School board: no accord with teachers

By Sal Prividera

The Voorheesville School Board will put an austerity budget for the 1987-88 school year and three proposals covering transportation, inter-scholastic sports and essential equipment and maintenance before district voters on Tuesday, June 16.

The austerity budget totals $6,814,162, and would mean a 9.9 percent property tax increase for New Scotland residents. If all three propositions are approved the total would be $7,231,817 and the tax increase would be 21.7 percent.

The budget was arrived at by the board during executive session at last Wednesday's special meeting, following the May 13 district vote that led to a 763-426 defeat of its first budget proposal of $7,373,000

"It's a trimmed base budget," school board president John McKenna said following Wednesday's meeting. "We cut $188,000 out of the previous budget." However, he added, the board had to add $47,430 to cover the current salary offer made to district teachers.

The district and teachers are still at an impasse in negotiations, McKenna said. "We feel we have to let the voters know how much they have to spend," McKenna commented.

An austerity budget, unlike a contingency budget, has to be approved by district voters. Contingency budgets are defined by state law as the minimum amount of funding a district needs to operate, including mandates and expenditures to insure health and safety. An austerity budget adds items to a contingency budget. In the new budget proposal, items added by the board were funding for

Boy hit by car 'critical'

By Patricia Mitchell

A three-year-old Dover Dr., Delmar, boy was in critical condition at Albany Medical Center Hospital Tuesday morning after he was struck by a car when he ran into the road Saturday.

Kevin Mooney was admitted with head injuries, according to a hosptal spokesman. According to Bethlehem Police, the driver of the car, Mark Richter, 17, also of Dover Dr., was not injured.

Richter was driving east on Dover Dr., which is off Elm Ave., at about 4:45 p.m. Saturday when Mooney came from the north side of the road into Richter's path, according to police. Police said the car struck the child on the driver's side hood and bumper area.

Residents of the area requested a 20 mph speed limit on the road last year, said Bethlehem Police Chief Paul Currie, along with speed bumps and a stop sign. Currie said the requests were denied after a police department study. The state does not allow speed limits under 30 mph, and insurance companies don't favor speed bumps because they can create more accidents than they prevent. There are "children playing" signs in the area, he said.

In Saturday's accident, Currie said, an investigation indicated that the car's speed or the lack of a stop sign did not contribute to the incident because the driver was not using excessive speed and it did not happen at an intersection. He said there are "no easy answers" in a situation like this.

Currie said Tuesday morning he did not know if residents had reinstituted their requests for a stop sign along Dover Dr., but the department would look at any requests they would get again. He added that this incident or stop sign requests could be studied by a traffic safety committee that was established by the Bethlehem Town Board last week. The committee would study traffic safety and would take some of the work of requests off the department and bring in some input from outside. Generally, he said, such committees are "quite successful."

No tickets were issued to Richter as of Tuesday morning. The report was made by Officer Vincent Rinaldi and the incident is being investigated by Det. John Cox.

Madelon Pound's journey begins

EDITOR'S NOTE: On May 19, Madelon Paterson Pound started out on her journey from her home on Butlock Rd., in New Scotland to Tennessee, driving a horse-drawn buggy built in her grandfather's factory in Flint, Mich. The trip will take at least a month. This first installment of her journey finds Madelon Pound driving with her horse, B.B., and dog Bonnie Jean, south through Greene, Ulster and Orange counties, and into Pennsylvania at the Delaware Water Gap.

By Madelon Paterson Pound

A whole week has gone by since my departure from New Scotland. A week filled with such a variety of scenes, people and thoughts that it would take me another week to sort it all out and tell you the details of my Paterson-Pound journey. This is where our buggy wheels and B.B. (Black Beauty) have taken us so far. So far so good!

Last Tuesday, we drove 19 miles partly in the rain to Shepard's, an inn noted for its hospitality, good food and beautiful view of the Catskills. A matched pair of Belgian draft horses kept B.B. company and Bonnie, my dog, was allowed to stay with me. What a wonderful surprise to see so many of my friends and relatives joining us for dinner complete with harp music supplied by Lucy Dunne and her dear children wishing me Bon-Buggy ride. The doubters had turned into believers, I think.

Wednesday, after a delicious and leisurely breakfast, we hit the road, but gently. Through Greenville, trotting under the green light, saying good-bye to the duck pond and Vanderbuilt Opera house where years ago I played harp in The Fantastiks, now a gas station, past historical markers — "Elvin Drake first drilled oil here," etc.

Stopped in to see Pete Holcomb a harness maker who sends leather aprons all over the county. On to Cairo, past the gilded statue on the watering trough — B.B too hot to even suggest a drink — to Catskill Game Road and Bartwick Ranch, our destination for the night.

What an interesting place. A large stone house built years ago by a wealthy artist, Everett Shinn. He was not practical enough to install workable plumbing, but the house is beautifully situated. Maria and her family have worked hard through the years turning a forest into fields, digging ponds, building barns and befriending animals, birds and people. B.B. made friends with some of their twenty or more horses and Bonnie was happy with a young dog she could outsmart.

Thursday morning the south wind was still blowing as we walked, not trotted, down the steep road. I hoped to stop the Scarlet Macaws that were stolen from the Game Farm. We learned about that when Elyce, my helper, who is a student at Cobleskill Agriculture and Technical College, and I went to see the dim-age horses. A $1,000 reward for one macaw! Where are they?

The Sauer Farm on Ulster County Rt. 31 was our destination and we arrived intact with only one frightening incident to B.B. and to me. A long freight train on tracks near by, advanced and the engineer blew his whistle practically in our faces. The Sauer family works hard at their beautiful dairy farm and vegetable garden. We feasted on a dinner of vegetables already grown, their own beef and, of course, milk.

On Friday, we decided to try the steep climb up the Shawangunk Mountains to the Mohonk Mountain House. It was most beautiful as to scenery — views of the Catskills — and to the sense of smell, the fragrance of the pinkster bushes filled the air with cinnamon and honey. Our wild agalias were just starting to bloom along the west border of the Whitbeck Memorial Grove when we started our journey.

The Mohonk Mountain House is impressive. It seems strange that Quaker Alfred H. Smiley first saw the ten room inn and tavern on the lake in 1869 and that he and his brother dreamed of a place where man and nature could exist in harmony. That was also the year my grandfather started the first carriage factory in Flint, Michigan. There I was, driving Grandpa Pat's buggie up and down roads made only for horses by the Smiley brothers.

I mentioned the beauty of the blooming dog wood to Dan Smiley who said that he thought they were doomed. Air pollution, he thought, was the cause. Couldn't we get back to horse drawn vehicles at least in those 7,500 acres? The Mountain House had room for 500 guests but not for us. B.B. and Bonnie slept in luxury, box stalls for each in the spacious barn.

Elyce and I found another inn — not as high — in High Falls. The next day we saw some of the Berme Road along the D. & H. canal and back to 209 to stay with the hospitable and interesting Phil Davis, a legislator and dairy farmer. Then on to Huguenot to bed and board library books and teaching supplies, according to district treasurer Sarita Winchell.

Voorheesville's budget

The budget rejected on May 13 would have meant a tax rate increase of 26 percent. The proposed austerity budget would mean a tax rate of $292.60 per $1,000 of assessed valuation in New Scotland, an increase of 9.9 percent over last year. If the budget and all three proposals pass the increase will be $324.09 per $1,000 for New Scotland residents, resulting in an increase of 21.7 percent. For Berne residents of the district, the base budget tax rate would be $520.40 per $1,000, an increase of 11.2 percent; with the three propositions the tax rate would be $576.50, and increase of 23.2 percent. Guilderland district residents would have a tax rate of $18.96 per $1,000 under the base budget, a 24.8 percent increase, and a tax rate of $21.00 per $1,000 with the three propositions, up 38.2 percent.

Prior to the June 16 vote, on Thursday, June 11, at 7:30 p.m., there will be an informational meeting for residents in the high school auditorium and informational mailing will be sent to residents.

The proposed budget and proposals represent an eight percent increase over last year's budget.

Proposition one provides for transportation and the purchase of two new school buses. "Basically, we bus everyone," McKenna said. Under this proposition, the district will continue busing as it is currently. An austerity budget does not permit transportation for students within two miles of the school for elementary students and three miles for high school students, according to McKenna.

Proposal one totals $253,918 for transportation and bus purchases and would add $19.14 per $1,000 to the New Scotland tax rate.

The second proposition would provide funding for extra- curricular activities and inter-scholastic athletics programs as they currently exist. It totals $140,737 and would add $10.61 per $1,000 to the New Scotland tax rate.

Proposition three would provide for supplying the necessary equipment to support the teaching program and support services as needed, including repairs to school equipment. The total for this proposition is $23,000 and would add $1.73 per $1,000 to the New Scotland tax rate.

According to McKenna the district and its teachers have been through the mediation process and have proceeded to the fact finding stage. He said he is not sure how long fact finding will take.

Based on the fact that the teachers have turned down what he considers a "generous offer" from the district, McKenna said he feels an agreement is "not likely" before the budget goes to vote again. He added he would welcome the opportunity to talk with the teachers in hopes of reaching an agreement before June 16.

While no programs or services have been eliminated, the effect of the budget will be visible, McKenna said. There will be no money for new athletic equipment or uniforms. Teaching supplies such as paper and reference material have been cut back 20 percent.

Creating the new budget was "a real tough job for the board; we know how frustrated the voters feel," said McKenna. He said the problem is in revenue. Seven years ago state aid covered 55 percent of the district budget, but only about 38 percent will be covered in the next school year.

Although the district will receive an additional $18,000 in aid from the state for next year, the actual percentage of the budget covered by the aid will decrease, placing a greater burden on the tax payers, said McKenna. There is "not much more we can do without cutting programs," he said.

