NEW SCOTLAND

Rock bash to test new town ordinance

New Scotland's new town ordinance on large public assemblies will get its first test on Sunday at a rock music fest at Murray-Jennex Sunset Park, Orchard Hill Rd.

The event is billed in 12-by-6-inch flyers and posters as the annual Hullabaloo Summer Picnic in association with WYX 106." Ronald J. (Ron) Lasek, president of Kesalnor, Ltd, aka Hullabaloo Music Club, is the proprietor of the Hullabaloo, a Rensselaer night club featuring live rock with some big-name bands. WPYX is a local FM radio station with a rock 'n' roll format.

Lasek deplored the negative publicity generated last summer by Hullabaloo's efforts to sponsor a similar gathering of rock fans, first at the State University recreation facility on the Mohawk River near the Northway bridge at Crescent, and later at the Rock Candy Mountain ski facility north of Troy. Advance publicity of the event, promoted as "Drink and Drown," drew a public outcry that caused the Clifton Park town board to take steps to ban the event from the SUNYA site. When the locale was moved to Rock Candy Mountain, the town fathers in Schaghticoke stepped in, and the event never did come off. Earlier in the summer two persons were killed in traffic accidents following a rock concert at Lebanon Valley Speedway in Columbia County. Hullabaloo was not involved in that promotion.

New Scotland officials issued a permit to Lasek with some apprehension at a special town board meeting last Wednesday morning. The permit, the first to be issued under the new town law passed this spring, gives Lasek and the radio station permission to hold a gathering of up to 1,800 people at the park. Observed one official: "They (the applicants) met every condition specified in the ordinance, and there was no way we could deny the permit."

The promotional flyers being distributed this week and the WPYX radio plugs state that there will be 10 rock bands at Sunset Park Sunday playing continuous music from noon to 11 p.m., and that the $12.50 admission ticket includes food, soda and beer.

Lasek said this week he expects about 1,500 to attend the concert, which he says is an annual event for customers of his night club. He plans to have two stage sets, one indoors and one outdoors, and patrons will also be offered softball, Frisbee, volleyball and horseshoe pitching for recreation.

Lasek also said that approximately 60 off-duty police officers, firemen and others would be hired as a security force on Sunday, and that the Onesquethaw Fire Dept. Rescue Squad will be on hand "in the event someone gets too much sun or gets hurt playing softball."

The security force also will monitor drinking at the site, Lasek declared. He said each patron would be issued a hospital-type plastic identification bracelet that cannot be removed without being destroyed. Persons over 18 showing ID cards will be given bracelets of one color, those under 18 another color, he said, adding that "the guards will be especially alert to see that no minors obtain beer from the bar or bring alcoholic beverages in from the parking lot."

Lasek said last year's publicity was unfortunate in as much as Hullabaloo had sponsored a "very successful party at the Thompson's Lake Hotel" in the Helderbergs two years ago, which, he said, was attended by more than 2,000 people without any negative incidents.

NEW SCOTLAND

Democrats pick campaign slate

New Scotland Democrats are mapping a strong bid to wrest control of the town board from the entrenched Republican administration in November.

The 12-member town committee, meeting in caucus at the home of party chairman Thomas E. Dolin in Voorheesville Monday night, nominated one incumbent and five challengers for the 1981 local elections. The only missing slot on the slate is that of the candidate for supervisor, where Dolin was waiting for the caucus' choice to reach a personal decision on making the run. His name had not been disclosed as this newspaper went to press.

The key selection was that of Robert T. Mudge of Voorheesville, an Albany school-teacher and a village civic leader, for one of the two town council seats on the

"We'd like to prove to the people of New Scotland and the Bethlehem area that we can have a good time with good music and refreshments in a controlled environment," he said.

Sunset Park, a popular spot for steak roasts, clam-bakes and club outings, was leased three years ago by two well known local restaurateurs, Tony Trotta of Trotta's, Delmar, and Happy McTague of Happy's Coach House, New Salem. After two years of joint operation, the facility this year is being leased by Trotta alone.

Nat Boynton

Nov. 3 ballot. The other slot went to Herbert W. Reilly, Jr., Voorheesville mortician seeking his second term on the five-member board.

