Warm hearts help scouts escape cold

By Theresa Bobear

"Old San Juan seems like it's going to be very nice," said Tammy Coleman on Saturday morning before departing for Puerto Rico.

Tammy and other travelers from the Hudson Valley Girl Scout Council may well be enjoying the sights and sounds of Old San Juan at this moment.

A trip to Puerto Rico is seldom routine for an Upstate New York high school student, but this journey will be especially memorable because of the kindness that made it a reality.

Approximately three years ago Tammy Coleman, Diane Steffens, Portia Wu and Susan Zolezzi of the Delmar Girl Scout Troop 542, joined by members of the Altamont Girl Scout Troop 548, decided to start earning and saving money for an adventure.

In addition to selling Girl Scout cookies, Christmas wreaths and candy, the students earned funds by clowning at area birthday parties and festivals.

The scouts made reservations with Arrow Airlines. Their trip was cancelled last week when the bankruptcy of Arrow Airlines was announced.

Enter the good samaritans. Arnold Laven, president of Mico Office Supplies, Albany, donated $2,450 to replace the money lost to Arrow Airlines. Eastern Airlines offered seats at a reduced fare. An Elsmere woman donated $550 for the overnight stay in New York City required with the new reservations; and, Dan Formica, owner and operator of McDonald's of Delmar and Ravena, gave the scouts $100 for meals.

"The outpouring of community support has really been a plus and a good learning experience for the girls," said Kay Zolezzi, leader of the Delmar troop. Laven instructed the girls to pass the kindness on to someone else later in their lives, according to Zolezzi.

In addition to visiting the walled fort of Old San Juan, the scouts plan to hike in the rain forest of the Luquillo range and ferry to the Culebra national wildlife refuge.

"This morning when I woke up I was bouncing off the walls. I was so excited. I've never been to Puerto Rico before," said Portia Wu. "It's almost more exciting going now because people gave us the money — people really cared."

State tests Conrail dump site for PCBs

By Linda Anne Burtis

Samples of ground water from a dump site at Conrail's Selkirk Yards were taken last Thursday by state Department of Environmental Conservation officials. The water will be tested for hazardous chemicals, including PCBs.

Test results should be completed in three or four weeks, according to DEC senior sanitation engineer Jack Butler.

The water will be tested for a broad spectrum of metals and organics. PCBs (polychlorinated biphenyls) were included because DEC files indicated that transformers may be part of the material buried at the dump site. Transformers are a known source of PCB contamination.

Downstream water and sediment samples were taken, according to Butler. Attempts were made to draw water from an upstream location, for comparative purposes. This failed because "the ice was two feet thick," Butler said. DEC officials will return in the spring to check on any upstream water source.

Metals being tested for include cyanide, barium, cadmium, lead and mercury. Organics which will be traced include toluene, benzene, methylene chloride, acetone, pyrene and vinyl chloride.

The site being tested has been used by Conrail as a demolition landfill. A fire in August, 1982, raised concerns about possible hazardous waste burial. Butler said that a ground water test will indicate any organics pollution.

Asked if drinking water is at risk, the DEC engineer replied, "The natural landscape is probably acting as a barrier for wells in the vicinity."

Gramm-Rudman throws curve at BC bond issue

With the merits of federal budget-balancing bills being debated in Washington, the Bethlehem Central School District's $4.6 million bond issue—like numerous other bonding proposals nationwide—is hanging fire.

While Bethlehem Central is not yet ready to market its bonds (pending state Education Department approval), provisions in the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction measure now before Congress promise to complicate the district's financing of planned capital improvements.

District residents in December gave the go-ahead for the borrowing with a resounding (by a ratio of 4-to-1) yes vote. The money is to finance major projects such as a new pool at the high school, costing $600,000, and roof and heating system work in the district's seven school buildings—work that is beyond the limits of the district's annual maintenance budget.

Before Gramm-Rudman, once the state had given its approval, Bethlehem's bonds would be sold and the money banked to be drawn on as needed, with the plus that the district would be earning interest on the unexpended balance. The district's overall cost, then, would be lowered by the difference between its borrowing cost and its interest income.

Gramm-Rudman as now written effectively eliminates the district's ability to make money from this interest difference, Psychiatric hospital: how secure will it be?

The proposed Northeast Psychiatric Hospital in Glenmont is designed to serve the entire Capital District as part of a range of psychiatric services, but it will also be "self-sufficient and by itself," the developers say.

The Bethlehem Town Board, which has the final say in whether the 96-bed facility is built, got a preview of the project at its meeting last Wednesday. Inevitably, the question of how the hospital will affect its neighbors came up.

What type of patient will it have, asked Supervisor Robert

Hendrick, and will there be "an open door policy?"

Dr. Alan Miller, a Delmar resident and an associate dean at Albany Medical College, which will have clinical supervision of the facility, provided part of the answer: The hospital will be "closed physically," he said, although most of the patients will be there on a voluntary basis. Except for a few follow-up patients, the hospital will not be "a day facility or an in-and-out facility," he said.

"The length of stay will be measured in weeks, rather than months," Dr. Miller said.

Eugene N. Langen, a principal in Hospital Group of America, added this reassurance: The hospital will have "a very low staff to patient ratio," with some 200 people employed to take care of a maximum of 96 patients.

The hospital is to be located on eight acres of land on the west side of Rt. 9W, about one fifth of a mile south of the Delmar Bypass. There are few residences in the area, and none adjacent to the site. However, a scattering of area residents were on hand to hear more about the project.

Most of the presentation had to do with the reasons for the new hospital, how it will be operated and who will own it, and on the specifics of the building.

The hospital will be constructed and owned by Hospital Group of New York, which is a subsidiary of Hospital Group of America, which is in turn a subsidiary of NuMed, a California-based for-profit company that owns and operates 15 acute care hospitals in the United States, plus assorted other properties. NuMed has been working with Albany Medical College for two years to establish that there is a need for a new psychiatric hospital and then design one to meet the needs of the area and of the college.

"We've been very involved in the concept and the design of this facility," said Amber Jones, the college's vice president for planning. "We have a vested interest in its success."

Firefighters contain chemical truck blaze

The cab of a tanker truck erupted in a fire Saturday on Rt. 32 at Rt. 9W as it was returning from a methanol delivery at the General Electric Noryl Products plant. Elsmere and Selkirk volunteer fire companies responded to the accident at 12:45 p.m.

Because of the explosive nature of methanol, state troopers from Selkirk cordoned off the area from Glenmont Rd. to Cedar Hill. Firefighters used water and foam to extinguish the blaze, which demolished the cab.

"When it's empty, it's more dangerous than when it's full," Elsmere fire chief Anthony Morrell said, referring to the methanol delivery. He explained that methanol is both flammable and explosive. The residue in an empty truck will react at lower temperatures than those in a full truck.

Favorable winds kept the flames and heat away from the tanker. "We were lucky that way," Morrell said.

Robert P. Kenny, 46, of Cranston, N.J., the driver, was headed for the Big M Truck Stop in Albany for repairs when the fire began. He tried to put out the fire with his extinguisher. An unidentified person called the Elsmere Fire Department.

GE spokesman Michael Joyce said Monday that methanol, a major raw material used at the Selkirk plant, is usually delivered by rail. Supplier difficulties required truck deliveries over the holiday weekend, he said.

RCS budget needs work

By Theresa Bobear

Before beginning a day of work on the budget, the RCS Board of Education reviewed preliminary figures for various departments in the district last Saturday.

"This is strictly a working document at this point," said Anthony Williams, president of the Board of Education. "This is not anything near a final document." At the beginning of their budget discussion the 1986-87 spending package totaled $12,168,886, up from $10,735,668 in 1985-86.

Some preliminary 1986-87 budget figures are as follows: business administration, $170,168, up from $157,162 in 1985-86; operations and maintenance, $1,046,511, up from $960,055; transportation, $827,820, up from $752,687; bus garage, $97,640, up from $61,000; estimated contract transportation, $62,000, up from $50,000; employee benefits, $2,349,900, up from $1,899,630; debt service, $494,602, up from $468,043; unallocated insurance, $70,562, up from $44,828; senior high supervision (including salaries, equipment and supplies), $163,548, up from $150,937; Pieter B. Coeymans supervision, $60,299, up from $52,309; A.W. Becker supervision, $73,411, up from $61,183; Ravena supervision, $60,094, up from $47,635; junior high supervision, $502,347, up from $441,254; adult education, $503,886, up from $442,666; undistributed (including salaries), $4,206,350, up from $3,847,359; senior high building, $183,265, up from $114,301; Pieter B. Coeymans building, $48,942, up from $46,230; A.W. Becker building, $60,120, up from $48,988; Ravena building, $57,918, up from $43,100, and junior high building, $97,703, up from $57,906.

The preliminary budget included increases for computer-assisted instruction. Some areas of decreased spending were: senior high library, $26,904, down from $34,087; Ravena library, $7,125, down from $19,669, and senior high guidance, $87,820, down from $109,982.

The district is estimating no increase from last year's $5,743,042 total revenue figure.

At the beginning of the budget discussion the estimated tax rates were $280.54 per $1,000 in assessed valuation for New Scotland, up from $217 last year, and $169.27 per $1,000 for Bethlehem, up from $130.74.

Following Saturday's budget meeting Assistant Superintendent William Schwartz said revised budget figures were not yet available. The board instructed Schwartz to go to each of the buildings and return with a recommended spending package, according to Schwartz.

The board will hold another meeting for discussion of the budget on Feb. 24 at 7:30 p.m.

Town board seeks audit of Adams-Russell figures

Continuing its tougher stance on Adams-Russell's cable franchise in Bethlehem, the town is asking the state to audit the company's annual financial statement.

The statement is the only way the town has of checking whether it is receiving all of the 3 percent franchise fee it is entitled to; yet for the past several years Adams-Russell has submitted figures that do not specify how much money it makes in Bethlehem.

At last week's Town Board meeting, Adams-Russell presented its final payment for 1985, $8,617, to bring the year's total to $34,256. In 1984, the total was $30,713.

