BC's winningest coach is leaving

By Nat Boynton

Jack Whipple, the winningest athletic coach in this part of the state, is leaving the Bethlehem Central school system after 16 years to take an administrative position in Guilderland.

Whipple, whose swimming teams have set a state record for varsity athletic teams with an unbroken string of 115 victories, a skein that is still alive, will become assistant principal of Guilderland Central High School next month.

Whipple said he is "retiring from coaching," a vocation he has followed even after changing the course of his career from teaching to administration several years ago.

"It wouldn't be right for me to coach another team in this area," he said this week. "It wouldn't be fair to the kids."

Ironically, Guilderland, a charter member of the Suburban Council with a full roster of teams in every sport including lacrosse, does not have a swimming pool. Its swimmers combine with Voorheesville, a neighboring small Class C school with a pool, to field a team in the Adirondack Swim League.

Few coaches have been idolized as has Whipple by the athletes he has trained, supervised and inspired. In compiling an astronomical record of 12 straight Sectional championships and 13 straight league championships, his coaching philosophy, now applied to his

Tax base is up

The value of real estate assessed for property taxes in the Town of Bethlehem increased by $2.8 million this year—a full 1.5 percent more than last year.

The higher the taxable assessed valuation, the lower the tax rate for local government and school districts can be since the burden is spread over more property.

The Bethlehem Central and Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk school districts have already passed their budgets for the year, but final tax rates are not released until after the towns set their assessed valuation. Bethlehem Central plans to fix its rate Aug. 15. Towns pass their budgets in November.

The increase this year is largely attributable to brisk real estate sales in the town, said Bethlehem Assessor John Thompson. "If interest rates keep sliding up, I doubt we'll have that much of an increase next year," he added.

Bethlehem handled "about 175" grievances this year, which Thompson said is average for the town. There were no major

Connolly gets nod

New Scotland Republican leaders have elected Kenneth J. Connolly, a Voorheesville attorney practicing with an Albany law firm, as the new town chairman.

Connolly succeeds Frederick R. Edmunds of New Salem, also an attorney, who has law offices in Westmere and Albany.

Connolly, 45, was the unani-

The grocery store shown was originally owned by Frank Adams. Later Edward P. VanLoo acquired the store and he is pictured here in his rig. "Pop" Johnson was his helper and Mr. VanLoo's son, Roland, is standing near the pump. The VanLoo's lived in the house attached to the store and to the left of the picture was their orchard. The building at the right now houses a pizza restaurant.

Prior to this structure, there was a hotel, dance hall and saloon conducted on this corner by a Mr. Crum. From a country crossroads . . .

One of the earliest roads in Albany County led out from Pearl Street in Albany and ran southward along the river shore, presently Rt. 144. Before long an early track was also made up the steep hillside to the west of the river on what is known as Corning Hill, named after the late mayor of Albany's family, who owned large estates there. As the plateau above Corning Hill leveled out, another early track branched off, meandering across the fields in the general area south of Glenmont Diner. This road came to be known as our present Kenwood Ave. and connected the farmers who settled in the Glenmont-Elsmere-Delmar area with the river landings on the Hudson.

In the early 19th century, the little settlement of Adamsville grew up at the junction of this Kenwood road with the Albany and Delaware Turnpike road, at the spot that we now call the Four Corners in present day Delmar. The accompanying pictures show the development of that place, from a mere country crossroads hamlet to a spot which, to many of our residents, symbolizes the very heart of the Tri-village.

The evolution of the Four Corners continues today, with several properties on the verge of changing hands and other businesses planning to move. Whether the character of Bethlehem's oldest commercial district will be changed again remains to be seen.

mous choice of the town GOP committee, which met Monday at the home of Mrs. Sidney D. Vunck in New Scotland. The committee, which is composed of two members from each of the town's seven election districts, has three vacancies.

After the committee's choice had been confirmed, Connolly said: "I hope people will want to get involved. I hope they will want to help us. We live in New Scotland because it's a nice place to live, and I'd like to see this continue."

Declaring that "it's time for me to step aside," Edmunds tendered his resignation at a special meeting of the committee a week earlier. Prior to this week's meeting, Edmunds told a reporter he favored Connolly for the post, and said he was stepping down at this time "to give the new chairman plenty of time" to organize for the fall campaign.

The next local election is November, 1985, at which time

a number of town and county offices will be on the ballot.

"It's going to be a very smooth transition," Edmunds told a reporter. "I have many happy and wonderful memories, but I think it's time for me to step aside. We're all very close friends, all of us."

Edmunds has been New Scotland's Republican leader for more than 10 years since succeeding Wyman Osterhout of Voorheesville, now a town councilman. He also serves as zoning attorney for the town.

Connolly served a four-year term as one of New Scotland's town justices, during which time he gained wide recognition for developing innovative approaches to working with juvenile offenders. Last November he was the surprise victim of an unprecedented campaign blitz by a 27-year-old newcomer, Cynthia LaFave of Indian Ledge Rd., who upset Connolly's bid for a second term by fewer than 30 votes. He also served a two-year term as a Voorheesville village trustee.

Connolly has also served as special counsel to the Voorheesville village board in the controversial Salem Hills sewer rate case, a position he has retained pending the outcome of the village board's negotiations to purchase the system and treatment plant.

A native of Staten Island, Connolly earned his bachelor and law degrees at St. John's University. He and his wife have lived in Voorheesville for 17 years, and have three children.

Across town lines

John T. Biscione resigned this week in the middle of his 11th year as Democratic supervisor of the Town of Coeymans because he has bought a house in New Scotland.

In a press statement on Monday, Biscione, a 40-year-old Ravena attorney, said he will leave office Aug. 15 despite the fact that he maintains a legal residence on Blaisdell Ave. in Ravena. His action, he said, is the result of "questions raised" as to his compliance with the statute listing requirements for the office of supervisor.

Biscione closed on the purchase of the former Peter TenEyck residence, on Rt. 156, Voorheesville, the widely known "manor house" of Indian Ladder Farms, on July 15, and is moving his family there. He and his wife, the former Kathleen DeVaney, have seven children ranging in age from 13 to 1. Four daughters attend Holy Names Academy and two sons are at St. Gregory's School.

