Hahn-Fritts a referendum on leadership

Bethlehem party battle reveals inner workings

By Tom McPheeters

To hear Kenneth Hahn and Charles Fritts and their supporters talk, you'd think there are two Bernies.

Hahn and Fritts are the candidates in one of the most talked-about primaries in the long, proud history of the Bethlehem Republican Party. But Bernard Kaplowitz, the party chairman, is the man everybody's talking about.

Is Kaplowitz running Fritts against Hahn, a 24-year incumbent as Bethlehem's receiver of taxes and assessments, in the Sept. 15 primary in retaliation because Hahn didn't support Kaplowitz in last year's Republican primary for the state assembly? Or is the great majority of the Republican Committee simply fed up with Hahn's independent ways? Party boss or democracy? Much of the answer to those questions depends on your view of how Kaplowitz really does run one of the most successful party organizations in the area.

"Bernie's being blamed for everything," says Fritts, whose own qualifications - for the job include being chairman of the Bethlehem Board of Appeals for the last 14 years, as well as service in the Selkirk Fire Department and other civic organizations. In his case, says Fritts, he went to Kaplowitz after sensing a great deal of displeasure with Hahn by party workers. Kaplowitz left it up to the committee to decide, and the overwhelming majority voted for him, Fritts says.

"Mr. Kaplowitz calls the shots and pulls the strings," says Hahn, a 24-year incumbent and the longest active Republican committeeman in the town. "Bernie made a mistake. If he knew the amount of displeasure this has engendered, he never would have done it."

Kaplowitz is not, of course, the only one whose character is being called into question. As the campaign winds to a close, both sides are saying unkind things about key players on the other side. The result is an unusually frank and unvarnished look at the workings of the Bethlehem Republican Party.

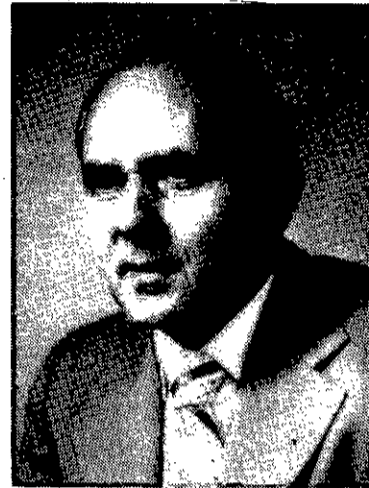

The primary has become a forum for those who see conspiracies and dark plots in the seemingly innocent events of Bethlehem politics. Hahn says Kaplowitz orchestrates selection of the GOP's candidates, and even has the next supervisor candidate picked out. The chairman's supporters hint that Hahn and his ally, Gary Swan, conspired to sabotage Kaplowitz's chances in last year's primary and are engaged in nothing less than a battle to take over the party. Former allies are enemies.

It all started with last year's GOP primary for the 102nd District assembly seat long held by C.D. "Larry" Lane. When Lane decided to retire, Republicans in the three counties in the district all decided the seat could be theirs - if they could keep their own back yards unified. Columbia and Greene counties each fielded single candidates, but Bethlehem, which has more registered Republicans than either of the other two counties, was split.

Swan, a Glenmont resident who works in the assembly minority leader's office, maintained that he was in the race first, and that he was the only truly district-wide candidate. Kaplowitz and his supporters felt Swan should have bowed out when the town Republican Committee endorsed Kaplowitz. The two Bethlehem candidates finished in a virtual dead heat for last, with Kaplowitz winning Bethlehem but Swan showing surprising strength in Glenmont, where he teamed with citizens opposing a psychiatric hospital on Rt. 9W, and making some inroads in the other two counties. Columbia County's John Faso, who also worked for the Republicans in the legislature, was the winner of the primary and the general election.

Hahn was Swan's only major Bethlehem supporter in that primary. That support was significant, because Hahn has developed a significant base of strength in North Bethlehem, where he lives. As a committeeman in the area for 30 years, Hahn has been involved in bringing water and sewers to large parts of North Bethlehem, has been involved in zoning issues and claims to have registered more Republican voters than the rest of the town combined. Hahn also as cultivated the town's tiny population of Conservative voters, who have supported Bethlehem GOP candidates in the last several elections. Hahn and Fritts will also be vying for the Conservative line Sept. 15.

The Swan race was not the first time that Hahn had taken an independent stand in party politics, however. He put county legislator Gordon Morris's name in nomination for the town board in 1983 when the nomination went to J. Robert Hendrick, and continued to support

New Scotland gets stay on mine work

By Patricia Mitchell

The Appellate Division of State Supreme Court has decided not to lift a stay against William M. Larned and Son in its bid to mine on part of the former Tall Timbers Country Club. The action means there will be no mining on the land off Rt. 85A until the appeals court decides on the issue, probably not before the end of the year.

Larned and Son voluntarily stopped mining the site on Aug. 7, when the company agreed to talk over the town's position that it had an automatic stay. Following a favorable ruling in state Supreme Court, mining started on July 10, after about two years of debate over the mine. But the town filed an appeal shortly after, and town officials said that gave them an automatic stay against the mine.

The decision from the five judges on the middle-level court was handed down Thursday, said Town Attorney Fred Riester. The miners had asked one judge to either lift the ban on mining or require the town to post a $5 million bond during the appeal process.

The ruling follows the town's position that because it is a political subdivision in the state, an appeal filed with the Appellate Division constitutes an automatic stay on a lower court decision. The town and Concerned Citizens for New Scotland, Inc., believe it did, while Larned and Son believe it did not. However, because Larned and Son appeared in court last week, Riester said the company was acknowledging the stay.

The appeal filed by the town seeks to overturn a state Supreme Court decision that said the state's Mined Land Reclamation Law supersedes local zoning laws. The miners were challenging a December, 1986, planning board decision that denied the 27-acre gravel mine because of earlier town board action that prohibits mining in Industrial and Low Density Residential zones.

Wayne Smith, Larned and Son's attorney, could not be reached for comment Monday.

Thursday's decision was a skirmish on the way to the real combat, Riester said. It is nice to have the mine shut down but it gives no indication of the court's ultimate ruling, he said.

"This is good news," said Concerned Citizens Chairman Robert Morrison. "I think this is the beginning of the final victory."

Now the town and Concerned Citizens will be busying themselves preparing papers to file by Sept. 28 and for a December hearing on the state Supreme Court ruling. The town needs to file papers on the stay by Sept. 28 or Larned and Son can go back and reapply for the stay to be lifted. The Appellate Division will be convening Dec. 14, and the town's appeal should be heard during that term. Riester said he

"We get better quality and usually better prices," said Sherry Hawley of Elsmere, treasurer of the Adamsville Fruit and Vegetable Cooperative. "I find it's a nice way to meet people."

"I like the quality of the food. I like the savings. I like the comradery. I like meeting people who are similar," said Roberta Ponemon, a member of Bethlehem's Mixed Nuts Co-op.

If you ask folks what they enjoy most about membership in the area's two major food co-ops, you'll find that fresh and natural foods, competitive prices and good company are most often mentioned.

Both groups give grocery shoppers an alternative to the offerings of area supermarkets. Savings are often realized because the members order in volume and manage distribution themselves.

"Many people join for the cheeses and juices," said Joan Porco of Delmar, co-chairman of Mixed Nuts.

Moquin denied bail

Bail has been denied for an Albany woman charged with second-degree murder and felony driving while intoxicated in connection with an accident last month that killed a 15-year-old Delmar girl, court officials said.

Cathleen Quinn, a passenger in the other car, died from head injuries she received in the Aug. 6 crash. Alice Quinn, her mother who was driving the car, was hospitalized for abdominal injuries and her father, Dr. Brian Quinn, escaped injury.

In a hearing before Judge John Turner Friday, bail was denied to Deborah Moquin, 36, of Magnolia Terr. in Albany, court officials said. The hearing was set for Monday but was postponed for a psychiatric examination. Moquin has pleaded innocent to the felony charges of second-degree murder, second-degree manslaughter, second degree vehicular manslaughter, two counts of vehicular assault, two counts of felony DWI, and to the misdemeanor charge of reckless driving.

Albany County Assistant District

Attorney Dan Dwyer said setting bail is strictly discretionary in felony cases. Citing psychiatric testimony by Albany County Department of Mental Health psychiatrists, Dwyer said, Turner decided that Moquin is a risk to herself and others because of her low tolerance for frustration causing her to turn to alcohol.

Turner also denied bail for Moquin because she failed to follow previous court orders in connection with previous DWI charges, Dwyer said.

The district attorney's office opposed setting bail for Moquin because she allegedly used excessive speed, was tested for a high level of alcohol in her blood and because of possible incarceration if she is convicted, Dwyer said.

This is Moquin's third DWI charge, according to state Department of Motor Vehicles records.

Moquin will continue to be held at the Albany County Jail. The next move in the case could come in 45 days when Moquin's attorney, F.

Stanley Ackerman, can make motions on the charges.

According to police reports, Moquin was driving south on Rt. 85 near the Thruway overpass at about 10:25 p.m. when her car crossed into the northbound lane, apparently to pass another car. South of the Thruway bridge the road changes from four divided lanes to two lanes. Driving north, Alice Quinn attempted to avoid a collision with Moquin's car, but the Quinns' car was struck and Moquin's car was overturned and struck a guardrail on the west side of Rt. 85.

State to look at Rt. 85 bottleneck

By Patricia Mitchell

The state Department of Transportation is studying Rt. 85 in the area where a 15-year-old Delmar girl died from injuries she received in a head-on collision last month. The road narrows from a four-lane divided highway to two lanes as it crosses the Thruway bridge and enters Bethlehem.

The Aug. 6 accident that killed Cathleen Quinn, hospitalized Alice Quinn, her mother, with abdominal injuries, and resulted in a seven-count indictment, including second degree murder and manslaughter charges against an Albany woman, prompted the DOT study, said Bill Logan, assistant regional traffic engineer for Region I.

"We are looking at it," Logan said, adding a report could be ready in three to four weeks.

The DOT study is looking at Rt. 85 southbound where it narrows from a four-lane divided highway to a two-lane road, Logan said. It will try to determine whether the August crash was an isolated incident.

Logan said the DOT will look at the police crash report, signs in the area and a history of other crashes.

A crash several years ago involving a car northbound going into the southbound lane where the highway becomes divided, prompted the state to put up overhead signs advising drivers to bear to the right when driving north, Logan said. Overhead signs could also be placed on the southbound lane before the highway goes to two lanes, but he said there are quite a few signs up now.

According to police reports, 36-year-old Deborah Moquin of Albany was driving south on Rt. 85 where the four-lane highway changes to two lanes when her car crossed into the northbound lane, apparently to pass another car. Driving north, Alice Quinn attempted to avoid a collision with Moquin's car but the Quinns' car was struck. Moquin's car then overturned and struck a guardrail on the west side of Rt. 85.

