New leadership planned for Bethlehem Democrats

By Tom McPheeters

Promising no miracles but lots of hard work, William E. Burkhard of Elsmere was set to take the reins of the Bethlehem Democratic Committee in a low key transition Tuesday.

The Democrats, who have never won a town-wide race, have been less active than usual in the last several years despite isolated strong showings in the 1982 elections. Burkhard said Saturday that Michael Breslin, chairman of the committee since 1979, decided not to stand for another two-year term. Breslin could not be reached for comment Friday or Monday.

"We would like to take the same clay and refashion the image," Burkhard said Saturday. The goal, he added, will be to build a hard-working organization that provides a "meaningful alternative" to the Republicans. "It's a long and arduous job."

Burkhard, a supervisor of administrative analysis in the state Health Department, has been a leader since the Bethlehem Democrats were incorporated as a separate organization (distinct from the Albany County organization) by Kenelm Thacher in the mid 1970s. Two years ago, he resigned as vice chairman of the party, but declined to give his reasons publicly, saying that to do so would "confuse the issue."

But the split with Breslin was never far below the surface, and this summer Burkhard quietly let it be known he was running for chairman. Arthur Brown, the party's treasurer, also declared an interest in the chairmanship. Aftersome discussion, Brown agreed to run as vice chairman. Burkhard said other officers will be Susan Shipherd, who will remain secretary, and James R. Boyle of Slingerlands, who will become treasurer.

Burkhard said he is proposing no major changes in the committee, but rather a return to the basics of building an organization that can bring out the vote and provide a credible alternative to the ruling Republicans.

In the past, the Democrats have attended town board meetings and come up with alternative programs; Burkhard promised that that practice would be resumed, with the first item likely to be the 1985 budget.

"That budget is in the same format as when I and Hank Dullea ran for the board in the mid 1970s," he said. Periodically, the Democrats have criticized the budget for being uninformative and not reflecting how expenditures are made.

The more difficult job is likely to be in matching the GOP in manpower and organization.

Road study firm picked

The Bethlehem Town Board has agreed to hire Vollmer Associates, a New York City-based engineering firm with an office in Delmar, to conduct a town-wide highway study.

The $30,000 project is an outgrowth of the work done earlier this year by the Delaware Ave. Task Force and, more recently, renewed interest in extending the Delmar Bypass to the west. Supervisor Tom Corrigan said Friday Vollmer was selected partially because despite the fact that it has an office in Deimar. — the firm has done no work locally that might cause it to prejudge its conclusions. At the same time, the fact that the people who will be working on the study know the area, will mean that it can be completed in three to four months, faster than the town had expected, Corrigan said.

The town board met with Michael D. Graham, a Vollmer vice president and manager of the Delmar office, in closed "executive session" Wednesday and negotiated the final contract, according to Corrigan.

Graham said Friday the firm hopes to conduct several different studies — measuring the volume of traffic on such major roads as Delaware Ave. and New Scotland Rd., conducting "origin and

Long arms of IRS reaches Glenmont

The only kind of letter most people ever want to get from the Internal Revenue Service is an envelope with a window and a check showing through. But recently the Parent-Teacher Association at Bethlehem Glenmont Elementary School got one of the other kind — a notice that the IRS wants them to send a check for $3,830.

The amount is way beyond the PTA's means, according to a surprised member of the group. That sum, she said, apparently has been accumulating at the rate of $10 a day for more than a year because of the group's alleged failure to file an informational 990 return.

"Why didn't they tell us at $20?" moaned the member, who wished to remain anonymous. "We don't have to pay any tax—that's not the problem! It's just because we haven't filed . . ."

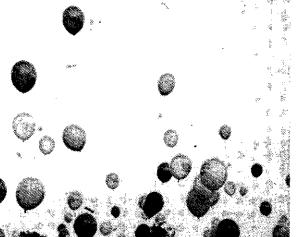

Don Roberts, public affairs officer for the IRS's Albany district office, while noting that he cannot comment on any specific case, said Friday, "All they have to do is write back and say they weren't required to file."

Roberts said each of the 10 IRS service centers nationwide maintains its own data base, which cannot be accessed by computer from another center. Hence, for example, he said, the Holtsville, N.Y. center might have a tax exemption on file for a group, but that would not prevent a penalty notice being sent from the Andover, Mass., center. The penalty notice process generally is set in motion if the responsible IRS center finds that a group has not filed a 990 return for several years, sends a notice asking why, and receives no answer, Roberts said.

Also, he noted, some groups do not realize that obtaining taxexempt status with the state government does not mean they automatically receive federal exemption, for which they must make application to the IRS.

As for why the PTA wasn't sent a bill for $20 a year ago, Roberts said, "There's no way we could pick it up within a short period of time. The processing time prevents that."

But the PTA can take heart: the law puts a cap on the penalty at

Democrats move

Burkhard said the Democratic Committee, which changed very little in the September election, currently has five vacancies: the party is also short six to eight people to serve as poll clerks in the November election. That shortage of manpower, coupled with the Republican registration edge, has always put the Democrats at a disadvantage in local elections.

But while party registration is still better than two-to-one in Bethlehem (7,591 Republicans to 3,094 Democrats as of January, 1984), the independent voter is -becoming more of a factor (4,249 registered independents as of January, 1984). In 1982, David Sawyer came within 126 votes of winning a county legislature seat from Bethlehem, and countywide, Democrats such as Sam Stratton, John Clyne and James Coyne have all done well in the town.

Burkhard said one of the factors that has been lacking is strong committee work - providing services such as registration information, identifying potential workers and being a presence in the community. He did not rule out the possibility that in the 1985 election the Democrats may not challenge for the supervisor position, as in 1983, but said if that is the case it will be clearly stated and explained.

Burkhard is a 25-year state employee who began his career as an engineer for the state Department of Transportation. He ran for the county legislature in 1971 against the late Edward Sargent and in 1975 with Henrick Dullea (now Gov. Cuomo's director of state operations) against then Councilmen Tom Corrigan and Harold Williams. His wife, Mary Lou, also ran for town board in the 1970s. The Burkhards lost a son, James, in a home accident two weeks ago, and that tragedy caused the committee to postpone its meeting, which was rescheduled for Tuesday.

Brown has worked in the state Department of Social Services for six years, and prior to that was employed by the Albany County Department of Social Services. He has lived in Delmar since 1976 and has been a committeeman since 1978.

Holiday closings

Bethlehem Town Hall, Voorheesville Village Hall and New Scotland Town Hall will be closed on Monday, Oct. 8, because of the Columbua Day holiday. Bethlehem's landfill on Ruppert Rd., South Bethlehem, will remain open, and Bethlehem sanitation crews will make their regular garbage collections.

Trip to the city

The St. Thomas Altar Roasry Society is holding its annual bus trip to New York City on Saturday, Nov. 3. Buses will leave from St. Thomas Church at 7 a.m. and return around 11 p.m. Round trip tickets at $18 are still available. For ticket information call Maryalice Svare at 439-7284 or Linda Russell at 439-6552.

Restoration talk set

Dennis McFadden, executive director of the State Commission on Restoration of the Capitol, will speak at the Oct. 11 meeting of the Delmar Progress Club's government council. The meeting will be held in the Bethlehem Public Library community room at 7:30 p.m., and is open to the public.

Fair in Onesquethaw

The women's guild of the Onesquethaw Reformed Church, Tarrytown Rd., Feura Bush, will sponsor a roast beef supper and fair on Saturday, Oct. 13, with servings at 4:30, 5:30 and and 6:30 p.m. The new church cookbook will also be available. For reservations, call Mrs. Gildersleeve at

Bethlehem budget: which way will it go?

Bethlehem's 1985 town budget will be up, "no question," Supervisor Tom Corrigan said Friday. But how much up, and whether there will be a tax increase, no change or even a decrease Corrigan is still unwilling to predict -despite the fact that he plans to present his tentative budget to the town board this Friday at 4 p.m.

The tentative budget, as Corrigan explains patiently every year, contains requests from department heads that may or may not remain in the final document after the town board makes its review, and by necessity contains only rough estimates of revenues. The board then adopts a preliminary budget, which is presented at a public hearing in early November.

This year, Corrigan said, "everybody wants more of everything," and there will probably be some paring by the board of requests form department heads. There has been no discussion yet on raises for town employees, although in past years a percentage increase for non-union employees has been

Duplex question to get more study

By Tom McPheeters

Caution appeared to be the better part of valor for the Bethlehem Town Board last week as three controversial issues were put on hold. But for two of those issues — duplexes in A zones and a proposed home alarm ordinance - delay implies that changes will

The most controversial subject, the removal of duplexes from the A Residential zone, got only brief treatment at the end of Wednesday's meeting as board members agreed they want to hear more from the town's planning consultant, Edward Kleinke. But the comments that were made were significant:

"I somehow feel we're too broad-based on this," said Councilman Robert Hendrick.

