BETHLEHEM

Board racing sewer deadline

Bethlehem officials have moved quickly in an attempt to protect funding for the new sewer project, to guarantee that the federal funds needed to complete it will not be lost.

At a special meeting Friday afternoon, the town board decided to drop Beckers Corners from the proposed sewer installations inside and outside the present Bethlehem district, and to defer work on Hills and Dales, in North Bethlehem, yet include it in the district extension.

This would get the work underway, reducing the likelihood that there would be a petition circulated for a permissive referendum, according to Supervisor Tom Corrigan. The delay caused if this happened would probably result in the loss of federal

No Spotlight July 10

Spotlight staff members who spend each weekend getting the paper ready for press will take a holiday over the Fourth, hence there will be no issue next week, July 10. (We do the same thing Labor Day weekend, and trust our readers will give us the time off.)

The Spotlight office at 414 Kenwood Ave. will be closed on Friday, July 4, but will be open Monday through Friday on the regular hours, 8:30 to 4:30. The next deadline for news and advertising copy is Friday, July 11 for the issue of July 17.

Have a nice holiday yourselves!

Third and fourth graders at the First United Methodist Church summer school presented songs and chants accompanied by their home-made "bones" at an evening program for parents last week. funding, town officials believe.

Another meeting is being sought with state and federal officials to seek an extension of the Aug. 1 deadline for filing an application for funds set by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The actions were taken after about 20 people turned up at the town board meeting Wednesday night to raise objections to the plan to extend sewer service in the Hills and Dales area, Beckers Corners, Selkirk and Lasher Road. The South Bethlehem area had been deleted from the plans earlier.

James Lawrence made a moving plea at the meeting for the plight of the senior citizens living in the area, who, he said, could not afford to pay the taxes for the new sewer system. "How can these people pay for any additional taxes," he asked, "They are just barely surviving now."

The average cost of the sewer system to each resident will be $280-295 a year, town officials estimate. Ken Distin questioned whether this is a true figure. "This amount of money is a month's social security check for a lot of these people," he pointed out.

One of the objectors noted that a whole new septic tank only costs about $100. Corrigan responded that he was afraid that the problems in the septic situation can't be handled by individual septic tanks. They had a valid point, he admitted, and it was here that the suggestion was made that the board delay approving the sewer project for this section of the plans.

The meeting with EPA is particularly important, since the federal organization had set an Aug. 1 deadline for filing an application for aid for the $7,469,000 project. Residents may call for a permissive referendum by getting the signatures of 5 percent of the property owners in the affected area. The sewer project must be approved by the town board, and 30 days must pass without a call for a referendum by residents before it can be submitted to the federal agency.

Federal and state monies could pay for 87.5 percent of Space is offered to local groups

Non-profit organizations in Bethlehem searching for space to do their thing may solve their problem by telling the town board's ad hoc committee on the old town hall building what they need in space.

There is nearly 9,000 square feet of space in the two floors and basement of the ideally located former town hall. The three-member committee has a simple questionnaire application for interested groups now available at the new town hall office of Town Clerk Marion Camp until July 15.

Former Councilman William Johnston, Jr., with Charles A. Gunner, principal of Bethlehem Central High School, and Thomas E. (Ed) Mulligan, Jr., town historian, are meeting frequently to review and evaluate a wide assortment of ideas for use of the historical building. The structure was built in 1838 by enterprising Nathaniel Adams as a stagecoach waystation on the Albany plank road to Schoharie. Governor Marcy and his aides in 1840 stopped at Adams House enroute to Clarksville to unsuccessfully quell the rebellious farmers during the outbreak of the 30-year Anti-War.

The Adams House questionnaire is accompanied with a floor plan showing the scale of some 20 rooms or work areas available for community-wide activities.

Still preserved in the basement are the two arch-domed walk-in ovens and a room-sized walk-in cooler with metal lined shelves for ice.

The classic Greek revival structure will need some structural modification, such as a ramp for handicapped, when it is put to use again by the town, the committee said.

