Bethlehem's bottlenecks — some help in sight

But Rt. 85 improvements will be a long haul

By Tom McPheeters

On any weekday morning around 8 a.m., traffic on Cherry Ave. — a lovely, divided four-lane highway — comes to a grinding halt at the light on New Scotland Rd. Delmar commuters seethe, some passively waiting it out while others attempt to switch lanes and slip around the lengthening line. Meanwhile, the contingent from Slingerlands and the west waits its turn to join the stream inching toward the Rt. 85 bypass to the state campus and I-90.

Try another route — straight down Delaware Ave. Just fine until you cross the Thruway bridge, where the road narrows to two lanes of city traffic. Again the poor commuter waits helplessly as traffic piles up at the infamous Coulson's intersection while vehicles try to make a left turn onto Whitehall Rd. No escape.

Head out the Delmar Bypass to

Rt. 9W. Same story as four lanes funnel into two at the site of the new bridge over the Normanskill.

Because Bethlehem is still basically a bedroom community, the road network linking the town to Albany is vital. But the three most important routes to the city for commuters all have serious bottlenecks, the results of decades of piecemeal development and a lack of coherent planning.

Commuters, take heart.

As nearly everyone knows, one of those bottlenecks — the Rt. 9W bridge over the Normanskill — will be gone this fall as the second half of the new bridge is completed. Work is about a month ahead of schedule, according to supervisors.

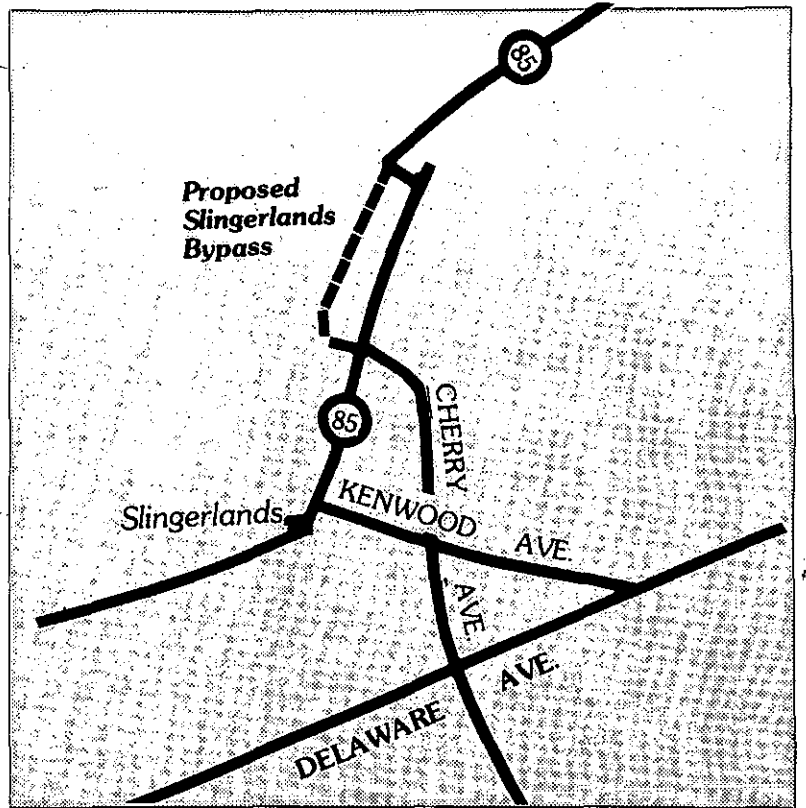

A solution to the Cherry Ave.-New Scotland Rd. bottleneck is at least five years away, but at least local officials are beginning the lengthy process of getting an extension of the Slingerlands Bypass on the the state's planning board.

Delmar commuters could see the most dramatic change for the better late this summer on Delaware Ave., a bottleneck that, ironically, isn't in the town. A developer's plans for a new shopping center on the site of the old billiards factory has spurred the city to make major road improvements on Delaware Ave. at the intersections of Southern Blvd. and Second Ave.

But just when Delaware Ave. seemed like a good bet for the weary commuter comes the news that the state is planning to tear down the Normanskill bridge (the other Normanskill bridge) because it too is ready to expire. There's some breathing room here, though, since the $5 million

Garage vote puts center on schedule

By Patricia Dumas

Albany County officials expect to meet their civic center timetable of a bond sale in July and construction start in September now that the county legislature has agreed to have two Philadelphia firms build the center parking garage.

The legislature last week approved the agreement with Parkway, Inc. and Spectacor Management to build the 900-space garage for the convention and sports center in downtown Albany. It pledges that the county will guarantee at least 60 percent occupancy of the garage during its first five operating years.

That guarantee against financial losses was protested by some Republican legislators because private financing and construction of the garage was an integral part of the legislation in April that authorized a $35 million county bond issue to finance the civic center project. The privately financed garage will cost $7.5 million.

"I'm not certain that this is what I would call a private development...I oppose our having to guarantee private enterprise their living. I think they should come in and take their chances," Minority Leader W. Gordon Morris of Delmar said.

Voorheesville Republican Michael A. Ricci said: "I think these guys (the garage builders) are putting county money where their mouth is."

The agreement with the builders, negotiated by County Attorney William J. Conboy II, means that the county will sign long-term leases for 330 parking spaces and will guarantee to lease up to 210 more spaces if there are not enough private leases to cover the builder's operating expenses and debt payments.

The 330 spaces are needed for state workers to replace a four-acre parking lot acquired by the county. The lot was on state-owned land needed for the civic center site and the county agreed to replace the parking.

The county will pay $55 a space per month for the first five years of the garage operation and the developers will pay the county 20 percent of the profits in return for an annual lease on the building site. Officials concede that there may not be profits during the first year.

If a hotel is built as part of the civic center project the county would be paid another five percent of the garage profits and it

Village seeks underpass repairs

By Patricia Mitchell

The Village of Voorheesville may consider applying for state funding to repair the railroad underpass on Rt. 85A, according to Mayor Edward Clark.

The underpass is considered to be a safety problem for the village, with the major problem pedestrian and bicycle safety. Because of its narrow width, if a second car enters the tunnel, a pedestrian or bicyclist could be crowded up against the wall as the first car allows for more room.

A rough plan for repairing the underpass would cut another tunnel through the embankment for pedestrian and bicycle use or widen the existing tunnel, Clark said. Even though no major mishap has occurred at the underpass, a large truck recently was stuck for several hours because it couldn't clear the top.

Cutting another underpass could cost $800,000, said Clarence Fosdick, regional planner for the state Department of Transportation. However, to fund the project on a tight budget, the department would have to take money from something else that may be more urgent.

Funding by the transportation department, Clark has said, is probably out of the question. The transportation department, Fosdick said, knows the Rt. 85A underpass is a problem for village residents.

In the past, the department has painted the underpass and cleared brush away in attempts to increase safety, Fosdick said.

Plot thickens in 102nd

The already crowded field in the race for the 102nd Assembly District being vacated by C.D. "Larry Lane" has another wrinkle in an already complicated situation.

Shaun Marie Levine of Coeymans has announced that she will run as a Conservative candidate for the post that covers all of Greene County, about half of Columbia County and the towns of Bethlehem and Coeymans in Albany County. Her entry will not directly affect the four-way race for the Republican nomination, but could have a bearing on the November election by eliminating the Conservative line as a source of additional support.

Levine is the former executive secretary to the executive director of the New York State Conservative Party and a founding member of the Albany County Conservative Club. The club is one of two warring factions of the Conservative Party in Albany County, and claims the support of the state-wide organization.

In the recent past, Albany County Republicans and Democrats have placed considerable emphasis on winning Conservative primaries, both as a way of attracting more support and also as a show of strength. This year, several of the Republican candidates as well as the Democratic flag bearer, Eugene Keeler, were reportedly after the nomination. "They didn't know who to endorse," said one Republican observer of the Conservatives.

Mrs. Levine said last week she has received the endorsements of the Albany and Columbia county Conservative organizations, but that the Greene County conservatives have nominated their own candidate, Vincent Sheridan. That means there will be a Conservative primary, "which I will win," said said. However, it would be next to impossible for any of the other candidates to enter the Conservative primary since they are not enrolled party members and would not be allowed to have their name printed on the ballot, she said.

Mrs. Levine said she would campaign on the issues of "high taxes, excessive crime and insensitive state government." She is currently employed by the state as an administrative assistant.

Meanwhile, two of the candidates running in the four-way Republican primary Sept. 9 have issued statements.

Glenmont resident Gary Swan, one of two Bethlehem candidates in the race, announced that his supporters have already collected the 500 signatures necessary to get on the primary ballot, but said he plans to get more signatures in case there is a challenge. Swan, who is not endorsed by any of the three county committees, said he hopes to show that he is "the only three-county candidate in the race."

Swan said his workers are also circulating petitions to Gov. Cuomo • critical of mailings publicizing recent state tax cuts as a way of furthering Cuomo's reelection. He called the mailings "reelection propaganda."

John Faso, the Columbia

County candidate, said last week that he will work for a modification of the mortgage tax as it is applied to homeowners who refinance their homes. People who refinance are being hit with "double taxation," he said.

Also in the Republican primary are Bernard Kaplowitz of Delmar, who has the Albany County endorsement, and Nils Backlund of New Baltimore, the Greene County candidate. Keeler, the Columbia County district attorney, is the only Democrat who has announced.

would receive another five percent if an exhibition hall is built over the garage. Both are possibilities under discussion.

