A question of drainage

Bank building approved, but was information correct?

By Theresa Bobear

The Bethlehem Planning Board apparently granted site plan approval for a new bank branch next to Delaware Plaza based on incorrect information from the developer.

Kristina Burns, attorney with the firm of Howard Nolan and Mark Heller, presented the proposed site plan for construction of a Citibank branch on a B-Residential and CC-Commercial parcel owned by HMC Associates and located at 184 Delaware Avenue, adjacent to the Delaware Plaza.

The plan called for development of only the front commercial portion of the parcel and a natural buffer for the residents of Plymouth Avenue. A fence would be installed along the west side of the parcel.

When questioned about drainage, Roger Leaper of RFL Architects, Rochester, said the front of the parcel would drain to Delaware Ave. and the undeveloped rear portion would be graded.

"You have permission to connect to the Department of Transportation drainage lines on Delaware Avenue?" asked town planning consultant Alvah Worth.

"Yes," replied Leaper.

"You do? You're fortunate," commented Worth.

On Friday, Joseph Kelly, DOT, Region I, Albany County resident engineer, said an application for a permit for two curb cuts with handicapped ramps for the site had been received, and his office was still waiting for the accompanying plans.

In a phone interview Peter Scharland, assistant resident engineer for the DOT Albany County Maintenance Office, said he had been asked about connecting to the Delaware Ave. drainage system. "I said there was very, very little possibility of him hooking into that, but I don't have the final say," Scharland explained.

"We don't allow people to tap our drainage," said Scharland. "As soon as you let someone hook up, everyone will want to hook up."

When questioned Monday about the drainage situation for the parcel, Burns said, "That has been handled exclusively by the architecture firm. I would have to talk to them to find out who they have been in contact with on that."

After the applicants agreed to move the building, which will be owned by Citibank, from 15 to 25 feet away from Delaware Avenue, the planners granted conditional approval of the site plan.

When asked about plans for the B-zoned rear portion of the

Harmon finds skies still friendly

By Theresa Bobear

Millard Harmon points to the enthusiastic response to his most recent friendship mission to Moscow as evidence that "The whole world is hungry for there to be more normal relations across the iron border."

"It's the friends I have in that city that make it a pleasant place to be," said Harmon, a Delmar resident whose interest is in trying to clear a critical path of people-to-people communication to the Soviet people, "a delightful and honorable people." While Harmon did not have an opportunity to enjoy fine food and the company of his friends during his last visit to the Soviet Union, he still considers his journey to have been successful.

"I didn't like being locked up for four days," said Harmon. But the 59-year-old retired college administrator said he achieved his primary objective — to set a record flying his CIC Class single-engine plane, a Beechcraft 36, from Helsinki, Finland, to Moscow.

"I got that," said Harmon, noting that officials from the Soviet Sport Flying Club certified his time of arrival for the National Aeronautic Association in Washington, D.C.

Harmon said his second objective — to share his gifts with the Soviets — was also realized. Harmon said he presented gifts from the Aviation Hall of Fame in Dayton, Ohio, to members of the Soviet Sport Flying Club.

Harmon began his five-day journey to Helsinki from Dayton. He left from the United States without a visa after having submitted the appropriate paper work early in May. Before leaving he made arrangements to have his visa sent by Federal Express to Helsinki. Harmon said his wife called his west coast travel agent and was assured that the visa would arrive well before the time it would be needed. When Harmon arrived in Helsinki with Stephen Honeybill, WMHT producer and cameraman, on June 16, the visa was not waiting.

On Monday, June 17, Harmon said, he checked again and was guaranteed that the visa would arrive on Tuesday's 1:30 p.m.

flight. Harmon said he began his flight from Helsinki to Moscow on Tuesday while Honeybill waited for the visa with plans to bring it to Harmon in Moscow on a commercial flight. The visa did not arrive.

"I knew I was taking a chance," said Harmon. "I flew into Moscow without a visa, which is illegal." He was detained throughout the duration of his stay in the Soviet Union.

But the pilot said he did not blame the Soviet officials. "I have

IRS won't give up

Baseball games "ain't over 'til they're over," and that bit of folklore also apparently applies to misunderstandings with the Internal Revenue Service, as the Glenmont Elementary School's Parent-Teacher Association can testify.

Last fall the volunteer group found itself embroiled in a dispute with the IRS, which thought the PTA's treasury should ante up some $3,800 in fines for failing to file an informational 990 return. The PTA didn't owe any tax, just fines for lack of a report. The fines were accumulating at the rate of $10 a day.

PTA officers set to work to straighten out the problem, but 10 months later they're not sure how well they're doing. They've been "communicating" with two different computers in two different places, a PTA member who wished to remain anonymous reported, and while one computer sent a letter saying everything's okay, the other IRS center phoned to tell the group to pay up.

"We were ordered to pay within 10 days or they would freeze our assets," the PTA member reported. And so she told them: "We have one stapler and a button. If you want them, come and get them."

At another stage in the process, the group got a letter from the IRS advising them not to reply because "the computer is down for 90 days." Now, two months have passed without any word, but that doesn't necessarily mean it's over.

Planners KO liquor store

□ Drainage

By Theresa Bobear

Accepting town planning consultant Edward Kleinke's finding that there is not enough site area to provide proper access and maneuvering space, the Bethlehem Planning Board last week voted unanimously to deny site plan approval for a proposed liquor store at 313 Delaware Ave., property under contract to Bill Turner.

"What's being proposed is too much in terms of the size of the site," said Kleinke, noting that vehicles entering and leaving the adjacent gas pump area operated by Stewarts would conflict with the proposed drive. Stewarts has an easement to a front portion of the Turner parcel.

With a long list of conditions, the planners granted final approval of Peter and Judith Burnetter's subdivision of 18.4-acre land, south of Russell Rd. in North Bethlehem. As part of the conditions of approval, the property owners will be required to give the town the option of accepting any proposed streets, install sewers for both lots, construct a portion of The Concourse, build a drainage culvert under their driveway and provide easements for drainage.

In other business, the board:

- Granted conditional final approval of the Dime Savings Bank's 31-lot Delwood Acres subdivision of 28 acres in an AB-Residential zone off Rockefeller Rd. Duplexes are proposed for the parcel, which was recently rezoned by the Bethlehem Town Board.

- Granted conditional final approval of the 3-lot Murray Woods subdivision of AA-zoned land on Murray Ave.

- Granted site plan approval to Drs. Joseph Hart and Harold Wilson for a two-story wood frame building to house dental offices in a CC-Commercial zone at Grove St. and Kenwood Ave., Slingerlands.

- Tabled a request to rezone the lands of Florence Nelson, located across from a Planned Commercial District on Rt. 9W, from B-Residential to CC-Commercial. "Are you going to zone Rt. 9W commercial from the City of Albany all the way to Ravena?" asked town planning consultant Alvah Worth. "We really should not be led by a proposed use...The issue is do you want that area zoned commercial or not?" asked board member John LaForte. "You have to be fully prepared to accept any legal use."

- Received a request for the rezoning of CC-Commercial land off Rt. 9W, Selkirk, for the proposed expansion of the Breckenridge Mobile Home Park. LaForte noted that zoning the area Planned Residence District would allow the town to control development in the area.

- Held a public hearing to consider an application from A.T. Zautner and Son Inc. for the proposed 30-lot Glen Manor subdivision to be located in an A-zoned area south of Feura Bush Rd. The subdivision would include a proposed Manor Dr., connecting Feura Bush Rd. and Hanover Dr. Penn Lane would be extended to Manor Drive. No one spoke for or against the proposed construction of two duplexes and 28 single-family houses.

- Scheduled a public hearing for 7:30 p.m. on July 16 to consider the proposed one-lot Kenholm Section 8 subdivision, located on Gladwish Rd. and owned by Maijo Fasulo. The lot was left out of the two adjacent subdivisions.

- Scheduled a public hearing for 7:45 p.m. on July 16 to consider Edward R. Feinberg's application for the proposed one-lot Avon Hollows subdivision of lands off Oldox Rd.

The Colonial spirit

Heavy rains did not dampen the spirits of the 150 people who attended the July 6 Colonial Acres Independence Day barbecue, sponsored by the Colonial Acres Homeowners Association.

A truck from the Elsmere Fire Department led a parade through the Glenmont community, now 22 years old. Children dressed in patriotic costumes rode a decorated float and played their favorite songs on kazoos.

"We've seen a real rebirth of community spirit in Colonial Acres this year," said association president Alex Filipp. "We are all very pleased."

parcel, Burns explained that at some point it is anticipated there will be a need for additional parking for Delaware Plaza.

A variance would be required for the parking use, which has not been formally proposed.

However, Norris MacFarland, one of the plaza's owners, has twice met with residents of Plymouth Ave. to discuss the development of the land near their property. The most recent meeting was this spring, at which the bank proposal was also discussed.

4 charged with DWI

Four area motorists face misdemeanor charges of driving while intoxicated as a result of action this week by county sheriff's department deputies in Voorheesville. A spokesman for the department said a 35-year-old Voorheesville man was charged after he was stopped shortly after 2 a.m. last Monday on Rt. 85A in New Scotland, and an Albany man, 19, who was nabbed last Tuesday on Rt. 443, faces speeding as well as DWI charges.

A 25-year-old Ravena man also was charged with speeding and DWI after he was stopped early last Wednesday on Rt. 85A in New Scotland, the spokesman reported, and a Delmar man, 34, faces similar charges after being pulled over in the early hours Saturday on Rt. 443 in New Scotland.

All are to appear in New Scotland Town Court.

In Selkirk The Spotlight is sold at Convenient Food Mart, Bumby's Deli, Ed's Variety and Three Farms Dairy

In a letter June 28 letter to MacFarland, the residents said they were willing to "entertain and consider" the parking lot proposal. While reserving any final stand on the matter until after review of detailed plans, the residents outlined minimum conditions for an acceptable proposal.

Among other considerations, Plymouth Ave. residents requested a 40-foot greenway with evergreen plantings, an 8-foot stockade fence and the installation of storm sewers with drainage away from Plymouth Avenue properties. Residents asked the property owners to direct all lighting away from Plymouth Avenue and not allow delivery trucks and refuse trucks to use the lot.

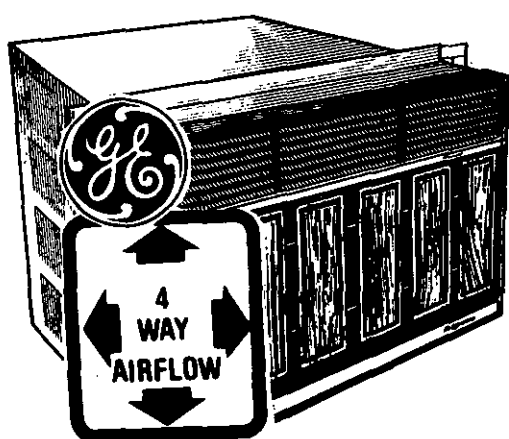

Residents also requested that a single ingress and egress for the lot be located 45 feet from the southeast corner of the Citibank parcel.

Subscription price change

On July 19, subscriptions to the Spotlight will be adjusted to cover increases in cost of wages and printing. The new rates in Albany County will be $15 for one year, $21 for two years, elsewhere $17.50 for one year, $23.50 for two years. Subscriptions renewed before July 19 will be accepted at the old rate and expiration dates will be extended one or two years. The newsstand price is unchanged.

The underdogs keep trying

By Tom McPheeters

County Republicans appear to have scored a major victory in moving the proposed civic center issue back to the Albany County legislature. The question is, will the new responsibility born by the lawmakers make it a better, more fiscally sound project? And will other battles, such as the fight over who pays for road repairs, keep partisanship to the fore?

In Bethlehem, the Democrats have a candidate with a realistic chance of cracking the nearly two-century Republican lock on town offices. The question many voters will have to answer is whether any monopoly, even one as benign as the GOP dynasty at Bethlehem Town Hall, is a good thing.

The two-party system is alive in Albany County and in Bethlehem. Whether it's well — or effective — is another question.

First, this news. Bethlehem Democrats have settled on a tentative slate for the fall election. A young South Bethlehem resident with a well-known name, Rick Piccarazzi, will run for supervisor, and two state workers, David Sawyer of Elsmere and Richard White of Delmar, will run for town board.

Party Chairman William Burkhard said Monday it is still unclear whether the Democrats will field candidates for the other races, although he would like to find a candidate for town clerk. As always, the question is whether to concentrate as much resources as possible or provide the voters with alternatives all across the board.