Mohawk Chapter DAR elects officers

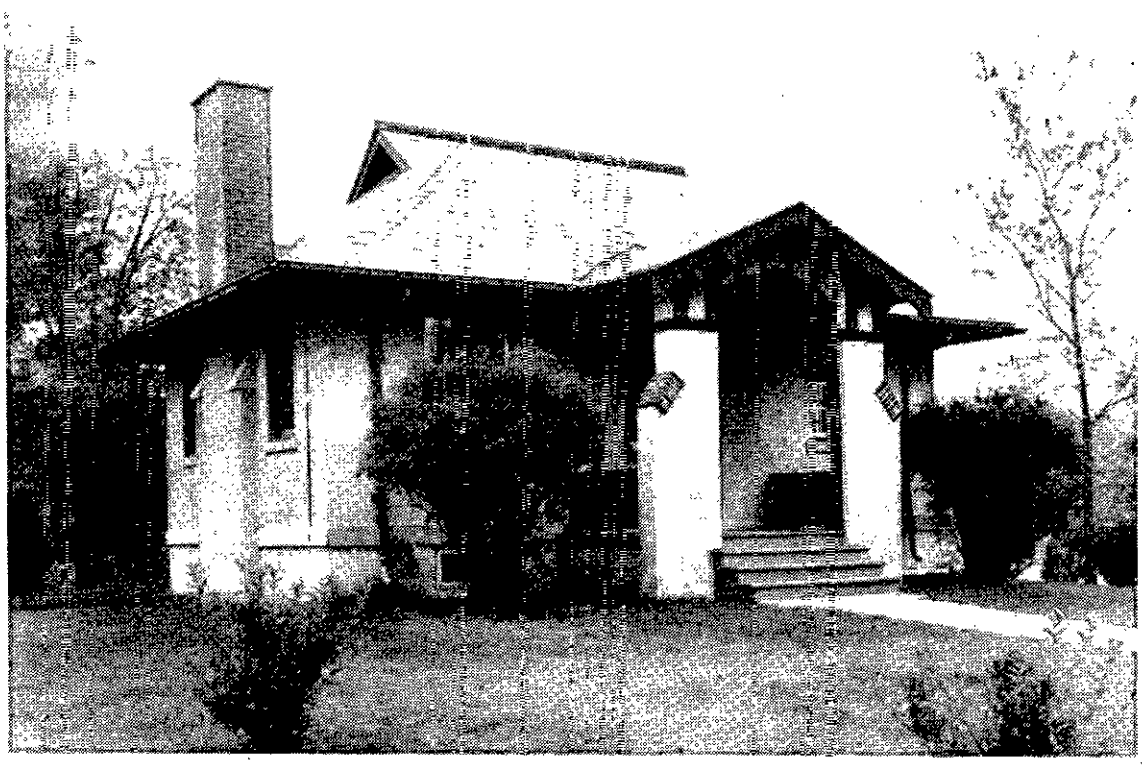
The Mohawk Chapter National Society Daughters of the American revolution recently elected its officers for the next two year term.

The new officers are Mrs. W. Gordon Morris, regent; Mrs. H. Donna Lyden, vice-regent; Mrs. Alden C. Merrick, chaplain; Mrs. Max A. Robinson , secretary; Mrs. Theodore Townsend, corresponding secretary; Miss Elsa Marie Kelp, treasurer; Mrs. Edward Gardner, registrar; Mrs. Dirck J. Olton, historian; and Mrs. Alexander Turchick, librarian.

Legion makes awards

The American Legion Blanchard Post of Delmar recently presented education awards to Bethlehem Central High School students.

The Larry Prater Memorial award was presented to Tina Cleveland and Laura Adams; each received $100. Education aid awards went to Peter Greenwald and Janet Joachim.



Bethlehem's original library building, the Delmar Free Library, was built on the corner of Adams St. and Hawthorne Ave. in 1917. The library was founded by members of the Delmar Progress Club in 1913, and was housed in the school building on Kenwood Ave. that is now the Masonic Temple until the library building was finished.

Library celebration planned

Bethlehem Public Library, 451 Delaware Ave., Delmar, will hold "Celebrate the Library Day" on Sunday, June 14, from 1 to 4 p.m.

The celebration will feature family entertainment by local and guest performers, exhibits by local community groups, tours of the library, balloons, ice cream and the opportunity for local residents to record their "Library Memories" in preparation for the Library's 75th anniversary in 1988.

The Friendship Singers, a women's choral group directed by Sue Pierce of Elsmere and accompanied by Rhonda Ballou of Delmar, will entertain at 1:30 p.m. At 2 p.m. adults and children will be enthralled by the story telling of Tom Weakley who brings his special magic from Arlington, Vermont.f Weakley's repertoire includes folk tales, literary, personal and family stories. Tours of the library will begin at 2:30 and 3:30 p.m.

The Tri-Village Squares, led by co-presidents Mike and Gail Dwyer of Glenmont will present some of their fanciest reels and square dances to the calls of Jim Ryans, beginning at 2:30 p.m.

The afternoon will begin with a presentation of a new display case by the Friends of the Bethlehem Public Library in honor of Mrs. Ethel Birchenough, the late President of the Library Board of Trustees.

As a prelude to the Library's 75th anniversary in 1988, local residents will be invited to share their library memories, photos or memorabilia. The free celebration has been organized to honor the library and its patrons. Ongoing strong support by local residents has enabled the Bethlehem Public Library to become one of the premiere public libraries in upstate New York.

Exhibits by local community groups who meet in the library and the sharing of "library memories" will be ongoing events throughout the afternoon. For information call 439-9314.

Scholars profit

Members of the Panhellenic Association have announced a profit of $2,500 from their recent garage sale. The proceeds of the sale will be used to provide scholarship awards for the 1988-89 school year.

Winners of the awards for the 1987-88 school year will be announced in later in June.

Recital planned

A recital will presented by the violin and piano students of Mark and Ruth Baumbach at 3 p.m. on Saturday, June 13, at the Helderberg Studio of Music, Crow Ridge, Voorheesville. Students performing will include Jennifer Bruno, Sean Foley, Christina, Marcia and Michael Gaudio, John Noll, and Alexandra and Kristofer Kinnear.

Youth tennis registration

Registration for the summer youth tennis program will be held at Bethlehem Town Hall on Monday, June 8, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The program is open to students in grades 2 through 12. The program will be in session from June 22 to Aug. 13. For information call the Bethlehem Parks and Recreation office at 439-4131.

A slide projector and a case were taken from The Third Eye photography studio at 118 Adams St., Delmar, between May 24 and Wednesday, Bethlehem Police said. They are valued at $375.

Bike stolen

A bicycle, valued at $450, was taken from the open garage of a McGuffy Rd., Delmar home, Bethlehem Police said. The owner realized it was missing on Sunday.

B.B., while we found a motel; the weather being too cold and damp for camping.

Yesterday was still cool but comfortable in the buggy with a blanket. We decided against camping at Dingman's Ferry because they were not sure of accommodations for B.B. We were told of YMCA camp nearby, so we started through Milford, after being escorted across the bridge over the now-wide Delaware. The road was full of turns and scenic views but we really did poke along the Pocanos.

When we arrived, we were warmly greeted by Tom Moore, director of the camp, and Arlene, supervisor of horses and related activities. B.B. was happy to be divested of his harness and given a barn, feed and companions of his own breed. Bonnie explored the woods and fields.

Now, I shall sign off and find a post office in which to mail the sketchy account of our journey.

Committee to handle traffic issues

Bethlehem

By Kevin Mullen

An eight-member Traffic Safety Committee has been given the green light by the Bethlehem Town Board to assist the police department in analyzing traffic problems or requests for traffic control devices.

Police Chief Paul Currie, whose department receives requests from the town board for investigating the need for traffic signs and other traffic-related problems, made the recommendation to the board, saying that the Colonie police department had a similiar problem several years ago. Colonie appointed a highway safety commission.

Currie suggested that the committee be composed of seven individuals: one each from the public works department, police department, town highway department, fire department (one person to represent the five fire departments), school district transportation system, chamber of commerce and planning board. Board member Sue Ann Ritchko suggested that one person from a neighborhood organization or citizens committee also be included.

The town board would refer any request for a traffic control device or a traffic problem to the Traffic Safety Committee. The petitioner would present the traffic problem to the committee, which would investigate the situation and make a recommendation to the town board.

The board tabled a request from the Central Delmar Neighborhood Association for traffic controls on Oakwood Place after a short discussion. A petition from 81 residents on Oakwood Place, Adams Place, Herber Ave., Forrest Rd. and Furman Place asked that Oakwood Place be changed to a one-way street from Adams Place to Delaware Ave. They also want parking to be prohibited on the west side of the street. Currie said that both the Delmar and Elsmere fire chiefs oppose the one-way street because it would cause logistic problems getting to the fire hydrant on the corner of Delaware Ave. and Oakwood Place. The board will contact the association to clarify the request before making a decision.

The board also heard a report from the Bethlehem Archaeology Group, which was given by members Floyd Brewer, Ralph Wood and Peter Christoff. The group is located in the Waldimire building on Feura Bush Rd. The group is currently writing a history of the town and is "aiming at 1993," the bicentennial year of Bethlehem. The group is digging in several parts of the town and has located 1,000 artifacts that "take us back to 6,500 B.C." The Bethlehem Archaeology Group became a corporation in September of 1985.

"You've come a long way in two years," Ritchko said. Christoff said that two years ago 10,000 volunteer hours were contributed to the group and "now it's above that and counting."

In other business, the town board:

- Approved a recommendation from the Department of Public Works for the assignment of house numbers for Van Wies Point Rd, Wheeler Rd. and Mosher Rd. Effective date is six months for the assignment of the numbers.
- Approved a recommendation from the Department of Public Works for the assignment of house numbers on Bender Lane.
- Acknowledged receipt of a final plat approval for the Hilltop subdivision from the planning board.
- Acknowledged receipt of a final plat for Southwood-Extension no. 4 from the planning board.
- Acknowledged receipt of conditional approval for Westchester Woods, Extension no. 1, Section 4, from the planning board.

Corrigan takes a seat

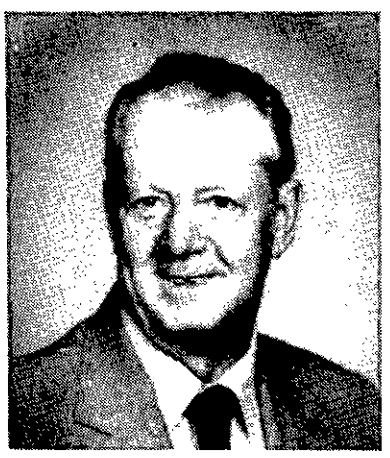
Planning board member Dennis J. Corrigan was appointed to the Bethlehem Town Board by a 4-0 vote of the board last week, filling the seat that was vacated by John Guertze.

The term is effective June 1 and the seat will be up for re-election this November. Guertze resigned from the town board in April after serving nine years, becoming director of field operations for the town's Department of Public Works.

It was the second change on the town board so far this year. In February, Fred Webster was appointed to fill the term of W. Scott Prothero, who resigned. Board member Ruth Bickel, who has served on the board since 1975, has said that she will not run for re-election this fall so she can spend more time taking advantage of her retirement. Thomas Scherer of Slingerlands has been designated by the Bethehem Republican Committee to run for her seat this fall, and Corrigan and Webster have also been endorsed for full terms by the committee.

Corrigan, 36, is the son of former supervisor Thomas V. Corrigan, who retired from his job in 1985. He also served on the town board. Corrigan and his brother, Thomas W., are owners of Framingham Associates, Inc., which provides residential and commercial building inspections in the Tri-Cities area. The Corrigans and James Breen, president of James Breen Real Estate, are the developers of the 21-shop Main Square plaza on Delaware Ave. and Oakwood Pl. in Delmar; which is currently under construction.

Corrigan has been a member of the planning board since January, 1986. He is a resident of Glenmont.



Maynard Goyer

Honored by Lions

Maynard "Red" Goyer of the Bethlehem Lions Club was the recipient of the 1986-87 Lions district leadership award in a recent presentation by Lions International district governor James Stine. The award was for Goyer's many community services in furthering the cause of Lionism.

Goyer has been an active Lion for 13 years, holding many offices including the presidency. He has chaired several committees, including the annual light bulb sale and the annual pancake breakfast.

