Psychiatric hospital gets 6-1 vote; town board next

By Patricia Mitchell

With a list of conditions tacked on, the Bethlehem Planning Board has given its building project approval on the proposed Northeast Psychiatric Hospital.

The application on the hospital now goes to the town board for action. However, Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick said Friday that the application will not be on the agenda for tonight's (Wednesday) town board meeting.

The discussion of the planning board, lasting just over an hour in front of an audience of about 30, was a toned-down version of the Tuesday, April 15, four-hour public hearing with an audience of 300. Members of the audience were not allowed to speak, although hospital officials were allowed to answer questions.

The discussion ended with a 6-1 vote in favor of the project, with Marcia Nelson casting the lone negative vote.

Nelson said she voted against the project because she was concerned that the proposed psychiatric hospital was not suitable for the district.

"In my opinion, it is not a suitable use," Nelson said. She pointed to the close location of the Glenmont Elementary School, and said the area was originally anticipated to be a shopping area, a much less intense use than a

Late night bill to cost taxpayers

By Patricia Mitchell

A bill sitting on the governor's desk may cost local governments and school districts more than $400,000 in tax revenue.

The bill, quietly passed by the State Senate and Assembly this spring and now waiting final approval by Gov. Mario Cuomo, would create a water district for the City of Albany and would make its water properties in local towns tax exempt, said John Williams, president of the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Board of Education.

"We are looking at an impact of $245,000 on this school district," Williams said at Monday night's RCS Board of Education meeting.

Celebrating Albany's Tricentennial, the spotlight was on the parade on Saturday and the rendezvous at Stevens Farm over the weekend. The Village Volunteers Fife and Drums Corps, clockwise from left, were awarded "Best Fife and Drum" of the parade; over 400 participants at the rendezvous acted out life of the 17th and 18th centuries; to keep authentic as possible, the encampment was closed off to visitors during part of the weekend, as Andy Stokes, left, vice president for development of Callanan Industries (which built access roads for the rendezvous), and truck driver Cliff Tompkins discover. Clarksville, originally a hamlet of Bethlehem, is represented by an antique car in the parade; and Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick motors down Washington Ave.

hospital. "That would be my recommendation," she said.

Board member Neal Moylan made the motion to give the board's conditional approval to the town board, citing the area's need for the facility, the "ideal" location on Rt. 9W, the influence on the general economy by bringing in jobs in light of recent layoffs at General Electric Co. in Schenectady, and the millions of dollars that can be brought in to the town during construction and then during operation. Rejection of the project might also place a stigma on the town for future development, he said.

"I think this is a good thing for the Town of Bethlehem. As far as construction, I like the idea of building a hospital. This is a job-producing situation. All things considered, I think this is a good project," Moylan said. "It may bring some tears and it may bring some heartache."

Board member William Johnston seconded the approval provided several conditions were recommended to the town board. They are that the proposed hospital has adequate fencing, that it is locked at all times, that town police and the Glenmont School are notified if a patient leaves without authorization, that a 24-hour guard is posted, that no outpatients or criminally insane are treated at the hospital, and that no patients are discharged or given a pass without transportation to the bus or train station, or a ride is arranged from the facility.

Board President John Williamson suggested that NuMed, the parent company proposing the project, donate an intercom system to the Glenmont School.

George Kaufman, chairman of Concerned Citizens of Bethlehem, the organization formed to fight the hospital plan, said Monday his group is considering a class action suit against the town if the town board gives its approval.

"We are still in the advice stage," Kaufman said. The suit would be brought on grounds that the hospital could endanger the safety of children at the Glenmont School.

A final decision on hiring a lawyer and going to court will not be made until after the town board makes its decision, Kaufman said.

"We are still interested in talking to town board members," Kaufman said. "We are hoping they will be more responsive."

The proposed Northeast Psychiatric Hospital, a $9 million 96-bed facility, will be built and owned by Hospital Group of New York, which is a subsidiary of Hospital Group of America, which is a subsidiary of NuMed Inc., a California based, for-profit company that owns and operates 15 other similar facilities in the United States and assorted other health-related properties.

Albany Medical School is buying the eight acres of land on which the proposed hospital will sit, and will then lease it to the Northeast Psychiatric Hospital. The school will provide staffing and clinical supervision once it is built. The four units — neuropsychiatric evaluation, child and adolescent services, adult-geriatric services, and service for substance abusers with a primary diagnosis of psychiatric illness — will provide teaching opportunities for the school.

The proposed facility will be located on the west side of Rt. 9W about one-fifth of a mile south of the Delmar Bypass. Glenmont Elementary School is about 1,200 feet south of the site on the east side of Rt. 9W. That proximity has generated concern from area residents, including over 1,000 who signed petitions last spring opposing the location.

At the public hearing in April, most of the audience was concerned that psychiatric patients would be "wandering" around Glenmont, and that patients could come into contact with students at the elementary school.

Moylan said, however, that the fear about patients and the elementary school is more a matter of perception than reality.

The operation of the psychiatric hospital could be an opportunity to upgrade the Glenmont School's security and could prompt the addition of a public address system, said board member Dennis Corrigan. Glenmont Principal Donald Robillard has been in favor of the hospital, Corrigan said.

Several town residents, including Johnston and Building Inspector John Flanigan, visited the Northwestern Institute of Psychiatry, Fort Washington, Pa., in May. The institute is operated by the Hospital Group of America, and is located within 300 feet of the Germantown Academy, a private school, Johnston said.

"There doesn't seem to be any fear in the neighborhood at all," Johnston said.

The Northwestern Institute is not a locked facility, and children even play on its grounds in the winter, Johnston said. The institute has had one incident in 12 years of operation, he said, when a patient roamed over to the academy during the institute's first weeks.

Board member Warren Kullman said that even though he is dubious about the close location to the Glenmont Elementary School, he thinks the hospital is a suitable use. He said he would rather see a proposed hospital on the site than a shopping center.

