Vandals plague parks

By Bob Hagyard

Twelve years ago, New Scotland established its main town park at Swift Road. A few years ago, the first satellite park was set up on the grounds of the old schoolhouse at Feura Bush.

The parks pleased a lot of New Scotlanders; this is still a town of a half-dozen scattered settlements without that many places for children to play. But that same dispersed quality that brought the parks about is causing headaches for officials responsible for keeping them up. Vandals are tearing up the park facilities as fast as they can be replaced.

Last Wednesday, Town Board members mulled over a list of more than a dozen incidents and wondered how to curb the damage.

"The obvious thing is to call the sheriff's department and ask for more patrols," said Supervisor Herbert Reilly. "The trouble is, these people are usually on foot or on mopeds, and when the sheriff drives in with the lights on — well, (the vandals) may not know whether 'sheriff' is spelled with two r's or two f's. They know what those lights mean, and they're gone."

Over the past 13 months or so — since Memorial Day 1988 — four flags have been stolen from both parks, a picnic table was smashed up at Feura Bush, and a tennis net was filched from one of the Swift Road courts (since recovered). Then over 40 concrete blocks were stolen from the Feura Bush facility and floodlights were smashed at the building and parking lot at Swift Road. Garage doors, toilets, and roofs have been trashed and recreational equipment stolen.

The town has no police force of its own. It relies partly on the State Police substation in Gunderland, whose coverage area overlaps into the Voorheesville area; the State Police substation at Selkirk, whose area includes Feura Bush; and the Albany County Sheriff's Department office in Voorheesville.

The supervisor agreed to contact the sheriff's office. The next morning provided him with something

Moratorium plans highlight Ritchko-Ringler contest

August debate being arranged for GOP candidates

By Mark Stuart

Two proposed moratorium laws — each drafted by candidates running in the Sept. 12 Republican primary for Bethlehem town supervisor — will be discussed by the Bethlehem Town Board tonight at 7:30.

The latest proposal for a development moratorium was submitted Friday to Bethlehem Town Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick by Councilman Sue Ann Ritchko. An earlier proposal was submitted to the Bethlehem Planning Board on May 3 by Planning Board Chairman Kenneth Ringler. The planning board tabled Ringler's proposal on June 20 pending further analysis and review. Ringler's proposal will be discussed by the planning board at its regular meeting next Tuesday, July 18.

Ritchko and Ringler are facing each other in the Republican primary for the supervisor nomination. The moratorium proposals confirm that growth and development in Bethlehem is a primary campaign issue this year. However, the two candidates are also campaigning vigorously on other fronts and are busy raising funds.

Sue Ann Ritchko

Ken Ringler

Meanwhile, the Bethlehem Democrats have yet to announce a candidate for supervisor, but the party's chairman said Tuesday that he expects to have a candidate.

The two moratorium proposals differ in the type of growth that would be affected. Ritchko's proposal would prohibit residential subdivisions of five lots or more and commercial development of more than 7,260 square feet. Ringler's proposal would prohibit residential subdivisions of 25 lots or more but allow commercial and Planned Residential or Commercial Districts.

Ringler's proposal, titled the "Interim Development Limitations Act," would remain in effect for 12 months. Ritchko's proposal would be an 18-month moratorium.

Ritchko is a member of the recently formed Land Use Management Advisory Council, which is charged with developing a town-wide master plan. "I believe a moratorium is vital during the LUMAC review process," Ritchko said. "How can we have LUMAC coming up

Realtors move for dismissal

Orchard Park hearing adjourned

By Bob Hagyard

The state Department of State hearing on the Roberts Realty/ Orchard Park case will resume on Aug. 7 at New Scotland Town Hall.

At that time, Administrative Law Judge Felix Neals will rule on a defense motion to dismiss all charges on grounds of lack of evidence. Roberts' realtor Karen Curren is accused of concealing information of groundwater contamination from prospective home buyers in the Orchard Park subdivision near Voorheesville. Roberts' President Hugh Roberts, Vice President David Newell and Guilderland branch manager Lucia DeDe are co-respondents because of their roles as Curren's superiors.

If Judge Neals decides not to dismiss charges, attorneys David Walsh, representing Curren, and Susannah Fich, representing the three company officers, will begin their defense. That would take three to four days at least, they told the judge. Town Hall has been reserved for four days, Aug. 7-10.

Curren, DeDe testify

Curren was Roberts' broker for Orchard Park from April 7, 1986, until Feb. 17, 1987. Back on the stand for the second time last Thursday, she said she first heard of the methane problems at Orchard Park on Halloween night in 1986 — specifically, at the 8 Elizabeth Dr. home of Donald and Sandra Maselli.

Curren testified she "immediately" notified her branch manager, DeDe, of the well water contamination, then contacted C.T. Male, a Latham engineering firm. "They told me that if there was a serious occurrence, they could vent (water wells) as a precaution — but they knew of no problem (at Orchard Park)" she added.

The Maselli water problem seemed "an isolated occurrence" at the time, Curren said. She contacted Steven Lukowski, county health department director of environmental services, and urged Sandra Maselli to do likewise. "The health department seemed to be much more responsive to the actual home buyer," Curren testified.

But she said, "If anyone mentioned (methane) to me, I would tell them to call the health department." Asked by Hayman if she made further inquiries, Curren said no: "We thought they had the expertise in that area."

The Meselli contract, she added, included an addendum in closing provisions, which provided up to $200 in case the well needed to be vented, with Orchard Park builder Peter Baltis underwriting the cost, she said. In January 1987, Gilboa Well Drillers vented all wells of homes along Elizabeth Drive, "except the seven last houses which were under study," she said.

"Did you actually see a vented well?" Hayman asked.

"I saw one in early 1987," Curren said.

Curren said she was aware of iron problems with well water "from the beginning of the project. I did openly state that in some areas of Voorheesville there is a problem with hard water."

Later she testified: "I told prospective home buyers it might be possible they would need some Culligan." DeDe said she first heard of the methane problem from Curren Nov. 1, and that she, too, knew nothing of its dangers. "I just knew it was a gas," DeDe said. "(Curren) said she was going to look into it further."

"Did you instruct her on what to do?" Hayman asked DeDe.

"When you're dealing with someone of Karen's caliber, you don't give instructions," DeDe said.

Beyond speaking with Curren, DeDe did not recall "inquiring whether there was a problem or not." She said Curren reported to her she was "frustrated" and "felt she was not getting any good answers," and remembers telling the saleswoman to "keep your eyes and ears open."

Neither Walsh nor Fich offered any questions in cross-examination.

If found guilty of concealing information on well water contamination, the four respondents could lose their realtor licenses and be subject to fines.

Airport cleanup expensive

By Patricia Dumas

It will cost Albany County $6 million to have an engineering system to prevent airplane de-icing fluids from seeping into the Colonie water supply.

County officials plan to meet the cost through a bond issue, slated to be authorized by the county legislature at its July 10 meeting.

The legislature will act on a recommendation by its finance and mass transit committee, following up on a study by the engineering firm of Clough, Harbour and Associates. The firm was authorized by the legislature last month to carry out the study in order to comply with state regulations to stop the contamination. Plans call for having the system in operation by Oct. 1 before cold weather requires the de-icing procedures at the airport. Last year, state environmentalists found that glycol de-icing fluids were seeping into Shaker Creek and ultimately into the Mohawk River which is part of the water supply for some Colonie residents.

The project to be funded through the bond issue would divert the glycol fluids into a lagoon so that they could be pumped into an Albany waste water treatment plant and separated from drinking water.

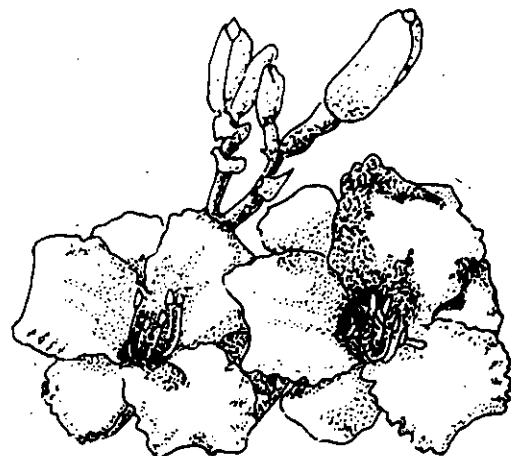

Some of the bond issue debt eventually may be paid for by airlines depending on lease negotiations, officials said.

Although the bond issue is expected to have bi-partisan support from the county legislators, they are questioning the county's future responsibility for the debt because the airport may be sold.

County Executive James Coyne last year proposed selling the airport to the Capital District Transportation Authority (CDTA) but negotiations bogged down. Coyne recently said the county should keep the airport but then later said he is still considering selling the airport to the Capital District Transportation Authority.

Up in the air

The fate, for better or worse, of the area's airport remains up in the air after six decades of being kicked around with what the aviation industry would regard as tourist accommodations.

Albany County, which received title to the airport a quarter-century ago in a sweetheart deal with the city of Albany, wants to be rid of its headaches and to pocket a tidy little sum in the bargain. For a year now, there have been talks between the county executive and the Capital District Transit Authority. In that arrangement, CDTA would take over the airport and try to bring it up to first-class status, though the authority's experience with aviation consists of running an occasional bus past the terminal. Views on the feasibility of this transfer vary, and now snags in the negotiations are producing talk of ultimatums, alternatives, and other menacing noises.

One suggested alternative is to sell the whole enterprise, public utility though it is, to one or another private entrepreneur to maintain, develop and operate.

We believe that to most reasonable citizens that idea is full of holes. Too much is at stake to relinquish the airport's future to the whims of a developer, accountable to no one.

Speak up, candidates

The prospects that the two aspirants for the Republican nomination for Bethlehem's supervisor will meet in a fact-to-face debate add a nice spice to the local political stew.

(Once upon a time, an editorial writer would have observed that "the political pot is boiling," but we forswear old clichés in favor of newer ones.)

As and when the debate does come about, let us hope that it will contain some of the characteristics of old-style confrontations, with challenges instead of platitudes; rebuttals counter-arguments; initiatives and even surprises rather than stale answers to staged questions. We trust that the impartial moderator would be moderate in intervening as to time limits and bruising repartee. Let them talk to each other, however pointedly.

After all, the contest is an important one for all residents of the town, and we deserve to see the

Editorials

Of the various possibilities to date, we like the sound of the regional authority to be created specifically for acquiring and operating the airport. A bill to accomplish this was passed by the State Senate before it adjourned, on June 30. Further approval during that session was too late, of course, but it could be live and real prospect for the next legislative session.

