Computer grant for BC's future

By Cathi Anne M. Cameron

Computers at Bethlehem Central schools will soon be able to talk to each other, thanks to a state grant.

Saying that he was "very excited about all the possibilities," Assistant Superintendent Briggs McAndrews detailed aspects of the $56,000 grant that will carry the district's library computer systems well into the 21st century. McAndrews, the district's assistant superintendent for instruction, called the project "an integrated learning proposal".

The recent approval of the funds means that 28 computers in the middle school library will be able to be networked, allowing for greater efficiency and communications capability. "That was the biggie in the proposal," McAndrews explained.

The middle school library will also receive a technology program and planning system that, according to McAndrews, "will stimulate both the decision-making and project development process."

While the libraries at the middle school, high school and Elsmere Elementary School are already automated for research and circulation information, part of the funds will be used to automate the rest of the district's libraries.

The district is also hoping to be able to improve the computer facilities for middle school science and special education students as well, McAndrews said.

"I think the real thing is that this has pushed us ahead a number of years in extending student work into other subject areas, and helped us with funding for areas we really didn't think we would be able to manage on our own," he added.

Assemblyman John Faso (R-Kinderhook), whose district includes Bethlehem, was instrumental in the approval of the funding. Faso said he felt the program was important because "most colleges and high schools expect students to have a working knowledge of computers. Working with computers will become second nature for students who have worked with them at an early age."

Faso said that the system "will help students develop computer skills and enhance learning in writing, math, science and technology, library programs and special education," and that it was "very gratifying" to have gained funding for the programs.

Assistant Superintendent for Business Franz Zwicklbauer noted that the computer improvements are in addition to those made possible by the recent passage of the 1989-1990 budget.

School buffer zone springs a leak

By Mark Stuart

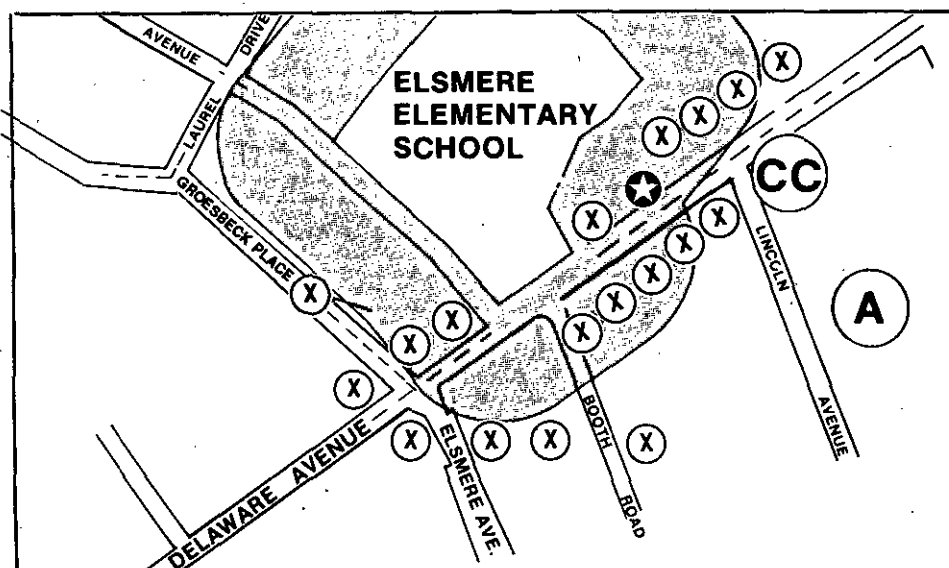

Four years ago, the Delaware Ave. Task Force — town officials and citizens charged with dealing with commercial development along Bethlehem's busiest thoroughfare — established a special buffer zone for the Elsmere Elementary School.

The idea was that a school in a rapidly expanding commercial area required some special protection. Now a tavern is expanding inside the buffer zone, and some citizens and town officials are wondering just how effective that buffer zone is.

But when James Giacone decided to expand My Place and Co. on April 26 into the vacant space of a real estate office next door at 241 Delaware Ave., he really didn't expect to cause a debate over the zoning code. Giacone says he had been assured as early as 1985, when the buffer zone was put into place, that it would not affect his tavern as long as any expansion was less than 25 percent of the original space.

The whole question of whether Giacone should be able to expand his business

Candidates, budget go to forum

By Bob Hagyard

Voorheesville Central Schools will present candidates for two school board vacancies and its 1989-90 budget at a special public forum on June 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Originally, the forum was scheduled for the previous week. However, a conflicting event prompted the board to reschedule it to the following Tuesday.

Candidates will give brief statements, then participate in a question and answer session under a fixed time limit. After that, the proposed budget will go on the table with no time limit on discussion.

The budget package, which totals $9,077,034, means a property tax rate increase estimated at 15 percent for the Town of New Scotland part of the district. On a true-value basis, district residents in New Scotland, Guilderland and Berne can expect a uniform per-thousand rate of $23.39. That's a decrease from last year's true-value $24.71, only the second true-value decrease in this decade.

These figures, of course, may change due to factors beyond the school district's control. Final assessed values, a major factor in figuring final rates, won't be in from the towns until Aug. 1. Nor will equalization rates, set by the state Board of Equalization and Assessment.

Three seek board seats

Three district residents are seeking two five-year seats on the school board.

C. James Coffin of Route 85, Sherry Siemann of Route 156 and Thomas M. Thorpe of Altamont Road filed petitions by the 5 p.m. deadline Friday. The seats are currently filled by John McKenna and John Zongrone, who have declined to seek re-election.

Coffin served on the district's first-ever budget advisory committee, a 21-member group that helped draft the proposed 1989-90 budget. He moved into the district in 1969, the year he joined the State Education Department as an associate specialist in educational finance and management, his current position. He and his wife have two children, one in the seventh grade at the high school and one in the fourth grade at the elementary school.

Siemann, an eight-year resident, is a member of the district-wide program committee created last November to look into VCS curricula. A former EKG technician at Amsterdam's Memorial Hospital, she served as a volunteer room mother for grades K-1 at the elementary school. Three of her four children are currently

Jericho Bridge bond approved

Bonding for roads questioned

by Patricia Dumas

The Albany County Legislature at its meeting May 8 authorized the county's agreement with Conrail to finance part of the costs of putting the Jericho Bridge back into operation.

On a long roll call vote, the legislature gave unanimous approval to the agreement, which makes the county responsible for repairs to the bridge deck, roadway and highway approaches. The county's share cost of $1,500,000 will come from a $25 million bond issue, which won legislative approval in May.

Bethlehem Republican Legislator Robert W. Hoffmeister asked for the long roll call vote to register the unanimous approval and said he looked forward to an early start on the project.

County Executive James J. Coyne announced his proposal for the bond issue at a news conference May 3 at the Jericho Bridge site in South Bethlehem. The bridge has been closed since 1986, and the agreement marks the end of a long dispute between the county and Conrail, owner of the Selkirk freight yard under the bridge. Conrail has agreed to be responsible for repair of the bridge structure.

Michael P. Fahey, who has led South Bethlehem residents in protesting the county's delay in addressing the bridge problem, distributed a press release before the legislature's meeting. He said that while passage of the bond issue and Jericho Bridge resolutions "would represent a significant victory for Bethlehem residents we cannot and will not rest easy until the Jericho Bridge is finally reopened."

Although they joined Democrats last week in approving the $25 million bond issue to finance bridge and road repairs in Albany County's nine towns, Republican legislators said they want the county to avoid future bonding for that purpose.

There are better ways, they claimed, to provide money for public works projects.

James C. Ross, Delmar Republican, said he supported the bond issue a hundred percent, "But I think some kind of preventive maintenance should be put into the county budget to keep bridges and roads in repair."

Margaret Schwarz of Colonie said the county should consider putting $1 million a year into the public works department to avoid bonding for equipment and vehicles used on the roads. She said the county has been budgeting $1 million annually for its civic center construction.

Ross said the county has appropriated $7.5 million in the past five years to pay part of the civic center costs and said "the bonding we require for the roads would be less than half of what is required if the funds were not directed to the civic center enterprise."

Bethlehem Republican Robert W. Hoffmeister hailed passage of the bond issue to finance needed road and bridge repairs but suggested the county use money expected from its planned sale of the Albany County Airport to retire the bond issue. The airport sale to the Capital District Transportation Authority is expected to take place later this year.

Colonie Republicans Kenneth S. MacAffer and Robert G. Prentiss said under leadership of County Executive James J. Coyne, civic center construction has come ahead of road needs.

Democrat Majority Leader Harold L. Joyce who heads the legislature's Civic Center Committee said it was not fair for civic center costs to be compared with road funding.

"We have identified offsetting revenues for monies spent on the civic center," he said, "but there is no direct income resulting from road repairs."

In other action last week, the legislature approved a lease-purchase agreement for a 96-bed modular dormitory to be placed next to the county jail as a temporary way to deal with jail overcrowding. The structure will be purchased from Williams Mobil Offices of Baltimore for $26,032 a month. The lease purchase "will result in considerable savings to the taxpayers," according to the authorizing resolution.

The legislature approved a $43,000 contract with Clough, Harbour & Associates for engineering services related to the temporary jail housing and awarded contracts of $28,500 to Jackie Bombard of Galway for site work and Kasselmann Electric Co. of Albany for electrical work.

On a slow roll call, 26-12 party line vote, the legislature turned down an attempt by Prentiss to add a resolution to the legislative agenda. The resolution called for an investigation by the Albany County District Attorney's Office and the legislature's Ethics Committee into allegations there were kick-backs and pay-offs on a civic center bid. The allegations surfaced in a May 7 Times Union story that quoted anonymous employees of a firm that obtained a contract for work on the center. The workers were reported to have said that their boss talked about payoffs to Coyne.

Joyce said the motion was unnecessary because Coyne had already called for similar investigations into the allegations.

RCS budget vote today

Voting is scheduled today, May 17, from 2 to 9 p.m. at Ravena-Coeyman-Selkirk Senior High School on the district's proposed $16,060,513 budget for the 1989-1990 school year.

Voters will also consider three propositions — the purchase of additional school buses at $296,000, the creation of an asbestos abatement plan, and whether or not the district should sell the former Jericho School building, currently being used as a maintenance facility.

Voters will also elect three Board of Education members. Running for the board are incumbents Wayne Fuhrman and Stephen Berletic, and first time candidates James Feuerbach and Dr. Mona Selover.

To vote, you must be 18 years of age or older, a U.S. citizen, and a resident of the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk school district for the past thirty days. You do not have to own land in the district to cast a ballot.

Bike Day shines through

Despite the weatherman's predictions for rain, one hundred and fifty-six bicyclists enjoyed sunny skies and balmy weather at the 1989 Bethlehem Bicycle Rodeo at Town Hall Saturday.

The Bethlehem Police Department coordinated a bicycle identification booth while 15 volunteers, including town councilmen and other officials, guided bicyclists through the parking lot courses.

Refreshments were provided by McDonalds and several prizes were awarded by other local businesses. First prize for each category was a bicycle, second prize was a bike bag and third prize was a bicycle lock.

In the age 5 category, prizes were donated by the Delmar Kiwanis and the respective prizes went to Laurie Morrell, Emily Caesar and William Nathan.

In the age 6 to 8 category, prizes were donated by K-Mart Corporation and went to Allan Lewis, Sarah Hayes and Jennifer Nathan.

In the age 9 to 10 category, prizes were donated by the Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post of the American Legion and went to Marcy Ryan, Chris Williams and Sarah Burtis.

In the 11 to 13 category, prizes were donated by Owens-Corning and were presented to Steve Rossman, Liz Dunn and Ryan Lillis.

In the age 14 to 18 group, prizes were donated by the Bethlehem Lions Clubs and went to Bill Karins, Adam Perry and Georga Butt.

Prizes in the 18 and over category were donated by the Bethlehem Elks 2233 and were presented to Liz Strickler, Ginny Hayes and Tom Smith.

A Nursery in a Garden

For those of you unfamiliar with Helderledge Farm, let us introduce ourselves. We are a nursery specializing in the growing and selling of fine herbaceous perennials. We are life-long gardeners, professional horticulturists and landscape architects.

Our selection of perennial plants is deep and wide with extensive collections of major and minor perennials hardy to our zone. Whether you are a new gardener or an old hand, you will be delighted with our plants. Select the best yourself and benefit from our experience, knowledge and enthusiasm.

The nursery is tucked into an old apple orchard located at the base of the Helderberg escarpment between Voorheesville and Altamont, a beautiful place to visit by design or diversion.

A visitor from North Carolina described us as a "nursery in a garden." We like that and hope you will too.

Moratoriums and conflict

It's becoming harder and harder to separate planning from politics in Bethlehem.

Two of the declared Republican candidates for supervisor are key players in the town's development process. Kenneth Ringler is chairman of the planning board, and Sue Ann Ritchko is a member of the town board. Beyond the obvious concern of how their decisions on zoning questions are colored by their political aspirations there are some more subtle issues.

The question of whether Bethlehem needs a moratorium on building is a legitimate and ongoing concern. Mr. Ringler has proposed a partial moratorium affecting larger residential development.

A moratorium is being promoted by citizens groups that are opposed to specific projects and are also active in the political arena. It is likely to be one of the major issues in the Republican primary, if there is one, and in the fall campaign.

Mrs. Ritchko is a member of the town's Land Use Management Advisory Committee (LUMAC), which is charged with developing a "master plan" for the town. She is also an employee of the Price Chopper supermarket chain, which is a participant in Bethlehem Village, the major commercial development proposed for New Scotland Rd. — and vehemently opposed by many residents of Slingerlands.

Mrs. Ritchko's position is likely to be questioned as the campaign heats up, and has in fact already prompted attacks from some of the Slingerlands opposition to the shopping center. Despite the fact that she has disqualified herself from voting on Bethlehem Village, her status on LUMAC and the town board — both of which will have much to say on the moratorium — puts her in an obviously vulnerable position.

A little more energy from legislators, please

Many of the people who are reading this editorial are familiar with the provisions of the Home Insulation and Energy Conservation Act because they have taken advantage of its very helpful service — the home energy audits which public utilities have been required to offer, free, for the past decade.

The act — known to many as HIECA — is no more, because of a lapse on the part of the State Legislature, which allowed it to expire more than two months ago.

That lapse is most unfortunate, because the energy audits were more than just a nice accommodation to householders. The audits, consisting of inspections followed by recommendations for saving electricity and fuel, have saved New York residents and estimated equivalent of 450 million gallons of oil. Another estimate is that every dollar that the utilities spend for the audits results in eight dollars worth of energy savings.

A day to remember

Throughout the town, today is Poppy Day. The hallowed tradition is one that has existed for many years now, helping each of us to recall the service and sacrifices of men and women in

Editorial

We believe that a moratorium on major development in the town is too important a question to be subjected to the political winds. The question posed by many observers is whether Bethlehem is indeed faced with such extreme and uncontrollable building pressure that a town-wide moratorium is warranted. While the town clearly must develop a framework for dealing with development in some key areas, such as the Rt. 9W Corridor and North Bethlehem, there is little objective evidence that building in the entire town needs to be curtailed. And a moratorium affects not only the builders and real estate people, but also the many people who are desirous of a place to live in this town, or of a greater choice of commercial services.

In last week's Point of View column, James Cole, a Delmar attorney, argued persuasively that there is a role for moratoriums of limited duration and effect in the development of a town-wide master plan. Mr. Cole also noted the legal limitations of moratoriums, and the fact that the courts have invalidated moratoriums "where they did not serve as a necessary planning tool but sought to exclude growth or were not established for a reasonable and certain time frame."

The danger we see is that in the heat of an election year those common-sense limitations will be overrun by political considerations and the special interests that are able to take advantage of them. The public will be better served if there is a clear distinction between the policy-making bodies of town government and the political campaigns.

In view of all the environmental concerns, as well as a variety of international policy issues, it's increasingly important that we conserve fuel just as much as possible. The lapse of HEICA therefore is needlessly threatening.

We would like to see that legislative oversight rectified.

It is of only slight consolation that the utilities apparently plan to continue the audits through 1989, leaving the longer-term future in question.

Governor Cuomo, to his credit, is proposing not only an extension but an expansion of the provisions of HIECA, to make the act applicable to buildings much larger than four units (as has been specified so far), and to make it easier for homeowners to borrow in order to make their dwellings more energy-efficient.

Everyone stands to gain through extending the audits, and making them as viable as possible. HIECA has been a proven saver of money and fuels, and deserves a secure future.

uniform when their country called on them. When a Poppy Day representative calls on you, be sure to respond with the token that says, "I remember."

Leashed — and scooped!

A letter published in the Vox Pop columns today cites the annoyance and anger of a resident who is offended when others' pets violate the edges of her property.

Dog owners who allow their charges to leave behind evidence of their presence are not only thoughtlessly rude, they also are in violation of laws. In some places, the laws are enforced enough so that the messy situation is pretty well under control. More frequent recognition of what good manners and public health obligates would keep this or any town in better repute. We owe it to each other.

The same code, incidentally, holds true for cats as well as for dogs. True, they are more likely to be in-house pets, but when turned out to roam they can cause their own style of offensiveness, including their forays against birds.

School board winners' mandate is cited

Editor, The Spotlight:

Congratulations, Bernard Harvith and George Sussman for your victories in the school board elections. Your elections are particularly encouraging, because from your statements we might expect more cost-effectiveness.

The voters recently approved 31 more classrooms, five new buses, two vans, a $240,000 increase in central services, a $1.3 million increase in instructional programs, and a $585,000 increase in employee benefits. We've fixed the high school gym, swimming pool, and roof and we've taken care of the asbestos problems.

Though the GNP increased by only 3.8 percent and inflation increased by 4.2 percent in 1988, the school budget was increased by 9.3 percent. This follows a budget increase of 8.9 last year. Clearly, education costs cannot be allowed to continue to increase more than twice as fast as income. Business and industry are consolidating, reducing their work force, and pressing for higher productivity. State government and education are under fire by the governor to reduce costs. Still, these elements of the economy are pressing to improve the quality of their product.

So, we look to you for leadership in cost-containment while you are preparing the next budget. It appears as though we've made the adjustments to bring us in line with our projected needs and there should be no justification for an increase that exceeds the change in the cost of living. An intensive analysis could even result in a reduced budget. Good luck!

Hoogy's Corner cleared of improper actions

Editor, The Spotlight:

I wholeheartedly agree with Mr. Richard Longley's letter regarding Mr. Anthony Pizzitola's recent actions in cutting down several trees. However, I do think Mr. Longley has inadvertently caused some confusion. His letter implies that Mr. Pizzitola is the proprietor of Hoogy's Corner restaurant.

The fact is that Mr. Pizzitola's lack of respect for the land and the poor taste in verbal communication of the site workers is being inaccurately reflected on the popular eatery. (I have been given to understand that the verbal communication directed at the Buildings Department staff, including Mr. Flanigan himself, would be unprintable in any respectable newspaper).

Hoogy's Village Corner restaurant is operated by a person who has respect for the laws of the town and knows the proper approach if there is disagreement with a statute. He is too much of a gentleman and responsible citizen

VOX POP is The Spotlight's public forum. All letters from readers on matters of local interest will be considered. Writers are encouraged to keep their letters as brief as possible, and letters will be edited for taste, style, fairness and accuracy, as well as for length.

Letters from candidates for public office are subject to special rules and deadlines. All candidates are urged to contact the editors as soon as possible for a printed copy of the rules.

Letters should be typed and double spaced if possible. The deadline for letters is 5 p.m. of the Friday before the Wednesday of publication, unless otherwise indicated. All letters must be signed and must include a telephone number where the writer can be reached during the day and evenings. With satisfactory reason, letter writers may request that their names be withheld.

UNCLE DUDLEY

So you're a board member now?

You may have happened to notice newspaper accounts recently of the dismissal of the executive director of the Girl Scouts' Hudson Valley Council.

The account appears to be incomplete, but the tale itself is a rather familiar one: Professional fails to impress key member of the volunteer board — and is gone. The word "impress" is used loosely, in that while the problem may suggest some degree of shortcoming in carrying out tasks, it often merely signifies that the trustee's prerogatives have been ruffled.

This apparently was the case at the local Girl Scouts headquarters. The executive returned from sick leave to be informed by the board's president that she was through, without notice. The reason is obscure, but seemingly no more serious than a difference of opinion. Firing of a professional in a field such as scouting is a serious affair, inasmuch as not only is that person's livelihood terminated and career disrupted, but his or her reputation is compromised, perhaps with prolonged effects.