Councilman Scott Prothero agreed: "We're stepping on a flea with an elephant gun," he said of the proposed change. At a public hearing last month, several developers and their representatives objected that the change is unnecessary and will, in fact, have little impact on density: Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor has said that the new sewer system in North Bethlehem may become overloaded unless the town takes steps to limit development in that

Supervisor Tom Corrigan said he has also been informed that the Albany County Planning Board, which reviewed the proposed change, has reservations about how land along major highways would be affected. In many cases, single-family homes along busy streets simply are not economical, Corrigan noted.

The bulk of Wednesday's meeting was taken up in a public hearing on a proposed ordinance regulating emergency alarms in the town. Such a law has been on the drawing board for nearly two years, and Bethlehem's proposal was supposedly a nearly exact copy of Colonie's ordinance; nevertheless, it was immediately apparent that the hearing wasn't going to go smoothly.

When Corrigan asked for questions, they came in flocks. Who pays for false alarms if the report comes from a third party, such as a security firm? What about a neighbor who hears the alarm go off? If vendors are licensed, who sets the criteria and who enforces it? Does the town "approve" the type of alarms installed, or simply issue a permit?

For most of the people present, the major question was the penalty for false alarms. The ordinance proposes to charge $15 for residential false alarms, and $25 for businesses.

"I do strongly object to being fined if we have mechanical problem," said Ken Ringler, manager of Del Lanes and the Delmar Car Wash. He said the bowling alley has had a burglar alarm for years, but the car wash did not because he doubted one would work in the humid conditions. But after a series of incidents, an alarm was installed last year at the car wash — it resulted in the expected false alarms, plus one arrest, which to Ringler made the effort worthwhile.

Police Chief Paul Currie reported that very few alarm systems are showing their worth, however. In two years, the department has received 1,385 false alarms while making two arrests resulting from the alarms. For every alarm received at the station, the department dispatches two or three cars, Currie said.

William Geary of Delmar, who owns a Colonie security firm, suggested that most of the false alarms are coming from dial-type alarms set to ring the station directly, rather from firms like his that check out the alarm calls they receive before passing them on to the police. "We're the ones cutting. down the percentage of false alarms," Geary said.

Currie, however, said that more than half of the false alarms come from third-party calls.

Following that exchange, Corrigan ended the public hearing. "I would suggest that we retire gracefully, close the hearing and go from there," he said. "I think we've got some homework to do, and that's no reflection on the

The board held up action on one other matter of high visibility, deciding to delay a hearing on the proposed zone change for the Siegal property west of Elm Ave. until after an environmental impact statement is prepared.

mental Services, for 10 years of service to the developmentally disabled. Nina. Lempert, Bethlehem Central High School senior and president of Students for South End Clients, looks on.

That should take a while, Corrigan said, because Kleinke reports that the statement will have to be "very detailed." The planning board recently approved Planned Residence District zoning for the parcel, clearing the way for an extension of the Delmar Bypass. A town board hearing will be required before the project can move ahead.

The board did move ahead on another front, approving final plans for $4.4 million in improvements to the water district. authorizing bids to be let and the sale of bonds to pay for the project. Included are two new holding tanks, one in Delmar off Elm Ave. near the town park and the other in New Scotland, plus a new valve to improve the flow of water from the reservoir in New Scotland into town. Bids are to be opened Oct.- 18, and some site work done this fall, with completion expected by the end of next-summer.

In another action, the board authorized Corrigan to ask for bids for four new police cars, with the hopes that the town can get in on a particularly good deal currently being offered by a New Jersey firm. Technically, the cars will be purchased out of 1985 budget funds, Corrigan said.

In search of excellence

"First let me say I didn't see a 'rising tide of mediocrity',"declared Charles Gunner, principal of Bethlehem Central High School, who spent the first half of the year on a sabbatical leave visiting high schools in 10 states, Puerto Rico and Canada. Last Tuesday he gave a public report on his research, including an assessment of how Bethlehem stacks up against the 39 schools he visited.

With an enrollment of 1,280, BC is about in the middle in terms of size among the schools he studied, Gunner said, but it ranks near the top in other respects. For example, while a Scarsdale School had the highest average combined Scholastic Aptitude Test score -1,065 — Bethlehem's average of 1,010 put it at No. 8 among the schools using the SATs. BC. ranked No. 13 out of 40 in the percent of graduates continuing their education and No. 14 in Merit Scholarship Program awards (four Bethlehem seniors are Merit Scholarship semifinalists this year and 24 earned commendations in the rigorous nationwide testing).

But such rankings may not be the most important thing, Gunner cautioned: "If their scores are higher, are they necessarily better?"

In reality, society leads the schools, he said. "Schools are the institutions society created to socialize our youth — they perpetuate society's mores - including its fears and lack of trust - and serve the desires of the society that created them."

Gunner said his research also had led him to believe that a renaissance is coming. "The fragile network of human beings reaching out to help each other is growing. I really believe that." Disturbed at the lack of caring he has seen, Gunner said, "We need strength and rigor, but we can't forget the soft side." He listed precepts for his ideal "Aquarian school" as including the goal of developing better people; high expectations for administrators and teachers as well as students; academic rigor in a program that stretches each individual, and trust among all.

Gunner commented that his own experience as a student had. led him to conclude that "art teachers want to teach kids who do art. Do you suppose that happens in other classes?" Effective teachers communicate their enthusiasm and develop a stable, caring learning environment for every student, he said.

However, "the teachers who really count were with their kids before we got them - their parents," Gunner declared. While acknowledging that parents have a difficult job, he said "some parents pander to the narcissism of their kids . . . maybe it would be better to take a walk with a parent and learn something about their

Epilepsy Association grows from its Delmar beginnings

By Caroline Terenzini

"It took us four years to come up with the right questions to ask. We'd like to make it a little shorter for other people," says Marion Harwick of Delmar, president of the Epilepsy Association of the Capital District, Inc.

Armed now with a grant and a subcontract that together will bring the association some $18,000 this year, the volunteer organization Mrs. Harwick heads is poised to reach out to the estimated 10,000 persons in a three-county area who have a seizure disorder, and to their families and friends. The association operates in Albany, Rensselaer and Schenectady counties.

A grant to the association from the state Developmental Disabilities Planning Council, scheduled to become official Oct. 1, is to finance a program of family support services for persons with seizure disorders and their kin. The association also has a subcontract with the New York State Epilepsy Association to devise and present a program focusing on adolescents. The latter funding is serendipitous, Mrs. Harwick, since her daughter, Elizabeth, whose own seizure disorder led to Mrs. Harwick's involvement in the association, is now a teenager.

A barbershop harmony concert last May that was a benefit for the Capital District association "kind of gave us the courage" to apply -"for'the grant, Mrs. Harwick said, w since the $2,000 realized from the said. A seguire can be under the that purchased advertising space in the program and to the area residents who filled the Middle School auditorium that night. (It is no coincidence that John Harwick, her husband, sings with the 50-member Electric City Chorus).

While less than 2 percent of the population suffers from seizure disorders, which are most common among children, Mrs. Harwick said, anyone at any age can develop the problem, because of infection, for example, or through other trauma to the brain. For this reason, the association was among the advocates of the state's recently enacted seat belt law, she said. A seizure can be a dramatic wide range, from a blank stare that may cause an adult to miss his bus stop to a convulsion that can be alarming to bystanders.

Unhappily, "people seem to be defensive about epilepsy," Mrs. Harwick said, "whereas they wouldn't be about a broken arm." So one of the goals of the association is to provide the support and encouragement needed to live with the disorder. The association meets in the evening on the first Wednesday of the month at the First Presbyterian Church, State and Willett Sts. in Albany. Speakers over the next 10 months will discuss such subjects as the new international seizure classification system, and "Choosing Independence." The association also has formed a number of support groups, such as one for parents of children with a seizure disorder and a problem-solving group that focuses on such topics as communicating with a doctor or vocational concerns. A group for couples is on the drawing

"Not everybody needs a support group," Mrs. Harwick said of the people her organization is hoping to reach, "but we need those people in our support

Traveler to speak

The Second Milers, a group of retired men from the Tri-Village area, will meet at 12:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 10, at the Delmar United Methodist Church. Dr. Millard Harmon of Elsmere will speak about "Flying Friendly Foreign Skies."

The group meets on the second Wednesday of the month for lunch fellowship and entertainment. Visitors are welcome. For reservations call 439-1054.

Members of the Camera and Memorabilia Enthusiasts Regional Association will hold a photo trade show at the Ramada Inn, 1228 Western Ave., Albany, on Sunday, Oct. 7, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Everyone is invited to view an exhibit of photographic art from the early days to the present.

