, principal of the elementary school. The contributions of these people and organizations were coordinated by Pat Belcer, Carol Houck, Karen Leach, Robin Shufelt and Winn Schwartz, according to Mrs. Hoffman.

Other volunteers included Utrich Czapski, Linda Jarvis, Bill Kerr, John Hoffman, Don Houck, Dick Leach, Lou LaDuke, George Mattfield, Don Otterness, Joe Perry, Bob Samuel, Bill Schaff, Frank Schumaker, Craig Shufelt, Jonathan Schwartz, Fred Storm, Tom Vincent, Roger Willey, John O'Connell, Bill Hotaling, Albert Radzewitz and Rudolf Sempel.

Delmar firemen ready their grounds for a fair.

It's 'fair game' at the firehouse

Henry Kleinke remembers the Delmar firemen's fair back in the late thirties when the duck pond featured live ducks and the merry-go-round was powered by a steam engine.

Kleinke, a Delmar fireman, says that in those days the carnival was the main means of raising money for department meetings and sending a delegate to the annual convention. The women of the Ladies Auxiliary worked behind handicraft booths and supervised food stands that included old carnival favorites such as cotton candy and hamburgers. Two men dressed as clowns walked through the crowds while other firemen conducted bingo games.

Small plastic ducks have replaced the live ones of the Depression era, and technology has changed the carousel since then, but the fun of a fair still draws people today. The Delmar firemen's fair of 1979 will get under way tonight, (Thursday), and will continue to brighten the firehouse parking lot off Delaware Ave.

Friday and Saturday from about 7 to 11 p.m.

The firemen were unable to rent rides for this year's fair, but many of the games and food booths will fill the space. With a little skill, or luck, at the Birthday Cube, Tic Tac Toe or the Duck Pond, you can take home a toy or stuffed animal. If you're not the type to risk your money, you can always spend it on sausage, cotton candy, soda or hotdogs. At any rate, food, games, bright lights and crowds set the scene this weekend for the 1979 Delmar Firemen's Fair.

Bethlehem's town park became a weekend campground for dozens of families, some who travelled 175 miles for the swim championships, but the sun never came out.

SWIMMING

Records (and raindrops) fall at meet

The sun never shone but the swimmers did: more than 570 competitors on 40 teams dove and churned through three days of events at the Adirondack District AAU swim championships at Delmar's Elm Ave. pool and made a shambles of the record book.

Despite Saturday's chilly air and a soggy, all-day rain Sunday, 23 records disintegrated in the onslaught of young swimmers from a wide area of the state between the Canadian border and mid-Hudson valley. Only one of the 23 was set by the host club, and that came in the 10-and-under girls' medley relay when the Delmar Dolphins quartet of Joyce Shen, Mary Pat Henahan, Susan Mallery and Lynn Apicelli barrelled the distance in 2:42.73.

Saratoga won the team trophy for the third year in a row, amassing 996 points to SUNYA Swim Club's 644 and Schenectady's 566. Delmar was fourth with 320½, followed by Plattsburgh, Colonie, Northern Pike Swim Club, Kingston and so on.

But a score of local swimmers turned in outstanding performances in top-quality competition. The Dolphins won the high-point trophy for girls' 9-10 and took second to Saratoga's powerhouse in the boys' 11-12 events. Donna Schulz of Delmar took second place in the girls' 13-14 competition and Dirk Applegate of Voorheesville took second in the boys' 13-14. Dirk won the 400-meter and 100-meter freestyle finals, took second in the 400 individual medley and the 200 free.

Besides their record-wrecking relay foursome, the Dolphins emerged with seven other first-place medals. Jessica Follett repeated as the meet's 3-meter diving champion, Donna Schulz took the girls' 13-14 100-meter backstroke, Joyce Shen won the 9-10 girls' 50-meter backstroke, Becky Friedlander took the 11-12 girls' 100-meter butterfly and two Apicelli siblings captured firsts, their specialties, Scott in the 11-12 boys' 100-breaststroke and Lynn in the 9-10 girls' 50-meter fly. The Dolphin girls 9-10 also added the 200 freestyle relay to their medley title.

