The weekly newspaper serving the towns of Bethlehem and New Scotland

Volume one, number one, the very first issue of The Spotlight was mailed to over 5,000 homes in the area on Dec. 1 1955.

Tracy Walsh's bright idea

This is the first of a series of articles tracing the history of The Spotlight. Portions of the material have been adapted from an autobiographical collection of newspaper vignettes and anecdotes compiled by a local resident, Nat Boynton, a former editor-publisher of The Spotlight, which will be published in book form this fall.

By Nat Boynton

Tracy Walsh felt deprived. Here she was, an active mother of two in a well-established suburb of Albany, N.Y. in 1955, living on a tight budget and depending on friends and neighbors to learn where the best bargains and shopping specials in town could be found. The need for household budgetary restraints had been compounded when her husband was pushed out of his job with the New York State Department of Transportation by a political appointee in the incoming Averell Harriman administration, which represented a change of party from the long-entrenched Republican reign of Thomas E. Dewey on Albany's Capitol Hill.

Most constituents in the suburban Town of Bethlehem would agree that what the town needed most was a larger building for the library and an effective zoning ordinance to cope with rapid development. To Mrs. Walsh the town's most critical need was a newspaper of its own—well, maybe not a full-fledged newspaper, but some kind of a medium to carry strictly local advertising, a vehicle that would enable Bethlehem shoppers to know when Hilchie's Hardware had a big sale, and what the specials were this week at Mullen's Pharmacy. There also were exciting things in the stores in Delmar's newly opened shopping center, Delaware Plaza, places like Town and Tweed, Pulman's Stationers and the Little Folks Shop.

Mrs. Walsh turned her frustration into action. Charles Walsh now had some time, in between pursuit of new employment, to help her realize her dream. With encouragement from several local merchants, Tracy Walsh dummed up a tentative four-page advertising flyer on her kitchen table and went out to sell space.

Ruslander to lead BC

New president says board can work together

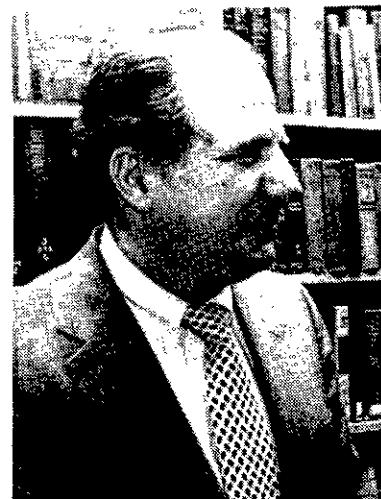

By Sal Prividera

The Bethlehem Central School District has a new president, its third in two years. Robert K. Ruslander, a nine-year board member, was elected to head the board for the next year at last week's organizational meeting.

The unanimous vote came with little discussion. Board member Sheila Fuller nominated Ruslander "with pleasure." He succeeds Bernard Harvith, who said that he had only wanted to be president for one year.

"I applaud this," said the exiting board president.

Fuller, who had preceded Harvith as board president, was elected to the vice president's post by a six to one margin in secret balloting. She was reelected without opposition to a fourth term on the board earlier this year and is the director of Bethlehem's Youth Employment Service.

Robert K. Ruslander

Last year, Fuller declined to run for another term as president of the board, citing dissension among board members and a board that was not focusing on educational matters before other district business.

The new president is a lawyer with the Albany firm of Ainsworth, Sullivan, Tracy, Knauf, Warner and Ruslander. "I think we have an excellent board," he commented after the election.

Ruslander said that the long search for a superintendent of schools brought the board closer together. "I think what did it was a common goal," he said, adding that the board worked 10 months on the search. The board's new president said that he felt the board of education was always close despite differences of opinion.

"I'm sure there will be differences of opinion and there should be, to get input and different viewpoints," Ruslander commented on the upcoming year.

New Scotland seeks planner

By Patricia Mitchell

New Scotland has decided to hire a part-time planner, whose first priority will be to revise the zoning code's enforcement policies.

The town board agreed to hire the part-time planner at its meeting last Wednesday. The planner was requested by the planning board and new enforcement policies have been requested by Concerned Citizens of New Scotland, Inc.

Pointing to alleged violations of the zoning code on the Tall Timbers Country Club by miners William Larned and Son, on the Terhune Farm on Rt. 85 and various junk car complaints that have been discussed by the town board, Bob Morrison, chairman of Concerned Citizens said one solution is to have the planning board study the town's zoning laws and come up with a plan to strengthen the enforcement provision.

"I think that is a valid request," said Town Supervisor Stephen Wallace.

New Scotland is compiling a list of engineering consultants for advice in dealing with an expected building boom, and revised zoning codes and maps are in line with that move, Wallace said. Concerned Citizens offered one of its subcommittees for assistance, but

The fresh produce is available every Friday morning at the farmer's market in the St. Thomas Church parking lot on Delaware Ave.

2 bikes said stolen

Bethlehem Police said two bicycles were reported stolen this week. A bicycle was taken from the front lawn of an Oakwood Pl., Delmar, home between 4 and 9 p.m., police said. It is valued at $127.

A boy's bicycle, valued at $125, was taken from the side yard of a Brockley Dr., Delmar, home between Tuesday and Wednesday, police said.

An unknown car hit the rear of another car that in turn bumped two other cars on Kenwood Ave. on June 16, Bethlehem Police said. At about 7:25 a.m., the unknown car bumped into the rear of a car driven by Barbara Delmuria, 52, of LaGrange Rd. in Delmar and then left the scene. Delmuria's car then hit the rear of a car driven by Ida Shane, 66, of Delaware Ave., Delmar, and then Shane's car hit the rear of a car driven by Penelope Hayward, 25, of Guilderland.

The chain of events were reported incorrectly in the June 24 issue of The Spotlight.

Developers eye new hospital site

By Tom McPheeters

The developers of the proposed Northeast Psychiatric Hospital, who are in court fighting for their site on Rt. 9W in Glenmont, have signed a contract for another site on Rapp Rd. in Albany.

However, no decision has been made to go ahead with the rezoning necessary to develop the new site, according to a spokesman for Albany Medical College, one of the developers of the proposed hospital.

Meanwhile, both parties in the dispute over the Rt. 9W site are puzzled over the length of time it is taking a state Supreme Court judge to render a decision in that case. The medical college and Hospital Group of New York, a for-profit subsidiary of health care conglomerate Nu-Med, are suing the Town of Bethlehem for denying them permission to build on the Rt. 9W site. Citing residents' concerns over the use of the land and the fact that Glenmont Elementary School is nearby, the town board voted 3-2 against the necessary special use permit last year. Earlier, the planning board had approved the application. Since the town board's decision, two board members have resigned and have been replaced.

The developers have said all along that they would seek other alternatives as well as continue to pursue the Rt. 9W site. "We feel very strongly that this facility is needed," Greg McGarry, the medical college spokesman, said Monday.

The Rapp Rd. site is off Washington Avenue Extension in Albany's Pine Bush area and would require rezoning by the city, he said. No decision has been made on when to seek the rezoning, he said.

"We still have some hurdles to clear and we are still not ruling out the prior site selected," he said.

The hospital developers filed their lawsuit last December and arguments were heard early this year. Since then, the Supreme Court justice hearing the case, Robert Dorn of Saratoga County, has asked the town for more information, but has not indicated when he would make a decision. Bethlehem Town Attorney Bernard Kaplowitz, who is representing the town board, said Tuesday he received a letter from Dorn last week saying the judge could find no New York State precedents that fit the case, and asking Kaplowitz if he wanted to research out of state precedents.

High school interns honored by county

Area high school students, their parents and representatives from area high schools involved in the 1986-87 Cooperative Extension Government Intern Program were honored recently at a reception.

The students honored included Randy Hotaling from Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk and Matt Bates and Natalie Cass from Voorheesville High School. Voorheesville teacher Linda Wolkenbreit was also recognized for her help with the program.

Students in the program are given the opportunity to work with county government officials to learn how government works.

Learn about Medicare

The Albany County Cooperative Extension is offering two fact sheets about Medicare. "Medicare: What You Need to Know" explains Medicare and includes an update on recent changes. The second fact sheet explains the concept of Medicare Supplementary Insurance, fees not covered by Medicare, and give tips for choosing Medigap policies.

The sheets are available for 65 cents each by calling 765-3550.

Planner duties set

A committee composed of Bethlehem officials and citizens has started to sift through applications for the new town planner and to discuss what the job should be.

So far, the town has received 14 resumes, and the committee has not yet cut off new applications, according to Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick. The next meeting is set for July 14.

The committee is composed of town officials involved in the planning and zoning process. At the town board's direction, Councilman Sue Ann Ritchko, the committee chairman, has added two additional members: Douglas Brownell, vice president of the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce, and John Smolinsky, a founder of the Bethlehem Citizens for Responsible Planning. Smolinsky was designated by the town's neighborhood associations to represent neighborhood interests.

Smolinsky, whose planning group has been at odds with the town over such developments as Delmar Village, said the committee's first meeting was "amicable and collegial," primarily a discussion over the procedure that will be used in narrowing down the applications.

However, he said the committee has also been discussing the scope of the new planner's duties. A major issue is whether the planner should be strictly involved in long-range planning, rather than dealing with rezoning applications and subdivisions, activities that comprise most of the planning work now being done in the town.

Albany man charged with garbage violation

An Albany man will be appearing in Bethlehem Town Court on charges that he placed trash and garbage at the roadside to be picked up in violation of town ordinances, Bethlehem Police said.