Because of the considerable number of organizations — both voluntary and institutional in nature — which retain career professionals, it seems to me that such a situation as the Girl Scouts offer is worth dwelling on for a few moments.

From the hour when an organization holds its final job interview and decides to offer a position to an applicant, there is a delicate relationship which exists. But it is one that too seldom is understood and recognized by those persons who are privileged to serve on the boards of directors, trustees, or whatever they may be called in a given instance.

Too many trustees fail to understand their real mission.

The responsibility of the volunteer board members (collectively and individually) is highly important, but it is also limited. The first job of the trustees is to find the professional who will run the organization — and then let that presumably qualified person do his or her job without Monday morning quarterbacking, second-guessing or any other kind of interference in the day-to-day operation of the agency.

The trustees' second responsibility is to find the funds that will enable the agency's work to be done effectively. In many instances, this implicitly means that the individual members will be called on to suffer generously for the cause in addition to soliciting funding from outside sources. Not always is this duty understood and accepted in practice.

The third responsibility is to establish goals and to set the broad policies that will enable the professional staff to progress toward those goals. If the first two items in the trustees' charter are not always clearly understood, this basic perception is perhaps even less so.

I've observed numerous boards in operation, and have found that — very regrettably — appreciation by volunteers of their proper role is all too seldom the case.

The result invariably is friction, conflict, and festering irritations and resentments. The institution's cause is damaged through the ensuing inefficiency created by personality clashes and damaged lines of proper communication. Most frequently, the end result is the professional's departure, and the board's need to start over again with another professional. The goals of the agency are set back.

The instance of the recent Girl Scouts dismissal seems to be, unhappily, a fine example of trustees' violation of the principle that should apply to their behavior.

In most such cases, the board will come up with a successor who can be expected to be more compliant and respectful. That may work out well, but the chances are pretty good that meek executives — intent on holding onto the job — won't be very good at much except toadying.

Of course, sometimes board volunteers are confronted by truly ineffective (or corrupt) executives who must be disciplined or dismissed for the objective good of the agency. If the volunteers hew to the line of impersonality and fairness whether their dealings with the executive are affirmative or negative, they will be discharging their high duty with honor, and the institution will be blessed — and blessedly effective.

CONSTANT READER

Who left the door open?

Last month I reviewed the April issue of "Esquire" magazine at length. In passing, I mentioned that "this magazine is a mix that's quite involving," and suggested that I might comment on it further in a later column. And here we are.

Among the features of that issue was a piece by William Styron about the late James Jones. "A Literary Friendship," he called it.

Recalling his own reading of "From Here to Eternity" when it was published in 1951, Styron observes that though "the language may have been coarse-grained," it had "Dreiserian force; the people were as alive as those of Dostoyevsky." Then he goes on to say:

"One other item, somewhat less significant but historic nonetheless, caught my attention, and this was how it had fallen to Jones to make the final breakthrough in terms of vernacular speech that writers—and readers—had been awaiting for hundreds of years. The dread F-word, among several others, so sedulously proscribed by the guardians of decency that even Norman Mailer, in his admirable "The Naked and the Dead," only three years before, had had to judge the issue with an absurd pseudo-spelling, was now inscribed on the printed page in the speech pattern of those who normally spoke it."

I'm not so certain as Mr. Styron is that the world had been awaiting the "breakthrough" that he contends was fashioned in "From Here to Eternity."

But if his claim is an accurate one as to the fact and timing of this event, then it suggests to me that what the world now does possess is a benchmark on eternity's calendar. That would be when the barriers went down and the era of "Anything Goes" was launched.

Can we see a benchmark as to what's permitted?

What shortly followed was a breakthrough of a different, though somewhat parallel, style—this one being fashioned by Hugh Hefner in his magazine.

The timing of the first publication of "Playboy" (to be followed by the flattery of imitators who then proceeded to uncover much, much more) coincided approximately with Supreme Court decisions that, serially, opened the doors for a large menagerie of individuals dedicated to the indelicate art of shocking their betters in as many ways as possible. Does the thriving world of the drug trade, the violence and suggestiveness of prime-time TV, the cult of rebellion against reasoned authority—do all these developments (which have come about since "From Here to Eternity") strike you as merely coincidental?

Cole Porter anticipated the beginning of this revolution by some 20 years when he wrote, in "Anything Goes," the lines

"Good authors, too, who once knew better words

Now only use four-letter words, writing prose. . . ."

Since "Esquire" boldly promotes itself as showing off "man at his best," you wouldn't be too surprised to find a short article on knickers (including an overdue little tribute to plus fours) and a longer picture section titled "The Adirondack Tradition." Ten photos of male models, mostly wearing casual clothes that the magazine tersely identifies as "natural, functional, elegant." Such as "Silk tweed single-breasted sport jacket, cotton broadcloth shirt and gabardine trousers by . . ." What's chiefly visible in the full-page monochrome photo are his hand and a female's head.

What I like best in this issue was this line in a fiction piece: "The best place to bury a dog is in your heart."

Saving the 'warp' of civilization

Point of View

By Lynn Dunning-Vaughn

National Historic Preservation Week and National Tourism Week share the week of May 14 to 20 this year. It is a very appropriate coupling, although the marriage of historic preservation and tourism has traditionally been one of convenience.

That there is still a union at all is due largely to the inherent dependence that each has on the other. Both parties have been content to use standardized approaches to accomplish goals. And while each has expanded perspectives over the years, we are only now beginning to put energy behind what we've known all along: our individual goals of heritage preservation and increased tourism are very suitable bedfellows.

Many tourists are moving away from theme parks and Colonial Williamsburg towards the "real thing." The real thing, or "civic tourism" as it has been dubbed by tourism professionals, is public interest in community, scenery, culture, and heritage. This widening of focus takes tourism promotion into new and virtually untapped territory. It means that there is real public interest in not only Albany's Capitol, City Hall, and historic downtown, but in her architecturally and culturally varied neighborhoods; public interest in the evolution of Dutch Colonie Farmland to one of our most populous suburbs; in the role of Loudon Hall in the life of late 19th century Loudonville; in the talented Slingerland family, the old toll gate, and the summer people who came to Slingerlands by railroad; in Delmar, where the post-war impact of GI mortgages on a once-sleepy hamlet is so evident.

A well known travel writer, Arthur Frommer, has said that tourism does not go to a city that has lost its soul.

There is much fodder for "real" heritage tourism. Much that will not only spur economic development but enhance our own sense of place, our community pride. We have much to celebrate for ourselves and for others.

A well-known travel writer, Arthur Frommer, has said that tourism does not go to a city that has lost its soul. As a preservationist I am biased in my belief that much of that soul lies in the heritage of a place, and that heritage must be seen to be fully understood and appreciated. Mr. Frommer, who has devoted 35 years to the tourism industry, continues (in a keynote speech to the Illinois preservation conference): Every study of travel motivations shows that interest in achievements of the past is among the three major reasons people travel.

Wholly apart from being lured by sea and sand, by lakes or ski slopes, people travel in almost the same numbers to view masterworks of art and architecture or to visit the remains of previous societies or distinctive communities. They seek their roots in the broadest sense and gain solace or inspiration or wisdom from communion with the past. People travel to the continent of Europe almost solely to view achievements of the past, and only negligibly for sports or leisure or recreation. They seek out the past.

Among cities with no particular recreational appeal, those that have substantially preserved their past continue to enjoy tourism. Those that haven't, receive no tourism at all. It is as simple as that.

Preservation-minded Savannah and Charleston are among our leading tourism destinations. Atlanta, which has obliterated its past, attracts little tourism, instead relying on the notoriously fickle promoters of conventions and business meetings for its heavy-volume visitors to the city. When those convention organizers are lured to less expensive or more attractive cities — as must inevitably occur — Atlanta will learn what happens, economically, to cities that destroy their past and offer nothing but sterile office towers in exchange.

Cities tolerating the indiscriminate destruction of the past lost their tourism, and must face up to that consequence.

Because of historic preservation, and only because of historic preservation, the travel industry is the single largest industry in Europe. It employs nearly 10 percent of the work force, supplying the nations of Europe with a steady, stable source of income. Impervious to the vagaries of other forms of commerce, it is unaffected by economic trends in other continents.

(Turn To Page 6)

□ Saving civilization

(From Page 5)

Benefits from tourism have been worn without damage to other economic interests. Commercial progress has not ceased in London, Paris, Rome, or Madrid, despite their reverence for the past. Construction of office buildings continues, but away from historic districts.

Point of View

Have Charleston or Savannah or New Orleans suffered because large districts have been set aside for historic preservation? Far from being damaged by the needs of tourism, the exact opposite has occurred and if any of those cities are currently failing to thrive, it is for reasons wholly unrelated to historic preservation.

Little towns, too, have learned that preservation can create a thriving tourist industry and lend a wholesome economic underpinning to places that might not otherwise survive.

There is a problem, though, in making too easy an association between historic preservation and increased tourism. The link occurs when a community preserves entire districts, not just isolated structures. All over America we find cities that possess scattered historical structures, and yet they enjoy no tourism at all. Detroit possesses scattered landmarks; so do Houston and Oklahoma City. But no one in his right mind vacations there.

Tourism does not go to a city that has lost its soul. And that condition — absence of a soul or a theme — has been brought about by the decline and destruction of central, inner cities all over the country.

Tourism results from historic preservation only when the city's central, historic core — the vital, dynamic focus of community life — is restored and enlivened.

No one can view our major cities today without alarm. Even in the most prosperous sunbelt cities, the replacement of human-scale, period structures by high-rise office towers has created scenes of desolation where once there was life. Those cities no longer provide even the most elemental functions of community life.

We need the preservation movement to face up to political issues that it has never sufficiently explored. Only in cooperation with government can whole districts be saved.

We need to challenge the view of some in business that the marketplace alone must determine the fate of American cities. If preservation is to be effective, if the warp of our civilization is to be maintained, if even the goals of increased tourism are to be achieved, then we as a nation must step back from extreme marketplace theories. We cannot let the advocates of unrealistic and so-called libertarian theories destroy, in effect, our American towns and cities.

to undertake the actions that Mr. Pizzitola has. Brian and Karen Hoogkamp need to know the residents of the Tri-Village area do not hold them responsible for this senseless act.

Hoogy's Corner provides the Hoogkamps with their livelihood, which should not suffer due to an irresponsible person.

I urge the townspeople not to judge the Hoogkamps by the actions of their landlord and his questionable business practices.

Slingerlands

Hoogy's Corner Restaurant in Slingerlands has no business connection with developer Anthony Pizzitola, the subject of the letter in last week's issue regarding the cutting of trees behind the restaurant. Mr. Pizzitola owns the real estate and the building leased by the restaurant. Ed.

Writer points out who cut the trees

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am amazed that The Spotlight printed Richard Longley's letter about the removal of trees from the old Charlie Sanders property in Slingerlands. Mr. Longley should have done some more investigating first, and your paper should have known, that Brian and Karen Hoogkamp are the owners of Hoogy's Village Corner restaurant, but do not own the property, nor did they have anything to do with the removal of the trees. The letter implies that it was the restaurant owner (Hoogy's Corner restaurant) who had the trees cut.

As a Slingerlands businessman also, I believe that the Hoogkamps should receive an apology from Mr. Longley as well as your editor. Certainly the letter may have an adverse effect upon their business.

Hoogy's Proprietor straightens us out

Editor, The Spotlight:

Remaining low-keyed and subdued in running a commercial establishment, while trying to maintain the "residential character" in your community, is a difficult task. We have, however, tried to do exactly that.

In light of the article published last week in The Spotlight and written by Richard Longley, we feel we must now step into the "limelight" and clarify certain issues.

First, we would like to introduce ourselves. My name is Brian Hoogkamp. I reside here in Slingerlands on a small dead-end street with a lot of great neighbors. I am now, and always have been the sole owner, sole stockholder, and only officer of Hoogys Village Corner, Inc., the pizza restaurant at 1562 New Scotland Road in Slingerlands. My wife's name is Karen, our children are Brian Jr., Kara, Sean, Patrick, and Jason. Together with our foster daughter Rose and the help of a lot of great local coworkers, we make up what is "Hoogys Village Corner, Inc."

Secondly, the mis-statement of fact made by Mr. Longley and published by The Spotlight is in regard to Mr. Anthony Pizzitola and his ownership of Hoogys. Mr. Pizzitola is not now, nor has he ever been, involved in the ownership of operations of Hoogys Village Corner, Inc. In our almost eight years of operation, our ownership has always been, Brian and Karen Hoogkamp and family. The extent of any relationships between Hoogys Village Corner, Inc. and Mr. Pizzitola is for rental of property at the location of Hoogys.

Third, the property we are located on and the building we conduct business in are owned by members of the Pizzitola family.

Confused? Come see us.

As we only lease these premises, we do not offer, not do the Pizzitolas solicit, our advice as to what they may or may not do with the remainder of their property. We had no previous knowledge of actions to be taken in making changes in the Pizzitola property.

As private business people and members of this community, we wish to remain publicly neutral in this matter. We do not condemn nor condone either the Pizzitola family of the Town of Bethlehem for any actions taken in this matter. It is our feeling that we have elected officials and legal personnel much better at determining what is right or wrong in this situation. I'm sure we all realize what can happen when uninformed individuals start injecting personal feelings and beliefs.

Fourth, upon reading the article by Mr. Longley, Karen and I became angry by the misrepresentation that Hoogys Village Corner, Inc., was involved in the clearing of the Pizzitola property and that the community should "reflect upon the type of free enterprise that this businessman brings to a town." I personally tried calling Mr. Longley to clarify this issue, but was told by Mr. Longley's father that he was out of the country. I would like to say it was a pleasure talking to the senior Mr. Longley and that his information has helped me greatly. I'm sure that Richard and a lot of others could benefit from this man's knowledge.

As a last note, please let me respond to one of the neighbors of my business who alluded to the premise that if values and ideals might conflict with her or her associates, that my business might be "boycotted" and shut down. If I have to operate my business under that potential threat, then I will personally lock my doors tomorrow.

Sorry, but I don't intend to do that!

□ Elsmere buffer zone

centers around Article 24 of the Bethlehem Zoning Code which, by some community residents' and town official's interpretation, makes what Giacone did illegal. Furthermore, some have said they feel that the matter should have at least been brought before the Board of Appeals for consideration and discussion.

According to Article 24 of the Bethlehem Zoning ordinance on Restrictions Relating to Certain Uses in Respect To Proximity to Schools, Churches and Playgrounds, "no building shall be constructed, or any existing building converted or altered, to support any of the following uses within 250 feet of the property line of any public or parochial school: 2.) Taverns, bars, grills or other establishments where alcoholic beverages are served or dispensed for consumption on the premises, or sold for consumption off the premises."

Article 24 was passed as a recommendation by the town's Delaware Avenue Task Force in 1985 and converted My Place and Co. into a non-conforming use since it was located within the 250 foot buffer around the Elsmere School.

But what Giacone did was completely legal under the current zoning code, according to Bethlehem Building Inspector John Flanigan, who said that Giacone has the right to expand My Place and Co. by 25 percent without having to bring the issue before the Board of Appeals.

Flanigan said that by virtue of a pre-existing use to the 1985 law, Giacone was entitled to expand without a special use permit. The area is zoned CC-Commercial.

According to Giacone, he spoke to a building department official in 1985 when Article 24 was passed and asked if it would affect plans for expansion should the need for expansion arise. "Whoever I spoke to said I would definitely be affected, but that I could still expand 25 percent," Giacone said. He said he couldn't remember the name of the official he spoke to.

He said that when he purchased the building in August, he again contacted the building department and asked if Article 24 would affect his expansion, the building official said no. Giacone said he wasn't sure if it was Flanigan or someone else he had spoken to.

Councilmen Sue Ann Ritchko and Bob Burns recently posed several questions to Flanigan at a town board meeting regarding his decision to allow the expansion without having the issue brought before the Board of Appeals.

"Our concern as a community — and I must say, John, we respect your ability and you're a straight shooter — is that we in the town government, that when an issue like this comes up we should think about the children and not the (existing use) issue," Ritchko said.

Flanigan responded, saying that the issue has never come up before and that there was no precedence to guide him in his decision. Burns said that "since it has never come up before... wouldn't that at least show a need for some sort of legal opinion?" adding later that "it's sensitive enough that it should require a full hearing by the Board of Appeals."

Flanigan has said that he has "the obligation to make an interpretation based on the (zoning) ordinance and precedence" and that the issue is not whether he made a right or wrong decision but rather the conflict of law between what the Zoning Code states regarding a non-conforming use to expand by 25 percent and Article 24.

Flanigan said the expansion proposal never went before the Board of Appeals because there was "no mechanism to kick it back to the Board of Appeals."

Councilman Dennis Corrigan defended Flanigan's action, saying "It's an issue of interpreting the ordinance and John has done so... it's clear, Sue Ann, that we screwed up—the board that wrote this law."

Before expanding, Giacone also needed State Liquor Authority approval. State law prohibits an entrance from a bar to more than 250 feet from a school. In this case, the school is the Elsmere School. The state Liquor Authority granted the approval for expansion.

The Giacones have owned the entire building at 241 Delaware Ave., which included Betty Lent Realty, since last August. Prior to that, the Giacones rented the My Place and Co. space since 1982. Giacone said he and his mother, Noreen Giacone, operate the building operations separately from the restaurant and bar.

Two other points remain unclear. The first is whether the building permit was issued after work was begun. According to Flanigan, some work had begun to remove plaster board "a few days before" the building permit was issued on April 26. Flanigan said that sort of work did not require a permit since it did not affect the structure of the building. However, Burns said the fact that they began work without contacting the Building Department should have signaled that some work was planned and if a tip wasn't received from an Elsmere resident, the work may have continued without a permit. "It raises the level of concern that this was going to go on without letting anyone know about it," said Burns. "It raises a lot of questions that we have to look at."

The second is whether or not the Board of Appeals actually discussed the expansion of My Place and Co. According to Ritchko, she could find no record in the minutes that it was even discussed in the miscellaneous discussion portion of their meetings (the issue never was made a part of the agenda.) However, Flanigan said the issue was discussed informally at one of the board's meetings last fall.

The main issue the board will most likely try to correct is the conflict between Article 24 and the 25 percent expansion allowance, especially since other similar cases may someday arise in the town.

Regional waste plan debated

By Patricia Dumas

Republican County Legislator James C. Ross of Bethlehem last week proposed a broader regional approach to the problem of solid waste disposal.

He tried unsuccessfully to win the Albany County Legislature's approval of a resolution to direct the county planning board to "establish a mechanism for policy development and inter-county coordination of a capital region solid waste disposal system."

The legislature rejected the proposal, mainly on grounds that the Capital District Regional Planning Commission is coordinating plans on the solid waste matter.

Colonie Democrat Henry Dennis urged Ross to "keep an open mind" and invited him to attend the next meeting of the planning council.

Ross said he would follow Dennis' advice but said he intends to pursue the problem.

"Industry is dominating the solid waste situation," Ross said,

"and there is a monopoly approach in the Capital District by a privately-owned industry rather than a public-private partnership."

He said his concern is heightened by the proposal of BFI (Browning-Ferris Industries) to build a waste incinerator plant in Bethlehem.

Ross said studies into the solid waste issue are emphasizing incineration prior to careful evaluation of composting, recycling, and using landfills.

Instead of a narrow local approach to the situation, a multi-county region should be involved in planning, Ross said.

Town board okays Ma Bell deal

By Mark Stuart

The Bethlehem Town Board has agreed to purchase a new phone system for Town Hall at an approximate total cost of $90,000 from American Telephone and Telegraph.

According to Deputy Controller Richard Webster, approximately $30,000 of that $90,000 will go towards an 11 percent interest fee covering a five-year period. The actual phone system will cost about $60,000.

Councilman Sue Ann Ritchko, who chaired last Wednesday's meeting as deputy supervisor for the vacationing Town Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick, raised her concerns over the percentage of cost going toward interest. Webster explained that the interest costs AT&T were charging were not as high as what a loan or bond would cost.

The current phone system, which the town leases for $900 a month, was installed in 1980. Webster said the current system has 100 stations and has no capability for expansion. "The system is maxed out completely; we've simply outgrown the system," he said.

The town hall phone system serves all of the town services in the building including the Police Department. The Highway Department, located on Elm Ave. East, is not on the same system, nor will it be included in the new system because of local phone service limitations.