The graceful Follett finished second in diving off the one-meter board; with the Dolphins' Mary Reagan fifth. Reagan had a fourth from the high board.

Other Delmar swimmers who placed in the championship finals were Matt Holland, Kim Meinert, Kathleen Henahan, David Young, Janet Shaffer, Doug Schulz, Andrew Hallzel and Dean Meinert. All told, the Dolphins won 41 medals.

BETHLEHEM Planning board has a vacancy

The senior member of the Bethlehem planning board caught town hall officials by surprise last week when he told board members and secretary Alice Cirillo he was moving out of town.

William Mulholland, who was given a cake and fruit punch at the board table on the occasion of his 80th birthday last May, said he had sold his house in Slingerlands and was going to North Carolina to live with his daughter.

That created an unexpected vacancy on the seven-member board, the second this year. A town hall spokesman said "several people" were under consideration for the interim post, but it probably will be several weeks before the seat is filled.

Mulholland left town before getting around to submitting his formal resignation, but town officials said that technicality wouldn't prevent naming a successor.

Mulholland was appointed to the board in 1946 and was named chairman in 1975. His appointment as chairman was made by Bertram E. Kohinke, who had resigned as supervisor in favor of a hand-picked successor, Harry H. Sheaffer, but had retained his post as Republican town chairman. Kohinke later stepped down as party leader and about the same time, Mulholland decided he didn't care for the post of planning board chairman, and was replaced by the present chairman, William R. Weber.

Weber learned the news this week when he returned from a vacation. "He gave a lot to this board," he said.

Realtor honored

The Capital Region chapter of the Women's Council of Realtors held an informal testimonial luncheon honoring Alice Rand of Delmar, 1979 governor of the Council, at the Gideon Putnam Hotel, Saratoga Springs, July 25. Mrs. Rand, a charter member and past president of the Capital Region chapter, was appointed by the National Association of Women's Council of Realtors to serve as the association's 1979 governor for the state of New York. In 1977 she was the first woman to be elected president of the Albany Board of Realtors. She also is a member of the Zonta Club of Albany, the Albany Curling Club and the Tri-City Yacht Club. She and her husband, Gren, have two children and four grandchildren.

Tomboys sweep all-star series

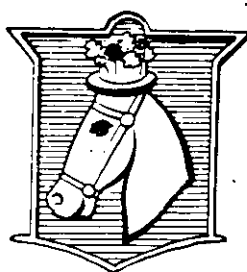

Bethlehem Tomboys' major league all-stars swept Guiderland, 11-4 and 13-2, in a post-season best-of-3 series last week. Earlier, in a similar joust with Wynantskill, the Tomboys split two games, losing the opener in Delmar, 6-5, but pounding out a 9-1 victory at Wynantskill. The "rubber" game was washed out.

Highlights of the series were Sue Robinson's bunting and base running, plus a final batting average of .667, and Lori Riccardo's 7 for 11 at the plate and errorless ball at third base and shortstop.

In the final game at Guiderland, Maureen Walsh pitched perfect ball for the last 4 innings in relief. Jackie Cozzy, who played short field, batted .429 and Michele Brooks, who played shortstop and short field, hit .385. The Tomboys had strong pitching performances by their bullpen staff of Judy VanWoert, Karen Bruni, Maureen Walsh and Tammy Lynk.

The team, managed by Art Richards, also included Janice Cerone, Jackie DeVost, Michele Fiato, Robyn Hickey, Mary Nyillis, Michelle Tompkins and Krista Whiting.

Saving on paint

Bethlehem town board members were unimpressed by a decorative paint design proposed for the new 130-foot-high water storage tank on Elm Ave., Selkirk. At last week's board meeting, they scuttled the plan for painting the 3-million-gallon standpipe dark blue and light blue and directed the structure to be painted a restful blue tone and thus saved the town some $3,000 on the job.

Pool dance rescheduled

The town of Bethlehem's Parks and Recreation Dept. has rescheduled a poolside disco dance, thunderstormed out on July 21, for Saturday, Aug. 18, from 8 to 11 p.m. at Elm Ave. Park. Bob Oates will act as DJ. Admission will be 50 cents with a photo ID card.