Citizens suggest another route

The group fighting the proposed Delmar Village development has suggested that Bethlehem officials consider using town funds to extend the Delmar Bypass further west, rather than through the development and on to Fisher Blvd.

The route is similar to the state Department of Transportation's original plans for the bypass, which was to link with New Scotland Rd. at the Stonewell intersection in New Scotland, except that no state funds are now available.

With Delmar Village winning approval by the Bethlehem Planning Board two weeks ago, the Bethlehem Citizens for Responsible Planning have turned their attention to the town board, which is scheduled to take up the plan at its June 10 meeting. In a letter that was read at the end of last week's town board meeting, the group said that "the quality of life in Bethlehem can be affected " by five factors if Delmar Village is approved.

The group, in a three page letter with map and projected costs of "assumed Town of Bethlehem participation," for the revised bypass proposal, asked the board to "delay action on this subdivision until you have resolved some of the controversy by providing a satisfactory written response to the questions and proposals outlined in this letter."

The group, which described itself as a "broad-based group with over 250 members from all parts of town," cited the five factors as population density, traffic congestion, crowded schools and shopping centers, high taxes and loss of open space, woodlands and recreational areas.

The group said that with the addition of Delmar Village, The Meadows, Juniper Fields and Brookhill Village, 3,000 people will be added to the town, a 12 per cent increase compared to the current "stable 3-5 per cent."

They asked how the town could "justify adding 130 school-age children from Delmar Village alone" when "we will need 15 additional classrooms by 1990 at a cost of $1,500,000."

While the letter was not discussed at the meeting, town officials have in the past disputed the conclusions and projections made by the citizens group. Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick said the town board will probably declare itself the "lead agency" for the purpose of considering an environmental impact report on the development at its next meeting. Delmar Village will contain 56 single family homes and 282 apartments on 92 acres between Delaware Ave. and Orchard St.

In its letter, the citizens group asks that Fisher Blvd. be used as "a local street, not as a major highway link." The group suggested exploring a "true bypass link further west, through presently undeveloped land."

An attached worksheet estimated that an extension of the bypass would cost between $7 and $21 million and projected various tax consequences based on whether New Scotland and the state would share in the cost. If the town were to pay 50 percent, the group said, the annual cost for a home worth $100,000 would be between $28 and $86, the group said.

Hendrick said he has no way of verifying the figures presented. Town officials have said they have attempted many times to get the state interested again in the bypass plans, but have been unsuccessful. The proposal to extend the bypass through Juniper Fields and Delmar Village at the expense of the developers is an outgrowth of the state's unwillingness to participate, they have said.

Swift Rd. subdivision approved

By Patricia Mitchell

A seven-lot subdivision off Swift Rd. near the town park received preliminary approval from the New Scotland Planning Board last week.

The approval is contingent on making a strip of land from the road to a lot in back of two others 50 feet wide for its entire length. Ronald LaBerge Jr. of LaBerge Engineering said the access to the lot from the west side of Swift Rd. was designed 50 feet wide at its beginning to 30 feet in the middle back to 50 feet wide to deter making it a town road in the future if someone develops the neighboring land.

However, planners at last Tuesday's meeting questioned the legality of a 30-foot wide access to the back lot. Building Inspector Walter Miller said if the easement were to be developed as a road, then the developer would have to come before the planning board for approval.

New Scotland

The developers will take make the access 50 feet wide as long as the intent of the exclusive and private lots are preserved, LaBerge said. The deeds will hold clauses that no more houses can be built on the subdivision, he said.

The first section of the Scotland Hills subdivision will have two lots on two acres on the east side of Swift Rd. with the town taking off some of the land to widen a curve at the point. The second section will have five lots on about six acres. Two of the lots will have direct access onto Swift Rd., a third will have the 50-foot wide easement, and two more lots will be built in back with access onto Woods Hill Rd.

The town board recently held a public hearing on the extension of the Swift Rd. water district, and planning consultant Robert Cook said there was no opposition to the expansion and he sees no reason why it won't progress.

The subdivision is proposed by James Breen and Thomas Coyle of Swift Rd., Inc. The plans will now go to Albany County Board of Health for location of the transvap sewer systems and a public hearing will then be held.

The planners also gave preliminary approval to a redesigned subdivision on Rt. 85. New plans propose to take 50 feet off the back of three lots bordering on the road to allow the owner to develop land in back of the old subdivision.

Proposed by James Coffin of Rt. 85, the subdivision is on old Town of Bethlehem water district property, and he said taking the 50 feet off will have "no real impact" on the size of the three lots. It was approved by the planning board in 1981, but Coffin is now considering doing something with a large piece of land in back of the property. He said he would like some maneuverability in designing the lots because the land borders on wetlands, and zoning laws require leaving a 100 foot strip around them.

The land in back will probably be designed into six to 10 large lots, Coffin said, and he has already left a 50-foot wide strip between two lots for a road into the back.

Those plans also went to Albany County before the planning board schedules another public hearing.

In other planning board business, the board is considering whether to hire a surveyor to determine if a fence in back of two homes in section three of Orchard Park is in a 20-foot buffer zone of undeveloped land that was to be maintained. Bruce Houghton of Appleblossom La. said some residents think the fence encroaches on the buffer zone.

Pointing out this was the first the board learned that the fence may be in violation of the buffer zone, zoning attorney John Bailey said a quick reading of a condition set by the planning board indicated the fence should not be within the zone. The question is whether the fence is in the zone or not, he said, and the only way to find out is to hire a surveyor. He advised the board to consider hiring one.

The condition was set when the planners approved the section in June, 1986. Bailey said he is still meeting with two property owners on their plans to plant trees and other plants to comply with the condition set by the planning board to keep a strip along Rt. 155 undeveloped.

The planning board also:

- Accepted a plan from Mark Fiato of New Scotland for plantings at a gas station at Rt. 85 and 85A, across from the Stonewell shopping plaza. The planning board gave preliminary approval on May 12 after a public hearing, but held the special use permit needed to operate the gas station. While the service bays will be revised as stores after the station opens, Fiato said he was not sure when the station would open.
- Set a public hearing for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 9, for a special use permit to construct an in-law apartment on Jones Rd. in Feura Bush. Doug DeForge of Albany said he holds the title to 1.2 acres of land that belonged to his parents in-law. DeForge would like to build a house on the land with an apartment. The land has public water and has its own septic system.
- Learned that a building permit would not be issued for a building on Normanskill Rd. until the lot is cleared of violating junk cars. Houghton said he has noticed a foundation has been started on the DaNato farm, but Miller said a building permit has not been issued.

Police break up party, arrest 4 youths

Four Town of Bethlehem youths will be appearing in town court June 16 for allegedly trespassing on the Colonial Acres Golf Course, Bethlehem Police said.

At about 10:30 p.m., Friday, police said they received a call from a Colonial Acres resident that there was a party involving youths at the golf course. When police arrived, they said they saw some beer and the youths ran from them. However, police stopped four of the young peole, who were issued appearance tickets for trespassing.

Art shown outdoors

An outdoor fine art show and sale, sponsored by the Bethlehem Art Association, will be held in the parking lot of the Delmar Community Health Plan building, 250 Delaware Ave., Delmar, on Saturday and Sunday, June 13 and 14, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Proceeds from the event will go to the senior art scholarships.

Spaces may be reserved for $5 by members and for $10 by non-members. For reservations write to the Bethlehem Art Association, 363 Jones Ave., Feura Bush, N.Y. 12067, before June 6.

Driver in a spin

An Albany man was taken to the hospital Friday after the car he was driving spun around after being hit by another car, Bethlehem Police said.

Treated and released for back pains from Albany Medical Center Hospital was Aloysius Stevens, 34, a hospital spokesman said.

Stevens was driving south on Rt. 144 near Reed Rd. at about 3:20 p.m. Friday when another car, driven by Arthur Meyers, 56, of Coxsackie, pulled into the oncoming lane attempting to pass Stevens, police said. Meyers told police he realized he could not complete the pass and attempted to pull back behind Stevens' car. However, Meyers' front end hit Stevens' back end, causing Stevens' car to spin around, police said.

Maryana Veeder pins the Eagle Award on her son, David, as his father, Bruce, and Scoutmaster of Troop 73, Joe Colburn look on.
Lyn Stapf

Earns Eagle badge

Standing "a little over 6 foot 7 inches," David Veeder has been head and shoulders above most people most of his life. Now as Voorheesville's newest and tallest Eagle Scout he has even more people looking up to him.

A junior at Clayton Bouton Junior-Senior High, Veeder was feted last Wednesday, when family, friends and fellow scouts, as well as a cast of dignitaries, came to celebrate his receiving scouting's highest award.

During the course of the ceremony the scout was presented with letters and plaques of congratulations from Assemblyman Richard Connors, Senator Alphonse D'Mato, Governor Mario Cuomo and President Ronald Reagan. The documents were preserved in frames made by committeeman Howard Coughtry.

Mayor Ed Clark was on hand to present a proclamation. Robert Mudge of Voorheesville, who is Albany County American Legion representative, was also in attendance.

The congratulations continued on Saturday when the New Scotland Elks made a public presentation to Veeder at the Memorial Day Parade.

In addition to earning the 21 merit badges required to become an Eagle, Veeder has developed and carried out a service project. He designed and built bookcases and kitchen shelving for the New Scotland Senior Citizens meeting place.

The son of Bruce and Maryann Veeder of Prospect St., Voorheesville, David also served as patrol leader in Voorheesville Boy scout Troop 73. He was a recipient of the Order of the Arrow award.

Slingerlands youngster takes spill on dirt bike

A 12-year old Slingerlands boy was taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital for injuries he suffered when his dirt bicycle hit a brick wall at the Slingerlands School Tuesday, Bethlehem Police said.

David G. Fisk, 12, of Union Ave., was riding his bicycle on the basketball court, when he hit some bumps, lost control of the bicycle and was unable to stop, and hit a brick wall, police said.

Fisk was treated leg abrasions and later released, a spokesman for Albany Medical Center Hospital said.

Town offers home alternatives

By Patricia Mitchell

New Scotland officials are offering three alternative locations in the town for a proposed group home for seven retarded adults.

The town board has said it is not happy with the 30 East Rd., New Salem, house proposed by the Albany County Chapter of the state Association of Retarded Children (ARC), and last week recommended the homes to the ARC. That action extends the June 1 deadline for town action on the East Rd. proposal by 15 days.

In a letter last Wednesday to the ARC, zoning attorney John Bailey said the town recommends homes at 117 Voorheesville Ave. and 31 South Main St. in Voorheesville, and on Spoor Rd. in the town. He said Monday ARC officials were in the process of looking at the homes.

Edward Lukomski, the chapter's executive director, could not be reached for comment Monday.

A meeting between the town and the ARC has not been set yet to discuss the new locations, but Bailey said the town would be willing to set one up.

While the town board is "not really rejecting" the 30 East Rd. home, Bailey said, there is a difference of opinion between the board and the ARC over what is better for the residents. The town board believes there are more services available within the village. However, the board is "clearly indicating" it will receive a group home within the town, he said.

"They think these three might be better," Bailey said. "The ball is in ARC's court."