Some are complaining of the "politics" this action involves, in that a Republican majority on the new body's board can be envisioned. But politics has been the name of the game all along. Albany County's executive and legislative Democratic majority are solidly in control now, and this also currently is the case with the CDTA's board. At least, the Senate's version, as initiated by Senator Joe Bruno of Rensselaer County, would provide for bipartisan membership on the board of control, which is more than the county and CDTA will offer.

stuff of which our prospective supervisor is made — when the going gets tough, as they used to say. Maybe Bethlehem could show the national political parties, the LWV, and panelist/pundits how a real debate can be held.

Meanwhile, the significance of the Republican primary in September is also pointed up as Bethlehem's Democrats approach the filing deadline with no known candidate for supervisor. The vacant line would be disappointing, for a genuine contest in November would be welcome.

The current outlook must be construed as a reflection on the party's viability in the town, despite the increase in enrollment figures. Perhaps a strategy may be to concentrate on other town board members instead, but the real potential in this remains a question-mark.

Our LP records

Notes on prosperity and prospects:

Construction in the Town of Colonie last year totaled nearly $100 million in value. Among all municipalities in the Capital District, this figure was surpassed only by the City of Albany's.

In Bethlehem, which ranked fifth on the long roster of cities, towns and villages, the total value of construction was over $40 million. Noteworthy in this respect was a 65 percent increase over the previous year, and a jump in relative position from ninth to fifth among the communities. In addition to Colonie and Albany, only the towns of Clifton Park and Queensbury (Warren County) showed larger construction totals. Such cities as Schenectady (seventh) and Troy (fifteenth) trailed.

In Colonie, the increase over 1987 was nearly 28 percent, accomplished through 631 permits. As was the case in the previous year, this was by far the largest number of permits — more than twice the total in any other municipality. The value of commercial construction again was second only to Albany's which remained swollen by the large developments downtown and at the medical center.

Bethlehem's permits were relatively outstanding in the residential area, where the value was twice that of commercial permits. Interestingly, the $122,000 value of an average single-family home in the town was surpassed only by much smaller communities — the town of Glenville and Sand Lake and the village of Menands, where the combined total of new residences was only half that of Bethlehem. The $122,000 figure, incidentally, represented an increase of more than one-third over the $89,000 reported for 1987.

The figures are the latest available, and are encouraging indeed. Obviously, in order to be even more significant, the ability of the region and the separate municipalities to sustain these levels of growth will be watched closely. The data were compiled by the Capital District Business Review on information from more than 100 communities in 10 counties.

Words for the week

Pundit: One who gives opinions in an authoritative manner; an authority, a critic. Also, a learned person, a teacher.

Platitude: A banal, stale, or trite remark; the state of being dull or insipid.

Pithy: Having substance and point; tersely cogent.

World-class drum corps practice

Editor, The Spotlight:

Several community-support businesses and organizations made it possible to bring to Bethlehem High School, Saturday, July 8, four of the best senior drum and bugle corps in the United States, for an afternoon of practice. This was a new experience for the Town of Bethlehem, and I would like to give recognition to those directly involved.

First, all of this was made possible through the cooperation of the Bethlehem Central School District and Assistant Superintendent for Business Franz Zwicklbauer, who made the school grounds available to these enterprising 400 elite musicians.

The cost of bringing these world-class drum corps to Bethlehem High School was shared equally by the National Savings Bank, Brockley's Delmar Tavern, Attorneys DeAngelis, Kaplowitz, Rice & Murphy and Johnson's Stationery, Inc.

Orange beverage and cheese danish were provided to corps members and staff to prevent heat exhaustion by McDonald's of Elsmere management and their very able representative, Joyce McCann. This contribution was substantial considering it was extended to all four hundred members.

Finally, a committee of volunteers, contacted and arranged by Ann Leonard, president of the Bethlehem Music Association, provided the willing services of Eric Brown, Josh Vogel, Dave Sodergren and Megan Dorgan.

Bethlehem High School attendants Michael Myer and Jeff Summers, made this sizable undertaking a complete success story.

My many thanks to all of the above from the corps directors, staff and the marching members who were very grateful for their warm reception and have expressed a desire to return to the Town of Bethlehem again next year. Thanks to all who shared a part in the corps preparation for the main event, which took place that evening at Blecker Stadium and was a smashing success.

I found "Uncle Dudley's" remarks concerning Lord George Augustus Howe, buried at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in downtown Albany, quite interesting. If this remarkable young man, killed during the French and Indian War, had lived — we might all still be Englishmen (or persons).

UNCLE DUDLEY

Elle's profile in courage

For lots of years, the voice of Elle Pankin was a very familiar one in the homes of most residents of the Capital District. She was widely and happily known for the long hours of broadcasting she did on WGY, the talks she had with thousands of call-in people who became her unseen friends.

Elle's voice has been absent from the airwaves for many months now while she has gone through several stages of recovery from a debilitating disease, polymyocytis. Most of her recovery and rehabilitation has been achieved over an extended period as a patient at Sunnyview Hospital.

I had an opportunity of talking with her not long ago, and found that her interest in her own complete recuperation is rivalled by an outgoing concern for Sunnyview. She thinks that the 60-year-old not-for-profit institution in Schenectady is not sufficiently recognized for its good works.

"It's an incredible experience — it's so nurturing here," she told me. "Everything is done as a team — by the nursing staff, the occupational therapist, the physical therapist, the social work department people. They're just wonderful.

"You have to realize that at one stage I couldn't even turn onto my side in bed — totally disabled. They saw me through. They were so attentive — they noticed everything, were very concerned about every single thing.

"When people go into a hospital, what anxieties they suffer — alone. That's far from true at Sunnyview. My incredibly supportive therapist helped me in overcoming terrifying fears; she allowed me to express these things, let me feel that it was all right to cry when I needed to.

CONSTANT READER

A Rose by another name

I'll be trying to accomplish some catching up on a few pieces of recent reading. Even in some publications dated "June," which means they aren't very timely, no matter how worthy they were in their day.

Let me mention first of all Sports Illustrated, which consistently has been doing a first-class job of keeping on top of the Pete Rose matter for the past few months. This attention began back in the early spring, when the magazine broke some of the developing aspects of the compulsive gambling that the Reds' manager was carrying on over the past several years. But the issue I have in mind is the one of July 3, which featured a 12-page cover story that told it like it is (or was). Worth looking up, even if the various court maneuvers take the play away from the basic essentials. These include that he bet a great deal of money (thousands upon thousands day after day) through gamblers, hustlers and crooks, the like of which has been enough to earn banishment for unluckier sports such as Léo Durocher. Rose has conceded these things to be true, despite his denials about baseball wagers.

The same issue has a medium-voltage piece about the athlete named Deion Sanders, who played baseball this spring with the local

"But the distressing aspect, all in all, was that I'd never known that such a place as Sunnyview existed. Now I feel like shouting, 'Everyone find out about Sunnyview Hospital.' It's truly a remarkable place, very different from 'regular' hospitals.

"I found it a very humbling experience. It can put a lot of life into perspective. But at the same time you have your own anxiety, pain, and misery to deal with. I needed that comforting place."

If you're ill, people want you to recover to ease their own concern.

What emerges from Elle's conversation shapes itself as a true profile in courage — a functioning, competent person struck down terrifyingly, but struggling to survive while admitting the unsuspected terrors. And, throughout, also understanding and admiring the people and the institution who have come to her rescue. She mentions that Sunnyview is one of only three similar institutions in the state, one of only ten in the country. She refers to it as "a very special place," and quite surprisingly describes it as "a camp atmosphere."

"Every day when you get up you have to get dressed, because you have to go to all your therapies. You can't just stay in bed and feel sick — you must get up and do your work.

"It helped me, the system they have of sending people to visit you who've had the same problems, to bring you support. It's good to see someone who's walking and working and has come out of it — very encouraging. I had been devastated and bewildered by what happened to me. And as a result of my experience I'm markedly changed as a person. So some of us get together and talk. I do think that's a hallmark of modern society — grouping together according to certain types of needs. Support groups are important at Sunnyview. In fact, that seems to be a motto: the support mechanism to help you get well.

"I have learned that progress can be very small things. You develop a perspective on your own advancement that is very different from the one you had out in 'the real world.'

"I can even cry about how nice people have been to me — I'm very sentimental about it. I've learned many subtle things at Sunnyview — a lot of lessons about life that you can't necessarily explain or translate.

"It took me a long time to begin to understand. I was being urged to 'think positively.' Here I am, going down the tubes, I thought, and I'm supposed to think positively! I couldn't do it all at once. You can't do it just when people want you to.

"When you're sick people want you to get well right away because other people do not have tolerance for your illness, for your mishap, or whatever it is. It's just a fact of human nature, I guess — everyone else is 'very uncomfortable when you're not well.

"I'm here because of one of the best-kept secrets in this part of the country — the extraordinary care at Sunnyview. For people, like me, who have been touched by it, when we have a chance to speak about it, we just glow."

Associating with gamblers has cost others a great deal.

able suspicion that Sanders' sudden romance with baseball is simply a bargaining ploy" when his agent deals with pro football clubs. I suppose that could be — but it would be cynical, wouldn't it, in a manner befitting no true young hero.

If you care for mildly funny little anecdotes, try the collection that runs several pages in this issue of SI, titled "The Boys on the Bus," because all the yarns are about occurrences on one or another team bus ride.

Elsewhere: In the June issue of USAir, the airline magazine, I liked "The World of Chautauqua," with some nice prose and agreeable pictures about the "characteristically American institution" way out in southwest New York State, home country of such eminent Americans as Lucille Ball and Stan Lundine, to name but a couple, along with such all-American products as Concord grapes and the world's finest peanut butter.

In the June issue of Vanity Fair, there were decent articles on "The Secret Life of John le Carre," the pen name of an Englishman, David Cornwell; and "The Blooming of Margaret Thatcher," along with all the fluff and puffery about people named Kim Basinger, Phyllis McGuire and Harold Roth-wax, not to mention Princess Grace's wedding. Yes, that Princess Grace.

World Monitor, which I have mentioned before as among the top magazines now being published anywhere in this country, has a number of worthwhile articles (June), among which I liked best the one by Elizabeth Janeway on "Who Says Old?" She writes on the theme, "Many nations are finding a new resource — as well as, new needs — in the rapidly growing number of people who flourish far beyond 'retirement' age." Here's a particularly pithy Quote:

"How can we alter the 'either or' attitude that demands that senior experience be sacrificed to the right of the young to jobs? In some fashion we need to devise a

Point of View

The airline and air-passenger facility now known as the Albany County Airport but which is in reality a regional asset and responsibility should be recognized as such — and as promptly as possible.

