BETHLEHEM

Campaign countdown starts with 'candidates night'

A local election campaign that has just recently hit full stride starts down the home stretch this week with a Meet the Candidates Night, to be followed by a debate.

A public-service program sponsored by the Bethlehem unit of the League of Women Voters Friday night, Oct. 19, will mark the only time during the 1979 campaign that Bethlehem voters will have the opportunity to see and hear their local candidates on the same podium.

The League-sponsored "candidates' night" is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. this Friday at Bethlehem Library. Candidates for major offices on the slates of both parties will make brief statements and field questions from the audience.

The two candidates for supervisor, challenger Ken Thacher, Democrat, and incumbent Tom Corrigan, Republican, will meet face-to-face in a mini-debate Monday night as part of a Kiwanis Club program that is open to the public. The Kiwanians have moved up the starting time of their regular weekly dinner meeting at LaCasa Restaurant, Selkirk, in order to start the debate promptly at 6:45 p.m. The session will last only 45 minutes to permit Corrigan to keep a previous commitment that evening.

Members of the Bethlehem Central Key Club, the high school civic leadership organization sponsored by Kiwanis, will attend with their fathers as guests of the Kiwanis Club.

A Kiwanis spokesman said any interested citizens will be welcome to join the after-dinner program and hear the candidates, starting at 6:45 p.m.

The Friday night candidates session at the library will feature a number of other candidates in addition to Thacher and Corrigan. The League sponsored a similar program during the last local campaign in 1977, and earlier this year sponsored a Candidates Night for seven local residents running for three seats on the Bethlehem Central board of education last May.

The Bethlehem police department became the first tenants of the new town hall last week. The police radio, shown here with Sgt. Richard Vanderbilt at the console, was moved and reinstated in less than five hours while patrols used a portable radio system. Included in the moving operation was the town justice court.

Thacher hits 'inaction' on youth bureau

Bethlehem's political campaign, suffering from a lack of issues in what has become a contest of personalities, produced two press statements this week on the subject of youth. It also produced a letter to Vox Pop in this issue of the Spotlight (see page 46).

Kenelm R. Thacher, Democratic party leader running for supervisor against incumbent Republican Tom Corrigan, accused his opponent of "failing to provide leadership in developing programs to combat the problems of our youth." In an unrelated news release on the same general subject, Delmar attorney Peter C. Wenger, Republican candidate for town justice, proposed "a program to open the justice court to young persons in order to tear down the barriers between the people and the judicial system."

In the fourth in a weekly series of press statements on planks in his five-point program, Thacher said there is "still no action by the town board" three years after a citizen committee survey on youth problems had been submitted by the town board to the New York State Division of Youth. Thacher said that although the state agency had approved the survey, the town administration has not acted on it.

"I think we need a youth bureau," Thacher said. "If Bethlehem spent $30,000, it would be reimbursed $15,000 by the state."

The Democratic challenger suggested that a youth bureau executive director "could direct, organize and program" a community-wide action program with the help of interested citizens. The bureau, he said, would work with police, the school system and various social agencies to provide programs.

Wenger termed the American court system "an enigma" to the public, and declared it "must share in the blame for the statistical increase in juvenile crime and vandalism." He added:

"One of the best ways to gain respect for something is to learn about it. A mutual understanding between the justice court and our Bethlehem youth, and a greater respect for the law will be achieved by opening the court to our students and their teachers. By exposing young people to actual court procedures, their eyes will be opened to reality, in contrast to the often distorted view they obtain from the media.

"Very few of our youngsters have seen an actual trial, a sentencing, or even criminal detention facilities. They have little practical knowledge of our court system and, tragically, the judiciary has done little to correct this situation. All too often the first insight comes after a brush with the law, and then it's too late."

Craft fair scheduled

The Helderberg Business and Professional Women's Club is sponsoring a Heritage Craft Fair Nov. 3 at the Voorheesville Elementary School, Rt. 85A. The fair will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Booths may be obtained for a fee by contacting Ruth Briggs, 16 No. Grandview Terr., Voorheesville, 765-3117.

Thacher's 2 hats

Kenelm R. Thacher, Bethlehem's Democratic leader, says he will step aside as party chairman if he is successful in his campaign for town supervisor.

"I campaigned against the two-hats concept with Mr. Kohinke, and I still believe the same way," he declared this week.

Thacher ran for supervisor in 1969 against Bertram E. Kohinke, then supervisor and Republican town chairman.

BETHLEHEM

Art group plans a juried show

The Bethlehem Art Assn. is finalizing plans for its annual juried art show for members at Bethlehem Library, which will run from Nov. 4 to Nov. 30. Fred LeBrun, executive art editor of the Albany Times-Union will be juror.

A reception will be held at the library Nov. 4 from 2 to 4 p.m. Entries will be received on Oct. 30 from 2 to 7 p.m., with an entry fee of $1. Work not accepted by the juror must be picked up Nov. 1 or Nov. 2.

Membership in the association is $10, senior citizens and students $5. Information, 439-5051 or 463-5067.

Garden club active

The Helderview Garden Club is launching a new season at a meeting tonight (Thursday) with a program welcoming all those interested in joining the club. The meeting will start at 7:30 at the Albany County Cooperative Extension on Martin Rd., Voorheesville. For information, call Trudy Caldon, first vice president, 765-4123.

