The Russians are here, and having a wonderful time

By Lorraine C. Smith

It could have been an all-American Independence Day cook out at the Vancans homestead on Adriance Lane in Slingerlands, what with Old Glory displayed at most of the neighbors, the hot dog-hamburg-potato salad fare being dished up by the guests themselves, and comfortable chatter and quick laughter ringing out from the group. But the occasion was just this past Friday — and the guests included seven citizens of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

These Soviets, technicians preparing for the rest of their troupe arriving later, are from the Moscow Musical Theatre of Children traveling to America under the first cultural exchange between the Soviet Union and the United States since 1979.

In addition to their June 4 through 16 performances at the Empire State Institute for the Performing Arts (The Egg), most of the group will travel on to Minnesota. They will present three different programs at The Egg — their signature piece ballet, The Blue Bird; a vocal performance, Miracle Music; as well as Prokofiev's Petya and the Wolf to be narrated in English by Natalia Sats, for whom the symphonic fairy tale was written almost 50 years

Feelings run high in mining hearing

By Patricia Mitchell

After four hours of questions, arguments, and views from both sides of the fence last Tuesday, the New Scotland Planning Board is no closer to a decision on a special use application to mine 27 acres of the former Tall Timbers Country Club.

Building Inspector Walter Miller, a member of the planning board, said on Monday the board has not decided on a date to continue the hearing, and will advertise when arrangements are made, possibly in July. Miller said the board is also considering hiring a geologist to study the area of the proposed mine.

The special use permit was requested in April, 1985, by Voorheesville Sand and Stone for miners William Larned and Sons of Schenectady. Voorheesville Sand and Stone own 73 acres of the country club in the area bordered by Normanskill Rd. to the north, Hilton Rd. to the east, Rt. 85A to the south and Rt. 155 to the west. The area is zoned low density residential by the town, and any proposed mining activities in the zone require a special use permit.

Neighbors in the area are opposed to the proposed mining because they question what could happen to their well water, a possible water table located beneath the area, and to the quality of life around the area. They presented to the planning board just under 700 signatures on petitions opposed to the mining.

In front of a spill-over audience of 400 in the auditorium of Clayton A. Bouton Junior-Senior High School, representatives from Larned presented their case to the board, while the often vocal audience challenged their position. Caught in the crossfire was the six-member planning board as well as town Attorney Frederick Riester.

Board Chairman Richard Stickley set the ground rules at the beginning of the hearing, saying the applicant would present their case first, "hopefully non-interrupted," then the planning board and then the audience. But during the course of the evening the audience often jeered the applicants and the board.

During their two-hour presentation with Schenectady Attorney Wayne Smith introducing the Larned group and asking questions of them, the audience often interrupted with their own questions and challenged Smith's role in the hearing. At one point, Smith appealed to Stickley to keep to the rules of the hearing.

"Let the chairman run it," said Harry Van Wormer, a neighbor and an organizer of a recent informational meeting on the proposed pit.

"There will be a chance for questions later," said Stickley.

After developer Peter Baltis asked if that would be after midnight, Stickley told the Larned group to continue.

"I think he bought you off," said one audience member in the back of the room.

Stickley then warned the

Is Clarksville water site the best available?

By Patricia Mitchell

Inadequate testing has been done to confirm that the Weisenburn Farm is a safe, reliable water source for Clarksville, a local hydrogeologist believes.

Paul Rubin, a resident of Clarksville with an extensive background in geology and hydrogeology, has challenged the work done for New Scotland by an engineering firm that has obtained federal funds to establish a Clarksville water district. Working independently, in a series of letters made available to The Spotlight, Rubin has documented nearly three years of questioning of the methods used by the consultants to find water, as well as his own tests of the water supply in the area.

His letters, Rubin said recently, have gone unanswered by both the consultant and the town, although some of his suggestions have been adopted. The result of this lack of cooperation, he concluded, is that much time and public money has been spent with little result. A state geologist contacted by The Spotlight supported Rubin's individual domestic wells.

Rubin is a resident at Plante and Rowe Hill roads outside the Clarksville water district. He received his masters in geology in 1983 from the State University of criticisms of the testing done at the Weisenburn site.

Rubin said he believes there has not been proper testing of other potential water sources, leading him to question whether the town has found the best source of safe water for Clarksville residents.

Clarksville residents first voiced a desire to establish a water district in 1982. Water for the hamlet is now supplied by

New York at New Paltz, and his bachelor's in anthropology and minor in geology in 1977 from the State University at Albany. Employed in the state attorney general's office as a hydrogeologist, Rubin is responsible for planning, sampling, evaluation, and remediation of ground water contamination sites throughout the state. Rubin also evaluates remedial design options using computers, and assists in drafting legislation.

Among his other experiences, Rubin was a hydrogeologist for Stone and Webster Engineering Corp. in Boston, Mass. Rubin also volunteered as a hydrogeologist in the Marriott-Minnewaska Project, outside of New Paltz, to assess the hydrologic impact of a major hotel-condominium complex on the potential utilization of a mountain lake. Also as a geologist for the Mohonk Preserve, also outside of New Paltz, Rubin conducted a water supply feasibility study for modernizing a resort on Mohonk Lake, an area with limited ground water resources.

Working independently, Rubin is a karst geomorphologist in the Helderberg Plateau, and a geochemical researcher on acid precipitation.

The six letters date back to Sept. 20, 1983, and the latest is dated April 7, 1986, and includes a test well completed by Rubin on Plante Rd. near Clarksville. Rubin said he conducted various tests and wrote the letters independently because he was interested in the situation.

Rubin said Town Supervisor Stephen Wallace received all six letters, as did engineering consultant LaBerge Engineering, Inc., each member of the town board and the town water resource committee, David Miller of the Farmer's Home Administration, and Stephen Lukowski of the Albany County Department of Health.

However, neither the engineering

RCS teachers get support

Members of the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Teachers Association (RCSTA) were supported by representatives from more than 25 school districts in picketing the board offices Monday evening.

"We've been negotiating now for 18 months. We've been without a contract for 337 days as of today, and we haven't forgotten that," said RCSTA President Donald Prockup. "We want you to meet with us."

The board of education discussed the negotiations with Simeo Gallo, the school district's attorney, in executive session. On Tuesday morning Acting Superintendent William Schwartz said, "We're hoping that we can continue the process, and both sides will meet and we can bring this thing to a satisfactory conclusion."

Prockup said the three main issues in negotiations are the dental plan, elementary duties and salaries.

"On dental, what they're offering I think would kill the plan," said Prockup.

"Our elementary people have to be relieved to work more with kids," Prockup added.

"General Electric does not hire engineers and ask them to change light bulbs," said Anthony McCann, president of the Schenectady Teachers Association and a chairman of the Greater Capital District United Teachers. "The measure of a community's commitment to its children is how it treats its teachers; and, by that measure, I think Ravena is in trouble."

Prockup said the 9 percent salary increase offered by the board would make the district fall further behind. The teachers union originally asked for a 14 percent salary increase.

Among the RCSTA supporters picketing on Monday evening were teachers and representatives from NYSUT-Mid Hudson, Teachers Local 294, the Greater Hudson Area Teachers, North Colonie, South Colonie, Waterford-Halfmoon, Albany, Troy, Guilderland, Saratoga, Rensselaer, Hudson Falls, Lansingburgh, Mechanicville, Catskill, Queensbury, Duaneburgh, Gloversville and Saratoga-Warren BOCES.

Ticketed in accident

A Glenmont man was ticketed last Wednesday for failing to yield the right of way when he pulled in front of another driver at a stop sign at the intersection of Elsmere Ave. and Feura Bush Rd. causing the other driver, also a Glenmont man, to swerve and strike a telephone pole, according to Bethlehem police. No one was injured in the incident that occurred at about 8:30 p.m..

Bethlehem police are investigating an incident last Wednesday afternoon on the Albany City water line behind Delaware Plaza. According to police reports, a 19-year-old Elsmere woman was accosted on the water line by a man, reported to be in his 20's. The man grabbed the woman, who screamed and fell backward, and then he fled into the woods, according to the report.

Another bridge on danger list

Selkirk and South Bethlehem residents, who once had three bridges over the Conrail Yards, are down to one and a half. And it's likely to stay that way for a while.

The state Department of Transportation announced last week that the Mosher Bridge has been restricted to one lane of traffic "due to the rapidly deteriorating condition" of the steel supports. The Jericho Bridge has been closed for two months because of a large hole in the deck while county officials attempt to determine who is responsible for the span and whether to replace or repair it. That leaves only the bridge that takes Rt. 32 over the western end rail yards at Feura Bush.

The Mosher Bridge takes Rt. 396 over the rail yards and is a vital link for truck traffic from South Bethlehem to Rt. 9W and the Thruway and also for emergency vehicles responding to calls in the hamlet of South Bethlehem. Hearings held by the DOT last February on whether to replace the bridge or bypass it with a road east to Rt. 9W drew strong support for keeping the bridge where it is.

"Whichever alternate is selected, the existing bridge is expected to be needed until September, 1989," according to the DOT announcement.

DOT stressed that the new travel restrictions have nothing to do with those long-range plans. The 63-year-old bridge was recently inspected "and found to have serious corrosion of many steel supporting members," the announcement said. A signal system providing for a single lane of alternating two-way traffic has been set up and will remain in effect until repairs are completed in October.

"This action is being taken in lieu of placing weight restrictions on vehicles using the bridge that would seriously impair the movement of school buses and emergency vehicles," the announcement said.

The Jericho Bridge, the middle span, was closed in March after new holes developed in the deck. Unlike the Mosher Bridge, however, there are no state plans to either repair or replace the bridge. That is primarily because no one is sure who owns the structure, originally built by the railroads that preceded Conrail but maintained for many years by the county.

State officials have said the only state funds that would be available would be restricted to rebuilding the bridge — an expensive proposition. County Engineer Fred Doeing said last week he is "still exploring, still trying to figure out what we can do with it." A meeting with Conrail officials last month produced no plan, but a second meeting is scheduled in a few weeks, he said. Bethlehem officials have said they would like the bridge reopened.

More hats in ring

John J. Faso, the Columbia County candidate for the 102nd Assembly District, formally threw his hat into the already crowded ring last week, while Eugene Keeler, the only Democrat in the race, picked up the endorsement of the Albany County Democratic Committee.

Also in the race for the Republican nomination to succeed retiring C.D. "Larry" Lane are Bethlehem residents Bernard Kaplowitz, who has the endorsements of the Bethlehem and Albany County committees, and Gary Swan, an administrator in the assembly minority. Nils Backlund of New Baltimore has the Greene County GOP endorsement to make it a four-way race.

Like the other Republican candidates, Faso promised Thursday in Albany to run not as the candidate of one county but to "present my candidacy just as vigorously to the people in Greene County, Bethlehem and Coeymans as well." The Kinderhook resident, who at 33 is a commissioner of the Legislative Bill Drafting Commission, said he would address the problems of "high taxes, uncontrolled spending and the insurance crisis."