Mudge, immediate past commander of the Voorheesville American Legion post, teaches industrial arts at Albany High School. He has been active in the U.S. Army Reserve for 30 years and holds the rank of sergeant major. He also is Albany County coordinator for hunter training. Mudge is married and has three children.

New Scotland is the only one of the seven rural towns in Albany County under the GOP wing, but the Republican grip is slender. In recent years the four council seats have been divided 2-2, with the balance held by Supervisor Steve Wallace, a popular administrator.

Most of the pressure in the coming campaign will be focused on the four-cornered race for the two open council seats. The Republicans have nominated John Graziano of New Scotland and incumbent George Hotaling of Voorheesville along with Wallace and the present officeholders. In the vote count in November, the seats will go to the two candidates with the highest totals.

Hotaling suffered a heart attack at his home last week and is a patient at Albany Medical Center.

Rounding out the Democratic slate this week are:

- Highway superintendent - William Moak, Feura Bush, a retired superintendent of the batch plant at Callanan Industries who formerly operated a trucking and hauling business.

- Town clerk - JoAnn Donohue, Voorheesville, a part-time school volunteer, president of the Helderberg Garden Club and mother of four children.

- Town justice - Alan Joseph, New Salem, an Albany attorney who made an unsuccessful bid for the post in 1979.

- Tax collector - Martin F. (Marty) Zaloga, Feura Bush, an employee of the New York State Teachers Retirement System, leader of a dance band and lifelong resident of the town.

"We're confident we have a strong slate," said Dolin, an Albany attorney who succeeded Kenneth E. Tice as town chairman six years ago.

Seniors have new officers

The Bethlehem Senior Citizens Organization has announced new officers.

New officers are: Pauline Clegg, president; Ruth Stickler, vice president; Grace Osterhaut, second vice president; Ella Champlin, recording secretary; Cornelia Denn, membership secretary; Marguerite Morlock, corresponding secretary; Beatrice Meyers, treasurer; and Elizabeth Spinrad, historian. New committee chairmen are: Delia Milhan, tour director; Marguerite Kinsley, assistant tour director; Mary McCarthy, hospitality and social activities, and Florence Maher, publicity.

Art good enough to eat

There will be two craft programs for children at the Bethlehem Public Library Friday.

To celebrate the library's "Feast of Beastly Delights," children can come at 1 p.m. to make fingerpaintings made from pudding. School-aged children can come at 3 p.m. to make free-form snack sculptures.

Children must sign up for each 45-minute workshop, as enrollment is limited.

Reunion phone number

One of the phone numbers for the organizers of the ten-year reunion of the Bethlehem Central High School Class of 1971 was incorrectly listed in the July 16 edition of The Spotlight. The correct number for Scott Gill is 456-1619. The reunion is tentatively scheduled for late November, and the organizers are seeking class members who would like to attend.

Recovering

Thomas Green of New York City, who was revived July 18 at the Elm Avenue Park pool in Delmar following a severe heart attack, was listed Monday in fair condition at Albany Medical Center Hospital. Trooper's car hit, 2 arrests follow

An Albany man was ticketed Thursday after his car hit a state trooper responding to a call with his siren and lights on. While that mess was being cleared up, a Bethlehem police officer arrested another motorist for driving while intoxicated after the driver nearly ran him down.

The accident took place at the intersection of Rt. 9W and Rt. 396 as trooper L.A. Ryan was going southbound, according to state police. A car driven by Lewis E. Merritt, of 37 N. Lake Ave., entered the intersection as the light changed and the two cars collided. Merritt was ticketed for failing to give the right of way to an emergency vehicle and for driving with a suspended license. Trooper Ryan was treated at St. Peter's Hospital and released, and Merritt was treated at the Albany Veterans Administration Hospital and released.

As Bethlehem Police Officer Theodore Wilson was directing traffic after the accident a car just missed hitting him, he reported. Wilson pulled the car over and arrested Larry C. White, 43, of Selkirk. Because of a previous driving while intoxicated conviction, White was charged with felony DWI and remanded to Albany County Jail.

Church supper Saturday

A roast beef supper will be served at Trinity United Methodist Church, Rt. 143, Coeymans Hollow, Saturday, Aug. 1, from 4:30 to 7 p.m.