SENIOR CITIZENS

The Senior Service Centers of the Albany Area, Inc. will hold a harvest health day on Thursday, Oct. 4, at the Louise Corning Senior Service Center, 25 Delaware Ave., Albany.

The day will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a free blood pressure clinic for persons 60 years and older. After a luncheon, served at 11:30 a.m. and 12:15 p.m., a flu vaccine shot will be offered for $3.

For reservations call 465-3322.

The Town of Bethlehem will provide a free blood pressure clinic and free Medicare form assistance to senior citizens at Bethlehem Town Hall, 445 Delaware Ave., on Tuesday, Oct. 16.

The blood pressure clinic will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

A representative from the American Association of Retired Persons will be available to assist those who wish to file Medicare forms between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. on the first and third Tuesday of each month. Appointments are required and can be made by calling 439-2160 or 439-3305.

Senior citizens who have no transportation to these services may call 439-5770 between 9 and 11 a.m. to reserve a seat on the Bethlehem senior van.

The Town of Bethlehem senior van will not be in operation on Monday, Oct. 8, in observance of Columbus Day. Persons who normally use the van on Mondays for their grocery shopping should make reservations to shop on Friday, Oct. 5, by calling 439-5770 between 9 and 11 a.m., weekdays. Van reservations are accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis.

The Bethlehem senior citizens organization will sponsor a trip to Proctor's Theater for a performance of Sophisticated Ladies on Saturday, Oct. 20. The bus will depart from the town's municipal parking lot on Kenwood Ave. in Delmar at 12:30 p.m.

Following the show, the group will return to the Fiesta Restaurant in Delmar for a roast beef dinner. Cost of the trip, including dinner, is $26.25. Contact Ann Reardon at senior citizen organization meetings for reservations.

Glenmont girl gets a crown

Autumn . . . Beautifully colored foliage, crispcool nights — and the inevitable football game. Whether that thought is inclined to bring a moan or a cheer, this Saturday's game at Hudson Valley Community College promises to be a very special game, involving some very special people, including a young lady from Glenmont.

The game . . . Hudson Valley versus Lees McRae, is for the benefit of the Shriners' Burn Centers and Children's Hospitals. Starting time is 1:30 p.m. at Hudson Valley in Troy.

The young lady . . . Terri Douglas, 15-year-old daughter of Judi and Elmer Douglas of Glenmont.

The purpose . . . to help children throughout the nation who require medical attention and re treated free of charge at the 19 orthopedic hospitals and three burn institutes the Shriners support.

Selected for her pleasant personality, Terri Douglas has been chosen as queen of this year's benefit. Sharing the honors with her will be "king" Jimmy Price of Stillwater. Both teens have been recipients of the excellent care provided by the Shriners.

Suffering the pain of a debilitating handicap that forced her to refrain from the normal activities of a teen, Terri's condition was brought to the attention of the Shriners by Fred Hill of Delmar, a member of the group's board of governors. Through their facilities she was thoroughly examined and eventually appraised as requiring surgery to both knees. As a patient of the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children in Springfield, Mass., Terri subsequently received the necessary care and surgery. After a period of convalescence she has fully recovered, and is now able to enjoy the many activities she was previously unable to perform.

Any child up to the age of 18 who has suffered from severe burns or orthopedic disabilities is eligible for the medical assistance the Shriners so willingly offer, regardless of race, creed or nationality. The $10,000 goal set for the weekend's benefit helps assure the continuation of this assistance in their facilities throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Presentation of king and queen will be made during half-time activities on Saturday, at which time Hill will introduce Terri and Jimmy and give a brief summation of their medical histories.

Salem Hills gets price tag

By Theresa Bobear

While the Village of Voorheesville is still guessing about necessary repairs and the total cost of the Salem Hills Sewerage Disposal project, Mayor Richard Lennon is finally ready to talk numbers.

His rough estimates of the final cost of the acquisition and rehabilitation is between $500,000 and $600,000, probably closer to $500,000. The total cost of the project would be approximately $700,000 with all the rehabilitative measures recommended by Clough, Harbor and Associates, consulting engineers for the purchase, Lennon said last week.

A purchase contract is being drafted with a tentative purchase price of $387,000 for the plant and sewer lines, Lennon said. The village will obtain a bond anticipation note — a short-term loan — to make an estimated $125,000 in repairs necessary to get the plant operational, the mayor said.

After completing minimum repairs necessary to get the plant operating, the village will look at the condition of the facility and determine what other repairs are necessary. The village will then determine the exact cost of the project, probably in 12 or 18 months, acquire the plant and go to bonding, Lennon said.

After bonding and acquisition of the facility, the board and residents will decide how costs are to be distributed at a second public hearing, Lennon added.

The village board held a public hearing last night (Oct. 2) to provide residents with all the available information regarding the purchase of the system and the state's environmental review of the facility. The board hoped to get the consensus of residents before sending them written information on the project.

At their regular meeting last Tuesday night, the Voorheesville Village Board announced the date of the first public hearing and reviewed state Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) comments on the Clough, Harbor report on the Salem Hills facility. The DEC recommended acquisition of the facility and noted the village must employ a class three operator and a class three assistant operator for the plant. Lennon said the operators would not add to the cost of the project because two full time village employees could get a license. The DEC advised the village not to count on operation and maintainance aid from the state in the future because the funds may not be continued. DEC officals recommended the village attack the inflow and infiltration problem and identify priority items for initial rehabilitation.

At its meeting last week, the board also discussed the possibilty of changing the term of village trustee from two years to four years effective with the next election. Lennon, who presented the proposal to the board for discussion, said the major advantage of such a change would allow village officials to attend to village business rather than spend about three months campaigning every other year. Lennon said there would still be an election every other year because the terms would be staggered. He encouraged board members and residents to leave comments regarding the change at village hall. Lennon said a decision would be made either next month or the following month.

Resident Thomas Mensching, a former village board candidate, said the change would mean a four-year wait for the removal of an unpopular official. The past year's hotly contested election required an unusual expenditure of time on the part of the candidates, Mensching added.

The elections do get the politicians out to see the people, Lennon said; but, a good politician does not lose contact with his constituents.

The board also heard complaints from one resident concerned about a junk yard developing on Grove St. The residents said numerous junk cars are being stored on the property. Trustee Larry Dedrick said the village is in the process of conducting fire and safety code inspections. "He will be treated the same as anyone else who receives fire and safety code inspections," Lennon said. "We will cite him for violations."

Village attorney Donald Meacham said the New Scotland junker law does not apply to the village. He suggested the village consider a similar restriction.

In other business, the board:

• Announced the village will begin collecting leaves as necessary. Leaves and pine needles should be raked to the front of each property. The piles must be free from sticks and branches.

- Scheduled trash pickup for Oct. 22, 23 and 24.
- Learned that the village must pay $100 for the extra insurance necessary to accept the donation of pre-school gymnastics instruction offered by Rosemary Caruso. Caruso must have a local sponsor in order to use the Voorheesville Elementary School building.
- Learned that the Voorheesville Fire Department will hold an open house on Sunday, Oct. 14.
- Learned that a bookmobile and postage drop boxes are two items being considered for the village as a result of the Sept. 20 open meeting of the senior citizens committee.
- Commended Boy Scout Troop 73 for community service. Lennon declared Saturday, Sept. 29, Troop 73 Day.
- Changed the date of the Dec. 25 meeting to Dec. 18.

Bazaar is back

It's here at last. The 33rd annual Auction Bazaar sponsored by the Voorheesville First United Methodist Church will begin at 10 a.m. sharp this Saturday, Oct. 6.

As in years past, the popular bazaar features crafts, snacks, white elephant items, clothing, sports equipment and much more. Children's games will be set up in the upper parking lot and the auction will begin at 11 a.m. in the lower parking area. Both meals and snacks will be available in the social hall.

All are welcome to stop by.

Clams in the grove

The New Scotland Democratic Committee will have its annual clambake Sunday, Oct. 7, at Picard's Grove in Voorheesville. The event will begin at 1 p.m. with the bake being served at 5 p.m. Tickets are $20 for adults, $10 for children ages 6-12 and under 6 are free. Tickets will be available at the door. Those who wish to purchase tickets ahead of time may contact any committee member or may call Ken Tice at 765-2192.

Calling all dancers

One final call for those interested in attending the Voorheesville Fire Department's annual Harvest Dance this Saturday, Oct. 6, at the firehouse. Tickets are $7.50 a person and include beer, set-ups and snacks as well as dancing from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. to the Five Karat Gold Band. Those wishing to obtain tickets should call Ron Welker at 765-3100 or Bill Smith at 765-3638.