"We should have things set by the end of the month," said Burkhard.

If the decision is to concentrate on one race, there is no doubt where it will be — Sawyer is the most credible candidate the Democrats have fielded in many years, both because he has actually won an election (he was a "dissident" alderman in Albany in the 1970's) and because he has a professional's knowledge of politics, knows what it takes to win and is willing to work.

Two years ago Sawyer came within 126 votes of taking a county legislature seat from the Republicans. This year he has already secured a Conservative endorsement usually reserved for Republicans — "he asked for it," says Tony Rudmann, chairman of the Albany County Conservative Club, which is recognized as the "orthodox" wing of the state Conservative Party. And Sawyer has already been out circulating his petitions, although he says he won't start formal campaigning until around the first of August.

This is by no means a piece of cake. Current party registration stands at 3,610 Democrats to 7,938 Republicans in Bethlehem, with the independent "blank" voters still the second largest party, 4,455 strong. Sawyer had only to reach a third of the town's voters last year and will now have to spread his energies more thinly.

Furthermore, Sawyer is running against the strength of the Republican ticket, rather than what conventional wisdom would consider its weak link, new supervisor Robert Hendrick. The two GOP town board candidates are John Geurtze of Selkirk, seeking his third four-year term, and Sue Ann Ritchko, who has quickly established herself as an independent and highly visible board member since she was appointed in February. Mrs. Ritchko isn't a newcomer to politics, having served a term in the county legislature, and she isn't an unknown, having been a Price Chopper spokesman for many years.

Piccarazzi, whose father is the South Bethlehem post master, has been attending town board meetings recently but has never run for elective office. White is a recent arrival in Delmar who volunteered to work for the Democrats, said Burkhard. Both, he said, are willing to work hard.

Burkhard, who took over a disheveled Democratic Committee last year, said he has filled all but four or five openings on the committee and is confident his troops are "in pretty good shape" for the fall campaign.

It is ironic that the Bethlehem Republicans have been among the most vociferous opponents of the tight control the Albany Democrats maintain over county government. The Republicans scored a major victory in moving the civic center back into the county legislature, where some of the issues that County Executive James Coyne appeared to be glossing over may get more serious treatment. At virtually the same time, the Republicans have again been outmaneuvered on the continuing battle over how much the county should subsidize the City of Albany.

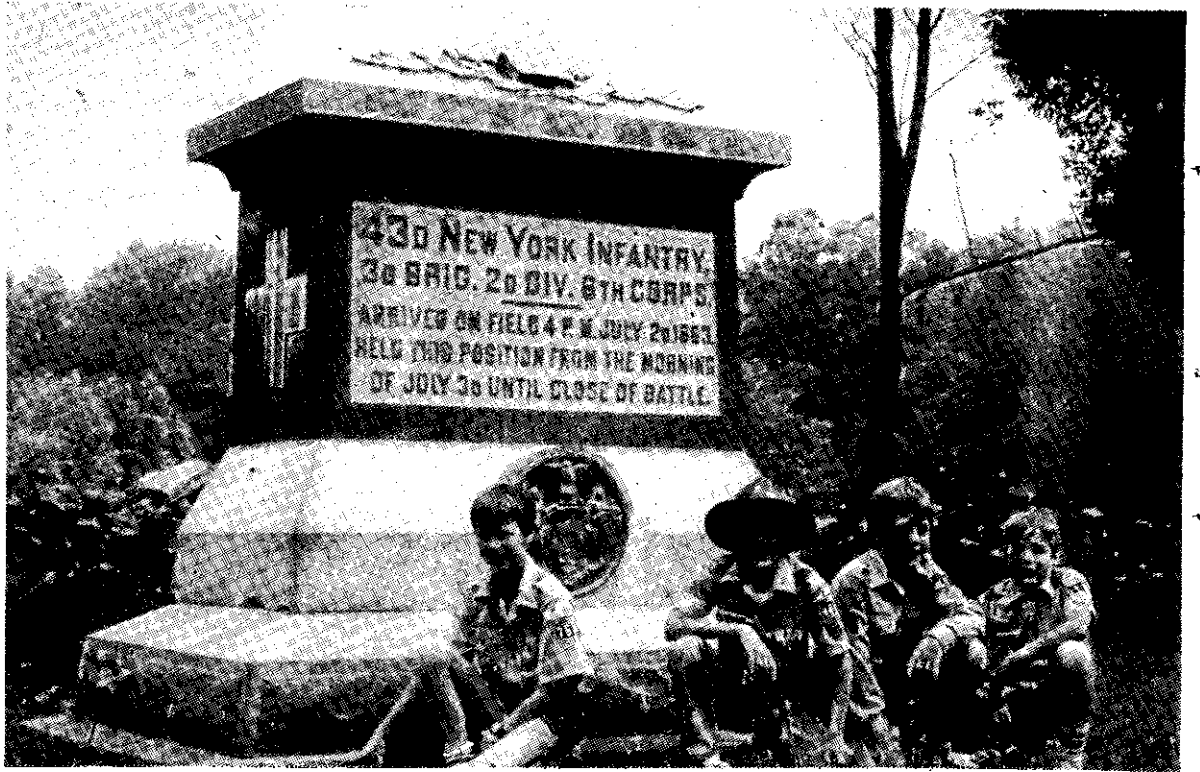

Monday night, the Democrats in the legislature pushed through a plan to take over roads in Green Island that had been the subject of a GOP lawsuit challenging the legality of using county funds to repair local streets. Local Republican leaders, who pushed the suit, don't think they can fight the maneuver.

"I felt strongly about it," admits Bethlehem GOP Chairman Bernard Kaplowitz, "because I felt it was a beginning step to repair and maintain other local roads at county expense... It's a suburban versus city issue, rather than a party issue."

It's also an indication of how much one vote means. When Guelderland Republican Anne Rose resigned her legislature seat to go on the Guelderland Town Board, she left the county Republicans one seat short of the "magical 14" — the number of votes needed to have an impact on county bonding issues. Now the party has to try and win that seat back in a special election this November.

Until then, the county Republicans are facing a familiar problem, according to Elsmere's Gordon Morris, the minority leader: "Only when the minority party becomes a party can they have impact. As long as the party is divided we can't do it."

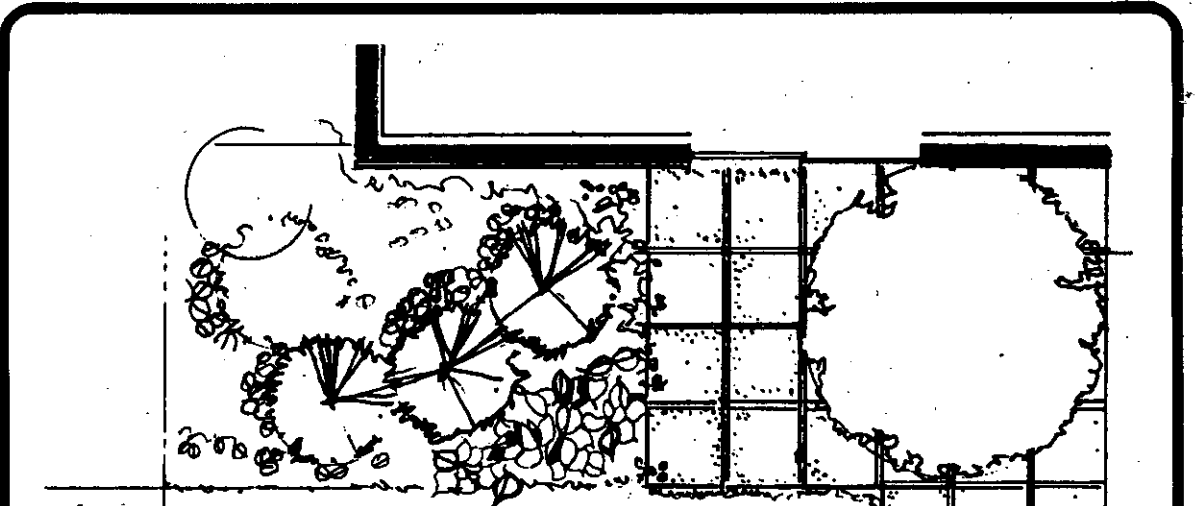

Party lines may be less important on the civic center issue, however. There appears to be little question that it will be approved, with considerable Republican support. But, says Morris, there is now an opportunity to ask tough questions and hold each legislator accountable. The toughest question, he said, is the proposed center's size — is 15,000 seats too much?

BC building review next

By Caroline Terenzini

Another Bethlehem Central School District Citizen committee is about to be named. The new committee, due to be formally appointed at a special board of education meeting tonight (Wednesday), is being put together to review recommendations from an Albany architectural firm concerning the district's buildings.

In January the firm of Mendel, Mesick, Cohen, Waite and Hall presented a detailed report recommending a total of $4.3 million in repairs and improvements to Bethlehem Central buildings. The amount was whittled down to about $3.8 million by the school board, but a final total waits the committee's review and board decisions based on the panel's recommendations.

The fiscal 1984-85 budget contained $12,000 to pay for the architects' study.

Apart from decisions concerning what building projects to undertake, there is the question of how to pay for the work. At the board's annual organizational meeting last Tuesday comments by new board member Charles Reeves suggested he leaned toward financing building projects through the district's annual operating budgets, to avoid interest costs. However, when the architects' report was submitted, the board discussed a possible bond issue. Then, a 20-year, $3.8 million debt was calculated to cost taxpayers about $1.89 per $1,000 assessed in the first year, declining about 17 cents a thousand each year thereafter.

If the seven-member board opts for bonding, the decision will be up to district voters. The district last went into debt for capital projects a decade ago.

In other business last Tuesday, a new voice was heard in the controversy over the boundary line between the Bethlehem and Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk school districts. Russell Peterson of Dorchester St. in Elm Estates in Selkirk, where the boundary is in question, told the board that "not everyone is interested in leaving the island of homes in the RCS district." He and his wife said their loyalties lie with RCS and "we would like to stay where we are."

An "island" of RCS taxpayers in Elm Estates is surrounded by properties in the Bethlehem district, and some residents there are urging that the boundary be redrawn so as to eliminate the "island." Board member Bernard Harvith emphasized that whatever boundary settlement is proposed by the attorneys for both districts "ought to be publicly announced and the people affected ought to be able to come to a board meeting and have their say."

After an hour's discussion the board split 4-3 in granting School's Out Inc. free use of a room in one elementary school in the coming year for a pilot before-school child care program. Harvith, Reeves and Robert Ruslander were in the minority, while Barbara Coon, Velma Cousins, Sheila Fuller and Marjory O'Brien provided the affirmative votes. When Harvith asked why parents using the service "couldn't be asked to pay a tad more" to cover payment to the district, Nancy Ray, representing School's Out, insisted that a higher cost might sink the service.

"People who need before-school care also need after-school care," she declared. "I don't know if many of you know what a lot of women earn in this community, but $200 a month is a lot."

When the board reached agenda items authorizing the hiring of a bus driver and a custodial worker to replace workers who have left, the vote was 6-0 with Reeves abstaining. "I want to get us out of the mindset that every time somebody leaves we replace them," Reeves said. He tied the hiring to the possibility that the district "may have to tuck in our belt" to provide $600,000 or $700,000 a year if a decision is made to "internally fund" a capital improvement program. Harvith and Fuller replied that staffing decisions are made during budget development in the spring.

Also last Tuesday the seven-member board:

- Re-elected Fuller president and Ruslander vice president.

In addition to offering a variety of items, including flowers and fresh produce, the St. Thomas Farmers' Market offers an opportunity to visit with friendly people in the community. The market is open every Thursday through October from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Lorraine Smith

Dr. Millard Harmon and WMHT Producer Stephen Honeybill on the ramp at Reykjavik with Ten Romeo, which was airborne for 62.5 hours. Harmon used 1,036 gallons of fuel during the 11,278-mile friendship flight.

□ Harmon's flight to Russia

found the Soviets very honorable in the arrangements set up for the flight," said Harmon.

In addition to his visa problem, Harmon had a few other minor technical difficulties during his trip. Harmon said he lost his left tank fuel transmitter (fuel gauge), but he had a backup.

His second problem was an oil leak that he almost completely corrected by replacing the gasket on the valve lifter cover. The residual leak he compensated for by using an additional four quarts of oil.

