These cops no critics

The possibility that 34 paintings recovered following a Slingerlands burglary Sunday night may be quite valuable made Bethlehem police center of media attention in the Capital District Monday. But until Tuesday afternoon investigators were disclaiming any status as art critics and were frank to say they didn't know if the paintings, some with 19th Century dates, had any value at all.

That information would have to await the owner's return. "I'm anxious to talk to him myself," said Det. John R. Cox Monday. By Tuesday noon, Cox had established the value "in excess of $100,000" based on acquisition costs, but still hadn't pinned down the current worth of the haul.

Apparently, a statement by the alleged thief — repeated by police to callers from newspapers and television stations — that the paintings could be worth somewhere between $250,000 and $1 million was the basis of media interest in the story Monday. But police officials were just as happy to talk about how they turned a routine check into an arrest.

According to a report filed by Officer Paul Roberts, Roberts spotted a pickup truck with lights shut off pulling into a residence he knew was vacant because the owner had asked to have it checked while he was on vacation.

A short time later, the truck left the house, still with lights off until it reached the Cherry Ave. Extension. Roberts stopped the vehicle when it reached the Cherry Ave.-Kenwood Ave. intersection and, backed by detectives Cox and Charles Rudolph, inspected the contents. In the back were the 34 paintings, a variety of portraits, still lifes and pastoral scenes, and on the front seat were a china dish and two small vases.

Arrested for burglary second degree was Alan R. Vanderwood, 36, of 84 Cherry Ave., Delmar. Later that evening he was arraigned before Town Justice Roger Fritts and remanded to Albany County Jail.

Officers found a front foyer window of the house smashed and a hole cut in the garage door. Graffiti was written on an interior wall. Cox said he found numerous picture frames still hanging with the pictures missing.

BC graduates 358

Bethlehem Central's Class of 1982 officially ended its high school career at commencement ceremonies in the school's lower gym last Friday night.

Board of Education President Bernard [unclear] with awarded some 358 diplomas.

split evenly between boys and girls, 247 of whom had earned the regents version.

There were 53 honor graduates this year, the highest proportion BC has ever seen.

Who pays for slide at city water line?

A crew of Albany city workers got a surprise last week when they drove down the steep road that runs from the Del Lanes parking lot in Elsmere to the banks of the Norman-skill below. The asphalt on the city-maintained road had buckled into what seems like a well-formed step.

No one is sure how the step got there, but someone is going to pay a bundle for it. The reason is that the road runs parallel to the Albany water line, a massive 48-inch pipe that runs from the city reservoir in Coeymans through Bethlehem. Any threat to that vital water source requires prompt action.

So last Monday when Albany officials learned that the rain-sodden earth appeared to be shifting near the line, they took action.

The suspect: the land above the road, which had four years been used as a fill site by Niagara Mohawk crews and contractors. A fleet of trucks from John DeGiulio Inc., an Albany contractor that does extensive work in both the city and the town, arrived Monday night and began hauling away the loose dirt. All that night the trucks traveled back and forth between the bowling alley parking lot and the town's "clean fill" dump on North St. They worked all day Tuesday, and that night again were hauled through the night, this time to a landfill on Delaware Turnpike past the high school. "We had to let the people on North Street get some sleep," said Supervisor Tom Corrigan.

The cost for this emergency bucket brigade is not yet totaled up, but it is "going to be substantial, maybe as much as $100,000," Albany Corporation Counsel Vincent McArdle said Monday.

Who is going to pay? "I don't think there is any question that Niagara Mohawk, the problem was of their making," said McArdle.

That view is not shared by the utility company. "That, at this stage, is a legal question," said NiMo spokesman Ed O'Brien Monday.

Niagara Mohawk, he said, "is always looking for a place to put clean fill." The company had "verbal permission" to dump at the Del Lanes site because the owner wanted to increase the size of the parking lot.

Corrigan said dumping at the bowling alley "goes way back" probably to when Niagara Mohawk introduced gas lines in the area, some 15 years ago — and the town has no record of issuing a dump permit for the site.

McArdle said his office is "looking into" possible town liability.

In the meantime, no one is sure exactly why the road moved, but it's a good bet the area will be studied as never before by geologists and engineers. There's a lot of money at stake.

Town's Family Day is at the park

The Elm Avenue Park will be the site of "Family Day" on Sunday, July 4. Town of Bethlehem residents can participate in a variety of all-day events.

Young runners, aged nine to 14, can compete in a 1.2 mile road race beginning at 9 a.m. Registration starting at 8:15 a.m. will cost $1. A biathlon, consisting of a four mile run and a half-mile swim, will begin at 9:30 a.m. for all competitors aged 15 and older and who have paid the $3 registration fee earlier.

At 1 p.m. there will be a horseshoe tournament at the park's pits. No advance entry is necessary for this event. At 3 p.m., the all-stars of Bethlehem's Recreation Baseball League will take to the diamonds.

Tennis buffs can participate in a round robin, parent-child tournament sponsored by the Bethlehem Tennis Association at 10 a.m. Only a new can of tennis balls is needed for entry.

To satisfy hungry athletes, a bake sale sponsored by the Eleanor Roosevelt Developmental Services Center will begin at noon in the Park's warmup area, while free watermelon will be available throughout the day.

To the tunes of Skip Parson's Riverboat Jazz Band, the Bethlehem Business Women's Club will sponsor a chicken barbecue. The barbecue will be held rain or shine. Tickets for the food will be available on Family Day.

BETHLEHEM

The Village Volunteers Fife and Drum Corps' performance will conclude the day's events at 7 p.m.

All residents of the Town of Bethlehem are encouraged to participate in Family Day, as all pool fees will be waived.

Farm market to open

The popular farmer's market in the St. Thomas Church parking lot on Delaware Ave., Delmar, will reopen for the season on Friday, July 2. The market will be open Fridays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. through mid-October.

