Tax rise held to 3.8 percent

Public Works Superintendent Bruce Secor.

The board accepted the revised budget at a special meeting Monday and set 8 p.m. Nov. 4 for the public hearing on the document. Corrigan had said earlier that this year, for the first time, the budget will not be just numbers — there will be some written narrative to make it more understandable to the average taxpayer.

As proposed earlier this month by Corrigan and Councilman Robert Hendrick, the budget called for a $2 per $1,000 tax increase, but that figure was arrived at before the board had had time to review in detail some of the requests from department heads. That review came last Wednesday evening, and by

The election lineup

The Nov. 2 election has several interesting twists for local voters. First, altered boundaries due to reapportionment have changed the look of some districts: in New Scotland, for instance, voters are now in the 104th Assembly District and will have a new assemblyman whichever way they vote.

Then there is the four-way race in the realigned 23rd Congressional District, where the focus is on the issues of national security and the nuclear freeze movement — particularly active in Bethlehem.

Here's a run-down of the candidates in local elections in Bethlehem and New Scotland.

104TH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT

Richard J. Connors of Albany has Democratic and Liberal party backing in his bid for a fourth term. Bob Bain of Guelderland has Republican and Conservative endorsement in his bid for the seat, which now covers most of Albany plus the towns of New Scotland and Guelderland.

Connors attended Christian Brothers Academy, Albany, and Albany Business College. He also studied at the University of Buffalo and Siena College. He was a member of the Albany Common Council for 20 years, and was its elected citywide president for 15 years before being elected to the Assembly. He is an insurance broker. During World War II, Connors was an Army cryptographer. Among other associations, he is a member of the Albany County Board of Health and a trustee of the Albany Public Library.

Bain graduated from Shaker High School, where he was senior class treasurer and an athlete. He earned a bachelor's degree in political science from Union College in 1974, and shortly thereafter joined Associated General Contractors. He is treasurer of the New York State Highway Users Conference.

102ND ASSEMBLY DISTRICT

Clarence D. "Larry" Lane of Windham has Republican and Conservative endorsement for re-election to his 11th term.

Bernard C. Melewski, 31, of Coeymans is challenging Lane in the rural district, which covers the Town of Bethlehem.

Lane attended Windham High School and graduated third in his class from Ithaca College. He also studied at Columbia University, and was a second

Halloween safety tips

As little ghosts and goblins head out for some treats Sunday, run down this checklist from the Bethlehem police to be sure they are safe. Bethlehem police officers and members of the Ladies' Auxiliary will be out and about this weekend helping to keep an eye on things.

- Trick-or-treaters should wear light-colored or reflective clothing, or add reflective stripes or patches to their costumes.
- Be sure the child can see well with his costume on.
- A flashlight will help children see where they are going, and will make them more visible to motorists.
- Trick-or-treaters should walk on the sidewalk or, if there is no sidewalk, on the far left of the road, facing traffic.
- An adult should accompany young children.
- Older children should be sure their parents know where they will be.
- Children should skip houses where lights are off.
- They must not accept rides with strangers.
- Toy weapons should be of cardboard so they won't injure a child if he falls.
- Parents should inspect all treats before children eat them. Fruit should be washed and cut up to be sure nothing has been put inside it.
- If anything's amiss, notify police.

lieutenant in the Marine Corps. He was supervisor of the Town of Windham, served as Greene County budget director, and was chairman of the Greene County Highway Committee. He is deputy minority leader of the Assembly. He and his wife, Eleanor, own the Windham Arms Hotel.

Melewski received a bachelor's degree in political science from Siena College and a law degree from the Syracuse University law school. He served with Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) and was regional coordinator for the New York Public Interest the time the Cardinals had moved ahead of the Brewers in the sixth the budget was some $103,000 lighter.

□ Budget

About $45,000 for exterior work to the town hall was gone (a partial reroofing and some interior work is still planned), the Highway Dept. blacktop fund had been cut by $25,000, and the Park Department's request for $123,000 for contractual expenses — most of it new equipment — had been trimmed back to this year's $87,000.

In addition, the board agreed to change the rates for large water users in the hopes of raising some new revenue. Under the present system, small users (most home owners) pay 60 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 6,000 cubic feet. From 6,001 to 12,000 cubic feet, it's 50 cents, and over 12,000 it's 40 cents. The new rate structure will be 60 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 12,000 cubic feet, and all over that 50 cents per 100 cubic feet. The town will also start billing large water users four times a year to help its cash flow.

The other new revenue item is more chancy. After much discussion, the board agreed to pencil in $100,000 for "sale of property." While not specifically stated, the properties the town wants to sell are the Adams House on Delaware Ave. and the Bethlehem House (Nicoll-Sill) off Rt. 144 near the town's sewage treatment plant. Both properties have been on the market for several months, with a few nibbles but no bites, and Corrigan said he would be more aggressive in seeking buyers. Selling those buildings would also save the town more than $20,000 in maintenance and utility costs.

The major new cost item is the six percent increase for town employees (including elected officials), but Corrigan said negotiations with the Police Benevolent Association is continuing. "We do have some things resolved," he said Friday.

Corrigan held out for the inclusion of the Project Hope program, which is a nonresidential treatment program for troubled 13- to 15-year-olds. The program would serve up to 24 Bethlehem and Coeymans residents at a time, with the focus on the family and school as "natural support systems."

Bethlehem's contribution to the $75,000 program has been put at $17,000. Some $4,000 remains unspent from an allocation to the town by the state Division for Youth, and these funds might be used for the Project Hope program, according to Philip Maher, Parks and Recreation Department head.

The committee recommended that the town undertake a two-year trial of the program, with a cost-benefit review at the end of the first year, but board members noted that once in it would be difficult to back out.

"If I can find the $13,000, even if I have to take the car away from the supervisor, I would recommend that we go for one year," said Corrigan Wednesday night. The board agreed, and later Corrigan had decided the town could probably afford the car too, although the actual purchase won't be made until later in the year.

'Spirit Week' at BC

"Spirit Week", hard on the heels of Halloween, is planned for Nov. 1 through 6 at Bethlehem Central High School. It won't be ghosts, but real live students painting posters and decorating windows for "homecoming" festivities Saturday, Nov. 6, at 2 p.m. at the high school. Everyone is welcome.

Garage, porch approved

The Bethlehem Board of Appeals tentatively approved two applications for variances after holding public hearings last Wednesday night.

John H. Smolinsky and Ellen M. Prakken requested a variance to permit construction of a garage on their property at 202 Orchard St. in Delmar.

Michael A. Edwards came before the board for a variance to allow him to add a screened porch to his home at 18 McKinley Dr., Delmar.

The board also received three new applications:

- Richard Baldwin requested a variance to operate a part-time photography business at his home at 5 Maewin Dr., Glenmont.

- LHR Properties Inc., applied for a special exception to permit a laundromat at the Town Squire Shopping Center.

- Suzanne W. Babcock sought a special exception to permit a dog kennel on Halter Rd. in Glenmont.

Nov. 10 public hearings were scheduled for all three applications.

Research Group in 1977. He has been chief lobbyist and executive director of the Environmental Planning Lobby, and is a member of the State Hazardous Waste Advisory Committee. He was recently named to the State Advisory Board on Oil, Gas and Solution Mining.

23RD CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Democrat Samuel S. Stratton of Amsterdam has four challengers in his bid for a 13th term: Republican Frank Wicks, Liberal candidate John G. Dow (also a primary challenger), Mark A. Dunlea of the Citizens Party and Patricia Mayberry of the Socialist Workers Party.

Stratton, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Rochester, holds master's degrees from Haverford College and Harvard University. He served in the Navy during World War II and is a captain in the Naval Reserve, retired. He was elected to the Schenectady City Council in 1949, and mayor of Schenectady in 1955, going to Congress in 1958. He is the third ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, and chairman of its Procurement and Military Nuclear Systems subcommittee.

Wicks, a Schenectady resident since 1964, attended State University Maritime College at Fort Schuyler, Harvard University, Union College and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He is a licensed Merchant Marine officer and licensed professional engineer, and is a teacher and administrator at RPI. During the campaign, he has called for a "mutual verifiable nuclear weapons freeze."

