Alarm law means owners pay more

Town to require security firm linkup

By Kevin Mullen

After a number of false starts, Bethlehem appears ready to pass a new law regulating burglar and fire alarms.

The new law will require that phoned in alarms be screened by a private company, rather than going directly to the Bethlehem Police Department. And that will make most alarm systems more expensive to operate.

A public hearing was held last Wednesday by the town board for Local Law No. 1, regulating the sale, installation, and maintenance of burglar, fire, and other emergency alarms in the town. Police Chief Paul E. Currie said that the police department has received over 1,600 alarm calls during the past four years and only two were not false alarms.

Most of the false alarms are caused by human errors, Currie said. He said false alarms have been an issue since 1979 when the number of calls — each of which requires a response — became a problem for the department. A law was proposed in August, 1984, but held up because of objections raised by members of the alarm industry.

The law presented at last week's hearing was worked out with two alarm company representatives, Mark Foster of the Albany Protection Service and William Geary of Rescom. Geary, who attended the public hearing, said he was a "strong supporter of the law," and said that his company handles over 2,500 "alarm drops" a month. He questioned town government's role in monitoring alarms.

Currently, 18 alarms from banks and retail establishments terminate at the police station. Currie said 99 percent are false alarms and said he is concerned about the liability exposure to the town if there is a malfunction with one of the modules in the police department.

In addition, an undetermined number of businesses and residences

Group home eyed, neighbors object

By Patricia Mitchell

A group home for about eight adults is being considered by the Association for Retarded Children for a residence at 30 East Rd. outside New Salem, and some area residents want the New Scotland Planning Board to help them fight the plan. About eight area residents turned out at last Wednesday's planning board meeting and presented a petition with 22 signatures against the home. The residents said they object to any business, home or state institution in the area, and they requested the board to honor deed restrictions for the property as well as town zoning.

The Albany County Chapter of the state association is conducting a feasibility study of the house, which it has under option, and the area, said board attorney John Bailey. Preliminary plans call for seven or eight adults to be placed there, he said. Bailey said he took a "quick look" at the state Mental Hygiene Law, but more research will be needed.

There could be a problem with zoning, said Building Inspector Walter Miller. The house is located in a Residential-Hamlet

NEW SCOTLAND

(R-H) zone that is restricted to single-family houses, or two-family or multi-family houses by special use permit. He said the association has already been advised of the problem, and neighbors requested a formal letter be sent on the zoning for the record.

Betsy Badgley, a resident of New Salem Rd., said her family once owned the apple orchard where the house is located, and a covenant was put into the original deed restricting the homes that were built there to one-family dwellings only. She said she is the only heir left, and feels she has an obligation to make sure the original deed is followed.

The planning board recently considered a special use permit for a home occupation of a psychiatrist's office in a subdivision where the original deed restricted all uses to residential, said board Chairman Richard Stickley. After research,

Senior tax exemption limit boosted by town

Keeping pace with the times, the Bethlehem Town Board last week increased the income limit for senior citizens eligible for property tax breaks $1,525, from $13,500 to $15,025.

Property is eligible for "exemption from taxes on real property within the town owned by one or more eligible persons, each of whom is 65 years or older, or real property owned by husband and wife, one of whom is 65 years or older."

The exemptions are authorized by the state but must be set by the town, which established a sliding scale for benefits based on income. The following table breaks down the income range and its percentage of exemption:

Up to $12,024	50 percent
$12,025 to $12,524	45 percent

$12,525 to $13,024	40 percent
$13,025 to $13,524	35 percent
$13,525 to $14,024	30 percent
$14,025 to $14,524	25 percent
$14,525 to $15,024	20 percent
$15,025 and over	0 percent.

In order to take advantage of the program, senior citizens must fill out forms from the state Board of Equalization and Assessment, which are available at the town assessor's office.

Open house in Albany

The Albany Academy for Girls, 140 Academy Rd., Albany, will hold an open house for students entering grades pre-kindergarten through 12 and their parents on Saturday, Jan. 24, from 1 to 3 p.m.

Financial aid is available. For information call 463-2201.

Alarm law

have alarms that automatically dial into the police department. Town officials have said they have no way of knowing how many of these alarms exist in Bethlehem since they are currently not regulated.

Under the proposed law, there will be a license fee of $25 for alarm suppliers and a fee of $15 for an application for an emergency alarm permit. A failure to submit an application will be subject to a $250 fine and/or 15 days in jail. A penalty fee of $15 will be charged for each false alarm, either by human error or malfunction of equipment.

Phone-in alarms will be required to go to a "monitoring agency," which would receive the recorded message, verify it and then call the police department. David Gusman, a sales representative for Albany Protective Services, said Monday his company charges $275 to install a communicator for an existing monitor system, and $15 per month to monitor an existing system.

The law will be on the agenda for the Jan. 28 meeting. If adopted, Local Law No. 1 will become law once it's filed with the New York State Department of State. There will be a grace period of 45 days from any penalty after installation of an alarm.

In other business Wednesday, the town board referred two development plans in Planned Residence Districts to the planning board for study.

Delmar Village, a 92-acre development of single family homes and apartments located between Orchard St. and Delaware Ave., was presented to the board. To be built in several stages, the development would have 280 apartments and 56 single-family houses. The smaller apartment buildings would have eight units and the larger one would have 16 units. The apartments will be one and two bedrooms.

A "ballpark figure" for a one bedroom apartment is $475 to $495 per month. The apartments would have "an authentic New England or Nantucket design."

The single-family homes would be built in five phases over a five-to-ten-year period. Delmar builder Brian Parenteau gave the presentation on the single-family homes.

Some of the amenities planned for the development are an outdoor pool, a 3,000 square foot clubhouse facility, an amphitheater, three outdoor tennis courts, a nature trail, a one-half mile jogging course and a small picnic facility.

The board also reviewed Section 2 of Dowerskill Village and referred it to the planning board. Kent Jenkins of the Jenkins Management Co. gave the presentation of his plan for 64 apartments and 61 single-family homes. The development is three miles from the Bethlehem Town Park and is in the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk School District.

In other action:

- Approved a request from the Department of Public Works for a 420 foot conveyance for the extension of the Delmar Bypass west of Elm Ave. The conveyance was a condition of approval for the Juniper Fields development.

- Received a request from Currie for the purchase of four 1987 Dodge Diplomat police cars from Albany Dodge at $11,218 each.

- Received a request from Highway Superintendent Martin J. Cross to purchase two medium duty trucks and a pickup.

- Received a petition requesting rest room facilities at the Henry Hudson Park in Cedar Hill, Selkirk. Senior citizens have complained about the Sanijohn at the site. Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor will investigate the drainage in the area for the possible construction of a rest room.

The next town board meeting is scheduled on Jan. 28 at 7:30 p.m.

'Shadows' at BC

Juniors and seniors at Bethlehem Central High School who are interested in learning about a particular career may register for the Shadow Program, a part of the Bethlehem Central High School career guidance program, on Feb. 6. The program is sponsored by the BCHS-Community Organization.

Students will be matched by a parent volunteer with a community person who is active in the student's chosen field. After a sponsor is found, the volunteer will meet with the student to work out the details of the shadow experience, which may last from one hour to a full day.