Keeler, who is Columbia County district attorney, has been campaigning for nearly a year. He owns an insurance agency and has a background in social work as well as the law. He is uncontested for the Democratic nomination.

ago; and a Divertissement, a showcase display of artistic heritage and talent.

This Friday night cookout was just one of many scheduled social gatherings intended to return American hospitality for the Russian welcome given the American group that visited the U.S.S.R. last January.

All affairs are sponsored completely by individual citizen or organization efforts. The Shenendehowa Rotary contributed $100 for the purchases of food for this particular gathering, which totaled about 40 ESIPA staff and interns along with the Soviets. Dozens of restaurants have offered meals, businesses have donated hundreds of gifts items and area citizens have overwhelmed the sponsors with calls offering help: Can they drive? Can they arrange activities? Can they provide accommodations? What can they do to say, "we care, we want this visit to be good between us," said Norine Vancans, an educator in residence at The Egg. She and her husband, Juri, a Latvian native, hosted this party. Juri's parents both speak fluent Russian, and Norine wanted "to extend the hand of friendship to our Soviet guests. It's a step in the right direction. We can learn from one another. And it's very exciting for our children to be able to broaden their outlook on the world."

The whole Vancans family contributed to the event. Norine shopped and prepared all the dishes served that night, with the help of a translator, their two daughters, Bethlehem Central High School students Kristen and Lisa, printed a large poster welcome in Russian: "Welcome to our Soviet friends." Juri put all his spare time into completing the wooden deck, and Jeremiah, their seven-year-old, had presents of his own to give.

Did the Russians have anything similar to this in their country? "Shish-ka-bob," they replied.

And were they surprised by the American people they were meeting here? "You're just like us at home," explained Mikhail Ivanov, technical production director, through one of three American interpreters at the party. "People are the same everywhere, we just dress differently."

Indeed it was impossible to know who were the Soviets and who were the Americans Friday evening, and they didn't even dress differently for the occasion, what with their casual clothing of sneakers, jeans, plus an identical assortment of friendship pins worn on t-shirts.

The visitors said they liked what they had seen of America so far, the tall buildings, the country look of lots of trees, the pure air — similar to their summer houses back home. But they were already "fed up with TV — too many commercials!" The Americans nodded in agreement.

The Soviet guests smiled and laughed throughout the cookout. After they walked around the Vancans house, which was built inside and out by Juri, they complimented the hostess: "Your husband has golden hands." The guests from both countries oohed and aahed in admiration of Lisa Vancans, gowned in floor-length taffeta for her senior prom that same night.

After all, it's still a small world: one of the guests had worked at Juri's birthplace, Riga, Latvia. He spoke of the amber that washed ashore and verified Juri's boyhood memories of the pines on the beach.

It was time to leave, too quickly everyone thought, "Not enough time..." And Jeremiah presented each of the group with a Matchbox car from his own collection. "I'll never see them again," the Slingerlands first grader said, "and they gave me gifts. I wanted to give them a gift too."

Inspired by cathedrals

The stone cathedrals of medieval Europe served as the inspiration for Gothic Revival architecture. After its development in England, this style came to America and was first used in the construction of expensive stone estates. The style was soon transferred into a simplified version executed in wood and called "Carpenter's Gothic," and this style became available to the modest homeowner.

Andrew Jackson Downing's popular architectural books greatly influenced popular interest in this style and architects Alexander Jackson Davis and Richard Upjohn also made the style popular in this country. Gothic Revival houses dotted the landscape between 1840-80. The hallmarks are steep pitched roofs, pointed arches over door and windows, fancy scroll woodwork (often called gingerbread) along the eaves and gable ends, elongated windows and a general impression of pointed and vertical appearance.

TIMES REMEMBERED

Allison Bennett

A notable and one of the few examples of the Gothic style in the Town of Bethlehem is at 131 Kenwood Ave. in Delmar, the home of the Thelander family. The white house, with blue shutters and a red entrance door, has all the attributes associated with the Gothic style. The house was originally built to serve as a farmhouse on a tract of land that ran from Kenwood Ave. down to the railroad tracks near the Normanskill. This farm property was owned by Matthew Schwinn and he raised truck garden produce on the surrounding fields.

A long line of old Norway spruce, with their long drooping branches, shelter the house on each side. They were probably planted to provide a windbreak when this section of Kenwood Ave. was nothing but flat, open fields with a few farmhouses scattered about. A flagstone walk leads to the off-center front entrance door that is painted a warm red and is graced by sidelight windows. Once inside that door, a stairway with walnut newel post and bannisters leads up to a graceful curve at the second floor. At the foot of the stairs the Thelanders have placed a charming Victorian hall piece. A pine table with country provenance is also in the hall and the pine floors are covered with Oriental scatter rugs.

A large archway opens into the living room where there is a fireplace that has been rebuilt with tapestry brick in more recent years. A very ample marble-topped coffee table sits before the comfortable sofa and a large antique drop-leaf table holds family pictures and memorabilia. A grand piano stands in one corner and the two long French windows that reach the floor let in shafts of stands next to the hearth. There is also a large eating area near the fireplace. The original beams have been exposed and they add to the warmth and hominess of the room.

What was once the dining room, located in the wing to the right of the entrance hall, has now been turned into a bedroom. It, too, has floor-length windows as in the living room. The room is now furnished with the antique bedroom case pieces and, again, Oriental rugs cover the original pine floorboards. The closet and bathroom for this room have been converted from a small room at the rear.

Proceeding upstairs, there is a small door at the right that leads

Behind the living room and down the hall to the rear is the large country kitchen, its cupboard and walls paneled in knotty pine. Here the old fireplace, using the same flue as the one in the living room, has been opened up, its huge brick chimney exposed and the old bricks used in rebuilding the front of the fireplace. The country kitchen is reinforced by an antique butcher block that was purchased from a store in Feura Bush and that into an upstairs bedroom over the former dining room. At one time there was no door through which to enter this room from the second floor. This served as the hired-man's room, and was accessible only from the outside. There are two other large bedrooms over the living room and kitchen, and a third small room has been converted to a modern bathroom. The upstairs windows are unusual in that they open outward and have little knobs, similar to a casement window. There are sloping ceilings in the bedrooms, and tongue and groove boards form the closet doors, complete with old thumb latches of iron.

While the style of this home may have been influenced by church architecture, the Thelander's have made it into a warm and attractive home that echoes its farmhouse past. It is one of the little gems of architecture that is still standing as a reminder of the whims of the builders of the 19th century.

More funds for IDA

Bethlehem has received official word that its Industrial Development Agency can issue bonds to finance a $980,000 warehouse for the Winter Corp. in Selkirk. The additional allocation of $604,000 from the state Commerce Department was necessary because the town had already reached its state allocation for IDA bonding.

Bethlehem Supervisor Robert Hendrick said Friday that Winter, which distributes doors, windows and mouldings for the construction industry, expects to complete the building by November. "It wasn't holding them up, but I was getting a little nervous," Hendrick said of the request for the increased allocation.

Hendrick said the town is still looking for a way to extend water to the warehouse site, which is off Long Lane north of the Conrail Selkirk Yards. Efforts to interest Conrail in town water have so far not been successful, he said.

The IDA bonding is the third for the town in about a year. "I've had a couple of other applications, but it's quieted down," Hendrick said.

Window kicked in

A resident of Murray Ave. in Delmar found a broken window in his basement after hearing a loud crash at 11 p.m. Friday, according to Bethlehem police.

The resident also heard several voices at the time of the incident, police said.

The window, in the rear of the home, appeared to have been kicked in, and police said it was valued at $150. There was no entry into the home during the incident, police said.

Another small step in hospital review

The town's examination of the proposed Northeast Psychiatric Hospital took another small step forward last week as the Bethlehem Town Board received letters from two other agencies clearing the way for it to take the lead in determining the environmental impact of the project.

As expected, both the Bethlehem Planning Board and the state Department of Environmental Conservation raised no objection to the town's becoming the "lead agency" for the purpose of preparing the environmental review. The letter from David Stout, senior environmental analyst for the state, said the state's only interest would be if the hospital builds an incinerator, which it has indicated no interest in doing.

Stout did add that the proposed hospital will be near the Glenmont Elementary School and "the exposure of school children to psychiatric patients could occur." That issue was at the forefront at a well-attended public hearing before the planning board last month.

The planning board is scheduled to discuss the hearing at its June 17 meeting, and will ultimately make a recommendation to the town board, which has the final say. The hospital project is in an area zoned for planned commercial development.

The board conducted its brief Wednesday meeting against the backdrop of a new town flag, the gift of the Bethlehem Lions Club. In other business, the board:

- Learned that the state

Department of Transportation has prohibited right turn on red on Delaware Ave. at Cherry Ave. from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. on school days, and has also extended a no parking zone on Delaware Ave. 6,900 feet from the intersection. The action came after parents groups lobbied for ways the make the well-traveled intersection safer for students walking to and from Bethlehem Central High School.

- Received a recommendation from Police Chief Paul Currie to replace the stop sign on Thorndale Rd. with a yield sign and set a June 25 public hearing date on the change. The board asked Currie to study a request for a stop or yield sign at Berwick Rd. and Devon Rd. and make a recommendation.

- Approved new bid documents for the sun shade at the Elm Avenue Park after Parks and Recreation Administrator Philip Maher changed the specifications to attempt to bring down the price. The first round produced only one bid, substantially over the available funds.

- Approved two change orders on construction projects. Prairie Tank Company settled on $4,060 less for its contract to build the water storage tank at the end of the Delmar Bypass because it used its own painting rails rather than renting scaffolding. And Crisafulli Brothers was given $506 for additional ventilation work at the new Fisher Blvd. pumping station. The Crisafulli increase was approved 2-1, with two abstentions.

□ Mining hearing

audience that the sheriff's deputies may be called in and any one could leave when the wanted as a groan rang out from the audience.

Water remained the main issue at the hearing as the Larned group presented their position that the mining would not interfere with the ground water and there would be no effect on neighboring wells. Some audience members, however, wanted a guarantee and a promise of retribution if their water supply was contaminated.

Smith did offer to have his clients set up an escrow account, similar to what the company does with the Town of Guilderland, to be used by the town board to hire a geologist of their choosing to randomly inspect the pit and the water table. Smith also said the Larneds would hire a geologist to consult with the planning board on their decision.

Tim Larned also offered to post a bond with the town, similar to one posted with the Department of Environmental Conservation, for reclamation.

Larned and Sons have received a three-year permit from the Department of Environmental Conservation to mine the 27 acres.

With the Larned group were geologists Mark Zdunczyk and Eric Hansen of Dunn Geoscience in Latham. Hansen said the proposed mining would in no way interfere with wells on Appleblossom or Smith lanes.

The geologists said berms will be constructed in the mine area with sediment pits, requested by Environmental Conservation, to help block any run-off into the Vly Creek, which runs north of the property.