The Delmar market and a similar open-air market at St. Vincent DePaul Church in Albany are sponsored by the Roman Catholic Diocese of Albany's Office of Health and Social Services. According to Sister Serena Branson, executive director of the office, the markets give purchasers an opportunity to buy fresh produce at lower prices, avoiding the middleman.

R-C-S calls voter meeting

The Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Board of Education has called a special informational meeting for Thursday, July 8, to get voter input on what to do with the district's budget.

The 9.4 million budget was defeated by 30 votes in the June 23 election. The vote was 644 to 674, and 30 persons who voted for school board candidates failed to cast a ballot for the budget, according to Superintendent Milton Chodack.

Incumbent board members Robert Van Etten (703) and Ronald Selkirk (665) were elected to new terms.

The board met in special session Monday night, and agreed to suspend driver education this summer, and also to eliminate the summer buses for the Coeymans summer swim program, according to Chodack. But no other decisions were made, he stressed.

The meeting July 8 is "for people to come in and express their feelings. The board is there to listen."

Among the options available to the board are to leave the budget as is, which means that an austerity budget would be in effect and eight programs, including interscholastic athletics, some transportation and library funding would be eliminated; or to put specific areas up as separate propositions for a revote; or to modify the budget and resubmit it to the voters.

The original budget would have called for a $4.27 per $1,000 of assessed valuation tax increase in Bethlehem.

Piccolo taken

A piccolo valued at $300 was taken from a car parked in a driveway on Royal Blvd. Thursday, according to Bethlehem police.

The front hall of Elsmere School was filled with student's science projects during the last week of school. Exhibits included everything from horses to weather to whales, and drew a lot of interest from students, teachers, and parents.

Protection call backfires

Bethlehem police say two North Bethlehem residents tried to get state troopers to "protect" them when the local police answered neighbors' complaints about noise Sunday night. But the move backfired — the two women are in Albany County Jail facing felony drug counts as well as charges of falsifying a complaint.

Arrested were Pamela J. Grugan, 24, and Jean A. Moore, 31, both of 5 Elm Place. Also arrested on drug possession and disorderly conduct charges was Terry A. McGaughne, 24, of Troy, who was released on $100 bail.

According to reports, police had responded three times to complaints about excessive noise at the residence. The third time, Sgt. Roy Vanderbilt knocked on the front door and told the women he had come to arrest them. Instead of opening the door, they called State Police at Loudonville and reported a break in, according to reports.

But the troopers simply called Bethlehem police, who explained the situation. Vanderbilt then got an arrest warrant from Town Justice Roger Fritts, returned and arrested the three women. Inside, he noticed marijuana and drug paraphernalia. He then obtained a search warrant from Fritts, returned and uncovered 9.2 ounces of marijuana enough to support the felony drug possession charge.

To straighten Blessing Road

By Vincent Potenza

At its regular meeting last Wednesday night the Bethlehem Town Board accepted a deed that will allow the town to widen and straighten Blessing Rd. near Meadowbrook La.

But, according to Supervisor Tom Corrigan, actual work by town crews on the road probably won't begin until the end of summer, at the earliest. The new property acquisition will allow the town to eliminate the sharp curve originally built into the road.

In other business, the board:

- Approved extension of the water district to the Twenty Acres subdivision at Rt. 396 and 9W. Owners will pay all installation costs.

- Granted dumping permits to James O'Connell, Frank Morrison, Joseph Micare and Bruce Wood. The permits had the approval of town engineer and building inspector.

- Agreed to hold a public hearing to determine the need for yield signs at Linton St. and Dorchester Ave. at their intersection with University St. in the

BETHLEHEM

Skycrest subdivision. Traffic in the development was the main topic of discussion at a public hearing held by the planning board early in January for consideration of extending the subdivision. The town board's public hearing will be held July 28.

- Abandoned part of old Rt. 9W to adjacent property owners E. Crocker and D.M.V. Commercial Ventures by permissive referendum. Interested parties have 3 days to challenge the action. The state had abandoned the road to the town after completion of work on the roadway, and board members had expressed concern over liability for the property, now overgrown and long in disuse.

- Tabled a plan that would require Rosen-Michaels, developers of Chadwick Square off Wemple Rd., to install an eight-inch water main as well as a twelve-inch main to those lots within the water district. The eight-inch main would be installed first, and the twelve-inch as the subdivision was developed, according to the plan proposed by Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor, who said the developer was having trouble keeping schedule because of the economy.

- Approved the transfer of some $200 from the band fund to the summer basketball clinic in the Parks and Recreation Dept. so that the clinic could be held indoors. The outdoor basketball courts at the town park were not resurfaced in time, as planned, and Recreation Administrator Philip Maher had asked for the additional funding because enrollment has been lower than anticipated.

The board's next meeting is July 14, when it will hold a public hearing on a local law regulating new building in areas designated as "flood plains" along the Hudson River and the Normanskill.

It's a soldier's life for Maura

By Caroline Terenzini

It's good-bye, Bethlehem Central hello. Uncle Sam, for Maura O'Brien of Delmar. A West Point cadet's cap will soon sit on her curly red hair.

Why West Point? "Part of it is it's one of the best bargains I've seen," she said recently. Four tuition-free years plus monthly pay, out of which she'll buy uniforms and books. But money aside, it's a good education. "I've met West Point teachers and been in classes there; they're really into teaching and they do it well.

"Also, I want to stand behind my government. I'm loyal to my country and at BC, that's hard," Maura said.

"Things like Ground Zero (a movement in opposition to nuclear weapons) go over well here. Kids here are very intelligent and can be radical if they want to." In her high school physics class, she said, eight of the students might argue one side of a political issue such as nuclear disarmament while she would be on the other side.

Her view on the disarmament issue is: "We've got intelligent people in government. We voted for them; we ought to stand behind them."

West Point is a good place to do that, but there are a lot of hurdles to get over first. A student has to qualify academically, which Maura did with her 1,350 cumulative points on the Scholastic Achievement Tests in her junior year.