Other new officers are JoAnn Donahue, president; Shirley Greene, second vice president; Andrea Person, third vice president; Betsy Fuglein, secretary, and Rose Symula, treasurer. Third District officers include Lorraine Smith, co-chairman, and Mary Maybee, director.

The club, which meets monthly, provides schools with plantings, the village of Voorheesville and the New Scotland town park with flower boxes, and helps a needy family in the community celebrate the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

Winners in the club's flower show last June were Betsy Fuglein, Pat Colfer, Rose Symula, JoAnn Donahue, Marie Gianatasio, Shirley Greene and Evelyn Berger.

Wenzel to step down as mayor

After 10 years as mayor of Voorheesville, Bill Wenzel thinks it's time to turn over the reins of village government to a new leader.

Wenzel said this week he will give up the mayor's job if he is successful in his election campaign for a seat on the New Scotland town board. Although Wenzel declined to say what he would do if he is not elected councilman, his close friends indicate he will not seek a sixth term as mayor next March.

The popular mayor is running for the council on the Republican ticket along with incumbent Wyman Osterhout against Kenneth Tice, also an incumbent, and Sharon Boehlke, the Democratic nominees. The race is expected to be one of the closest in recent years, jeopardizing the New Scotland GOP's slim 3-2 voting edge on the town board.

Wenzel, who earlier had been quoted as saying he believed he could "serve the village just as well as a representative on the town board," declared this week that "I really don't believe one individual should hold both seats."

The mayor discounted the fears of several Republican committeemen that some Voorheesville residents appreciative of Wenzel's leadership in the village would vote against him in the town elections in November with the purpose of keeping him in the mayor's post.

"We have talent and competence in the village and on the village board," he said. "The village government is in excellent shape and will stay that way. I can represent the same people on the town board if elected."

Wenzel's fifth two-year term as mayor expires next March. During his tenure, the trustees have been able to reduce taxes three times, but Wenzel says there may not be any more cuts in the near future. "We've cut taxes to where the objective is to hold the line. I don't think there's room to go further in today's inflationary economy."

VOORHEESVILLE

Ghouls and spooks to haunt hall

A 100-year-old weather-beaten church sitting atop a hill will be the site of untold terrors beginning Oct. 26. More than 150 teenagers will transform the structure on Pleasant St. in Voorheesville into an eerily lit haven for assorted ghosts and goblins.

Last year 3,000 people toured the Haunted Church, enabling the St. Matthew's Youth Group to pay for dances, hayrides and field trips all year long. This year, with the help of Siena college drama department, the ghoulish event promises to be more spine-tingling and more successful—than ever.

The church will be haunted Friday from 6 to 9, Saturday from 4 to 9 and Sunday from 2 to 8. Admission is 50 cents.

Dowerskill goes on auction block

A New York bank is foreclosing on more than 200 acres of unsold land in Dowerskill Village, a planned residential development off Rt. 9W in Selkirk whose backers have run out of funds.

The land and easements on approximately 254 acres, including more than 25 dwelling units in various stages of construction, were scheduled to go on the auction block in Albany on Tuesday of this week. The action was taken by Citibank, N.A. against Dowerskill Village Associates and a long list of contractors.

Bethlehem town hall sources said the property has had two changes of ownership in the past year.

In the first section of the planned development, 34 houses of the 40 one-family dwellings completed are currently occupied by individual owners. Twenty of the 25 townhouse units also have been completed.

Meanwhile, five unfinished townhouses and other structures remain unfinished amid weeds and piles of fill. Further drainage work is needed, but there has been no construction work done at the site during the past season.

Four streets in the development and a section of a fifth have been accepted by the town and are maintained by town highway crews. They are Hague Blvd., Windmill Dr., Patroon Pl., Wilhelmina Way and part of Amsterdam Ave., all of which have sewer, water, gas, electric and cable television hookups.

Charged with burglary

William J. Campbell, 19, of 264 Kenwood Ave., Elsmere, was arrested on a burglary charge while facing a similar charge at another Elsmere store, according to Bethlehem police. Campbell was in Bethlehem justice court Thursday night charged in a July 10 break-in at the Delmar Beverage Center when he was arrested by Det. Charles Rudolph on a warrant charging him with breaking into the Delaware Plaza Liquor Store on July 9 and stealing $60 worth of merchandise. He was arraigned before Justice Roger Fritts and released to his attorney.

3 town buildings going on market

Bethlehem town board members have authorized Supervisor Tom Corrigan to put up for sale three town properties deemed expendable with the impending move to a new town hall in Delmar.

The buildings are the former justice building at 118 Adams St. vacated last week by the town court and police department, the community center facility across the street at 125 Adams, and a small garage building on Hudson Ave. vacated by the sewer department. Corrigan said he would place legal notices in newspapers next week calling for sealed bids and setting a date for the bid openings. He said the timetable would cover three to four weeks to enable prospective purchasers to arrange for appraisals and bank financing. An appraisal conducted last April fixed the values of the three properties at $66,500 for the justice building, $42,000 for the community center and $21,500 for the garage facility. The purchaser of the latter property, which is located in a Residential-B zone, may require action by the board of appeals for commercial use. The other two buildings are in an area zoned commercial.