RCS board to seek Gleason replacement

By Theresa Bobear

After officially accepting the resignation of new board member James Gleason, the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Board of Education voted Monday night to appoint a new board member to serve until the election next spring. Following the election, a newly elected member will serve a three-year term.

The motion to appoint a new board member was made by board member Susan Gottesman and seconded by board member Frank Filipone. The board passed the motion with one opposing vote from board member Wayne Fuhrman.

Gleason resigned last Monday after accepting a promotion and transfer from his employer, Sperry Corp.

The board's decision came after supervisor Milton Chodack informed the board that it could leave the seat vacant, appoint a new board member or hold a special election.

The board then voted to request that persons interested in serving on the board submit a written resume before Aug. 17, to be distributed to board members at the Aug. 20 meeting. The board agreed to hold a special meeting for interviewing later in the week of Aug. 20. Board members Susan Gottesman and Marie Muller opposed the motion, and Fuhrman abstained. Gottesman said that the fourth highest vote getter in the past election should be appointed to the vacant seat.

Gleason was elected June 20 and assumed office July 2, ousting longtime board member and president Prescott Archibald. He has lived with his family in Glenmont for the past seven years and has served at the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle in Delmar.

Gleason said he choose the RCS school district for his children and has decided not to move his family to Philadelphia until after his daughter graduates from RCS Senior High next spring.

The board also accepted the resignation of newly appointed principal of Pieter B. Coeymans School, David Prezyna. In his letter to the board, Prezyna stated that he had accepted the position of director of personnel for a school district near Buffalo. According to Chodack, the board agreed in executive session to transfer the newly appointed principal of Ravena Elementary School, George Montone, to the Coeymans School as Prezyna's replacement.

The board will now search placement offices and resumes on file for a principal for the Ravena School, Chodack said.

Fair keeps getting bigger

The Altamont Fair gets underway Monday with a promise of more of practically everything. More rides, more shows, more competitions, more things to see and do.

The fair, which runs through Sunday at the Altamont Fairgrounds off Rt. 446 in the Village of Altamont, offers many events and displays of interest to everyone. In addition to the Royal Hanneford 3 Ring Circus, harness racing and a Saturday night fireworks display, visitors will enjoy 4-H displays, a sportsman's show, country-western entertainers, a flower and art show, bagpipes and drums, German Band, an old farm machinery exhibit, antique autos and the largest midway ever. Most of the attractions are free to those who attend the fair.

Admission to the fairgrounds is $1 for children and $3 for adults. The Capital District Transportation Authority will run a special bus from SUNY Plaza and Stuyvesant Plaza to the fairgrounds. Schedule and route information may be obtained by calling 482-8822.

Car damages

A Glenmont woman told Bethlehem police that a side window on her car had shattered as she was driving on Adams St. in Delmar Friday afternoon. She reported hearing popping noises at the time, and it is believed that BBs caused the damage. Police talked with children in the area of the incident and the case was reported closed with restitution.

changes either before or after grace day, he added.

The total taxable assessed valuation for Bethlehem this year is $85,603,279, as compared to $82,729,455 in 1983 and $81,131,980 in 1982. The increase from 1983 to 1984 was $2.87 million, or 3.5 percent, while the increase from 1982 to 1984 was $1.59 million, or 2 percent.

In New Scotland, the increase was less dramatic. According to Town Assessor William Bailey, the total taxable assessed valuation for 1984 is $13,639,450, an increase of 1.6 percent over last year.

Third police decision near

BETHLEHEM

The Bethlehem Town Board will meet for a second time Wednesday night to decide on the case of Officer Wayne LaChappelle, one of four police officers facing charges in a dispute over overtime.

The board held an executive session Monday after receiving a hearing officer's recommendation on LaChappelle's case, but came to no conclusion, according to Supervisor Tom Corrigan.

LaChappelle's case is somewhat different than those of the other officers, because he is also charged with attempting to use a concealed tape recorder during a meeting with a superior officer.

The hearing officer, Francis J. Higgins, has already recommended penalties of a 15-day suspension for Officer Marvin Koonz and a forfeiture of 17 days pay for Officer James Haker. In both cases, the town board approved the recommendation without change. Matthew Clyne, attorney for the Bethlehem Police Benevolent Association, said last week that all penalties will be appealed to state Supreme Court.

The transcript for the hearing of the fourth officer charged, Robert Samsel, is complete and that case may also be reviewed Wednesday, if Higgins has reached a decision, Corrigan said.

All of the officers were charged with insubordination after they refused to obey orders that they remain on duty following appearances in town court. Under the PBA's contract with the town, police officer is paid for four hours at time and a half for overtime work whether or not the full four hours is actually worked. Until recently, the practice had been for officers to go home once their court appearance had ended, but Chief Paul Currie recently changed that policy. In each of the four cases, he issued orders through Capt. Roy Cooke and Lt. Fred Holligan that the officers be placed on other duty, such as road patrol, if their court duty ended before the four-hour period.

Clyne has argued for the PBA that the orders issued by Currie were not properly posted in the department and are illegal because they conflict with state law. Town officials have taken the position that even if the officers thought the orders were illegal or at variance with their contract they should have complied and then followed established grievance procedure.

The additional charge against LaChappelle is that on the date of his court appearance he attempted to bring a concealed tape recorder into a meeting with Lt. Holligan. Holligan testified at LaChappelle's hearing that he asked LaChappelle if he had a tape recorder in the brief case after hearing a clunking noise in the hall, and that LaChappelle answered yes. The machine was not used.

Town considers joining lawsuit

The Bethlehem Town Board will consider joining a number of other suburban and rural towns in New York State who are suing the state over the way local aid is distributed.

But so far, Bethlehem officials don't seem as optimistic about the endeavor as do other towns that have joined. The question is not whether the state aid formula is fair, said Supervisor Tom Corrigan, but whether any law suit attacking the state's power to decide how to distribute its funds can be successful.

The lawsuit challenges the state's practice of basing the aid formula on 1970 census figures and 1969 property assessments rather than current figures. For towns that have increased population, those outdated figures mean significantly less in state funds; in Bethlehem's case, slow growth between 1970 and 1980 means less of a loss, but still a substantial amount, Corrigan said.

