

The bypass will go west — one step at a time

Some day the Delmar Bypass may extend all the way to New Scotland Rd. But measure that "someday" in decades, not years.

Nevertheless, one vital link of the bypass extension fell into place last week when the Bethlehem Town Board approved Planned Residence District rezoning for the Juniper Fields development off Elm Ave. The developer, David Siegal, has agreed to pave some 1,700 feet of roadway to extend the bypass west from Elm Ave., and to set aside the land necessary to complete the extension to the end of his property.

And the Bethlehem Planning Board heard a formal presentation for the proposed Planned Residence District on land between Delaware Ave. and Orchard St. owned by Howard Nolan, Norris MacFarland and Mark Heller that contains another bypass link. At the town's request, the developers there are proposing a through street with six residential streets opening on to it.

Both developers are planning two-lane roads, but will leave enough land in the right-of-way for four lanes without a dividing strip. The existing bypass is a divided four-lane highway, and a short section on the west side of Elm Ave. that is owned by the state will also be four lanes divided by a median before narrowing down to two lanes where the Siegal property begins.

The two new sections of the roadway will cost the town nothing — in each case the developers are agreeing to pick up the cost as part of the overall cost of their projects. Supervisor Tom Corrigan, who is retiring this week, has said the town plans to wait for interest in the development of the land between the Van Dyke Rd. and Delaware Ave. and then attempt to follow the same tactic — get the owner to put in the road.

"I'll probably never see it done," he said. But town officials are unanimous in believing that whatever the obstacles it would be foolish to miss the opportunities at hand. Here's what's involved in completing the links:

- First, the town would have to extend the bypass from the end of Siegal's paved road as far as Van Dyke Rd., and would probably have to pay for that section itself. In addition to the Siegal property (No. 1 on the map), there is a triangle of land owned by Veronica Sinnamon (2), whose residence is on the south side of the Niagara Mohawk power line off Vadney Rd., and a second triangle of land owned by Niagara Mohawk (3).

- Van Dyke Rd. is a residential street, and residents there have already petitioned the town not to link them with the bypass. If the road became heavily traveled some improvements would probably be necessary. On the other hand, the Bethlehem Central High School and bus garage are located on Van Dyke Rd., and use of that route to the bypass would probably cut down on some of the rush

Village post office on the move — again

By Charles Casey

The Voorheesville post office will have a change of address next month when it moves to a new home on Voorheesville Ave. "We're really looking forward to it," said Postmaster John Follos. "It will be safer, easier to use, and have more floor space."

According to Follos, the move is due to growth. The volume of mail in the district has been increasing ever since the Sixties, then the village added the Salem Hills and Scotch Pine developments. With the completion of the Weathersfield Development on Wormer Rd., the new building will be a necessity.

heesville has moved its post office. More than four decades ago, Charlie and Julia Fields worked for the Voorheesville post office, which was then located near the train station at the lower end of South Main St. The Fields had to leave that building because, like the present post office at 22 South Main, water was leaking through the ceiling. "The place was wet, the ceiling was falling, and we had to put extra boards on the floor to walk on," Fields recalled.

So in 1948, Charlie Fields took up the business of literally moving post offices. He bought an old gas station building in Altamont for $1,350 and, for another $1,000

Grand Union building eyed

By Lyn Stapf

Voorheesville's library board has its eye on the vacant Grand Union supermarket as a possible future home of the local library, which has now outgrown the site on Main St. in the village.

At its meeting Monday, the board released the 150-page study prepared by Andrew Geddes, former director of Nassau County Library Services detailing the present and future needs of the local facility.

The study lists the history of the library and its board, results of a location study by Geddes and results of a survey mailed to all residents in the school district last year, of which only 6.2 percent responded. Also detailed are the

Owner clarifies her position

Wei Jan Huang, of Delmar, who owns a house on Daniel St. in Slingerlands, and who spoke in opposition to a variance for a neighboring property at a meeting of the Bethlehem Board of Appeals Jan. 9, has issued a statement clarifying her position.

During the hearing to consider an application from William R.

Swift Builders, Inc. for a variance to permit an existing chimney at 37 Daniel St., Slingerlands. Jonathan Bartow, purchaser of the house, asked the board to allow the $3,000 masonry fireplace to remain intact.

With the existing chimney Bartow is 1.67 feet short of the 10 feet of side yard required by the town's zoning ordinance for an AA-Residential zone.

Building Inspector John Flanigan explained that the applicant was requesting an area variance not a use variance. Flanigan said Swift and Bartow signed a form stating that the chimney would be removed if the requested variance was denied.

Mrs. Huang spoke in opposition to the proposal at the hearing. She asked the board to enforce the town's zoning ordinance, established to protect the rights of property owners, and deny the variance.

Mrs. Huang was asked by board members if she would consider selling a strip of her side yard to Bartow. She responded "No." She did not elaborate.

Mrs. Huang later explained to The Spotlight that she responded in a negative manner because she does not wish to cause her building to violate either side yard or property area restrictions of the town's zoning ordinance by any transfer of land.

□ The bypass

hour traffic now using Delaware Ave. to get to the school.

• Between Van Dyke Rd. and Delaware Ave. are another parcel owned by Niagara Mohawk (3) and three large parcels of land in private hands. There is no indication that any of the owners are considering development, Corrigan said. The parcels are owned by the estate of the late Agnes Preska (4), who was killed in a car-deer accident on Delaware Ave. this fall; Jeanette Earls (5), an elderly Delmar resident, and Albany residents Zolla and Olga Richmond (6). An additional problem would be presented by the hilly terrain of the area near Delaware Ave.

• To the north of Orchard St. runs Fisher Blvd., a winding, picturesque country road that ends at New Scotland Rd. Town officials readily agree with area residents that Fisher Blvd. would be unsuitable as a part of the bypass; either it would have to be rebuilt or a new road cut through the farmland.

Where is the money for all this to come from? Corrigan and Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor recently came across the state Department of Transportation's original bypass plans, completed in 1959. That ambitious project carried the four-lane highway west to near the Stone-well intersection at Rts. 85 and 85A in New Scotland, where it intersected with the ill-fated Slingerlands bypass. When that fell through, so did the rest of the Delmar Bypass, and the state money that went with it. Now, state transportation officials say, the chances of Bethlehem getting back in the pipeline are five years away, at best.

Nevertheless, says Corrigan, DOT officials have been helpful in working with the town on the present plans. The Elm Ave. intersection has been engineered with DOT help, and the state picked the spot on Delaware Ave. for the intersection of the road from the Nolan-MacFarland-Heller development — with the thought in mind that someday it may be the intersection of a major through street.

Car burns

The Slingerlands Fire Department was called to extinguish a car fire Sunday afternoon on Rt. 85 in Slingerlands, according to Bethlehem police. The driver, a 67-year-old Albany woman, told police she had left the car when she noticed smoke coming from under the dashboard. Police said the 1978 model station wagon was engulfed in flames when they arrived at the scene, near the bridge over the Normanskill.

Juniper Fields rezoned

After two years of effort, Delmar developer David Siegal has the rezoning he needs to develop his land off Elm Ave. opposite the Delmar Bypass. And after another hour of haggling, the Bethlehem Town Board has refused to put new limits on the density of the project.

By a 4-1 vote, the board agreed Wednesday to grant Planned Resident Development (PRD) zoning status to the 58.7-acre parcel known as Juniper Fields. Before work can start, however, Siegal must move from the general to the specific, going back to the town Planning Board for site plan approval of his plan.

In the public hearing on the project earlier this month, Siegal said he plans to build 282 apartment units and eight single-family homes. His proposed site plan calls for an extension of the Delmar Bypass and a road serving the apartments intersecting Elm Ave. at one end and the bypass extension at the other.

But those specifics, the town board members agreed, are subject to change when the proposal goes back to the planning board for fine tuning.

The town board members were unanimous in agreeing that the zone change which has generated considerable neighborhood opposition, is desirable. But Councilman Scott Prothero balked on the question of density, prompting a lengthy debate on the proper use of the town's zoning powers.

Prothero noted that Siegal's proposed density is an increase of 25 to 50 percent over what could be put into the property under the existing A and AA Residential zoning. The town, he argued, has a perfect right to negotiate something less.

"What is the proper trade-off?" he asked. "This man wants to build."

Supervisor Tom Corrigan and other members of the board replied that Siegal has already agreed to build the bypass extension, and wondered how the town could determine the precise lowest density that would still be financially feasible.

Earlier in the evening, Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor had reported that while the density of units per acre would be much higher under PRD zoning, the population density is greater under A and AA Residential — and the number of school-age children is much greater under the A and AA zoning.

Secor reminded the board members that under PRD zoning the town retains "absolute" control over the final site plan. Town Attorney Bernard Kaplowitz said the plan presented by Siegal at the hearing would indicate the maximum allowable units, but it would still be in the planning board's power to lower that number.

Second PRD project unveiled

By Theresa Bobear

Details of a revised Planned Residence District proposed for a 92-acre parcel located between Delaware Ave. and Orchard St. south of Fisher Blvd. were presented to the Bethlehem Planning Board by architect Clark Shaughnessy and surveyor Paul Hite last week.

Some 280 apartment units and 57 single-family houses are proposed for the parcel owned by Howard Nolan, Norris MacFarland and Mark Heller. A two-lane street with turning lanes at all intersections is proposed to connect Delaware and Orchard St. The roadway, which has a 70-foot right-of-way, may connect with an extended Delmar Bypass as land in the area is developed.