Extracurricular activities during high school help too. For example, Maura was vice president of the Bethlehem Teen-age Republicans, and reached the rank of first class senior scout after being in scouting since third grade. She was on the yearbook staff for three years, did indoor track for two years and played bass clarinet and contra-alto clarinet in the high school band.

There were numerous interviews, at West Point and with staff members for Congressman Sam Stratton and Sens. Alfonse D'Amato and Daniel P. Moynihan. (Nomination to West Point must come from a member of Congress). "I did ROTC (Reserve Officer Training Corps) interviews, too," Maura said, "as an alternate plan."

A physical aptitude test counts about 10 percent of the entrance points, and Maura had to obtain a waiver concerning her eyesight that came only days before she was to leave for the "beast barracks" initiation to West Point, which separates the men and women from the boys and girls.

The "beast barracks" phase is "a lot of running around and marching," Maura said, "like uphill with bricks in your pack and combat boots on."

There's also traditionally some pretty rough treatment by upperclassmen, but "I'm ready for hazing after living with my father for 18 years. He used to haze me about vegetables."

While rank has its privileges, sex has its drawbacks. "I sort of expect to be treated differently," Maura said. "Men are hard on women there. Still, I think I'm better off going to West Point instead of into the regular Army vis-a-vis competition with men."

Women will make up about 12 percent of the entering class of 1,400, she said.

Maura said her parents, Timothy and Marjory O'Brien (she is a member of the Bethlehem Central school board), have "no problem" with her choice of a military academy.

The choice was made in May a year ago, when Maura started the process of applying to West Point. "My guidance counselor (May Blackmore, now retired) helped me a lot with it," she said. "I think she was kind of proud of me."

"I'll probably stay with the Army at least 20 years," Maura said. "Maybe I'll go into politics . . . though I prefer systems engineering, really."

"The Army needs systems engineers and management engineers. There's a sure five years' employment (after graduation). And it's something I was going to do anyway."

So, why not West Point?

Citizens step up watch

Members of the New Scotland Town Civic Association have adopted a resolution to intensify their monitoring of New Scotland's planning board and town board on such issues as variances and sewer rates. The resolution approved at a meeting of the citizens' watchdog group stated in part: "We believe in making our town officials accountable to the various neighborhoods when they decide issues before the boards of the Town of New Scotland."

The association's lawsuit against the planning board challenging the validity of the board's split decision approving a special use permit for the Elks Lodge is pending in the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court in Albany. The board approved by a 4-1 vote last Dec. 22 the Elks' application for a permit to convert a vacant horse barn on Rt. 85 at Clipp Rd. to a lodge headquarters with dining facilities for 200. The association voiced strong opposition at three public hearings last fall, and filed a petition signed by more than 200 residents.

Anyone for Ping Pong?

The Bethlehem Parks and Recreation Department will sponsor a table tennis singles tournament on July 17, at the Bethlehem Town Hall Auditorium.

The tournament is open to residents of the Town of Bethlehem and Bethlehem Central School District and there is a $1 entry fee. Entry deadline is July 12 and entry blanks are available at the town hall and the Elm Avenue Park. Entries should be turned in at the park or mailed to Box 176-A, Delmar, 12054.

There will be divisions for male and female players in the following age categories: 12-15, 16-20, 21-34, 35-49 and 50 and older. Participants must wear sneakers and provide their own paddles or bats.

Council sets fall program

By Julie Ann Sosa

Sporadic attendance and a full summer break have slowed the pace of Bethlehem's Youth Advisory Council on Substance Abuse. Nevertheless, the group has compiled a tentative calendar of guests to speak to the town next fall and winter.

The central theme of the programs is to expose interested area parents to existing parent-generated organizations whose purpose is to combat drug and alcohol abuse in the community and, just as importantly, in the home.

The Youth Council first tested the idea of prevention education when it sponsored Dr. Robert Nible's visit last winter from the New York State Division of Substance Abuse Services. It was a major success, drawing well over 200 people on a Friday night to the high school auditorium. The council is now responding to the audience survey it conducted, which ranked prevention education, family structure and "supporting one another" as high priority themes for future programs.

Kicking off the fall roster of guests will be Nancy Haller of the PET (Prevention Education and Treatment) Program, a statewide organization designed to coordinate alcohol and substance abuse services with school and community programs. Tentatively, October will bring a member of the Pennsylvania-based Tough Love program, and November has been set aside for a CAPDA (Citizens Alliance to Prevent Drug Abuse) guest. In December, a representative from STEP (Systematic Training for Effective Parents) will speak, and Parent Power will address the community in January.

These groups are designed to give parents guidelines for toughening family rules and regulations in order to crack down on teen substance abuse. The council hopes to host the programs in the Bethlehem Public Library community room.

The council has enlarged its fold by inviting new members to attend the alternate-Monday meetings. Joining council director Philip Maher, of the Bethlehem Parks and Recreation Department, school spokesmen Lawrence Zinn of BC and Robert DeSarbo of R-C-S, John Shipherd representing town service clubs, and four high school students speaking for BC and Gunderland are Bethlehem Police Det. Fred Holligan and a representative of local business groups. The council's next meeting is scheduled for September at the Bethlehem Town Hall.

Over the summer, the Youth Council hopes to publicize the phone numbers, addresses, and services provided by Albany County's substance abuse programs.

Three scouts get Eagle badges

Three Delmar Boy Scouts were awarded Eagle Scout badges at a recent Eagle Court-of-Honor ceremony held at the Delmar Reformed Church. The new Eagle Scouts all belong to Troop 260, the "camping troop," which is sponsored by the Reformed Church.

Named to their new rank were Scott Estes, Jim Ferrari, and Pat Davis.

Scott, 18, is a Bethlehem Central High School graduate who will be attending Plattsburgh State College, where he will major in biology. The service project that won him the Eagle rank involved major trail rebuilding and maintenance at the Five Rivers Environmental Center.