Dominick Cubello, 52, of Hoffman Ave., Albany, was charged with the violations on Wednesday. He was later released by Town Justice Peter Wenger on $250 bail and is scheduled to reappear in town court on Tuesday, July 21.

Bethlehem Building Inspector John Flanigan, who made the complaint to police, said Cubello allegedly placed trash and garbage at Oakwood Rd. in Elsmere, where he owns a farm, for town crews to pick up. It was placed out after the spring pick-up period, and Flanigan also said crews wouldn't have picked up the type of trash and garbage anyway. He said the trash and garbage contained parts of dead animals.

□ The Spotlight gets its start

The idea of a penny-saver in Bethlehem got an enthusiastic response. She found that local businessmen were equally frustrated — they were unwilling to pay the high space rates in the Albany Knickerbocker News and Times-Union, and they didn't need the wide coverage of those papers that included Guilderland, Latham and the towns across the Hudson River. She polled her neighbors and friends and discovered that one-third of the people in town didn't read either of the Albany dailies.

She also got a hand from a man in Unionville, a hamlet just over the town line in rural New Scotland. LeVere Fuller answered her Help Wanted ad in the Times-Union seeking someone to sell advertising. Not only had Fuller been involved in a similar publishing venture in Stockbridge, just over the Massachusetts line a scant 30 miles to the east, but he had put out a small shopper himself in Delmar called Town Talk.

The first issue of Tracy Walsh's little paper, called The Spotlight, appeared in the Town of Bethlehem's so-called Tri-Village area on Dec. 1, 1955. Neither Delmar, Elsmere or Slingerlands was a village by incorporation, but together they had a definite suburban flavor. There were no definable boundary lines that separated one from the others, but as a community they constituted the more densely settled portion of the otherwise rural Town of Bethlehem. The town occupied roughly 100 square miles between the river on the east and the hilly, sparsely populated Town of New Scotland on the west.

The Spotlight got a mixed welcome upon its debut. The inaugural advertisers liked it, and some people allegedly read it when they found it in mailboxes instead of according it an instant heave-ho with the rest of the day's junk mail. There were 17 ads, seven on the front page, in the introductory issue conceived in the Walshes' modest dwelling on Roweland Avenue, a tree-shaded residential street less than four blocks from town hall and five from Delmar Four Corners.

The formula appeared sure-fire: local businesses had low-cost access to customers in the area they served, and shoppers knew each Thursday in the mail or on the newsstand at the drug store where the latest bargains or the newest products were available. Immediately under the newly designed masthead "flag" on Page 1 was the herald: A PENNY-SAVER WEEKLY MAILED TO MORE THAN 5,000 AREA HOMES EVERY THURSDAY TO BRING YOU THE BEST BUYS AT STORES THROUGHOUT THE AREA.

There were no classified ads in her maiden issue, but on Page 3 Mrs. Walsh announced that she would run classifieds free "unless you get results." Her policy was "call us if you sell the item and pay us 10 percent of the advertised price up to $100 and 5 percent after that."

That little gimmick was an instant success. With only a short deadline before the next week's issue, Spotlight No. 2 on Dec. 8 had six pages that included 15 classifieds. There were 20 display ads, one of them the first full-page ad and two half-page ads.

Fuller's name appeared with Mrs. Walsh's in the masthead of Issue No. 2, beginning an association with the paper that was to last until his death 19 years later. The Albany classified that brought LeVere Fuller to Tracy Walsh did more than provide help in selling ads, it led to a production arrangement that prevailed over The Spotlight's first 22 years.

NEXT WEEK: The new paper gains a foothold in the community and scores a breakthrough — of sorts.

Delmar before the Great War: Belle's diary continues

We continue with the diary of Belle Wright Salisbury, loaned to us by Irving Leonard of Delmar. Belle and Howard Salisbury lived in Delmar in the early 1900s in a house that still stands on Delaware Ave.

TIMES REMEMBERED

Allison Bennett

Oct. 27, 1912 — We bought a 2 qt. freezer (ice cream) and found it too small so we sold it and got a gallon freezer. The neighbors and I put in together, we have good times with the freezer that way. I have been begging for the Church Fair, have over $400 worth of granite, tins and towels. I have nearly 100 cans of vegetables done up and several kinds of pickles.

Oct. 30 — I baked 3 pies, 5 bread and 2 chocolate layer cakes with nuts. Took my things to the fair in P.M. Granite sells good.

Oct. 31 — Took baby to the fair tonight. Howard came later. Spent $1.56. Everybody makes so much of the boy, Alice Wright says he is the best looking baby she ever seen. $250.00 made at M.E. church fair, Oct. 30, 31, 1912.

Nov. 8 — My birthday—26 yrs. Edgar drove over after me and Mother had a birthday cake made. We made chocolate cream. I received several presents—side comb, back comb, barett, dustless dust cloth, small suitcase, salt and pepper shakers, dust cap, postcards, ice cream dip.

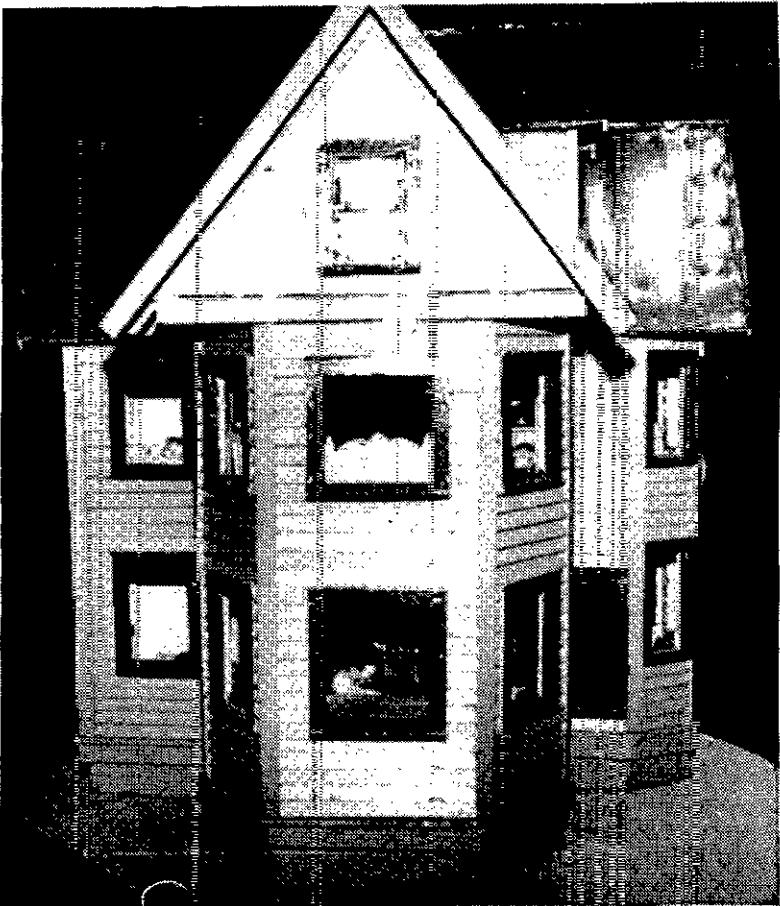

Nov. 28 — Thanksgiving Day. During course of events I have sewed, mended, Emma Clark has spent a day sewing. I have cleaned the woodwork of all four rooms, kitchen walls and ceiling, all my windows and ceilings and walls, took all pictures and cleaned everything through. It looked lovely. We invited Fred and Lillie, Mother and Edith and Conrad to take dinner with us. Stuffed and fricassee chicken, baked beans, biscuit, celery, cranberries, pumpkin pie and four kinds of pickles. Four lunch in the evening we had 2 kinds of layer cake, and 2 kinds of cream.

May 21, 1913 — Three weeks of cold, wind and rain, and freezing. Early garden spoiled, very discouraging. I have worked so hard and everything is so slow and backward and blasted. Howard Francis ate rusty wire and it stuck in his tonsil. Mr. Rowe nor I could not get it out, neither could the Dr.

Hot, dry summer of 1913 — I worked harder than usual during summer of 1913. I felt so miserable and bad, it was an unusual summer and everything seemed to go wrong, baby was such a care that I felt discouraged and unhappy. I had no peace of mind or anything else. Baby is so strong and I so weak, we have some awful times. I felt it wasn't as much pleasure as I thought it would be to have him. It was all my fault, not his. I was cross and so was everyone else and everything seemed to go wrong.

September — Two weeks ago Howard took baby and I on the motorcycle up to Cora's (Filkins in East Berne) and back. We had a lovely chicken dinner. It was 47 miles.

Labor Day — Sarah and sister-in-law, Mother, Edith, Edgar and Russell took dinner with baby and I on Labor Day, also Kaye Cowing. Part of them spent the day, part in p.m. Made 4 freezers of cream and candy. Young folks played croquet. Mother and Sarah sewed a little while for me. Howard is threshing, eats nearly all his meals away from home. It makes lots of difference in my work.

April 4, 1914 — Snowed all night and windy and cold. George is boarding here, 30 cents a meal. Unusually severe cold winter, most snow in 25 years, since 1888. I enjoyed the winter after such a very trying summer. Moved our bed and crib upstairs two weeks ago. I have read quite a lot this winter, books from the Delmar Free Library, presented by the Progress Club, which Delmarians have enjoyed very much. Dad and Walter bought two more colts in Ohio this spring and Dad sold seven horses at a sale this winter, cleared $1,000. I banked $50.00 last summer. Thought it time we made a start.