In other business, the board set a June 14 public hearing to discuss amending a local law to allow the Bethlehem Elks Lodge 2233 to sell Bell Jar tickets, similar to a raffle, on Sundays. Ken Parker asked the board to change the town ordinance to allow Bell Jar ticket sales since under the state's Games of Chance laws, tickets may not be sold on Sundays unless the local municipality expressly allows it. Parker said the Elks would need to have the law put in place because their Lodge holds meetings on Sundays.

Ritchko read a letter from the state Department of Transportation stating that plans have been made to install a traffic light at Hannay Lane and Rt. 9W. Joseph Kelly, regional director of Traffic Safety, stated that after conducting a traffic study of the intersection, a traffic signal would be justified based on the number of right angle accidents that have occurred at the intersection. He stated that bids will be let this fall.

The board was informed that Cablevision, the owner of Adams-Russell cable television, has paid $14,457 in quarterly franchise fees for the period between January 1 and March 31.

Town Clerk Carolyn Lyons reported that there has been no response from Cablevision regarding a letter sent by Hendrick stating his objection to a recent rate increase.

Ritchko said she would like to see the formation of a community advisory committee to oversee areas of concern. "It gives the community more power over not only rates but also over what the company can provide," she said.

Cablevision's franchise agreement with the town expires in 1991.

The board approved a renewal of a dumping permit for Howard and Henrietta Vagelle for property in Cedar Hill, Selkirk.

Callanan Industries was awarded a $26,635 contract to repave the Bethlehem Fire Training Facility.

The next regular meeting of the Bethlehem Town Board will be May 24 at 7:30 p.m.

1989 road projects

The Bethlehem Highway Department has published its list of road repairs scheduled for 1989 that will be funded through both state and town funds.

The Bethlehem Town Board last week approved an expenditure of $217,360 for repairs to 11 sections of town road. Those roads are Krumkill Rd. near Yale Rd., Village Drive, Kensington Ct., Slingerlands St., Couses Lane, Mullins Rd., Hannay Lane, Frontage Rd. (near the Miss Glenmont Diner), Darroch Rd., Westchester Drive Circle and Kenwood Ave. between Cherry Ave. and New Scotland Rd.

Under the New York State Consolidated Highway Improvement Program (CHIPs), five roads are scheduled for repairs. They are Vagele Lane, East Wiggand Dr., Wiggand Dr., Bender Lane (between Elsmere Ave. and Rt. 32) and Union Ave.

Greg Sagendorph of the Highway Department said other roads may receive repair work this year. "There will be some other ones and we'll know more as the need arises, but for now these are the ones that have to be done," he said.

Magee Park gets $10G boost

By Cathi Anne M. Cameron

The Tri-Village Little League has just received $10,000 in state funding to help with badly needed renovations at Magee Park. The grant was obtained by Assemblyman John Faso (R-Kinderhook) and State Sen. Howard Nolan (D-Albany).

According to Pete Meyer, player activity director for the 35-year-old organization, the $10,000 will help bolster the league's two-year capital improvements drive.

"We need to re-do the fields, backstops, fencing and dugouts, and especially, the building that houses our snack bar," Meyer said. "After 35 years, it's time."

Meyer is hoping that the organization will have all necessary permits by the end of the month, so that the renovations can begin in July, at the end of this year's season.

"The new building will include snack bar, restrooms, storage for grounds equipment, umpire's room and more," said Larry Miller, director of capital improvements for the league.

Miller said that last year's $25,000 donation from General

Electric started the ball rolling. "We're going to get as much done with that as we can," Miller said "but we have to get more".

Miller said that contributions of building materials, time and labor are also gladly accepted. "We would like to see the majority of the building up by the end of the year, so we could work on the finishing inside during the winter. That way, hopefully it would all be completed and new by opening day of 1990," Miller said.

Asked if there was anything else Tri-Village Little League needed for the project, Miller added with a laugh "of course we'd be thrilled if anyone showed up with another 10 or 25,000 dollars!"

Assemblyman Faso commented that the league "needs our support because it provides strong leadership and promotes good sportsmanship and teamwork".

The league has 41 teams and 530 players involved this season.

In the budget package, $80,000 will be allocated this year for the district to purchase both Hewlett-Packard hardware and student software from Pertaine, a California company who Zwickbauer said the district "felt was compatible with our present and future needs."

The hardware and software from Pertaine will tie in existing computers at the high school and middle school, as well as manage financial and personnel/payroll functions for the district.

"We're working feverishly to get portions of the package off the ground this summer," Zwickbauer concluded.

Good Samaritan names new home administrator

By Mark Stuart

Leon A. Bormann has been named as the new administrator for the Good Samaritan Home in Delmar and has just completed his third month at that post after taking office February 3.

Bormann fills a position that has been vacant since the sudden death of Robert Snow last year. Snow served as administrator of Good Samaritan for five years.

Bormann was born and raised in Rome, Herkimer County, and served in the Marine Corps. from 1958 to 1961. He was employed by the state's Rome Developmental Center for 21 years during which time he earned his associate's degree in Human Services at Mohawk Valley Community College and his bachelor's degree at the State University at Rome.

Leon A. Bormann

After he received his nursing home administrator's license, he became an administrator at the Valley View Manor Nursing Home, an 82-bed skilled nursing care facility in Norwich, Chenango County. During his three-and-a-half years there, he received his certification from the American College of Health Care Administrators.

After Valley View, he moved to Wooster, Ohio to take a position as executive director of The Gruter Foundation, a 240-bed intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded. Prior to taking his current position at Good Samaritan, he was the administrator at the New Castle Health Care Center, Muncie, Ind.

Bormann said there were several reasons he and his wife wanted to move back to New York. "I like the area, that was number one," Bormann said, "and I was pleased to hear of the opening at Good Samaritan; I like the facility and its philosophy, plus I've always wanted to work in a Christian nursing home."

Bormann lives in South Westerlo with his wife, Dianne. The two celebrated their 30th anniversary in April. They have a son, Leon Bormann Jr. who resides in Norwich with his wife and two children; and a daughter, Victoria, is married, has one child and lives in Rome.

Two hurt in Wednesday crash

Two people were injured in a rush-hour two-car accident on Delaware Ave. last Wednesday.

Bethlehem town police say that a vehicle driven by Sandra Ortano, 29, of Third St., Albany was turning left from the Albany Medical Center office parking lot into the eastbound lane of Delaware when at about 4:33 p.m. it was struck by a westbound car driven by Robert J. O'Malley, 71, of Winne Rd.,

Delmar.

Ortano was transported by the Delmar Fire Department rescue squad to Albany Medical Center Hospital, where she was treated for a hip injury. Elizabeth O'Malley, 55, a passenger in the O'Malley car, was taken to Albany Med where she was treated for a back injury.

Both cars were towed, but no tickets were issued.

Herkimer Co. woman taken to hospital

A Herkimer County woman was hospitalized after her car was struck by a Mack truck May 9 in the Town of Bethlehem near the Albany city line.

Katrina B. Veeder, 23, of Jordanville was driving down Cornig Hill Road at about 1:51 p.m. when, according to Bethlehem police, she failed to heed the yellow/caution sign at the Rt. 144 intersection and was struck by the truck, owned by Alescon, Inc., of the Port of Albany and operated by Edward G. Bradley, 51, of Troy.

Veeder was taken by Delmar Fire Department rescue squad to Albany Medical Center Hospital, where she was treated and released for an abdominal injury. Police ticketed her for failure to yield.

Correction

The 16-year-old Delmar youth accused of leaving the scene of a May 1 accident on Kenwood Ave. in Slingerlands was not charged with driving while intoxicated as reported in a Page 30 story in last week's issue.

Spring concert

The last of area school music concerts will be held next Wednesday, May 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the high school with choral groups from Clayton Bouton Junior-Senior High School.

The evening will include large choral groups as well as soloists and small vocal ensembles. A dance by senior Gina Stewart and a piano solo by Tracy McFate will round out the program. The premier performance of an original composition by senior Joe Kraemer will also be included in the evenings format. The concert will conclude with "Another Bridge to Cross" featuring all vocal students in both the junior and senior high choruses. All groups will be directed by Margaret Dorgan.

This evening, May 17 the junior and senior high school bands will perform beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the high school. All programs are free and open to the public.

PTSA honors teachers, staff

The Voorheesville PTSA feted teachers and other staff at both the elementary and junior-senior high schools last week during National Teacher Appreciation week. To start the week off a breakfast was served on Monday morning, followed by lunch on Wednesday, and snacks on Thursday. Tuesday balloons carried a message of thanks and Friday notepads gave educators a note of appreciation.

Officers named

The Voorheesville PTSA elected officers for the 1989-90 school year. Officers are: Sue Vanderwarker and Cindy Silver, copresidents; Judy McMahon, first vice president; Nan Bonham, second vice president; Janet Kurposka, recording secretary; Noreen Cavanaugh, corresponding secretary, and Dorothy Patashnick, treasurer.

Other board members include chairpersons of the following committees: membership, Paula Adams; publicity, Kim Palmer; high school representative, Donna Welker; room mother coordinators, Derris Tidd and Debbie Baron; creative playground, Elaine Burns and Debbie Baron; entertainment books, Molly Getnick.

The PTSA honored several students recently for their entries in the PTSA Reflections art contest.

First grader Brian Matthews from the Voorheesville Elementary School had both art and literature entries chosen to be sent to state competition.

Two other entries advancing to the Albany District PTSA were by kindergartener Laura Marsolais and first grader Joseph Guastella.

Parade planned

Parade lovers mark your calendars — the annual Memorial Day Parade will be held on Saturday, May 27 in Voorheesville. Fire departments, youth groups and other local organizations will parade down Maple Ave. over Voorheesville Ave and down Main St. ending up at the Legion Hall where a ceremony will be held. Races for youngsters will be held on the village green immediately following the parade while the annual TAC competition will follow at noon.

Library sale

On that same weekend the Voorheesville Public Library will hold a sale at the old library on Main Street coordinated by the newly formed Friends of the Library. Sale hours will be on Saturday, May 27 from 9:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and on Sunday, May 28 from noon until 4 p.m. In addition to both hard and soft covered books, library furniture and shelving will also be sold. Those wish-Dollmaker Ellen Scofield and Gary McDonald from 'Old MacDonalds Farm' will take part in the Locust Knoll Artisans 12th annual Spring Show and Sale Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. at Rt. 85A and Picard Rd., Voorheesville.

ing to donate items can leave them at the library or call 765-2791 to arrange for pick-up.

Quilters fund-raiser

The Village Quilters are making a friendship quilt to raffle off as a library fund-raiser. Community members are invited to make blocks which will them be quilted in the fall. A sample block and pattern are available at the library. For those needing assistance, sessions will be held on May 23 from 7 until 9 p.m. and on May 25 from 7 to 9 p.m. Finished blocks are due to be turned into the library June 1.

Parent fair slated

A Parent Fair will be held on Wednesday, May 24 from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m. at the Voorheesville

Public Library on School Road. Jointly sponsored by the Voorheesville and Guilderland libraries, the fair is an opportunity for parents to speak with representatives from various area organizations serving children. Representatives from Easter Seals, Tot Workshop, Campfire Council and Pre-school and early childhood development groups will attend. Those wanting more information can contact Nancy Hutchinson at 765-2971.

Spaghetti supper

A reminder that Project Team will hold a spaghetti supper on Saturday, May 20 from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Voorheesville American Legion Hall. Cost of the dinner prepared by Mike Michele and his crew is $5 for adults and $3 for children under 12. All are welcome.

Camp registration

The Hudson Valley Girl Scout Council is accepting summer camp registration from both Girl Scouts and non-scouts at both its resident and day camp.

Camp Little Notch is the council's summer resident camp, and is located in the Adirondack Park region. Girls who will begin second grade in the fall through 12th graders are invited to attend.

Camp Is-Sho-Da is the council's day camp, and is located in the Town of East Greenbush. Girls entering grades one through six can attend. For more information, call 439-4936.

HONEYMOON WITH YOUR BABIES
AT VERMONT'S GREAT FAMILY RESORT

We take great care of babies and their toddler-to-teen siblings in June, July and August. But if you're not tied to a school schedule, June's a terrific 40%-15% less for a vacation getaway that includes your children AND:

- Nationally recognized programs for infants to teens with sports, entertainment and early dining. Toddlers and pre-schoolers each have own play and dining facilities and extensive activities with outstanding teacher/college staff. One-on-one infant care.
- All meals, sports and evening activities—tennis, sailing, biking, windsurfing, heated pool, canoeing, dancing, music, sleep-late breakfasts, picnics, candlelight dinners. Modern country Inn and 27 fireplace cottages—all featuring separate, air conditioned parents' rooms with oversize beds. Mile of private shore.

June's beautiful in the Lake Champlain Valley; average June 15th high: 77.9°; low: 56.5° and no black flies! For complete literature: 802-868-3301 or 868-4291.

A trip to the Half Moon can be exciting fun

Viewing a ship under construction — especially a unique ship being built to 17th century specifications — can be a thrilling experience, one that many visitors to the Port of Albany are enjoying these spring days.

Under the protective cover of a specially constructed steel envelope, skilled workmen have been busily engaged for months in reconstructing the Dutch ship, de Halve Maen, so that in the guise of the more-familiar Half Moon, it can set sail next month for some 24 ports along the Hudson River and the East Coast.

The underlying purpose is to kindle greater interest among all Americans in the contributions that the Dutch made in the founding of what became the United States. The Half Moon is being built under the auspices of a non-profit organization known as Holland Village, Inc. The guiding light of the enterprise is a North Carolina physician of Dutch descent, Dr. Andrew Hendricks. He regrets the lack of information and historic concerns about the Dutch role in the earliest days of the New World.

Visitors to the reconstruction site at the port are welcome. In fact, the huge shed that houses the vessel carries as a sign identifying it as the Nieu Nederlandt visitors' center.

Volunteer guides are on hand most of the time to provide information to visitors and to answer their questions about the project. On one morning recently, visitors included a busload of people from Auburn, N.Y., and a couple from the Netherlands.

The Half Moon is located at what has become known as the "Snow Dock" at the port. There, the tour boats connected with the Dutch Apple cruises tie up.

Work progresses on an accelerated schedule weekdays (from 9 to 5), and those days are the most advantageous for visitations right now. There are firm deadlines: On Saturday, June 10, at 1 p.m., the ship will be christened. (Members of Dr. Hendrick's family will participate.) Three weeks later, on Saturday, July 1, a formal commissioning ceremony will be held. The public is invited to take a tour of the craft at that time. (At present, it is not permissible to climb onto the ship itself.) The Half Moon will be open for visitation through America's holiday, July 4, then,

Sail with the ship

Would you like to sail on the Half Moon as a member of the crew? Volunteers are sought for the voyage which begins on July 5 and ends in mid-October.

"Experience would be helpful, but not necessary," states the announcement. Volunteers will be thoroughly trained before departure.

Additionally, in the count-down weeks before the June 10 christening and the launching, there are needs for tour guides (to describe the history of Hudson's voyages and provide details of the ship's construction) and for shop help (to do odd jobs, clean up, lend assistance in moving lumber, etc.)

To register as a potential volunteer, call Leo Smith at 283-0565.

on July 5, a crane will lift the 122-ton ship over the brink and into the river for her departure downstream.

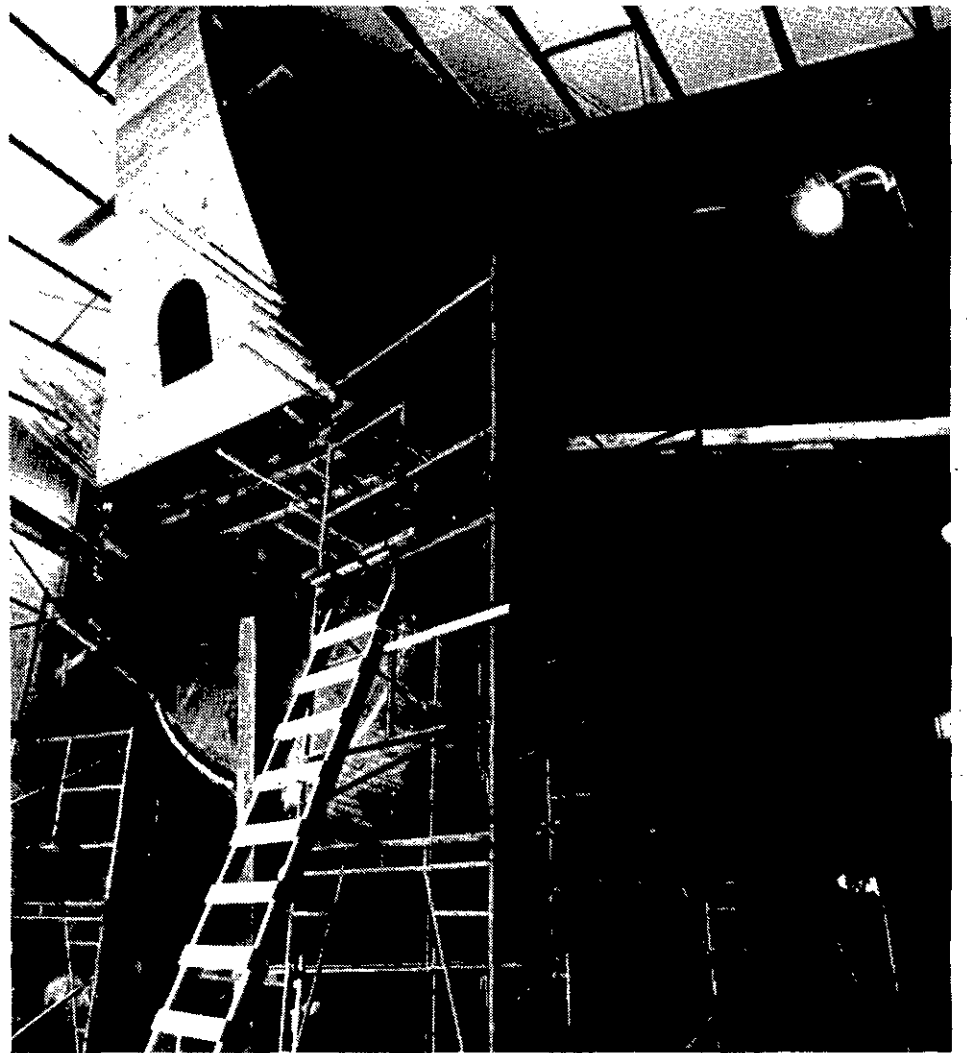

Her keel was laid last July 23 with Albany's Mayor Thomas M. Whalen III officiating. Framing was completed by the end of September, and work has continued through the winter.

The Half Moon is to be a true replica of the original ship in which the English explorer Henry Hudson reached the same spot in 1609. Specifications for the original were researched by Dr. Hendricks and his ship designer in the Dutch naval archives at The Hague.

Thus, her 20-foot width and 85-foot length are exact, as are details of the fittings, down to the hardware. Charts hanging on the wall note the detail of "falconets and carriages" for the six guns that the Half Moon carried. The ship's anchor will weigh 550 pounds; the masts of fir will rise 78 feet above water level; the half-dozen sails will cover more than 2,700 square feet of canvas, with some three miles of ropes involved. The various woods used are visible to the sightseer — the white oak of the keel and frame, the pine of the deck beams and planking, as well as the fir of masts and spurs.

Workers are under the leadership of specialists in related fields: the prime Scaffolding surrounds the stern of the Half Moon inside the protective covering of the temporary shell. During working hours, skilled shipbuilding crew members swarm over the structure.