The bypass extension was included in the plan at the request of town officials, and was in the layout submitted to the town last year. Other aspects of the site plan have been changed substantially, however. Rather than a separate road to the apartments, there are now four roads off the main road leading to apartment clusters. And rather than having the single-family lots clustered around cul-de-sacs they are now grouped around one winding road with two intersections with the main road.

Shaughnessy said the density for the project would be 11,600 square feet per dwelling unit. He pointed out that a maximum density of 10,500 square feet per dwelling unit is allowed for development of AA-Residential land. The land is zoned A and AA-Residential and CC-Commercial.

The proposal as outlined by Shaughnessy would allow 48 acres for apartments and 44 acres for single-family lots, ranging from 12,000 to 21,000 square feet.

Hite said State Department of Transportation officials have no objection to the location of the road entrance on Delaware Ave. Board member John LaForte asked why the road was not aligned with Fisher Blvd. at Orchard St. Bruce Secor, commissioner of public works, said a neatly aligned road would have to be located over an existing water main. Since Fisher Blvd. would have to be rebuilt "at some point,"

Secor said, the town could align the roads then.

Shaughnessy said the apartments would be isolated from adjacent property by single-family homes to the north and east and by natural barriers, including a ravine, to the west.

Donna Lee, owner of adjacent property who was recently denied a variance for a dog kennel on her property to the southwest, asked about the distance between her property and the nearest dwelling units. Shaughnessy said the nearest apartment building was about 800 feet to 900 feet away and the nearest single-family lot was approximately 2,000 feet away.

"I don't feel rezoning is required to develop this piece of property," said Bill Matuszek, a resident of Orchard St. Matuszek asked the board to consider possible strain on water and sewer lines in the area. He asserted that "unbuildable" land should not be included in density calculations. "He's not putting apartments in the ravine area," Matuszek said.

Tim O'Brien said he wanted some assurance that duplexes would not be built after the zone change.

The board will consider the proposal at future meetings. After receiving a recommendation from the planning board, the town board will hold a public hearing before deciding whether to grant or deny the requested zone change.

In a letter to the board, planning attorney Earl Jones suggested that the board consider a three-lot subdivision for 1.6 acres owned by Franz Zwickbauer and located in an AB-Residential district on Cherry Ave. Previously, Lindsay Boutelle, engineer representing Zwickbauer, asked the board to grant building project approval for the construction of three four-unit apartment buildings on the land.

Boutelle did not apply for a subdivision because he said Zwickbauer plans to own all the buildings.

"This whole concept is very disturbing," said Secor. He recalled a similar case where subdivision procedures were skipped for a development because the buildings were to be owned by one person.

"His plan had kittens," Secor said. "Like an amoeba, every time I looked at the plan it doubled. Where do you draw the line and require sewer and drainage services and a proper roadway?"

Alvah Worth, the board's engineering consultant, said subdivision approval should be required because the proposal called for three building sites.

Succession meeting

The special meeting of the Bethlehem Town Board to choose a new supervisor and a new town councilman will be held this Saturday at 10 a.m., according to Supervisor Tom Corrigan.

Also to be selected are a new town clerk and deputy clerk.

Corrigan's resignation is effective Saturday, and the Bethlehem Republican Committee has already named Councilman Robert Hendrick as his successor. Deputy Town Clerk Carolyn Lyons has been tapped as Marion Camp's successor as town clerk, and Ruth Heere is to be appointed Mrs. Lyons' deputy.

However, the vacancy created by Hendrick's appointment is still in question, with two strong candidates in county Legislator Sue Anne Ritchko and Delmar businessman Peter Merrill. The Republican committee failed to make a recommendation, leaving the choice up to the remaining board members.

Corrigan said he did not plan to participate in the decision. "There's no reason for me to go," he said.

had it placed on a flat bed truck bound for Voorheesville. It then became the Voorheesville Post Office at 34 South Main St. Fields rented the building to the U.S. Postal Service for $50 per month. That included heat and electricity.

That building served until May, 1981, when the letter carriers packed their bags and moved to the slightly more spacious building down the street at No. 22. But the change of address was only temporary — three and half years. "It was supposed to be temporary, but it's hard to say what temporary means to the U.S. Postal Service," said Follos. "We've been trying to move for a long time."

Follos said that broken water pipes have collapsed the ceiling at the present post office no fewer than three times during his two and a half years as Voorheesville Postmaster. "After a while, we never bothered to put the ceiling tiles back in place. It was easier to leave them out," he remarked.

Such problems will soon be memories. In addition to a ceiling that stays where it belongs, the new building on Voorheesville

Ave. will have docking facilities, new boxes and 1,000 more square feet of floor space than 22 South Main. Follos even likes the way it looks. "I'm very pleased with the appearance," he said. "I think it will fit into the community very nicely." He credits the Voorheesville Planning Commission for the red brick exterior and evergreen plantings.

According to Follos, the building was constructed to federal specifications by Crisafulli Contractors, who will lease the building to the post office at $23,040 per year for 10 years. Post Offices in some areas, said Follos, are owned rather than leased.

The new facility won't be filled with the same technology found in city post offices. "We're a small operation so we're not talking about computers or automatic sorters," said the postmaster, "but we have ordered a computer scale. That will take the pressure off our employees."

Follos makes it no secret that he's delighted with progress during his tenure as Voorheesville postmaster. "When I came here, my goals were to increase revenue, provide better service and get a new office. I'm happy."

Buffer zone planned for local schools

A zoning buffer zone for schools — another recommendation of the Delaware Ave. Task Force — has been drafted for consideration by the Bethlehem Town Board.

The plan prepared by town planning consultant Edward Kleinke calls for restrictions in commercial uses of property situated with a 250 foot area outside the boundary of any public or parochial school in the town. Pre schools and day care centers are not included. Prohibited would be restaurants and bars, retail liquor stores, motor vehicle sales agencies, garages, filling stations or public parking lots, and drive in or drive through establishments.

Town Attorney Bernard Kaplowitz told the town board Wednesday that it had turned out to be "very difficult" to come up with one plan that would fit all of the various school sites in the town.

"We wrestled with this," agreed Supervisor Tom Corrigan.

Kleinke explained that since the issue had come up in regard to the Elsmere School he had concentrated on assessing the impact on the businesses around that school. His map showed 12 commercial properties that would be affected, although current businesses would be "grandfathered." Also, the 250-foot zone affects only the building, not the entire property, Kleinke said.

Lucy Dunne, who was active in discussions about the Elsmere School when the task force was meeting, suggested that the town also consider restricting video arcades. Corrigan said Kleinke's proposal was "for discussion" at this point, and the board would act later.

Following two brief public hearings, the board took no action on a new retirement incentive program for town employees and a change in filing dates for senior citizen property tax exemptions, but the board did decide to opt in to the state's new veteran exemption plan.

Under the new state law, veterans who served during wartime — primarily Korea or Vietnam, although other veterans are eligible — may claim a 15 percent exemption on their town and county property tax, and an additional 10 percent if they are combat veterans. The program has a 10-year limit, and the deadline for filing with the town assessor's office is May 1.

Corrigan said the best estimate he can find is that some 200 residents of the town would be eligible. He said it would be difficult to pin down a cost. The state law allows municipalities to opt out of the program if it determines the cost is too high. Several bills have been filed in the legislature to help municipalities cover some of the costs.

The retirement incentive program — also an outgrowth of a state program — will give town employees nearing retirement age an additional three years of credit on their pension. Corrigan said 16 Bethlehem employees are eligible, and five have indicated they are interested. The town has to give final approval by Dec. 31, and the employees have three months after the approval to take advantage of the offer.

In other action, the board:

- Appointed John A. Williamson as a member and chairman of the town Planning Board for a term that expires in 1990. His salary will be $6,000.

BC board gets views on budgeting

By Caroline Terenzini

Two weeks ago the Bethlehem Central school board laid its cards on the table in introducing the draft of a spending plan for next year: it gave a total for the budget draft ($17.98 million) and projected the tax rate increase this budget would require — 10.7 percent in Bethlehem, 11.3 percent in New Scotland. This forthrightness meant that, among the handful of residents who came out for a presentation on the proposed budget last Wednesday, some came prepared with counterproposals.

Sherwood Davies and Charles W. (Bud) Reeves, both of Delmar, separately told the board that a budget increase around the inflation rate — most recently 4 percent — was what the district should aim for. While acknowledging the difficulty of trimming a 10 percent increase to a 4 percent, both Davies and Reeves pointed out one place to look for cuts — in personnel.

"You have to control staff and remuneration," Reeves declared. He urged the board to trim its payroll through attrition and to "start this year." He also commended district officials for getting an early start on their budgeting and for their stepped-up efforts to elicit public comment.

Davies, too, expressed his concern about staff levels. At the same time, he urged the board to take a hard look at the number of special subject teachers (such as for physical education, art and music) in the elementary grades with an eye for reducing their numbers in favor of classroom teachers, which would permit a reduction in class sizes. "For the amount of taxes paid," Davies said, "the (pupil-to-teacher) ratio is too high."

According to figures supplied by Superintendent Lawrence A. Zinn, the district currently employs 59 classroom teachers and 25 special subject teachers in the elementary schools. At the Middle School, there are 28 classroom teachers (with a drop to 26 budgeted) and 32 special teachers. The high school staff is currently at 85 and Zinn is proposing adding an art supervisor and also a person to work with students involved with substance abuse. These numbers denote full-time equivalents. In fact, a number of teachers are part-time.