Soccer playoff Saturday

The Kiwanis soccer program will end this weekend with a playoff tournament at the grade school beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday. All teams will participate, with the top two vying for the championship and the second two playing a consolation game.

A picnic for players and their families will follow immediately at the town park. Hot dogs, plates, condiments and forks will be provided by the Kiwanis Club; families should bring a salad or dessert to share and their own drinks.

Gardeners to gather

The Helderview Garden Club will meet. Thursday, Oct. 11, at 7 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, Voorheesville. The program will feature the making of grapevine wreaths by members of the club with a lesson in how to. make a grapevine Christmas treeby Andrea Person. Refreshments will be served under the direction of Mary Smith assisted by Peg Blaisdell and Beth Stewart. Those wanting more information about this months' meeting or the club itself should call new president, Sue Murdoch, at 439-2752.

Social Club gets going

* The Voorheesville Social Club will have its first meeting of the year at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 11, at St. Matthew's Church, Mountainview Rd. The club offers such. activities as couples' bowling, bridge and luncheons. Both old and new members are welcome. Those wanting information should contact new officers: Betty Coffin, president, at 765-4556; Joanne St. Denis, treasurer, 765-4748 or Anne Smolen, secretary, 765-2463.

Cub Scouts add group

Voorheesville Cub Scout Pack 73 is adding a Tiger Cub group to its already active program. Tiger Cubs are a new concept in scouting that provides boys in the second grade with an opportunity to enter the scouting program, along with their parents. Boys, each accompanied by a parent, meet several times each month for games, crafts and other activities.

Flyers have gone home from school and members of the Cub Scout program will be available to help parents register their sons before the second grade open house program this Thursday, Oct. 4, at the grade school. Boys need not attend to be registered.

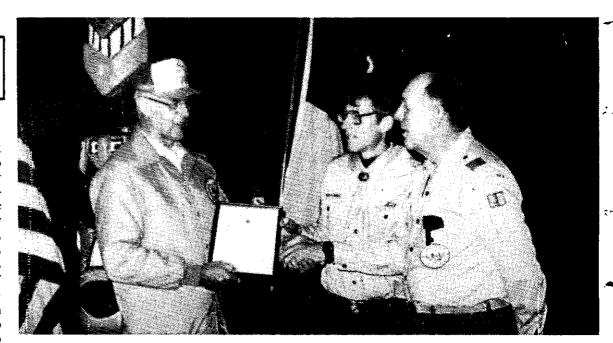

Those wanting more information should contact Cubmaster Nareen Copeland at 765-2390.

Ready, set, read!

Students in Voorheesville will be "Roaring to Read" beginning this Sunday when the Parents as Reading Partners program begins at the grade school. Pupils in kindergarten through grade six who read for at least 15 minutes a day, five days each week during the next four weeks will receive a button sporting a picture of a lion and the slogan "I'm roaring to read." These students will also have their names listed on a special bulletin board in the library.

This year students in kindergarten through grade two may read with an adult or older sibling, while those in grades three and above may read by themselves with a parent's signature confirming their accomplishments on the calendar provided, which runs from Oct. 7 to Nov. 3.

Last year more than 300 students at the school participated in the program. Those wanting more information should contact either Janice Genovesi at 439-4629 or Pam Seh at 765-4566.

Voorheesville's Troop 73's award as the No. 1 American Legion-sponsored Boy Scout troop in the state became official when Scoutmaster Lanny Parsons, center, received a plaque from Robert Mudge, Albany County district chairman. Looking on is Tom Rowe, chairman of the Voorheesville Legion post troop committee. Mudge is a former post commander. The presentation was made at the scouts' annual family picnic at the home of Howard Coughtry, Hilton Rd.

Open house at school

Open houses are scheduled during the next two weeks for parents of students at Clayton A. Bouton Junior-Senior High School. The junior high open house will be Wednesday, Oct. 10, while the high school parent's night will be Thursday, Oct. 18. Eoth begin at 7 p.m. at the school.

These programs are intended to give parents an opportunity to meet teachers and to discover more about the curriculum and responsibilities their son or daughter will have this year.

Nursery school classes

The Community Nursery School of Voorheesville will resume its classes on Tuesday, Oct. 9, when children who have previously enrolled will attend school during the day in small groups to get acquainted with their classmates, teacher Nancy White and aide Teresa Becker. Regular classes will begin on Wednesday. The nonsectarian school housed in the First United Methodist Church of Voorheesville will begin its year with a full roster.

Business 'rooted' in village

In the past few years several new businesses have moved into Voorheesville, but the most recent of these is one with roots in the

On Oct. 6, Gary Schultz, a Voorheesville native who has lived in this area for 30 years, will open a Toro brand mower and snowblower shop in the grey building on Main St. where his father had previously operated a G.E. appliance store for over 15

Schultz, who served as operations manager for the Voorheesville Central School District from 1973 through 1978 and as operations and personnel manager for Jardine Ter Bush and Powell Inc. since that time, plans on using the knowledge and experience from those "people-oriented" jobs to bring the personal touch back to

He feels that with all the shopping malls in the area "businesses have lost that personal touch, with people buying items from sales people they don't know and will never see again especially when those items are in need of repair or service." He also feels that "Even though a small business cannot compete pricewise with the larger stores, they can offer something you can't put a price on — personal service."

With this in mind, Schultz plans on offering a "quality product, with service and repair and the personal touch," all of which 19 include making house calls and olli pickups, having his distributor dip in the area, which means quicker -muavailability of parts, and being and able to offer instant credit up to -no-$1,000 and more within a few days. He will also be open evenings and all day on Saturdays.

Much of his philosophy Schultz has picked up from his father, Judge Harold Schultz, former mayor of Voorheesville, who ran his own hometown business from 1950 to 1968. The younger Schultz remembers how on Thanksgiving his father would leave the dinner table to go off and service someone's stove that had suddenly stopped while the holiday dinner was cooking.

While trying to bring back a bit of the "good old days," Schultz has added a few modern touches. Even the store says "today." Gone is the "garage look," Schultz said. "With more and more women making such purchases, I wanted to give the store a more stylish look — a place where everyone could feel comfortable."

That's no small job, when one considers that the store hadn't been used for anything but storage since his father clsoed the doors of his own business in the late 1960's. But with the help of his brother,

In celebration of the full life

These past few weeks have me thinking about life again, more profoundly than usual. They brought the passing of my uncle, which had been anticipated, but also the unexpected passing of two others, one of my son's young friends and the mother of one of my friends. Death makes us think more about life. Its finality, its permanence contrast the fleeting, fragile nature of our existence.

Yet, as I was driving down a country road last week contemplating the age-old questions surrounding life and death, I noticed the fall foliage beginning to unfold. The striking display of floral colors spreading over the countryside along with the cold, gusty winds of September brought to mind a funeral procession replete with bouquets and wreaths and shivers of time

I realized, however, that the autumn season has always reprsented beginnings for me, not endings. It has been the time of renewal, inward explorations, fresh creativity and huddling together with new embers of thought about to burst into flashes of excitement. Although I have mourned for the passing of summer, I also celebrate the coming of winter.

But that's where the analogy fell short. There is nothing in me that can celebrate the passing of life, especially when it is the life of someone I know or someone close to me or mine. Some religions and cultures would have us celebrate death as the beginning of everlasting life or the meeting of our maker or the freedom from earthly pains. But: no matter how I try to embrace those thoughts, there is still nothing in me that can celebrate the passing of life.

When I was a boy I was spared any direct experience with death and funerals. My lone grandparent, my father's mother, died when I was seven years old. We weren't close. She had been frail for as long as I could remember, and she spoke mostly Yiddish, a language kept foreign to me by my parents so (I think) they could talk secretly in front of me.

When I was informed that Grandma had died, I sat on the front step of my house and wondered what I felt, I knew I was supposed to feel sad, but I didn't. I knew I was not supposed to feel happy, and I didn't. I just felt confused about what I felt, and very alone. I felt bad for my father whose eyes seemed reddened over the next few days. I figured he had been crying.

But that's where the analogy fell short. There is nothing in me that can celebrate the passing of life. . .

My cousin, who was my frequent companion in childhood, lived next door to the funeral parlor. We would sneak into the backyard of that mysterious place to climb the cherry trees and bluck the tender treats until Mr. Parsky, the owner/mortician, came lumbering out the back door shouting us down and chasing us off. The whiff of embalming fluid that accompanied him was more frightening than his Bela Lugosi voice.

I entered adulthood, at least chronologically, swearing off funerals, decrying them as a sham, arrogantly, but righteously, proclaiming them as misplaced worship of the flesh rather than of the person's life. When funerals were held for a few distant relatives, I declined to attend, but made the social gesture of appearing briefly at the wake. I wouldn't approach the casket, and in fact, stayed away from that room entirely, restricting myself to the hallway and smoking lounge.