Another passenger in the car, Dr. Brian Quinn, escaped injury.

□ Hahn-Fritts referendum

Morris two years later when he campaigned for the supervisor designation that also went to Hendrick.

Now, however, Hahn and Morris are on opposite sides. Morris worked for Kaplowitz last year, and tried to convince Hahn to switch sides, both men say. There are bitter feelings.

Morris "thinks he's going to be the next supervisor," says Hahn.

"I think it's a shame when a good man goes bad," replies Morris. "I don't need to justify where I am, but Kenny Hahn needs to justify where he is, and to do that he needs to say that everybody else is in it for personal gain."

Morris acknowledges that he has had his differences with Kaplowitz, but says he's made his peace. "I feel you can be involved in the Republican Party as long as you can work within the party," he says. "It is my belief that Kenny Hahn has elected to publicly embarrass the Republican Party."

The final wedge was almost obscured during last year's primary. Hahn replaced his fellow committeeman in the 10th District, Michael Frantsov, with William Cleveland — without telling Kaplowitz. At the time, Hahn said he felt Frantsov wasn't pulling his weight in the committee work, but now Hahn acknowledges other considerations.

Frantsov, he says, "forgot who his friend was." And Hahn felt he needed at least one friend on the committee so that he could at least get his name in nomination this year when he was up for reelection.

Now, however, the episode is being cited by the Fritts forces as the final straw. "He's not a team player," says Fritts.

Meanwhile, what of Swan? After the primary last year, when he took a leave of absence from the assembly, Swan went back to the

Hahn draws top line

Kenneth Hahn's name will appear at the top of the ballot in the Sept. 15 Republican primary for Bethlehem Receiver of Taxes — the result, says Hahn, of a protest filed with the Albany County Board of Elections.

Hahn said he was informed by the board that it had held a drawing for name position on the ballot Aug. 19, and that he had drawn the number two spot. He protested, he said, because state law requires that the candidates be notified, and he wasn't. A second drawing was held Monday, and Hahn said he was notified that he had drawn the first spot.

assembly in a new, higher-paying job, which upsets the Kaplowitz forces. He retains his seat on the Board of Appeals, but will likely not be reappointed for another term next year. And with the likely departure of several other board members at the end of the year (including himself), Fritts engineered the expansion of the board by two members, further diluting Swan's status.

"A lot of people would like to make me the issue," Swan acknowledges, so he has attempted to stay out of the limelight during the primary. But Swan says that he has been working behind the scenes with his wife, "plus a lot of people who I have never seen involved in politics before."

Swan claims he tried to bury the hatchet after last year's primary, but found "a continuing attitude of vindictiveness." This contest, says Swan, is "a watershed in the Republican Party..." a referendum on "openness."

A Hahn victory does not, however, mean a change in party

Crime prevention tips offered for businesses

"Crime Prevention: It's Your Business," a brochure prepared by the Albany crime prevention unit of the State Police, is being offered to area business owners. In addition, the State Police are available to examine business sites and offer suggestions for safeguarding merchandise and money.

The troopers suggest that business owners:

- Use deadbolt locks on all exterior doors.
- Check all doors and windows before leaving.
- Develop a system of key security.
- Check all areas of the building before locking up.
- Light all entrances with vandal-proof fixtures.
- Install an alarm system if appropriate.
- Keep as little cash as possible.
- Keep the premises visible from the street by avoiding high displays in windows.
- Call the police immediately after discovering a burglary. Do not enter the building until after the police arrive.
- Advertise policy on prosecution of shoplifters.

leadership, say both Swan and Hahn. For one thing, challenging committee members, who are elected every two years, is an enormously difficult task.

Also, says Hahn, "there's no organization here, except a couple of us who refuse to be rubber stamps." If he wins, says Hahn, the party "will just go right on from here."

The Fritts forces aren't sure what Hahn and Swan are up to, and are taking no chances. Primaries generally have a low turnout, but the political issues may make this one different. Fritts is campaigning door to door with members of the committee, and expects a major get-out-the-vote effort on primary day. Hahn is making a similar effort, with, he says, about 40 active workers and another 20 to 25 willing to work on election day.

In the end, the results will probably be determined by which side is most successful in getting across its message — party boss, or democracy?

Kaplowitz says it isn't so

Bernard Kaplowitz doesn't act the part of a political boss, and clearly resents the label.

Bernard Kaplowitz

In addition, most people familiar with how the Bethlehem Republican Party works say that Kaplowitz, chairman for 11 years, runs a remarkably open organization. That may account for the fact that the party always seems to have a large corps of willing workers. The party, says Kaplowitz, does have room for dissent and competition.

"The only rule is, once the majority of the committee has made a decision, it is imperative that we all join hands and put up a united front against the enemy, which is the other party," said Kaplowitz Monday.

It was not, he says, personal revenge but party unity that brought on the decision not to endorse Kenneth Hahn for another term as receiver of taxes. "I did not go out looking for Ken Hahn's scalp," Kaplowitz said. Members of the committee supported Charles Fritts because of their unhappiness with the fact that Hahn supported Gary Swan, rather than Kaplowitz, in last year's Republican primary for the state assembly, and because Hahn also replaced a committeeman in his district without getting the party's okay.

Kaplowitz added that because of the strong feeling on the committee it is unlikely that even his personal support of Hahn could have staved off the primary.

Does Kaplowitz always stay neutral? Hahn says the chairman exerts his control behind the scenes, and cites a March 25 letter to the committee members announcing his support for Dennis Corrigan to replace John Geurtze on the town board. The letter was written before Geurtze had announced his resignation or any other candidates for the position had surfaced.

"I think as chairman I have the right to endorse someone," said Kaplowitz. "That's part of leading." In this case, he said, it was clearly in the party's interest to have a Glenmont-area replacement for Geurtze, and to begin to attract younger candidates. Corrigan is the son of former Supervisor Tom Corrigan.

But Kaplowitz said that the charge that he orchestrates — or could orchestrate — the selection of town candidates is absurd. He said he didn't even know the current supervisor, J. Robert Hendrick, when Hendrick was picked by the committee to run for the town board shortly before the 1983 election. When it became clear that both Hendrick and county Legislator W. Gordon Morris wanted to succeed Corrigan as supervisor, Kaplowitz said, he left it to the committee to decide.

If, as has been rumored, Hendrick will retire after his next term, another fight may be in the offing for supervisor. Morris is still interested, and it is widely reported that town board members Fred Webster and Sue Ann Ritchko are also interested.

His scenario? "Absolutely none," said Kaplowitz. "It will be the committee's choice."

Spotlight goes after the news

This is another in a series of articles recounting the ups and downs of The Spotlight. The first series described the paper's first two decades, during which it was published as a free-distribution shopper with scatterings of personal news items. The present series, dealing with the problems of converting to a paid-circulation newspaper, is based on excerpts from an autobiographical collection of vignettes of a newspaper career spanning 40 years compiled by Nat Boynton, a former editor-publisher of The Spotlight, which will be published in book form later this year.

By Nat Boynton

The battle to establish The Spotlight as a credible paid-circulation weekly newspaper rather than a giveaway shopper was helped by two breaking stories that had enough substance and excitement to delight any editor. The first was the revelation that the U.S. Department of Labor was secretly negotiating to set up a Job Corps rehabilitation center for center-city youth from New York and Buffalo in a rural section of the town, causing a degree of panic among peace-loving residents and motivating them to mount emotional resistance. The second was the decision of the Bethlehem Town Board to suspend, investigate and bring a multitude of charges against its chief of police, an entrenched though controversial political figure.

I threw myself into both stories with adrenalin flowing, reveling in each turn and development like old days on the news beat. In each case the Bethlehem Town Hall became a competitive battleground for the Albany media, two daily papers and three TV news teams. For me it was the reverse of my youthful days as a reporter in the North Country, when I was working for a daily paper that rolled all over the hometown paper. Now I was the local brat on the block, brushed over and ignored by the big-city bullies with their generic advantage — instant electronics and daily press runs.

To survive and be competitive in this kind of battleground it was almost instinctive to adopt the stance of the big national magazines like Time, Newsweek, Sports Illustrated and the like. They accept the theorem that there is no way a weekly can beat a daily to a spot-news story. What does Newsweek do when a blockbuster like a Page One assassination attempt or a pivotal Supreme Court decision comes a day after deadline? What does Sports Illustrated do when it goes to press the day before the seventh game of the World Series? The answer is to offer better stuff — a clearer insight, more comprehensive analysis, more intimate portrayal of key personalities, fresher angles, more in-depth reporting and more authoritative writing.

I was fortunate that the Albany dailies often used the Bethlehem beat as a training ground for rookie reporters. By the same token TV newspeople were content to take a few quotes from the central cast and report only the most obvious — or the most visual — spot developments.

I had been around for enough years to watch the deterioration of the coverage the Albany papers gave the suburbs. In the late Sixties the Knickerbocker and the Times-Union each had a full-time reporter assigned to Bethlehem and another to Guilderland. In the early Seventies each paper cut back to one reporter covering a combined Bethlehem-Guilderland beat. In the late Seventies each paper assigned one of the regular city staff to give token coverage to those two towns (and a rare peek at New Scotland) if the Albany beat permitted. The result was desultory coverage, which played directly into the hands of the suburban weeklies.

* * * * *

Both the Job Corps drama that first summer and the police chief hassle a year later provided lush opportunities for all these things. In each situation emotions ran high, rumors abounded and there were twists and turns that developed over several months.

In the Spotlight's private struggle against the Albany dailies there was one aspect that might have worked to our advantage or disadvantage, depending on the viewpoint: we had no editorial page as such, while the dailies each took strong editorial stands. We presented analytical aspects along with reports of the week's developments without offering editorial comment other than Letters-to-the-Editor from impassioned readers, and these viewpoints often clashed. The Job Corps and police chief intrigues were natural fodder for editorial writers, and both the Knickerbocker and the Times-Union jumped in with forceful opinions. Ironically, it turned out that in each case they backed the wrong horse.

* * * * *

The Job Corps story would have been routine if the federal government in the form of the U.S. Labor Department hadn't been so incredibly inept. They also were consistent in their bumbling. As a result the scarcity of reliable information spawned rumors and further misinformation. That in turn caused the town government to get mad at the federals, the townspeople to become disillusioned with both, and the resident Congressman to abandon his mediation attempts.

This kaleidoscopic scenario put the Spotlight on center stage through the first summer of its resurrection. Perhaps more significantly the editor, who was producing virtually the entire news content of each week's issue because the publisher (who was himself) couldn't afford to hire a helping hand, acquired an assistant in the person of a college journalism summer-intern. The balance sheet was much improved, which was to say that instead of cashing in the last life insurance policies and adding more bank overdrafts, the cash flow was approaching the break-even point.