Jim, 17, is a BCHS graduate who will attend Middlebury College next year. For his project, Jim submitted a list of broken street signs and street lamps to the town after he conducted a community-wide search for them.

Pat, who will be a junior at BCHS next year, cleaned and restored the John Slingerlands grave site in preparation for an archaeological dig, and also supervised the building of a sifter to be used in the dig.

Requirements for Eagle Scout include the accumulation of 21 merit badges and the completion of a worthwhile community service project in which the scout displays his leadership abilities.

Outdoor programs set

A series of outdoor investigations for children will be offered this summer at Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, Game Farm Rd., Delmar. Sponsored by Five Rivers Limited, these explorations will focus on plants and animals of field, forest and stream. Children entering grades 1, 2 or 3 can participate in one of the Explorer sessions. These three-day sessions will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Session 1 will meet July 27 to 29, Session 2 will meet Aug. 3 to 5, and Session 3 will meet Aug. 10 to 12.

Children entering grades 4 and 5 can choose one or more specific topics in three single-day workshops, which will be given from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Map and Compass will be the topic on Tuesday, Aug. 17, Stream Life on Wednesday, Aug. 18, and Wildlife of the Forest and Field on Thursday, Aug. 19.

A registration slip with additional program information and fees will be sent upon request by calling the center at 457-6092.

Ambulance bill near approval

A bill that would establish the Bethlehem Volunteer Ambulance Service as a separate district with a tax base has passed both the state Senate and Assembly and is waiting Gov. Hugh Carey's signature, according to Assemblyman Larry Lane.

The ambulance company currently operates as a volunteer service completely dependent on donations to cover expenses and equipment. The ambulance rotates between the three Selkirk Fire District facilities in Glenmont, Selkirk and South Bethlehem, and serves the residents of the Selkirk Fire District.

"In providing these valuable life-saving services they have encountered severe funding problems," said Lane. The bill was introduced at the request of the Town of Bethlehem. The special district will be contiguous with the Selkirk Fire District boundaries.

Town Supervisor Tom Corrigan said recently ambulance squad officials have approached him about obtaining town land on Rt. 9W near Jericho Rd. as the site for a garage for the ambulance.

Carnival time

The four-day Onesquethaw Country Carnival is scheduled for the weekends of July 9-10 and July 16-17 at the Unionville firehouse on Delaware Tpk. Sponsored by the Onesquethaw Volunteer Fire Company, the carnival will feature Skip Parson's Riverboat Jazz Band on July 16 and 17 and chicken barbecues on July 10 and 17 from 4 to 8 p.m. A fireatics competition will close the carnival on July 17 from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Anniversary committee appeals for parade floats

New Scotland's sesquicentennial committee this week issued a second appeal for local organizations to sign up for floats in the town's sesquicentennial parade on July 24.

"We haven't heard further from a number of organizations that have expressed interest in sponsoring a theme float in the Sesquicentennial Day parade," said Frances Vunck, parade co-chairman with Walter Miller. "We are hoping especially that the Scouts and other youth groups will decorate floats as a summer project."

Meanwhile, the committee announced that Richard A. Ahlstrom, publisher of the Spotlight, has offered a $100 prize for the best float in the march. Mrs. Vunck said this week that the prize may be divided into cash awards for two or three categories, such as best overall float, best theme float or most creative float.

So far, float entries are expected from the Helderview Garden Club, Unionville Reformed Church, Clarksville Community Church, New Scotland Lodge of Elks and New Scotland Opportunity Club, plus several others, Mrs. Vunck said.

The parade will form at the New Salem Fire Dept. Punkintown Fair grounds at 9 a.m. July 24 and march to the Voorheesville High School parking lot. On the day's calendar are historical exhibits, demonstrations of old-time crafts and occupations, sack races, hoop rolling, horseshoe tournaments and other games for children and adults, demonstrations by fire departments and food and refreshment booths. Among the demonstrations will be chair caning, pottery making, candlemaking, weaving and quilt-making.

Parade float themes include Our Indian Heritage, The Patroon Years, 1832 and the Temperance Movement, Anti-Rent War, Ethnic Heritage, Coming of the Railroads, Growth of Churches, Advent of the Automobile, New Scotland Sons Go to War, and Looking to the Future.

Also on the July 24 agenda are crowning of the winners of the New Scotland Lad and Lassie contest, open to all town residents in the high school classes of 1982 through 1985.

The committee is also continuing its quest to find the oldest native of New Scotland still residing in the town.

The year-long observance of the town's 150th birthday, officially April 26, will continue into 1983 with various other events. Among them will be a beard-growing contest, with judging to be on April 9 next year.

Camp Pinnacle opens

Camp Pinnacle begins its 85th year of summer camping on Saturday, July 3, with a week of evangelism and special music. The music and preaching will be provided by the Joe Talley team. Joe and Marion Talley are gifted musicians playing trombone, electric steel guitar, banjo, piano and organ. Vocal music will be provided by staff soloist Judi Riter of Schenectady.

The summer program officially begins with a smorgasbord from 5:30 to 7 p.m. on Saturday and a sacred music concert to follow at 7:30 p.m. Sunday services are at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., and the team can be heard each night at 7:30 throughout the week.

Pinnacle is a resident guest camp and is open to anyone to come and share the mountaintop location just above Thatcher Park. Guests may come for a day, a week or a month. Recreational activities are available and food is served. In addition to the adult and family Bible conference which features guest speakers each week, the camp provides separate programs for teenagers and a camp for juniors 8-12 where horseback riding, mini-bike riding, swimming and canoeing are part of the daily activities offered on the 800-acre facility.

Y pool available

Seniors can cool off this summer at the Albany YWCA. The pool will be open to seniors from 7 until 8 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from July 5 to Aug. 29 for a nominal fee.