"We already have some excellent suggestions which have wide appeal among the town's residents, but we want everyone in town to be advised of this opportunity to contribute to the building's future use," said Johnston. "We are generally of the opinion that the best interests of the town will be served if the historical structure is utilized for a wide range of activities including, but not limited to cultural and historical activities."

Named to committee

Dr. Irving Van Woert, a Delmar resident and head of the radiology department at Child's Hospital, Albany, has been named to the radiology technology advisory committee at Hudson Valley Community College. Another Delmar man, Timothy O'Brien, who is director of institutional safety for the State Dept. of Mental Hygiene, was appointed to the advisory committee of the college's security administration program.

Musicians score on state levels

Ten musical groups in the Bethlehem Central school district recently participated in the annual New York State School Music Assn. ensemble competition. Each group selects its own competition level, from one to six with six being the most difficult, and two NYSSMA officials judge independently.

These are the ratings earned this year by the Bethlehem groups: High School Wind Ensemble, level 6, A; High School String Orchestra, level 6, A-minus; High School Choraliers, level 5, B-plus; High School Choristers, level 3, A; High School Concert Band, level 4, A-minus; High School Cadet Band, level 3, B-plus; Middle School 7-8 Orchestra, level 3, A; Middle School 6 Orchestra, level 2, B-plus; Middle School Band 8, level 2, B-plus; Middle School Band 7, level 2, A-plus.

All the BCHS participants in individual instrumental competition earned at least a B. Those who achieved the highest score possible, a level 6 A-plus, included Henry Peyrebrune, bass violin; Joel Bloom, viola; Erika Lawson, violin; and a string quartet of Erika Lawson, Elaine Hernandez, Joel Bloom and Betsy Brisee. John Rodgers earned a level 6 A on the trumpet, and level 5 A-plus scores were received by David Odenkirchen, french horn; Gretchen Brisee, viola; and Kara Gordon, piano.

Among Middle School participants, level 4 A-plus scores were earned by Paul Robinson and Jill Kaplowitz, trumpet, and Ted Harro, French Horn. Level 4 A's went to Beth Willey, oboe; Kara Mackey, French Horn, and Andrew Gordon, clarinet. Competing on level 3, the saxophone quartet of Damian Switzer, Brian Bell, James Lockman and Todd Mayers received an A-plus score. Other high level 3 scores earned were: Keven Hendrick, trumpet, A-plus; Damian Switzer, alto sax, A-plus; Jaron Bourke, bass clarinet, A; Heidi Dembling, flute, A-minus; and Janet Shaffer, Debra Dunston and Lisa Clark, clarinet trio, A-minus.

Minister assigned here

Rev. Raymond Stees, a native of Philadelphia, has been appointed as associate minister of the First United Methodist Church, Delmar. The appointment was made by Bishop W. Ralph Ward, Jr., resident bishop of the New York area of the United Methodist Church.

The son of Ernest and Dorothy Stees of Sierra Vista, Ariz., Rev. Stees is a graduate of Ohio State University and Drew University Theological Academy. He was ordained a deacon in the South Jersey Conference of the United Methodist Church in 1975.

A certified course leader in United Methodist curriculum, Rev. Stees recently concluded three years of teaching in the field of sexuality education. During his seminar training he served as youth minister of the Chatham Township Presbyterian Church, Chatham, N.J. He is presently in the doctoral program of Drew University, working in the subject area of "making responsible decisions regarding sexual behavior."

Rev. Stees performed his first function at the Delmar church Sunday, serving as liturgist for the worship service. A reception for him was held at the conclusion of the service. He will reside at 56 Wisconsin Ave., Delmar.

Businessmen see a quiet holiday

Most of the retail businesses in Bethlehem, New Scotland and Voorheesville will be open on Saturday, July 5, but local merchants aren't looking for any record-breaking sales volume.

"This is usually the deadest weekend of the year," sighed one Elsmere shopowner. "A lot of people are away or they're doing other things."

Several businesses will observe shortened hours on Friday, and drug stores and most restaurants will be open on the usual hours.