The airport is in a deplorable condition, and in fact has been neglected for many years under its present and previous ownership and management. To catch up with, and then to keep pace with, the rightful expectations of the hundreds of thousands of residents of the area to whom it is "the airport," it must be upgraded. It must receive the respectful attention of qualified, non-partisan proprietorship. It must become prepared to fully meet the ever-increasing demand for adequate service for both individual travelers and the numerous air transport companies.

That level of service applies, of course, to the traveling public intent on comfort, convenience, and safety, in keeping with their personal requirements. It is no less applicable to the special requirements of businesses which are so dependent on the existence of reliable service equal to the best they would receive anywhere else in the country. One obvious penalty for continuing failure to provide that kind of quality air travel here would be a withdrawal of businesses locally and unwillingness of other leading business enterprises to try to do business here. We will all be hurt if we do not make adequate provision for proper air travel at this key location.

Legislation which passed the Senate would establish a regional, bipartisan board to upgrade and run the airport

In order to achieve these goals, a major first step has been taken. It is my present aim to enlist broad support for this initiative.

Last month, I introduced a detailed bill in the State Senate which has provisions making possible the establishment of a new Capital District Regional Airport Authority. This creative legislation was promptly approved by the Senate. The next important step, of course, is to obtain approval similarly by the State Assembly when next the State Legislature is in session. Circumstances there are quite different politically, but I am optimistic that the advantages of the regional authority will by then have become so evident that we will be able to enroll backing there on a solid bipartisan basis.

Let me review briefly the provisions of this important legislation. First, it authorizes the purchase of the airport from Albany County, and then provides for the planning and development of such facilities as experience may show are priorities for upgrading of the airport.

The authority itself would have representatives of four counties — Albany, Schenectady, Rensselaer, and Saratoga. The responsibility for bringing the airport up to speed would be shared by each of the counties which would have the opportunity (at their option) of taking part.

Each participating county would be allowed two representatives on the authority. One appointment in each county would be made by the county executive/administrator, and the other by the chairman of the county legislature. And the governor would appoint one member. They would all serve without compensation except for certain necessary expenses on their part.

The legislation that was passed consisted of 32 pages of detail that takes into account all manner of potential aspects of acquiring, planning, developing, constructing, owning, and operating airport facilities. In order to finance its projects, the authority would be enabled to borrow, to issue bonds and notes, and of course to levy and collect fares, tolls, and fees. County appropriations also are envisioned as one means of financing under certain conditions.

As for the political composition of the authority's membership, this is wholly unpredictable in the future, though there should be reasonable expectation of public-spirited bipartisanship. The terms of members would be for four years, other than in an initial period in which the duration of terms would be staggered. I see good way by which the industrialized world can adjust the structures of society and the economy to the increased longevity that has blessed them and cursed them during the 20th century. What is the 21st century going to do about it? Can it somehow turn waste into gold?"

Ms. Janeway writes of her own experience, when asked by a ticket-taker, "Are you a senior?"; she answered, "Yes, but there are days when I don't feel like it, and this is one of them." She adds: "There are more of us 'young-old' every year — vigorous, healthy, mentally alert and still young in outlook."

Matters of Opinion

Howe's loss

He is the only English lord buried in all of North America! His memorial in Westminster Cathedral isn't sure where that is... and carved in stone it states, "buried somewhere in North America"! And, it's right down on State Street. There is speculation that if he had lived long enough, he would have been King of England.

In any event, he was one of the first professional British soldiers that did not "look down" at Rogers' Rangers and he tried to get his troops to fight from behind trees, darken their faces and bright buttons with mud, just like the Indians. He was beloved by the citizens of Albany, and they were quite saddened at their loss. There is a small memorial to him on Diamond Island in Lake George where he camped with his men on their way to attack Ft.

Vox Pop

Ticonderoga, where he was mortally wounded.

We are so blessed with history in this area—a visit to lovely St. Peter's, to see Lord Howe, Queen Anne's silver sent over in 1712, the flags of the early colonists, and the lovely stained glass windows (one called the most beautiful in our country) is well worth a short visit. Best of all, it's free, and right on State St., next to the Hilton Hotel.

State's infrastructure responsibilities cited

Editor, The Spotlight:

The Spotlight is to be complimented for last week's insightful article by Dennis Sullivan concerning future prospects for application of "impact fees" from developers to defray infrastructure costs of local governments.

Allow me to add a point that I made during an interview with Mr. Sullivan when he researched the article.

The pressing need to plan, finance, and develop highways to keep pace with area growth is obvious to all. What we must not forget or overlook, however, is the continuing failure of the State of New York to adequately maintain and improve existing arteries within our town. Indeed, it is a problem that cannot be resolved by "impact fees" since it would be difficult to apply them to state infrastructure.

The root of the problem, of course, is the state's bankrupt policy of relying on bonding for highway maintenance and development. We've bought into one bond issue after another since the late 1970's. Other than accumulating a large debt, it has resulted in precious little commitment of resource to state highways within communities.

Until the State of New York adopts a dedicated highway fund to achieve a dependable revenue source from highway-user taxes and fees (as has been done in 47 other states), major routes within our town, including Delaware and Kenwood Avenues and others, will continue to be wanting (not to mention the need for connecting state arteries).

That is why it is important for us to pursue a dual approach of applying impact fees to the fullest extent practicable, while also pressing the state Legislature for a more sane method of financing state infrastructure. We can't afford to make major progress with our own local roads only to find more gridlock at the intersection of a state highway.

Also, as the article clearly revealed, legal issues surrounding the use of impact fees remain sticky at best. The state Legislature must clarify the powers and prerogatives of local governments in order to expedite application of impact fees where appropriate.

These are messages that I urge all residents to convey to the leaders of state government.

The day bureaucracy rained on her party

Editor, The Spotlight:

Today I had the kind of experience with the Bethlehem town government and school district that I would consider unbelievably funny—if it hadn't made me so angry.

My daughter, who is 5-years-old today, was opening birthday presents with four of her friends and her three siblings in the playground behind Elmsmere School when Dorothy Whitney, the principal, ordered us all to leave. We had set up a picnic table at the side of the school with birthday cake, lemonade, watermelon and the like, and so I was stunned, to say the least.

By her account, the reason we had to leave was that the town Parks and Recreation Department had a playground program in progress and no one else is allowed on the playground during that time. This was news to me, since the town had not given notice of this policy and since my own children have participated in playground programs at Hamagrael, where children other than the small number enrolled in the program have been allowed also to enjoy the facilities on lovely summer days. Also, at the time of our conversation the program children were playing in an entirely different area of the playground.

When I asked Mrs. Whitney whether we could work out some arrangement whereby I sequestered my daughter's party companions around the cake, say, to give the program children exclusive access to the equipment while they were actually using it, she said that wouldn't do. When I noted I'd have some difficulty transporting the whole group elsewhere, she told me to make two trips.

I told the children we'd have cake and then go to Hamagrael, which we did. My husband tried to call parents to notify them of the ordered change in venue of the party, but, of course, was unable to reach everyone. He stayed at the school to direct parents to the new location of the party, and while he waited he observed the following:

The program participants, for whose safety everyone else is supposedly banned from the playground for three hours every summer weekday for eight weeks, never once reappeared on the playground after our expulsion. The rest of the time they were inside the school. Four other groups of parents and children, also apparently uninformed by the town of its policy, drove into and used the playground in this time period. Mrs. Whitney did not order them off the playground. A little girl eating an ice cream cone and carrying a small puppy crossed the playground and sat down for a while without eliciting bureaucratic melodrama of any kind.

Is it possible, perhaps, that after banishing a little 5-year-old's birthday party, Mrs. Whitney, like myself, is questioning the wisdom of a policy that bans all children for whole afternoons, for the sake of the territorial imperative of the Parks and Recreation Department?

Sue Ann Speaks Out.

Commercial and Residential Moratorium Now.

As many of you know, I have been walking door-to-door to personally discuss both your hopes and concerns regarding our town's future.

The recurring theme I keep hearing is the rapid growth which has overtaken the town in recent years. I, too, am worried about the consequences if development continues at its current rate. Will we be able to preserve our small town atmosphere, environment and historical past? I think not!

On July 12th I will submit a proposal to my colleagues on the Town Board which calls for a town-wide moratorium on both commercial and residential development for the next 18 months. This is the period the Land Use Management Committee has to complete its study. I believe a moratorium is vital during this review process.

The moratorium would immediately halt all commercial development in excess of 1/6 of an acre. All residential subdivisions of 5 lots or more would also be prohibited. If you are building an addition or a new home you will still be granted a permit, if your plans meet town standards. Likewise, if you own a business in town and wish to expand you may do so. What it will not allow is someone to buy 3 or 4 houses and put in a shopping area. The ban would virtually be town-wide excluding the 9W Corridor Overlay District and The Beverwyck Senior Citizen Campus.

Although a proposal for a partial moratorium has already been presented to the Planning Board, I do not feel it is satisfactory. It does not restrict commercial development at all and prohibits residential development of 25 lots or more and for only one year. And that is just too much development to allow. If we're going to have a moratorium it should be much more effective.

After all, what sense does it make to have the Land Use Management Committee prepare a master plan if in the meantime the town is approving developments without regard to the eventual findings of this study.

We need a strong moratorium on both commercial and residential development as soon as possible. With your help and support, we can make this happen.

Challenges realtor's view on hearings

Editor, The Spotlight:

Once again I find it necessary to clarify some points made in Hugh Roberts' letter in your June 28th edition entitled "Roberts denounces accusatory statements."

Mr. Roberts stated that the complainants "had their day in court." You are wrong, Mr. Roberts! The truth of the matter is that the Department of State is having its "day in court" through their administrative hearings. These hearings are not a "Judicial Process" but rather an administrative process that is open to the public, as well as the media.

You indicated that we are "expounding our version of truth and justice to the press." Are we less entitled to voice our opinion than you are? After all, you are the one who was interviewed and quoted in The Spotlight article of June 14th entitled "Roberts gets its day in court as water hearing continues." How do you propose that anyone from Orchard Park minimize the publicity that Roberts Real Estate receives from these hearings when the media can go right into these hearings and record any testimony that is being given? Even more important, why would you want the publicity minimized and at the same time welcome the state department's investigation? It appears that you are as misinformed about these hearings as your firm was about the severity of the water problems in Orchard Park.

I take pride in the fact that I went and obtained my real estate license in order to find out what obligations Roberts Real Estate had under New York State Real Property Laws to disclose the water problems in Orchard Park to potential homebuyers.

Once again I want to repeat what I have often said before, whether Roberts Real Estate did or did not disclose these water problems remains to be seen once the State Department hearings are concluded and the administrative law judge has rendered a decision.