The police and court moved last Wednesday to their new accommodations in the former Delmar grade school at Delaware and Borthwick Ave. Functions currently using the community center building, including Senior Citizens programs, blood pressure clinics, Cub Scouts and karate classes, will be moving to expanded facilities in the gymnasium of the former Delmar school when renovations for the new town hall are completed in the next two to three months.

Welcome wagon speaker

Marion Rhodes, president of the board of directors of the Schenectady Symphony, will speak at the second Tri-Village Welcome Wagon luncheon of the fall season on Oct. 30 at the Normanside Country Club. String players from the orchestra will play chamber music selections.

Board adopts budget as is

A town budget for 1980 that Supervisor Steve Wallace describes as "the tightest possible" will go to New Scotland townspeople Wednesday, Oct. 24, for a public hearing.

The town board formally adopted a preliminary budget of $928,517 without making any cuts that affected the total following a Tuesday morning working session at the town hall last week. The five-man board, three of whose members are involved in reelection contests in the current campaign, has a political complexion of three Republicans and two Democrats.

The only change from the tentative budget announced in a Spotlight report two weeks ago was an appropriation of $4,000 for the justice court to provide expanded secretarial help for the town's two judges burdened with an increasing case load. Because of a protest raised by Justice Donald Chase of Feura Bush, whose clerical assistance was cut off when the current budget allocation was exhausted by Sept. 14, Wallace proposed an increase from $2,000 in the current appropriation.

The mandated public hearing has been set for 7 p.m. on Wednesday, marking the first time in many years the budget hearing has been held before Election Day.

"There are no secrets in this budget," said Wallace in response to a reporter's query as to the early date for the public hearing. "We believe in being open about the whole operation of the town, and if anyone wants to make a political issue of any of the items, they're welcome."

The proposed 1980 New Scotland budget projects an estimated tax rate of $31.14 for property owners in the town, up from the present $27.32, and for those in the village of Voorheesville an increase from $17.65 to $19.05. The rates are for each $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Wallace attributed a major portion of the increase to the fact that "we cut our spending back so deeply a year ago that we are running the risk of borderline balances due to the rising rate of inflation." He said that the increase in the total budget "is necessary if we are to maintain basic services and still keep the tax rate to a minimum." The new budget incorporates a 7 percent raise for town employees as well as provisions for higher insurance rates and a 44 percent jump in funds for the town landfill.

added teaching to his composition and musical performances.

The program is made possible in part through a grant from Meet the Composer, with support from the New York State Council on the Arts, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Martha Baird Rockefeller Fund for Music, NL Industries Foundation, Inc., Exxon Corp. and the New York Community Trust. Board studying town pay hike Employees of the town of Bethlehem are virtually certain of getting a pay raise next year. The only question is: how much?

Town board members are scrutinizing the tentative town budget this week preparatory to adopting a preliminary document at the board's regular meeting next Wednesday. If the board is able to make any cuts, they will be reflected in the figures that will be given to the voters at a public hearing in town hall on Nov. 7.

Supervisor Tom Corrigan said the board is looking at the numbers carefully in order to factor in a pay increase for the town's 120 employees. The only employees not affected by the prospective raise are members of the police force, who are due for a 6½-percent boost for the second year of the town's two-year contract with the Bethlehem Police Benevolent Assn., the department's bargaining unit.

Corrigan said the pay raise for police is included in the budget line for that department, which goes to $701,000 from the present $601,000. At a meeting of the town board earlier this month, Councilman Edward Mocker criticized the police budget, stating that the budget had been increased from $500,000 to $700,000, and charging that overtime pay totals were "ridiculous" despite an increase in the force from 25 to 30 members.

Corrigan said the net overtime is down approximately 2,000 hours, or 24 percent below last year's total.

THE WALKING CANDIDATE

Bethlehem Democratic Town Councilman Joe Feller (L) greets Mrs. "Mickey" Santiago (R) on his walking campaign. Feller said, "This is the only way a Democratic candidate can get his message across to the Bethlehem voters. Since I started my campaign, I've stopped at more than 3,300 homes and walked over 600 miles throughout the Town . . . I've gained a lot of knowledge about the concerns of the Town's residents. Voters in the town care about:

Zoning Issues—As Councilman I would introduce legislation that would eliminate the practice of granting variances and ensure a standard policy and enforcement of zoning regulations in commercial areas

Highway Safety—As Councilman I would push for stop signs, yield signs, red lights, street lighting, and speed zones wherever they are needed for the protection of all our citizens

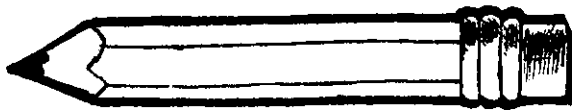

Spiraling Taxes—As Councilman I would seek to put a lid on future spending and eliminate wasted tax dollars wherever I might find them

Juvenile Delinquency and Vandalism—As Councilman I would seek federal dollars for the establishment of prevention programs as well as the development of a Youth Bureau for better meeting the needs of our youth

Home Heating Tax—As Councilman I would encourage the Town to go on record to repeal the sales tax on home heating fuel, as well as provide a subsidy to those on a fixed income."

Voters—I need your help on Election Day. Elect Joe Feller Councilman.

Bethlehem needs a two party system!