In the Job Corps drama there was some cloak-and-dagger sleuthing that stemmed from a stubborn reluctance of government officials to talk to the media. This produced so many unanswered questions in an emotion-charged situation that I embarked on what for a fledgling newspaper was a daring move: I sent my 19-year-old assistant on an out-of-state assignment as an investigative reporter. An investigative reporter taking to the road for a paper as dinky as the Delmar Spotlight was not only wild, it was incongruous.

Pulling this stunt required parental permission for my wide-eyed, enthusiastic star-of-the-future. Helen Burggraf was a Syracuse University sophomore whose family lived in Delmar. She had come to me hoping for a summer job, pay not important. She had talent as a sketcher and cartoonist as well as a writer. Two weeks after she eagerly pitched in to help with the community calendar and the endless flow of "shorts" I took her out to Esperance, 25 miles to the west, and deposited her, by pre-arrangement, for a day with New York State's Bicentennial Wagon Train. An entourage of a dozen covered wagons was slowly plodding along U.S. Route 20 en route to an all-state assemblage at Valley Forge. It was still two days west of its scheduled overnight campout in the town park in Delmar when Helen climbed up beside one of the drivers with sketch pad in hand. She thus became the first reporter in the Capital District to contact the colorful caravan but, as luck would have it on a weekly paper, she was the last to get her narrative into print. Her sketches and heart-warming writing made the Spotlight story — three days after all other media had done their pieces — the best of the bunch.

Now it was July and Helen, a college sophomore with less than six weeks of part-time newspaper experience, was on a train to Baltimore, which had experienced a remarkably parallel Job Corps situation a year earlier. In a rural section of Albany County the Labor Department was taking over a former Vincentian Fathers seminary to convert its beautiful campus and facilities into a youth rehabilitation center, to the consternation of local residents. In suburban Baltimore the Labor Department had established a Job Corps Center in a former Jesuit seminary, causing concern among local citizens. The tie-in was a natural.

I called the editor of the Baltimore American, who graciously offered to guide Helen to the veteran reporter who had covered the story. That reporter would, in turn, take her to suburban Woodstock and Fritts is the candidate of your elected Republican committee — the party that gets things done in this community.

Charlie has served Bethlehem's people without stint for more than 30 years. You know him. Volunteer fireman and Fire Commissioner (Selkirk). Chairman of the Bethlehem Zoning Board of Appeals. Boy Scouts. National Guard. American Legion. The Elks. Kiwanis (Director and Division Lt. Governor). A record all of us can envy. Charlie has earned our trust. Besides his executive and business experience, Charlie has invested hundreds of hours of training in administration. He plans to bring modern, quality service to taxpayers as Bethlehem Receiver of Taxes.

Granite to talk to officials of the Maryland Job Corps Center, community leaders, local homeowners and police officials. I dispatched Helen with $100 in cash for hotel, meals and taxis, plus instructions to get all the information she could, talk to as many people as she could, and, please, try to come home before the hundred dollars ran out.

She was back in two days with a sheaf of notes and her patented happy smile that seemed to reflect a new dimension of self-assurance and possibly a hint of maturity. Her well-written reports, were so professional and so informative I could only wonder why the Knick and the Times-Union hadn't done the same thing long before. (Actually, the Knick sent a man to the Pennsylvania center six weeks later to do a story backing up its strong editorial stand on the local controversy.)

By October, with Helen safely back in the shelter of her campus, our capable Congressman Sam Stratton and top Labor Department bigwigs overcame the fumbling and bumbling of lower-level bureaucrats and succeeded in establishing the New York Job Corps Center in the Glenmont area of the Town of Bethlehem. In the process they also established communication lines with the local community that effectively put to rest the fears and insecurity of neighboring residents. Today, more than a decade later, it is warming to report that the facility, in a rural setting along the Hudson, has become a productive resource.

It is even more warming to report that over the same decade Helen Burggraf, putting aside talent that might have made her a highly successful cartoonist and caricaturist, went on to journalistic triumphs, first in Italy with the English-language Rome Daily News and later as one of the top by-line writers in New York City's fiercely competitive business press. Would that more journalists were blessed with the writing talent of this personable lady, so natural, so gifted. As this is written she has become a wife and mother, but her keyboard will be productive, let us hope, for many years to come.

The police chief imbroglio erupted a year and a half after peace had been established on the Job Corps front. When the new leadership of the Town of Bethlehem's entrenched Republican party declined to renominate Bert Kohinke's hand-picked town supervisor for a new term, it touched off a series of political maneuvering that hadn't been seen in nearly two decades of Bert's unchallenged rule. From its seat on the 50-yard line, the Spotlight hurled its non-partisan presence into the thick of the scrimmaging, enjoying every minute of its first full local election campaign.

The trouble that beset Chief Peter Fish was a by-product of an unusually heated town election campaign. The voting produced enough new faces to point the Bethlehem Town Board in a new direction and to reshuffle political priorities. Fish's explosive personality and harsh professional tactics made him either loved or hated by a sizeable segment of his constituency, and when the 1977 political gymnastics eroded much of his power base, he discovered how controversial and how vulnerable he was.

The board's action in suspending the chief and bringing in a special counsel from New York City with high credentials as a racket-busting prosecutor touched off a succession of legal maneuvering that played like a soap opera over several months. As the drama unfolded week after week, punctuated by occasional courtroom calisthenics, I could only offer a weekly analysis, like Time or Newsweek, with no chance for spot reporting on-site. But I had town hall sources the enemy didn't have. After one private Sunday morning session with the prosecutor, I took a chance on breaking a story for my next issue that turned out to be precisely on-target, giving the little weekly a rare news beat on the dominant dailies.

Stories like these gave us a chance to show our stuff, but other material was plentiful. With two towns to cover, we had two town boards, two planning boards, two zoning boards and three school systems, plus the active and growing village of Voorheesville located in a corner of the Town of New Scotland. It was simply a question of doing what Gordon Bryant, my old city editor in Watertown when I was a wide-eyed club reporter, would insist on — cover the news beat, cover it thoroughly, and keep a constant eye out for anything that would make a story.

Next week: We take on our own typesetting chores, and wake up one day to find the Suns have disappeared.

Police get help, nab drunk driver

After being alerted by a passing motorist of a car at Cherry and Kenwood avenues at 5:45 a.m. Friday, Bethlehem police said they found a 21-year-old Pittsfield, Mass., man asleep behind the wheel of his car on the wrong side of the road. He was ticketed for failure to keep right and issued an appearance ticket for Bethlehem Town Court for Tuesday, Sept. 8.

It was one of three DWI arrests made by Bethlehem Police last week.

A 24-year-old Troy woman was charged with DWI after police said they saw her driving west on Delaware Ave at about 3 a.m. Sunday when she failed to keep her car in her lane.

A 23-year-old Ballston Lake man was also charged with DWI after police said they stopped him for speeding on Rt. 85 at 3 a.m. Tuesday. He will also appear in town court on the charge on Sept. 8.

Early dismissal in Bethlehem

To assist in opening day transportation, Bethlehem Central High School will dismiss early, at 1:45 p.m. instead of the usual 2:05 p.m., on September 10.

Town sponsors adult aerobics

"Low to Medium" aerobics classes for adults will be held at the Bethlehem Town Hall on Mondays and/or Wednesdays from Sept. 14 through Nov. 9, at 4:45. Registration is $13 for Monday or Wednesday or $26 for both days. For information call 439-4131, beginning on Sept. 8.

Correction

The arrest of two local men on drug charges at a local gas station two weeks ago took place at the VIP station at 308 Delaware Ave., not a Getty station, as reported incorrectly in last week's Spotlight. The VIP station is owned by Getty.

Citizens group raises funds

Bethlehem Citizens for Responsible Planning will sponsor a fundraiser rummage and bake sale on Sept. 12, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Slingerlands Community Methodist Church, 1499 New Scotland Rd.

Donations of sporting goods, furniture, appliances, clothing, toys records and plants are needed. Call 439-0346 or 439-4460 for information.

Fire in woods being investigated

Bethlehem Police said they are continuing their investigation into a fire in woods behind a sewer pumping station on Peel St. Tuesday.

The Delmar Fire Department responded to the fire that was reported at 5:50 p.m. In interviewing a witness, he told police he saw two other boys attempting to put the fire out.

Halt ordered on 9W development

By Ruth Fein Wallens

Town approval of the proposed shopping center on Rt. 9W in Glenmont apparently will be postponed as the result of a vote by the Bethlehem Town Board last Wednesday.

Responding to a petition by area residents, the board moved to recommend that the planning board delay final approval of all retail and commercial development on Rt. 9W until the town has received recommendations on traffic and land use in the area from a private consultant. The board also discussed the procedure that will be used to hire the consultant, but made no decisions.

The shopping center at Feura Bush Rd. proposed by a Long Island developer is under review by the planning board, which has already accepted a traffic study for the immediate area from the developer. However, new state Environmental Quality Review Act (SEQRA) regulations require that the project must also undergo a comprehensive environmental impact study.

More than 500 residents signed a petition urging the board to delay approval pending the Rt. 9W study to assure that a full understanding of the developments' impacts are taken into consideration before any decisions are made. Issues from traffic flow to public services are expected to be analyzed in the study.

Any requests for alterations or additions to previously approved site plans will not be affected by the board's recommendation.

In a letter accompanying the petition, Glenmont resident Mary Archibee Blake urged the town to "do everything possible to maintain the quality of life that for many years has distinguished Bethlehem as a very special place."

Also regarding the Rt. 9W study, the board discussed a plan of action recommended by Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor for choosing and retaining a consultant. Secor's suggestions included using a firm's expertise first to refine the scope of the study. This could be done on a per-diem basis before actually hiring a firm to complete the study. The scope of the study would be determined following the consultant's review of letters and petitions regarding the area, and a public informational meeting in conjunction with the town's planning board, Secor said. At this time it would be decided if this is the right firm for the job. Other consultants could be approached to conduct the actual study, he said.

Although a list of firms was submitted by Secor, review and selection were tabled until additional consultants, with more experience in municipal planning including land use, could be added.

The preferred candidate, planning consultant Edward Kleinke explained, should not only be knowledgeable in traffic generation and flow and land use issues, but also be able to offer suggestions on future zoning.

In other action, the town board:

- Voted to place a yield sign at the fork on Mayfair Drive in Slingerlands.

- Was updated on code violations and a "general condition of unsafe environment" at 403 Delaware Ave. by Building Inspector John Flanigan. A landscaping problem, dumpster problem and improper use of attic space had all either been corrected or will be in the next few days, he said.