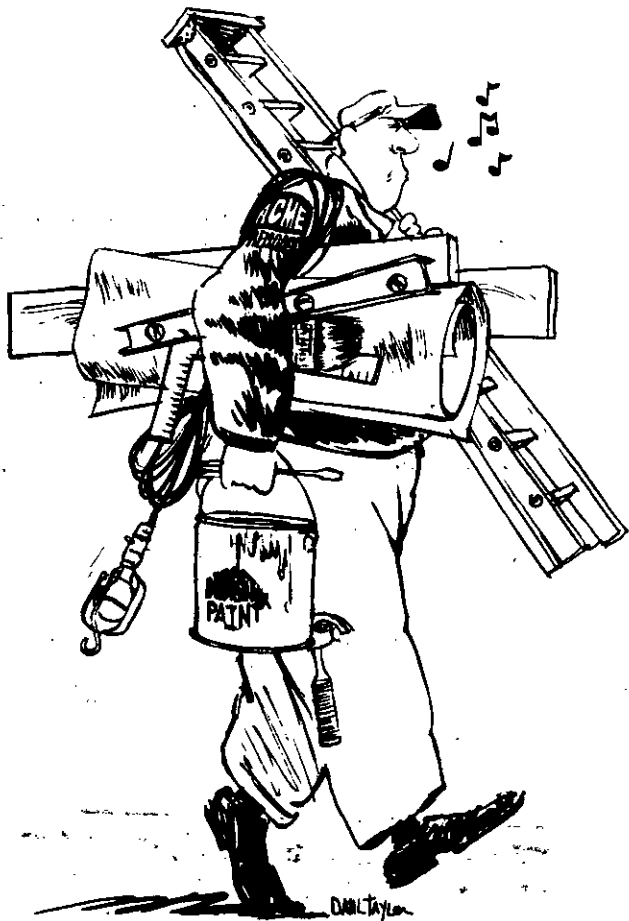

The recommendation by the planning board clears the way for the town board to make a final decision on the hospital. Hendrick said Friday that he wants town board members to have time to read the minutes of the planning board's meeting, and also plans to wait for the state Office of Mental Health to issue its Part II approval of the hospital plans. In addition, the town board is lead agency for the State Environmental Quality Review Act (SEQRA) review for the proposed hospital. Planning consultant Edward Kleinke has recommended that the town board accept a negative declaration on the SEQRA, which means a full environmental review would not be necessary.

The Office of Mental Health has already granted preliminary approval for the hospital. The Part II study covers construction plans and programs, and the office is also monitoring a trial in New York City in which a former city official has been accused of taking a bribe from NuMed, which has held several consulting contracts. That trial is still in progress. The OMH will also oversee the licensing of the proposed hospital once it is constructed.

Shot fired

A 14-year-old Delmar youth reported someone shot at him with a pellet gun as he was riding his bicycle on Murray Ave. near Carolanne Dr. at about 5 p.m. Wednesday, Bethlehem Police reported.

The youth was not injured in the incident, police said.

Planners pass Jessica Park

By Patricia Mitchell

The Bethlehem Planning Board has given preliminary approval to the Jessica Park subdivision in North Bethlehem.

Before construction can begin however, test pits on each of the 15 lots and one in the center, where the development's road would be constructed, must be placed to find the original ground level at the former dump site.

"It is (a dump). I know it is. It was an active dump. There is all kinds of things there," Building Inspector John Flanigan said to the board at their Tuesday, July 15, meeting.

Located in a Residential-A zone, the Jessica Park subdivision is proposed by Kircher Realty, Inc., and is located off Schoolhouse Rd., across from the North Bethlehem Fire House. The subdivision is designed with one drive with a large cul-de-sac.

The subdivision will include a path between two lots leading to town land earmarked for a park.

Trash and junk in the old dump site might cause a problem for the homes' foundations or the construction of the road, the board noted.

At the subdivision's Tuesday, July 1, public hearing, neighbors of the subdivision spoke on their concerns about increased traffic on Schoolhouse Rd., drainage of the subdivision and the destruction of the wetland in the area.

In other planning board business, conditional approval on the final plan for the Deerfield subdivision, located off Stockbridge Rd. in Slingerlands, was granted, and the board gave the go-ahead to begin final site work at the last section to be developed.

The board also decided to consult with the North Bethlehem Fire Department and the town's highway department on the proposed Indian Hills subdivision, located between Krumkill and Russell roads. Engineer Lindsay Boutelle submitted a new design with a new road layout that eliminates most direct access to Krumkill Rd.

Two cul-de-sacs running parallel to Krumkill Rd. and one straight-through street was added to the design. Only two lots will have direct access to Krumkill Rd., but their drives will be designed with turn-around space.

After a June 17 public hearing, Boutelle waived the 45-day time limit on a decision by the board. A decision on the proposed subdivision may come from the board in August.

The board also told Boutelle to redesign access roads added to the Quail Hollow subdivision. Located between Rt. 32 and Jolly Rd. in Glenmont, the planning board is concerned with direct access by several lots to Rt. 32, and suggested Boutelle redesign the roadways adding a cul-de-sac or using fewer, larger lots on Rt. 32 with direct access. Boutelle is expected to make another presentation at the board's next meeting.

The planning board also:

- Tabled a site plan application on a four-unit apartment building on Hoyt Ave. in Elsmere. Located in a Residential-AB zone, the building is under contract to A.T. Zautner and Son.

- Gave the go-ahead to Scott and Dianne Thompson to consult with a surveyor to prepare a subdivision on their land at Beaver Dam Rd. and Parker Rd. in Selkirk.

- Tabled again a site plan application to convert two buildings to commercial use that are expected to be owned by Dave Plummer on Booth Rd. in Elsmere. The board decided to consult with board attorney Earl Jones on parking problems at the site. However, the board said it would try to forward the site plan to the Albany County Planning Board for its Wednesday, July 16, hearing.

The next meeting of the Bethlehem Planning Board is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Aug. 5.

Midnight dip

A Stratton Ave., Delmar, man's fence was damaged by three youths trespassing in his swimming pool early Saturday morning, Bethlehem Police said.

The man heard voices in his swimming pool at about 12:30 a.m., and when he turned on his outside lights, three youths jumped out of the pool and over his fence, police said.

Bicycle stolen

An Albany woman reported her bicycle was taken from the back of the Normanside Country Club in Elsmere on Thursday, Bethlehem Police reported.

The red boy's bicycle, valued at $200, was taken from the parking lot between 6 and 9 p.m.

Donna Lee wins dog appeal

By Theresa Bobear

Donna Lee may now legally house her Saint Bernard dogs at 1691 New Scotland Rd., Delmar, as a result of a decision handed down by the Appellate Division of state Supreme Court last Thursday.

The Appellate Division reversed the Bethlehem Board of Appeal's decision to deny the special permit and handed the application back to the board, which may impose reasonable conditions on the permit.

The court decided that "The record discloses no justification for the board's concern for excessive noise or health hazards, or for its disapproval of petitioner's use of a 300-pound 'portable' kennel for each dog." The court said the board's decision rested "speculation and petitioner's controversial past history."

The town would need special permission to appeal to the Court of Appeals because the decision of the Appellate Division was unanimous.

On Monday afternoon Lee said she is going ahead with her original plans to keep her Saint Bernard show dogs at her New Scotland Road property. The number of dogs mentioned in the case varied during different meetings of the board, with seven being the final figure denied by the board.

In considering Lee's case, the court reviewed the history of the dispute from the spring of 1982, when she purchased commercial property in Bethlehem after a conflict with City of Albany zoning officials.

Regarding the hearing before the board of appeals, the Appellate Division mentioned the people who "uniformly attested to the meticulous care petitioner lavished upon her dogs, how well behaved they were, and their quiet and docile nature."

The court also commented on the testimony presented by the attorney for HMC Associates, which owns an adjacent 90-acre parcel. "Their attorney, who had once driven past petitioner's home but had not even observed any dogs, baldly asserted that the noise, odor and the possibility that the dogs might escape from the premises would significantly interfere with his clients' intended subdivision of their land into residences," the court stated, noting that a ravine and creek separate the properties. The court observed that the only other unfavorable testimony came from the town's dog control officers.