Judge gets his secretary back

A town judge's complaint that the town of New Scotland had cut his part-time secretary from the payroll because of lack of funds got grudging but prompt action in town hall last week.

In the process of a working session on the town's proposed 1980 budget last Tuesday morning, Supervisor Steve Wallace was able to cull a $750 appropriation from contingency funds to put Justice Donald L. Chase's clerical assistant back on the job. The mathematical gyration received the unanimous approval of the five-man town board, on which the Republicans hold a slim 3-2 margin.

The board also approved an increase in the 1980 appropriations for the justice court from the current $2,000 to $4,000. Wallace and Chase agreed the boost was necessary because of an increasing case load in the court, held weekly in the town hall on Rt. 85.

In a rare appearance before the town board, Chase two weeks ago made a direct appeal for restoration of his secretarial service, contending that he had "a large backlog" of cases. He also indicated that Kenneth Connolly of Voorheesville, his fellow justice who is serving an interim appointment while seeking a full four-year term on the bench in the November elections, would also need help from the part-time secretary next year.

Union National is pleased to announce that its holding company has changed its name to Irving Bank Corporation.

For the past 13 years, our holding company has been known officially as Charter New York Corporation.

Even so, people would frequently refer to it by the name of its principal affiliate: Irving Trust Company.

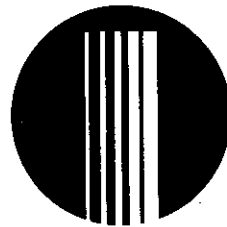

So our holding company's name change recognizes reality. What was merely convenient before is now official.

A word about our new corporate symbol. It's shown at the base of this ad. While the eye may see in our new symbol a variety of things, it is not really complex. The round shape can be perceived to represent our global operations. The vertical lines in the center convey strength, as in a Greek or Roman column, or indeed may be construed as an abstraction of our world headquarters building located at One Wall Street, New York City. The lines themselves may serve as a reminder of the letter "I" as in our name, or the numeral "1" as in our address.

Statewide—Nationwide—Worldwide. Irving Bank Corporation, through its subsidiaries, has 137 banking offices in New York State, and does business throughout the U.S. and in more than 120 countries.

Energy survey for homeowners

A community program, "The Home Energy Check: A Search For Savings," will be presented at the Bethlehem Public Library, Wednesday, Oct. 24, at 7:30 by the Delmar Progress Club.

Parker D. Mathusa, program director of the New York State Energy Research and Development Authority, will discuss the pros and cons of various sources of energy available to the homeowner. There will be a slide presentation showing how to make a step-by-step check of home energy efficiency and a question and answer period. Home improvements that can significantly reduce fuel consumption and thus utility bills will be outlined.

"Many of the measures you can take are relatively inexpensive and easy to do yourself," says Mrs. Maynard E. Goyer, social service committee chairman of the club. "They pay for themselves in a few years—and after that, it's permanent savings year after year."

Those attending will receive checklists with which they can conduct an energy check of their own home, pinpointing areas for energy and dollar savings. The club is promoting energy check to help families control rising fuel bills and to conserve national energy resources. Members working on the project under the chairmanship of Mrs. Goyer are Mrs. Henrik N. Dullea, Mrs. Arthur F. Jones, Mrs. Frederick F. Kirk and Mrs. Parker D. Mathusa.

In addition, through the month of October, there is a display of information on energy at the library, set up by the club members.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Pike of Elsmere, center, were recipients of the Horticulture Achievement Award presented by the Men's Garden Club of Albany. Making the presentation were Carroll Greenman, left, award chairman, and club president Al Miller.

Joy of STITCHING

by ELSA WILLIAMS

A FRESH LOOK AT CROSS STITCH

Chances are that you've often embroidered stamped Cross stitch designs but never thought of it as a Counted stitch. With the growing popularity of counted thread embroidery, this may be exactly the right time to take a fresh look at Cross stitch and the new decorative horizons it presents.

Remember how annoying it could be when you carefully embroidered Cross stitches over a stamped pattern? Somehow the X's were never perfect and no matter how hard you tried, your stitches were never precisely symmetrical.

But done on even-weave linen, your Cross stitches can be as even as the threads of the fabric. What's more, liberated from the need to follow someone else's design, you're free to create or adapt any kind of pattern.

Try your hand first with a linen of medium — or even coarse — weave so your eyes won't become too strained. Since I find Cross stitching for a long period of time a little trying on the eyes, I generally keep another piece of embroidery in progress so I can switch when my eyes tire.

Lettering is a Cross stitch natural and a squared alphabet presents no problems at all because you don't even have to plot curves. Draw a favorite saying on graph paper. Count the number of squares in each line. Then count the number of threads to the inch in your linen. In this way you can be sure of centering the letters on the fabric.

One of my own favorites — you can find it in my Needle Art collection — is "Today is the first day of the Rest of my Life." I've shown it in Tent stitch on canvas but it would be just as effective worked in Cross stitch on linen.

You can set it off with a Cross-stitched border, first plotted on graph paper and then counted as you work it.

A Greek key pattern that's simple and angular with no curves to figure, is also very effective worked in Cross stitch. The same goes for three lines of Cross stitches, in varying colors, which intersect at the corners of a frame.

