BETHLEHEM

Court load increases, but judge says no problem

Last year at about this time, town officials were beginning to wonder whether it wasn't time for Bethlehem to have a third town justice. Since 1976, the number of cases disposed of had gone from 4,691 to 8,755, and the fines had more than doubled.

The figures for 1980, released last week, continued the trend upward. Is it time for a third justice?

No, says senior Justice Roger M. Fritts. "My feelings have changed from where we were a year and a half ago," he says. "Primarily, that's because we've been able to reorganize the system."

Peter Wenger, the town's other justice, is reserving judgement. "I've only been in office a year, and I haven't quite decided whether I'm working too hard or not." The two justices will be paid $14,768 this year.

Last year, the two of them disposed of 8,119 traffic cases, up 262 from the year before, and 544 criminal cases, up 95 from 1979. They also completed 91 civil cases, one less than the year before.

There has been one significant shift in the case load. The number of traffic cases coming from the state police decreased by 576, while tickets issued by town police rose 838.

The two justices collected $118,486 in fines, up $8,317. Fritts estimates that about $70,000 of that will be returned by the state to the town budget.

When he started in 1978, says Fritts, court met once a week, Thursday nights. The difficulty was not only the large volume, but also that traffic and criminal cases required different kinds of treatment. "We found we would end up adjourning a tremendous number of cases, preferable in advance."

The first step was to move all traffic cases to Tuesday nights. "Even with that, we found ourselves going til one, one thirty in the morning," recalls Fritts.

The final step was to move trials to Monday and Wednesday nights. The four-night-a-week schedule allowed the two justices to clear up a large backlog and keep current with new cases. Currently, there are about 100 cases waiting trial, but Fritts feels that's a reasonable number, since most will be settled before trial, and at town court level about 10 trials can be conducted each week.

"We're not buried anymore. We've gotten the whole thing streamlined to the point where we're thinking of cutting back."

That's not to say that Fritts, and possibly Wenger, wouldn't welcome the help a third judge could give. The two judges now alternate, two weeks on and two off, which means a Practicing here in warmer weather, members of the Village Volunteers Fife and Drum Corps of Delmar are prepared for their concert debut Friday and Saturday nights at the Albany Symphony Orchestra's American Pops Program. The corps will perform military music from the 18th and 19th centuries Friday at the Troy Savings Bank Music Hall and Saturday at the Palace Theatre in Albany. full schedule of four nights a week plus calls at any hour of the day or night if the police need a judge to arraign someone.

"It's the 24-hour call that kills you," says Fritts. "It would make things a lot easier to have a third judge, but I think that it's an expense the town doesn't have to go get into at the present time."

Crash is fatal

A two-car accident on Rt. 144 at the Atlantic Cement conveyor belt cost the life of a young Coeymans Hollow woman shortly after 8 a.m. Tuesday. Tammy Levie, 22, a passenger in a northbound car driven by her husband, Roland, 26, was pronounced dead on arrival at Albany Medical Center. Her husband and the driver of the northbound car, Frank Bunnell of RD, Selkirk, were taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital with injuries not believed to be serious as this newspaper went to press.

State police at Selkirk said Levie was attempting to pass another northbound vehicle before he saw Bunnell's car approaching. When Levie applied his brakes, troopers said, his car slid sideways and was struck on the passenger side by the oncoming car.

Town reservoir at eight-year low

The Town of Bethlehem is in the same rain barrel as the rest of the Capital District thirsty, but not yet dry.

The town's Vly Reservoir in New Scotland is down to 40 percent of capacity, according to Supervisor Tom Corrigan. That's the lowest in eight years, and Corrigan said it may become necessary to institute stricter conservation measures this summer.

"We've had some conservation measures in effect for the last two years, and if we're short from the spring rains, we'll have to do more," he said Friday.

Although the Capital District is in much better shape than the New York City area, local officials have become increasingly concerned about a water shortage. Some predictions are for five years of below-normal rainfall.

The reservoir was at 65 percent of its 1.2 billion gallon capacity a year ago, and dropped to 50 percent last fall.

Meanwhile the Town Board learned that the pumping station at Kenwood Ave. which will complete the water interconnect with Albany is about a month behind schedule because of a delay in delivery of the pumps. The interconnect will allow Bethlehem to draw a minimum of 250,000 gallons a day from the Albany water system.

Corrigan said also that the new flashboards for the reservoir, designed to increase its capacity, are installed.

BC has wise visitor

It was one of the nicer things that happened — along with cars that wouldn't start and buildings that wouldn't warm up — when the temperature stuck near zero on Monday, Jan. 12. An owl came to visit the Bethlehem Central High School Guidance Office.

First spotted by a student, who quickly summoned others, the barred owl perched on a ledge outside a counselor's window for most of the school day. He "popped his beak" when people approached the window pane, including student photographer Tim Haverly, but otherwise didn't budge in spite of the commotion he caused.

Our area is in the southern fringe of a barred owl's normal winter habitat, so this one was obviously hoping to find it warmer here than further north. He had been spotted on the school campus by a custodian on Saturday, but by Monday night he was gone. Those wise in the ways of owls speculated that the school's noise and activity had kept him from snoozing.

his normal daytime custom, so he flew on to find a less-peopled place to perch.

Officials explain school drug policy

The use of illegal drugs by students at Bethlehem Central High School is a fact of life, say school officials. But they doubt whether the problem has changed significantly for better or for worse in the last several years.

The officials were reacting to a complaint — published in the Vox Pop section of this issue of The Spotlight — about the use of methamphetamines, or "speed", by members of one of the sororities at the school.