County hikes hotel tax

By Patricia Dumas

After some wrangling over whether or not the funds would be safe from raids for other purposes, the Albany County Legislature has agreed to increase the county's hotel occupancy tax and use the extra money for debt payments on the proposed county civic center.

The legislators voted 30-7 last week to increase the tax from 1 to 3 percent, effective Sept. 1. Officials said it will mean about $700,000 annual revenue which will go into a special fund labeled "Civic Center Debt Service Fund."

Known as the bed tax, the revenue source originally was assigned to the Albany County Convention and Visitors Bureau for promotion use. A small portion — 10 percent — was kept by the county to cover its collection costs.

But the legislature last week also waived its right to that money, deciding 26-11 to give the Convention and Visitors Bureau all of the first one percent of the revenues.

Some Republicans argued that the tax increase was premature and unnecessary, and lacked legal guarantees that it would be used only for the Civic Center purpose.

Republican Minority Leader W. Gordon Morris Jr. of Delmar pointed out that the county's 10 percent fee already has been included in the 1986 budget.

"I don't feel we're bringing in money so fast that we can afford to throw away money we have budgeted," he said.

Republican Paul Scaringe of Loudonville said the increase was "ridiculous at this time" (before 1987 budget figures are in.)

County Attorney William J. Conboy who prepared the legislation defended it as "legally valid and effective" and reprimanded Menands Republican Kenneth S. MacAffer Jr. for saying "I think it's sloppy and a bad law."

MacAffer insisted that the wording of the law makes it possible for the revenue to be used "for any purpose whatever."

In other action related to the Civic Center, the legislature authorized three contracts. One would allow Sheeringer and Carmody Abstract Corp. to provide title insurance, one hires Amil MacKay to prepare property appraisals, and the third authorizes the Community Dark-room to photograph historic buildings which will be demolished in order to have the Civic Center built.

In other legislative action, Callanan Industries was designated as contractor at $239,188 for repairing a portion of George Street in the village of Green Island. That is the street portion which was made a county road last year after Republicans sued in An action at the Bethlehem Central School Board's July 2 meeting should have been attributed to board member Charles Reeves, rather than to Bernard Harvith. As reported in the July 9 issue of The Spotlight, the board voted 4-3 to elect Harvith as its president. Reeves, not Harvith, nominated board member Barbara Coon as president.

Program, building and funding sought for community center

☐ Late night bill

By Lorraine C. Smith

It was another group of 20 mostly "new faces" last Thursday evening at Town Hall that heard acting chair Rob Lillis describe the past month's sequence of efforts towards organizing a town community center.

"The fact they you're here means you have to volunteer for something," half joked Lillis to the most receptive and responsive group so far. And they did. The three talked-about committees became realities and one person volunteered to initiate a petition drive to gather the support needed to demonstrate community interest to town government.

Acting chairs of the three named committees announced their meeting times and places with the purpose of addressing specific issues. Don Kennedy, Program Committee, stated that he would like to encourage a variety of representation at the meeting to be held Tuesday, July 29, at 7:30 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce offices. The purpose of his group will be to "say what we're going to do." A working consensus will be drawn up from the lists of suggestions, including the results of the partially completed survey conducted two years ago, a wish-list drawn up by Senior Citizens Coordinator Karen Pelletier, and suggestions made during the past month that include more gym facilities, another indoor pool and a "place to meet."

Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Marty Cornelius will hold a building committee meeting next Thursday evening, July 24, at the chamber offices. Her group will concern itself with the existing buildings under consideration, most recently the building the Dormitory Authority is vacating that has been offered to the town or group as a community center at rental rates considerably lower than the market rates.

The third group, the funding committee, will be chaired by Lillis, and will meet Monday, July 28, also at the chamber offices. Lillis's group will explore some long-term funding ideas as well as the financial demands of the "short-run problems." The possibility of donations from business, income from events or rental of meeting rooms are all funding possibilities. Since Micki Ahl from the Bethlehem Art Association attended the meeting to offer art programs at a center, and Jeanette Koch introduced the idea of providing services to the approximately 25 handicapped persons in our area, Lillis said that funding from the arts and for the handicapped were additional avenues to be considered.

"This is all incumbent on the town saying yes. The town is not going to run the community center. This group is going to run the center," Lillis said. "We would like to present the town with an arrangement where they will provide net funding; they would fund what we don't make."

That it would benefit the town's long range plans, the possibility of the construction of a community center at the Elm Avenue Park was also stated. A community center could be provided for the cost of a five-year rental arrangement and the successes and benefits of such an arrangement carried through to new construction. "This could be a five-year attempt to determine what works, what doesn't," Lillis said.

Response by town government has been "supportive but not committal," Lillis reported. In addition, calls of support for the idea have been received in response to a general mailing made to some 90 area organizations. Businessman Ken Ringler offered the "chicken and the egg" dilemma: "Shouldn't the program committee make their recommendations first, since the budget needs will affect the availability of the programs, which in turn will affect the building requirements?"

Other topics were introduced, including insurance, parking restrictions and participation restrictions for resident involvement: "not less that the whole town... plus the - Bethlehem school district... occasionally a Capital District wide event." But Ringler helped guide that discussion: "We're ahead of ourselves right now," and Lillis agreed that some procedures might even be program-by-program decisions.

Holly Billings introduced the subject of the need for a petition drive to be started before recommendations are actually made by the separate sub-committees. "Everything the town acts on has come from petitions. I'm a little hesitant about starting so late. I think we should start soon."

Billings offered to contact Town Supervisor Robert Hendrick to determine "what kind of language would be acceptable to the town as a statement of interest" and to head this new Public Awareness Committee.

Koch concluded the 75 minute meeting: "It's time the community makes its interest known, and time to make it happen. It's unending of what we can do in a community center. There's so many directions we can go."

Arbor Hill cleanup

The Albany County Historical Association is again planning the "Greening of Arbor Hill" on July 26.

Bernard Kaplowitz, attorney for the Town of Bethlehem, said Tuesday the bill would cost about $75,000 in tax revenue for the town, and about $78,000 in revenue for the Bethlehem Central School District.

"It has not been signed by the governor," Kaplowitz said.

The city owns the Alcove Reservoir in the Town of Coeymans, and has water lines running through the Town of Bethlehem.

The bill would also have financial impact on the towns of Colonie and Greenville, and their school districts, Williams said.

While Williams and Kaplowitz both said they are just finding out about the bill and what it could mean for local governments, Kaplowitz said it essentially would make county taxpayers indirectly pay for City of Albany water.

"This bill was brought up very, very late," said Regina DuBois, a spokesman for Assemblyman Larry Lane. "I would suspect it would have quite an impact. I have not gotten a thorough reading of the bill."