Another distinctive effect consists of simple lines of Cross stitches in a monochromatic color scheme. You might work a line of Cross stitches in rose, then two linen or canvas threads above this, work a paler shade of rose Cross stitches. You'll find this adds depth to the border.

Try your own experiments with Cross stitches but remember ALWAYS, that the second stitch which completes the X must be in the same direction in every stitch for a smooth, neat look.

Dear Elsa,
How can I transfer a design to linen?

R. McL.

Dear R. McL.,
First trace your design on tracing paper with a medium hard pencil. If you have difficulty in seeing the lines, work against a lighted surface such as a window pane or a glass topped table. Using the medium hard pencil again, retrace your design over the linen fabric with a sheet of plastic-coated carbon paper (you'll find this at an office supply store) between the linen and the tracing paper. A hard lead pencil may rip the tracing paper while too soft a lead produces a thick, easily blurred line. That's why it's best to use a medium hard pencil.

Slingerlands firemen popped a few eyeballs at Slingerlands School when they used a special rescue device to pry doors and the roof from a car body.

Spotlight

Firemen give kids an eyeful

The Slingerlands Rescue Squad paid a visit to the Slingerlands Elementary School last week, but while they appeared in their professional capacities, there was no emergency. John Longley, Jim McCarroll, Walt Roberts and Dave Veltman were there to demonstrate rescue techniques—including the “jaws of life” that pries apart crushed automobiles—and show two fire trucks to 12 classes.

The Rescue Squad puts on similar demonstrations each year, but with different “twists” each time. This year they towed in a battered automobile and gradually pried off the doors, tore off the hood, and cut up the roof before the widened eyes of each group of children.

After the long day, the car lay in ruins and the Rescue Squad was done in, but the children could appreciate the efforts of a valuable service in Slingerlands.

OLD-FASHIONED TASTE COMES IN SMALL PACKAGES

Remembering the good, old-fashioned taste of tapioca pudding can be realized—that delicious flavor comes in a convenient package of Jell-O Americana vanilla tapioca pudding. You can dress up the basic mixture with a bit of brown sugar and an egg yolk. More brown sugar flavors the beaten egg white which is used to form dollops of meringue. A quick baking browns the meringue and this Butterscotch Tapioca Pudding is ready to serve.

BUTTERSCOTCH TAPIOCA PUDDING

- 1 package (3-1/4 oz.) vanilla tapioca pudding
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 cups milk
- 1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 egg white
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons pecan halves, split

Combine pudding mix and 2 tablespoons brown sugar in saucepan. Stir in milk and egg yolk, blending well. Add butter. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat; pour into 1-quart baking dish. Beat egg white until foamy throughout. Gradually beat in 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Continue beating until mixture will form stiff peaks. Drop by spoonfuls onto pudding; arrange nuts on meringue. Bake at 425° for about 5 minutes, or until meringue is lightly browned. Serve warm. Makes 5 servings.

This is 'week of truth' for booters

By tonight (Thursday) Bethlehem Central's varsity soccer team will know pretty well where they will stand when the Suburban Council season winds up next month.

Despite a disappointing 1-1 tie with Mohonasen, the Eagles entered their most critical week of the season clinging to third place with a 7-3-1 mark, trailing the league's two powerhouses, Guilderland and Burnt Hills. The biggest test was scheduled for Tuesday with Guilderland in Delmar, followed by a trip to Niskayuna today and a date with Shenendehowa Saturday at 2 p.m.

Last week could have been better. After registering their third straight shutout in a 1-0 win over Shaker at home Thursday, the Eagles had their scoreless streak fractured on a penalty kick resulting from a controversial call at Rotterdam.

Bethlehem was leading, 1-0, with nine minutes left in the game when an official called a foul on a scramble for the ball. BC Coach Dale Walts questioned the call, which he felt was outside the penalty area, and two Mohonasen players, preparing to take a direct kick, were also surprised by the whistle. The kick was good and knotted the score.

Earlier, Mark Dean had booted home his 12th goal, tops in the league, with an assist from Mike Fasulo at 11:35 of the third period. But most significant was the fact that despite the penalty kick, Mohonasen outplayed the Eagles.

"It was the first time in a long time we've been outplayed," Walts said later. "They out-shot us, 25-18, and their goalie had only seven saves to 18 for ours."

That meant a busy day in the nets for BC's two keepers, Ed Gilligan and Wes Hotaling.

Wayne Allen got the goal that beat Shaker. It was his second of the year and it came at 6:41 of the first period. Allen has seven assists. In that game, Bethlehem had 25 shots on goal to 11 for the Blue Bison, and Gilligan nine saves to 19 for the keeper at the other end.

BC frustration: costly mistakes

Just when Bethlehem Central's beleaguered football team was about to win its first Suburban Council game of the season, disaster struck in the form of four fumbles, two of them inside the Colonie 5-yard line.