On the flight out of Moscow Harmon lost his manifold pressure gauge. "I just flew everything full bore. Then I knew it was alright," said Harmon, explaining that he was going for a record anyway.

Finally, Harmon discovered a circuit breaker popping. He said he checked all the wires of the circuit breaker until he isolated the problem. According to Harmon, that problem was solved by pulling the fuel transmitter to the left tank off line.

But on a happier note, Harmon reported that the Loran C navigational unit remained operational 1,000 miles past its limits as estimated by the manufacturer.

In spite of the technical obstacles, Harmon obviously enjoyed his flight. "I found Stephen Honeybill to be a delightful companion," said Harmon. "Did we ever get some beautiful film. Apparently, there has never been a film record of a single-engine crossing the North Atlantic."

Harmon said his show of friendship to Vladislav Zakharov, the Soviet navigator who accompanied him from Helsinki to Moscow, was also reciprocated. "He was super. He spoke English well. He handled the equipment beautifully," said Harmon.

Harmon said Zakharov exclaimed, "Millard, my wife fixed a party," as he took out sandwiches, cookies and coffee during the flight out of Moscow. "We had a party at 6,000 feet. We had a delightful time," said Harmon.

The Soviet navigator gave Harmon a brooch for his wife, Ruth.

Harmon presented Zakharov with a bottle of Walter Taylor's New York Champagne and a Beechcraft pin.

"I've gotta take my wife over there," said Harmon when asked whether or not he plans another trip.

Harmon said he was not sure whether or not people-to-people contact would help communications between the United States and the Soviet Union. "But in the final analysis what is an individual to do, twiddle your thumbs or make one small increment toward detente?" Harmon asked.

Higher drinking age has voters' support

Assemblyman C.D. "Larry" Lane's latest survey of district voters indicates strong support of the 21 drinking age, continued sentiment against mandatory seat belts and not much support for seat belts on school buses.

Although 69 percent were reported in favor of raising the drinking age from 19 to 21 — a measure passed by the Legislature this session and signed into law by Gov. Cuomo — 57 percent said they feel that parents' fiscal and legal liabilities should end at age 18.

The survey, according to a spokesman for Lane, was sent out to about 39,500 households in the three-county 102nd Assembly District, which includes the towns of Bethlehem and Coeymans in Albany County. About 3,000 persons responded, and from those responses Lane's office took a sample of 300 — 100 from each county — on which to base its tabulation, the spokesman said. Lane's office made no claim that the survey was a scientific sample with a measurable margin of error. The results, Lane said in a press release, "always are helpful to me in casting my vote on important state issues."

Other issues covered by the survey included senior citizen services, jobs, crime and punishment and child safety.

Lane cited the 69 percent response in favor of the 21 drinking age as a reason for his positive vote on the measure. He reported that 59 percent said they would like the mandatory seat belt law repealed, but that 73 percent reported they are now using seat belts, as opposed to 33 percent before the law. Lane also reported support (57 percent) for the abolition of "happy hours" and drink discount specials in bars and for sobriety road blocks to check for drunken drivers (61 percent).

The question of seat belts on school buses has been a hot issue for local school boards, but Lane's survey indicates only 34 percent in favor of a state-wide requirement.

Asked about senior citizen services, respondents ranked home health care by far the most important, followed by energy assistance, meals, health screening and transportation.

The death penalty for certain murders drew an 86 percent favorable response, and 88 percent indicated support for "more definite fixed sentences for convicted criminals."

Also receiving strong support was legislation requiring school personnel to call parents or guardians when a child fails to show up for school,

Park work okayed

During a brief meeting last week, the New Scotland Town Board bids for the excavating grading and installation of drainage tile on the Feura Bush park land. Although bids have not been awarded yet, Supervisor Stephen Wallace said he hopes to have the work completed by the fall. "We hope to put a ball field and a basketball (court) in this year," said Wallace.

In a letter from the state Department of Transportation the board learned that the town will continue to receive highway aid under the CHIP program.

The board awarded a bid to State Equipment for the $7,957 purchase of a power broom. After reviewing a letter from Richard Ramsey, treasurer of the New Scotland Kiwanis, the board approved the expenditure of $1,016 for a youth activities program.

Finally, the board learned of the state Department of Transportation's plans to reconstruct portions of Rts. 20, 85, 85A and 146.

Summer library programs

Summer programs move into high gear this week as the Voorheesville Public Library begins summer movies, story hours and the Summer Reading Club.

Story hours, which began this past Monday, will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Friday at 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the library. Parents should sign up for times since space is limited.

Bedtime story hours will also be held during the course of the summer. Scheduled to be held on July 23 and 25 and Aug. 13 at 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. at St. Matthew's Church, these evening treats require no sign up.

Movies also began this week and will continue throughout the summer on Tuesdays at 2 p.m. and Wednesdays at 1 p.m. Both sessions will be held at St.

Matthew's and require no sign up. Next week's movie will be "Little Women" to be shown Tuesday and Wednesday. The story of the four March daughters, the film which runs about two hours, stars Elizabeth Taylor and Margaret O'Brien. All movies are free.

All area children in grades K-6 are invited to "Take a Bite Out of Time, and travel through time with the summer reading clubs." The groups, which meet weekly — K-3 on Thursdays and 4-6 on Fridays — begin this week with crafts on July 11 and 12. Next week's sessions will include postcard art for the primary grades on July 18 and author Athena Lord, who will address the upper grades on July 19. All sessions will be held at St. Matthew's Church.

Finally, area naturalist Dean Davis will offer an exciting show on reptiles this Saturday, July 13 at 1, 2:30 and 4 p.m. at the library. All are welcome but sign up is required due to limited space.

Teachers, ideas wanted

School may be out but Jim Hladun and members of the Continuing Education Committee of the Voorheesville Central School District are searching for teachers and ideas for the 1985 fall season of the evening school program.

Teachers are presently needed for calligraphy, tile painting, golf, macrame, oil and acrylic painting, photography and microwave cooking.

Hladun also welcomes ideas for classes not already being offered. Those with ideas or questions may contact him at 765-4241.

PTSA needs help to grow

The new officers of the Voorheesville PTSA are already looking towards next year. With a very successful year behind them the PTSA has more plans for fun and fundraising activities in the upcoming year. Those interested in volunteering may call the new president, Lyn Didomenico, or vice presidents, Joanne St. Denis or Michelle Krajewski.

Money raised by the group is used for a variety of school-related activities, including a contribution to Theater Fun for Young People and sponsoring guest speakers and artists who address both parents and students.

This year the PTSA presented scholarships to Peter Fisch, Ann Marie Grassucci, Mary Beth Manning, Gerald McNamara, Ed Mitzen, Erin Neighmond, Vicki Ross, Clint Wagner and Tom Wright. PTSA awards to be used to assist with career expenses to BOCES students were given to Sue Kane and Kathy Flint.

Baseball fever

Baseball fever is everywhere — especially in the Capital District where the new Albany-Colonie Yankees are drawing more fans every week. The Albany County Emergency Task Force has come up with a good way to help those in need and provide baseball fans with an exciting evening. Presently the Task Force, in conjunction with the regional food bank, is selling tickets for the game July 11 at Heritage Park, with proceeds being donated by the Yankees to help support the

"What we're doing, we're doing for you."

Emil W. Sticht
Community Relations
Manager

If you're living on a fixed monthly income and find it difficult to pay your home phone bill by the due date, let us know. We may be able to make arrangements for you to pay by a more convenient date on a regular basis. Call your Residence Service Center, listed in the front pages of your phone book.

Last year 17 percent of your phone bill went to pay state and local taxes. We're taxed at a rate about twice as high as the average of all other major phone companies in the U.S. and more than twice as high as general businesses in the state. But legislation passed by the State Legislature and signed by the Governor this year will remove some of this tax discrimination, and we'll pass the savings on to you, by giving you a credit on your bill — and by reducing our request for increased rates.

If your phone has ever gone dead because someone accidentally cut into one of our underground cables, you appreciate why we keep reminding people: Call before you dig. The number's in the front pages of the phone book, and we'll appreciate your call. It gives us a chance to mark out for you any underground cable in the vicinity — and protect your telephone service and your neighbors'. Our network includes 95.5 million miles of wire in our telephone cables — and 62% of it is below ground.

These days there's more than your New York Telephone bill in your New York Telephone bill. We provide a variety of billing services for some long distance companies, so their bill may be included in, and added on to, the one you get from us. The companies pay us for the service, and that helps pay for your basic phone service.

How many phones are there in New York? We're not the right ones to ask anymore because we don't provide phones anymore, and we don't repair them — with a few exceptions, such as special equipment for the disabled and coin phones. But we do provide — and we do repair free of charge — the line that connects your home or business to the local telephone switching center. By the end of 1984, our customers had more than 8.2 million lines. Add about 870,000 served by 40 other telephone companies, and that makes more than 9 million telephone lines in New York State, each with a telephone company central office at one end, and a customer with one or more phones or communicating devices at the other.

If you have a phone in your home — and in New York the chances are better than 9 out of 10 that you do — you have a unique telephone address. It's not duplicated by anyone in the nation. It's 19 digits long. The first three make up your area code. It says what part of the country you're in. The next three digits show which local central office switches your calls. It's your "central office designation", but some people call it an "exchange number". The last four make up your "line number". It identifies the line that connects us to you.

When someone dials your telephone address — your 10-digit phone number — switching machines "read" those digits to route the call (1) to the right section of the U.S., (2) to your central office and then (3) out along your own line to your home or business.

Your phone line allows you to make — and receive — local and long distance calls. It's your link to the network, and includes a pair of wires reserved for your use only. On the average, it costs us about $21 a month to provide that connection between your place and ours, whether or not you make any calls. It costs that much just to have it there and in working order so you can use it when you need it. (If you're several miles from our central office, it may cost several times more than the average).

The average home customer pays for less than half the cost of that line. We get the rest mainly by charging extra for long distance services. New "access charges" will help pay for more of the cost of those lines. They went into effect last year for businesses with more than one line and this June will start for businesses with one line and for most home customers. (Customers receiving certain types of public assistance may be eligible for a lifeline-type of service and the access charge won't increase their bills).

Grasshoppers winners

Speaking of baseball, the Kinis-sponsored Grasshopper baseball-softball league ended its season before the end of school with a fantastic turnout. The league, which included girls and boys in grades 2-8, drew more than 150 players. Begun in early June, the league ended with a series of playoff games on June 15 followed by a huge family picnic at the town park. Winners of the championship games were: Mustangs, minor league-mixed; Tis, boys major league; and the nuts, girls softball. Congratulations to all!

Soccer in season

Baseball may be over but summer soccer is here to stay. The league program held at the grade school on Tuesdays and Thursdays is off to a great start. An average of over 30 children in grades K-2 turn out each week for all building taught by coach John McKenna and his assistants Martin and Tom Corcoran. Parents are reminded that although soccer clinics normally run from 6 to 8 p.m. classes may be cancelled or shortened due to inclement weather.

Sports awards

Sports fans abound in Voorheesville as do sport players. At a recent sports awards program held at the end of the year, numerous High School athletes received recognition for their outstanding achievement during the year. Among those receiving awards were Chuck Rogers, boys basketball; Vicky Ross, girls basketball; Debbie Bausback, hockey; Lee Kraus and Ed Tzsch, football; John Paradise, football; Jon Chapman, boys soccer; Laura Martin, girls swimming; Adrienne Fitzgerald and Paige Staling, girls tennis; Betsy Zeh, girls volleyball; Brian Rubin, boys basketball; Bausback, girls basketball; Jamie Cohen, boys bowling; Cindy Murphy, girls bowling; Kevin Tyrrell, boys swimming; Jeff Genovese, wrestling; Dan Carey and Jim Volkwein, boys volleyball; Gerry McNara, baseball; Donna Menning, softball; Bertrand Rogne, boys tennis; Adam Schiene, boys track; and Rachel Martin and Heather Sanderson, girls track.

The evening, organized by athletic director Dave Cady, included an address by Jack Mosher, trainer for the Albany Patroons and for the 1984 U.S. Olympic team in Los Angeles, as well as brief observations by the district coaches to the athletes and their guests.

Double trash, double pickups

Summer brings picnics, parties and lots and lots of trash. So, as usual to help alleviate the tremendous seasonal garbage build-up, the Village of Voorheesville is providing additional garbage collections during the months of July and August.

For those residents who normally have their garbage picked up on Thursday an additional collection will be done Monday. For those whose trash is collected on Wednesday, a summer time Friday pick-up will be held.