The ARC and the Office of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities will review the alternates by June 15, and the ARC will reject or accept them. If one of the alternates is accepted, Bailey said, the ARC would have to go through the process of a site feasibility and notifying the town again. He said there are many guidelines for the ARC to meet under state guidelines.

Town Supervisor Stephen Wallace said the three homes recommended are all "on the market" but he wouldn't speculate on whether any of them would be acceptable.

"What this does is buy us an extra 15 days," he said.

If the three alternates are rejected by the ARC, Bailey said the reason for the rejection will dictate the next step. If the houses don't fall under safety, size, or budget guidelines then there is nothing the town can do about the sites, he said.

The town needed to give approval on the proposed location of 30 East Rd., reject it because of oversaturation of group homes in the town or suggest an alternate site within the town by June 1, 40 days after receiving the ARC notification. This is the first group home proposed for the town.

Logan on the list

No van for village seniors

Voorheesville

By Sal Prividera

The proposed Voorheesville senior citizen van is not feasible, the Village Board was told at its meeting last week.

Based on the current village population, said Trustee Susan Rockmore, "I don't think it is feasible." Rockmore filed the report with the board based on information from the Kiwanis Club that included an Albany County Rural Transportation Study on senior vans. She added that even if the van was a joint effort between the village and the Town of New Scotland the population still would not be large enough.

In other business, Mayor Edward Clark told the board that he had received a reply from the Albany County engineers office to a letter concerning the intersection of Voorheesville Ave. and South Main St.

The village board wrote to the county after last month's meeting for recommendations on the intersection, where problems exist with vehicles ignoring the stop sign and pedestrians. Clark labeled the area a "dangerous intersection" and said that the county will deal with the problem as soon as possible and make recommendations before summer. The board would like to change the intersection into a "T."

Clark said he had denied a request made at the last meeting by a village resident to have a larger water main installed on North Hudson Ave. when the sewer mains are installed. Clark called the existing four-inch main "adequate", but conceded that a bigger main would be better. He said that he wants to get the sewer project completed and that there was no money allocated for the expensive replacement of the water mains.

"We don't have a real problem now," said Clark. He added that he did not want to rush into the project, but would "try to get it done in the near future."

In other trustees reports, Trustee Edward Donohue reported on the progress of sewer district number two. He said an attempt will be made to complete work in the area of the village green before Memorial Day. The next step for the project will be on Voorheesville Ave. in June and then on to Center St. He said for the three days the project takes there will be only one lane of traffic on the streets. Donohue added that an advisory group is working on the sewer use law for district two.

The fire department will have its new truck in for training purposes, with final delivery be taken in the third week of June, reported Trustee David Reh. He also discussed the eight concerts planned for the summer at both the village green and Hotaling Park. Reh said the concerts will be held on Sundays from 6 to 8 p.m.

An update on the development proposal of the former Gabowski property that went before the planning commission concluded Reh's report to the board. He said there were reservations about drainage and the developers were working on recommendations. The plan calls for single family homes to be built on 15 lots on one street exiting on Rt. 85A. Clark expressed his concern for pedestrian traffic at Maple Ave. and said the proposal would be discussed further at a public meeting.

Trustees Richard Langford and Reh both requested that the village spray the parks for insects. "This year is especially bad," Langford said.

Langford also reported on the youth recreation program. He said that there would be a tennis professional helping with the tennis program and that the search for basketball referees was proceeding well. This year's basketball league will be "more organized and less violent," said Langford.

Village attorney Donald Meacham informed the board that it will have to amend the land conservation district law for easement on sewer district two property. Clark set a hearing for 7:30 p.m. before the next scheduled board meeting.

Finally, the board heard from Benjamin Meyers, director of Meyers Funeral Home, about insurance problems he is facing on his property next to Village Hall. Meyers asked the village to give him an insurance endorsement that would cover any accidents that occur on his property as a result of village-related events. The endorsement would mean the village would be responsible for any claim beyond Meyers' coverage. Meyers said without the coverage he may have to close his property off on Memorial Day. Clark suggested the town look into solving the problem for a single event.

Voorheesville American Legion Commander Lewis Forte and his wife Carol, president of the ladies auxiliary, place the flag and raise the colors to end the Memorial Day ceremony. Lyn Stapf

Tag sale planned

The Kiwanis Club of New Scotland will hold a tag sale this Saturday, June 6, from 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m., at Voorheesville Elementary School. The sale will feature "something for everyone."

Proceeds will support community projects sponsored by the men's service organization, including grasshopper baseball and softball, pee wee wrestling, youth soccer, the summer band program, holiday food baskets the needy and monthly blood pressure clinics.

Members of the community may donate items for the sale by calling Jim Coffin, chairman, at 765-4556.

Blood pressure clinic

Another of the free blood pressure clinics sponsored by the Kiwanis Club will be held on Tuesday, June 9, from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. until 9 p.m., at the First United Methodist Church of Voorheesville. All are welcome.

According to Paul Klevanosky and Andy Barothy-Langer, chairmen of the event, volunteers are always welcome to assist in taking blood pressure readings. Any nurse or EMT may call Klevanosky at 765-3609 or Barothy-Langer at 765-2793 for information.

Band program begins

Still on the topic of Kiwanis-sponsored activities, young musicians in the Town of New Scotland interested in signing up for the free summer band program may pick up forms at the grade school or the high school.

The program will be directed by Leonard and Lydia Tobler. Sessions will meet on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, from July 7 through July 30. The regular band rehearsals, open to all students, will be held daily from 9:30 a.m. until 10:15 a.m. The jazz band, open to more advanced players, will rehearse from 10:15 a.m. until 11 a.m. each day. Group and individual lessons, as well as ensemble work, will be offered.

For information call Lydia Tobler at 765-3314 or 765-2382.

Monte Carlo invitation

The Voorheesville Fire Department will sponsor a Monte Carlo night on Saturday, June 8, from 8 p.m. until midnight, at the firehouse on School Rd. All area residents 18 and older are invited. Admission is $1.

Beach towel sale

Summer weather has arrived. Folks young and old are taking to the beaches and swimming pools. Voorheesville PTSA members are working to spread community spirit this summer by selling gold beach towels emblazoned with a new Voorheesville logo. The towels were designed and screen printed by area artist Connie Burns.

The towels will be sold for $12 on Saturday, June 6, from 10 a.m. until 11 a.m., at Stewart's and the Voorheesville Pharmacy.

Those who miss the weekend sale may call Joanne St. Denis at 765-4748 of Aileen Lukomski at 765-2406 to place orders.

Garden club social

The Helderview Garden Club will hold a June social at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 11, in the main hall of the First United Methodist Church of Voorheesville. A covered dish dinner will begin at 7 p.m.

The group has extended their appreciation to all who supported their recent sale. Proceeds will be used to maintain the village flower boxes and the triangle at the intersection of Rts. 155 and 85A.

The garden club has also announced the election of the following officers for the 1987-88 season: Evelyn Berger, president; Madelyn Scherer and Rachel Harvey, first vice presidents; Mary Beth Portanova, second vice president; Anne Kodra, third vice president; Marian Parmenter, secretary, and Andrea Person, treasurer.

Date changed

The New Scotland Senior Citizens have changed the date of the group's Hyde Park visit to June 15, according to Lois Crounse, president. For reservations call Crounse at 765-2109.

Young travelers explore

Younger members of the community are also taking to the road.

This week, Voorheesville's sixth graders will get to see the wild life at the Bronx Zoo in New York City. Last week, the seventh grade students visited the Constitution, the Science Museum, the New England Aquarium and Quincy Market in Boston.

Young athletes honored

Several elementary school teams were recently honored for their achievements in playing school in newcomb and set-up newcomb, games which prepare students to play volleyball.

According to physical education teacher Fern Horn, the following teams turned in the best records: grade 4, team 5, Nicole LaMora, captain, Amanda Terhune, Jimmy Adams, Jonathan Getnick and Scott Basil; grade 5, team 7, Kara Relyea, captain, Katie Griffin, Paula Schultz, Mike McDermott, Jerry Parmenter and John Schapp, and grade 6, team 8, Amy Terhune, captain, Marcia Gaudio, Mike Welker, Billy Gray and Kevin Welker.

Last PTSA meeting

The Voorheesville PTSA will hold its final meeting of the school year on Tuesday, June 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the elementary school. New officers will be installed at that time. All are welcome to attend.

Evening stroll

A "Walk When the Moon is Full" will be held at Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, Game Farm Rd., Delmar, on Friday, June 12, at 8 p.m.

Toy contest planned

Entries are now being prepared for a stuffed toy contest, sponsored by the Bethlehem Grange in conjunction with the National Grange. The contest is open to members and non-members.

Entries will be judged according to age class. Ribbons and savings bonds will be awarded. The toys are given to children in Ronald McDonald Homes and children's hospitals throughout the state. In an attempt to brighten the lives of even more of these seriously ill children, the Bethlehem Grange would like your assistance.

The contest is divided into three age groups: Class A-5 to 14, Class B-15 to 21, and Class C-22 years and over. Each person may enter as many times as desired.

The toy must not exceed 24" x 24" in size, and Fiber King, Country Fair or Poly-Fil brand polyester fiber fill must be used to stuff the toy. An original or commercial pattern or instructions can be used. The toys may be made of fabric, knitted or crochetted. Sharp edges, protrusions or small buttons should be avoided.

Entries must be submitted in August. For information call Helen Raynor at 767-2770.

DAR family picnics

The Hannakrois NSDAR Chapter will hold their family picnic on Monday, June 8, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Henry Hudson Town Park off Winnie Rd., Cedar Hill in Selkirk. Mrs. Charles E. Alford, geneology chairman for the Bethlehem Historical Association, will demonstrate the "Art of Gravestone Rubbing." A short business meeting will follow. In the event of rain, the picnic will be held at the home of Mary E. VanOostenbrugge in Cedar Hill.

Fun day ahead

On Saturday, June 6, the youth of the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem, under the leadership of Youth Advisor, Donna Nelson, will join other area youth organizations in family fun day at the Altamont Fair Grounds. Planned by Capital District Youth for Christ, a division of Campus Life, the fun will begin at 10 a.m. and continue until 7 p.m. with arts and crafts booths, baked goods sales, cartoon videos, music ministries, the Crazy Christian Clowns, pony rides, a chicken barbeque and an auction.

Donations of new or used items for the auction and baked goods may be made by calling Donna Nelson at 767-9137.

Strawberry dinner plans

On Saturday, June 6, the Bethlehem Grange will serve a baked ham and strawberry short cake dinner at the grange hall, Rt. 396, Beckers Corners, Selkirk, with servings from 4 to 7 p.m.

All are welcome.

Meetings move outdoors

Starting with this month's meeting, the Sunshine Senior Citizens will hold as many of their regular meetings as the weather will permit at the Henry Hudson Town Park, on Winnie Rd. in Selkirk. The next meeting is scheduled for Monday, June 8, beginning at noon with a pot luck picnic at the park. All seniors of the Selkirk-South Bethlehem area are invited.

Please bring a dish to share and your own place setting. A brief business meeting will follow. If the weather is unfavorable, the meeting will take place at the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem, Rt. 9W, Selkirk.