The proposed mining would stop five feet above the average seasonal high of the underground aquifer, and the geologists said the ground water flows down from the Helderbergs towards the east, away from Voorheesville.

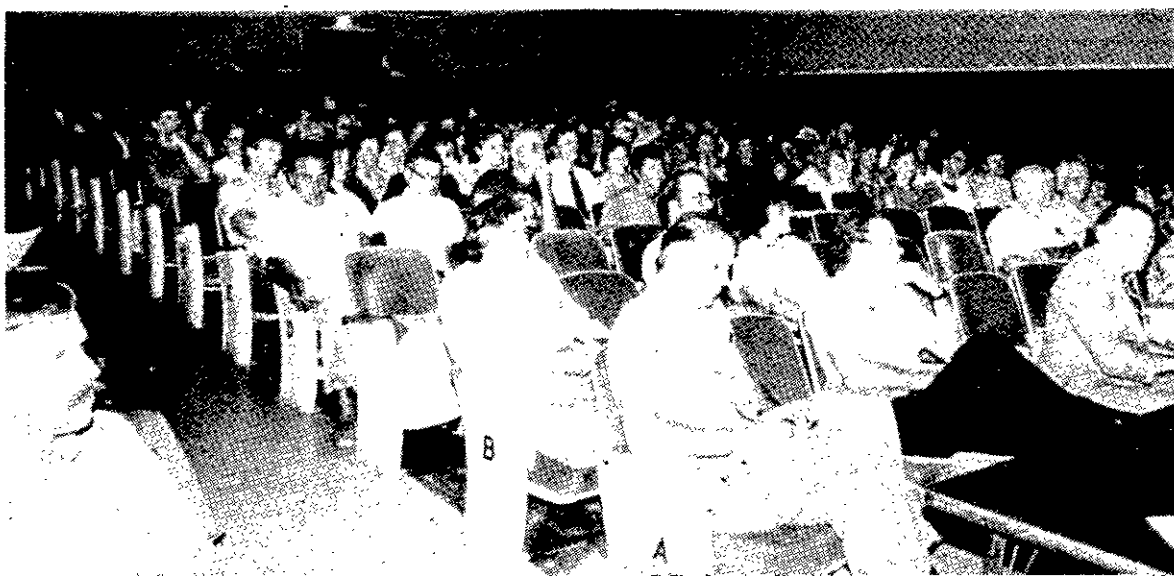

Board member William Childs asked if the geologists had been able to log the depths of homeowners' wells in the area of the pit, a request he made of Zdunczyk at an earlier planning board meeting. Zdunczyk said he called some residents but did not have all the information.

Miller said he was worried about the older wells in the area which are closer to the surface than the newer wells, and said there are two aquifers in the area. Hansen said one is equal to the mine depth at five feet below the surface, and the other is equal to the underground aquifer, the Colonie Channel.

"That can be a water supply. It is a source of water," Childs said.

"There are two aquifers at the site. In either case, it poses no threat to the aquifer," Hansen said.

Bruce Houghton, an Appleblossom La. resident, said that at a July, 1985, public hearing of the planning board, the Larneds were told they needed to establish the aquifer by digging test holes between March and April to measure the seasonal high of the ground water. Houghton claimed the board said that until that was done, it would not act on the special permit.

Neighbors of the proposed Voorheesville Sand and Stone gravel mine fill the auditorium of the Clayton A. Bouton Junior-Senior High School Tuesday,

"The information that the specialists have is totally inadequate," Houghton said.

Board member Annick Belleville questioned what could happen to the processing of the water after the sand and gravel is taken away. She said the deposits are necessary for the water processing.

"The water will still get into the zone," said Hansen. It does not matter how thick the porous medium is in the recharge zone, he said.

"Gravel is always located where the water is. We're not looking for any problems here. If we were, we wouldn't ask to mine," said Tim Larned.

Baltis said he disputed the few well depths that were obtained by Dunn Geoscience. Earlier the day of the hearing, Baltis said he drilled two wells in the area 60 feet deep and he reached static water level at 45 feet. Baltis also presented a statement from his driller that said the water supply in the area would be greatly effected.

"I believe these individuals do not have their facts straight," Baltis said. "We are talking of the water source for the Town of New Scotland including the water supply for the Village of Voorheesville."

Baltis said he was putting together a plan for hundreds of houses for developments east of the pit with the possibility of drilling and developing a water supply for the town.

Paul Rubin, a hydrogeologist who lives in Clarksville, recommended placing wells in the mining area to determine where the water table is. He recommended allowing mining at levels that would not go below the water table and to monitor the table constantly.

"The question is, where is the water table in relation to the lowest level of mining?" Rubin said.

The cleanup of the ground water if gas or fuel should be spilled is virtually impossible, Rubin said. He added, however, that he was not in a position to say if a gravel mine operation would contaminate the ground water.

Tom Ozimek of Font Grove Rd. to the east of the proposed pit, said he wanted to know what would happen if he lost his water supply.

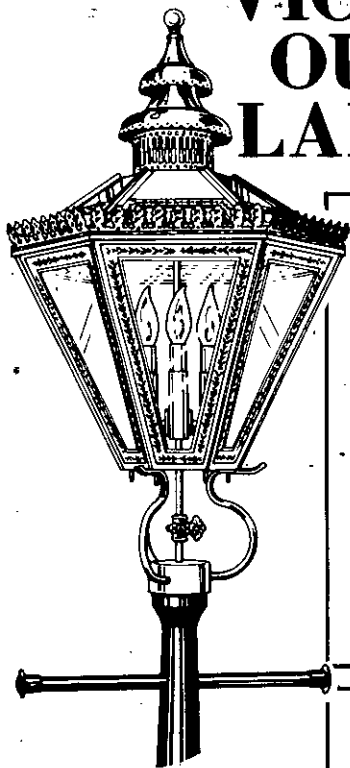

"I can not commit the town," Stickley said.

"If it can be shown that our operation legally caused your well to be depleted, we would be responsible," Smith said. "It could go dry tomorrow whether we excavate or not."

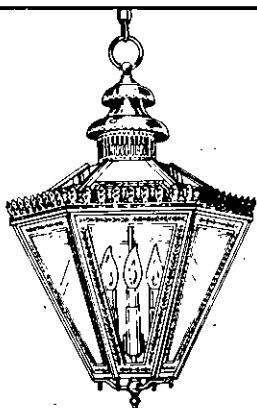

Voorheesville Mayor Edward Clark presented a resolution to the planning board requesting it to deny the special use permit, and received a standing ovation from the audience. Clark pointed to the water source that provides drinking water and fire protection for the village.

"In our entire town, there are relatively few households that do not or have not benefitted from this natural resource," Clark said. "Any threat to the aquifer is a threat to the entire community of New Scotland. Whether through

Citizens group formed

After a meeting Sunday night, Concerned Citizens for the Town of New Scotland have elected Bob Morrison of Voorheesville, as chairman and John Sgarlota, of the Town of New Scotland as treasurer.

The group is also soliciting donations to hire an attorney, said Karen Magrum, a member of the group.

Concerned Citizens for the Town of New Scotland are opposed to the proposed gravel mine on the former Tall Timbers Country Club. The mine is proposed by Voorheesville Sand and Stone for miners William Larned and Sons.

The group has collected almost 700 signatures on petitions against the proposed mining.

Donations or inquiries can be sent to P.O. Box 352, Voorheesville, N.Y. 12186.

contamination or change in the water table or otherwise would be immeasurable and irreparable."

Clark also pointed to the quality of life around the neighborhood of the pit and in Voorheesville, and questioned what could happen if the area is mined.

"Over 40 percent of the citizens of the Town of New Scotland live within one mile of that site. As representatives of the majority of the town residents who would most be affected, we urge that you deny this proposal because we believe that the quality of life in our community would be diminished by it through air and noise pollution, and dangerous truck traffic," Clark said.

Board member John Loucks said he was unhappy with a neighboring pit owned by Baltis and operated by Chester Oliver. Loucks said he wanted assurances that the proposed Larned pit will not be run the same way.

The Oliver pit, sized at about two acres, was dug out in a deep pit to get the maximum amount of material out of the small pit, said Donny Larned of Larned and Sons. Water was left in the bottom of the pit because of the way it was mined.

"You can not do that in New York State any more. This won't happen," Larned said. "I do not foresee any real noise — no more than they encounter right now."

In the pit during mining there will be a front end loader and a bulldozer, Donny Larned said. There will also be a screening machine to process some of the material and two to three trucks to haul it out at one time. On the average, 35 trucks a day would be traveling to and from the pit, but on a busy day there could be 100 trucks trips, he said. The trucks would travel onto Normanskill Rd. to Rt. 155 to go to Schenectady, and they would only travel south or through the village if there was an order from the area. There would also be periods of time when there would be no need for the pit's materials, and it would not be used.

Normal business hours would be 7 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, Donny Larned said. He said work may go to 5 p.m. or 5:30 p.m. or on a rare Saturday.

Tim Larned said only the proposed 27 acres will be mined because there is no gravel on the rest of the property, and the mined area would be reclaimed as grasslands. Childs said he wondered if the town could place a binder on the rest of the property to prevent more mining.

Zundczyk said an 800-foot berm, at least 10 feet high, will be built to control noise and to provide visual screening to the north, and another berm with trees will be placed to the west and south. Sedimentation tracks will be dug along the haul road to catch sedimentation.

Dean Summer, a Clipp Rd. resident, said he questioned why the board offered a special use permit to mine, and ask board members to address how it could benefit the town.

"There is no way the nature of this operation is going to enhance the community," Summer said.

"The Town of New Scotland is houseless — it has nothing to sell," said John Seh of Appleblossom La. "We can get the tax dollars from the housing and not from this cruddy sand pit. I hold (the planning board) responsible for what happens to that land and I am against it."

Questions raised on Clarksville water

Rubin nor Wallace would comment on Rubin's charge that there has not been complete and proper testing of the source at Weisenburn Farm and testing of other sources for Clarksville water.

"I would prefer not to make a comment about Paul Rubin. He is pretty active. He has done a lot," said Ron LaBerge, Jr., of LaBerge Engineering. The Colonie-based firm was charged with the task of finding a municipal water source for Clarksville.

"I do not really want to comment. It did not affect our application (for funding)," said

New Scotland Town Supervisor Steven Wallace.

The town received $1,316,500 from the Farmers Home Administration in late March and $400,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for the construction of a Clarksville water district. The funding was based on the Weisenburn Farm site as the source for the district. The farm is located off Rt. 32 about 2 miles south of Clarksville.

"It may be a good site. But they have not looked for other sources," Rubin said.

Rubin contends that other sites once considered were not tested properly, that the pumping test at the Weisenburn Farm was not completed properly, and that there has not been a proper quality test on Weisenburn water.

New Scotland also hired LaBerge Engineering in the summer of 1981 to establish a water district for Feura Bush. The firm prepared a $500,000 bond with the Farmer's Home Administration for the district, linking with a water line that services part of Bethlehem.