If you're planning to do any banking, better get it done before closing time today (Thursday) unless you're a depositor at City and County Savings Bank or Manufacturers Hanover Bank and Trust Co. Their Bethlehem offices will be the only banks open Saturday within a wide radius. City and County will be celebrating the opening of their new building during the day Saturday. All other banks are closing for the three-day weekend.

Post offices will be closed Friday but open Saturday. The same schedule applies to mail deliveries.

You might have to look around for a gas station that's open, but chances are it won't be a total shutdown. Several gas dealers plan to close their pumps Friday and several may curtail their weekend hours. But there'll be no shortage of gas, and there have been no indications so far of the price jump that most major oil companies traditionally declare at the start of the summer for touring vacationers.

Road race July 4

The town of Bethlehem and Courtside Tennis/Sportshoes of Delmar will co-sponsor a road race for amateurs as a part of the town's Family Day activities on July 4. Registration can be made at 8:30 a.m. at Elm Ave. Park, Delmar, and the running will begin at 9 at the park. Runners aged 9 and older are invited to compete and awards will go to the first three finishers in each of six divisions, for male and female runners.

Entry fee is $1 for runners 9-14, $2 for older competitors. The younger divisions will run 1.2 miles, those 15 and older can opt to run six- or nine-mile distances. Entry forms are available at the Bethlehem town hall, Bethlehem Library, Elm Ave. Park and at Courtside Tennis/Sportshoes, Delmar.

Heads cancer board

Dr. Samuel Ciccio of Delmar has been elected president of the board of trustees of the Albany County unit of the American Cancer Society. Dr. Ciccio is chief of staff of the Veterans Administration Hospital and has been serving as public education chairman of the cancer society's New York State division.

Bank to open new building

The new Bethlehem office of City and County Savings Bank officially opens its doors Saturday, July 5. Ceremonies to be held on that date, beginning with the flag-raising by Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post 1040 American Legion, will herald a three-week period of customer appreciation days.

In the new building, customers will find more efficient banking, reflecting the bank's commitment to the community. The lobby is larger, parking and drive-up facilities are more convenient, and more safe deposit boxes are available.

The new building has been designed to take advantage of the latest energy conservation technology. To a great extent, the building's energy requirements will be met by a passive solar energy system. Adding to the energy efficiency is the "southern exposure" of windows, while window glass exposure to the north, east and west is minimized. The entrance is sheltered, and the entire building exterior is heavily insulated. Landscaping will provide for optimum wind deflection and maximum shade in the summer.

The new building is located at 167 Delaware Ave., adjacent to the bank's old quarters.

Sidewalk proposed

A Delmar resident has asked the Bethlehem town board to construct a sidewalk on the south side of Delaware Ave. between Bennett Terr. and Elm Ave.

Mary Anne Mitchell, 36 Hawthorne Ave., making a personal plea at last Wednesday's regular board session, pointed out that the north side of the busy artery has a sidewalk that was installed by the town a number of years ago. She said a State Dept. of Transportation engineer had quoted an estimate of $10,000 for half a mile of sidewalk, either concrete or asphalt.

Mrs. Mitchell, whose husband, John Terence Mitchell, ran for the Albany County Legislature last November, suggested the town explore possible funding of the project from the Capital District Transportation Committee via the state's transportation bond issue, and added that she felt property owners along the route would sign easements where the proposed sidewalk would exceed the 19-to-21 foot right of way of the highway.

Board members deferred action on the proposal.

New officers elected

Three Bethlehem women are among the new officers of the Albany Panhellenic Assn. for 1980-81. They are Mrs. Kenelm Thacher of Delmar, president, Mrs. John Grosvenor of Slingerlands, secretary, and Mrs. William Zimmerman of Delmar, treasurer.