Town paving program set

Six town roads are on the priority list for New Scotland's 1982 paving program, according to Peter Van Zetten, town highway superintendent.

Van Zetten, currently recuperating at home from surgery at Albany Medical Center June 17, said the list is still tentative, pending approval of the town board at its July 7 meeting.

Slated for repaving are Clipp Rd., approximately one mile between Rt. 443 (Delaware Tpk.) and Diamond Hill Rd.; Rarick Rd., three-fourths of a mile, and Bullock Rd., approximately one quarter-mile between the power line and Orchard Hill Rd. These roads will be surfaced with one coat of base macadam and a second coat of seal asphalt.

The following town roads are scheduled for retopping: Onesquethaw Creek Rd., approximately one mile and a third between the Onesquethaw Creek bridge and Mead's Corners and Orchard Hill Rd., approximately one mile. A short stretch on the northern end of Clipp Rd. between Rt. 85 and Hurst Rd. will also be retopped if the budget permits, Van Zetten said.

No date has been set for the start of the projects, depending on the availability of Moto-Paver equipment.

Local artists cited

Two Bethlehem artists were among 14 prize winners honored at last weekend's first annual Stuyvesant Plaza Invitational Art Competition. Robert Longley of Slingerlands was the winner of the Flah's Award, and Allen Yarinsky of Delmar the Adam and Eve Award. Frank Litto of New Baltimore won the $500 first prize for a wooden sculpture. A total of 88 artists submitted 175 entries.

Voorheesville News Notes

Maryann Malark 765-4392

The third in a series of summer concerts will be presented on Sunday, July 4, at 3 p.m. in George Hotaling Evergreen Memorial Park. The Joe Tally family accompanied by banjo, Bavarian guitar, trombone and organ will present a medley of Christian music selections. Judi Riter will be guest soloist. The group will be appearing at Camp Pinnacle from July 4 to 9 at 7:30 p.m.

For the past two years there have been two valedictorians named at the Voorheesville High School. Channel 6 News, represented by Ernie Tetrault, thought it interesting enough to come out to Voorheesville and interview this year's recipients, Melanie Mitchell and Colleen McCurdy. The piece aired on Wednesday, June 23, on the 6 p.m. news.

Each year the American Legion Auxiliary sponsors a school of government called All State. This year the Voorheesville American Legion will send Mary Beth Paradise to Girls State at Cazenovia College and Jim Smith to Boys State at Morrisville College from June 27 to July 3. While attending All State, Mary Beth and Jim will learn about the function of our government and will become members of an actual government that is organized soon after the participants arrive. To be eligible to attend All State, the students first must be a member of the junior class of a senior high school. They must also possess qualities of leadership, courage, honesty, scholarship, cooperativeness and physical fitness.

Elementary and High School students in Voorheesville have been winding up the school year with picnics and awards assemblies. First graders recently enjoyed three-legged races, tug-of-war and kickball contests during their final days. To tie in with their study of Norway, Mrs. Knapp's second graders delighted in a smorgasbord lunch prepared by parents.

At an assembly held on the last day of school, awards were presented to one student in each section of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. For most improved student in reading the winners in the fourth grade are Jessica Killar, Lisa McClelland, Elizabeth Greenberg and Krista Wagner; in the fifth grade Stacey Turner, Craig Lapinski, Julie Strohmer, Ann Bieksza, Kevin Russo and Paulette Galusha; and the sixth grade Mickey Schoonmaker, Joe Lasch, Shannon York, Scott Mattimore, Michael Mur-nane and Jennifer Wakefield. Most improved students in arithmetic in the fourth grade are Lucinda LaDuke, Robert Galusha, Robert Pastore and Jennifer Kramer; fifth grade, Jennifer Zeh, Maureen Herlihy, Tanya Chyrywaty, Natalia Bausbach, Janet Engelhardt and Bridget DePasquale; sixth grade, Todd Porter, Matthew Dolin, Leonard Mertins, Tom Hampston, Ginger Schwartz and Christopher Mirabile.

Don Otterness presented the most improved student in fourth grade reading award to Michael Mazuryk.

The PTSA presented the Most Improved Student award to fourth graders Troy Johnston, Colleen Allard, Michael Gholson and Richard Oliver; fifth graders Jeffrey Peirro, Brendan Burke, Ted Houghton, Christopher Dell'Acqua, David DeAngelis and Sean Connors; sixth graders Kevin Tyrell, Melissa Donnolly, Jennifer Timmis, David Veeder, Megan Hladun and Claude Rodrique.

Best All Around Student awards went to fourth graders Christopher McDermott, Christian Scharl, Alice Warden and Tracy Stevens; fifth graders Carey Donohue, Stephanie Reh, Elaine Vecchio, Tara McMartin, Patrick Ryan, and David Larabee.

The DAR presented honor awards to sixth graders Renee Hunter, Janine McAssey, Eswin Sapienza, Staci Loewy, Jennifer Meilinger and William Warnken.

Odel Bradon presented Renee Hunter with a savings bond to honor the Virginia Sellnow Safety Award.

Winners of the fourth grade spelling bee were Kyle Relyea and Lori Wood.

Mary Beth Paradise and Jim Smith are Voorheesville's All Staters this year.

Ding-a-Ling is back

Brian Collis, who has operated the Mr. Ding-a-Ling touring ice cream truck to the delight of kids and perspiring adults, is back in circulation in Voorheesville with the blessing of the village board.

The board voted 4-1 to renew his license, but at last week's regular monthly board session, a request by Matthew Burde of Crow Ridge to operate a similar business was tabled. Said Mayor Milton F. Bates: "We need more information."

Board sets summer rates

The Voorheesville village board has allocated $5,800 for staff salaries in its summer recreation program. The board at its regular June meeting last week confirmed the appointment of Terrence (Terry) Barlow as director of the program at a salary of $1,400, and two assistants at $800 each.