The Weisenburn Farm site was selected as the ground water source for Clarksville in the summer of 1985. Rubin said after the Clarksville Caves site and several other test wells were placed in the vicinity of Clarksville and were rejected, LaBerge decided to drill at the farm where he had drilled a high yield well in 1960 in a glacial aquifer.

Rubin said the pumping test, or the aquifer test, is used to determine how deep the aquifer is, the recharge area of the well and how fast it can recover. In a properly constructed test pumping well, a single pumping well is placed at the site, the depth of the well is measured, and is pumped for 72 hours, Rubin said. At least two observation wells are placed at a substantial distance away from the pumping well. Around the test well as water is being pumped out, a certain amount of water will flow into the well, and Rubin said the water flow and the change in the water level must be measured. At some point the water flow will stabilize and level off giving the static water level. The pumping activity and the flow of water into the pumping well must be monitored to make sure the aquifer can recover. This will give an idea of how much the well can constantly produce, and must be done for a municipal water supply.

"What happens at the end of the day? It is important to have a well that will recover," Rubin said.

A state geologist questioned by The Spotlight agreed with Rubin's comments on testing. The longer the test well is pumped and monitored, a better idea of the ground water situation and its reliability can be determined, said Robert Bazarnick, a senior engineer-geologist with the division of water for the state Department of Environmental Conservation. The draw down of the water must be continuously monitored, he said.

At the Weisenburn site, however, Rubin said the pumping was only carried on for 24 hours and the observation wells were placed too close to the pumping well. After pumping, Rubin said one observation well recovered a little water and one didn't recover at all. Rubin said this was "questionable."

"If he knew how to, it could have recovered," Rubin said. "(Twenty-four hours) is not good enough to determine the whole water supply."

"What happens at the end of the day? It is important to have a well that will recover," Rubin said.

Rubin said he questioned what was done with the water after it was pumped out of the test well. Properly, the pumped water is held in tanks until after testing is completed. If it was allowed to run off, the water could drain back into the ground water and resupply the well. However, Rubin said the pumping report did not indicate what was done with the water.

"I have no clue as to whether that was considered," Rubin said.

As the future drinking water for 150 families in Clarksville, Rubin said quality tests on the water must be done before it is used. As an old farm site, Rubin said, manure could have been spread on the fields that will leach into the ground water. Manure contains nitrates and other bacteria. Nitrates are hard to remove, and can cause cyanosis or "blue baby" syndrome.

Pesticides and herbicides may also have been used on the old farm fields, Rubin said.

A Priority Pollutant Scan to screen for 138 pollutants, such as nitrates, could check water from the Weisenburn Farm, Rubin said. While it is not cheap — the cost is about $1,500 — it would be worth while dealing with water quality and public health, he said.

"This is something we standardly do. One never knows unless one analyzes," Rubin said.

Bazarnick said the water test could be done by a private lab or the county health department. For the pollutant scan to be done, however, the history of the land must be known, he said.

Other tests to find a source of water, by LaBerge Engineering were not "done right," Rubin said. For example, the Clarksville Caves were the first water source considered, and were discussed at a public hearing on August 23, 1983. Rubin said studies by LaBerge showed the cave had an average yield available of 100,000 gallons per day. Rubin said he tested the cave source during September to October, 1983, during a traditionally low water level period for a worst case scenario, and found the cave had a continuous yield of less than four gallons per minute. The state requires a yield of five gallons per minute, and a 1983 study by LaBerge determined a water source for Clarksville should deliver 60 gallons per minute.

The Clarksville Caves site was rejected at a Feb. 29, 1984, public hearing on the formation of the hamlet's water district. Another source by the time of the public hearing had not been found, and three other sites were being looked at, including one in the vicinity of Rock City Rd. that LaBerge said at the time seemed likely to produce a sufficient ground water supply according to a 1964 well-location study conducted for the town. The town was also considering tapping into the Feura Bush water district and Bethlehem's Vly. Creek Reservoir, but those alternatives would have required an additional $500,000 grant from the Office of Housing and Urban Development.

Rubin also said other well sites once considered were questionable. He questioned why a test well was placed on Flat Rock Rd. when it was later rejected because it was too close to the town landfill and there was a concern about pollutants leaching into the ground water. Rubin also questioned why another test well was placed across from his home on Rt. 301 when if engineers had questioned his neighbors about the yield of their individual wells or had done a quick pumping test of them they would have quickly determined that the site was not a good source of water.

"This is our tax money. What does he (LaBerge) expect?" Rubin said.

The Farmer's Home Administration in February of this year requested that an independent study be conducted to be sure there was no water source closer to Clarksville when the town applied for $1.3 million in federal funding. David Miller of the FHA said he had a question about the distance that the water will be transported. Rubin had at least one phone discussion with Miller, and sent him two letters in December, 1985, and January, 1986, on his concerns on the Clarksville District. Miller said the request for additional testing was not based entirely on his contact with Rubin.

"We have talked to Paul. We wanted to be sure there wasn't a site closer," Miller said.

The town hired Ground Water Associates of Arlington, Mass., and in March the firm recommended that the Weisenburn Farm be used as the water source for Clarksville.

However, Rubin said there has not been competent hydrogeological testing of other sources closer to Clarksville that may be a good source of water for the hamlet. Near Rock City Rd., about one-half mile closer to Clarksville, there is a similar type of glacial aquifer as the one at the Weisenburn Farm. However, Rubin said, the site was not tested.

"It is a very similar site," Rubin said. "There are many sources of water. No one suggests there is a good source in Clarksville."

Bazarnick said it may be reasonable to place a test well in the Rock City Rd. area, but he said test drilling is very expensive.

"If they found a reasonable source of water (at the Weisenburn Farm), it beats the hell out of putting in a whole bunch of wells. That area is notorious for its ground water problems," Bazarnick said.

There could be a possibility of linking together the individual Clarksville wells to make a municipal water source, Rubin said. The wells in Clarksville give out varying amounts of water, some poor while some have never had any problems. Rubin said an 18-year teacher at the Clarksville Elementary School has told him the school has never had any problem with its water. Even though water for the individual wells come from fractures and solution openings from within limestone bedrock, Rubin said, casing into the upper bedrock and disinfecting the water could allow the development of a water source within the hamlet.

"That is something we can consider," Rubin said.

Other possibilities for a water source closer to the hamlet include skimming the Onesquethaw Creek, tapping into the Vly Creek Reservoir, the municipal water source for the Town of Bethlehem, or enlarging the reservoir and tapping into it.

"There are even others. The list really goes on. No one has taken a look seriously. No one has tested a source reasonably at all," Rubin said.

Crash injures woman

Karen Wright, 31, of Glenmont was listed in satisfactory condition Monday at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany after she was injured in an auto accident Thursday afternoon on Feura Bush Rd.

According to Bethlehem police reports, a car driven by Kevin McCarthy, 43, of Glenmont, eastbound on Feura Bush Rd., crossed into the westbound lane near East Bayberry Rd. and collided with the Wright vehicle. McCarthy was ticketed for failure to keep right, police said.

Adrienne Wright, 14, a passenger in the Wright car, was treated in the emergency room and released after the 4:35 p.m. accident, a hospital spokesman said.

3 bikes gone

Three bicycles were reported missing this week by Bethlehem residents. A boy's 20-inch BMX was taken from near the entrance to the Elm Ave. Park last Tuesday; a girl's blue, 27-inch bike disappeared from the bicycle rack at Bethlehem Central High School last Wednesday; and a 10-speed, lavender bike was reported missing from First Ave. and S. Albany Rd. in Selkirk Thursday, according to Bethlehem police reports. Only the blue bike is registered with the town, according to the report.

A 10-speed, boy's green bike was found near the D&H Railroad overpass on Delaware Ave., according to police reports. The bike, which is not registered, is being held at headquarters for the owner to claim.

Tri-Village directory is out

The 1986-87 edition of the Tri-Village Area Directory has arrived, and some 350 volunteers have started delivering the 5,800 copies to area residents and businesses.

The directory has been considered a household institution in the community for the past 55 years. The resource book is also used by many businesses, town officials and agency representatives.

This year's volume includes elimination of the parenthesis for a spouse, with husband and wife listed in the sequence they decide upon. One occupation may be indicated for the first name listed. Town agencies have been moved up to the front of the book. The center fire insert in red heavy stock is now a foldout with emergency instructions.

The directory is available for a suggested contribution of $5. Advertisers receive a book within the cost of their ad. The first directory, which was published in 1931, sold for $3.50. The community project was first organized as a fundraising project for the First United Methodist Church, Delmar, under the

Gunman sought

Bethlehem police are investigating an armed robbery in the early hours last Wednesday at the Albany Motor Inn, Rt. 9W, Glenmont. The lone gunman escaped with about $300 in cash, according to the police report.

The man entered the lobby just before 2 a.m. and asked for change, and then returned a short time later, displayed a handgun and demanded money, police said. The motel clerk handed over the cash drawer containing about $300 and the gunman left, fleeing across the parking lot toward Rt. 9W, according to the report.

The empty cash drawer later was found near the Colonie St. exit or Rt. 787, police said.

Howard G. Gmelch, left, manager of the Tri-Village Area Directory Association, and Irma Crouse, assistant manager, present the first copy of the 1986-87 Tri-Village Area Directory to Bethlehem Town Supervisor Robert Hendrick.

Prom time, and after

The Prom

Prom time is here again and the Junior Class of Clayton Bouton will be holding their prom this Saturday from 8 p.m. until midnight at the Sheraton Airport Inn. According to class president Mimi Wagner, the class will be voting on members of the prom court who will be announced the evening of the prom. Parents are invited to come at 10:30 p.m. to witness the coronation, but are discouraged from arriving before that time.

Following the prom, the New Scotland Substance Abuse Task Force will sponsor a non-alcoholic after-the-prom party at the fire house on School Rd. The event to be held from midnight to 4 a.m. will feature a D.J. and snacks for the partygoers as well as a pancake breakfast to be prepared by the Kiwanis Club of New Scotland. According to Bill Hotaling, chairman of the event, this is the second year for the party. After speaking with members of the junior class, it was decided that the after-prom party would be similar to last years activity, with one exception: the party at the fire house will be open to all students in the high school whether they attend the prom or not.

Donations of food, either for the breakfast or snack for the party are needed and may be left at Hotaling's home at 11 Circle Dr. Cash donations are also welcome. Those having questions about the after-prom party may address them to Hotaling at 765-2033.

Kiwanis hopping

Kiwanis Club of New Scotland will certainly be busy this weekend. Besides overseeing the playoff games for its grasshopper baseball and softball leagues the men's community service organization will also hold its annual tag sale at the elementary school this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The proceeds from the sale will be used to support the many youth activities sponsored by the group, including the baseball and softball program as well as other programs such as summer band, recreational soccer, pee wee wrestling and the annual Halloween Party held at the grade school.

Anyone interested in making last-minute donations of items may contact Jay LaBelle at 765-3679.