Then I married and my first son was born. That birth, the niracle of life, affected my view of death. I was no longer able to pass it off by ignoring it. Since then, I have lost people very close to me, as each of us must in this life. I have grieved, I have mourned, I have consoled and been consoled. I have selected caskets, been a pall bearer, delivered eulogies and stood silently at gravesides. And yet, the seven-year-old in me still wonders and asks questions and feels confusions and tremendous aloneless.

What I have come to know are some simple truths of humanity in its attempt to know itself and persevere. Individual lives are delicate and temporary, but the life force of all of us collectively is strong and lasting. The funeral is a celebration of that life force at a time when we are reminded of the fragile nature of a single life. As one of us passes on, we join together to share living feelings of grief and loss, to demonstrate the strength of survival over the passage of time, to reaffirm the living with respect for the dying.

As a lightbulb flashes most brightly just before it burns out, and the autumn leaves color brilliantly just before they fall back to earth, so I believe should a life, a single life, be illuminated when it passes so we can grab hold of its spirit, honor it, carry it on. I cannot celebrate the passing of life, but rather its being passed on to me and my fellow survivors by our acceptance of it so that its spirit and force can live on through us. Let not a single person's colors fall to the ground without someone there to pick them up to keep them waving through the winds of time.

BC booters still act like winners

Bethlehem Central's varsity soccer team got a glimpse of reality last week, but two straight Suburban Council defeats failed to shake their poise.

The Eagles got a jolt from league-leading Niskayuna and were edged, 1-0, by perennial power Burnt Hills. With Colonie, another dangerous team, in town on Saturday, the Eagles came from behind for a 3-2 victory that may become the most important win of the season.

This week marks the halfway point, and games with Mohonasen yesterday (Tuesday) and Columbia Thursday will go a long way in determining whether Bethlehem will be a factor in the Council race this year. Columbia ordinarily does not pose a threat, barring a letdown, but Mohonasen could be another key game. Entering the week at 4-2 in the Gold Division, BC could finish the first round as high as 6-2 with another shot at both Niskayuna and Burnt Hills.

On the Delaware Ave. playfields Coach Gene Lewis is taking the games one at a time, knowing how schoolboy teams can blow hot and turn cold. "It looks like anybody can beat anybody in this league," he said this week. "We're improving steadily, both on the field and in confidence. Niska-. yuna didn't overwhelm us. Against them we didn't fall apart, and against Burnt Hills we played very well."

Against the Niskies, who finished last week at 5-0, the Eagles played their foe even for 61 minutes. With 19 minutes remaining, BC suffered a cold streak. gave up a goal on a defensive letdown, yielded two more goals and were struggling when a fluke shot made it 4-0. Ironically, the lone BC goal was produced by the second stringers. Brian Morrissey, a senior fullback playing on the front line, hit the nets on an assist from Mayank Barekh.

At Burnt Hills there was another scoreless first half. The game's only goal came on a direct free kick after a tripping foul in the penalty zone.

Peter Blaustein, junior left wing, fired a shot into the strings five minutes into the Colonie game, and the Eagles made the lead hold up by intermission. The teams played erratic soccer to open the second half, and a poor BC pass gave Colonie a shot that keeper Aaron Halsdorf, playing with a painfully sore thumb, nearly saved. When the ball slid past him, it was a 1-1 game.

Lewis inserted Roy Long in the goal mouth, and he made a nice save before Colonie got a goahead goal on a breakaway. The Eagles struck back quickly as Damon Woo slipped into the clear, sent crossover pass to Toby Dunmore and the sophomore wing rammed in the equalizer with 11 minutes left.

The Eagles regained control with their short game, and when halfback Lee Petherbridge was taken down in the penalty box, Lewis picked Dunmore to take the penalty shot with six minutes left. The keeper saved it with his hands, but Dunmore came in for the follow and drilled the winner into the cords.

Blackbird-Indian fracas wasn't a pretty sight

Judging from the score, you would think that the annual football imbroglio between neighborhood rivals Voorheesville and first two touchdowns, the first on Ravena was a three-star thriller. Ravena won, 20-19, scoring its first victory of the young campaign and dealing the Blackbirds their first setback.

But both varsity coaches wrotethe game off as less than artistic. Voorheesville's Tom Buckley called it "a poorly played game' and Ravena's Gary VanDerzee's comment was, "You wouldn't call it a pretty game. We persevered, that's about all.'

A capsule report on the field. would have the Blackbirds leading by 13-0 a minute and a half before intermission, and by 13-12 less than 60 seconds later. The Indians took the lead early in the fourth quarter and when the Blackbirds struck back with a chance to win or tie, the two-point conversion attempt missed by inches.

Buckley and his coaching assistants had a premonition of stormclouds as early as last Tuesday when the afternoon tutorials didn't go well. On Thursday the Blackbird jayvees gave the varsity a good belting in their regular mid-week scrimmage.

"We weren't ready mentally, and they (Ravena) were," Buckley said over the weekend. "They were intense, and that was the difference."

Five Voorheesville fumbles, three interceptions and five major penalties, mostly at critical times, also made a difference. The big factor, both coaches agreed, was that the scrappy Indians shut down Voorheesville's running

Except for one beautiful dash

by Ed Mitzen, the Blackbirds' handiman. The blond senior scored both of Voorheesville's two one-yard carries in heavy traffic after Vince Foley had made a couple of key connections, and the second on as pretty an openfield ramble as anyone would care to see, 86 yards to pay dirt.

But Ravena produced a couple of long-distance runners of their own. Steve Boxley broke loose for 46 yards on a draw play, and Bob Dorrance scooted 47 yards with a pass Buckley and Foley wish they'd never thrown.

The scoring sequences went like

After the Indians had driven to the Voorheesville 8 and missed a field goal, the Blackbirds started from the RCS 34 late in the first period. Foley was sacked by Matt Rodd and it was second and 20 for the Blackbirds when Foley hit John Graziano for 27 yards. Another sack and two incompletes later, Foley fired a 23-yard strike to Jeff Caimano on the 3. Mitzen crossed in two tries, but the Indians blocked the conversion kick.

Late in the period the Indians punted deep and the Blackbirds were on their own 34. On the first play Mitzen took the handoff on a sweep to the right, broke two tackles at the line, ran around two other defenders, put a move on another and cut diagonally across the field into open pasture. When he kicked the point it was 13-0 with a minute and a half on the second-quarter clock.

It didn't stay that way long. The Indians got a pass interference call for a first down on the Blackbirds' 48. On the next play Ravena executed a perfect draw that sprung Boxley all the way to the 2yard line. Keyer handled those last two yards personally, but Voorheesville's Rich Kane blocked the kick for the point.

An on-sides kickoff failed, and on the Blackbirds' first play Foley threw into the right flat. Dorrance picked it off and went 47 yards to paradise unmolested. A try for a two-point conversion fell short.

Early in the fourth period the Indians cradled a loose ball on the Voorheesville 29. Three plays moved them to the 15, from where Keyer launched a missile to Bill Phillips on an out-and-up pattern. The senior flanker, left uncovered in the end zone corner, took it for the TD, and when Boxley went in for two points it was 20-13 Ravena.

The Blackbirds, battling the clock, covered 91 vards in two plays to pull within a point. Starting on the 9, Foley dropped and threw long. Rodd went up for the interception, all 5-foot-7 of him, but could only deflect the ball. When it came down it landed in Mitzen's arms, and the senior co-captain went to the RCS 15. Foley then hit Caimano in the end zone. Trailing by a point, Foley came back with the same pass, but this time the ball grazed Caimano's fingertips and the game was sealed.

Keyer connected on eight of 19 passes for 69 yards and one touch-

Doug Keyer, Ravena quarterback, (11), got a short gain on this firsthalf play under heavy pressure from Voorheesville's Mark Gillenwalters (55). down. Rodd had four catches for 30 yards, and was the defensive standout along with Dorrance, who had two interceptions. Chris Carroll and Mike Keel had the better of the day-long combat in the trenches. Boxley carried 11 times for 96 yards.

For the Blackbirds Foley was 12 for 26 and 220 yards and one TD, but was intercepted three times. Mitzen had 96 yards total on [1 carries, 86 on one play. Lee Krause had seven receptions for 79 yards net, and Mark Chyrywaty id had a good day at defensive end.

The Indians have a crossover game in the Capital Conference a few miles down the road at Coxsackie-Athens Saturday while the Blackbirds go to Canajoharie for a non-league outing. Coxsackie is 0-3, but Vanderzee is not taking anything lightly.