In other action, the board:

- Approved trash collection twice weekly, starting in July.

- Received an application from Charles Palmer of Schenectady to establish a family entertainment center on Main St. at the site of a former pinball and game room that was criticized as a nuisance by neighbors. Palmer proposes full supervision from 2 to 10 p.m. week nights, 2 to 11 p.m. Fridays and noon to 11 p.m. Saturdays.

- Approved establishment of a child care center to be operated by Jill DePasquale and Patti Burnham at 22 Grove St. Hours will be 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays from early September to mid-July.

Village sets strategy on Salem Hills rates

Voorheesville's village board was scheduled to decide a course of action on the latest chapter of the Salem Hills sewer controversy this week following a rebuke from residents of the subdivision.

Mayor Milton F. Bates called a strategy session for Tuesday night to discuss legal alternatives facing the board. At the informal meeting, which was to take place several hours after this newspaper went to press, Bates and village trustees were to meet with attorneys to evaluate the course the board should take in its role as a local-level utility regulatory body.

The Salem Hills Sewerage Corp., a subsidiary of Rosen-Michaels, Inc., is requesting an increase in the monthly sewer fee from $20 to $69.26 for each of the development's 276 dwellings. The 90-day time limit for the board to act expires on July 27.

Scheduled to attend this week's strategy session were Jeffrey Stockholm, an Albany attorney formerly on the legal staff of the state Public Service Commission; Kenneth J. Connolly, a Salem Hills resident serving as special counsel to the village board in the sewer rate case, and Donald Meacham, village attorney. Stockholm has been retained by the village as a counsel familiar with rate-making procedures.

A score of Salem Hills homeowners attended last Tuesday's regular monthly meeting of the village board to press Bates and the trustees to protest the rate boost. Usher Fogel, an Albany attorney retained by the Salem Hills Park Association, delivered a letter requesting the board to hold "formal evidentiary hearings" on the rate proposal and to reject the proposed increase.

Several residents challenged the mayor, contending the board "is not representing us (Salem Hills residents)," and rebuked board members for allegedly failing to publicize the rate proposal filed on April 29. Bates denied the allegations, assuring the audience that the rate matter "is not going to be ramrodded through. It will be done the way it should be done."

The board sent notices for the calendar of coming events of both the Spotlight and the Altamont Enterprise to publicize an informational meeting on the sewer rate proposal held by the board at Voorheesville High School on June 14.

Last November the board granted the sewerage firm a $6 raise in the monthly rate to $20, but ignored a $210 retroactive surcharge imposed by the utility in a letter of notification sent to Salem Hills homeowners. The letter followed an Appellate Division ruling earlier in November that upset a State Supreme Court decision upholding the $14 rate set by the village board in 1978.

Also at the November meeting, Bates advised Salem Hills residents to disregard the utility's notice that its billing cycle was being changed from quarterly to monthly.

In the new round, the utility is seeking a raise from $20 to $46.92 in the monthly rate, plus a surcharge of $22.34 a month for one year. The firm contends that it has been operating the private collection system and sewage treatment plant at a loss, and that the red ink has been compounded by system improvements mandated by state and county health and environmental agencies.

Focus On Faith

Rev. Mark Bratrud

Full Gospel Fellowship Church

Some graffiti brightly painted on a city wall read, "God is Dead" signed, "Nietzsche." Nietzsche was a German philosopher who died in 1900, so obviously he did not paint the line. However, he was active promoting the idea that God was dead. He taught that God at one time lived and was the creator, but after things had been set in motion, He was not longer active in human lives, so he must have died.

Even if He wasn't dead, man must live as if He was. Man is his own god and must find in himself the way to happiness. This philosophy is still alive today as many feel we don't need God, that we are our own saviour, and that with more education, social programs and technology, man can create his own utopia. All too often, we still live as if God was dead.

Further down that same wall was painted yet another quote. It read, "Nietzsche is Dead" signed, "God." Nietzsche had a mental breakdown in 1889 and died 11 years later. Unfortunately, his humanistic philosophy and lifestyle has not died. Man still lives as if God was dead and that man himself is his own god and saviour.

History proves that both are false. Man cannot save himself. Despite advanced knowledge, technology and a multitude of social programs, man is still searching for the happiness that eludes him. He continues to be dominated by his own sinfulness. He still kills, hates, and is driven by pride and greed. Our world grows more violent by the day.

Individuals still strive to find the lost happiness that escaped the generations before them. Despite all advancements, many remain lost and empty only to waste their life away. Man cannot save himself because his nature is inherently sinful. He cannot escape himself.

An empty tomb and millions of transformed lives prove that God is very much alive! Jesus said, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life!" Millions have found the reality of peace and happiness through the Risen Saviour. Jesus rose from the dead and is alive. He alone can produce genuine happiness and meaning in this troubled world. He is the Truth, and the Life. He is the Way. It is not in ourselves, but to be found in Jesus Christ.

There is no need to live without hope and happiness. Jesus will come into anyone's heart who will believe His promise and surrender their life to Him. He has said, "you must be born again, born of the Spirit." By faith, turn to Jesus the Risen Saviour and ask Him for this new life. Then indeed you will know that God is alive and offers the life of peace and fulfillment man has been searching for.

Friendly Town hosts sought

The Fresh Air Friendly Town Program, a Latham-based group, is searching for host families to provide temporary homes for children from the New York City area for a two-week vacation. Sponsored by the Latham Kiwanis Club, the local Fresh Air Program is designed to give inner city children a chance to temporarily escape urban problems for a short stay in rural or suburban areas.

Last year, 525 New York City youngsters came to the Capital District, and a number of them were hosted by Bethlehem families. This year, the children will arrive at the Colonie Community Center, 1653 Central Avenue in Colonie, on Tuesdays, July 6 and July 20. Host Night, a social to acquaint new hosts with the program, will be held on Tuesday, July 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Colonie Community Center. Picnics to welcome the children are scheduled for Wednesdays, July 7 and 21 at the Colonie Town Park.