Delmar Fire Dept. elects

The Delmar Fire District will hold a special election on July 9, 1980 between the hours of 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. at the fire house on Nathaniel Blvd., Delmar. There will be two (2) resolutions on the ballot:

1. A resolution to purchase the property adjoining the fire house from the town of Bethlehem for $4,200.

2. A resolution to build an addition to house the two ambulances of the district for $150,000.

The addition is needed to house the two ambulances due to the fact that the town board denied the fire district's request to purchase a portion of the old town hall for that purpose. The district's new pumper-ladder truck is expected to be delivered in August and will need the space previously occupied by the ambulances.

The new paramedic program has been in operation over a year. The need for this service has been proven by the increasing number of emergency calls received. The rescue squad is manned by 11 paramedics and 25 emergency medical technicians (EMT's) plus 15 first aid drivers who all VOLUNTEER their time to make the squad one of the finest in Albany county.

The Board of Fire Commissioners state that the cost of the addition will not raise taxes appreciatively. The tax rate for Delmar fire district is now $7.03 per thousand and the estimated cost of the addition will be about 29¢ per thousand bringing the rate to $7.32 for 1981 for the Delmar fire district.

All Delmar fire district residents are asked to support these resolutions to provide a proper facility for the ambulances. Anyone wanting more information may call any of the fire commissioners or stop at the Delmar fire station any Monday evening between 7 and 9 p.m.

'Hams' in the field

This week will be a busy one for area amateur radio operators. On Saturday and Sunday the Albany Amateur Radio Assn., along with hundreds of other ham radio clubs across the nation, conducts "Field Day," an annual event that tests the emergency preparedness of amateur radio enthusiasts. Emergency conditions—loss of commercial power, telephone, and warm, comfortable shelter—are simulated by erecting radio stations and antennas in a field using tents and portable generators. Then the ham operators practice communicating under these conditions by contacting other Field Day set-ups around the country.

The Albany club will hold its Field Day this year in East Greenbush. Anyone interested in inspecting the Field Day station should call Ray Parsons at 439-0049 for more information.

Catskill program here

An evening program on the Catskill forest preserve will be given on Tuesday, July 8, at 7:30 at Five Rivers Center, Gomer Farm Rd., Delmar. Tom Miner of the Catskill Center for Conservation and Development will present a slide program covering the resources, land use potentials and problems of the Catskills.

Village seeks sewer study funds

Voorheesville's village board has taken the first official step in the long process to put in a municipal sewer system.

Mayor Milton Bates and the trustees last week signed a contract with the State Environmental Facilities Corp. (EFC) to develop a plan to study the feasibility of the proposed sewer system.

The EFC also will counsel the village on applying for state and federal grants to finance the study. Under the current formula, federal funds would cover 75 percent of the cost of the study, with the state and village putting up 12½ percent.

William J. Clarke, chairman of the village sewer committee set up last year by the board, said his committee is evaluating several proposals. Clarke, a village resident who is director of the Albany County Environmental Management Council, and Daniel W. Stone, EFC project manager, were present at last Tuesday's village board meeting, at which the board allocated up to $4,000 for the preliminary steps.

Clarke described last week's board action as a "pre-Step One" move in the three-step process to obtain federal funding for the project. He identified the steps as:

- Planning phase - identifying the problems and evaluating solutions.

- Design phase - actual engineering design of the sewer system itself and/or a treatment plant, based on recommendation from Step One.

- Actual construction.

State and federal funding will be available for certain portions of each step, Clarke said.

With last week's authorization by the village, the EFC will prepare a plan for the study, including the scope of engineering services needed, and will draft the application for the Step One grant. Stone will work with Clarke's six-man committee, which will start a search soon for an engineering consultant to carry out the Step One planning process. The local committee will handle the interviews as well as review the EFC proposals.

Workshop classes open

The Heldeberg Workshop is still accepting registration for its 1980 summer program, which begins its first two-week session July 21. Open fields, forests abandoned orchards and a wooded swamp form the classrooms for over 30 different classes in theatre, arts, crafts, science and high adventure.

The workshop offers such perennial favorites as Discoverland and Creepy Crawlies and other Fun Creatures for grades 1-2 and backpacking, weaving, archeology and kite flying for older students. New courses included calligraphy, candle-making, quilting, basketry, spinning and leathercraft. For information, call 456-3943.