"I keep wondering, with all this building going on..." said Councilman Sue Ann Ritchko.

Supervisor Robert Hendrick told Mrs. Ritchko that he has already asked the state Cable Commission to perform an audit on the statement. "We don't have the capacity to do it in-house," he said.

Adams-Russell Cable Service, headquartered in Waltham, Mass., operates several cable systems in the Capital District and others in the Northeast. The annual report filed with the town says its figures cannot be broken down by town "because of the integrated nature of the operation." For the New York division, the report says, revenue in 1985 was $3.5 million and costs were $2.4 million, leaving an operating profit of $1.1 million.

The company said it based its franchise fee payment to Bethlehem on an estimate of $1.4 million in revenue in the town, but did not specify how it arrived at that figure.

Adams-Russell has cable franchises in Bethlehem, New Scotland and Voorheesville. The annual report puts the number of subscribers in Bethlehem at 5,133, or 76 percent of those possible, while Voorheesville has 688 subscribers and New Scotland 271.

In Bethlehem, town officials recently informed the cable company that it is not interested in renegotiating its current franchise, which is a five-year extension of the original 10-year agreement. That move came after a briefing from state cable commission officials on the current state of federal deregulation. By the end of the year, municipalities will have no ability to influence rates charged by cable companies.

In other action Wednesday, the board:

- Approved a 20 mile-per-hour speed limit for Union Ave. 300 feet on either side of the Slingerlands Elementary School from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. on school days. The change came after a public hearing at which one area resident, Richard Alba, urged the board to extend the zone further up the hill past the school. "The line of sight is very short, and there is a curve," he said. Town officials explained that state law permits only the 300-foot zone, but Hendrick said later that warning signs would be posted at the top of the hill to warn motorists.

- Approved the long-awaited Halter Rd. water district extension in Glenmont, but decided to hold off on the bidding process for two weeks while Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor checks the benefits of having the work bid out rather than done by town crews. The delay was suggested by Councilman W. Scott Prothero, who said the town should consider combining this project with two other projects to get lower bid prices. Secor said the $48,000 total cost had been calculated on the assumption that the town's labor costs and purchasing power would be lower. "The cost would mean a $34.54 per $1,000 levy on the tax bills of the 28 residences involved, a figure "we think is low enough that the State Comptroller will approve it," Secor said. Previous attempts to get water and sewer service for the area have failed because of the high cost compared to the valuation of the properties to be served.

- Authorized Secor to apply to the state for permission to build and operate a "convenience station" at the site of the town landfill on Rupert Rd. in South Bethlehem. The town is under state orders to close the landfill, and refuse and garbage collected from businesses and residences in the town is now hauled directly to the ANSWERS shredding plant on Rapp Rd. in Albany. The convenience station will be for individuals who currently bring their refuse to the landfill. The application says the station is designed to handle 15 tons of refuse a day, with about five tons a day expected to start. The board also gave Highway Superintendent Martin Cross permission to advertise for bids for two refuse compactor trailers and a tandem truck. The total cost of the project is estimated at $200,000.

- Set Feb. 26 as the date for an informational hearing on a proposal by the Cerebral Palsy Center for the Disabled to establish a community residence at 23-29 Adams Place in Delmar, the old telephone switching building. The proposal has already been endorsed by the Central Delmar Neighborhood Association, which had fought an earlier plan to convert the building to professional offices. According to state law, the town has 40 days from Feb. 11, the date it received the center's notification, in which to act.

- Rejected a request for town water for the Woldeck Building on Wemple Rd., in an area outside the town's water district. Secor told the board he has been unable to find other property owners in the area who are interested in town water, so that the district could be extended.

- Rejected, on Secor's recommendation, a request from the Michaels Group to reduce the bonding requirement for Chadwick Square, Section 2

- Granted permission to developer Izak Giwerc, president of Bronco Development Inc., to begin site work and utilities for Section 1A of Elm Estates, which has still not received final project approval from the town. Secor said the developer needs to begin work now in order to avoid the spring thaws.

- Authorized the purchase of one new dump truck for $10,374 for the Sewer Department, and approved bids for motor oil to Farrell Oil Co. and Quaker State Oil Refining Corp.

Break-in probed

Bethlehem police are investigating a burglary last Tuesday on Mayfair Dr. in Slingerlands in which the doorknob was broken out of the front door of the home and the door was pried open.

According to the police report, a relative of the owner discovered the break-in shortly before 10 p.m. Various items had been thrown about the house, and head phones and a $500 metal detector were missing, the report noted.

Bike found

A red, 10-speed, boy's bicycle was found last Tuesday in woods near the Bethlehem Public Library. The bike, which is not registered with the town, is being held at police headquarters for the owner to claim.

Despite the cold and snow, construction workers using a pair of giant cranes have been fitting together the steel that will form the second span of the Rt. 9W bridge over the Normanskill. The project is scheduled for completion next fall. Jeff Gonzales

□ Hospital security

The relationship is both financial and clinical. Albany Medical Center is buying the land on which the hospital is to be built, and will lease it to Northeast Psychiatric Hospital. The college will provide staffing and clinical supervision once it is built. And the four basic units — for neuropsychiatric evaluation, child and adolescent services, adult-geriatric services and services for substance abusers with a primary diagnosis of psychiatric illness — are designed with the college's teaching role in mind.

"We don't see this as something that is occupying space that happens to be in the Town of Bethlehem," said Dr. Miller. "It's part of a fabric of services."

The $9 million building is one-story at the front, where the administrative offices will be, and two stories at the rear, where the patient services will be. Architect Richard Mauer said his objective is to make the building "as non-institutional as possible." Psychiatric patients, in contrast to most hospital patients, "are very active," and the hospital will provide appropriate spaces — courtyards, classrooms, dining areas and recreation spaces — for their activities, he said.

A report by the C.T. Male engineering firm of Colonie said that the building will use town water and sewers, and that the impact on Rt. 9W traffic would be "minimal." Langen said the payroll will be in the $3.5 to $4 million range, and that the hospital will pay all state and local taxes while creating virtually no burden on local schools or police and fire services. The facility, he assured the board, is "self-sufficient and by itself."

The site is zoned Planned Commercial District and no zoning change will be required. The town board referred the plans to the planning board, which will hold a public hearing before recommending to the town board whether to grant final approval. The hospital also needs final approval from the state Health Department before construction can begin.

Safety, not money, seat belt issue

By Caroline Terenzini

A discussion about seat belts in school buses and a lengthy executive session ate up the time the Bethlehem Central school board had intended to spend on budget matters last week, prompting board President Sheila Fuller to schedule a special budget work session for tonight (Wednesday), at 8 p.m. The board is expected to discuss spending proposals for operations and maintenance then.

Last Wednesday representatives of parent groups at five of the district's schools urged the board to install seat belts in buses and to eliminate standees. Concerning seat belts, Linda Burtis of Elsmere told the board, "This is not a big deal. With a commitment, it could be done tomorrow." Burtis said with reimbursement from the state the cost to install belts on new buses would be 12 cents a child.

Board member Bernard Harvith agreed that having seat belts on school buses "is not a money issue." Harvith said his concern centered on the children's ability to release their belts should an emergency require quick evacuation of a bus.

Harvith said he understood that some 23 school districts in the state have seat belts on their buses, which "means 734 districts don't."

The seat belt advocates said school bus accidents requiring emergency evacuation are far less common than the type of accident in which a seat belt would be useful. Then, too, with state law now requiring children under age 10 to use a seat belt or approved car seat, the absence of belts on buses is "a tremendous negative reinforcement factor," according to Roberta Ponemon of Slingerlands. And, finally, having children belted in curbs horseplay on buses, the parents said.

The state's policy of allowing children to stand on buses came under fire when Sue Belemjian of Glenmont reported that five of the 11 Suburban Council school districts had arranged their busing so that elementary students do not have to stand. Franz Zwicklbauer, district business administrator, said the district must "fill every seat on every run" in order to obtain the maximum state reimbursement. "So, if you underload a high school bus, you have to make up for it later," he said.

Fuller said the question would be discussed again when the board goes over the transportation section of the 1986-87 budget proposal. That discussion now is scheduled for next week.

In the brief budget discussion last Wednesday, when a proposal for hiring a three-man night painting crew came up, board member Charles Reeves served notice that he intends to "battle through the hedgerows" over hiring. With an increase of about 40 students projected for next year, Reeves said he objected to proposals in the budget for "a minimum of five new professionals."

"I've got to go on record and say I'm unalterably opposed to this kind of addition," Reeves said, citing the cost to the district of health insurance and retirement fund contributions, as well as salary for each employee.

The staffing proposals include adding 2.5 elementary teachers, chiefly to achieve a lower pupil-teacher ratio, and two teachers at the middle school for career skills and technology courses now required under the regents' Action Plan. Administrators also hope to increase the hours for school nurses so that each elementary school has a nurse on duty during regular school hours.

In other business, the board:

- Voted to assign all pupils in the proposed Meadows development at Bender Lane and the Delmar Bypass to the Elsmere Elementary School. The development of 30 single-family homes, 12 duplexes and some 320 four-unit dwellings is expected to add about 100 children to the school system.

- Authorized a field trip to Boston for about 40 seventh graders. The students will pay all costs, but the board's approval provides insurance protection.

- Approved a contract with the Albany architecture firm of Mendel, Mesick, Cohen, Waite and Hall to oversee projects planned under the district's $4.6 million bond issue. The fee is 10 percent of project costs.

- Heard a report from Eugene Duffy, supervisor of the district's English program.

- Designated the week of March 12-14 as "Music in Our Schools" Week.

Scholarships awarded

The first Donald Farrell Memorial Scholarships of $250 have been awarded to 1985 Bethlehem Central High School graduates Sandra Blendell and Darrin Derosia.

Donald Farrell served in the Bethlehem Central school system for 31 years as a physical education teacher and basketball coach before retiring in 1980. The scholarship fund was established after his death in 1984.