Canajoharie is unbeaten in the Tri-Valley League, and Buckley sees the game as "close and it competitive.' He also had a word for the Blackbirds, disappointed fans: "We'll be back," he promised 1118

Eagle lapses turn the tide

Of Bethlehem Central's three football losses in this so-far winless season, Saturday's 19-7 betrayal by Niskayuna has got to be the hardest to take.

The Niskies, like BC winless and struggling, were not supposed to exercise such convincing ball control against a Bethlehem team that had proven it could move against stronger teams. And the Niskies certainly weren't supposed to have the ability to score as many points as they did.

For more than 22 minutes, which is almost two quarters in scholastic football, the Eagles acted like they had things pretty much in hand. There were few, if any, signs of impending disaster, and when the lighting struck, the situation deteriorated rapidly.

BC got on the board quickly. They got the game's first big break by recovering a Niskayuna fumble on the visitors' 34. Quarterback Steve Mendel went right to work, and engineered a touchdown in nine plays. He went to the air only once, completing a short toss to Mike Cole for five yards. The rest of the real estate was covered by the runners, notably Jon Tonetti, who detached himself for 15 yards on one jaunt and closed out the series with a one-yard burst into the end zone. Steve Tedder kicked the point or a ...

possession on the BC 25 and in 12 seconds the game was tied.

"That was the real turning point," bemoaned Sodergren after the game.

Best let the Eagles' hardworking mentor himself tell the story of the second half: "It was very frustrating for us. We didn't execute on offense — we didn't have the ball that much. They controlled the line of scrimmage on us. They really hurt us. They drove the football on us on the ground, and they always had good field position. We didn't get those good offensive plays, and we were backed up the entire half."

Bethlehem played without Brian McGarrahan, an improving cornerback, out with a sprained ankle, and got limited service from Rick Bailey, one of their best interior linemen, hobbled by a knee ailment. Both should be ready for this week's business with Saratoga, however.

That game has been moved up to Friday afternoon to avoid conflict with the Jewish holidays. Kickoff will be at East Field, Saratoga, at 3:30. The Blue Streaks are 2-0-1 in the wake of a 14-13 win over Colonie, BC's conqueror of the previous week. They have tied Niskayuna and have beaten Guilderland.

"They're not big, but they're fast, really quick," said Soder-gren! "We're going to have pro-

The weekly coaches consensus was a little thin after the movie reviews on Sunday. They tapped Chris Jadick, the big workhorse of the forward wall, as Offensive Lineman of the Week, his third straight bouquet. He also was second for the defensive lineman award. Tedder got that one, plus the specialist citation. In adversity, the jury waived all other nominations.

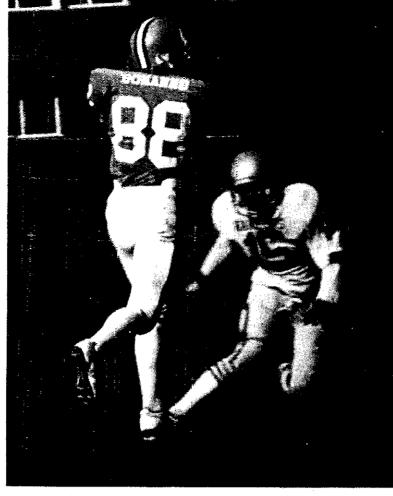

All was not lost in the disappointments, however. The Bethlehem jayvees took Niskayuna by 6-3, and the freshman won by 18-6. This week both teams are at home against Saratoga, the frosh on Thursday afternoon, the JV next Monday.

BC notches two matches

Last week was fairly calm but successful for the Bethlehem Central girls tennis varsity. There were only two matches, and BC won both. On Monday, the girls faced Columbia, winning a clean sweep, 9-0. The more difficult match was Wednesday, against Shenendehowa. The Eagles came out with a score of  $6\frac{1}{2}$ - $1\frac{1}{2}$ .

During this match, everyone played at a higher seed. A remarkable performance was shown by Trina Talmage, who played her first varsity match at the No. 6 singles position.

The end is coming near to the season. The Lady Eagles have only two more regular season matches. On Tuesday, they face Guilderland and on Thursday Burnt Hills. After the regular season is over, they will be getting ready for Sectionals.

BC surprised by Nisky

Last Tuesday's soccer game is one the Bethlehem girls will eliminate from their memory as quickly as possible. Starting with a no-show bus, arriving late with little time for warmup, and a goal scored in the first few minutes of the game, it was a poor beginning against probably the best team in Suburban Council, Niskayuna. The girls did leave the field with an 8-0 loss, but the knowledge they continued to play hard and put forth their best effort in the last 20 minutes of the game should keep

A winning season for Birds?

By Mike Larabee

After controlling rival Ravena, 3-0, and playing to a standoff versus Watervliet and Waterford, the Voorheesville varsity soccer team capped a successful week to trand Romagne, Dave McCabe bring their current record to 1-2-2 in league competition and 2-3-2 overall. More importantly, however, last week proved that the team could play strong, consistent soccer over an extended period, and if that continues VCHS may find themselves with their first winning season in years.

"We've had vast improvement," commented head coach Bob Crandell. "Last year we lost both games that went to overtime. This year I felt we were on the verge of winning both, we should have won them, we almost did, and give us another time around and we probably will win them."

On Monday, VCHS had no trouble handling Ravena. Ber- cut to one goal at halftime.

and John Chapman registered first half goals. Returning in the second half, the Blackbirds were able to avoid the collapse they experienced against Cohoes, a similarly weak opponent just a week ago. In goal, Gerry Borg had 7 saves to turn in his first shutout.

On Wednesday in Waterford, the Blackbirds played the first of the week's two ties, this one a 4-4 standoff. Voorheesville found themselves down 2-0 in the first two minutes. But where past Blackbird teams might have folded, this year's team managed to work back into the game, and when McCabe scored off an assist from Romagne, the margin was

In the second half, Romagne scored to knot the game at two. and when McCabe scored his second goal of the game off an assist from Chapman with 7:20 remaining it was tied 3-3. In the overtime, Greg Torrito gave VCHS a one-goal advantage only to have it taken away by a late Waterford score.

It was more of the same at home versus Watervliet Friday, where the rivals fought to a 1-1 deadlock. Although the Blackbirds had control of the ball for the majority of the game, their lone score came when Justin Corcoran put in an assist from Chapman late in the first half. Senior Brian Rubin and Borg in goal both turned in strong performances.

For this week, Voorheesville was scheduled to play Schalmont Monday, Lansingburgh today (Wednesday) and Albany Academy on Friday.

RCS girls in tie for first

By Kevin Hommel

The RCS girls soccer began this week in a tie with Mechanicville for first place in the Colonial Council with a league record of 4-0-1. Last Tuesday the girls defeated Cohoes, 4-0. Tammy Samsel had two goals, Wendy Trenchard and Pauline Mayo one

Two days later, the Indians won a close game with tough Schalmont, 2-1. Beth White had both scores for Ravena, the first coming in the opening period and the second on a line drive with four minutes remaining. Coach tello and Steve Biernacki had Betty Faxon felt the team played very well against an undefeated opponent and also had 18 shots on goal to Schalmont's 11.

On Saturday, the girls played to a 0-0 tie with Mechanicville to end the first half of the season. Ravena had 32 shots on goal but could not seem to get a score. Even though the game went into overtime, it remained a scoreless tie, bringing the team's overall record to 5-2-1.

It was another disappointing week for the RCS boys team, who lost two games and tied another. According to Coach Ron Racey, the only good points of the week were three great performances by sweeper Jim Wasem, who saved the tie game and kept the others from becoming humiliating.

Away at Voorheesville, the boys lost, 3-0, and that turned out to be just the beginning. Two days later they were soundly defeated, 7-0, by Watervliet, who scored four goals in the first four minutes and two more in the last two minutes. On Friday Ravena fought Lansingburgh to a 2-2 tie and improved their play from the two preceding games. Joey Ro-

BC's girls ranked seventh in state

By Damon Woo

When the state rankings came out last Friday, the Bethlehem girls' cross country team found themselves rated seventh. The ranking, which includes all schools regardless of size, was the highest in the team's history. The mark eclipsed last year's best, when the team was rated as high as 11th. The girls' high rank was due to their victories at the Guilderland and Gloversville Invita-

The girls' undefeated dual-meet string went on the line last Tuesday when the team traveled to Niskayuna. Against what Coach John Nyilis describes as "the "closest competition in Section 2," the girls won, 25-31.

The team was not at full strength, having to run without one of their top stars, Tricia Schultes. Schultes has been out with a kidney infection. Also, one of the Lady Eagles' most consistent runners, Jen Hammer, was ill. Hammer ran anyway, and was able to gain a displacement point by finishing ahead of Niskayuna's fifth runner.