Republicans Edward Buhrmaster and Jay Sherman spoke last week in favor of the arrangement. Two Democrats, Robert Reilly and Henry E. Dennis, Jr. — who had insisted on private financing of the garage before they voted for the civic center bond issue — also approved of the Parkway-Spectacor deal.

"I think it's a good deal and we are going to get our money back. There's no reason why government can't cooperate with private industry," Buhrmaster said.

Lumber spills

Traffic was blocked for a short while last Friday after a load of lumber spilled across Rt. 102 in South Bethlehem, state police reported.

The flatbed truck driven by an Altamont man was traveling south and entered a right hand bend in the road when load binders holding the load of lumber broke, shifting the load and causing the truck to overturn on its side. State police said the truck was eventually set right and re-loaded.

Glenmont to honor 5

The Glenmont Parent Teacher Association will hold an open house at Glenmont Elementary School on Monday, June 23, beginning at 7 p.m. The organization will honor retiring faculty and professional staff members Ruth Anderson, Mary Reid, Dot Seim, George Behrens and B.J. Lornell. The retirees have given combined service of 105 years. All are welcome.

In Voorheesville The Spotlight is sold at Voorheesville Pharmacy and Stewarts

Sherman said it was "a good omen that Spectacor is investing not only talent but money" in the civic center project.

Spectacor, hired last year as management consultant for the project, will be the financial partner of Parkway on the garage. Parkway is one of the major parking garage operators in Philadelphia and also manages facilities in Denver, Cleveland, Plattsburgh, and Anaheim, Calif.

Dennis said, "it doesn't bother me one bit to have Spectacor and Parkway together. It makes good sense."

The county's agreement provides that it will try to provide tax-exempt bond financing through the County Industrial Development Agency.

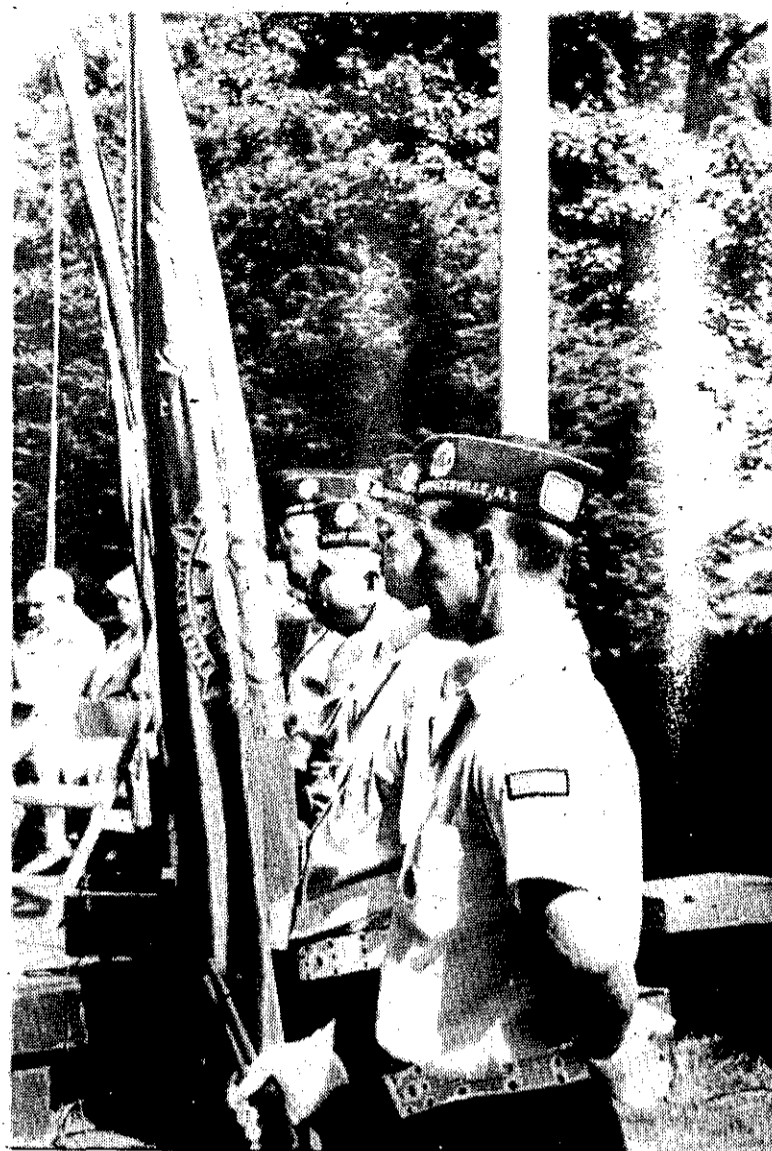

Flag on display

During a Flag Day speech before the Bethlehem Lodge of Elks, Bethlehem Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick called attention to the 126-year-old, hand-crafted flag on display at Bethlehem Town Hall.

"The national banner was hand-made by Leah Slingerland who resided in the village named for her family from 1840 to 1929. The flag is huge as well as beautiful. It measures 7 feet, 10.5 inches wide by 10 feet, 6 inches long. When it was completed by Miss Slingerland (who later married John Haswell) in 1860, the flag's field of blue displayed 33 stars," said Hendrick.

"The flag was flown during the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and World War I," Hendrick added.

The flag was placed on the western wall of the town board meeting room in 1980.

Members of the Voorheesville American Legion Color Guard stand at attention during Flag Day ceremonies at Hotaling Park on Saturday. Sponsored by the New Scotland Elks, the observance included Village Mayor Edward Clark, Trustee Sue Rockmore, Town Supervisor Steve Wallace and Town Clerk Corrine Cossac, and Boy Scout Pack 73. The Elks made a donation to the Voorheesville Area Ambulance squad, donated a plaque to the village's flag pole, and an American Flag to the boy scouts.

History explorers return

The City of Albany's tricentennial observance prompted the Capital District Humanities Program to sponsor a trip to Holland in May, to visit the places that once were called home by many early settlers in the Capital District region. The first part of the trip (reported in The Spotlight) included stops in Amsterdam, Beverwyk and Crailo.

TIMES REMEMBERED

and where he was born. Pieter Winne had a farm in Bethlehem in 1652.

Then we set off for Antwerp, Belgium, for a two-day stay. At one time Belgium and Holland were one country (the Low Countries) and shared a common heritage. The northern region of Belgium that borders Holland is still known as Flanders. Daniel VanAntwerp came to Schenectady in 1656 and VanAntwerp School in Schenectady is named for this early settler. We passed through the ancient Belgian city of Ghent (also the name of town in Columbia County), the city from whence emigrated Pieter Winne,

We then spent an afternoon at the restored medieval city of Bruges, also completely surrounded by its water moat. Entering through the ancient city gates with their pepper-pot towers, we came into the old city, alive with holiday revelers. It was Pinkster weekend, a celebration akin to our Memorial Day weekend in holiday travel. The word Pinkster is a derivative of Pentecost. It just happens that the wild azalea is in bloom at this time, so the flower also is called Pinkster. Enroute to Bruges, we had passed several road signs indicating the mileage to the nearby town of Watervliet. The farms in the Flanders region appeared prosperous and much fruit was grown here.

Bruges has a splendid medieval guild hall. In a museum room attached to it was exhibited a copper plate dated 1567 upon which appeared a list of the names to town burghers. Among those names was that of Pieter Vlaminc. Could he have been a relative Pieter de Vlamingh (Peter the Fleming), who settled at Cedar Hill in the 17th century and operated a mill there on the stream that now bears his name?

From Antwerp it is only a short trip to the Dutch province of Zeeland. Here is a land of islands and here we can see the results of the Dutchman's constant struggle with the sea. A massive dam project now connects the islands of Zeeland, with gates and sluices that shut off the North Sea from the land. In 1953 over 2,000 persons were washed away by a disastrous flood. The Dutch vowed that this would never happen again, hence the vast Delta Project was made. We spent a morning driving about on the dikes and bridges and viewing the vast works.

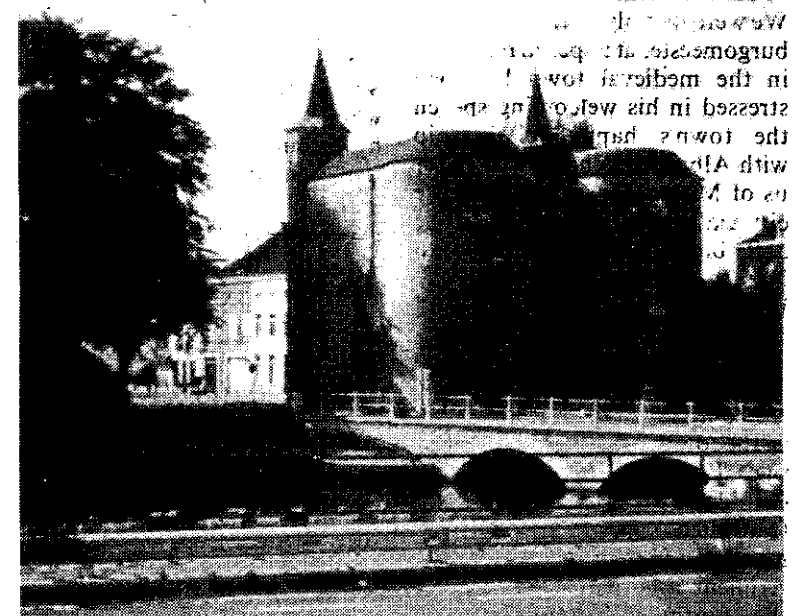

Then on to Middelburgh, the capital of Zeeland, and its centerpiece, a sprawling 12th century abbey. A portion of this abbey is to be converted into the Roosevelt Study Center where students from all over Europe can come to learn about this important family in American and world history which included Theodore, Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt. It commemorates the historic links between Zeeland and the Roosevelt family, since Claes van Rosevelt and his wife, Janetje, sailed from Tholen in the 1640's for the New World.