Concert update

Good news for music lovers--the summer schedule for the Concert in the Park Series was announced this week-end. According to Marge Lennon, who is coordinating the program before the Lennon family leaves Voorheesville, the first of three concerts will be held on Sunday, July 28, and will feature the area band "Changes".

As mentioned before, the August concert will feature "Southbound" and will be held on Sunday, Aug. 18, as a benefit for the Tom Buckley Memorial Fund. Although a final concert at the end of the summer is planned, specifics are not available at this time.

Grab your partner!

A reminder to those who are interested in attending the annual country-western night sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the BPOE Elks Lodge 2611 of New Scotland; the deadline for reservations is July 15. Those who would like to secure tickets for the dinner-dance to be held on Saturday, July 20, should contact either Diane Koch at 765-2030 or Rita Gavin at 439-2229.

The event begins at 6:30 p.m. and features a chicken barbeque and dancing to the music of "The Country Edition". Tickets are $15 per person.

Flea market planned

The South Westerlo Congregational Christian Church will hold their antique and flea market on Saturday, Aug. 17 (rain date Aug. 24), from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the field next to the Balsam Shade Resort, Rt. 32, Greenville. For information and table reservations call 966-8126 or 462-4332.

John P. McKenna

McKenna reelected

During their Monday night organizational meeting, the Voorheesville Board of Education unanimously reelected John McKenna to serve as president of the board for the 1985-86 school year.

Board member Peter Ten Eyck was unanimously elected to serve as board clerk for the new year. Board member Joseph Fernandez, who previously held the title, nominated Ten Eyck.

The board also welcomed newly elected board member Mary Van Ryn.

Fair in Onesquethaw will begin on Friday

The Onesquethaw Volunteer Fire Company's annual fair will open at 7 p.m. on Friday, July 12 and July 19, at the Unionville Firehouse, Rt. 443, Unionville.

The event will continue through both this Saturday (July 13) and next (July 20) from 4 to 8 p.m. The fair will feature games of chance for adults. Children will enjoy playing tic-tac-toe, the birthday game, the fish bowl and other games.

Proceeds of the fair will be credited toward the purchase of two new pumps.

Graduates get A+ on ceremony

By Theresa Bobear

Members of the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Board of Education last week commended the district's recent graduates for organizing a dignified and inspirational outdoor graduation ceremony.

"I thought they did an outstanding job," said board President Anthony Williams. "I was very proud of them."

Previously, the board had voted to hold the ceremony indoors to allow for a more formal event. In return for permission to hold the ceremony outdoors, members of the senior class agreed to organize the event with assistance from members of the board.

The board unanimously voted to allow faculty advisors and building principals to make decisions regarding expenditures that are totally funded by student monies. The building principals will be required to report all decisions and any related problems in their monthly report to the board.

The motion passed after the board reviewed quotes for the senior high yearbook, a publication paid for entirely with funds raised by students. The school wished to work with a company that was not the low bidder. "This is a choice that should be made by the faculty advisor and the principal," said board member Marie Muller.

Regarding an unrelated matter, members of the board voted to allow a child, whose parents are building a house in the RCS School District, to start the school year in an RCS school.

Win DAR medals

Karin McCoy and James Volkwein are recent recipients of the American History Medal with cash awards given by the Tawasentha Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

McCoy is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Guy McCoy, Delmar. Volkwein is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Volkwein, Voorheesville.

As a matter of policy, the district allows students to start or finish the year in the district when his parent move to the district shortly after September or leave the district shortly before June.

"What's best for the child is what we're concerned about," said Superintendent Milton Chodack.

In other business, the board:

- Learned that the CSEA contract has been ratified.
- Learned that the district will continue their attempts to notify parents of absent elementary school students as soon after the start of school as possible. Parents of elementary school students are urged to call the school when their child will be absent. The new attendance check has been instituted, at the request of parents, to make sure that absent children are not missing.

Students on stage

Students of Georgetta E. Tarantelli recently presented a piano recital at the Bethlehem Public Library.

The next meeting of the RCS Board of Education will be held in the library of RCS Senior High School, Rt. 9W, on July 15, at 8 p.m.

Kids preview hospital

A program to prepare young patients for their hospital stays is underway at St. Peter's Hospital. Within a month before coming to the hospital, children ages 3 through 13 can visit St. Peter's Hospital and learn what to expect when they come back for their operations.

Groups of up to eight children, and their parents, come in Thursday afternoons, from 3 to 4:30 p.m., tour the child care center at St. Peter's (pediatric floor), meet a pediatric nurse and child life specialist, and see a slide show prepared by hospital staff. Also during this visit, children get some hands-on experience with such things as an anesthesia mask, stethoscope and operating room masks and hats so that they will be familiar to them. Children are encouraged to ask questions, and parents are given an opportunity to meet with pediatric nurses.

Also for its pediatric patients, St. Peter's Hospital offers free children's programs on its in-house channel, which is available to every patient.

The "Going to the Hospital" program for children is available by appointment through Colleen Little, unit clerk, at 454-1387.

Williams reelected

At their annual organizational meeting last week, the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Board of Education reelected board members Anthony Williams and Susan Gottesman to serve as president and vice president of the board.

Other appointments included Charles Emery, district clerk; Dorothy Caracciolo, district treasurer; Rose Stalker, district tax collector; Simeo Gallo, legal counsel; Patricia Pappert, attendance officer; Frank Stolz, insurance advisor; Ira D. LeFevre, school physician; Ravena News Herald, official publication; Urbach, Kahn and Werlin, district auditing firm, and Key Bank, N.A., Ravena Branch, designate bank for deposit of district funds.

RCS pact ratified

The RCS Board of Education last week learned that the district's CSEA contract has been ratified by its members. The contract covers the district's non-teaching employees, including operations and maintenance, transportation and office personnel. The contract calls for a 7 percent increase including salaries and benefits according to district officials.

Take that!

A Ravena man, apparently angered when an Albany driver backed into his car Sunday afternoon, kicked a dent in the other car, according to Bethlehem police reports. No charges were filed in the incident, which occurred in a parking lot near the Four Corners in Delmar, the report noted.

One of the best ways New York can attract new business is to promise them plenty of reliable energy. Nine Mile Two will help keep that promise.

For years, we have seen a decline in our business population as states in the south and west have attracted the bulk of new business development.

But that tide is turning.

Industries are once again looking to New York State because of our quality of life, our natural resources and our skilled people.

But industry needs more than that from us—they need to know that we'll always have the abundant supply of electric energy they need. Today, reliable and economical supplies of electricity are an important factor in businesses' decisions to expand or relocate. And the trend toward increased electric consumption by industry will make this even more important in years to come.

Nine Mile Two and its 1,080,000 kilowatts of nuclear-generated electricity can help fuel the economic recovery of New York State by providing the plentiful, reliable supplies of energy that are essential to industry and the creation of jobs.

Completing Nine Mile Two will mean not only more power for the machines and tools of industry, but more power for every New Yorker.

Filipone seeks study

RCS school board member Frank Filippone says he, in detailed analysis of income, assessments and expenditures costs so much more to educate a child than it did 10 years ago.

In a statement presented to the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Board of Education last week, Filippone, a former superintendent of the RCS district who was elected to a new term on the board this spring, asked the board to "authorize the administration to prepare a detailed analyses of income, assessments and expenditures over the past decade" as a first step in preparing the 1986-87 budget.

In his statement, Filippone pointed out that "despite a loss of almost 600 students since 1975, our school budget has more than doubled. I recognize the past 10 years were mostly years of inflation. I recognize also that new programs for the handicapped mandated by the state imposed new financial burdens that did not exist in 1975.

"Having accounted for these two factors, however, it still remains unclear to me why the overall budget has doubled, when a substantial drop in pupil enrollment also occurred, and continues to occur.

"I would like to make clear that I am not trying to hurl accusations or point a finger of blame. I am trying to find answers. I want to find out the reasons for this more than 100 percent increase. We owe this to all the RCS citizens who have supported us through the years."

As requested by Filippone, "The analysis would include all facets of the budget and should cover a year-by-year, grade-level-by-grade-level, building-by-building, department-by-department comparison of increases, decreases and changes. It should also include an analysis of our end products, that is, number of Regents Scholarships, SAT scores, percentage of enrollment in all types of secondary education and dropout rate. I am especially interested in information about dropouts. While I feel the new Regents Action Plan will, in general, strengthen our academic program, the new plan, unless properly handled, may accelerate the dropout rate."

In conclusion Filippone said, "If it is accomplished, we all will have an answer to those who honestly ask — and continue to ask — 'how come?'"

Grange fair Saturday

Rain or shine, this Saturday, July 13, the Bethlehem Grange will have its annual craft fair and flea market. The event is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 6 p.m. and will be held at the grange hall on Rt. 396 in Beckers Corners, Selkirk. A variety of handmade crafts, collectibles and other items will be featured. Also included will be a baked goods booth run by the grange, with a wide assortment of home-made items to choose from.

Even those not in the market for bargains or gifts might want to attend just to enjoy the luncheon the men of the Bethlehem Grange will be serving throughout the day. Light refreshments also will be for sale.

There will be no admission fee, and the public is invited.

Senior citizens heading north

The next major outing for the South Bethlehem-Selkirk Senior Citizens will take them to the mountains. On Aug. 3, the group will head for the Saranac Lake Region, where they will dine at the Saranac Lake Hotel and Restaurant run by Paul Smith College. Then the group will go to St. Regis Lake and the state-owned camp Top Ridge for a two-hour tour of the many buildings.

The group, traveling by bus, will leave from the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem parking lot at 8 a.m. They are expected to return about 7 p.m. The cost of the trip, including a roast chicken dinner and transportation, is $30. Reservations may be made by contacting Claire Henry or Herb Strumpf, 767-3052.

Teens have retreat

Nine teens from the South

Bethlehem United Methodist Church, accompanied by youth advisors Lorre and Bob Vaber and the Rev. Ken Miller, participated in a weekend retreat at Sky Farm. "We are the Family" was the retreat, held at the Methodist Church Camp in Warrensburg, N.Y. The theme was chosen to emphasize the importance of sharing responsibilities and problems — the good and the bad — with others.

The group enjoyed many activities during the weekend, including creative games, competitive sports, meal preparing and scavenger hunts. A large portion of their time was devoted to making a film. Individual segments were filmed and the footage then was spliced together to make the movie. It was shown one evening to the music of "We Are the World."

The teens attending the retreat were Jim Osborn, Wayne Osborn, Stefanie Wheeler, Adam Wheeler, Brian Perry, Dena Perry, Brian Dragon, Annetta O'Conner and Terri Baker.

In Delmar The Spotlight is sold at Handy Andy, Delmar Card Shop, Tri-Village Drug and Stewart's.

Teachers get arts education

Kindergarten through 12th grade teachers from 36 area schools will explore the arts through regional performances and exhibits as part of the third annual training program in aesthetic education presented by the Capital Region Center (CRC) Institute for Arts in Education at the State University at Albany's Performing Arts Center July 15 to 26. Among events will be performances of the Hubbard Street Dance Company at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Shakespeare and Company, and the Lake George Opera Festival.

Teachers from the Albany city schools and Bethlehem Central School District will be among those participating in the upcoming summer and school year programs.

The CRC institute is modeled after the Lincoln Center Institute in New York City, with primary objective of making the arts more accessible to individual teachers and their students. During the two-week summer training program, the institute's staff of professional artists meets with teachers in workshops and discussion groups. Participants also discuss the philosophy of aesthetics, and then view performances and exhibitions to "see" what they have studied. Then, during the school years, teachers select from the institute's offerings of performances and exhibitions and work with the professional artists in the classroom to incorporate these arts experiences into their school's curriculum.

The repertoire this year includes workshops and performances by Western Wind vocal ensemble, the Bucket Dance Company, Kuperberg and Morris Movement Theatre, and Shakespeare and Company; "Alice in Wonderland," adapted and produced by Auburn Civic Theatre; exhibits presented by the State Museum, Storm King Center, and the State University Art Gallery, and architectural tours.

The CRC institute is coordinated through the College of Humanities and Fine Arts at the State University at Albany and receives funding from the state and the national endowment for the arts.

Need for milk acute

Milk For Life, Inc., a volunteer non-profit organization that distributes human milk to sick and allergic infants, is in desperate need of more donated mother's milk to keep alive five infants who are now actively feeding.