Two more paramedics

Two more members of the Delmar Fire Department Rescue Squad have graduated from the Regional Emergency Medical Organization's Advanced Life Support Academy in Colonie.

Lt. George TenEyck, assistant manager of Friendly Ice Cream in Delmar, and Raymond Linstruth, an officer in the Bethlehem Police Department, were certified by the state Department of Health and REMO Organization as "Advanced EMT — Category 4" (paramedic) on July 14. This brings the total number of paramedics on the rescue squad to 12.

Requirements for admission to the 500-hour training course are the completion of a state emergency medical technician course and having practiced regularly on an ambulance for at least a year.

The two additional paramedics come as the rescue squad continues its drive to raise money for a second advanced life support ambulance.

Town increases radio dispatchers

Bethlehem now has full-time radio dispatchers covering all but the midnight shift. The dispatchers handle not only police calls, but also calls for all the fire districts and rescue squads in the town.

The dispatching system has grown considerably since the town installed its new, centralized system in the new town hall last year. The object is to free more police officers for patrol duty.

Last week the town board approved the permanent appointment of three dispatchers—James Kerr, Mark Becker and Maurine Bartkus—who have passed civil service examinations for the job. The three will work full time, and Kathy Cooke, who also passed the test, will work part-time. Kerr, chief of the Delmar Rescue Squad, and Becker, who is disabled, are the two current full-time dispatchers.

Money for the three full-time positions was appropriated in this year's budget, but Councilman Edward Mocker still had reservations about the change. One of the original ideas, he said, was to provide a job disabled persons could do, but with three full-time people "it's going to limit the number of people we can put on."

In other action Wednesday, the town board:

- Tabled the planning board's decision not to make changes in the zoning of the north side of Delaware Ave. between the Christian Science Church and Borthwick Ave. The area, once slated to be in the new AB-Residential zone, was kicked back to the planning board after residents objected. Some town board members had expected the planning board to simply redraw the line.

Supervisor Tom Corrigan noted that there is no need to reconsider the area right away. Only two properties could be developed, and the owners would need zoning changes before proceeding. Mocker agreed, but said the decision not to take action should be "temporary, until we've had a chance to think about it."

- Learned that Albany County has imposed an eight-ton weight limit on the Jericho bridge, which crosses over the Selkirk railroad yards to link

Fernbank to get 2 stop signs

Despite misgivings, and despite some unexpected opposition by neighbors, the Fernbank Ave. petitioners got their way last week—the town will install stop signs at Palmer and Wisconsin avenues.

The decision had actually been made two weeks earlier, so the public hearing by the Bethlehem Town Board Wednesday was something of a formality. But board members made it clear to the residents who support the new signs that this is for a one-year trial period. Supervisor Tom Corrigan said he and Safety Commissioner Ralph Tipple have already worked out a plan for monitoring and enforcing the new signs.

"I think it's going to be worth some money for us," he said, noting that after police stepped up enforcement of the speed limit on Fernbank earlier this month 10 tickets were issued—all to people who live nearby.

Fernbank residents say something has to be done to control speeding on their narrow street, which now serves as a through street for many motorists going to and from the Delmar Bypass. The skeptics say stop signs are not designed to control speed, and will simply add to noise, pollution and law breaking.

"What stop signs may do is make a lot of people feel better," said Dan Berman, a federal highway official who lives on Keith Rd., which intersects with Fernbank.

Gerald DeMeur, a former town police officer who lives at 42 Fernbank, cited the problems of enforcing the signs. "I don't know why the people of the town of Bethlehem believe the streets are a place for them to play," he said.

But the residents who had petitioned the board remained firm. Several told of new incidents of speeding that made them fear for the safety of their children. "It's not even safe for them (the children) to play on our own property on the lawn because of the way they drive," said Maryeleanor Zierak of 68 Fernbank.

"Personally," said Councilman Edward Mocker when it came time to vote, "I think we're going for overkill on two." But, said Town Attorney Bernard Kaplowitz, no one has come up with a better idea for controlling speed. The trial was approved unanimously.

Boost those test scores

The Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Senior High School now has an individualized computer program to be used by its students preparing for the Scholastic Aptitude Test or other college entrance exams.