In addition, 21 noon-hour aides are employed part-time at the five elementary schools and there are 46 coaches, most also part-time. The non-instructional staff includes secretaries, bus drivers, custodians and cafeteria workers for a grand total approaching 475 persons on the payroll.

One question asked Wednesday: Why is the draft budget up 9.9 percent when the district enrollment is going down? One culprit, Zinn said, is the fact that, with no equipment purchases last year, requests this year total $413,000. Another reason for the increase is the 6 percent raises due the district's approximately 230 teachers next year. Also, Zinn said, a projected increase of some 45 elementary pupils next year has prompted a request for 4½ additional teachers.

The district also hopes to purchase six buses, three of which were to have been bought in the current year, but were knocked out of that spending plan by voters in July. Franz Zwicklbauer, assistant superintendent for business, proposed to the board that it submit the bus purchases for voter approval this May as a separate proposition and that the $240,000 cost be financed over a five-year period. Zwicklbauer is pushing to have the district on a schedule for bus replacements, to avoid a big expenditure in any one year.

Zwicklbauer also presented figures showing why Bethlehem fares so badly when state aid dollars are handed out. The state aid formulas take into account both property wealth and income behind each pupil in a district, and Bethlehem exceeds the state average in both categories by a substantial margin. Zwicklbauer said the property wealth behind each BC pupil was most recently calculated by the state as $140,100, compared with a state average of $94,000. Similarly, the income behind each pupil in Bethlehem was calculated at $63,700, compared with the state average of $46,700.

A less promising scenario is contained in Gov. Mario Cuomo's budget proposal, which calls for an end to the save harmless provision. If the legislature buys that, BC would get even less.

Zwicklbauer said the figures from the Educational Conference Board put Bethlehem's operating expenses per pupil at $3,302, a scant $2 above the state average.

Among other budget data, Zwicklbauer noted "the highest number of court-ordered assessment reductions I've ever seen," this year, with a total of $33,139 in tax receipts ordered refunded. The school district has no role in property assessment; that function is carried out by the town assessors in Bethlehem and New Scotland.

Along with all the budget decisions, the board also is facing a decision on whether to ask voters to approve a bond issue for capital improvements. With cost estimates on proposed projects totaling $4 million-plus, the board is scheduled to tackle that question tonight (Wednesday), beginning at 7 p.m. at the Educational Services Center, Adams Pl., Delmar.

Draft budget for schools shows 7.9 percent boost

By Theresa Bobear

The figures presented at the first formal meeting in preparation of the 1985-86 budget showed a proposed increase of 7.9 percent or $464,551, over last year for the Voorheesville School District.

The total district budget proposed for next year is $6,335,347, up from $5,870,796 in 1984-85.

Board president John McKenna said the board was considering expenditure side of the budget picture — not the revenue side — so no tax rates were projected. Regarding revenue, McKenna would only say that the district expected an increase in assessment but no increase in state aid.

McKenna said the draft budget includes funds for a track and an accompanying capital project to be included only if voters approve the project on March 6.

Berglas attributes the 7.9 percent increase to the expenditure of $155,000 for salary increases, an additional $51,000 for debt service, $108,000 for transportation, $40,000 for handicapped services, an additional $42,000 for operation and maintenance of the district buildings and grounds, and an additional $66,000 for employee benefits.

The draft budget presented for discussion and revision incorporated budgets for different departments. The budget for central administration and business administration is $175,575, up 5.2 percent from $163,050 last year. The budget includes a 6.7 percent salary increase for five administrators, including the superintendent.

Personnel costs were projected at $2,950,850, up 5.75 percent from $2,790,300 last year. Berglas said the teachers' salaries are negotiated on a yearly basis.

The budget for instructional supplies, materials, equipment and equipment repairs was estimated at $304,000, up 6.8 percent from $284,500 in 1984-85.

The total cost of regular day instruction, including funds for teachers' salaries and instructional supplies, was listed as $3,254,850, up 5.8 percent from $3,074,800 last year.

A total of $461,000 has been set aside for transportation expenses for a 30.4 percent increase over last year's $353,400 figure. The increase reflects the expenditure of $84,000 for new buses, $8,000 for transportation personnel salary increases and $13,500 for increased costs of repairs, insurance and miscellaneous items.

VOORHEESVILLE

Berglas said the district will receive state aid for the buses.

Board member David Teuten reported that four district buses are more than 11 years old and another four buses have operated more than 100,000 miles.

The budget for operations and maintenance is $463,682, up about 10 percent from $421,520 last year. The draft budget showed an additional $7,000 for supplies, an additional $13,900 for plumbing, heating, boiler and other repairs, and an additional $21,000 for fuel. Berglas said the operations and maintenance budget contains $6,000 for lockers, funds for auditorium seats, $2,000 for new fire hydrants and $1,700 for elementary school drinking fountains.

Employee benefits, including retirement funds for district employees, social security payments, health and dental benefits, were estimated at $1,150,600, up 6.1 percent from $1,084,800 last year. Insurance costs, including workmen's compensation, and coverage for fire, theft, bonds and student accidents, increased by only $800 to total $42,800 for 1985-86.

The draft budget shows that $375,640 has been set aside for debt service, up 5.7 percent from $324,626. The budget includes $60,000 for principal payments and $6,000 for interest payments on the $393,500 proposed capital project and track. If the track referendum is approved, the district will most likely pay for the project over a five-year period.

In 1985-86 the district will no longer have to make the payments amounting to approximately $15,000 on previous bond issues.

The cost of services to the handicapped, included in the budget for regular day instruction, will increase by $14,000 over last year for a total of $85,000. Berglas said these services are required by law.

The cost of the BOCES program is expected to rise 4.4 percent to $356,800 from $341,800 last year. The cost of the continuing education program and the summer school program is expected to increase by $100 to $24,500. The cost of the community swim program is expected to rise only $200 to $8,200.

McKenna said the district does not anticipate an increase in state aid, but does anticipate an increase in assessment. He said the new Weatherfield development near the Albany Country Club and within district boundaries is largely responsible for the expected increase.

McKenna explained that the draft budget presented to the audience — of only nine residents — was subject to change. Board member Joseph Fernandez asked for ideas to get more people involved in the budget making process. "We need a broader base of people... to know what's going on," said board member Peter Ten Eyck.

McKenna said the board plans to continue discussion of the budget at a special meeting on Feb. 4 at 7:30 p.m. and at their regular meeting on Feb. 14 at 7:30 p.m. Both meetings will be held in the district offices located in the high school.

Village to put teeth in leash law

By Charles Casey

The Jan. 22 meeting of the Voorheesville Village Board began with a discussion of dogs.

Several residents from the Pleasant Street area showed up to growl their concerns over the increasing number of loose dogs in their neighborhood. "I have a five-year-old who two years ago had a bad experience with a dog and is afraid to go out," said Gail Kohler. "I think it's a little intimidating for all the children."

Voorheesville has a leash law and, according to Mayor Richard Lennon, periodically issues tickets to some dog owners. "It's a cyclical thing," said Lennon, adding that every few months the village must renew its efforts.

But there hasn't been much enforcement lately. "The judge can't fine people when the tickets are not being issued," said Lennon. "Tickets haven't been issued in five months."

Lennon made it clear that the position of dog warden is part-time and that enforcing the law is often difficult, especially in the winter when daylight hours are shortened.

But the mayor promised to take a bite out of the problem and indicated that, if necessary, assistance may be sought to help curbar the roving canines. "I'll do what has to be done. We may have to hire (an additional warden) if that's required."

Board member Susan Rockmore announced that the Capital District Transportation Authority will run a mid-day bus through the village on Fridays. The Albany-bound bus will arrive in the village at 10 a.m. and arrive back in Voorheesville at 2:50 p.m. Rockmore also said that Voorheesville seniors are compiling a village directory which she describes as "a guide to living in Voorheesville." In addition to phone numbers of village officials, the directory will include bits of historical trivia.

Trustee Daniel Reh nominated James Preston to fill the vacancy on the Conservation Advisory Council left by the resignation of Alan Parsons. Preston, who is employed by the state Department of Environmental Conservation, would not have any conflicts of interest in his new role, said Reh. The board made the appointment unanimously.

Lennon announced that the village will hire a licensed operator at the soon-to-be-acquired Salem Hills sewer treatment facility. This person will function as supervisor for six months until Superintendent William Hotaling becomes a fully certified operator. Lennon said that although the details are not yet complete, sewer rates will probably be assessed as they had been before the acquisition.

The board has scheduled a tax assessment grievance session for Feb. 19. Residents may come to the village hall between 5 and 9 p.m.

Car collides with bus

A Delmar woman was charged with unsafe backing after her car came out of a driveway and collided with a Bethlehem Central school bus Thursday, according to Bethlehem police. Two teenagers listed as passengers on the bus reported no injuries in the 11 a.m. accident on University St. in Elm Estate. The driver of the car, Gretchen Elmendorf, was treated at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany and released.

Nursery school sign-up

The Community Nursery School of Voorheesville has announced registration dates for the 1985-86 school year. Children who will be 4 on or before Dec. 1 are eligible to attend the nondenominational program, which meets in the Voorheesville Methodist Church.