Cyclist's ride will end in tribute at hospice

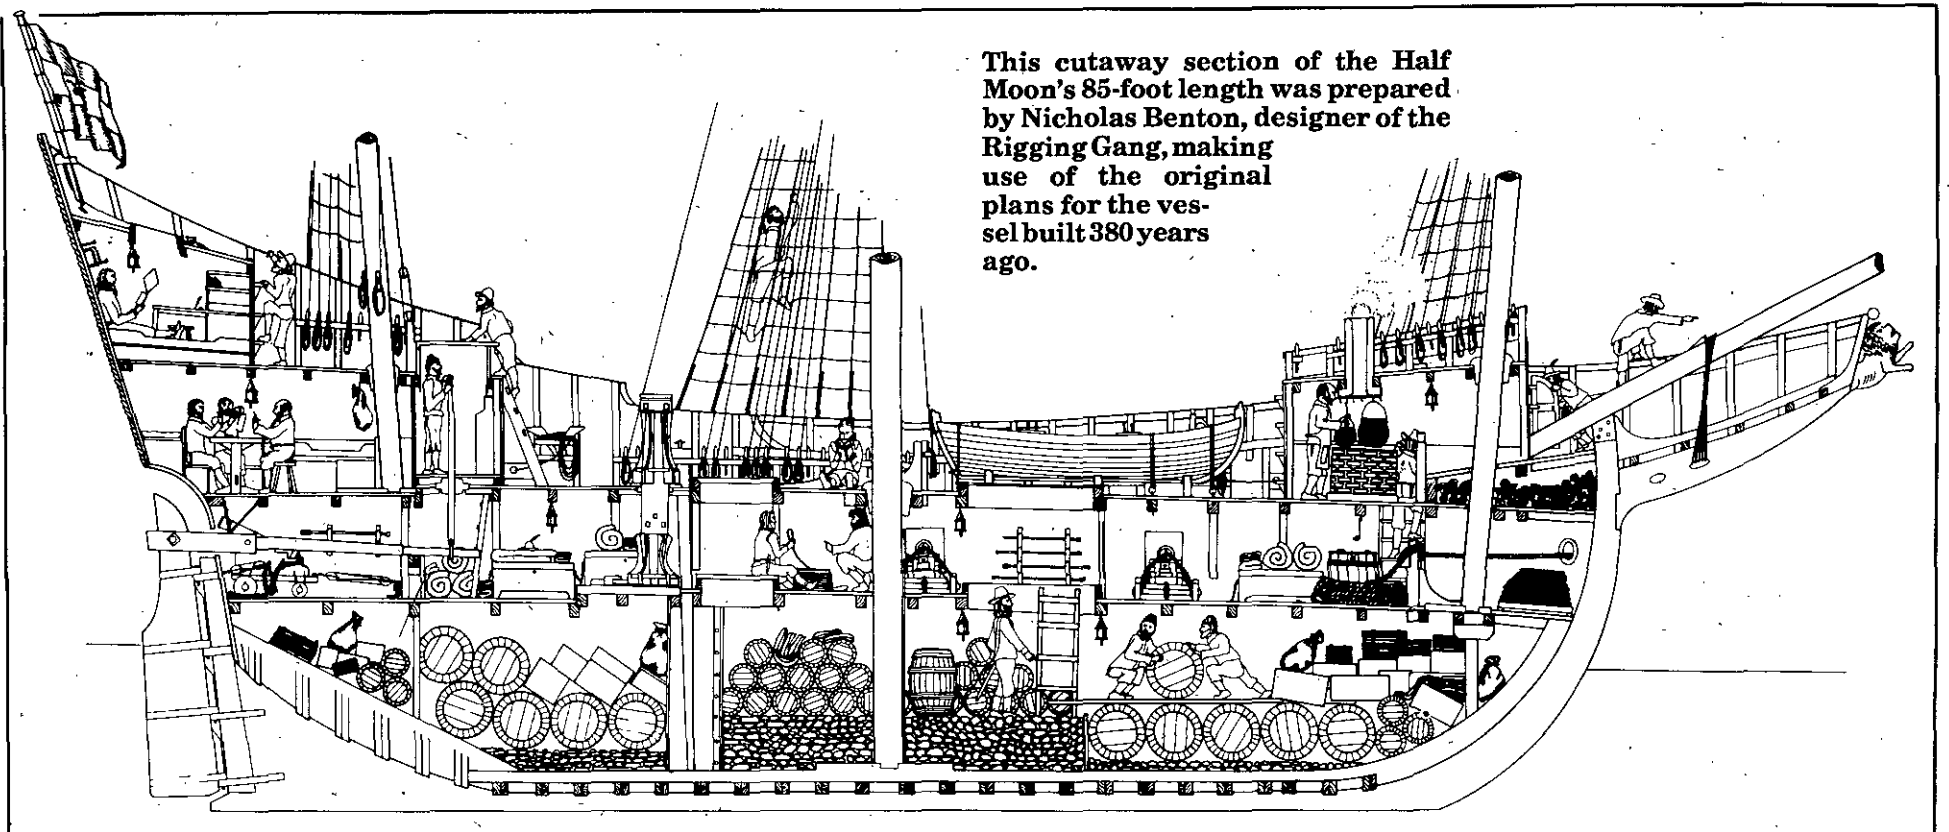

An event not to be missed by people who cherish the idea of a young man's dedication to those who aided his mother in her last days, takes place on Friday of next week at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany.

Twenty-seven-year-old Mark Lyons will finish a 300-mile bicycle mission southward from Montreal to Albany that afternoon (May 26) at 2 o'clock. He is undertaking it as a means of raising funds to support the homecare service of St. Peter's Hospital hospice program. His late mother, Eileen Lyons, died there in March 1988 after having been cared for by hospice staff at home and at the facility.

The plan for the dramatic trip began forming in Mark's mind early last winter when he read of the arrangements for Tour de Trump. He has been training for his own venture ever since, and lining up

BERLIOZ Symphonie fantastique, Op.14

Barry Conynham's music is highly regarded around the world for its combination of a distinctively Australian voice with a sophisticated, highly expressive musical language. The Albany Symphony Orchestra commissioned "Monuments" - for piano and orchestra - in celebration of the Australian season. The monuments which inspired the composition are two kinds: the great natural wonders of the Australian landscape, such as Ayers Rock and Wilson's Promontory; and such man-made landmarks as the Sydney Opera House, or, more ominously, the scars produced by strip mining for minerals in Western Australia.

Tamas Ungar is "a serious and thoughtful pianist, with masterly technique...he makes the music come alive".

a unique support staff that will help him during the four-day ride and also is soliciting contributions for the hospice in commemoration of the young man's mission.

Mark and his three-man support crew will leave Albany next Monday for Montreal. There they will be received by Mayor Jean Dore (who has received an introductory letter from Albany's Mayor Thomas M. Whalen III and an invitation to attend the reception here on the 26th). Early on Tuesday, Mark will bike away from the Four Seasons Hotel en route south on Route 9 and secondary parallel roads, avoiding the Northway. He will be accompanied by his crew - Joe Ieraci, Mike Addario, and Bob Fullem - in a van loaned by Alpenhaus of Amsterdam.

They will make stops at three hospices on the way, in Plattsburgh, Saratoga, and Schenectady. Overnights will be in hotels (which are donating accommodations) in Lake Placid, Schroon Lake, and Saratoga. The arrival at St. Peter's main entrance on South Manning Boulevard on Friday will be celebrated as a feature of the hospice's tenth anniversary and of St. Peter's Hospice Week in Albany, as officially proclaimed by Mayor Whalen.

The open-air reception is for the public to appreciate; a bit later, at a private reception he will receive a plaque noting, as the St. Peter's staff says, "his gesture of kindness."

For the arrival ceremony, a bagpipe band will play, and appreciative remarks will be made by the mayor and Sister Ellen Lawlor, president of the hospital.

While hardly an anticlimax, the ceremonies will culminate long weeks of preparation not only by Mark but by his supporters. There include what he calls "The Hub," a tightly knit, efficient group consisting of Dina Addario, Donna Hughes, Joe Ieraci, and Kerry Pegler. From "The Hub" radiate "The Spokes," a team of some 70 volunteer workers who have been busily soliciting donations and pledges

'Lilac Day' up north

Sunday is to be "Lilac Day" at the Shelburne Museum on Route 7, just south of Burlington, Vt. There will be walking tours of a nationally acclaimed lilac collection representing 91 varieties, and of rose, perennial and herb gardens. There will also be Morris dancers, horticultural experts, and a special children's garden.

Along with a visit to the museum itself and its unparalleled collections, this could be just the thing as the highlight of a week-end trip. The museum can be reached at (802) 985-3344.

from the public. In addition, a "corporate committee" has been at work requesting contributions from businesses. The key people in this effort are William Allen, Marguerite Casey, and Allyson Shea. The committees have been receiving vital help from Chris Wurth, St. Peter's program director.

"All's going well. We've received great support," Mark Lyons reports as he completes his training under the direction of Bob Fullem of the Down Tube bike shop. He has advanced from mere recreational riding to serious distance cycling, reaching 170 miles a week recently. He is confident that he's in condition now for the four-stage trip.

"The real story is in the support that we've been getting," is Mark's summation before he heads north. "It's really tremendous, and very touching."

Mark is the youngest of four brothers - Bill, Tom, and Jim are the others - who grew up in Albany. Their father is Gerald Z. Lyons. He graduated from Bishop Maginn High School and St. Joseph's College in North Windham, Me. For five years, he was on the staff of Blue Cross before becoming an independent "health consultant" and then recently joining Vanguard Physicians' Services as a marketing representative.

Theaters and orchestras list 1989-90 programs

Here it is only mid-May and already some of the schedules for next season's performances are being dangled before our eyes by the sponsoring organizations.

Albany Symphony

The Albany Symphony Orchestra, having adopted "ASO Alive!" as its theme for the 1989-90 concert season, has announced its eight weekends of performances — 16 in all, of which half are played at the Troy Music Hall and half at the Palace Theater in Albany.

Six world premiere performances of new works are on the season's program, as well as two U.S. premieres.

The orchestra's dates are: Oct. 6 (Troy) and 7 (Albany); Nov. 3 and 4; Dec. 8 and 9; Jan. 19 and 20; Feb. 9 and 10; March 2 and 3, March 30 and 31; and May 4 and 5. Geoffrey Simon, the orchestra's conductor and music director, will conduct five concerts: the first, second, fourth, sixth, and eighth. Julius Hegyi, conductor emeritus, will be on the podium for the December concert. Kate Tamarkin will conduct in February, and George Lloyd on March 30 and 31, when two new compositions of his will be featured on the program.

Works by Beethoven, Brahms, Rachmaninoff, Barber, Paganini, Ravel.

Tchaikovsky, and Rimsky-Korsakov are among the featured musical selections to be heard by audiences during the season.

Schenectady Symphony

The Schenectady Symphony Orchestra announces a season of four Sunday afternoon concerts between September and April. Three of the concerts are scheduled at Proctor's Theatre, and the November concert will be at Linton High School. All are to begin at 3 o'clock.

The concert dates are: Sept. 24, with selections by Brahms, Tchaikovsky, and Shostakovich (Pola Baytelman, piano soloist); Nov. 19, with selections by Mozart, Dvorak, and Frank Bennett's "Portraits" (which was commissioned for the Catskill Symphony); Feb. 11, with selections by William Schuman, Aaron Copland, Brian Israel, and Yehudi Wyner (Margaret Poyner, soprano soloist); and April 22, with Verdi's Requiem and the world premiere of Hilary Tann's "The Open Field." This latter selection was commissioned by the Schenectady Symphony with a grant from the State Council of the Arts. The orchestra offers a subscription series, which covers all four concerts for the price of three.

Proctor's

Proctor's Theater in Schenectady has announced 35 events for its season which opens in the first week of fall. Entertaining on that evening, Sept. 23, is the Canadian Brass. Other music highlights of the season include:

- H.M.S. Pinafore, Sept. 29; the Sammy Kaye orchestra, Oct. 8; Tony Bennett, Oct. 14; Roberta Flack, Nov. 18; the Count Basie orchestra with Billy Eckstine and Dizzy Gillespie, Nov. 30; West Side Story, Jan. 26 and 27; No No Nanette, Feb. 4; Mel Torme and Maureen McGovern, Feb. 9; a "Big Band Special," March 8; Mantovani's Italia, March 16; the New Amsterdam Sinfonietta, March 30; Kismet, April 6; and Romeo and Juliet by the Texas Opera, April 8.

- Outstanding among dramatic presentations will be Les Miserables, Oct. 18 to 22. Five ballet and other dance programs are listed. A fall and spring "organ pops" concert will be offered Oct. 29 and April 1. Five Christmas season programs are scheduled beginning with the sixth annual Christmas show, Dec. 9 and 10, followed by the Nutcracker on Dec. 16 and 17; and A Christmas Carol on Dec. 21.

Dinner Theater

Riverview Productions, which presents three plays a year at a dinner theater held in an auditorium at St. Andrew's Church in Albany, lists a trio of comedies during the fall, winter, and spring.

Its season will begin with Woody Allen's farce, "Don't Drink the Water," on Nov. 3-5 and 10-12. On Feb. 16-18 and 23-25, the attraction will be Harvey, and the season closes with performances of "The Foreigner" on April 27-29 and May 4-6. The ticket price includes dinner.

Book fair on week-end

This is the week-end of the 15th annual Albany Antiquarian Book and Ephemera Fair. On Saturday, some 100 dealers will offer their wares at the New Scotland Avenue Armory.

On Friday evening, from 5 to 9, a "preview party" will open the fair, with admission open to all—for $25, except at $20 for members of the Albany Institute of History and Art, the sponsor of the fair. The event benefits the McKinney Library of the Institute.

The Facts About the Halfmoon Cogeneration Project

The state-of-the-art Halfmoon power plant will:

- provide needed electricity
- create local benefits, including jobs and revenues to localities
- have the lowest emission rates achievable

Needed Electricity

The 200 megawatts of electricity generated by the plant will:

- be needed by the early 1990's to avoid the risk of blackouts
- provide enough electricity for 200,000 New York families
- be produced by cleanly and safely burning a readily-available domestic energy supply

Local Benefits

The project provides a boost to the Capital District by:

- helping GE Silicones, by supplying low-cost steam to their operations, to remain competitive in a highly cost-sensitive business
- creating thousands of man-years of employment during construction and thereafter...in total, more than $770 million in wages over 30 years
- paying hundreds of thousands annually to local jurisdictions in taxes and other payments
- saving Niagara Mohawk customers more than $1 billion over 30 years
- revitalizing the railroad system serving the area

Lowest Emission Rates

Some of the strictest environmental protection laws in the U.S. and world-class technology assure:

- no unacceptable health risks
- the lowest emission rates technology can ensure
- a reduction in acid rain once the plant comes on-line replacing older facilities

Alcohol and birth defects

(Ed. Note: May 14-20, 1989 is Alcohol-Related Birth Defects Awareness Week, on the state and national levels, in line with the U.S. Surgeon General's warning against any drinking during pregnancy. This column on fetal alcohol syndrome (FAS) was written by Steve Pinheiro, M.D., of Delmar ob/gyn practice of Netter, Lang, Apicelli and Pinheiro.)

Great hoopla surrounds a great many health issues these days. "Wear seatbelts!" "Don't Drink and Drive!" "Know When to Say When!" and "Watch Your Cholesterol!" are all popular. Advertising agencies all know that popular and familiar phrases can work wonders in selling an item or popularizing a concept. When a craze takes off, its growth amazes everyone. If it doesn't fulfill its promise, however, it soon fizzles. Hopefully the medical use of these ploys will work if they are backed up with knowledge and understanding of the problem.

The warning: "Don't drink alcohol while pregnant" bears some investigation. What information is available to back up this admonition? Where does knowledge end and speculation begin?

Here's what is known. If a pregnant woman drinks three ounces of alcohol (two mixed drinks, two glasses of wine or beer) a day for her entire pregnancy, her baby has one chance in a thousand of developing fetal alcohol syndrome. These babies are smaller than normal (growth-retarded), have small heads (microcephaly), are likely to have poor health as they grow and develop. They can have small eyes and mental retardation. The babies also fight off infections poorly. These are the effects of the full-blown syndrome.

Pregnant women, who go on infrequent drinking binges, can also have babies with these problems. But these babies have lesser effects of alcohol intake and do not meet criteria for the full-blown syndrome. When a pregnant woman drinks, some of the alcohol gets into the baby's blood and affects the way it grows and develops, so the changes we see make sense.

Is any amount of alcohol safe during pregnancy? We really don't know if there is a safety threshold. We do know that any amount, no matter how small, does show up in the baby's bloodstream. Because of the potential harm, prudence dictates that no alcohol in pregnancy is the safest amount.

Concert on Memorial Day will attract a throng

Some 15,000 people have marked their calendars for the special Memorial Day Concert that will highlight the area's holiday observances on Monday, May 29.

A 60-member orchestra will play a rousing program of American classic popular music on the bandstand of the outdoor quadrangle at Empire State Plaza, beginning a 3 o'clock, when the John Philip Sousa "Liberty Bell March" opens the program.

Featured in that lively opening will be the striking of a large reproduction of the Liberty Bell, borrowed from L'Auberge restaurant for the occasion. Philip J. Thompson, vice president and general manager of New York Telephone, has been drafted to strike the bell at the appropriate moments.

Music by George Gershwin and Richard Rodgers will constitute the remainder of the program. Gershwin's "An American in Paris," together with a variety of show songs, will precede one of the program's features, Findlay Cockrell at the piano to play "Rhapsody in Blue."

The soloists for the show songs will be Rene de la Garza, baritone, of Schuylerville, and Corine Sal6n, soprano, of Schenectady. They also will sing some of the Rodgers-Hammerstein music which will follow:

The overture from "The King and I," songs from "Oklahoma" and from "Carousel," "The Sound of Music," and "South Pacific." The young singers are rated among the very best in the Capital District.

David Janower, who has gained an outstanding repute as a choral conductor, will conduct the entire program.

This Memorial Day Concert carries on from the successful program last Memorial Day, when some 14,000 were on hand to appreciate it. Up to 17,000 are expected on the 29th.

Most of the musicians are recruited from among members of the Albany Symphony Orchestra by Findlay Cockrell, who spontaneously organized an all-Gershwin program to mark the fiftieth anniversary of the composer's death in 1987. He also arranged for last year's program, together with two others that were held later in the season.

The concert will be held in the Convention Center in case of rain.

Does this serious fun appeal to you, too?

Over in Schenectady, the dignified Proctor's Theater has added an offshoot that is intended "to attract a younger audience to performing arts events." Known by the cute name of Proctor's Too, the studio theater seeks "to present non-traditional artists whose intentions are serious but whose aim is to entertain."

This coming week-end (Friday and Saturday, May 19 and 20) the attraction is to be what's labeled as "Theater Grottesco," coming on from Detroit with "an astonishing piece, 'The Richest Dead Man Alive.'"

The second season of Proctor's Too opened earlier this month with a dance/music/theater ensemble called "Urban Bush Women." Last season, the theater's first, brought in audiences that (according to the sponsors) were 20 years younger than traditional Proctor's theatergoers.

Half Moon

contractor is Nicholas Benton, president of The Rigging Gang. He is a shipwright and designer. Ernie Cowan of Mayfield, Fulton County, supervised placement of the oak framing. Mitch FitzGibbon, Chautauqua County, has been in charge of the iron work, and Dan Biering of North East, Pa., handled the sailmaking.

When The Half Moon clears port on July 5, her first stop will be at Hudson — like the river, named for the English adventurer who sailed for the Dutch East India Company.

From Hudson, the ship, with a crew of 15 or more, will make stops during a rather leisurely journey at Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Croton (at Half Moon Bay), and Tarrytown before arriving in New York City on July 26 for visits to Battery Park and South Street Seaport.

During August, the Half Moon will visit ports in Connecticut, Long Island, and New Jersey, reaching Delaware and Philadelphia in September, then in early October returning to Liberty State Park in New York Harbor and on to the World's Fair Marina in Flushing Bay.

League of Arts will celebrate at SPAC party

How suitably to celebrate the fifth anniversary of an enterprise that many thousands of people take advantage of — and also take for granted?

The ready answer of the Albany League of Arts is to throw a party, and that's what is going to happen on the evening of Thursday, June 15, at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

The anniversary is that of the local linkage of the Community Box Office system and Ticketron, the nationwide ticketing system. And the event at which this happy occurrence is to be celebrated is a performance by the New York City Opera Company's of "The Barber of Seville."

The opera will be preceded by a "desert reception," to be held in the Hall of Springs, beginning at 7 o'clock. The fee for attending (beyond the ticket cost) is $35 per person, and the beneficiary is to be the Albany League of Arts, which is the godfather of Community Box Office. Reservations (to be forwarded by June 10) are to be addressed to the Albany League of Arts at 19 Clinton Avenue, Albany 12207.

Community Box Office, which has been functioning since November 1977, makes available tickets to local events that are not ordinarily available through Ticketron.

More than 50 arts organizations make use of CBO to distribute tickets to their performances. Among these are Albany Symphony Orchestra, Capital Repertory, Schenectady Light Opera, Albany Civic Theater, Troy Music Hall, Heritage at Cohoes Music Hall, and Union College.

