Sure.

Every broker in town
wants to list your home.
but what can they do for you?

Before making a commitment,
check these vital points:

1. Do they have an active office open 7 days a week in the Delmar area?
2. Do they have as thorough a marketing program as we do (classified advertising, sign, open houses, home brochures, etc.)?
3. Are they associated with a leading national relocation organization which provides out of town prospects? (We are members of RELO/Inter-City Relocation Service, the nation's largest.)
4. Do they have their own internal system for contacting out of town buyers rather than relying solely on a referral service? Ask about our corporate contact program.
5. Do they have a nationally acclaimed training program which produces only the finest quality of sales representation?
6. Are valuable customers able to quickly identify the listing agency on the sign or is the firm name lost in franchise promotion.
7. Is their firm as prominent in Bethlehem as Roberts? Do they have a well organized team of professional, full time sales people working to sell your home? We have over 60 associates company wide.
8. Do they hold regular "Homebuyers' Seminars" which produce knowledgeable and qualified buyers, possibly the buyer of your home?
9. Does their firm have as good a reputation as Roberts? We are known for our fair, professional dealings with clients as well as other Realtors.
10. Will they put in writing what they will do for you? Ask about our "Pledge of Performance" with the 16 affirmative actions. We pledge to sell your home quickly and at the highest possible price.

BETHLEHEM Heck unit seeks facility in Delmar

Officials of Eleanor Roosevelt Developmental Services, a unit of the Oswald D. Heck Developmental Center in Niskayuna, reportedly are nearing closure of an agreement to purchase a Delmar building for a residence center.

Gary Siegal, Eleanor Roosevelt site selection specialist and public information officer, said one of the two Bethlehem locations under active consideration is the former private dwelling at 397 Delaware Ave., Delmar, lately referred to as the Bethlehem town hall "annex."

Siegel declined to identify the other site. Local sources, however, indicated it was the rectory of St. Thomas Church, but the report could not be confirmed.

The so-called "annex" is one of six properties tentatively listed by the Bethlehem town board as for sale. The two-story frame house next door to the present town hall serves as offices for the Bethlehem sewer district, police commissioner, Youth Employment Service and community relations specialist, all of which are scheduled to move to the new town hall two blocks west when renovations are completed within the next six or eight weeks.

Meanwhile, Roosevelt center officials scheduled a public information meeting for Monday, Oct. 15 to explain the facility's program and objectives in setting up a residence center in the Delmar area.

The meeting will be held at Bethlehem Library, starting at 7:30 p.m.

"A number of neighbors have been supportive of our program, but need more information," Siegal said.

The residence center would house mentally retarded persons as an alternative to institutionalization, Siegal said. These are people, he added, "who need institutional care but who are no longer living at home."

Bethlehem Supervisor Tom Corrigan said he had been informed by letter that the program "is designed to facilitate the normalization of eight to 10 severely developmentally disabled persons." The letter, he said, was signed by Aletha M. Crowder, chief of service at the center.

Siegel said center officials had looked at "some 20 sites" in the Bethlehem area, and has narrowed the selection to two. He said the site committee had encountered "some apprehension" on the part of neighbors of the proposed residence center, but quickly added that "we aren't going to make the mistake of not providing the community with full information." That statement was made apparently in reference to the U.S. Dept. of Labor's mishandling of preliminary negotiations for setting up the New York Job Corps Center in Glenmont in 1976, in which regional Job Corps representatives botched community surveys and a public meeting that left a sour taste locally because of misinformation and misleading statements.

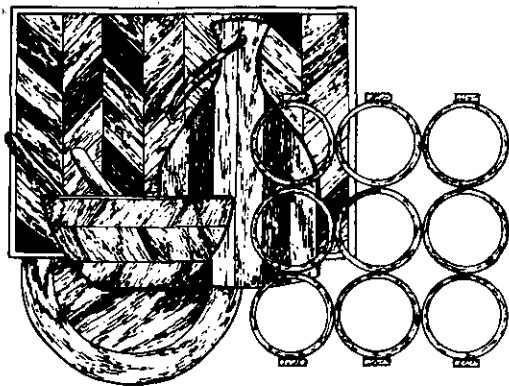

Siegel said that the Roosevelt program has been successful in basing its placements under three alternatives: institutionalization, family care and the community residence concept. The latter, he said, is intended to prepare people for "more independent living accommodations" with the goal of letting them reach the point at which they can realize their individual capabilities. The residence, he added, would be staffed with live-in supervisors.

Ch. 17 given grant by Owens-Corning

An underwriting grant from Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. to WMHT, the Capital District's public television station on Channel 17, has made possible the presentation of Sesame Street on Sunday mornings. The grant covers three hours of programming each Sunday for a full year.