Dow, an Albany resident, also has urged a verifiable freeze on nuclear weapons and negotiation of an arms reduction. His campaign for the Democratic endorsement focused on Stratton's record of voting for military appropriations. Dow has served three terms in Congress from a mid-Hudson district. He has degrees from Harvard and Columbia universities, and for many years was a management planner for corporations. He is retired as an employee of the state Labor Department.

Patricia Mayberry attended Northwestern University and Indiana University, earning a degree in radiologic technology. She has been active in the Capital District Anti-Nuclear Alliance, the Albany Peace Coalition and the National Organization for Women. She also challenged Stratton in 1980. She resides in Albany.

42ND STATE SENATE DISTRICT

Four-term incumbent Howard C. Nolan of Albany has Democratic and Liberal endorsement in the three-way race with Republican James C. Sheehan of Colonie and Conservative Paul C. Morgan of Albany.

Nolan is a graduate of Holy Cross College, Union University and Albany Law School. He served in the Marine Corps three years, and is a partner in the law firm of Nolan and Heller, Albany. He has been active in the United Cerebral Palsy Association and is a member of the board of directors of the Albany Area Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Sheehan has been a grade school and junior high school teacher in Colonie for 21 years. He was a member of the town board for seven years and deputy town supervisor for four years.

Morgan is a graduate of Albany High School, Union College and Albany Business College. He is editor and publisher of a Christian newspaper and owner of an office products company.

ALBANY COUNTY JUDGE

Democrat John J. Clyne of Delmar, incumbent, is opposed by Republican Joshua J. Efron, also of Delmar, for the 10-year term.

Clyne is a graduate of Bethlehem Central High School, Holy Cross College in Worcester, Mass., and Albany Law School. He is a trustee of the law school and of St. Peter's Hospital. He formerly was a county attorney, and had served on the Capital District Regional Planning Commission and the Capital District Transportation Authority.

Efron is a graduate of Queens College and Fordham University School of Law, in New York City. He also studied at Cambridge University, in England. He was an assistant counsel to the State Thruway Authority and served as an assistant attorney general for the state. He is police counsel for the Town of Bethlehem and also special counsel to the town, handling the sewer expansion project. He is a member of the national panel of the American Arbitration Association, and has a private practice in Albany.

COUNTY SHERIFF

George L. Infante of Albany has Democratic and Conservative endorsement to remain in the post he has held since 1980.

Lady R. Rucinski of Newtonville is endorsed by the Republican party in her campaign for sheriff.

Infante served in the Army during World War II, and joined the State Police in May, 1946, retiring in 1979 as deputy superintendent, field commander for New York State. He is a graduate of Hudson Valley Community College and holds a degree in public administration and administration of criminal justice from Empire State College.

Lady Rucinski was principal of Philip Schuyler High School in Albany and director of pupil personnel services for Albany High School before becoming a corrections officer for the county Sheriff's Department. She began deputy superintendent and then superintendent of Albany County Jail. She is a consultant to the American Correction Association.

COUNTY CLERK

Guy B. Paquin of Albany has Democratic and Conservative endorsement to retain the post of county clerk, which he has held since 1977.

Estelle Kearns of Watervliet has Republican party support in her challenge to Paquin.

Paquin served in the Marine Corps for nine years, including duty in Vietnam. He was personnel manager for Korvettes in Albany and regional manager for Allied Aviation Service Co. before becoming county clerk. During his tenure, the county clerk's office undertook micro-filing and computerized indexing of all records. Paquin is second vice president of the New York State Association of County Clerks, and is a member of the state Historical Records Advisory Board. He is a former New Scotland resident.

Mrs. Kearns has been manager of control accounting for 27 Montgomery Wards stores for the past six years, after a number of years in management, budget control and accounting for Wards. She is a member of the board of the national Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. Kearns attended Albany Business College.

Workforce film coming

Board limits use of school computers

By Caroline Terenzini

The Bethlehem Central school board has decided that persons outside the schools should use district equipment only under supervision of district employees, such as through the continuing education and summer school programs. The decision last Wednesday followed a request by a district resident to be allowed to use school computers to teach a class for talented children.

Superintendent Lawrence A Zinn told board members he saw "no way to cover all uses and concerns when you open the door to use of equipment." Zinn said, "Next thing people would want to use the wood shop, the physics lab, the copiers." He proposed that interested persons be encouraged to offer instruction through the continuing education and summer school programs, and board members agreed.

In other business, the board asked Business Administrator Franz Zwicklbauer to seek quotations from accounting firms for the district's annual audit. Board member John Clyne urged that the job be put out for bids, noting that the present auditor, Stulmaker Roach & Co. of Albany, had received fee increases in each of the past six years under escalator clauses in its contracts with the district, and an "adjusted fee" was being proposed for a new contract. Robert Zick agreed: "I think it's time to take a look."

Robert Ruslander and other board members praised Zwicklbauer's work, as reflected in the audit report.

A change order for work on a furnace in the Middle School shop was approved after Zwicklbauer explained that the district will have to purchase a new furnace, rather than install a safety control, as had been planned. Clyne, assured there was enough money in the budget for the replacement, told Zwicklbauer: "Spend it any way you want, but don't come back."

The board also adopted a resolution offered by Clyne expressing gratitude to the late Ralph A. Holmgren for his service to the district as a board member for 15 years, including five years as president.

Board member Marjory O'Brien expressed concern about the opening of a new bar and restaurant at 241 Delaware Ave., near Elsmere Elementary School. My Place & Co. is owned by Noreen A. Giacone of Delmar and Catherine G. Barber of Slingerlands, and is open from 11 a.m. to 4 a.m. Zinn said he had received notification from the State Liquor Authority several months ago when the owners applied for a license. State law requires notification and an opportunity for comment when a liquor license is sought for an establishment within 200 feet of a building used as a school or as a place of worship.

Zinn said he responded to the authority, citing concern for the safety of children walking to school with additional traffic in the area, the condition of the drivers, and possible exposure of the children to a poor adult example. He said his letter was acknowledged.

Board President Bernard Harvith gavelled the discussion to an end, saying it was properly a matter for a closed, or "executive", session. The board had scheduled an executive session on personnel matters following the business meeting.

The board is to meet tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. at the Educational Services Center to discuss suggestions put forth by speakers in last year's Futures symposia. The next business meeting is Nov. 3,

A country manor for family living

The very earliest settlers in Bethlehem took up fertile lands on the river flats because the river was their road to the outside world. However, these fields had their drawback because they were subject to spring flooding and on occurrence of exceptionally high waters anything constructed on them was quite apt to be washed or eroded away. It was not too many years after settlement that the river lands were all occupied.

The next wave of immigrants, or the second or third generation of the original settlers, went up the creek beds of Albany County and chose the flat fields beside them for their own acreage. The ease of available water was a large factor in determining where a house was constructed and there was invariably at least a small stream nearby any home of pre-1800 vintage.

The Elmendorf family home on the Feura Bush-Unionville Road is no exception to this rule, as it sits beside a tributary of the Volman's Kill, and its stone and clapboard exterior plainly tells even the casual observer that here is a house that has sheltered pioneers. The house itself shows relationship to the Dutch Colonial influence of high parapet gables and the placing of the narrow, or gable end of the house to the street with its entrance door at the side of the gable end. The stone section has the sloping roof of the saltbox and it could have been an earlier building that was encompassed by the wooden dwelling. One part of the stone section forms an interior wall in the large family kitchen, with its original beamed ceilings.

Ellen Elmendorf brought out an interesting old deed which stated that the property was a part of two farms and that its 91 acres were leased by Stephen and Harriet Van Rensselaer to Johannes J. Wedeman in December of 1794. Another part of this land was taken from a farm leased by the Patroon to Peter A. Bradt. The deed also stated that the 91-acre farm had been conveyed earlier to Isaac Johnson, being subject to rents reserved on both parcels. Much further on in the deed it is stated there would be a release of rents in November, 1851, in consideration of a payment of $354.16 by the then owner. (This type of clause was responsible for the Anti-Rent Wars that are a part of Albany County history.)