Blendell, a freshman at the State University College at Cortland, is majoring in physical education.

Derosia, a former Bethlehem Central football player, is a freshman at Penn State. He is studying pre-law.

Contributions for continuation of the scholarship may be sent to the Donald Farrell Memorial Fund, c/o William Fuller, 49 Woodstream Dr., Delmar, N.Y. 12054.

Heads national panel

Sheila Fuller of Delmar, president of the Bethlehem Central Board of Education, has been named to head a committee for the annual conference of the National School Boards Association, scheduled April 5 through 8 in Las Vegas, Nev. Fuller said her committee will prepare information for the special interest clinic concerning community use of schools.

Fuller is one of eight New York State residents asked to head committees for the national conference.

Keep hydrants free

The Bethlehem Department of Public Works has requested area property owners to shovel out any fire hydrants located near their property.

The effort will help to ensure the safety of residents. "The home you save may be your own," said one town official.

Musical roots

Allen Kovler, poet and musician, will present a lecture and demonstration on the roots of rock and roll in black music at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 20, at the Bethlehem Public Library.

Kolver has written three books of poetry, A Little Light From Rented Rooms, Harlem River Baby and A Heart in the Anteroom. As a singer and songwriter, Kovler has performed in many clubs in the northeast coffeehouse circuit.

Gramm-Rudman

known as arbitrage. Among other provisions, it requires that 5 percent of the proceeds from a bond issue be spent within six months. Thus, since the bonds cannot be sold far ahead of the need, the plus from arbitrage is gone.

Then, too, as the capital improvement projects are undertaken and completed, the district will have to arrange a succession of borrowings in the form of bond anticipation notes to pay the contractors. This will mean some additional interest expense to the district.

Another complication for the bond market now is that Gramm-Rudman bears an effective date of Jan. 1, 1986, requiring borrowers to follow provisions of the bill as though it were law. Many, however, expect that date will be changed.

Bethlehem may come out of this all right, according to Basil Stepanien of Fiscal Advisors, Inc., of Cicero and Hicksville, N.Y., who are consultants to the district on the bond sale. Questions about provisions in Gramm-Rudman may well be resolved by the time the district is ready to borrow, Stepanien noted, and because the firm's $300,000 interest income projection for Bethlehem is conservative, the loss of arbitrage should have minimal impact on the overall cost of the debt, he said.

Another question, however, is how much interest rates will rise over the period during which the district will be forced to borrow. Should rates jump, the district's cost will, too.

For the moment, the best thing Bethlehem Central has going for it may be the fact that it doesn't yet have to sell its bonds.

2 hurt in collision

The 17-year-old driver of a tractor-trailer was ticketed last Wednesday after a collision on Rt. 9W at Hannay Lane that sent two people to Albany Medical Center Hospital.

According to Bethlehem police reports, Donald M. Eisenman, 17, of Nassau, N.Y., was charged with making an improper turn after the tractor-trailer he was operating collided with a car driven by John MacAffer, 23, of Menands.

Eisenman and MacAffer were taken to the hospital by the Bethlehem Volunteer Ambulance Squad after the 5:30 p.m. accident, according to the police report. They were treated and released, a hospital spokesman said.

Civic center has the votes, so far

By Patricia Dumas

ALBANY COUNTY

Despite minority party objections that taxpayers dollars are being spent on a project not yet authorized, the Albany County Legislature has approved contracts totaling more than $4 million for the proposed county civic center.

The Democrat-controlled body voted last week on separate slow roll calls for five contracts involving design, management and financial counsel for the 15,000-seat center. The project has been beset with controversy and planning delays for more than two years.

Republican legislators punctuated the voting with protests, including a declaration by Kenneth S. MacAffer, Jr. of Menands that the civic center would be "the most catastrophic boondoggle that ever hit the county of Albany."

Robert W. Hoffmeister of Delmar urged that the measures be tabled because they were "inappropriate."

"I feel as though I have been here before," Hoffmeister said, reminding the legislators that the history of the civic center project included an environmental impact study that was approved but that the site still is being questioned, with the Urban Development Corporation presently studying ways to preserve historic buildings in the project area.

"We're jumping ahead, doing something without waiting for the report on that study," he said.

The legislative action means that Crozier architectural firm will be paid $2.1 million to $2.3 million for design; Beltron Construction/MBL Industries, more than $2 million for construction management; Spector Management, Inc. of Philadelphia, $225,000 to $261,000 as management consultants during the design and construction; Burke, Cavalier, Lyman and Shanley law firm, up to $60,000 for bond counseling, and First Albany Corp., $80,000 to $100,000 to serve as financial consultant.

The two bid contracts — to the architectural firm and the construction manager — were authorized by a 31-7 vote. The contracts for Spector Management and legal services were authorized on votes of 27-11, and the one for the financial consultant firm, 28-10. Votes crossed party lines because some of the legislators wanted to wait on the lesser contracts until they could learn exactly what the entire project will cost, where it will be located, and how much financing will have to be bonded. Others decided to go along with Majority Leader Harold L. Joyce's reasoning that the contracts are needed for the very purpose of making specific facts and figures available before a bond issue can be voted upon. A two-thirds majority vote is required to approve bonding.

"We're moving a little fast ... why approve money for all this other stuff?" Republican Michael A. Ricci of Voorheesville said, explaining his vote for the main contracts but against the lesser ones. Hoffmeister and Minority Leader W. Gordon Morris of Delmar voted against all the center-related resolutions.

Joyce said he expected that detailed budget within six weeks. He praised the committee's work and said it would be the most active one in the county legislature's history.

But MacAffer contended that the committee "has done nothing but affirm decisions made under the aegis of the IDA" (the Industrial Development Corporation which at one time was the lead agency for the project).

MacAffer repeated warnings he has sounded in previous legislative meetings that the lawmakers will be held accountable for dealing with taxpayer money and criticized County Executive James Coyne for his promotion of the civic center concept.

"We are talking about spending money ... bushels and bushels and truckloads of money and we don't yet own the land, the environmental study is not complete, we don't know the construction cost ... the fact is, we don't know anything about it, and we have been led into this abyss by a leader sitting on top of his mistakes," he shouted. Later, he apologized to his colleagues for shouting but emphasized his concern over spending "millions of dollars of other people's money."

"I feel lucky today. These lovely Cameo priscillas are on sale."

PO official puts service first

By Ann Treadway

That old mailman's motto about making one's appointed rounds in spite of rain or sleet or snow is no joke to Barbara Altimari, 28, newly appointed superintendent of postal operations at the Delmar Post Office.

"We go out of our way to provide the best possible service," she said recently, noting that any complaints received about mail delivery are followed up quickly. There are 18 routes covered by Delmar carriers, she said.

In her new position, which she officially assumed on Dec. 21, Altimari assists Postmaster Henry Betke in running Delmar's postal operation.

Besides the two of them, the facility has 36 employees. And while Altimari says (after a pause to think) that "less than a quarter" of that number are women, she also says she has "no problem" handling her supervisory responsibilities.

If being up-front and unflappable are two qualities of a good supervisor, then it's easy to see why Altimari succeeds at it. She imparts information politely and directly, not volunteering but not holding back either.

Besides her demanding full-time job, she is also raising three children by herself, having recently separated from her husband and moved from Leeds to Ravena. She married shortly after graduating from Coxsackie-Athens High School in 1976, and her children are Lisa, 8, David, 5, and Daren, 2.

Altimari took a postal worker test in the spring of 1977, after spotting a notice about the opportunity in the Albany Times Union. She got a score of 89 and in August of 1979, a little more than two years later, was offered and took a part-time job at the New Baltimore Post Office.

Her prior experience included being a waitress at the Hot Shoppe in New Baltimore, and punching a time clock at the Betty Jean Dress Factory in Coxsackie.

She liked post office work and stayed at the New Baltimore facility for four years, while filling in during busy Christmas seasons at the Delmar Post Office. For the past three years, she's been a Delmar regular.

Barbara Altimari

Altimari describes her 8-to-5 job as one that calls for "keeping the office running smoothly," which includes serving customers promptly and pleasantly, supervising clerks and carriers to assure that they do, too, and making sure all accounts and records are accurate and up-to-date.

"I like being very active," she said, referring to her working style.

Postmaster Henry Betke reinforces that image. "She's a little dynamo," he said when asked about Altimari's functions at the Post Office.

He said her appointment to the superintendency was "a well-deserved promotion," and that he was "personally very pleased" when she officially assumed the position she had been filling for about nine months on an acting basis.

"She had certainly demonstrated her abilities," he said, "but she also passed the oral exam before a postal review board with flying colors."

Altimari, who currently earns about $27,000 as a supervisory postal worker, hopes someday to be a postmaster. She said she feels "very confident" in her job and that women are treated "very fairly" as postal employees.

When she can find any time for herself, she enjoys many sports, including cross-country skiing, tennis, swimming, and playing in a women's softball league.

One more time, it's Southbound!

The Voorheesville PTSA has come up with a way to warm up a cold February night — with the hottest band in town. On Friday, Feb. 28, Southbound will present two concerts to benefit the PTSA. The 7 and 9 p.m. shows will be presented at Clayton A. Bouton Junior-Senior High School. Tickets for each performance are $3 for adults and $2 for students. Gardening hints

While shoveling their driveways, few people are thinking about gardening, but as any gardener knows, now is the time to plan spring projects. Paul Jeffers of Jeffers Nursery will present a series of gardening lectures, beginning with a program on Wednesday, Feb. 26, entitled "General Gardening." The presentation, which will run from 7 to 9 p.m. in room 107 at the high school, "is designed to provide the very basics in growing a successful garden." Various garden problems will also be addressed.

Persons wishing to attend should register by calling 765-3314.

Jeffers will offer a program about "Home Lawn Care" on March 5, two sessions about general landscaping on March 12 and 19, and a program about pruning shrubs and trees on March 26.