The towns of Guilderland and Wilton joined the lawsuit last week, bringing to 12 the number now enrolled. Several towns in the western part of the state have also joined. The lawsuit was filed last week in state Supreme Court by the Albany law firm of Rowley, Forrest and O'Donnell. Attorney Kevin Dailey, former supervisor of the Town of Clifton Park who is working on the case in the Albany firm, spoke to the Bethlehem board members in an executive session two weeks ago.

Corrigan said the town would have to pay $3,500 to join in the suit. If the state were forced to change the local aid formula all municipalities in the state would be affected, he said.

Unusual cache

A Bethlehem police officer on patrol Thursday night found a peculiar cache in bushes off Wisconsin Ave. in Delmar. The items included a canvas tote bag with a WMHT-TV logo, a cassette tape recorder and a tape entitled The New Testament, Ephesians 5:8 - Colossians 4:18. The items were taken to headquarters for safekeeping.

Fence variance heard

The Bethlehem Board of Appeals held a public hearing last week on a request by Robert Whitney for a variance pertaining to an existing fence at his 35 Rowland Ave., Delmar, property. Objection to the project was not voiced, and the board decided to discuss the request at the next meeting.

The board scheduled a public hearing for Aug. 22 at 8 p.m. to hear comments regarding Donald Schalk's request for a variance to install a fence at 36 Wakefield Ct., Delmar.

The board also changed the date for its next meeting from Aug. 15 to Aug. 22.

Town hall bids to be examined

By Theresa Bobear

The New Scotland town board has deferred a decision to proceed with the expansion of town hall after opening two bids for the project. A low bid of $70,550 was submitted by New Scotland contractor Michael Bartholomew at last Wednesday's regular monthly board meeting. The second bid, $73,825, was submitted by JAT Construction Co., Inc., of Selkirk.

Supervisor Stephen Wallace said the board would make a decision in a week or two after the bids have been evaluated. The project includes housing offices and enlarged hearing room, a new wing, roof and window repair, carpeting and widening of the front entrance.

If the town decides to go ahead with the proposal, Wallace said, the cost will be added to the 1985 budget and will be paid for from tax revenue.

The board also was notified that the state Department of Transportation plans to install a three-color traffic signal at the intersection of Rt. 155, Norman-skill Rd. and Voorheesville Ave. No date was specified for the installation. The intersection presently has a flashing blinker control.

The three-color signal will be only the second stop-and-go light in the Town of New Scotland. The other traffic signal at the Stone-well intersection of Rt. 85 and Rt. 85A was installed approximately 20 years ago.

The board received a request from developer Peter Baltis for the extension of an existing water district to include all of his 25-acre subdivision of 30 lots on Swift Rd. According to Baltis, only three of the 30 lots now have water taps. Wallace asked Baltis to provide the town with a description and an estimate of cost for the extension so that the town could advertise for bids.

The board also received a request from Salvatore Cannistraci of Colonie for permission to install a water line connecting his lot on Font Grove Rd. with the Town of Bethlehem water main. Cannistraci said he has received permission from Bethlehem. Councilman Herbert Reilly said New Scotland plans to create a water district that would include the Cannistraci property. Cannistraci was informed that he would have to install a line large enough to be used as part of the proposed district, pay for the line and help pay off the bond for the water district, which would include his property. Wallace agreed to speak with Bethlehem commissioner of public works Bruce Secor to determine the size of the water line that should be installed.

In other business, the board:

- Approved purchase of a 48-inch mower for $1,917.

- Agreed to raise the $681.50 allocation for the Kiwanis youth program to $1,016.80. Kiwanis asked the board to match last year's funding after the county cut funding for supplies from $1,500 to $300.

- Responded to complaints from Cortland Wenk by instructing highway commissioner Peter Van Zetten to improve the entrance to New Salem South Rd. at its intersection with Rts. 85 and 85A in New Salem.

- Considered the offer of Charles Clark, retired insurance broker, to volunteer two half-days per month to help senior citizens fill out claim forms. The board acknowledged the offer and decided to consider performance bonding before accepting the service.

New chief of staff

Dr. Lawrence Flesh of Voorheesville has been appointed chief of staff at the Albany Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Formerly VA chief of nuclear medicine, Dr. Flesh joined the Albany VA Medical Center in 1976 as a staff physician in nuclear medicine. He was promoted to service chief in 1976 and to assistant chief of staff in 1983.

Dr. Flesh sees his greatest challenge as "maintaining quality health care in an era of budget restrictions and government cost-cutting." Author of many publications and abstracts in the field of nuclear medicine he is confident that research scientists at the internationally recognized Albany VA Medical Center will soon be announcing a significant medical breakthrough.

Dr. Flesh was born and raised in New York City. He graduated from the State University Medical College, Brooklyn, and completed his surgical residency at the Albany Medical Center. After moving to Rochester for the first year of his nuclear medicine residency, he returned to Albany to complete his training at the VA Medical Center and Albany Medical Center.

In addition to being a diplomate of the American Board of Nuclear Medicine, Dr. Flesh is an associate professor in the department of radiology at Albany Medical College, a member of numerous professional organizations, a licensed pilot and an expert in electronics and computers. He lives in Voorheesville with his wife, internist Dr. Roberta Flesh, and his children, Jason and Jaime.

Sewer costs still undermined

By Theresa Bobear

Voorheesville officials are waiting for word from state and county authorities on what improvements must be made to the Salem Hills sewer plant once the village purchases the system.

State Environmental Conservation Dept. and Albany County Health Dept. engineers are expected to act this week or next on a report by an Albany consulting firm detailing a number of improvements to the system currently serving 281 dwellings in the large subdivision.

The report by Clough, Harbour Associates, engineering firm retained by the village, was received prior to a meeting last week of the village's sewer advisory committee, but not in time for EnCon and county officials to respond.

Mayor Richard Lennon said there was no indication which of the listed improvements the higher agencies would insist be made when the village takes over the system.

"We understand there are some existing violations, but we want to know what those items are, especially any that would entail substantial cost," Lennon said.