Zeeland was also mobbed with holiday makers over the Pinkster weekend. Windsurfers by the thousands were covering the shallow waters on the lovely day that we were there, and day picknickers and camping trailers were parked everywhere, with people sunning themselves on top of the dikes. Sailboats and windsurfers seemed to be the most popular type of boat in Holland, perhaps because much of the lake and nearby sea water is shallow.

From Antwerp we drove northeast through the garden section of the Netherlands. Three great rivers — the Maas, the Waal and the Rhine — divide Holland in half from east to west. In this region we entered a land graced with thousands of blooming apple trees. These are not like any we see in America. These trees are planted closely together, espaliered on sticks and trimmed by hand so that they never reach a height greater than four or five feet. The secret to growing many apples on what to us looked like baby trees lies in the root system and the tremendous amount of hand work in the pollination and pruning of these trees. a tour participant), we learned that these little trees produce twice as many apples per acre as ours here in America.

Mijmegen, Albany's sister city, lies on a bank above the river Waal in the middle of a unique part of the Netherlands, where lowlands and hills meet each other, very close to the German border. The Romans had settled here before 69 A.D. Charlemagne chose the city as his place of residence and many early settlers to our area came from this region. We were warmly welcomed by the burgomeester at a special reception in the medieval town hall. He stressed in his welcoming speech the town's happy relationship with Albany. He had pictures for us of Major Corning visiting the city and of the quantities of food and building supplies sent to Nijmegen from Albany to help rebuild the city after World War II.

From here it is only a short way to the town of Arnhem, capital of the Province of Gelderland (Guiderland). In this region transpired some of the fiercest moments in European history. Arnhem and Nijmegen marked the northern frontiers of the Roman Empire. In 1944 these two cities were the scene of the most massive airborne attack in history, the story of which was the

was the home of Arent Van Curler, founder of Schenectady and an agent for the Dutch West India Co. Also from this town came Arent Van Schlichtenhorst, hired in 1648 to become the director of the Colony of Rensselaerswyck. We were invited to visit his farm outside of town, which had a "new house" built in 1696. It was a rare privilege to enter this farm home as a guest and get a feel for how the modern Dutch farmer lives in great comfort and style in such an historic house. The great church at Nykerk was built in 1461. There is a huge stone here bearing the Van Rensselaer coat-of-arms and the parents and other relatives of the patroon are buried under the floor of the church. There were also other stones with familiar names on them such as VanVorst and VanDyke. This was a tobacco growing region and the wooden pulpit has a symbolic row of tobacco leaves carved on it. Killian VanRensselaer is buried in Amsterdam, but his home estate of Crailo was not far from this ancestral village of Nykerk. Brant Peelen came from Nykerk to Bethlehem in 1630 and other early settlers from nearby were the Vanderbilts, Marselis, Hendricksen, Jacobsen, Coeymans and Eldert Cruyf, who leased Pieter Winne's farm in Bethlehem in 1655.

Our 12 days of touring passed too swiftly and we were all a bit nostalgic when our time came to board the big white plane at Schipol airport, for it meant an end to our journey into bits and pieces of the past and goodbye to a delightful little country that has so many associations with our Capital District region.

subject of the best selling book and movie A Bridge Too Far.

From Arnhem we entered a land of sandy heath and meadow, with many great trees and bushes, a wooded land not usually associated with Holland in the tourist's mind. The stately palace of Het Loo, formerly the residence of Queen Wilhelmina, was turned into a museum at her death. It has been restored to its 17th century splendor and the extensive formal gardens are as exquisite as only a Dutch nurseryman can make them.

Just north of here we visited Schenectady's sister city Nykerk, where we were again entertained by the burgomeester at a reception in the stately town hall. This town

Town looks at senior options

By Patricia Mitchell

With their mission statement presented to the Bethlehem Town Board, the town's new senior citizens housing committee has set next January as the deadline for a public presentation on housing options.

"We are not trying to come up with the answers now," said Councilwoman Sue Ann Ritchko, chairman of the senior housing committee, at last week's town board meeting.

Many senior citizens live on fixed income and are faced with a decreasing availability of suitable and affordable housing. Ritchko said the committee hopes to explore and recommend options for housing, and will involve groups in the community, including service clubs, neighborhood associations, professional organizations, churches, senior clubs, builders, realtors, bankers and senior citizen facility boards.

After five meetings since January, the committee's mission statement defines its goals — "To develop a plan for the Town of Bethlehem to provide our elderly and disabled residents with the opportunity to remain as residents of our community through additional housing options."

Defining the mission statement was a difficult task for the committee, Ritchko said.

According to 1980 census information, 3,166 senior citizens in the town account for 13 percent of the population. An estimated 5,757 senior citizens will account for 22 percent of the town's population in 2010.

By the fall, Ritchko said, needs for money, space, and staffing should be determined if the committee decides to directly address specific housing needs. For now, however, committee members are exploring various alternatives including shared living spaces, accessory apartments, reverse equity, or building housing units.

"We are not sure that is the answer," Ritchko said of building senior citizens' housing.

"We are looking at alternatives so people can make a choice," said Karen Pelletier, Bethlehem's senior citizens services coordinator, and a member of the committee.

Committee members are Mark Becker and Jane Bloom of Glenmont; George Chesbro, Dr. Roger Drew and Maureen Nyilis of Delmar; Norman Kurland, Marion Martin, Lloyd Nurick and Ken Ringler of Elsmere; and Elizabeth Boivin of Good Samaritan Nursing Home.

"We have got some really sharp people," Ritchko said. "If any one would like to, we are very anxious to have anyone from the community."

The senior citizens housing committee meets at 7 p.m., third Wednesdays, at the Good Samaritan Nursing Home on Rockefeller Rd.

In other business, the town board accepted a negative environmental impact statement on a five-lot section in the north end of the Skycrest planned residential district.

Commissioner of Public Works Bruce Secor said the statement was put in front of the town board on the recommendation of the planning board, to ensure total compliance. The Skycrest planned residential district was approved in 1973, outdating the State Environmental Quality Review Act, and Secor said the state Health Department doesn't consider five lots or less a subdivision.

The planning board completed the impact statement. The town board is considered the lead agency in the planned residential district.

"It may not really be necessary. It is a gray area," Secor said.

The Bethlehem Town Board also:

- Appointed Todd Polverelli as a part-time police dispatcher effective June 12, and Ann Hulme as a temporary clerk for the department of taxes and assessments until Dec. 1, 1986.

- On request from Parks and Recreation Administrator Philip Maher, rejected an $8,900 bid from the Anvil Fence Co., Inc. for fencing at the town park because the sample submitted did not meet bid specification. The town will update specifications and readvertise at a future date.

Clark C. Graninger Named VA director

Clark C. Graninger has been appointed director of the Albany Veterans Administration Medical Center. Graninger replaces Albert Washko of Delmar, who is now Northeastern regional director of the Veterans Administration.

Graninger previously served as associate director of the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Birmingham, Ala.

Graninger earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Maryland and master's degrees from Catholic University in Washington, D.C., and George Washington University. He is a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators. He formerly served as an adjunct assistant professor in health care administration at the University of Alabama.

"I'm satisfied that the quality of care at the VA Medical Center is excellent and I want to ensure that the patients know that and feel they have a comfortable experience in a caring environment at this Medical Center," said Graninger.

Clark and Dorothy Graninger will reside with their daughter, Karen, in Delmar.

DWI charged

A 21-year-old Feura Bush man was charged with driving while intoxicated after he was stopped on Wellington Rd. on Sunday, June 8, state police reported.

The man was also ticketed for a loud muffler, driving an unregistered vehicle, and not wearing his seat belt and ticketed to appear in Bethlehem Town Court yesterday (Tuesday).

ago, according to one state official.

The corridor, Hendrick wrote to John E. Taylor, director of the state Department of Transportation's Region One, "is our most urgent problem and one that only be resolved through state action." Hendrick cited the Vollmer report, commissioned by the town last year to study traffic patterns, to support his case: more than 14,600 vehicles use New Scotland Rd. daily, and that volume should increase to more than 20,000 per day in the near future, the report said.

Hendrick and other town officials followed up the letter with a visit to Taylor's office in May. "They recognized the need," Hendrick said later. The town's first move will be to make a presentation to the Capital District Transportation Committee. "Then, if you can sell your program, the next thing is to get it on the TIP list," Hendrick said. The Transportation Improvement Program is the DOT's five-year list of approved projects.

By contrast, the changes on Delaware Ave. are happening because of the right combination of circumstances at the right time. The new shopping center now under construction by Gordon and Company opposite Southern Blvd. and a change in ownership of the Mobil service station at the Whitehall Rd. intersection will allow the city — at virtually no cost — to widen Delaware Ave. enough to allow left turn lanes in both directions at both intersections. New traffic signals will also be installed, according to Inspector Robert Coleman, Albany's traffic chief.