"To say that kids are taking drugs is true," said Superintendent Lawrence A. Zinn. "But it depends on what you conjure up in your mind." As far as can be determined, he said, marijuana is still the most commonly-used drug, with alcohol fast replacing it as the drug of choice and pills a distant third. But surveys and common sense indicate that most drug usage by high school students occurs not in the schools, but in the home and elsewhere, Zinn added.

And, as he has in the past when the issue has come up, Zinn stressed that drug abuse is a community problem more than a school problem. "I firmly believe it's part of the society we create nowadays for young people."

According to High School Principal Charles A. Gunner, 33 students were caught with marijuana during the last school year, and the numbers are "about the same" this year. No one was caught with methamphetamines or any other kind of illegal drug in pill form.

The fact, however, may have more to do with the fact that marijuana use is easier to detect, since smoking areas at the school are clearly defined and policed. "There is no way we can control pills, except that we are on the alert for the after-effects," said Zinn.

School policy, said Gunner, is to call in the parents and suspend the student for from one to three days for a first offense. Also, the Police Department's Youth Bureau is notified on every offense. On a second offense, charges are filed with the police.

Gunner said. No attempt is made at the school level to distinguish between various levels of drug possession, some of which are classified as violations and some as criminal offenses.

Bethlehem Police Inspector Richard LaChappelle said Monday that his department has "excellent rapport" with the school, both in terms of enforcing the law and in sharing information. Most drug arrests made at the school don't become public because of the need to follow investigative leads and protect informants, LaChappelle said.

Sororities are not recognized by the school district, but do have functions on school property, Zinn said.

BC pupils score

Members of Bethlehem Central's Distributive Education club competed at the State University campus against 16 area DECA chapters in competency-based events such as public speaking, advertising and merchandising. The pupils brought home 10 first-place trophies, five alternate awards and one tie for the top position.

The weekend of March 11-13, Supervisor Robert Pier-son will accompany the winners to the annual New York State Career Conference. This regional meeting at the Concord Hotel in Kiamesha Lake qualifies students for advancement to a nationwide contest at Anaheim, Calif. in June.

Last year BCHS sent Cindy Caswell, then a senior, to participate on a national level in Miami, Fla. The previous year Guy Willison, also a 12th grader, attended the DECA convention in Houston, Tex.

Board wants to settle fluoridation issue

The Bethlehem Town Board would like to settle the fluoridation issue as soon after its Feb. 4 special "input" meeting as possible.

Whether the highly controversial issue can be resolved remains to be seen. So far, only one member of the board — Supervisor Tom Corrigan — has given any indication of his leanings, and the pressure from both sides is likely to be intense.

At its meeting last week, the board voted to hold the special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 4 in the Town Hall auditorium. After the issue first was aired last October, the board promised that it would hold such an "input meeting" before making a decision.

Since that tumultuous meeting in October, the discussion has been carried on mostly in the press and in letters to the board.

"We really have not sat down and had a discussion on it," Corrigan said Friday.

But speculation that the board would attempt to duck the issue entirely in this election year apparently has proven unfounded. "Quite candidly, the reason we didn't act on this during the holidays is that it's an issue which gets quite emotional, and we just didn't feel this was the time to do it," said Board Member Scott Prothero.

Now the board members feel differently. Prothero puts a limit of two meetings after the Feb. 4 session. John B. Geurtze says, "very soon after, perhaps a day or so."

"We can't fool around with this any longer," says Edward J. Mocker. "As far as I'm concerned, the quicker the better."

And Ruth Bickel concurs: "We should move pretty fast; I think we have a lot of information on it. And I think we will."

If any of the board members beside Corrigan have formed a position, they aren't saying. The supervisor has said only that he "tends to lean toward it. I've read the Consumers Report article and I thought it was convincing and objective."

The Consumers Report article is only one of dozens of pieces of information which have been collected by the two sides. The proponents contend fluoride is a safe and effective tooth decay retardant, while the opponents argue that the chemical's safety has been thrown into doubt, and that it is unfair to force it on people who don't want it.

The board agreed last fall to consider fluoridation last fall after the Albany County Health Department informed it that federal money is available to pay for the installation of the equipment and the first year's materials. After that, according to Corrigan, the town would have to pick up the cost of the materials and operation. No figures on those costs are available, he said.

At the October meeting, only the proponents, including county representatives, were allowed to speak. The Feb. 4 meeting will be the opportunity for the opponents.

The newly-formed Bethlehem Safe Water Association will probably be the spearhead for that effort. The association, whose general chairman is Laurel Cahill, has organized its own reference materials at the Bethlehem Public Library, and is offering to provide information to any interested citizen. To contact the association, call 439-3534, or write care of P.O. Box 343, Slingerlands 12159.

Readers 'elected'

A Reading Elections Competition among fourth and fifth graders at the St. Thomas School recently spurred 62 pupils to read 854 books in a four-month program coordinated and conceived by Mrs. Diane Gravlee, library media specialist at the school.

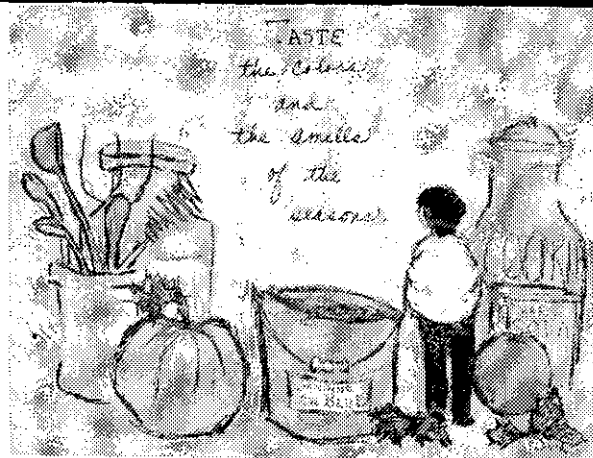

Each pupil earned a different number of votes for each book read, depending on the type of book it was, and how many of that type had already been read. A replica of the Presidential seal was earned for reading three books of the same type with 10 types of books possible.