Community members who wish to participated as career sponsors may call co-chairmen Sherry Einhorn at 439-7059 or Pam Taft at 439-9281.

Local legislators: We're not impressed

By Patricia Dumas

According to Republican legislator W. Gordon Morris of Delmar, Albany County Executive James J. Coyne Jr. can't take credit for any of the economic growth factors he cited in his annual State of the County address.

Economic growth was a major theme of Coyne's address last week to the Albany County Legislature. He reported that the county is in excellent financial shape with a property tax rate only 1.5 percent higher than it was in 1978, and said his downtown Albany civic center project, together with a new initiative at the Albany County Airport, should provide new boosts to the area's economy.

Morris and Robert W. Hoffmeister of Slingerlands were skeptical of Coyne's message, particularly the credit he took for the county's economic well being. But legislator James C. Ross of Elsmere praised one part of the message—Coyne's announcement that he will make an early disclosure of his personal financial interests.

In his address, Coyne outlined economic progress in Albany County during the past year and pointed to plans for expanding development. But the facts which he noted with pride—taxes held down, increased sales tax revenues, a low unemployment rate, and business stimulus to come from construction of his long-awaited civic center—were discounted by local legislators.

Morris, who is the legislature's minority leader, claims that "Albany County taxpayers should be getting every year a 10 to 15 percent deduction in taxes."

Coyne had pointed out that the county tax levy is only 1.5 percent higher than it was in 1978, said that increased sales tax revenues had helped to keep the levy down, and cited a low unemployment rate of 4.6 percent.

"Mr. Coyne says how well off the county is and cites the unemployment rate, sales tax revenues, and economic development—all of which he has no control over," Morris said.

Those factors, Morris claims, can be attributed to the fact that New York State government is located in Albany.

"We are the sole beneficiary of state government. That's what keeps the unemployment rate down and the sales tax revenues coming in. People drive here and spend their money," he said.

Coyne, Morris noted, "once again used the same old dodge about years of tax reduction. The facts are that the reductions do not equal the increases. The officials are over-taxing the people of Albany County so they will have a slush fund to play with. The Albany County administration leaves a lot to be desired at this time."

Hoffmeister joined Morris in downgrading the county executive's repetition of statements he has made in other years about keeping taxes down.

"If he (Coyne) hadn't promoted the civic center, the cut in taxes could be substantial instead of just a nominal cut," Hoffmeister declared.

He also referred to the fact that parents of handicapped children had demonstrated before Coyne's State of the County address. Protesting spending cuts in the aid to the handicapped program, some of the angry parents later also disrupted the speech by shouting.

"There is a certain amount of irony in Coyne's speech in that he spent time on his concern over the rising costs of aid to the handicapped and his concern on burdening the taxpayer while yet going on and on about the civic center," Hoffmeister said.

"The real irony," he added, "is that the handicapped issue came up right before he started talking—there is something unconscionable in his pushing forward on a project like the civic center."

Coyne's address also included an announcement that he will "in the near future" make a full disclosure of his financial interests, although the county's new financial disclosure law does not go into effect until 1988.

Ross, who introduced the legislation that led to the new law, said he was "pleased to see Mr. Coyne's recognition of the importance of the financial disclosure prior to the law's filing deadline."

Albany County's share of the cost in the federal and state-aided program for handicapped children is the fastest growing cost in the county budget, Coyne told legislators. He said the expense increased by $1 million over the past year, amounting to $6.5 million total in the 1987 budget.

"We're very much in favor of the program, but at the same time we have a fiscal responsibility," he stated.

The program provides educational services to qualified children under the age of 5 and summer programs for school-age children. Under a ruling in Family Court last month, the county was allowed to drastically reduce spending on related services including speech, physical, and occupational therapy. The county wants to have those therapies handled through the county health department which would mean that parents and insurance carriers would provide some of the money.

Following the demonstration at the county legislature meeting, county officials met with parents of the handicapped children and agreed late last week to continue paying for the disputed services until an appeals court decides on the issue.

Coyne's State of the County address also focused on development of the county airport and of county-owned lands surrounding it. The county, Coyne said, plans to acquire about 50 properties north of the county airport because of a federal program for relocating homeowners affected by excessive jet noise.

Coyne wants the county to market the properties to developers for "economic development parks," which he said would complement the planned $15 to $20 million expansion of the airport terminal.

Tools taken

Tools valued at $1,493 were reported missing Wednesday from a storeroom at 4 Normanskill Blvd., Bethlehem Police reported.

Police said the items were taken sometime in December. The building was locked and there was no sign of forced entry.

When the items were taken the building belonged to HMC Associates, police said, but has since been sold to Athens Associates, with several other buildings.

Items reported missing include a plumber's snake, a ladder, a set of power pipe tappers and an electric screwdriver, police said.

Dutch barns anyone?

Charter membership in the new Dutch Barn Preservation Society will be open until Feb. 15. Anyone interested in the group is invited to attend the first meeting at 2 p.m. on Jan. 25 at the Crailo State Historic Site, 9½ Riverside Ave., Rensselaer.

Super Bowl Fever has hit the builders of this football player — could it be Joe Morris? — on Darroch Rd. in Delmar. Builders were Lauren Rice, 6, Suzanne Rice, 11, and Kevin Rice, 9, with some help from Ruth and Frank Rice.

Ambulance equipment reported missing

Equipment valued at $1,100 has been reported missing by the Bethlehem Ambulance Service of Selkirk, but the service is unsure where the items were lost, or when, Bethlehem Police said.

Three monitors and their leather cases and three chargers are believed to be missing between August and October, and were reported to police Friday.

Country living

A warm summer evening was a perfect time for a visit to the charming home of Tom and Leslie Reece on Rt. 396 beyond the village of South Bethlehem. The cream-colored painted wooden home with its burgundy-hued shutters gave a hint of the charm that would be found inside. The house is deceptive in appearance because, from a quick glance, one would not suspect that it contains 11 rooms, some quite large in size.

Across the lawn is situated the only out building that survives from a once busy farmstead. It is a small brick building that may have served as a laundry, since it contains a brick fireplace with a large iron kettle built into it for heating large quantities of water. It could also have been a place where butchered hogs were scalded to facilitate the removal of their bristles.

TIMES REMEMBERED

Allison Bennett

The Reeces use two rooms as living rooms, the one at the left of the main entrance hall being the more formal parlor with fine wide baseboards and an unusual wooden mantel grained to resemble marble. There is panelling beneath the windows and the woodwork around the windows is painted the same burgundy color as the exterior shutters. There is a large closet adjoining this room that serves well as extra storage space.

Behind the parlor is a smaller room that served as a bedroom in years gone by, but is now a den or reading room. It is furnished with a lounge and an antique pine desk and chair. The Reeces have been collecting their furniture since before they moved into this home. They also have family pieces that have been handed down through the generations. Mrs. Reece is a descendent of the early Bethlehem family of Kimmeys. The Reeces have shown admirable restraint in not putting inappropriate pieces of furniture in the rooms. They feel they would rather have less furniture than they might like, but want what they do have to reflect their taste in casual country-type antique pieces.

The entrance foyer has six-panel grained walnut doors and a crown molding around the ceiling. To the right of this is the second living room that served as the dining room when other families lived in the house.