- Accepted a formal letter of resignation from town historian James E. Morgan. Morgan, a Glenmont resident, was recently elected to a full term on the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk school board. Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick said recently he has already received several inquiries about the job.

- Approved a request from Secor to go to bid to replace two of the town's four-wheel drive trucks.

The town board will hold a special meeting Wednesday (today) at 7:30 p.m. to hear a request for four-way stop signs at Longmeadow Drive and Grantwood Rd. and also at Longmeadow Drive and Summit Rd.

The board's next regularly scheduled meeting is Wednesday, Sept. 9.

Elsmere woman foils attempted rape

Bethlehem Police said they are investigating an attempted rape of an Elsmere woman early Saturday morning in her car near her home.

The woman was driving home from Guilderland at about 1 a.m. Saturday, police said, and first noticed the lights from a vehicle behind her as she was driving north on the Delmar Bypass near Murray Ave. Approaching the intersection of Elsmere Ave., the woman pulled into the right turn off lane when the vehicle following her hit her car. Police said the woman turned into a driveway on Elsmere Ave. and the vehicle that hit her pulled in behind her.

A man approached the woman about exchanging information over the collision, police said. After going to his vehicle and then coming back to the woman's car he forced his way into the front seat of her car. Threatening to stab the woman with a screwdriver, he started to assault the woman. Police said she was able to scare the man off by sounding the horn of her car and screaming. The man drove off in an unknown direction and she went home and contacted police.

Police said the suspect is described as a white man in his mid to late 20's, about five feet, eight inches tall with a medium build and blond or light brown hair and a mustache. He was driving a full-size blue or light blue pick-up truck, police said.

Possession charged

A 19-year-old Clarksville man has been charged with unlawful possession of marijuana, Bethlehem Police said.

The man has been issued an appearance ticket in Bethlehem Town Court for Tuesday, Sept. 22.

The man was in a car being driven by another man at 3 a.m. Sunday on County Rt. 55 when he was found to have some marijuana and hashish, police said.

Signs of the season

A Krumkill Rd., North Bethlehem, woman has reported that someone was knocking down Charles Fritts' election signs on her front lawn between Aug. 12 and Wednesday, Bethlehem Police said.

Chadwick Square homeowners, developer coming to terms

Homeowners in Glenmont's Chadwick Square appear to be coming to terms with the project's developer, the Michaels Group, but a boundary dispute that has held up new construction may be headed for the courts.

The Chadwick Square Park Association has accepted a check from Michaels for $10,000 to pay for half of the cost of repairs made to a tennis court backstop and steps to a bridge, and to install new walks, according to the association's president, John Schreiber.

A major issue between the homeowners and the developer, berms that were constructed partially on private property and have apparently contributed to drainage problems, is also under discussion. Owners whose homes back onto Wemple Rd. "have pretty much decided they want the berm moved off private property," Schreiber said. On York Rd., where a new berm was planned to screen a new set of houses, owners have tentatively decided to eliminate the berm in favor of plantings, he said. Schreiber said a committee has been formed for each area to negotiate with the developer.

Other issues to be resolved with the developer include six catch basins in private driveways and a creek bed that the association contends should be cleaned by the developer.

Chadwick Square is a Planned Residence Development with common grounds and recreation facilities that are owned by the association, which includes both the homeowners and the developer. The disputes over berms and other site problems came to light after the homeowners in the development were asked to give back a six-foot strip of land on the east side of Commonwealth Dr., which was supposed to be part of a buffer zone between Chadwick Square and undeveloped land to the east.

The owner of the adjacent land, Albany attorney Jay Jakovic, contends that a survey by C.T. Male Associates, a Colonie engineering firm, failed to follow an existing fence line and is off by six feet. It was C.T. Male representatives who came to the homeowners and asked for their help in resolving the boundary dispute, according to Schreiber. Town officials had held up issuing permits for construction in the new section of Chadwick Square until the dispute is resolved.

However, C.T. Male now contends that its survey is correct, according to a letter from the firm's president, John G. Gay, to James Michaels, president of the Michaels Group. Gay said that the fence was installed within the last 60 to 80 years, and thus could not have been intended as the boundary marker.

Jakovic, in a six-page reply complete with citations of legal precedents, argued that the fence is indeed the boundary cited in past deeds, and that even if it weren't, common law treats an existing fence as the true boundary after a certain period of time.

Schreiber said his association has asked Michaels to take down the fence, since the Michaels Group now contends that it is on Chadwick Square property. "What I'm trying to do is keep from getting in the middle on this," he said.

Irate driver pulls a gun

A 23-year-old Albany man will be appearing in New Scotland Town Court for allegedly pointing a gun at another motorist Saturday, Albany County sheriff's deputies reported.

The man allegedly pointed a 12-gauge pistol-gripped shotgun out the window of his moving vehicle after he apparently became upset when another car tailgated and passed him on Krumkill Rd., deputies said.

He was arrested a short time later on Rt. 85 in Westerlo without incident, deputies said. Charged with menacing, the man was released and will appear in town court on Thursday, Sept. 10.

Gunner represents administrators

Charles Gunner, the principal of Bethlehem Central High School, has been selected by the School Administrators Association of New York State to represent New York in this year's "In Honor of Excellence" program. The program, which is sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and the Council of Chief State School Officers, is funded by the Burger King Corporation.

Gunner, whose career in education spans 38 years, has served as a school administrator in New York and New Jersey for 27 years. He is noted for his initiation of a system for course approval, a curriculum committee, and courses on philosophy and great issues. In 1979 he was named principal of the year by the School Administrators Association of New York State. In 1986 he received the National School Public Relations Association award for excellence in school public relations. He currently serves on the executive committee of the Middle States Association Commission on Secondary Schools.

PR course offered

Late registration is still possible for a 15-week credit program in public relations, offered by Albany Business College.

The Public Relations Institute will cover written, verbal and non-verbal, and graphic communication for beginners and professionals.

Classes begin Wednesday evening, Sept. 9. For more information contact the Continuing Education Division at 449-7163.

Village eyes land for parking lot

By Sal Prividera

Voorheesville Mayor Edward Clark is negotiating to buy land about 50 feet from the village hall to be used as a parking lot.

Clark obtained approval from the village board at last week's meeting to enter into a contract with the land owner to purchase the land next to the new ambulance building. The parking lot would be used to meet the parking needs of the ambulance building, village hall, the park as well as other community services in the center of the village, he said.

However, the mayor discussed few details in open session on the advice of Village Attorney Donald Meacham. A resolution was unanimously passed by the trustees to allow the village to enter into the contract, pending their approval of the details discussed in the executive session. The reason for secrecy was "caution in letting the seller know we're interested," Clark said after the meeting.

In executive session, the trustees set a spending limit on the purchase of the property and all were "interested in buying" the land, Clark said. "Hopefully, our counsel can negotiate the purchase at the limit or less," he said.

Little planning for the lot has been done at this point because "things can fall apart," Clark said, adding that there were some improvements that would be made. These improvements would not take place until next spring since there are projects with higher priority, he said.

A proposed addition to the village's building permit schedule was discussed at length by the board. Trustee Daniel Reh asked the board to approve a $25 fee for Conservation Advisory Council (CAC) review of a building permit. The CAC review is requested by the planning commission before approval of plans and is used to check the environmental impact of a proposed building project.

The discussion was centered around the amount to be charged for the review. Clark said he was concerned the $25 fee would not cover the expenses incurred by the village in cases that required the review. The proposal was tabled by the trustees pending a study by Building Inspector Gerald Gordinier on the cost to the village of CAC reviews over the past two years.

The board was informed by Trustee Edward Donohue that a letter has been sent to Pleasant St. residents informing them that sewer district number two is now active. Applications for residents to hook up with the sewer line are available, he added. The hookups should be completed by Nov. 1. A village resident in attendance asked the mayor if all residents of Pleasant St. have to join the sewer system. He replied that the village would get in touch with her and discuss the situation.

In other business, the board:

- Approved a contract with the Town of New Scotland for financial support of the summer recreation program. The New Scotland's financial commitment will be $1,750, Clark said. The contract allows town residents who live outside the village to participate in the program.

- Heard comments from Jim Everhardt, of the Concerned Citizens for New Scotland, which has been fighting the Larned mine east of the village. He thanked the board for its financial support of a second study of the Larned mine.

Driver injured in New Scotland

A 47-year-old Clifton Park man was taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital for injuries he received when another car made a left turn in front of him on Rt. 85 in New Scotland Wednesday, Albany County sheriff's deputies reported.

Treated and released was Michael Brumhall, a hospital spokesman said.

According to deputies, Brumhall was traveling east on Rt. 85 when Janice Lisboa, 40, of Delmar, allegedly turned left onto Clipp Rd. in front of his car. Lisboa was ticketed for making an improper left hand turn, deputies said.

Town board discusses water, mine issues, but in private

By Patricia Mitchell

Water in the Orchard Park area will be studied for quality and the town will be looking at ways to get water to four homes who are in immediate need.

According to the minutes of the meeting, the New Scotland Town Board decided at a special meeting Monday, Aug. 24, to hire C.T. Male Associates to conduct the water study. Residents of the area have been complaining of methane gas and sodium in the water and families getting sick. The Albany County Health Department and the State Department of Environmental Conservation are both investigating the possibility of sodium contamination from the state garage across Rt. 155. At the regular August town board meeting, a 50-signature petition asking for a water district was presented from residents.

Monday's meeting was called for on Wednesday, Aug. 19, but received no press coverage because members of the news media apparently were not notified.

At Monday's meeting, the town board also discussed an offer from the Galesi Group to include the Orchard Park area in a water district. The developers are expected to propose a 500-unit development in the former Tall Timbers Country Club, northeast of the railroad tracks from Orchard Park. At an informal meeting with the planning board last month, the company said they are testing the area for water. They said they believe the water supply could eventually be developed into a water company and turned over to the town for use, but they invited Orchard Park homeowners to become part of the water district from its beginning.

New Scotland should go ahead and develop a water system with the property owners across the track, said Robert Cook, water resources committee chairman and planning board consultant. He said he sees no other practical way to supply water to the area.

The town councilmen also discussed a long-range program for a regional system for the town that is notorious for its water problems. Councilman Herbert Reilly, who is Democratic candidate for town supervisor, discussed extending services; Attorney Fred Riester said the town should be alert for subsidy opportunities; and Highway Superintendent Peter Van Zetten, who is up for reelection, talked about the need to avoid small water lines and inadequate pressure.

The meeting was apparently held in violation of the state's Open Meetings Law because reporters were not contacted. While the law remains vague, it requires that the news media be contacted and postings be made to the extent practicable for meetings by government boards called less than a week ahead of time.

Town Supervisor Stephen Wallace could not be reached Tuesday morning for comment about the meeting.