Lennon pointed out that the village would have to sign a commitment to make the improvements necessary to meet state and county regulations. Meanwhile, he said, Donald Meacham, village attorney, is drawing up contracts for the purchase.

County Health Dept. spokesman Steven Lukowski said that the plant is currently in compliance with state regulations only during dry weather. "During dry weather," he stated, "the system becomes hydrologically overloaded and floods out." According to Lukowski, connections with sump pumps and foundation drains are the most likely cause of the inflow and infiltration problem. Lukowski said that the village must either treat the additional water or remove it from the system. "EnCon won't commit on required improvements until the village commits on a way to correct the inflow and infiltration problem," he declared.

Arts mini-grants available

Established non-profit groups may now apply for grants of up to $3,000 for arts and humanities-oriented projects in Albany, Rensselaer and Schenectady counties. Current applications forms and guidelines are available at the Decentralization Plan for the Capital District, an agency of the New York State Council for the Arts, and must be submitted by Sept. 19.

The following information seminars to assist applicants have been scheduled: Sept. 5, noon, Schenectady Museum, Nott Terrace Heights; Sept. 6, noon, Rensselaer County Council on the Arts, 189 Second St., Troy; Sept. 6, 7 p.m., Albany Public Library, 161 Washington Ave., Albany.

For additional information and applications call 449-2811.

additional settling tank, or septic tank, and then processing it through an added sand filter.

Lennon emphasized that the Pleasant St. problem was not being ignored. "We should consider and identify the cost of increasing the capacity, but our primary concern now is with acquiring the plant for the people of Salem Hills, Lennon said. He explained to state officials that by acquiring the plant for the 281 families of the Salem Hills subdivision, the village would be taking the first step toward solving the larger problem of sewage disposal in the village. If Pleasant St. were added to the system, committee member David Teuten added, Pleasant St. residents would have to pay for the service. Lennon tabled the issue, noting that many related issues would have to be addressed by the community after the facility was purchased.

Previously, Rosen and Michaels had indicated the need to raise monthly rates to an amount in excess of $50 in order to continue running the plant. According to the report prepared by Clough, Harbour and Associates, Salem Hill residents could expect to pay approximately $35.92 per month for the 20 years following municipal takeover of the facility. A more definite estimate of the monthly rate cannot be made until after the state presents the village with a list of mandatory improvements.

It's a field day

The Voorheesville Village Summer Recreational program held at the village playground will end this Friday, Aug. 10. On that final day a Field Day will be held featuring games and contests from 9 a.m. until noon. Children between 7 and 12 years of age are welcome to join in the fun.

Also concluding this week will be other recreational activities, including tennis lessons and the primary grade soccer clinic. The summer recreational swim program held at the high school pool will also end on Friday, Aug. 10.

Villagers at the fair

Voorheesville will be well represented at the Altamont Fair, with exhibits by the area's three 4-H Clubs, Osborne Corners, The Lucky Four-Leaves and the Voorheesville Vikings. Also having displays at the fair will be the Buck-N-Kids Goat Club, which is based in the "hilltowns" but lists members from the Voorheesville area, including the assistant leader Janet Breeze.

Yvonne Perry, who was named Miss Altamont Fair last year, will take part in the opening ceremonies and crown the new "queen of the fair." During the year the 1984 graduate of Clayton Bouton High School has represented the fair at numerous parades.

Other familiar faces at the fair will include those of the Hammond family of K&B Stained Glass and the Steinkamp family of Helderledge, both of whom will have displays.

The Hills are leaving

During August Voorheesville will bid farewell to a family who has touched the lives of many in this area. Brennan and Marie Hill and their children, Amy and Brennan, will leave soon for Cincinnati, Ohio, where Brennan will teach theology at Xavier College.

During their nine year stay in Voorheesville the Hills have contributed much to the community. Brennan, an author of several books on theology, has been associated with the Office of Religious Education for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Albany and has been a Core member of the RENEW team. Marie, a former director of religious education at St. Matthew's Church, has also taught at Maryrose Academy, but will be most remembered as the motivating force behind the formation of the Human Concerns Committee, which assists local residents in need with food, fuel and other items.

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

Becker School Principal Al Keating didn't know what he was getting into when he said, "Sure, if you can get me some performers, we'll put on a talent show." The question was asked of Keating by three fourth grade girls early in May and he thought that most of the children would be too shy to perform in front of their teachers and classmates. This assumption proved to be entirely incorrect... the children were not too shy, and 18 acts were presented to the student body on June 21. There were tap, ballet and break dancers, as well as vocal and instrumental soloists including a cello performance by Timmy Michaniw.

The principal, teachers and parents reported they were amazed at the poise and talents displayed by the children. They also were proud of the way the student audience reacted to their friends on stage. Enthusiasm and encouragement were the words of the day, and the school is looking forward to another show next year.

Congratulations to campers
Scoutmaster John Hudspath III and committee members George Mumberger and Dave Austin along with 12 boys of scout Troop 81 have recently returned from a week at Camp Rotary in Postenkill. While the boys thoroughly enjoyed camping from July 8 through 14, it also meant a lot of hard work for them as they worked on and earned a total of 18 merit badges. The troop, which is sponsored by the Bethlehem Elks Lodge of Selkirk, earned badges in leather work, rowing, basketry, first aid, swimming, environmental science, wood carving, canoeing and a course in rifle and shotgun safety. An overnight camping trip was also included.

Participating in the weeks' events were scouts Alex Austin, Steven Barbic, Ralph Carhart, Jr., William Cornell, Joseph Croscup, Jeff Hammond, John Hudspath IV, Jeff Lilley, Garret Mabce, William Stanton, Jeff Sumner and Cameron Smith. Assistant Scoutmaster Don Cornell and committee Chairman Don Sumner attended the weekend events at the Governor Clinton Council camp site.

Meetings not all business
The South Bethlehem-Selkirk "Sunshine" Senior Citizens have found a way to combine business with pleasure. They've found the cool and quiet Henry Hudson Town Park along the Hudson River an ideal place to hold their monthly meetings during fair weather. They will again meet at the park on Winne Rd. in Selkirk Monday, Aug. 13. Beginning at noon, participants will have a covered-dish picnic before their regular meeting. All seniors of the area are invited to participate.