CBO box offices are at five locations in the Capital District. The first was established at Colonie Center in 1977 (it is open when the mall is open). It was followed by a box office at Empire State Plaza (Mondays through Fridays, 11 to 2 p.m.); at Proctor's Theater (Mondays through Fridays, 10 to 2); at Stuyvesant Plaza (Mondays through Saturdays, 11 to 6); and for the past two years, at Clifton Country Mall (open when the mall is open). Ticketron offices at the RPI Fieldhouse and Glens Falls civic center are not connected with CBO. Through Ticketron, it is possible to purchase tickets to any event within the entire nationwide system, which exists in many cities.

Community Box Office operates with some 12 employees. Its director is Doug Pace, who has held that position for two years, after prior service as a box office manager. CBO's sponsor, the Albany League of Arts, is governed by an independent board of directors.

For the opera benefit, Ticketron is the underwriter.

Chamber concert Sunday

Pergolesi's Stabat Mater will be featured at the concert given by St. Joseph's Chamber Orchestra on Sunday afternoon. The concert will be in St. Joseph's Hall of the College of Saint Rose, 985 Madison Avenue, Albany. There is no admission charge. Call 454-5178 for information.

Budget meeting set in Voorheesville enrolled at Voorheesville Elementary School.

Thorpe, a 10-year district resident, also serves on the VCS program committee. For the past two and one half years he has served as curriculum coordinator for the state Division of Youth with special responsibilities for the agency's remedial reading and computer-assisted instruction programs. Before that, he was education coordinator for the state Department of Correctional Services for 12 years. His daughter will graduate from the high school in June; a son, now enrolled at Christian Brothers Academy, will enroll at VCHS for his sophomore year beginning in September.

All will be listed on the June 14 district ballot. Voters can select any two candidates; the two with the highest vote totals will be sworn in at the district's annual reorganizational meeting the first week in July.

The budget

Monday night, the board met with the district budget committee for the last time. Wanted: some advice on how to present the document.

Some undeniable facts can be mislead, board members acknowledged. For example, tax rates. The Town of Guilderland rate is expected to decline a whopping 34.82 percent.

But, noted board member Mary Van Ryn, that doesn't mean the average Guilderland tax bill will go down — far from it. Guilderland recently conducted a townwide revaluation of all property; rates are declining in that part of the district because property values are rising so quickly. Guilderland's share of the tax burden is going up (now 20.5 percent, says Anthony Cashara, business administrator) and the average tax bill will, too, come September.

For New Scotland, the tax impact appears to be more straightforward than for Guilderland or Berne: a 15 percent hike in the rate with surprisingly little change in property value.

The result of the discussion was the board decision to set the meeting. All at the board table acknowledging that the meeting will for all practical purposes be tantamount to an annual meeting — those legally required, sparsely attended events the night before each annual district election.

No absentee ballots

A proposal to create a district voter registration system — the prerequisite for allowing absentee voting — was discussed Monday night.

Each year, the district office receives "two or three calls" requesting such ballots, reported Sarita Winchell, district treasurer. She also told the board: "If you're thinking about not doing it, at most you are discouraging two, three, five votes."

Others were even less enthusiastic.

"It would be a significant added administrative cost," said board member David Teuten. "And a significant added liability if you inadvertently miss a required registration period. So what might seem to be an 'opening' thing might turn into a 'restricting' thing."

Acting Superintendent William Brayden agreed. "We thought about having it here years ago," he said.

Said O. Peter Griffin, high school principal: "I went through (special voter registration) in another district and it was a real heartbreak — at least three years of educating the voters. Voters thought they were registered because they were registered for (general elections) and then found out they weren't eligible (to vote in school elections). And those people turned against the district."

The item did not come to a vote for lack of a motion.

Brayden is acting superintendent

As expected, William C. Brayden will serve as acting superintendent of the Voorheesville Central School District. Brayden, who served as the district's chief executive officer from 1968 to 1975, will be paid on a per-diem basis — $275 per day — until a permanent successor is found. Louise M. Gonan, whose contract expires June 30, announced her resignation four months ago after the board offered her a one-year contract extension instead of the three-year customary pact. Gonan has now left the district; Brayden moved into the superintendent's office early Friday morning.

Brayden's appointment runs to "on or about July 15," at which time the school board expects to appoint a permanent superintendent.

Brayden had retired three years ago as superintendent of the Albany-Schenectady-Schoharie Board of Cooperative Educational Services district, the position he accepted before leaving VCS in 1975.

"We owe William Brayden a debt of gratitude," said John McKenna, the school board's senior member. "He has been offered many other superintendent jobs elsewhere and he has turned them down. We can't appreciate that enough."

The appointment carried unanimously.

In other business, Daaco Construction was awarded the contract for asbestos removal at the high school. The firm had submitted an $800,000 bid.

RCS vote today

Today, Wednesday, May 17 is voting day in the RCS School district. Their votes age 18 and up should cast their votes at the RCS Senior High cafeteria from 2-9 p.m.

Up for consideration are three school board seats, the 1989-90 operating budget and three propositions including purchase of new buses, asbestos abatement and sale of the Jericho School building with proceeds going to build a warehouse next to the bus garage.

Pied Piper at RCS

The ESIPA production of the Pied Piper will be at the RCS Junior High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

This is the same production enjoyed by full houses at the Egg at a much higher cost than the $2.00 per person the Ravena Coeymans PTO is selling tickets for. Tickets are available at the door. The play is suitable for children of all ages. All are welcome.

Free concert

After a week of working on storywriting with the A.W. Becker first graders, singer-storyteller Chris Holder will be performing at a free family concert on Friday, May 19 at 7:30 in the Becker cafeteria. All are welcome.

Bloodmobile set

The Selkirk No.1 Fire Company will hold a bloodmobile on Saturday, May 20. With the Summer approaching, extra blood reserves are needed to handle the numerous accidents that come with increased outdoor activities. Please call to make an appointment.

Wins gymnastics prize

Jenny McDonald of Selkirk placed third in the floor segment of the New York State USGF gymnastic competition held May 6 at the Fultonville-Montgomery Community College. Jenny competed in the 12 to 14 age group with more than 400 girls in that class.

Only two weeks ago, Jenny had a cast removed from her left wrist, which was fractured in practice. Earlier this year, she broke her foot earlier this year and lost much valuable practice time.

School closing

Due to lack of snow, school is canceled May 26 (Friday). RCS schools will be closed to add another day to the Memorial Day weekend. No snow days were used this year.

Farewell event

The St. Patrick's Church family will hold a reception to say goodbye to Rick Amico who will be leaving the parish at the end of June. Amico has served as director of religious education for several years. The reception will be held at the school on Sunday June 4 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Amico served on the After School Activities (ASAP) board and helped facilitate the Association of Churches vacation Bible School.

Group meeting set

The Bethlehem Historical Association will meet on Thursday, May 18 at 8 p.m. at the Schoolhouse Museum, Route 144 at Clapper Road in Selkirk.

On Saturday, May 20, the association will hold a tailgate sale at the museum from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Crafts, antiques, plants and baked goods will be available.

Beat the rush for the pass: Austin

The Elm Ave. Park Pool Complex will open for the 1989 season on Saturday, June 10 and park officials recommend getting park passes before the season rush.

"The Parks and Recreation Department encourages you to renew or obtain your pass early to avoid having to wait," said David Austin, Parks and Recreation Department administrator.

The pool complex will be open to Town of Bethlehem residents and their guests. Each resident age 7 or older must present their pool pass. Anyone who has a pool pass from last year or previous years must get an updated pass. New residents and or children who have recently turned seven years old will need their picture taken to receive a new pass.

Passes can be obtained and updated at the Bethlehem Parks and Recreation Department offices at Elm Ave. Park, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday; and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays beginning May 22.

Garage sale

On Saturday, May 20 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., the Panhellenic Association will sponsor a garage sale to benefit its scholarship fund.

The sale will be held at 39 Woodstream Drive in Delmar and will feature its annual "Bag Sale" at 2:30 p.m.

For more information, call 439-5487.

Guild to hear lecture

The Embroiderer's Guild, Capital District Chapter, will meet today, May 17 at 10 a.m. at the Delmar United Methodist Church on Kenwood Ave.

Elsa Cose, a guest lecturer on silk and metal threads, will be featured.

For more information, call 356-3149.

Quilt marks church history

By Cheryl Clary

Parishioners will mark the 200th anniversary of the South Bethlehem United Methodist Church with a unique demonstration of the church's longevity.

On Sunday, May 21 the congregation will officially celebrate with a special day of recollection and happy observances.

Members of the parish will be able to trace the church's history through threads rather than words.

Last January, parishioners were thinking of a way to commemorate the bicentennial and agreed on a project: a quilt. The overall design was the work of Ellie Kendall who has supervised the 'coming together' of the piece. Consisting of individual squares made by parish members from age 6 to 93, the quilt is a rich depiction of the church in action along with several religious symbols familiar to all.

Mrs. Kendall took great pains to assure that once the quilt is hung behind the altar this Sunday that "it would be like a painting;" those viewing up close can observe the detail of the individual squares but also for those viewing from afar, a cross motif was incorporated into the overall design: one large central cross and four more in the corners done in a contrasting color.

Several mediums were used to create the individual squares including stencil, applique, cross stitch, liquid embroidery and free hand painting. The overall effect is a wonderfully warm, encompassing the styles of many to join as one, reflecting the pride the congregation feels in this year of celebration.

Chemical spill contained in Conrail yards

Conrail personnel contained a potentially dangerous chemical spill May 2 when a tanker loaded with a flammable gas began "venting," according to a Conrail spokesperson in Philadelphia.

Kathy Meehan said at approximately 12:30 p.m. a tank car containing monomethylamine anhydrous began venting while being stored in the Conrail Rail Car Shop. Meehan could not expound on the term "venting" or comment on how much of the chemical had leaked or was in the tanker.

She said after notifying police and fire authorities, the tank car was moved into the open air. No injuries were reported.

Monomethylamine anhydrous is used in the manufacturing of pharmaceuticals and thinners.

Garden Club

The Bethlehem Garden Club will hold its spring plant sale Saturday starting at 9 a.m. at the Key Bank in Delmar. Proceeds go to purchase boxes and plantings to beautify the Tri-Village area.

Analyzing the art of charting baseball

By Nat Boynton

Raindrops were falling lightly at Heritage Park Sunday afternoon, but not enough to be a bonafide drizzle. When the game got underway at 2 p.m., all five pitchers in Albany's starting rotation were busy.

One of them, lefthander Kevin Mmhamat, was on the mound, working against the New Britain Red Sox. The other four were "on the charts."

Many fans will concede that baseball is the most scientific of the myriad sports pursued on this earthly ball, but only a few are aware of the logistical role played by the chartists. Pro ball is a highly sophisticated business, hence it should not be a surprise that every pitch delivered in every game is entered on several charts and thence into the files.

At Heritage, three of these craftsmen normally work in the orange seats directly behind home plate, but last Sunday, because of the damp air and the fact that the chartkeepers are pitchers, they retreated indoors to the glassed-in owners' box in the clubhouse beneath the stands. That made it cushier than usual, but the sequence remained intact.

Inside the minors

Whom to watch at Heritage Park

In case you think that a starting pitcher in a five-man rotation gets four days off, ponder this: Saturday's starter keeps the Hitting Chart on Sunday, the "gun" on Monday, the Tendency Chart on Tuesday, and the Pitching Chart on Wednesday. That takes him to the fifth day and his next turn on the mound.

Last weekend Scott Kamieniecki beat New Britain Friday night, and Rodney Imes won on Saturday. When Mmhamat went to the rubber Sunday, Imes was charting the hitters on both clubs while Kamieniecki, on his left, trained the radar gun on both pitchers. With them was Royal Clayton, the big righthander from Arizona State who was due to start the next game, keeping the Pitching Chart.

"This is the easiest chart," Imes was saying as he watched Dan Gabriele, Boston's highest-rated Double-A pitcher, work against the

A-C Yanks. "You get this one the day after you pitch. Royal has the toughest chart, the day before you start."

"Fastball, 86," Kamieniecki intoned.

"This chart (the hitters) basically is for Buck (Showalter, A-C manager)," Imes explained to the visitor. "It totals at-bats, runs, hits, RBIs, doubles, triples, homers, walks, strikeouts, stolen bases, errors, sacrifices, everything in sequence."

Out front Bob Green, Yankee rightfielder, fouled off a fastball for a 2-2 count, took a slider low outside, then drove a fastball deep to center. "Eighty eight," Scott said.

"That's not as fast as he can throw," said Imes. "Maybe it's the damp air. He's a power pitcher, well into the 90s."

Gabriele fanned Mitch Lyden, the DH, on a breaking pitch, but served only fastballs to Rob Sepanek, the first baseman batting left. He was high outside, then inside, and at 2-0 Sepanek missed a cut at a fastball low. Gabriele got him to reach for a fastball on the outside corner. Sepanek's swing induced a foul pop behind third, and the side was out.

"Eleven fastballs, four sliders," Clayton announced, summarizing the inning from the rear corner, where the indoor box had a TV screen showing the Knicks and the Bulls.

"Doesn't that hoop distract you?" the visitor asked him.

"Naw," said Clayton. "I know all these hitters by now."

What do all these details do for these pitchers?

Clayton answered for the fraternity. "It's a very important plus

Charting each pitch to New Britain batters: 1 is a fastball, 2 a curve, 3 a slider, 4 a changeup. The chart shows Zambrano leading off with a pop to the second baseman. In his second at-bat he tripled. In both turns he saw only fastballs, whereas Jackson, the Red Sox DH, was fed mostly breaking stuff.

for us. At the end of the game we have the exact number of pitches, balls, strikes, hits, etcetera. We know what kind of a pitch each hitter swung at, what the count was when he hit the ball."

On the field Bob Zupcik, Red Sox rightfielder, gunned down Oscar Azocar trying to make second on a drive down the line. "That guy has a gun for an arm," Kamieniecki said.

"A hundred?" said Imes, grinning at his radar man.

"Ninety five, like you," laughed Clayton.

The Pitching Chart, compiled on the first trip around the league and updated regularly, provides "the book" on each opposing hitter as well as the locals. Clayton's next-day assignment would be the Reading Phillies, which meant he would be going to the files before tomorrow's game. "I have to know what kind of pitches they like or don't like, and what they did on what count."

The idea being that when you face a first-ball fastball hitter, start him with off-speed stuff. And so on.

Elsewhere in the park there were other chartists at work. In the dugout, Mike Christopher, ace of the staff currently on the disabled list, was keeping the Tendency Chart, a vital element that records what part of the field each pitch is hit or caught. This is the kind of data that enables Showalter and his third base coach, Bob Mariano, to position infielders and outfielders according to "the book."

And in the bullpen the relievers keep their own chart on enemy hitters. That makes five charts in all, every pitch, every swing, every inning, every game.

The London Tigers, the fugitives from Glens Falls, come in for a four-game series starting Monday night. If you go, you can spot these technicians at their stations, three behind the plate where starting pitchers masquerade as chartists, and one in the pen. The fifth is hidden in the dugout.

Some of them may not always enjoy the duty, but it does have its advantages. "The best part is we get to shower early," says Clayton.

Pop Warner registration

Bethlehem Pop Warner registration for football players and cheerleaders, ages 9 through 14, at the Bethlehem Town Hall, Delaware Ave., Delmar, on Thursday, May 18 from 6:30 to 8 p.m., and on Saturday, May 20, from 9 a.m. to noon.

All candidates must present a copy of their birth certificate, and a recent photograph. Player fees are $40, and cheerleader fees are $23. A parent or guardian must be present at registration.

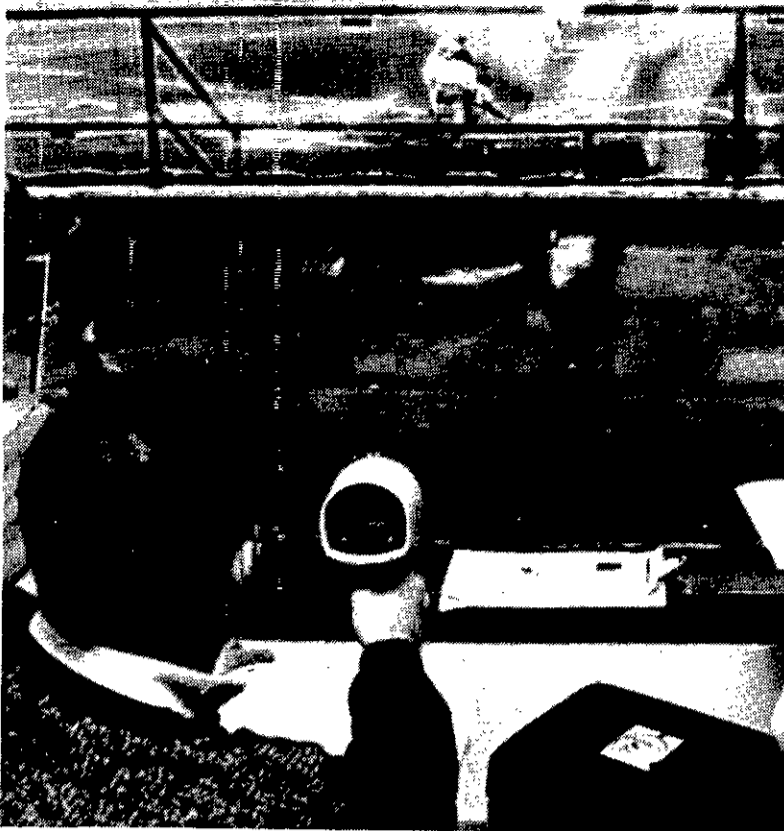

For more information, call 439-6408.

Kenwood summer program

The Kenwood Child Development Center will offer a Summer Recreation Program for older children as an extension of its regular preschool program. The summer program will begin on June 26 and run through Sept. 1.

The program will feature 10 separate full weeks of organized activities, including swimming, sports instruction, arts and crafts, theatre, dance, music and field trips.

For more information, call 465-0404.

A-C pitchers on chart duty Sunday did their chores from the clubhouse because of a drizzle. Scott Kamieniecki, left, was assigned to the radar gun as Rodney Imes kept track of the hitters.

Eagles remain 'Gold'en

By John Bellizzi III

The Eagles are still on top of the Gold Division after a non-league win last week over Linton and important Suburban Council victories over Niskayuna and Gold Division runner up Mohonasen (7-3 league, 11-4 overall).

The wins lifted Bethlehem Central's varsity baseball team to 9-2 in the league (13-2 overall) and widened a comfortable game-and-half lead over Mohonasen with the end of the regular season rapidly approaching.

Last Monday, the Eagles scored five runs in the first inning as they knocked off Gold Division rival Niskayuna for the second time this season, 7-1. Four of those first-inning runs came on a grand slam by Chris Pratt, who was 2-3 at the plate. Dave Sodergren had two hits for the Eagles, as Jamie Mizener picked up the win, allowing just six hits.

Baseball

Under the lights in Schenectady's Central Park last Tuesday, Linton fell to BC 8-5 in a non-league contest. Kevin Keparutis pitched five innings, picking up the win, and Alex Hackman gave up one hit in two innings of relief. Craig Weinert had a double and a single, Hackman two singles, and Al Greenhalgh a double.

Mizener pitched a one-hitter as the Eagles shut out Mohonasen 3-0 Saturday. The Eagles' eight-hit attack was led by two doubles from Sean Lynch, who had 2 RBI, and an RBI single by Pratt.

Bethlehem was scheduled to face Shenendehowa yesterday, with a game today at Guilderland. Tomorrow, the Eagles will play at Shaker.

Donohue, Brown set Voorheesville records

By Zack Kendall

Last Saturday, the Blackbird runners competed against ten other schools at the annual Amsterdam Invitational. Dan Jackson's discus throw of 163 feet six inches not only won first place, but made this the fourth consecutive invitational meet record that he has broken.

Donohue placed second in the shotput at 47 feet, 3 inches. He was only four inches short of first place.

The girls' team placed third out of the 11 schools, with strong performances in all events. Stephanie Brown took third in the 1500-meter run with a time of 5:26.6, breaking the Voorheesville school record of 5:27. The talented distance runner also ran a 2:35 leg of the 4x800-meter relay, placed fourth in the 800-meter run with 2:41 and anchored the 4x400 relay.