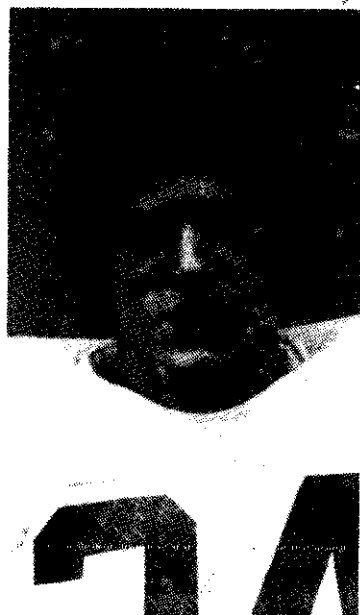

As a result, the scoreboard posted a final score of 14-0 for the host Colonie team, a defeat BC Coach Gene FitzPatrick calls "the toughest of all the losses so far." The Eagles, whose only win in five outings was a non-league affair, have not scored a touchdown in their four conference games.

Long after the Colonie scrap was history, FitzPatrick was still brooding. "I still think we could have won that game," he said. "I think we were the better team, but I'm confident we can pick up the pieces and get on the track."

They have a good chance Saturday at Niskayuna. The Warriors have been inconsistent and stand 2-3. FitzPatrick plans no changes in his cast, but, as usual, will put the emphasis this week on offense, which now is being built around Mike Lawrence.

At Colonie, Lawrence ran for 101 yards and caught the only pass the Eagles were able to complete. The big halfback, however, got most of that acreage on the inside.

"We're working on getting him outside, and we've still got to get some passing going," said the coach. "Our defense was superb against both runs and passes. Two letdowns hurt us, one on a long pass, one on a long run, and each led to a touchdown."

Mike Lawrence

FitzPatrick praised the defensive work of Karl Dankert, Pete Roberts, Joe Erlichman and Joe Thompson on the front line and Roger Smith and Butch Waidelich as linebackers. When they're in there, the yards come hard for opposing runners.

But it was the four fumbles that did the most damage. Two of them came inside Colonie's 5-yard line, although one was on a fourth-and-goal situation that was short of the end zone.

Mike Whitney ran for three touchdowns, one on a 65-yard scamper, and threw to Pat Tangora for a 25-yard scoring play as the Bethlehem Falcons blistered Watervliet, 30-0, in a Pop Warner PeeWee Division game at the Middle School field in Delmar Sunday. It was the third win for the Falcons against two losses and a tie. Dave Wetra tallied the other TD on a 30-yard run with a pitchout. The Falcons travel to Rensselaer Sunday.

In the second half of the doubleheader, the Bethlehem Eagles suffered a frustrating 12-0 setback at the hands of Rotterdam in the Junior Mid-get Division. The Eagles drove 65 yards to the Rotterdam 2 as the clock ran out in the first half. Rotterdam scored on a 45-yard pass-run with 5 seconds left in the game. The Eagles play at South Glens Falls next.

Blackbirds again make it look hard

One of these autumn Saturdays, Voorheesville Central's football varsity will start with a bang, run up a lead at half-time and let the other guys play catch-up football.

This season the Blackbirds have developed a habit of giving up early scores and then fighting the clock. This behavior is making Coach Tom Buckley's gray hairs turn prematurely white and has raised the blood pressure of the team's loyal followers.

Last Saturday Voorheesville did it again. They trailed Taconic Hills, 6-0, with the game barely four minutes old. There was less than two minutes to go in the first half when Greg Picard threw a strike to Joe Traudt on a counter pass to the right after faking a sweep to the left on the 11-yard line. Traudt's diving catch in the end zone climaxed a 55-yard drive that the spectators had to watch with one eye on the clock.

True to character, the Blackbirds waited till late in the fourth quarter to unravel the 6-6 tie. Again they travelled half the length of the field, only to cough up a fumble on the 2. But the defense, a major factor all day, held, and Voorheesville got the ball back on the Taconic 25. A couple of passes, a few short runs and Picard connected with Don Kinisky for a seven-yard scoring play. Kinisky drifted to the left, took the throw on the 2 and stepped into the promised land. Picard tried the same play for the conversion, but it didn't work.

Picard went 7-for-21 for 92 yards with one interception, but on defense had two interceptions himself. Chris Clark had a brilliant day, averaging 39 yards on five punts, including a 51-yarder and a 42-yarder that made up for one that squirted only 10 yards. John Kiernozek, defensive tackle, anchored a strong defense, aided by Steve Preston, who assisted on 11 tackles. Kinisky, who helped on 12 others, had one unassisted tackle and a sack.

This week it's Averill Park away, the last test before Chatham comes to the Helderbergs. "We expect another close game," pronounced Buckley. "Our offense is still inconsistent, but we're working on it."

Jim Becker is a questionable starter with a bruised shoulder, but Mike SanGiorgi, hit on the leg trying to kick an extra point that was blocked, should be ready for duty.

TENNIS

BC girls alive in Sectionals

In numbers alone, Bethlehem Central is well on its way to dominating the girls' varsity Section 2 tennis tournament.

In an event where each school is permitted to send three singles players and three doubles teams, the Eagles have placed two singles players in the round of 16 and may have the third when an interrupted match is completed. They also have propelled two doubles teams into the round of 16.

That's a strong showing in a large tournament that has 64 entries in each draw. But bad weather prevented finishing the shootout, which causes problems because the team Sectionals get underway at Central Park, Schenectady, this week with BC the defending champion.

In the individual Sectionals, No. 2 seeded Molly Treadway and up-and-coming sophomore Ann Weber advanced to the third round as No. 9 seeded Debbi DiClementi's match with Suzanne Mott of Columbia was halted by rain with Debbi leading 3-1 in the third set.