Original door is intact in the stone smoke house near the farmhouse.

The Elmendorf family home on the Feura Bush-Unionville Rd. . . . tells even the casual observer that here is a house that has sheltered pioneers.

Undoubtedly there was a dwelling on the property long before the date of 1794 and it is probable that some parts of this house were standing long before the revolutionary war. There is a stone smoke house nearby that boasts its original door with lengthy hand-wrought arrow pointed hinges. Inside the house several of the bedroom doors are made of plain wide boards with wrought thumb latches and the same type of early wrought hinges. These rooms too are paneled in the wide pine planking used before walls were plastered, and the wide floorboards are a fitting companion in antiquity. In the master bedroom the exposed house framing and wide board horizontal wainscoting bespeak an early date as do the deep little windows in the end wall of another bedroom, this also sheathed with wide boards and reached by a cunning short stairway of the simplest design.

The massive colonial fireplace with stone hearth that contains its original cooking crane leads one to believe that this was once merely a one-room house with sleeping loft above.

Downstairs, a huge flat stone serves as the front entrance step, leading to the main door entering upon a front hall sheathed again with wide pine boards up the stairway to the second floor. To the left of this entrance hall is a spacious long living room that was opened up to its grand proportions when the Elmendorfs tore down a partition that divided it. At the far end of this room is a massive colonial fireplace with stone hearth that contains its original cooking crane, leading one to believe that this was once merely a one-room house with sleeping loft above, as was quite usual in colonial days.

At a later date some other owner updated the fireplace with a lovely mantel that has an oval carved decoration of the Federal period. Throughout the house

Ellen Elmendorf has placed country-type furnishings such as a large iron cooking kettle and a primitive blanket chest, interspersed with antique tables and chairs that were family pieces. This living room has a western exposure and the afternoon sun turns the light to gold in the fall of the year when the sheltering maple trees are in their autumn colors.

To the right of the entrance hall is the family dining room, which is also sheathed in the wide pine boards on one wall. The Elmendorfs spent many long hours scraping and sanding to reveal the boards in their natural state. A Victorian addition to this room is a bay window glassed on three sides that makes an ideal plant growing area.

The mid-summer morning was so lovely that after touring the house we took a cup of coffee and sat in chairs on the lawn under the gracious old trees. It was easy to recall the days when this land had been a pioneer farmstead and the land was cleared and cultivated. The barn is long gone, but a later carriage house remains near the road and with the adjacent house and smokehouse forms a pleasant forecourt, extended by trees and lawn.

Ellen Elmendorf reminisced about the pleasures her children had in growing up in this country setting and how enjoyable it is to come home to serenity and privacy after a hectic day in town, fighting noise and traffic. Country living on a side road totally changes your lifestyle, but for some it is the answer they've been seeking in an overstimulated world.

Voorheesville NEWS NOTES

"To the victors may go the spoils" but those who get out early on election day can get fresh baked goods. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Voorheesville Fire Department will hold an Election Day Bake Sale on Tuesday, Nov. 2, from 8:30 a.m. until noon. The proceeds of the sale, to be held at the Fire House at 12 Altamont Rd., will be donated to the Albany County Burn Unit in memory of Eleanor Loveday.

With the holidays right around the corner, the Adult Education Program of the Voorheesville Central School District is offering a tasty course in "Making a Gingerbread House". The course is scheduled to run three consecutive Wednesdays, Nov. 3, 10 and 17, from 7 to 10 p.m., during which time participants will construct their houses right in class. For information, and to register, call the High School at 765-3314.

For those looking even farther into the future than the holidays, a special two night mini-course entitled "Whole Life Financing" will be offered on Wednesday, Nov. 3, and Thursday, Nov. 4, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Also sponsored by the Adult Education program, the series will consist of 45-minute seminars broadly covering 7 separate topics, allowing time at the end of each for individual questions and answers.

Offered on Wednesday are "College Financing" with Richard Oboyski, director of financial aid at Schenectady County Community College; "Real Estate, as an Investment", with licensed real estate broker Anthony Garufi; "Consumer Law" with attorney Kenneth Connolly, and "Estate Planning" with attorney Thomas Dolin.

Seminars scheduled for Thursday are "Investment Strategies — 1982" with James Leonard, account manager with Kidder, Peabody and Co.; "Insurance", with John TenEyck, president of the TenEyck Insurance Agency; and "Personal Finance Planning", with financial planner Arthur Henahan of First Albany Corp.

Each seminar will be given twice during the evening and registrants should indicate which topics they would like to attend when registering. To register, call the High School at 765-3314 before Nov. 1.

For travelers who would like to make next summer an unforgettable one, a special meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 4, at 7 p.m., in Rm. 119 at the High School to discuss a European trip planned for the summer of 1983.

Open to students and adults, the trip is to run from June 28 to July 12, with the itinerary including several major cities in Spain and Italy, as well as visit to Monaco and the French Riviera.

The price of $1,349 per person includes round trip air fare, first class accommodations, tours, transfers, tips, some meals and other services.

Anyone who is interested in more information, or an application, but cannot attend the meeting may call Robert Streifer, foreign language teacher, at the High School number, 765-3314. Application deadline is Dec. 15.

Good news for ghosts and goblins. The annual Kiwanis Halloween party will be held Saturday, Oct. 30, from 9 a.m. to noon at the elementary school. All children in grades four and younger are invited to attend in costume.

Speaking of Kiwanis, congratulations are in order to the new officers of the New Scotland Kiwanis club who were recently installed at ceremonies at the Ramada Inn.

Leading the men's community service organization this year are President Joseph Perry, First Vice President Leland Jackson; Second Vice President Richard Goliber; Treasurer Dick Ramsey and Secretary James Hladun.

Although Kiwanis International has designated this year's theme as "Make Every Child Special," the Kiwanis Club of New Scotland has already spent 34 years with this in mind as they have supervised many activities such as the annual Halloween party, girls softball, boys little league, and summer soccer with the welfare of area youngsters their top priority.

A reminder to students in the eleventh and twelfth grades at Clayton Bouton Jr. Sr. High, that if they are planning to take the Armed Forces Vocational Aptitude Test on Monday, Nov. 8, they must sign-up in the guidance office by Wednesday, Nov. 3. The test scheduled to be given at the high school between 8 and 11 a.m. measures mechanical, clerical, trade, technical, verbal, mathematical and academic aptitude and interests related to civilian jobs as well as those in the Armed Forces.

New Scotland tribute

Memorial plaques honoring two prominent citizens will be erected at the New Scotland Town Park on Swift Rd.

The New Scotland town board has authorized the tribute to the late Dr. Donald Sutherland and George Hotaling. Dr. Sutherland served the community for more than a generation, and Hotaling was instrumental in establishing the park during his tenure as a town councilman.

NEW SCOTLAND

Town Budget hearing tonight

New Scotland's 1983 town budget will be in center stage tonight (Wednesday) when the town board conducts its annual budget hearing at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

Latest available figures show that town property owners will have the benefit of a slight drop. The town tax rate will be cut by an estimated 23 cents per $1,000 valuation, from $20.67 to $20.44. For property owners inside the village line in Voorheesville, the proposed rate is $13.10, compared to $13.12 for the current year.

Voorheesville taxpayers are assessed only for certain portions of the town budget because they pay taxes to the village for support of the village government and facilities.

County taxes, however, will be sharply higher.

Board insists on speed limit

The New Scotland Town Board has rejected a state Dept. of Transportation rejection, and will try again.

Supervisor Steve Wallace said the department's denial of the board's request to raise the after-hours speed limit on the road through Thacher Park "is unacceptable." He said the town would resubmit the request.

Wallace said numerous complaints of tickets issued by park police for violations of the 30-mile speed limit motivated the board to ask the DOT to raise the speed limit to 45 miles an hour from the time of the park's nightly closing hour to 6 a.m. The request was denied by J.W. Kelly, DOT regional traffic engineer.