DuBois said she believes Lane voted for passage of the bill during the session, but added that Lane will be writing a letter to the governor asking him not to sign it.

"Mayor (Thomas) Whalen asked Assemblyman (Richard) Connors to sponsor the bill," DuBois said.

Bethlehem pays about $200,000 in taxes each year to the Town of New Scotland and the Voorheesville Central School District on the Vly Creek Reservoir, Kaplowitz said. Those reservoirs would not fall under the current bill, and would not be tax exempt, he said.

Spokesmen for Bethlehem Central, the governor, or the City of Albany could not be reached for comment Tuesday morning.

Cyclist injured

A Schenectady man was taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital after he tipped over on his motorcycle last Wednesday, Bethlehem Police reported.

C.W. Blacklock, Jr., 58, of Guilderland Ave., was treated and released for leg injuries, a hospital spokesman said.

Police said Blacklock was riding his motorcycle on Rt. 9W at Rt. 32 in Glenmont, at about 3:20 p.m., when he applied his brakes too hard and tipped over.

District liable for premiums

By Patricia Mitchell

An increase of 36 percent is slated for Voorheesville Central School District's insurance, but the policy will cover only about half of last year's insurance.

"Our coverage did not increase one-to-one with our premiums," said Rodger Lewis, business administrator.

The district has purchased $3 million in insurance coverage for the school year. Last year, that coverage was approximately $5.5 million. The total insurance bill for the district this year will be $79,000, compared to last year's $58,000.

At its July 14 meeting, the Voorheesville School Board approved purchase of a $1 million primary umbrella policy for machinery and automobiles, including buses, for $55,500. Last year, the district had primary coverage of $500,000.

An excess liability policy for $2 million was purchased for $24,000. Last year, Lewis said, the district had a $5 million policy. The excess liability will take over when the primary policy runs out, and will insure possible district catastrophes.

The 1986-87 budget, approved by district voters in May, set aside $62,000 for insurance.

Even though the policies were signed at the end of June, board President John McKenna asked the board to give its vote of confidence on the policies.

In other business, the school board welcomed David Teuten back for his second five-year term after his uncontested reelection in May. The board also reelected McKenna as president and Peter Ten Eyck as clerk.

In the organizational meeting, the board approved reimbursing district employees 20 cents a mile when conducting school business. On recommendation from new Superintendent Louise Gonan, the rate is up three cents from last year.

The board also backed testing of the district's three fuel tanks last week. The pressure test, required by the Department of Environmental Conservation, will determine if the tanks leak. Lewis told the board that the largest tank, holding about 20,000 gallons, will also have its fill pipe replaced.

After the board accepted resignations from 11 district employees, board member Mary Van Ryn said she was concerned that at least six more employees have said they would be accepting other positions. Included on that list is Lewis, who is leaving on Aug. 1 after seven years to become business administrator for the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk School District.

The school board went into executive session twice, but McKenna said after the meeting no action was taken. The first, called for during the meeting, was a discussion with board attorney Donald Meacham on the Grand Union Co.'s appeal of its assessment by the Town of New Scotland. The second, at the end of the meeting, was to discuss personnel matters.

In other Voorheesville school board business:

- The board learned that a new kindergarten section will not be opened this year, but Gonan said it was close with an estimated 85 to 90 students. The four sections last year handled 69 to 72 students.

- O. Peter Griffen, high school principal, told the board that one student received an in-school suspension during exams for vandalism and substance abuse.

The board will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 28. Its next regular meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 11, when Gonan and the board are expected to discuss priorities and goals for the new school year.

Officer injured

Bethlehem Police Officer Wayne LaChappelle is expected to come back on duty this week after being kicked in the knee while making an arrest Thursday, Bethlehem Police reported.

LaChappelle was treated and released from Albany Medical Center Hospital following the incident, a hospital spokesman said.

A 41-year old Delmar man was scheduled to appear in town court yesterday (Tuesday) on charges of driving while intoxicated, assault and resisting arrest, police said. He was arraigned after the incident before Town Justice Roger Fritts and sent to Albany County Jail.

The Delmar man was driving west on Delaware Ave. near Bennett Ave. Thursday morning when he drove into LaChappelle's lane, and the officer went off the road to avoid a collision, police said. At Delaware Ave. and Bennett Terr., LaChappelle placed the man under arrest as he was discharging a passenger.

After Officer Christopher Bowdish arrived at the scene, LaChappelle attempted to place the Delmar man in his police car when the man kicked LaChappelle in the knee, police said.

Change in cast

The country music group Huntington Station (formerly Southbound) has announced that Dave Burnham is no longer affiliated with the group.

Huntington Station will continue to perform as a four-member band with scheduled summer appearances in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and the Capital District, including the Altamont and Schaghticoke fairs.

The band members include Billy Montana, bass guitar; Dave Flint, guitar, keyboards and fiddle; Bob Kendall, guitar; and Doug Bernhard, drums.

Car strikes deer

A Greenville man's pickup truck received front grill damage when it struck and killed a deer last Wednesday, Bethlehem police reported.

Driving on Rt. 32 at Bender La., at about 10:20 a.m., the man told police the deer darted across the road in front of his vehicle, police said.

Clarksville market changes

By Patricia Mitchell

When Kevin Brown entered the former Clarksville Superette three months ago, he knew with some hard work, a new store would pay off.

With a bright yellow and green front on the new Clarksville Kwik Shop, some new lighting and painting inside, Brown is starting to see the results.

"I am confident. There are people here. There is a demand here. All we have to do is gain their confidence," Brown said. "This place does have the capacity to do a lot of business."

The Lemmes, Joe, Ralph and Tom, owners of Lemme's Star Super Markets on Everett Rd. and Lark St. in Albany, bought the superette from Evelyn Bohl in April. They hired Brown to manage their new store.

Brown noted he has seen about a 50 percent increase in business since April 17 when he first entered the store.

"I knew we could do a lot with it. I knew there had to be quite a bit of work. You have to start fresh," Brown said.

He has received many compliments on the new look of the store, and Brown said he is seeing new faces.

The Kwik Shop and Brown are starting by learning the community's needs, and Brown said he is now offering shoppers a selection of items. For example, four or five brands of coffee are now offered where before only one was offered. Three brands of ice cream and a full deli are also offered.

"We're trying to take a supermarket and shrink it to the size of this store," Brown said.

More importantly, Brown said he has increased the selection and quality of fresh produce and meats. Before Brown's management, some apples, onions, potatoes and oranges were offered. The Kwik Shop now offers a fuller line that includes plums, peaches, watermelons and bananas placed in a bright new case.

Brown said he is taking pains to offer fresh meats, from sirloin steak to ground chuck.