There is still time to register for the summer band program sponsored by the New Scotland Kiwanis. Instrumental students in the Voorheesville Central School District are eligible. The regular band will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m. and the jazz band from 10:15 to 11 through Aug. 7 at the elementary school. For information contact Lydia Tobler, 765-4649.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the newly formed New Scotland Elks Lodge will hold a "Country Western Round Up Dance" on Saturday, July 26 at 7. Dance to the music of Ray Jones from 9-1 at Sunset Park on Orchard Hill and Spore Rds., New Scotland. Tickets are $11.50 per person and include a chicken barbecue buffet, beer and soda. Call Sharon Boehlke, 439-4498, or Happy's Coach House for tickets. No tickets will be sold at the door.

During the evening, there will be hay rides, door prizes and an afgan raffle. The next meeting of the auxiliary will be Wednesday, July 16, at 8 at Happy's Coach House, New Salem.

Seven Voorheesville students were recently honored at an awards luncheon presentation by the First Albany Corp. at the Empire State Plaza. The corporation is a local supporter of a 10-week stock market game for area high school students. Voorheesville placed second out of schools in a seven-county area. Students received a $50 team award.

Receiving awards were Robert Cureau, Donald Kinisky, Mark Crisafulli, Mary Ann Bencivengo, Anne Treiber, James Reilly and Larry Zuckerman, team captain.

Team advisors were social studies teacher John Piechnik, who started the program at Voorheesville, and Victor Spraggins, chairman of the business department.

The purpose of the game is to get participants acquainted with the workings of a securities market, the investment industry and the place of securities in the national economy.

The Sacrificial Table, the Oracle Chamber, and a number of astronomically aligned stones were among the many structures observed by six Voorheesville High School seniors on a recent trip to Mystery Hill in New Hampshire, an important site known as "America's Stonehenge." Located near the town of New Salem, the site consists of a variety of stone walls situated on 15 acres of a small hilltop, including one acre of stone chambers and other man-made structures.

Accompanied by anthropologist James Whitall, Voorheesville High School social studies chairman Arthur Willis and Dennis Stone, son of the site owner Robert E. Stone, the six students, Tom Plummer, Nick Sauer, Chuck Dollard, Grant Anderson, Jim Reilly and Ben Imai toured the area.

Sue Panthen, Swift Rd., Voorheesville, has recently been certified as an instructor of Aerobic Accents. Aerobic Accents is an exercise program that uses dancing as a means to obtain cardiovascular fitness. Classes will begin July 7 at Fisher Methodist Church in Rotterdam. For information, call 439-6706.

VOORHEESVILLE

Rate appeal filed for Salem Hills

Attorneys for the privately owned sewage system serving the Salem Hills subdivision in Voorheesville have filed a notice of appeal on the utility's celebrated rate case involving the development's 276 single-family houses.

The appeal notice was filed by Louis Dempf, Jr., Albany attorney representing the Salem Hills Sewerage Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Rosen-Michaels, Inc., developers of the subdivision. The appeal is based on a State Supreme Court ruling this spring that denied the rate increase sought by the utility.

The private utility, which had been assessing homeowners at the rate of $10 per month for the underground sewer system, applied for a rate increase to $29.05 per month in 1978, contending that operations costs were exceeding revenues and that system improvements mandated by state and county agencies were pushing it deeper into the red.

The Voorheesville village board, sitting as a municipal public service commission, denied the request and after a drawn-out study of the utility's financial structure and accounting procedures, permitted a rate rise of $14. The utility took the issue to State Supreme Court in 1979, but in a decision earlier this year, the court upheld the $14 rate.

Writing workshops set

The Voorheesville Public Library will present two creative writing workshops this summer. The first, Writing Poetry, will be held Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. June 25 through July 29, the second, Writing Fiction, on Wednesday evenings July 16-30.