This spring, Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick began the lobbying effort that he hopes will convince the state to extend the Slingerlands Bypass from its current termination point near Blessing Rd. to meet Cherry Ave. The cost of that project was estimated at $2.5 million 10 years

"We're going to revamp all of the Delaware Ave. lights within the next year," Coleman added. The lights from Whitehall Rd. to Madison Ave. will be linked with a computer and synchronized, he said.

The replacement of the bridge over the Normanskill won't affect traffic on Delaware Ave., state planners say, because there is no need to widen it to four lanes. "That road section goes pretty well," noted Robert Hansen, regional program coordinator for Region One. The bridge is being replaced because recent inspections have uncovered serious structural deterioration, he said. "It was built in 1929, so it has exceeded its normal life," he said.

And — in theory — construction of the new bridge shouldn't disrupt traffic too much, since the Region One proposal is to build it upstream from the existing bridge. "We've told them we strongly support that alternative," Hendrick said. A new bridge would, however, mean taking some private property and houses to "flatten" the curves leading to the bridge, and for the site for the bridge itself.

Hansen said that if the project is approved at DOT headquarters, design work would start in about a year and the project would be let for bids in the "early 1990s." The estimated cost is $5.4 million.

Bethlehem PBA appeal to be heard

What could be the final chapter in the long-running contract dispute between the Bethlehem Town Board and the Bethlehem Police Benevolent Association could be played out next week before the state Public Employment Relations Board.

If the PBA loses that round, an appeal of a hearing officer's "improper practices" finding against the union, it would appear to have few if any avenues left.

Last week the state Court of Appeals refused to hear the union's final appeal of the case of four police officers convicted of insubordination by the town in 1984 and later affirmed by the Appellate Division of state Supreme Court. That case is generally believed to be the start of the hostilities between the union and the town, although the stalled contract talks have touched only marginally on the discipline issues raised in 1984.

The court decision means that suspensions and work without pay penalties imposed by the town against Officers Robert Samsel, Wayne LaChappelle, James Haker and Marvin Koonz will not be modified. The officers had refused an order from Chief Paul Currie to work additional hours following court appearances, contending that the order violated their union contract. Haker was PBA president in 1984, and Koonz is the current PBA president. PBA attorney Matthew Clyne confirmed last week that the PBA had picked up some of costs of the suspensions for the officers involved.

Negotiations for a new contract began in 1984 shortly after the disciplinary hearings, and the current contract expired Jan. 1, 1985. The improper practices charge stems from negotiations held late last year, in which the town contends it reached an agreement with then-PBA president John Cox for a settlement that did not involve a 20-year retirement clause, one of the union's major goals. But the agreement was voted down by the membership, and the town accused Cox of going back on his word. In April, a PERB hearing officer agreed with the town and ordered the PBA to enter into an agreement based on the Dec. 11 proposed agreement.

The PBA appealed that decision to the full board, which has placed it on its agenda for discussion this week, a PERB spokesman said Friday. A decision is expected by the end of the week.

Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick said Friday that he hopes the discipline cases will now be "water over the dam." If PERB upholds the town on the improper practices charge, he said, "there is no room for negotiations," and hopefully a new contract can be settled quickly.

Gunner, Walsh cited

Bethlehem Central High School principal Charles Gunner and art teacher Jeanette Walsh each have been selected for Awards of Honor from the National School Public Relations Association. Only 112 such awards were made nationwide.

The awards recognize outstanding contributions to education. Gunner's achievements range from state and national honors to community programs he initiated such as the "adult academy" to help those wishing to complete their high school educations. Mrs. Walsh has developed innovative art courses, from grant funding through curriculum development, helping to double the number of students in Bethlehem Central's art program in a few years.

No impact statement, Kleinke recommends

The Bethlehem Town Board at its June 25 meeting will consider a recommendation for a "negative declaration" for the proposed Northeast Psychiatric Hospital on Rt. 9W in Glenmont. The negative declaration means that the town has decided that the project will not have a significant adverse environmental impact, and therefore does not require preparation of a full environmental impact statement.

The recommendation was prepared by the town's planning consultant, Edward Kleinke, who screens all major projects for compliance with the state Environmental Quality Review Act (SEQRA). Although the controversial project is still under consideration by the town planning board, which held a public hearing in May, the "negative declaration" would be a significant step forward.

"From a planning viewpoint," Kleinke wrote in his memo to the town board, "the project is properly located on a major carrier highway, it is properly zoned (Planned Commercial), and will most likely generate other types of non-retail development within the area — such as professional/corporate offices."

"This is particularly important as a large retail development, such as a shopping mall, would, in our professional opinion, result in a far greater adverse impact to Rt. 9W and the Glenmont Elementary School."

Kleinke said the impact on the school — the focal point of opposition to the hospital — could only be mitigated by selecting another site, but that the applicants had demonstrated that similar projects have no adverse effects on nearby schools or to the community in general.

Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick said Friday that Kleinke's recommendations had been ready for the board's meeting Wednesday, but that he decided to hold it because one board member was absent; the issue is of such importance that the full board should make the decision, he said.

Elmwood Fire District vote set

Elmwood Park Fire District voters will cast their ballot from 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesday, July 22, on a proposal to build a new fire house.

The fire district serves parts of the towns of Bethlehem, Gunderland and New Scotland.

The proposed facility on Russell Rd. near Krumkill Rd. will be financed by a $375,000 bond that is expected to be repaid over 30 years, said Philip Schweppenhauser, chairman of the district's fire commissioners. Final cost to district voters through taxes has not yet been determined.

The 2.6 acres of land the proposed fire house will sit on, valued at $40,000 with site development, will be donated by the North Bethlehem Fire Department and will be purchased with proceeds from the sale of the present fire house on Schoolhouse Rd. Schweppenhauser said the department is also planning to donate a $100,000 pumper to the district if the proposed fire house is built.

The proposed fire house will measure 5,500 square feet, and will house an apparatus room, a commissioner's room, a small kitchen, and a meeting room that is about one-third of the size of the present meeting and community room at the Schoolhouse Rd. fire house, Schweppenhauser said. A storage or an officers' room may also be added.

"There will be no community room. I doubt if we can do it much smaller," Schweppenhauser said. "For $375,000, it is pretty hard to refuse."

The proposed fire house will be designed to allow expansion in the future, Schweppenhauser said, either due to added equipment to service the expected increase of population or for a community room. The proposed fire house will be less than a half a mile away from the present fire house, but will be located in the center of farmland that could be developed.

The district was originally considering a 9,000 square foot building. That was later scaled down to 7,200 feet, and then 5,500 square feet. Earlier this year, the board of fire commissioners were also considering putting two propositions before their voters to either build a new firehouse or to repair the existing one. That ballot was later withdrawn, and the commissioners decided in May to hold a vote to approve repairing the present fire house.

After receiving estimates from their architect outlining repairing their present building at $290,000 plus the purchase of the land and the building at $90,000 to $100,000, Schweppenhauser said, the fire commissioners decided it would be more beneficial to the taxpayers to build a new building. The district had to buy the building if repairs were approved because the district can not make repairs on a building it does not own, he said.

"Economically, it is more feasible," Schweppenhauser said.

If the present fire house was purchased, 1) there would be no room to expand. The life of the bond 2) that finance the renovations could be no more than 20 years.

"Most of the people we talk to are in favor of it. Once they see our present fire house, they are in favor," Schweppenhauser said. There are some residents of the district that are in favor of buying and repairing the present fire house, he said.

District voters twice last year rejected proposals to build a new fire house on a site across the street from the present building. The fire department has since sold that land.

The Elmwood Park Fire District rents the fire house on Schoolhouse Rd. from the North Bethlehem Fire Department, and their lease will run out on Dec. 31, when the building will be sold.

"I do not know what we are going to do if the bond issue fails. If the voters keep voting us down, there is not much we can do," Schweppenhauser said. A proposition to dissolve the district and to become a fire protection district contracting for services from adjacent districts is not being considered, he said.

Voter registration will be taken at 7 to 10 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday, July 2 and 3, at the fire house for any voter not registered in the district.

The North Bethlehem department is also planning to put out a flier on the proposition before the vote is taken.

Crazy Letter Friend brings language to life

It wasn't a bird, a plane OR Superman who landed in the kindergarten classroom at Hamagrael Elementary School recently. It was a Crazy Letter Friend (actually, a fifth grader in disguise) who was there as part of a teaching program that brings the alphabet to life.

Crazy Letter Friends, developed by a California educator, include such persona as Annie Astronaut, Eddie Engineer, Naughty Ned and Wacky Witch. At Hamagrael, where the program is being used in Bernadene Fisk's kindergarten classes, the Letter Friends are portrayed by fifth graders who have volunteered to don costumes and appear in the weekly skits.

Fisk praised the program as a learning tool and also as a good social experience for both age groups. The program package come complete with scripts, costume suggestions and new lyrics for familiar tunes. At Hamagrael, the program has been expanded to include a writing element in which, Fisk said, spelling comes more easily because of Suzie Snake and her friends.

Volunteer performers this year were Kathy Blyman, Matt Brown, Mandy Conway, Lisa Dearstyne, Nick Dubroff, Meghan Faulkner, Amy Fernandez, Hope Grenz, Paige McKinnon, Sharon Reiss, Suzanne Rice, Mike Russo, Meredith Tombros and Penny Walker.