In the doubles, where the Eagles had two of the 13 seeded teams among the 64, Kathy Bragaw-Judy VanWoert (No. 5) and Beth Netter-Randi Frank (No. 7) won their first two matches and have a shot at the quarterfinals Saturday.

Meanwhile, Bethlehem was scheduled to play the winner of the Saratoga-Linton match in the team Sectionals, which involve most of the same players. The Eagles completed their regular schedule undefeated at 9-0 and clinched the Suburban Council championship with a 7-2 win over Burnt Hills, the only team to beat them last year. As testimony to the depth of Coach Tom Walencik's young team, Bethlehem lost Nos. 1 and 2 singles and swept the other seven matches.

Camera club to meet

The Delmar Camera Club meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 23 will feature a travelog by Fredericka Florant on her trip to Portugal last summer at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church parish hall, Elsmere starting at 7:30. Bob Andersen will conduct a workshop on camera control. Visitors are welcome and refreshments will be available.

Media Rare

An occasional Spotlight
commentary on the world of radio, TV and newspapers

by Nat Boynton

For a few brief hours, Delmar was host on Saturday to a cadre of top-flight newspapermen of the "old school," the kind of meticulous reporters and writers who knew what and where the important stories were and how to turn over every stone and pebble in the pursuit thereof.

They came to pay last respects to one of their own, Emmet O'Brien, who died here last week at 69. For 30 years, Emmet O'Brien drove to the stately if not always sightly Capitol in Albany from the house on Fernbank Ave. where he and Peggy brought up their three sons. In the Capitol press room on the third floor, piled and littered with newspapers, manuals, reference books, legislative bills and press releases, Emmet wrote the clear, expressive prose that thousands of readers of the Knickerbocker News came to depend upon.

Emmet O'Brien had that rare combination of qualities and talent that established him as one of the most professional of the Capitol's press corps. He was a good reporter and a fine writer. He had a deep knowledge of the Legislature and the intricate relationships of its committees and commissions. He knew and was known to governors, commissioners, political chieftains and several generations of senators and assemblymen. He knew what legislation they were pushing, who was pushing them and why, and how to give his readers the proper perspective on the shennanigans that go on in the supposedly hallowed halls of government in that huge pile of masonry atop State St. hill.

As chief of the Rochester-based Gannett Newspapers' Albany Bureau, Emmet wrote for a string of upstate dailies that placed heavy emphasis on interpretive legislative reporting. In its hey-day in the Forties, Fifties and Sixties, the Albany Knickerbocker News was the pivotal paper in the Gannett group, carrying copy from the typewriters of Emmet O'Brien, Dave Beetle and Arvis Chalmers. Arvis, who came down from the Ogdensburg Journal as a young reporter and took five years to develop the sources that have made him a frontrunner today, now becomes the sole survivor of that wonderful journalistic legacy.

On top of all this, Emmet O'Brien had a subtle sense of humor. His wry remarks and tongue-in-cheek anecdotes of ambitious politicians, their cliques, their candidacies and their tactics never failed to draw chuckles from fellow newsmen in the corridors or around the after-deadline poker table tucked on "the shelf" mezzanine of the cluttered press section on the third floor. If his remarks occasionally were unflattering, it was because the politician he was talking about had perpetrated some ludicrous maneuver or committed a strategic blunder that deserved a sarcastic comment.

Emmet's unquenchable spirit and appreciation of the lighter side of life and labor led him to prominent roles year after year in the Legislative Correspondents Assn.'s grid-iron show that annually pokes jest and often deep jabs at the Albany political scene in skits and songs. This spring, in declining health he once again joined the cast of the Capitol press corps for their on-stage spoof.

He was, he said, "just a spear-carrier," but he revelled in the reunion with his old colleagues and the mixed young crowd that now battles the late-edition deadlines on The Hill.

The skies were gray and thick on Saturday morning when some of the old newsmen gathered at St. Thomas Church in their own personal tribute at Emmet's funeral. Harry O'Donnell, once of the AP and since regarded as the top political PR authority of all time in this state, came up from his retirement home in Elmira. Ed Hale, ex-editor-publisher of the Lake Placid News now free-lancing for the Watertown Times in his incomparable writing style, down from Lake Placid, remembering Emmet's trip to Europe from the O'Brien summer retreat in Keene Valley to "sell" the Olympic committee on the Placid site. Doug Dales, who wrote for the New York Times, was there; so were Bob McManus, a fugitive from the Binghamton Sun now with EnCon; John Considine, retired from the United Press International bureau in Albany, and Charlie Dumas, once of the AP and now on the Senate staff.

Governors would have been in St. Thomas that morning if they had been able, but Tom Dewey and Nelson Rockefeller are in the Church Triumphant and Averell Hariman was on a mission abroad.

As the procession left the church to tarry briefly on Adams Pl., the sun broke through the overcast, as if in tribute to the brilliance of Emmet's career and the warmth of his personality. After the solemn part, it was time for a smile—and another anecdote.

BUSINESS

Restaurant adds bar and tables

Papa's Restaurant, known to a growing number of patrons as a "family restaurant" because it is staffed entirely by one family, has added to its dining facilities.

The restaurant at 261 Delaware Ave., Elsmere, has expanded its dining room by 12 feet on the west and by 24 feet on the east, and has installed a 26-foot L-shaped bar.