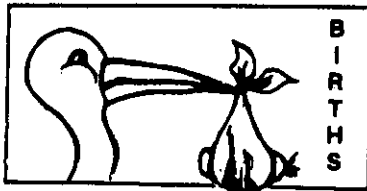

Open only to seniors and juniors at this time, the Micro-System 80 College Entrance Examination Preparation program utilizes an Apple II micro-computer in the high school's guidance office to provide practice in vocabulary development as well as verbal and math reasoning.

SELKIRK

Board seeks 'scentsible' solution

Frank Bunnell's zoning problem is as slippery as a greased pig: the part of his property where he keeps his pigs is unzoned agricultural land; if he moves the pigs to satisfy a neighbor, they'll be in a residential zone, where pigs aren't welcome.

The Bethlehem Board of Appeals last week aired Bunnell's request for a special exception to permit a piggery at his one-acre property on the west side of Rt. 144 in Selkirk. Bunnell said the pigs are for family use only—he plans on having no more than six at a time, and feeds them no garbage.

But he acknowledged an odor problem, especially when the weather is hot and humid. "This is more or less new to me," he told the board.

His neighbor, Mildred Babcock, told the board the problem is somewhat worse than Bunnell let on. She's down wind, and in warm weather she has to close the house up in order to be able to sleep. "I can't use my back yard at all," she said.

Mrs. Babcock said she has no objection to the pigs if the smell can be eliminated. Asked if the proposal to move the pigs to the western part of Bunnell's property, which is zoned A-Residential, would help, she replied, "I don't know."

There are no near neighbors on that portion of the property. In either case, however, the board would have to grant a special exception. It depends on which way the wind blows.

Lions install officers

The Bethlehem Lions Club recently installed the following officers for 1981-1982: president, Patrick Waters; first vice president, John S. Gardiner; second vice president, Michael Durant; immediate past president, John F. Thompson; secretary, Sylvester J. Bower; treasurer, Robert E. Morton; directors (two years), Frank J. Downs and Alan Hilchie; directors (one year), Joseph N. Silverman and Y. Eugene Levine; Lion tamer, Lee K. Landers, and Lion tail twister, Alfred J. Constanzo.

Oakbrook project put on hold

The Bethlehem Planning Board agreed last Tuesday to suspend indefinitely its review of the proposed Oakbrook/Oakview development following the death of developer Norman Burtman, president of Barlen Development Corp.

The board was in the midst of consultation with state officials concerning the plans for the 300-unit Oakbrook project when Chairman Edward Sargent received the request from Lindsay Boutelle, Burtman's representative and engineering consultant. In its latest form, the Oakbrook area had been presented to the board as a planned residential district.

"We agreed to suspend our review because as of this moment there is nobody making the request," Sargent said.

"I have no idea what's going to happen," concurred Boutelle. "All the work is already done. It's up to the corporation now."

Burtman was under contract to buy the Oakview site from the Herrick estate. That too, remains undecided, according to Boutelle.

In other business the board heard, informally, a proposal from surveyor Paul Hite to construct three homes on two acres of land owned by Joseph A. Albert on Gay St. off Vadney Rd. The proposal would require a three-lot subdivision in an AA Residential zone. The board saw no problems with the proposal, and Hite will return before it with more specific plans.

Driving course returns

The popular "55 Alive — Mature Driving" course will be offered again Aug. 20 and 21 at the Key Bank N.A. Delmar office.

The course, sponsored by the American Association of Retired Persons, allows mature drivers to "win three ways" — by reducing insurance costs, having points taken off a driver's license and by learning better driving skills.

FEURA BUSH

Town to seek funds for water

The long quest of Feura Bush residents for a public water system may have a happy ending next year if the town of New Scotland is successful in floating a $500,000 bond issue.

The proceeds would finance a trunk system hooked into a 16-inch line extending from the Albany city system's 48-inch aqueduct that traverses the town of Bethlehem and part of New Scotland near Feura Bush. Homeowners on the proposed system would foot the cost of the bond issue plus interest over a 40-year period as well as paying metered rates for consumption.

An agreement to tap the Albany supply was reached last week at a meeting attended by Albany Mayor Erastus Corning II, Supervisor Steve Wallace of New Scotland and Bethlehem Supervisor Tom Corrigan. The agreement permits Bethlehem to sell up to two million gallons per annum to Feura Bush residents in the town of New Scotland.