In announcing the grant, Joseph Curl, plant manager, said: "We are happy to underwrite Sesame Street, which remains one of the best children's programs on public television. Many of our employees had asked specifically if we would consider supporting this fun educational series because it is enjoyed by their children. That made our selection easy, because Sesame Street has universal appeal to children of all ages throughout the community."

Sesame Street's 10 years of educational development has resulted in teaching millions of preschoolers about the environment, health and nutrition, pre-science and pre-reading concepts, cultural diversity, the emotions and social skills as well as the alphabet and numbers.

Writing course slated

A creative writing institute for high school students will be offered at The College of Saint Rose starting Saturday, Sept. 29. It will run for four consecutive Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to noon. Register by calling 471-5239.

Wallace endorsed by Conservatives

New Scotland Supervisor Steve Wallace has received official backing from the Albany County Conservative Party in his bid for reelection in November.

Wallace, a Republican, said he was "amazed and delighted" at the unexpected endorsement. Traditionally, the county's Conservative party leaders announce endorsements of Democratic candidates straight down the line in both countywide and local election contests.

Wallace said he had no hint of why he had been given the endorsement. His opponent in the current campaign is Frederick Carl, a New Salem auto dealer.

NO. BETHLEHEM

Residents reject sewer extension

Twenty nine families of lot owners in the Beldale Rd. area of North Bethlehem have told Bethlehem officials they do not want the town's sewer system extended to their area.

In a petition filed with the town board last week, the residents declared that they "have no need for a sewer system or pumping station" and stated that "the cost alone rules out any such installation."

Bethlehem officials have proposed extensions to the sprawling sanitary system under partial state and federal funding, with a percentage of the cost being passed on to property owners joining the network. More than 250 citizens in some 15 sections of the town attended an informational session earlier this year.

The petition signed by lot owners in the Hills and Dales Tract, originally developed by the Dodge Corp., stated the cost of the proposed extension to North Bethlehem "is prohibitive" to the individual property owner. They indicated they would rely on septic tanks and leaching fields.

"Any additional action to further this project... would be only in the interests of the existing and future developers of farm land to the west of us... and not in the interest of the people that would be exploited to gain financial assistance from the federal and state government," the petition said.

The petitioners pointed out that all but one homeowner and all but three of the lot owners signed the document.

The Sun Oil Co. is seeking approval from appropriate town agencies to put in a self-serve "convenient" food shop and gasoline pump in a long-vacant building at 309 Delaware Ave., Delmar.

The one-story brick and frame structure opposite Oakwood Pl. served the same functions some five years ago, housing a filling station and a Convenient Food Mart, then part of the Grand Union chain.

The property was sold to Sun Oil earlier this year. The Bethlehem board of appeals has scheduled a public hearing for 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 3, on an application by Stop-N-Go Foods, Inc. to operate the mini-market with self-service gasoline on the site. The food firm is a subsidiary of Sun Oil.

The board also will hold a hearing at 8:30 that night on a petition by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bergsma to build an addition on their house at 8

Oak Rd., Delmar, that will exceed lot occupancy by 1 percent.

At its meeting last Wednesday, the board:

- Approved a variance for James Bennett, Jr. of Glenmont for an addition to his dwelling at 7 West Bayberry Rd., Colonial Acres, that will exceed the permissible lot occupancy by 4.3 percent.

- Granted a special exception to Bedros Karian to construct a two-story addition to an apartment house he owns on Winne Pl., Glenmont, that will add two rooms each to two of the apartments.

- Granted a variance to John J. Messina, for an accessory shed that would be closer to the property line than the required two feet in the rear of his dwelling at 129 Elsmere Ave.

NEW SCOTLAND
New leash law
still a bugaboo

New Scotland's controversial animal control ordinance continues to give town board members headaches.

After more than a year of thrashing out the pros and cons of a leash law and surviving the long procedure of drafting appropriate legal language, there are still problems—logistical as well as emotional. Town residents are divided; many people resent neighbors' dogs running loose on their property, while many others resent having to restrict their pets' freedom in a town that is largely rural.

Shortly after the controversial ordinance went into effect nine months ago, the newly appointed dog warden resigned, but the vacancy had nothing to do with the political, economic and social debates that swirled around town hall. George Winters, the dog control officer who also served as village dog warden in Voorheesville, quit because his company transferred him to another state.

With Winters went the only accommodations the village or town had for the impoundment of dogs picked up on violations. Winters' successor, Chester Boehlke of Unionville, points out the need for a facility that has water and a sufficient number of pens for the animals.

Last week members of the New Scotland town board and Voorheesville village board got together to take a long look at problems of enforcement and impoundment. At the root is the expense of transporting dogs to the Humane Society Center in Menands: New Scotland pays its warden mileage for the required round trips, but Voorheesville does not. Boehlke is the warden for both municipalities.

At last Wednesday's informal session in town hall, the participants agreed to defer building a shelter of their own and indicated they would work out some sort of an agreement under which the village would contract with the town for transportation to the Menands facility.