"They just said raising the limit would be inappropriate, but they didn't give any reasons," said Wallace. "We're not satisfied."

Beautifying Feura Bush

The New Scotland town board will hold a public hearing next Wednesday, Nov. 3, to hear citizens' views on community development housing needs under a federal grant from the Housing and Urban Development agency. The hearing at 7:30 p.m. will precede the town board's regular November meeting at 8.

NEWS FROM SELKIRK AND SOUTH BETHLEHEM

Little Michelle Bornhorst will soon undergo surgery for the third time. The 3-year-old is the daughter of Frank Bornhorst, a Conrail employee of Selkirk. Michelle, hospitalized in Boston, is awaiting a major operation to correct a malformation of the lymphatic and venous systems of the right arm, neck and chest.

Because of the enormous expenses this has entailed, the Conrail machinist union is holding a dinner-dance Thursday, Oct. 28, at the K. of C. Hall in Ravena to aid the Bornhorst family. A family-style dinner of ham or roast beef will be served at 7:30 p.m. Dancing will follow with music provided by DASL.

Anyone unable to attend the dinner but wishing to contribute may make contributions to: Frank Bornhorst, c/o Joseph O'Leary, 12 Pulver Ave., Ravena 12143. For information, call Joe O'Leary, 756-6215, or Ralph Lento, 731-1748.

The fourth annual citrus sale of the South Bethlehem United Methodist Church has begun. The sale originated as a means to help pay the cost of heating the church, and has since become an important part of the church budget. Grapefruit, navel oranges and tangelos may be ordered by calling Mrs. Jessie Leigh at 767-9087, from Ed Arnhelter Election Day at the firehouse, or from members of the congregation. Bob Kerker, in charge of general sales, believes the success of the sale in previous years is due to the size and quality of the fruit that is shipped directly to the church from Florida. According to Mrs. Hester Ginter and Mrs. Nina Archibald, coordinators of the sale, orders will be taken now through Nov. 30, and the fruit will arrive before Christmas. Tangelos and

Sewer hookups start after tests are complete

"The sewers are done — when can we hook up?"

That's the question that Bruce Secor is getting, sometimes dozens of times a day. And it's true, Bethlehem's sewer extension project is moving a breakneck speed (for sewers), and many areas are already completed. But Secor, the town's public works commissioner, warns that several things have to happen before individual homes can be connected to the completed pipe.

After a pipeline is laid in the ground it must be tested and inspected, and then it must sit there for 60 to 90 days to make sure there is no settling, Secor said. After that waiting period, says Secor, the contractor has to run a deflection test, which involves both line-of-sight measurement and also running a test buoy through the pipe. If everything is alright, then the contractor can build the inverters that connect the pipe through the manhole.

"Then we can allow people to hook up," he says. The Selkirk trailer park area is the first area to pass all its tests, and individual letters should be going out to property owners in the next week or so, Secor said.

Following that will be the Brightonwood area, Elm Ave. north of the Bypass and Feura Bush Rd. All of these are simple gravity connections; other areas that require major pumping stations and force mains, "they'll be a little slower coming in."

One pumping station, for the Merrifield Gardens area of Delmar, has already been delivered, and a pumping station for Willow Place is due to come in this week, Secor said. Following that will come the largest pumping station in the project, for the Blessing Rd. force main.

Meanwhile, the town has received the first shipment of grinder pumps, which will be used for homes that cannot hook up to a sewer by gravity. Installation of the 86 special pumps will be scheduled with individual owners, Secor said.

Elsmere bake sale

The Elsmere School Community Organization is planning a bake sale at the school from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 2, Election Day. Puppets and handmade gift items also will be for sale. Proceeds from the sale in past years have been used to purchase playground equipment, computer software and a microscope.

Bethlehem Highway Superintendent Martin Cross, shown here directing traffic, hopes to start laying blacktop on Blessing Rd. this week, before the blacktop plants close. Cross' crews have been straightening the road and giving it a new road bed that includes a blanket of woven fibers to keep the clay soil from seeping up into the pavement.

So you want a relationship?

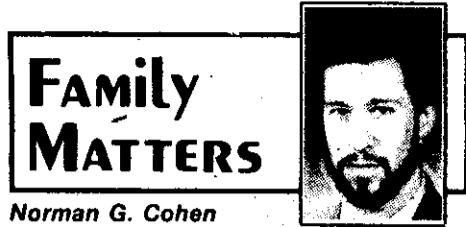

Birds of a feather flock together.
Opposites attract
Misery loves company.
You say po-tay-toes, I say po-tah-toes
... Let's call the whole thing off.

Well, who knows the secret formula for a relationship anyhow? If I had a nickel for every relationship I started and didn't develop beyond a casual "hello" now and then, I'd be able to afford a franchise full of social clubs.

Most of us have a wealth of acquaintances, but just a few real friends, that is, with some luck. If, however, luck runs out and the few friends leave us for one reason or another, then we have to rely on plain old hard work to develop new friends. And make no mistake, it is hard work to make friends.

Trust . . . solidifies only after passing countless tests and challenges, and even then continues to demand occasional reinforcement.

If you think of the personality as having layers and layers of characteristics, some right out on the surface and others deep near the core of our beings, then you might also think of relationships as being shared on any one of those various layers. As we display our characteristics to other people, relationships develop. The more surface in the relationship, the more shallow it is; the deeper the relationship, the closer we get to each other.

The main ingredient for concocting a good personality mix seems to be trust. If trust can be established and mutually felt, no matter how different the personal characteristics, then any relationship can develop as far and as deep as its members wish.

But that is where the hard work begins, because trust is an elusive, fragile experience when first encountered with another person. It solidifies only after passing countless tests and challenges, and even then continues to demand occasional reinforcement.

Society affords us the opportunity to present our "uniforms" to each other for initial attraction and trust to proceed with the urges associated with that attraction. Uniforms may be displayed as dress or hairstyle (or the absence of any style at all), language patternism or, in fact, any behavior whatsoever.

The outer layer of personal characteristics is the first level of relationship in which we engage. "I know him" might simply mean that you recognize the person from a photo or a brief meeting, or from a written work such as this column (how many of you think you really know me?).

The next level of relationship typically involves skills be they work-related, recreational or merely conversational. The rule here seems to be that competence attracts. "I enjoy working with him." "She makes me laugh the way she tells a story." "I want her on my bowling team." "He makes me think about things I hadn't thought." These are statements of attraction and mutual interest. They tend to lead to more involvement with the other person.

Along the path somewhere feelings begin to weave their way into the human fabric. Depending on whether those feelings are pleasurable or painful, the relationship either stalls and wanes, settles in and holds, or continues on its intriguing journey into the depths.

If luck runs out and the few friends leave us for one reason or another, then we have to rely on plain old hard work to develop new friends. And make no mistake, it is hard work . . .

This is the area where the trust factor becomes critical. We seem to have an easier time handling behavioral and conversational skills than we do emotional skills. We can trust someone's performance on the job with fairly accurate predictability. For example, "He can usually be counted on to put out a good product," or "He doesn't know what he's doing, so you better watch him closely or do it yourself."

We trust our own perceptions of pure behavior much more so than when emotional content is involved. When behavior is perceived to be driven by feelings, or what some have called motivations, then many of us find ourselves on uncertain ground. "I know she wants to see me, but I don't know why. Should I see her?" "Something's sticking in his craw and I don't know what it is, so I don't really know if he'll do okay in the game tonight."

The hardest bump on the relationship path is when the trust is shaken by an unpredictable or apparently destructive act. When one person is thrown off course by what might be a bid for power, a challenge for the lion's share, a sudden thrust into uncharted territory, a perverted desire for pain or conflict, or whatever, then that person must take stock of the entire relationship and decide if it is worth pursuing. If that review process leads to a continued effort to get past the stumbling block, the relationship may survive and even deepen. If not, then it either breaks off, diverts into another direction, or becomes static at a former level to avoid the danger zone.

When layer upon layer of personal characteristics is successfully uncovered by two people with continual re-affirmation of trust, then that relationship may enter that deepest of levels we sometimes refer to as "the spiritual," or whatever you may choose to call the layer at your core. If it reaches that level and connects, it must be love.