The kitchen is directly behind this room. The huge fireplace with simple pine mantel and molding, incorporates a Dutch oven at the side. The room is papered in a small print rose background colonial paper. Below the chair rail the walls are painted white. The coffee table before the sofa is a carpenter's tool chest and there are quaint touches of decor in the use of candles, wooden bowls, pantry boxes, early Windsor chairs and crewel work cushions. A large double door pine cupboard lends a farmhouse air.

Beyond this room in an extension is the dining room with hand-stenciled walls done by a neighbor for the previous owners. The woodwork here is painted in a shade of bluish green, and wine draperies grace the windows. A pine hutch, drop-leaf table and Windsor chairs here lend a homey touch to the sunlight-filled room. In previous years this room served as a family sitting room, saving the parlor at the opposite end of the house for special uses.

The little kitchen does have a lot of lightness and a touch of modernity in its white cabinets and white painted wooden sloped ceiling. The wallpaper is an open plaid in shades of yellow, green and red on a white background. The ceiling beams and those that join the kitchen to the main house have been left exposed and the brick work left exposed adds a touch of authenticity to this slightly contemporary room. It is interesting to note that there are panels of colored glass set in both the kitchen and the front entrance door.

Proceeding upstairs one finds the master bedroom located over the front parlor and this too boasts a marble surround at the fireplace. The two small bedrooms behind it have been turned into a bathroom with a claw foot tub, rust and brown wallpaper and antique baskets for decor. A second bedroom has had the roof raised to give more headroom and small windows have been added for light, but this was done some years before the Reeces occupied the home. The large bedroom over the present dining room is in the process of being redecorated. There are many built-in bookcases. The woodwork is painted navy with colonial-red around the windows. A set of back stairs leads to this room from the dining room below.

Coming back downstairs again, and going to the rear of the house through the kitchen, one enters a second or summer kitchen, a step or two below the level of the main house. On the wall is a picture of a Shaker Herb Room that the

Today the young Reeces are as interested as the first owners were in making the home a haven of charm and comfort in a country setting.

the board found it cannot consider deed restrictions and covenants in its decision, he said.

However, the board will look into the deed restrictions and the location of the home again, Stickley said.

The Town of New Scotland is not conducive to this type of development, said Bill Carretta, a resident of East Rd. The house is only a two-story single-family house with four bedrooms, he said, and the Vly Creek across Rt. 85A could be dangerous to children.

Representatives from the county chapter were not present at the meeting and could not be reached later for comment.

Residents asked the planning board for advice, and asked if they were on their "team." But Stickley said further research has to be conducted before any decision is made.

"We will look into it much closer. Just because it is under option and being considered does not mean it is cut and dried," Stickley said.

As a bus driver for Bethlehem Central schools, Stickley said, he transports one child from a similar home in Bethlehem. "I have never heard of any trouble with it or with anybody," Stickley said.

There are five group homes located in Bethlehem, and Miller said he was told by town officials that there have been no problems with the homes.

In other planning board business, the board advised Henry Digeser of Flach Development and Reality, Inc., to bring a more detailed map of land he owns in Feura Bush that he would like changed to a commercial zone.

Digeser said he recently bought property on the Bethlehem-New Scotland line that runs parallel to the railroad tracks. A building has already been put up on the Bethlehem side and he said he would like to park trucks on the New Scotland side.

The area is now zoned R-H, which does not allow an industrial use for truck storage. Stickley said the town board has authority over zoning changes after asking advice from the planning board.

John M. Matuszek Jr. of Delmar, the director of the radiological sciences laboratory at the state Department of Health and an adjunct professor of nuclear engineering at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, will speak about the causes of high radon concentrations and how to evaluate radon levels in the home on Monday, Jan. 26, at the Schenectady County Public Library, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Matuszek spoke at a recent public hearing on radon in Voorheesville.

Reeces visited in Maine. Their plan for this large room is to have it as near to matching the photo as possible and Leslie says the picture is "our inspiration."

Behind this room is another adjoining little house of two rooms that is almost a separate entity in itself. In the old days, as mentioned by Henrietta Corbett, this section of the house was rented. The two rooms are paneled with wooden wainscoting. In the first room there are double doors with a dumbwaiter that used to convey food to the cellar for storage. The former summer kitchen or herb room served as a bedroom for the tenants.

Teachers going into training

By Patricia Mitchell

Voorheesville Central Schools teachers will be taking part in an Effective Teaching Model, a program that retrains and renews teachers.

The district's Board of Education gave its vote of approval to the program last Monday, and at the request of the staff development committee will support it with $10,000 to $12,000 in funding.

The Effective Teaching Model, which has been offered at several area school districts including Hudson Falls, Glens Falls and Indian Lake, will help train teachers to become more effective and give them incentive in their work.

According to Superintendent Louise Gonan, about 20 teachers will be taking advantage of the program over three days during a February vacation, with training to be completed in two evenings during Superintendent's Conference Days later in the year. Eventually Voorheesville Central teachers will be trained as coaches and trainers, and all teachers and administrators will be trained over the next three years.

The training sessions may be held at the Polish Community Center on Washington Ave. Extension in Albany, Gonan said. Teachers will be paid for the three-day training, but not for the two-day session.

VOORHEESVILLE

A former teacher, Gonan said she feels the teachers in the program are ready to move forward. She said the program will be good for self-esteem.

Board President John McKenna said it is important for the district to use a formal, recognized program for staff development.

The school board also approved a request from the New Scotland Pop Warner Football club to use the high school football field between Aug. 1 and November. Gerald Gordinier of Voorheesville requested the use of the field, including practice areas and classrooms for meetings, for the new club.

The new club has started in hopes of sparking more interest in football, Gordinier said. Most area children go to clubs in Guilderland, Bethlehem and Albany but their enrollment is dropping as soccer leagues are growing. He said he wants to get players in purple and gold, the school's colors, and get them playing on the home football field.

The club will open playing and cheerleading positions for boys and girls between nine years and 13 years old. They will need the football field only on Sunday afternoons, and half of the games will be away games. During the week, Gordinier requested space at either the high school or the elementary school for two days of practice, but he has also requested use of the town park on Swift Rd. For home games, Gordinier said, space in the building will be needed to weigh players in, for bathroom facilities and for access to a telephone.

The club will pay for salaries for employees who are needed to open the school and the Pop Warner league will provide a $2 million liability insurance policy, Gordinier said. The district requires a $500,000 policy for groups using buildings and grounds.

The school board also approved buildings and grounds requests for a Parent Teacher Student Association Family Fun Night at the elementary school Friday, Jan. 30, from 6 to 9:30 p.m., and for Concerned Citizens of New Scotland Inc.'s annual meeting in the high school auditorium Tuesday, Feb. 24 from 8 to 10 p.m.

Gonan announced that she will not approve transportation for students riding with teachers going any where for any reason because it is too risky. The announcement came after 12 students on the wrestling team requested approval to go to a meet with transportation provided by two teachers in two cars. Gonan said many accidents involve students riding with teachers, and she plans to write a policy stating that teachers are not allowed to transport students.

"I personally don't feel our teachers should be driving anywhere," Gonan said.

The district provided bus transportation and students paid

Bonuses for excellence

Voorheesville Central Schools' teachers have received their first payment of Excellence in Teaching (EIT) funds, and four administrators also received a bonus from the school board.