Garage sale plans

The Faith Evangelical Church will hold its annual garage sale on Saturday, June 13, rather than June 7 as reported last week. The event is scheduled for 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Glenmont Reformed Church, 1 Chapel Lane in Glenmont, next to the Town Squire Shopping Center. The sale will feature a bake sale, snack bar, white elephant items, household items, furniture and books. Profits will be matched by the Lutheran Brotherhood Branch No. 8036, and be contributed to the mission fund.

Anyone who would like to make contributions to the sale may leave them at the church the week of June 7, (please, no adult clothing or shoes). Further information may be obtained by contacting Marie Privler.

Paul Curley wins Regents scholarship

Paul Curley of Selkirk is the winner of a Chancellor Joseph W. McGoven Scholarship awarded by the state Regents to children of state employees.

Curley, the 1987 valedictorian at Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk High School, received one of the annual $500 awards. He is the son of John R. Curley of Selkirk, an associate in school financial aid in the Bureau of Federally-Aided Programs.

The scholarship was established by former Chancellor McGovern to honor the son or daughter of a department employees who is by character, achievement and financial need a worthy recipient.

Tour historic homes

A tour of historic home in Prattsville, sponsored by the Greene County Historical Society and the Pratt Museum, will be held on Saturday, June 6, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. The tour will begin from the Pratt Museum, Rt. 23, Prattsville. Tickets will be sold for $7.50. For information call 943-3900.

Deer in 2 accidents

Bethlehem Police reported two car-deer collisions this week.

On Delaware Ave. near Euclid Ave., an Albany man reported a deer came into the road at about 3 a.m. Sunday. The car struck the deer, which was killed, police said.

At 11:55 p.m. Wednesday, a Delmar man was heading northwest on Hudson Ave. near Delaware Ave. when a deer ran into the road and hit the driver's side of the car, police said.

Annette "Cookie" Eck

Named mother of year

Annette "Cookie" Eck of Slingerlands was recently named Mother of the Year by the Bethlehem Lodge of Elks no. 2233. She is the mother of four children with her husband, Walter.

Mrs. Eck was selected for her outstanding family life, her service to the Slingerlands Fire Department and at her place of employment, Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

She was awarded a plaque at a recent dinner in her honor.

Keenans on stage

Jennifer Keenan of South Bethlehem has been cast for the Mac-Haydn Summer Children's Theater. The company will present musical adaptations of The Ranson of Red Chief, Pinocchio, Puss and Boots and Snow White.

Jennifer's mother, Kathy Keenan, is currently rehearing the part of Miss Prism in Oscar Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest. The comedy will be presented by the Sarah B. Players at St. Joseph's Hall, Madison Ave., Albany, at 8 p.m. on June 18, 19, 25, 26 and 27.

Honored from the Glenmont and Selkirk area were Isabel Aviles, Doreen Bethea, Helen R. Bloom, Trudell M. Brown, David Carbonell, Kell s J. Chatam, Dean I. Delancey, Famela Dunlap, Karen Graham, Barbara Harris, Kathleen Humphrey, Letitia M. Jenkinsm, Jennifer Louchie, Craig Lovejoy, Rebecca Mallard, Tina McDonald, Beverly McRae, Charles McTernan, Jennifer J. Mitchell, Jocklyn Peters, Elvetia L. Smith, Jeanna Strauss, 100 hour certificate; Alex B. Bloom, 500 hour certificate; Henry Guetti, 500 hour certificate.

BC students are digging history

Students from grade school in the Bethlehem Central School District conducted an archaeological dig in Slingerlands recently. Students worked with Ila Gross, director of the Learning Through an Expanded Arts Program.

The dig was to provide an extension of the fourth grade curriculum on local history and was conducted at the site were an eighteenth century barn once stood.

Bethlehem Central teachers Judy Kimes from Clarksville School, Evonne Lutkus and Arlene Solnick from Slingerlands School learned hands-on archaeological techniques last summer by participating in a program offered by the Capital Region Center Institute for Arts in Education.

In preparing for the dig, students took field trips to Cherry Hill and Fort Orange, visited with an archaeologist and learned about dig research on the area.

Student hosts sought

Interstudy, an international student travel organization, needs host families for students from Spain who will be in the area in July and August. The students range in age from 13 to 18 and have insurance and money for expenses. The host family will provide room and board for the students and share their family life.

For information call 783-7657.

Quilters host show

Quilters United In Learning Together (QUILT) will host a brunch and fashion show at the First United Methodist Church, 428 Kenwood Ave., Delmar, on June 12 at 10 a.m.

Anna Georgiopoulos

Progress Club awards scholarship to BC senior

Anna Marie Georgiopolus, a Bethlehem Central High School senior, has received a scholarship from the Delmar Progress Club.

The $500 award is presented annually at the Club's spring banquet to an outstanding Bethlehem Central senior based on school and community activities. Georgiopolus is a pianist, jazz dancer and National Merit finalist. She will be attending Yale University this fall.

Bethlehem Central offers music program

Bethlehem Central School District is again offering a summer music instrumental program for students presently in grades 4 through 8. The program will consist of two three-week sessions offered June 29 to July 17 and July 27 to August 14. Instruction will be on all brass, woodwind, percussion and string instruments; however, the string program will be held during the first session only.

Each week students will receive one class lesson and one small ensemble rehearsal, each lasting for 40 minutes and taught by Bethlehem Central music faculty members. Sessions will be scheduled between 8 and 11:45 a.m. at the middle school, 332 Kenwood Ave., Delmar. Students must provide their own transportation. A student may elect to participate in the entire program or any portion.

Registration forms may be obtained at school from the child's current instrumental teacher. There is a registration fee of $3. Questions may be directed to the district's music office 439-4921, ext. 313, during the school day.

Flowers in form

A flower show of "Woven Forms," sponsored by the Guilderland Garden Club, will be held at the Lynnwood Reformed Church, Rt. 146, Guilderland, on Friday, June 5, from 3 until 8 p.m. All are welcome to attend the free event. For information call 355-2254.

Class to reunite

The Bethlehem Central High School, Class of 1942, will hold a 45th reunion on Saturday, June 13, at the Nathaniel Adams Blanchard American Legion Post, Poplar Dr., Delmar. For reservations call Barbara (Saulsbury) Whitney at 439-1057, evenings.

Symphony aid continues

Merrill Lynch recently announced it would renew its sponsorship of the Albany Symphony Orchestra. The sponsorship will cover three seasons through 1989-90 and be called the Merrill Lynch Palace Classics supporting performances in Albany's Palace Theater.

The corporate sponsorship program was started five years ago by the company. There are more than 60 performing arts organizations throughout the county with the Merrill Lynch series.

Owens-Corning starts second production line

Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation has completed its planned expansion of the Delmar plant and started operating its second line earlier this week.

Approximately 80 new employees have been hired at the entry level, according to plant manager David Shannon. He said he expects to hire about 20 more people and some additional summer help. These staff additions have brought the number of employees at the plant to 400, said Shannon, "the highest level in our 11 years here."

All of the new employees were referred to the company through the New York State Job Service and will earn an hourly wage of $10.50 to $11.00 an hour as product selectors, said Shannon. This will add about $2.5 million to the current $3 million local payroll.

The expansion cost Owens-Corning approximately $4 million to complete and had been planned by the company for over a year. Shannon cited strong housing starts in the northeast as the company's reason for wanting additional capacity in Delmar.

Shannon said there were two obstacles in the way of the Delmar expansion — high electric rates and the high cost of sanitary waste disposal. These problems were solved by "various agencies through the system," such as the Power Authority of the State of New York and Niagara Mohawk, as well as local government, according to Shannon.

No further expansion is planned for the Delmar plant, but "if it works out, I see additional improvements to the facility," Shannon said.

Stitchery shop opens

By Sal Prividera

There is a new business open in the Town Squire shopping center — Stitchery Plus. Owner Judy Tucker of Ravena is trying to live up to the plus in her store's name.

The store carries an array of craft supplies, country gifts, fabric patterns and notions for home projects. The store has cross stitch kits and books as well as Aida cloth, embroidery floss. Tucker hopes to add DMC floss; floss is the threads used for embroidery.

Stitchery Plus also has quilting supplies, country tin and wire, oil lamps, as well as sewing supplies. The store's fabric patterns are by McCall's.

Tucker said she wants "to try to get new things that you don't see in other stores" to offer her customers. She said that she will special order items for her customers; a service she feels large stores cannot offer.

The mother of four children and wife of Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk business teacher Thomas Tucker, Judy Tucker started in business with a little gift shop operated at her home. She thought the new store was a "perfect thing to do" and has been reassured by the early response.

Stitchery Plus is open Monday though Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Roberts associates corner the market

Roberts Real Estate's sales associates garnered more than one-third of the Annual Million Dollar Club Awards presented recently by the Albany Board of Realtors.

The awards are for industry excellence measured by sales volume and are broken down into five categories. Roberts claimed 35 percent of the one million dollar club, 36 percent of the two million, 29 percent of the three million, 57 percent of the four million, and 67 percent of the five million.

Roberts Real Estate is comprised of more than 300 sales associates, and has a branch office in Delmar.

Joanne H. Van Woert

Earns medical degree

Joanne H. Van Woert of Delmar has received her Doctor of Medicine degree from Albany Medical College. She is the third generation of her family to graduate from the college, following her father, Dr. Irving Van Woert Jr. and her grandfather, Dr. Irving Van Woert Sr. She received the Halsted Award for Nutrition and has started her residency in Internal Medicine at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

Elizabeth Moore named to head state office

Gov. Mario Cuomo recently announced his intention to designate Elizabeth D. Moore of Slingerlands to become director of the Governor's Office of Employee Relations.

Moore is currently the first assistant counsel to the governor. In the post she has held since 1983, she assists in the supervision of the governor's legal staff and management of the administrations legislative program.

"Liz Moore epitomizes the degree of professionalism within the executive chamber of which all New Yorkers can be proud," said Cuomo. Moore is a graduate of the State School of Industrial and Labor Relations, Cornell University and St. John's School of Law.

Moore's appointment to the $87,578 a year director's post is not subject to confirmation. She would become the first woman to head GOER since the office was created in 1969.

On Academy honors

Charles Mason of Slingerlands has been named to the honor roll at Albany Academy.

AARP honors 2 for student service

Colquhoun, a senior, has served as a volunteer for the disabled and an assistant at a summer camp for retarded children. He is captain of the track team.

Zollezzi, a senior, is a member of the National Honor Society and a member of SADD, and has worked with the disabled and served as a Girl Scout leader.

Progress Club, BCHS student winners

Members of the Delmar Progress Club competed at the General Federation of Women's Club third district arts and crafts and sewing competition last month. Several Progress Club members and Bethlehem Central High School Students received special recognition at the competition.

In the club women category, Edna McCoy placed first in acrylic painting, Gladys Amos first in tole stenciling and Ann Buehler first place in decoupage. Second place recognition went to Doris Fry in oil painting and Helen Schoenthal in sewing.