Ordination celebrated
On July 17 the congregation of the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem celebrated the ordination of Shinji Kawano to the office of ministry of the word by the Classis of Albany. The Rev. Johannes Meester, president of the Classis of Albany, presided and guest preacher was the Rev. Dr. I. John Hesselink, president of Western Theological Seminary in Holland, Mich. The Rev. Allan Janssen, pastor of the church, delivered the charge and conducted the prayers. The reception that followed the service was arranged by the deacons of the consistory.

Mr. Kawano recently graduated from Western Theological Seminary with a bachelor of divinity degree and has accepted a call to the Hamilton Japanese United Church of Canada in Hamilton, Ontario. He is married to Ellen Wiedemann, who taught at Hokkaido International School, Japan, for three years. Ellen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wiedemann, Mosher Rd., Glenmont.

Barbara Pickup is on vacation this week. Items for her column can be mailed to The Spotlight, Box 100, Delmar, 12054, or call 439-4949.

Another roast
Ever models of consistency, the Bethlehem Republican Committee has retained John Thompson and Edward Dominelli as chairmen of the annual steak roast, set for Aug. 15 at Picards Grove. Thompson said the format for this year's roast, which he and Dominelli headed last year, will be the same as in past years - plenty to eat and drink, plus games and prizes. Tickets are available from any town Republican committee-man.

Selecting a therapist

Dear Dr. (sic) Cohen:

I have been a regular reader of your column since last year and you make a lot of sense to me. I'm in my 30's and have been nervous as long as I remember, even as a child. I come from a good family, I mean no divorces or crazy relatives or anything like that. So I don't understand my own nervousness.

I have been to see doctors, but they just give me pills that make me feel like a zombie or that don't do anything at all. One time I went to a clinic and the person wanted to put me in a group of people who had the same kind of problem, but I didn't go back because I'm kind of private and don't think my personal problems are anyone's business...

Why does a person like me go for help? I don't think I'm crazy or a hopeless case. I work and I have friends and do normal things like everyone else. I just don't seem able to control my emotions and feel like I'm falling apart every once in a while. Is there some kind of professional person who is trained to help someone like me who doesn't need the funny farm or who doesn't have $80 an hour to pay out to someone who doesn't even seem to care about me as a person?

MATTERS

Norman G. Cohen

Delmar

First, thank you for your letter. It was the first I received since inviting readers of Family Matters to write me about their concerns. I can give you some guidelines to help you make your choice in seeking professional help for what appears to be a problem common to many people.

Second, I am not a doctor, either of medicine or of philosophy. To call myself a doctor would violate my professional status as a Certified Social Worker in this state, unless I had a PhD in social work. I, as most other social workers, have a master's degree, whereas state-licensed psychologists have a PhD in psychology, and psychiatrists have their medical degree plus specialized training in the field of mental illness.

Traditionally, those three professions, psychiatry, psychology and social work, form the nucleus of most clinical teams in psychiatric hospitals, treatment centers for the emotionally disturbed, mental health agencies and other rehabilitation programs for the mentally disabled.

Mental health professionals are trained in many approaches to help people. Some of those approaches are exclusive to a certain profession, such as the prescribing of medicine by MD psychiatrists or the administration of personality and intelligence tests by PhD psychologists. However, the most widely used and best-known approach used by mental health professionals involves "talking to someone about your problems," and is generally referred to as psychotherapy. Although psychotherapy is not restricted to any one discipline, it may be called counseling, analysis, casework, rehabilitation, or other such terms, depending on the professional you are seeing. It can be provided individually, as part of your family, with your spouse or parent or child, or in a group of others who share your particular kind of problem.

Psychotherapy is also a term used to convey the general array of techniques of conceptual approaches employed by mental health professionals. The jargon can be as confusing as reading a legal contract or an insurance policy. Whether your psychotherapist uses rational-emotive therapy, cognitive restructuring, ego supportive therapy, transactional analysis or behavior modification, there are more important aspects for you to be aware of and to consider in selecting your therapist.

Is your therapist a credentialed professional and a member of his or her professional association? Credentials, state certification or licensure, membership in a professional association all ensure the probability that your therapist practices according to professional standards and regulations, and is accountable to and has the respect of his or her colleagues. An experienced professional also knows his or her limitations and is more likely to consult with others or refer when your problem requires treatment outside his or her scope. Team approaches are standard in clinics and most agencies serving the mental health field.

Does your therapist and the office staff treat you with human dignity and respect? If there is any professional charged with the mission of demonstrating respect of and for the human condition, it is the mental health professional. You should expect to be greeted by a friendly receptionist in your therapist's office who does not call your name out loud for everyone else to hear nor who rushes you into forms and inner offices like a herd animal. You can expect your therapist to look at you while you speak and not be signing checks or leafing through a book instead of being there for you 100 percent. You can expect your therapist to speak in language you understand, not $50 words that fly over your head.

Are your therapists fees in line with others from the same profession and are they covered by your health care insurance plan? Typically, psychiatrist's fees are the highest of the three profession, psychologist's in the middle, and social worker's the lowest. This is more reflective of educational preparation (it costs considerably more to earn the MD than the MSW) than it is of professional expertise. Check the fees of other professionals in the area to make sure your therapist is in line with reasonable fees. Also, in this state, psychiatrists and psychologists are covered for all mental health insurance while social workers are covered only in certain plans. (The current legislature has passed a bill which awaits the governor's action and would require the same coverage for social workers at their rates as it already does for psychiatrists and psychologists). Also, many professionals have sliding fee scales to fit your budget. Ask the secretary.

Does it feel right for you? So many times I have met people such as you who have had unpleasant and, more important, unhelpful experiences with other therapists. Most therapists have had the same experience. It does not mean that the other therapists you saw were not qualified or good. They just weren't for you. The primary tool of a psychotherapist is not a technique or a conceptual approach, but his or her own personality and how he or she uses it to help people. There is chemistry within people that can affect moods, emotions, behaviors, etc., and there is chemistry between people that can affect them for better or for worse. Follow your feelings. You'll know before long if your therapist is therapeutic for you.