Carey Donohue placed third in the 200-meter dash in 28.4 and came in fifth in the 100 in 13.5, breaking the 1982 school record of 13.6.

Angela Washburn threw 90'-4 for first place in the disc and 28'-4 for third in the shot. Teammate Kristen Foley threw 85 feet for second in the disc and 26'-10 for fifth in the shot.

Courtney Langford took third in the 400 hurdles, with a time of 1:15 and ran in both the 4x400 and 4x800-meter relays. Also running in the 4x800 were Beth Lucia, Stephanie Brown and Amy Sangiorgi. The freshman 800-meter sprint medley team of Becky Bailey, Noelle Crisafulli, Kristen Foley, and Carnella Walker finished first in a very strong 2:10 performance.

Last Thursday, the girls beat Emma Willard, 67-57, raising their record to 5-4 overall. Voorheesville runners with first places were: Donohue in both the 100 and 200-meter dashes, Rachael Kelsch in the 400 and Langford in the 800.

Washburn again placed first in the disc, with a throw of 95'-4. Carnella Walker jumped 14'-1 for first place in the long jump, and Nicole Solomos triple jumped to victory with her leap of 31'-6.

Kelsch took first with her high jump of 4'-4.

Looking to next week, three boys have qualified to go to the Albany County Championship meet. They are Jackson and Randy Rathke in the discus, and Scott Renker for the long jump.

Local speedsters at Holy Names

Four local athletes have solidified a strong reputation for the Holy Names Academy's 3200-meter relay team this spring by setting a new meet record at the Schenectady Invitational on May 6.

The girls are ninth-grader Ellen Devane of Slingerlands, 10th-grader Kelly Drometer of Glenmont, eighth-grader Kim Drozd of Slingerlands and ninth-grader Amy Smith of Delmar.

Competing on the varsity level, the four underclassmen set a new record in the 3200-meter relay at the Schenectady Invitational, according to Holy Names Coach Carlo Cherubino.

This past weekend at the Johnstown Invitational, the four placed second in the 3200 relay. Though they did not better their 10:00 time set the week before, Smith set a new school record in the 400-meter run with a time of 68.8. She placed second.

Correction

A sports story in the May 3 issue of The Spotlight incorrectly identified a Voorheesville senior who has signed a letter of intent with King's College in Briarcliff Manor, New York. Kevin Davis is the name of the All-Star goalie from Voorheesville who will attend King's College this fall.

Bethlehem Capitals to host state semi-finals

The Bethlehem Capitals, the Under-12 team of the Bethlehem Soccer Club, will host the Under-12 semi-finals of the State Cup Game this Saturday at 12:30 at the Bethlehem High School.

The game is free to spectators and open to the public.

The Capitals will face a team from Merrick, Long Island. The Capitals, Merrick, North Rockland and Middletown are the four remaining teams in the Under-12 State Cup Competition.

In reaching the semis, the Capitals won the Middletown Tournament on May 7 when they tied North Rockland 0-0 and defeated Middletown 2-0, earning a top seed in the State Cup competition.

The winner of the Bethlehem-Merrick matchup will advance to the finals in Farmingdale, Long Island in June.

The Sooners are coming to Bethlehem!

By John Bellizzi III

A rare opportunity for local athletes to participate in a nationally acclaimed wrestling program will be accessible at Bethlehem Central High School in Delmar this summer when the Oklahoma Wrestling Camp, run by the extremely successful University of Oklahoma wrestling team, will be held at BCHS July 22-26.

The University of Oklahoma is one of the nation's premier wrestling schools, boasting 58 National Collegiate Athletic Association Champions. The intensive camp format will cover technique, weight training, running, situation wrestling, match strategy, nutrition, motivation and live wrestling.

The camp's staff will include University of Oklahoma Assistant Coach Jerry Stanley; two-time NCAA Champion Mickey Martin, who was named Outstanding Wrestler in the NCAA last year; two-time All-American Clint Burke, who has placed second and third in the NCAA; four-time All-American Roger Frizzell and All-American wrestlers Mark Tatum and Junior Taylor.

Chris Bollin, T.J. Sewell, Junior Meek, Joe Stafford, and Brandon Dennington, All-America Wrestlers from the University of Oklahoma, will serve as counselors.

Resident campers will be housed at a local motel with 24 hour supervision. The resident camper fee is $225, with a $100 deposit due upon application. Commuters pay $125, with a $50 deposit. All campers receive a daily lunch, a t-shirt and the "OK-Fit" personal fitness analysis. Group discounts are available.

Applications are available at Bethlehem Central High School. For further information, call (405) 360-4180 or (518) 356-3320.

first of three games Saturday, PIA beat Browning Ferris 9-1. J. Peznel was the winning pitcher while Jim Dundon got three hits for PIA and Brian Carr got one hit for BFI. In game two, J.J. Phillips rode a 13-run first inning lead to a 22-8 win over Davies Office Refurbishing. Lucas Pago was the winning pitcher.

In the third game Owens-Corning sent Houghtalings Market down to its first loss in a 8-4 win. Adam Trent went 4-5 at the plant for Owens-Corning Fiberglass while Andy Pludrzynski sustained the loss despite striking out 14 of the O-C hitters. Seth Friedman got the only hit for Houghtalings in the seventh inning.

assembled as instructors will be NCAA National Champion Frank Famiano, who placed fifth in the 1984 Olympic Games; New York State Champion Anthony Bellai, currently a varsity wrestler at the University of Oklahoma; Section II Champion John Conway, who placed fifth in the state and is currently coach of top-ranked Spencerport High School in Rochester; Mike Poplaski, Section II Wres-ting Chairman and coach of the championship Salem High School wrestling team and Bob Stulmaker, who has coached many Section II Champions from his post as Saratoga High School wrestling coach. All skill levels are welcome, and the price is $85.00 per athlete. A $25.00 deposit is required to reserve a spot. For further information, contact Poplaski or DeMeo at 439-4921.

JEFFERS NURSERY

Dear Friend and Customer,

After much soul-searching and discussion we have decided to sell our nursery business. Although this may come as a surprise to many of you, others of you will remember that we have spoken over the last few years of finding a buyer for our nursery. Frankly, after 25 years, working seven days a week has become a physical hardship. You can be sure we will always work with plants, for ourselves or others, but we need more time with our children before they are grown and we want more time for ourselves and our hobbies—gardening is at the top of the list. We do however, plan to expand our landscape and plant maintenance business.

The most difficult part of the decision to sell our operation is the knowledge that we will be seeing a lot less of the friends we have made through that business. We have enjoyed watching you and your families grow and change and have been touched by the attention and interest you have shown our boys. We know that Jeffers Nursery's greatest asset is its customers and we thank you for your loyalty, support and friendship.

Please feel free to call us if you have any questions.

Sincerely, Paul and Barbara Jeffers

Pro Am set for Normanside

Official details of the 1989 Tim Sherwin Celebrity Pro-Am will be disclosed at a press conference tomorrow (Thursday) at the Cerebral Palsy Center for the Disabled in Albany at 1:30 p.m.

The pro-am event will be June 11 and 12 at the Normanside Country Club, Salisbury Rd., Delmar again this year. Last year's event was also held at Normanside and helped raise over $22,000 for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

This year's tournament will benefit the Cerebral Palsy Center for the Disabled, a private not-for-profit health care agency which serves individuals of all ages who have disabilities.

Players, former players and coaches of the New York Giants, Atlanta Falcons, Washington Redskins, Los Angeles Raiders, Minnesota Vikings, Buffalo Bills, New England Patriots, New York Jets, and Indianapolis Colts are expected to play along with several area golf pros.

Corporate sponsors include Davies Office

Refurbishing, Inc., Farm Family Insurance and Keis Distributors.

Sherwin, a native of Watervliet, recently retired from football after a serious spinal injury sidelined him for the latter part of the 1988-89 season. He played for the Indianapolis Colts and the New York Giants as a tight end and special teams member. He now lives in Latham with his wife and two sons and works with the state Department of Transportation on its Athletes Against Drunk Driving Program.

There will be a pairings party and a NFL/AFL auction on Sunday, June 11 and will be open to the public. Tickets to the party are $35 per person. For the entire weekend package, a tournament entry fee of $210 will include the pairings party and auction, brunch on Monday, 18 holes of golf, carts and an awards cocktail party.

To register or for more information, call 489-8336.

Run For Women's Wheelchair 10K

For the third consecutive year, the Freihofer's Run For Women series June 3 will include a 10-kilometer Wheelchair Invitational.

So far this year, 11 entries have been received for the event, marking the largest turnout in the history of the Freihofer's race. Of those 11 wheelchair athletes, the most prominent is Candace Cable-Brooks of California. She is a five-time winner of the Boston Marathon where she set a record in 1985. She was also the winner of the 1988 and 1987 Freihofer's Run For Women. At the 1988 Olympics in Seoul last fall, she earned a silver medal in the 800-meter race for the physically disadvantaged.

Deadline for entries into the race is May 27.

COUPON EXPIRES JUNE 7, 1989

Breslin to lead Eagles

With a strong 10-5 record as of Tuesday, the Bethlehem Central boys' tennis team will begin play in the Suburban Council Tournament Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The results of the tournament will decide which singles players and teams will attend the Section 2 tournament on June 5 and 6. The top four finishers from each league will advance to sectionals, according to Bethlehem Head Coach Tom Straw.

The Eagles will close out their regular season today when they travel to Shenendehowa at 4 p.m.

Straw will change his playing roster around to utilize his better players in the doubles brackets instead of the singles brackets, where they have a better chance of advancing.

"All of our best people are going to pair up in doubles for three strong teams and one strong singles entry with Neil Breslin," Straw said.

Senior Neil Breslin will fill BC's lone singles spot in the tournament, where he is expected to be one of the top seeds.

Last year, Breslin teamed up with Eric Lee to become the Section 2 doubles champs. Lee graduated last year.

Tennis

Although he won't be playing in the singles bracket, freshman Charles Kawas this season earned a No. 2 spot on the Bethlehem squad and his chances of keeping BC strong after Breslin departs look good. Kawas will team up with Carl Meacham for one of the doubles teams this week.

The first doubles team will be Tim Carrol and Brian Farrell. The two recently earned themselves the team's No. 1 doubles spot in a challenge match. But the dethroned pair that previously held that spot have nothing to feel bad about. They're both eighth graders with a lot of promise for a long and memorable BC tennis career. The two youngsters are David Rosenberg and Bryan Staff.

HIGH PERFORMANCE SINCE 1911 Bolens

William Lowenberg, newspaperman

By Nat Boynton

Bill Lowenberg of Delmar was a newspaperman from the day he became a cub reporter on the Albany Times Union fresh out of Milne High School in 1935 until his death last Tuesday at the age of 71.

He wrote for the T-U for 22 years (not counting military service in World War II), forging a solid reputation as one of the best reporters on Albany's varied news beats. He believed in "humanizing" the stories he wrote, a dimension not all his colleagues and competitors possessed.

His years in the Times-Union city room spanned the final two decades of competitive journalism in New York's capital city. Bill was in the thick of the vigorous, sometimes overzealous battles with the rival Knickerbocker News during the forties and fifties, racing deadlines and getting more than his share of news beats. He was a fighter, competing on the police beat with such legendary reporters as the Knick's Bill Skirving and Charley Mooney.

The Times-Union had its own respected bylines of the era, scarred veterans like Ray O'Connor and Joe O'Heany, predecessors of Bill Kennedy on that same police beat; Barney Fowler, the city editor, and George Williams, the highly competitive editor of Hearst's Albany property.

The newspaper business is quite different nowadays. All these fellows except Kennedy have joined the departed, and the ranks of the "old school" news fraternity are thinner. Kennedy, whose best-selling novels and a Pulitzer Prize vaulted him into national fame, was among the journalism alumni drawn together last Friday to pay tribute to one of their own. Afterward they resurrected some of the escapades of yore, the kind Bill Lowenberg loved. This time they were all about Bill.

Walt Mordaunt, whom Lowenberg replaced in the T-U's capitol bureau in 1955 when Mordaunt took a job with the Harriman administration, told about the time Bill personally tested a system installed by a contractor to rid the capitol building of pigeons. Unlike the electrical device used on the education building, this firm applied a substance that literally gave the birds enough of a "hotfoot" that discouraged any return to their favorite perches. When the intrepid Lowenberg climbed onto a ledge with one foot bared, the Times-Union ran a photo of their capitol reporter with trousers rolled up to the knee and five toes splayed.

But the best stories were the ones Bill himself liked to re-tell from his years on the Times-Union prior to World War II. In those days the paper was produced in a decrepit building on Beaver St. just west of Green St. "The building was dirty and grimy," he told a listener last year. "The ceiling in the city room was low and had cracks. The lead dust from the press room filtered through the building along with the tobacco smoke, and we had to comb the dust out of our hair every night."

He also remembered an occasion when William Randolph Hearst, Jr., then a young man and son of the founder of the famous newspaper chain, was escorting several prominent guests on a visit to Albany. As the party was being shown the editorial department in the rickety structure, Lowenberg said he overheard "Junior" apologize to his friends by remarking, "I didn't know there were places like this."

The heated rivalry with the Knickerbocker News; then a Gannett paper, was intensified by proximity. The Knick plant was in the next block toward the river, where Beaver St. narrowed to alley width. That was also a decaying building, in which the press room occupied an L-shaped wing with a back door on Green St. directly across from the rear of the Times-Union building.

Lowenberg always smiled in describing the sensitivity of his editorial boss, George Williams. "When we heard their presses start and we knew it wasn't time for a regular edition, it would drive Williams crazy. He knew they were putting out an Extra, and he would send a copyboy to grab an edition off the press."

Another of his favorite tales was one he called "The Great Washington County Potato War." Reporters on both Albany papers were required to make carbon copies as they typed out their stories, thus enabling the Associated Press bureau, a tenant in the building, to keep abreast of each local news item, as it did in every daily paper across the state. According to Lowenberg, one staffer in the T-U city room, resenting this practice, "concocted from whole cloth" a dramatic story of farmers in Granville setting up roadblocks to protest allegedly low prices paid by New York City shippers and distributors for their potato crops. The reporter then discarded the original typing, Lowenberg recalled, deposited the carbons in "the dupe box" (dupe for duplicates, not duplicity) and waited for the reaction. The spurious report sent AP writers into a flurry of phone calls, but when official sources were unable to confirm the Granville story, the hoax was exposed.

Lowenberg left the paper in 1960 to handle press relations for the minority leader of the Assembly, Anthony Travia, who later became speaker of the house. After Travia was appointed a federal judge, Lowenberg was named media advisor to Assembly minority leader Stanley Steingut and served in that post until retiring in 1972.

It was ironic, but purely coincidental, that Bill Lowenberg left the Times Union for his legislative post the same year (1960) that the Hearst interests bought out Gannett's Knickerbocker News. Although the publishers proclaimed that the two papers remained independent, the takeover ended competitive journalism in Albany. Hearst closed down the Knick in April, 1988.

Lowenberg's newspaper career with the Times-Union was interrupted by World War II. Most of his military service was spent in Iceland at a U.S. Army Signal Corps observation post that tracked German submarines stalking American ship convoys supplying combat areas in Europe.

Bill had a lifetime passion for amateur radio and fly fishing. He designed and built his radio "shack" on the second floor of his home in Delmar, the envy of fellow "ham" operators and radio club members. He was a consultant to Bethlehem officials when the town installed a new emergency call system, and he was always aboard when local radio buffs set up communications for local road races and emergencies.

Elsewhere in the house was his extensive collection of hackles, feathers and fly-casting gear that supported his lifelong pursuit of trout. He loved the Battenkill, where he and his wife, Ruth, had a camp four doors from the Vermont line above Cambridge in Washington County. There he also spent many hours pursuing his longtime interests in watercolor painting and photography.

At Friday's gathering, many of his close friends were there, newspaper people, colleagues from his legislature days, fly casters, radio "hams," former classmates and neighbors. They all had vignettes to pass along.

He is survived by his wife of 47 years, William Lowenberg, Jr. and Ruth Babbitt, born two months apart, grew up together in the Pine Hills section of Albany. They were classmates at School 16 and at Milne High School on Western Ave., but it wasn't until 1942 when Bill was in military service in Rochester that they were married.

pice, where Bill Lowenberg's last competitive battle was fought. There the odds were greater than even his indomitable spirit and keen sense of humor could conquer.

Louis F. Corlew

Louis F. Corlew, formerly of Voorheesville, died April 29 at the Veterans' Administration Hospital, Albany, after a long illness. He was 93.

Born May 6, 1895, at Fort Ann, as a young man he led horses that towed the barges on the towpath of the New York State Barge Canal. For many years he was employed at Sandy Hill in Hudson Falls. After he retired he served as custodian at Pine View Cemetery and later at the Friends' Cemetery, both in Queensbury.

A veteran of World War I, he was a member of American Legion Post 233 for many years. A lover of Shetland ponies, he showed them at area county fairs for many years.

His wife, Jennie Corlew, died in 1982. For two years after that he resided on Bay Road, Glens Falls, then came to reside for a three-year period at the Voorheesville home of his daughter, Helen Trombley, who survives.

Other survivors include a son, Roger Corlew of Hudson Falls; seven grandchildren, 10 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services were held May 2 at Regan and Denny Funeral Home, Queensbury, and St. Alphonsus Catholic Church, Glens Falls. Burial was in Pine View Cemetery, Queensbury.

Raymond H. Stout

Raymond H. Stout of Delmar, a former trustee of the Bethlehem Public Library, died Monday at Albany Medical Center Hospital after a brief illness. He was 84.

A Pennsylvania native, he worked for IBM for many years, then worked in marketing for the Simplex Co. starting in 1956. He retired from Simplex in 1969.

He served on the board of trustees of the Bethlehem Public Library for 18 years starting in 1956, and was a trustee in 1972 when the library built its new building on Delaware Ave. He was also active in Little League in Delmar and was a former member of the Albany Kiwanis Club. He was a member of First United Methodist Church, Delmar, and the Normanside Country Club.

Survivors include his wife, the former Elsie O'Hara; three sons, Richard E. Stout of Amhurst, N.H., Robert W. Stout of Bethesda, Md. and Rev. R. Philip O'Hara of Newtonville; a daughter, Barbara O'Hara Pagg of Woodside, Calif.; a sister, Mildred Montague of Shippenburg, Pa.; and a brother, Willard Stout of St. Petersburg, Fla., and 13 grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held at First United Methodist Church, 428 Kenwood Ave., at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Memorial contributions may be made to First United Methodist Church.

Obituaries

Paul S. Twichell

Paul Stockton Twichell, 70, a former Delmar resident and advertising executive, died Friday at Memorial Hospital, Albany, after a long illness.

He moved to Delmar during the early 1950s, about the time he established and became president of the Nolan and Twichell Advertising Agency, Inc., of Albany. He then moved to the Woodard, Voss and Hevenor agency, serving as vice president until 1959.

That year he built the Whiteface Chalet in Wilmington (Essex Co.), which he operated until 1972, when he sold the business and launched a third career in woodcarving and oil painting. Moving to Keene Valley, he studied painting with Fletcher Martin of the Albany Institute of History and Art and woodcarving with Jean Julian Bourgault in Ste. Jean Port Joli, Que.

Born in Albany, he was a graduate of Albany High School and Butler University of Indianapolis. He served as a pilot in the Army Air Corps during World War II, worked for the former Golman and Water Agency before launching his own ad agency.

He was a trustee and international member of the National Art Museum of Sport of Westhaven, Conn.; a former member of Kiwanis Club and the Albany Advertising Club; former post adjutant of Nathaniel Adams Blanchard Post 1040, American Legion, of Delmar; and past president of the Capital District chapter of the National Industrial Advertising Association.

Survivors include his wife, the former Shirley Henry; two sons, Jon R. Twichell of Tahoe City, Calif. and Douglas H. Twichell of Fairport (Monroe Co.); three stepsons, Michael A. Agnew of Andover, Conn., Steven J. Agnew of Orange City, Fla., and Robert S. Agnew of Minneapolis; a sister, Caroline T.

George of Glenmont; a brother, Robert S. Twichell of Fort Ann; and four grandchildren.

A memorial service was held Tuesday at Keene Valley Congregational Church. Burial was in Speculator Cemetery.

A second memorial service will be held Wednesday (today) at Applebee Funeral Home, Delmar.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Keene Valley Volunteer Ambulance Service, Keene Valley, N.Y. 112943.