Jennifer Comi was elected president, with 124 votes from 51 books, and Kerry O'Connell was elected Vice-President, with 115 votes from 44 books. Cabinet members included Jean Malone, Dennis Eames, Michael Carlson, Michelle Washburn, Michelle Conway, Pam Cahin, David Portmann and Laisha Henry, each of whom earned over 50 votes.

Consultant hired on garbage question

The decision on whether Bethlehem will end its free garbage pick up service will wait until a consultant makes recommendations to the town later this year on its overall refuse disposal situation.

The Town Board, at its meeting last week, authorized Town Engineer Bruce Secor to negotiate a consulting contract with Standard Engineering of Albany. The firm will advise Bethlehem on how to enter Albany's ANSWERS system, which will buy refuse, shred it and sell it to the state to heat and cool the Empire State Plaza and the Capital.

But having realized how complex ANSWERS is — and how much information they lack — town officials have decided to broaden the scope of the consultant's contract, says Secor. "We intend to participate in ANSWERS," he said Friday.

"The problem is how we're going to participate. We're talking about a half million dollar decision."

Among the decisions which have to be made are the location of a transfer station and the size of the trucks which will haul the garbage from Bethlehem to the ANSWERS plant in the Albany Pine Bush. The consultant will also be instructed to determine whether it would be feasible to have a joint venture with the Town of New Scotland on a transfer station and vehicles, Secor said.

Before those decisions can be made, however, a lot more information is needed. For instance, Secor estimates that an average of 60 tons of refuse are picked up every day by public and private trucks in Bethlehem. But he has no way of being sure of those figures, and is aware that it is just as important to know when the peaks occur.

Secor said it makes sense to defer a decision on who should do garbage pickup — the town currently collects garbage but not trash — until all the information is in. The consultants are expected to take six to nine months, but will have preliminary information sooner than that.

Secor was scheduled to complete the contract with Standard Engineering this week. The cost was not immediately known, but Secor said the town may be eligible for 50 percent aid from the state.

In other action last week, the town board:

- Honored Planning Board Chairman Edward Sargent's request that he serve without pay. In a letter to the board, Sargent explained that he is retiring on Social Security, and half his $3,360 per year salary would go in taxes. "I would prefer to have the entire amount used for the benefit of the town," he said. Sargent said he would take mileage.

- Decided not to allow the Parks and Recreation Department to buy a dump truck, but agreed to survey all town departments so that all automotive needs can be put out for bids under one contract, presumably at a savings.

- Accepted a recommendation from Safety Director Ralph Tipple that a stop sign be installed on Quincy Rd. at Wemple Rd., and set an 8 p.m., Feb. 11, public hearing for that change plus 30 m.p.h.

speed limits for Murray Ave., Carolanne Dr., Darnley Green, Maryea Lane and Schoolhouse Rd.

- Set public hearings for 7:30 p.m. and 7:45 p.m., Feb. 11, for two petitions for water and sewer service for the new Elm Estates development off Elm Ave.

Gave permission for Detective John Cox to attend a drug enforcement training school and for Chief Sewer Plant Operator Douglas Kuhn to attend a New York State Environmental Conservation Dept. meeting in New York City.

- Received a report from W. Gordon Morris, who represents Bethlehem in the Albany County Legislature, on county matters affecting the town. Morris said he plans to report periodically.

Wayward automobile

A car making a left turn off Rockefeller Rd. onto Kenwood Ave. early Saturday apparently didn't complete the turn. The car crashed through a wooden fence at 136 Kenwood Ave., driving the fence into the house, Bethlehem police reported. The driver continued on and was not caught.

'Pinafore' to set sail

More than 50 students at Bethlehem Central Middle School have been hard at work for four months preparing Gilbert and Sullivan's comic operetta "H.M.S. Pinafore". This week they are ready to sail under the direction of Sally Jane Tanzer, with the assistance of Elizabeth Bergan, George Smith and Betty Koban.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Jan. 23-24 in the Middle School auditorium, Delmar. Tickets are available at the door for a donation of $1.

The cast of 34 will be accompanied by a band of 14 students, and the stage sets and lighting have also been prepared by BCMS student volunteers.

"My objective is to teach responsibility", said Mrs. Tanzer about the extensive project. "Each student learns responsibility for himself and for the others in the group."

Sue Ann Ritchko reports:

Albany County Legislature

The January meeting of the Albany County Legislature started off with a work load of some 31 resolutions and an unsuccessful attempt to change the local law to give more power to the county executive. In his annual message to the legislature, County Executive James Coyne mentioned the decrease of one percent in the county's heating fuels sales tax. He failed to mention that the Republican minority had first proposed the reduction, although the Republicans had wanted the tax removed entirely.

The Legislature authorized the county executive to enter into an agreement with the state Department of Environmental Conservation for a spraying program to control the gypsy moth infestation in Albany County. I was the first legislator to introduce a resolution calling for gypsy moth spraying in Albany County some months ago. The resolution was referred to committee and reported out within a month. My action was prompted by calls from my constituents desperately in need of help to get rid of these pests. The spraying has to be done in the spring. As it is effective, we can look for relief this spring.