Five month old Jessica Amell of Rotterdam has gained two pounds since she started on the program five weeks ago. She takes approximately 40 ounces of milk at day.

In order to provide this life-saving service to Jessica and the four other infants, a total of some two gallons of human milk is needed per day.

Although there is a small handling charge asked for this milk of $1 an ounce, no child goes without the milk for non-payment of this service due to financial difficulties. Any one wishing to aid the parents by donating money or mother's milk, please contact Ann Mulford, 399-2601, or Nancy Boice, 465-5667.

Milk for Life, Inc. is also an educational program for any young nursing mother or expectant mother.

Ben French contributes his time and energy to the efforts of the Bethlehem Archeology Group.

Help wanted: dig up past

The Bethlehem Archeology Group is seeking volunteers to assist in archeological work at several Bethlehem town sites.

The beginning archeologist would be working with a number of local, but experienced archeologists such as Ben French, a 32 year resident of Elsmere, who is a trustee and assistant field director of the Bethlehem Archeology Group. The group is doing research for a town bicentennial history volume proposed for 1993, and French can offer information on all three sites currently under study.

Work on the Goes Farm sites indicates Indian occupation going back to about 3200 B.C. The goal of the Lyon Site is to document the lifestyle of the established printer James B. Lyon, circa early 1900's. Work at the Winne Site aims to recreate the story behind a thriving 19th Century dock industry in Bethlehem.

The group works Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturday mornings. No advance training is needed. Instruction is given on the job, and anyone willing to help is invited. For more information call 439-4258.

Tree festival planned

The Women's Council of the Albany Institute of History and Art has announced its 1985 "Festival of Trees" will be held at the Institute Nov. 26 through Dec. 8. Last year's exhibit attracted over 15,000 visitors to view the 110 individually decorated trees.

Mrs. William Minnock, Delmar, president of the Women's Council, has announced this year's committee including Mrs. Ralph Pape, Delmar, chairman;

Mrs. Thomas Moreen, Glenmont and Mrs. James Lenden, Delmar, past chairmen, advisers.

Area businesses, agencies and individuals are invited to sponsor a tree either purchased through the Festival Committee or supplied by the sponsor. An exhibition fee will be charged. Trees may be decorated by the sponsor, or (for an additional fee) by a decorator. Trees may be donated to the Institute to be sold for the benefit of the museum, donated to any organization or returned for the sponsor's own use.

For more information, leave a message at the Institute, 463-4478, for Mrs. Pape or Mrs. Arnold Cogswell.

Quilters have project

The program committee of QUILT (Quilters United In Learning Together) recently announced its plans to make an Ohio Star patterned quilt to be raffled off at a December meeting.

Members have volunteered to make one block each before Aug. 1, when a group will gather for its assembly.

At the first meeting of the 1985-86 season on Sept. 13, the quilt layers will be assembled as an instructional effort. Volunteers will gather to quilt together, sharing friendship and common interest, in the manner of earlier American women.

QUILT is seeking a location where the quilt may be set up during September and October.

Any members who would like to participate in the project may call Mary Anne Schrank, 489-4911, or Marge Joynt, 482-8062.

Anyone interested in joining QUILT may do so at the Sept. 13 meeting, 10 a.m., at the First United Methodist Church, Delmar.

Recital at library

Piano students of Liza Tougher recently gave a recital at the Bethlehem Public Library.

Participants include Andy Hallenbeck, Michael Futia, Valerie Vanderpoel, Renee Lewis, Adrian Denkers, Leigh Alexander, Michael Winters, Kimberly Sajan, Chrissy Nelson, Katie Nelson and Amy Winters.

Scholarships to 4

The Panhellenic Association recently awarded four scholarships to graduating seniors, including Garth Wright of Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk High School. Other award winners were Kristina Sherwood of South Colonie High School, Michelle Caldwell of Watervliet High School and Edward Keegan of Albany High School.

Wright was valedictorian at RCS, a member of the National Honor Society, Student Council, and participated in the Albany County government intern program. He will enter the Industrial Engineering School at R.P.I. this fall.

Since 1963, the Panhellenic Association has awarded 46 scholarships to graduating seniors from various area schools. Mrs. John Grosvenor, Slingerlands, served as co-chair for the Scholarship Committee, which included Mrs. George Parker, Mrs. John Rodgers and Mrs. Ronald Stout, all of Delmar.

Officers recently installed for the coming year include Mrs. Kenneth Miller, Glenmont, president; Mrs. John Grosvenor, Slingerlands, vice-president; and Mrs. Lorne Hall, Delmar, treasurer.

A dream trip across country

By Lorraine C. Smith

"Fulfilling a life-long fantasy," Bob Furman has been biking his way — all the way — "ocean to ocean," the Pacific to the Atlantic.

On May 18, Furman left his home in Goleta, Calif. and arrived in Elsmere June 25 to visit with his sister Carol Furman.

Furman's destination is Newburyport, Mass. There he will visit with some friends and make a return trip in their four wheeler — if the trunk is big enough for his gear and two wheeler.

Furman, a Saratoga native, has dreamed of this journey ever since he was 13 years old. In February, some 22 years later at age 35, he quit his job as a Santa Barbara civil engineer when he couldn't get a leave of absence for his adventure.

He planned this trip for three months, scheduling it for the longer days of summer while avoiding tornado season, researching the essential 50 pounds of equipment, buying a new 18 speed Raleigh, training on short 12 mile trips in California "hills" and plotting his course to avoid the congestion and traffic of big cities while "looking for the straight roads" that usually indicate easier riding.

Furman is a soft-spoken contemplative individual; at the Elsmere home of his sister and brother-in-law Ken Umina, he had just shaved six weeks of beard ("people react negatively to a beard") and was trying to regain some of the 15 pounds of weight he had lost so far. Even though he "grazed," it was difficult to consume enough calories to balance what he used up each day.

Two quarts of chocolate milk daily, bananas, trail mix, and his favorite complex carbohydrate for quick energy, Ruffles potato chips, augmented his convenience market fare of canned pork and beans (for breakfast) or cold canned spaghetti and meatballs. A quart of beer a day was "good for some calories and mental attitude."

Furman kept a meticulous journal logging everything from daily weather conditions and store purchases to the number of post cards he sent and comments on the places he stayed.

Bob Furman, in Elsmere, astride his bike outfitted with 50 pounds of gear he needed to travel cross country. Lorraine Smith

Staying in campgrounds and an occasional motel, Furman estimated his average daily expenses at $20. He traveled about 10 m.p.h., sometimes up to 20 m.p.h. with a good tail wind, and his record mileage for one day was 154 in New Mexico. When he's crossed deserts and the Continental Divide, what was the roughest part of the trip? The area east of the Finger Lakes in New York State!

What kept him going, through the pain, the lonely miles, the guilt of quitting his job, the three flats and 18 broken spokes? "The idea of wanting to do it...All that energy from all those years is released."

And taped in his journal, an inspirational quote from Highest States of Consciousness: "The mystic...gives up the pleasures and rewards of mundane life in search of what is for him a greater good."

RN service added

Home Aide Service of Eastern New York, Inc., a non-profit community agency, has established a new nursing division. Director is Carole Chanasyk. Mrs. Chanasyk is a registered nurse and holds a bachelor of science degree in business management from Ohio University. She has more than 13 years of experience in health institutions in the United States and Canada and most recently she was the project director of Family Health Planning in Cambridge, Ohio.

The new nursing division was established to provide private duty nursing at home, in the hospital or in a nursing home. Under the program, selected registered nurses provide individualized care to the sick and elderly in a seven-county service area. Nurses are available seven days a week, 24 hours a day, and as little as one hour of service — or as much as 24 hours — may be requested.

For information, contact Mrs. Chanasyk at 459-6853.

Health by mail

If you are interested in more seafood for dieting purposes or for health concerns, you may want to enroll in a letter series that will help you choose, prepare and store a variety of seafood. The series includes four letters on special nutritional information on seafood including new information on fat and cholesterol, selection and identification of seafood, choosing quality seafood and proper storage techniques, and unusual varieties and how to prepare them. Recipes will be included.

To receive this series, enclose a check for $2 and mail to: Co-operative Extension, Home Economics Program, RD 2, Box 131, Voorheesville 12186.

Freedom hotline

Freedom Line, the area telephone hotline to help ex-smokers keep from smoking, will expand its service April 1 to include telephone counseling by trained paraprofessionals. A cooperative effort of the American Lung Association of New York State and the Finger Lakes Region and the University of Rochester department of psychology, Freedom Line began operation in December, 1984, offering taped messages 24 hours a day. The messages, which change daily, feature information about encouragement and health as well as smoking and advice for the ex-smoker trying to abstain from cigarettes.

Beginning April 1, callers who stay on the line after the taped message concludes will be put through to an answering service, which will transmit the caller's phone number to one of six counselors. The counselor will call back in minutes and spend up to 15 minutes "providing individualized help to ex-smokers in crisis, or to those who have recently slipped and want to get back on track," said Deborah Ossip-Klein, research director for the hotline project. The Freedom Line number is 489-LUNG. Telephone counselors will be available from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week. Taped messages will continue to be available 24-hours a day.

Beware imposters

Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. reminds residents that all its employees carry a color-photo identification card, and are in uniform. If residents are approached by anyone representing themselves as a Niagara Mohawk employee, the householders should ask to see this card before allowing entrance.

Michael Cahill, Capital Regional general manager said, "Recently a group of individuals have approached senior citizens in some areas of our service territory to gain access to their homes by alleging they were from Niagara Mohawk. As part of the scheme, the imposters say the person's electric or gas meter is malfunctioning and the person is due a cash refund. At this point, the homeowner is asked to make change for large currency." Niagara Mohawk does not make change for cash refunds in the customers homes, Cahill noted.

"If anyone comes to your home and says that they are a Niagara Mohawk employee," says the manager, "ask for their identification before allowing them to enter. If they don't have it, don't let them in."

Preschool has places

The Maria College Campus School, 700 New Scotland Ave., is accepting applications for the 1985-86 school year, according to Sister Mary Fraser, director. The half-day preschool program, accepts children who will be 3 or 4 by Dec. 1 of the school year. Candidates for the full-day kindergarten classes must be 5 years old by Dec. 1.

The Campus School is part of the college's early childhood associate degree program. For information call 482-3631.

Little love for little creatures

One morning last week I was abruptly awakened by a muffled shriek made shrill as it resonated off porcelain and tile. Reluctant senses clinging to inactivity identified the voice as my wife's and the place as the bathroom, and bade me to rise to the emergent situation.

I flung open the door with an air of a knight in shining armor, a plume of Dagwood Bumstead hair sticking up from the middle of my head. Through my sleep-slitted eyes I beheld my betoweled damsel in distress, silently beseeching me with a pointed finger to look behind the drawn shower curtain.

There, menacing the soap dish, was a spider, one of those brownish, black, large and ugly ones. Carefully sliding open the curtain just enough to maneuver, but not so much as to reveal the sight of the beast to my wife's eyes again, I trained the shower spray on the soap dish wrenching the clinging arachnid from its perch to the whirlpool below, and down the drain.

Sweet fun in the summertime. The season brings out the sun, the flowers, the frisbees, and the bugs.

Family MATTERS

Norman G. Cohen

I do not fear bugs, but neither am I enamored of them. I am fascinated by their forms, their functions, their proliferation and their place in the order of the natural world, but I detest cohabiting with them.

I am fascinated by their forms, their functions, their proliferation and their place in the order of the natural world, but I detest cohabiting with them.

I have been known to spend wee hours at night silently stalking an aerobic mosquito without disturbing the repose of my family. I have embarked on fly-catching expeditions without the aid of spray or swat, just man against creature in primal hand-to-wing combat. I get a feeling of mastery in demonstrating that the hand is quicker than the fly, as though I'm earning my top spot in the chain of species each time I succeed in plucking the tiny invader out of the air or off the kitchen counter.

As pet lovers, my family has never been without a dog or cat and, as such, we have always been cognizant of fleas, whether or not we could see them. I try to mind-game myself by thinking, "If I can't see a flea, then it's not there." But then the veterinarian visits and, as he parts the hair on doggie's back, he points to little dark specks and proclaims, "Yup, she has fleas. See the flea dirt here? That's why her skin is flaky and that's how come she smells so bad."