The residents of Orchard Park have not had their "day in court" yet, but I can assure you that the day will come when the "judicial process" will be put to the test before a jury of similar homeowners like ourselves. Until that day comes, and all the testimony and evidence is presented to the jury, I can only say one thing: "You aint seen nothin' yet."

cause to anticipate that these unpaid positions would be filled by capable, disinterested citizens with distinguished distinguished careers in their respective communities.

The present state and outlook of the Albany County Airport hardly needs embellishing at this point. Every traveler or other visitor there is well-enough acquainted with its shortcomings and can imagine the consequences of our failure to provide suitably for its future.

Some alternatives have been suggested and explored. I found the idea of turning it over to the Capital District Transportation Authority to be ill-conceived. Running bus lines, no matter how efficiently, offers no good basis for dealing effectively with the myriad, and quite distinct, problems of running an airport with a very different form of transportation, facility, (and passenger) involved. I believe the CDTA should be allowed to keep on doing what it does well—no matter what visions of empire have been building in the commissioners' dreams.

Home burglarized, safe emptied

Bethlehem police are continuing an investigation into a break-in at a Delmar residence in which a safe containing $20,000 to $30,000 in valuables was taken.

Sometime between 7:23 and 10:25 p.m. Saturday, police said, thieves entered the home through an unlocked door leading into the garage. From an upstairs room, they removed the safe, which contained negotiable securities, cash, medical diplomas, rings, medallions, bracelets and other jewelry. They then left the house through a sliding glass door in the back.

The owners returned to find the safe gone and a number of windows unlocked.

Because the safe weighed at least 100 pounds, police believe at least two burglars are involved.

Proposals affect sensitive road issues

By Mark Stuart

Roadway issues played a major role in several proposals presented to the Bethlehem Planning Board last Thursday, including increased truck traffic in Selkirk, a proposed county road in North Bethlehem and completion of a 500-foot "paper street" in Delmar.

All three issues are part of larger problems facing Bethlehem. A proposal for a distribution center at the west end of the Selkirk rail yard gives the town yet another reason to address the problem of growing truck traffic near Route 396. A proposal to construct a bypass for the trucks has drawn heavy criticism from town residents.

In North Bethlehem, plans for an extension of Schoolhouse Road and the traffic congestion along Krumkill Road have brought about major changes for the Brookhill development, which now is moving ahead as only a residential subdivision and not a Planned Residential District and Planned Commercial District as originally intended.

In Delmar, the question of who should pay for the completion of "paper streets" (or streets that exist on town maps only) was raised. Officials from the Department of Public Works continue to argue paper roads need to be completed out of the developer's pocket, but developers argue the cost would be excessive.

Distribution center

Plans for a one-lot subdivision for a 450,000 square foot commercial distribution plant on 31 acres on West Yard Road in the Selkirk rail yards were presented by Craig Wedgeworth, vice president of D. Benvenuti Inc., a commercial and industrial building firm based in Rancho Cordova, Calif.

The center is expected to cost between $8 and $10 million and support 50 full-time employees.

Wedgeworth said between 30 to 35 tractor-trailers would use the distribution center daily. All of the tractor-trailers would use West Yard Road for access onto Feura Bush Road (Route 32). Most of those trucks would travel to the Thruway via Creble Road and Rt. 9W, he said.

Wedgeworth said he could not say what the distribution center would house because of a confidentiality agreement with his client. He said that information will be available after his client informs the company's employees of the project. He did say that the facility would be similar to the Honda warehouse adjacent to Route 32.

The proposed building site is located in a Heavy Industrial Zone.

North Bethlehem

An Aug. 1, 7:30 p.m. public hearing was set for the 32-lot Brookhill residential subdivision on Blessing Road in North Bethlehem. The land is zoned A-Residential and is located opposite from the Eastmount development.

David Quadrini presented a scaled-down version of what was originally presented to the board as a much larger mixed-use development. Quadrini's plans for a Planned Residential District and a Planned Commercial District on 100 acres along Blessing Road and Krumkill Road were withdrawn last month in light of Albany County's plans to build a connector road between the end of Schoolhouse Road and the Slingerlands Bypass. Applications for the PRD and PCD have been approved by the town board and planning board and were awaiting environmental impact review when the county announced the proposed roadway.

Project surveyor Paul Hite said the county has not been able to specify where the new road would be and that if the county does not have a definite road plan in three years, the entire Brookhill development would proceed under the original proposal.

In addition to roads, the county has proposed a three-town generic environmental impact study (GEIS) to evaluate the cumulative impact of development and new roadways in the Krumkill Road area of North Bethlehem, New Scotland and Gunderland. Such a study more than likely would involve a subdivision moratorium of some sort. However, those plans have been stalled pending approval from the town boards of Gunderland and Bethlehem. New Scotland has already approved the GEIS proposal.

The board's major concern over the 32-lot proposal was emergency access to a cul-de-sac. Hite said single-road access to the cul-de-sac would not be a problem once further development on the north side was completed. The board told Hite that until that northern connection is made, two lots would have to remain undeveloped and serve as an emergency access road.

The board granted preliminary plot approval for the 25-lot Googas subdivision on Krumkill Road in an A-Residential Zone in North Bethlehem. The board reviewed draft conditional approval which included requirements for erosion control, map information, grading and dust control. Final action is due July 18.

Paper roads

Project surveyor Lindsay Boutelle presented pre-preliminary plans for a two lot subdivision on the lands of Dr. John Manne located between the end of Adams Street and Palmer Avenue behind the Bethlehem Middle School.

Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor said if the two lots were approved, a through road would be needed to eliminate two dead ends which hinder snow plowing, leaf removal and garbage vehicles. Boutelle said a T intersection on Palmer Ave. and a 25-foot turnaround on Adams Street would serve to correct that problem without having to build 500 feet of road at a cost of roughly $100,000.

Manne said only one lot could be developed due to drainage. He said the lot with poor drainage he would not sell and would be a part of his adjoining property on Delmar Place. The board advised Manne to re-apply for the subdivision.

Twenty Slingerlands residents voiced opposition to a proposed two-lot subdivision at the corner of Union Avenue and Orchard Street. John Pittz has requested the two-lot subdivision upon the advice of Planning Board Attorney John Mitchell. The lot was previously subdivided and a map on file with the Albany County clerk's office indicates such a subdivision. However, the lot line between the two previously separate lots was removed when the lots were purchased by one buyer.

Pittz said he intends to sell the proposed vacant second lot, which directly abuts Union Avenue and Orchard Street.

Many of the neighbors said they opposed the subdivision because the new lot would appear awkward in the architectural context of the neighborhood. If a house were built on the lot, they said, the rear of the new house would have to face the front of one of two existing houses.

They also said the new 12,000 square-foot lot would be the smallest of the three other corner lots, which measure approximately 19,000 square feet, 13,000 square feet and 15,000 square feet. All four lots are located in an A-Residential Zone, which has a minimum lot size of 8,500 square feet.

The neighbors also expressed concern that if a home were built, sight distance from the intersection of Union and Orchard would be limited and would pose a safety threat.

Planning Board Chairman Kenneth Ringler disqualified himself from participating in the proposal since Pittz was a former employee of his.

The board amended a March 6 site plan approval for the Ponderosa restaurant at 55 Delaware Ave. Architects from Ponderosa's home office would not approve the original plans and asked that the awning around the building be scaled down. In addition, the front sign that was ordered from the factory was smaller than the approved version.

A site plan application was presented to the board for additional housing at the Selkirk Railroad YMCA facilities. The additional housing will provide sleeping and dining facilities for railroad employees. The land is zoned Heavy Industrial.

Pre-preliminary plans for a two-lot subdivision on Route 144 at the intersection of Route 396 were presented to the board by William Stine. The land is rural and unzoned.

The next regular meeting of the Bethlehem Planning Board will be July 18.

Selkirk cogeneration plant endorsed

By Mark Stuart

The Bethlehem Board of Appeals concluded its public hearing on a 79-megawatt cogeneration plant Wednesday night which included an endorsement for the proposal by the town's engineering consultant.

A letter from engineering consultant Ed Klienke stated "I would recommend that the special exception be granted by the board with conditions as the board may deem appropriate."

Klienke cited environmental benefits and an increased tax base as reasons for endorsing the project.

The cogeneration proposal received a negative declaration of environmental impact on July 21 by the state Department of Environmental Conservation, the project's lead agency for the State Environmental Quality Review Act (SEQRA) process.

The cogeneration plant will burn natural gas as a primary fuel and either oil, propane or butane as a back-up fuel. Approximately 300,000 of recycled water will be used within the system. Steam will be produced primarily for plastics manufacturing. The excess steam will be "captured" to generate electricity which will be sold to Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation.

Natural gas would be piped to the plant on existing lines that run along Rt. 32. Electricity would be transmitted on existing power lines.

The 79-megawatt proposal will replace an existing oil-burning cogeneration plant that produces electricity and steam exclusively for the General Electric plant.

Al Scarinelli, spokesman for JMC Selkirk, said he expects to close the financing for the project by November and construction to begin next Spring. Completion is expected by the spring or early summer of 1991.

Scarinelli said the cost of the project would "be about $50 million."

The 79-megawatt cogenerator project a separate project from a proposed 277-megawatt cogenerator also proposed for the GE plant. The 277-megawatt proposal is still in the conceptual stages and is under review by the Public Service Commission.

In other business, the board approved a front yard setback variance to allow a 450,000 square-foot expansion of the Delmar Medical Offices at 785 Delaware Ave., Delmar. Board member Gary Swan said the expansion would help meet some of the growing health care needs of the community. The request was submitted by Drs. Tulio Mereu and Jonathon Pasternack.

Since the July 19 meeting of the Board of Appeals coincides with the Rt. 9W Corridor Overlay District public hearing of the town board, the Board of Appeals will meet briefly at 7 p.m. and will not conduct any public hearings.

The board denied a request from Bedros Karian for an amendment to a previously granted special exception for a lot line revision at the Ashford Park subdivision, 20 Winne Place, Glenmont. The revision was requested to allow the construction of two four-unit apartment buildings (the 1970 special exception would have only allowed one.) The board cited neighborhood opposition and increased traffic as reasons for denial of the amendment. The board also noted that Karian bought the property in December 1988 knowing what the zoning limitations were.

The board set six public hearings for August 2.

At 7:30 p.m., Councilman Sue Ann Ritchko will appeal the April 26 issuance of a building permit by Building Inspector John Flanigan that allowed the expansion of My Place and Co., 214 Delaware Ave., Elmsmere.

At 7:45 p.m., the board will hear a request from Julius Zimnicki for a permitted use variance to operate an office, shop and equipment storage facility at 64 Hudson Ave., Delmar.