May 7 — Mother has had baby over all week, he says he doesn't want to come home. It makes such a difference in the work, everything has stayed clean all week. On Wednesday I cut out and made 3 dresses for baby and one nightgown and hemmed a number of squares. I house cleaned and worked in garden all week. Spaded a large piece of ground, put manure on 150 strawberry plants. Planted beets, onions, set onions, dahlias, canna, flowering beans, squash, bantam corn, cucumbers, carrots, lettuce, radishes. Mrs. Guertze gave me some sweet alyssem seed and Youth and Old Age. Howard and George are working 12 hours a day painting. I shall be glad to see my boy tomorrow, he has been away long enough.

May 30 — Memorial Day. Baby and I are going to spend the day at Grandma's and Howard and Edgar have planned to go fishing at Warners and Thompsons Lakes. We made lemon and pineapple sherbet. Mother had made me a suit with divided skirt and panel, to go motoring in as Howard takes baby and me.

July — Howard and I went on the motorcycle to Central Bridge, 35 miles. We stopped at Aunt Mins coming home and got lunch in downtown Schenectady. An 80 mile trip.

Aug. 2 — Joe and Edith, Russ and Kaye and Howard and I took our dinner and motored to Warners Lake and came back by way of Altamont, Guilderland, Albany, etc. Rode around park and city and came home. Joe's axel broke 5 miles out of Delmar, it took 2 hours to fix it. Arthur Filkins is working for Howard and is boarding at our house.

Aug. 30 — We motored to Lake George-179 mile trip. Started at 8 a.m., got back 7:30 p.m. It's a beautiful place.

Sept. 13 — The four of us started at noon and arrived Pittsfield, Mass. at 3:30 p.m. Pretty city. Ate our lunch along state road near city. 3 kinds sandwiches, 3 kinds cake, crackers, snappy cheese, cucumbers, tomatoes.

Sept. 20 — After dinner, Papa took Jr. and I for a ride around the Helderbergs, to Frank's and Sarah's. He just got a tri car and now we can take Jr. along too.

Nov. 7 — Mother and I went to Albany on the 4th and did some Xmas shopping. Everybody is going to see Ben Hur this week. Howard is working for Ralph Leonard, 35 cents an hour and dinner.

Nov. 22 — Our Acorn Range came today and Dad helped set it up. It bakes and throws out lots of heat and is satisfactory in every way. We gave $53.00 for it. Howard got a davenport spring coach and dining room chairs. We sleep downstairs during the coldest nights on the new couch. It is very comfortable. I got up a $20.00 soap order, got a $5.60 couch cover, $17.00 rocker and a $2.00 princess slip. They are all just lovely.

We close the diary at the end of the year 1914. The shadow of World War I looming on the horizon and the increasing popularity of the automobile will bring a swift change in the modest, unhurried and companionable lifestyle that the Salisburys knew in the early years of their lives.

Officers for 1987-88 elected at Slingerlands

The Slingerlands Parent-Teacher Association recently elected its officers for the 1987-88 school year. The officers are: president, Lynne Lenhardt; program vice presidents, Barbara Muhlfelder and Maureen Venter; membership vice president, Christine McCarthy; corresponding secretary, Jane McGinn; recording secretary, Susan Schlosser; and treasurer, Colette Shamoun. The teacher representatives are Evonne Lutkus, Diane McNivin and Mignone Philips.

Phi Beta officers

The Upper Hudson Association of Phi Beta Kappa, a national honor society, recently named its officers for 1987-88. Mrs. Charles Foster of Delmar was named to the executive board. Charles Foster was named to the secretary's post.

Stereo equipment taken from 2 cars

Stereo equipment was taken from two cars parked at a Delaware Ave., Elsmere, service station this week, Bethlehem Police said.

A car stereo and speakers were taken from a car parked at the Delmar Citgo, police said. The car belongs to the service station and the equipment was taken between June 21 and June 25 and reported to police Monday.

Stereo equipment valued at $189 was taken from a Cherry Ave. man's car when he left it for service between June 24 and June 26, police said. The report was also filed with police on Monday.

Planning meeting

The Bethlehem Citizens for Responsible Planning, a citizen watchdog group that has been active in zoning issues in the Tri-Village area, will hold meetings in room 106 of the Bethlehem Town Hall on July 13 and July 27 at 7:30 p.m. The meetings are open to the public.

Michelle Fisher a wilderness camper

Michelle Fisher of Delmar will attend a Girl Scout wider opportunity camp this summer. She is one of 32 girls selected to participate in the "From the Ranger to the Ridges" event.

Participants will have a three-day training course before setting out to cross Lake Superior in the Ranger III and spending eight days wilderness camping.

Fisher has been involved in scouting since the second grade and will be entering her sophomore year at Bethlehem Central High School. She is the daughter of Les and Audrey Fisher.

Albany water bill goes to governor

The bill requiring the newly created Albany Municipal Finance Authority to pay taxes to other municipalities and school districts has been approved by both houses of the state legislature and awaits the governor's signature.

The bill amends legislation passed last year that granted the authority tax-exempt status. Albany currently pays taxes in Bethlehem, Coeymans and the Bethlehem Central and Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk school districts. Although city officials had said they intended to continue the payments, local officials had been concerned.

According to Assemblyman Richard Conners, D-Albany, one of the sponsors, the bill passed the assembly without debate and with no dissenting votes. "It was always planned that the water authority would continue to pay these taxes to other municipalities," Conners said. "This bill should ease the concerns that the new authority might attempt to evade that responsibility."

Other sponsors include Assemblyman John Faso, R-Kinderhook, and state Sen. Howard Nolan, D-Albany.

He said that he has no major changes to make, although he said the district should "face up to the enrollment issue." The board had decided to hold off tackling the questions of redistricting elementary school boundaries and building additions until after the new superintendent was hired. Other priorities for the new president are continuing the new budget process and developing an in-service program for district staff.

"It's of the first rank," said Ruslander of the Bethlehem Central School District. "I just want to see that it stays that."

The meeting was the first for new Superintendent Leslie Loomis and newly elected board member Pamela Williams, who defeated incumbent Barbara Coon in the May election.

Several other appointments for the next year were also made at the meeting: district treasurer, Marilyn Conley; clerk of the board, Kristi Carr; deputy clerk, Franz Zwicklauer; tax collector, Barbara Duffy; deputy tax collector, Patricia Cebry; school physician, Dr. Andrew Sullivan; and school attorney, Roger Fritts.

The Spotlight and the Altamont Enterprise were designated as official newspapers of the district.

The next regular meeting of the board of education will be Wednesday, July 15. At this meeting items that were tabled at the last regular meeting, including the proposed smoking policy, will be discussed, according to Ruslander.

Truck stop conditions listed

By Kevin Mullen

The Big Apple Truck Stops Ltd. was granted a special exception from the zoning ordinance by the Bethlehem Board of Appeals last week and can now go ahead with plans for a large-scale renovation of the Rt. 9W site — provided the owners comply with a lengthy list of conditions.

The board drew up a resolution granting the special exception, which included about 20 conditions. The Big Apple Truck Stops Ltd. wants to renovate the well-known Big M truck stop, located on Routes 9W and 32 in Glenmont, and an adjacent property, which was included under the special exception.

A public hearing was held on May 20. Chief operating officer of the Big Apple Truck Stops Ltd. is Alex Latsinik. Representing Latsinik at the public hearing was attorney Ronald H. Sinzheimer of Albany. Big Apple is currently leasing the land from Regina Kaminsky but has a contract to purchase it. Big Apple does own an additional piece of property, which was included in the special exception. The company plans to renovate the interior and exterior of the truck stop; no enlargement of the building is planned. A restaurant that seats 40 and a lounge also is planned.

Big Apple will also renovate the large "Big M" sign, which can be seen from the New York State Thruway. Landscaping will be intensive, a condition that the board wanted. Three new "modernized" gas pumps will be installed. Diesel tanks with a capacity of 36,000 gallons will be replaced. The site, according to Sinzheimer, "has a residue of oil" and other chemical contamination and that Big Apple plans to clean it up. Some of the conditions that were included in the resolution are:

- No moving signs or similar types of signs or distracting devices will be installed, and lighting will be directed onto the premises only.
- All repairs will be limited to minor mechanical breakdowns and not to exceed more than three trucks at one time. And no junk or disabled vehicles will be located on the property.
- All waste material will be collected and contained and shall be removed weekly and the exterior of the building will be maintained in good condition. No vending machines or ice machines will be located outside the building.

- All trucks and trailers will be parked in delineated spaces and small vehicles will be limited to an area with 10 by 20 foot spaces. All parking and driving areas will be blacktopped.

- No overnight sleeping in the lounge.

- No trucks will operate and idle more than five minutes according to New York State law. Neighbors immediately adjacent to the site on the east will be protected with adequate protective landscaping.

- The renovation will be completed within two years.

The board said Big Apple Truck Stops Ltd. can go ahead and seek from the New York State Department of Transportation permission to secure a northbound exit ramp from the site onto Rt. 9W.

A public hearing was held for Paul and Susan Buzash of 5 Blessing Rd. in Slingerlands. The couple is seeking a variance for permission to leave two sections of six-foot fence in place on their premises. The Buzash's said that they live at a busy intersection and the fences have reduced the noise on the corner. The side and rear yard ordinance allow a maximum of four feet for fences.