Card party

Food, fun and friends will be found at the Annual Card Party sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Voorheesville Fire Department this Thursday at the fire house on School Rd. at 8 p.m. The evening will give participants a chance to play cards or other games and enjoy conversation and free refreshments. A raffle will also be held.

Donation is $1.50 at the door. All are welcome.

Legion's 40th

A reminder that a few seats are still left for the Past Commanders-Past Presidents dinner dance at the American Legion Hall on Saturday, June 14. Those wishing to attend the 40th anniversary celebration of the group may contact the Post Voorheesville American Legion Hall at 765-4712 after 3 p.m. Tickets are $10 per person.

Thanks to volunteers

The Voorheesville PTSA is looking for volunteers. No, not to help out rather to be thanked for all they have done this year. According to Joanne St. Denis, PTSA vice-president, the group, will hold its annual thank you celebration for all those people who have helped support the many activities of the PTSA this year.

Anyone who has been a room mother, colored for Parents as Reading Partners, baked for the family dessert and game night or the Fall Fun Apple Fest, those who sold tickets for the Southbound Concert, or manned the booths at the Apple Fest, made posters, helped at the bike rally or DID ANYTHING AT ALL to help the PTSA is invited to attend the reception to be held at the Voorheesville American Legion Hall on Friday, June 13, beginning at 8 p.m. To show their appreciation the PTSA will provide a D.J., and all refreshments, including chips and dips, cheese and crackers and drinks. Cake and coffee will round out the evening.

No reservations are necessary. All volunteers are welcome. Those having any questions should contact St. Denis at 765-4748.

A final reminder that the PTSA Pet Show originally scheduled for Saturday, June 7, has been canceled due to the conflict with the baseball playoffs.

Sneak preview

Kindergarten at the Voorheesville Elementary School in the fall will get a chance to meet their teachers and have a taste of what school life is like this Thursday, June 5, when they attend a special open house session with their parents. Both children and parents will also get to ride the school bus to and from the session, giving first-time pupils bus experience before their first big day in September. This is the third year the "Kindergarten Express" bus program has transported children to the special session.

Sixth graders at the elementary school also got to look into the future this week when they attended a visitation session at the junior-senior high school. The students spent several hours meeting the seventh grade teachers, getting a tour of the building and learning what seventh grade is like from upper classmates. A busy month for the "top dogs" at the grade school as the pupils of the sixth grade will also be traveling to the Bronx Zoo on June 19 after competing in the sixth grade field day on June 16.

Playoffs

Just as school is coming to a close the baseball-softball season is also drawing to a close. This Saturday, June 7, the players in the league sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of New Scotland will hold their play-off games to determine the teams who will take part in the Championship games to be held next Saturday, June 14. Each division, the minors (mixed) majors (boys) and softball (girls) leagues will hold their own competition to determine the league winner. Following the games a picnic will be held at the Town Park for all players and their families. Hot dogs will be provided by the Kiwanis Club for the pot luck picnic. Families should bring their own beverages.

News from Selkirk and South Bethlehem

Barbara Pickup

Senior band evaluated

The Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Senior Band, under the direction of Brent D. Wheat, recently participated in the New York State School Music Association major organization evaluation festival. This year's festival was hosted by Colonie High School.

The RCS Band competed at level IV (medium difficulty) in an 8 a.m. performance. The band then was photographed, and copies of the photographs will be displayed at the high school.

The band received 90 out of a possible 120 points for the performance, receiving a rating of B.

DAR plans celebration

The Hannakrois Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution will celebrate its 10th anniversary on June 13 at Red's Restaurant, Rt. 9W, in Cossackie. Friends and family members are invited. The dinner will begin at 7 p.m., and speaker will be New York State Regent, Mrs. Frederick W. Rohrs. Flag Day will be observed and the 100th year of the Statue of Liberty will also be marked with posters and memorabilia.

Ham and shortcake

Strawberry shortcake with real whipped cream is on the menu for this Saturday's ham dinner sponsored by the Bethlehem Grange. Beginning at 4 p.m. and continuing until all have been served, the dinner will be at the Grange Hall, on Rt. 396 in Beckers Corners, Selkirk. The menu includes juice, salad, baked ham, creamed potatoes, raisin sauce, green beans, candied carrots and strawberry shortcake. The cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Reservations are not required, and the public is invited.

The Women's Activity Committee will be conducting a "This and That sale" during the evening that will include homemade baked goods.

Chosen by Colgate

Stefanie Wheeler has been named a Colgate University alumni memorial scholar, the highest honor an entering student can achieve, according to university officials.

The scholar program was a memorial to Colgate alumni who gave their lives in the service of their country in World Wars I and II. It is supported by the annual alumni fund. Thirty members of each entering class are chosen as alumni memorial scholars on the basis of their performance, promise and character. Scholars with a demonstrated financial need receive a scholarship grant.

Stefanie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wheeler of South Bethlehem.

Historical group elects

The Town of Bethlehem Historical Association recently elected the following officers: president, Margaret Law; vice president, Dr. Floyd Brewer; recording secretary, Jancy Houck; corresponding secretary, Mercedes Hickman and treasurer, Theodore Rapp. Elected for three-year terms as trustees were Marjorie Terrell, Evelyn Alford and Charles Crangle.

Grange grateful

The Bethlehem Grange, under the leadership of Master Randall Drobner, has expressed appreciation to the area organizations and individuals who participated in the observance of National Grange Week recently. Fifteen organizations put up displays and exhibits at the Grange Hall in Selkirk. Encouraging membership, the groups provided information about their activities, goals and community involvement.

The success of the event has prompted requests for a repeat of the week-long open house, and possibilities are being considered for the future.

Material for Barbara Pickup's column can be sent to her at P.O. Box 172, RD 1, Selkirk, NY 12158. For questions or late items call The Spotlight at 439-4949.

Planned Parenthood unit plans meeting

Ilene Margolin, deputy secretary to Governor Mario Cuomo for human services, will speak about the "Status of Women in the State Today and the Impact of Reproductive Freedoms" at the June 6 Upper Hudson Planned Parenthood meeting. The meeting will begin at noon at the Italian-American Community Center in Albany.

During the meeting Dr. Sydney Archer, Barbara Muhlfelder and Mary Scanlan, all of Delmar, will be installed as board members.

Yard sale benefit

A yard sale to benefit the Andre House in Phoenix, Ariz., will be held 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. this Saturday at 7 Greenock Rd. in Delmar.

The Andre House is co-founded and co-managed by the Rev. Mike Baxter, a former Elsmere resident and the son of Anne and Jack Baxter of 58 Brookview Ave.

Baxter is a Holy Cross priest and a 1983 graduate of Notre Dame University.

Andre House opened its doors in December 1985, and is a shelter for poor and homeless in Phoenix.

Baxter is planning to be in Elsmere on Thursday, June 12, when the proceeds from the yard sale will be presented to him.

Anyone wishing to make a donation of items to sell may drop them off Thursday and Friday. Organizers request a price tag on each item to be sold. Pick-ups of items to be sold can also be arranged.

A donation to Andre House can also be made with checks payable to the Andre House.

For information, phone 439-3819.

Quilt raffle winner

Robin Cooper of Stratford, Conn., won the quilt raffle recently sponsored by the Tri-Village Welcome Wagon. The raffle netted $950 for the Discovery Center of the Capitol Region. Beth Rarich, a new Welcome Wagon member, sold the winning ticket to her sister.

Winners of the pillow raffle were Dolores Arnheiter of Selkirk, Lynne Brown of Delmar, Karen Deering of South Bethlehem and Pat Mayberry and Marie Holland of Albany.

In addition to making donations to the Albany Medical Center pediatric unit, Bethlehem Festival, FISH and the Village Stage, the Tri-Village Welcome has sponsored food and clothing drives for needy families, monthly cake baking for residents of the Good Samaritan Home, caroling at the Ronald McDonald House and participation in the Helping Hand Program.

Scout trainer

Kim Schoening of Selkirk recently completed a course offered by the Hudson Valley Girl Scout Council to become a Girl Scout trainer. She will specialize in outdoor training, teaching troop leaders and other volunteers the principles of camping and outdoor living skills.

A former counselor at the Girl Scouts' summer day camp in East Greenbush, Schoening is an assistant field executive, supervising Girl Scouting in Greene County. She is the leader of troops in Catskill and Cossackie and co-leader of Cadette Troop 2333 in Delmar. Schoening has a degree in industrial engineering from Oregon State University.

House tour Saturday

"See Old Albany" is the theme for this tricentennial year's June house and garden tour to be held on Saturday, June 7, from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Featured in this year's tour will be an exhibit of Mayor Thomas Whalen's photographs of Albany. The event is being sponsored by the Center Square Neighborhood Association, the Mansion Neighborhood Association, the Hudson-Park Neighborhood Association, the Washington Park Neighborhood Association and the Historic Albany Foundation.

Tickets may be purchased on Saturday at the corner of State and Willet Sts. or at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception on Madison Ave.

FOCUS ON FAITH

The Rev. Arthur F. Hagy, Jr.

First United Methodist Church

Ah, spring! That time of year when a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love. Or maybe it is more correct to say that spring is that time of year when anyone's thoughts turn to what they may have been thinking about all year long. All the world seems to burst into life. Certainly all around us here in upstate New York explodes in life, color, song, warmth, rejoicing and beauty. And thoughts of love are sure to be part of that explosion.

Such an experience is not limited to this country and this decade. Men and women of all times have shared such delightful expressions of life. We can look back into the literature of the Old Testament and find numerous examples, but none can surpass the small book of poetry in the Old Testament called "The Song of Solomon," or "The Song of Songs."

I would like to encourage you to read that book. It is much too beautiful to be ignored. Let me tell you that it is very human, very earthy, very honest, very full of the stirrings of passion that a man and a woman share for each other. It is a universal song of love. It does not seem to have any particular historical or geographic setting. It expresses emotions for all people and for all places and for all times. We may wonder just how this particular love song got to be part of the sacred scriptures of both the Jewish and the Christian religious communities. That is a good question. Yet the love song is here for all to share.

That is an important point for us to stop and register. There are the basic emotions of life, the most basic joys and songs of life, which are shared by all of us. So much of what happens in our community, our nation, and certainly in the far reaches of our world, so much of what we see and hear is designed to drive wedges of separation and distrust between peoples. We find ourselves divided into parties and factions. Recent issues of The Spotlight have focused attention on local parties dealing with school issues, neighborhood zoning issues, special interest groups, factions and parties. And this is as true within the religious community as anywhere else. If this is true locally, then on the international scene it is multiplied ten thousandfold. How great and multitudinous are the drives and forces which separate us.

Yes, but how great and deep are the forces and drives which bind us together in commonness. Songs of love belong to all of us. The desire to love and to be loved, to be needed and respected, the longings for peace, joy, beauty, gentleness and caring are far stronger than all the political, budgetary, racial and social forces that may divide us. God has created us each as individuals, each unique but God has also created each of us as a child of God, fully capable of reflecting the image of God in this world. How deep are the ties that bind us together. That person whom you dislike the most, the person or group of persons whom you see as most different from yourself, in whom you see the most bad and the least good, that person shares more in common with you than all the differences that you can imagine.