On Saturday, the teams participated in the Grout Invitational, the biggest meet in upstate New York. The girls, facing 31 other teams, finished second to defending state champion, Mempham. The boys were 11th of 24 teams.

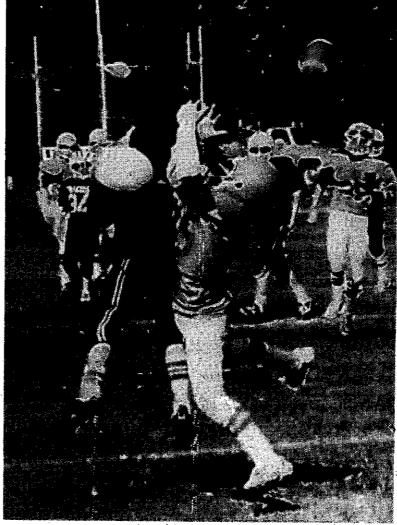

The girls' team lost in points to Mempham, 68-74. Nyilis was encouraged by the results. "We ran well. I'm disappointed because I know we could have beaten them. If Schultes had been able to run, we probably would've beaten them by about four points.

Ainsworth placed fourth for the Eagles, Carey tenth and Nuss 13th. Tania Stasiuk, who has had an injured ankle, was 23rd. Jen Hammer was right behind in 24th. Jen Warren was the sixth runner for BC, finishing 49th, and Amy Peterson, an eighth grader, was

Eagles show their depth

By Damon Woo

The Bethlehem girls'swim team opened their season with a strong display of team depth in the season warm-up Relay Carnival.

The Eagles captured easy victories in the medley, individual medley, butterfly, and crescendo relays. In the crescendo, a freestyle relay where the first swimmer swims 50 yards, the next 100, the third 150, and then another 100 and 50, the BC swimmers established a new meet record. Participating members were, in order, Lynn Schultz, Kris Mallery, Lynn Apicelli, Sandi Blendell and Dorothy Hartman.

On Saturday, the team traveled to Shaker for a double-dual meet with the host and Chenango Forks. The Eagles again showed their strength by gaining victories over both. The team demolished Section 2 rival Shaker, 54-24.

In her first meet with the girls' team, Melissa Martley broke a Shaker pool record in the diving event. The only other record to be broken was done by teammate Susan Mallery in the 50 free.

Freshman Lisa Ogawa had an outstanding meet. One of Bethlehem's three triple winners, she captured the 100 back, led a 1-2 punch in the 200 IM and joined in the winning freestyle relay. Other members of the relay were Lynn Apicelli, Kris and Susan Mallery. That quartet took the majority of Bethlehem's firsts.

Kris won the 200 free, while sister Susan grabbed the 50 free and 100 fly. Apicelli finished first in the 100 free and joined Jessica Demarest, Lynn Schultz and Sandi Blendell for a victory in the medley relay.

The team faces Troy, Albany and Guilderland this week. The confrontation with Burnt Hills takes place next week in what should be the battle for the league

Voorheesville netters shooting for first title

By Peter J. Fisch

The time has come for the Voorheesville girls tennis squad. With a victory over rival Lansingburgh today, the Birds could give Coach Tom Kurkjian his first career league title.

Last week. VCHS nipped the Knights at Lansingburgh, 4-3, to move into sole possession of first place in the Colonial Council. Securing victories for the Birds were snior Courtney Brennan, iunior Sue Merritt, eighth grader Michelle Petre and the senior doubles duo of Kathy Danforth and Tina Rasmussen.

Kurkjian was optimistic about today's moment-of-truth. "All of the winners play the same people they beat. Unless something unexpected happens we should repeat the 4-3 win."

Adding another notch to their holster of victories, the girls captured the Colonial Council tournament title this past Saturday. Freshman Paige Hotaling lost, 6-3, 6-3, to Lansingburgh senior Karen Nunez in the championship final. Kurkjian feels Hotaling will be heard from in the future. "Paige is determined to win. She's a very gritty player and is always fighting to win. She'll definitely do something-in-the league for years to come." 1

Senior Adrienne Fitzgerald handed Ravena's Sue Gleason a 6-2, 6-0 setback to nail down third place in the singles event. Merrittand Danforth teamed for the first league doubles championship in Blackbird history. In the consolation rounds, Brennan downed a Ravena foe, 6-2, 6-3, while Petre grouped with Rasmussen to set back fellow Blackbird freshmen Kathy Tarullo and eighth grader Denise Hoagland to aid in the Voorheesville win.

In upping their league record to 3-0 and their overall slate to 4-1, the local netters easily dominated Cobleskill, 6-1, and Watervliet, 7-0 last week. In addition to today's Lansingburgh match, the girls bus to Guilderland on Friday to challenge the Suburban Council Dutchmen and entertain Watervliet next Wednesday.

Perry scores for RCS

By Bart Gottesman

The RCS cross-country team traveled to Mechanicville last Tuesday to oppose Voorheesville and Mechanicville in a three-team event. Between the three school there were 45 runners.

Voorheesville defeated both teams while the Indians were being outpointed by Mechanicvilele, 21-36, and Voorheesville, 19-44. RCS was led again by their most consistent runner, junior Brian Perry, who placed second. Other runners who performed well for Ravena were Lance Tucker and Ken Newkirk who finished at Nos. 15 and 22 respectively. In a tight race for 25th place, Ravena runner Mark Albright beat out Jim Ritter by a step.

Although Ravena placed last, Coach Countaway praised the performance of Perry, who in the

EXTRACTS FROM MINUTES OF TOWN BOARD OF THE TOWN OF BETHLEHEM,

A regular meeting of the Town Board of the Town of Bethlehem, Albany County, New York, was held on September 26, 1984, at 7:30 oʻclock, P.M., at Bethlehem Town

Hall, Delmar, New York. Present: Mr. Thomas V. Corrigan,

Mrs. Ruth O. Bickel, Council-

Mr. John B. Geurtze, Chairman 1 'sel Mr. W. Scott Prothero, Councilman Mr. J. Robert Hendrick, Council-

Absent: None

Mr. Hendrick moved that the following resolution be adopted:

BOND RESOLUTION, DATED September 26, 1984, AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $4,475,000 SERIAL BONDS OF THE TOWN OF BETH-LEHEM, IN THE COUNTY OF ALBANY, NEW YORK, PURSUANT TO THE LOCAL FINANCE LAW, TO FINANCE THE ACQUISITION AND CONSTRUC-TION OF IMPROVEMENTS TO THE WATER SYSTEM IN THE BETHLEHEM WATER DISTRICT NO. 1, AND APPROPRIATING THE PROCEEDS TO SUCH PURPOSE

WHEREAS, the Town Board after a duly called and held public hearing, opted a resolution on May 23, 1984, authorizing the construction of water improvements in the Bethlehem Water District No. 1 at a total estimated cost of $4,475,000 which improvements were found to be in the public interest; and

WHEREAS, such resolution has taken effect in the manner provided by law and all other acts on the part of the Town required to be taken before the authorization of obligations to finance such improve-ments have been duly taken. NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RE-

SOLVED by the Town Board of the Town of Bethlehem, Albany County, New York as follows:

Section 1. The Town of Bethlehem shall issue its serial bonds in the aggregate principal amount not to exceed $4,475,000 pursuant to the Local Finance Law of New York, in order to finance the specific objects or purposes hereinafter described. Section 2. The specific object or purpose (hereinafter referred to as 'purposes"). to be; financed by the issuance of such serial bands i the acquisition and construction of additions to and improvements of the water system of the Bethlehem Sewer District No. 1, as described in a resolution of the Town Board adopted May 23, 1984, including, but not limited to storage tanks, pumping stations, reservoirs, supply lines, and pressure reducing valve bypass (but not lateral water lines) and the acquisition of land or rights in land, original furnishings, equipment, machinery and apparatus for such water systems, and costs incidental thereto. Section 3. The Town Board has ascertained and hereby states that (a) the estimated maximum cost of the purposes described in Section 2 above is $4,475,000; (b) no money has heretofore been authorized to be applied to the payment of the cost of such purpose; (c) the Town Board plans to finance such purposes entirely from funds raised by the issuance of obligations herein authorized and from federal and state grants received, if any, (to the such grants are received by the Town, the authorization to issue obligations shall be reduced pro tanto); and (d) the cost of such purposes shall be assessed upon benefited real property.