Ethel P. Brown

Ethel P. Brown of Salisbury Rd., Elmsere, died Friday at her home after a long illness. She was 88.

A Saratoga Springs native, she lived in North Troy before moving to Delmar in 1961. A homemaker, she was a member of the Delmar Progress Club, the Troy Women's Club, Ilium Club of Troy and the Tuesday Club.

She was the widow of Frederic M. Brown, who died in 1975.

Survivors include a son, Carlton A. Brown of Delmar; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Tebutt Funeral Home, Delmar. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery, Troy.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Lung Association of New York State, 8 Mountain View Ave., Albany, N.Y. 12205.

Jessie A. Lasher

Jessie V. Allen Lasher, 85, of Selkirk died Sunday at St. Peter's Hospital.

Born in Vermont, she was a graduate of Middletown Springs High School. Mrs. Lasher was a homemaker.

Survivors include her husband, Howard S. Lasher; three daughters, Elizabeth Putnam of Round Lake, Barbara Scrafford of Altamont and Margaret A. Gagliardi of Albany; three sons, Howard F. Lasher of Coeymans Hollow, Edward Zamjohn of Warnerville (Schoharie Co.) and Gerald Lasher of Catskill; a brother, Gordon Allen of Massachusetts; 22 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday (today) at the Babcock Funeral Home, Ravena.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Peter's Hospice, 315 South Manning Blvd., Albany, N.Y. 12208.

Elsie C. Mead

Elsie Collins Mead, 94, of Selkirk died Friday at St. Peter's Hospital, Albany.

Widow of Allen D. Mead, she is survived by three nieces, Dorothy Malary, Marie Trivison and Marian Collins, and two nephews, Roger Hallenbeck and Roger Collins.

A mass of Christian burial was offered Monday at St. Thomas the Apostle Church, Delmar. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Glenmont.

Memorial contributions may be made to the St. Thomas Church memorial fund, 35 Adams Place, Delmar, N.Y. 12054 or the Good Samaritan Home chapel fund, 125 Rockefeller Road, Delmar, N.Y. 12054.

Elizabeth W. Pelton

Elizabeth Wehrle Pelton, 70, of Delmar died Friday at St. Peter's Hospital, Albany, after a long illness.

A homemaker, she was past president of the women's group of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Elmsere. She was the wife of George C. Pelton.

Survivors, in addition to her husband, include a daughter, Carla Pelton Jackson of Chattanooga, Tenn.; a sister, Eva Wehrle Woods of Columbia, Md., and two grandchildren.

Private funeral services were conducted earlier this week under the direction of Applebee Funeral Home, Delmar.

Dr. Mary Davitt and Dr. Mitchell Tublin

Davitt-Tublin

Mr. and Mrs. J. Alan Davitt of Delmar have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Cecilia, to Dr. Mitchell Evan Tublin, the son of Mr. Martin Tublin of Woodmere, N.Y., and the late Phyllis Marinello.

Dr. Davitt is a graduate of the Academy of the Holy Names, Boston College, and the State University at Buffalo's School of Medicine. She is presently a pediatric resident at the Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh.

Her fiance is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and the State University at Buffalo's School of Medicine. He is a radiology resident at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center.

An August wedding is planned at St. Thomas the Apostle Church in Delmar.

Child's Hospital honors two

Jean Riley of Glenmont was presented a plaque in recognition of her 25 years of volunteer service to Child's Hospital and Nursing Home in Albany.

The presentation was made at a luncheon celebrating Auxiliary Day, and in appreciation of the hospital's board of managers' contribution to that institution.

Marie Kebbon of Delmar, a dedicated volunteer and board member was made a lifetime honorary member of the managers' board in recognition of her service to the organization.

Waste-to-energy plant to be discussed

A public meeting between the residents of Bethlehem and Ross Patten, vice president of the American Ref-fuel Company, to discuss his company's proposed waste-to-energy facility in Glenmont on land adjacent to the Port of Albany will be held May 22 at 7 p.m. at the Albany Motor Inn, Glenmont.

The forum will be sponsored by the the Kiwanis Club of Delmar. The public is invited.

Three arrested on alcohol charges

Bethlehem police arrested three motorists on misdemeanor alcohol-related charges last week.

At about 2:47 a.m. Friday, police stopped a 25-year-old Delmar woman who allegedly could not stay on her side of the center line of the Cherry Ave. extension near the McCormick Road intersection. Police add that she subsequently failed field and chemical sobriety tests, at which point she was issued a summons to appear in Town Court on June 6. There, she will also answer a ticket for unlawful possession of marijuana as well as failure to keep right.

The previous evening, police stopped a 26-year-old Delmar man for speeding on Kenwood Ave., Delmar, near the corner of Rockefeller Road. Police say the driver admitted to consuming alcohol that evening as well as two prescribed drugs. He then failed a field sobriety test and the chemical test with a .13 blood-alcohol level (New York State defines an intoxicated driver as having a minimum .10 count). The driver was charged with driving with a count of .10 or more and issued a summons to appear in Town Court Friday at 7 p.m.

Later that evening, a Town of Coeymans patrolman observed a 33-year-old Westerlo resident driving south on Rt. 144. When the driver turned right onto Beaver Dam Road, Selkirk, he was stopped by the patrolman, assisted by a Bethlehem police officer. After failing a field sobriety test, he was taken to Bethlehem Town Hall where he failed a chemical test with a count of .11. He was charged with driving while intoxicated (misdemeanor), driving with a blood/alcohol count of .10 or more, and failure to keep right and will appear in Bethlehem Town Court on June 6 at 4 p.m.

Brant Lake

Brant Lake is one of the larger Adirondack lakes, long and narrow with an outlet dammed for a waterfall and beach. The local claim that on the shores of Brant Lake sits the World's Smallest Library. Quaint is the best way to describe this little village that sits on the site of an old grist mill. A local history museum is of interest. For the outdoors person, the area is bordered by the Pharaoh Wilderness on one side and the Dixon Forest on the other.

The Horicon Museum is located just off Route west of Brant Lake. This restored seven room homestead is furnished with 19th century and early 20th century pieces and depicts early life in this rural community. Admission is free. The museum is open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 1 pm - 4 pm from Memorial Day weekend until Labor Day. Special tours are available.

THINGS TO DO, PASTIMES AND DIVERSIONS: take the scenic drive to Hague. From Exit 22 on I-87, drive north along the shoreline of Lake George through Diamond Point and Bolton Landing, then over Tongue Mountain to Silver Bay and Hague; visit the Horicon Museum on Route 8.

Hague

Hague is a charming little hamlet nestled at the northern end of Lake George. Small and quiet, the area is well known for its bass fishing. The New York State Bass Federation holds its opener here each year and records are broken regularly. A highlight of the hamlet is the village park and beach, the only site on Lake George that has a year-round launch facility. During the warmer months, steaks, roasts, arts and crafts festivals and the strawberry festival are some of the activities in the area. Accommodations range from an Adirondack-style complex to small motels.

Lake George

Lake George extends from the village of Lake George on the south to Ticonderoga on the north, a distance of 32 miles. It is three miles wide at its widest point and dotted with islands. In the village, tourist information booths are located north and south of downtown. The south booth and business office is on Route 9, opposite the Prospect Mountain Veteran's Highway. The north booth is on Route 9N or Lake Shore Drive, just off Exit 22 of the Northway (1-87).

Lake George is home to Gaslight Village, The Great Escape, the House of Frankenstein Wax Museum, Fun World, Skateland Family Roller Skating Center, Waxlife USA, Waterslide World, the Magic Forest and more rides and games than anyplace north of Disney World.

Just outside of the village is Prospect Mountain, a scenic drive that takes you to the top of the mountain at 2030 feet. The property has a self-guided nature trail, fire tower and the remains of the world's largest cable railroad. The mountain has a vertical rise of 1,530 feet and the length of the highway is 5.5 miles. Facilities include three scenic overlooks, parking for 800 cars, viewmobiles operating from the parking lot to the summit (no charge), picnic tables, fireplaces and rest rooms.

The Lake George Steamboat Company departs daily from the Steel Pier for tours of the lake region. Its tour boats include a modern dinner-dance showboat with the characteristics of the steamers of the 19th century, a replica of the S.S. Peter Stuyvesant, and 2800 passenger steamer that sailed for the Hudson River Day Line in the early 1900's. The ship seats 500 for dinners and shows. Shoreline Cruises, on James Street, also conducts lake tours with sunset supper cruises.

Horsedrawn Carriage Rides on Beach Road and Fort William Henry operates Victorian carriage and fringe top surries for two mile tours around Lake George and Fort Henry. For the do-it-yourself rider, horses are available for rent at the Roaring Brook Ranch and Tennis Resort on Route 9N (688-5767) and the Saddle Up Stables on Lake Shore Drive (668-4801).

The Lake George Dinner Theatre (668-5781) offers theatre in the round with professional Broadway shows and dinner. The Lake George Opera Festival (793-6642) is a professional opera company presenting English-speaking performance in July and August in Queensbury Festival Auditorium and Opera-on-the-Lake cruises.

Lake Luzerne

Nestled on the shore of both the Hudson River and the Sacandaga River where they converge, Lake Luzerne is a picturesque village with a park, boat launching facilities and ponds which hosts a variety of events. Accommodations range from motels to luxury ranch resorts and bed and breakfasts. Lake Luzerne is known as "Big Hat Country," the Dude Ranch Capital of the East. At one time, there were 53 ranches in the area. Today only a few remain but those that do are full service resorts. Horseback riding is a popular activity in the area and the village has the only horse campground in the area.

The Painted Pony Rodeo in Lake Luzerne is the oldest weekly rodeo in the United States with sanctioned riders. It's held Friday evenings from July to Labor Day weekend.

The Lake Luzerne Campground and Horse Trail System has had horse trails since the time the state acquired the land. A special camping area was developed for riders and this includes a barn and corral with watering trough, and tent and trailer sites equipped with fireplaces and tables in a pine tree setting. There are about five miles of trails on state land and these continue on into an extensive system on surrounding private lands which are used by nearby dude ranches.

Lake Luzerne has three museums. The Frances G. Kinnear Museum is a restored home containing old furnishings and a library. The Olde Mill Museum is the first hydro powered wood mill in the United States and features an exhibit of old photographs. The Old School House Museum is a relocated one-room schoolhouse set up as a classroom with old photographs and costumes.

Bolton Landing

Bolton Landing has maintained its quiet atmosphere, yet its streets are lined with shops, churches and restaurants. Accommodations in Bolton Landing are located mainly on the shoreline with several famous Adirondack camps still in operation. The Sagamore Resort on Greene Island recently went through a complete renovation and is now considered to be one of the most elegant resorts in the United States.

Several events, including the great Antiques Under The Big Top and Arts in the Park, provide fun for visitors. Route 9N runs north and south of Bolton Landing and is lined with many beautiful homes and resorts. The winding highway, overhanging trees and the constantly changing views of the lake and mountains makes this one of the best scenic drives in the Adirondacks. The highway is part of the all-lakeshore route through the Adirondacks and just north of the township begins the famous Tongue Mountain parkway leading leading into Ticonderoga and Canada.

The Bolton Recreation Committee (644-9713) schedules recreational activities which are free to the public and include arts and crafts, boat safety courses, swimming lessons, tennis tournaments, gymnastics, weekly movies and field trips to local attractions.

Olmsteadville

Leave the Adirondack northway at Exit 26 and head northwest for nine miles to the towns of Minerva and Olmsteadville in the heart of the Adirondack Park. Minerva and Olmsteadville are located southeast of Newcomb and just a few miles northwest of Pottersville. These two quiet Adirondack towns offer the Minerva Historical Museum, two country general stores, one restaurant, one hotel and one lodge and a craft shop. North on Route 30 will take you to Minerva Lake with its 60 campsites, public beach, tennis courts and playground. If you want to wet your fishing line, try the dam in Olmsteadville, the site of an old mill. For an extended stay, look into the Morningside Cottages in Minerva (251-2694), ten log cabins and five chalet-type cottages along the shores of Minerva Lake.

HOLD ON! White water rafting is big on the Black River near Newcomb.

THINGS TO DO, PASTIMES AND DIVERSIONS: Visit the Board n' Batten on Main Street in Olmsteadville, an antique shop featuring furniture, country collectibles, glass, pottery and other odds and ends. Drop in on Knits and Stitches Shop at Four Corners in Olmsteadville for handmade Adirondack gifts, machine and hand-knit wool garments, quilts and furniture. Visit the Historical Society Museum, located in the former Methodist church just off the four corners of Olmsteadville. Investigate Adirondack Hut to Hut Tours, whitewater and canoe tours operating out of the Minerva Hill Lodge on Route 28N.

Welcome to the Adirondack Region

Edited by Phil Philcox and Beverly Boe

Travelers in the Adirondacks today possess an awareness and imagination lacking in their predecessors. To many, travel has become a personal art form where a destination is not only a place to visit but a place to indulge in those pastimes and diversions that make life enjoyable. To some, this means "ADVENTURE!", shooting the rapids or rappelling down a mountainside. To others, it's nothing more daring than bedding down in a remote country inn at the foot of a mountain and ambling down forest trails at sunset.

From the assortment of things to do, see and experience while on vacation, the Adirondacks offer something for every taste and every vacationing style. This guide covers the villages, towns and hamlets of the Adirondacks and introduces you to some of the vacationing possibilities. It's written not only for visitors but for residents as well - anyone interested in participating in activities, pastimes and diversions and taking advantage of what the area has to offer. Included for the first time is the most comprehensive Calendar of Events ever published on scheduled events throughout the Adirondacks. Just look up the date and we're sure you'll find something going on somewhere that will be of interest. To insure you don't miss out on a special event this summer and fall, tear it out and keep it handy.

The Adirondacks have been called New York's Quite Place. The Adirondack Park sprawls out private lands owned by the state, by industry, and the people. About two and a half million acres are state-owned and constitutionally-protected "forever wild." Three and half million acres are private lands, devoted almost exclusively to forestry, agriculture and recreation. About 120,000 people live in (give or take) one hundred towns, villages and hamlets yearround and they provide the services and facilities for an estimated nine million visitors annually. For those who want to get away from the hustle of city life, the Park lies within a day's drive of fifty five million people.

Running down the Park's eastern border, between Lake Champlain and the High Peaks, I-87 is the major access route from north of Plattsburgh to Lake George at the southernmost tip of the Park. The exits inbetween offer access to villages and hamlets nestled along the coast of Lake Champlain to the east and in the foothills of the Adirondack Mountains to the west.

The Park is tucked into the northeast corner of the New York with the St. Lawrence Seaway and Canada to the north, the Black River to the west, the Mohawk River Valley to the south and Lake Champlain running along the eastern shoreline, separating New York and the Adirondacks from Vermont. The heart of the Park is its public lands known as The Forest Preserve, created by an act of legislation in 1885. A year before, a "Blue Line" was used to mark off the proposed park boundary. Over the last one hundred years, the Forest Preserve grew from the original 681,374 acres to over six million acres, a mixture of public and its present two and a half million acres and the Blue Line was expanded so that it now encircles nearly six million acres and bisects ten of the region's twelve counties.

The western and southern Adirondacks are a gentle landscape of hills, lakes, ponds and streams. In the northeast, there are forty-six high peaks, forty-two of which reach a height of over 4,000 feet. The highest is Mount Marcy at 5,344 feet. The range of sports and outdoor activities available in the Adirondacks is unparalleled in the eastern United States. The Park offers boating of all kinds, hiking, horseback riding, camping, picnicking, hunting, fishing, mountain climbing, swimming and other water sports, downhill and cross-country skiing, ice skating, snowmobiling and snowshoeing. There are over two thousand miles of trails throughout the Park, more than half of them state maintained and hundreds of miles of cross-country ski and snowmobile trails. For those more indoor inclined, there are museums, art centers, hundreds of specialty and antique shops, amusement parks, boat cruises, cultural events and activities going on yearround. While not on a par with New York City, the indoorsy things-to-do are plentiful enough to keep even the discriminating visitor or resident pleasantly occupied during a short stay.

If you're visiting the Adirondacks, we hope you enjoy your stay. If you're a resident, we invite you to step outside and become a participant.

Another good reason for visiting the Town of Minerva this summer.

The Minerva Historical Society Museum
Olmstedville, New York

On July 15, 1979, the United Methodist Church of Olmstedville was dedicated as the Museum of the Minerva Historical Society. The church sanctuary will always remain as it was with the podium, organ, table, chairs, bible stand and silver communion set used when services were held there. The Meneely bell in the steeple was struck in 1887. The museum is open summers with a different theme and display each year.

Ti and Crown Point

THINGS TO DO, PASTIMES AND DIVERSIONS: visit the public beach and boat launch on Lake Champlain, the Crown Point Reservation and State Historic Site; take a tour of the Essex County Fish Hatchery in Crown Point and the Penfield Homestead Historical Museum; visit the Black Watch Memorial Library on Montcalm Street in Ticonderoga, and the Hammond Public Library in Crown Point.

Ticonderoga was the site of over 150 years of battles between the Iroquois and Algonquin Indians, the French and the English and finally between the English and the Americans. Fort Ticonderoga and its Revolutionary War Museum hosts about a quarter of a million visitors every year. Within the village there are over 50 plaques and monuments associated with people and events during the revolution. Visitors can now wander from the embattlements of Fort Ticonderoga to the forested setting of the Mount Hope Battery overlooking the village and the summit of Mount Defiance. A brochure is available from PRIDE of Ticonderoga showing a detailed walking tour of the village which points out historic buildings and sites.

The Penfield Foundation and the Penfield Homestead Museum at Ironville in Crown Point offers self-guided tours of the ironworks, a museum with artifacts from the area's history, a five hundred acre recreation area with camping, hiking and fishing, snowshoeing, skiing. The 19th century village was the site of ironworks for Brooklyn Bridge cables and armor plate for Civil War ships. In August, the museum hosts Heritage Day with a flea market, barbecue, tours, oxen and train rides. Admission is free.

Crown Point is also known throughout the region for its annual Memorial Day parade and celebration.

The Crown Point State Historic Site is located at the western end of Champlain Bridge in Crown Point.

Located on Lake Champlain, Crown Point controlled the strategic route from Montreal to Albany in the 18th century. The French were the first to take control of the area with the occupation and construction of Fort St. Frederic (1734-1759). They were ousted from their stronghold by an overwhelming British army commanded by General Jeffrey Amherst in July 1759.

The British occupation of Crown Point was highlighted by the construction of a new fortress which would be the largest they would build in colonial North America. The massive fortification not only secured British holdings in the southern Champlain Valley, but also served as the link for communication between Montreal and New York.

Today, the preserved ruins of each of the fortifications can be viewed and are explained through exhibits and a unique slide-sound program in the Visitor Center. The Site is open early May through early October, Wednesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sundays 1-5 p.m., Memorial Day, July 4th, and Labor Day. Admission is free. Special event programs are scheduled a number of weekends during the season. Additional information write: CPSHS, RD #1, Box 219, Crown Point, NY 12928, or call 518-597-3666.

TURN OF THE CENTURY: The Sherman Free Library in Port Henry was built around the turn of the century and still serves the community today.

Moriah has roots in history

Just minutes from Exit 28 on the Adirondack Northway is a cluster of resort towns that include Moriah, Port Henry and famous Bulwagga Bay. Historically, the Moriah area has roots as far back as the 1700's.

The sand beaches in this area are ideal for swimming and sunbathing and the fishing and water sport conditions in the area are considered excellent. Camping accommodations are available in Moriah at the Bulwagga Bay beach with three hundred campsites, some of the time improved, playground, hot showers and other facilities.

The Harmony House Players are a presenting theatre group located in Moriah. The memberships consists of entertainers interested in presenting family entertainment and creating a scholarship for local youths. Every Saturday night, beginning in July and ending in early September, a Gay Nineties Musical Mellerdrammer is performed at 8 pm at the Presbyterian Church Social Hall on Main Street in Port Henry.

THINGS TO DO, PASTIMES AND DIVERSIONS: visit the Carriage House Museum and Craft Shop and the Sherman Free Library; golf at the Town of Moriah Country Club on Broad Street.

HOMESUN: Part of the charm of Newcomb is old fashioned horse and buggy rides like this.

Pottersville, Newcomb and Long Lake

Pottersville has underground caves

Once considered the outskirts of the entertainment center of Schroon Lake, Pottersville was an entertainment center in its own right during the early 1900s. Now it's a quiet little village home to the Natural Stone Bridge and Caves (494-2283), located a half mile north of town on Route 9. Tours are conducted through a series of caves, underground waterways and rock formations and exhibition swims are held in July and August. Nestled in the forest around the village are campgrounds open to the public and an assortment of motels and camps stretching between Pottersville and Schroon Lake.