Under an agreement between the teacher's union and the Voorheesville Board of Education, the state EIT funds will be given as bonuses, according to Superintendent Louise Gonan. Teachers received one-quarter of their funds Friday, and the rest of the funds will be given by the end of the year, she said.

Voorheesville Central received $49,000 under the program that was inserted into the state budget last year to supplement teacher salaries. Under the plan, additional fringe benefits, including retirement funds and Social Security — about 25 percent of the cost — must come out of the district's pocket.

In his State of the State message earlier this month, Gov. Mario Cuomo said he will ask for further funding of the EIT program.

Full-time teachers will receive $506 under the district's policy, and part-time teachers will receive funds that are prorated to the full-time staff, Gonan said. There are 94 teachers in the district. However, one first-year Step I teacher will receive $1,336 in EIT funds to bring that teacher's salary up to area averages, Gonan said.

After an executive session at its meeting last Monday, the Board of Education also decided to award bonuses to administrators, Gonan said. The principals at the elementary school and the high school will receive $900 each, and the two assistant principals will receive $600 each. Gonan said the bonuses will be awarded because the administrators are very much a part of the program in the district.

The EIT payments will be used for bonuses rather than to raise teachers salaries so the district will not have to offer the higher salaries if the state funds stop coming. Patricia Mitchell expenses to the Suffern Invitational Wrestling Tournament in Suffern last Friday and Saturday.

In other action, the school board:

- Learned that the diving board at the high school pool has been taken off and the swimming team has stopped diving competition because of new regulations on pool depths for diving. The state Education Department calls for pools to be 10 feet deep for diving, but the school's pool is nine-foot-seven-inches deep. The new regulation was aimed at new pools, but it was not grandfathered.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for 7 p.m., Wednesday (today) when the 1987-88 budget will be presented.

Scratch & Sniff.

That's just what carbon monoxide smells like.

Nothing.

That's why it can be dangerous in your home.

Niagara Mohawk wants you to know that a poorly vented or obstructed fireplace, fuel-burning furnace, space heater, hot water heater, or the improper use of a gas range as a heating device can cause carbon monoxide poisoning.

You can't smell, taste, or see carbon monoxide. But you can feel its effects.

Symptoms include:

- Headache
- Drowsiness
- Dizziness
- Confusion
- Nausea
- Heart fluttering

If unattended, carbon monoxide poisoning can cause severe illness and can even be lethal.

If you have any fuel-burning appliances and suspect you may have a carbon monoxide emergency, leave your home and get fresh air at once. Also, leave windows and doors open for ventilation and contact your fuel supplier or a heating contractor.

If you're a Niagara Mohawk natural gas customer, call your local Niagara Mohawk office. A service representative will check for malfunctions in your home, at no charge.

By being aware and following sensible maintenance and safety procedures, you can be both warm and safe this winter. And if you need more information, call Niagara Mohawk.

Seniors plan trip

If you're a senior citizen with a slight touch of "cabin fever," the Sunshine Senior Citizens of the South Bethlehem-Selkirk area have several activities planned to help chase away "the mid-winter blues."

On Monday evening, Jan. 26, they plan to attend a performance of "Can Can" at Proctor's Theater in Schenectady. The group is scheduled to leave from the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem at 5:30 p.m. and will dine at Canal Square Restaurant before the 8 p.m. performance. Anyone who wishes to join the seniors for the evening should contact Robert Mayo at 767-3007 as soon as possible.

The seniors also have plans to dine at Tool's Restaurant in Delmar on Wednesday, Jan. 28. They plan to leave from the First Reformed Church at 11:30 a.m. All seniors of the area are invited.

Layman wins trip

Kenny Layman of Selkirk, a boy scout in Troop 81, recently received notification for the Governor Clinton Boy Scout Council that he was highest money raiser in Albany County in the Boy Scout Bowl-A-Thon. The Bowl-A-Thon was held the latter part of November, and prior to the event each scout asked people to pledge whatever they felt they wanted to per pin. Kenny's scores and pledges earned him the honor of top money raiser and for his efforts the council has awarded him one free week's stay at Camp Rotary Boy Scout camp.

The Weird Mystery

One day Ellen, (a ten year old girl) was walking home from ballet and she saw a big moving truck on Tenth Street. She said, "Oh my!" She sat down on the grass. She wondered who was moving, but she knew she was never going to find out because she wasn't allowed to go on Tenth Street. It was a very busy street. Her mother said she had to be eleven. What a long way to go, two months! Her brother, Ted, who was only eight, hated school and he took tap dance. He was such a brat.

When Ellen reached home her mother said, "Ellen what took you so long?" Then Ellen said, "I'm sorry I took so..." She was interrupted by Ted, "Ellen will you take me to tap?" Ellen said, "Well..." Then Ted said, "PLEASE!" By then Ellen gave in "O.K." So they went to "Tap Studio." Ted was in the advanced beginners so the lesson would take a 1/2 hour.

The record store was just across the street from the studio and there was a sale on her favorite record so she went over to look. When she was there she saw some new people and asked if they lived on Tenth Street. They said they lived on Town Street which was down town. They couldn't be the new people. By then she had picked out her record and paid for it. She didn't realize what time she took so she went back to the studio, picked up Ted and went home to ask mom if she could go to Tenth Street to see the house for sale. Her mother said "Yes."

So she went to Tenth Street and something was very strange there THE HOUSE WAS EMPTY! So she made up her mind to go inside. Something was moving. She heard some footsteps and they were very loud! They echoed over her small footsteps. It made her scared! The footsteps started to come near her. Her heartbeat became as loud as her footsteps! Turn the page to see what happens next!

She saw someone!

She thought that it was someone. But it turned out to be a burglar. She left the house without a sound. Then she called the police. The burglar was caught.

She went home, told her parents about it. They said she could still go on Tenth Street.

About the Author

My name is Sarah Janssen. I am eight years old. I finished my book Nov. 14th. My hobby is reading and collecting rocks. I am in Mrs. Hilson's third grade class, my best friend in the class is Vicky. I Would Like To Be A Teacher

I would like to be a teacher for my niche in life. There are a lot of reasons why I would like to become a teacher. One of them is because I have been influenced by many, many teachers. Another reason is because I absolutely love children. I also love helping people. The teacher who most influenced me to want to be a teacher was Mrs. Schwarz. She helped me realize that teaching is for work, for happiness, and for fun. That may sound silly, but that's the way I see things.

I plan to work very hard and get a part time job while I'm in college. I'll be going to college for four years. All this seems so hard, but I'm willing to try. I don't expect anybody's help. I intend to do everything all by myself.

Loving and Being Loved

There are many things for which I am thankful. The thing I am most thankful for is that I have people to love me and that I love in return. For instance, I have my sisters, my mother and my grandparents. They all are special to me because they are my family. My sisters show that they love me by helping with my chores; my mother and grandparents show their love for me by giving me food, clothes, shelter, and toys. The way that I show love for my sisters is that I sometimes do their chores for them. I will feed the dogs, wash the dishes, and sweep the floors to help them. I also give my sisters presents like dolls, puzzles, and clothes. My family is the best family you could ever have.