No matter how new the flea collar or how much powder and high concentrate spray we use, or regular medicated shampoo baths or constant vacuuming of carpets and furniture, the fleas are always with us, even when we don't see them. Besides, I've been informed by reputable authorities that fleas have acquired an immunity to manmade remedies and now have a life cycle as enduring as a California redwood tree, and they don't need any food to survive. They can hide for years in a cement crack on the cellar floor, and patiently, stealthily wait for the next dog to pass by, or so I've been told.

I've also heard that our body chemicals emit some natural attraction or repulsion to mosquitoes. Of course, I'm an attractor, and it repulses me. I once had a roommate at school, and we slept with the windows open. One morning, I remember awakening with nearly 20 itchy mosquito bites. My roomy had not a one. I tried using his soap, but it didn't work.

One summer I worked on the New York State Barge Canal, and I did a bit of land surveying. My job was to plunge into a mosquito-infested area with the measuring pole and hold it steady so the fellow on the instrument could take an elevation reading. Anticipating the battle I was to face, I doused myself with liquid insect repellent. Pouring generous amounts of the fluid into my hands, I covered my exposed skin with protection as does a first-time Florida sunbather. Not only was the effort in vain, but later that evening I became painfully aware of the most humiliating bite of all, one right in the palm of my hand, presumably the area which had received the highest concentration of repellent.

I am one who appreciates the full meaning of the phrase, "Don't bug me." My nightmares are vivid remakes of such movies as "The Curse of the Fly," "Them," and "Tarantula." Part of my lot in life is to notice every spot on the wall to see if it moves.

I accept the mission with a sharp eye, a quick hand and a heavy heart, because I truly want to accept life in all its forms. If only I could repel insects the way they repel me.

Help for the others

A free informational hour for individuals whose lives are affected by an alcoholic's drinking will be sponsored by St. Peter's Alcoholism Rehabilitation Center (SPARC) Tuesday evenings as needed.

"The family or friend of an alcoholic becomes as sick or sicker than the alcoholic. The family, spouse, or friend becomes involved in a tug of war wherein the alcoholic desperately clings to the drinking while the significant other tries to stop it," says Judith LeComb, education coordinator for SPARC.

Ms. LeComb encourages spouses, parents, children, friends and relatives to attend so that they will gain information, which will assist them in helping themselves lead their own lives.

Informational hours will be held from 6 to 7 p.m. Tuesdays at St. Peter's Hospital each time a group of 15 is assembled. Reservations are being handled by Judith Graham at the SPARC outpatient clinic at 454-1307.

More homes needed

Local Fresh Air Fund Friendly Town Committees continue to look for families to host New York City children who will be coming to the area July 16 through July 30 and Aug. 2 through Aug. 16.

More information about the program is available by calling Laurie McAllister at 869-9054, Nancy Quackenbush at 355-1515, Arleen Obermayer at 477-5914, Jan VanEtten at 872-1895 or Jean Aabo at 399-9517.

At Albany Medical Center's neonatal intensive care unit, Andrea Persico establishes eye contact with a baby cradled in her arms.

Helping 'at risk' infants

Andrea Persico of Glenmont is the assistant manager of the Albany Medical Center's Preschool Program. Persico communicates with the special population of premature babies and "at risk" infants.

Persico maintains a caseload of four to six infants in the Early Intervention Program. This program serves babies from birth to two years of age who have either a diagnosed medical disorder or developmental disability. On Aug. 7, public health nurses from 15 counties in the Albany area will participate in her third workshop at the Center for the Disabled.

Another Hagy pastor

Rev. Mark Hagy has been appointed pastor of Christ United Methodist Church in Johnsonville.

Hagy is the son of Rev. Arthur Hagy, who was recently appointed senior minister of the First United Methodist Church in Delmar.

According to Persico, interest and expertise in the field of early intervention for premature babies is growing.

Anyone interested in arranging for a workshop on proper early intervention/stimulation techniques should contact the center's marketing and community relations office at 489-8336.

Wins fellowship

William M. Seymour, Delmar, recently earned his master of science degree in dairy science nutrition at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va.

Seymour was awarded a Pratt Agricultural Fellowship and presented his research findings at meetings of the American Dairy Science Association during 1984 and 1985.

Seymour will continue work toward his doctoral degree.

Focus On Faith

Rev. Canon Kenneth Cleator

According to a 1978 Gallup Poll, most Americans agree that a person does not have to go to church or synagogue to be religious. If a similar poll were taken today, probably the same agreement would be reached. There is nothing new about it.

What is different is that not only are people saying it who don't go to church, but those who do are repeating it (in the '78 poll, 88 percent).

The trend is likely to continue. In national censuses, most denominations have been reporting decreased memberships in the past 10 or 20 years. Between 1971 and 1981, my own denomination recorded a loss of about 100,000 members. Some probably joined other denominations for a variety of reasons, while a sizable number likely dropped out and stopped going to church.

Clergymen and lay persons are concerned when they hear the old excuses:

"I can worship God better in nature."

"The church is full of hypocrites. It doesn't need one more (the kind response)."

"Church is boring — same old rituals, same old cliches, same old sermons."

"The church is behind the times. It says nothing to me."

"I'm a woman and my sex never gets a break in church."

Those who make the excuses and drop out from the church forget one significant fact about it.

With all its faults, the church is one institution that looks beyond the human and stands for values that transcend it. The church is a house of prayer. It does not offer rituals and ceremonies for any other reason than to enable humanity to pray. The church is one institution that says the human stops here; this is God's house.

Jesus dramatized this truth that day in the temple in Jerusalem when he drove the stall-keepers and money changers from the court of the Gentiles. "This is a house of prayer, but you have turned it into a den of thieves," He said.

Jesus's judgment is still relevant. Many of the parallels are innocent enough, but they tend to contradict what the church stands for. No matter how human the church continues to be, it is still the place where God is present. It is one place in the nation that calls its people to acknowledge Him and His purpose and to stand against the pretensions and illusions of the world.

If all this writing sounds like a pietistic call to shut the world out of the church and to let it become a holy club, read on. True prayer will lead a congregation to know God's will at a deeper level than that of self-centered pietism. True prayer will help it to become a congregation that seeks to address the injustices and sufferings of the world with the sword of the Spirit without calculating the cost.

There is no guarantee that a return to the church's real identity and purpose will change people's minds into thinking they need to attend it to be really religious.

But it will justify why the church exists and that is what counts.

CHP snuffs out smoking

A no-smoking policy is in effect at all Community Health Plan (CHP) facilities in New York State and Bennington, Vt., according to a spokesman for CHP. Since CHP opened its first health center in Latham in January 1977, smoking has been prohibited in patient-care and waiting areas, with designated smoking areas for staff.

Now staff, as well as patients, are prohibited from smoking anywhere in the health centers. "A smoke-free environment is in keeping with our preventive health care principles as a health maintenance organization," said Warren D. Paley, CHP's executive director. CHP cited a 1982 report of the U.S. surgeon general that stated, "Cigarette smoking is the major single cause of cancer mortality in the United States. Tobacco's contribution to all cancer deaths is estimated to be 30 percent . . .

Many health departments and health facilities in other regions have opted for a smoke-free environment, but CHP appears to be the first health facility in the region to ban smoking totally.

CHP operates health centers in Latham, Delmar, Saratoga Springs, Troy, Hudson, Canaan and Housick Falls in New York and in Bennington Vt. Its enrollment exceeds 62,000.

Helping to find

The McDonald's operators of the Capital District and WRGB-TV have combined forces in an effort to locate missing children in New York State, Vermont and western Massachusetts.

In all 55 McDonald's restaurants in the Channel 6 viewing area, McDonald's is offering "Child Identification Trailers" and "Missing Children's Table Tents" to draw attention to the program and encourage viewership on WRGB-TV, which is airing segments of case studies of lost or abducted children four times each week.

The segments, aired between the 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. time period Monday through Wednesday and during the 6 p.m. evening news on Thursday, also contain tips to children to prevent incidents of abduction.

According to Dan Formica, owner/operator of McDonald's of Delmar, "By offering the McDonald's network to increase viewership of the segments on WRGB-TV, we feel we can substantially affect the status of this area's missing children situation."

Lark mart Saturday

A summer flea market on Lark Street in Albany has been organized by The Lark Street Area Merchant Group Inc. More than 100 dealers will participate in the open market from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. this Saturday.

The rain date for the event is Sunday, July 14.

Blanchard romps over Indians, 12-3

Blanchard Post rapped out 13 hits and pushed across a dozen runs en route to a 12-3 trouncing of the Helderberg Indians in American Legion baseball action Sunday.

Larry Rivers handcuffed Helderberg at the plate by striking out nine Indians in 4 - 1/3 innings. Blanchard rattled four Helderberg pitchers as Doug Pratt, Kevin Roohan, Scott Bonanno and Ray Roohan knocked in runs with two singles apiece. Scot Ceddia added a two-run double as Blanchard upped its record to 4-6 on the season.

Cycling Saturday

A variety of cycling races and demonstrations will be held in Albany on Saturday, July 13, beginning at 12:15 p.m.

The day will begin with a parade at noon, starting on Washington Ave. across from the State Education Building, and proceeding south on Eagle St., up State St. and north on South Swan St.

The action will include a citizens 10-mile open race, a 25-mile race for men sanctioned in groups three and four of the U.S. Cycling Federation of America and a women's sanctioned open 25-mile race.

Highlighting the day will be "The Mayor's Cup," a Pro-Am race at 3:30 p.m.

One week earlier, Blanchard wasn't as fortunate as Zaloga Post stymied them with a three-hit 3-0 loss. Entering the sixth, Zaloga held a narrow 1-0 edge but broke out for two runs in the bottom of the inning. After the loss, Blanchard had a six-day layoff before a contest against Colonie was rained out.

Finishing out the month of June, the local post rallied for a run in the bottom half of the seventh inning and handed Melvin Roads a 3-2 setback. Rick Bennett sparked the Blanchard offense by driving in one run with a double and a single. Jim Francis also used a double to drive in a run for Blanchard while Jim Dabney added a home run and a single as the winners sent out seven hits.

PG finishes in first

Price Greenleaf clinched the Tri-Village Major League's best record Friday night in a win over Main Care, 3-0. The victory put Price Greenleaf's season record at 12-2-1, just half a game in front of Roberts Realty at 12-3.

Price Greenleaf overpowered Main Care with a characteristic combination of solid hitting all around and reliable pitching by Scott Fish and Matt Shortell. Producing at the plate were Jim O'Brien with a double, Dean Wickham with a single and Matt Quatraro, whose fifth inning solo shot provided an insurance run.

Earlier in the week, Price Greenleaf had its first chance to clinch the title, but fell to Roberts, 7-4. Roberts emerged victorious after a sixth inning rally produced five runs. Hits came from Craig Davies and Josh Pierce, with a pair of singles each, and David Lorette and Mark Barrett with doubles. For the losers, Patrick O'Neill's homer capped off a four-run fourth inning.

In other league action, Starwood ended their season with an 8-3 victory over Farm Family. Nick Caputi and Keith Rabideau came through for the victors with clutch hits. For Farm Family, Chris Black and Jody Quinlan homered.

6 swimmers in the games

Six local swimmers have earned the right to journey to Buffalo to compete in the eighth annual Empire State Games on August 7-11.

To qualify, swimmers must place first or second in the qualifying events. Sixteen-year-old Sue Mallery will represent the Adirondack region in the 50 meter free, 100 meter backstroke and 200 meter fly while 15-year-old Kris Mallery will compete in the 100 and 200 meter fly and the 200 and 400 meter free.

Justin Baird and Jenny Mosley, both 13-year-olds, qualified for three events apiece. Baird will swim in the 400, 800 and 1500 meter free while Mosley will compete in the 50 and 100 meter free along with the 100 meter breaststroke. Keith Dix, 15, will go in the 400 meter individual medley as 14-year-old Chris Drew competes in the 100 and 200 meter backstroke.

Women vie on course

Delmar's Normanside Country Club was the scene for two ladies' member-member tournaments this past weekend with teams competing in nine and 18-hole events.

In the 18-hole, three-day, round robin event, winners and runners-up were: First flight, Bernie Bowersox and Shirley LaMoy, winners; Bennie Jo Coffey and Mary Heleba, runners-up; Second flight, Millie Jagareski and Cissy Stasiuk, winners; Fran Higgins and Betty Pauquette, runners-up; and Third flight, Pre Devio and Ferne Horn, winners; and Linda Pettit and Lorrie Vaber, runners-up.