NiMo hearing date set

The hearings on the environmental impact of Niagara Mohawk's plan to convert its Glenmont generating plant to burn coal will be conducted in two stages, with comment by the general public Dec. 16 and more formal testimony by expert witnesses sometime after the holidays.

The partial schedule was announced by the state Department of Environmental Conservation, which will conduct the hearings and make the final decision on the project in a legal ad running in this week's Spotlight.

The two-stage hearing process is a relatively new system for EnCon, which has struggled for some time to hold down the length and complexity of the reviews necessary to grant permits for large projects. "Crossgates was one of several examples on that kind of thing to try to be avoided," said EnCon spokesman John Moore, referring to the lengthy hearings and appeals in the still-unbuilt Guelderland project.

Now, the state sets up two types of hearings: The "legislative" hearing that is open to all and the "ajudicatory" hearing that is reserved for the more technical arguments.

No matter how much public interest the hearings generate, the review process is likely to go on for some time. Niagara Mohawk's proposal to spend $200 million to permit the plant on Rt. 144 to burn low sulfur coal along with oil and natural gas involves a number of technical questions and environmental issues. The question of how much sulfur dioxide the plant should be permitted to use, and whether the proposed tall smoke stack is an acceptable alternative to costly scrubbers, will be explored, as will the question of what the utility will do with the ash produced during coal burning.

Already Niagara Mohawk has produced an environmental impact statement several inches thick. That statement is now on file at the Bethlehem Public Library, and it is likely that it will grow several times over before the hearings are over.

The legislative hearing has been scheduled for 1 to 4:30 p.m. Dec. 16 in the auditorium at Bethlehem Town Hall. According to the legal notice, it is not necessary to register in advance to speak. Persons not able to speak at the hearing may file a written statement, according to Moore.

The date for the adjudicatory hearing has not been set, but parties wishing to present testimony are required to first file for "party status." According to Moore, that means they must show that they are affected by Niagara Mohawk's plans and intend to address some significant issue. Testimony is taken under oath.

The administrative law judge assigned to the hearings will hold a pre-hearing conference at 10 a.m. Dec. 21 at town hall to determine who has party status; "define and narrow" the issues to be discussed and set a schedule for hearings, according to the legal ad. "The general intent is to try to keep the number of parties to a reasonable limit," Moore said.

Focus On Faith

The Rev. Gregory Pike
New Scotland Presbyterian Church

An accurate description of what next Sunday and Monday are all about was written by Edmund Stiemle, a Lutheran clergyman:

All Saint's Day in the church calendar is a day all but forgotten in most churches and virtually unknown elsewhere except for All Hallows' Eve, the night before, which has been taken over by witches and goblins and pumpkins and trick or treat — a fun night now. But the day after Hallowe'en, All Hallows' or All Saints' Day, has been set aside for centuries as a day when the church remembers its dead, right on down through the centuries, from Stephen and the early martyrs to those who died last week or the day before yesterday.

I am a minister in a church that allows its clergy great latitude in determining in what way and to what degree church festivals may be observed. Lately I have been developing a deeper appreciation for the wisdom of the ancient church fathers who set aside certain days to be specially observed. So it's intended with next Monday — All Saints' Day. It is a time for the church to "remember its dead." All this may sound fine and good, even wise, but the more one prepares to "remember the dead" the more difficult it all becomes.

The difficulty is not lessened by the scripture passages that are usually assigned for this day. How ornamental, esoteric and alien are the images found in these verses from the Revelation of John:

After this I looked, and behold, a great multitude which no man could number, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and tongues, standing there before the throne and before the Lamb, clothed in white robes, with palm branches in their hands, and crying out with a loud voice, 'Salvation belongs to our God who sits upon a throne, and to the Lamb.'

I wonder if children would mistake it for the beginnings of an animated cartoon space adventure. Heavenly beings ritualistically performing some rite from another world might be a child's comment. Anyway, it's all pretty remote for technical scientific people like us. Isn't it so?

Ancient metaphors and remote images may be entirely lost to us today. Yet they are set within a theme that is all too familiar. These heavenly beings are dead and that is the absolute question about life for all earthly beings. The familiar reality of death is confronted in this passage for All Saints' Day. The scriptures do speak to us here. Don't we all have grief to one degree or another? A loved one dies, and don't we all go through a process that includes emotions like anger, fear and sorrow? And in a world like ours it seems necessary to think that death is everywhere. From horrifying deaths of individuals taking altered Tylenol capsules, to the elderly gentleman with the glad smile who died of natural causes, to the fact of our own life — it's end, our death. The reality of death, the beyond, is virtually impossible to ignore today. So maybe the remote images and fantastic vision of Revelation are not entirely lost to us, if only in that they remind us that death, the end of life, is the biggest mystery of all, and is a mystery for each individual to confront.

In the face of all that baffles us about death, especially the death of victims and our own griefs, the church celebrates All Saints' Day, a day of remembering the dead.

Yet smack in the face of all that baffles us about death, especially the death of victims and our own griefs, the church celebrates All Saints' Day — a day of remembering the dead.

The question that arises in the face of this celebration is the apparent senselessness of remembering. Why bother? Besides, it must be especially difficult for any congregation of a Tylenol victim. Won't it merely show the cold and implacable injustice that so often accompanies death? How can a family of a victim worship a loving God? Or, for that matter, how can anyone grieving worship a loving God on All Saints' Day?

At this point I think it becomes very difficult for clergymen or anyone trying to be helpful to say much at all. For the devout, even Christian beliefs seem sterile and empty at the time of grief. Yet the Revelation of John for all that may seem beyond us but it does declare an ultimate remembering in the heart of God. And maybe, just maybe that news can be held in the heart of a person grieving — no matter how intense the pain, until a time by the grace of God hope and meaning return. But more than that, All Saints' Day affirms God's ultimate justice. The most sublime kind of justice was declared in the death of Christ, and therefore God does set matters straight somehow, sometime. So death's injustice is known and not forgotten in the heart of God. Don't we have to believe that?

Sunday evening will be filled with goblins, witches, trick or treat and Monday, All Saints' Day, will be the time for the church to remember its dead even amid questions, doubts and crying.

hands off to Mike Cronin (27). On the cover: Coach John Sodergren exults amidst his triumphant troops. R.H. Davis

Eagles' win: 'They wanted this badly'

It was the right psychological moment for Bethlehem Central's first football victory of the year and the first in John Sodergren's new varsity coaching regime. The 8-6 win over Shaker Saturday lit up the whole community, especially the beleaguered BC players and their stalwart boosters in the stands.

A lot of good things happened in the warm sunshine on Van Dyke Rd. The Eagles moved the ball 117 yards on the ground, 91 of them by John Zucker, a tight end converted to running back. Zucker's 21 carries helped Bethlehem establish a running game for the first time this season.

Then there was a brilliant performance by the special teams. The punt coverage allowed zero return yards, including a key fourth-period punt by Tim Fox that was fielded on the Shaker 6 where the receiver was dropped in his tracks.

The Eagles, frustrated for five weeks in four losses and a tie, really wanted this one, and made sure of it. They were in jeopardy several times in the second half, struggling to protect an 8-0 lead. Shaker got the touchdown back on a five-yard plunge in the third quarter; but BC denied them the tying points by breaking up a pass for the attempted conversion. In the fourth period, the Eagles gave up ground grudgingly, but slammed the door on the goal line.

Dave Young, starting for the second week after recuperating from an injury, completed four of eight passes for 38 yards and had two interceptions. Chris Hoffman scored the touchdown on a five-yard jaunt in the second period, and

Young got the vital two-point conversion on a keeper.

Bethlehem lost Dave Herr on an injury early in the second half, and Hoffman was sidelined by an ankle injury also in the third period. Chris Braga, an all-around backfield performer injured a week ago, did not play.

Sodergren called the triumph a tribute to the discipline and spirit of his players. "It was a great shot in the arm for the kids. It's good to get that monkey off our backs. It meant a lot. They wanted this badly."