Letters were sent out to town board members on Aug. 19, five days before the meeting and a notice was posted, according to Town Clerk Corinne Cossac. Cossac, the Republican candidate for town supervisor this fall, said she does not normally call the media, and believes Wallace will usually call. Cossac said she does call if Wallace requests her to, and added she is under the direction of the town board.

In other business at the meeting, the town board:

- Discussed the extension of the Swift Rd. Water District to include two developments and the zoning code requirement that limits cul-de-sacs to 500 feet, deciding not to change the requirement. While two developers will pay $60,000 to $70,000 for the extension, only one development has received approval from the planning board. The other subdivision is being held up apparently because it includes a 1200-foot cul-de-sac that the planning board has not considered. The board said there are indications that the town board does not approve of allowing variances for cul-de-sacs. The planning board asked the town board to review the ordinance and possibly change it, but the town board decided that a change is not desirable at this time and that the length is not mandatory.

- Agreed to allow a $1 million insurance policy for a fireworks display at Picard's Grove for a Matthew Bender gathering later this month. The board originally wanted a $3 million policy but changed its position when it was told the fireworks company could not get that large a policy.

- Authorized an allocation of $600 to the newly formed Pop Warner Football, Inc.

The town board also discussed its litigation over a 27-acre gravel mine by William M. Larned and Son and adjourned into executive session to discuss it further.

The next meeting of the town board will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday (today).

Town gets stay

presumes a decision on that case will come a month later.

The Appellate Division did not say why it decided to not lift the ban on mining. Riester said. It usually decides such matters on either irreparable harm or probable outcome. In this case, irreparable harm was probably the most important, Riester said, with Larned and Son claiming loss of profits and the town claiming a change in the community. Even though Larned and Son also claimed that the mine has been there since July 10, when the Supreme Court's order was received, Riester said it shouldn't have because the appeal with the automatic stay powers were filed shortly after.

Hearing date set

The Town of New Scotland Planning Board had only one order of business before it last week. The board set a public hearing date for Robert Ingleston of Clip Rd., who is seeking a one-lot subdivision on his property. According to Building Inspector Walter Miller, the hearing is set for Sept. 8.

Albany County seeks high school interns

4H members win ribbons
Six members of the Osborne Corners 4H Club were awarded blue ribbons at the Altamont Fair this year. Their exhibits are on display at the State Fair in Syracuse through Sept. 7. Among the ribbon winners were: Dawn Appleby, blueberry muffins; Jennifer Appleby, needlepoint tissue box; Scot Chamberlain, magazine rack;

Bobbi Jean Leonard, evening gown; Dustin Leonard, brownies, and Tommy McKie, candlestick holders. Cookie lovers may want to mark their calendars. The area 4H groups will hold their cookie sale during the week of Sept. 25.

Legion Auxiliary meets
The Voorheesville American Legion Auxiliary will hold the first meeting of the 1987-88 year on Thursday, Sept. 10, at Veeder's Restaurant on Central Ave. The guest speaker will be Jennifer Mistretta, who served as the group's representative to Girl's State this summer. Dinner will begin at 7 p.m.

Club sponsors workshop
The Helderview Garden Club will meet at the First United Methodist Church of Voorheesville on Thursday, Sept. 10, at 7 p.m.

After a short business meeting, a class on making decorative wall hangings will be conducted by Ann Kodra. Guests are invited.

Boy Scouts' schedule full
The lazy, hazy days of summer are certainly over for the members of Voorheesville Boy Scout Troop 73. This weekend members begin a fun-filled month by participating in the Mohawk Hudson Wheelman's Century Ride. The following week selected scouts from the troop who were tapped out at Rotary Scout Camp in July will take part in the Order of the Arrow entry ordeal. Not ones to let a beautiful fall weekend go to waste, troop members will camp out for the weekend of Sept. 19. The troop will take part in the fall camporee during the last week in September.

The busy month will end with a pot luck supper on Wednesday, Sept. 30. The industrious scouts who worked toward badges during the summer will be rewarded for their efforts. The fall family feast marks the return of the scouts to the warmth of the grade school gym after enjoying their spring and summer meeting in the woods owned by Howard Coughtry, a committeeman.

Any boy who is in grade 6 or above and interested in learning about the scouting program may call Scoutmaster Joe Colburn at 765-3104.

School starts Sept. 10
Parents and students in the Voorheesville Central School District remember that school will begin on Thursday, Sept. 10, a day later than the originally scheduled Sept. 9 return. Students will also get an early vacation on Monday, Sept. 21, when teachers from both schools will participate in a superintendent's conference day.

Parents night soon
Parents of Voorheesville Elementary School students will be returning to the classroom as well in September to attend the parents night programs. On Sept. 29 parents will visit classrooms of students in grades 2, 3, 4 and 6. On the following night, Sept. 30, parents will visit classes of students in first and fifth grades, kindergarten and the resource room.

Junior high sports begin
Junior high sports enthusiasts are reminded that fall practices will begin at the following times: Wednesday, Sept. 2, at 9 p.m., girls varsity swimming; Wednesday, Sept. 9, at 4 p.m., seventh and eighth grade boys modified soccer; Thursday, Sept. 10, at 3 p.m., seventh and eighth grade girls modified soccer, and Friday, Sept. 11, at 3 p.m., seventh and eighth grade modified cross country.

Library welcomes autumn

The summer session may be over at the Voorheesville Public Library but fall fun is just about to start. Librarian Nancy Hutchinson invites all pre-schoolers to a special morning of movies on Thursday, Sept. 10. The film festival will begin at 10:30 p.m. and will feature the children's popular films "The Cat in the Hat" and "Winnie the Pooh and the Blustery Day." Both movies are free.

The following week pre-school story hours will once again resume and will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Friday mornings at 10:30 a.m. and Friday afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

Library board changes date

The monthly library board of directors meeting has been moved to Wednesday, Sept. 9 from Monday, Sept. 7. The meeting, which is open to the public, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the lower level of the library. Discussion will continue on the upcoming ground-breaking for the new library and the hiring of a full-time library director.

Capitol Hill auditions

The Capitol Hill Choral Society will hold auditions for choral singers on Sept. 9, 15 and 17 at Philip Schuyler Elementary School, North Lake Ave., Albany, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Audition appointments may be made by calling 457-6367 or 235-6125.

Coyne says Wallace offered county liaison position

Albany County Executive James Coyne says he plans to appoint a liaison person between his office and the town supervisors and has asked New Scotland Town Supervisor Steve Wallace, a Republican to accept the post.

Wallace told The Spotlight he is "very interested" in the offer but has not yet decided to accept it. He said he will give Coyne his answer "within the next two or three weeks."

Coyne, a Democrat running for his fourth term this fall, said he wants to establish the new office in order "to get a better pulse beat on major problems within the county's 10 towns. The liaison position, he said, could help to promote cooperation between the local governments and the Democratic administration despite political differences.

Wallace would bring to the position a career background of 28 years in local government. He has been New Scotland Town Supervisor for 14 years and plans to retire from that office at the end of this year. He has served as town assessor and on town and regional planning boards.

Salary for the liaison appointee was not disclosed.

Patricia Dumas

Democrats pick their slate

New Scotland Democrats set their slate for November's town and county elections during a caucus held in the home of party leader Thomas Dolin last week.

As expected, New Scotland Town Councilman Herbert Reilly received the party's endorsement to run for town supervisor, said Dolin. Voorheesville resident and school board member David Teuten and John Sgarlata of Voorheesville were given the party's endorsement to run for the town council, he said. Teuten will run for the seat held by veteran Councilman Kenneth Tice, who died this summer as he was preparing to run for reelection.

The Democratic Committee also gave official endorsements to incumbent Charles Houghtaling of Feura Bush for county legislator in the 38th District, village Trustee Edward Donohue for county legislator in the 33rd district, Gloria Ozimek of Fort Grove Rd. for village clerk, and incumbent Cynthia LaFave for town justice.

Vendors may apply now

Food and craft vendors are being sought for an Italian festival and Oktoberfest in Schenectady. Both events are being sponsored by the Schenectady Downtown Council. A third event, a Tour of Schenectady Pro Bike Race, will be presented in cooperation with the Schenectady Merchants Association.

Applications will be accepted by the Schenectady County Chamber of Commerce, 240 Canal Square, Schenectady, N.Y. 12305.

Book distribution day scheduled

Bethlehem Central will begin its distribution of private school textbooks for the 1987-88 school year on Friday, Sept. 4, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the Educational Services Center, 90 Adams Place, Delmar. Books for use by St. Thomas school students have been delivered to the school.

This service is available to private school students who are residents of the Bethlehem Central School District. Textbooks for the 1987-88 school year must have been ordered through the district last spring.

Questions may be directed to Mrs. Clark in the business office by calling 439-7481.

Delmar Place breakin

A home on Delmar Place in Delmar was entered over the weekend, but nothing appears missing, Bethlehem Police said.

A neighbor who is checking the house while the residents are away notified police of the breakin at 11 a.m. Sunday. Police said the house was last checked at about 8:30 p.m. Saturday, when the neighbor closed all the doors and turned on several lights.

On Sunday, the neighbor found some doors opened, the lights off and a faucet running. Police said a check of the house showed no forced entry or any items missing.

Feura Bush man hurt dodging dog on road

A 19-year-old Feura Bush man is in fair condition at Albany Medical Center Hospital after the car he was driving struck a tree when he attempted to avoid hitting a dog, Bethlehem Police said.

Wayne Smith Jr. of South Rd. was taken to the hospital for treatment of facial injuries after the accident at about 4 a.m. Friday, police said.

Smith was driving in an easterly direction on Wemple Rd., just west of Rt. 9W, when a dog ran out in front of his car. Police said when Smith tried to avoid hitting the dog his car went off the road and struck a tree.

Church has new Sunday schedule

The Delmar First United Methodist Church, 428 Kenwood Ave., Delmar, will adopt a new Sunday schedule on Sunday, Sept. 13.

Sunday mornings will begin at 9:30 a.m. with adult worship and children's Christian fellowship. Adult fellowship is scheduled for 10:30 to 11 a.m. The older children may join in at 10:45 a.m. Sunday school classes for ages 2 through adult will be offered from 11 a.m. until noon.

Nursery care will be offered throughout the morning for children younger than 2 years.

For information call 439-2343.

Harvith explores AIDS issues

Professor Bernard Harvith, a member of the Bethlehem Central Board of Education and the Albany Law School faculty, will discuss U.S. Constitution issues raised by the AIDS virus at the Bethlehem Public Library on Thursday, Sept. 10, at 7:30 p.m.

For information call 439-9314.

cereals, coffee and teas, sweetened and unsweetened preserves, crackers, dried fruits, grains, nuts and seeds are all offered in great variety to members of Mixed Nuts, which operates through the Hudson Valley Federation of Cooperatives, Clintondale, N.Y. A line of personal items and cookbooks are also offered.