Refer training begins

Helpline and Crisis Intervention Center is offering a training sequence for volunteers starting Aug. 14. Volunteers are trained to provide supportive and active listening and crisis intervention services. "There are no requirements for volunteers except concern and care for others and a desire to learn," says Dan Lang, Refer coordinator. Volunteers participate in a 10-session training sequence addressing concerns such as suicide and depression, domestic violence, runaways and substance abuse. For information contact Lang at 462-5900.

Glenmont man heads Albany International

Albany International Corp.'s board of directors has elected Francis L. McKone president of the company. He succeeds Robert H. Sloan, who has announced his decision to resign as president and chief executive officer.

Sloan, 57, a former Slingerlands resident who has been Albany International's president since 1976 and chief executive officer since 1981, is credited with leading the Menands-based company in its recent transition to private ownership by means of a leveraged buyout. This effort has included the divestiture during the past year of most of Albany International's businesses not related to the paper industry and the organizational realignment of the company to concentrate on its basic paper machine clothing business.

"The company is now shaped and poised for new growth," Sloan said. "This is a good time for me to seek out some new challenges."

McKone, 50, a Glenmont resident, has been executive vice president and a director since 1983. He joined the company in 1964 as an engineer. He became vice president and general manager of the company's Canadian operations in 1972 and headed its U.S. operation from 1976 to 1979, when he was named a group vice president. He took over responsibility for all worldwide paper-making products activities in

McKone is a graduate of the University of Lowell and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Sloan, a so a graduate of the University of Lowell, joined the company in 1959 as a management trainee. He later served as plant manager for the company's operations in South Carolina, Albany and Hoosick Falls. In 1961, he was named manager of U.S. felt operations and subsequently held a number of other executive positions. He was named division vice president in 1973, a director in 1974 and became president and chief operating officer of Albany International in 1976. He is a Loudonville resident.

New Scotland's young soccer players got basic instruction in summer clinics before embarking on a rigorous schedule competing against age-level teams from other communities in the Capital District. The sessions were held on a section of the Voorheesville Elementary School athletic field.

Voorheesville soccer moves up fast

The recently organized New Scotland Soccer Club finished its first season in style last week with the under-16 team capturing a travelling league championship.

"It's almost unheard of for a first-year team to take top honors," commented Bob Crandall, varsity soccer coach at Voorheesville High, "but they finished with a good solid record of 14-2-2."

"Soccer is finally coming of age in Voorheesville," added Dick Ramsey, coach of the team that had the longest season of the league with their division playing eight other teams, more than any other age division in the Capital District setup.

Ramsey attributed its success to the skill and dedication of the team members themselves and the support of families who provided transportation to practice and the games in Saratoga, Schenectady, Clifton Park, Latham, Hoosick Valley, Niskayuna, Rotterdam and Bethlehem.

Ramsey also credited pride in their home field as an important factor, adding that Voorheesville had "the biggest and best facility in the area," sporting a new kickboard painted in June by Crandall's wife, Jill.

A final plus to the team was Ramsey's assistant John Angelotti from East Greenbush, who had played soccer for Guelderland and Cornell and whose only link to the team was that he had "friends in Voorheesville." According to Ramsey the young athlete, who will return to Cornell in the fall to work on his PhD, was a "valuable asset to the group."

New Scotland's other teams fared well in overall standings with the under-14 team taking second place in their division with a 10-3-1 record. Coach Ron Smollen was assisted by Janet Breeze and Jim Ryan.

The under-12 group, coached by Don Belcer with Rich Adams and Brian Rose assisting, finished in the middle of the league with a 5-5-2 record, but the coaches have high hopes for the young team, which will have 11 members of their roster of 16 returning next year. According to the coaches, it was "exciting this year to see the boys starting out with the basic skills learned from the village soccer clinic and the Kiwanis recreational soccer program, and over the summer becoming more team oriented."

According to Adams the only large problem the team encountered was the early season conflict with Kiwanis baseball, which saw a number of the fifth and sixth graders playing baseball two nights a week and soccer two nights a week.

Ironically, the under-19 team, the only club members who participated in the league last year as Team 3 in the Guelderland Club, finished in the bottom of the league with a 2-9-1 record, but as coaches Tedd Curran and Fran Albert pointed out, the members of this team, many of whom drive, were responsible for getting themselves to the game they often had conflicts with their summer job schedules, occasionally leaving the team "short-handed."

Crandall was quick to point out that in spite of work schedules and family vacations none of the four teams had to forfeit a game during the season, although at times they played with the required minimum of eight rather than the normal field of 11. The club played every scheduled game.

Crandall and Jim Hladun, JV coach at Voorheesville, acted as organizers for the club, applying to the league for club status, attending organizational meetings and then "sitting back and watching" due to restrictions put on their participation. And they liked what they saw on the field.

National Savings sweeps Babe Ruth

National Savings Bank made a clean sweep of the hardware as Bethlehem Babe Ruth Baseball completed what close observers feel was the most successful local season ever.

National Savings Bank wound up the campaign with a 23-2 record, taking the regular season flag, the playoff title and individual trophies. Ed Perry was the batting champion with a .508 average, and Tom Frazier won the Sean Fitzgerald Sportsmanship Award. The team also had the league's top pitchers in Frazier (6-0), Dave Gillespie (7-1), Perry (6-1) and Brian Hughes (4-0).

After finishing the regular season at 19-1, the team lost to General Electric, 2-1, in the opening game of the post-season double-elimination tournament, then won four games in three days to capture the crown. The tourney was sponsored by the Delmar VFW post.

"This was such a team effort, more than any other team I've had," enthused Lou Ceddia, the manager, who was rounding out 10 years of volunteer coaching in boys baseball, four in Babe Ruth after six in Little League. "It was also the hardest-working team and the most dedicated."

Coaches assisting Ceddia at various times during the year were Alan Hughes, John Skilbeck and Jim Dillon.