Town Supervisor Stephen P. Wallace said the two municipalities would try to work out an agreement before the end of the current year. "It was a good, amicable meeting," he said later. "I think we made considerable progress."

Meanwhile, virtually every dog picked up by Boehlke causes hard feelings one way or the other. So do the number of dogs that are not picked up.

"I only take dogs when there's a complaint," Boehlke said. "When I'm on routine patrol, especially between dawn and 8 a.m. and between 5 o'clock and sundown, I see a lot of dogs running loose, but I don't do anything other than sometimes give out warnings."

Owners of dogs taken into custody are immediately notified to retrieve their animals at the warden's house. After 24 hours, dogs unclaimed are taken to Menands, where they are kept for a maximum of five days.

Breslin proposes offenders' work

Young offenders 16 to 21 accused of vandalism and other crimes would work off their penalties in labor for the town of Bethlehem under a proposal by Michael Breslin of Delmar, Democratic candidate for town justice.

In a position paper distributed to news media over the weekend, Breslin proposed creation of a Bethlehem Work Program under which young offenders would perform services for the town ranging from a few days to several months, depending on the nature of offense.

"For many of these offenses, particularly a first offense, jail is not the answer, but there must be a penalty imposed in a great number of these cases dealing with young people," Breslin declared.

Breslin, a trial lawyer with an Albany firm, is making his second run for a post on the town bench. In a special election last November, he narrowly lost to incumbent Republican Harry Rezzimini. In the current campaign he is opposing Peter Wenger, young Delmar attorney, who defeated Rezzimini in the GOP primary on Sept. 11.

Michael Breslin

Breslin's proposal also stated that penalties for young offenders should include restitution to the victim for any property damage caused in committing the offense.

On the principle of "tailoring the punishment to fit the crime," Breslin cited three objectives in his proposed program:

- The offender would receive "more than a mere reprimand" while being permitted to continue schooling or employment.

- Needed public work would be accomplished at virtually no cost.

- The lesson learned from the work program "will make the offender much less likely to repeat his mistake."

As an infantry platoon leader and company commander in the 82nd Airborne Division and later as a company commander in Vietnam, Breslin said he had the task of not only keeping his men—the draftees of the 1960s—out of trouble, "but had to make them perform (when) often lives hung in the balance."

Expansion slated by Farm Bureau

Construction is underway in Glenmont on a new $2.8-million headquarters building for the New York Farm Bureau on a site adjacent to the present building on Rt. 9W.

A ceremonial ground-breaking was held earlier this month, during which Richard McGuire of Cambridge, Farm Bureau president, paid special tribute to John Gold of Delmar, administrator of the 10,000-member organization.

The three-level building will provide 39,500 square feet of office space. It is anticipated that the first floor will be leased to Ocean Data Systems, Inc., a data processing firm, and will involve about 25,000 square feet of floor space. The second floor of approximately 12,000 square feet will house the Farm Bureau staff, while the third floor of some 2,000 feet will include office and meeting area for the organization's leadership.

The building's design includes use of solar collectors, window location in the direction of greatest sun exposure, and the use of energy from computer facilities on the first floor for both heating and cooling.

McGuire cited the increasing services demanded by a growing Farm Bureau membership, as the reason for the new building. When the Farm Bureau was headquartered in Ithaca during the early 1960s, he explained, the organization had a membership of 10,000 and a staff of nine. The bureau moved to the Glenmont facility in 1966, with additional space constructed in 1972. It now has 21,000 members and a staff of more than 50.

Named TV producer

A former Delmar resident has been named an associate producer of a Cleveland television show, according to an announcement by WKYC-TV, Channel 3, in Ohio. Elena Coccari, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor D. Frye of Feura Bush Rd., Delmar, will be on the production staff of a new morning program, "The Dave Patterson Show," which will have its premiere later this month. She has been associate producer of the station's "Zap!" show for the past year, and previously helped to produce a weekday disco program. She is a graduate of St. John's University, and worked for Trans World Airlines and WOR Radio, New York City, before moving to Cleveland. She lives with her two children, 6 and 3, in Lakewood, Ohio.

New subdivision
one step closer

A proposed 27-lot residential subdivision that is outside Bethlehem's water and sewer districts and has only one access for traffic was headed this week for a conditional approval from the Bethlehem planning board.

The board's regular Tuesday meeting was the last before the expiration of the 45-day time limit for board action following submission of a final plot plan for Woodside South by the developer, Internet Corp. of Albany.

The subdivision is planned for a 15-acre tract off Caldwell Blvd., Slingerlands, a one-block-long dead-end residential street that itself has only one access. Caldwell Blvd. intersects with Rt. 85, New Scotland Rd., less than 150 feet east of the sloping curve that has run up one of the highest accident counts in Albany County in recent years.

Conditions specified by the planning board would involve approval by the county health department, obtaining easements for water and sewer lines and other considerations.