At 8 p.m., Reid Simonds will request a variance to construct an attached screened porch at 82 Fairlawn Dr., Selkirk.

At 8:15 p.m., the board will hear a request for a permitted use variance from Vincent O'Brien of Rexford, Saratoga County to operate a self-service laundry at Glenmont Centre, Glenmont.

At 8:30 p.m. John and Joan Lawrence will seek a variance to construct a screened porch over an existing deck at 27 Daniel St., Slingerlands.

At 8:45 p.m., Ann Treadway of 14 East Fernbank Ave., Delmar will request a front yard set back variance to construct a garage.

BC reschedules Regents chem exam

The Chemistry Regents examination — invalidated in June because of breaches in test security in the New York City area — has been rescheduled for Bethlehem Central students for Aug. 17.

The test will be conducted at 12:30 p.m. at the high school. Students eligible to take the exam are those who have completed the chemistry course and the laboratory assignments. To ensure the appropriate number of tests are ordered, it is essential that students interested in taking the exam telephone the high school, 439-4921, by July 26 to register.

Optional, ungraded review classes will be offered in one-and-a-half hour sessions the morning of Aug. 9 and 16. Enrollment in these classes, limited to thirty students, may be arranged during the phone call to register for the examination.

Taking the exam is the individual student's option. In following New York State guidelines, Bethlehem Central granted Regents credit to all chemistry students based on the grades they have earned for the course, thereby satisfying science and sequence credits for graduating with Regents or local diplomas.

Good scores on the Chemistry Regents examination could, however, enhance for some students the possibility of earning a Regents diploma with honors or distinguishing their academic record for college admissions; consequently, Bethlehem Central is offering the examination to help students achieve these goals. Along with any other Regents examination, scores will be recorded on the student's permanent transcript and be averaged into the student's course grade. Such recording will be completed by September.

Four arrested for DWI

Bethlehem town police arrested four motorists on misdemeanor driving while intoxicated charges last weekend.

Shortly after 3 a.m. Monday, Martin P. Leonard, 32, of 100A Cherry Ave., Delmar, was stopped near the intersection of Delaware and Cherry Aves. for failure to yield, police said. Police said they noticed the driver's eyes were bloodshot and that Leonard admitted to consuming seven or eight drinks at a local bar. He subsequently failed pre-screening and field sobriety tests and was taken to police headquarters at Town Hall where he refused a blood test. He was then issued tickets returnable the afternoon of July 31 at Town Court.

At 5:02 a.m. Sunday, Bethlehem police assisted Albany city police in stopping Roger E. Loux, 35, of 10 South Lake Ave., Albany, for alleged excessive speed while driving east on Delaware Ave. near the town-city line. Police said they detected an odor of alcohol on the driver's breath and that Loux admitted to consuming five or six beers. Police added that the driver then failed both pre-screening and field sobriety tests, whereupon he was arrested, taken to Town Hall and given a blood-alcohol test. He is scheduled to reappear in Bethlehem Town Court on July 18, where he will also answer charges of speeding and operating an unregistered motor vehicle.

Shortly after 5 p.m. Saturday, Gerald E. Lasher, 54, of R.D. 1, Cocksackie, was pulled over after police said he was clocked doing 60 m.p.h. in a 40 m.p.h. zone. Police said the driver appeared intoxicated and readily admitted to consuming eight beers at a company dinner in Gunderland. He then failed pre-screening and field sobriety tests, according to police, was arrested and taken to Town Hall for a blood-alcohol test. He is scheduled to reappear in Town Court July 18 where he will also answer charges of speeding and failure to keep right.

The same day, police stopped Michael J. Maselli, 22, of 6 South Lake Ave., Albany, for a violation while driving west on Delaware Ave. Police said he was slow to respond to the cruiser's lights, traveling from Adams St. to Borthwick before pulling over. After admitting to consuming a number of beers, he failed pre-screening and field sobriety tests, was arrested and taken to Town Hall for a blood-alcohol test. He is scheduled to reappear in Town Court the afternoon of July 31, where he will also answer a ticket for inadequate headlights.

□ Moratorium and politics

with a land use management plan while on the other hand we're approving additional developments throughout the town before the current growth can be evaluated?"

Ritchko said Ringler's proposal was a "step in the right direction," but did not go far enough. "If we're going to have a moratorium then let's have an effective moratorium," she said.

"Let's not pretend we have a moratorium and restrict only residential developments. The partial moratorium which has been submitted does not even address commercial growth, in fact it leaves the door wide open for such development."

Fund raising

Both Republican candidates made their moves to bolster campaign funds this week. Invitations from Pheobe Powell Bender — the wife of publisher Matthew Bender, president of the Albany Institute of History and Art and friend of Ritchko — have been sent out for a July 30 campaign fundraiser cocktail party at Ritchko's Carson Rd. home in Delmar. Cost is $30 per person and $50 per couple.

Ringler, who is the endorsed candidate of the Bethlehem Republican Committee, appears to be tapping party workers for his funds. The Committee to Elect Ken Ringler is seeking campaign donations through letters asking for contributions of $100 for his primary efforts. According to the letter, the Bethlehem Republican Committee can only contribute campaign funds for the general election and not the primary.

This year's filing dates with the Board of Elections for candidates campaign contributions in a primary are Aug. 11, Sept. 1 and Sept. 22.

Debate planned

There is still no definite date for the face-off between Ritchko and Ringler at a "Meet the Candidates" forum in August. Both campaign committees have been meeting with the Bethlehem Men's Republican Club and the Bethlehem Women's Republican Club to work out the details of sponsorship and format, as well as location and date. August 24 is tentatively being considered as of Tuesday, but could not be confirmed with both committees.

Democrats looking

The Bethlehem Democratic Committee has not announced any candidates for the Fall election other than John Smolinsky of Delmar, who is running for town board. Bethlehem Democratic Chairman Art Brown said the committee is watching the GOP primary very closely and that a series of executive meetings of the Democratic committee are planned. Although he would not commit himself to any specific deadline for naming other candidates, he said he has narrowed the field to one specific candidate for supervisor, but must wait until that candidate makes a decision on whether to run.

"Right now we have the irons in fire and the people will have a choice in the Fall," Brown said.

Smolinsky will be running against Republican candidates Charlie Gunner and M. Shiela Galvin, both of whom received the Bethlehem Republican Committee's endorsement in May.

Two town board seats will be vacated at the end of this year. Councilmen Dennis Corrigan and Ritchko will not seek re-election to their seats.

Brown said the Democrats do not want to become involved in the Republican primary issues out of respect for the process. "That's something we just wouldn't do, just like we would expect them not to interfere if we had a primary," he said.

A dynamite idea for pizza

By Lyn Stapf

"Summertime and the living is easy", and to help make this summer even easier the Sponable brothers, Kevin and Robert, have opened a new pizza place in Voorheesville. Called "Sponzie's Dynamite Pizza", using a nickname from their high school days in Gunderland, the shop features a number of specialty pizzas as well as the standards and "create your own" calzones. Although there is no eat-in service available, the personable brothers offer free delivery service within a five mile radius which they feel will be a big selling point.

Offering both 8 cut and 12 cut pizzas with a choice of 13 toppings as well as such exotic concoctions as Mexican pizza, Hawaiian pizza and vegetarian pizza, the brothers encourage patrons to personalize their pies.

"If you like thin crust, we'll make it. If you want thick crust, we'll make it," said Kevin Sponable who also said they want to know how customers feel about their product-welcoming both compliments and criticisms.

Robert, who works during the day as a cook at the Cerebral Palsy Center for the Disabled is concerned about special dietary restrictions of customers and he said Sponzie's will tailor pizzas to individual needs. He is working with Brothers Bob and Ken Sponable check the oven at their new shop in Voorheesville.

area nutritionalist Betsy Hoffman, who also is employed by the CP center, trying to create a low calorie' low' cholesterol pizza "that tastes like pizza" for the growing number of pizza lovers who are concerned about both.

Since opening on June 30, business has been moving along well—the shop sold 99 pizzas the first evening. Future plans include adding submarine sandwiches and maybe even a lunch menu. They are open now Sunday through Thursday from 4 p.m. until 10 p.m.

and on Friday and Saturday from 4 p.m. until 11.

Both married with one child each, the enterprising brothers are the backbone of the business with Bob supervising the cooking and Kevin working in the shop every evening and doing the accounting during the day. With the business growing they are planning on adding more staff and are looking for drivers and part time weekend counter help. For more information, call 765-3216 during shop hours.

more to write about: at the Swift Road park, someone slashed the tires on the outdoor trailer that housed equipment for the town's recreational program.

Under director Laura Munyan, the program enrolls 90 younger children at Swift Road and another 35 or so at the Feura Bush park, according to Councilman Craig Shufelt.

The board also:

- Authorized the supervisor to ask the planning board for recommendations on pre-paid subdivision application fees and inspection fees.
- Rejected Laberge Engineering's request to be appointed official town engineer. The position is now held by the C.T. Male firm of Latham.
- Learned from Reilly and Shufelt that a brochure on the town's plastics recycling program will be prepared and mailed soon.

Accepted an invitation from American Ref-Fuel to visit a waste-to-energy plant at Hempstead, L.I., on July 10. The firm, formed by Browning-Ferris Industries and Air Products, Inc., wants to build a similar plant on Cabbage Island near Albany.

• Learned that less than one dozen cars have been accepted for crushing at the town transfer station on Upper Flat Rock Road. Learned that the next meeting to discuss the generic environmental impact statement for the proposed southern bypass has been scheduled by Paul Cooney, county engineer, for 10 a.m. Thursday at the Albany County executive's office at 112 State St., Albany.

• Accepted a deed to Kendall Road, a dead-end lane at the end of Bullock Road.

• Raised the marriage license fee charged by the town clerk's office to $20.

Delmar man arrested for DWI

Bethlehem police arrested a 20-year-old man for misdemeanor driving while intoxicated on Fourth of July night near his Delmar home.

Police said that after spotting a faulty tail light they stopped Christopher Czerw of 30 Forest Road at about 11:53 p.m. near the corner of Adams Place and Forest Avenue.

After failing pre-screening device and field sobriety tests, Czerw was arrested for DWI and taken to Bethlehem Town Hall where, police said, he registered a .11 percent blood-alcohol test reading, .01 above the DWI limit. He was released to his father's custody pending an appearance next Tuesday night in Bethlehem Town Court.

Czerw was also ticketed for a faulty tail light, violating the conditions of a conditional driver's license and unlawful possession of marijuana.