Interested parents are invited to an informational meeting on Thursday, Jan. 31, at 7:30 p.m. in the social hall of the church. The meeting will familiarize parents with the program, which runs from October through May. Application forms will be available that evening.

A lottery to select participants in the program will take place on Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the church social hall. All application forms must be returned by Monday, Feb. 11, to be considered. Forms should be sent to registration chairman Cathy O'Dell, 209 Deerfield Ct., Voorheesville 12186. Parents of applicants are urged to attend the Feb. 12 lottery in case choices must be made according to the draw.

Parents unable to attend the meeting may pick up applications at the church social hall on Tuesday, Feb. 5, from 9 until 11 a.m.

For safer snowmobiling

For many snow means snowmobiles and in the past few years a concerted effort has been made to educate those who use the recreational vehicles. Heidi Adami, a fifth grade student at Voorheesville Elementary School recently received her snowmobile license after completing a four-hour course given by the Albany County Sheriff's Department.

anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America and the 55th anniversary of the Cub Scouts.

To begin the month-long celebration, boys from Voorheesville Boy Scout Troop 73 and Voorheesville Cub Scout Pack 73 will join together on Scout Sunday, Feb. 3, to worship together in their respective churches. Boys are invited to don their uniforms and attend the 10 a.m. service at the Voorheesville Methodist Church and the 11:30 a.m. mass at St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

The Boy Scouts will have their annual pancake supper on Saturday, Feb. 9, from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Voorheesville American Legion Hall. Tickets for the meal which includes pancakes, sausage, dessert and beverage — are $3 for adults and $2 for children and may be purchased from scouts or at the door. This is the troop's only fund-raiser.

At the end of the month, cubs from Pack 73 and their families will gather on Wednesday, Feb. 27, at the Legion Hall to commemorate the anniversary at their annual "blue and gold" banquet.

Historical group invites speaker
The New Scotland Historical Society will meet on Tuesday, Feb. 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the Old New Salem Schoolhouse Museum. Guest speaker will be Cornelia Frisbee Houde, former director of Historic Cherry Hill, who will present a slide program and lecture on antique costumes. The public is invited.

The historical association also notes that it is not too late to purchase one of the group's calendars, which feature interesting photos from the town's past. Calendars are for sale at local shops.

Home Bureau to be busy
Also on Tuesday, Feb. 5, the New Scotland chapter of Home Bureau will meet at the home of Joyce Quay on Swift Rd. in Voorheesville to continue to work on projects for the second annual Albany County Home Bureau craft show. The show is planned for May 4 at LeVies on Maple Rd. The group will have its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 12, at the home of Joan Baumgarten on Maple Rd. Both meetings will begin at 7 p.m.

Adult classes to start
Registration for the Voorheesville Central School District's continuing education program will take place on Monday, Feb. 4, and Tuesday, Feb. 5, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the main foyer of the high school. Mail registration will also be accepted from Feb. 4 through Feb. 9 and should be sent to James Hladun, director, Voorheesville Central School, Voorheesville 12186. Fees are due at the time of registration.

Southbound on TV
Those who can't wait until Feb. 15 to see Southbound in concert at the high school can catch a glimpse of the local country-western quintet when they are spotlighted on "PM Magazine" on Monday, Feb. 4, at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 10. This will be the first of many times the fast-moving group will be featured on television. Besides being seen in their video, which is running on Nashville Network, they will appear on "Nashville Now" and "New Country" in the near future.

The group will perform "live" in a benefit concert sponsored by the Voorheesville PTSA on Feb. 15 at the high school. Tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for students and may be purchased by calling Joann St. Denis at 765-4748.

Former drug abuser tells it like it is RCS Senior High School health classes received an interesting and honest presentation from Rachel, a Hope House resident on Jan. 10. Rachel openly discussed her life as a drug abuser and explained the importance of Hope House, a residential drug treatment center, in her effort to recover.

Dan Lucy from Hope House accompanied Rachel. He explained that Project Hope's purpose is to counsel adolescents 12-16 so that they can better deal with family, school and personal problems. Hopefully, this will prevent many from becoming drug abusers and needing places like Hope House.

Rachel felt that something like Project Hope would have made a positive difference to her if she had been involved with it. Her presentation clearly reinforced a number of messages from the drug abuse unit the students were studying. These were: (1) most drug abusers don't make a conscious decision to abuse drugs (2) usually the abuser does not recognize the abuse; he thinks he's using drugs as the social drug user is using them (3) drug abuse causes a multitude of problems including personal, health, school work, family and legal (4) drug addict has a disease that makes him or her physically dependant upon drugs (5) recovering must include learning coping skills and dealing with life's consequences without drugs, a desire to change a lifestyle and a conscious daily effort to avoid giving in to the desires to get "high." Hope House is helping Rachel with this painful but important experience.

When asked how schools and parents can help students avoid drug abuse, Rachel said, "They have to stop enabling the kids." She said things such as allowing kids to get high only at home or ignoring it or laughing it off when they are high and very importantly, not making the person pay the consequences are called enabling situations. Neither schools nor parents should pass these situations off or kids will not learn to deal with the consequences. This happened to her and she said Hope House is making her face the consequences. Rachel wants very much to control her life and

First aid course starting

The Bethlehem Volunteer Ambulance Service has scheduled an advanced first aid course to begin next week. Anyone who would like to further first aid knowledge and has previously taken either a multimedia or standard first aid course is eligible.

Red Cross instructor Harry Metchick of Glenmont, a member of the Bethlehem Ambulance Service, will teach the course which begins on Feb. 6. It will run for seven consecutive Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. at Selkirk Firehouse on Maple Ave., Selkirk. The only charge is the cost of the books necessary for the course. Further information may be obtained by contacting Linda Schacht, 767-2924.

Church women to meet

The South Bethlehem United Methodist Women will hold their monthly meeting Wednesday evening, Feb. 6. Presiding over the meeting which begins at 8 at the South Bethlehem United Methodist Church, Willowbrook Ave., will UMW president Dolores Arnheiter. Devotions will be led by Lorrie Vaber. The program will include a report by Marion Fross on the Robert Schuller book, Tough Times Don't Last — But Tough People Do! Hostesses will be Elizabeth Huller and Rose Mayo. All women of the community are invited.

Travelogue on Egypt

Herbert Strumpf of Selkirk will share his impressions and give a slide show presentation of a recent trip to Egypt when the senior citizens of South Bethlehem and Selkirk gather for their next meeting at the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem, Rt. 9W, Selkirk. The meeting is scheduled for Feb. 11, beginning at noon with a covered luncheon. All seniors of the area are invited to bring a dish to share.

Teenagers plan activities

The Youth Group of the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem will meet this Sunday, Feb. 3, at 6:30 p.m. Any junior or senior high school youth is invited to attend this meeting, which will include discussion, recreation and refreshments. The teens usually meet twice monthly, with one of the gatherings planned for special activities such as roller skating, bowling, pizza parties and winter sports.

Little League signups closing

This weekend will be the last opportunity for boys and girls who would like to register for Hudson Valley Little League. Registrations will be taken at the Ravena Town Hall, Russell Ave., Ravena and at Selkirk fire house, Maple Ave. in Selkirk from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. this Saturday, Feb. 2.

Girls signing up for softball must be from 6 to 15 years of age, and boys wanting to participate in baseball must be between the ages of 6 and 12. Anyone registering for the first time must be accompanied by a parent and bring his or her birth certificate.

With student orchestra

Bridget Kelly, a grade 8 student at RCS, is a cellist with the Empire State Youth Orchestra. She will be playing with the orchestra in three concerts at Farnsworth Middle School, Gunderland, Lisha Kill Junior High and, on March 22-24, at the International Music Festival at Boston. Bridget is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kelly, Coeymans Hollow.

Library building

present size and services of the library and recommendations as to what is needed for the library to better serve the public.

Although a previous plan by the board leaned towards renovation of the present structure, the report states that such a course of action is not recommended since any further modification to the existing building would still leave the parking problem, add little additional public service space and could possibly result in more structural repair to the 100-year-old structure.

Recommended instead was a simple single-level structure of approximately 7,600 square feet, which would double the size of the present library. Listing a number of possible sites around the district including lots and structures in the village, the Salem Hills sub-division and along Crow Ridge and School Rds., Geddes suggested that the most usable site was the former Grand Union building.

The report also discussed the drawbacks in using the building such as size, which is much more than needed, and rent versus lease arrangements.

The board also has issued a call for area volunteers to serve on an advisory board to help review and reassess these recommendations. A special session of the board will be held on Monday, Feb. 11, to continue work on the report. The public is welcome.

Two face DWI counts

A Glenmont man was charged with driving while intoxicated as a misdemeanor and failed to keep right after his car swerved into the path of a police car Sunday on Delaware Ave., according to Bethlehem police reports. Also facing a misdemeanor charge of driving while intoxicated is a Delmar man who was stopped at 1 a.m. Thursday on Herrick Ave. He also was charged with speeding.

2 counts in accident

A Coeymans man was charged with speeding and failure to keep right after his car went off Rt. 144 in Selkirk early Friday, according to Bethlehem police reports. The accident report noted there was snow on the road. The man did not require hospital treatment, according to the report.

CHP announces Delmar staff

The Capital Area Community Health Plan has appointed four physicians to the staff of its new Delmar Health Center. Located at 250 Delaware Ave. the center is scheduled to open within the next few weeks.