The were several winners in the student category. J. Amy Seegal placed first in collage/decoupage competition. First place recognition also went to Vennessa Mallman in stain glass and David Frank in pen and ink sketch. Matt Collins and A.J. Johnson received second place honors in mixed media and water color respectively. Jane Cunningham placed third in water color and Tara Murphy in the pen and ink category.

Knapp honored

Wendy Knapp, a 1984 graduate of Clayton A. Bouton High School, was honored for excellence in chemistry by the Society for Analytical Chemists of Pittsburgh. The award is given to a junior or senior who has excelled in chemistry.

Knapp, a junior majoring in chemistry at Chatham College in Pittsburgh, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Knapp of Voorheesville.

John G. Forti

Receives another degree

John G. Forti of Delmar has received a Master of Business Administration Degree from Babson College. Forti is an engineer at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Albany and is a member of the Capital District Society of Hospital Engineers. He is a registered professional engineer.

Forti also holds degrees from Tufts University and Northeastern University. He and his wife, Dianne, have six children.

HIGH PERFORMANCE

Carey, Ross on way to states

Spotlight SPORTS

Track

Once again, Anne Carey and Kelly Ross of Bethlehem have qualified for the New York State Intersectional Track and Field Championships, known as the state meet.

Carey, a senior and co-captain of the girl's team, won last Tuesday's pentathlon qualifier at Johnstown with 3,022 points, outdoing her nearest competitor by 115 points and breaking her sister Evelyn's school record in the process. She ran the 100 hurdles in 15.5, high jumped 1.42 meters, long jumped 4.40 meters, threw the shot 9.23 meters, and cranked through the 800, perhaps her best event, in 2:19.6.

Though most of those marks would stand up well individually, her coach, Ron Cameron, still sees a chance for improvement at next weekend's state meet in Baldwinsville, a suburb of Syracuse. He says that the lanky Carey, who hardly fits the mold of a shot putter, can add points in that event with some more practice.

"We worked on that last week, and she improved two feet by the time we were done," said Carmeron. "Also, if she could work on her high jumping, and pace herself more in the 800, she could do very well at the states," Cameron added.

Ross, also a team co-captain and no stranger to state-caliber competition herself, will participate in her specialty, the high jump. The junior cleared 5 foot 4 inches and won Saturday's qualifying meet for all other events, also at Johnstown.

Brendan Mitchell, a BC junior, ran his best open 800 of 2:03.8 on Saturday, but failed to qualify. He blazed through the first 400 in 58.5, the 600 in 1:30.5, and finished up with whatever he had left. Sophomore Bob Dillon triple jumped 39 foot 8 inches, but did not make the finals.

This marks the end of the season for everyone but Carey and Ross, and Cameron says that despite some unfortunate injuries, it was a good one for the whole team. He cites the Niskayuna Co-Ed meet as one where he felt that everyone performed well.

Race scheduled

A Bagel Run, sponsored by the Albany Jewish Community Center, 340 Whitehall Rd., Albany, will be held on Saturday, June 7. The 5 and 10-kilometer runs will begin at 8:30 a.m. Both races are open to men and women 17 and older. A one-mile race for people 13 and younger will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Troy stops BC softball

The Bethlehem Central High School Varsity Softball team ended its season with a 9-6 record in the Suburban Council finishing third in the Gold division behind Guilderland and Burnt Hills. The team ranked 4th overall in the council.

The team lost to number one seed Troy High May 20 in the Big Ten semifinals first round 6-3 in what Coach Kelly Keller called "the best game I've seen played all year."

Troy went up 5-0 in the fourth, but BC battled back with two runs in the sixth on a double by Amy Koski and a single by Julie Francis. Troy got another run in the sixth, and the Lady Eagles made another threat in the seventh with singles by Wendy Vogel, Lisa Rivenburgh and Koski, but could score only one run. BC also had two double plays.

In general, Keller said, the season was characterized by excellent defense, particularly by seniors Vogel and Brooks.

The team's end of the season banquet will be held June 9, at 6:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn, Albany.

Eagles make finals, end season at 18-6

By John Bellizzi III

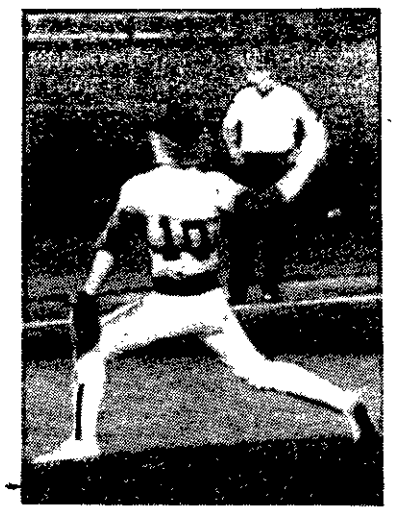
The stands were packed Saturday evening at Heritage Park to see the Bethlehem Central varsity baseball team compete with the Christian Brothers Academy team in the Section II finals. Although they lost the game, the Eagles have the distinction of coming in second in the tournament after defeating several tough area teams in their best finish in recent memory. The team's final overall record was 18 victories and 6 losses, not bad for a team that didn't even have a winning record last year.

Bethlehem Central's varsity making it to the baseball Sectionals is a rare event. Bethlehem Central's varsity capturing first place in the Suburban Council Gold Division is even rarer. Having a varsity, JV and frosh team as Gold Division champs in the same season is an achievement very few schools could match. Once the varsity Eagles made it to the Class A Sectionals, they won quarterfinal and semifinal games against stiff competition to make it to the finals against CBA at Heritage.

The first victory came last Tuesday over Amsterdam 14-10, breaking the Rams' nine-game winning streak. Mike Hodge and Doug Pratt were on the mound for Bethlehem, living up to the strong reputations that they set for themselves. Pratt was also strong at the plate, with a grand slam, two doubles and a single. A 9-9 tie carried the game into extra innings. In the top of the ninth, an Amsterdam home run broke the tie, but BC tied it up again when Pratt scored on a suicide squeeze bunt laid down by Hodge. In the bottom of the 10th Josh Weinstein hit a grand slam to secure BC's victory and berth in the semifinals.

The semifinal game was played against Catholic Central last Thursday, and the Eagles routed the opposition 10-1. Paul Evangelista was on the mound for BC, striking out six and giving up only one base on balls. Jeff Boyd drove in a total of five runs with a single and double, and Bill McFerran had six RBIs with two singles and a double. The team had now made its way to the finals at Heritage against CBA.

Saturday's 10-1 victory over the Eagles gave the Brothers their third consecutive Sectional title. CBA's strong pitching held the Eagles to five hits, one each from Ed Perry, McFerran, Hodge, Weinstein and Pratt. CBA had 10 hits, and Bethlehem's five errors helped the Brothers to their victory, which included a seven-run second inning. Although the end came rather quickly and unexpectedly, this strong season will go down in the record books as one of Bethlehem Central's best baseball outings in recent history.



Bethlehem Central's Mike Hodge makes a pitch to Christian Brothers Academy Saturday night at Heritage Park. BC lost the Section II title to CBA 10-1. Tom Knight photos

Fans of the Bethlehem Cental boys' varsity baseball team come out to cheer them on in Saturday night's game at Heritage Park.

Connie Mack season begins

By Sal Prividera

The Bethlehem Connie Mack team will be starting its busy 1987 season this week under manager Randy Gambelunghe. This year's team will play 32 games and participate in a tournament in Baltimore, Md., under the watchful eye of major league scouts and college coaches.

The tournament will be a showcase of talent played round robin style with out determining a winner said Gambelunghe. He said he sees the tournament as one of the highlights of the season.

Gambelunghe started the area's Connie Mack team last year to provide organized baseball for older boys. Last year's team was made up of 16-year-old players who held their own against 17 and 18-year-olds. The 12-team Connie Mack league is designed for 17 and 18-year-old boys.

This year's team is "basically the Bethlehem Central High team," which went all the way to Sectional finals last week, said Gambelunghe. The team will be playing six of its home games at Heritage Park in Colonie this season and the remainder of its home games at Bethlehem Central High School. Admission for all games, including Heritage Park, will be free.

To help cover the team's expenses, which include use fees for Heritage Park, umpires, insurance, the Baltimore tournament and equipment, Gambelunge is seeking sponsorship from area business and organizations.

The Bethlehem Connie Mack team will start its season on the road Thursday, June 4, at Twin Town. The first home game will be at Heritage Park Tuesday, June 9.

GE trips Spotlight, jams penant race

By John Bellizzi III

Last week's Little League schedule was an abbrieviated one, due to Monday's observance of Memorial Day, but it was long enough for GE to break Spotlight's six-game winning streak and hand the team its first loss this season.

With a second loss during the week, Spotlight's 6-2 record is still good enough to keep it in first place, but it is holding on to the spot by only a half-game, with Main-Care and Price-Greenleaf tied for second at 5-2. Starwood Fund Raising increased its record to 4-3 on Saturday, General Electric won one and lost one last week, putting it at 2-6, and Professional Kitchen Design dropped two more, bringing its record to 1-7.

Spotlight's first defeat last week came at the hands of a team that started off the season with a five-game losing streak — General Electric. The enthusiasm of the previous week's first victory over Professional Kitchen Designs carried over into Thursday night's contest, a close one with a 2-1 final score. Both teams scored in the first inning, leaving the score tied at 1-1 until the winning run crossed the plate in the fourth. The lead off batters for both teams scored their first time up to create the initial tie. In the top of the first, Mike Futia of Spotlight led off with a single. Sam Stasko drew a base on balls as GE's first batter. Both would be batted in before their team was retired.

The winning run was an unearned one, as Jim Gavin came home while Spotlight pitcher John Schaller was returning to the mound with the ball. Mike Pellettier and Schaller split pitching duties for Spotlight, while Jon Pesnel was on the mound all night for GE. In addition to Futia, Schaller, Dave Miles, Mike Pellettier and Joe Morrell all had base hits for Spotlight. Stasko, Pesnel, Josh Norek and Gavin were all good for hits on the winning team.

Main-Care was the second team to outlast Spotlight in a close game last week. The final score of Saturdays game was 1-0. Josh Lanni shut out his opponents while giving up only one base hit, a single by Schaller. Darren Studler, Jon Scholes and Joe Morrell all reached base safely on errors. Lanni struck out seven batters, and gave up three walks. Pellettier and Dave Miles combined for a four-hitter, striking out ten. Mike Gambelunghe and Nick Dubroff doubled, and Lanni helped his cause with a single and double. Lanni also scored his team's only run.

General Electric was defeated by Price-Greenleaf on Saturday 13-2. Scott Hasselbarth started pitching for Greenleaf, and was relieved by Mike Aylward. GE's lineup was hurt by a number of absences, but they were able to field nine players. Marc Mannella was on the mound for GE for most of the game, but Gavin came out of the catcher's box for relief late in the game. Greenleaf's players had a number of base hits to their credit, including a two-run homer by Bill Clark, doubles by Tim Doody and Mike Aylward, and singles by Brian Garver, Brian Mullan, Alan Flynn, Mike O'Donnell and Clark. General Electric's offense was severly restricted by Greenleaf's pitching and defense. Mannella and Gavin scored the team's two runs after being awarded bases on balls.