Ecumenical event

The Kiwanis Club of New Scotland will hold its annual Henry Tiger memorial ecumenical service on Thursday, Feb. 27, at 7 p.m. at the New Scotland Presbyterian Church. Ministers from four area churches including the Presbyterian Church, the First United Methodist Church of Voorheesville, St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Church and the New Salem Reformed Church will participate. The service is held each year to foster a spirit of brotherhood among area residents.

All are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

Thank you

The officers and members of the Voorheesville Fire Dept. and Ladies Auxiliary wish to thank the countless community residents, merchants and business people who so generously responded to their first calendar fund raising drive. As a result of the enthusiastic support, planning for the 1987 convention is well underway.

Dinner dance

Joanne Donohue, chairman of the New Scotland citizen of the year committee, has announced that the dinner to honor this year's Citizen of the Year, Mike Michele, will be held on Friday, May 2, instead of May 9. The event will feature dinner and dancing at the American Legion Hall. More details will be available as the date grows nearer.

French ways

French II and IV students at Clayton A. Bouton Junior-Senior High School recently enjoyed a taste of France on a field trip. The students of high school language teachers Karen Griffin and Margaret Montouri attended a performance of "Cyrano de Bergerac," presented by the National Theater of Performing Arts, followed by a French lunch at a local restaurant.

The French IV students prepared for this event by reading and discussing portions of the play in French.

Type-a-thon

Typing students at the high school recently put their fast fingers to use for others as they participated in the type-a-thon to benefit the Leukemia Society. Asking neighbors to pledge a certain amount for every word they correctly typed during a 5 minute period, almost 20 students participated.

The top fundraisers were Yolanda Walker who raised $137, Jare Ginter who collected $116, and Elvira Azaola who brought in $100.

Other students who participated in the program were Darlene Condon, John Dacatur, Shannon York, Ron Champion, Rick D'Errico, Cheryl Nenzda, Carrie Murdoch, Rachel-Martin, Lisa Corrado, Lisa Semenick, Sue Edwards, Sara Fike, Jen Timmis, Todd Porter, Sue Arthur and Mark Wight.

Students compete

Eighteen junior senior high school students from the Voorheesville Central School District recently participated in the John Hopkins University Search for Talented Youth by taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

Those students who scored higher than 500 in math and 530 in reading on the test, which is normally attempted by eleventh graders, will be eligible to participate in summer academic programs for talented students at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs.

Students who participated were Matt Jeffers, Joe Genovesi, Rich Adams, Tom Genevese, Sandra Huang, Tammy Loewy, Beth Miller, Jesse Rosenblum, Theresa Wakefield, Ellen Barber, Matt Hladun, Jonathan Bissell, Todd Relyea, Bill Stone, Bill Mattfeld, Chad Hotaling, Jon Franchini and Anjanette Ohlerking.

Burglar hits home

A Krumkill Rd. resident who had been out earlier in the evening called Bethlehem police about 3:45 a.m. Sunday after he had felt a draft and discovered a bedroom window was wide open.

According to police reports, a porch sliding door had been pried open, weatherstripping was ripped off and a lattice had been removed from a window before the burglar or burglars gained entry. The homeowner reported jewelry missing.

Board finishes budget work

VOORHEESVILLE

Carrying an estimated tax rate increase of less than 6 percent, a 1986-87 "hearing" budget was adopted by the Voorheesville Board of Education last week. It is scheduled for a public hearing on Monday, March 24.

The $6,652,613 spending plan is up $404,266 from last year's $6,248,347 package. The hearing budget is $87,400 lower than the draft presented in January because some estimates have become firm figures, according to Superintendent Werner Berglas.

Berglas said in formulating the budget the district assumed a $100,000 increase in state aid.

More than half the $404,000 budget increase is to cover cost of salaries and benefits. Other significant increases include insurance costs, tuition for pupils with handicapping conditions and contract transportation.

New positions will be created for a foreign language teacher, a part-time foreign language department chairperson, a social worker and a part-time computer education coordinator.

A public hearing on the budget is scheduled for Monday, March 24, at 7 p.m. at Clayton A. Bouton Junior-Senior High School.

Following last week's regular meeting, Berglas reported that Dr. Custer Quick, assistant superintendent of the Albany-Schoharie-Schenectady County Board of Cooperative Educational Services and consultant to the Voorheesville district in its search for a new superintendent, has received more than 100 applications for the post. Berglas said the consultant will screen the applications and present a number of qualified candidates to the board.

The board will begin interviewing candidates for the job at the end of March. "The final decision probably won't be available until toward the end of April," Berglas said.

During last Monday's meeting, Karen Leach and Bruce Martelle presented a report on the Tom Buckley Memorial Project. While more than half the goal of $25,000 has been raised, Leach said the group would like to go beyond $25,000 and probably is looking at a second year of fund-raising. Some $15,785 has already been donated or pledged to provide a weight room at the junior-senior high school.

Amending a previous resolution, the board voted to rent two driver education cars from Orange Motors for three years.

The board also gave routine approval to a discipline code for the district. "We've had these (guidelines) in place for many years," said Berglas.

The board granted permission to the New Scotland Soccer Club to use two school soccer fields from April 1 through June 30.

In keeping with Environmental Protection Agency regulations, all fuel tanks in the district more than 10 years old will be inspected, business administrator Rodger Lewis reported. Lewis said Valley Equipment has agreed to inspect the tanks at a total cost of $1,500.

Lewis also reported that both diesel buses have been delivered.

Korea on cable

"Focus Korea," a television commentary on United States foreign policy, will be broadcast on the Bethlehem Channel during February and March.

Through a series of interviews with international relations experts, relevant issues such as the stationing of United States troops overseas, the encouragement of democratic governments, the influence of multinational corporations on government policy and the reduction of cold war tensions, will be addressed.

"Focus Korea" is produced by the Committee for a New Korea Policy, a project of the Albany Friends Meeting.

The first part of the program, entitled "Women in Korea," will be aired on Feb. 20 and 27 at 8 p.m. "Political Developments in Korea" will be aired on March 6 and 13 at 8 p.m. "Why Korea?" will be broadcast on March 20 and 27 at 8 p.m.

For information call 439-8111.

Driver faces court

A Delmar man was charged with misdemeanor driving while intoxicated after his car was spotted bouncing off snowbanks along Delaware Ave. Thursday night, according to Bethlehem police reports. The man was pulled over shortly after 11 p.m.

Riding center aided

The Albany Therapeutic Riding Center in Voorheesville has been awarded a $500 grant from the Mohawk-Hudson Community Foundation Inc.

Forgery charged

Patrick St. L. Moncrieffe, 21, of Albany was arrested Feb. 10 at Delaware Plaza on a felony charge of second-degree forgery, according to Bethlehem police reports. Moncrieffe is accused of forging and attempting to cash a stolen check made out in the amount of $190. When they arrested Moncrieffe, police recovered blank checks and a coat that had been stolen last September from a parked car in Albany, according to the report. The suspect was taken to the Albany County Jail pending a bail hearing.

News from Selkirk and South Bethlehem

Barbara Pickup

Biblical times

The scriptures came to life last Sunday at the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem when the youth group members portrayed many familiar Biblical personalities. Clothed in the style of the Biblical era, the teens conducted the entire morning worship service.

The children's reading was presented by David Brown. Tracy Layman provided the sermon. A duet was performed by Kim Nelson and Celia Shubert.

Biblical figures were portrayed by: Kris Lagere as Mary; Jackie Lagere as Martha; Paula Koonz as the blind person; Paul Parisi as Zackarius; Eric Brown as the Leper; Scott Fourman as doubting Thomas; Sherrie VanKempen as the woman at the well, and Al Van Alstyne as Lazareth.

The youths, under the supervision of David Koonz, Jill Koonz and Donna Nelson, hosted the morning coffee hour following the service. In addition to the delicious home-baked pastries, they also served an assortment of foods customary in Biblical times, including dates and goat's milk.

Skate and dine

The church school of the South Bethlehem Methodist Church is sponsoring a roller skating party on Saturday, Feb. 22. Members of the community are welcome to meet at 4 p.m. at the church on Willowbrook Ave. The group will travel to the Rollerama in Schenectady for skating from 5 to 7 p.m. The $2.50 admission includes skate rental.

The skating will be followed by a pot luck dinner at the Carmen United Methodist Church in Schenectady. For reservations call Marion Fross or Rev. Gary Dickson at 767-9953.

Students honored

The principal's advisory committee of Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk School met on Feb. 6 and selected Michael Mims and Holly Wilkie students of the month for December of 1985. The honors program is sponsored by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Michael Mims, a senior, is the son of Mrs. Pearl Mims of Selkirk. He is a member of the baseball team, track team, intramural soccer and volleyball teams. Mike is also a member of DECA and enjoys playing tennis as a hobby. His fellow students selected him for the award because "he is good natured and friendly to everyone," and the students enjoy having him as a friend because he cheers them up.

Holly Wilkie, the daughter of Mrs. Lule Wilkie of Selkirk, is also a senior at RCS. A member of the drama club and chorus, Holly is currently taking lessons in singing and acting at the College of St. Rose. She has been named to play the lead in this year's production of "Irene". Holly's ambition is to become an actress.

In addition to serving as a statistician for the track team, Holly plays the piano and enjoys fishing, horseback riding and swimming.

Lenten study

The Rev. Gary Dickson of the South Bethlehem United Methodist Church will be conducting a Lenten study, beginning on Sunday, Feb. 23, and continuing three times a week through Lent. Based on the theme of "Body Building," — the study will focus on building fellowship and examining relationships. The sessions will be held every Sunday at 9:45 a.m., and every Wednesday at 10:00 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. at the church on Willowbrook Ave. All are welcome.

Fight world hunger

A starve-a-thon has been planned by the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem youth group for this weekend. The teens and their advisors, David Koonz, Jill Koonz, and Donna Nelson, plan to refrain from eating for a total of 30 hours to raise money for those who are starving. The group will consume just water or juice and stay at the church, Rt. 9W, Selkirk.

The teens are asking people to help by pledging money for each hour of fasting. Individuals may contribute as little or much as they deem appropriate.