Another resolution of great importance to the public had to do with placement of legal advertising. As usual, the Democrats, involved in a feud with local newspapers of general circulation, selected the Evangelist and the Jewish Word, two religious weekly newspapers, to be designated as the official county papers. This is grossly unfair to the general public.

I propose to introduce a resolution requiring the county to advertise in newspapers of general circulation. The Albany County system may be legal, although I would doubt it because it is so discriminatory.

The Legislature approved a plan for community services for the elderly in Albany County. The County Executive was authorized to sign agreements to continue Albany County eligibility for a federal and state funding. The plan anticipates a total of $1,127,738 from federal funds and $200,124 from the state.

The Legislature approved the appointment of four consultants to the Albany County Department of Aging. One question presents itself in this connection. One of the consultants, James Kevin McLaughlin, is employed at a salary of $9,828. He is in the same law office as Richard Meyers, the Democratic majority leader. This is blatant patronage.

Many citizens of this area will welcome Resolution 10 pertaining to the preservation of the archives of Albany County. The County was authorized to accept a grant of $20,000 from the New York State Education Department and was approved by the New York State Historical Record Advisory Board. The grant is intended to begin sorting out the records to see which are of greatest importance to preserve. The task of sorting and evaluating the records is enormous. The old baseball factory is still one of the

Q. Why are THE TANNING HUT lights better than conventional sunlamps or a weekend in the sun?

A. THE TANNING HUT'S unique system of lights generate only the mid-range ultraviolet rays which activate the MELANOCYTES and PROTEIN CELLS to produce A SMOOTH, BRONZE TAN. While the summer's blistering sun and sun lamps cause extreme perspiration, OUR TANNING MODULES ARE COOL because the lights create no heat. The problem with most sun lamp set ups is that they are one-directional. To get an evenly-distributed tan you have to keep turning a different side of your body toward the sun lamp. At THE TANNING HUT our lights ARE evenly distributed around the entire tanning module. The result — A UNIFORM AND EVEN TAN with none of the problems presented by the sun or sun lamps.

But probably the most outstanding advantage of THE TANNING HUT is the SMALL AMOUNT OF TIME it requires.

Walter plant sale to be finalized

Sale of the bankrupt Walter Motor Truck Co. plant in Voorheesville to a Latham-based company will be closed in late February.

Bernard Shenocca, president of Atlas Copco Turbonetics, Inc., said he expects the plant to be in operation under the new ownership "sometime in April."

The company plans to move its current work force of 110 to the Voorheesville site and will expand to 135 employees by the end of the year, Shenocca said. Asked if the 105 ex-Walter employees would be given preference in future hiring, Shenocca said: "We are an equal opportunity employer. We will receive applications from the general area and will hire according to qualifications."

Atlas Copco Turbonetics, a subsidiary of the multi-national Atlas Copco conglomerate based in Sweden, makes centrifugal compressors for the gas, petrochemical and process industries. The company, presently occupying space in the Mechanical Technology (MTI) facility in Latham, will design and manufacture compressors in Voorheesville when the move is completed.

The Walter firm, which manufactured specialty trucks for airports throughout the world, shut down last April, leaving 105 employees without jobs. Bankers Trust Co. N.A., which has been holding a reported $20 million in loans and other obligations, took over receivership of the company and installed its president, Jerome McDougal, as custodial administrator. The bank fired McDougal, two other executives and five of the seven remaining employees on Oct. 31, terminating McDougal's interim activities in a private corporation he had set up to sell parts from the plant's inventory.

Shenocca confirmed the $1.750.000 sales price of the plant and 80 acres of land as reported in the Spotlight last September. The two buildings on the site have approximately 80,000 square feet of floor space.

Student play at VHS

Two seniors fill the lead roles in the Voorheesville Central High School production of Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker" now in rehearsal for performances in March. Rick Wilcon and Paula Holmberg will play the title roles. Also in the cast are juniors Kevin McKenna, Paul Lasch, David Albright, Greg Howard, Tami Tetrault, John Greenberg, Kay Bernstein, Igor Broos and John Childs. Sophomore members are Robin Shrager and Bill Petrone. Freshmen in the cast are Kirsten Ford, Yvonne Perry and Marc Ferguson. Carol Crannel, a senior, also has a part.

Opportunity for gardeners

For avid gardeners with time to volunteer, the Albany County Cooperative Extension is offering the Master Gardener program. Volunteers get approximately 45 hours of training provided by Cornell University and extension personnel, and then work at the extension office helping the public with answers to questions during the growing season.

Camera club meets

A workshop on slide cropping will feature the Delmar Camera Club meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 27, at 7:30 at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church parish hall, Elsmere. A travelogue by Sally Whitcomb will follow the workshop. There will also be a competition in prints and color slides. All are welcome.

Voorheesville News Notes

Maryann Malark 765-4392

The first in a series of monthly film classics will be shown Saturday, Jan. 24, at 1 p.m. at the Voorheesville Public Library. "Captain Blood" starring Errol Flynn Olivia deHavilland and Basil Rathbone portrays Flynn as a doctor forced into piracy with cutthroat Rathbone. Flynn, however, prefers to devote his attention to leading lady deHavilland. The film is free and open to the public.

Pat Burnham, Voorheesville resident and elementary school teacher, will offer a 10-week dancercise class featuring aerobics, yoga, jazz, ballet stretches and floor exercises. Classes are Tuesday evenings 7-8 p.m. and 8:15-9:15 p.m. There is a fee of $25. For more information call Burnham at 765-4430.

Forty Basic Wood Shop students at the Voorheesville Central High School have just completed a ten-week unit on toy construction. Industrial Arts Department Teacher James Hladun has announced that students with outstanding projects were presented awards by the Crannell Lumber Company in Voorheesville.