Price-Greenleaf also handed Professional Kitchen Design a defeat last week, 5-2. Ben Comtois was the strong point of Professional Kitchen's offense, with a single and double. Hasselbarth doubled for Greenleaf, and Garver, Aylward and Spencer Kirkman all singled.

Professional Kitchen met another defeat, their seventh, last Saturday in a 5-4 ballgame against Starwood Fund Raising. Josh Formica and Chris Macaluso worked as a pitcher-catcher team. Six Professional Kitchen's batters went down on strikes, five were walked and four had base hits. Comtois threw a two-hitter, retiring six. Duncan McKaskill, Gary VanWormer and Jamie Castiglione were all good for base hits in Starwood's favor. Mike Carpenter, Andy Black, Gregg Biche and Mike Fabe did the same for Kitchens.

5-0 Davies Office Refurbishing, number one team of the Intermediate league, tied Peter J. Verardi Electrical Contracting 7-7 on Saturday to give them a 5 1/2-1/2 record. Verardi is 4 1/2-1 1/2. Mike Soronen and Nathan Kosoc were on the mound for Verardi, combining to strike out 14. Brad Mattox and Matt Winterhoff retired 12 of Verardi's batters.

Hoogy's Village Corner defeated Roberts Real Estate 11-6 to break a two-game losing streak.

This Saturday, Verardi plays Hoogy's for the second time this season. Also next weekend, Davies faces Farm Family, Keystone faces Handy Andy, and Stewart's plays Roberts.

Chris Saba in the finals at Johnson City.

Saba wins state wrestling title

Chris Saba, a junior at Bethlehem Central High School, won the New York State Greco-Roman Wrestling Tournament Sunday in Johnson City, N.Y., last weekend.

In a competitive field of 15 wrestlers at the 132-pound weight class, Saba wrestled seven times and won first place undefeated.

The victory qualified Saba to be part of the New York State Junior Olympic Team that will compete in the National Junior Olympic Championships on July 12 to 18 in Cedar Fall, Iowa.

Babe Ruth to have two divisions this year

By John Bellizzi III

Bethlehem Babe Ruth is in a state of transition this week, moving from a "pre-season" schedule of five teams made up of 13, 14 and 15 year olds not involved in high school baseball into the regular season, which begins next Saturday.

There will be two divisions in Bethlehem's Babe Ruth League this year. The Gold Division will consist of four teams, sponsored by Davies Office Refurbishing, Owens-Corning, National Savings Bank and General Electric, which will have players from the Bethlehem Central High School baseball teams, as well as selected players from the pre-season league. The remaining players in the pre-season league will be distributed among the three teams of the Blue Division: Hotaling's Market, Starwood and Ted Danz Heating and Air Conditioning. The two-division system was set up "to avoid cuts and give a chance to all kids regardless of age and experience," according to Bethlehem Babe Ruth president Jim Dillon.

The month of pre-season games was initiated this year "in order to give kids not playing high school ball somewhere to play in May," Dillon said. A statewide policy prohibits players from competing on an out-of-school team if they are already playing interscholastic athletics, so the varsity, JV and freshman players could not play Babe Ruth until the high school season ended last week.

The pre-season schedule concluded last weekend with an exciting contest on Saturday that decided the champion of the short season. Davies Office Refurbishing, one of the five pre-season teams, managed by Tom Curran and coached by Matt Shortell, defeated Hotaling's Market 2-1 with an unearned winning run to clinch the title. Matt Shortell pitched a one-hitter for Davies, giving up a single by losing pitcher David Lorette. Kevin Curran and John Rice were good for two singles for Davies, Jody Quinlan had an RBI double, and Andre Cadieux singles. Cadieux scored both of Davies' runs, coming in on Quinlan's double and advancing to home from third on a first base pickoff attempt.

"Andre's baserunning was heads-up all the way," commented Coach Curran. Hotaling's sole run came in on a squeeze bunt laid down by Scott Thornton.

Davies ended the pre-season in first place with a 6-2 record. Hotaling's had second with a 5-2-1 record, General Electric third at 4-4, and Owens-Corning fourth at 3-5. National Savings Bank placed last with a 1-6-1 record.

The Blue and Gold divisions will begin play this Saturday at the Bethlehem Central Middle School, with games at 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

THE HOME TEAM

By Tom Kuck
Broker Manager

Traditional wisdom says that first you sell your old house and then you buy the new one. It makes some sense, especially if the equity in your old house is your only source of funds for the new one. But there is an alternative: the bridge loan, which bridges the gap between cash on hand and that needed for down payment and closing costs.

Such borrowing may be a good idea when a buying opportunity—special value or special price—presents itself before you can sell your old home. It's particularly valuable when a transferee must move before a home can be sold in the old location. A bridge or equity loan is usually limited to 75 percent of the home s value.

The best deal in a bridge loan usually comes from those lenders who offer the service as an accommodation for their mortgage customers, rather than as a profit center in itself.

Tamarac ends Birds season

By Rick Leach

After having such an outstanding and somewhat surprising regular season, the Voorheesville Blackbird tennis team went into the class C Sectionals with very high hopes. The second-seeded Birds had to be a little disappointed with the outcome of their semi-final match, a heartbreaking 4-3 loss to a highly regarded Taconic Hills group.

The Birds knew they were in trouble right from the start when number one player Chris Stevens lost a tough three set thriller. After taking the first set 6-2, Stevens dropped the last two sets by 6-4 scores. Tamarac then won in straight sets at numbers two and three to take a 3-0 lead.

The Blackbirds stormed back to win at four and five and then at first doubles, and everything was even. Ken Andriano won in straight sets, 6-4, 7-5 at four, and Dave Larabee survived to win the last two sets of his match, 6-4, 6-0, after dropping the first set 7-5. Dave Mistretta and Tom Kurkjian were the winners at first doubles by a 6-2, 6-4 score to even everything up. However, it just wasn't in the cards for the Birds as Stevens and Steve Smith dropped the second doubles match in straight sets to end the squad's season.

The Blackbirds had another match the Tuesday before the Sectionals against Cobleskill. It was the group's first shoutout of the year, 7-0. Stevens, Mistretta, Kurkjian, Andriano and Smith all won at singles. John Martin and Dan McKenna won at first doubles, 8-7, and a pair of junior high players, Dave Lancor and Matt Hladun won by the same score at second doubles.

Although the season is over for the team as a whole, there are individual sectionals scheduled for Monday at the State University at Albany. Playing for the Birds at singles was Chris Stevens, with Dave Mistretta and Tom Kurkjian as one doubles team and Smith, Larabee and Andriano as the other.

The pack of 72 runners head out for the 15 kilometer race Saturday in Voorheesville. Lyn Stapf

Heat slows Voorheesville run

The heat was the big winner in the annual Memorial Day race held this past Saturday in Voorheesville. Although the 90 plus weather didn't keep dedicated runners away from the Adirondack TAC-sanctioned race, the heat did at least seem to slow the grueling 15-kilometer event.

According to race coordinator Herb Reilly, the 72 runners in the 15-kilometer race and the 77 who turned out for the 3.2-kilometer event about equaled the number in last year's field. But, the winning time of 55.31 on the 15-kilometer race lagged over 2 minutes behind last years top time of 53.01.

"The heat was obviously a factor," said Reilly, who along with the other runners found the conditions brutal. Residents who turned on their lawn hoses on Rt. 85A, along the final leg of the race, and members of the Voorheesville Area Ambulance Squad, who were waiting at the finish line with buckets of water and hoses, were welcome sights to the runners.

Vincent O'Brien of Troy won the 15-kilometer event. Doug Arthur, who won fifth place honors, was the first Voorheesville resident to finish. Arthur was followed by seventh place Voorheesville runner Mike Lancor.

The only Voorheesville resident to place first in the divisions was Herb Reilly, who won the top spot in the men's 50 to 59 division. Copping honors as the oldest veteran to finish was Bill Schader Sr. of Middleburgh.

Ironically, the lead time of 10 minutes 20 seconds in the 3.2-kilometer race was 20 seconds faster than last years time; but, considering the winner was Voorheesville's own Colonial Council two-mile champion John Decatur, the difference was understandable.

Voorheesville residents won many division honors in the 3.2-kilometer race.

Decatur's first place in the high school division was followed by six other runners from Clayton Bouton Junior-Senior High School. Other Voorheesville residents who placed first in their divisions were: Bob Stapf, junior high boys; Dorinda Gifford, junior high girls; Jennifer Person, elementary school girls; Scot Moro, men's open; Ann Michalek, women's 30-39 years, and Laurel Sutliff, women 18 to 29 years.

Voorheesville's Kim Sullivan took top honors in the high school girls division, while her mother, Georgia Gray, came in first in the women's 40 and over division.

Burtis upset in finals at Schenectady tourney

Linda Burtis of Delmar was the upset loser in the finals of the Capital District OTB Womens 35 and over tennis tournament last weekend at Tri-City Racquet Club.

Burtis lost to Peggy Gluck of Muttontown, 6-4, 7-6, after being ahead in the first set and in the second-set tie-breaker.

"The story of the match was that I played better to get ahead than I did when I got ahead; and she played very well," Burtis said after the match.

Burial was in Westerlo Cemetery. Arrangements were by the Brunk-Meyers Funeral Home of Voorheesville.

Feura Bush park to open June 13

The new town park in Feura Bush will open on Saturday, June 13, at 2 p.m. After New Scotland Supervisor Steve Wallace cuts the ribbon, Pastor Dave Mulholland will give the invocation.

Entertainment will be provided by Bob and Elaine Jenkins, Marty Zazloga and Mimi the Clown. Jim Lyons will begin calling square dancing and western dancing at 2:30 p.m. A softball game will begin at 3 p.m. Tractor and wagon rides will be offered to children.

The new park is located off Mathais Place in Feura Bush.

Caring about young people

Editor, The Spotlight:

On May 21, my family and I attended a dinner in honor of students who were selected as Student of the Month during the school year. This dinner was hosted by the Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks on Rt. 144 in Selkirk.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Elks for several things. First of all, the meal was delicious and the hospitality superb. But most of all, I say, "thanks so much for caring about young people."

There were teenagers there from Bethlehem High and Ravena-Coeymans who were selected for their contributions to the community and school. What a great feeling to be in a room with so many delightful, caring and hard working teenagers. The Elks honor these students with a dinner for them and their families, along with awarding each with a certificate and a monetary gift. A final selection is made for a Student of the Year award with a special ceremony on June 14.

Again, my thanks to the Elks, not only for our son, but for all the teenagers they have given such a special honor to.

Learning key issue

Editor, The Spotlight:

I feel a dire need to respond to the concern voiced by parents about the transfer of kindergarteners to Glenmont school next year. What's your "beef?"

Your "beef" can't be that this is a new solution to overcrowding in the district. Glenmont kindergarteners attended three different elementary schools between 1983 and 1986 (and even before that when overcrowding occurred).

Your "beef" can't be the distance your kindergarteners will have to travel. The areas the children will be coming from is almost an equal distance from both schools.

Your "beef" can't be that you aren't being given enough time to have your children adjust. When my son was notified that he would attend Hammagrael for kindergarten it was with a few weeks notice. You've being given three and a half months notice.