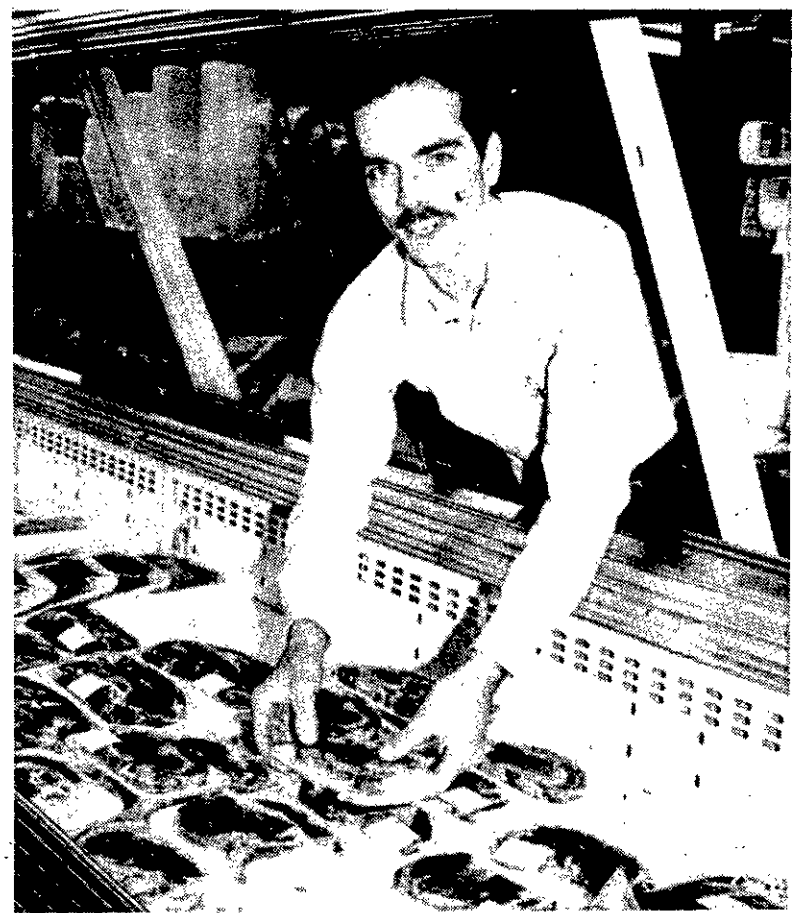

"My objective is to offer quality on the produce and the meats,"

Brown said, claiming that he has the leanest ground chuck in the area because the chuck is ground in the store using fresh steaks.

Prices were brought down, and Brown says they are now comparable to the competitive markets in Delmar and Albany. Pointing out that the Kwik Shop is off the beaten track for his suppliers, Brown said he will try to keep his costs low for his customers where possible. Prices on beverages when he took over "were outrageous. I automatically dropped some prices," Brown said.

He is also anticipating food stamp certification for the store soon, he said.

Besides the new exterior, Brown has made changes inside the Kwik Shop, and some more are planned. Gone is the lunch counter, and the aisles now run the length of the store.

Kevin Brown, new manager of the Clarksville Kwik Shop, fills up the shop's meat case. Patricia Mitchell

"I hated to take out the counter," Brown said, knowing it was the only eatery in eight or 10 miles. Because the full aisles now face the customer when they walk in, Brown said, shopping is easier.

In place of the lunch counter, Brown said he is able to offer more goods. A housewares section has just been added, and hardware and automobile sections are being planned.

A community bulletin board will also be put up in the near future.

Brown said he is willing to go into Albany for items he does not have space for in the store, and when possible he will special order. "That is, the type of service I appreciate, very, very personal," he said.

"I really appreciate some one who likes to shop in a clean store. The people around here are good, which is a lot different than in Albany. I wish I knew everybody. I'm still learning names," Brown said. "Although I don't own the place, I feel like it's my baby and I have to make it work."

Cheese day Wednesday

A distribution day for government surplus cheese will be held today (Wednesday) from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at several points around Albany County, including St. Matthew's Church in Voorheesville and the Onesquethaw Reformed Church in New Scotland. There will be no distribution at the Bethlehem Town Hall, as announced earlier.

Persons receiving food stamps, Medicaid, Medicare, disability, SSI, HEAP, WIC and unemployment benefits are eligible to receive the cheese.

Dutch symposium

An international symposium on the material culture of the new Dutch World in the 17th and 18th centuries will be held Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 2 and 3 at the Albany Institute of History and Art.

The symposium will feature the recent research of 15 Dutch and American scholars with an emphasis on the Netherlands origin of New World practices, trade and manufactures, as well as understanding the adaption of Old World social life and cultural beliefs.

Artifacts found near church

Under the leadership of Dr. Floyd Brewer, in Bethlehem Archeological Society has just completed an exploratory dig on the property of the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem in Selkirk, the oldest church in the Town of Bethlehem. Brewer and his team conducted the dig in search of sufficient evidence to warrant a full-scale dig during the summer of 1987.

Beginning along Route 9W, near the entrance to the Reforestation Area, the group unearthed an abundance of artifacts including bottles, dishes and pottery, and discerned the outlines of buildings that were part of the original old church farm. The farm, built in 1767 to house the Rev. George F. Christian Bofk, the first pastor, was worked for some 100 years by the church sextons.

The artifacts uncovered during the preliminary work, from the period of the mid 1800's, were most likely the property of the Leeding family that lived there for several generations. Although a great deal of material has been found at the farm site, Brewer does not expect to unearth tangible evidence regarding the original first two churches, which succumbed to fire in the 1800's. He believes that the existing church, built in 1890, is located on what would have been their foundations. Evaluating their initial exploration as being very successful, Brewer feels their discoveries will contribute substantially to the history of the church and its key members.

This summer the Bethlehem Archeological Society is exploring the Lyons residence and the Goes Farm. The group's ultimate goal is to accumulate artifacts and information regarding the oldest buildings of all types in the Town of Bethlehem and publish a volume to commemorate Bethlehem's Bicentennial, which will be celebrated in 1993.

Wide shoulder right for bikes

By Patricia Mitchell

After Rt. 85A is officially repainted by state Department of Transportation workers, Voorheesville's unofficial bicycle path will once again be in service.

Bob Farley, the transportation department engineer overseeing the project, said Friday the temporary white paint now on the road will be replaced with permanent thermoplastic paint marking five-foot shoulders on the road that will bring back the unofficial bicycle path.

A problem with a thermoplastic painter last fall prompted DOT workers to strip the section between the Voorheesville Elementary School and the Clayton A. Bouton Junior Senior High School with temporary white paint taking up the shoulder where the unofficial path was located.

"It is only a temporary strip," Farley said.

That temporary white strip taking up the bicycle path's space has prompted concern among village residents, including Mayor Edward Clark, and Farley said he has received a number of phone calls requesting the path to be restored.

The unofficial bicycle path marked two years ago by DOT because of concern about the heavy pedestrian and bicycle traffic between the two schools. The path was deemed unofficial because its width did not meet the department's specifications.

Because of the success of the unofficial path, the transportation department decided to extend it from the high school to New Salem during upgrading of Rt. 85A that is anticipated to be completed later this summer.