Each student was required to design and make a wooden toy using scrap pieces of hardwood and softwood and hand tools only. All toys were evaluated on the ability to function. Cutting, shaping, and sanding were other evaluation criteria. Toys receiving a certain score were entered into the finals where they were judged by faculty members.

This year's winners are: first prize, Meg Rogers who received a finish sander; and second prize, Jeff Rockmore, who received a steel tape measure. Both students designed and built a vehicle that exploded on impact. Third prize went to Andy Sommer, who received a shaping tool set. His project was a bull dozer with a trailer to haul it.

The following students were honorable mention winners Patty Martin, Steven Coons, Greg Giguers, Dick Applegate, Eric Phinney and Brian Andress.

At a recent meeting, the Board of Education accepted the resignation of Marie Meyer, Mathematics Department chairperson and 7-12 mathematics teacher. Ms. Meyer has accepted an associate position with the New York State Department of Education, Bureau of Mathematics. In her new position, she will assume responsibilities for Regents Examinations and grant applications for the Resource Allocation Program. During her six years at Voorheesville Central High School, Ms. Meyer assisted in the establishment of the computer course and courses in Probability and Statistics, Life Math and PSEN math. She says she especially enjoyed working with the students in the expanded intermediate algebra curriculum. Bernadette Spargo was appointed by the board as the new 7-12 math teacher. She is a Guilderland resident and taught previously in Syracuse.

The Cooperative Extension Association of Albany County will present a class, "Short-cut Sewing Methods for Today's Fabrics" Thursday, Feb. 5, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Albany County Resource Development Center, Martin Rd., Voorheesville. A fee of $1 will be charged for written materials. To pre-register call Judy Tengeler at 765-2874.

On Wednesday, Jan. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Voorheesville

High School, one of a series of special Board of Education meetings will be held. The public is invited to attend the session which will include discussion on a preliminary budget.

Program on energy

"Energy Adventures", a presentation on current energy issues sponsored by Exxon, will be presented Monday, Jan. 26, at the Voorheesville Central High School. Produced by the Oak Ridge Associated Universities, the program deals with questions about energy supply, use and scarcity.

Wenzel bids for Walter affiliate

A former Walter Motor Truck Co. executive who resigned to take an operating position with Walter Motor Truck Co. of Canada is negotiating to buy the defunct company's assets and establish an affiliate in the Voorheesville area.

William J. Wenzel, former vice president and sales manager at the Voorheesville plant who currently is spokesman for the Canadian partners, said Saturday he has submitted a bid to the bank that last year foreclosed on the bankrupt property.

Bankers Trust Co. N.A. took custody of the Walter plant when it shut down last April, and is currently in the process of selling the land and building to Atlas Copco Turbonetics, Inc. for $1,750,000. The sale includes the plant's machine tools, but no other assets.

Wenzel, a Voorheesville resident who became well known as mayor of the village until he resigned unexpectedly last March to accept the Canadian position, said he hopes to learn "in the next two weeks" whether his offer will be accepted by the bank. He said the key ingredient of the deal is the plant's inventory of truck parts, but he declined to identify any other assets.

Wenzel declined to reveal the amount of the bid.

If the negotiations are successful, Wenzel said, the Canadian company will open a U.S. affiliate employing 60 to 65 workers. He said that he has an agreement to lease 30,000 square feet of space in the Northeast Industrial Park in Gunderland less than two miles from the Walter plant in Voorheesville.

"If the bid is accepted," he told the Spotlight over the weekend, "we will form a New York corporation to operate the business down here."

Wenzel, who worked for Walter for 32 years until he resigned last March 3, said he would divide his time between Montreal and Voorheesville. He has continued to maintain his residence in the village, while commuting to Canada.

Walter Motor Truck Co. of Canada is an independent company that was spun off from the Walter firm a number of years ago. The company has current orders for some $8 million in trucks now being built in the Montreal facility.

Wayne Linsley, manager of the Delmar branch of Picotte Real Estate Inc., was honored as a Picotte sales leader of 1980 for listing and selling over $1 million in residential real estate last year. Linsley, who has been with Picotte since 1978, was also named a $1 million sales leader in 1979. Picotte, one of Albany's oldest and largest realtors, deals in commercial as well as residential properties, has two sales offices in Albany and offices in Delmar and Loudonville.

Gas odor not dangerous

A strong odor of gas in the vicinity of Rts. 396 and 144 in Selkirk sent Bethlehem police to the Texas Eastern plant in Selkirk Friday. A neighbor said the smell had been evident for about two weeks, and a plant official promised to have the leak fixed immediately. A spokesman for Texas Eastern said Monday no gas escaped, only the odorant added to the pipeline as a safety precaution before the gas is shipped.

Shop Talk

by Judi James

Last week we began our survey of local specialty stores to see how they are weathering the recession. This week, we continue the discussion with two more local shops.

"How do you compete with the discount houses?" we asked Helen and Herman Rasker at the Town and Tweed Shop in Delaware Plaza.

"It's tough," Helen said. "The discounters set the pace price wise, but we in turn do our best to meet it."

"That's not all," her spouse interjected. "We've been here twenty five years and we know our customers and they know us and that we care about them. We select our stock carefully, and we do discount many of the items. But it's an honest discount!"

I couldn't help but ask what an "honest discount" meant. Helen responded:

"Some people buy in lot shipments...that means you take the good with the bad and indifferent. You have a special run on one item and you put out the others at a fair price. We just couldn't do that...we want what we want when we go the the market and we don't compromise."