A Worm Crawling Through The Grass

If I were a worm crawling through the grass I could crawl around through the grass all day looking for something to eat. Sometimes when the kids come home from school on Friday they play games in the grass. I watch out to try not to let them step on me. So I crawl underground and wait until they're finished playing, then I come back out.

On the weekends I have to watch out for the lawn mower. If I get in the way I will be chopped up. After I always get thrown up and down by the rake. At night I can crawl around without being disturbed and it's very quiet. When it rains I see the other worms come out from the ground. In the morning some of the worms are dead. So I just keep on crawling.

My Dog Whiskey

I once had a dog named Whiskey (we also called him Pooper.) He was a very friendly dog. He was brown and white. He was a little fat, but he was a great dog. Whiskey was a Brittany Spaniel.

One day I was at a birthday party. It was a pool party. The birthday party was at my friend's house and her name is Taryn. She just turned ten. We swam in her pool, ate minnie pizzas, and a beautiful cake. It was so beautiful that we didn't want to cut it, but we did. It had a rainbow and animals in it.

Then my Mom came to pick me up. On the way home, Mom told me that my Dad had to put my dog, Whiskey, to sleep. I cried and cried. I kept thinking of him, even if I didn't try too. Then I stopped crying and tried not to think of him.

That night I went to bed and I heard my mother talking to my Uncle Kerstin. I heard her ask my uncle to come pick up some pictures to enlarge so that we can hang them up on the wall. There was a picture that I was hugging my dog that they are going to enlarge and hang in my room.

The next day I didn't think of him that much, but that night I was thinking of him. I thought how he was a good dog. I loved to play with him. I started to cry again. Then my father came in to comfort me and told me that everyone had a good time with him.

I loved my dog and I still do. I still think of him and I still cry, but not as much as I did in the summer. It's still possible to get another dog if my mom lets me, but still another dog can't be the same as Whiskey. Not another dog can beat him.

I Give Thanks For These Things

I have many things I'm thankful for. The thing that I am most thankful for is that my grandpa survived after his plane crashed. His plane ended up in a tail spin at eighty miles an hour. It must have been scary. He only had minor injuries though. He had a backache, a chipped bone in his thumb, and a whole lot of cuts and scrapes and bruises. My mom said when she went to see my grandpa in the hospital, he had blood on his hands. He said he crashed 100 times in his dreams that night. I'm glad he is okay though.

A third thing I'm thankful for is that my dad's family and our family could all get together at my grandma's — my dad's mom's house. We had to have two turkeys because there were so many people. My Uncle Billy really pigged out! He ate two helpings of everything (heaped to the top like this) that was there. Then he ate two or three pieces of pie! There was enough for everybody else though.

I am also thankful that I didn't get an earache yet this year. I used to get them all the time. An earache I had last year was so bad I had to go home from school in the middle of the day. I used to get them about five or six times a year when I was little. Another time I had to go to the hospital because I had an earache so bad that my eardrum had flipped inside out. But I haven't had an earache in a long time. These are the many things for which I am thankful.

Birds troubled by fouls

By Rick Leach

The 1986-87 basketball season has just been one big roller coaster ride for the Voorheesville Blackbirds, and this continued last week as the squad edged Ravana, 52-50, then lost one at the hands of Cohoes, 41-38. These two games put the Birds record at 4-5 in the Colonial Council and 5-8 overall.

Against the Indians on Tuesday, who came in with a 4-3 league record, it was nip and tuck through most of the game. The Birds led 12-10 at the end of the first quarter, trailed by two at the half, led by four after three periods, before finally winning by a basket at the end.

Voorheesville was up by as

much as nine in the final quarter, and although they let the Indians back into it, the Blackbirds never relinquished the lead. The key player in this ball game was Marty Gordinier, whose outstanding inside play produced 16 points and 12 rebounds. Dean Decker also played well for the winners, adding some outstanding play making and 14 points. Kyle Larabee scored ten for the Birds, while Joe Harding and John Meacham each added six.

One big problem for the Purple and Gold was the foul situation. Voorheesville shot just four of 13 from the line, while they committed 22 fouls of their own. "We have to cut down on little touch fouls," Coach Bob Crandall noted.

Three nights later the Blackbirds travelled to Cohoes to play a team that had embarrassed them by 23 points just the week before. The Birds seemed to do everything but win in this contest, as they out rebounded, outshot the home team from the line and played a very tough defense. Neither team shot well from the field, with the Birds hitting just 28 percent.

Voorheesville was up 12-7 after one quarter, 18-17 at intermission and 27-25 at the end of three periods, but they found themselves down 37-36 when they had the ball with less than a minute to go. Meacham got the ball and drove, but he stumbled, and although Voorheesville screamed foul, none was called and the Tigers retrieved the ball and forced an intentional foul with time running out. The Tiger at the line nailed both free throws, then was fouled again and hit two more to ice the game. Voorheesville added one last basket, but that was all they could muster, falling short by three.

Decker continued to lead the Birds offensively with 15 points, while Gordinier added 11 and Meacham eight. Also playing well off the bench for the Birds was Gardiner Foster, who rebounded well and kept the ball in play for the visitors.

Loose ball! Blackbird Marty Gordinier, no. 42, interrupts the ball control of Indians Tony Williams, no. 11, and Adam Wheeler.

Mysterious explosion

Bethlehem Police said they found a white substance in Woodridge Rd., Elmsere, after an explosion was reported at 7:50 p.m. Thursday.

A resident of Woodridge Rd. told police she also saw flames on the street after the explosion. Police said the white substance could possibly be paint, but no container was found in the area.

Voorheesville has only one game this week, at Mechanicville on Friday. The Blackbirds beat the Red Raiders in the closing seconds at home, but both teams are much improved and it should be a very good contest.

Ravena hoopsters lose two away

By Bart Gottesman

They say winning a basketball game on the road is a difficult task. The lack of hometown fans and the familiar gymnasium can often give opponents a decided edge. Ask any RCS varsity basketball player.

Last week the Indians lost both of their games to extend their current losing streak to three games. Loud opposing fans at two rival Colonial Council schools accompanied by inconsistent play contributed to losses to Voorheesville, 52-50, and Mechanicville, 52-46.

With eight seconds left in the Voorheesville game, Lance Tucker stole the ball and was then fouled, giving him a chance to cut a Ravena two-point deficit and tie the game. Tucker failed to become an Indian hero as he missed the first shot and the Blackbirds ran out the clock.

RCS Coach James Gorham said that the missed foul shot wasn't the cause of the Ravena loss. "The team didn't play well the whole game," he said.

Gorham said he felt the game was one that his Indians could have won without foul shots having to be the deciding factor. "We didn't make them pay for their mistakes," he said. "But they took advantage of our mistakes."

Gorham felt the outcome of the contest would depend on which team won the battle at the center position. Senior Indian center Adam Wheeler scored 21 points to lead his team, but Gorham said that he disappeared from the Indian offense in the second half.

"They (Voorheesville) kept him out in the second half," he explained. Although Gorham expressed that he wasn't happy with his team's performance he did say he was pleased and "proud how the kids came back." With less than three minutes left, Ravena was down by nine points, but steals and solid defense cut the lead to two points and set up the final foul shot attempt.