Farley said the project, started last year, widens Rt. 85A in some places, repaves the highway and the shoulders, and adds concrete gutters in the area of New Salem. The first section between the elementary school and the high school was completed last fall, and the second section between the high school and New Salem is now being finished. DOT workers are now cleaning up, seeding and mulching.

Even though the bicycle path will be marked off, Farley said there is nothing in DOT's contract naming it a bicycle path. Wide, paved shoulders, however, are mentioned.

"The shoulders are paved," Farley said.

Permanent stripping must also be set down, said Jim McDonald, construction office engineer for DOT. "That is what they are doing out there now," he said.

Once permanently stripped, the shoulder will measure five feet wide in most places, and the two travel lanes will measure 10 feet each, McDonald said. DOT's standard lane widths are 12 feet.

"I know of no plans to take (the path) away," McDonald said.

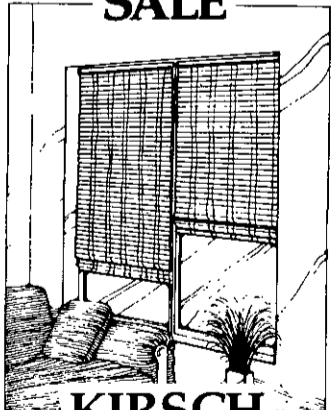

"They are going to a 10-foot road because of the schools," said Herbert Reilly, New Scotland town board member and a resident of Voorheesville. "It is unfortunate that the lines were put too far over."

Even though the bicycle path is unofficial and three feet wide in some places and five feet in others, it is a compromise between concerned residents and the state, Reilly said.

"The whole project is a compromise and it is 100 percent better. It will be nice. I think they are doing an outstanding job," Reilly said. "It is much safer. Unfortunately, they can not make the path any wider."

The upgrading of Rt. 85A is one part of a four-part project DOT has been working on, Farley said. The concrete road between New Salem and about a half mile past Stove Pipe Rd. on Rt. 85 was "pretty broken up," and DOT has fixed cracks, resurfaced the road with tar and fixed shoulders and existing gutters.

You can clean up the mess burglars leave.

But you can't clean up the awful memories.

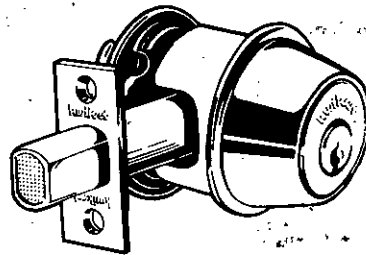

Do you have any idea what it's like after burglars have been in your home? Most people feel dirty. Violated. They can't shake the chilling thoughts about those unknown people who were right there...right where they live.

Some people never quite get over it. Many move. Almost all burglary victims immediately put new locks on doors—after it's over...when it's too late!

The most important lock is a security deadlock. Many law-enforcement experts agree that a good, heavy-duty deadlock with a one-inch deadbolt installed above your regular lock is probably the single most effective way you can keep your home and family safe from intruders.

The Kwikset heavy-duty steel and brass 600 Series high-security deadlock is the strongest, toughest, most secure lock we've ever made.

And as manufacturers of America's largest selling residential locksets, that's a big statement. Ask for Kwikset deadlocks wherever you buy good hardware.

NiMo, oil firm buy Glenmont tank farms

Two fuel tank farms on the Hudson River in the Town of Bethlehem have new owners, and one may be pressed back in service if oil prices stay as low as at present.

Niagara Mohawk has purchased the old Texaco tank farm on 55.7 acres of land to the south of its steam generating plant on Rt. 144 in Glenmont.

The acquisition this spring, said Niagara Mohawk spokesman Ray Hull was "on a contingency basis in case the Albany Steam Station ever expands." He said there are no current plans for the site.

The tanks on the Texaco site will not be used for storing oil for current operations at the plant, Hull said. The plant, which is equipped to burn both oil and natural gas, is currently using oil because prices are 30 to 40 percent cheaper than gas; Hull said. But, he added, plant storage capacity is more than adequate without the Texaco tanks.

More recently, the Exxon tank farm on Rt. 144, just south of the Texaco land, has been purchased by a company called Ajax Energy Partners, according to Bethlehem Supervisor Robert Hendrick. Hendrick said Friday that company representatives have told him they plan to resume operations at the site, which has 23 fuel storage tanks. About 100 jobs would be involved, he said.

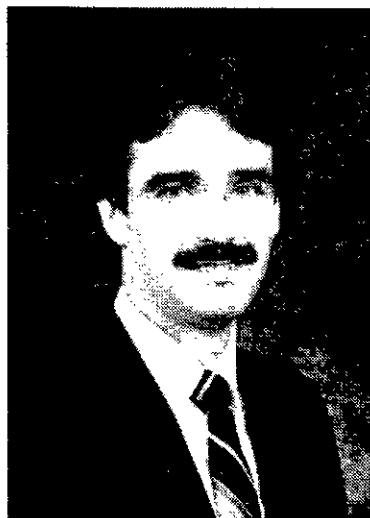

Ajax is interested in the possibility of town water at the site, and Hendrick said a survey will be done to estimate the cost of extending the town water district, possibly in conjunction with an ongoing study of bringing town water to Wemple Rd. If that is not feasible, he said, the company will probably rely on well water.

Record earnings

KeyCorp has reported record net income of $19,859,000 for the second quarter of 1986, up 20.9 percent from the same period in 1985. Earnings per period in common share rose 14.3 percent over the second quarter of last year.

This brought net income for the first six months to $37,787,000, a 24.6 percent rise over the first six months of 1985. Six month earnings per weighted average common share rose to $1.38, up 15 percent.

BUSINESS

Shea is a 1969 graduate of Bethlehem Central High School. He is a member of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce and the Schodack Business Association.

Owens-Corning strong

Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, which has a plant in Delmar, has reported a 73 percent earnings increase for the second quarter ended June 30, compared to the comparable quarter in 1985.

Gerald Curtis of Delmar, left, chairman of the 1986 Diabetes Bike-a-thon, presents the first prize of a trip for four to Disney World to Paul Budlong. A resident of Latham, Budlong raised more than $5,000 of the $41,000 raised through this year's bike-a-thon for the Capital District Chapter, American Diabetes Association.

Job Corps promotion

Dianne Goss of Bethlehem has been promoted to the position of Employability Assurance Manager at the Glenmont Job Corps Center. In her new position, Goss will oversee and maintain quality control of various student programs including recruitment and vocational evaluation.

She has been working at the center since 1978.

Salembier joined Norstar's bank in Buffalo in 1969. He became vice president and officer in charge of central portfolio management of Norstar Bancorp in 1976. In his new position, Salembier will have responsibility for Norvest's tax-free investments.

A graduate of Hobart College, Salembier holds a B.A. in economics and history and has done graduate work at Fairfield University. He is a member of the American Institute of Banking, the Albany Institute of History and Art, and a past president of Hobart College Alumni Association.