More than 1,000 subscribers have requested that their medical records be transferred to the new center, according to a CHP spokesman.

The Delmar center will be staffed by David Krischer, M.D., whose specialty is pediatrics and internal medicine. He received his M.D. from the University of Mississippi School of Medicine and completed his internship and residency at the Albany Medical Center Hospital. He was an EKG technician/non-invasive cardiology technician at the University of Mississippi Medical Center, and most recently was house physician at Ellis Hospital in Schenectady.

Also on the staff will be Catherine Lee, M.D., who is board certified in Internal Medicine and Rheumatology. She received her M.D. from Johns Hopkins University, completed her internship at Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital and her residency at Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital and Case Western Reserve, University Hospitals of Cleveland. Before coming CHP Dr. Lee was in private practice specializing in rheumatology and internal medicine. Both Dr. Krischer and Dr. Lee have been on the staff of the Latham Health Center.

The third member of the new staff in Delmar will be Richard Yan, M.D., whose specialty is pediatrics. He received his medical degree from University of the East College of Medicine, Quezon City, Philippines, and completed his internship at Ellis Hospital in Schenectady. His pediatric residency was completed at Albany Medical Center where he was the chief resident in pediatrics from 1982-83.

The fourth member of the physician staff is Lisa Anne Harvey, M.D., who has been on the staff of CHP's Troy Health Center. Dr. Harvey is a graduate of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, NC, completed her internship at St. Clare's Hospital Family Practice Program in Schenectady. Dr. Harvey, before coming to CHP, was in private practice in Schenectady and was the school physician in the Schenectady City School District. Dr. Harvey will move from the Troy Health Center to Delmar early in March.

Center's opening delayed

Construction delays have pushed back the opening date for the new Capital Area Community Health Plan (CHP) facility in Delmar, according to Mary Primett, who will be the administrator there. Late last week the 12,000-square-foot primary care facility, which will be housed in the renovated former A&P building on Delaware Ave., was expected to open on Monday, Feb.

4, Primett said.

The center, CHP's 10th, will have offices and examination rooms for primary care and also a pharmacy, lab collection and radiology services. Other specialty care will be added as enrollment grows, CHP officials said. More than 1,000 patients have transferred their enrollment from CHP's Latham center to Delmar, it was noted.

'Not just diet food'

"It's not just diet food" is the way Ferd M. Johnson of Delmar describes the California Trim products for which he has become the local distributor. The products include drinks in single-serving packs with a straw attached and bars, both of which provide 220 nutritionally balanced calories in each serving, according to the California-based company.

The company's advertising emphasizes the product's usefulness for dieters, but Johnson — who said, "I've been a health-food person and very fussy" — also endorses the products as providing a convenient balanced diet for anyone. "The beauty of this diet is that everything's in it that the body needs at the same time," he said. "It gets the right elements into the body." Other products are planned, he added.

The drinks come in four fruit flavors plus chocolate, and the bars are produced in three flavors — chocolate-covered peanut, yogurt-covered peanut and peanut butter.

Johnson said the company was started about three years ago, and that he learned of it when he worked at the Olympics in Los Angeles last year after having retired as a textile engineer. Persons interested in learning more about California Trim may call Johnson at 439-5837.

2 deer accidents

Two car-deer accidents were reported this week to Bethlehem police, according to police records. One took place on Meads Lane and the other on Krumkill Rd. No persons reported injuries.

"The Albany Academy Admits Students of any race, color, national and ethnic origin to all rights, privileges, programs and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the school. It does not discriminate on the basis of sex, race, color, national and ethnic origin in administration of its educational policies, scholarship and loan programs, and athletic and other school-administration programs."

News from AROUND
BETHLEHEM CENTRAL

Clarksville - Students are in the midst of choosing a school logo. Last week they voted on a color; this week they'll choose a design from the students entries. Under the leadership of Lee Eck and Jim McCooley the PTA is looking at designing a new playground for the school. Also on the committee are Judy Euler, Marie Hornick, Lee Haefeli and Cheryl MacCulloch.

Elsmere - The ESCO-PTA board meets Tuesday, Feb. 5, at 7:30 p.m. A big group enjoyed what has become an annual event, the pancake breakfast held last Sunday. ESCO plans the breakfasts to give Elsmere families a chance to get to know each other. The Friendship Singers entertained at the Friday morning assembly.

Glenmont - The rink at Glenmont is ready for ice-skating. Children in grades 3-5 may skate during noon recess. After school hours an adult family member must be present. Students are still getting reports from people finding balloons that were launched at the September picnic. The most recent find was in Nashua, N.H.

Hamagrael - Eighty-five parents have volunteered a total of 1,548 hours from September to January, according to Beth Tougher and Sarah Slingerland. Hamagrael is collecting Post "Fun N Fitness" labels, and already has ordered three aluminum bats.

Send your labels to Hamagrael School, McGuffey La., Delmar.

Slingerlands - Thursday, Jan. 31, at 7 p.m. is Parent/Children Physical Education Night. William Fuller invites all Slingerlands parents and their children to take part. During the first two weeks of February, the Slingerlands staff will be presenting the Child Sexual Abuse Prevention Program. The curriculum was developed by Eloise Guziar, school psychologist and Eileen Perkins, Slingerlands nurse, in consultation with other professionals.

Middle School - All middle schoolers are invited to go roller skating on Feb. 1 between 3 and 5 p.m. Later that night the eighth grade Fling gets underway at 7:30 p.m. Report cards for the first semester are due home on Feb. 5. Gary Warren will be filling in second semester for Gloria Kanter and teaching eighth grade social studies during Mrs. Kanter's sabbatical leave.

High School - Valentine Cabaret, an evening of entertainment and dancing, will be held Sat., Feb. 9 in the BCHS cafeteria from 8-11 p.m. For the $2 admission, you will hear soloists from the Choraliers and dance to the BCHS Dance Band. Food and beverages will be sold. Former HS students Andrea Blanchard and Henry Peyrebrune have been selected to play in the prestigious NY String Orchestra conducted by Alexander Schneider.

What's going on in your class? Call Cheryl Stees, 439-3650, mornings, to report news.

Career Postal Workers will now earn a starting salary of $18,532 plus benefits - with an accelerated step increase plan; men and women, regardless of age, are eligible. The first step toward a postal service career is getting your name onto the "Register of Eligibles," which is accomplished by passing this Exam. To be one of the first hired, you need to get one of the higher scores! And to be hired at all during the next three years, you will need to score at least 95%.

4½-HOUR WORKSHOP
Score 95-100% or Your Tuition is Refunded!

It is possible to get a very high score with adequate preparation. From years of experience and discussions with our Advisory Board (consisting of former postmasters, training managers and examiners), we know that it takes exactly four and a half hours to teach you everything you need to know to score 95% or better - which is what you'll need to get a job.

This workshop is being offered now, prior to the formal announcement of the examination dates, to give you adequate time to prepare for the test. Many post offices begin testing within a week of the announcement which isn't enough time to prepare properly. By starting now, you'll be ready to attain high scores using our methods when the test is given.

Benefits derived from this course extend far beyond the Postal Exam. The skills and attitudes will help in every area of future learning and test-taking. We have helped thousands of people successfully prepare for the Postal Exams. But don't take our word for it, take our guarantee! Come to the workshop. If you don't feel, at the end of the course, that it will help you achieve a score of 95% or better, don't pay for the workshop! Furthermore, if your score is less than 95% on the official exam after using our techniques, we will immediately refund your tuition in full!

- You are invited to bring your tape recorder to record the workshop for personal exam review.
- You may attend as many extra sessions of the workshop as you like (on a space available basis) without additional tuition charge.

WORKSHOP TUITION - $35 (includes guaranteed 4½-hour Workshop, The Corey Guide to Postal Exams (with 6 complete practice tests), a Sample Exam with Answers, Workshop Workbook, POSTAL EXAM ALERT WITH SIGN-UP DATES MAILED TO YOUR HOME, Follow-up consultation privileges, Achievement Award to high-scorers and Practice Kit containing Six Additional Practice Exams with Answers, Memory Test Flash Cards, and "Simulated Exam" on cassette tape). Please bring two No. 2 pencils with you to the Workshop.

Seating is limited; pre-registration by phone is advised. Otherwise, you may register by arriving thirty minutes early. Tuition is payable at the door by cash, check, money order, MasterCard, VISA or American Express.

Voorheesville wrestler nails 100th win

By Peter J. Fisch

It isn't every high school wrestler who wins 100 matches. After five years of hard work, Voorheesville senior Jeff Genovesi has passed the century mark but refuses to rest on his laurels.

"Every match is important to me," he said after registering his 100th career win in a Voorheesville victory over visiting Duaneburg last week. "When you're undefeated, there's a lot on the line. You can't get overconfident or you'll get killed."

On the season, Genovesi has managed to keep his slate unblemished at 19-0. With his success, the senior has set some lofty goals for the coming month. "Hopefully, I'll win the Section 2 tournament. There's some tough competition, but I think I can win. From there, I'd like to place at the state tournament."

Genovesi has wrestled varsity since eighth grade and is only the second Blackbird to cross the century mark in wins. Two years ago former VC standout Jeff Clark topped the century mark and went on to win 52 more. "Jeff Clark taught me a lot," commented Genovesi. "Jeff told me I had potential and thought I'd do okay. I had no idea I'd go this far."