I would like to share a few more thoughts with you in future editions of this paper. For now I would ask that you take the time to read "The Song of Songs." Enjoy it, let it speak for some of your feelings and emotions, let it help you express some of the joys and celebrations of this season of new life. And then think for a while about how others might read this same love song. Think of your family and friends, then think of your enemies, those you distrust the most, and see if they too would not find a common voice for their joys and emotions in this same Song of Songs. How much we share in common with all of humanity. When you probe beneath the surface, how much we are all alike, all children of the one, same God.

Newly appointed president for 1986-87 of the Albany County League of Women Voters, Susan Richmond, left, of Delmar, is congratulated by outgoing president, Sally Webb, of Glenmont. The league ended its year in May with a dinner at the Sign of the Tree Restaurant in Albany, and will begin their next year in September. Patricia Mitchell

A breath of spring

Like parents bragging about their newborn child, Joan and Vincent Giglia boast about the unique and beautiful floral designs to be found at Baby's Breath flower and gift shop at the Four Corners.

Their new store opened in the former Taylor and Vadney building at 392 Kenwood Avenue, Delmar, at the beginning of May. Since then, the Giglias have been letting creativity bear new ideas.

"We're not really looking for the usual. We're sort of looking for the nicer things," said Vince Giglia. "People don't want the everyday. They want something unusual, something you don't see everyday."

"We are an alternative. We're not the usual. We're the unusual — the extraordinary," said Giglia.

"This is a new business. It's our baby, and we could go crazy telling you about everything," said Joan Giglia.

Custom-designed arrangements for occasions large and small are done by Vincent Giglia, who has taken first and second prize awards for his designs in the Westchester County Fair. During the past year, Giglia said, he has done the floral design work for Gov. Mario Cuomo's awards dinner and American Cancer Society events.

In addition to roses, carnations and other standards, the Giglias carry more exotic blossoms such as orchids, bird-of-paradise and lailice. Arrangements of fresh, dried or hand-painted designer silk flowers are available in styles ranging from traditional to contemporary. The Giglias can wire a bouquet to any location through Teleflora.

And if flowers are not the right gift for the occasion, Baby's Breath also offers china figurines, vases, anniversary gifts, newborn gifts, wedding gifts, gourmet candy and chocolates, floor plants, combination baskets, balloons, arrangements on wood plaques, custom-designed shadow boxes and hand-wrapped wreaths. A line of stuffed animals and collectibles is due to arrive shortly.

The Giglias, who operated the Gift Gallery in Westchester County before moving to Bethlehem three years ago, present a one-day craft show at Columbia University at Christmas time. "My friends call me Mr. Christmas," said Giglia, who made some 26,000 Christmas arrangements last year.

"We were really shocked at the response we got at Mother's Day," said Giglia before speculating about graduation. "People have been very warm in their welcome."

The new store is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays. For information call 439-5717 or 439-6683.

ON YOUR FEET

Dr. Joseph Manzi, Podiatrist

RUNNER'S ANKLE AND FOOT PAIN

If you've been running for awhile, no one has to tell you how important healthy feet are for comfort and full enjoyment of the sport. But if you're feeling any abnormal discomfort, your feet may have a structural imbalance that needs correcting.

You may not notice any problem when you first take up the sport, when you're making short runs. But as your endurance builds, stress caused by improperly balanced feet will send you a clear message. If you have an unstable heel, for example, Morton's foot (flattening of the longitudinal arch) you will begin to feel the pain.

Sometimes an unstable heel will develop a condition known as "jogger's ankle," causing pain on the outside of the ankle. This can happen when a foot rolls outward and leans on the ankle excessively. Each time you follow the curve of a road or track your feet have to bear up to six times the weight of your body. This can injure the ligaments if there's a weakness in your ankles.

Structural imbalances in your feet can be controlled by your foot specialist, alleviating the pain and discomfort and helping to improve your performance.

State meet ahead for Eagle quartet

By Tania Stasiuk

Four Bethlehem Central track standouts are virtually assured of berths in the state championship meet, and Coach Ron Cameron thinks several others, including at least one relay team, have a good chance to make the trip.

Senior Mark LeBeau, junior Anne Carey, sophomore Kelly Ross and freshman Ian Berry turned in fine performances in the Sectional meet at Colonie High School last weekend, and are expected to keep their momentum alive in the state qualifying meet at Johnstown on Friday. LeBeau placed second in the 880 in 1:56.8, three seconds behind his previous best and only eight-tenths of a second behind the winner, Zac Shea of Columbia.

Carey won the 400 hurdles, as expected, in 65.4, and anchored the BC two-mile relay team to a first-place finish in 9:42.4, a new Bethlehem school record. Senior Jen Hammer, who ran a speedy 2:26 split, junior Heather Wolfe and eighth grader Julie Hammer were in second place when the baton reached Carey, who sprinted out in front in a blistering 2:20.1.

Ross cleared the bar at 5-6 to win the high jump, and Cameron expects his star to better that height in the tests coming up this month.

Bethlehem also won the boys two-mile relay, shaving almost a full second off the school record. Berry's 2:00.7 on the third split set the stage after Greg Dobbert's 2:05.9 and Pete Winkler's 2:07.2. LeBeau delivered a 1:58.6 on the anchor leg.

Cameron sees sophomore Connie Pogue as having "an outside chance" of making the state meet in the 200. She was fourth in both the 200 and 100 against high-level competition, but her 26.8 in the 200 was impressive. She was clocked in 13 seconds flat in the 100 behind two of the state's top competitors.

The younger of the Hammer sisters, Julie, ran a 2:28.7 as BC won the girls' 3200 relay.

Baranska sets blistering pace

By Josh Curley

Although the temperature was in the upper 80's during all three meets last week, affecting many track performers, it didn't seem to bother Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk's outstanding senior athlete Bob Baranska.

Baranska, star of the Colonial Council championship meet on Tuesday, set meet and school records in the 110- and 400-meter hurdles with times of 14.6 and 57.8 respectively. Baranska also won the high jump. After placing first in the three events, he was seen doing a backflip to demonstrate to some of the spectators that he still had an abundance of energy.

Steve Nicholson, who will be competing for St. John's University next year, and Mike Mims also helped lead RCS to the Colonial Council Meet championship. Nicholson won both the 100- and 200-meter dashes while also running on the victorious 400-meter relay team. Mims won the long and triple jumps on Tuesday.

On Thursday the Indians ended the regular season by crushing Schalmont, the only Colonial Council team standing in the way of a possible undefeated season. Ravena ended the season with a 9-0 record in dual meets. Tim Baranska again broke his 440-yard intermediate hurdle record by running it in 58.4 seconds, improving last week's time by seven-tenths of a second.

Other notable performances against Schalmont included Brian Perry winning both the mile and 2-mile runs, Mims victorious in the long and triple jumps, Bob Baranska taking the high jump and high hurdles, and Mark Seymour and Nicholson crossing the finish line in a dead heat at 10.9 seconds time in the 100.

Last Saturday a select RCS team went to Gloversville for the Section 2 Class B championships. The Indians finished fourth out of 17 teams, only six points behind second place. Coach Jim Gorham was extremely pleased with the high placing.

Mims managed a 44-1 triple jump on his final attempt to win that event. He came in second in the long jump. Bob Baranska won the high hurdles and didn't miss any attempts at the high jump until all competition was eliminated. Baranska jumped 6-feet-4, which was a personal best. Ravena has won the triple jump and high jump at the Sectionals for three years in a row.

Gorham's thoughts for the next years are optimistic despite losing several quality athletes like Mims, Bob Baranska, Nicholson, Perry, Seymour and Jim Wasem. Gorham expects RCS to be "back in the thick of things" again next year with returning track team members Paul Curley, Bill McMillan, Arthur Burnett, Jim Simpson and Jerry and Tim Baranska among other promising athletes.

Wrestlers qualify

Two local wrestlers, one a newly crowned state champion, will go for national championships in Iowa next month.

Rich Kane, a Voorheesville High School junior, won the New York State Junior Olympics title in the unlimited weight class in Greco-Roman wrestling in the state tournament in Binghamton over the weekend, and Chris Saba, a Bethlehem Central sophomore, placed fourth in the 123-pound division. Both qualified for the Junior Olympics national championship tournament to be held at the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls July 15-16.

Kane also placed third in his weight class in freestyle wrestling, but has chosen to compete in Greco-Roman in Iowa.

Saba, a resident of Glenmont, is a three-year veteran of the Bethlehem Central varsity wrestling team.

BTA meet canceled

The Bethlehem Tennis Association has decided to call off its spring tournament because it is unable to obtain adequate insurance to cover the event.

BTA President Michael Hampton said Monday two weeks of efforts to find coverage have been unsuccessful. Some thought had been given to postponing the event, scheduled to start this weekend, in order to continue the search, but even that option has been rejected, Hampton said.

"We'll regroup now and see if we can do something for the fall," he said.

The BTA conducts its tournaments at the Elm Avenue Park and at the Bethlehem Middle School courts. The town insurance covers the association at the park, but the school district requires $1 million worth of coverage from nonaffiliated organizations that use its facilities.

BC's 5th graders compete

Nearly 300 Bethlehem Central fifth graders ran, jumped and endured in a track meet last Wednesday at the high school. First and second place finishers were eligible to compete Saturday in a regional meet involving seven schools, hosted by BC.

In Wednesday's competition, winners were:

75-yard dash — Michael Demarest in 10.03, with Michael Hoefs second; Kristen Shepley, 10.33, Eden Terenzini second.

100-yard dash — Michael Gambleunghe, 13.39, Edward Lubarda second; Laura Haefeli, 13.73, Simone Brewer second.

200-yard dash — Demarest in 30.39, Gambleunghe second; Kimberly Drosd, 31.87, Brewer second.

Blackbirds grab 4th in sectionals

By Stephen A. Smith

"We performed outstandingly and the team did extremely well" commented coach Ken Kirik on Voorheesville's performance at the track sectionals. As a team the Blackbirds placed fourth out of 17 squads.

Coming off an injury, senior Rich Kane took first place in the shot put with a school record of 47 feet 18 inches. Kane also came in third in the discus.

Proving that he is one of the best runners in Voorheesville's history, Chuck Rogers came in first in the mile run for the third year in a row. The two-mile relay team placed second with Rogers, Tom Donahue, Ben Greenberg and Pat Lentlie. They were clocked in 8:28, the second fastest time in the Blackbirds' history.

In the one-mile relay Rogers, Donahue, Brian Smith and Kevin Kelly, who ran his fastest quarter of the season in 52 seconds, finished with a time of 3:27, seventenths off the school record. The 400-meter relay team ran their fastest time of the season with Kelly, Donahue, Smith and Rob Raynsford.