Zucker, the 6-foot junior whose running gave the team a major lift, was named Player of the Week in the Sunday night voting by the coaches. Other selections were: offensive lineman, Charlie Lynk; offensive back, Zucker; defensive lineman, Rich Jadick; defensive back, Mike Mooney, and specialist, Lenny Klink. The bench award went to John Tangora, a 5-8 senior who did not start but played more than half the game.

Tom Vichot was a standout on defense, earning 24 tackling points, several in critical situations.

The Eagles' euphoria may help this week when BC travels to Guilderland. The Dutchmen, who last week gave mighty Shenendehowa a tough battle before succumbing, are 4-2 in the Gold Division. After that, the Eagles meet Niskayuna, which plays in BC's class, and unbeaten Shenendehowa, which doesn't.

Membership drive

The Bethlehem Athletic Association has launched a membership drive to help raise money for its scholarship fund. The organization has purchased a number of items of athletic equipment during its 34-plus years, and annually recognizes lettermen with an awards picnic at the end of the school year. Supporters can mail a check for the $2.50 dues to the association at P.O. Box 332, Delmar.

Visitors overrun Ravena

That mystery opponent invited by Ravena for a non-league exercise turned out to be an undefeated team from Utica with a sophomore running back who has already attracted the attention of Syracuse University football scouts.

The result was a 40-6 romp Saturday for John F. Kennedy High School, which outweighed and outplayed the Indians. "We're pretty tough on off-tackle plays with our 5-3 defense, but they ran right at our strength," said Coach Chuck Engelhardt. "They just beat us in every way."

A Syracuse scout followed Bob Evans, JFK halfback, to Ravena, and watched the young prospect score three touchdowns, one a 36-yard scamper.

The only bright moment for the locals came early in the game. JFK was leading by only 7-0 and the Indians had backed the foe up to the Utica 3-yard line when the visitors fumbled a pitchout. Rich Bolen recovered the loose ball in the end zone for the only RCS touchdown of the day.

So overwhelming was JFK's superiority, Engelhardt opted to rest many of his regulars for this week's important Colonial Division clash with Voorheesville and minimize the risk of injury by keeping them on the bench for the second half. The score was 21-6 at intermission, and the coach gave second-stringers game experience in the final two quarters.

The Indians played without Robbie Nolan, first-string quarterback, and Shawn Leonard, their best running back. Both were serving temporary suspensions for disciplinary reasons, but the coaches anticipate they will be back in uniform at Voorheesville on Saturday.

Final game a 'must' for BC soccer team

Bethlehem Central's varsity soccer team, continuing to be plagued by defensive lapses and a dearth of goal-making, needed a win or tie in the regular season's final game this week to qualify for the Sectional tournament.

The Eagles won one and lost two last week to slip back to an even .500, making everything hinge on Tuesday's game at Colonie. (This newspaper went to press just before the game was played.)

Success at Colonie — anything other than a loss — would give BC another shot at some of the teams that have harassed them this fall. Times and places for the Sectionals were yet to be determined.

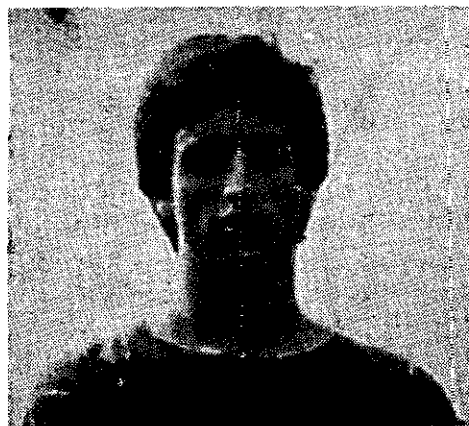

"We play beautiful soccer between the penalty boxes," commented Coach Gene Lewis. "We more than hold our own from one 18-foot mark to the other, but we don't seem to get the ball into the net, and on defense we too often leave people uncovered."

At Guilderland on Tuesday, Bethlehem had 18 shots on goal to the Dutchmen's 16, and only seven saves to the enemy's 13, but the result in the scorebook was 4-0, Guilderland. The Eagles played well, even without their star center, Jeff Guinn, but the 18-yard bugaboo did them in. BC failed to mount any real threat.

Two days later in a home game against Saratoga, a relatively weak team, the Eagles had 28 shots on goal but only two hit the strings. Randy Dean scored on a breakaway at 4:25 of the second period. Guinn closed out the scoring at 2-0 with 15 minutes remaining when he dribbled through the defense, drew the keeper out and deftly lifted the ball over the keeper's head.

The major disappointment came in Saturday's 4-1 loss to Burnt Hills on home turf. The Eagles gave up a goal 40 seconds after the start. Lewis shifted into a 4-4-2 defense, using four fullbacks in an attempt to shut down the Burnt Hills attack. Dean tied the score at 7:20 of the first, and BC was almost out of the half at 1-1, but a defensive breakdown permitted the visitors to regain the lead 46 seconds before the halftime horn. Burnt Hills got two more in the second half to make it 4-1.

Again it was the familiar format. The Eagles had 25 shots on goal to 19, and ten saves to nine for the visitors.

Great day for the Hawks

It was a great day for the Bethlehem Hawks, playing in Pop Warner Football's Junior Midget division. Rich Gray set the stage for a 32-0 steamroller over North Colonie by bursting through the middle for an 80-yard touchdown romp on the first play of the game.

Later he scooted through the same hole for 60 yards and a TD. The other scores came on an 8-yard run by Mike Mosley, a 12-yard keeper by Eddy Kane, and a fumble recovery by Chris Saba in the end zone. John Lindsay added two points by downing the Colonie quarterback behind the goal line. On defense, the Dillberg brothers, Joey and Tom, had another big day as the Hawks scored their seventh shutout.

In other Warner action, Eric Larkins ran for three touchdowns as the Midget Eagles whitewashed Ballston Spa, 26-0. Rich Losee also scored, taking a 15-yard pass from Matt Daley and running it in from the 5. Daley tacked on two points with a conversion kick.

In PeeWee play, the Bethlehem Falcons suffered from cold hands and dropped passes in the end zone in a 14-13 setback from North Colonie. Trailing 14-12 late in the game, the Falcons tried for a 2-point conversion kick, but a bad snap forced Travis Hagen to run instead, and he got only one point under Pop Warner rules. Larry Sandgren scored from the 5, and Hagen threw 15 yards to Billy McFerran, who scampered 40 yards to pay dirt.

This Sunday the PeeWees play Hudson at noon at Hamagrael School field in the first half of a doubleheader, with the Hawks hosting Burnt Hills at 2 p.m. The Eagles are on the road against Inner City at 2 p.m.

BC ties for first

By Julie Ann Sosa

Bethlehem Central's varsity field hockey team finished its regular season in a tie for first place and is now on to the Sectionals to compete among the top eight local teams. Should the team win, it will go on to compete in the first annual regional tournament. The regular season ended last weekend with a loss to rival Shaker, which managed to shut out Bethlehem and score a barrage of six goals that could easily have proved more costly to the Eagles than their 13-1 record shows.

Earlier in the week it took all BC could muster to quell a 1-9 Burnt Hills challenge that only subsided when lineswomen Ann Howell and Lisa Rehbit and link Lynda Stokoe scored to win the game, 3-2.

Then the big, Blue Bison of Shaker caught up with the high-flying Eagles to revenge the 1-0 flick-off loss they suffered earlier in the season. On the cold, wet mires of Shaker the home team tied up the Suburban Council title race by winning convincingly, 2-0. After a scoreless, evenly matched first half, Bethlehem goalie Elin Swanson was cleanly beaten once and gave up another when two opponents fell on her and another went over the pile-up to score in the closing minutes of the game.

Although the first half of the contest against Scotia saw wing Diane Weillbrock put BC two ahead and then Howell and Whitney Obrig add two more, the Tartans came close to closing the gap, 4-2.

Niskayuna was pounded, 6-0, last Wednesday as Howell had a hat trick and then one, and side-kicks Rehbit and Obrig added one apiece.