Carmen Papa came to Delmar from his native Sicily five years ago and established the small business with the help of his wife, Severina. They have now been joined by their son, Joe, and his wife, Grace. The restaurant specializes in Italian dishes, with lobster tails a favorite.

Papa's is the second restaurant within a two-block area of Elsmere to expand facilities this year. Tool's Restaurant, which also has a strong family orientation both on the staff and in its clientele, recently added a new dining room, bakery, service bar and short-order kitchen at its longtime location at 283 Delaware Ave.

Appeal to parents on 'Helping Hand'

Next week is "Helping Hand Block Parent Week" in the town of Bethlehem. The program, sponsored by the Bethlehem Junior Woman's Club, is designed to help assure the safety of children on their way to and from school.

A red Helping Hand sign in someone's window indicates to children that this is a refuge from animals, strangers, bullies, minor accidents and illnesses. The participants, who are generally at home during the times children travel to and from school, are expected only to notify the child's parents or the police or school authorities, and to comfort the child. They do not administer medication or first aid.

Town residents interested in becoming Helping Hand block parents should contact Mrs. Susan Dax, 439-7049, for an application. All applications are screened by the Bethlehem police department to assure the utmost safety.

In Glenmont, The Spotlight is sold at the 5-A Superette, Heath's Dairy and Van Allen Farms.

CURIOSITY SEEKERS

If you intend to implant a "For Sale by Owner" sign in your front yard, be prepared for the inevitable "curiosity seekers". You'll probably spend more time tramping through the house with curiosity seekers than showing it to firm prospects.

Your "For Sale by Owner" sign leaves you open to all types of people and problems. For example, a visitor may present an offer to buy on which he doesn't intend to follow through. You may make plans based on accepting it, only to learn that the "prospect" had no intention of completing the agreement.

A Realtor has the experience to unmask the insincere offer and turn it away before it does any harm. In fact, the presence of a Realtor usually will discharge any attempts of that sort. He will qualify prospects in advance and allow only those who are definitely prospective buyers—not curiosity seekers—to inspect your home.

Reply to Breslin

Editor. The Spotlight:

Mike Breslin, the Democrat candidate for town justice who omits the word Democrat from his political ads, wants to put youthful offenders and vandals to work on town jobs, and said in your Spotlight issue of Sept.
27 that "needed public works will be accomplished at virtually no cost."

I assume he will use our highway, water, sewer and recreation programs, but, pray tell, who will supervise these youthful offenders sentenced to work details, and who will be responsible to the court to report that the work sentence was performed satisfactorily?
You just don't dump this kind of supervisory detail on, say, Marty Cross, the town's competent superintendent of highways, who like me has absolutely no training in criminal justice or the duties of a warden on work detail.

Ask Mr. Breslin who will pay for the extra liability insurance, or the lawyers' fees when the court-assigned workers get hurt on the job or claim they were mistreated? Who will stop them from vandalizing the equipment they work with—a half million dollars in highway equipment alone? Who will do the paperwork or make reports to the courts or probation officers?

Convicted vandals simply don't work harmoniously with the normal, daily work force without provision, prescribed by the courts, for trained supervision. In fact, Mr. Breslin's "something for nothing" campaign gimmick could be very expensive.

Switching to gas

Editor: The Spotlight:

According to the last reports regarding the natural gas industry, we have a 10-year supply of domestic natural gas in this country.

Two years ago we had severe shortages and shutdowns of plants and schools plus increased periods for those industries and commercial buildings on the low interruptable gas rate offered by some utilities, forcing these customers to oil or propane.

Now, all of a sudden, the utilities are taking on new customers and the gas problem appears to be over.

But is it? Where did all this new gas come from?

It came from two places. The first is quantities of LNG (liquified natural gas) which is purchased in Libya and Algeria (OPEC again) and shipped to this country, turned back into a gas and inserted into our pipeline system.

The second new source is gas from the southern states which was formerly sold only in the state where the well was located and at a much higher price.

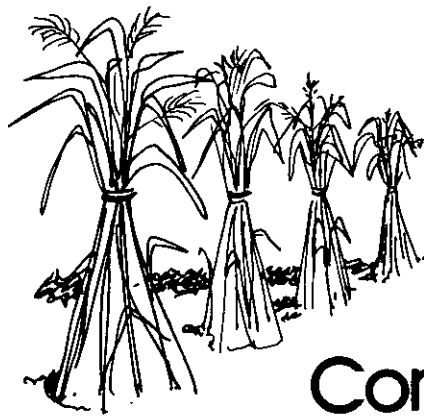

This "intra-stat" gas is now sold "interstate," again at a much higher price since the passage of the long debated natural gas law a year ago.

Natural gas prices, frozen by Congress since 1946, have been freed from price control at the wellhead and allowed to rise, along with old domestic crude oil prices until 1985 or until oil and gas achieve price parity, whichever comes first. N.Y. State gas utilities are now anticipating a 75 to 100% increase in prices for this natural gas.

This additional gas is not new gas, merely a redistribution of presently available higher priced gas from southern states to northern states, and was supposed to be used by industry who require gas for manufacturing expansion to create more jobs. Using it otherwise will only prolong our problems and dependence on OPEC.