Residents of the area have been skeptical of the proposal since it was first submitted to the board more than a year and a half ago. Slingerlands neighbors filled every seat at the board's public hearing on the preliminary layout in April, 1978.

The average lot would be 80 by 150 feet, with 40 feet between houses. The area is zoned Residential Double-A, which prohibits duplex housing.

Principals in Internet are David Maurer and Robert Mitchell.

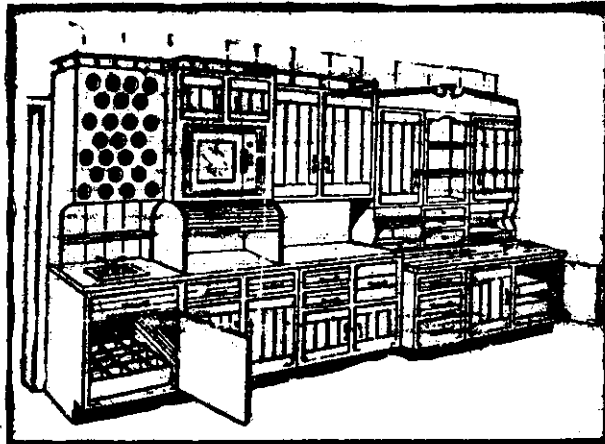

Five residents of Glenmont appeared at last week's public hearing on plans for Beacon Estates, a subdivision proposed for Beacon Rd. Their principal concern was adequate drainage.

The board deferred action on the proposal, which recently was altered from seven lots to five. The area is zoned for duplex houses, but the developer, A. T. Zautner and Son, Inc. of Elsmere, has not indicated whether he plans single or double units, and no one in the audience raised the question.

Other major subdivisions in various phases en route through the planning board include Havenwood, the new name for a 25-lot development proposed for the Mayfair-Helderberg Pkwy. section of Slingerlands, the fourth section of Bicentennial Woods in Glenmont, and Westwood II and Wellington Acres, both in Delmar.

Plant donating films to schools

Bethlehem Central School students will again have the opportunity to see nine new science films as a community service of the Owens-Corning Fiberglas plant in Delmar.

Science Screen Report, an international series of films presenting the latest developments in science and technology, was first donated to the Bethlehem Central schools last year by Owens-Corning. The schools receive one film each month from October through May as a permanent addition to their film library. The films are designed to stimulate an interest in scientific fields, including engineering, medicine, physics, geology, biology and others.

This year's first film profiles how scientific wildlife management safeguards endangered species in the African nation of Botswana.

Other features include a "Twenty-first Century" farm where planting and harvesting are computer controlled; "The Living Light," ghostly underwater glow called bioluminescence, and "Man Versus Pain," a look at new ways to help millions of sufferers of arthritic, migraine, lower back and other chronic pain.

Owens-Corning plant manager Joseph Curl said, "We're pleased to continue this excellent film series for the students of the Bethlehem Central school district. As a scientifically based company, Owens-Corning is a firm believer in research and development as a means to improve processes, products—even the way we live. These films offer tangible proof that real people are engaged in this improvement process every day."

TOWN OF NEW SCOTLAND

I once again urge people who are not registered to do so in order to vote in the November 6 election. The date for local registration in the town is September 29, 1979.

Vote and decide the type of leadership you need and want for the Town of New Scotland.

I eagerly accept the incumbents somewhat late acceptance of my repeated calls for a debate between us. As soon as arrangements can be made, the public will be advised where and when the debates will be held. I encourage any community group or organization that wishes to sponsor a candidates debate to contact me or your local newspaper.

Contrary to my opponents political rhetoric, the citizens have a right to know where the candidates stand on the issues. I have been out for four months talking to people explaining my positions on issues of concern and exchanging ideas. Can the 12 year incumbent say as much? Can the incumbent explain away 12 years of no legislation passed, his failure to work closely with the town board or with community groups and individuals?

VOTE FOR POSITIVE CHANGE. I pledge to work closely with all citizens of New Scotland. Join me in a coalition of community interests concerned solely with effective, open government.

Marvin Spruck

Theater school starting

There are still openings for the fall semester in the creative dramatics class of the Theatre Arts School for Young People, an offshoot and affiliate organization of the Empire State Youth Theatre Institute in Albany. The school is designed to channel the creativity of children from grades K-3, and to offer instruction to students 8 to 18 through Saturday workshops. For information, call 473-8961.

Judo course offered

The town of Bethlehem is offering a course in judo for students 13 and older. Classes are held Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 7 to 10 at the Bethlehem Central Middle School youth center. The program is open to residents of the town of Bethlehem and Bethlehem Central school district. Instructor is Jeannette Quinn, who holds a first degree black belt. There is a $2.50 fee per student per session.