If the Shenendehowa goalie hadn't allowed the tiny, hard hockey ball to get caught in her shin pads in overtime last Friday, BC's penalty stroke specialist Obrig wouldn't have been able to win the close game for BC, 1-0, and the Plainswomen might have improved their third place status.

Spring of Slingerlands, second, and Bobby VanAtton of Clarksville, third, among 48 competitors.

Fifth grade girls — Katie Montanus of Elsmere, first; Alicia Osborne of Hamagrael, second, and Magan Mitchell of Hamagrael, third. There were 37 runners in the three-quarter-mile race.

Fifth grade boys — Scott Hodge of Hamagrael, first; Dan Reed of Hamagrael, second, and Jamie Micenes of Glenmont, third. Fifty-eight boys competed.

The stage is set

One of the more colorful neighborhood rivalries in the area will be renewed on Saturday when Voorheesville and Ravena collide in their annual football encounter, this time at Voorheesville and it would be hard to pick a favorite.

Ravena is 3-1 and a solid second in the Colonial Division of the Capital Conference, 3-3 overall. Voorheesville is 1-2 in the division, 3-2-1 on the season and riding the momentum of last week's 47-37 trackmeet at Lansingburgh.

It will be a case of Ravena's rugged defense against the Blackbirds' potent offense. Kickoff is at 1:30 p.m.

The Birds put on a dazzling offensive show at Lansingburgh last week, but gave up more points than usual. They broke the total offense record they set in the previous week by rolling up 482 yards, 391 of them on the ground. Quarterback Jim Meacham had half of the rushing yardage with 195 yards in 17 sorties, scored three touchdowns and threw for another. In the air he was 7-for-14 and 91 yards with no interceptions.

With Gary Kendall and Mike Galusha opening large holes on the left side all afternoon, Voorheesville scored on long drives and had the ball most of the time. Lansingburgh got their scores primarily on big plays.

The Blackbirds broke fast from the barrier, scoring the first two times they had the leather. The first drive started from the kickoff on the 31, with John Ryan and Meacham carrying. Meacham covered the last 21 in one sprint, and moments later broke free for 38 yards to cap a 62-yard march in six plays.

The home team answered with a 35-yard touchdown run, but Meacham got that one back before intermission, scoring on a keeper from the one. The TD was set up by a 19-yard pass to Ed Mitzen.

FOOTBALL

It was 21-14 Voorheesville at the half and 29-all at the end of three. The Blackbirds padded their half-time lead to 15 points with a 71-yard drive in the third period, featuring a broken play in which Meacham came out of a scramble and fired a strike to Mitzen for 22 yards. Three plays later Meacham hit Tom Hannmann for the score from five yards out, and passed to Matt Beals for the conversion.

Mike Ricci broke the fourth-period deadlock with the first of his three touchdowns, scoring from the 14. The others came on sprints of 32 yards and two yards.

Voorheesville yielded a consolation touchdown to the hosts late in the fourth, but Ray Donnelly put an end to further foolishness with a crucial interception in the end zone.

Vandals in the kitchen

Students in the adult education cooking class at Bethlehem Central High School Tuesday didn't even get a chance to pop their creations into the oven before they got a critical reaction.

A series of loud explosions greeted the students after they turned the ovens on, according to Bethlehem police reports and school district officials. Someone had apparently gotten into the building over the weekend and taped fire crackers to the oven heating elements. No apparent harm was done there, but school officials reported that a microwave oven was damaged when the same vandals put in metal pots and turned it on.

Girls concentrate on doubles in Sectionals

With a fifth straight Section 2 team championship safely tucked away, Bethlehem Central's varsity tennis team turned its attention this week to a possible all-BC doubles final in the individual Sectionals.

Whatever happens in the semi-finals at 3 p.m. today (Wednesday) on the carpet at Southwood, it appears that at least one Bethlehem doubles team will be going to the state championships. The top three singles and doubles teams from each Section qualify for the privilege.

Of the 64 doubles combos that started the Sectional eliminations two weeks ago, four teams remain, two of them from Bethlehem. BC's Laura Treadway and Aryan Shayegani, seeded No. 1, face a Niskayuna pair in today's semifinals, while Sheila Gould and Jody Jones, seeded No. 2, meet a Colonie tandem. The winning teams are guaranteed berths in the Intersectionals, and will play for the Section 2 crown at Southwood Saturday. The losers will play Saturday to determine the third team to make the trip.

The Eagles got a top-level scare in the finals of the team Sectionals at Albany State last week. Saratoga won Nos. 1,3,4 and 5 singles in straight sets, the first time

BC had lost four matches this season, and the Eagles were trailing 4-3 before their doubles teams pulled them out of the fire.

Laurie Weinert and Carolyn Cross won the No. 2 doubles for their 18th straight, and Tina Manion and Maggie Whitney took the No. 3 doubles. The heartstopper came when Bethlehem's No. 1 combo of Leanne Cory and Sheila Gould, leading 6-1 and 6-5, let the 12th game get away and lost the tiebreaker. The BC girls came through, however, rallying from a 2-3 deficit in the third set to win by 7-5.

Julie Liddle, playing No. 6 singles, delivered the critical point for the Eagles when she upset Karen Hallenback of Saratoga, 7-5, 6-2. Hallenback had won their earlier meeting in three sets.

Jody Jones also had a key victory, rising from a 5-6 deficit in the second set to pull the match out by 6-4, 7-5.

The narrow escape against Saratoga came after two picnics. Bethlehem had a 9-0 cakewalk against Linton in Delmar in last Tuesday's first-round pairing, and crushed Guilderland, 8-1, in a swirling wind at the State University courts in a semifinal Wednesday. The Eagles finished 16-0 for the year.

State of New York Department of Environmental Conservation

NOTICE OF COMPLETE APPLICATION NOTICE OF COMPLETION OF DRAFT OF ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT STATEMENT NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Applicant: NIAGARA MOHAWK POWER CORP., 300 Erie Boulevard, West, Syracuse, New York 13202

Application Number: UPA 401-05-0155 B

Proposed Project: Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. ("NMPC") has filed applications with the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (the "Department") to convert the Albany Steam Station to a coal fired facility while retaining the ability to burn coal and natural gas. To accomplish this conversion, the following are required: (1) to upgrade and renovate the existing coal handling system and associated oil facilities, (2) develop active and inactive coal piles, (3) modify and expand the existing ash handling system, (4) develop an onsite 20 year capacity sanitary landfill for ash disposal, (5) install a fabric filter with a particulate collection efficiency of 99.72%, (6) construct a 412 ft. stack, (7) install liquid waste collection and treatment facilities for coal pile, yard, station drainage and surface water runoff, and (8) modernize the existing boilers and control systems to burn coal.

Permits and Approvals Requested: AIR QUALITY — Permit applications to construct or modify and operate air contamination sources, process or exhaust and/or ventilation systems, have been submitted pursuant to Environmental Conservation Law (ECL) Article 19, Title 6 of New York Compilation of Codes and Regulations ("6 NYCRR") Parts 201 and 212 and are identified as follows:

Application Type	Application Number	Project Type	Applicable Section of 6 NYCRR
P.C. Modification	012200 0366 00005	C(1-4) Boiler	225,227
P.C. Modification	012200 0366 AHS011	Fly Ash Silo Emission Point	212
P.C. Modification	01220 0366AHS02	Fly Ash Silo Emission Point	212
P.C. Modification	012200 0366 CHS011	Coal Handling	212
P.C. Modification	012200 0366 CHS071	System & Transfer Area Emissions Points

SOLID WASTE APPLICATION NO. 01-N-02: NMPC has applied for a permit pursuant to ECL Article 27 and 6 NYCRR 360, to landfill fly ash, bottom ash and boiler cleaning wastes. The proposed landfill is north of the Albany Steam Station and was formerly used to dispose of coal waste products. The proposed area will accommodate coal derived waste produced during the remaining life of the plant. NMPC has requested two variances pursuant to §360.8(b)(1)(vii)(c) and §360.8(b)(1)(i) for waste disposal below ground water, waste disposal in a flood plain and the use of ash residue as daily cover. The DEIS addresses these variance requests and methods to mitigate environmental impacts.