Revelations from the past

Did you know that the Continental Congress elected John Hanson as the first "president of the United States in Congress Assembled?" George Washington, later to be first president of the United States of America, wrote to congratulate Hanson on his "appointment to fill the most important seat in the United States."

February is American History Month, and the Daughters of the American Revolution, Hannacrois Chapter want to encourage the study and enjoyment of American History. As chairman of American History Month for the chapter, Mrs. Mary E. VanOostenbrugge has placed exhibits pertaining to the nation's heritage in various locations throughout the community. The displays are at the Ravena Library on Main St. in Ravena; at the Bethlehem Historical Museum, Rt. 144 and Clapper Rd. in Selkirk, and at the Selkirk Post Office, Maple Ave.

Material for Barbara Pickup's column can be sent to her at P.O. Box 172, RD 1, Selkirk, N.Y. 12158. For questions or late items, call The Spotlight at 439-4949.

Continuing ed at RCS

Registration for the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk spring continuing education program will be held at RCS Junior High School on Wednesday, Feb. 26, from 6 to 8 p.m.

The program, which begins March 3, will include courses in dog obedience, basic photography, cake decorating, basic quilting, aerobics, basketball, SAT preparation, pre-licensing, the job market and stress management.

For information call Joanne Nunan at 756-2155 or 439-7170, or write to Joanne Nunan, RCS Junior High School, Rt. 9W, Ravena, N.Y. 12143.

Trip to USSR

Applications for a trip to the Soviet Union, sponsored by the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR), must be submitted by Feb. 28.

The summer trip, which is open to 20 individuals from age 16 to 20, will be held from June 23 to July 15.

Under the supervision of FOR staff, the participants will meet with representatives of the Soviet Peace Committee and Soviet youth organization. The group will also visit historical sites.

FOR is a group committed to achieving a "just and peaceful world community, with full dignity and freedom for every human being." The group, based in Nyack, works to abolish war and to create a community of concern transcending national boundaries.

The cost of the trip is $2,400. There will be some scholarship assistance available from local peace groups.

Reading hearts, not minds

Many people expect their psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers and other mental health therapists to read their minds. They attribute mystical powers to those of us who study and train in the art-science of psychotherapy. They believe we can see through personality masks, ego defenses and emotional guardedness constructed over years of insult, pain and emotional trauma. They are disappointed when we do not.

It is acceptable when a next-door neighbor says of a tower sniper who then takes his own life "I never would have thought he was capable of such violence. He seemed so nice and friendly all the time." It is unacceptable when one of our psychotherapists who happened to be working with that man for a few weeks says the same thing. We expect the therapist to see into the deep, dark recesses of such a disturbed mind and cure it.

The mental health professions have a responsibility to use the tools of their trades to establish therapeutic relationships within which their clientele can feel safe enough to let their guards down, secure with secrets, uninhibited enough to express fantasies and sides of their personalities they rarely display, and optimistic enough to try new ways of handling life and all the people in it. Such relationships usually take time and must pass the sometimes subtle, yet critical tests of that time before they progress to deeper levels.

Yet, those professions that train their members in the skills of psychotherapy have no tools to offer in the way of mind reading — only educated guesswork and trained intuition. In the dynamic, sometimes charged atmosphere of a therapeutic relationship, those tools can be highly potent means for encouraging painful self-exploration toward discovering truths, understanding balances and self-acceptance.

Mind reading is still couched within the gypsy's tent, the mentalist's stage and the parapsychologist's laboratory, not on the analyst's couch...

Mind reading is still couched within the gypsy's tent, the mentalist's stage and the parapsychologist's laboratory, not on the analyst's couch or any other therapist's office. It is an occasional reality enjoyed by us normal folks, but coincidentally, not controllably. Perhaps the future will see a development of telepathic proportions, but for now our species is limited to reading not the thoughts of the mind, but rather the feelings of the heart.

As heart readers, we can learn to be sensitive to the emotions of our fellow beings. We can tune into underlying feelings masked by overt displays of behavior. We can be trained to pick up clues of facial expression, body posture, a spoken or unspoken word, a gesture. We can build bridges of emotional connections through empathy, the quality of feeling another's feelings, and communicating the message, "I am with you."

It is heart reading, not mind reading, that therapists can be expected to do with people seeking their help, for in demonstrating the skills, they are teaching them, as well. It is heart reading that comprises some of the basic skills of the helping professions. And it is heart reading that holds the hope of a better world through understanding and compassion among all people.

Feelings are universal and an inherent part of the human condition. For example, my fear is identical to the fear experienced by an old woman in Ethiopia, although we may feel it in different ways and express it in different ways. Nevertheless, it is the emotion of fear and all of us have the inborn capacity to feel it along with all the other emotions that grace the human canvas.

And how is this wondrous skill of heart reading to be learned? How can one tune in to the inner feelings of another? How can one tell the difference between a surface feeling and a deep emotion or a mask and a genuine revelation?

We can learn to feel other's feelings simply by learning to feel our own. If, indeed, emotions are universal, then once we have felt any feeling and identified it so that we can recognize it again and again, we will know it whenever it is being felt, whether by ourselves or by someone else.

If we are to explore our fellow man, we first must explore ourselves. If we are to reach inside another, we first must reach inside ourselves. If we are to connect with another's feelings, we first must connect with our own. If we are to understand another, then we first must understand ourselves. If we are to become heart readers, then we first must learn to read that heart which beats within our very own breasts, because when you reach out from your heart, you will connect with every other human being who has learned to do the very same thing, and you will build bridges everywhere.

Perhaps, it is true that "I think, therefore, I am." But, as man is not an island, I would pose the following corollary: "We feel, therefore, we are."

The streak ends

By Nat Boynton

The din was deafening at poolside as three swimmers matched powerful strokes in flying spray down the final lap of the medley relay, the anchor leg of the momentous clash of two potent teams, undefeated Bethlehem Central and favored New Hartford.

They were neck and neck in the two New Hartford lanes sandwiching Bethlehem's A-team, and the capacity crowd held its collective breath for a photo finish.

The three racers were only inches apart as they surged toward the wall, three hands touching the shiny tile almost simultaneously, and the crowd was silent as judges and timers huddled for the decision. When it came, it was devastating for the home crowd — New Hartford first and second, BC third.

On the scoreboard the lighted numbers went up, Home 01, Visitors 09.

Three more events and the home deficit had shrunk to 14-17, and when BC's Alex Hall, turning in the finest performance of his career, won the diving with Scott Reed third, New Hartford was leading by a mere two points at 20-18.

But it was not to be, and the final score made history: New Hartford 46, Bethlehem 37.

Those numbers spelled the end of Bethlehem Central's legendary win streak in varsity swimming, 146 straight in dual meets over a span of nine seasons, a skein unprecedented in the annals of New York State scholastic athletics.

It also marked the first time Bethlehem had lost a meet in its home pool in 16 years. The last opponent to win in Delmar was Shaker in the 1969-70 season.

In Friday night's magnificent meet both coaches agreed that the thrilling finish of the meet's opening event was the key. That was when New Hartford's Jim Cameron, weary of bringing strong teams to Delmar for a decade without a victory, made a courageous decision. He split his two medley relays, assigning his strongest swimmers to different lanes while BC's Buzz Jones, striving to upset the more powerful guests, went with his best foursome.

"That first relay really hurt us," Jones said after the meet. "We couldn't get within range, we couldn't make that up. Their coach did a fantastic job splitting his relays. He not only did a good job, but he also got a lucky break — he couldn't have known how close the race would turn out and how even the split was."

Whatever was in Cameron's mind, the gutsy call paid off. "After our warmups and getting used to the pool, the boys said they felt comfortable on their turns with walls smoother and more slippery than they're used to," he confided to a reporter. "So I felt I could split the A and B relays, and it made all the difference."

Jones had no such luxury, lacking not only the all-around manpower of New Hartford, but also a first-line performer in the butterfly. "We wanted a second in the first relay," he said. "We missed by a foot, and we lost the meet. It was a helluva meet, and we gave it our best. The kids knew the odds were against us making up for that relay, but they never gave up. In the last relay, knowing they needed a 1-2 and seeing New Hartford with a comfortable lead they went right down the line and swam some great splits."

After the opening shocker the meet went pretty much as planned in a sport in which coaches' strategic placements often determine the outcome. Justin Baird secured a second for BC in the 200 free with a clocking of 1:53.20, half a body length behind Stephan Rodiger, New Hartford's sophomore star who won in 1:52.14, and John McCarthy gave BC an important point for third. In the 1M the Eagles went 1-3 as Pierre LaBarge opened up a lead in the backstroke, widened it to two body lengths in the fly and held on to win in 2:09.63. Keith Dix was third in 2:17.9, barely one second off his best time.

Chris Drew and George Tanner gave the home crowd fresh hope with another 1-3 in the 50 free. Drew, swimming the fastest 50 of his young life in 22.7, was only three-tenths of a second off the pool record of 22.4 shared by John Demarest, who graduated last year, and the legendary Kenny Neff. Tanner's third gave BC an unexpected point.

"For a freshman to come that close to a pool record was very exciting," said Jones.

With a third consecutive 1-3 in the diving the Eagles were only two points down, but then came the dreaded butterfly and an easy 1-2 for New Hartford. Here Jones, seeing the writing on the scoreboard, was forced to depart from his game plan, switching the dependable LaBarge to the 500 to get a first and sending Baird into the 100 free to make certain of a third in an event in which New Hartford's Bill Keiser was, in Jones's view, unbeatable.

Baird and Joe Kowalski made the move look good with a 2-3 finish in the 100, Baird shaving a full second off his previous best time with a clocking of 52.25.

"I know Justin was disappointed to be switched out of the 500, but he responded by making it an opportunity for a best time."

LaBarge, however, couldn't match Rodiger, a coming superstar, in the 500, and the visitors went 1-3, costing BC one point they had counted on.