The nine-hole event was a best ball, hole improvement tournament held over two days. Winners were: Mickey Redmond and Betty Warren (first place, 28); Jackie Allgaier and Jean Corcoran (second place, 29); Flory Grover and Elsie Stout (third place, 30); and Rita Benoit and Ginny Blackwell (fourth place, 31).

Bethlehem played South Troy in a Babe Ruth All-Star game on Saturday. At right, Bethlehem first baseman Jamie Mizner stops the ball in a close play, but the runner was safe on first. Tom Shaw

Pair of wins for V'ville

The Voorheesville Babe Ruth 14 and 15 year old All-Stars pulled off consecutive victories in last week's District 6 tournament to advance into the semifinals.

After handing Castleton-Nassau a 5-3 loss and St. Francis a 7-5 setback, the All-Stars were scheduled to take on Bethlehem in yesterday's semifinal round. Under the direction of coaches John Lawrence and Ed Greene along with manager Gerry Gordinier, the squad consists of John Traudt, John Meacham, Mark Wright, Matt Cillis, Ken Andriano, John Lawrence, Todd Porter, Charlie Collins, Derek Moak, Mike Race, Ned Greene, Kevin Davis, Bill Waranken, Marty Gordinier and Rick Weismier.

In limited action last week, the St. Matthew's Giants remained undefeated atop the standings at 8-0 with a 5-3 win over the Berne Dodgers. John Traudt used a double to back up Rick Leach's six strikeout pitching for the Giants. Ned Greene chipped in a double in defeat for the Dodgers as they fell to a dismal 2-6.

Ruth all-stars settle for second

After moving into the championship round without a loss, the Bethlehem Babe Ruth 13-year-old All-Stars suffered two defeats at the hands of South Troy and registered a second place finish in last week's District 6 tournament.

The All-Stars once again used the strong pitching of Alex Hackman and Bryan Mullaney to ease by St. Francis, 12-1, and South Troy, 6-4, to enter the championships. Scott Hodge aided in the cause against South Troy with a home run. South Troy came back to defeat the All-Stars twice in the double elimination tourney for the championship crown. Despite the losses, Bethlehem recorded its best-ever showing in the event.

For the tournament, Hackman and Mullaney controlled Bethlehem's mound. Each pitcher registered two wins with Hackman allowing only four runs in three games. Mullaney proved to be productive at the plate along with Quimby McCaskill and Albert Greenhalgh.

While the 13-year-olds were finishing up, the 14 and 15-year-old All-Star team was just beginning its quest for a tournament championship. In the opening game, the All-Stars thrashed Watervliet, 22-0. Paul Evangelista turned in an impressive mound performance backed up by Peter Russo's strong defense. Sean Lynch delivered a three-run home run for the victors.

Latham proved to be more competitive as Bethlehem needed eight innings to record a 2-1 victory. Mike Hodge tossed seven innings for the winners with Jeff Pensel throwing the final frame. A costly walk to Russ Ruckterstahl pushed across the winning run in the eighth inning.

The All-Stars were scheduled to face Voorheesville in yesterday's semifinal round. The squad consists of Alex Buerle, Russo and Eric Heathwaite of National Savings Bank; Ruckterstahl of Davies Office; Evangelista, Hodge, Pensel, Tony Forster and John Reagan of Main Care and Joe Ganley, Lynch and Bill McFerran of Blue Cross.

Hoop clinic in August

A free basketball clinic for fifth and sixth graders, sponsored by the St. Thomas Catholic Youth Organization, will be held every Tuesday in August from 5 to 7 p.m. at Bethlehem's Elm Avenue Park.

To register call Ed Bardelli at 439-4510 or Kel Bryant at 458-7881, after 5 p.m.

The other Berne club fared the same as Rod and Gun Club handed the Mets a 9-4 loss. Orion Colfer rapped out four singles and Andy Csiza pitched in two doubles and a single as Rod & Gun raised its record to 4-5. On the mound, Kevin O'Connor struck out six Mets en route to the win. Sean Frisbee hit a triple and single for the 3-4 Mets.

Babysitting tips

School is out for the summer. These are the days of playing ball, riding bikes and swimming. It is also a time when more parents will be looking for daytime care for their children.

While the kids are out on the playing field, enjoying the backyard, or dunking in the local swimming hole, sitters need to be prepared for the minor cuts and bruises and possible major sprains and breaks that may happen anytime.

Parents should check that all of the necessary information is available in case of an emergency.

Here are some helpful hints for babysitters provided by the Community Health Plan (CHP) that will benefit both parents and sitters:

1. Where can the parents be reached at all times?
2. What is the telephone number of the nearest relative or neighbor who can drive?
3. Who is the family doctor? Phone number?
4. What health insurance plan does the family use? What are the telephone numbers and procedures?
5. Are there any allergies? If yes, what are the symptoms and procedures?
6. Where is the first-aid kit or medicine chest?
7. Where are emergency telephone numbers posted?

One more hint: An emergency can be handled more efficiently when safety procedures are clear and discussed ahead of time.

Internships at ESIPA

The Empire State Institute for the Performing Arts at the Egg in Albany is now accepting applications for internships for the fall semester, September to December, 1985.

The internship is designed to offer teachers, college students and high school seniors academic credit for a semester's work at the Institute. Working as full-time members of the institute staff, the interns participate in all phases of activities of a professional theatre company. During the semester, interns work in both technical and arts-management areas. They attend classes and are encouraged to audition for parts in the resident company's full-scale productions.

Applications and further information may be obtained by calling Arlene Leff at 474-1199.

Mark A. Patterson with Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

Patterson named senator's aide

Mark A. Patterson, of 353 Delaware Ave., Delmar, has been named a special assistant to Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan (D.-N.Y.).

Patterson, 23, is a 1984 graduate of the State University at Albany, where he majored in political science. He graduated from Bethlehem Central High School in 1980.

Patterson will help coordinate the senator's appearances in Washington, supervise the intern program in the Washington, D.C. office and meet with student and constituent groups when Moynihan is unavailable.

Prior to his appointment, Patterson was an intern in Sen. Moynihan's Washington, D.C. office.

Call for CCC members

The Department of Environmental Conservation is seeking to reestablish contact with former members of the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) as part of the 100th Anniversary of the Forest Preserve this year.

The DEC is asking former CCC members interested in planning and participating in an appropriate recognition ceremony to contact Paul Benoit through the DEC Law Enforcement office at Room 618, 50 Wolf Rd., Albany, 12233, or call 457-5680.

Teen title applications

Contenders for the 1986 Miss Teenage America title may obtain entry forms at any Kmart discount department store.

Kmart Apparel Corp., a subsidiary of K mart Corporation, is cosponsoring the 1986 Miss Teenage America program. Miss Teenage America is an achievement program to recognize outstanding young women between the ages of 13 and 18, according to Teen Magazine, which operates the program.

All Around The Garden

Albany County
Cooperative Extension

Home gardeners may find in the early summer that their vegetable garden is not producing the amount of crops expected because the plants are not setting fruit. This problem can vary from plants producing a small amount of fruit to producing no fruit at all, because the flowers die and drop off.

Vegetables prone to problems with fruit setting include tomatoes, eggplants and peppers. Poor fruit set with these crops is usually due to poor or no pollination as a result of excessively high or low temperatures, varietal response or differences, poor moisture, or flowers dessication due to hot, dry winds.

Usually with tomatoes and eggplants it is a question of degree: while the plant produces fruit, it produces a small quantity of it, or misshapen fruits.

Peppers, however, sometimes have more serious problems. Sometimes pepper plants produce no fruits at all. The reason for this is unknown.

Vine crops such as winter and summer squash, cucumbers, musk melons and watermelons may appear to have problems with a lack of fruit setting early in the season, but time may correct this problem. These plants produce two types of flowers — male and female. Until both flowers occur at a good ratio to each other and bees become active, there will be little fruit set. Once both types of flowers are available for pollination and fertilization, the problem should be alleviated.

Corn, too, may have problems with fruit set. The kernels may be small and irregularly shaped, or the ear may not fill in well with kernels. Faulty pollination may be the problem. Corn should be planted in three or four short rows, rather than one or two long rows, to increase the likelihood of cross-pollination and fertilization.

Some gardeners may be tempted to buy plant hormones as a preventative for improper fruit setting, but this is not advised. The hormones are already present in the flowers and/or pollen. Adding more does not significantly help and any resulting fruit often is misshapen.

In general, problems with fruit setting are biological and a result of adverse conditions that a gardener can do little about. As long as the plants are healthy and not under stress from lack of good gardening practices, gardeners need to accept problems with fruit setting as a minor problem. It's usually a matter of degree, and nature usually evens things out.

Rural Albany goes on display

On Sunday, July 14, the 18th "Drive it Yourself" tour of rural Albany County is scheduled. Participants may start any time between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. from the Albany County Resource Development Center on Martin Rd., just off Rt. 85A, in Voorheesville.

Joseph E. Huth, cooperative extension agent in Albany County said the tour is intended to show people the agriculture and rural atmosphere of parts of Albany County. A tour booklet has been prepared that describes the route and points of interest along the way and the farms that may be visited. Stops are planned at a dairy farm, a sheep farm, a state forest area and a beef farm. Along the way participants will see examples of soil conservation practices being carried out by Albany County farmers.

A picnic area is in the forest area and the South Berne Congregational Christian Church will have lunch available for purchase.

Huth noted that this year is the 50th anniversary of the U.S. Soil and Water Conservation Service and the 40th anniversary of the Albany County soil and water conservation district.

For information about the tour call the Cooperative Extension Association of Albany County at 765-2331. In case of rain all day, the tour will be moved to July 21.

Pros offer tips for troubled growers

What are those disgusting looking bugs on the tomato plants and what can be done to get rid of them? What can be done for a sick spider plant?

These are examples of questions that can be answered at the Albany Cooperative Extension's horticulture diagnostic clinics scheduled in July and August. Master gardeners and cooperative extension horticulturists will be at various locations throughout Albany County to help diagnose problems and answer gardening questions.

For analysis, a plant specimen needs to be large enough to show scheduled in July and August. Master gardeners and cooperative If presenting insects for identification, several undamaged specimens are needed.

Horticulture diagnostic clinics in Albany County are scheduled as follows:

Tuesday, July 16 at Albany Public Library, 161 Washington Ave., noon to 1 p.m.

Thursdays, July 18 and 25 and Aug. 1, at the State Campus farmers' market between buildings 8 and 9, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Wednesdays, July 24 and 31 and Aug. 7, at the South Mall, farmers market at the skating rink end, 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Growers also can take samples to the extension office on Martin Rd. in Voorheesville, open from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

In Elsmere The Spotlight is sold at Paper Mill, Grand Union, CVS, Johnson's and Brooks Drugs.

For young sleuths

The Albany County Historical Association has announced its schedule for the third annual youth workshop program this month. Sleuthing II will center on field work in area cemeteries and again work with the basic tools of research, analysis, observations, inferences, and conclusions.

Sleuthing II will be given twice this July. Session 1 will run from July 15 to 20 and session 2 will be July 22 to 26. Each session will begin at 10 a.m. and last approximately two hours. Registration is $10 for the first child and $5 for each additional child. The workshops are open to young people from 8 to 15 years of age. To register call the Albany County Historical Association at 436-9826.

Art courses for kids

Art courses in pastels, oil painting, primitive pottery, stone carving, wood carving, watercolor painting, ceramic sculpture, palladium-platinum printing and advanced black-and-white dark-room techniques will be offered at the Harmanus Bleecker Center, 19 Dove St., Albany, beginning July 15.

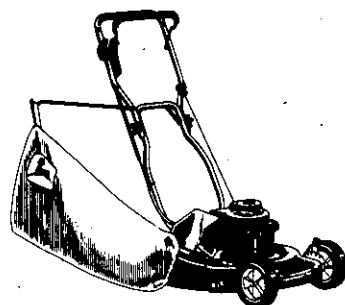

Courses, including film animation, sculpture, drawing and painting, and photography will be offered to children 7 to 13 years.

The deadline for in person registration is July 12. For information call 465-2044.

Food for children

If you are pregnant or have a child under the age of five and live in Albany County, you may qualify for the WIC program. WIC provides nutritious foods without charge to pregnant women who are financially eligible and are at nutritional risk. A good diet is important for the mother-to-be who wants a healthy baby. For more information and eligibility requirements, call the Whitney M. Young, Jr. Health Center WIC program at 465-4771.

In Slingerlands The Spotlight is sold at Toll Gate, Judy's, Stonewell, Falvo's and Hoogy's.