Agreeing that their distinctive womens wear (as well as interesting gift and accessories in the sister shop, "The Village Shop") shows this discretion in buying, we persisted: "But...how were sales this year?"

"Generally, they were about the same as they were in 1979," Helen told us. "We'll be careful when we go into the market again this year and seek out quality houses which provide the good basic womens wear we are known for."

"And then," said Herman Rasker, "we'll do our darnedest to see that any customer comes in here gets the best quality, is fitted properly and feels good in the garment she chooses or the accessory she selects."

Noting that Anne Baxter, their manager, is in New York now and that buyers now have their minds on summer-wear, we determined to give you a forecast of the future womens wear picture as seen by our local buyers.

Betty Spooner has run the Dorothy Lynn Shop on Delaware Avenue for many years and is very close to her clientele calling most of them by name and is on a first name basis with some. Here's a smaller shop and her merchandise tends to be more conservatively priced and yet chosen in good taste. We asked Betty about the financial aspect of merchandising at this point and she was a bit less optimistic.

"We had a good year and did well during the Christmas sales, but this is an extremely competitive business at this point," she said. "As a matter of fact, New York State is a hard area for sales because of the tax structure. This is reflected in the pricing of merchandise and is a factor in keeping the prices up".

Being a specialty shop, Betty Spooner does a lot of special ordering. She doesn't charge for this at this point, but finds it a worry too: "When there is a special order for a customer, naturally it involves long distance telephoning. The manufacturer has special handling charges and then there is the added freight charge. This adds up".

Now that was something I hadn't thought of before, but again it is another reason so many women prefer shops such as the Dorothy Lynn — they still DO special order!

We discussed women's wear in general. "It's heart-breaking to see the quality go down in merchandise of the middle price range," Betty commented. "We're finding more and more poor workmanship and having to return merchandise time after time when it doesn't meet our standards."

To counteract this trend, buyers such as the Dorothy Lynn shop are seeking new sources of supply. Betty Spooner told us that there are some garments coming from some new houses in Texas which have the fine styling she desires and are also giving quality merchandise. That's a bright note!

Betty Spooner too will be heading for the New York shops around the 20th of January, and chances are she will concentrate on separates as well as in dresses. With budgets in mind she has this word to the gal who wants a change of wardrobe and wants to be smart in her buying.

"Buy separates! One skirt and four blouses...some pretty scarves, a blazer or a sweater can make a wardrobe of variety and good taste and still one kind to the buyers' purse!

It was sound advice...as is most of the advice from this knowledgeable and understanding woman named Spooner who owns the shop called Dorothy Lynn!

Eagles too much for V-G combo

A strong effort by the combined Voorheesville-Guiderland swim team gave Bethlehem Central's tank powerhouse a temporary scare last week, but the result was the same old story.

The Eagles, protecting their 11-year unbeaten streak in the Adirondack Swim League, defeated their near neighbors, 51-32, in the Delmar pool Friday. The meet, billed as a possible showdown between the two best teams in the 10-team league, brought out the largest crowd of the season and it was a vocal one.

Speaking of the newly combined team, BC Coach Jack Whipple said: "I thought they were very competitive. They gave swimming a good boost and brought out a good crowd about equally divided between the two teams. The swimmers responded to the encouragement with good performances. This meet brought out the best in our team."

Jay Henahan, Bethlehem's talented junior who broke a six-year-old conference record in the 500 freestyle last year, lowered that mark another peg with a 5:03.22 performance. Henahan, swimming his specialty for the first time this year, turned in the fastest time in Section 2 since an earlier BC star, Malcolm Cooper, swam the event in 5:02.3 in 1974 at New Hartford. Cooper also set the conference record of 5:09.4 that year, a mark that stood until Henahan destroyed it by six seconds last season.

Henahan also won the 200 free in the Voorheesville meet, with 1:52.8, fastest time in Section 2 since Bethlehem's Ken Neff in the state meet four years ago.

Bobby Holland, BC co-captain, won the individual medley in 2:10.9, and the 100 breaststroke in 1:04.8, both times the best in Section 2 this year. In the IM he had a tense duel with Tony Renshaw, Guiderland standout: he trailed Renshaw in the first two legs, but when they switched to the breaststroke, Holland shot ahead and had too much of a lead for Renshaw to overcome in the freestyle leg.

Voorheesville Guiderland won four of the 11 events, including the opening medley relay. In that one Carl Renshaw, Jim Buckhoff, Ricky Bult and Dirk Applegate set a new school record of 1:46.15 while saving the team's two top stars, the Renshaw twins, for later events. As it was, Andy Renshaw won the 50 freestyle in 22.8, another school record, and the 100 butterfly in 57.44. In the backstroke, Tony and Carl Renshaw, the latter a freshman, finished 1-2, but the meet was beyond salvation by that time.

"It was our depth that did it," said Whipple. "It was a good meet and good for swimming." The final score left BC at 8-0 and V-G at 5-2.

Two days earlier, V-G lost at Glens Falls, 97-75, without Andy Renshaw who was ill. "Without Andy we had to rewrite the whole lineup on the bus," said Coach Leslie Cutler. "It made a big difference."

Even so, Tony Renshaw won the IM and backstroke. Dirk Applegate the 200 free and Ricky Bult the 500. Carl Renshaw was second to his brother in the backstroke and teamed with Tony and the Anderson brothers, Kevin and Jeff, to take the medley relay in 1:49.35.

This week V-G has Amsterdam away on Wednesday and Niskayuna at home Friday in a non-league match before the return meet with Bethlehem at Voorheesville on Jan. 28. The Eagles meanwhile, have Shaker at Latham this Wednesday and then a week off before next Wednesday's test at Voorheesville. Said one BC swimmer: "The meets are much easier than the practices. Some of them are murder."