According to Porco, the Mixed Nuts Co-op places five orders each year. Orders are taken during the fall, winter and spring by and for members at Bethlehem Town Hall on a scheduled evening. The delivery is made about two weeks later to the Slingerlands Community United Methodist Church, where the group rents space in the kitchen and gym. Workers divide the delivery by family order; and, members pick up their orders at the church gym.

"We basically get fresh fruits and vegetables," said Hawley. "Sometimes we get fruits earlier than other people do."

After orders are placed by phone, representatives of the Adamsville Fruit and Vegetable Co-op buy for members during bi-monthly visits to the Menands Market. Hawley said the cooperative runs from mid-October through June, when the farmers' markets open. After stopping at the Regional Banana Corp., the designated shoppers go next door to D. Brickman Inc., a wholesaler of fruits and vegetables.

"We just find the quality of the fruits and vegetables that we get down in Menands is better, and the prices are very good," said Joan Norton of Elsmere, a member of the Adamsville Fruit and Vegetable Co-op. "The oranges are great when they're in season."

Apples, artichokes, scallions, strawberries, potatoes, onions, carrots, lemons and seasonal fruits are among the items purchased in bulk for the Adamsville members.

The group buys cranberries for the holiday season and flats of flowers in the spring.

Currently, each of the 36 families in the Mixed Nuts Co-op is expected to work two three-hour shifts per year. "The work parties are a kind of coming together of families who have an interest in good nutrition," said Porco. "They can be a fun time and a social time."

"It's kind of like seeing old friends," said Ponemon.

Each of the 23 families in the Adamsville Fruit and Vegetable Co-op joins in taking orders, shopping or distributing produce four or five times per year. "It's really fun to get together," said Norton. "We try to fit everyone's schedule."

"When you get into it now, you realize there's a sense of comradery," said Ponemon.

Both groups were formed in late 1978 or early 1979 as part of the Tri-Village Welcome Wagon, according to Mary Cornelius of Delmar, a member of the Adamsville Fruit and Vegetable Co-op, and Judith Thomson of Delmar, a member of the Mixed Nuts Co-op.

"It was an idea that just had not happened in this area," said Cornelius.

"It was my concern that there be a good supply of good, natural food available," said Thomson.

Both groups are now operating independently and actively seeking new members. In addition to resulting in decreased work requirements, increased membership will allow the groups to buy in greater volume, offer greater savings and form a larger circle of friends.

Members of the Mixed Nuts Co-op will accept orders and answer questions about membership at Bethlehem Town Hall on Thursday, Sept. 24, from 7 to 8 p.m.

Anyone interested in joining the Adamsville Fruit and Vegetable Co-op may call Sherry Hawley during the afternoon at 439-7590.

Spotlight sponsors publicity seminar

How can I get publicity from the local media for my organization? What information should I include in announcements of community events? Will the editor be able to print a picture with my announcement?

A publicity seminar, sponsored by The Spotlight, will be held at the Bethlehem Public Library on Thursday, Sept. 17, at 7:30 p.m. The program will include answers to many questions asked by community group representatives who are seeking publicity from local newspapers, as well as radio and television stations.

Local winners at Altamont Fair

Several area residents won honors at the Altamont Fair.

Members of the Caps 'n' Chaps 4-H group, led by Lynn Dente of the Double V Stables, Delmar, participated in the Altamont Fair horse show.

Paula Taylor took the championship riding award in the senior division. Carey Barber was reserve champion in the junior riding division.

Debbi Stewart and Lauri Stewart won first place for their photography exhibit on horse breeds. The exhibit was selected for display at the New York State Fair in Syracuse.

Jeremy Dievendorf of Delmar won best opposite variety for mini-lop rabbits in the Altamont Fair competition. Jeffrey Dievendorf, Jeremy's brother, won honors by entering the best roaster rabbit.

Local craftsmen may exhibit

The Town of Bethlehem Historical Association is looking for craftsmen to participate in a fall harvest festival at the Cedar Hill School House Museum, Rt. 144 and Clapper Rd., Selkirk, on Saturday, Sept. 19, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

For information call 767-9057.

Invest for your future with Kemper Total Return Fund. Kemper Total Return Fund is the flexible mutual fund, because it can invest in stocks, bonds and money market instruments, changing proportions as market conditions change. In other words, the fund goes where the action is. And don't forget these other benefits:

- Professional management by Kemper Financial Services Inc.
- Free reinvestment of all income and capital gain dividends.
- Flexibility to exchange into many other mutual funds.

Invest for your future with Kemper Total Return Fund. For more information, call or return the coupon today. The Fund's return and net asset value will fluctuate.

*Annual compound total return is based on changes in net asset value with all income and capital gain dividends reinvested, compounded in accordance with a formula set forth in the Fund's Statement of Additional Information, and after adjustment for the maximum 8.5% initial sales charge. Period covered is for the ten years ended December 31, 1986. Of the 15.91% compound total return, 7.77% was attributable to income and short term capital gain dividend reinvestment, 6.31% to long-term capital gain dividend reinvestment and 1.83% to appreciation of initial investment. The annual rate of total return does vary and ranged during the 10-year period from +41.5% in 1980 to -1.1% in 1984 (computed at net asset value). The period was one of fluctuating common stock prices. Future performance is not guaranteed.

Investors have new choice

Customers of Home and City Savings Bank in Delmar have an added service "convenience" since last Friday. The bank has added to its Delaware Ave. office a full service independent brokerage firm called Invest.

The bank is providing the service as a convenience to members of the local community, said George Brown, assistant secretary of Home and City and Invest manager. Invest, an independent service of ISFA Corp., has relationships with many savings banks across the nation, he said. It offers customers the opportunity to buy or sell mutual funds, tax exempt unit trusts, limited partnerships, stocks and bonds and as well as other investments.

Invest is an "alternative investment choice... with an office located at the bank they normally use," said George R. Gibson, vice president of Home and City and manager of the Delmar Branch. He said that previously the bank offered only typical savings bank investments such as certificates of deposit.

Brown said the service is unique since all the brokers are employed by the bank and are not paid on a commission basis. The brokers receive "rigorous in-house training" and are kept continuously up-to-date, he added. Invest brokers are also licensed by the National Association of Security Dealers.

Meeting with Invest personnel is "an informative type of session,"

BUSINESS

Brown said. A customer's needs and assets are analyzed before an investment recommendation is made. Those wishing to make investments who do not qualify will also be told, Brown said. The new service caters to both large and small investors, he added.

Emily M. Morse will oversee the Delmar Branch investment service. "The people in Delmar understand what they want (in terms of investments)," Gibson said. Both bank officials expect the new service to be well received and in high demand by the local community.

The bank offered a seminar about the new service at the Delmar Branch which was well attended said Gibson. This was another way for the bank "to prove the validity" of bringing Invest to Delmar, he said.

The Invest service has been offered by the 16-branch Home and City Savings Bank for nearly a year but until now has only been available to Delmar bank customers by appointment, Brown said.

Phil Machlowski, DiNapoli manager, is shown in the opticians' new Delmar site. Spotlight

DiNapoli moves again, has more space

Walking through DiNapoli Opticians newly opened doors at the Delmar Court Complex should provide customers with more opportunities for service and style than ever, according to Joe DiNapoli.

The family-run business, which moved to the new location Monday from Delaware Plaza, has expanded its space by 50 percent, providing for more eye exam equipment and increased display area for a greater number of frame styles, DiNapoli said.

"The new location has a more modernized look, with about twice as much room, so we can pay better attention to services," he explained.

The business, which was begun by DiNapoli's father and a partner in 1940, has operated a branch office in Delmar since the early 1970s.

One new service not immediately available will be one or two-day service on filling prescriptions for corrective lenses. DiNapoli hopes this will be available by the end of the year, when an expanded Albany site will include the in-house manufacturing of lenses, consolidating their Albany home base with their manufacturing operation now in Latham.

"We're looking to make 24-hour service the norm," he said. But, he explained, the service will be provided without the significantly higher prices typically found at large chain stores.

This is the third move for the Delmar operation. What keeps the local business growing in the face of large-scale competition?

"We attempt to provide a quality product at a fair price," DiNapoli says, "providing service the way we used to."

The new Delmar Court Complex at 266 Delaware Ave. is the site of the former Delmar Athletic Club.

Main Square hires Stuyvesant's agents

Pfeil and Company, whose principals were involved in the renovation and remarketing of Stuyvesant Plaza in Guilderland, has been named leasing agent and marketing consultant for Main Square at Delmar.

Deane and Jeffrey Pfeil are the principals of Pfeil and Company, based in South Salem, N.Y. Dennis Corrigan, Tom Corrigan and James Breen, all of Delmar, are the owners of Main Square, a shopping center under construction at Delaware Ave. and Oakwood Pl., Delmar.

No tenants for the Colonial-style shopping center have been announced. Breen, president of James Breen Real Estate, which had been marketing agent for the project, said he welcomes the addition of Pfeil & Company. "We feel their experience in upscale shopping center leasing and marketing and their proven reputation with area retailers will be of great benefit to Main Square," Breen said.

The Pfeils said they plan to select tenants "to create an alluring mix of stores consistent with the special character, sophistication and shopping needs of Delmar."

Local students win medals from RPI

Area high school students Staci Loewy of Voorheesville and Eric W. Lee of Delmar have been awarded Rensselaer Medals by the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute for outstanding achievements in the study of math and science.

Loewy, a student at Clayton A. Bouton Senior High School, is the daughter of Marvin and Barbara Loewy.

Lee, a student at Bethlehem Central High School, is the son of Morris and Corina Lee.

Are the Eagles really back?

By John Bellizzi III

After a year's leave of absence, the rebuilding is over, and Bethlehem Central is ready to return to the Suburban Council football league. The deteriorated football program that had been unable to achieve a winning record for seven consecutive seasons is no more. It has been replaced by a faster, stronger football machine that is prepared to restore Bethlehem to the proud position it once occupied in the Suburban Council.

This year's varsity team has everything going for it. An experienced coaching staff and four dedicated captains are leading a roster composed of a strong core of returning lettermen fleshed out by very talented members of last year's JV squad into a season that has the potential to surpass even last year's spectacular 5-3-1 independent season.

Skill, speed, strategy, teamwork and, most importantly, the desire to win — they are all there in the 1987 BC varsity football team. Returning to the league they helped create over a quarter of a century ago, Bethlehem has what it takes this year to not only walk away with another winning season, but possibly capturing the Gold Division championship as well.

Returning at the helm of the BC football program is John Sodergren, beginning his fourth season as head coach. Assisting him at the varsity level are Ken Hodge and John Vurey. Compared with previous years, Sodergren has seen more in terms of "motivation, optimism" and general upbeat performance than he usually does in pre-season practice sessions; a fact that bodes well for the upcoming season.