Hearings scheduled

The board scheduled four public hearings. One was scheduled on July 15 at 8:30 p.m. for Eugene Lewis of 19 Pine View Ave in Delmar. Lewis is seeking a side yard variance to extend and square off a present building to make a larger room.

A public hearing was scheduled on Aug. 5 at 8 p.m. for Robert E. Biggerstaff of 56 Euclid Ave. in Elsmere. Biggerstaff is seeking an extension of a variance that was granted last summer so he can build a new bedroom and storage area.

A public hearing was scheduled for Aug. 5 at 8:15 p.m. for Peter M. Trent of 4 Tamarack Dr. in Delmar. Trent is seeking a variance (rear yard and percentage of lot occupancy) for a proposed 15.5 by 8 foot addition to the rear of his property.

A public hearing was scheduled for Bruce L. Weber of Elm Ave. in Selkirk on Aug. 5 at 8:30 p.m. Weber is seeking a side yard variance to keep an approved six-foot fence with a three to four-foot berm. A public hearing was held for Weber's original variance on May 20.

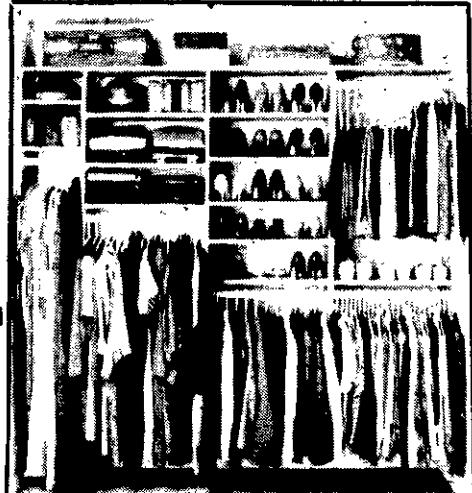

The next board of appeals meeting is scheduled for July 15 at 8 p.m.

Other actions

The board also drew up a resolution granting a variance for Dr. Joel M. Spiro of 16 Devonshire Dr. in Slingerlands. Spiro wants to build a 36 by 25 foot three-car garage for the storage of antique cars. At a public hearing on May 20, Spiro said that he needed nearby accessible storage for his cars because commercial storage was expensive and inconvenient. The board included as conditions that Spiro use the garage only as storage for antique/classic cars and construction be completed within 18 months.

Olympian Gardens case overturned

By Kevin Mullen

The Bethlehem Board of Appeals has been ordered to reconsider a two-year-old decision denying Arthur G. Kontogiannis permission to add two additional units to his Olympian Gardens development in North Bethlehem.

The board learned last week that the Appellate Division of state Supreme Court has overturned a Supreme Court decision and ordered the Kontogiannis case back for a rehearing on two points. The appeals court said the board failed to address, and thus must rehear, the question of whether the petitioner's land could yield a reasonable return if used only for a purpose permitted in that zone, and whether the petitioner's plight is due to unique circumstances.

The board turned down a variance request by Kontogiannis in September, 1985, for an additional two units in what had been the clubhouse for the complex. The state Supreme Court upheld the board's decision in September of 1986.

Kontogiannis is president of Olympian Development. He built the former recreation building for Olympian Gardens in 1974. At the first public hearing, Peter Lynch, Kontogiannis's attorney, said that his client was suffering an economic hardship and was unable to realize a reasonable return from his property. Lynch said that Kontogiannis lost $4,500 on the building in 1984. A second public hearing was held because 19 residents who lived within 200 feet of the property were not notified of the original public hearing, and at that time 46 residents were opposed to the variance request.

The public hearing is scheduled for Sept. 2 at 8 p.m.

Recognition for officers

Pins, plaques and a day off with pay have been awarded to two Bethlehem Police officers for twice stopping a distraught man from jumping off the Rt. 9W bridge over the Normanskill.

Officers Jeffrey Vunck and Wayne LaChappelle received the meritorious service awards for twice stopping the man on May 24 and tackling him to the ground. They received minor injuries in the incident.

In the awards ceremony Thursday afternoon, Vunck and LaChappelle were praised for their actions. The officers performed "above and beyond the call of duty," said Lt. Fred Holligan.

"We are very proud of these two people," said Police Chief Paul Currie, adding it was an honor to give the awards.

"As your town supervisor, let me say how proud of you we are," said J. Robert Hendrick.

LaChappelle is an officer in the patrol division and has served with the Bethlehem Police Department since 1978. He has received three letters of commendation. A graduate of Bethlehem Central High School, LaChappelle has two children.

since July, 1986. He is an officer in the patrol division and is a graduate of Staten Island High School and attended Norwich (Vt.) University.

Currie said they were honored under the department's recently instituted program for recognizing police officers. The medal of honor for bravery will be given posthumously to officers who die in the line of duty while making an arrest. Vunck and LaChappelle were honored in the second category, performing their duty with a degree of hazard.

Water swap said not feasible

By Patricia Mitchell

It does not appear to be practical to extend New Scotland water lines through the town park on Swift Rd. to Salem Hills in Voorheesville, while village lines supply the town's subdivisions on Swift Rd.

That is the conclusion of the town's water resources commission, which studied the idea after one councilman complained about the lack of cooperation between the two municipalities. Robert Cook, planning board consultant and chairman of the water resources commission, told the town board last week that the elevation of the water tanks doesn't make it practical to extend the village lines for a few lots.

The water commission investigated the idea from an engineering point of view, he said, and did not talk to the village.

Town Councilman Herbert Reilly made the suggestion at the June meeting because he said it was "illogical" for the town to extend the water district parallel to village water lines that supply the town park. Instead, he said, the money from the developers for the extension should be put in escrow to run the lines to Salem Hills. Reilly said this was agreed on several years ago.

In other action at last Wednesday's meeting, the town board declared itself lead agency in the environmental review for the Swift Rd. water district extension.

The board then decided to file a negative environmental declaration for the project. Cook said the review was needed because part of the extension will border on the town park and it calls for a Type I classification under the state's Environmental Quality Review.

The town board agreed to extend the Swift Rd. district at its June meeting to include two subdivisions that are north of the town park. The extension will be paid by the developers.

The negative declaration will allow the extension to continue, Cook said. The Department of Environmental Conservation, where the papers will be filed, did recommend building a fence between the town park and a proposed subdivision.

In other business, the town board:

- Decided not to sell an island in

Elizabeth Drive's cul-de-sac. Ralph DeSantis of Elizabeth Drive asked to buy the island because he already maintains it. Highway Superintendent Pete Van Zetten did not recommend selling because crews may want to push snow into it, and Planning Board Chairman Richard Stickley said many of the town's roads ending in cul-de-sacs could later be extended. Town Supervisor Stephen Wallace also said the town has never sold a cul-de-sac island.

- Agreed to petition the state Department of Transportation for a 30 m.p.h. speed limit on Onesquethaw Creek Rd. Engineers designing a new bridge recommended the speed for the bridge's design.

- Decided to meet with Voorheesville on a request to annex one property from the town to the village. Mary R. Garry and George Greene own about 14 acres on Voorheesville Ave., and Town Attorney Fred Riester said the front portion is in the village and the back is in the town. Wallace said he believes the owners want village water and they cannot get it now.

- Approved the hiring of a temporary typist in the town clerk's office at $5 an hour from the end of May through June.

- Decided to request a $3 million liability insurance policy for a planned fireworks display at Picard's Grove. Riester said an anniversary party planned would like a display, but he recommended the insurance because the town has to approve a fireworks application, which it has never done before, and it could be held liable if there is an accident.

- Learned that tipping fees for ANSWERS has been raised to $20 a ton on July 1, as was agreed to earlier this year. Municipalities using the City of Albany refuse plant will be meeting this year to discuss the possibility of higher tipping fees. The town passes the fees on to the refuse haulers operating in the town.

The next meeting of the New Scotland Town Board is scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 5 at 8 p.m.

Planner

Wallace said it would be better to use a professional planner.

Planning Board Chairman Richard Stickley said he did not know if zoning enforcement is under the planning board or town law, but Wallace said it is under the jurisdiction of the planners.

The town has no police department, said Councilman Wyman Osterhaut, pointing out that one could come in use for zoning enforcement.

Police departments are expensive to run, Wallace said, and the town is covered by sheriff and state police patrols.

The town issued a stop work order to Larned and Son in May for work the mining company was doing to comply with its Department of Environmental Conservation mining permit. The town is in several legal battles with the miners to stop the mine and a state Supreme Court judge has ruled in favor of the miners, but no order allowing mining has been handed down yet. The stop work order was issued because the site work would change the use of the land and requires a special use permit or a building permit from the town that the miners don't have.

Concerned Citizens have claimed that site work was going on even after a stop work order was issued, but the attorney for the miners said the site work being done is under DEC's permit and directions, and the town's zoning ordinances don't seem to require a building permit.

Neighbors of the Terhune Farm on Youmans Rd. petitioned the town board in May to take action on a number of alleged zoning violations, and Wallace said he has turned the matter over to the zoning attorney.

The planning board decided at its April 28 meeting to request a part-time planner to update zoning codes and maps, but the town board had received no request by last Wednesday. Stickley said it was an error that no letter had been sent.

The planning board requested the planner to look at the zoning codes and maps and offer recommendations to revise them, Stickley said. The zoning code was made in 1961 and updated in 1981.

"Times have changed," Stickley said. "It is definitely time to look at everything again."

He cited the rail lines that run through town and said the land around them used to be considered appropriate for industrial zones. Stickley said now the railroads don't play a big part in industrial zones, and noted that the planning board has also received a request to rezone land next to the park in Feura Bush to industrial.