Basketball is considered to be a team sport, but it was one Mechanicville player who rose to the occasion and single handedly defeated the Indians. Kevin Saunders, Mechanicville's center, not only scored 34 of his team's 52 points but held Wheeler to nine points. "He (Saunders) has a great game and took us out," said an

Eagles work on team act

Coach Jack Moser is waiting for the front court and the back court to put their acts together. Once that happens, he feels, his Bethlehem Central basketball team will get on a winning track.

Take last week. On Tuesday the guards played well, but the forwards were polite under the boards, and the Eagles lost at home to Scotia, 65-60. On Friday the forwards were dynamic, but the back court took the evening off and BC absorbed a 10-point pasting at Niskayuna, 58-48.

Those two wipeouts by divisional teams left Moser's stalwarts at 3-5 in the Suburban Council's Gold group, 3-10 overall, with Guilderland due in last night (Tuesday) and Shaker coming to Delmar Friday.

In the Scotia debacle Brian Battle poured in 20 points, his high for the year, John Peyrebrune posted 17 and Todd Wright 15, but the Eagles never found a way to bother a talented neighbor, Wes Knapp. Knapp, who lives in Voorheesville but attends Scotia because his father teaches there, was all over the place, mostly with the ball, scoring 35 points.

"We had three guys in double figures but we didn't do a good job under the defensive boards," said Moser. "We were out-rebounded by a smaller team."

Three nights later at Niskayuna the pendulum swung the other way. The big men up front went to work early. John Reagan, Moser's largest sophomore, had 17 points and 14 rebounds. Wright had 19 points and 12 rebounds. Between them they kept both boards relatively clean. "It was the best game of the season for both of them," Moser said. "The defense was a lot better, there was a lot more intensity, but too many turnovers hurt us."

He also noted that the back court contributed only eight points. Battle, the star of the previous game, went from 20 points to zero.

"Once we start putting a good defense and a good offense together, we'll be okay," said Moser, voicing the dream of all coaches.

Meanwhile there was better news on another front. The BC freshman team, led by Scott Hodge and Sean McDermott, raised its record to 7-1 last week. The lone setback was a one-point loss to Burnt Hills.

Eagles pin Niskayuna and Guilderland Lady Birds lose two

By John Bellizzi III

Last week was another good one for the Bethlehem Central wrestling team. Two more Suburban Council schools were defeated in dual meets, and the Eagles placed first in a tournament held at Johnstown.

The two victories, 67-4 over Guilderland, and 40-21 over Niskayuna, were important ones for the Eagle matmen, giving them a credible shot at the Suburban Council championship. That, however, depends on this week's meets against league rivals Shenendehowa and Mohonasen and next week's meet with Burnt Hills.

"This is the week that's really important," said Bethlehem coach Rick Poplaski. "We're at the point where we can decide our own fate, it's in our own hands. The victory over Niskayuna was a turning point, and made a big difference."

The team is tied for first place in the Gold Division with Burnt Hills with a 6-1 league record (the Eagles are 9-1 overall). Poplaski feels confident in his squad's abilities and definitely thinks they are capable of capturing the title.

"We're wrestling very well," commented Poplaski. "I'm very pleased with the team's progress."

Bethlehem didn't lose a single match in the 67-4 rout of Guilderland last Wednesday. The opponent's four points were awarded for two draws (ties) in which both teams earn two points. First up for BC was 91 pounder Pat Leamy, who pinned his opponent in 1:41. Following Leamy, Jeremy Hartnett, at 98 pounds, ended up in a 2-2 draw. Eric Brown pinned his opponent at 105. Two decisions followed: Ben Greenberg won 8-5 in the 112 pound weight class, and 119 pounder Ed Moak won 8-7. Chris Saba and Jim Dayter, the team's co-captains, both pinned their men, Saba at 126 and Dayter at 132. At 138, Jamie Dillon won by pin, followed by John Sinuc, at 145, who decided his man 6-1. Peter Bragaw tied his opponent 3-3 at 155, and Steve Guynup was awarded a forfeit at 167. Pins by Mike Mosley, Joe Diacetic and Sean Nixon (at 177, 215 and 250 pounds respectively) finished off the dual meet.

The Eagles met with somewhat more of a challenge when they faced Niskayuna last Friday and chalked up their ninth win, 40-21. Pat Leamy started off with a 10-5 decision at 91, followed by his brother Mike at 98, who won 7-0. Brown won by decision 4-1, Saba overpowered his opponent 8-0 and Sinuc decided his man 6-1. Moak, Dayter and Guynup won their respective matches by pin, and Nixon won by forfeit.

Bethlehem also placed first in the Johnstown tournament on Saturday. "It was a very competitive tournament," said Poplaski. "We did a tremendous job. There was lots of good competition especially between 112 and 126, where some of the top wrestlers in the Section wrestled." The Leamys each placed first in their respective weight classes, Mike being credited by Poplaski as having the most outstanding performance, and Dayter also won his weight class. Mosley and Saba both came in second place at 167 and 126 respectively, Guynup and Sinuc both reached third place, and Greenberg and Moak both came in fourth.

Tonight the team will host Shenendehowa, with the junior varsity starting at 6 p.m. followed by varsity. Mohonasen will visit tomorrow night, same time. This Saturday, the varsity and JV will both be attending separate tournaments: varsity at Saratoga and JV at Colonie. Next week, the Eagles travel to Burnt Hills on Wednesday, in their last dual meet, which may determine the Suburban Council championship. Then, next weekend (January 30 and 31) Bethlehem will be hosting the Suburban Council Invitational Tournament, which will be followed the next two consecutive weekends by the Class A Sectionals at Burnt Hills and the Section II finals at RPI.

Lady Birds lose two

By Renee Hunter

Some weeks things just aren't meant to go well. After losing their two games last week, the Voorheesville Girls Basketball team would agree.

The Blackbirds went into the game at Ravena last Wednesday expecting a tough match. The undefeated Indians set the tone of the game early on, as they out scored Voorheesville, 21-13, in the first quarter. The Birds narrowed the gap and went into the locker room at half time behind by only one point, 31-30.

The Indians put on a tight press in the third quarter and Voorheesville found it difficult to score, allowing the Indians 24 points to their eight. The Blackbirds were unable to make a comeback and lost the game, 59-47.

Scoring for Voorheesville were Tricia Carmody with 15, Laura Martin with 10, Jennifer Elliot with nine, Donna Bulgaro with five, Betsy Zeh with two and Melanie Wakely with one. Martin and Carmody were strong under the boards with 20 and 25 rebounds, respectively.

Commenting on the Blackbirds' home game last Friday against Cohoes, coach Nadine Bassler could only say: "We played terribly." The Voorheesville girls lost the game, 37-33. Turnovers played a big part in the loss.

As high scorer, Carmody has 19 points. Elliot, Martin and Zeh each had four, and Severino added two.

The Blackbirds are 4-4 in the Colonial Council and 5-5 overall. Currently they are tied for third place with Mechanicville, behind Ravena and Lansingburgh.

Today (Wednesday) the team plays at Albany High School in a non-league game. Voorheesville greets Mechanicville at home on Friday.

Soccer registration

Anyone born between 1969 and 1980 who is interested in playing spring soccer may register with the Bethlehem Soccer Club on Jan. 26, Jan. 29 or Feb. 3, from 6 to 9 p.m., or on Feb. 7, from 9 a.m. until noon.