BETHLEHEM

Volunteer leader cited by elderly

In the eyes of Bethlehem's Senior Citizens, Lillian Weiler is one of their own. When the Joint Legislative Committee on Aging recently gave her an award for "outstanding achievement and dedication to the task of improving life for New York State Senior Citizens," Bethlehem's active and enthusiastic organization gave her a testimonial luncheon at Normanside Country Club.

Lillian Weiler, a 73-year-old resident of Van Wies Point, has lost none of her vigor and zeal in her seventies. Presentation of the award itself, combined with the subsequent publicity—including such events as the BSC luncheon—have focused area-wide attention on a big-hearted local woman who, for her own unexplained reasons, has been quietly helping with vital but all too frequently overlooked volunteer work.

"I don't know. It's just something we love to do," she said, trying to explain her dedication to the old, the disabled and the handicapped. "Red Cross is a part of my life. I wouldn't know what to do without them. Every Monday I drive handicapped people needing transportation for eight hours . . . Who else besides retired people would have the time?"

She was born in New York City in 1906. "Once upon a time maybe we are all hesitant about revealing our age. But then you get to another age when you're proud of it," she explains with a smile.

Her career as a volunteer goes back to the First World War, when she helped her mother with Red Cross sewing projects. "We took things, rolled bandages and did knitting back home too," she recalled. She came to the Albany area to visit a relative at Van Wies Point, and as she said, "we loved it and never went back to New York."

In 1952 her husband died.

Lillian Weiler

She had not worked in 25 years and didn't even have a driver's license. But she got a job with the state, took evening courses to learn typing, stenography, and driving skills. Yet she continued to work as a volunteer—at the Children's Nursing Home in Albany, the Home for Incurables, and other organizations. For five years she was a 4-H leader. Since her retirement six years ago, Mrs. Weiler has been working with RSVP.

"She's constantly doing something for someone," said BSC member Ethie Morway, who supervised the honorary luncheon.

But Lillian Weiler says that receiving the Legislature's award was "quite a shock, really—you get this for something you love doing!"

Town withdraws house purchase

The town of New Scotland has decided not to pursue negotiations to buy a two-story frame house in New Salem owned by the town of Bethlehem.

"We don't have enough in the budget for it right now," Supervisor Steve Wallace said last week after a special meeting of the town board.

The dwelling, presently vacant, had been occupied by Leland Frisbee, who supervised the Bethlehem water district's treatment plant across the highway (Rt. 85). Frisbee moved out last year after retiring as a water district employee.

New Scotland's interest in the property was heightened by the possibility that the New York State Police would assign a satellite patrol unit to the New Salem area. There has been no further word whether the troopers are still considering such a move.

No purchase price, either asked or offered, was disclosed.

Large field set for 12-mile run

New Scotland recreation officials expect a sizeable turnout for their 12-mile road race Sunday in observance of the nation's growing focus on physical fitness.

Richard D. Ellis, town coordinator of parks and recreation, anticipates an entry list of several hundred in the distance run and a 2.2-mile "jog-a-thon" to be run over the new Vita course at the town park on Swift Rd., Voorheesville.

Ellis estimates that some 500 New Scotland residents run regularly for fitness and fun, joining 25 million Americans involved in running and jogging. Says Katie Williams of Delmar, New York State coordinator for National Jogging Day on Oct. 13, the mental and physical benefits of regular exercise are "extraordinary."

The New Scotland observance will get under way with the start of the 12-mile run at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, starting and finishing at the town park. The course follows sloping rural roads that include Bullcock, Hurst, Diamond Hill, Clipp, Crow Ridge and Swift Rds.

The Family Fitness run over the Vita course is designed for all ages. All participants in the events will receive a certificate and a complimentary headband, and gift certificates will go to the top three finishers in each division of the 12-mile grind. An awards ceremony will follow the events.

there's plenty of hot water with OIL HEAT

When you have an oil powered water heater in your home, you may run out of towels, but not hot water. With an oil powered water heater producing your hot water requirements, the only waiting you'll do is at the bathroom door.

Oil produces hot water up to 3½ times faster than other methods and uses less energy, too. By using less energy, you enjoy the hot water you need at lower cost. More hot water at less cost is yours with the oil powered water heater. Ask your neighbor who already has one.

Then see your local home heating oil dealer and arrange to have the fast, efficient, energy saving oil powered water heater installed in your home.

NEW SCOTLAND

The 'homiest' postoffice in town

When Lillian Kirchner goes to her civil service job six days a week, there is no need to leave the house. She just steps through a door from her laundry room into the New Scotland postoffice.

Mrs. Kirchner is postmaster of New Scotland, zip 12127, which has grown in the past year from 42 to 45 customers, also known as boxholders or subscribers.

But the tiny postoffice in the converted garage attached to her residence at 2083 New Scotland Rd. isn't quite the smallest in Albany County or the Capital District. That honor is reserved for Dormansville 12055, where Mrs. Elizabeth Kelafant serves 28 boxholders in her home in that hamlet near Westerlo.