Money market funds: how safe?

The biggest question investors ask about money market funds is: "how safe are they?"

And because that question has no simple answer, eight out of nine small investors still have their money in the bank. The reason, of course, is there is nothing safer than a bank and its FDIC insurance protection.

With a money market fund your money is only as safe as the investment the fund manager makes. Still, most money funds make "very safe" investments. They usually put their money into insured bank Certificates of Deposit (CDs), Treasury bills and overnight repurchase agreements, both of which are guaranteed by the federal government.

So far, so good, but they also invest in commercial paper — in other words they make loans to corporations. And when you stop to consider that businesses are going bankrupt at a record-breaking rate of 500 a week, you begin to understand why investors are worried.

A dozen banks either failed or merged last year and not one depositor lost money. The money funds can't beat that claim.

Money market officials used to point out that it's the banks that are failing, not the money market funds. But that argument only goes to show how well the FDIC system works. A dozen banks

Right On The Money

either failed or merged last year and not one depositor lost money. The money funds can't beat that claim.

Instead, they have created a risk-free money market fund. These are popularly known as "government-only" money funds. And they give you the best of both worlds — safety and high yields.

Government funds are safer than regular money market funds because they invest only in securities backed by the federal government. Right now, those type investments are paying nearly 12 percent interest so you are not giving up much for added safety (about one percent). So it shouldn't be surprising that these funds have become the hottest thing in the mutual fund industry.

There are now 42 government funds to choose from (there were only four in 1979) and a half-dozen more on the way. In the past 12 months alone, deposits have doubled to more than $16 billion.

But before you switch to a government fund, be sure you know exactly what investments it makes. Some "government-only" are safer than others.

The reason is that some of the funds also make investments that are not backed directly by the government.

If you want maximum safety, you want a fund that invests only in Treasury securities — T-bills, notes and bonds. They are completely risk free because they are directly backed by the government. The important word here is "directly." That means if the country ended up in financial trouble, the government would pay off all its treasury obligations before it did anything else. In other words, you are first in line.

There are 12 Treasury-only funds on the market. You can locate them by writing the Investment Company Institute, 1775 K St. NW., Washington DC 20006.

... before you switch to a government fund, know exactly what investments it makes.

Other government funds don't limit themselves to Treasuries. They also make investments that carry slight risk. These include investments in the Federal National Mortgage Corporation (Fannie Mae), the Small Business Administration, the Student Loan Marketing Association and international agencies like the World Bank.

These are all fine-quality investments, but the important difference is that they are not directly guaranteed by the federal government.

You are betting that Congress will be willing to bail out these agencies if they got into financial trouble. While it might be hard to believe Congress wouldn't, you should know there are no automatic assurances that it will.

The way to pick a government-only fund is to determine how much safety you want for your money. Then read the prospectus for a list of investments. In general, the greater the safety, the lower the yield, so check the tradeoff between safety and yield.

Energy grant recommended

The state Energy Office has recommended the Voorheesville Central School District be given a federal grant to improve the energy efficiency of the Voorheesville Elementary School. The recommendation, which must be approved in Washington, is part of a statewide program of capital improvements to public buildings to make them more energy efficient, according to Assemblyman Larry Lane.

The elementary school would receive $29,572 under the Federal Institutional Buildings Grant Program, if state recommendations are approved. This is part of approximately $3.5 million that has been requested for structures statewide. Those structures which have received state approval have been selected from $14 million worth of conservation improvement requests.

Bakery business is a pleasure

When Annie Cossac graduated from Junior College of Albany last year, jobs were hard to find. She had two diplomas — one from Voorheesville High School and the other an associate degree in fine arts from JCA — and some job experience — two years working in the state Legislature.

On June 12 Annie opened Voorheesville's newest business venture, Annie's Bake Shop, at 5 South Main St. in the heart of the village. The building is one of the most familiar in town — familiar meaning well known, and familiar meaning it has been in the Ricci family for more than half a century. Annie's uncle, Mike Ricci, was born in the building and now runs Ricci's Market, a business founded by his father more than 55 years ago.

To prepare for the new business, Uncle Mike and his two nieces, Annie and Mary Grace Cossac, scrubbed the whole place, sanded the floor and put a finish on it that makes it look like new.

Annie's mother, Corinne Cossac, who helps bake the town of New Scotland's most popular pizzas at Smith's Tavern in the village nights and weekends, also helped Annie get started in the business world. Mrs. Cossac is the New Scotland town clerk and an officer of the Helderberg Business and Professional Women's Club.

What's Annie's specialty? "Special breads and pies," says the 23-year-old businesswoman. "We always have cookies, but we'll make any kind of bread or pie you want."

When a Spotlight reporter found her at 8:45 one morning last week, Annie was slicing fresh strawberries. That's in line with her policy of no pre-fabricated, foods, just fresh fruit — strawberries, peaches, apples or whatever.

BUSINESS

How did a fine arts graduate get into the bakery world?

Pitcher shines in Babe Ruth

The Voorheesville Babe Ruth Baseball League's pitcher of the week title could very well belong to Kevin Conley of the Spotlight Red Sox, who pitched a four-hitter and had 13 strikeouts against St. Matthew's, leading the Red Sox to a 9-1 win. Pounding the St. Matthew's defense were the Spotlight's Ken Rafferty, who tripled, doubled twice and singled once, and Brian Culnan and Gerry McNamara, claiming a triple and a single apiece.

Undaunted in the losing cause were Brett Hotaling, who doubled and singled, as well as chuck Gianatasio and Mike McCarty, both of whom got to first with their hits.

The Rod and Gun Twins' game against Kiwanis saw a couple of sluggers go at it. Joe Rissberger of the Twins donated his team's home while Kiwanis' Pete McMillan added a triple to his over-the-fence bomb. The scoreboard read 18-5, Rod and Gun, at the end, thanks to the Twins Brian Rubin, who labelled a single, double, and triple with his name, and Chris Andriano, who had a three-bagger.