Ceddia attributed the team's success to the expanded player pool resulting from the merger of the local Babe Ruth organization with the "senior" loop of the Tri-Village Little League last year. The merger enabled the Babe Ruth league to operate two divisions, the Gold for competitive 14-15-year-old players, and the Blue for primarily 13-year-olds. Each circuit had five teams, with the Blue division serving as a developmental league for 13-year-olds making the adjustment to the regulation-sized diamond from the 60-foot basepaths of the Little League.

Dennis Battle of Delmar heads the Babe Ruth organization as president. The league is expected to continue the two-division format next season, with 13-year-old "graduates" of Little League filling the Blue Division rosters.

Whipple leaving

new career, has been "you can be satisfied, but not content."

His varsity swim teams at BC have lost only two dual meets in their last 206, both to Central New York pool powerhouses. Bethlehem has not lost to a team in this section since 1970. Adding his first three years as coach of BC's freshman swim teams, Whipple leaves Bethlehem with a record of 238-4 in dual meets.

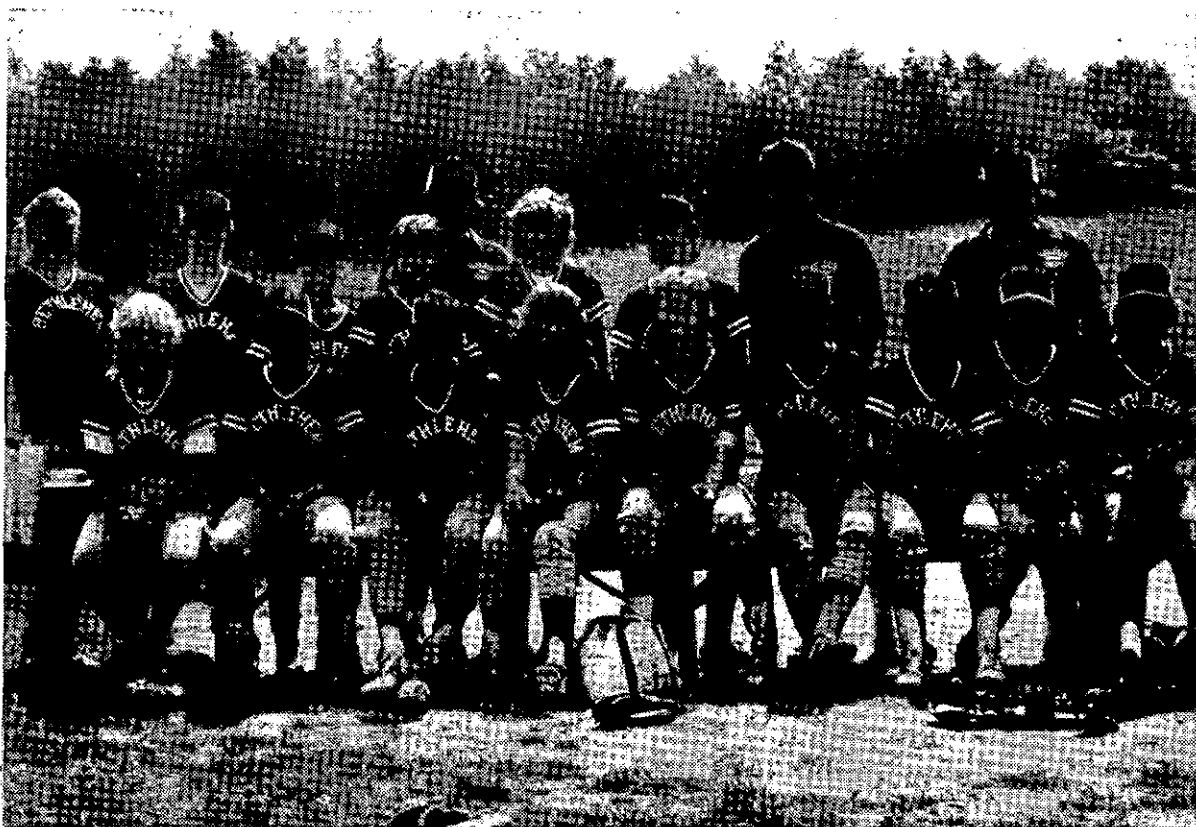

A native of Danvers, Mass., Whipple graduated from Springfield College in 1967. He took a year for a master's degree at Penn State, and came to Delmar for his first job as a physical education teacher in the fall of 1968.

He lost little time establishing a reputation as a coach. As BC freshman soccer coach his teams won seven consecutive Suburban Council titles and compiled a streak of 78 straight wins without a tie or a defeat. He also coached a championship freshman track team. His overall coaching record to date is 456 wins, 34 losses and 7 ties.

In 1981 Whipple enrolled in an MBA program at Albany State and later transferred to a doctoral program. During the past academic year, he served an internship in the principal's office at BCHS, and when Principal Charles Gunner took a one-semester sabbatical leave in February, Whipple served the second semester as acting principal of the school.

Whipple said his hardest chore was drafting a letter to his varsity swimmers telling them of his decision. He is looking forward to his new post with regrets at leaving the only school system he has ever worked for. "It's a growth opportunity for me," he said this week. "I have been happy in Delmar, and I have learned a tremendous respect for youth."

Bethlehem Tomboy's tournament softball team made history this season. Up to 1983, the Tomboys had never won a post-season game, but last year they won three and this year six, including a four-game sweep to the championship of the Lansingburgh Miss Softball Tournament. From left, front row: Wendy Vogel, Cathy Futia, Holly Mendleson, Beth McCue, Sharon Rogler, Laurie Newell, Lisa Karam, Kristen Cooke and Holly Kennedy; back row, Nancy Frattura, Maureen Montanus, Laurie Karam, Tracy Kayo, Coach Bill Kayo, Carolyn Brooks, Leslie Anderson, Manager Si Karam and Coach Joe Futia.

Who believes Nine Mile Two is right for jobs?

Michael Treadwell, Executive Director
Oswego County Development Agency

"One of the key elements of any corporation's location decision is the availability of reliable energy, especially electric energy. In order for us to continue to attract industry and jobs to New York, we must be assured of reliable power with predictable rates. This is one of the reasons why I think Nine Mile Two should be completed."