As a freshman after a 14-12 eighth grade campaign Genovesi racked up a 20-10 record and finished third in the Sectional Class C tourney. The following year, with a 21-9 mark, he placed second in Class C and then took the crown last season. With a 28-3-1 slate, Genovesi finished third overall in the section last year.

"I've just taken the wins as they've come. My goal at any tourney was to make the finals. In 10th grade I decided to shoot for a Section 2 crown. Last year, I wanted to win the Section 2 title, but I got caught in the semi-finals."

Outside of school, the 126-pounder has wrestled competitively with the Adirondack Three-style Wrestling Association for four years. Through ATWA, Genovesi has captured various honors including state freestyle and Greco-Roman championships this past year. In 1983 Genovesi boosted his confidence with a silver medal at the Empire State Games.

Thus far into the season, the Blackbird co-captain has been a leader on and off the mat. "Jeff's been a great influence on the younger wrestlers," praised veteran Voorheesville Coach Dick Leach, to whom Genovesi credits much of his success. "He's pushed them and helped them. Since he's the only senior on the squad, he's taken the leadership role and carried it well."

Genovesi's experience has helped give VC an extra boost in several close matches, including recent league victories over Mechanville (29-22) and Albany Academy (33-27). "We've had several close matches," remarked Leach. "If I had to go through matches like that everytime, I'd probably shorten my life by 20 years."

With the two league wins and two non-league victories, Leach's crew has put together a four-match win streak en route to a 7-6 overall record and a 4-2 league mark. "The composure of this club has come together," noted

Leach. "We've finally put it together."

Now, Genovesi and corps must conquer the rest of the schedule. Front and center is Saturday's league tournament at Cohoes. A surprising 32-27 upset win at Averill Park gave them a solid lift. Matt Cillis and Mark Gillenwalters won by decision, and pins came from Ward Breeze, John Traudt, Rich Kane and, of course, Genovesi.

For the future, Genovesi plans to use his own combination of strength, technique, experience and mental ability to help him wrestle in college. Current prospects include SUNY-Brockport and Allegheny College.

With a 102-34-1 record, Jeff Genovesi has accomplished many things other wrestlers only dream of. Genovesi summed it up in one sentence: "A lot of hard work has finally paid off."

Jeff Mackey (20), left, of Bethlehem Central runs into a tight Shenendehowa defense and has trouble getting a shot off in the fourth period of Friday's Suburban Council basketball game in Delmar.

Greg Dobbert (30) tries to help with his left arm holding off another defender. The Eagles scored half their game total points in the final quarter, but still lost by 71-43.

BC thinking about next year

With five games left on the basketball schedule, including a home engagement with Niskayuna last night (Tuesday), BC coach Gary Przybylo plans to give his juniors more work with an eye to next season.

Przybylo is starting three of his juniors, Jeff Mackey, Paul Stracke and Mike Gibbons, and will give the others more playing time in the wind-down of another dreary hoop season on Delaware Ave. The Eagles absorbed a 71-43 shellacking from Shenendehowa Friday in the only action of the week, lowering their season mark to 3-7 in the Suburban Council and 3-11 on the year.

But the game wasn't a total wipeout. The Eagles were down 46-22 going into the fourth period when Przybylo fielded what might be next year's starting lineup. The five juniors pleased their tutor with what he called "a real team game" instead of the usual hodgepodge play that comes when coaches empty their benches near the end of a one-sided contest. "They played well together," said Przybylo. "They were patient even though they were far behind, and they looked organized out there, not helter-skelter. They did a good job and scored 21 points in the quarter."

Ten of those points came from Mackey, a 6-4 junior who was the surprise high scorer for BC. "He came into the season overweight, but now he's starting to play," said Przybylo.

The Plainsmen smothered their hosts with a press, an effective device against a Bethlehem team that lacks good ball-handling. But the Eagles showed some good defense, cutting off Shenendehowa's inside game and limiting their big guns to below-average point production. Greg Koubeck was restricted to 14 points and Brendan O'Sullivan, the big 6-5 power forward, got only 13. Both are sophomores, hence they will be around awhile to haunt BC and others in the future.

There was also a bright note in that the freshmen beat the Shenendehowa frosh and are now 8-2. The jayvees are 8-7 and the eighth grade team is 8-1.

Academy quintet outguns Indians

By Dan Tidd

Thanks to 6-foot-6 center Dimitri Yavis's 14 points and 13 rebounds, Albany Academy cruised to a 59-48 victory over the Ravena Indians Friday night in Albany. Academy, 11-3 overall, improves to 9-1 in league play and just one game back of first-place Mechanicville, who stands at 10-1.

For the Indians it was a tough loss to take, especially after playing so well earlier in the week with an impressive 57-50 win over Schalmont. "We had our shots to win this one, but once again we made crucial mistakes when the game was close," said Ravena Coach Jim Gorham. "It seems like it has been that way all season long."

The game was dead even in the first quarter until the Cadets got two late baskets to make it 16-12. "The kids did a real good job of clogging up the middle in the first quarter," said Gorham. "Yavis did not hurt us early in the game, but it was the hot shooting of Kirk Harbinger that really hurt us." Harbinger finished with a game-high 15 points. Academy went into halftime leading 31-23.

Yavis finally got going in the second half as the Cadets built up a comfortable 11-point bulge. Numerous times Ravena got loose inside for open shots only to have Yavis block them. The Cadets decided to stall the ball late in the third and midway through quarter number four. Just when it looked like the Indians were wearing Yavis down, he followed up on a missed one-and-one with a banker off the glass to push the lead to 13.

Gorham got good play out of senior Dan Baker and sophomore John Waddingham. Baker scored 10 points on an array of jumpers and Waddingham chipped in with 8. Dekovan Bowie, Ravena's leading scorer, was held to just 7 points.

Bowie scored 21 points and Dan Baker had 16 in a fourth-quarter rally that led the Indians over Schalmont last Tuesday. Bowie also had a game high 14 rebounds and five blocked shots.

The Indians stand at 3-9 in league play and are 5-10 overall. Their next game is on the road this Friday night in Cohoes.

Foul calls hurt 'Birds

Back-to-back technical fouls called against two Voorheesville players helped Waterford cash six free throws to beat the Blackbirds, 56-44, in Colonial Council basketball last Friday. With 1:10 left Voorheesville's Brett Hotaling and a Waterford player were fighting for the ball when one referee called a technical on Hotaling after he retaliated for being pushed on the play. Then teammate Brian Rubin was slapped for a technical for getting involved in the call.

The score stood at 49-44 when the scuffle started and it ended with Waterford leading 55-44. "There was contact on the play," said Voorheesville Coach Bob Crandall. "The technicals should have been called on both players; to call both of them on us is ridiculous. It's a shame something like that had to happen in a game that was so close."

The first quarter was an up-and-down struggle for both teams as they battled to a 12-12 tie. In the second quarter Waterford showed why they are near the top of the league as they raced to a 30-21 halftime lead. "They really started to heat it up from the outside, especially Steve O'Brien," said Crandall, talking about Waterford's point guard who finished the night with 19 points. "We couldn't stop their break in that quarter," added Crandall. "We also aided their attack with turnovers."

Voorheesville cut the lead to 39-34 after three thanks to senior Hotaling, who pumped in 8 points. Crandall had his squad using a 2-2-1 press and then falling back man-to-man. The plan worked, and with 4:40 left, the Blackbirds went on top 42-41. O'Brien hit two jumpers to put Waterford on top, 45-42. Voorheesville missed an opportunity to cut the lead to one, and it was 49-42 when the technical calls came.

Crandall went to his bench late in the final quarter and got some solid play out of seniors Justin Corcoran, Frank Crisafulli and John Paradise. "Those guys really did a good job running the club and playing some stubborn defense," said Crandall.

Earlier in the week Crandall's squad played another strong game but lost to Watervliet, 78-68. Rubin and Hotaling had 16 points apiece in the loss. The Blackbirds fell to 2-10 in the Council and 4-12 overall.

St. Thomas wins

A 30-26 win over St. Joseph's in overtime enabled St. Thomas to pull into a second-place tie with the losers at 8-2 in the CYO girls basketball league.

Jennifer Flynn led the attack with 12 points, followed by Nancy Schmeler with 9. Earlier, playing without their two top scorers, Leslie Andersen and Eileen Battle who have moved up to the Bethlehem Central freshman team, St. Thomas lost to undefeated St. James, 23-11, snapping an eight-game win streak. Flynn scored 7 points.

WRESTLING

Bethlehem Central's varsity wrestlers are stepping up workouts this week in preparation for the season's major tests, the Suburban Council tournament and the Class A Sectionals, all of which will occupy the next three weekends.

But first there is the final dual meet of the campaign, and a big one indeed, against Shenendehowa at home tonight (Wednesday 7 p.m.). Last week the Eagles polished off Colonie by 49-21, but finished a disappointing fourth in a nine-team tournament at Saratoga.

Coach Rich Poplaski, conceding spots to such powers as Ballston Spa and Peru Central from Clinton County, had hoped to finish in the top three at the tournament, but Saratoga muscled in ahead of the Eagles. Bethlehem came home with two champions, however, in Chris Saba, who continues unvanquished at 98 pounds, and Brett Zick, the big senior who won his first tournament crown as a varsity wrestler by sweeping three bouts in the 167-pound class.

Other Bethlehem points came from Jim Dayter, second at 126, Mark Hoffman, third in the heavyweights, and Vern Thalheimer, fourth at 91.