'We'll miss you,' board tells Berglas

By Lora Ide

Bidding a fond farewell to an outgoing Superintendent Werner Berglas, receiving an up-date on the school shorts policy and fielding a request changing the name of the Gifted and Talented Program were three topics covered June 9 at the Voorheesville Central School District Board of Education meeting.

"We do have to pay note to Dr. Berglas' last meeting," John McKenna, president of the board, said. "We'll miss you," Berglas is retiring after serving as superintendent for 11 years. Louise M. Gonan is replacing him.

Peter Griffen, principal of the Clayton A. Bouton Junior-Senior High School, reported that the school shorts policy, initiated last month when the board suspended the ban on shorts by the high school's dress code, seems to be working out satisfactorily.

"The first two days after the meeting we had bandanas, we had shorts. If you had come to school those days you wouldn't have known you were in Voorheesville. But the next week we had 30-degree weather in the mornings, and we had very few pairs of shorts show up," Griffen said. "What we are still having a problem with is what I still classify as short shorts. I saw four students today, but I didn't make a fuss about it."

Arthur Willis, in his report on the Gifted and Talented Program, said the committee had decided to ask the board for permission to change the name of the program to the "Focus" program. Several board members commented that this new name suggestion didn't really mean anything specifically, but Willis defended the committee's choice by saying that the current name alone turns students away.

"The name change will dispel concern that the program is a club, that it is ommissive, and that it omits recognition of talents and gifts," Willis said.

After an hour's discussion, the board decided the Gifted and Talented Program committee should get together with the incoming superintendent to discuss the issue.

In other business:

- Board member Peter Ten Eyck said he had received telephone calls from a neighbor of the high school grounds who said he was concerned that golf balls being hit onto his property from school grounds might injure someone or damage something.

"We do have expectations about how we would like to have school grounds used, and it seems to me that some sort of sign telling these expectations wouldn't be out of order," commented Ten Eyck. But the question was raised that if there were such a sign prohibiting certain activities, that it would then implicitly allow everything else. The board decided to consult counsel on the issue.

- Passed unanimous resolutions reluctantly accepting the resignations to two valued employees, Mary Thoman, senior typist, and Helen Tinsmon, teacher.

- Approved probationary appointments of eight new employees.

Planners schedule hearings

The New Scotland Planning Board has scheduled two public hearings for Tuesday, June 24.

At 7:30 p.m., the planning board will hear comments on the plans for a three-lot subdivision on 30 acres south of the railroad tracks on the west side of Upper A Font Grove Rd. owned by Klersy Building Corp. of Delmar.

A 1200-foot road with a turn around point somewhere in the middle to allow emergency vehicles the space to turn around was granted conceptual approval by the planning board in April.

At 8 p.m., a 25-lot subdivision on land owned by Donna Baltis at the corner of Rts. 85A and 155 will be open for comment.

At its Tuesday, June 4, meeting, the planning board also decided to study possible rezoning along Swift Rd. to require large lot sizes. Residents of the road requested the study because of concern over new housing springing up with small lots, and possible leaching of septic systems due to more development on the smaller parcels. Typical lot sizes along Swift Rd. are about two acres.

Alzheimer's seminar at Good Samaritan Home

At St. Matthew's Ernest Kitchen will address the graduating class at a special liturgy. A reception will follow.

Blood drive

A community wide drive to obtain the "fluid of life," blood will be held on Monday, June 23, from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. as the First United Methodist Church of Voorheesville hosts the Red Cross Blood Mobile. As always, donors are needed, since blood is certain to be in demand over the upcoming Fourth of July holiday.

Those interested in donating blood are welcome to drop by or call ahead for an appointment to eliminate any waiting. Those wanting to make an appointment or get more information may call either Lynn Cowles, officer of the day, at 765-4724, or Winn Schwartz, in charge of donor recruitment at 765-4788. Voorheesville NEWS NOTES

Lyn Stapf 765-2451

Tickets for the performance are $4 each and may be purchased at the studio or at the door.

Summer soccer

Once again the Kiwanis Club of New Scotland will be offering a youth soccer program to students who reside in the Town of New Scotland, or the Voorheesville Central School District. Both boys and girls currently in grades 3 through 5 are eligible to take part in the program, which will run every Monday and Wednesday evening from Aug. 18 to Oct. 15. Two optional skill nights, devoted to promoting fundamental soccer skills will precede the season.

Although registration days have passed, pupils may still sign up for the league by obtaining a registration form in the grade school office and sending the completed form and a $5 registration fee to Kiwanis Youth coordinator Ron White at 250 Cheshire Ct., Voorheesville.

The registration fee covers the cost of a team shirt. Insurance coverage is provided for the program. Students will play on the athletic fields at the elementary school beginning at 6 p.m. on game nights.

And summer math

Sign-ups are also being held for those who would like to hone their skills in math and reading this summer. As in the past, a summer school program in math and reading is being held at the Voorheesville Elementary School for students who could benefit from additional reinforcement in those areas. The reading program will run from 9 to 10:30 a.m. while the math sessions will run from 10:30 a.m. to noon.

Since daily attendance is mandated by the state and since progress depends on good attendance parents who are contemplating an extended vacation between July 7 and Aug. 8, the dates of the session, are advised not to register their child.

A LOGO computer class will also be offered to students in grades 4 to 6 at the same time. Those wanting further information on any of the summer programs should contact assistant principal Elizabeth Singer at the elementary school, 765-2382.

Raffle tickets

Those who purchased tickets for the raffle sponsored by the Voorheesville Fire Department may still benefit from supporting the group. The Eagle's Nest Bike Shop on Delmar will redeem ticket stubs for $25 off the purchase of a bicycle or 10-percent off repairs and accessories. Robert VanAernem, owner of the Eagle's Nest, also donated a 12 speed bike to the very successful venture, which was won by Ted Hunter of Clarksville.

First Frizee, a deluxe gas grill and rotisserie, was won by Lynn Berhault of Voorheesville.

The Fire Department held the raffle to help gain funds for the 1987 Albany County Firemen's Convention, which they will host. Herb Reilly of Reilly and Son Funeral Home provided the tickets.

Members of the press

Three editors of the Voorheesville Voice newspaper at the Voorheesville Elementary School recently spent an exciting evening at the Imagination Celebration Gala held in Albany. The evening of May 21 the three took part in a student interview of actor Cliff Robertson, this year's Kennedy Center Arts Award recipient. As part of the student press corps, Rachel Killar, David Lancor and Bob Stapf attended training sessions at Capital Newspaper and participated in an April interview of Albany Mayor Thomas Whalen.

Following the interview with Robertson and the awards assembly the student editors were treated to a performance by the Famous People players of Canada and along with the 500 other guests at the gala attended the reception.

Summer music

Again this year the Kiwanis Club of New Scotland will sponsor a summer music program in the Town of New Scotland. The program will be four weeks in length and will meet three times a week beginning on Tuesday, July 15, and run through Aug. 7. Classes will meet on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the elementary school.

Regular band rehearsals are from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m. followed by jazz band from 10:15 to 11 a.m. Group and individual lessons will also be offered. The program is free to all.

Those interested in signing up should contact music teacher Lydia Tobler either at the high school, 765-3314 or the grade school, 765-2382, as soon as possible.

Volkwein leader

James Volkwein of Voorheesville, a senior at Clayton A. Bouton Junior-Senior High School, was one of two students from New York State to be awarded a $1,500 scholarship at the National Century III Leaders Conference recently held in Colonial Williamsburg, Va.

Grange plans fair

The Bethlehem Grange has set the date for this year's craft fair and flea market. It will be on Saturday, July 12, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the grange hall, Rt. 396, Beckers Corners, Selkirk. All crafts booths will be located inside the building this year, with the flea market on the grounds outside. The event will include handmade crafts of all types, new and used merchandise, a "this and that sale" and a bake sale sponsored by the Women's Activity Committee of the Subordinate Grange.

The Grange will also have refreshments for sale throughout the day, as well as a luncheon.

Anyone interested in reserving space to display crafts or merchandise, or wishing additional information may contact Linda Schact, 767-2924, or Helen Raynor, 767-2770.

Bloom gets award

The Greater Capital Region Teacher Center has announced summer awards winners. Projects proposed by teachers relate to educational travel, study, research and curriculum development.

In the RCS district, Michele Bloom received a grant for her project entitled "Curriculum Guides for Beginning French and Spanish." Awards are made directly to teachers.

Eligible recipients are public and independent school teachers and administrators. The awards may be used to support curriculum

Members of the Selkirk-South Bethlehem "Sunshine" Senior Citizens recently took a bus trip to Boston, Mass. With a guide who provided background on many historic sites, the group saw many points of interest along Boston's Freedom Trail. The tour included Trinity Church and the Christian Science Publishing Society, where visitors can "step inside the world" — a sphere 30 feet in diameter representing the Earth. The tour group dined at the historic Union Oyster House, which was frequented by such American greats as Daniel Webster and members of the Adams, Hancock and Quincy families.

old auditioned for a variety of television commercials. She then was signed to a two-year contract with a three-year option.

Entering their first beauty pageant just one year ago, Jaime-Leigh and her sister, Joyce, 18, have been awarded more than 50 trophies and prizes in local, state and national competitions.

With the close of the school year, Jaime-Leigh and her family expect to spend several days a week throughout the summer in New York City fulfilling contract commitments.