Bethlehem has contracted to purchase Albany water through a connection on Kenwood Ave., Elmsere, for the past two years, but cannot sell water to another system without permission from the city.

At a special meeting of the New Scotland town board last Wednesday, the board authorized the Ronald Loberge engineering firm of Colonie to prepare an application to the Farmers Home Administration (FMHA) for federal funding for the bond issue. Approval would mean an interest rate of 5 percent rather than the percent commercial rate, estimated by Wallace at 9 to 9½ percent.

The board is expected to determine boundaries for the proposed water district within the next several weeks and present the plans at a public hearing to be scheduled at a later date. If the timetable holds up, construction could start as early as next spring, Wallace said.

Laberge engineers investigated a proposal in the mid-1960's to set up a system for Feura Bush supplied by municipal wells, but the heavy content of sulfur in the aquifers in the area killed the project.

It's family fair time

The 39th annual Punkintown Fair, a family community event, has been scheduled by the New Salem Volunteer Fire Department for this weekend and next weekend.

Admission is free and there will be supervised parking. New attractions include animal exhibits by the Albany-Greene 4H Club, an amusement arcade and an old-fashioned hayride. Fred Carl, the fair chairman, is hoping that these extras will help to supplement the proceeds from the fair's traditional rides, games and snacks to help pay for the fire department's operating expenses.

Delaware Plaza to make changes

"We hadn't thought about it until she called," says Kay McCabe, manager of Delaware Plaza.

The caller was Mrs. Mildred LaKritz, who is handicapped with multiple sclerosis and arthritis; thanks to her persistence, Delaware Plaza soon will be much more accessible to handicapped people.

What Mrs. LaKritz asked for was two parking spaces for handicapped people near the Grand Union. Mrs. McCabe readily agreed, and ordered the necessary stencil to mark the spaces. In the meantime, a new law was signed by Gov. Hugh Carey requiring shopping centers to supply a minimum of 10 spaces for handicapped people. The law doesn't go into effect until January, but Mrs. McCabe said it makes sense to mark all 10 spaces as soon as the stencil arrives.

Mrs. LaKritz, who is active in the Multiple Sclerosis

Society, would like to see other changes in the Tri-Village area to make it easier for handicapped people to shop. She said one of her next targets is curb cuts at Delaware Plaza.

The handicapped are the only people who have been having access trouble at Delaware Plaza. During the long process of installing new traffic signals at the main entrance to the plaza, drivers have been continually confused by the turning lanes into the parking lot. Finally, however, the lights are in place and working, according to State Department of Transportation officials. They involve trip signals installed in the pavement to avoid unnecessary delays for Delaware Ave. traffic when no cars are on Normanskill Blvd. or at the plaza entrance. The DOT recently imposed a no parking area on Normanskill to insure that parked cars don't accidentally trip the signal.

Mrs. McCabe said the plaza management has asked the town for assistance in marking the entrance and exit lanes to the parking lot to avoid further traffic tie-ups.

In another development, Mrs. McCabe said a new paint store, Color Your World, is preparing to move into the old gas station property at the front of the plaza.

Chamber to sponsor baseball bus

The Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce has come to the aid of the baseball-starved segment of the public by setting up a charter bus trip for an evening with the Delmar Blue Jays.

The Blue Jays, one of the top-ranking amateur baseball teams in the Capital District, are currently locked in a three-cornered race for first place in the Schenectady Twilight League. The chamber is underwriting a bus trip for local fans Friday night, Aug. 7, to see the Blue Jays face one of the league contenders, Polish National Alliance (PNA), under the lights at Schenectady's Central Park.

The bus will leave the Bethlehem Middle School parking lot at 6:30 p.m. and will be back in Delmar no later than 11 p.m. The cost will be $2 for a bus seat, $1 for Babe Ruth, Little League and Tomboys ball players and fans 15 years old and under. There is no admission charge at the game. Bus reservations are required, and must be received at the chamber's post office box (PO Box 133) by Thursday, Aug. 6. Rain date is Monday, Aug. 10, when the Blue Jays play the Rotterdam Esquires.

A reservations coupon is printed on page 14.