Birds take 8th at tourney

By Jeff Smolen

The Voorheesville Varsity Wrestling team dropped their league record to 3 and 2 last Thursday with a 36-21 loss to a very tough Schalmont team, but the team redeemed itself with a good showing Saturday at the Sufferin tournament.

Winners for Voorheesville in the Schalmont match were Christian Clark, Pat Ryan, Jason DePasqual, Paul Novac and John Traudt. Voorheesville had a very tough time in the 112 through the 138 pound weight classes.

At the 12-team Sufferin tournament, the Blackbirds placed eighth overall. Huntington and Sufferin, two very tough teams, placed first and second in the tournament. Several Voorheesville wrestlers did very well in the tournament individually. Clark, who wrestled extremely well, gained fourth place overall in his weight class. DePasqual and Mario Darpino took fifth place, while Matt Cillis and Paul Novac took sixth place.

Traudt was the champion of his weight class. John is now 17-1 overall and is turning out to have a spectacular season.

The Blackbird's next match is Thursday against Mechanicville at the Voorheesville High School. Mechanicville is in first place and is undefeated, although Voorheesville has been victorious against Mechanicville four out of the last five years.

If You're Transferred...

If you're transferred to a job in another city, what will you do about your house? The answer is not so cut and dried as you might think. It's smart to discuss your options with a real estate professional who follows the market.

The most obvious solution might be to sell here and buy there, but that may not be your best choice economically. If, for instance, you think you might be transferred back here within a few years, or that your employment picture might change, it may make sense to keep your house and rent it out while you're away.

Look at market conditions around your old home and in your new location. If you sell high and must buy low, you may leave yourself liable to a big tax bite; if you buy a more expensive home, any capital gain is deferred. If you decide to keep your home and rent it out, you will need to have the help of an experienced real estate manager.

Eagle spikers start out winning

By Charles Henrikson

This year's edition of Bethlehem Central Boys Volleyball team is one of the strongest in recent memory. Led by Coach Ray Sliter, the starting lineup consists totally of returning seniors from last year's highly successful team.

The team played last Wednesday in a pre-season scrimmage, easily beating Columbia in what turned out to be merely a workout.

The boys are quite strong at all positions. The setters are Doug Pratt and Pete Russo, both of whom are returning starters. Pratt has been a setter throughout his four-year career, while Russo has recently changed positions. The rest of the first six are comprised of Toby Dunmore, Ken Malsan, Mark Richter and Bill Liddle. With his fantastic leaping ability, Dunmore leads this group of hitters, although he is the only hitter under six feet.

The bench is also extremely strong this year, with seniors Steve Ainsworth and Paul Evangelista, juniors Pat McSharry, Dave Belfort, Justin Hopson, and Dave DeFazio, joined by Greg Jaczo, the lone sophomore on the team.

This is obviously "the year" for BC volleyball. The current crop of starters have played together since they were sophomores, and some since their freshman year. It is very rare in high school volleyball to have a solid nucleus of returning players as BC does. A Suburban Council crown is well within reach.

The official season began Monday as the team traveled to Mohonasen. Today (Wednesday) BC hosts Guilderland at the high school and on Friday Shenendehowa comes to BC for one of the toughest matches of the year, as the Plainsmen have consistently good teams in virtually all sports.

The Eagles registered a rare 1-2-3 sweep in the breaststroke, spearheaded by the veteran senior, co-captain Peter Greenwald. Keith Dix and Scott Whitney completed the sweep.

In other developments, several league coaches reportedly are trying to persuade the Section 2 committee to find a better site than Glens Falls for the sectional championships in February. The Glens Falls pool does not meet minimum depth recommendations and lacks spectator space. The Sectional meet normally has been held at Albany State, but that facility was not available when the committee last fall unexpectedly advanced the date by two weeks.

Eagles face top challengers

This is test week for Bethlehem Central's swim team. The Eagles have been booked to face their two strongest Adirondack League challengers within the space of three days — Albany High at home yesterday (Tuesday) and Troy High away on Thursday.

The meets are highly significant in that BC has not lost a dual meet to an Eastern New York school since 1969. In that stretch, covering some 200 meets, the Eagles have been beaten only three times, all three by Central New York powers — Rome Free Academy once, and New Hartford twice.

The task of keeping this dynastic streak alive has been made more difficult by the loss of BC's home pool due to a reconstruction project. As a result, the Eagles have been operating this season with a new pool, a new coach and a new approach.

The new home base is the Bethlehem Middle School tank, which falls short of minimum scholastic standards in several specifications, most notably depth and side-wall measurements for the diving event. For insurance reasons, the diving boards were removed earlier this month, and with them went the diving event in each home meet.

When Albany High, led by one of the fastest freestylers in New York State, came to the Kenwood Ave. pool yesterday, the visiting coach agreed to eliminate the diving from the point score. That put Bethlehem at a slight disadvantage in a meet expected to be nip-and-tuck. Albany High officials declined a BC request to hold the meet in Albany in order to include the diving, but Bethlehem divers, even with a lack of competition so far this season, will be in action against Troy's potent lineup tomorrow.

The Eagles have had little

chance to hone their competitive edge for these two critical meets because recent opposition has resembled jellyfish more than man-eating sharks. Last week at Glens Falls the home team had only 10 swimmers, and was unable to muster a full quotient of entries in some events.

The meet was so lopsided that Ken Neff, BC's first-year coach who as a former Bethlehem swimmer had a lot to do with the long win streak, was unable to furnish the final score when contacted by a reporter. "I stopped counting when it reached 66-30," he said.

For the record, the meet score was 104-49. By all measurements it was a ho-hum exercise, but several performances were noteworthy. For instance:

- Geoff Frank, a junior in his second year on the varsity, broke the one-minute barrier for the first time with a 59.8 clocking in winning the 100-yard butterfly.

- Brink Hartman turned in his personal best time in finishing second behind Frank in the Fly.

- Justin Baird, one of Section 2's standout swimmers and a defending champion in the 500 free, not only broke the Glens Falls pool record in the 500, but destroyed it. He clipped more than five seconds off the old mark of 5:12 with a 5:06.83, his best time of the year.

Guilderville drops 2

By Matt Bates

It was another disappointing week for the Guilderville swim team as they dropped decisions to Albany Academy and to the combined Amsterdam and Fonda team.

The squad's record has now fallen to an unfortunate one win and six losses. Last week was probably their worst yet as they won just five events.

On Tuesday, the swimmers lost a very close meet, 42-33, considering that they won only three races. Kevin Tyrrell, who has lost one individual race all season, won both the 50 yard freestyle, as well as the 500 freestyle. He was also a part of the four X 100 freestyle relay team which defeated Amsterdam's entry in the event rather handily.

Gary Washburn, Paul Kazmer, Matt Krost and Tyrrell had one of their best times of the year in the contest. Numerous second place finishes kept the meet close.

Thursday's meet at home against Albany Academy was nothing less than a blowout for the Cadets. Guilderville was destroyed, 58-17, as the squad was victorious in just two events. Tyrrell, in his first appearance in the event all season, took the 100 fly in convincing fashion. He also was on the relay teams, which finished third. Mark Wight swam some of his best legs of the season in the relays, but Academy's teams had too much speed. Washburn was the other winner for the squad. He took the lead early in the 500 freestyle and held on to post an impressive victory.