Sodergren and his fellow coaches are taking their time in making out their specific starting lineups. "Much of it is still up in the air,"

Sodergren explained. "The decisions aren't yet fully made."

The foundation is already in place, though. Sodergren is looking for a strong nucleus of five returning lettermen to serve as the superstructure of the team. Returning for their third varsity seasons are seniors Gary Mendel, Eric Heathwaite and Mike Hodge. Heathwaite and Mike Hodge, offensive and defensive lineman since his sophomore year, while Mendel has been starting at linebacker for the past two years and saw action on the offensive line last year. Hodge will be succeeding Ed Perry as first string quarterback and will be starting at cornerback for his third consecutive season. Completing the core will be Rich Gray and John Reagan, both beginning their second year starting on varsity. Gray, a senior, will be starting at fullback and linebacker, while the 6-5 260-pound junior Reagan will be the "big man" on the offensive and defensive lines again. Gray, Heathwaite, Hodge and Mendel are the four team captains.

"I'm encouraged by how Hodge looks," commented Sodergren. "He's played a few different offensive positions in the past, but I like how he's doing a quarterback. Gray is looking really good right now also."

Sodergren hopes to have Gray carry the ball often, especially until he can get the rest of his offense together. Having lost just about all of the running backs and ends to college, the coach is faced with the task of building up depth in the backfield and receiving areas. Junior Peter Cocozza is delivering very strong performances at tight end and split end, but the other end position is "still up for grabs." As for the running backs, several veterans of last year's JV team are among those delivering solid performances, but Sodergren feels that "nobody has really come to the surface yet." The prospective halfbacks include Bob Dillon, Steve Connolly, Joe Rappazzo, Mike Mosley, Junior Peter Bragaw, fullback for last year's JV, will be seeing some playing time in the varsity backfield as well.

Another offensive weapon in Sodergren's arsenal is Lance Sprinkle, a "bona fide kicker" with whom the team can "come away with points virtually any time we're within the 25 or 30 yard line," according to Sodergren.

The defense has been outstanding so far in the pre-season practices. Many of last year's defensive starters have returned, although many are at new positions. Most of the starting positions in the secondary are still "up for grabs," but the front six, including Reagan at tackle and Gray and Mendel at backer, are looking very promising.

After two weeks, the players have begun to mesh together as a team, and not a moment too soon, because they will be banging heads with off-colored jerseys this Saturday, as the annual pre-season scrimmage gets underway at Ravena at 10 a.m. This year, they will be scrimmaging Ravena, Taconic Hills and Mechanicville, along with a newcomer, Redhook. From there it's on to Saturday, Sept. 12, when the Eagles will begin their regular season at Shaker, who BC defeated in the season opener last year.

Everybody's very optimistic about BC's return to Suburban Council. And there's no reason not to be; after all, BC beat four out of the six Council rivals that they faced on last year's independent schedule. "The league is very strong this year," Sodergren said. "It's hard to say how we're going to do. We can't do anything about how the other teams shape up. All we have control over is our own players. The atmosphere is much more optimistic than in some years past, and the desire to win is there."

The Eagles won't be satisfied to just be a competitive team, though. This squad wants to end the year with a Gold Division Championship. "It's a realistic goal, not a pipe dream," insists Sodergren. "We'll be able to play good ball with the teams in the division. We're in position to do it."

Chris Rutschmann is returning as JV coach and John DeMeo is back as head freshman coach. There are two new additions to the coaching staff to replace Bob Salamone and Carl Freitag. A veteran of the 1978 BC championship team and a former CBA coach, Mike DeAngelis, has returned to his alma mater in a coaching position. The other newcomer is assistant JV coach Mark Chmielinski.

The JV team has been practicing alongside the varsity for the past two weeks, but they don't have the luxury of size that the varsity does. So far only 19 players have turned out for the JV team, making developing depth a very high priority, whether by moving players down from varsity or up from freshman. "What we have looks very good," said Ritschmann. "We just don't have enough." The jayvees will also be scrimmaging Saturday at Ravena at 10 a.m. against Ravena, Taconic Hills, Mechanicville, Redhook and Cohoes. The JV season opener is also against Shaker, but they get their taste of Bisonburger the night before the varsity: Friday, Sept. 11, at 7 p.m. under the lights at Eagle Field.

Adirondack club has calendar, guides

The Adirondack Mountain Club, a conservation and recreation organization, has announced publication of its 1988 calendar and release of the fourth volume in its Forest Preserve Series of guides to Adirondack trails.

The calendar, which is available at North Country stores or from the club, features color photographs of Adirondack scenes.

The four volumes of Adirondack trail guides focus on the high peaks region, the northern region, the central region and the Northville-Placid trail.

For information write to the Adirondack Mountain Club, 174 Glen St., Glens Falls, N.Y. 12801.

Youth fitness program offered

The Town of Bethlehem Parks and Recreation Department is offering three 8-week youth fitness programs this fall. "Mommy or Daddy and Me" is for ages 2 and 3 and will meet on Mondays from 9:30 to 10:30 or 10:45 to 11:45. "Come Fly With Me" for ages 4 and 5 will meet on Wednesday from 10 to 11, 2 until 3 or 5:45 to 6:45. "Energized Kids" for children in grades 1 through 5 will meet on Wednesday from 7 to 8.

All classes will meet at the Elm Avenue Park Office. Visit the park office or call 439-4131, beginning Sept. 8, to register.

Voorheesville gets tougher, but so does the Council

Many a high school football coach would like to have what Pete Douglas has in Voorheesville — 16 lettermen including an experienced quarterback, beef in the line, speed in the backfield and the best punter in Section 2.

He also has that special ingredient so characteristic of Voorheesville's football program through the years: these guys love to hit. The more contact, the better. The first game is still a week and a half away, and the boys are getting restless waiting for the chance to knock people around.

But with all these blessings, Douglas allows himself only cautious optimism. He looks at a rugged schedule, starting with a home game against Tamarac, one of the better teams in the Southern Division, followed immediately by a trip to one of the most dangerous places in the Capital Conference, Watervliet.

And later there will be the people from Academy and Ravena coming into Buckley Memorial Field among others, which means there won't be any picnics.

This week, as the Blackbirds get down to one-a-day practices after 10 days of double sessions, all Douglas will say for print is, "We'll be competitive." But he's smiling when he says it, and that indicates Voorheesville boosters could be in for another banner year.

You remember last year, a mere 9-1, second place in one of the toughest conferences in the area. And don't ever forget that double-overtime shootout in the playoffs when a goal-line stand turned back powerful Hudson.

But there were dry spells last year when the offense sputtered, and it was the defense, perhaps the best in the league, that carried the Blackbirds to their fine record.

Okay, so now it's another season, and John Meacham is back running the option, John Traudt is carrying the mail, Marty Gordinier is throwing his weight around, and if you look carefully, maybe with the help of field glasses, you can find Ed Sapienza out there, stealing passes at 124 pounds.

"We may not be quite as big as we were last year, but we're a little quicker and we've got good people at the skill positions," says Douglas.

He looks for Meacham, at 5-10 and 160 pounds, to be one of the better quarterbacks in the league this year, and Traudt, a gifted athlete and hard-hitter, to be among the premier running backs. Traudt is lean and hungry — 6-0 and 182 — at fullback. At halfback the Blackbirds have Matt Cillis and Bill Connell, both quick, and Ted Houghton, a 135-pound junior up from the JV.

In Douglas's format, slot back and tight end are interchangeable. For this kind of duty he has Gordinier, a major target for Meacham at 6-3 and 170, Craig Lapinski, even taller at 6-4, and Bruce Kinisky, an all-around veteran. Also slated for action are Mickey Schoonmaker, a senior, and Mike Manss, a junior who showed well as a JV receiver last year. A late arrival in this derby is Frank Bess, a transfer from Bethlehem getting a baptism in football.

At wide receiver the Blackbirds have depth if not experience. Sapienza, the mighty mite, made some important catches last year: Tamba Bissell and Steve Smith are also working here, along with two juniors, Shawn Joyce and Dave DeAngelis.

Up front the all-important offensive line has some size as well as experience. Jayson White, one of the heroes of the 10th-game goal-line classic last year, and Tom Hampston are returning starters at guard, White at 188 and Hampston at 164. At present two seniors are sharing the duty at center, Scott Malagrida (180) and Kevin Tyrell (171). Malagrida was injured much of last season, but Tyrell played some offensive guard as well as defense and special teams.

Charlie Collins, who had a good year in 1986 playing both ways at tackle, is back, weighing in at 204. He's in a dogfight with three big juniors, meaning BIG. One is Jim Gianatasio, the kid brother of Chuck, last year's leviathan. Young Jim tips the scale at 230, somewhat lighter than Chuck, but he's still growing and he will have another season to benefit from the bountiful nutrition that obviously is served at the Gianatasio family table.

The other two junior tackle candidates also have good appetites, Harold Gosling at 215 and Dan Jackson at 243.

As for defense, the Blackbirds have the potential to do what they did last year, save game after game when the going was toughest. If Gianatasio, Gosling and Jackson can develop mobility and quickness to go with their tonnage, Voorheesville will be hard on the enemy.

White, who Douglas says "really came on strong" in the latter half of the season a year ago, will be the nose guard, Collins and the Junior Beef Trust will man the defensive tackle slots in various combinations, and Kinisky and Tyrell will be the DEs. Chip Adalian, a 200-pound junior, will relieve White at nose guard. Lapinsky and another junior up from the JV, Orion Colfer, a 180-pounder, will also see plenty of action on the flanks.

Douglas uses two linebackers behind a five-man line, and he has experience here in Traudt and Gordinier, two tough kids who love to hit. For relief duty he has Hampston, Malagrida, John Benoit, a junior who also can play fullback, and Bess.

In the secondary there's a lot to choose from, and there are familiar names on the roster. At monster back is Darrin Duncan, a versatile senior who saw a lot of combat last year at defensive end. "He did a heck of a job last year," recalls Douglas. Pushing Duncan is Houghton, a scrappy 135-pounder who has speed.

Cillis is the front runner at safety, with Gary Washburn sure to see action. Meacham, who also can play safety, is an experienced cornerback, but here the coaches have a wide selection that includes Connell, Sapienza, Joyce, DeAngelis, Manss, Smith and Bissell.

Kinisky, a utility man who can play most anywhere including backup quarterback, is especially valuable as a punter. Last year his booming spirals consistently kept opposing teams at bay, and several times turned the momentum in Voorheesville's favor. Cillis and Bissell will do the place kicking.