Sixth grade students at Voorheesville Elementary School recently closed out the year with a field day of events, including this tug-o-war contest. Lyn Stapf

Concerts continue

Jazz concert

The concert in the park series will continue on Sunday, July 16 when "Moments" will perform in Hotaling Park. The Capital District musicians who specialize in jazz will play from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m. All are welcome to attend this free program.

Library fun

Summer fun continues at the Voorheesville Public Library. Next week's Wednesday family movie will be "Mary Poppins." The 2 hour and 20 minute Walt Disney classic tells the tale of a magical nanny who drops out of the sky to bring chaos and love to the lives of a steadfast English banker and his two children. The movie begins at 2 p.m. and is free and open to the public.

On Thursday, July 13 area naturalist Dean Davis will present a program entitled "Pets, Pets, Pets" at 3 p.m. All ages are welcome.

Next week the summer reading club will have fun when the Scotia-Glenville Children's Museum presents the program "Send in the Clowns" on Monday, July 17 for students in kindergarten through grade 3. On Tuesday, July 18 reading club members in grades 4-6 will meet at 3 p.m. for crafts and movies.

Post officers installed

Voorheesville Post 1493 recently installed newly elected officers at the annual installation dinner dance.

New officers are: Frank Jablonowski, commander; John Stansfield, first vice commander; Charles Renker, second vice commander; Terry Pebler, third vice commander; Lou Forte, adjutant; Jack McClintock, finance officer; Joe Armer, judge advocate; Ken Carhart, sergeant at arms; William Flansberg, historian; Nelson Thomas, service officer, and Al Lourdis, chaplain.

At the dinner, the Charlie Crow Award was presented to Barbara Fredette, for her contribution to local baseball.

Post past commander Robert Mudge was also honored. Mudge, who has not only served as commander of the post and as Albany County Scouting chairman, is now serving as Albany County American Legion Commander.

Joe Kraemer, Chris Scharl, Dan Jackson and Tom Kraemer, members of ESU, opened this summer's Concert in the Park series Sunday in Voorheesville's Hotaling Park.

Lyn Stapf

Mudge, along with other post past commanders Don Duncan and Joe Armer were selected as delegates and alternates to the New York State American Legion Convention to be held in Buffalo this month.

Seniors bus trip

The Town of New Scotland will sponsor another bus trip for senior citizens. Sign-up for the trip to the Adirondack Museum on Aug. 4 will be held for one week beginning on Monday, July 24. Seniors can register daily at the New Scotland Town Hall. The trip is free and open to all members of the Town over the age of 60.

The seniors will soon be moving into their newly renovated building in New Salem. The group's next meeting will be held on Wednesday, July 19 at the center. Before the meeting, there will be a potluck supper beginning at 6 p.m.

All members are reminded to bring their place setting and a covered dish item to share.

Project Super Teams a super success

By Lyn Stapf

Ice cream sundaes, a road rally, a trip to Montreal, fishing for blue gills and a home town street festival have more in common than you might think. They're all part of an innovative project in Voorheesville designed to promote a better relationship between school and community and in doing so instill a deeper sense of self esteem in students.

Last year Project Super Teams was just a thought in the minds of a few district teachers and administrators, but now the year-old program is off and running with several resounding successes.

The formula is simple: Take one enthusiastic superintendent, add two dedicated building principals and mix in a large portion of active community and school personnel. Combine with as many students as you can find and with some creative planning you have a means of providing a positive experience for everyone.

Louise Gonan began the project, which was funded by a grant written by district health coordinator Dick Leach. Although not an anti-drug program, the project does aim for those students at risk who may fall victim to drug or alcohol abuse or school failure or a number of other teenage pitfalls, and provides them from the early years with a sense of self esteem and self worth to help combat problems they may face.

Last fall administrators and two five-person teams attended training sessions in Long Island. Each team, consisting of the building principal, several faculty and a community representative, learned in detail about problems facing today's youth, students who may be at risk, various methods of problem solving and planning to combat a host of pitfalls. Grade school co-ordinator Pete Douglas said the training had a profound effect on him.

The teams came back to Voorheesville full of enthusiasm and recruited several dozen volunteers who attended a weekend training session in Lake George. Working in small and large group activities the school and community members had a crash course in all the things the two teams had learned in the initial training sessions in Long Island.

Then the real work began. Nine teams in all started work on a project to address the needs of students involved with a most enjoyable experience.

Board of education member Mary Van Ryn said, "The idea is to shoot as many arrows as possible at the target hoping that some will stick." As a community volunteer, she and other members brainstormed for ideas for interesting projects to suit the needs of both elementary and high school students.

One project called "Class of the Week" involved grade school students. Students in each home room vied for the honor to win the coveted title which was accompanied by an ice cream sundae party, a certificate proclaiming their achievement and a chance to have their picture displayed in the main hall of the school. Nominated by any adult staff member, or community volunteer, students were judged on their overall behavior, positive use of language, involvement, thoughtfulness and responsibility.

The winners were entered in another contest with a random drawing selecting one class to spend an overnight in the school. Sue Beemer's first grade was the lucky recipient of a cook-out supper followed by a game hour and a viewing of "Willie Wonka and the Chocolate Factory." After a good night's sleep in their sleeping bags the group awoke to a breakfast of fruit, cereal, juice and milk.

Even a midnight rain storm which created a rush to move the physical education mats the children were sleeping on from rain water seeping in the lower edge of the gym failed to dampen the spirit of the six year olds or even awaken them.

Grade school Principal John Tobiassen was delighted with the program, "It was exciting watching each class work together as a team doing very positive things towards a goal." He said one of "the best benefits for all involved was the interaction that went on "between teachers and students, administrators and parents," which was most evident at the all night event.

Another memorable occasion took place the following day on June 16 when members of the fifth grade class enjoyed the "sweet taste of success" at a very special lunch. The fact that the meal took place at the Legion hall made it unique but the fact the main course, fried fish, was caught by members of the class and parents, teachers and chaperones made the event even more exciting. More than 50 students with chaperones travelled to Saratoga Lake on weekends to catch a batch of blue gills, which were then frozen to be served up with french fries, green beans, rolls and cake at the special event.

Although fish is not everyone's favorite dish, one student said, "The taste was OK, but it was really fun catching them." After the meal, the group broke into an echo chant led by area fisherman Bryce Butler who spearheaded the project.

Another meal planned as a fundraiser also had lasting implication. The May spaghetti supper not only gave students a chance to work side by side with teachers, parents and administrators but provided a nice nest egg for future projects.

Douglas said another plus is that the program has not cost the district a penny, and he thinks it probably never will. With money from the original grant, fund-raising capital and an annual amount of "Drug Free Schools" money available from the state, the program appears to be self-supporting requiring only the time and talent of volunteers to make it work.

At the high school, the outing club went on a trip to Montreal. More outings for skiing, hiking and other activities are planned for the future.

Peter Griffin, high school principal said one success of this program has been that many students who have turned out for this group have never before participated in an organized club.

Delaware Plaza store reports break-in

A burglar or burglars attempted to break into The Paper Mill store at Delaware Plaza during the Fourth of July holiday weekend, according to Bethlehem police.

Sometime between July 3 and 5, someone removed the molding around the front window in a spot that did not have alarm tape, police said. Nothing was reported taken.

An investigation is continuing.

Eagles clinch state berth

By John Bellizzi III

Two wins and two losses in league play this week was enough for the Bethlehem Mickey Mantle baseball team to clinch a berth in this summer's New York State Mickey Mantle Tournament, which they won last year. The top six teams from the Eastern New York League enter the tournament. Currently at 13-4 in the league, defending New York State Champion Bethlehem is in third place behind Latham (10-3), whom Bethlehem knocked off Sunday at Heritage Park 2-1, and Sorensco (11-2). The Eagles have one league game remaining this Thursday at Guilderland. Because of rainouts, Latham and Sorensco have several more games to play.

Bethlehem, coached by Jesse Braverman, is producing some of the most impressive statistics in the league. 15-year old catcher Matt Quatraro is batting .500 with five home runs and 13 RBI against some of the strongest high school pitchers in the region. Defensively, Quatraro has 21 assists. Another 15-year old standout in the predominantly 16-year-old league is Bethlehem pitcher Mark Houston (4-0), who in addition to having a 2.90 ERA and 30 strikeouts in 29 innings, is batting .413 with five home runs and 20 RBIs.

Also boasting some impressive pitching stats is southpaw Kevin Keparutis (4-1, 1 save), with a 2.39 ERA and 38 strikeouts in 38 innings. Shortstop/pitcher Scott Fish stands out as one of the team's most stable infielders, with a .935 fielding average at shortstop.

Bethlehem's 7-4 victory over Burnt Hills on July 2 gave Houston his fourth win without a loss. Houston supported his cause with a three-run homer. Mike Banks hit a two-run home run for Bethlehem.

Burnt Hills got revenge last week, though, defeating Bethlehem 4-3 behind the pitching of lefty J.J. Piersol. Fish and Dave Lorette both had RBI singles and Quatraro had two hits. Bethlehem failed to capitalize on all its opportunities, though, leaving 13 runners stranded during the course of the game.

Saturday, Bethlehem was defeated by Lansingburgh in a 6-3 ballgame. Lansingburgh's starter Scott Canfield (5-0) limited Bethlehem's offense, though Quatraro came through with a two-run homer and a single. Fish got the loss, though he hurled a strong game, pitching a no-hitter going into the sixth. "Scott pitched quite well against one of the more difficult teams in the league," said Braverman. "I think we can beat Canfield, there's a good chance we'll see him in the tournament."

At Heritage Park Sunday evening, the Eagles defeated first-place Latham 2-1 in an intense ballgame that lasted almost two hours. "It was very exciting," said Braverman, "a tournament-quality game." Shaker varsity pitcher Mark Levinia threw a good game for Latham, giving up no earned runs. Bethlehem scored both runs on a single error.

Lack of run production doesn't mean Bethlehem's offense was quiet against Levinia, though. Quatraro and Houston both had perfect games at the plate, Quatraro going 3-for-3 and Houston 2-for-2.

Keparutis picked up his fourth win, striking out eight while only walking two. Bethlehem's defense

GE takes pennant but loses in bid for crown

General Electric Plastics clinched the Tri-Village Little League pennant with an 18-2 victory over McDonald's over Independence Day weekend, but the team was defeated in a close extra-inning game in the first round of the District 13 City/County Championship on Saturday. GE fell to the champion team from West Albany Little League 3-2 in eight innings.

GE built up a 2-0 lead as starting pitcher Eric Bartoletti pitched five innings of no-hit ball, but West Albany's bats came alive in the sixth. Two unearned West Albany runs sent the game into extra innings. West Albany scored in the eighth to claim the victory.