On Thursday at Colonie Thalheimer started things off with a pin and Saba took a decision. Mike Clarke won at 119, Steve Gynup delivered a pin at 138 and Jason Conway won on points at 155. Dayter, Doug Chambers, Andy MacDonald and Zick received forfeits. The win lifted BC to 5-2 in the league, 9-4 overall, in dual competition.

The Suburban Council Invationals at Burnt Hills this Friday and Saturday has a star-studded field among 17 teams, including Canastota, ranked No. 2 in the state. "We're hoping to put a few more things together for more consistency," said Poplaski. He's also hoping to get a medical release for Tim Dobert and get him back in shape for the Class A Sectionals at Shenendehowa Feb. 8-9. Poplaski is chairman of the Sectional finals slated for Feb. 16 at RPI's Houston Field House.

Title hopes fade for RCS wrestlers

The RCS wrestling team needed two important victories last week to stay in contention for first place in the Colonial Council. Instead, they settled for a tie against Mechanicville and suffered a loss to Albany Academy.

The Indians started the most critical week of their schedule with a big win over Albany High at home. RCS, without two varsity regulars, had to go to their JV to fill the lineup. Ken Losee (98) started Ravena off with a pin while Chip Cowles (138) won on points as Bart Gottesman (126) and Chris Chmielewski (145) pinned their opponents. Jerry Baranska (177) sealed the RCS victory in an exciting head to head confrontation.

On Thursday RCS traveled to face always tough Mechanicville in a match that ended in a disappointing tie. The Indians were ignited with an upset pin by Brian Perry (112) and in the best match of the day, Theile (119) won by 3-2, gaining the deciding point in the final minute of the match. Gallagher (132) won by default and Chmielewski (145) won 10-3. Matt Rodd (138), Bob Lewis (155) and Baranska (177) all won by pin.

Ravena's slim hopes of gaining the Council championship were ended Saturday as they lost to Academy 36-24. Injury and sickness hampered the Indians as they forfeited at 98 and 177. Vince Caballer (91) gave Ravena an early lead with a pin. The only other pins were Gallagher (132) and Rodd (138). Legg (126) and Chmielewski (145) gave strong performances to gain victories.

Ravena will close out the regular season with a match at home against Lansingburgh on Thursday.

Pair of showdowns loom for legendary pool squad

Two meets this week will take Bethlehem Central's dynastic swim team closer to the showdown tests against Rome and undefeated New Hartford. The Eagles had a date yesterday (Tuesday) with Albany High, a well-rounded team with several top swimmers, and a Thursday date with Guilderville, the merged team representing Guilderland and Voorheesville.

The BC juggernaut ran its dual-meet win streak to 127 with a routine 105-64 triumph over Amsterdam-Fonda in a six-lane pool in Montgomery County. Fred Rudofsky was the only double winner in the lackluster affair, taking the 200 IM in 2:19 and the 100 breast in 1:09.8, his best time this year.

Damon Woo turned in his personal best with a 57.4 in the 100 fly, and Pierre LaBarge delivered a 1:53.8 in the 200 free, a good clocking for January.

League win for spikers

Bethlehem's volleyball team defeated Guilderland in the first league game of the year, 15-4, 15-10. Coach Ray Sliter was pleased with the performance and was surprised by the small number of errors made by the inexperienced team. The JV team won in three games, 15-3, 10-15, 15-4. Dave Jones and Jay Wolfard had exceptional games from the back row while Rick Jones played a good net game.

Bethlehem's schedule is starting to get tougher. The team was scheduled to play weak Mohonsen on Monday and Suburban Council powerhouse Shenendehowa today (Wednesday) at home at 3:45 p.m. The Eagles play at Colonie Friday.

Big week for RCS hoopsters

By Kevin Hommel

Climbing into a first-place tie in the Colonial Council race and winning their own Gold Medal Tournament climaxed a historic week for the RCS girls basketball team.

Ravena's 62-37 win over Schalmont gave both teams a 6-1 record in the league. In the tournament, the Indians scalped Catskill, 48-22 and overwhelmed Ballston Spa in the championship game, 55-30.

Coach Betty Faxon said that the team went into the Schalmont game expecting a tough fight, but their defensive press kept Schalmont scoring low. Jackie Mulligan had 12 assists, eight of which were full-court to Terri Baker, who had a season high of 23 points.

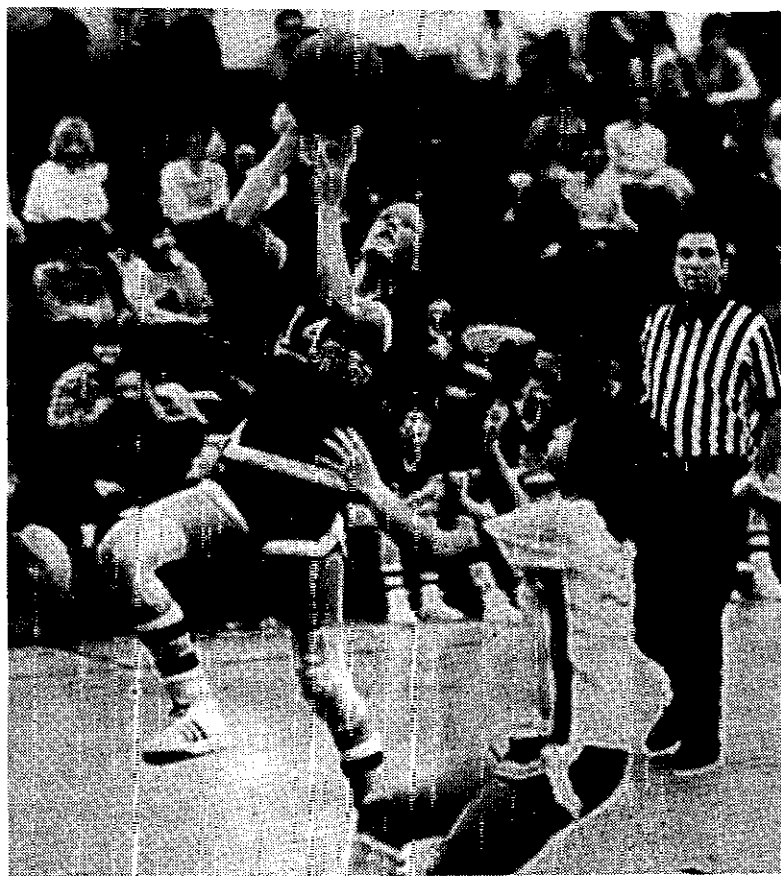

The first round of the RCS tournament began with Ballston Spa defeating Mohonasen. In the second game Ravena opened with a full-court press, but used it only for a short time after gaining an 18-2 lead in the first quarter. Junior Pauline Mayo returned from 10 days of being inactive with a broken finger to lead the team with 12 rebounds. Freshman forward Tracey Tucker had eight points and Mulligan ended up with 14.

In the championship game, Ravena again refused to let their opponents penetrate their defensive press while Baker and Mulligan consistently stole the ball for easy baskets. Baker finished with 17 points and Mulligan had 12.

Sheila Seery and Baker were voted to the tournament's all-star team, and Mulligan was given the highest honor as she was voted the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

Bicycle found

A 26-inch girls' bicycle, found in the woods near Summit Rd. in Delmar, was turned over to Bethlehem police Thursday, according to police reports. The bicycle, which is not registered, is being held at headquarters.

Up, over and in for two as Ravena's Terri Baker (14) scores in the championship game of the RCS Gold Medal Tournament. The Indians kept the crown at home by defeating Catskill and Ballston Spa by wide margins.

Unpleasant surprise for BC

By Tania Stasiuk

In girls basketball action last week, Bethlehem did not fare well against Linton. An unexpectedly big score of 49-19 surprised the girls, who had previously defeated Linton easily.

Coach Eugene Lewis feels that the absence of star center Kim Zornow should not have made that much difference in his team's performance, and that the loss could have been prevented if Bethlehem had played a better game. BC shot poorly and threw the ball away repeatedly. Linton took advantage of Bethlehem's small guards and piled on the baskets, two players alone totaling 29 points.

Sophomore Liza Tonetti, who has been BC's most consistent high scorer since Zornow left due to an illness, was benched early in the game due to fouls and scored only one point.

Although Zornow's health is rapidly improving and she hoped to play Monday of this week against Mohonasen, she is still

V'ville's five go 1 and 1

Due to exam week the Voorheesville girls basketball team split two games to improve their record to 3-3 in the Colonial Council and 5-3 overall.

In the first of their two league games they defeated Waterford Tuesday in a low scoring game, 28-16. The girls played at their best in the third quarter when they weak and probably will not be able to play a full game for several weeks. Kim's return was unfortunately coupled with the absence of guard Peg Jeram, considered vital to Bethlehem's defense by Lewis.

Strength will be needed today (Wednesday) against Gunderland, which had a scout at last Friday's game. On Friday, Scotia will visit Bethlehem for what looks to be a close and exciting game.

shut their opponents out, 10-0. Laura Martin and Christy Tarullo led with 6 points each.

On Thursday Coach Nadine Bassler's girls fell short to Waterford. The game was tied at 16 until Vliet made their move. Final score was 24-22. Tarullo led all scorers with 11 points.