Spending the summer on wheels

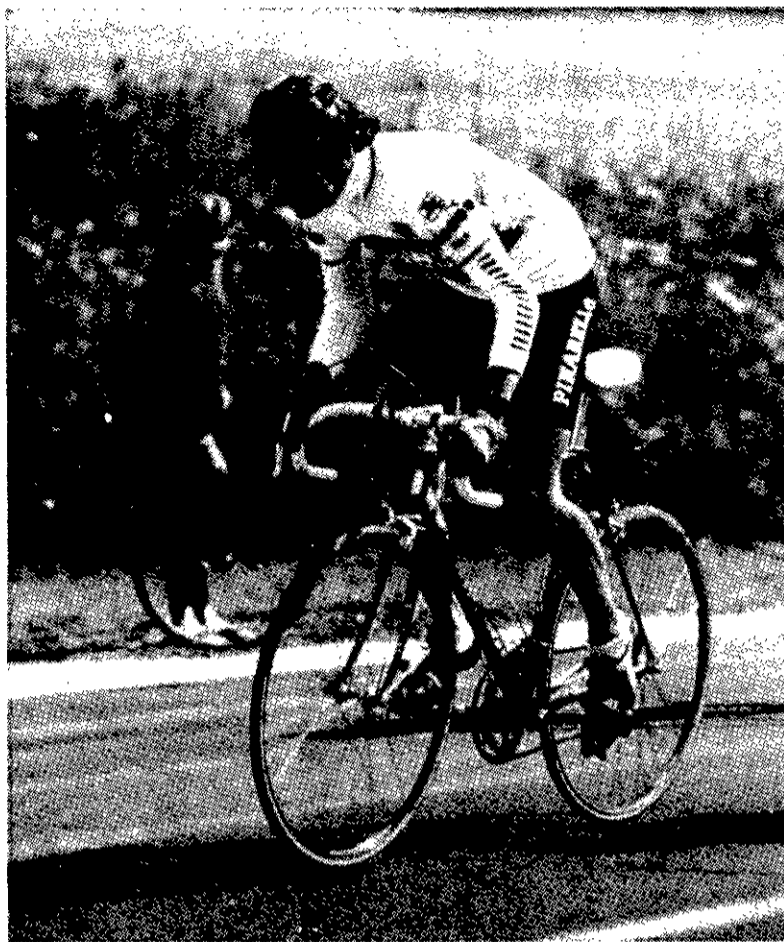

By Dave DeCecco

While most Delmar residents have spent the first part of the summer in search of the "savage tan," Dave Kimelberg has spent it on a bicycle. The 15-year-old racer, who will enter his junior year at Bethlehem Central High School this fall, recently qualified for the 1986 National Cycling Championships, which take place July 31 through Aug. 1 in Boise, Idaho.

Kimelberg will race in the Junior(14-15) division in Boise. He earned a spot by competing in the District Championships, which were held June 6 and 7 in Buffalo. He and another rider broke away from the pack and built up a three-minute lead on the rest of the field in the road race stage, with Kimelberg finishing a strong second. He placed third in the grueling time trial stage, despite an illness. He will participate in both events at the Nationals.

On June 22, with a severe cold, Kimelberg finished third in the 1986 Empire State Games Qualifier in Duanesburg. His placing in the 56-mile road race was good enough to earn a trip to Buffalo for the games on Aug. 7 and 8. There he will compete in the Scholastic division with riders ranging up to 18 years of age.

In order to qualify for both the Nationals and Empire State Games, Kimelberg has had to sacrifice much of his free time this summer to cycling. He rides approximately 350 miles per week, including speed work, as training.

Dave Kimelberg trains for a race.

Kimelberg, who has been riding competitively since age 13, is sponsored by Down Tube Cycle Shop of Albany. The Down Tube supplies Kimelberg with all the necessary equipment for his races. The shop has also given him the use of a new carbon-fiber disk wheel, which helps cut down on wind resistance, for the time trial in Boise.

11-year-olds triumph

By John Bellizzi III

The Tri-Village Little League 11 year-old All-Star team, managed by Randy Gambelunghe and coached by Tom Schaller, defeated Colonie Little League in an exciting come-from-behind 3-2 victory Sunday in first-round tournament action. Tri-Village was down 2-1 going into the final inning when Mike Gambelunghe led off with a double and was driven home by way of a Dave Miles double. Miles eventually came in to score the winning run. Gambelunghe pitched an excellent game, striking out 10 and only rendering two hits. Bob Conway also doubled for the winners.

The 12 year-olds, managed by John Black and Bill Kosoc, couldn't back up a stellar pitching performance by Matt Shortell who struck out 11 and allowed only four hits. The team only had four hits in the 3-1 loss to National's All-Stars. Tri-Village scored its only run when Mark Houston crossed the plate after a Matt Quatraro double, the only extra base hit of the game. Shortell, Chris Black, Jay Tarrbell and Brent Kosoc all turned in defensive gems for the losers. Kosoc, Brendon Gross and Andre Cadieux singled for Tri-Village's other hits.

Like the 12 year-olds, the 10 year olds, managed by Joe Pagio and Ron D'Ambrosi, fell to National Little League's All Stars in the opening round of the tournament, 7-6. Jonathan Pansel and Mike Pelletier split the pitching duties for Tri-Village. Offensively, Matt D'Ambrosi doubled while Sam Stasko and Pelletier each singled.

Dangerous game

A 19-year-old Albany man was harassed by another motorist while he was driving his motorcycle on Delaware Ave. early Saturday morning, Bethlehem Police reported.

The motorcyclist reported that he was driving west on Delaware Ave. near the Normanskill Bridge at about 3:45 a.m. when he attempted to pass the other car, police said. The motorist then repeatedly tried to drive into the motorcycle, until the motorist turned off onto Elsmere Ave, he said.

Tennis anyone?

The Town of Bethlehem parks and recreation department will sponsor tennis lessons for adults, from July 28 to Aug. 22, at the Elm Avenue Park. Classes will run Mondays and Wednesdays or Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 9 to 10 a.m. or 11 a.m. to noon.

There is a $16 fee for 8 lessons. Residents of the Town of Bethlehem or the Bethlehem Central School District may register by calling the parks and recreation office at 439-4131.

Checking It Out

- Foreign buyers often have different expectations and demands than other prospects do. Before Chinese will buy real estate, they'll bring in a "feng shui" expert, who'll test to see if the building is right in terms of wind, water, wood, earth and metal — elements of the building that are very important to them.

- American buyers, on the other hand, are more likely to call in an engineer to inspect the building for quality of construction and adequacy of the heating and ventilation systems. In many states, the seller must disclose any serious defect in the property (and there are heavy penalties if defects are found later), but the buyer often wants to double-check.
- Does it make sense for a seller to have a home inspected BEFORE putting it on the market, and then offer that inspection to the prospective buyer? Probably not, say engineers; buyers have more faith in inspection they've ordered themselves.

Blue Eagles end at 11-9

By John Bellizzi

The Bethlehem Blue Eagles Connie Mack team ended their first season last week with a double victory over Cohoes at Heritage Park, giving them a final record of 11 wins and nine losses.