BASKETBALL

New play works for Blackbirds

Driven to desperation by a lackluster performance in a home game, Voorheesville basketball coach Mike O'Brien started looking for a gambit to "shake the boys up." Then he remembered the time Billy Martin lit a fire under the New York Yankees by letting his team pick the batting order.

Last week O'Brien let his team pick the starting lineup by written ballot for Friday's game at Schalmont. The voting produced a surprise: one of the top vote-getters was Adam Nendza, a 5-10 junior who had seen relatively little action this season.

On the floor at Schalmont, the Blackbirds looked like a different team than the outfit that had lost to Waterford, 55-44, at Voorheesville last Tuesday. There was also little resemblance to the team that Schalmont had beaten by five points at Voorheesville in December.

With Nendza, described by his coach as "quick, a fair ball handler, fair shot and a real hustler," the Blackbirds played Schalmont even at 19 in the first eight minutes, trailed by 39-35 at the half, and put on an 18-point spurt in the third that produced a five-point lead. Down the stretch they widened the bulge by another five and won by 68-58. Nendza scored six baskets, meshed three of four from the penalty stripe, and teamed with Jim Riviello on the front end of the press that led to half a dozen steals and Schalmont turnovers.

Meanwhile Mike Lewis, a 6-3 sophomore who is developing into the team's best scorer, was having two good games. Lewis, who has started the last five games, had 15 points against Waterford and 22 against Schalmont, hitting nine field goals and going 4-for-4 from the charity line.

"The Waterford game was dull," O'Brien said. "They were ahead by seven at the half and they put it away in the third period. We were lackadissical, and got out-rebounded 48-27 by a team that was no taller than we are. It was nice to have such an excellent game at Schalmont."

The Blackbirds had Tuesday off this week and play host to Albany Academy Friday. They will open against the Cadets with Riviello as the only senior starter. Nendza, Jim Harding and Paul Probst are juniors and Lewis is a sophomore. Chris Clark needs another three weeks for his ankle to mend.

Looking back at the 20-point loss to the Academy in December, O'Brien said it won't be anything like that this time. "The kids want this one bad," he said. "Academy will find out we're a lot different team."

WRESTLING

Eagle grapplers upset Niskayuna

Bethlehem Central's varsity wrestling team, enjoying its best season in recent years under Coach Rick Poplasky, put the clamp on Niskayuna's perennial Suburban Council champions last week for the first time in seven years.

Paul Callanan, J. B. Rodgers and Dave Lloyd scored pins as the Eagles took the dual meet by a lopsided 45-20 score. Steve Essex, Paul Dorsey, Ernie Van Woermer, Al Marwill and Mark Erichetti scored decisions.

The Eagles got pins from Marwill and Lloyd in a 32-25 victory over Columbia. Decisions went to Rodgers, Van Woermer, Jeff Herrman, Andy Hickey, Nikko Castaldo and Al Tinsman.

BC's junior varsity ran its record to 7-1 with decisive wins over Niskayuna, 39-11, and Columbia, 50-4. In addition, Ford Clark won his weight division in the Burnt Hills Invitational and Eric Bryant, Adam Seiden, Mark Edwards, Don Carlson and Phil Marwill were runners-up.

Youth baseball signups start

Registration for Tri-Village Little League baseball and Bethlehem Tomboys softball starts this week for more than 900 boys and girls.

Little League registration for boys and girls 6 to 15 is scheduled for the next two Saturdays, Jan. 24 and Jan. 31, at Bethlehem town hall auditorium and the Clarks-ville Elementary School. Hours are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. both days.

Bethlehem Tomboys registration for girls will be at Bethlehem Library Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The Tomboys have three softball leagues for girls who will be at least 9 but not over 19 by Dec. 31, 1981.

Little League officials are adding a new league this season — tee-ball for players 6 to 8 years old. Pitching is eliminated in this league, replaced by having the batter swing at a baseball perched on a waist-high tee. To be eligible, 6-year-olds must be 7 by July 31.

The league will again conduct its major, intermediate and pee-wee schedules at Magee Park, Glenmont, and the senior league for ages 13-15 at Elm Ave. Park, Delmar.

First-time registrants should bring birth certificates for the

Eagles looking for a new life

It was easily the best week in another dreary season for Bethlehem Central basketball. The Eagles stunned a good Mohonasen team by 58-37 and played a fairly respectable game against mighty Shaker before losing by 70-54.

In Coach Jim Tedisco's view, Tuesday's home game with Scotia, a team even more hopeless than BC, held the key to the second half of the season. "If we can play with the same intensity against a poor team, we can win a lot of games the second time around. We haven't proven that we can play with intensity no matter who we play against. Scotia will provide that test," he said over the weekend.

Scotia's only win this year was against Bethlehem. Last week they lost to Guilderland, who had previously beaten only Bethlehem.

The intensity Tedisco likes to talk about was never more evident than in last Tuesday's shocker at Rotterdam over the Suburban Council's third-place team. "We came mentally prepared to play hard," said the former Union College star. "I think our problem is whether we want to win. We certainly have the potential to beat anyone in the league."

With Tom Dexter fighting a bug that kept him scoreless at Mohonasen and held him to eight points against Shaker, the Eagles got a lift from Tim Cookfair, a 5-9 senior guard. "We've been looking for someone to provide leadership, and Tim has done this the last two games," said Tedisco.