Rt. 9W crash fatal

An Anram woman died Saturday when her car was involved in a head-on collision on Rt. 9W in Selkirk, according to state police at the Selkirk substation. Jennifer L. Staats, 10, of Ravena, a passenger in the other vehicle involved, was listed as in fair condition Monday at Albany medical Center Hospital. State police said Virginia R. Zyryi, 53, of Anram died when her car collided head-on with a vehicle driven by Helen V. Staats, 44, of Ravena. Police said the Zyryi vehicle apparently was attempting to pass other traffic when the crash occurred about 5:45 p.m. on Rt. 9W near Rt. 396. Helen Staats was treated at Albany Medical Center Hospital and released, authorities said. No charges were filed in the accident.

Two hurt in collision

Two persons were taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital Saturday after a two-car collision at the intersection of Elsmere Ave. and Rt. 32 in Delmar, according to Bethlehem police. Gerald F. Pittz, 25, of Delmar and Jennifer Whalen, 24, of Cohoes, the driver of the other car, were treated and released, a hospital spokeswoman said. Police said the Slingerlands Rescue Squad, which has special equipment, was called to remove Pittz from his car. Whalen was charged with passing a red light, police said.

Whalen, who was driving a 1962 model car, was not wearing a seatbelt at the time of the accident, officials noted. The state's new seatbelt law exempts persons in cars made before 1965, they said.

Soccer sign-up

Bethlehem residents from 6 to 19 years are invited to register for the Bethlehem Soccer Club on Saturday, Feb. 9, from noon to 4 p.m. at the Elm Ave. Park office or on Thursday, Feb. 14, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Bethlehem Town Hall, room 106.

Registrants must bring a copy of their birth certificate to be kept on file. Permission of parent or guardian is also required. For information call Marylou Stracke at 439-2406.

Change the formula

Editor, The Spotlight:

It seems to me that school districts like Bethlehem Central School District are being inequitably treated by the application of a questionable if not unconscionable aid formula. Other "sharing" devices, paper instruments and gross assessment errors help to exacerbate the problem for local taxpayers.

Perhaps we are subsidizing the political largesse of downstate legislators and they are reinforcing the fiscal irresponsibility of the New York City school system. Is it government policy to give those that do the worst job the most money? Is the new Regents Action Plan just another lavish mandate with built-in funding inequities? Are we paying for downstate day-care or education? We pay Harvard prices and get Mississippi results. Is it New York State policy to pay the most and get the least in return? If political rhetoric were legal tender, we would be awash in gold. Perhaps we are awash in another downstate political commodity more akin to the family garden.

I think that it is time for substantial changes in state aid formulae and a review of the operating procedures within the State Education Department (SED). The department is top-heavy and lacks accountability. This common bureaucratic ploy costs a fortune.

Ruling unfair

Editor, The Spotlight:

As a person that attended both hearings on the subject of Donna Lee having dogs at her residence, let me say that the town board did not rule on any facts that were presented and she was treated extremely unfairly. What she wants to do is just have her own dogs live at her house, and this board would not come up with any way she could do that. As most of the dogs are older dogs and there is no way that they can be placed, it leaves her no alternative but to take the unfair way she was treated to Supreme Court for a just, fair ruling or put the dogs to sleep.

As a former resident of Bethlehem, it is appalling to see town officials come up with purported "facts" that are not facts at all. An example of this being that the denial was based on the proposed development of housing "within 200 feet." The facts are that there will not be a residential house for 2,000 feet or an apartment closer than 900 to 1,000 feet. The inability to build any closer due to the ravine makes this an ideal place to do what she wants to do.

Those of us who know that her dogs do not bark, as other dogs do, and that these dogs are kept better than most people's children are appalled at the fact that our testimony was given no credibility. To bring in dog wardens that cannot produce records and then take their word as part of the so-called facts is grossly unfair. Those dog wardens were obviously not telling the truth, but yet there is nothing we can do except take this matter out of this town to a fair court that will rule on the facts.

We have started a legal fund to accomplish this and give this responsible lady a chance to keep her pets. Anyone wishing to donate to this fund may do so by sending checks to Legal Fund, Box 213, Schenectady, 12301.

A new calendar

Editor, The Spotlight:

Fellow procrastinators! An opportunity yet exists to put New Year's resolutions in place. Forget January 1st, it's too close to Christmas and to New Year's Eve. Start the New Year with the end of the Super Bowl. That's it, no more football, no more excuses to put things off. It's a true beginning time. The days get longer and winter appears to have an end after all. Maybe we should change the calendar. Spring henceforth should run from Super Bowl Monday to St. Patrick's Day (a day to celebrate everything). After that everything is summer until Thanksgiving, the beginning of the winter fat period. Call it Fat Thursday. This season will last only until Super Bowl Sunday. We can eat and drink all we want during this period with the understanding that it's only for a short time.

In this way, the Northeast would not have to suffer long winters. People might move back to the area and depression would have to find another cause.

The seasons as they now exist are based on some outdated agricultural rituals that no longer apply since the discovery of pro-football and diets and should be changed immediately.

Happy Spring!
William J. Acquario

Pause for thanks

Editor, The Spotlight:

We wish to make public our thanks to the Delmar Rescue Squad, Slingerlands Rescue Squad, Elsmere Fire Dept. and the Bethlehem Police. On Saturday, Jan. 26, my husband was involved in a very serious auto accident at Elsmere Ave. and Route 32 (the bypass). Thanks to the quick response and actions of the above volunteers he was given immediate medical attention and taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital's emergency room. It made us pause to think, and thank the volunteers of our town who respond when an emergency arises.

School's Out going strong in 2nd year

By Lorraine C. Smith

School's Out added tumbling gymnastics to its seasonal activities this past month. With weekly sessions for three different age groups, the program has been so successful it may be extended another "indoors-winter" month.

"As we help with homework, offer play time, and special projects to keep the children's minds busy, we thought the tumble class would help keep their bodies busy," explained Terry Pullman, director of the program.

Private piano lessons were also made available this past fall, with most of those participating first-time musicians. Practice times on either of two pianos located at the center are scheduled for the students throughout the week.

Also new at the center is an Atari, a very popular — take turns — pastime for all the ages.

With an increased enrollment of almost 60 percent this year, the after school center has welcomed the added assistance of five volunteers, including senior citizens, middle school and high school students.

Sharing credit with the teaching staff, student aides, community volunteers and the schools providing transportation, Pullman expressed satisfaction with the program's success. "It is serving the needs of working parents and is proving to be financially feasible. Even though this is only our second year of operation, we are operating in the black."

Students from five elementary schools now attend this first-of-a-kind after-school program located at the First United Methodist Church, 428 Kenwood Avenue, Delmar. New students, kindergarten through fifth grade, may still be accepted for two to five afternoons a week, 3 to 6 p.m. The center invites volunteers to assist with any special skills from Atari-supervision to cross-stitch to woodworking.

Tape on DAR

During the month of February Bethlehem Channel 16 will cablecast a video tape sponsored by the Gansevoort and Tawasentha chapters of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The tape will feature audio and research done by Alice Begley, a member of the Gansevoort chapter.

The local chapters are receiving funds for the restoration of the Statue of Liberty and are designating Feb. 14 as "Liberty Love Day." Contributors may send a check or money order to Liberty Love Day, Box 126, Glenmont, 12077.

Nagle-Neeley

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Nagle of Glenmont announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Elizabeth, to Ensign Brian L. Neeley, U.S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Neeley of Warsaw, N.Y.

A March wedding is planned.

King's Kids to sing

The King's Kids, a group of 40 young ambassadors for Christ between 5 and 14 years, will present a Christian musical, Enchanted Journey, at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 3 at the Clarksville Community Church, Rt. 443, Clarksville. Set in the land of the pilgrims, the musical explores ways to experience the eternal truths of the Gospel. All are welcome.

Open house for school

The Hamagrael Playschool is holding an open house from noon to 1 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 6, at the Delmar Reformed Church, 386 Delaware Ave., Delmar. Applications for three-year-olds for the 1985-86 year will be taken. For information call Nancy Alexander at 439-9791.

Squares to dance

The Tri-Village Squares of Delmar will host a dance on Saturday, Feb. 2, from 8 to 11 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, 428 Kenwood Ave., Delmar. Jim Ryans will call mainstream dancing with a plus tip. For information call 439-7983 or 439-3289.

SENIOR CITIZENS

The Bethlehem Senior Citizens organization will host two speakers on the seat-belt law at 1:15 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 31, at the Bethlehem Town Hall. Speakers will be Jeanette Maikels of the Albany County Traffic Safety Board, and Sgt. Richard Vanderbilt of Bethlehem Police. They will show a film on seat-belt usage and conduct a discussion following the film.

Bethlehem's senior van will be used to transport senior shoppers from their homes to Northway Mall in Colonie for a day of shopping on Tuesday, Feb. 12. The first 11 seniors who call for a van reservation at 439-5770 between 9 and 11 a.m. weekdays will be able to take the trip.

There will be a free legal clinic for senior citizens from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 1, at the Bethlehem Town Hall. Appointments can be made by calling 439-4955 weekdays.

Bethlehem Senior Services will hold a "dinner out" at Tool's Restaurant in Delmar on Wednesday, Feb. 6. Senior citizens who wish to take advantage of this opportunity to dine out should call the senior van reservation line, 439-5770, between 9 and 11 a.m. weekdays to reserve a van ride to the restaurant. Pickups will begin at approximately 4:30 p.m. and diners will be returned to their homes by approximately 8 p.m.