The planning board will talk to Robert Cook, its advisor, in choosing a planner because he is assisting the town in its engineering consultants search, Stickley said.

VOORHEESVILLE NEWS NOTES

Lyn Staff 765-2451

Concert series begins

Summer officially begins in Voorheesville this week with the start of the concert in the park series. Mountain Road will present a concert in Hotaling Park on Sunday, July 12, from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m.

The group includes Voorheesville musician Tom Thorpe on lead guitar, banjo and fiddle, Mike Mangan on bass, Dan Hillman on keyboard and Mark Foy on drums. All members of the band join in on vocals.

Although the band has its roots in country and bluegrass, the versatile musicians will include some 50's and 60's music, as well as a few Irish tunes inspired by Limerick-born Mangan.

Everyone is invited. This year's concerts will begin at an earlier hour to avoid the late evening chill, according to Pat Thorpe.

Coordinators Pat Thorpe and Bob Shutter will soon announce other concert dates.

Brennan goes to Washington

Another Voorheesville student who will be traveling this summer is Heather Brennan. The 1987 honors graduate of Clayton Bouton Junior-Senior High was selected to represent the state as a Congressional Scholar at the National Young Leaders Conference Post-Graduate Program. The program will be held in Washington D.C. from July 14 through 19.

Sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council, the program gives students a "first hand opportunity to see our national government at work." Last year's scholars met with six cabinet secretaries, leaders in the executive and judicial branches of the government, diplomats, prominent scholars and members of the Washington press corps.

Brennan is the daughter of Michael and Mary Lou Brennan of Voorheesville.

Scouts go camping

More than a dozen Boy Scouts from Voorheesville Troop 73 will spend this week at Camp Rotary in Poestenskill. The scouts will work on a variety of badges and skills during their six-day stay at the Boy Scout facility.

Library begins summer

Summer fun begins this week at the library as well. Parents of preschoolers are reminded that a Safety Puppet Show will be held on Thursday, July 9, at 10:30 p.m.

The upper grades of the Dinosaur Daze Summer Reading Club will also meet on Thursday, July 9. At 3:30 p.m. Linda O'Connor, a local artisan, will offer an afternoon of crafts for those in grades 4, 5 and 6.

Next week the summer reading club will move to Thursday for kindergarten through grade 3 and Friday for grades 4 through 6. Both meetings will begin at 3:30 p.m. in the lower level of the library.

Next week's family movie will be the animated version of "Charlotte's Web." The free film will be shown on Wednesday, July 15, at 2 p.m. All are welcome.

Friday is field day

Outdoor fun, including games and races, are in store for area youngsters who attend the village recreation program field day on Friday, July 10, from 9:30 a.m. until noon. The event will be held at the village playground behind the Voorheesville Village Hall, according to Dick Leach, program coordinator.

Students are still welcome to join the soccer clinics which are held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Voorheesville Elementary School. The clinics for those entering kindergarten through grade 3 begin at 6 p.m.

District sets fees

Junior Olympics in Provo, Utah, from July 21 through 25.

Jackson's victory placed him first in discus over students from the six New England States and New York. He also placed fifth in the shotput. The young athlete has also qualified as an alternate in the upcoming Empire State games to be held in Syracuse later in the summer. Previously, he placed first in discus and second in shot put at the Adirondack TAC meet at the State University at Albany.

Jackson will enter his junior year at Clayton A. Bouton Junior-Senior High in the fall. He is the son of Skip and Diane Jackson of Voorheesville.

Samaritans raise funds

The Samaritans, the Capital District's only suicide crisis line, is having a second raffle to raise money for their services. The first prize is a trip for two to Barbados. For information call 463-2323.

Summer band practices

The summer band, another activity sponsored by the Kiwanis Club for school-age musicians in the Town of New Scotland, began this week. The group holds meetings every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, from 9:30 a.m. until 10:15 a.m., during the month of July. Stage band rehearsal for older students follows each day from 10:15 a.m. until 11 a.m. Lessons are also offered. Information may be obtained from Leonard and Lydia Tobler, program directors.

All are welcome to attend the meeting.

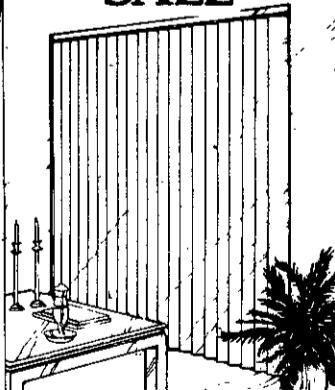

Soccer program open

The Kiwanis Club of New Scotland is still accepting applications for the youth soccer program, which is scheduled to run from August to October. Parents of children entering grades 4 through 6 may call Ron White, youth activities chairman, at 765-3639 for information.

Jackson wins gold

Congratulations go out to Voorheesville track member Dan Jackson who won a gold medal at the Regional Junior Olympics competition held recently in Portland, Maine. Jackson threw the discuss 138 feet to qualify for intermediate division competition in the National

Williams resigns from RCS board

Sengenberger new president

By Sal Prividera

The Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Board of Education has had a change in leadership for the 1987-88 school year. The board has a new president and vice president after its annual organizational meeting on Monday.

Mark Sengenberger, a one year board member, was unanimously elected to assume the president's post, replacing Anthony Williams. Williams resigned from the board after nine years of service.

Board member Wayne Furman, who is serving his second three-year term, was elected to the position of vice president by unanimous vote at the meeting. He replaces long-time board member Sara Hunter, who did not seek reelection to the board.

Williams, who had served two years as board president, submitted a letter to the board citing his reasons for resigning. "He indicated that his full time job was taking more time than in the past," said Sengenberger.

Lee, Distin honored by GE Foundation

Two area students were selected as winners of the General Electric Foundation's STAR and ACE programs for exceptional high school students.

Stanley Lee received the Student and Teacher Achievement Recognition honor. He was one of only 100 recipients chosen nationally. He received a $1,000 education grant. Lee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Lee and graduated this year from Bethlehem Central High School.

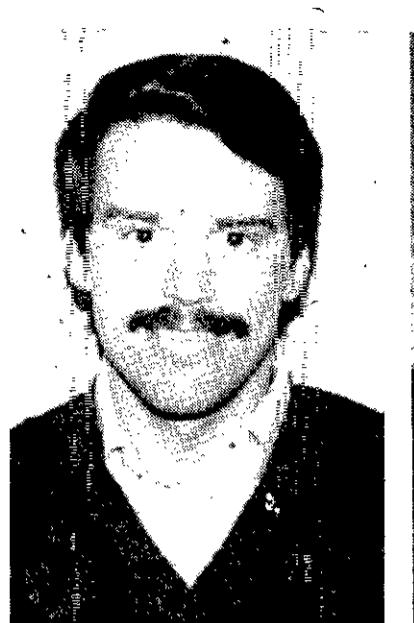

Jeffery Distin received the Award for Career Education. The award, for students interested in two year community colleges, is a $500 educational grant. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Distin and graduated from Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk High School.

Lawn jobs in Delmar

Two Delmar residents reported their lawns were damaged when cars drove across them this week, Bethlehem Police said.

While a Darroch Rd. resident was away between Thursday and Friday, a car was driven across his front lawn causing numerous tire and skid marks, police said.

A Marlboro Rd. resident also reported that someone drove across his front lawn between Friday and Saturday, police said.

Mark Sengenberger

"It's a matter of not having ample time," said Williams on Tuesday. He said a person on the board should be there all the time and he was not in that position. The "difficult" decision was one that he had been thinking about for the past two or three years, he said.

"I feel comfortable about leaving at this time," he said, commenting on the current board's personnel and leadership. The board knew of his decision for "four to six weeks," Williams said. He waited until the organizational meeting to tender his resignation because it was the "proper time," he said.

Rt. 32 accident

A two-car accident on Rt. 32 in the Town of New Scotland on Thursday resulted in minor injuries to an Albany man, state police reported.

The 24-year-old Albany man was driving south on Rt. 32 when his car was struck from behind by a car driver, by a 17-year-old Westerlo man, troopers said. The Westerlo man was ticketed for following too closely and the Albany man suffered a minor bump and a laceration but did not require immediate treatment.

Area students named to the high roll with grades of A or better were Sandra Galib and Eva Zeller of Delmar and Stephanie Griffin of Slingerlands.

Students named to the honor roll with grades of B or above were Karen O'Keefe, Delmar; Jill Donovan, Glenmont; Melissa Schwartz, Courney Wilson and Elyse Wilson, Voorheesville; and Edith Wagoner, Selkirk.

and energy supervisor at Owens-Corning Fiberglas in Delmar, said that he enjoyed his nine years on the board.

Newly elected president Sengenberger complimented Williams for being an "evenhanded" board president and said he was an excellent role model. "I hope to follow in his footsteps," Sengenberger said.

Sengenberger was elected to the board of education last year and has been heading the Committee Addressing Facilities and Enrollments (CAFE). The committee has been charged with studying the district's overcrowding problem.

The Feura Bush resident is a senior landscape architect for the state Department of Transportation and co-founder of the Feura Bush Neighborhood Association.

The organizational meeting also included the appointments of several district positions: district clerk, Rodger Lewis; treasurer, Nancy Caswell; collector of taxes, Rose Stalker; legal counsel, Simeon Gallo; attendance officer, Patricia Pappert; insurance advisor, Frank Stoltz; school physician, Ira D. LeFevre; and auditing firm, Urbach, Kahn and Werlin.