Other highlights included Ben Greenberg taking first in the unseeded section of the 1500-meter run and Pat Lentlie coming in sixth in the two-mile run. As for the girls, sophomore star Rachel Martin won the half mile with her best time of the season.

This Friday a few of the more talented Blackbirds will be going to the state qualifiers, including Kane, Rogers, Martin and possibly one of the relay teams.

Swimmers get firsts

Three Delmar women came home with 10 first place ribbons in an Empire State Games qualifier swim meet over the weekend. More than 80 masters swimmers from four states participated in the Saratoga Summer Splash, sponsored by the Adirondack District Masters, in the 25-meter pool at Skidmore College.

Marylou Schulz swept five events in the 45-49 age bracket, winning the 50-meter, 100-meter and 200-meter backstroke and 200 and 400 freestyle. Nancy Scholes won the 50 breast, 200 backstroke and 200 free in the 40-44 division, and was third in the 50 and 100 back.

Linda Simkin, swimming in the 35-39 age group, won the 50 and 100 breaststroke, placed second in the 50 back and third in the 50 free.

Indians settle for 4th spot

By Bart Gottesman

After a long season of being in the hunt for a top spot in the Colonial Council, the RCS baseball team ended the season with a 10-6 Council record, having to settle for a fourth-place finish.

In the last week of regular play, the Indians failed to repeat as upset winners over Watervliet, a team whose only Council loss was against Ravena, but gained victories over Schalmont, 8-7, and Cohoes, 9-1.

Russ McBride, Rich Losse and Larry Rivers shared the pitching duties in the victory over Schalmont. McBride hurled the first three innings and ran into early troubles as he gave up five earned runs. Rivers pitched the next three, giving up one earned run and striking out six. Losee struck out all three batters he faced in the seventh.

The Indians scored three runs in the second on hits by McBride, Chris Peterson and Matt Hannah. In the fourth, after falling behind 7-3, Ravena added one run on hits by Losse, Casale and Peterson. The Indians took the lead for good in the sixth with four runs, keyed by Brian Stumbaugh's two-run single followed by Rivers' game-winning single. On the day Rivers went 3-4, and Peterson, Losee, and Hannah each went 2-3.

In the loss to Watervliet, Rivers went the distance on the mound, giving up six walks and fanning five.

RCS broke out to a 2-0 lead in the fourth on back-to-back doubles by Waddingham and Andy Casale, followed by a Peterson single.

Ravena's lead was short-lived as Vliet scored three in their half of the fourth. In the fifth, the Indians tied the game at three, but a five-run Watervliet fifth game gave the Council champs an insurmountable lead.

Peterson's perfect 3-for-3 and Waddingham's 2-for-4 led the Indians offense in the blowout of Cohoes. RCS put the game away in the sixth with Tim Penk, Waddingham and Stumbaugh keying a four-run outburst. Losee pitched the complete game for the Indians, giving up five hits and one unearned run.

The Indians this week were making their first trip to the Sectionals under coach Gary VanDerzee. In the first round of the Class B's, the Indians drew Mohonasen, a team with a 17-game winning streak. The game was scheduled for Monday at Rotterdam.

Bethlehem wraps it up by bowing to three foes

By John Bellizzi III

The Bethlehem Central varsity baseball team finished its season last week with three losses, giving the team a final record of 10-11.

Last Tuesday the Eagles bowed to Linton, 6-4. Geoff Mackey was the starting pitcher, relieved by Mike Cornell and Mike Hodge. Doug Pratt led the Eagle's offense, hitting a triple and a double.

On Wednesday BC made up an earlier rainout at Gunderland, losing again, 13-5. Pratt started on the mound, and was followed by Hodge and Cornell. Pratt helped his cause with a triple and a single.

The Eagles ended their season Thursday, losing to Glens Falls in an away game, 4-3. Mackey "pitched an outstanding game" according to coach Ken Hodge, but was unable to suppress the opposition. Pratt again was BC's leader at the plate with two hits. He ended the season with a .440 batting average, including nine doubles, three triples and two home runs.

In addition to the varsity, Bethlehem Central's other baseball teams finished their season last week. Junior varsity coach Nelson Harrington led his team to a record of 8-10. Coach Harrington credits much of the success to star pitcher Sean Lynch and .470 hitter Bobby Jakhra.

Jesse Braverman's freshman baseball team had an outstanding season, holding a league record of 11-3 (14-4 overall) and capturing first place in the Section 2 Gold Division. Braverman named Kyle Snyder the team's Most Valuable Player with four home runs and 26 RBIs for the season.

Eighth grader Alex Hackman was one of the Eagles' outstanding pitchers with a record of seven wins and two losses. Also having a good year on the mound were eighth grader Bryan Mullaney and freshman Pat Doody, who pitched a no-hitter in the championship game against Gunderland, retiring the first 15 batters. It was Doody's second straight shutout after blanking Mohonasen earlier.

Mullaney had a shutout victory over Niskayuna, a one-run save in relief, and a win over Columbia in which he picked five runners off base.

The frosh were an excellent defensive club with a team fielding average of .932. The outfield of Jamie Dillon, Scott Hodge and Pete Bragaw committed only two errors all season. The infield included Chris Hughes, Ryan Flynn, Dave Sodergren, Chris Pratt, Chris Aloisi, Al Greenbough, Tim Hansen and John Hansen.

Leading the hitters were Devon Cahill with a .429 average and Scott Hodge with a .417 average.

'Birds end season with sizzle

By Rick Leach

It was a great way to finish an otherwise dismal season for the Voorheesville baseball team.

They closed with a rush, winning their last four games, including three last week after winning just once in their first 14 games.

A week ago they beat two teams that had beaten them previously, combining good pitching, a power offense and near flawless defense. They made only one error in three games.

Last Tuesday the Blackbirds traveled to Mechanicville to play a team that had beaten them, 6-3, the first time around. This time starting pitcher Vinnie Foley was in complete control, hurling a five-hitter in a 3-1 victory. Jamie Cohen went 2-for-3, John Meacham 2-for-2 and Rick D'Errico 2-for-3.

On Wednesday Voorheesville hosted Colonial Council doormat Albany Academy, a team they had crushed, 13-3, the first time. It was the same story this time as the Blackbirds exploded for 16 runs on 18 hits. Spearheading the attack were Bill Kelly (4-for-4), Cohen (3-for-3), Foley (3-for-5), Mike Lans (2-for-3) and Meacham (3-for-5). Included in Meacham's hits were a triple and a home run. Rick Weisemeier pitched a complete game, giving up two runs on four hits to get his second victory.

Two days later the Blackbirds went to Schalmont for their final league game. It was an excellent way to finish as the Birds pounded out 13 runs on 14 hits for a 13-3 victory. Cohen went 4-for-4 to finish out the season with a .500 average, the best on the team, edging out Kelly. Cohen and Kelly tied for the lead in stolen bases at 27 each. Foley and Meacham also added doubles while Chuck Giantasio had a triple. Foley gave up two runs in the second inning and one in the third, but didn't allow a hit the rest of the game for his third consecutive outstanding performance.

This left the Birds with a 5-11 league record and 5-14 record overall. Although this was much lower than coach Gerry Gordinier had expected, he was pleased with the way the team finished.

Better than good, it was great!

By John Bellizzi III

Eight home runs sailed over the outfield fence in the three Major League games played Saturday at Magee Park, home of Tri-Village Little League. Most of them came in the day's first contest, where Farm Family beat Starwood, 21-13. Farm Family pitcher John Rice blasted three home runs to drive in seven runs. "This was the first time I hit any over the fence," confided Rice, "and it felt really good... great, I guess."

Also for Farm Family, Billy Clark and Billy VanHoesen each nailed one out of the park, bringing in three runs apiece. Starwood's Brian Farrell also smashed one out of the park.

Later on Saturday, Davies Office Refurbishing triumphed over Roberts Realty, 13-3. Davies pitcher Mark Houston had another great game, striking out 12 while giving up three hits and six walks. Kevin Curran homered for the winners and also had a triple and single. Paul Noonan had two singles and two doubles for Davies, Brendon Gross a single and a double, and Houston, Jim Dundon and Ed Luberda each two singles.

Roberts' three runs came from singles by Mike Pratt and a double by Billy Greer. Ben Comtois started on the slab for Roberts, and was relieved by Lynn Doody and John Thomas. On Wednesday night Roberts pitcher Brent Kosoc tossed a shutout over Price Greenleaf, 9-0. Kosoc had a one-hitter, with 10 strikeouts and no walks.

Saturday Price Greenleaf's Matt Shortell hurled a one hitter, striking out 11, to beat Main Care, 6-0. Josh Lanni had Main Care's only hit, a double. Main Care pitcher Mike Gambelunghe was not quite as successful, giving up eight hits. Brennan Perkins blasted a two-run homer for Price Greenleaf to give his team an early lead. Kevin Brennan, Matt Quatraro and Jamie Fraser all doubled for Greenleaf.

On Sunday Price Greenleaf won again, this time over Spotlight, 13-3. Joey Mangiapane was the winning pitcher, relieved in the third by Quatraro. Spotlight pitchers Dave Miles and Brendon O'Brien couldn't keep up with the strong bats of the opponents. Greenleaf's first baseman Jeremy Goldman homered in the third inning, and doubled and singled at other points during the game. Quatraro doubled twice and singled once, as did Perkins. For Spotlight, O'Brien tripled and singled, Alexis Otto doubled and singled, and Andre Cadieux doubled.

Eagle girls 11-6 overall

A split in their last two Suburban Council games earned the Bethlehem Central girls softball team a last-minute invitation to the Class A Sectional tournament, according to coach Kelly Keller.

Keller said she was notified Friday that the Eagles were seeded No. 2 in the Suburban Council and were paired with Linton for the opening round at the Linton diamond on Monday. On Monday she said she was told that the Linton field was under water from the weekend storms, and that the game would be played at the Central Park diamond in Schenectady.

Kim Burkhardt went the route as the Eagles edged Saratoga, 5-2, in a makeup game last week. A day later BC dropped a 7-1 decision to visiting Guilderland. The split left BC in first place in the league's Gold Division with a 10-5 council record, 11-6 overall

30-game schedule for Blue Eagles

There's a new baseball team in town — the Bethlehem Blue Eagles, a new entry in the Eastern New York Connie Mack League.

The team, managed by Randy Gambelunghe, who has proven himself with a fine coaching record in the local Little League and Babe Ruth programs spanning more than 10 years, consists of 12 talented 16, 17- and 18-year-olds. "Most teams in the league have only 16- and 18-year-old players," explained Gambelunghe, "but because these 16-year-olds have tournament and varsity experience, I believe we can be very competitive this year, and with all but one returning next year, we will win our share in years to come."