Your "beef" can't be the quality of the staff. The teachers are hired by a panel representing the entire district. The kindergarten teachers at Glenmont bring experience, a great deal of knowledge and a lot of heart to their classrooms.

So, again I ask, "what's your beef?"

Perhaps, one very good benefit of this situation will be the understanding by more of the people of the district that overcrowding is not a Glenmont problem. It is a district-wide problem that needs to be solved by all of the district working together.

It isn't anyone's fault that our schools are overcrowded. A lot of us moved here because of the excellent schools too. Instead of complaining, arguing and protesting, let's help. If you have any information or ideas that will help, call one of the members of the Board of Education or attend one of their meetings. Let us put our energies toward constructive ways to better the educational experience of all of our children in whichever school that may be.

Editor, The Spotlight:

District 9, Neighborhood 2, Hudson Valley Girl Scout Council, Bethlehem, held a Bridging Ceremony on May 11 at Bethlehem Central Middle School. Over one hundred girls bridged, or progressed from their present level of scouting to the next level. This is a public recognition of their accomplishments. I wish to express thanks and appreciation to Ginny Hasselbarth for planning and organizing this event.

I also wish to comment on the rude behavior displayed by many adult members of the audience. There was a constant hum of conversation which made it difficult to hear the names of the girls being read as they were presented. Since these adults were family members present because their daughters were involved, I am surprised that they could not be an attentive audience for the hour it took to complete the ceremony. Even our littlest scouts were better behaved than many of their parents.

I trust the next time there is a similar event for the Girl Scouts of Bethlehem their adult family members will remember to display better manners.

Generosity appreciated

Editor, The Spotlight:

The Slingerlands Elementary School PTA would like to thank all the local merchants and friends who helped to make our annual spring carnival raffle such a tremendous success.

Applebee Funeral Home gave a cash contribution for a scooter, purchased at a special price from The Eagle's Nest Bike Shop. Combined contributions from Marshall's Transportation Center and Klersy Builders enabled us to purchase another scooter as well. Key Bank generously donated a savings bond and combined cash contributions from John Healy Realtors, Gochee's Garage, Nancy Kuivila Real Estate and Dorothy Brown of Butler Brown Insurance enabled us to purchase a walkman, a roller racer, a taxi scooter and some year games.

We would also like to thank the following merchants for their contributions: Brockley's Tavern, Brooks DrugStore, the Crystal Chandelier, Cut &Curl, Danker Florist, Del Lanes, Delaware Plaza Liquor Store, Delmar Car Wash, Delmar Health Hut, Falvo's, Four Corners Luncheonette, Friendly's, Gingersnips Ltd., Golden Crust Bakery, Grand Union, Green's Appliance, Hair 2000, Hoogy's Village Corner, House of Charm, Jeffers Nursery, Johnson's Stationery, Judy's Corner Kitchen, K&B Stained Glass.

And, LaWanda Jewlers, Lee's Chinese Restaurant, Lincoln Hill Books, Linens by Gail, Meyers Bicycle Center, Jim Muhlfelder of J. de Beer & Son, My Place & Co., PB's Giant Subs, Phillips Hardware, Pizza Express, Price Greenleaf, Radio Shack, Records 'N Such, Roger Smith Decorative, Products, Skippy's Music, South Street Framers, Stewart's, Stonewell Market, The Graden Shoppe, Tollgate, Town & Tweed, TriVillage Drugs, Verstandig's Florist, Leeder's Video and The Village Frame Shoppe.

All of the children and parents of the Slingerlands Elementary School won in the raffle through the demonstration of community spirit and warm generosity. Thank you!

Slingerlands Elementary School Carnival Raffle Committee

Good time had by all

Editor, The Spotlight:

This letter is to thank those individuals at the Town Hall who organize the Tiny Tots swim registration each year. I am so fortunate to be a member of a community where the circus comes to town at both the beginning and end of May.

However, the circus registration at the Town Hall has it all over Vidbel's for sheer entertainment value. The suspense factor for those on the bottom half of the line far exceeds what we experience when we empathize with the most daring of tightrope walkers. C'mon folks, who has more stress, a tightrope walker or the homemaker who must try to register three of her own children and seven of her neighbor's children for the 11:00 time slot of session II?

And Vidbel's loses its appeal as the years roll by. I understand attendance was down this year. Yet on line at the town hall I hear veterans boasting, "Yup, this is my eighth year on line — only two more years to go and I'm done with Tiny Tots registration."

Officials, where else can one find the sense of affinity that one achieves with ones neighbor as a result of your registration process? I grow closer to my neighbor when she reminiscences of the time when she stood on line for three hours so her now 18-year-old son could take Tiny Tot lessons. Her facial expression seems to say, "I too, was a good mother; if I could stand on line naked and fasting in the rain for a month so my son would get early admission to Harvard, I'd do that too!"

Finally, I'd like to thank the town hall officials for making me feel good about myself once again. I can't afford a BMW or a $200,000 home, therapy wasn't working; but, after I got my kid into session II (and I did it on my own two feet), I could look myself in the mirror again.

After all, it's the American dream come true. I'm proud to compete with my neighbor in such an open, dog-eat-dog way. Gosh, I haven't felt this good since I was in the sixth grade and got chosen first when they were drawing sides for kickball teams.

I do have one suggestion. I know you people are really receptive to new ideas — how about selling t-shirts and sweat shirts that read, "I got my first choice at Tiny Tots swim registration."

I think it would go over well with at least 1/4 of the people. Thanks again, town officials.

About the handicapped

Editor, The Spotlight:

As administrators of a preschool program for speech/language learning delayed children, we feel a strong need to respond to your article, "Disturbing Questions About Handicapped Education" (Spotlight, May 13).

Obviously, we cannot speak for each and every program; however, as administrators, working speech and language pathologists, committee members of Upstate Preschool Council, participants of the Rensselaer County Referral Committee and members of this community, we feel competent in responding on behalf of many preschool providers.

The majority of our referrals come to us from pediatricians, area clinics and educators. The children then proceed through a very thorough evaluation usually obtained by several team members (i.e. special education, speech/language pathologist, occupational therapist, child psychologist and the parent). Many visits and specialists are involved in this procedure. Generally, the child's parent is asked to remain present and the child's needs are then discussed by the team and parent. Following the evaluation, a parent is typically asked to visit area programs and choose a placement which would best serve the child's needs. Once a program has been chosen, we (preschool providers) do our best to involve the parent as much as possible. As educators, we recognize that without carryover into the home, progress can be limited.

As mentioned earlier, not all preschools run exactly the same, but in this program particularly, we tend to involve the parents as much as possible. Monthly parent meetings are held in the evening to provide them with knowledge specific to their child's handicapping condition. We send a "team member" to their home every month to discuss their child's progress, train them to utilize carryover techniques and answer any questions or concerns they may have. Individualized Education Plan meetings (IEP's) are set up and reviewed three times per year at this facility (the State Education Department requires one meeting annually that the parent must be requested to attend). In addition, a notebook is sent back and forth from the parent to the teacher each day and a daily newsletter is sent home with every child to inform parents as to what events took place throughout the day. So you see, parent participation is requested almost daily. Naturally, some parents are more involved than others.

From your article, it appears that Mr. Martin was only minimally involved in the placement and programming for his child's first year of school. In addition, you only stated the father's opinion about the program and the progress his son has made. You must understand that many parents of preschoolers with handicaps have difficulty understanding and accepting their child's problems. I assume that you could find many families and educators that would have wonderful things to say about the program this child was attending.

We are not in disagreement that some preschools may not be performing optimally, and we do see a need for continuity and monitoring systems. In the same respect, we see equal responsibility for the need of the parent to monitor the amount and types of services being rendered to his or her child. All programs vary, including the school-age programs monitored by the State Education Department. Parents must become involved and monitor the services their child is receiving on all levels. If this parent is dissatisfied with preschool services, he needs to look further and become involved. Preschool service is a buyers market at this time — show around! The program must fit the child's needs and the family's philosophy if it is to work optimally.

Finally, you might talk with a few preschool facilities and see the dedication and self-monitoring already in place. We know that in Rensselaer County there is a lot of healthy competition to provide the best service available. This is not to say that a statewide monitoring system would not be appropriate for some purposes; however, special education preschool programs are not existing in the free form that your article suggests.

Area students participating in the program include Sarah Bigelow, Rachel Dutko, Meghan Fleming, Katherine Lillis, Nadine Maurer, Abby Miller, Alix Miller, Amy Oldendorf, Elena Oldendorf, Kate Tobin and Andrea Weress, all of Delmar; Lyra Colfer Kyla Deon, Julia Popkoski, Tracy Stevens and Erica Werner of Voorheesville, and Siobhan Byrne of Slingerlands.

House and garden tour of Albany

This year's self-guided house and garden tour of Albany will cover more of the city than ever before. The event is being sponsored by the Historic Albany Foundation, and the Mansion, Pine Hills, Washington Park, Center Square and Manning Boulevard Neighborhood Associations. The event will be held on Saturday, June 6, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Featured will be homes and gardens in Albany's downtown historic neighborhoods, as well as the Pine Hills and Manning Boulevard neighborhoods.

Pentecost Sunday

The Delmar Presbyterian Church will celebrate Pentecost Sunday with Rev. Larry Deyss on June 7 at 10:30 a.m.

SENIOR CITIZENS

On Wednesday evening, May 20, the Bethlehem Senior Van and Bus transported 22 senior citizens to dinner at the Icehouse Restaurant in Albany. The Senior Services "Dinner Out" Program takes residents over the age of 60 out to dinner and lunch several times a month. Call the office at 439-4955, ext. 77, for future dates and details.

The Senior Service Centers of the Albany Area, Inc. will sponsor a chicken barbeque on June 25. It will be held at the Elm Ave. Park new pavilion. Tickets are $3 and can be obtained through the Bethlehem Senior Services Office, Rm. 110, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Vial-of Life — Bethlehem Senior Service Office reminds residents that Vial-of Life information and containers are available in Room 110 of the Bethlehem Town Hall. These are used to identify members of the household and their medications in case of emergency.

Fashion show set

Northeast Woman magazine will host a fashion show to benefit the Regional Food Bank of Northeaster New York on Tuesday, June 9, at the OTB Teletheater, Central Ave., Albany. The show, featuring models from the Barbara Thomas Modeling Agency and fashions by Macy's, will begin at 7 p.m.

Reservations may be made for $25 by calling 274-1658.

Community Corner

Police to run for children

Bethlehem Police Officers will be carrying the torch when the Law Enforcement Torch Run for Special Olympics makes its way from the Coeymans town line to the Albany city line on Thursday, June 11.

The 7.7 mile leg along Rt. 9W will be just one part of the torch run that started at Montauk, Long Island, this week and will end in Buffalo on June 19. The torch run is sponsored by the state Chiefs of Police Association to benefit mentally retarded children through the state Special Olympics.

Police officers who will be running are looking for community support for the race. Residents, businesses or organizations can sponsor a runner or the department to raise funds for Special Olympics.

For information on how to sponsor, phone the police department at 439-9973.