"At these prices we won't cover expenses even if the bus is full," said Ed Danner, president of the chamber. "But we feel the Blue Jays represent Delmar and deserve our support. Besides, things are quiet in August and a night at the ball park will put some pep in the summer."

The Blue Jays, now in their fourth season, have no diamond in Delmar on which to play home games. A new requirement for liability insurance for the BCHS field was prohibitively costly, and right field at the diamond at the Elm Ave. town park is too short to accommodate hitters at this level of baseball. The team, managed by Rudy Toffenetti of Elsmere, won the Capital District League championship last year before moving to the Schenectady circuit.

The team features Mickey Brantley, a South Carolina college standout who led the league in runs scored and stolen bases last year, and Rich Verderese, second baseman from Cortland State. Verderese, Delmar's Al Bratt and third baseman Tim Liszewski of Erskine College led the league in starting double plays. Other local players are Ward Pahelen and John MacDonald, former Lehigh University pitcher.

In Voorheesville, The Spotlight is sold at the Grand Union and Voorheesville Pharmacy.

Brantley brilliant in Blue Jay win

Two picturebook throws by center fielder Mickey Brantley helped the Delmar Blue Jays to an 11-4 win over R.G. Roman Villa in a Schenectady Twilight League game at Central Park Monday night.

Brantley fired a one-hop trolley wire from left center to cut down an enemy runner at third in the fourth inning, and one inning later nailed a runner at the plate with a throw from deep center. He also slugged a two-run double to ignite a seven-run Delmar outburst in the third inning and later added a single. Delmar's Ward Phalen had three singles in four trips.

Neil Stickles was slow warming up, yielding four walks and two hits for four runs in the first frame, then scattered three singles the rest of the route.

The Blue Jays, now 7-3 in the league and 11-11 overall, have five games in eight days this week and next, including the special Bethlehem Night Friday, Aug. 7, with a charter bus taking fans to the park from the Bethlehem Middle School.

On the cover:

California girl

Girl scout Leah Galloway raised money for her trip which began this week by selling cookies and doing odd jobs. Money was also donated by the Hudson Valley Girl Scout Council, and there is still a deficit. Leah reports here on how she decided on her trip; when she returns, we'll expect another report. Ed.

Editor, The Spotlight:

Last November when the troop leader told everyone in the troop to send in an application to attend a Wider Opportunity, no one ever imagined that three of us from the same troop would be attending their first choices.

The application form had said that we could choose three programs. There were many possibilities, from right here in Glens Falls all the way up to Alaska. I finally came up with a first choice in California. It sounded very interesting because it was a varied sort of activity and used all of one's senses. But I was torn between that program and another one in North Carolina. It offered sailing, canoeing, and hiking. Well, North Carolina became my second choice and my third ended up being involved with hot air ballooning.

My family never thought I'd be spending two weeks of my summer vacation in Los Angeles. The California Girl

First rate' care

Editor, The Spotlight:

The following letter was sent on behalf of the Delmar Fire Dept. Rescur Squad to Philip Maher, administrator of the Bethlehem Parks and Recreation Dept.:

"On Saturday, July 18, our ambulance responded to an apparent drowning at the Elm Ave. Park Pool.

"The crew on the ambulance advises me that on their arrival, your staff of life-guards had already revived the patient, and were closely monitoring his condition. Our people were impressed by the first rate emergency care which was afforded the patient. In our judgement, they truly saved the man's life.

"I would like to extend my personal commendation and that of our responding crew to all the individuals involved. The incident graphically illustrates how well an emergency care system can work."

Community Corner

A Treat For Baseball Fans

We compliment the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce for a generous and thoughtful gesture to local baseball fans. The Chamber has chartered a bus—more than one if necessary—for next Friday, Aug 7, to take fans to watch the Delmar Blue Jays play a game in Schenectady under the lights.

The Blue Jays, composed of top local college players and experienced amateurs, are only a small notch below the Glens Falls White Sox of the Eastern League. They play on a well-lighted field with grandstands accomodating more than 1,000 spectators.

Clip the coupon on page 14 of this week's Spotlight and reserve seats for your family on the Chamber bus leaving the Middle School at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 7. You'll enjoy a good ball game, and also show appreciation for the Chamber's community gesture during the baseball strike.