Day care center ready to open

Knuffels Day Care Center in Delmar for children from 8 weeks to kindergarten age is scheduled to open on Monday, July 20, according to Doreen Signorelli of Delmar, one of the project's founders.

Before the first child can pass through the Knuffels door, the building must face four final inspections. The state Department of Social Services and the Albany County Health Department will inspect the facilities. There will also be a fire inspection and a building inspection.

Signorelli said the inspections, which can not take place until the center is ready to open, are required for licensing. "I'm fairly confident we'll breeze through," she said.

The day care center will be open weekdays from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., with programs for each age level child. Signorelli said the center will attempt to meet four needs of the children at each level: developmental, psycho-social, cognitive and emotional. The programs will be scheduled around weekly themes.

Little League all-stars named

By John Bellizzi III

Tri-Village Little League's regular season has come to a close; but, the Tri-Village area will be represented at the Major and Intermediate levels in area All-Star tournaments and in the City and County tournaments to be held in upcoming weeks.

As reported last week, there were two co-champion teams in the Major Division this year. While Spotlight and Main-Care both ended the season with 11-4 records, Main-Care defeated Spotlight, 4-3, in the first round of the Major round robin tournament last Wednesday to win the honor of representing Tri-Village in the City and County tournament.

Josh Lanni pitched for Main-Care and gave up only two hits: singles by John Schaller and Jon Scholes. Lanni helped his cause with a triple. Mike Gammelunghe, Jamie Fraser and Joe Schneider all contributed hits. Main-Care had a bye for the semifinals, putting them up against the winner of Friday's semifinal game, Starwood Fund Raising.

In the first round robin game last week, Starwood Fund Raising defeated Professional Kitchen Design 11-8. Eric Schmollinger, Matt D'Ambrosi and Chris Macaluso were on the mound for the winners. Starwood had 10 hits, including doubles by Schmollinger, Gary VanWormer and Duncan McKaskill, and singles by Kevin Smith, Luke Paigo, Macaluso, McKaskill, Scott Lobel, and Dan Willi.

Ed Luberda's home run over the fence in the eighth inning won the first round game for General Electric over Price-Greenleaf, 9-8.

Luberda, who pitched the first six innings for GE, was relieved in extra innings by Sam Stasko. Mike Aylward and Brian Garver combined on the mound to pitch a five-hitter, but it wasn't good enough. Stasko singled; Jim Gavin doubled twice; Matt Winterhoff (borrowed from Davies, in Intermediates) doubled, and Luberda put one over the fence in the eighth.

Starwood outlasted General Electric, 15-9, in Friday's semifinal contest to advance to the finals on Monday. D'Ambrosi and Macaluso were on the mound for the winners. Starwood's victory came from their eight base hits. Macaluso and VanWormer each had two hits. Smith, McKaskill, Schmollinger and Willi each had one.

The finals of the Major League round robin tournament were scheduled to be played on Monday between Starwood and Main-Care.

The Intermediate League also had two champions. Both Peter J. Verardi Electrical Contracting, the National Division champ, and Davies Office Refurbishing, the American Division champ, finished the season with 10-2-1 records.

This week, Intermediate teams are competing against each other in a round robin tournament similar to last week's Major tournament. The first games of the tournament were scheduled to be played last night, with Stewart's facing Roberts Real Estate and Farm Family facing Davies. Tonight (Wednesday) first round action continues with Peter J. Verardi going up against Hoagy's Village Corner, the only team aside from American Division champion Davies that defeated Verardi. Also tonight, Keystone Builders and Handy Andy of the National Division battle for a spot in the semifinals. The winners of Tuesday night's games will face each other in semifinal competition Thursday, while tonight's two winners have their semifinal match on Friday. The finals of the tournament will be played on Saturday.

In the Junior League, Concord Tree Service was the first place team, finishing with a record of 11-2.

Closing day ceremonies, along with the annual managers/coaches softball game, will begin at noon on Sunday. In addition to awards for the champion teams, a sportsmanship award will be given to the player from each team that exhibited the best sportsmanlike conduct during the course of the season.

Mantle team vies for playoff spot

By John Bellizzi III

During this last week of regular season play for area Mickey Mantle baseball teams, Bethlehem's team is in the midst of a five-game week through which they may still be able to secure a spot in the playoffs.

The top two teams in each league will compete in playoff tournaments. Currently, Clifton Park and Burnt Hills, with records of 13-3 and 12-3, lead the league. Rotterdam is in third at 9-5. Bethlehem follows in fourth, only two games behind Rotterdam.

Last week, Bethlehem won one and lost one to stay at .500, with a 7-7 record. This week's five games give Bethlehem the opportunity to raise their record to 12-7, which may be good enough for second if Burnt Hills has a winless week.

Tomorrow evening, Bethlehem has their own chance to defeat Burnt Hills and possibly advance in the standings.

Although Bethlehem has only a slim shot at the playoffs, Coach Jesse Braverman is still happy with his team's performance in their first season in Mickey Mantle ball. "We have a team goal to finish over .500," explained Braverman, "and we have the chance to do it this week. Out of the two divisions in our league, we have done very well in what is definitely the more competitive one." The team plays teams in its own division twice, and teams in the other division only once.

Last week, Bethlehem defeated Rotterdam, 4-3, in their first victory over a team above them in the standings. Jonathan Skilbeck gave up five hits and struck out six batters in what Braverman called "his best performance yet this year." In the sixth inning, Skilbeck got out of a bases-loaded, no-outs situation without giving up any runs. Chris Hughes singled twice to lead Bethlehem's offense. Sean Davies batted in a run with his double.

Top-ranked team Clifton Park overpowered Bethlehem on Sunday, 8-3. Chris Pratt contributed a double; and, Devon Cahill added an RBI single to their offense.

The team was scheduled to face Guilderland on Monday in the first of their five games this week. Tonight (Wednesday) they travel to Cohoes for a game; Thursday they face Burnt Hills in an important contest. The team faces Chatham on Saturday. The players will go against South Troy on Sunday at the Bethlehem Town Park.

Foleys keeps pace in Babe Ruth race

In Voorheesville Babe Ruth section last week John Foley's Garage Cubs lost their first game but came back to win their second to keep pace with the front-running Ravana Pirates in the standings.

The Cubs were knocked out of a first place tie following a 2-1 loss to the Spotlight Red Sox. Ryan Brennan pitched a one-hitter for Spotlight and chipped in offensively with a single. Other hitters for Spotlight were Dan Tarullo with a single and Chip Adalain, whose fourth inning single drove the winning run across the plate. James Lane connected for Foley's Garage only hit, a single in the sixth inning.

Foley's came back strong in their second outing, defeating the Rod and Gun Giants, 8-7. Leading Foley's Cubs at the plate were Craig Lapinski with a single, triple and four RBI, Chuck Russo who hit a double and single and Kane who banged out three singles. The Giants were paced by Chad Hotaling with two singles and Mike Kaine, who added one single.

In gaining their second victory of the week, the Red Sox defeated the Giants by a 19-8 score. Leading the Spotlight power surge were Ryan Brennan with two singles, Tom Gaintasio and Bill Stone who each hit a double, Graig Sciriovogel who connected for a single and double and Chip Adalain who hit two singles, a double and had five RBIs. Danny Tarullo was the winning pitcher. For the Giants, Mike Haff hit two singles and a double and Ernie Papa and Kaine each hit two singles.

Owens-Corning, Starwood clinch Babe Ruth titles

By John Bellizzi III

Last week, Owens-Corning defeated General Electric, 7-0, to clinch the Gold Division title and lose the Bethlehem Babe Ruth season with a 7-3-1 record. Jamie Mizener was the winning pitcher, pitching his second straight victory over GE in as many weeks.

GE was second in the Gold Division with a 5-5 record, Davies Office Refurbishing third at 4-6, and National Savings Bank was fourth with a record of 4 wins, 6 losses and one tie. Starwood was the champion of the Blue Division with a 6-2 record.

The regular Babe Ruth season has ended, but Bethlehem teams began competing in area All-Star tournaments yesterday, when the 3-year-old All-Star team played their first game.

Life in the stream

A walk focusing around life in a stream will be offered at Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, Game Farm Rd., Delmar. The July 1 program will begin at 7 p.m. Participants are encouraged to wear comfortable walking shoes.

For information call the center at 53-1806.

Slingerlands PTA awards scholarships

The Slingerlands School Parent-Teacher Association recently awarded its first scholarships for graduating Bethlehem Central High School seniors in what is planned to be an annual event. The 1987 winners are Susan Zolezzi and David DeCecco.

The scholarships are given to students who graduated in the top quarter of their class and who attended Slingerlands Elementary School. Involvement in extracurricular activities at school and in the community are also considered.

Driver education course at BCHS

Bethlehem Central will offer the three-hour prelicense driver education course on the first Monday of each month rather than the previous Monday-Wednesday schedule. The program will run from 6 to 9 p.m. at Bethlehem Central High School.

Registration will begin at 5:30 p.m. the day of each class. For additional information call the school at 439-3650.

Baird qualifies for state games

Justin Baird, a 15-year old swimmer for the Bethlehem Central Varsity team, qualified for the Empire State Games for the second consecutive year.

Baird had four first place finishes in the boys scholastic division. He won the 100, 200, 400 and 1500 freestyle events and will compete in those same events at Nottingham High School in Syracuse on July 29 to Aug. 2.