Everybody will get into the act on Saturday in the annual four-way scrimmage at Shaker. Troy and Johnstown will again be participants, starting at 10 a.m. The Blackbirds will also continue their customary Tuesday scrimmage with Cobleskill next week, the final tuneup before the opener with Tamarac on Sept. 12.

Can Indians make a run for it?

By Sal Prividera

After last year's disappointing third-place finish the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk High School football team is looking improve their place in the standings. The Indians finished third (6-3) in the Colonial Council last fall with a team that was expected to be a front runner.

This year's team is a "good, hard working group," said Coach Gary VanDerzee. "We should be competing right there at the top with Voorheesville and Watervliet." However, the coach has a wait-and-see attitude before venturing a prediction as to how the season will go. "You don't know until you see them (play against other teams)," VanDerzee said.

VanDerzee lost several key players, including much of his offensive line, but he expects players moving up from being backups last season or from junior varsity to "step in" and fill the holes.

Indian captains for the season are fullback Tim Baranska, quarterback David Allegretta and lineman Steve Swanson.

Team strengths, according to VanDerzee, include the three captains and several other players. On offense, Baranska is returning for his third season. He was a key blocker for last year's All-everything tailback, Brent Shook. Replacing Shook is Arthur Burnett, who has "outstanding speed and improved his upper body strength," said VanDerzee. David Allegretta at starting quarterback, powerback Bob O'Neil, power/slotback Joe Kubisch, and all-league tackle John McKiernan are expected to be keys to Ravena's offense.

Mogul; centers Paul Stefanik and Bob Boomhauer; guards Harold Folmsbee and Paul Losavio; tackles Bob Travis and Wes Cuzdey; ends Dave Westervelt, Mike Gallagher, Darren Hall, Pat Foley and Rick Waddingham.

The Indians' defense should keep the team "right in the middle of things," the coach said. Players to watch defensively are Baranska and Kubisch at linebacker and a big tackle, Steve Swanson (6-2, 250 pounds). Rounding out the Indian defense are: tackles McKiernan, Travis, Swanson and Cuzdey; ends Folmsbee, Bill Kraft, Boomhauer, Foley and Darren Lydon; linebackers Dillberg, O'Neil and Mogul; cornerbacks Allegretta, Deitz, Hall and Gallagher; safeties VanDerzee, Jeff Friday and Burnett.

The Indians' season gets under way Friday, Sept. 11, under the lights at Hudson.

A FINGER ON THE PULSE

What should your house sell for? Who can afford to buy it? Will mortgage rates affect the marketing of the property?

With a lot of research and a little luck, you may be able to answer these questions yourself. It's smarter to call in an experienced real estate professional.

It's our business to keep "a finger on the pulse" of the local real estate market. We know what comparable properties have sold for recently and how fast they sold. We watch interest rates and down payment requirements. We know who can qualify to borrow how much.

It takes all that knowhow to determine the market value of your property. And because we're experienced salespeople and negotiators, we can recommend the appropriate asking price. Set it too high, and you scare away prospective buyers. Set it too low and you miss out on the optimum return on your investment.

Endorse Fritts

Editor, The Spotlight:

Our national and local celebrations of the signing of the Constitution reminds us of our right to vote. The principle of representative government states that citizens, starting with the committee process, select candidates of their own choosing. Through this committee system the Bethlehem Republican Party has overwhelmed endorsed Charles Fritts to run for receiver of taxes.

I support the candidate of our Bethlehem Republican Committee, Charles Fritts. He is no stranger to town government. He has served as the chairman of the board of appeals since 1973. He is very familiar with matters involving town property and taxes. As chairman of the board of fire commissioners, Charles Fritts has been recognized as a leader demonstration management skills, budgeting and organizational ability. His many activities throughout the years have shown him to be painstaking, accurate and hard working. His proven talents show that he will be a careful, precise and prompt receiver of taxes.

As a loyal supporter of the Republican party, I urge you to exercise your privilege as a citizen and vote for Charles Fritts at the polls on Sept. 15.

Support Hahn

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am appalled, after having read the many letters that have appeared in your paper in regards to the primary race between Ken Hahn and Charles Fritts as receiver of taxes for our town.

I think it is ironic the way the opponent and majority of Republican Committee members have tried to be so vindictive of Mr. Hahn's 24 years of faithful and dedicated service.

I have been a loyal republican for 45 years and have worked under Mr. Hahn in the tax dept. during land tax time for several years. One couldn't find a more trustworthy and qualified person, a man sincerely dedicated not only to his job, but to the town's taxpayers.

When personalities have to clash over one's Independence, I then believe there is something wrong with the system.

This is America, where an individual has the God-given right to select and choose and to support a person of their own choice. When the Republican Committee tries to deny one that right of freedom, then they are trying to lead our town into a path of corruption.

I have been a loyal supporter of Mr. Hahn during his 24 years, of dedicated service; and, I will continue to support the man with honest ambitions and years of experience. A man who had and has the courage not to be bulldozed — by committee members as they seek their revenge.

Bethlehem

Public support earned

Editor, The Spotlight:

I received a brochure several days ago from the Bethlehem Republican Committee asking for my support of Charles Fritts as receiver of taxes. In the brochure the claim is made that Mr. Hahn has refused to abide by the most fundamental and necessary principle of democracy; that is, that after discussion of the issues and a vote taken, the majority rules. In a democracy the majority does in fact rule, that majority being the general public, not a select few committee members. I truly admire Mr. Hahn for challenging the Republican Committee in a primary; Mr. Hahn is truly a public servant not a political puppet. He has served the citizens of this town in a most professional and competent manner, and it's about time the other elected officials of this town learn that they too are servants of the citizens not vice versa. The public support of a candidate is something they earn, not something they should expect because they carry a party endorsement.

Eric P. Beebe

Glenmont

Third choice needed

Editor, The Spotlight:

For several weeks I have followed the charges and counter charges in the Republican battle for the receiver of taxes nomination. One phrase that keep showing up in Hahn's ads is of particular interest: "Election law provides that contributions of $99.00 or less need not be individually listed by name of contributor on the candidates financial statement to the Board of Elections."

Does Ken Hahn mean to insinuate that contributors will be retaliated against by the Republican organization here in Bethlehem? Is Hahn trying to keep his list of contributors a secret so that if he loses the primary the Republicans can't ask his supporters for money? Or is Hahn really implying that the voters of this town don't dare to stand up publicly and announce who they support?

For Hahn to imply that the people of Bethlehem don't dare to stand and be counted is in fact taking the people for granted. For Fritts to sit back and wait for the Republican organization to carry him to victory in the primary is also taking the voters for granted.

Maybe it's time for the voters of Bethlehem to look for another candidate — one who won't take them so lightly.

EDITOR'S NOTE: With primary day on Tuesday, Sept. 15, this the last week that letters on the Hahn-Fritts contest will be printed. The only exception is letters responding to points raised in previous letters or articles printed in The Spotlight.

In last week's issue, some incorrect information was printed in a letter entitled, "Vote for experience."

The writer said that Gary Swan won last year's Republican assembly primary in the Albany County town of Coeymans. Swan came in second to Mils Backlund. Overall, Swan and Bernard Kaplowitz, the two Bethlehem candidates in the race came in third and fourth with 2,395 and 2,385 votes respectively. Kaplowitz won Bethlehem, 2,004 votes to Swan's 1,439. Swan had 965 votes in Greene and Clumbia counties, and Kaplowitz had 328 in those two counties.

The Whirlwind

It's the same every year. No sooner does Mom's plane touch down than visions of a tranquil vacation vanish. Mom, also lovingly referred to as Grandma and "the dynamo," creates frenzy in the mundane lives of our family. Even our two exuberant teens were begging for a mid-day catnap near the end of Mom's last visit.

ON THE HOME FRONT

Susan Gorcon

White-haired, pushing seventy, moderately over-weight from too many years of eating on the run and sometimes eating more than running, and nibbling away at an assortment of worries, Mom is one of the toughest specimens aging can offer.

Last August, Mom's seven hour journey from England encountered an hour's delay circling J.F. Kennedy and a second delaying the connecting flight. Her delayed arrival fostered in us a not-so-silent prayer that this time she would be knocked out.

We were. Ten non-stop hours of polishing furniture, scrubbing and vacuuming. Cooking and raking the lawn had worn us out. Even our cat, who does not understand a single English syllable, was forbidden to set a paw upon the freshly waxed kitchen floor. After the fighting ended over who would shower off the sweat first and all were freshly dressed, not one of us would have refused an offer of a cup of warm milk and an eight o'clock bedtime.

Two and one-half hours late, Mom touched down at Albany County Airport. Arms outstretched just as her eye caught sight of us, the flight bag on her left knocks off the hat of the man to her left. The disembarking passengers to her right dropped to the ground.

Blithely, Mom ran toward us, dragging assorted paraphernalia with her. Her all-embracing hug (how ever did she grow arms long enough to encircle four of us), broad smile and happy chatter convinced us absolutely that six hours sleep a night, four-mile walks, incessant talking and twice-daily excursions to all points within 200 miles of home would be joyfully endured for the next four weeks.

Grateful to neighbors

Editor, The Spotlight:

We would like to publicly thank our friends, neighbors and most importantly the volunteer firemen in Voorheesville who responded to our fire on Wednesday.

The offers of assistance from neighbors were overwhelming and greatly appreciated. The swift response and professional expertise of the fire department personnel saved our home from what could have been a much bigger disaster.

Thanks to all of you. It is a pleasure and privilege to live among you.

Cathy and Bob Pilatzke

Where are teens' parents?

Editor, The Spotlight:

On my street in the Town of Bethlehem, toddlers in the streets are not the problem—teenagers are. The ones who have just gotten their licenses, zooming up and down the road and showing off. And then there is the beau who comes to pick up his 16-year-old sweetheart. He drives like a mad man and honks the horn in the driveway until his princess comes out.

And worst of all are the parties, on the lawns and in the streets. They are drinking and whooting up a storm. They have beer and leave the trash up and down the street. The beer bottles are left in the street, broken and not broken for the toddlers who do live here to find them.

Where are the parents of these teenagers? Do you know where your kids were last night?

Job well done

Editor, The Spotlight:

I would like to publicly thank Ginny Hill Hasselbarth for the tremendous job she did in organizing the 20th reunion of Bethlehem Central's Class of '67. We were fortunate to have chosen a permanent class secretary who would be willing to spend the time and energy necessary to make such reunions successful. I hope all the work hasn't discouraged her from looking forward to a 25th.

Welcome back!

The summer fun is over and the school year begins starts again this week for area students.

From the enthusiastic kindergartener to the veteran student, opportunities for learning and growing will abound. Every day will hold something new in educating our country's future. Education is a precious resource and the opportunity for parents to participate is almost as great as their children's opportunities.

Enjoy, grow and learn during the new school year.