On Thursday, St. Matthew's came back from the Spotlight trouncing to edge the Rod and Gun team, 15-12. Kyle Larabee doubled and singled for the winners, while Ed Mitzen and Mike Larabee each singled twice.

Singles were popular among the losers, with Kevin Quackenbush travelling to first three times, Greg Toutto twice, and Joe Bicksya once, sending two runners home with the single.

The Spotlight registered a second win Thursday, downing Kiwanis, 18-5, and a third on Saturday, this time over Rod and Gun, 12-9. Gerry McNamara and Conley led the Sox attack Thursday, having a double and two singles, and a one, two, and three bagger, respectively. Wes Knapp chipped in three singles.

Brereton Bissell single thrice, Dave Whitely twice, and Pete McMillan once, driving two teammates home, for the losers.

Saturday's Red Sox win at the high school diamond saw Rafferty add a double and two singles to his accomplishments, Brian Culnan a triple and single, and Mike Lans two singles.

Tennis teams split

Delmar's representatives in the USTA/Michelob Lite league, which matches tennis players of similar ability in team competition, won one match and lost one in Capital District action last week. The 3.5 team, captained by Barbara Bunker, beat the Troy team 5-0, while the 4.5 team led by Lynn Corbin lost to Schenectady 2-3.

If your Spotlight doesn't come in Wednesday's mail, call 439-4949.

Bethlehem's Recreational Baseball League honored last year's winners Monday night before the teams squared off in pursuit of this year's title. Michael Soeller, left, received the 1981 batting championship trophy from league president Bruce Austin. Town Parks and Recreation Administrator Philip Maher presented the league championship trophy won by Delmar Masons to John Schoch, representing the Bethlehem Masonic Lodge. Schoch is also the league's chief umpire.

Heiser (again) tops standings

The name Paul Heiser reappears at the top of the Bethlehem Babe Ruth Baseball League's leading batters list this week. The Skippy's Music star was effective in 20 of 35 trips to the plate, dropping his batting average from last week's sizzling .600 to .571.

Heiser's closest rival, National Savings' Jim Dering, is well back, although he did manage to raise his average to .552 thanks to 16 hits in 29 times-at-bat. Close at his heels is Steve Mendel of Main Care Heating with 11 hits in 20 trips, followed by Rick Bennett of Skippy's, whose .533 average makes him the only other batter in the League over .500.

Other hot bats belong to John Harris of GE (.475), Kevin Roohan of Blue Cross (.407), Andy Kasius, also of BC-BS (.405), Tom Burke of National Savings (.375), Rich Keefe of Main Care (.364) and Tom Schrempl of National Savings (.357).

Ties for homer lead

The Tri-Village Little League's home run hitter title is now shared laurel thanks to the Spotlight's Kevin Ryan, whose active bat slammed two homers last week to tie him with Paul Evangelista of General Electric for the lead in the major league.

On the mound, Mike Tremblay and John Waddingham were the pitching duo largely responsible for the senior league's 13-year-old division lead remaining in the hands of K-Mart. They effectively capped Central Datsun at the plate.

The week's most unbalanced match up was in the game pitting the 13-year-old division's Owens Corning Fiberglass versus Applebee's Funeral Home, which was literally "buried" under the Owens Corning platework. The game ended 17-3.

The 14-15 year old division provided local baseball fans with more excitement, seeing Manny Hanny come back from a loss early in the week to the division's basement team, Starwood, to edge second place challenger Handy Andy, 10-9, and move back into first place.

Soccer fields full

The Bethlehem Central High School's soccer fields were filled to overflowing last Saturday when the Bethlehem Soccer Club celebrated its end-of-the-season intracub tournament day. Under the direction of 56 parents serving as head and assistant coaches, the cleated young feet of almost 300 soccer fanatics played a total of 47 soccer games which, end to end, would last 940 hours.

The tournament began early Saturday morning and reached its conclusion at 2 in the afternoon, thanks to the organization of Connie Tilroe and Dick Matarrese.

What could be more safe?

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am a student at the Bethlehem Central Middle School. I read the article about Escape Arcade in last week's Spotlight and I want to set the record straight. I think kids need a decent place to be rather than on the streets. I happen to think Escape is one of the best there could be. The darkness in Escape makes it more fun. You can see the games much clearer. After all, what could be more safe than a decent, clean, fun arcade that is very carefully supervised. By the way, they do sell lolly pops and candy and give away free popcorn and balloons.

Try it, you'll like it

Editor, The Spotlight:

I read with disgust the letter written by Sol Nuienberg regarding Escape Arcade.

I strongly suggest that you visit the Arcade and find out for yourself whether the establishment is safe or not.

My family and I frequent the game room and we find it to be nothing but clean fun for all ages.

It's people like you, Mr. Nuienberg, who ruin the fun for all the teens in this town and try to ruin the names of reputable establishments and decent people who run them.

I'll give you a tour of the Arcade, Mr. Nuienberg, anytime.

The Bethlehem Town Board will hold a public hearing July 12 to consider a proposed change in the terms of office of the supervisor, town clerk and superintendent of highways from two years to four years. If the proposal is accepted by the board, it will go to the voters for approval in the November election.

Preliminary grading is under way on the five-acre site at the northeast corner of Kenwood Ave. and Cherry Ave. Extension following final approval last week by the Bethlehem Planning Board for a 36-unit apartment complex proposed by the Equinox Corp. The board has also granted preliminary approval for four duplex houses on Elm Ave. just east of the town park. A sizeable group of residents of the area voiced strong opposition at two public hearings held by the board, citing drainage problems at the site.

A 100-foot tower for the Bethlehem Video, Inc. CATV system now in construction is expected to be delivered to the Elm Ave. site on or about July 10, according to a company announcement.