Fire fighters show technique

The Elsmere Fire Company will demonstrate the modern techniques used to extinguish structure fires on Tuesday, July 14, at 7 p.m. The demonstration will be held at the new town training tower on Center Lane. After the four-story building is set on fire, the fire company will respond with three fire engines.

The fire fighting techniques and equipment will be reviewed by one of the company's officers. A question and answer period for the public will follow the demonstration.

Samaritans open house

Two open houses will be held for those interested in becoming volunteers for The Samaritans. The programs will be held on July 8 from 6 until 9 p.m. and July 11 from 9 a.m. to noon at The Samaritans, 200 Central Ave., Albany.

The Samaritans is a non-sectarian agency that provides suicide crisis, education and support services in the Capital District. For information and reservations, call 463-2323.

Funds for scholars

Partial scholarships are available to single parents who are presently enrolled or planning to enter a program at Maria College. The funds may be applied to any area of study at the school.

Letters of application should be sent to Dean Reynolds at Maria College, 700 New Scotland Ave., Albany, N.Y. 12208.

The new sun shades at the Bethlehem Town Park donated by the late Robert May of Slingerlands were dedicated Saturday by town officials. With Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick, left, are Elizabeth and Robert Deily of Slingerlands, friends of the Mays.

Help for the deaf

To the deaf and hearing impaired Bethlehem Public Library is as close as the telephone. Persons who use a Telecommunication device for the DEAF (TDD) can now call the library's desk to request a book or obtain the answer to questions on anything from how to get a library card to the latest information on buying mutual funds.

The TDD is equipped with a keyboard and LED printout and is connected to the telephone with a modem. The TDD user dials the regular library number, 439-9314. When the TDD tone is heard the call is transferred to the TDD at the reference desk. The reference librarian will answer by typing, "Library here. This is (name). May I help you. QGA (question, go ahead.)"

The TDD caller can then type his or her question, name and telephone number. "This is Tom Jones at 123-4567. Who are my U.S. Senators? GA (go ahead)." The librarian will type the answer to the question or arrange to call the user back. TDD users abbreviate words such as U (you), PLS (please) and SKAK (stop keying or good-bye).

Members of the library's reference staff have been trained to use this device. The service is available during all hours the library is open, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on weekdays, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays during the school year.

The library's TDD equipment was made available to the library by the Upper Hudson Library Federation and funded with a federal Library Service and Construction Act grant. Bethlehem Public Library is also slated to receive a large collection of books on deafness and

Soviet programs to air in Albany

Public television station WMHT and the State University at Albany will cooperate on a project that will bring Soviet television broadcasts to the area. Soviet documentary and cultural programming will be shown 12 hours each day on the college campus beginning in September.

The programs will be used in several courses offered at the school and will also appear in a half-hour series on WMHT.

WMHT contributed $12,000 towards equipment and will provide technical support of the project. The college and television station will establish student internships for the project.

30th reunion planned

The Philip Schuyler High School Class of 1957 is planning its 30th anniversary reunion for Saturday, Oct. 10. For reservations call Peter Girzone Leis at 434-8983, Diane Hendrickson at 768-2101 or Vicki Kendrick at 434-4210.

Dr. Thomas Atkinson, supervisor of Bethlehem Central School District's science department, left, presented a plaque to Charles Jenkins, personnel manager at Owens-Corning Fiberglas of Delmar to thank the company for supplying the district with science films over the past several years.

Deputies catch fleeing DWI driver

A 26-year old Albany man will be appearing in New Scotland Town Court for driving while intoxicated and resisting arrest following an incident on Font Grove Rd. Saturday, Albany County sheriff's deputies said.

Deputies said they received a call from Town of Bethlehem Police at about 1:30 a.m. Saturday to assist on a minor incident on Font Grove Rd. On their way to the scene the deputies spotted a car similar to the description reported at the incident. Deputies said the car driven by the Albany man came around a corner on Krumkill Rd. into their lane almost forcing them off the road and the deputies had to take evasive measures.

Politics about town

Editor, The Spotlight:

I appreciate and applaud The Spotlight's continuing extensive and objective coverage of the plight of Bethlehem's Receiver of Taxes, Ken Hahn.

If Ken Hahn, as a Republican committee member and town official, had supported someone other than his party's nominee in a general election, I could at least partially understand how political bosses might attempt to justify the destruction of Mr. Hahn's long career as a Bethlehem public servant.

What's been lost here, however, is the fact that Mr. Hahn worked for another strong Republican candidate in a primary election. I've always been under the impression that the very reason for a primary election is to allow voters of a particular party to exercise their right to disagree about — and eventually decide by ballot — the official nominee of their party for the general election.

Was Ken Hahn's support for a candidate of his choice in a primary election sufficient reason for the Town Republican Chairman to turn his back on Mr. Hahn's long service to his party and town? One would think not.

On the other hand, you have to remember that the Republican chairman was the other candidate.

What also bothers me about all this is how such a political shenanigan can influence the future of good government in this town. After all his years of service, if Ken Hahn can be threatened for simply speaking his mind, will any of our other elected officials ever again have the courage to do what they personally believe is right? It's a troubling thought.

"Irangate" may be the big story of wrongdoing in Washington, but we've got another one right here in Bethlehem that may actually be more important to our everyday lives.

Jean R. Hipwell

Delmar
Speeders must be stopped

Editor, The Spotlight:

I was pleased to read the formation of the new traffic safety committee, and would like to ask that as one of your first orders of business you consider the problem of speeding on Winne Road, in the Village of Delmar.

I first wrote to Supervisor Hendrick last summer about this matter and enclosed a petition signed by residents of Winne Road in the vicinity of Jordan Blvd. That letter and petition requested that a stop sign be placed on Winne and Jordan, as a means of slowing down some of the speeding traffic. Our request was forwarded to the Bethlehem Police Department.

I wrote to Lt. Holligan on March 23, 1987 to ask his help again with this matter. He was responsive and arranged for an unmarked patrol car to survey traffic on Winne Road one afternoon, in order to determine the extent of the problem. The survey found only a few speeders that afternoon and Lt. Holligan was reluctant, therefore, to recommend the stop sign. He said, however, that he understood our problem, agreeing that perhaps the 30 mph speed limit itself was too high for such a residential area, and offered that he did not see any reason not to continue to try to persuade the town to put in the stop sign.

I am writing now to try and do just that. As I told Lt. Holligan, I spend much more time on Winne road than his patrol car could, and I am convinced that we have a real and troublesome problem. The street is over a mile long and people speed while driving on it. It may be unconscious, but to those of us who walk in the road (because there are no sidewalks), it is a threatening and upsetting problem.

I would be pleased to testify before the committee, if need be, but I hope that these letters, my petition, and your own experience convinces you of the gravity of the problem. I also hope that you will act on behalf of the residents of Winne Road and authorize that a stop sign be placed at Winne and Jordan Blvd., at the very least, and

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

Perhaps at other intersections along Winne Road a few blocks apart. Something has to be done about this problem, on Winne Road and all through the Village, and I am hopeful that your committee will act decisively before there are accidents and the loss of life. Winne road residents who did not sign the petition and would like to support the idea of stop signs on the street are encouraged to write to the Traffic Safety Committee.

Mark P. Alesse

Roadways not playgrounds

Editor, The Spotlight:

I have been reading a lot in The Spotlight recently about parents in developments attempting to have speed bumps installed or speed limits reduced. The problem is not the motorist. The remedy that will best less for the town, the taxpayer, the motorist - and the lives of children is simple: keep the children out of the streets. I reared four children and none of them used the road as their playground. Many of the parents who gathered to petition against a mental hospital being built for fear of their children's safety are the very parents who allow their children to play in the streets. To prove my point, drive down Jefferson Street in Glenmont, especially now that school is out. I had to drive down Jefferson recently and had to come to a complete stop for a toddler on a big wheel right in the middle of the road. After blowing my horn, the child made her way to the side of the road. As I crept by, I noticed no adult in sight. At that point I thought how effective it might be if our local police, while watching for speeders, would also issue a few tickets for child endangerment, child neglect, or child abuse. Why is this a one-sided problem? In defense of our more responsible parents, I must admit this problem only exists in developments, not on our other area streets of 30 m.p.h. I have never seen children playing on Cherry Avenue, Delaware Avenue, Kenwood Avenue, or side streets connecting those highways. If playgrounds are needed, let the people fight for them, not speed bumps. The motorist has to be able to dodge skateboards, rollerskaters and ball players as if on an obstacle course in these developments. If, by some horrid accident, a child does get hit, the motorist must live with this his entire life, whether ticketed or not. No one ever says "Where were the parents?"

If you have some beautiful future plans for your child, please insure their future with your guidance and supervision. Don't leave it up to the unknown, unsuspecting motorist to watch over your child.

Elizabeth Bradt

Special thanks

Editor, The Spotlight:

The Starwood team, composed largely of thirteen year olds, is one that the parents and the league officials can be proud of. They listened and learned and suffered through the tirades of the coaches. But they learned, applied what they learned, and played as a team.

I want to thank the league for allowing me to work with this group, and the parents who drove them to and from the practices and games, who played catch at home with them, and who gave me support by never complaining, "Why isn't my son playing more or playing this position?"

I also want to thank Mr. Jim Dundon, the official coach, for all his help and Mr. Tom Noonan, the unofficial coach and scorekeeper, for being there when I needed help. But, most of all, I want to thank the kids for making it fun.

How citizens, planners can work together

How much planning is enough? How much is too much?