Chain reaction

A compressor being hauled by a truck on Rt. 55 last Wednesday overturned after the truck driver applied his brakes to avoid a collision with a New Jersey woman who took evasive action after a dog ran into her path, state police reported. No one was injured.

After the truck driver applied his brakes, the compressor went out of control, causing the truck to spin around, strike two mailboxes and overturn the compressor, state police said.

The vehicle driven by the New Jersey woman was not damaged. No charges were filed, troopers said.

School T-shirt to debut

Despite all the activity that is scheduled for this Friday's field day at the A.W. Becker Elementary School, one thing should stand out very clearly — the students. The youngsters will be wearing their official A.W. Becker T-shirts for the first time.

The shirts bear the school name and a design created by incorporating pictures submitted by the students in a recent contest. The winning drawing from each grade appears on the shirts in the form of a collage. Each grade has been assigned a color, enabling teachers and supervisors to tell at a glance which grade a child is in. This is expected to help those supervising not only the field day but outings in the future.

On to the TV studio

The sparkling eyes, pretty smile, and sometimes impish traits of Jaime-Leigh Gooding are very familiar to her classmates in Mrs. Heath's kindergarten class at Elsmere Elementary School, and may soon be well known to television viewers as well. Jamie-Leigh, the daughter of Judy and Richard Gooding of Glenmont, has just been signed to a contract with Scott Eden Creative Management of New York City.

Approached at a recent beauty pageant, Jaime-Leigh and her parents were invited to travel to New York City where the 5-year-

What is a grandparent?

Whether you have a grandfather or grandmother, a grandpa or grandma, or a gramps or granny, grandparents have a special place in our lives reserved for them and only them. It is a position in our society which is rather unique, but not unlike the position held by those who are just entering the life cycle, our babies, because they are free to act in just about any way they please with few restraints. We treat them with a tolerance far beyond the limits we set for each other and, after the basic care they demand has been satisfied, we expect little more from them than simply enjoying their company and sharing its pleasures.

In most instances, grandparents have done with the responsibilities of raising children, earning the daily bread for the entire brood of bottomless bellies, and fussing with the sticky wickets of life in the family lane. It is a time when they are free to pursue their own personal desires, if they choose, without having to postpone them for someone else's needs. They can now read the entire Sunday paper or a complete novel without interruption. They can take a drive in the country at a leisurely pace and, if they want, can stay overnight at an inn without having to be home in time to make the kids' lunches or attend tomorrow's parent-teacher meeting.

Grandparenting is a time when one has the vantage point of full hindsight of the life cycle. That perspective can yield a wisdom based on the tried and tested experience of living with all its successes and failures and rebounds and recoils. Such reflections are worth learning and there is no bigger ear than that of a grandchild listening to a grandparent's stories of how it used to be. It's the bridge that links the past with the future across the gap often left by the present.

A grandparent is someone who can teach you to speak a language from "the old country" that your parents never did learn, and can show you a game and a trick or two from halfway around the world and a half-century ago.

A grandparent is someone who can give you firsthand answers to the inconceivable mystery of what children did before there was television.

A grandparent is someone who has wonderful secrets about your parents and who will tell you all of them even when your parents object strenuously.

A grandparent is someone who can watch you drop things, spill juice, break a balsa wing on a model airplane, get the wrong answer on a math problem or hear you yell at your little brother — and doesn't punish you for it.

A grandparent is someone who may have old-fashioned ideas, but is more amused than shocked by pink hair, tie-dyed pants or off-the-shoulder blouses.

A grandparent is someone who may have very little to live on, but always seems to have a few dollars to give you when you need it.

A grandparent is someone who has the best junk drawer in the world and whose attic, basement and garage hold more treasures than any museum.

A grandparent is someone whose house you can stay in without any of the normal rules about mealtimes, bathtimes or bedtimes, because the only really important rule is to enjoy yourself... and not be mean to the cat.

A grandparent is someone whose pantry is perpetually stocked with all of those forbidden fruits you're not allowed to eat at home, like licorice sticks, jawbreakers, Snickers Bars, sugared bubble gum, chocolate marshmallow pinwheels, and you can eat breakfast cereal right out of the box.

A grandparent is someone who will let you cook on the stove, hammer a loose board on the back porch, replace the storm windows on the front door, bake a banana cake, or file store coupons all by yourself, and won't even yell at you if you make a mistake or a mess.

A grandparent is someone who keeps a special chair for you, or a special cup and spoon, and your own toothbrush and drawer and, especially, your very own set of crayons that no one else is allowed to use.

A grandparent is someone who knows when you're lying, and knows that you know it, too, and then just waits for you to tell the truth, and when you do, gives you a smile and a big hug.

A grandparent is someone who teaches you much about living and, eventually, about dying, and, all the while knows that you will learn only what you want to learn anyhow.

A grandparent is someone who anchors your future to his or her past, and makes sense out of a sometimes puzzling world.

A grandparent is someone who loves you without condition, reservation or expectation, someone who makes you feel special just because you are a grandchild.

Just the beginning for School's Out

School's Out Inc., Bethlehem's out-of-school-age child care program, recently celebrated the first anniversary of two community programs, the Special Needs Project and School's In, a before-school care program.

The Special Needs Project, a program to mainstream developmentally disabled children into the after-school program, was made possible through a grant from the state Office of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities. The program offers children an opportunity to socialize with their peers in a non-competitive, enriching and supportive environment. The program also provides other family members with respite time and an opportunity to work without worrying about the care and safety of their child.

The children in the regular after-school program were prepared for the new children during a four-week orientation period that included filmstrips, stories and discussions about what it means to be disabled. The children also participated in empathy activities, which allowed them to experience blindness, deafness or immobility.

"Our motto, 'What makes us different is what makes us special,' has helped all involved realize that each of us is special and that being different is not something to criticize or fear," said Terry Osterhout, executive director.

The School's In program has been operated at Hamagrael

Elementary School. The program will be offered in the fall at Hamagrael, Elsmere and Glenmont Elementary Schools if enough children are enrolled to cover staff and material costs.

Children may arrive anytime after 7:30 a.m. and are offered a variety of games and activities and a quiet place to eat breakfast or do homework.

For information call Osterhout at 439-9300.

Two arrested

Two Elsmere men were arrested last week for endangering the welfare of the same minor, Bethlehem police said.

One man was also charged with driving while intoxicated, driving while ability impaired by alcohol, and unlawful possession of marijuana, a controlled substance, police said. The second man was also charged with unlawful possession of marijuana. All the charges are misdemeanors.

Police said they pulled over a vehicle with the two men and three passengers for failure to keep right just after midnight last Thursday on Delaware Ave. at the Kenwood Ave. intersection. After the driver failed the sobriety test they gave him, police said, they found a pipe in his jacket pocket, and the driver admitted he had a bag of marijuana in the vehicle's glove box. Police said the driver admitted he had been drinking and smoking marijuana while operating the vehicle, and admitted he provided marijuana to the minor passenger.

Police said they ticketed the driver for the traffic violation, and issued appearance tickets for Bethlehem Town Court on July 8. He was later released to his mother on his own recognizance.

The second man also admitted to police he had given marijuana to the minor to smoke and that he possessed a quantity of the controlled substance hidden in his pants, police said. He was also issued an appearance ticket and was later released.

FOCUS ON FAITH

The Rev. Arthur F. Hagy, Jr.

First United Methodist Church

A few weeks ago I wrote about that beautiful love poem in the Old Testament, "The Song of Solomon." I encouraged you to read it and to consider the universal nature of such love. Spring is the time of love's stirrings and I was suggesting that all people of the earth — those whom we love the most, as well as those whom we dislike the most, those who we know and those most unknown to us — all peoples share the emotions of love. We need to consider the things we share in common in life.

Now I would like to share some further thoughts around this love poem. I am thinking of the extravagance and exuberance of love. In the first chapter of "The Song of Solomon," the young man is trying to describe his romantic lover. He sort of runs out of words and finally in the 9th verse says, "I compare you, my love, to a mare of Pharaoh's chariots." Well, now, taken at face value that doesn't seem like much of a compliment. In fact, I am not sure I want to get caught telling my wife she looks like some guy's workhorse. At least I better be doing a lot of smiling when I say it!

But this does serve to illustrate a point. In the expressions of love, at various levels and various times, we simply run out of words. There never was a time when words alone could express the feelings of love. And so it is that we hug, we embrace, we kiss, we hold hands, we give silly gifts, and we engage in the most intimate of physical union in an attempt to say in actions what we can never say in words. A heartless clod may tell us that kissing is only good for transmitting germs, but those who have the heart of romance know there is so much to be said with a loving embrace and kiss.

And this is true in other areas of love also. In our lives we express more than just romantic love, more than just erotic love, more than just passionate love. We also call upon ourselves to express neighborly love, love for the oppressed, love for our enemies, love for God's world and God's people in the world, regardless of age, sex, race, nationality, economic position or political power. And we need to approach the expressions of these loves with the same sort of extravagance and excesses:

I know we are constantly being asked to give our support for some worthwhile cause or project, and sometimes we just thoughtlessly reach for another dollar bill and let it go at that. The whole transaction takes place with little joy and no celebrations. What a difference we could make if we planned ahead of time to make a significant contribution in one particular area. To give extra time, and to make extra time for that gift, to make out a sizeable check, maybe even a bit more than is strictly practical and then to rejoice over that sharing. These are ways of bringing some extravagance to our loving in the community.