Bartoletti struck out eight and gave up only one walk, allowing only three hits in six innings. Josh Villey came in for relief.

Bartoletti also led GE at the plate against a difficult pitcher, going 3-for-4. Willey and Jon Gould were both 2-for-4.

The other members of the Tri-Village champions are Kevin Blanchard, Bill Conway, Joe Engel, Kevin Gallagher, Greg Hopke, Susy Mannella, Keith Riccio, Jason Seward and Carl Wierks.

The team was managed by Steve Brewer and coached by Al Bartoletti and Paul Engel.

had an errorless evening. A key defensive moment came in the top of the sixth, when Levinia doubled to the Heritage Park wall with a runner on first.

Bethlehem outfielder Scott Gilchrist hit Houston for the cut-off, who fired home to Quatraro to catch the runner and prevent Latham from tying the game.

'Second Season' offers continued baseball fun

This summer, the Bethlehem Babe Ruth League will again sponsor a "Second Season" for all players wishing to continue baseball competition through the summer months.

Second Season is open to all players who are enrolled in the league and covered by its insurance. Second season is an extension of the regular season and attempts to keep our baseball players active during the summer. Competition comes from various leagues and teams in the area. This year teams from Bethlehem will travel to three tournaments, as well as the regular All-Star tournaments.

Home games will be scheduled according to age groups on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Middle School from July 18 thru August 24. A special baseball clinic conducted by coaches from Siena is scheduled for July 19 at 6 p.m. at the Bethlehem Central Middle School. This clinic is open to all Bethlehem baseball players. This year's Second Season schedule is:

July 14 - 14-year-old tournament at Rotterdam

July 19 - Clinic, 6 p.m., Bethlehem Middle School

July 20 - Bethlehem vs. Twin Town at Bethlehem Middle School

July 23 - 15-year-old tournament at Twin Town

July 30 - 13-year-old tournament at Twin Town

Aug. 8 - Bethlehem vs. Guilderland (13-years old) at Guilderland

Aug. 8 - Bethlehem vs. Guilderland at Heritage Park

Aug. 10 - Bethlehem vs. Sorensco (13-years old), Bethlehem Middle School

Aug. 11 - Bethlehem vs. Sorensco at Heritage Park

Aug. 27 - Bethlehem vs. Amsterdam, Doubleday Field, Cooperstown

For information on the Second Season, call Tom Yovine at 439-2062.

All-stars top Whitehall

The Bethlehem Babe Ruth 14 and 15-year old All Star team squeezed out a 7-6 win over Whitehall in the District 5 tournament on Sunday.

Bethlehem, which had led 2-1 and 4-1, fell behind 6-5 in the top of the seventh. In the home half, Mike Gambelunghe led the inning off with a walk; John DiAnni hit a double down the left field line to put runners on second and third.

After Dave Miles fouled one off just outside the third base line, the Whitehall manager opted to load the bases with an intentional walk. The Whitehall pitcher hit the next batter Mike Aylward with the first pitch to force in the tying run bringing up Josh Formica who then hit a 2-0 pitch to right field for a single scoring DiAnni with the winning run.

An unquestionable passion for baseball

By Nat Boynton

It has now been more than two months since your friendly neighborhood weekly has been running this commentary on minor league baseball. Although a column of this nature in a community weekly paper dedicated to local personalities and institutions may be stretching the charter a bit, there is evidence that some people have been reading this stuff. There are even occasional hints that some folks actually like it.

Most letters and calls over the weeks have been supportive and encouraging, but not all. Here are some of both kinds:

You keep referring to baseball as the best of the popular team sports. Don't you ever watch football, basketball, hockey, or go to the racetrack?

Yes, but to me these are primarily fillers between the end of the World Series and the opening of spring training. Any position on this question is a matter of personal opinion, and is always arguable.

I risk brickbats and lose friends this way, so I'll stick my neck out in public print by saying that for strategy, sophistication and demand on the athletic capacity of the human animal, baseball rates highest. I enjoy football despite its overexposure on TV, but to counter the dullness of pass, run, pass, three replays, yellow flag and field goal, and being able to watch only a few players in action at a time, I find I have to have a favorite team on the field to sustain interest. When the Oilers play the Falcons or Seahawks, I catch up on my reading. In my youth I covered the NBA before they liberalized the rules. Now I can't watch more than five minutes of pro hoop, and ditto for college games, but I do usually watch the Final Four (in modest stretches). I never go to the track.

People who feel baseball is slow and boring do not appreciate that it is a team game played by individuals, and that you must know something about the individuals in order to respond. It is also a game of suspense and tense situations (any pitch to a top hitter has the potential of dramatically changing the scenario). High school football and basketball stars quickly make Division I college teams, and jump directly to the pros. Not so in baseball, where it takes years of development to refine the required skills.

Inside the minors

Whom to watch at Heritage Park

Enough of that. Next question.

I never realized baseball had a draft setup like the NFL, NBA and NHL. You talked about the baseball draft coming up in June, but I couldn't find much about it in the papers. Why is this?

Good question. I believe the answer is simply that standout college football and basketball players get tremendous TV exposure and newspaper publicity, while college baseball is virtually ignored. College football packs large stadiums, basketball fills major arenas, but hardly anyone goes to a college baseball game. The same is true at the high school level, but it is also true that major league "bird dogs" are every inch as intense (and clearly have to be more scientific) in scouting scholastic prospects as are college recruiters in football and hoop. The reason for that is also simple: because of the long development cycle, baseball drafts high school players, while football and basketball (with rare exceptions) do not. In last month's baseball draft, 56 of the first 100 selections were high school players. Basketball has now limited its draft to three rounds. Baseball drafted more than 1,500 players in June. Possibly one in 12 will make the majors. (More on this in a future column.)

Why do you plug Oneonta and Pittsfield in the lower minor leagues? I like your pieces on the A-C Yankees, but I can do without your generalities.

Here I must confess to a strange addiction. In palmier days I covered Class A minor league baseball, and developed a fascination for tracing the careers of young players rising through the system to become major league stars. Box scores and programs from NY-Penn League games I've been able to witness in recent years show such names as Bill Madlock, Billy Hatcher, Jamie Moyer, Scott Fletcher, Joe Carter, Mel Hall. Call me a nut, but watching last Thursday's ABC telecast from Shea Stadium, I got an extra kick from remembering Kent Tekulve delivering submarine balls at Shuron Park in Geneva as a first-year draftee in 1969, and recalling Roberto Roomes clouting titanic home runs in Geneva seven years ago and at Heritage Park (with the visiting Pittsfield Cubs) three years ago. Both are with the Reds now, Tekulve a 42-year-old reliever and Roomes (who hit a long homer that night at Shea) a backup outfielder-pinch hitter. I now await the eventual emergence of such prospects as Alan Zinter, Pittsfield catcher who was the Mets' top draft pick; Gary Scott, Geneva third baseman drafted by the Cubs in the second round, and Billy White, a third-round selection, a whirlwind shortstop who hits for average and distance.

I didn't care for your criticism of Vin Scully. He is my favorite TV sportscaster.

He's not mine, but here I have to be careful. He's far too long-winded with superfluous information, but I am often accused of the same affliction. Like many fans, I'm disappointed that ABC doesn't do the post-season playoffs, for Tim McCarver is tops and Jim Palmer has a knack for explaining baseball from the inside. I even miss Joe Garagiola. Last year for the Series I turned the TV sound off, and at times used the radio. You have to admit it's peaceful watching a game in silence, relying on graphics for commentary and identification.

Nat Boynton will try to field your questions and comments on baseball (no statistical and trivial questions, please), hoping for a bouquet or two among the brickbats. Write or call in care of The Spotlight. Meanwhile visit your nearest minor league ballpark for the summer's best family entertainment.

Obituaries

Thomas L. Bennett

Thomas L. Bennett, 80, of Feura Bush, died July 3 at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany.

Born in Dunmore, Pa., he was a welder for the Consolidated Car Heating Co. of Albany. He was a member of the Jerusalem Reformed Church in Albany.

He is survived by two sisters, Elizabeth Henry of Feura Bush, and Elizabeth Weisenberger of Loudonville and two nieces and nephews.

Burial was in the Jerusalem Cemetery, Feura Bush. Arrangements were by Applebee Funeral Home.

Ila Fahrenkopf

Ila Vanderzee Fahrenkopf, formerly of Selkirk, died July 1 at St. Mary's Hospital in Troy.

She was a long-time resident of Selkirk and was a member of the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem at Selkirk.

She is survived by two cousins, Kenneth H. Malar and Willis VanAllen.

Burial was in Elmwood Cemetery, Selkirk. Arrangements were by the Applebee Funeral Home.

John C.

VanOostenbrugge

John C. VanOostenbrugge, 69, died July 4 at the Veterans Administration Medical Center Hospital in Albany.

Born in Schenectady, he lived in Bethlehem for many years. He was a veteran of World War II and was an auto dealer.

He will be remembered by his dear friends Mr. and Mrs. Guy Smith of Albany.

Arrangements were by Zwack and Sons Funeral Home.

Robert Messenheimer

Robert E. Messenheimer of Slingerlands died July 3 at St. Peter's Hospice in Albany.

Born in Alliance, Ohio, he lived in the Capital District since 1948. He came to Albany as a sales manager for Address-O-Graph-Multigraph and then became a distributing sales manager for the Cummins-Chicago Corp. He formed his own company, Micrmation, Inc., which was later sold. He was then appointed as a consultant for the State Facilities Development Corp.

He was a member of the Normanside Country Club, The Delmar American Association of Retired Persons, the Third Reformed Church of Albany and the former Auria Club of Albany.

He is survived by his wife, Marita Grossmann Messenheimer.

Burial was in Bethlehem Cemetery. Arrangements were by the Daniel Keenan Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Peter's Hospice or the Endowment Fund of the Third Reformed Church.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Felix (Providence) Segarra of Delmar; a son, Louis Matos of Florida; a sister, Adelina Matos of Bronx; a brother, Joseph Velez of Puerto Rico; five grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Interment was in Memory's Garden in Colonie. Arrangements were by Meyers Funeral Home.

William L. Bentley

Dr. William L. Bentley, a Geneva area psychologist and New Scotland native, died June 30 at Geneva General Hospital of injuries sustained in an auto accident in nearby Phelps (Ontario Co.). He was 41.

The son of William and Audrey Bentley of New Scotland South Road, he was deputy director of the Newark Development Center, Newark, for the past four years. Before that, he was development director at the O.D. Heck Center, Niskayuna. At the time of his death he was a member of the board of directors of the Independent Living Center of Rochester.