The poetry sessions will be led by Michael Rutherford, a member of the writers-in-residence program sponsored by the New York State Council on the Arts. For the past several years he has been conducting the Poetry in the Schools program. The fiction workshop will be conducted by William Kennedy, former Albany newspaperman who has published three novels, "The Ink Truck" (1969), "Legs" (1975) and "Billy Phelan's Greatest Game" (1978). He teaches fiction and non-fiction writing at several colleges in the area.

Shop Talk

by Judi James

This is the second of three articles on Albany's Robinson Square area by a Spotlight's roving reporter.

The Dutch Trader is alive and well! He's scooping out spices, polishing up Dutch brass and is ready to serve you in the tradition of Albany's Dutch heritage. We're discussing a shop at 311 Hamilton St., Albany, the site of the Dutch Trader of Robinson Square—the only Dutch shop in the Capital District.

You'll be as excited as I was when you enter this first-level shop where an array of Dutch wooden shoes beckons. To the cashier's left is the cashier's desk . . . a lovely old desk topped by one of the earliest cash registers we've seen . . . dating back to the early 1800s and a forerunner of today's tape register. Behind this is an open faced brick wall on which hangs a charming Pot-hest print called The First Fitting. (You'll find other Pothest prints there, too, framed charmingly as well as some Dutch oil paintings ready to adorn a typical heritage home.)

Howard Adriance, Jr. is the proprietor. His mother, Gladys, is his inspiration and partner. He is determined to keep it strictly Dutch. He built the focal point of the shop . . . a Dutch hearth complete with the shed with its typical ruffle hanging from it. In front of the fireplace is the straight Dutch chair with the little drawer in the bottom. A bunch of tulips had been laid on the chair. Big brass and copper buckets, cooking utensils and fireplace equipment adorn this fireplace area, and to the side is a goodly array of Williamsburg hand-dipped candles in all colors.

Besides the Dutch copper and brass pieces, the shop has some unique gift items in pewter and Delft. Adriance told us these are in two price ranges . . . with the expensive ones from Holland but he does carry a less expensive selection of pewter from Woodbury, Conn.

While we were there, we were interested in the two or three customers who came in. One gal whizzed in, saying "I want to see those wonderful butcher aprons they're telling me about!" She referred to a few long aprons designed for the barbequer in the family. Another customer spoke of going away for the weekend and wanting some of the Dutch tile placemats and coasters to match.

We wandered back to this little display in the rear of the store and found some charming gift-wrap with the early Dutch design, and place mats and matching napkins in the Delft design and colors.

If that's not your thing and you want a typical Dutch gift from Albany for a hostess, take along some of the Droste chocolates or biscuits. There's a nice selection, and lots of goodies for the children as well. (I like the little lollipops with the Dutch children on them . . . for the kids, I mean!) These sweets from Holland are very special treats.

Unique is the word for the Dutch Trader. I plan to take my spice jars in there and have Howard fill them with dill, nutmeg, ginger and all the rest. The shelves at the front of the store contain gallon cannisters . . . all filled with these and 45 other bulk spices, even the cinnamon sticks which add so much to a batch of home made applesauce!

You'll also find the Conimex Indonesian spices and teas which are very difficult usually to find in this country. It's all at the Dutch Trader where you'll enjoy the experience of shopping, whether it's for a 35-cent bag of spice, a 40-cent Dutch cigar, or a lovely piece of Dutch copper, brass or Delft. It's a charming shop of great integrity and quality and one Albany with its Dutch heritage can be proud of.

Blue Jays face Tigers at home

Delmar's Blue Jays have the Fourth of July weekend off, but will swing back into action Saturday, July 12, when the Halfmoon Tigers come to town for a Capital District League Doubleheader. The games will be played at the BCHS field, starting at 12:30.

The Blue Jays got a split last week with two opponents and the weather. For the second time this season, a twin bill with Schuylerville, defending league champs, was washed out, this one at Schuylerville Sunday. Last Wednesday the Blue Jays shocked the well-traveled R&R Pools of Schenectady, 6-5 at Central Park, but went flat Saturday and lost to Rotterdam 4-0.