"This office may be small, but we provide all the services—money orders, parcel post, insurance, registered mail and complete federal information," says Mrs. Kirchner, a petite, gray-haired grandmother with a youthful smile.

For many years the New Scotland postoffice was located in Crear's store, the neighborhood grocery no longer in business. Crear's was a landmark for many years on what is now called "Old New Scotland Rd." at the New York Central grade crossing. When the New York Central underpass at Long's Lumber was built and the highway re-routed to a gradual curve by-passing the store and several dwellings, the old road became a dead-end and the neighborhood store was doomed.

Before that, the mail came to New Scotland by rail, and Mrs. Emily Crear, then postmaster, plucked the mailbag off "the ring" where it was hung at trackside by a clerk leaning from the mail car of a passing train that didn't stop at places like New Scotland.

When Mrs. Crear retired in 1967, Mrs. Kirchner was appointed acting postmaster. It took four years and three competitive civil service examinations before she was confirmed as postmaster.

Meanwhile, she had honored Mrs. Crear's request to relocate the postoffice from the store. The solution was to convert the attached garage at her home 600 feet to the east, where she and her first husband, John Claude DuBois, had lived for 20 years. The couple paid for the renovations themselves, then leased the former garage to the U.S. government.

The new office opened in 1970, her appointment was confirmed in 1971, and in 1972 her husband, a building and painting contractor, died. In 1975, on Thanksgiving Eve, she married Charles Kirchner, a retired vice president of public relations for Kaman Aircraft, Bloomfield, Conn.

New Scotland has had its own postoffice since Dec. 14, 1824. The first postmaster was Edmund Raynsford, whose only direct descendent in the area is Wayne S. Raynsford of 42 Altamont Rd., Voorheesville. His father, Raymond C. Raynsford, 12 Voorheesville Ave., died 12 years ago.

Today Mrs. Kirchner keeps busy with her postoffice and her family. All of her six children—three sons and three daughters—have "gone out on their own" and she has 10 grandchildren—so far.

The mail arrives every morning with Rudy Ochs, one of the two RD carriers out of the Slingerlands postoffice two and a half miles up the road, and it goes out every afternoon to Slingerlands and the big Albany distribution center.

Often there's a lot of it, especially when an office secretary drops her day's mail in the box along Rt. 85 on the way home.

"Sometimes that box is stuffed to the brim, other times it's practically empty," Mrs. Kirchner observed the other day. "It's a real convenience for people to mail here."

It's been that way for nearly 155 years. Meanwhile, that old adage of "neither rain nor sleet..." doesn't quite apply to the petite grandmother-postmaster at zip 12127. Says Charles Kirchner with a smile: "She can't use the weather as an excuse for not getting to work."

Eagles crowding Council tourney

Bethlehem Central players will fill most of the seeded spots when the Suburban Council girls' tennis tournament gets underway Friday.

The high-flying Eagles, at 4-0 the only undefeated team in the conference, were waiting this week for the announcement of the seeds with expectations the committee would pick several from the team's five unbeaten singles players and its unblemished No. 1 doubles tandem.

Going into two matches scheduled this week, Molly Treadway, playing in the No. 1 singles spot, was 4-0. So was Ann Weber, Judy Van Woert and Kathy Bragaw. Betty Bardwell was 3-0 and Debbie DiClementi, who played doubles for the boys' varsity last year, was 2-1 and a factor to be considered.

BC's top doubles team is Sue Marden and Joy Shenian. The league's doubles eliminations will start at Shenendehowa while the singles matches are on at Burnt Hills Friday. The semifinals and finals in both brackets will wind up at Burnt Hills Saturday.

Last week Bethlehem overwhelmed Guilderland, 9-0, Niskayuna, 8-1, and Scotia, 8-1. In four varsity outings, BC has lost only three of 36 matches, and no player has lost more than once.

The Eagles were booked to play Catholic Central in Delmar Tuesday before returning to the league schedule Wednesday at Columbia.

Bethlehem Falcons, playing in the PeeWee Division of Pop Warner football, maintained their unscored-on status in a 12-0 win over Twin Towns of Averill Park Sunday in Delmar. The Falcons, now 2-0-1, have not yielded a point in 12 straight quarters. Corey Wiles saved the record when he caught up with a Twin Town runner on a breakaway.

Dan Fuller on a one-yard buck and Mike Whitney on a 20-yard sweep scored for the Falcons. The game was taped by Bethlehem Channel 16 for a 7:30 p.m. showing Tuesday.

Playing without six starters, Bethlehem's Junior Midget Eagles took a 37-0 loss to the Watervliet Cannoneers. The Eagles' highlight was a 25-yard pass from quarterback John Moran to Tom Schremph.

The Eagles entertain Saratoga at the Middle School at 2 p.m. Sunday, while the Falcons travel to Brunswick for a 1 p.m. game.