The Blue Eagles' roster is made up of high school players and tournament champions from a variety of baseball backgrounds. Sixteen-year-olds include second baseman Alex Buerle, a player on last year's District 6 Babe Ruth championship team, and Jeff Boyd, this year's Bethlehem Central varsity catcher and another Babe Ruth championship veteran. Paul Evangelista, who pitched and played first base for the BC varsity, as well as the Babe Ruth champs, is playing for the squad, along with Joe Ganley and Eric Heathwaite, both Babe Ruth outfielders last season. Mike Hodge and Peter Russo both played for the District Babe Ruth champs and the Bethlehem Eagles varsity team, Hodge as pitcher and third baseman, and Russo as second base. Completing the 16-year-old lineup is Jeff Pesnel, a pitcher and shortstop for the CBA junior varsity team and last year's Babe Ruth champs.

Brian Battle, a veteran of the Babe Ruth all-star team of 1984, and Bob Jahkra, who also was on the '84 All-Star team, played for the JV team at Bethlehem this year. The only 18-year-old on the team is Randy Gambelunghe, Jr., a pitcher and first baseman for the CBA varsity, as well as the Fort Orange Legion team last year.

The Blue Eagles begin their 30-game schedule (20 league games, 10 non-league) tonight (Wednesday) in an away game at Twin Town at 8:30 p.m. Their first home game is Monday vs. South Troy at 6 p.m. at the Bethlehem Central High School diamond. The team's schedule carries them through late July, at which point they will participate in a post-season invitational tournament in New Jersey.

Lees bright spot for BC

By Charles Henrikson

For Bethlehem Central's tennis team the high point of the Suburban Council Tournament last week was the doubles team of Eric and Stan Lee. These two were BC's top two singles players for the season, and as a doubles team were seeded second. They breezed through most of the tournament, but met with resistance in the semi-finals, where they met the No. 3 seed, the first and second singles players from Burnt Hills.

The Lee brothers managed to pull that out, but in the final they could not handle the top seed from Shenendehowa, and ended up in second place. BC's three other doubles teams lost in the first round.

TENNIS

In singles Brian Saelens made it easily through the first two rounds only to meet the eventual winner of the tournament. Jeff Grant had a similar experience against the eventual runner-up in the third round.

Coach Ray Fetho was pleased with his team's showing and he looked at it as being a good experience for next year. The entire team will return without losing a regular player to graduation. With most of the other teams in the council losing key players, BC should be in good shape next year, according to Fetho.

The regular meet season is completed at this point. Two make-ups against Niskayuna and Mohonasen have been canceled, as has the completion of a match against Burnt Hills. The team's final record was 8-3.

This week the team plays in the Section 2 team tournament Thursday and Friday. In this, only five singles and two doubles get to play, instead of the usual six and three, because of the smaller teams coming from smaller schools outside the council. Only the better teams are invited to this and so for the young Eagles it may be only a learning experience this year.

Paul Nichols and James Volkwein, co-presidents of the Voorheesville High School student council, accept a plaque of appreciation from Julie Liberty of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. The student council raised more than $2,000 for Cystic Fibrosis through their recent dance marathon.

Birds' hopes dashed at tourney

By Rick Leach

The Colonial Council tennis tournament was a disappointing one for the Voorheesville Blackbirds as they were unable to qualify any player for the Class C Sectionals. The No. 2 doubles team of Chris Stevens and Tom Kurkjian moved into the second round before losing a heartbreaking three-set match to Parker and Bissel of Cohoes. The Blackbird duo won the first set 7-6, but then fell, 6-3, 6-4. The mother doubles team, Jim Volkwein and Paul Nichols, fell in straight sets to a good Schalmont team. In singles, Steve Smith lost to the eventual fourth-place finisher, 6-2, 6-3, and Dean Solomos lost by 6-4, 6-2.

The Bird netmen also had a match last week at Ravena and won, 5-2, to even their Colonial Council record at 6-6. Stevens (7-5, 6-2), Smith (6-0, 6-1), and Dave Mistretta (6-1, 6-0) were the singles winners, while Mistretta and Stevens won, 6-1, 6-1 at doubles.

This gave the Blackbirds an 8-6 record overall and a chance to go to Sectionals as a team. "Five out of our six losses have been to Class B teams, so I think we have a very good chance at going," coach Tom Kurkjian noted. The committee was to select on Monday.

Ritter shows his caliber

By Paul Curley

"A good experience for the younger players," is what coach Jack Curry, called the Ravena tennis teams' participation in the Colonial Council championships last week. It was also a chance for Jim Ritter to show his ability as one of the council's finest athletes as he advanced to the finals on Thursday.

Ritter played a "good semi" against Bill LeBeau of Cohoes, where he won, 7-5, 6-3. Then he had to come back to face LeBeau's teammate John Dobas, who Curry thinks is the "best player in the council." Ritter was defeated by Dobas 6-1, 6-2. The only other Ravena player to advance past the first round was Chris Stevenson who was eliminated by Dobas in the second round.

The last match of the year was against Voorheesville Friday. Ritter was the only singles winner for the Indians and the doubles team of Ritter and Darrin Hall was also victorious as Ravena went down, 5-2.

No-hitter RCS heads to sectionals

By Tim Penk

Bethlehem Babe Ruth opened its season on Saturday with Jonathan Skilbeck throwing a no-hitter in the first game, a 7-0 win by Blue Cross over National Savings Bank.

Recording the first nine outs on strikeouts, Skilbeck received offensive support from Kyle Snyder and Quimby McCaskill. Peter Jeram save the no-hitter with a fine defensive play at shortstop in the sixth inning.

In the second game of the day, Davies' Office defeated Main Care, 13-8. Ryan Flynn and Sean Davies delivered key hits for the winners, while Flynn and Scott Hodge split the pitching chores.

Bethlehem Babe Ruth is coming off a successful 1985 season that saw its 14-15 year-old All-Star team win the district title and advance to the state championship series in Buffalo. The 13-year-old team finished second in the 16-league district tournament.

Games are played weeknights at 5:45 and Saturdays at 11 a.m. at the Bethlehem Middle School.

The RCS softball team finished its season last week by defeating two teams. The Indians finished in second place by one game behind Schalmont and were seeded fourth for the Class B Sectionals.

Ravena started the week by beating Cohoes, 7-1. Terry Baker threw nine strike outs. The team played solid defense and was led offensively by Frances Losee, who hit a double and a single.

RCS held on to win against Mechanicville, 10-7, after leading 10-0 in the fourth. Baker pitched for the Indians. Natalie Fitzgerald hit a double and single, and Losee had a double.

The team now has a record of 17-3 overall and a league record of 14-2 to start the Sectionals against the fifth seed, Hudson Falls.

Burtis wins tourney

Linda Anne Burtis of Elmsmere was the upset winner of the Capital OTB Women's 35s tennis tournament last weekend at the Tri-City Racquet Club.

Burtis fought from behind to take the final match, 6-3, 6-7 and 7-5 over Heidi Attfeller of Bayville Sunday. Earlier she topped second seed Shizue Iwai, 6-3, 6-1. The victory was worth $200. Burtis teamed with Pam Engle of Manchester, Vt., to reach the doubles finals of the tournament.

THE HOME TEAM

The Do-It-Yourselfer

• Heard about the do-it-yourselfer who had to move because he'd run out of projects? The basement was finished, the attic had been transformed into bedrooms for the kids, the kitchen had been modernized pretty good—workmanship was twice—not professional, but passable.

• Then he took on his final do-it-yourself project—selling his house—and that's where he hurt himself. First he set his selling price too high—more than anything comparable in the area—so no one would buy. For months he or his wife stayed home every day, hoping a prospect would call. Then he got panicky. Because he needed the money for his NEXT home, he lowered his price drastically, and finally had to sell for almost 25 percent less than his original asking price!

Moral: on important projects, professional workmanship beats do-it-yourself. When you really want to sell, list with the knowhow people....

All Eagles

Editor, The Spotlight:

On behalf of the staff, student body and myself, I wish to express our appreciation to the parents and community members who volunteered their time to support our student activities program.

Our school community has provided hundreds of people who served as athletic boosters, music boosters, drama and musical assistants, chaperones, Middle State Evaluation assistants, Bethlehem Central High School Community Organization and Shadow Experience organizers. Many of these people I have never met, since they work quietly, but diligently, under the leaders and elected officers of their various organizations, but their results are readily apparent and appreciated by students and staff. Some of you have been nominated for and received an Eagle Award for service and/or accomplishments that would have otherwise gone unnoticed; however, many of you have been unknown and/or unrecognized for your service. Therefore, I extend to you our sincere appreciation and an Eagle Award for service rendered to our school.

Charles A. Gunner
Principal
Bethlehem Central High School

Add to the list

Editor, The Spotlight:

There was an omission in last week's list of merchants and individuals who gave donations to the Slingerlands Elementary School carnival raffle.

We would like to thank Bob Howard Realty, Gochee's Garage, and Dorothy Brown for their donations toward the purchase of the BMX bike.

Super circus

Editor, The Spotlight:

On behalf of the Kiwanis Club of Delmar I would like to thank all of those people who attended the five performances of the Vidbel Circus at the Elm Avenue Park on May 17 and 18. Many favorable comments were received from the attendees about the 1986 circus presentation.

A special thanks to our co-sponsor, The Spotlight, and to Dick Ahlstrom for their efforts in making this project a success. In addition, a word of thanks to Bob Hendrick, town supervisor, to Charles Fritts and the board of appeals, to John Flanagan for his assistance, to Phil Maher and the parks department, to Chief Paul Currie and the police department and to the Delmar Rescue Squad.

The monies received from this event will be used during the coming months to benefit our various youth and senior citizens programs.

Chairman, Circus Project

Unnecessary agony

Editor, The Spotlight:

Labor pains, dirty diapers, sleepless nights, teething distress ... As parents we learn to accept these discomforts as an inevitable part of parenting. I don't think we should accept the labor and distress of Tiny Tot Swim Registration as well.

Almost any other system of registration would be more practical. It should not be inevitable that conscientious parents stand in three-hour lines in extreme heat or downpours so that their children might obtain a coveted spot in the Town of Bethlehem Swim Program.

If we must compete for prize spots on a "first come, first serve" basis, couldn't it at least be a mail-in competition?

It is ludicrous that parents must take time off from work, disrupt meals, make elaborate babysitting arrangements and become even a little more stressful each year on one lunatic day in May so that their children may learn the important survival skill of swimming.

And the program became even more elite this year. For the children of parents who wouldn't play the "waiting for hours on line" game there will be no swimming lessons this summer. The consolation prize for a mere 1 1/2 hour wait (from 6:15-8:00) is a place on the not-so-coveted waiting list.

We have another whole year in which to complain and suggest concerning this inconvenient form of registration. This situation is one parenting discomfort we should not have to accept.

integrating them into the community.

"From the very first, our dealings with the Town of Bethlehem have been positive, and town officials have been helpful throughout the process of establishing a residence in Delmar," Hanson said. "We expect these young people to be able to take advantage of many of the programs and services the town has to offer; the churches, the town park, the shopping. We feel certain that both Delmar and Wildwood will find they are acquiring good neighbors and good friends."