"We had a very successful season," reflected manager Randy Gambelunghe. "The team played extremely well in a competitive league, and were looking forward to next season."

All but one of the 13 players will be returning to the Blue Eagles next year, and the roster will be completed by a crop of talented players moving up from the Bethlehem Babe Ruth League.

Cash, jewelry stolen

Over $7,000 in jewelry, cash, appliances and other items were taken from a Kenwood Ave., Delmar, apartment last Wednesday or Thursday, Bethlehem Police reported.

The resident discovered the items missing and the apartment ransacked at about 1:45 a.m. Thursday after leaving home at 1 p.m. Wednesday, police said.

An air conditioner removed from a rear window was probably used as an entrance, police said.

Faces DWI charge

A 29-year old Slingerlands man will appear in Bethlehem Town Court on Tuesday, Aug. 5, on charges of driving while intoxicated, state police reported.

The man was observed driving erratically north on Rt. 9W at Rt. 396, state police said. He was later released to the custody of his parents.

Thanks to the many people who helped to make this past baseball season a success. Thanks to the parents who coached the players, and helped out in the stands and at work days. Thanks to the young men and ladies who umpired the games. Thanks to the players who gave it their all (and had fun doing it). And thanks to the following community businesses whose sponsorship helped to make it all possible!

Take the Clara Johnson Test.

In Alamance County, North Carolina, Honda lawn mowers are assembled from the wheels up. Then, each mower must pass rigid quality control standards before we ship it.

The final test is a critical performance check to ensure easy starting. We call it the Clara Johnson Test. At the end of the assembly line, each mower is started or it doesn't ship.

Come in and give the whole line of Honda mowers the Clara Johnson Test yourself. Each one will start easily, or it wouldn't be a Honda.

Gloves are off

Editor, The Spotlight:

The gloves finally came off on July 15. All prior pretenses were dropped. Approval of the psychiatric hospital site was jammed down the throats of the Glenmont citizenry. All without benefit of merit, factual consideration and, most of all, void of the democratic process.

For the third straight time, the proponents were granted total and unlimited latitude to present their case without dissent or interruption.

Opposing viewpoint was grudgingly allowed after 11 p.m. of the second alleged hearing. Not, however, before the chairman read several lengthy letters favoring approval. We even had to share our midnight audience with more proponent advocates.

These sideshow advocates used their input to absorb more time and to ridicule opposing arguments as emotional and irrelevant. However, photographs of a similar facility in Pennsylvania were displayed before the panel, by a board member, as favorable, relevant evidence. They included a pond of ducks!

The outcome of any confrontation is inevitable when only one adversary is armed.

Even if the panel had already made up their mind on this issue from the beginning, they could have shown enough discretion to at least hear both sides equally, in a professional manner. Instead, they arrogantly chose to show their power and dominance over town decisions.

Being denied our rightful forum, opposition is relegated to newspaper letters. Here, in limited, controlled space, we can only express our frustrations and disillusionment at such a manipulative system.

Economic and political muscle has prevailed over human consideration, in Glenmont.

Edward P. Dillon

Glenmont

Study warranted

Editor, The Spotlight:

Most area residents are well aware of the impacts that recent commercial and residential development has had on the town's highway system — particularly in the "downtown" area along Delaware Avenue. I am disturbed that a retail development like Main Square — which will likely result in a 20 to 25 percent increase in afternoon peak hour traffic — did not warrant a traffic study prior to site plan approval. At a minimum, the Bethlehem Planning Board should have formally requested information regarding any probable traffic impact of the proposed shopping center on the adjacent street system. In addition, actions which would be needed to serve increased traffic volumes and changed traffic patterns, and to minimize any impact of the surrounding residential neighborhood, should have been solicited as well.

In view of the current traffic conditions in the area, is the planning board willing to give assurances to the residents of the area and other users of Delaware Ave. that the traffic situation will not worsen? Or, if it should worsen, is there a mechanism in place that will ensure the implementation of any actions required to serve the increased traffic?

Enjoyable lunch

Editor, The Spotlight:

The Albany Senior Citizens served a chicken barbecue to the Bethlehem Senior Citizens and the Sunshine Seniors at the Elm Ave. Park pavilion July 10. A good time was had by all.

Thank you, Albany seniors.

The Bethlehem Seniors

Nice Tri, Bethlehem

Editor, The Spotlight:

The Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce wishes to express its sincere gratitude to all volunteers from the town who participated in Albany's Tricentennial parade. Without the dedication and ready willingness of these fine people, a celebration like this past weekend's event would not be possible. Temperatures were in the 90's, there were long delays in the hot sun, and food and ice were scarce, but the cheerful positive attitudes of our volunteers never wavered.

A special thank you goes to: Officers Vincent Rinaldi, Christopher Bowdish, Bruce Oliver, Michael McMillen and Timothy Beebe from the Bethlehem Police Department. The Village Volunteers Fife and Drum Corps, awarded the prize for "Best Fife and Drum of the Parade," managed by Ed and Marie Miles; and the owners and drivers of the breathtakingly beautiful classic cars, Chuck and Jim Farone, Larry Bruno, John Baumgarten, Gene Minshell, George Lansing, Pierce Green and Ed Alford. And of course the town officials who represented all of us, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Hendrick, Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kaplowitz, and Chamber of Commerce Vice President Ken Ringler.

Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce

An apology

Editor, The Spotlight:

To the people who were unable to obtain chicken barbecue at the Wednesday, July 16, farmer's market in Delmar, we offer an apology for any inconvenience this may have caused. Due to a lack of communications between the market and the barbecue operator, the 50 half chickens were sold before the advertised 5 p.m. serving time. For future events, we will make sure the correct times are announced.

Once again, our regrets for this mixup.

Dick Everleth
Market Manager

Paul C. Stracke, left, and Janet Lawrence, right, both 1986 graduates of Bethlehem Central High School, have been recipients of the David Nestlen Memorial Scholarship at Bethlehem Lutheran Church. The students were congratulated by Rev. Warren Winterhoff, center.

ON YOUR FEET

Dr. Joseph Manzi, Podiatrist

WHEN FEET NEED REALIGNMENT

If you've developed a callus or buildup of thickened skin in certain areas of your feet, your feet may need realignment to prevent more serious foot disorders from developing.

Calluses usually occur in areas of the feet subject to heavy friction and pressure, such as under the bony areas on the ball of the foot. The cause can often be traced to an improperly aligned foot. In some ways, this is similar to what happens to automobile tires when a car is out of alignment. A misaligned foot tries to compensate for the excessive wear by developing calluses. When the affected area becomes red, swollen, and unusually warm to the touch there may be an infection present.

You should have properly balanced feet to give your body the support it needs. When your feet are out of alignment, as evidenced by calluses, this can throw other parts of your body out of balance as well, including your legs, hips, and back.

Examination and treatment by your foot specialist can bring you the help you need to restore your feet and body to proper balance.