BC girls get in win column

By Lisa D'Ambrosi

"You can't win them all," as the saying goes, but it's nice to have finally won one. Bethlehem Girl's Varsity Basketball team climbed into the winning column last week when they plowed over Scotia with a score of 53-31.

Niskayuna was a different story, however. As Coach Gene Lewis explained, "we allowed the officials to let us lose our concentration." The game deteriorated into "a parade to the foul line," which took out both the players and their concentration.

Lewis cited great efforts by Julie Francis, who scored 22 points in the Scotia game, and Sonja Bjurstrom for her outstanding ability in changing positions.

"They have the potential for playing better," Lewis said. "I know they can and they know they can; it's just a matter of time."

Delmar Dolphins Kimberly Lenhardt and Billy Leary both placed first in the 25-yard freestyle competitions at the Canajoharie Developmental Swim Meet on Saturday. Lenhardt was swimming in the 8 and under-girls category while Leary was swimming with the 8 and under boys group. Leary was also awarded a "B" time certificate in the 25-yard backstroke.

Meg Teresi won a second place medal in the 10 and under girls 50-yard breaststroke. Melanie Veazey earned a "B" time certificate in the 50-yard backstroke.

Craig Mattox placed fifth in the 13 and 14 year boys 200 individual medley, 100 backstroke, 100 breaststroke and 100 freestyle.

Strong performances were also turned in by Nina Teresi, Anne Boyd, Brian Lenhardt and Eric Edie.

Occurring simultaneously was the Johnstown YMCA Sea Otters "A" Invitational Meet, where Katie Fish placed fourth in the 13 and 14 year girls 200 breaststroke and 200-yard butterfly, and sixth in the 200-yard freestyle. Swimming in the 13 and 14 year boys group, Pat Fish won a third place medal in the 200-yard butterfly.

Car burglarized

Stereo equipment and tapes were taken from an Elm Ave., Selkirk, man's car while it was parked at a Wildwood La., Selkirk, house Saturday, Jan. 10, Bethlehem Police said.

Taken from the car were two car speakers, tapes and a tape case, all valued at $391, police said. The incident was reported to police Monday.

The car from which the items were taken from was locked at the time of the incident, and police said entry was made by breaking a window.

Bethlehem Ambulance will hold its monthly meeting on Thursday, Jan. 22, at 8 p.m. at Selkirk No. 1 Fire House in Selkirk.

Remember to get your money to Arlene Wiggand by Jan. 23 for the Bethlehem Ambulance Dinner. Cost is $5 for members and spouses and $10 for non-members.

Hits power pole

An Albany man was taken to the hospital bleeding from his head after his car struck a mailbox and a power pole on Jericho Rd. at 2:10 p.m. Monday, Bethlehem Police reported.

Richard Behuniak, 22, of Albany, was taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital for treatment after the accident, police said.

Behuniak was traveling north on Jericho Rd., when he lost control, crossed into the oncoming lane and struck a mailbox on the side of the road. The car then crossed back into the northbound lane and struck a power pole, where it came to rest.

Police said they ticketed Behuniak for failure to wear his seat belt.

Many good apples

Editor, The Spotlight:

It was gratifying to read in a recent issue of The Spotlight, and again in the Tri-Village segment of the In The Neighborhoods column of the Knickerbocker News about the efforts by members of the Bethlehem Opportunities Unlimited (BOU), and The Bethlehem Festival Organization on behalf of those less fortunate.

The lives of 150 children in Albany South End, and 20 residents of Camp Cass were made brighter because of the unselfish gestures of the members of BOU. Between 50 and 60 local families received food baskets as a result of the caring efforts of students of the Bethlehem Central School District, the Becker Elementary School, the American Association of Retired People, and the many other groups and individuals who contributed to the Bethlehem Festival Organization.

All too often we read about the trouble our youth get into and not enough about the good these individuals do. Granted there may be a few bad apples in the barrel but that does not mean we throw away all the apples. The remaining ones can and do make good pies, jams and jellies. The youth of today are our leaders of tomorrow and it is refreshing to know they do care.

I am sure those on the receiving end have already thanked the organizations involved, but let me add my thanks for their efforts on behalf of our needy citizens, efforts that are appreciated.

Peggy Zimmerman

Elsmere

Barbara Riegel, right, president of the Tri-Village Welcome Wagon, presents a check for $725 to Holly Billings, president of Bethlehem Opportunities Unlimited. This year, the Welcome Wagon donated proceeds of their Holiday Auction to BOU, a community organization working to provide alternatives to drugs and alcohol use and abuse by teenagers.

Focus On Faith

Rev. Clark S. Callender

Community Methodist Church, Slingerlands

During the past twenty years, I have performed innumerable weddings, but a certain part of the marriage vow always speaks to me. When the vow is taken the bride and groom each promise to stand with each other "for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, TO LOVE AND TO CHERISH, till death do us part."

That word "cherish" has set me thinking. Within marriage and also with friendships the act of cherishing, or "cultivating with care and affection," is often the difference between an acceptable relationship and a very special relationship.

Keeping a friendship or a marriage ever growing takes a lot of work and I think that cherishing can be a conscious way we express the love we feel for our spouse, child or friend. A cherishing act should be specific and positive. For example, such a request could be, "will you stay in the kitchen and talk to me while I prepare dinner?" This type of request is much more helpful than something like, "you never pay attention to me," which is a negative and general request for cherishing that does not tell the other person what is really desired.

Cherishing acts should be of a simple nature. Something which can be done on a daily basis is especially helpful. Also, keep a cherishing act unrelated to prior conflicts and previous demands.

Here are some possible cherishing acts:

1. Put surprise notes where they are sure to be found.
2. Ask me how I spent my day.
3. Take a walk together.
4. Bring in the newspaper.
5. Give each other a hug at least three times a day.
6. Think of a positive compliment you can give each day, with no strings attached.

It is amazing what an extra measure of cherishing will do to make each one of us feel loved and appreciated. Give it a try this week, and may God's peace be felt within each one of you!

Diggs is the author of three produced plays: Goodbye Freddy, which was produced by the Capital Repertory Theatre in Albany, Close Ties, which was filmed for cable television, and Dumping Ground. She also wrote a teleplay for an episode of St. Elsewhere.

Quilt contest

The Bethlehem Public Library has announced a contest for the best designs to be made into a quilted wall hanging. The quilted hanging will mark the library's 75th anniversary, which will be celebrated during 1988.

Beginning this month, members of the public are invited to submit 14 by 14 inch designs to be included in the hanging. The deadline for entries is May 30, 1987. Winners will be chosen in youth, young adult and adult categories. Complete contest rules and entry blanks are available at the library reference desk.

Winning designs will be translated into fabric blocks which will be quilted by volunteers and hung for the 1988 celebration. Entries should be relevant to the 75th Anniversary of the Library and may be on a square of paper, which may be colored by any paint, pencil or ink medium, or in the form of a paste-up, made with paper or fabric pieces.

The contest is being coordinated by Assistant Library Director Lorre Smith. Smith suggests that symbols such as the diamond anniversary, books or historical aspects of the celebration could be the basis for designs. Winning entries will be displayed in the library during June, 1987. For more information contact Smith at 439-9314.