One of the blessings of being in the traveling ministry is that you get to live in a number of places and in each community you get to know some of the best people in town. Every so often I sit back and recall some of these community "saints" and I find that my admiration for them is not just for their good moral character, but also for their ability to bring added dimensions to loving, caring and sharing. There was always an extra place at their table, an extra bedroom for the travelers, a meal for those whose Mom was in the hospital, time to take care of the children, drive to the doctor's, collect funds and clothing for the needy, and so forth. These people had no more time or energy or resources than anyone else, they just had learned how to give more of it away and so always seemed to have more for themselves.

Vivian Thorne presents a standing flag in memory of her husband, the late Clifton Cornell Thorne, to Joyce Strand, president of the Bethlehem Public Library's board of trustees, at the Celebrate Library Day Saturday.

The young man in "The Song of Solomon" runs out of words to describe his love and so goes beyond the practical and gets foolish in his love. And he and she were both the better for it, I'm sure. There is a message there for all of us.

David Riker, executive director of the Albany Urban Renewal Agency, said a major factor in Vulcan's nomination was the Historic Arbor Hill project, which includes the renovation of 82 buildings in Arbor Hill. Forty percent of the buildings were made available to lower-income households.

Riker said that Vulcan's venture with the Capital Hill Improvement Corporation in rehabilitating five vacant buildings was another example of Vulcan's commitment to provide "fair, affordable and decent housing to lower income households in Albany."

Vulcan's proposal to construct 130 housing units for lower-income households in the Arbor Hill and South End Community areas was recently accepted by the City of Albany.

Blue Eagles record now 3-1

Slugging and alert base running allowed Bethlehem's Blue Eagles to complete a successful week, winning two out of three games to bring their Connie Mack league record to 3-1.

After losing Monday night to a powerful South Troy Dodgers team, 12-3, the Blue Eagles rebounded Wednesday at Waterford with a 13-8 win. Josh Weinstein supplied the heroics with an opening inning grand slam plus a double with two on in the fifth inning. Jeff Boyd and Joe Ganley each had two singles and Mike Hodge doubled. Paul Evangelista and Jeff Pesnel handled the pitching.

On Sunday the opponent was the undefeated Latham Padres. In the third, Jeff Pesnel and Cory Wiles walked and Randy Gambelunghe doubled Pesnel home. The second run scored on a sacrifice fly by Paul Evangelista.

Latham scored one in the bottom of the third and one in the sixth to knot the score at two all. In the eighth, Pesnel walked and Gambelunghe singled to right, sending Pesnel to third. When the second baseman took the relay and took his eye off third, Pesnel slipped home with the winning run.

Gambelunghe pitched all eight innings, giving up five hits and striking out 13.

The team is scheduled to play Hoosic Valley Monday and is at home at the Bethlehem Central High School field Saturday at 6 p.m. against Lansingburgh.

Little League action continues

By John Bellizzi III

Spotlight broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning to emerge victorious against Davies Office Refurbishing in Tri-Village Little League major action Saturday. Spotlight catcher Andre Cadieux started off the team's win early in the game by doubling, and then stealing third and home to score the first run. Cadieux batted in the second run, advancing Alexis Otto home on a sacrifice bunt. The winning run was scored by Matt Merrill on a double by Brendon O'Brien. In addition, Otto, Merrill and O'Brien all singled. John Schaller pitched the first six innings for Spotlight, striking out 10 batters, and O'Brien came to the mound in the seventh to retire two batters. Defense aided in the victory, with Cadieux catching two pop-ups behind the plate and shortstop Greg Zornow and centerfielder Merrill both with impressive catches. Brendon Gross and Bob Conway pitched for Davies, and Kevin Curran had an RBI double.

Sunday, June 8, Spotlight bowed to Price-Greenleaf 14-9. Joey Mangiapane was the winning pitcher, relieved by Matt Quatraro, and their cause was aided by a powerful two-run homer by Brennan Perkins, who also singled. Quatraro doubled twice and singled, Matt Shortell doubled, and singles were hit by Mangiapane, Mike Koroluk, Mike Gertzberg, Jamie Fraser and Kevin Brennan. John DiAnni and Dave Miles pitched for Spotlight, and Otto clobbered a home run and three singles. Singles were also hit by Spencer Kirkman, Cadieux, Merrill, Miles and Zornow.

Friday night, Price-Greenleaf shut out Main Care 3-0. Greenleaf's runs were scored on two home runs by Quatraro and one by Jeremy Goldman. Shortell, pitching for Greenleaf, struck out 14 batters and gave up only one walk and two hits, one of which was a double by Josh Lanni. Main Care pitcher Billy Karins had seven strikeouts.

Saturday, Main Care beat Farm Family 10-7. Lanni, the pitcher, had a double to his credit again, Tim Mooney had three singles, and singles were hit by Matt Bechard, Mike Futia and Benjie Gold. Chris Black pitched for Farm Family and hit a single, as did Jay Tarbell and John Rice. Ryan Dunham doubled, and Dan Goeldner and Mike Aylward both hit two singles. Earlier in the week, Aylward smashed a powerful two-run homer to beat Roberts 8-4.

Later that day, Roberts beat Starwood 8-1, thanks largely to the pitching team of Lynn Doody and Ben Comtois. Doody had two singles and a double, Adam Trent a triple and a single, John Savoie a double, and Mike Pratt three singles. In addition, Mike Chaifetz, Dan Soronen and John Thomas all singled. The last put-out of the game was made by left fielder Tim Doody. Starwood's bullpen consisted of Shane Cunningham, Mark Herzog and John Dievendorf. Brian Farrell doubled, Cunningham had two singles, and second baseman Matt McGuire hit a single.

Rick Leach pitched a four hitter and struck out 15 for the St. Thomas Giants as they topped the Berne Dodgers 2-0 Saturday in Voorheesville Babe Ruth action. Rick also had a double and a single.

Jaime Kristensen also pitched a fine game Saturday for league leading Rod and Gun in a 9-0 win over the Berne Mets. Jaime gave up three hits and struck out 11. Kevin O'Connor had a double for Rod and Gun.

In the third game Saturday, Dan Mistratta had two singles to lead Foley's over Spotlight, 11-10. Spotlight's Chris Culman had three singles.

On Sunday, Orion Colfer had a double and two singles to lead Rod and Gun to a 13-7 win over Spotlight. Bret Seybath and Kevin O'Connor also had two hits for Rod and Gun. Keith Lans and Culman contributed two hits each to the Spotlight cause.

Rudofsky in top boat

Ulrich Rudofsky of Delmar was number two oar in the veteran men's four with cox shell that won a first place at the Empire State Regatta last weekend in Albany.

The 50 years old club belongs to the O.A.R.S. club based on the shores of the Hudson in Albany and has a 75-year-old stroke (the first oar) as coach. The shell covered the 2,000 meter course in 11:21.10.

"Although we'll never beat the Harvard freshmen, we will try to go under 10 in our next race," said Rudofsky. "This time we tried for 13 and did 11."

Eagles' LeBeau state champion

Bethlehem Central's Mark LeBeau capped a remarkable season by becoming the state champion in the 800 meter race Saturday at Baldwinsville. He is the first Section II athlete ever to win the state meet at that distance.

The key, said Coach John Furey, was LeBeau's self-confidence. "I was confident," LeBeau, a senior transfer from Baker, grinned Monday. "I knew who I was up against and I knew what I was capable of doing."

The meet was not particularly productive for Section II, which had been expected to do much better than its eventual seventh place, but for Bethlehem's contingent, "we had an outstanding meet," said Furey.

BC's Anne Marie Carey, a junior, was fourth in the intermediate hurdles. Her times, a 4 flat in the trials and a 64:32 in the finals, were her best ever. The winning time in that event was 61:1. "She feels that's within reach for her next year," said Coach Denise Minnear.

Also competing was sophomore Kelly Ross, whose 5 foot 5 inch effort in the high jump kept her out of the money, but helped build her confidence for next year, said Minnear.

LeBeau was rated the runner to beat after Friday's trials, Furey said. His main competition came from Ballston Spa's Mark Lavery and Dennis Webster of Clarence.

"He ran his own race," Furey said. Sitting fourth or fifth at the 500 meter mark, LeBeau was able to work his way out of a box in the last 150 yards to win going away. Lavery was second.

Lee brothers finish with strong match

By Charles Henrikson

Bethlehem Central's dynamic duo of Eric and Stan Lee rose to the occasion last week and took second place in the tennis sectionals, then fared well in the state meet.

This pair did not expect to do all that well in the sectionals, but they did. They won in the first round 6-1, 6-1, and then 6-2, 6-4 in the second. Then one of their finest matches was played as they beat the number two seed 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. A team from Shaker then fell victim 6-4, 6-4, before BC was overpowered in the final by a fairly wide margin. This second place, by an unseeded team, qualified the Lee brothers for the state meet.

There were 32 teams competing at the state meet, which was held in Albany. The Lees won their first match, 7-5, 6-2, before being

Bicycles found

Bethlehem police reported two bicycles were found last week.

A Fuji 27-inch, boy's 10 speed with a chain lock wrapped around the seat was found at 8 a.m. last Wednesday in a Delaware Ave. parking lot.

Just after 6 a.m. last Tuesday, a bicycle was found abandoned just off Murray Ave. in Delmar near the intersection of Tierney Ave. Neither bicycle is listed with the town.