"We were really flat," groaned Manager Rudy Toffenetti. "We just couldn't seem to pick up the runners and get a hit when we needed one." The Jays got only six singles from their usually hard-hitting lineup as John McDonald spun a four-hitter for Delmar. Rotterdam got all their runs in the fifth on two errors, a bunt that went for a single and a double that emptied the bases.

It was a different story against the powerful Pools despite mid-week conflicts that left Toffenetti with only one pitcher in uniform. Jack Dalton pitched three shutout innings, shortstop Al Bradt tried his hand on the mound without success, and the versatile Mickey Brantley finished up.

Meanwhile the Jays were abusing Frank Dietz, former Detroit prospect and one of the area's best pitchers, spraying line drives at and through the infield.

They knocked out Dietz in the third and continued their hammering on his relievers.

George Rafferty, leading the club with an incredible 22 for 37, and Charlie Leonowicz had two hits apiece and Ken White had a triple.

The Blue Jays had a tense final inning protecting their one-run lead when the Pools had the tying run aboard with one out. The next two hitters blasted long drives but Steve Wallack pulled both shots down against the fence at the 343 foot mark.

The Jays now stand 5-2 in the league, 13-4 overall.

IN MEMORIAM

Dick Hilary passed away on the morning of Wednesday, June 18, 1980 at the Albany Medical Center Hospital.

All those who knew him loved him for his enthusiasm for life. He was a firm believer in "living each day to its fullest". He always had time for "one more set" (being an avid tennis player and sports lover).

Dick was a true gentleman in every sense of the work - kind, sensitive, considerate and a caring man. He had many friends in Delmar (some of whom only knew him by sight).

He will be deeply missed by those of us who were lucky enough to have known him and shared his friendship. May you rest in peace, Dick.

ON OLDER HOMES

Every year, twice as many American families buy older (or previously-occupied homes) than they do new houses. Depending upon the age of the home, naturally, there may be some unknown risks in the area of construction, plumbin or wiring. However, these can be obviated by a professional inspection.

But there are also some major advantages to buying an older home. It normally contains far more space than a new home in the same price range, and there are a great many more older homes than new homes for sale which gives you a wider opportunity to make a good buy. Also, many older homes have a charm, location, and graciousness that can't be found in a new home.

True, a new home will give you fewer maintenance problems and more modern built-in appliances, however, there is much to be said for the older home too. The best approach is to look at both and weigh the merits. We'll be happy to show you a fine selection of both older and new homes to choose from.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at Century 21 - Betty Lent Real Estate, 208 Delaware Ave., Delmar. Phone 439-9336.

Democratic float

Editor, The Spotlight:

Due to the efforts of a great many people, the newly organized Bethlehem Democratic Club was able to put together our first organizational triumph, our float for the Memorial Day Parade. The applause and appreciation received along the parade route made this tremendous endeavor extremely worthwhile.

I would like to thank all the members of my committee: Judy Angelotti and family, Linda and Jed Wolkenbreit, John Cahill, Mary Lou and Bill Burkart, and Phyllis Marcotte for planning, designing, building, and many of the same who rode on the float itself, along with Dennis Battle, Devon Cahill and Randi Wolkenbreit, and to Michael Wilcox for driving.

Many thanks also to the following people who allowed us the use of their period uniforms: Skip Bub, Revolutionary War; Marie Weidemann of the Bethlehem Historical Museum, World War I and Modern Marine; Stuart Hendrick, World War II; Michael and Diane Breslin, Modern Army and Women's Air Force, and Michael Wilcox, Modern Sailor.

Special thanks to Cissy Stasiuk, town public relations officer, and Ed Mulligan, town historian, for their valuable assistance in locating some of the above mentioned.

A very special thank you to Earl Ribero, co-chairman of the parade, for all his guidance, advice and especially his encouragement. I observed first-hand all the detail necessary in organizing such an endeavor. Mr. Ribero succeeded in making an almost impossible task run smoothly, and for this he should be congratulated by the entire community.