THINGS TO DO, PASTIMES AND DIVERSIONS: visit the New York State Forest Preserve Campground two miles north of town on Route 9 (494-2220); test the fishing action at the south basin of Schroon Lake just outside the village of Adirondack; ride the horseback trails connecting 22 lakes in the Pharaoh Lake Wilderness area;

Interpretive center to open in Newcomb

Newcomb is located just a notch off dead center in the Adirondack Park in an area noted for its prime Adirondack forests, the Santanoni Preserve, Newcomb Lake and its position at the headwaters of the Hudson River. On the west end of Route 28N, the Huntington Wildlife Forest - owned by Syracuse University - covers 15,000 acres of woodlands. Although the population of Newcomb is small (give or take 500) and somewhat laid-back, the village is well-known for its mountain vistas. At the east end of town, a scenic overlook with picnic tables and barbecues is available and the town beach facilities on the shores of Lake Harris offers a swimming area, boat launching site and picnic tables with barbecues. The state operates a campground on Lake Harris that offers both primitive and improved campsites. For the overnigher, accommodations are available at a local bed and breakfast.

Scheduled to open next year, one of the State's Adirondack Park Interpretive Centers will be located in Newcomb on the west end of town. The purpose of the Center is to inform visitors about the beauty and ecological importance of the Adirondack Park. Each Center will have miles of hiking and nature trails with trailside exhibits, audio-visual programs, lectures and demonstrations. The 280-acre at the west end of the village on which the 6,000-square foot Newcomb Center will be located includes a mile long, forested peninsula which juts out into Rich Lake. Adjacent to the Santanoni Preserve, the facilities will include a 5.5 mile hike and ski trail along an old abandoned road that penetrates the remains of a traditional Great Camp.

THINGS TO DO, PASTIMES AND DIVERSIONS: take a horsedrawn wagon ride into Santanoni, Newcomb Lake and Moose Pond with Ken Helms and the Circle 7 team (582-4191); visit the Upper Hudson Woolery (582-2455) on Route 28N for hand-woven goods, spinning wheels and other products; hike the nature trails at the Interpretive Center.

Long Lake is a popular Adirondack vacationing spot

Long Lake is nestled in a triangle formed by Blue Mountain Lake, Newcomb and Tupper Lake and is one of the most popular vacationing spots in the Adirondack Park. There seems to be something going on in Long Lake all of the time. On Route 30, the town has a public beach with picnic area and excellent swimming facilities. A swimming raft with trampoline and diving board is anchored offshore. Within splashing distance, you'll find a fleet of seaplanes operated by Helms Aero Service which regularly conducts aerial tours of the area. Down the road, Buttermilk Falls is a popular site to visit with an area maintained by the state and offering tables and fireplaces.

Right in the center of town are an assortment of restaurants and two ice cream stands. Rumcr has it that some of the best pizza available north of New York City can be found at the Cellar (624-9903) at the west end of town.

Up and down the highway there are motels, cabin rentals and for extended stays you can check with the local United National Realtor on Route 30 for a list of available rentals - both on and off the water. The Mount Sabattis Park Recreation Area, a half mile south of town is located on Routes 28N and 30 and the park offers a picnic area and two lighted tennis courts.

For outdoor exploring, the Lake Lila Primitive Area is made up of forested tracts on both sides of the road north of Long Lake. One of the public roads heading west from Route 30 leads to within a quarter of a mile of the shore of Lake Lila, now the largest lake in the Adirondacks totally surrounded by the Forest Preserve. Since motorboats are prohibited, this remains a wild lake. Of all the wild lakes, Lake Lila is probably the easiest on which to launch a canoe.

ADIRONDACK MAJESTY: At the Mount Joseph overlook near Newcomb you can see many of the Adirondack High Peaks.

THINGS TO DO, PASTIMES AND DIVERSIONS: take a scenic tour of the area aboard a seaplane from Helms Aero Service; check out the Long Lake Marina Mail Boat for a ride down the north end of the lake on a mail delivery.

NORTH HUDSON

FOUNDED IN 1848

POPULATION 179

From the tranquil and scenic beauty in North Hudson, you can take a short drive in any direction to a different Adirondack locale or activity. North Hudson's convenient location permits the vacationer to establish a center from which he can venture to mountains, streams, lakes, or historic sites, small villages or other resort towns.

Salmon spawning grounds plus trout fishing in the many lakes, ponds and rivers present a challenge for avid anglers. Just west of the Northway, The Branch cascades over beautiful Blue Ridge Falls and joins the Schroon River in North Hudson.

Quiet country roads and woodlands invite bird-watchers and hikers. Close by are the trail heads to the southern extremities of the high peaks. The extensive forest lands in North Hudson tempt campers and hunters. The Blue Ridge Road through the Boreas Country has a unique and little known attraction - Balanced Rock, a huge glacial boulder. It was left by the retreating glacier of the last Ice Age, perched precariously on a rock ledge. About a mile beyond Balanced Rock is the crossing of the Boreas River, a pleasant picnic spot with excellent trout to be had from the cold water.

Among the trees beside the Schroon River, North Hudson's recreational park offers swimming from a sandy beach, picnicking, tennis, and a children's playground.

Founded in the early 1800s, the town consisted of the hamlets of Blue Ridge, Schroon River and North Hudson. The first campsite at Sharp Bridge on Route 9 was here to serve the traveling public as it is today. The old country church on the hill still meets the spiritual needs of travelers and the native population as it did long ago.

This quiet, country setting provides a place for families, young couples and the older set. Friendly, helpful townspeople will make your stay a pleasant one. Bring your camera, bird book, fishing poles, bicycles, canoes, back packs; golf clubs, tennis racquets and downhill or cross country skis. Come unwind and enjoy the tranquility of North Hudson, a unique locale and four season community. Enjoy the serenity of nature, warm hospitality and comfortable lodging away from traffic and crowds.

Take Exit 29 off the Northway (I-87) from the south or Exit 30 from the north.

What to See in North Hudson:

- * The Falls at Blue Ridge on the Branch
- * Balance Rock * Trails to Dix Range
- * Sharp Bridge State Campsite * Elk Lake

REOPENING: North Hudson's historic fun park, Frontier Town, will be reopening this summer. The attraction is just off Exit 29 of the Adirondack Northway.

North Hudson is an Adirondack crossroad

From tranquil North Hudson, you can take a short drive in any direction to a different Adirondack location or activity. The Blue Ridge Road is a scenic back road that winds its way through the High Peaks and the small village of Blue Ridge enroute to Newcomb. Along the way you pass a little-known Adirondack attraction - Balanced Rock, a glacial boulder left by the retreating glacier of the last Ice Age, perched precariously on a rock ledge. About a mile beyond Balanced Rock is the crossing of the Boreas River, a pleasant picnic and fishing spot.

North Hudson's recreation park offers swimming, a sandy beach, picnicing, tennis and a children's playground. The first state campsite at Sharp Bridge on Route 9 was built to serve the traveling public and the old church on the hill still meets the spiritual needs of travelers and the local population.

EXITS 31 - 34

Experience North Country charm in Essex

Essex is located directly on Lake Champlain, south of the Four Brother's Lighthouse and north of the Split Rock Lighthouse. During the early years, Lake Champlain was one of the major avenues into the Adirondacks and the ferry crossing at Essex, one of four operating between New York and Vermont, brings approximately 50,000 cars a year into the Adirondack region.

The town has been listed in the National Register of History Places and encompasses the entire village and approximately 160 structures, almost all of which were built between the 1790's and 1860. Throughout the area you'll find some of the best examples of Federal, Greek Revival and Victorian architecture in the northeast. Since 1969, the Essex Community Heritage Organization has been carrying out programs in architectural preservation and assistance, architectural education, community awareness, revitalization and cultural enrichment. The organization was instrumental in putting the hamlet of Essex on the National Register of Historic Places and distributes tour guides and can arrange tours by appointment.

The Essex Inn on Main Street was built about 1810 and has been operated almost continuously since the early Lake Champlain port days. The building was extensively renovated in 1986 and has six overnight rooms including three suites with kitchen facilities.

The Adirondack Art Association in Essex consists of members who interested in the arts in the North Country. The Association provides a gallery for the exhibition and sale of artists' work and three shows during the summer months. Its gallery is located in a 1867 schoolhouse.

THINGS TO DO, PASTIMES AND DIVERSIONS: Visit the Belden Noble Memorial Library on Main Street and the Old Dock House Restaurant and Marina near the ferry landing; take a ride across Lake Champlain on the Lake Champlain Ferry;

Westport: Where Lake Champlain meets the Adirondacks

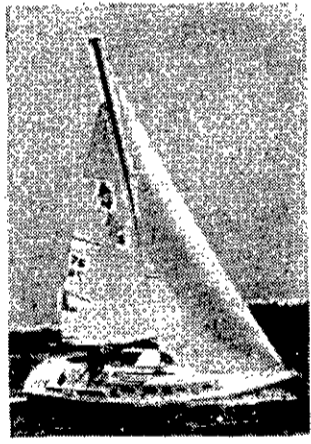

Ringed on the west by the Adirondack Mountains and on the east by the Green Mountains of Vermont, Westport is nestled into a bay on Lake Champlain. Settled nearly 225 years ago, the village has numerous century old homes on its side streets which can be seen during a walking tour of the village that begins at the old railroad depot and follows a route under the railroad bridge, past the newly renovated Westport Hotel and down onto Main Street in the center of town. The Essex County Fairgrounds is located in Westport and during the spring, summer and fall months host a variety of events, including harness racing and the annual county fair. The fair features agricultural, and horticultural exhibits along with rides and games and evening entertainment. The Westport Marina is located directly on the lake with an excellent restaurant suitable for boater-diners.

During the summer months, the historic D&H train station houses the Depot Theatre which showcases professional actors, musicians and performers. The Westport Country Club is open to the public and offers eighteen holes of rolling hills and fairways. For boating enthusiasts, you can rent anything from a small runabout to a large sailboat at the local marina or trailer your own boat into town and launch it from the state launching site on Route 22 on the north end of town.

There are three unique accommodation alternatives in Westport, The Inn On The Library Lawn on Main Street, The Westport Hotel across from the fairgrounds and The Gray Goose Bed and Breakfast on North Main Street.

THINGS TO DO, PASTIMES AND DIVERSIONS: attend the Summer Concerts on the Library Lawn; visit the arts and crafts shops scattered around town, including North Country Crafts, an association of local craftspeople with work on display at their shop on the corner across from the Library lawn and The Westport Trading Company and the Wood N' Nichol Gallery on Route 22.

Lake Placid Region

Lake Placid hosted the Olympic Winter Games in 1932 and 1980 and the area offers a wide variety of activities for the summer and winter visitor. The village's Main Street is lined with international and unique shops and boutiques offering everything from clothing to postcards.

Just outside Lake Placid on Route 86 in Wilmington is High Falls Gorge with three, 700-foot cascading waterfalls. The property has self-guided tours lasting about 45-minutes, a rock and gift shop and restaurant.

Right downtown Lake Placid is the Olympic Center Ice Arena, the largest ice complex of its kind in the world. There are four ice surfaces housed under one roof, including the 1980 Olympic Arena. The Center regularly schedules entertainment and events along with skating exhibits. The Olympic Ski Jump Complex is open yearround and offers elevator rides to the top of the 90-meter jump. Regularly scheduled events and competitions are held, including freestyle aerial competition on a plastic-covered ramp where freestylers soar into the air, do a series of flips and twists and land skis first in the water.

The Olympic Sports Complex on Mount Van Hoevenberg is open yearround and offers a trolley car ride to the start area one mile up the mountain. Walking tours are also available that include the mile-long Olympic track and its luge run. Films of winter competition, displays of bobsledding and luge equipment and historic photographs are presented regularly. The Olympic tour is a self-guided motor tour of the Olympic facilities. Included are the Whiteface Veterans Memorial Highway and Chairlift Ride, the Olympic Jumping Complex, the Ski Jumps and the Sports Complex.

Lake Placid Carriage rides, located at the intersection of Main Street and Saranac Avenue, offers carriage rides around Mirror Lake and you can always visit the Whiteface Mountain Chairlift in Wilmington that takes visitors up and over the ski trails used during the 1980 Olympics. The ride goes up to the midstation stopover, then up again to the top of the 3,600 feet Little Whiteface. It takes about two hours with sightseeing stops enroute. The Whiteface Veterans Memorial Highway offers a drive to the top of 4,867-foot Whiteface Mountain, New York's fifth highest peak and the only one of the 46 Adirondack high peaks accessible by car. The highway is eight miles long with an average eight percent grade and stops about five hundred feet from the summit. The final portion of the trip is a climb via a stone stairway or a ride on the elevator - up a five hundred foot shaft cut through the heart of the mountain and reached by a four hundred foot tunnel.

Lake Placid Boat Rides at the marina conducts hour-long cruises covering sixteen miles through islands and by the stately homes and estates of the area.

Elizabethtown is the Essex County seat

Elizabethtown is the county seat of Essex County located twenty five miles from Lake Placid. Surrounded by the Adirondack Mountains, accommodations are available at many of the motels and bed and breakfasts in the area, including the Old Mill Studio located in a building which operated as a sawmill in the early 1800's. In the 1920's it was converted into a dine and dance resort. In 1932, Wayman Adams, a portrait painter, purchased the property and the Old Mill Art School was formed. The school ran for 34 years, housing at times up to sixty students. There is still studio space available for artists visiting the Adirondacks. Camping facilities can be found at the state-owned Lincoln Pond and privately-owned campgrounds. Elizabethtown is also the home of the Maplewood Music Festival, a Baroque music ensemble that performs around the Adirondacks and the nearby Meadowmount School of Music in Lewis.

The river running through town is stocked by both the county and the state with a variety of trout and the DEC has provided ample parking for visiting fishermen.

The Adirondack Center Museum is sponsored by the Essex County Historical Society to collect, preserve, and exhibit items connected with the history, growth, and folklore of the area. Several permanent exhibit rooms display artifacts from early settlers, dolls, trade and craft tools. The museum is a research center for Adirondack historians and genealogical searchers.

The Essex County Historical Society's Colonial Gardens are located behind the Adirondack Center Museum and was conceived in 1955 and built by the Society. Many features of the garden have been taken from famous historical houses and gardens here in the United States and in England. Entering the garden you may sit on a hand-hammered iron bench which is a duplicate of one on which George Washington sat at his estate overlooking the Potomac River. In the rear of the garden you might be able to read the time from an 18th century sundial used to tell the time of day at Kirkby Mallory Hall near Leicester, England. Other 18th century pieces include the lead embossed cistern and dolphin which came from the garden at Barn Hall, Surrey, England. Originally, the cisterns were used to catch rain water for drinking and washing as well as garden ornaments. The lead peacock formed by the sundial and now in the museum is of the same century and comes from Taunton, England. Completing the formal garden setting is a summer house located to the left as you enter the garden. The main point of the Garden, of course, is the flowers. About half of the beds are planted so that the colors are massed in a way to further set off their beauty. The Essex County-Adirondack Garden Club cares for the garden and their objective is to conserve the plants, shrubs and trees native to the region. Admission is free

Take a tour of Plattsburgh

The Historic Walking Tour starts at the hub of Plattsburgh's City Hall. The tour covers a vital portion of the city, including buildings already on the National Register of Historic Places and those nominated for placement. Information on the tour, a brochure complete with a map and references on thirty-two 19th century buildings, is available in the Clinton County Historical Museum, located on the second floor of City Hall.

Starting at City Hall, the tourist is directed to Cumberland Avenue over the new Smith Weed bridge. There one notices five homes, including the Kent-Delord House, circa 1797. The house was the headquarters for the British during the War of 1812. Nearby is a home which was first owned by Charles Platt, then Benjamin Graves, a Revolutionary War veteran and a body servant to George Washington for three years. The Smith M. Weed home is just up the street. Weed, a six term assemblyman, was instrumental in public improvement, including the linkage of the Lake Champlain area with New York City via railway.

Traversing back across the Smith Weed Bridge and through City Hall Plaza, where typical 19th century architecture abounds, a quick left puts the walker on Bridge Street. Nearby, late 19th century industrial architecture is seen, including the original foundry and machine shop built during the development of the area known as the industrial pocket of Plattsburgh. The owner of the foundry, William H. Hartwell, helped later establish the First National Bank (1863).

Just up the street is the Benjamin Mooers home. A local sheriff, assemblyman and senator, Mooers was a lieutenant in the Revolutionary War and a Major General in the War of 1812. During the Battle of Plattsburgh, the building was open to General Macomb. A British cannonball came in through an open door and lodged in the south wall, where it remains today.

A lot of the homes on the street are good illustrations of Greek Revival Style. Looking east, the former Delaware and Hudson railroad station building looms stately. The original building, constructed in 1886, reclaimed a swamp, greatly improving the area. An excellent example of Victorian architecture, the station, now a restaurant, follows the popular concept of being a gateway to the city and a monument to its civic architecture.

At 5A-B Macomb Street is the George W. Webster house, noteworthy because it features an eclectic combination of architectural styles, with unusual twin gabling facading. At the end of the street is a home built by Bentley R. Sherman. A typical example of Italianate Style is not frequently found in Plattsburgh, the owners once entertained President Ulysses S. Grant. Ending the tour around the corner on MacDonough Street, Sherman's original home in one of the best examples of Gothic Cottage Style in the city.

The Clinton County Historical Museum is open daily year round from 1 to 4 p.m., except Wednesday and Thursday by appointment. Closed to the public on holidays, the museum features self-guided tours, with group tours welcome. The museum exhibits the area's history from earliest recorded times (circa 1600) to the present day through its collections of paintings, maps, furniture, domestic and agricultural implements. A diorama of the battles of Valcour (1776) and FEATURE ATTRACTION: The Kent-Delord House on Cumberland Avenue in Plattsburgh looks exactly as it did in 1814 when it housed officers of the British Empire during the War of 1812. It is currently a museum and is open to the public.

Plattsburgh (1814) explains Lake Champlain's strategic importance. An 18th century bronze cannon and other under archaeological discoveries highlight this period. In addition, special mining exhibits are regularly presented on North Country themes, including iron mining and other 19th century industries.

Point Au Roche offers vacation variety

Point Au Roche is located within the 1,000 Island State Park region in the town of Beekmantown, about three miles north of Plattsburgh. The park itself consists of 840 acres of land. Prominent features of the park are sandy beaches, three scenic peninsulas, four bays and nature area, all located on Lake Champlain.

The park is classified as scenic, allowing for a variety of recreational uses. In April of 1985, ground was broken and construction began on a day use facility and a year later the opening ceremony was held. The day use area consists of a bath house with shower, a grass sun lawn, a 60-foot guarded swimming area open from the end of June through Labor Day, a contact station with toll booth and information center and a picnic area with 200 tables and 100 barbeque grills. Also available is a 1.5 mile paved recreational path which leads to the Outdoor Interpretive Center, two parking areas, a ball field and playground. A 60 foot boat dock serves boaters on Deep Bay with overnight mooring facilities. No reservations are necessary and all facilities are available only on a first-come, first-served basis.

The Outdoor Interpretive Center is open daily except holiday and admission is free. Special evening programs are held periodically. There are four trail systems in the Center, with 9.1 miles of hiking trails, and all are clearly marked. During the winter months, 8.4 miles of cross-country ski trails are open. Daily, staff-led activities are regularly scheduled at the Center and include nature and walking tours, special theme activities, demonstration, hikes and recreational activities.

NEW PARK: Point Au Roche State Park is one of the newest facilities in the state.

Champlain and Rouses Point

The Champlain-Rouses Point exit is tucked into the northern corner of the state, just south of the Canadian border. Visitors can enjoy the lakefront vistas of Main Street in Rouses Point or the local marina. The village sports a definite French-English flavor, thanks to the Canadian presence and visitors from across the border. Local restaurants offer a variety of dining options and small businesses and shops dot the downtown district. Just west of the village, off Route 11, is the North Country Golf Club (297-5614), one of the longest and most challenging courses in the North Country. Adding a little bit of history to the area is Fort Montgomery, destined to be one of the major tourist centers for the area. The many side streets offer well-kept homes and manicured lawns. Lake Champlain is the area's major attraction.