Lawn care on a budget? See our John Deere push-type mowers

John Deere steel-deck mowers are available in two models — 18 and 20 inch, each with manual start. The 18-inch model has a 3-hp engine; the 20-inch, a 3 1/2-hp engine. Both have a dual safety system — the engine and blade stop when the control handle is released. Grass bagger is optional. See us today for an economical John Deere.

Obituaries

Frances Zovistaski

Frances Zovistaski of Elsmere, a communicant of St. Thomas the Apostle Church, died July 2 at St. Peter's Hospital, Albany.

Born in Hartford, she was a longtime area resident.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph Zovistaski; two sisters, Statia Tucker of Glen Lake and Anne Hall of Hudson Falls; a brother, Henry Strainer of Hudson Falls and several nieces and nephews.

Arrangements were by the Carleton Funeral Home, Hudson Falls. Burial was in the Mount Carmel Cemetery, Middle Granville.

Howard R. Cammer

Howard R. Cammer, 59, of Guiderland, a member of the First United Methodist Church in Voorheesville, died July 3 in St. Peter's Hospice in Albany.

Born in Walton, he had lived in the Voorheesville area for the last 20 years. A Navy veteran of World War II, he was employed by the Federal Aviation Administration as an airway operations specialist since 1958 and most recently worked out of the Clearwater-St.

Petersburg International Airport in Florida. He was on an extended sick leave at the time of his death.

He is survived by his wife, Loretta Durante Cammer; a son Thomas Cammer, Guiderland; a daughter, Patricia Cammer, Guiderland; three sisters, Elsie Weidman of Deposit, Harriet Hills of Brooksville, Fla., and E. Alida Dolan of Bellview, Fla.; two brothers, Lloyd Cammer of Sydney, Delaware County, and Jack Cammer of Deposit.

Arrangements were by Reilly and Son Funeral Home, Voorheesville. Burial was in Andes Cemetery Association in Andes.

Florence Furman

Florence Irene Furman, 73, of Slingerlands died July 4 at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany.

A resident of Slingerlands for many years, she operated the family farm with her husband.

Survivors include her husband, Abram B. Furman, and two sisters, Mrs. Anthony (Betty) Manning of Delmar and Mrs. Albin (Nina) Studler of Delmar. She is also survived by several nieces and nephews.

Following a recent tour of the State Capitol Building, Nancy Tonetti and her special class from Bethlehem Central High School visited with Assemblyman Clarence D. Lane on the steps of the million dollar staircase.

Arrangements were by the Brunk-Meyers Funeral Home, Voorheesville. Burial was in Prospect Hill Cemetery, Guiderland.

Missionaries arrive

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints has recently welcomed two missionaries for the Delmar area.

James L. Sorenson from Utah, and Jason Skillings from Idaho, both 19 years old, are two of the more than 26,000 representatives of the church around the world.

Bicyclist injured

A bicyclist was taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital last Wednesday after he was struck by a car shortly after 10 p.m. at Longwood Dr. and Elm Ave. in Delmar, according to Bethlehem police reports. Michael Safford, 23, of Slingerlands was treated and released; a hospital spokesman said. He was taken to the hospital by the Delmar Fire Department Rescue Squad. No charges were filed in the accident.

Central Delmar picnic

The Central Delmar Neighborhood Association will hold their annual picnic at 4 p.m. on Saturday, July 13, at the home of Michele and Douglas Zeno, 21 Adams Pl., Delmar. All area residents are welcome.

In case of rain the event will be held on Saturday, July 20, at 11 Oakwood Pl., Delmar.

For information call 439-1940.

AMC administrators switch roles

Dr. Robert L. Friedlander of Delmar, president and dean of the Albany Medical College, began a leave of absence from his office on July 1 to work on a long range planning assignment within the Albany Medical Center executive offices.

Dr. Samuel S. Ciccio of Delmar, executive vice president and chief operating officer of the Albany Medical College, has been named acting dean for the 6 to 8 month period. Ciccio will be responsible for all aspects of the college's operations.

Friedlander will work to develop a model of the types of facilities, programs, policies and financing the college will need during the next five years.

Jewelry gone

A Wicklow Terr. resident has reported jewelry worth an estimated $13,000 is missing from her home, according to Bethlehem police reports. The items include two diamond rings, a diamond watch and pearls. Police are investigating.

Better breathing

The American Lung Association of New York State has published a brochure entitled "Air Pollution in Your Home?"

According to the brochure, the major indoor air pollutants include nitrogen dioxide, carbon monoxide, formaldehyde, radon, asbestos, microbes and fungi, secondhand smoke, and household and personal care products. The brochure offers a checklist of 17 suggestions on how to control air pollution in your home.

For a free copy of the brochure, call or write the American Lung Association of New York State, 8 Mountain View Ave., Albany, telephone, 459-4197.

Tapped by hospital

Stephen Cameron of Delmar is the newly appointed director of cardiac services at St. Peter's Hospital, in Albany.

Cameron joined St. Peter's after 11 years at Albany Medical Center Hospital, where he was technical director of cardiac catheterization labs. He previously spent four years at Washington Hospital Center in Washington, D.C.

Registered in invasive and non-invasive cardiology, Cameron is a graduate of the Washington Hospital Center school for cardiopulmonary technology. He is a member of the National Society of Cardiopulmonary Technologists.

Takes St. Peter's post

Cyndy Manzi of Delmar has been appointed chief dietitian at St. Peter's Hospital.

A registered dietitian, Manzi served as a renal dietitian at Memorial Hospital and a critical care dietitian at the University Hospital of Cleveland, Ohio. She was assistant director of the department of dietetics at St. Joseph's Hospital in Lorain, Ohio.

She holds a master of science degree from Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland. Manzi completed her dietetic internship at the Cleveland Veterans' Administration Medical Center.

Thanks to league

Editor, The Spotlight:

This spring was our family's first encounter with the Bethlehem Soccer Club. Our son, Ethan, was on the under-8 team coached by Harry Denkers and Rich Cipriano. His, and our, experiences with the team — practices, games, skills, sportsmanship — was so positive that we felt compelled to publicly thank Harry and Rich and the league itself for providing our kids with such a rewarding time. Thanks!

Maureen and Mori Schoolman
Delmar

Proposal upsetting

Editor, The Spotlight:

I'm sure your Vox Pop pages will be the site of many concerned expressions regarding the recent redistricting proposals (for the Bethlehem Central elementary schools).

I find it extremely upsetting that a policy of shared inconvenience and dissatisfaction is the recommendation of the committee. I did not move to the Bethlehem school district so that my children could sample one, then another school and, by extension, form one set of friends and one frame of reference and then another. I do not want this and cannot imagine anyone who would. Certainly (board member Bernard) Harvith's suggested alternative is not one which should be summarily dismissed — it makes far more sense in terms of educational and emotional continuity.

I am not suggesting that Glenmont parents should be the only ones to be inconvenienced, but my having to move my children around as well will not make Glenmont's problem any less disturbing.

We are a creative community — let's think of a better idea!

Maureen Schoolman
Delmar

Bernard Harvith urged consideration of moving all fifth graders to the middle school and eighth graders to the high school as a possible alternative to redrawing attendance boundaries for four of the five elementary schools. An opportunity for public discussion of redistricting is planned for the fall. Ed.

Red Cross chairman

Lewis P. Welch of Slingerlands, vice president for university affairs, State University at Albany, was recently elected chairman of the Board of Directors for the Albany Area Chapter of the American Red Cross. He assumed his duties July 1.

Welch serves on the board of directors of the Albany-Colonie Chamber of Commerce, Project STRIVE and the Capital Area School Development Association. He was co-chairman of the Educational Division of the Albany United Way for several years and recently served in the Public Service Division.

Check It Out

BETHLEHEM PUBLIC LIBRARY

Summertime gives us the opportunity to do things with our children. These shared experiences are important for both parents and children. Reading with your child is one activity that can provide members of the family not only with a shared experience, but also with much more. Here are some reasons to read with a child.

When you hold children and give them this attention, they feel wanted, accepted, secure and most importantly, loved.

Reading to children gives them positive feelings about books and reading and will encourage them to become readers.

Children's books today are so good that they are even fun for adults.

Children's book illustrations often rank with the best. Adults enjoy them and through them a child will begin to develop a lifelong appreciation for good art.

Books are a way to help children find themselves while passing on moral values. Children begin to learn how to put themselves in another's shoes.

Reading to children gives them their first glimpse into worlds of adventure, fun and excitement, and gives them the interest and ability to try new things.

It's a nostalgic ritual that your parents did with you and that your children will want to pass on to their children. A child loves the closeness and intimacy of sharing a book as much as the story.

Reading to children sharpens their listening skills, develops good speech habits, expands vocabulary, and helps children get more from reading instruction in school.

Until children learn to read themselves, they will think you are magic.

Every teacher and librarian they ever encounter will thank you.

For that short space of time, they will stay clean and quiet.

And lastly, if you read to them, they may then let you read in peace.

Chester E. Burrell of Delmar has been elected to serve a 3-year term as a trustee of the Art Center and Theatre of Schenectady (ACTS), the non-profit organization that operates Proctor's Theatre in Schenectady.

A graduate of Allegheny College and the State University at Albany's graduate school of public affairs, Burrell is president of Blue Cross of Northeastern New York Inc. Burrell is also a member of the Board of Overseers of Management at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and the University Foundation at Albany.

Job training offered

Programs to provide training for office occupations, word processing, data entry, patient care, high school equivalency and micrographics will begin this week for income-eligible residents of Albany, Schenectady and Rensselaer counties.

The courses are being offered by the Albany Department of Human Resources, 88 North Lake Ave., Albany. Child care and employment counseling will also be provided to participants.

For information call 434-5200.

Benefit planned

The Bethlehem Students for Peace and Survival will present an evening of music to benefit the starving people of Ethiopia on Wednesday, July 17, from 5:30 to 10 p.m. The event, including local performers Ruth Pelham, Cathy Winter and Fancy's Train, will be held at Bethlehem's Elm Avenue Park.

All are welcome to attend the free concert. Donations will be appreciated. For information call Andrew Bourke at 439-4842.

Video volunteers

The Bethlehem Channel is looking for volunteers, especially people who would be willing to film area events with their own video home system.

The station is hoping to produce a weekly show detailing current and upcoming events.

To obtain information or offer suggestions call 439-8111.

LAST YEAR, WE GRADUATED MORE STUDENTS THAN ALL THE SCHOOLS IN THE NCAA* COMBINED.

Last year, millions of people graduated from Red Cross courses, having learned things they'd always wanted to know.

That's because the Red Cross offers 74 different self-help courses.

Courses that teach you everything, from how to be a better parent to how to save someone's life.

Every Red Cross course is developed by a top professional. Tuition is nominal. And there are hardly any admissions requirements.

This year, you could take a Red Cross course and learn something you've always wanted to know. To apply, simply call the people at your Red Cross chapter.

Mr. and Mrs. John William Meany

Linda Waidelich married

Linda Waidelich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Waidelich of Delmar, and John William Meany, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Meany, Delmar, were married on June 8 at St. James Church in Albany.

Joann Waidelich, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Tara Redmond, cousin of the bride, Lynne Russell and Elizabeth Gentner.

Daniel Byron, cousin of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Peter Oravetz, Robert Gentner and David Essex.

The bride is a graduate of Bethlehem Central High School, Junior College of Albany and the State University of New York at Albany. She is employed at the marketing services department of Key Bank.

The groom is a graduate of Bethlehem Central High School and the Agricultural and Technical College at Morrisville. He is employed by Lane Press.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii the couple will reside in Delmar.

Trail guide updated

The 11th edition of the Guide to the Adirondack Trails: High Peaks Region will be released this month, coinciding with the 100th anniversary of the creation of the New York State forest preserve. Other titles in the series will be published over the next three years, to ultimately cover all of the trails in the Adirondack Park.

The 11th edition of the high peaks guide includes not only updated trail information, but also such features as hikes of varying degrees of difficulty, updates on wilderness camping information, and an updated map. Tony Goodwin, compiler of the new information and editor of the 11th edition, hiked nearly 400 miles in 1984, checking and remeasuring many trails.

Rihm honored

Alexander Rihm Jr. of Delmar has been named an honorary member of the Air Pollution Control Association, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Prior to his retirement, Rihm directed and administered the development of the air pollution control program in New York State. He has served as board member and president of the Air Pollution Control Association.