Now it was 35-24 and New Hartford needed only eight points to clinch. Drew joined Rodiger as a double winner by taking the backstroke in 59.7, his best time to date, but the enemy went 2-3. BC's Peter Greenwald won the breaststroke and Keith Dix delivered a bonus point with a third, but with only the freestyle relay left, the Eagles needed a superhuman 1-2 to survive. Jones called a huddle and told his swimmers he was mixing the relay lineup instead of putting out his strongest quartet.

"It's our only chance," he told the boys. "Swim your best splits, this is all we've got, let's go for it, guys."

But the split relays didn't have the depth to pull off the impossi-

AFFORDABILITY

• According to recent statistics, the affordability index has reached its highest level in six years: more families are able to afford the average-price home. Higher income levels and lower interest rates, which cut the effective cost of homeownership, are given credit for the change.

• Of course, as a homeowner, what you care about is who can afford to buy YOUR house for sale. You want a buyer who has an adequate cost of down payment and who can get a mortgage to pay your price.

• How do you find such a buyer? As an individual trying to sell a house, you almost have to trust to luck. Even if you find a prospect who wants to buy, you can't ask searching questions about a stranger's income and capital. You may have to "sell" the property several times before you come up with one who qualifies for a mortgage.

• Let a real estate agent do the hard part. We CAN ask those questions — and get accurate answers, too. Before we bring a prospect to see your house, we've made certain that the "affordability" is there.

A record that will stand

No other varsity team in any school in Section 2 has ever remotely approached the winning streak compiled by BC's varsity swim team. Bethlehem has not lost a dual meet to a league foe since 1970, and has been defeated only twice in their last 239 dual meets, both to schools outside the section.

The Eagles' most recent loss came on Feb. 16, 1977, at New Hartford, in the final dual meet of the 1976-77 season. The defeat that evening was by a single point. The only other defeat in Coach Jack Whipple's 13 seasons at the varsity helm was at Rome Free Academy in February, 1976.

The fabulous victory string began with the start of the 1977-78 season and continued until the final meet of the 1985-86 season. Over that nine-year span Bethlehem swam against Rome and New Hartford, two perennial Central New York swim powerhouses in Section 3 (Utica area) each year, visiting each school on alternate years, and each season was able to turn back strong challenges from each of those teams in the climactic February meets.

Over the years as the intersectional rivalries developed, the swimmers, their coaches and parents found themselves building a strong bond. Each time Bethlehem parents host the Rome or New Hartford contingent in Delmar, they put on a post-pool reception at BCHS, offering the visitors a light buffet and soft drinks before their guests begin the 100-mile trip home. When the Eagles and their boosters visit Rome or New Hartford, their hosts return the friendly courtesy.

During his tenure as varsity coach, Whipple's teams won 15 consecutive league championships and 13 straight Sectional crowns. When he resigned to accept an administrative position as assistant principal at Guilderland Central High School in the summer of 1984, he was succeeded by Paul (Buzz) Jones, who had assisted Whipple both in the BC program and the Delmar Dolphins Swim Club age-group program, which both coaches and parents credit with supplying and developing the talent that built the impressive Bethlehem dynasty.

Jones led the Eagles to an undefeated season last year, adding to the win streak, and up to last week's final meet without a defeat. Under his tutelage, Bethlehem has run its string of league championships to 17 straight, and the team will be favored to make it 15 straight Sectional titles in the March 7-8 assemblage at the Albany State pool.

Last Friday's setback was also the first time Bethlehem had lost a dual meet in its home pool since Shaker turned the trick in the 1969-70 season. The Eagles then put together two unbeaten seasons under Ray Sliter before Whipple took over. Nat Boynton

Mosley, Ogawa pace Dolphins

Jennifer Mosley, Lisa Ogawa and Paul Engel turned in good performances for the Delmar Dolphins at the Colonie Aquatic Club Odd-Age meet. The meet is designed to give an edge to swimmers at the young end of their regular U.S. Swimming age groups.

Mosley, swimming among 12-13 girls, returned with two first-place medals (200-yard IM and 100 breaststroke) and a third in the 200 freestyle. Ogawa, competing in the 14-15 girls category, earned three second places and a third. Engel, swimming against 10-11 boys, won the breaststroke, and placed fifth and sixth in other events.

Other Dolphin medalists were Jill Cleveland, Kate Fish, Pat Fish, Hitomi Kubo and Merideth Dix.

ble and settled for 2-3. History was made.

"We had to split because a weak third wouldn't do us any good," Jones said.

Cameron, whose team was the last to defeat BC in the finale of the 1977 season — by one point in New Hartford — took the historic triumph calmly.

"We're very happy to beat BC," he said as swimmers and parents of both teams gathered for post-prandial refreshment hosted by BC boosters. "It's a wonderful rivalry we have here, great competition in a friendly atmosphere, and we know right now that BC will be coming to New Hartford next year gunning for us."

New Hartford, now 12-1 for the season, lost only to Liverpool, ranked No. 3 in the state behind Fairport (Section 5, Rochester-Finger Lakes) and Lockport (Section 6, Buffalo area). Liverpool, Rome and New Hartford are in Section 3, which embraces Central New York from the Syracuse-Utica area to Binghamton.

For his part Jones had his swimmers back in the pool Saturday morning, working to lower times for the Section 2 championships at Albany State weekend after next.

Wrestlers savor season

Blackbirds had strength everywhere

By Tanya Severino

Although the Voorheesville wrestling season has ended, the Blackbirds have had many successes to savor. Of 13 wrestlers 12 placed in the Colonial Council tournament, 10 finished in the top four of their class in the Class C Sectionals, and four finished in the top four of the Section 2 state qualifiers. The Birds finished with a 14-3 overall record that included the dual league championship and the Colonial Council championship.

Last Saturday Voorheesville sent 10 wrestlers to the state qualifiers at the Glens Falls Civic Center. "They all wrestled well, but unfortunately we did not have any champions," stated head coach Richard Leach.

Senior Bill Kelly lost to Steve Hart of Ballston Spa in the finals of the 167-pound championships.

Rich Kane and Mark Gillenwalters finished third in their classes and Mark Chryrwyat was fourth.

"I feel very good about our season; it was a good finish for us," feels Leach.

Yet Leach feels that next year there will be some big shoes to fill due to the loss of six seniors. Tri-captain Gillenwalters finished his career with 105 wins, the fourth in Voorheesville's history to reach 100 wins behind Jeff Clark, Jeff Genovesi and Shawn Sheldon. In addition he won the Queensbury and Suffern tournaments, ending the 85-86 season with a 29-5 record.

Tri-captain Kelly earned a 25-6-1 record this year, placing second in the Queensbury, Suffern and league tournaments. He also won the Class C championship.

Tri-captain Kane had a gratifying season, sweeping the Queensbury, Suffern, League and Class C championships in his class. Kane held on to a 28-3 record in his fourth varsity season.

Senior Chryrwyat placed fourth in the state qualifiers and the Suffern tournament, second in the league, and clinched the Class C title. Chryrwyat ended with a 22-8 record.

Brian DeDe held fifth in the Suffern, fourth in the league and placed third in the Section 3 championship in the 155 weight class. John Layaou added an 18-11-1 record. He was second in the league championships and third in Class C.

Returning next year will be Pat Ryan, Matt Cillis, Rick Leach, Bob Blanchard, Jason DePasquale, John Traudt, and Mario Darpino.

Honored at the Bethlehem Central mens soccer banquet, recently held at the Western Turnpike, were: Mat Dunmore, left, coach's award; Todd Smith, best defense; Toby Dunmore, most valuable; Joel Keens, most improved, and Paul Stracke, best offense.

5 Indian wrestlers in Sectional finals

By Tim Penk

The RCS wrestling team finished its post-season this week, sending five wrestlers to the Sectional finals. Tim Baranska was the only one to place in the first three.

Baranska pinned his first opponent in 20 seconds. In his second match, he beat the Class A champion, but lost his third match to Bill Kelly of Voorheesville, 5-3. Baranska pinned his fourth opponent to take third place overall.

The other four RCS wrestlers won in the first round, but lost in the second. Jerry Baranska won by technical fall, but lost a tough second match, 9-7. Luther Legg had a pin in the first round but lost by technical fall in the second round. Mark VanHoesen pinned the Class B champion, but was pinned in his next match. Ken Lsee also won his first match but lost the second.

The Indians have had a very successful season. Coach John V. Shneowski was disappointed with the Sectionals, but recognized that the competition was tough. Each of these wrestlers will return next year with a chance to be among the top wrestlers in the league.

Saba, Dayter pace BC grapplers

Two Bethlehem Central sophomores capped banner wrestling seasons over the weekend by making the quarterfinals of the highly competitive Section 2 championships.

Chris Saba, competing in a weight class that saw no fewer than three previous Section 2 champions eliminated, lost to Pat DiCaprio of Scotia by a 6-2 decision in the quarterfinal round of the 112-pound division. Jim Dayter, also facing a formidable array at 126 pounds, was edged, 1-0, by Paul York of Corinth, also in the quarterfinals.

"It was a real rough match, very exciting, between two very skilled wrestlers," observed Rick Poplaski, BC's varsity mat coach. "It could have gone either way."

Poplaski also remarked that Saba, along with two others who were denied a return trip to the state championships at Syracuse next weekend, was competing in "a tremendously talented" weight class at last weekend's eliminations at the Glens Falls Civic Center.

"Chris had a fine year and you can say that Dayter had an exceptional year," said Poplaski. "We're looking for some great things from these two next season, and we have several other kids with real potential who have a good shot at a Sectional championship in the next two years. Our sophomore contingent has made substantial improvement, and they have the talent to go places next season."

Three other mainstays of the Bethlehem team were defeated in their first-round bouts at Glens Falls. They were Pat Leamy, John Sinuc and Sean Nixon. Although the tourney ranks the first three places, only the winner earns a trip to the state meet.

Birds must slip by Cats

Even though Catskill isn't the impenetrable basketball fortress it has been in the recent past, Voorheesville hoop coach Bob Crandall says it will take "a real strong effort" to get his Blackbirds past the opening round of the Sectional tournament.