A story in the June 24 issue of The Spotlight on differences of opinion about expanding facilities in the Bethlehem Central School District, and last week's exhaustive look at residential construction in the Town of Bethlehem both raise important questions about planning.

What both stories have in common, of course, is the difficulty of seeing into the future and making decisions based on what the future holds. That difficulty underscores a more important message — the impossibility of planning in a vacuum. Planning is a community concern, and without a well-perceived need and a consensus it is a wasted activity.

In the case of the school district, a specialist in demographics questions an administration recommendation that the district build more class rooms to accommodate the expected influx of new students. A close look at population trends, he argues, do not justify the widely-expected "boom" in the district, and thus the district has more time to make its decisions on redistricting and building.

That is a position that will be hotly argued in the months to come. But it is clear that good "planning" is not in itself enough. The 1985 elementary school redistricting proposal was a reasonable plan, but met with such concerted resistance from the various parent groups that the school board was unable to pass it. Spending money to install relocatables at Glenmont was, politically speaking, an easier solution.

Reporting on the controversy over new housing developments in Bethlehem brings us to a similar conclusion — a close look at the specific projects that are planned doesn't support the fears that the town is being overrun. There is no disputing that Bethlehem needs more planning, and the town is taking steps to add a full-time planner to the staff. The question is how that planning should be done, and where the focus should be. Some thoughts:

Editor's View

Occasional comments by the editors of The Spotlight

- Planning is a consensus-building activity, a "political" exercise more than a technical activity. This is precisely the problem with the current push to develop a link from the Delmar Bypass to New Scotland Rd. piece by piece. The Bethlehem Citizens for Responsible Planning make a good case for looking at that road as an entity, rather than as a series of extensions through new developments. On the other hand, no one group should be able to block such a project — an extension of the Delmar Bypass is a concern for the whole town, not just the people who live nearby.
- Town-wide or school district-wide master planning is too hypothetical to be of much use to either the town or the school districts. For one thing, growth patterns simply can't be predicted with any accuracy more than a couple of years in the future. More important, long-range decisions made by one generation for the next are likely to be based on assumptions that no longer hold true.

- Regional plans can be useful in Bethlehem in areas where major changes are likely. Currently those areas are the Rt. 9W corridor, the Orchard St.-Fisher Blvd. area, the McCormack Rd.-North St. area and North Bethlehem. Up to this point the town has found it impossible to actually create such mini master plans with the manpower available. And there is no guarantee that a professional planner, who should be on board this fall, will find it any easier unless the town board takes an active role in spelling out the procedures and guideline for developing such plans. Those procedures should, of course, involve public hearings and other efforts to get community input. Realistic regional plans should make it much easier for the school districts to plan for their facilities.

• Even though Bethlehem's zoning procedures are among the most rigorous in the Capital District, the planned development district concept needs to be reviewed. The Bethlehem Citizens for Responsible Planning are correct in saying that rezoning as a planned residence district or a planned commercial district is very close to being final building approval. The second step of the process — building project approval — is, while important, technical in nature and not concerned with the overall questions of what development is appropriate for a particular piece of land. What is necessary, then, is a clear understanding of the procedure and its implications, and an effort to inform the public at the outset.

- Furthermore, the fact that half a dozen large parcels of land have been zoned as PRDs or PCDs for more than 10 years — with no development taking place — is a matter of serious concern. While the procedures have since been tightened up, these old PRDs and PCDs have virtually no limits on what can be developed. The town should consider putting a time limit on all new planned districts, so that if development does not take place the land can revert back to some less attractive zoning. And the planning board should review the older districts to determine whether the broad scope of uses is still appropriate.

No single issue exemplifies the planning dilemma more than the extension of the Delmar Bypass. Ever since former Supervisor Tom Corrigan advanced the idea, Bethlehem officials have been very forthright about what they want and how they hope to get it. Nevertheless, some citizens are now saying the concept is being rammed down their throats.

What the town wants is a road to ease congestion on Delaware Ave. by diverting traffic onto the bypass, but at minimal cost to the town. And since the state long ago withdrew its support for the original bypass extension plan, which would have ended up near the Stonewell intersection in New Scotland, a bypass curving north through Delaware Turnpike and up to New Scotland Rd. at Fisher Blvd. — most of which will be built by developers — seems like the only feasible alternative. Furthermore, the 1985 Vollmer traffic study documents that such a bypass will indeed reroute through traffic off Delaware Ave.

This is certainly a regional concept, and demands a regional approach. At this late date, however, a formal environmental impact statement for the new road would be a tremendous waste of time and money. But the town government should recognize that it hasn't done enough — even with all of the publicity the plan has received — to gauge public opinion and build support for the plan.

Up to this point, the people who have been heard are the organized forces opposing Delmar Village and the other developments near by. But many other interests are involved. What does Bethlehem Central High School think about using Van Dyke Rd. as a major thoroughfare? What do the residents of Van Dyke Rd. think about it? What happens on New Scotland Rd. when Fisher Blvd. becomes a major road? Are there feasible alternatives? What do people who use Delaware Ave. think? And so on.

Effective planning means a good faith effort to work with the people affected by a particular development or set of developments. Town and school officials have shown a willingness to do that on specific issues; what is needed now is a way to involve all of the people affected by regional developments and trends. The procedure should be simple and unbureaucratic, but thorough. Only in this way can the suspicions and the less productive arguments over specific developments be avoided.

Endless development

Editor, The Spotlight:

In the June 24 Spotlight, Dr. Richard Alba expressed doubt in regard to demographic projections made by Dr. McAndrews to the Bethlehem School Board Jan. 5, 1987. The projections suggest concern regarding increases in school population size and the appropriate response (use space reserved for special programs? add additional space? where? permanent? relocatable? redistricting?).

Dr. Alba states that he still does not think growth will be at the rate predicted and thus such considerations are premature. Dr. Alba bases part of his argument on the low rate of population growth predicted for Albany County as a whole, but adds that "... it is wise to keep in mind the larger forces shaping Bethlehem's future."

It is wise, indeed! It is obvious to this concerned citizen that as I drive Albany County daily, I see more growth here than anywhere else in the county. A major force affecting increases in population (and in the school population) is the rate and timing of development. As the following data concerning building permits for dwelling units in the Town of Bethlehem suggests, a major surge occurred in the early 1980s, and is continuing unabated.

Year	Dwelling Unit Permits Issued
1980	134
1981	73
1982	70
1983	129
1984	189
1985	332
1986	343

These figures strongly suggest that at least 1,000 new dwelling units will exist in the Town of Bethlehem within two years if the current rate of approval of building projects continues.

Using Albany County Planning Board multipliers to project student increases in relation to population increases, these 1,000 units equal 350 new students. The cumulative effect of all this growth on the existing school system cannot be ignored. Decisions regarding additional space, redistricting, or both, should be occurring now for the 1988-89 school year. The lead time for additions is at least two years from planning to construction. Even if construction does not seem the route, parents need adequate time to adjust children to redistricting plans. Past history shows the difficulty in providing additional space when the issue of relocatables at Glenmont was at hand.

Season beneficial

Editor, The Spotlight:

Our daughter, Laura, has just completed her first season of Tomboys softball. This letter is to thank the people of the Bethlehem Tomboys organization. A special thanks to her coach and manager, Shelly and Tom Moreen. Shelly and Tom gave their time freely to the team and held many practice sessions both prior to and during the season. The result of these practice sessions were:

The girls on the team got to know and like each other. This resulted in their supporting each other while on the playing field.

They learned the skills necessary to enable them to play as well as they could. This resulted in self-confidence while they were playing.

They learned the relationship between working hard and doing well.

There was a tremendous amount of parent participation and enthusiasm both at the practice sessions and at the games. The team sponsor, Mike Cornaire of GM Heating & Cooling became an avid fan.

The team found out that softball, just like everything else, is more fun when you do it well. To do things well requires effort.

We believe that the girls on the GM Heating & Cooling team (Tomboys Minors) had a very positive experience and that it was due in large extent to the excellent coaching of the Moreens.

Three cats missing

Editor, The Spotlight:

This is an appeal to everyone. I am the owner of four cats that I am very attached to. At the present time, only one cat is at home.

On June 21, I noticed that my long-haired grey angora named Smokey had not returned for dinner. Believing that he was out on some adventure, I did not worry. As the days passed, I realized that something must have happened.

By June 28, two others were missing — Valentine, a pure white cat, and her daughter Jackie, a small grey tiger cat.

If anyone has heard of or seen these cats, I would greatly appreciate being notified. Please call 518-439-4763. All three cats have collars.

Review intersection

Editor, The Spotlight:

The following letter was sent to the Bethlehem Police Chief:

It is with deep concern for the safety of fellow residents and through travelers who approach the Four Corners intersection at Kenwood and Delaware Avenues in Delmar that I write this letter.

Having just witnessed a near-disastrous collision (entirely avoidable in my opinion), I am putting forth a request that remedial action take place as soon as possible before there is a fatal or crippling accident at this intersection.

My plea is for additional traffic signals to allow left-hand turns only with delay timing, such as the one at Elsmere and Delaware avenues.

Mrs. Jean D. Beiermeister

Delmar

Your letter was forwarded by the Bethlehem police to the state Department of Transportation, which has jurisdiction over the intersection, and has already generated a reply. According to Joseph Kelly, regional traffic engineer, accident statistics confirm that the intersection is becoming more dangerous, although so far there has been nothing serious. Kelly said traffic counts will be made and a decision made on new signals "in a couple of months." Ed.