A Slingerlands youth's bicycle was stolen last Tuesday from the front bicycle rack at Bethlehem Central High School, police said.

defeated in the second round. This showing, however, will probably earn them a state ranking in the top 16 or so teams in the state. They will be back next year, too, as Stan is a junior and Eric a sophomore.

Next year, the BC tennis team will be a force to be reckoned with. Every single starter from this year will be returning next year, since none are seniors. Coach, Ray Fetcho, who will also be returning, feels that his team has a very good chance of going undefeated next year, and then winning the team sectionals. The team only lost three matches this year, so this goal seems to be within reach.

Evenings return

Dress-Up

• If you were inviting friends for a party, you'd fix up the house, do everything you could to make it look attractive. Well, if you're putting your house on the market, you ARE inviting people to your home—prospective buyers, real estate agents—and you want it to look as good as possible.

• Clean, colorful, bright—those are the watchwords. Of course you'll want everything sparkling clean, from the windows to the kitchen floor. "Clean" also means free of minor maintenance problems—no dripping faucets, no broken window panes. If little things are neglected, prospects assume major work has been ignored too.

• Flowers add wonderful color. March pots of geraniums up your front steps; arrange for flowers inside. Be sure to put in seedlings of annuals all around your garden.

• Now, let the sunshine in those clean windows. Switch on lamps. Let your "visitors" see that you're proud of your home.

Hot plates

Two 15-year-old Selkirk boys will appear in Albany County Family Court and two other youths were scheduled to appear in Coeymans Town Court on charges of possession of stolen property, state police reported last week.

Troopers said the four youths allegedly stole license plates from a vehicle parked in a parking lot on Rt. 9W in Selkirk on Sunday, June 8. The youths allegedly put the plates on another car and then went for a ride. The driver of the vehicle was also arrested and charged with numerous vehicle and traffic violations, troopers reported.

Collision in Delmar

A Delmar man was ticketed by Bethlehem police for failure to yield right of way and failure to reduce speed at an intersection following an accident Saturday in Delmar.

A New Jersey woman riding in the second car involved in the accident refused medical treatment for bruises on her shoulders, police said.

The vehicle with the New Jersey woman passenger was traveling south on Wisconsin Ave. in Delmar near the intersection of McGuffey La. at about 3:45 p.m., police said. The vehicle driven by the Delmar man was traveling west on McGuffey La., and did not reduce his speed at the intersection or yield the right of way as required. Police said after the impact, the vehicle driven by the New Jersey man spun around and came into contact with the left side of the other vehicle.

Driver takes a spin

No one was injured early Tuesday morning when a vehicle driven by an Albany man went out of control on Blessing Rd. in Slingerlands, spun around, and hit several trees, police said.

The driver was ticketed for failure to keep right and traveling at a speed not reasonable or prudent, police said.

Car vandalized

Bethlehem police are investigating damage to a Loudonville woman's vehicle last Friday night in a parking lot at 163 Delaware Ave.

Two of the car's headlights were broken and the air was let out of the front tires. Police said the car was parked in the lot at about 6 p.m., and was reported at 11 a.m. on Saturday.

Cable programming

Beginning June 23, the Bethlehem Channel will show a reduced broadcast week for the summer.

Programs will run on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

"A Children's Storytime" will again be shown on the channel at 6:30 p.m., Mondays and Tuesdays, and at 3:30 p.m. Wednesdays. "Astrology with Judith Longley" will move to 8 p.m. Mondays. Children's or young adult programs will fill the 7 p.m. slot for the summer. At 8 p.m. Wednesdays, "Focus Korea," a foreign policies program, will be shown.

directors of the Legal Aid Society of Northeastern New York Inc. He is also a member of the New York State Division for Youth Independent Review Board.

Pasamanick honored

Dr. Benjamin Pasamanick of Glenmont, emeritus professor of pediatrics at Albany Medical College, was presented with the Agnes Purcell McGavin Award at a recent meeting of the American Psychiatric Association.

Through a longitudinal study of child development, Pasamanick showed that poor socioeconomic conditions that result in poor prenatal and perinatal care, maternal and childhood malnutrition and infection place children at higher risk for neuropsychiatric disorders, such as infantile autism, cerebral palsy, epilepsy and learning disorders. Pasamanick's research in psychiatry, epidemiology and sociological aspects of mental health propelled public policymakers toward preventing childhood psychiatric disorders by improving maternal, fetal and newborn medical care.

In addition to receiving the American Psychiatric Association's Hofheimer Research Prize, Pasamanick received the first Lawrence Kolb Lectureship at the National Institute of Mental Health and held the Cutter Lectureship at Harvard University. He is former chairman of the U.S. National Committee on Vital and Health Statistics subcommittee on mental health and former president of the New York School of Psychiatry.

Pasamanick is a research professor of psychiatry at New York University College of Medicine and the Sir Aubrey and Lady Hilda Lewis Professor of Social Psychiatry at the New York School of Psychiatry.

SUNY honors Sajan

Delmar resident Linda Sajan has been named recipient of the award for Excellence in Support Services by the State University of New York at Albany.

The award recognizes superior performance in a classified or non-exempt position.

Sajan has worked at the university since 1967. Currently, she serves as senior stenographer in the dean's office of the College of Humanities and Fine Arts, where she is secretary for seven college committees and maintains all administrative records, and coordinates and supervises the office's work study students.

Sajan and three other recipients of the award were presented with a $300 award by university President Vincent O'Leary at a reception on May 9.

Two Fulbrights

Dr. Gwen Moore of Slingerlands has been awarded a Fulbright Fellowship to conduct research in sociology as a guest professor at Mannheim University in Germany during the upcoming academic year.

Her husband, Richard Alba, a professor of sociology at the State University of New York at Albany, has also received a Fulbright Fellowship to teach in Germany.

Moore, an associate professor of sociology at Russell Sage College, will study national political, economic and social leaders in the industrial democracies of Australia, Germany and the United States. Her goal is to discover how much personal contact and communication there is among people in top positions in different institutional sectors of society.

Moore holds a Ph.D. in sociology and has been at Russell Sage for four years.

On HSA board

Paul Marr of Glenmont has been elected to the Board of Directors of the Health Systems Agency of Northeastern New York, Inc.

He was elected on April 7 to serve with five other Capital District residents.

Marr is director of the Regional Planning Program of the State University of New York at Albany. He is a member and past president of the Capital District Planners Association.

The Health Systems Agency of Northeastern New York serves a 17-county area and is part of the nationwide system of regional health planning.

Persico honored

Andrea Persico of Glenmont, a staff member at the Cerebral Palsy Center for the Disabled, has been selected as a Mary Langan Scholarship recipient. Persico was to be honored at a tea on Monday, June 23.

The scholarship funds may be applied to courses in special education and educational administration at the College of Saint Rose.

Burrell leads HSA

Chester Burrell of Delmar was recently elected first vice president of the Health Systems Agency of Northeastern New York (HSA/NENY).

Burrell, who serves as president of the Empire Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Albany division, has served on the HSA/NENY board of directors for the past four years.

Slingerlands honors 2

The Slingerlands PTA hosted a party for retiring teachers, Jean Kallop and Jeanne Herrmann, who have over 46 years of experience between them.

Kallop, a kindergarten teacher at the school, will be completing 25 and a half years of teaching in the Bethlehem Central School district, including stints at the Elsmere and Glenmont schools. Herrmann is ending 21 years of instruction in the area, most recently as a second grade teacher at Slingerlands, and also at Elsmere and the old Delmar school. Kallop even taught two of Herrmann's three children.

On Wednesday, June 11, at the Bethlehem Public Library, over 200 friends, family and former students gathered to give their best wishes to the retiring teachers.

Kallop plans to tour western America, and also some closer trips by piloting her own Cessna 150. She said her ongoing challenge as a teacher was to "make sure the kids got off to a good start. Kindergarten is such an important year for them."

Herrmann, known for her love of nature — she would take her students on a winter walk to have lunch — said she is trying to convince her husband, Richard, who retired recently as Elsmere principal, to join the Peace Corp with her. Thanksgiving dinner prepared by her students were lauded frequently during the party by parents who were feted by the soup-to-nuts fare in years past.

Stop, look and listen are the tips that Bethlehem Central Schools' bus driver Paul Kleinke is demonstrating to Matthew Dominelli of Delmar during kindergarten bus orientation at the Hamagrael School recently. Patricia Mitchell

ON YOUR FEET

Dr. Joseph Manzi, Podiatrist

NEW SHAPE IN ARCH SUPPORTS

If you need one of the new orthotic foot devices to help you walk and move comfortably again, about 23 steps will be needed before the new device is ready to use.

Much better than the arch supports of old, the new orthotic devices are precisely made to conform to the contours of your feet. They will vary in length and width just as your feet do. When you first see it, it may appear shorter than it should be. But it's designed to end just behind the weight bearing surfaces. This means it won't be taking up any additional room in the average shoe.

The new devices appear narrower than your foot. In the case of a woman's shoe, it may be as much as 3/4" narrower on both sides. To fit correctly, the orthotic device should fit easily into your shoe without binding or spreading the heel. And it won't bulge out on the sides, either.

It will take a short period to adjust to the new device. You'll wear it for short periods at first until you get used to wearing it all day long. All the preparation time is worth it for the comfort and stability it will bring to your feet.