His strategy in the first-round matchup tonight (Wednesday, 7 p.m.) on the Cats' home hardwood is to slow the game down.

His reasoning: "We can't run with them. If we try, they'll blow us out. They're not great from the outside, they depend a lot on the fast break to score points. We're as big as they are, but they've won 14 games in their league and they're very quick. They have Joe Lyles up front — he's very strong, and we'll have to concentrate our defensive efforts on him. The whole-team likes to run."

Anything the Blackbirds can get out of the post-season playoffs would be that much gravy. It's an open tournament, so no team has to earn a berth, and Crandall let the Blackbirds go in as a reward for working hard and being what he termed "an exceptional bunch of kids."

Crandall's bunch closed out their regular 20-game schedule last Tuesday at Cohoes with another tough-luck loss, 42-39. "We had our chances to win," he said. "We played very well. It was a strong effort. We had people open under the basket, but we couldn't get the ball to them."

It was nip-and-tuck at the end. In the familiar game-ending situation, where the Blackbirds had to foul to get possession, they threw away two chances to tie or go ahead. For a while it looked like Voorheesville's night. Jerry Borg threw in 10 points in the first half and the Blackbirds had a two-point bulge at intermission. Going into the last period the Tigers were up by one.

Borg ended with 17 points and a strong game under the boards, and Justin Corcoran had 14.

The Blackbirds closed their regular season at 8-12 and were 6-10 in the Colonial Council.

Rested Ravena girls head back to the top

By Bart Gottesman

Things are starting to return to normal for the RCS girls varsity basketball team. They are beginning to get back to full strength after a bout with sickness.

Ravena got a much needed break on Tuesday when a game with Mechanicville was postponed. The day off gave the girls time to rest up and proved helpful when the Indians easily handled Watervliet, the only team to beat Colonial Council co-leader Schalmont this year.

The victory on Friday by a 58-46 score was a big one for the Indians. It came at a time when the girls needed a confidence booster. Sheila Seery and Terri Baker led a furious surge in the first quarter to take a 20-7 lead, each scoring six points in the first eight minutes. Seery ended up with a career high of 19.

Ravena took a commanding 29-13 lead at the half and never was faced with any threats as they led at the end of three, 48-27. Tracy Tucker added 16 points with a perfect 10-10 from the foul line. Baker and Frances Losee followed with 12 and 10 respectively.

This week is an important one for the squad as they take on winless Waterford away and Mechanicville at home on Tuesday and Wednesday. If Ravena gets victories in their two games and Schalmont wins all of their games, the stage will be set for a first-place battle on Friday at Schalmont. The Indians will be trying to avenge an earlier loss, as well as take first place in the tough Colonial Council.

Eagles win thriller in overtime

By Charles Henrikson

The Bethlehem Central boys basketball team finished off the season with a bang by defeating Mohonasen in overtime last Tuesday. The team played well and stuck together to pull out the victory.

The game began in the all-too-familiar format of the opposition pulling away early. Mohonasen was up 10-7 at the quarter and 26-20 at the half. BC, still in range, played an excellent third quarter, outscoring Mohonasen 18-8 to pull the Eagles ahead, 38-34.

As the fourth quarter began, the Mohons pulled even, and it looked as though they were going to wrap up a victory, but BC held its own and the score was 52-52 with just a few seconds left in regulation time. It was BC's ball, thrown in to Mike Hodge, who lofted up a last-second desperation shot. Much to everyone's surprise, the shot went through the hoop as the buzzer sounded. BC's bench erupted, but a whistle sounded. An official nabbed Hodge with a questionable traveling call, and the game went into overtime.

BC strategy in the overtime was to hold the ball until Mohonasen got too anxious and fouled. This worked beautifully, as BC took the game, 58-56. Paul Stracke scored five of BC's six overtime points. He made a layup and three free throws.

Coach Jack Moser was ecstatic after the game. He was pleased with his team's play, and felt that all of his outgoing seniors played well, especially Greg Dobbert, who led the team's scoring with 16 points. Stracke put in 11 and Geoff Mackey nine. Mike Gibbons played an excellent final game, scoring eight and getting a number of assists and rebounds. Karim Jakhra and Mike Cornell also finished off their high school careers.

Moser was disappointed with his team's record of 2-13 in the league and 3-17 overall. There were four juniors on the team, Ed Perry, Brian Battle, Gary Winn and Jim Walsh, all but one of whom saw considerable playing time. The two sophomores, John Peyrebrune and Hodge, should be a solid backcourt duo by next year.

Ladybirds top Cohoes

By Rick Leach

One win, one loss. That was how the week went for the Voorheesville girls basketball team and how it has been going for the past few weeks. They defeated weak Cohoes 52-44, but suffered a 44-35 loss at the hands of Mechanicville.

In the latter game the Ladybirds were playing without their "twins towers" Laura Martin and Tricia Carmody. Martin was out with a sprained ankle she incurred in the Cohoes game, while Carmody came down with the flu.

In the game at home with the Tigers, it was close into the third quarter. In the third stanza the Birds broke it wide open by outscoring their opponents, 21-2, including a 16-0 run. The Blackbird reserves played the fourth quarter and held on for the victory.

Carmody led the way with 19 points, while Christy Tarullo added 12 and Martin eight before going down late in the first half. Paige Hotaling, Martin's replacement, came off the bench to score seven points.

In the Mechanicville game on Friday, the girls lost despite a sparkling all-around effort by Tarullo. She had 18 points and pulled down 19 rebounds to keep the Birds close until late in the third quarter.

It's 'next year' for 3-17 Indians

By Bart Gottesman

After a long season the RCS basketball team can finally put this year's 3-17 campaign behind them and look forward to rebounding next year.

The Indians entered the final week of play hoping for morale-building wins over league co-champ Mechanicville and Schalmont, but the wins weren't to come as RCS ended with losses by margins of 18 and seven points.

At Mechanicville the home team dominated the boards and took advantage of Ravena's weak inside game. "We really got hurt inside," said Jim Gorham, RCS coach. "They scored with ease inside, and if they didn't score with their first shots, they tipped the ball in on second attempts."

In the 61-43 loss, Ravena was led by junior John Waddingham as he hit for 14 points.

In a battle to keep out of the cellar of the Colonial Council, Ravena and Schalmont met in a must-win situation at Ravena. With 40 seconds left on the clock Ravena had the ball and a four-point deficit, but all chances of a Ravena victory were terminated by a poor shot and the opponent came up with the rebound. Forced to a must-foul situation, Ravena took the loss, 52-45.

Gorham labeled the game as one of the worst home court shooting performances of the season. Waddingham again led the green and gold, scoring 12 points. Tony Williams chipped in with eight.

Gorham said he plans to return for next year's season and will talk individually with each player and tell him what he has to do to improve.

Chris-Frese, Mike Mims and Bob Baranska are the only three players who will not be returning next year. The arrival of Paul Eddy and Mike Frazzetta, up from the JV, should be helpful.

BC gymnasts vault to 4th

By Dave DeCecco

Thanks to many personal high scores and especially strong floor exercise routines, the Bethlehem gymnastics team performed well in the Section 3 championships. They finished fourth in their division with 91.95 points, barely three points behind winner Ihabod Crane, a team BC had beaten earlier this season before injury problems struck the Eagles.

Bethlehem scored higher than all of their Division 2 rivals in the floor exercise. Senior co-captain Cindy Ferrari turned in her best performance this year with a 7.05 score. Sophomores Shelly Miller and Krista Romanski, along with junior Wendy Thompson, all turned in personal records. Their scores were 7.0, 6.4 and 4.7. Junior Jen Engstrom, the other co-captain, received a 5.8, not her best, nevertheless a solid performance.

Coach Megan Brown was pleasantly surprised with these high scores. "In big meets like this, the scores usually go down. Since the judges see so many routines, they tend to be more conservative with their scoring. I think the girls did a great job."

The team also did well in the vault. Engstrom, Romanski, Miller and Ferrari all earned personal bests, and Engstrom placed 18th.

The balance beam produced different results. Shenendehowa did not rope off the spectators, therefore many non-competitors roamed by and distracted the athletes in this event, which requires concentration. Brown did not notice any crisp routines from other schools; evidently all competitors faced the same problem. Despite all of this, Romanski turned in a 4.95, her high score. Junior Sue Powell, plagued with illness earlier this season, scored 5.9 points.

The Eagles also had some trouble with the uneven bars. The bars were damp from earlier competitors, and the slippery apparatus made BC's scores lower than normal. Despite the conditions Engstrom's 4.55, Thompson's 4.3 and Romanski's 4.15 were personal highs.

Romanski got her best all-around score, a 22.65. Engstrom scored 22.55, Miller 22.35 and Ferrari earned an even 22 points.

Brown feels that the girls' scores in the vault and floor made up for the lower bar and beam scores, which were under par because of distractions.

The team's roster has been cut to nine, as a result of illness and injury throughout the season. "We could have taken it," said Brown, "if we'd had our full team."

Against Guilderland and Niskayuna, the Section 2 champions, BC scored 91.5 points in defeat. Guilderland scored 111.5 and the powerful Silver Warriors 119.25.

Shaker topped Bethlehem 109.4 to 89.8 earlier in the week. Powell won the beam with a 7.3 and Ferrari placed second in the floor exercise with a 7.0. "That's hard to do against Shaker," said Brown, referring to Ferrari's floor routine.

The future looks good for Bethlehem, as only Ferrari is lost to graduation.

Ross, Winkler, LeBeau lead BC

In track action last week the Bethlehem girls and boys indoor teams placed fourth and sixth respectively in the Suburban Council championship meet behind some stiff competition.

Friday's field event meet at Burnt Hills was where Kelly Ross cleared 5-foot-2 en route to victory in the high jump despite distractions from the shot put circle.