FRESHWATER WETLANDS APPLICATION NO. 401-05-0155 B: NMPC has applied for a Freshwater Wetlands Permit pursuant to Article 24 and 6 NYCRR for permission to use a freshwater wetland for solid waste disposal. The proposed area to be used again for waste disposal, is presently considered as a Class II wetland by the Department. A Stream Protection Application (6 NYCRR 608) is included as part of the freshwater wetlands application. Consideration will be given to the Water Revitalization and Coastal Resources Act, Article 42, Executive Law and the criteria contained in 19 NYCRR part 600.

STATE POLLUTION DISCHARGE ELIMINATION SYSTEM (MODIFICATION) APPLICATION NO. 000-5959: NMPC has requested (pursuant to ECL Article 17 and NYCRR 750-757) a modification of an existing permit to allow discharge of treated wastes resulting from the use of coal. These discharges include coal storage leachate and runoff, ash disposal facility leachate and runoff, bottom ash sluice water and boiler wash water.

Other permits: In addition to the above listed permits from the Department, NMPC must obtain approvals and permits from the following:

- Federal (Corps of Engineers): Section 404 Dredge and Fill Permit; Section 10-Rivers and Harbours Act permit
- Local (Town of Bethlehem): Floodplain Management Regulations Development Permit. 6 NYCRR 500; Special Use Permit and; Building Permits.

SEQRA Status: Pursuant to the State Environmental Quality Review Act (SEQRA) the Department, as lead agency, has determined the proposed action to be a Type I, and may have a significant environmental effect. NMPC has prepared a Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) and the Department has determined the DEIS is complete for the purposes of commencing review and proceeding to schedule a public hearing. Potential environmental impacts initially identified by Department staff include: a substantial increase in solid waste materials including fly ash and bottom ash; elimination of Class II freshwater wetland for use as a solid waste disposal area; impacts on ground and surface waters; increased noise levels and; an increase in air pollutants normally attributed to coal handling and burning operations. Comments on the DEIS may be filed in writing with the Department until 10 days after the last day of hearing.

Public Comment Period and Legislative Public Hearing: All organizations, corporations, governmental agencies and individuals which may be affected by the proposed project or would otherwise have an interest in the project are invited to file written comments, and/or to make oral statements at the legislative public hearing. These comments may be filed prior to the legislative hearing, at the legislative hearing or up to ten days (December 26, 1982) following the legislative sessions. All comments should be submitted to the undersigned indicated under PARTY STATUS. All written and oral statements will be evaluated by the Department and will be made part of the official record.

The legislative hearing will be held on DECEMBER 16, 1982 from 1:00 P.M. until 4:30 P.M. in the BETHLEHEM TOWN HALL, AUDITORIUM, 445 DELAWARE AVENUE, DELMAR, NEW YORK 12054.

IT IS NOT NECESSARY to file a written request in advance of the legislative hearing in order to speak at this hearing. The order of speakers will be determined by the presiding administrative law judge (ALJ). A time limit for each speaker may be imposed if deemed necessary by the ALJ to ensure all persons will have an opportunity to speak and to avoid repetitious statements.

Filing For Party Status: Pursuant to 6 NYCRR Part 624 (Hearing Procedures) PARTY STATUS to participate in the adjudicatory public hearing to be held by the Department will be accorded only to those persons who can provide a clear demonstration of social, economic, or environmental interests which are likely to be affected by the proposed projects. All persons, groups, corporations or agencies desiring PARTY STATUS at the adjudicatory hearing must file a specific statement in writing containing precise grounds for opposition, support or interest in the project, and must include the nature of the argument and evidence which the person intends to present at the hearing and any other matter believed relevant. All persons having an interest in this project are urged to: (1) file with the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation by the deadline previously indicated; (2) thereafter be represented either individually or collectively at the hearings; and (3) submit at the adjudicatory hearing pertinent testimony and/or exhibits to ensure the consideration of all positions and the evaluation of all pertinent issues. Spotlight IN RETROSPECT

Oct. 24, 1957

First prize in the Delaware Plaza Merchants Assn. photo contest went to Glenn A. Wagner, 51 Winne Rd., Delmar, for his "Grand Canyon Thunderhead." Second and third prizes went to George Parker, 92 Rowland Ave., Delmar, and Mary Olcott, child photographer.

The Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce has received its incorporation papers from the State of New York, according to Harry S. Keelan, president. The chamber now has over 100 members.

Oct. 26, 1962

Arthur M. Main, president of Main Bros. Oil Co., who permitted a local committee to use a piece of his land in 1942 to pay tribute to the 1,700 Bethlehem men and women who entered the U.S. military service after Pearl Harbor, plans to deed the property to the town. Local American Legion and VFW members plan to re-dedicate Memorial Park on Sunday, Nov. 11. The park on Delaware Ave. near the underpass has a memorial plaque designed and built by Walter J. Hotaling, and is in a setting of shrubs and landscaping installed by the original committee 15 years ago.

Oct. 26, 1972

Members of the distributive education classes at Bethlehem Central High School visited the Central Market warehouse in Albany in two groups last week, and this week will participate in a five-hour tour and seminar at the Montgomery Ward store in Menands. Robert A. Pierson is coordinator of distributive education at BCHS.

Oct. 27, 1977

Declaring he is "tired of being a political football," Bethlehem Police Chief Peter Fish lashed out at the town's GOP administration for appointing a public safety commissioner with jurisdiction over his department. He also accused the town board of restricting the department's programs by keeping a tight hand on the budget. Fish said the town's explanation that the growth of the department requires new leadership "is just an incredulous statement to make when you look at the record." Fish issued his statement to The Spotlight after the appointment of Ralph Tipple, a retired state police captain, to the new post of public safety commissioner became a campaign issue by Bethlehem Democrats.

A new impasse has developed in the continuing negotiations by the Bethlehem teachers' union and the school board for a new contract. A bargaining session conducted by a state-appointed conciliator failed to resolve the dispute, and the meeting was adjourned with no further sessions scheduled.

Soup labels wanted

The Elsmere School Community Organization is collecting labels from Campbell's products, which can be used to acquire equipment for the school. A collection box will be in the lobby at the school beginning Tuesday. In addition to soup labels, ESCO is collecting labels from Franco-American products, Campbell's beans and tomato juice, V-8 juice, Prego spaghetti sauce, Swanson canned and frozen items, and Recipe dog food. Additional information may be obtained from Sherry Einhorn, 439-7059.

There will be servings at 5, 6 and 7 p.m. For reservations call Mrs. Francis Elmore, 767-9935, or the church, 767-2243. There will be no take-may be made with Eleanor Loucks at 439-2046. Bake sale and bazaar booth will open at 4 p.m.

Chicken supper slated

Chicken and biscuits, harvest beets, and apple or pumpkin pie are among the items on the menu Saturday, Nov. 6, at Jerusalem Reformed Church, Feura Bush, for the annual chicken supper and bazaar. Servings will be at 4:30, 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. at a cost of $5.50 for adults and $2 for children under 10. Reservations

A 'frightful' party

A frightfully good time is promised at the "haunted" Elsmere Firehouse on Sunday, Halloween, from 6 to 9 p.m. Free cider and doughnuts and other treats are planned. Elementary school age children are urged to enter the poster contest, which will be judged at the Haunted House.

Happy Halloween

The witching hour approacheth — and this Halloween weekend affords some opportunities for the youngsters to celebrate in style.

The New Scotland Kiwanis will hold their annual Halloween party Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon at the Voorheesville Elementary School for ghosts and goblins in fourth grade and under, who are invited to attend in costume.

Sunday evening offers a haunted house at the Elsmere Fire House on Poplar Dr. from 6 to 9 p.m., and the Slingerlands Fire Dept. annual Halloween gala kicks off at 7 with movies, candy, cider and donuts.

Older spirits are reminded to please help keep the roads safe for the smaller celebrants.

Happy Halloween!