BC boot start slow

Bethlehem Central's girls' soccer varsity has another week and a half to recoup from a disappointing start before tangling with Suburban Council powers Guilderland and Burnt Hills.

Coach Vicki Bylsma, chastened by a 7-0 shocker at the hands of Niskayuna Monday following a 4-2 loss to Shenendehowa and a 7-5 win over Colonie, was looking forward to this week to "get our act together." The team's only consistent performers have been senior Molly Nevins in the goal and Marcie Manion, who has been playing outside left and center halfback without much support. The Eagles were 8-5 last year and were fourth in the Sectionals.

Coach optimistic amid BC's woes

If there was a civic award for sheer optimism, it would go hands-down to Gene FitzPatrick, Bethlehem Central's varsity football coach.

His beleaguered team failed to make a first down and completed only one pass for five yards in a 36-3 blistering in its first game. In its second game, they fumbled five times, showed little offense and were whitewashed, 20-0.

But FitzPatrick, looking ahead to a non-league tussle at Whitesboro Saturday, had this to say about last week's loss to Burnt Hills:

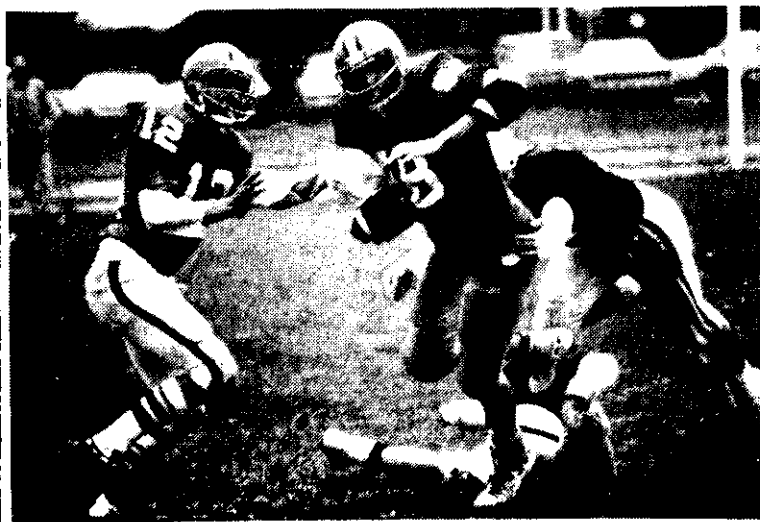

"We're improving. We were down 20-0 at the half, but we stayed in there and fought them even. We got some passing. Some of our line play has been weak, but in the second half they became more aggressive and they looked pretty good. I'm encouraged."

Five fumbles damaged the BC cause, one of them a turnover on the Bethlehem 3 for the visitors' last touch-down. Walt Waidelich and Tommy Lee, the Eagles' best linebackers, were injured, but Mike Lawrence, playing his first game, filled in admirably as well as playing three different backfield positions. Bill McHugh, who also did not play in the opener, ran for 75 yards and teamed with Lawrence for most of the ball carrying. McHugh also played cornerback and, says FitzPatrick, "made a big difference in the second half."

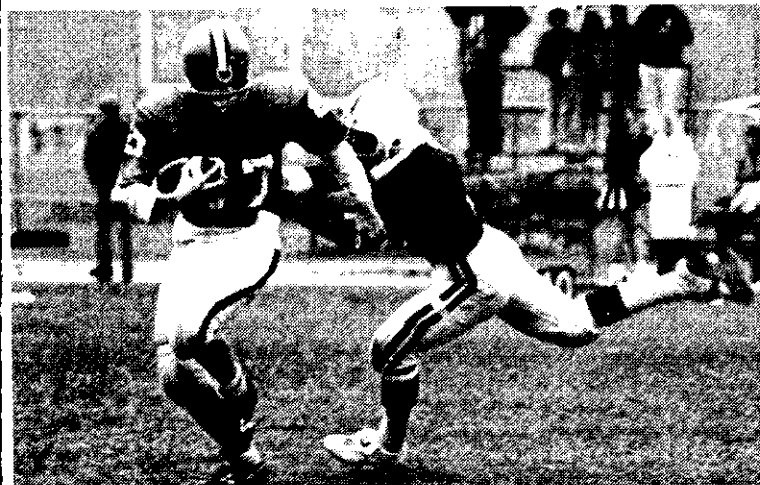

Lawrence also played relief quarterback for Jay Lovelace, throwing to McHugh and Glenn Swanson, senior tight end. FitzPatrick also had praise for Pete Roberts, defensive end, for steady improvement.