The track events were held at the Washington Ave. Armory in Albany on Saturday, where a wooden gymnasium-type floor tends to produce slower times. BC sophomore Connie Pogue placed second in the 45 and fifth in the 300, with respective times of 6.4 and 46.9. Bethlehem has been weak in the sprints some years, and she has provided strength all season.

Sitting back for most of the 1500, Jen Hammer came on strong late to finish third with a time of 5:12. Tricia Shultes ran a nice 1000 in 3:21, and also placed third. In the 3000, Tania Stasiuk was fourth in a quality field. These three joined Heather Wolfe in the two-mile relay, where they finished second to Colonie in 10:42.3.

Pete Winkler ignored the adverse conditions and proved to be "chairman of the boards" in the 3200-meter run. After chasing the leaders most of the way, he finally reeled them in, crossing the line first in 10:07. Craig Isenberg literally "crashed the boards" in that same race. Vying for a fourth place spot, the sophomore was unintentionally tripped up. He survived the spill, but decided not to continue.

Senior Mark LeBeau provided an essential win in the high jump during Friday's field event meet. He won a jump-off at 5-10 after just missing 5-11, thus scoring 10 points for the team. With his speedy 2:05.6 anchor leg, he guided Winkler, Ian Berry and Dave DeCecco to a fourth-place finish in the two-mile relay.

LeBeau also was a hot shot at last Monday's league meet, where the team lost to Troy and Albany and beat Guilderland, Albany Academy and Cohoes. He scored almost half of BC's 67 points with three impressive victories. The Shaker transfer won the hurdles in 7.5, toyed with the 1000-meter field in 2:45.2, and also took top honors in the high jump with a leap of 5-foot-8.

Winkler dusted his 3200 opposition to win in 10:19 and Isenberg stayed upright this time to finish fourth in a sub-par 11:11. These two, along with Berry and DeCecco, finished third in the two-mile relay, just three-tenths of a second behind Troy.

Bob Colquhoun and Dave Symansky each garnered thirds; Colquhoun with a 6.1 in the 45, and Symansky with a 33.5 1/2 leap in the triple jump.

The girls' team played second fiddle to Troy, but finished ahead of Guilderland, Cohoes and Albany. Hammer and Wolfe shut out the field in the 100, going 1-2 with times of 3:30.2 and 3:34.0. In the 1500, Tricia Shultes placed second in 5:22.8 behind standout Chrissy Smith of Guilderland. Stasiuk took second in the 3000, also trailing Smith, with an 11:42.2 clocking. These four comprised the two-mile relay, which easily won in 10:45.7.

Pogue ran well again, winning the 45 in 6.4 seconds. Ross mailed 5-2 in the high jump for an easy victory, and classmate Kris Cooke outdistanced the triple jumpers by a foot with a measurement of 28 feet 10 inches.

With the league meets over, the girls record stands at 18-8 while the boys team finishes at a much-improved 18-9. Tomorrow (Thursday), the field event part of the Sectionals will be held, and the track events will take place at the dreaded Washington Ave. Armory on Saturday.

The Home Front

By Betty Lent

First purchase for your new home should be a quality mattress. It's an important investment in your comfort and health. Plan on replacing it every 8 to 10 years.

Dust is an enemy of heating economy. Be sure that dust is not lowering the efficiency of radiators or the louvered vents in a hot air system.

What color should you paint the walls? Choose the palest pastel shade that complements the room decor. Bold colors may seem to close in on you.

It's not hard to wash soot and smoke off a marble fireplace if you do it promptly, and if the marble is waxed regularly. Use a neutral detergent and water.

Who's buying? Recently, more than half of all repeat buyers were trading up to a better home.

Who's the right buyer for your house? You can depend on us to find the prospect who'll pay top dollar for your property. List with the experts at

Regents report card

Editor, The Spotlight:

You all should be justifiably proud of your son's and daughter's achievements on the June 1985 Regents examinations. We just received the New York State Regents statistics for June 1985, and once again our students scored impressively. They surpassed the New York State percent passing and median scores in all fourteen Regents examinations taken. These statistics, in my opinion, are a more accurate guide of our students' achievement since they are true achievement tests that compare students of similar abilities and academic aspirations and focus on the same course content at a statewide level.

Business issue lauded

Editor, The Spotlight:

This letter is being forwarded to congratulate you on your recent issue focusing on business in our community. It was well done and well read, and I particularly felt it was beneficial to the business community and the residents of the Town of Bethlehem.

I would, however, like to comment that while some people felt the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce was responsible for gathering and furnishing the information, it was not. While The Spotlight was furnished business names by the Chamber, all statistical information was volunteered by the individual businesses.

Again, we felt the issue was a definite public benefit and hope that it will continue in future years as an annual issue.

Response time critical

Editor, The Spotlight:

The following statement was presented at the Feb. 4 public hearing on the State Department of Transportation's plans for the Mosher Bridge.

The Selkirk Fire District wishes to go on record in opposition to the elimination of the Mosher Bridge.

The Selkirk Fire District is responsible for protection of approximately one-half of the Town of Bethlehem (approx. 26 square miles) and maintains three fire houses to accomplish this task. No. 1 Fire House is located on Maple Avenue in Selkirk, New York, No. 2 Fire House is located on Glenmont Road in Glenmont, New York and No. 3 Fire House is located on Bridge Street in South Bethlehem, New York.

The District's three Class "A" main line pumpers are located, one each, in the three firehouses. Response to all fires is made from all three firehouses.

If the Mosher Bridge is eliminated the response time from #1 and #2 firehouses would be more than doubled for each. In addition, there is no public water located in the South Bethlehem area, the nearest fire hydrant being located on the north side of the Mosher Bridge near the railroad YMCA. There is approximately 1,500 gallons of water on fire trucks stationed in South Bethlehem. The water can be expended within 10 minutes. It is crucial that the other two trucks get to the scene of the fire as soon as possible in order to supply water. In addition, it is necessary that trucks be reloaded with water from the hydrant located on the north side of the Mosher Bridge.

Doubling the response time by the trucks from #1 and #2 firehouse would be life and structure-threatening and definitely hazardous to the health, safety and welfare of the community of South Bethlehem. Likewise, elimination of access to the fire hydrant on the north side of the Mosher Bridge would also threaten the health, safety and welfare of the community.

Presently the Jericho Bridge, which could be used to gain access to South Bethlehem is posted for eight tons and therefore cannot be used by the fire trucks.

The major supply of foam products for the fighting of chemical, oil, etc. fires is stored in a foam-carrying truck located in the South Bethlehem Fire House #3. Again, the elimination of Mosher Bridge would double the time in which this truck could get to fires in the remainder of the district. The Selkirk Fire District feels that this would be unacceptable for preventing the potential death and destruction caused by such fires.

The Fire District opposes the use of Alternative "C" as it would still require more time and distance to be travelled by the trucks in response to fires and would not solve the problem of obtaining water from the fire hydrant which is located on the northerly side of the Mosher Bridge. This problem would be solved by extending the water to the southerly side of the railroad right of way.

In conclusion, the Board of Fire Commissioners of the Selkirk Fire District opposes the elimination of the Mosher Bridge unless the Jericho Bridge is restored to a condition which would allow fire trucks to use it.

A letter of thanks

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am among a large number of residents in our Township who are pleased with a decision rendered by our Town's Zoning Board of Appeals. The Board unanimously denied a "Special Exception Permit" requested by one of our town councilpersons. The town councilperson, as a comparative newcomer in the area, wanted to establish a commercial swine operation at his home and property on Rt. 9W in Selkirk in the midst of many long time residents.

Those of us in the area which would have been immediately affected are grateful to the many residents in other parts of the Town who expressed to us their opposition to the granting of such a "Special Exception Permit."

We believe "there is a place for everything and that everything should be in its place." Our area is not a place for a commercial swine operation!

I thank everyone, residents and town officials alike, who did what needed to be done to insure compliance with the Town Ordinance as well as to give appropriate consideration to the public convenience and welfare. My faith in democracy has again been reaffirmed.

Appeal for understanding

Editor, The Spotlight:

Someone said to me yesterday "When you do a kind act it will come back two-fold." I wonder how an unkind act comes back?

An unkind act was certainly done last week to John B. Geurtze and to you people who live in this town, New York and surrounding states and to the unfortunate victims who would have benefited from research work done on the pig line John has developed over a twenty-five year period.

John has lived in this town all his life (56 plus years). He has supported it, not only financially but by being an active citizen and a good neighbor above and quite often beyond the call of duty. He has been, and is, a self-employed businessman. He has now been deprived of making a living. (Why? Because he moved two miles down the road into an agricultural/residential zone?) not just by some of his neighbors, but by people living more than a half a mile away. Unfortunately, it would appear, the appeals board has allowed itself to be intimidated by numbers instead of facts.

After his hearing before the board, a neighbor said to John "I wish you all the bad luck in the world." Doesn't that make you wonder how such an unkind remark will come back to that person? When a friend of ours heard about this remark, he said "I'd rather live next to 100 pigs than one person like that."

Oldtimers speak up

Editor, The Spotlight:

Last week The Spotlight published a letter entitled "Farmers Here First." The letter had to do with the recent zoning special exception permit application submitted by Mr. John B. Geurtze to conduct a commercial swine operation on Rt. 9W in Selkirk.

It is important for the writer and all who read his/her ("name submitted") letter to know that Mr. Geurtze has lived at his current residence for only four years. Each of his neighbors (those who border his property directly) have lived in their homes for many more years — a couple for 10 to 15 years, most for 20, 30 and 40 years. We are not newcomers!

Well handled

Editor, The Spotlight:

The following letter was sent to the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Town of Bethlehem.

On February 5, 1986, I attended the public meeting of the Board in Town Hall. I would like to convey to you my appreciation and complete satisfaction for your handling of the matter of John Geurtze's application for a commercial swine operation in the Town.

It was a privilege to witness the logical process of the board, member by member, in expressing individual and independent opinion, deliberately, openly and frankly, without reservation, before us all. You dispensed with that item of your agenda very efficiently and definitively. It was a pleasure to experience it! Congratulations!