Henry Landau, Union Leader

"As a union leader, I'm concerned about the energy needs in the future in New York State and the fact that jobs will be generated to bring that need up to par. I think what we ought to do is have a resolve that we're going to furnish our own energy needs. We do have the know-how...we can do it...and Nine Mile Two will show the residents of New York State that we can accomplish this goal."

Michael Connery, Electrician, IBEW 724

"The completion of Nine Mile Two is extremely important in my trade. It's important to the State of New York. You just can't get three-quarters of the way through a project and then say you're going to stop it. You have to complete it. It's important to us...it's jobs for me and the brothers of the local...it's jobs in the future for people that are going to run and maintain it...it's power for all kinds of jobs in New York State."

Be wary on 85

Editor, The Spotlight:

In July, 1983, my then 18-year-old graduation celebrant was stopped by the Bethlehem police and subsequently arrested on DWI charges. The rest is history. Aside from the financial burden on him there was, understandably, a certain amount of disgrace and inconvenience bear in mind the required classes and independent counseling he attended while maintaining a job and attending college. He has, as a result of the incident and the counseling received, stopped drinking all together and is serving as an example to some of his peers.

I can't thank the Bethlehem police enough for their initial action and beg them to continue their endeavors to save lives particularly in this regard. My son was reached before it was too late and has learned that having a good time and feeling secure isn't centered around a "beer-ball."

Now to the bottom line of my writing. On Wednesday, Aug. 15 the Bethlehem Republicans will be celebrating their 25th annual outing as advertised in The Spotlight as "more than you can eat and drink." Go to it, Bethlehem police! Continue to keep your eye on our young people in their high-powered Trans-Ams, but bear in mind the "older and supposedly wiser" folk who will be driving through our community after a day of eating, drinking and merrymaking. My kid, who saw the light, just might be on Rt. 85 that night.

I think I made my picture clear and ask in closing that you print my personal and sincere thanks to Officer J.W. Kerr, Bethlehem police; Jon Bower, a personal friend who took an interest and didn't scoff; Bob Duffy, DAP, East Greenbush, and Mary McGraw, SPARC. Thank you.

A caring act

Editor, The Spotlight:

I was befriended by a bicycle riding young man on Delaware Ave. My two grandchildren and I were riding bicycles when one grandchild went so far ahead of me and my other grandchild that he became disoriented and lost.

I hailed this male youth who was riding in the direction my grandson had gone. He rode to where he found my grandson and brought him back to where we were waiting.

I do not know this young man's name but he performed a caring act of service for me and my grandson. He is to be commended as a representative of his generation.

Finding the best

Editor, The Spotlight:

The Earl Hauf Olympic Fund Committee would like to share with your readers this letter from Earl and to thank everybody who contributed to the fund to send him to the Olympic tryouts.

"I would like to thank you all very much for your help. Without your generous support, I don't know if I would have experienced such an awesome and spectacular time in California.

"There are so many things to talk about that I could probably write a book. My training continues even though I didn't make the U.S. Olympic Team. In a couple of days I will be competing again in the Nationals in Camp Perry, Ohio, for two weeks and then on to Fort Benning, Ga. to get more intensive training under the guidance of the U.S. Marksmanship Team.

"To sum up my experiences thus far, I had some mechanical problems which hurt me in two of three events, which pushed me down in the standings. My first event, Air Rifle went very well. I put in some good scores and it placed me 15th out of too many competitors to count. I am not disappointed at all. It gave me a lot of experience and much knowledge for the future.

"This tryout was full of surprises. Hardly any of the expected winners won their events. This was truly the year for longshots; but, the true measure of the Olympics is not winning but finding the BEST... in all of us.

"Again thank you very much for all of your help. You made a dream come true. Maybe in a few more years I will have another dream go into reality or 'I say Gold.'"

Red Goyer
Chairman
Earl Hauf Fund

Your words

Editor, The Spotlight:

The following is a letter to Norman Cohen:

For the past year or so I have been a regular reader of your column "Family Matters" in The Spotlight. I think it is an excellent column and in need of no revision or change in any respect whatsoever. However, that is your decision and I respect it. But, it is your words and ideas that I find stimulating, and I hope that the change in the format of the column doesn't diminish the input of your ideas and writing.

Thank you for writing such fine columns.

No more:

Editor, The Spotlight:

In the area of drug and alcohol abuse, children and youth are the forgotten Americans. Hundreds of thousands of adolescents under the age of 16 have used, abused and become dependent on illicit drugs and alcohol.

Our response on a national level has been sparse and lacking. This paucity also exists in New York State, where there are no specialized alcohol and drug treatment centers specifically for children and youth under the age of 16.

This crisis is further complicated by the tolerance we show in allowing entrepreneurs to masquerade as pharmaceutical firms and market "look alike" pills with high caffeine levels.

More than ever, the need for social and moral sanctions force us to confront our institutions which traditionally maintained our social stability: the church, the school, and the family. All of us need to stand up and be heard and to say, "No more!"

Van needs drivers

Bethlehem's Senior Van is an 11-passenger vehicle used to transport seniors — aged 60 and older — to doctor's offices, therapist's offices, hospitals to visit friends, shopping centers or wherever they need to go.

There are plenty of seniors who live in Bethlehem who need rides — but not enough drivers. Currently, there is a pool of seven volunteer drivers who are available weekdays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. to drive the van, but more are needed.

Anyone is welcome to volunteer. Drivers who volunteer will be given a "road test" and learn emergency safety procedures. They will also be taught to use the radio system that links the van to the town's police department.

Persons who wish to volunteer should fill out an application weekdays at the Bethlehem Town Hall. Additional volunteers are needed also to answer the van telephone between 9 and 11 a.m., weekdays. Those who need a van ride make their appointments by calling the van number, 439-5770, between 9 and 11 a.m., weekdays. Those who wish to volunteer should contact senior services coordinator Karen Pellettier between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Tuesdays or Thursdays.

Film at library

The Bethlehem Public Library will offer a showing of the film Fame on Friday, Aug. 10 at 1 p.m. for teenagers. Due to the nature of its material this free movie has a PG label. All children are asked to obtain parental permission to attend.