Section 4. It is hereby determined that said purposes are objects or purposes described in subdivision 1 of paragraph a of Section 11.00 of the Local Finance Law, and that the period of probable usefulness of said purposes is forty years. Section 5. Subject to the terms the Local Finance Law, and pursuant to the provisions of Sections 30.00, 50.00 and 56.00 to 60.00, inclusive, of said Law, the power to authorize bond anticipation notes in anticipation of the issuance of the serial bonds and the power to prescribe the terms, form and contents of serial bonds and bond anticipation notes, and the power to sell and deliver serial bonds and any bond anticipa tion notes issued in anticipation of the issuance of such bonds is hereby delegated to the Town Supervisor, the Chief Fiscal Officer of the Town. The Town Supervisor is hereby authorized to sign any serial bonds issued pursuant to this resolution and any bond anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the issuance of serial bonds, and the Town Clerk is hereby authorized to affix the corporate seal of the Town to any of the serial bonds or any bond anticipation notes and to attest the Town seal. Each interest coupon representing interest poyable on serial bonds shall be authenticated by the facsimile signature of the Town Supervisor. Section 6. This resolution shall be published in full by the Town Clerk, together with a notice in substantially the form prescribed by Section

Enjoy and support

Editor, The Spotlight:

Now that school has begun, large numbers of our children are participating in athletic, club, musical and service organizations. They often begin their days catching buses between 7 and 8 a.m. and are getting home at 6 p.m. because they've been with coaches and teachers practicing to improve themselves.

Why do our youth willingly spend long hours practicing? What drives them to strive to be as good as they can in their chosen activity? Certainly, the feeling of accomplishment and improvement, the opportunity to be with friends and caring adults and the need for informal energy outlets are strong motivators. Just as important though is their desire to perform for their community, to show their talents to the peers and adults who live around them. To observe and perform before large groups is an opporunity that means a great deal to the youth of the community.

The youth of Bethlehem Central have practiced long and hard under supportive and knowledgeable teachers and coaches. We are all supporting them by helping fund programs and we have the opportunity to support themthrough our presence at their performances. In these days of expensive entertainment, what better source of low-cost, fine performance than the youth of Bethlehem Central? Virtually all the musical and athletic performances are free and the charges for certain athletic and dramatic performances are very reasonable.

By the time this issue of The Spotlight goes to press, there are still over 150 activities listed on the school calendar that will occur here in town for you to attend. Think seriously about attending as many of our activities as possible. As well as the fine performances you will see, you will add to the spirit and support felt by our young people as they see their community behind them. Circle some events on your calendar now and enjoy.

J. Briggs McAndrews Assistant Superintendent Bethlehem Central School District

Curb medical costs

Editor, The Spotlight:

Congress has taken a major step toward curbing skyrocketing health costs, but the new law will not be effective unless health consumers know how to take advantage of it.

The law establishes the Participating Physician Program, under which physicians must have become "participating" or "nonparticipating" by Oct. 1. Participating physicians sign a written agreement to accept assignments, that is, what Medicare considers a reasonable fee on all Medicare claims between October 1, 1984 and October 1, 1985.

Non-participating physicians reserve the right to bill patients for. an amount greater then Medicare allows.

A freeze on fees through next October, enacted by Congress as part of the Participating Physicians Program, prohibits both participating and non-particiating physicians from raising their charges to Medicare beneficiaries above the amount charged in the second quarter of 1984.

To support the cost control program, patients should discuss fees with their doctor to understand how he or she charges for services, They also should encourage others to seek out participating physicians for medical care. Names, addresses, and specialties of participating physicians will be made available by the federal government through insurance companies, local Social Security offices and organizations such as the American Association of Retired Persons.

Congress is encouraging participation by physicians through financial incentives. For example. "allowable" or "reasonable" charges will be higher for participating physicians than for nonparticipating physicians. Patients can offer additional incentives by supporting participating doctors.

For information about the Participating Physician Program, contact Leslie Kramerch, Health Advocacy Services, AARP, 1909 K St. NW, Washington, D.C.

Good READING

Some interesting or unusual books you may have missed.

By Vincent Potenza

"Yours is an ardent spirit, Ubertino, both in love of God and hatred of evil. What I meant is that there is little difference between the ardor of the seraphim and the ardor of Lucifer, because they are always born from an extreme igniting of the will."

The Name of the Rose, by Umberto Ecco, 502 pp., Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc., 1983.

I've spent quite a few months puzzling over this book for several reasons. It was on the best seller list for a very long time at the end of last year and the beginning of this one, in spite of the fact that it's a murder-mystery that takes place in a medieval monastery. contains at least as much untranslated, unexplained Latin as the Roman Mass, and goes into incredible detail about arcane Christian theological questions.

So what made this book so popular? Well, it most certainly evokes a sense of time and place the "ardor" with which these monks live their scholarly lives is strident and striking. The whole plot revolves around the abbey's labyrinthine library and there is so much mystery, jealousy and excitement involved with the books and learning in general that the only emotion I can use to explain how the monks act is . . . lust (There's plenty of the ordinary type, too, by the way). These men are in love with words and ideas . . . and hate them for the same reasons they love them.

When I finished reading this book last winter I felt let down. The murder-mystery angle just didn't hold me, and I think now it was because there was just too much background noise. Stepping into this book is like stepping into an express elevator filled with mosquitos — there are just so many concepts and images biting at you. So what the heck is it all about?

I think it's about the quote above, the "detective," Sir William of Baskerville, (yes, cute) talking to a religious fanatic. And about Ecco, a semiologist (person who studies signs and symbols) having a very good time.

Whether he's laughing with you or at you is something you'll have to figure out for yourself. I happen to be one of those people who loves ancient, useless things like Latin and so I found The Name of the Rose thoroughly entertaining — once I got the joke.

Strike up the band

The Delmar Community Orchestra will present its first concert of the season at the Teresian House Nursing Home on ' Monday, Oct. 15.

Conductor Robert McGowan will direct a program of light classics, marches and Broadway show tunes. The program will also feature vocal solos by Marie Franke, accompanied by the orchestra. Several new players have joined the group for the new season.

Child Find at Glenmont

The Glenmont PTA will present a "Child Find" program at 8 p.m. on Oct. 11 at the Glenmont Elementary School cafeteria. Assemblyman James Tedisco, chairman of the task force on missing children, Sandy Lender, chairman of Friends of Child Find, and a Bethlehem juvenile officer will tell parents how to protect their children. A $1 donation is requested from persons wishing to attend the slide presentation and panel discussion. For information call 449-8280.

Correction

The correct date for the Bethlehem Art Association meeting at the Bethlehem Public Library is Thursday, Oct. 4, at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to hear Eleanor Kirchner's lecture on continuous line drawing. For information call 439-7039.

Chris Brandon wed

Jo-Ann Marie Berry, daughter of Sylvia and Edwin Berry of Brownville, Maine, and Christopher David Brandon, son of Ann and David Brandon of Delmar, were married Sept. 8 at Cliff House in Ogunquit, Maine.

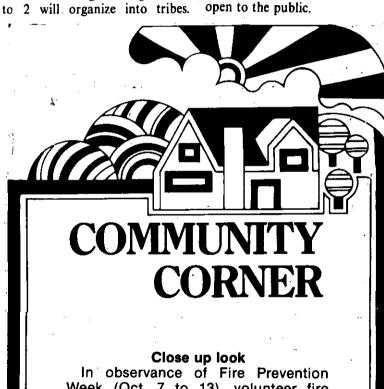

Ellen Berry was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Darlene Daniel, Candida Fink and Julie Hennrikus. John Minnock was best man, and ushers were Seth and Eugene Brandon, brothers of the groom, and Jack Burriss. The groom's aunt, Ruth Minter, a minister in Frederick, Md., performed the ceremony.

The bride, a graduate of Boston University, is employed by Cablevision of Boston. The groom, a graduate of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, is a project engineer with Vanasse-Hangen consulting engineers of Boston.

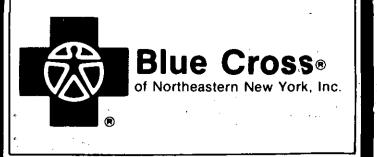

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will reside in Boston.

First concert

The Monday Musical Club will present its first program of the season at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 7, at the Albany Institute of History and Art, 125 Washington Ave., Albany. Performers will include Harriet Thomas of Delmar playing a Brahms sonata on her viola and soprano Helena Ingraham of Slingerlands singing "Caro nome" from Rigoletto by Verdi, with Rachel Worth of Delmar accompanying at the piano. The concert is free and open to the public.

In observance of Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 7 to 13), volunteer fire fighters and rescue personnel in Bethlehem will offer fire prevention information and a close-up look at fire fighting equipment and apparatus from the Delmar, Elsmere, Slingerlands, Selkirk, and North Bethlehem Fire Departments at Delaware Plaza, on Thursday, Oct. 11, from 7 to 9 p.m. Equipment from the Bethlehem Ambulance Squad and the Delmar Rescue Squad will also be displayed. This is an opportunity for the entire family to learn about fire and rescue service in the community.