Vandals damage cars

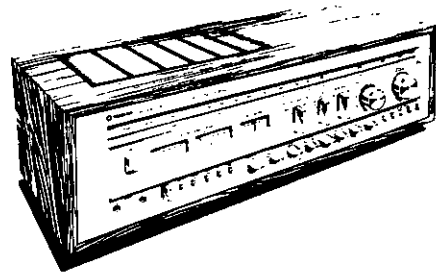

Bethlehem police are looking for vandals who threw acid on the hoods of two cars in an Elsmere neighborhood the night of Aug. 9.

If you're like most people, you're probably confused about all the claims and counter claims that seem to surround stereo receivers.

Well, we can help you by simplifying the whole thing. Yamaha offers a series of superb receivers. They all offer extremely low distortion (0.02% THD) and great control flexibility. The differences between each allow you a choice of power output, control refinements and most importantly a wide price range.

OVER OR UNDER-SPENDING

Some people spend more than they can afford when buying a house. Equally painful is the mistake of buying the cheapest possible house and then suffering through its shortcomings.

I have no intention of stating how much anyone can afford for a house. This is a very personal decision. There are guidelines of monthly averages that lending institutions use for housing expenses. But—like the "height/weight" charts printed on scales—these are only averages.

Don't hold back if you feel you can exceed the guidelines. When you are willing and sufficiently disciplined to economize on other expenses, you can get a better house than the average calls for. A good house may seem costly, but the rewards are well worth it. Investing in a house that's a little more expensive gives you an excellent inflation hedge while your whole family enjoys a better place to live. And often, the resale opportunity is brighter.

Healy, a Slingerlands resident, established his agency 14 years ago, specializing in realty sales in the Delmar area.

Traffic signs ordered

Yield signs have been ordered installed on Dykeman Rd. for southbound and northbound traffic at the Mosher Rd. intersection, and a stop sign erected on Dykeman Rd. at the intersection with Murray Ave. The action was taken at last week's meeting of the Bethlehem town board in response to a citizen complaint.

CORRECTION

A letter in last week's Spotlight referred to the vandalism damage at the Bethlehem Middle School as $67,000 instead of $6,700. Although the error did not alter the sincere tone and intent of the letter, the size of the damage was inadvertently magnified by a factor of 10. Ed.

ERA and JOHN J. HEALY, REALTORS together with the national expertise of ERA will open the most effective marketing tools in the real estate industry to home owners and prospective home purchasers.

IF YOU HAVE BEEN THINKING of a change in career, now is an excellent time to contact Mr. Healy while his firm is undergoing expansion plans. They offer a training program second to none. If you have the will power and desire, Mr. Healy and ERA know how to start you on a rewarding career.

Job Corps and crime

Editor, The Spotlight:

The July 26 Spotlight duly reported the rash of thievery in the Rt. 144 and Mosher Rd. area of Glenmont and the subsequent apprehension of the thief. The report failed, however, to indicate that the individual arrested had been a previous member of the Job Corps, which is located in that same area.

The Spotlight's reputation for complete reporting is so generally accepted that I assume your paper will be interested in correcting this oversight.

Richard Law

Glenmont

The arrest report filed at Bethlehem police headquarters made no reference to a former affiliation with the Job Corps center in Glenmont. On the basis of your letter, a check with the center disclosed that the suspect, 18, was recruited by the AFL-CIO from Equinox Counseling Center in Albany and assigned by the U.S. Dept. of Labor to the Glenmont center on May 15 of this year. Job Corps records show that he was terminated for disciplinary reasons on July 13, and returned to his address of record on Clinton Ave., Albany. The first burglary took place on July 16.

In the nearly two and a half years the Glenmont center has been in operation, more than 800 enrollees have completed vocational training at the facility. During that period, no corps member has been arrested while at the center. Ed.

Things to do

Editor, The Spotlight:

The town of Bethlehem should have more things to do in the summer. There are not many things to do, except go to the pool. We feel that it would improve the town if you put in some recreation equipment like a frisbee golf course or a skateboard park. I am sure that they would be used.