So successful was Voorheesville's faking on its only touchdown play Saturday that Jeff Picard jogged into the end zone without a Ravena defender anywhere nearby. The play, however, was the only bright spot for the Blackbirds, who were upset, 7-6. Spotlight

FOOTBALL

A slow start for Blackbirds

Voorheesville begins defense of its Southern Conference football championship this week with virtually no hope of repeating as Sectional titleholders. The Blackbirds are host to Tamarac at 1:30 Saturday still looking for their first victory. Voorheesville is 0-2, a record Coach Tom Buckley says could well be 2-0.

A 7-6 upset at Ravena last week was a bitter pill to swallow. Buckley was realistic: "We got beat. Our effort was poor. We just didn't go after them. We just didn't want it. We didn't do anything, which is a shame, because we're a much better football team than we showed in that one."

The offense was inconsistent, racking up substantial yardage but getting mired with penalties, fumbles and dropped passes. It took the Blackbirds almost the entire first half to get into the end zone, Greg Picard carrying on a 6-yard bootleg around left end a minute and a few seconds before intermission.

Ravena, evening its record at 1-1, played a sturdy game and battled the favored visitors all the way. The effort paid off early in the fourth period when quarterback Tom Libertucci connected on a pass to Ray Sickles for a 20-yard TD that tied the score, and John Sobiecki kicked the deciding point.

The bright spots for Voorheesville were the defensive play of Mark Crisafulli and Ben Imai, and the arrival of Harris Crawford at end. Buckley is leaning toward starting Crawford, a 175-pound speedster, and Joe Traudt in the half-back slots against Tamarac, with Sean O'Connor and Picard rounding out the offensive backfield.

The Blackbirds should be favorites on Saturday. Tamarac, which has played only one game and did not have a pre-season scrimmage, lost to Albany Academy, 27-0, last week. Later on there'll be Chatham and Hudson, the two teams given the best chance for the conference crown this year.

SOCCER

BC booters have busy week

Coming off a two-game split last week, Bethlehem Central's title-minded soccer team had three tough tests on the schedule this week, two of them on the road.

The Eagles were booked in Guilderland Tuesday, come home today (Thursday) to face an improving Niskayuna team, and travel to Shenendehowa for a 10 a.m. contest Saturday.

That's pretty heady fare after last week's 2-1 loss to defending champion Burnt Hills and a smooth 4-1 triumph over Mohonasen.

Coach Dale Walts made some changes in assignments after the disappointing setback by undefeated Burnt Hills. "We didn't play well and we were bunching too much. If we had been as aggressive as we had to be, we'd have done better," he said.

The shifts seemed to have worked, for the passing was a lot sharper against Mohonasen Friday, the angles were better, and the Eagles had more spaces to put a man or the ball in. The visitors got a goal in the first three minutes, and it took the Eagles until 3:10 of the second period to square it. Jay Guinn got the equalizer on a pass from Wayne Allen.

Three minutes later Mike Fasulo headed a clearing shot to Dave Usher on the wing and Usher drove it home. Dean got No. 3 at close range from Allen to make it 3-1 at the half, and Usher connected in the third period with Dean getting the assist.

BC was 2-1 going into this week's schedule. Usher, who got the only goal against Burnt Hills, was the scoring leader with three goals and two assists. Dean had three goals and one assist. Allen three assists, and Guinn and Craig Nichols one goal apiece.

Pike garden on TV

Saturday is the day the national public television network will focus on the three best amateur gardens in America.

One of them is the spectacular garden of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Pike of Elsmere, who hope local people will vote for them in the nationwide contest conducted by the producers of the Crockett's Victory Garden program.

Air time is 12:30 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 29, on Channel 17.

HESITATION CAN BE COSTLY

Once you put real estate on the market, you have to make up your mind to move when the right offer comes. Your asking price should come pretty close to your selling price if you have priced your property realistically. The right offer may be your first offer, and if you turn it down, you may never get another good one.

However, the offer should be a written one—the only kind that has any real significance and on which you can depend.

Just remember that a legitimate offer should be accompanied by a good-sized check depending on the selling price.

Never accept a verbal promise and take your property off the market. The next day, a good sale may be lost if you are tied up in this type of questionable transaction. You'll never have to worry about this situation arising if the sale of your property is in the hands of a Realtor.

Political move?

Editor, The Spotlight:

In response to an article in the Spotlight's Sept. 13 issue about the town of New Scotland's highway system paving an extra mile of roads, I would like to know more about this.

It said in the article New Scotland's five-year road program budgeted at $100,000 a year was able to stay within guide lines for only two years, the other three years (or the past three years) inflation has cut the program down almost a third. Now I think everybody can understand this, as the whole country has been running away with inflation. This year which has been the worst inflationary year of our history, the highway superintendent has paved an extra mile of highways, more than he has paved in any of the past three years. My confusion leads to this question, being he did not have funds to do what was purposed in the budget, where did the funds come from for this large project?

It's an election year, and I'm sure the voters are happy about this, but let's not be carried away by the beauty of two resurfaced roads, as sometimes we lose the beauty of the woods by the trees.