Cookfair contributed 11 points and 13 rebounds in the Eagles' amazing 19-point thrashing of Mohonasen. BC led by 25-16 at intermission and did not go into their customary third-period fold against the enemy press. The Mohons cut the lead to six, but Tony Papile hit two baskets against the press and Cookfair had a three-point play. BC took a four-point spread into the final period and blew the game open in the last eight minutes.

The Eagles gave their followers hope by outscoring Shaker, 10-6, in the opening stanza, but the Bison, protecting a 43-game Suburban Council win streak, went on a 12-point tear in the second period and took command by 28-18 at half time. Shaker's height cut BC off from the inside, and the Eagles have no long-distance guns.

Cookfair had 14 against the champions and Steve Gillespie 13.

BC had a night off Friday and games Tuesday and Saturday next week. Five of their remaining seven league games are on the home floor.

Concerned about drugs

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am shocked, frightened and disgusted about a situation at the Bethlehem Central High School which I recently learned about.

The other day, a girl who is a student at the high school came home slightly distressed. She told me that as part of their traditional "Kris Kringle" gift-giving, a member of one of the sororities had given another several tablets of methamphetamine ("speed"). The girls also said the use of this drug is becoming quite commonplace in the school.

At first, I thought this might have been just a rumor, but I have talked to other mothers who had heard about the incident. I also discovered that two other members of the sorority quit because of it. This kind of activity is nothing like sororities that I had heard about. The fact that two innocent girls were, in effect, forced to quit by their consciences is an outrage.

This entire incident has made me wonder about the extent of the drug problem in the high school. Apparently, contrary to the beliefs of many, it didn't end with the Sixties.

I would demand, and I hope others would as well, an investigation of this by the administration. I think that it is terrible that an organization calling itself a sorority could condone the spread of drug use.

Enjoys new rink

Editor, The Spotlight:

I would like to extend my gratitude to the Town of Bethlehem Parks and Recreation Department for developing and maintaining the recent Slingerlands Ice Skating Rink.

Countless number of pleasurable ice skating hours have been enjoyed by children and adults alike.

I commend the town for investing time and money wisely in an endeavor thoroughly enjoyed and utilized by the Slingerlands community.

Energy week a success

Editor, The Spotlight:

"Energy Week" in the Town of Bethlehem was held from January 12 through 16 and it was an unqualified success. The event featured displays, slide shows, movies, a panel discussion, free energy audits and reams of free pamphlet information on how to conserve energy. More than 450 people attended, including the entire 7-C team from the Bethlehem Central Middle School.

We are grateful to The Spotlight for helping us to publicize Energy Week, and to the following exhibitors and participants who made Energy Week successful:

Adirondack Alternate Energy, Albany County Cooperative Extension, Albany County Department of Social Services, Appropriate Technology, Aton Energy, Bennett Insulation, Bethlehem Public Library, Center for Environmental Options, Children of the American Revolution, Contemporary Communities, The U.S. Department of Energy, New York State Department of Energy, Glass-heat of the Capital District, Main Care Heating Service, Niagara Mohawk Power Company, Owens-Corning Fiberglass, Power Authority-State, Small Business Administration, Roger Smith, Solar Energy Research Institute, Solar Systems Design and Superior Insulation.

Also, the ladies of the Bethlehem Progress Club rendered invaluable assistance. For those who were not able to attend Energy Week, a supply of the passout information is available at Bethlehem Town Hall.

Also grateful

Editor, the Spotlight:

The Bethlehem Rescue Squad deserves every bit of thanks and financial support it can get from this community. In your issue of Jan. 8, Name Submitted told one story. I have another.

At 3 a.m., Jan. 5, I was seized with what I and my doctor thought must be a heart attack. He advised my husband to call the ambulance. Within 10 minutes it was there, and I was given oxygen and intravenous glucose. The heart monitor and the blood pressure cuff were put on without waste of motion, all the while I was being reassured by one or another of the four men. That team — Jim Reagan, Paul Woodin, Amos Bastiani and Greg Albright — are just part of our life support system.

Before they arrived Officer Wayne La Chappelle came in to assure us that help was on the way. He, too, quietly eased my fears.

My family is making a contribution to the Rescue Squad. When others who may need it in the future think about it, maybe they also will be moved to spare a few dollars.

Let them drink fluoride

Editor, The Spotlight:

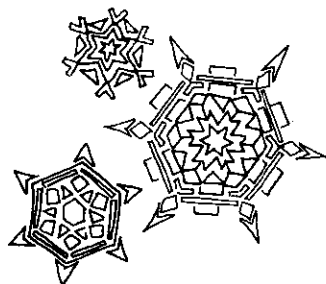

I notice a letter written by one Carol Schlageter-Chady regarding fluoridation of our water supply. The matter has absolutely no bearing on who is a Communist or who is trying to clone the late Senator McCarthy.

Fluoridation is adding medication unnecessarily to the water and therefore an infringement on the privacy or Constitutional Rights, if you will — of those who don't want it.

Mrs. S-C would have us believe the truth changes with the passage of time, but fails to tell us how or why. She loftily suggests that we buy bottled water if we object. Like Marie Antoinette, she would have us eat cake.

It all brings to mind how my father would give our cow a laxative to secure the desired result for his young children.

Community Corner

BATTER UP — ALMOST

One of the surest signs that Spring is closer than you think is the annual call for registration for Bethlehem's summer youth baseball and softball leagues. Tri-Village Little League registration is scheduled for the next two Saturdays at Bethlehem town hall and Clarksville school. Registration for the Bethlehem Tomboys' program will be held at Bethlehem Library Saturday.

For times and information, see the Spotlight calendar and the news article on page 29. Our community is fortunate to have these fine programs staffed by many parents and volunteers.