A graduate of Clayton A. Bouton High School, Voorheesville, he earned a bachelor's in civil engineering from Cornell University and held master's and doctoral degrees in psychology from the State University at Albany.

Survivors include his parents; a son, William J. Bentley; a daughter, Annika K. Bentley; two brothers, Bruce A. Bentley of Slingerlands and Timothy B. Bentley of West Germany; and a nephew.

Funeral services were held the afternoon of July 5 from First United Methodist Church, Voorheesville, with Rev. Walter Taylor, former pastor, officiating. Burial was in New Scotland Cemetery under arrangements by Reilly and Son Funeral Home, Voorheesville.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Muscular Dystrophy Association, Executive Park East, Albany 12203.

Anna Ruckerbauer

Anna T. Ruckerbauer, 82, of Cherry Ave., Delmar, died Sunday at St. Peter's Hospice, Albany, after a long illness.

A native of Germany, she graduated from high school there before coming to the U.S. A housewife, she was the wife of the late Anton Ruckerbauer.

Survivors include two brothers, Max Zwicklbauer of Delmar and George Zwicklbauer of Germany; and several nieces and nephews.

A mass of Christian burial was offered Tuesday from St. Thomas the Apostle Church, Delmar. Burial at Bethlehem Cemetery was under arrangements by Applebee Funeral Home, Delmar.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Peter's Hospice, 315 South Manning Blvd., Albany 12208 or to the St. Thomas Church memorial fund, Adams Pl., Delmar 12054.

Fire wrecks boat

Stray fireworks may have traced off the blaze that wrecked a 16-foot fiberglass boat on its trailer the night of the Fourth of July.

After being summoned by a neighbor, Bethlehem police found the back of the boat aflame at about 10:55 p.m. in front of a Tamarac St., Delmar, home. Destroyed with the boat were an outboard motor, fishing equipment and tackle, and some tools.

The owner reported no electrical or mechanical problems when he used the boat earlier that day, police said. An investigation showed that two gas cans belonging to the owner were ignited from outside. Not known is whether they were intentionally set or accidentally by fireworks. Town police did find remnants of firecrackers and bottle rockets on the front lawn next door.

Balloon fantasies

By Renee Hunter

For Glenda Forsythe, balloon sculpting is not just a lot of hot air. And it isn't just something she only does as a clown to make a small child happy. Balloons, in fact, are a full-time business venture for Forsythe, who lives in Colonie.

She creates her own designs and performs a show, "Balloon Fantasies."

It all started when her husband brought home a simple balloon sculpture from New York City. "I'd never seen one before," said Forsythe. She then saw a clown in Colonie Center making animals out of balloons and her interest was sparked.

"I went and got a lot of simple books from the library on how to do them," she

Shakers to shake up area's awareness

By Theresa Bobear

Community Awareness Day will be held at the site of America's first Shaker settlement this Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The event will be held at the former site of the Shaker's Church Family, between the Albany Airport and Heritage Park in Colonie.

In addition to Shaker song and dance demonstrations, Capital District residents are invited to enjoy presentations by the Dutch Dancers, the Franco-American Association of Cohoes, the Colonie Town Band, the Sweet Adelines, Peter Shaver, a bagpiper, and Paul Strausman, a folk guitarist.

Rounding out the day will be an old-fashioned fishing contest, hay and ox cart rides, herb demonstrations, old-fashioned fire engine rides, a pie eating contest, drawing activities for children and an opportunity to meet McGruff, the crime dog.

The event is being sponsored by the Shaker Heritage Society to celebrate various ethnic and cultural facets of the community, and to make area residents aware of the culture and former home of the Shakers, according to Diane Conroy-LaCivita, director of the Shaker Heritage Society.

"A lot of people don't know we're here," said Conroy-LaCivita. "We're a very well kept secret. We don't want that to continue."

The Shaker Heritage Society, organized in 1977 and incorporated in 1979, is housed in the largest Shaker meeting house in the United States, which totals 4,000 square feet and was built in 1848. The society, in cooperation with Albany County and the Town of Colonie, is in the process of rehabilitating the structure and developing a cultural and educational center at the site. The center is open from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. on weekdays.

The group's board of trustees consists of 26 members, and the advisory board has 15 members.

"Our biggest asset is our volunteers,"

Peg Witbeck of Latham has served as a volunteer with the Shaker Heritage Society for the past six years. She demonstrates spinning and weaving for visitors at the 1848 meeting house in Colonie.

said Conroy-LaCivita. She said the 60 to 70 volunteers dress up and demonstrate aspects of Shaker life, and lead tours and educational programs for students, the Veterans Administration and senior citizens.

The director said 5,000 people visited the Shaker Heritage Society center last year. She is hoping the total will reach 10,000 this year.

Mother Ann Lee, who was born in Manchester, England in 1736, established the Watervliet Society of the United Society of Believers in Christ's First and Second Appearing in 1776. Members of the religious sect purchased land in what is now the Town of Colonie from Patroon Van Rensselaer, according to Conroy-LaCivita.

She said about 500 people lived in the four families. New members lived in the South Family. Later, the West Family was also established for new members. Some Great expectations for 'Hamlet'

By Susan Graves

Shakespeare's "Hamlet" has more than a ghost of a chance of success in the area this year in part because of the talent of a veteran local company and an ideal setting.

Actor Richard Hedderman, whose family hails from the Delmar-Slingerland's locale, said the seven-year-old Shakespeare in the Park company is looking forward to this year's production at the Academy of the Holy Names on New Scotland Avenue in Albany.

"It's such a good environment — enormously peaceful," unlike the fourth-floor terrace at the Empire State Plaza, where the group put on its first performance in 1983, he said.

"Hamlet," which opens tonight at 8 p.m., will be presented in an outdoor theater primarily constructed of scaffolding, resembling the original Elizabethan set at the Globe Theater, Hedderman said.

"Hamlet" has not been produced locally since 1967. Hedderman said the play has an excitement that is "uniquely its own," and the Holy Names campus setting is ideal for this production.

"You walk into a fantastic environment," with a good view from any seat in the audience, he said. At the plaza, there was no formal seating arrangement, and there were many distractions from traffic and people wandering in and out of the performances.

Another bonus for audiences is that the performances are free. Shakespeare in the Park is funded by the City and County of Albany, corporate sponsors and private donations. The troupe operates on a budget of about $40,000, Hedderman, one of the company's founding members and a member of its board of directors, said.

In addition, he said, donations from audiences are welcome. "They generally tend to be very generous," he said.

But despite this support, company members can not solely support themselves through their theatrical efforts. Hedderman, for example, is now working as a house painter. "I do a number of different things," he said.

WAMC takes bold step

By Dennis Sullivan

Tomorrow night at 7:30 WAMC-FM radio will take yet another bold step into the world of innovative programming with the debut of its self-produced "51%", a half-hour show highlighting the lives and issues of women (and consequently men) in today's world.

Each Thursday the show, containing a series of feature stories and interviews, will be produced by WAMC's Beth Engler and hosted by Russell Sage President Sara Chapman Engler, who has produced the station's Legisla-

THE YOUTH NETWORK

The Town of Bethlehem Parks and Recreation Department will offer many activities and programs for the teens of our community this summer.

A highlight on the schedule features a "Beat the Heat" party on Saturday, July 15 from 8 to 11 p.m. at the Elm Avenue Park. The evening will include a local radio station disc jockey, dancing, late-night pool and concession hours, and prizes.

The Elm Avenue Park is open daily with lighted tennis and basketball courts until midnight. Other programs scheduled this summer include: Tennis clinic for children in grades 5 through 8; weight training for grades 9 through 12; basketball clinic, grades 5 through 8; baseball league, 16 and older; track and field, to grade 8, and gymnastics to grade 12.

A newly structured program is aqua/land fitness, an aerobics class featuring exercise to music in and out of the water. A Red Cross lifeguarding course will also be taught for teens 15 and older.

The parks and recreation office is open weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. For more information, call 439-4131. New ideas and suggestions are always welcome. The parks and recreation office is one of the largest employers of youth in the town. Applications are available at the office.

Les Petits Chanteurs de Lyons, a boys choir, will present a free concert at Saint James Church, Albany, on Saturday, July 15, at 7:30 p.m.

French choir in town

The boys choir, Les Petits Chanteurs de Lyons (The Little Singers of Lyons, France) will visit the Capital District July 15-17 as part of their month long tour of the U.S. and Canada. Their visit coincides with the weekend celebration of the Bicentennial Anniversary of the Republic of France.

On Saturday, July 15, at 7:30 p.m. the choir will perform a free concert at Saint James Church, 391 Delaware Ave., Albany. A free will offering will be accepted to assist the choir with their tour expenses.

The choir will also sing a Mass of Thanksgiving for the recently completed restoration work on the church building on Sunday, July 16 at 10 a.m.

Re-established as a choir school in 1974 by its director, Jean-Francois Duchamp, the choir has revived a tradition of music at the First Cathedral of France which was instituted under the reign of the Emperor Charlemagne.

Albany City trolley totes Lakehouse theater goers

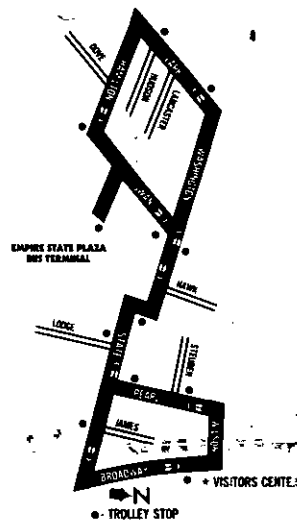

There is a concerted effort in the City of Albany to drive people off their trolleys.

But first, the city, Capital District Transit Authority and Capital City Renaissance Corporation want people to get on board the Albany City Trolley Co.'s vehicles.

On Thursday, July 13, the third event in the Downtown After Dark series will be a journey to the Washington Park Lakehouse. En route a guide will reveal the city's legends and at the lakehouse the riders will get a backstage view of the crew and actors of The Park Playhouse Theatre. Trolley riders might also want to picnic in Washington Park before the 8 p.m. curtain for "Annie."

Trolleys will leave from the Visitors Center at Broadway and Clinton Avenue at Quackenbush Square at 6:15 and 6:35 p.m. Patrons will be served on a first-come, first served basis. And the price is right: $4 for adults and $2 for seniors and children under 12. In case of rain, the tour will be held on Thursday, July 20.

Another downtown tour will clang its way through town for an "Evening of the Arts" on July 27. Participants will have the opportunity to visit the Albany Center Galleries, the Albany Arts Studios, the Albany Institute of History and Art and the Rice Gallery.

In the daylight hours, the trolleys run Monday through Friday from 11:45 a.m. to 1:45 p.m. For 25 cents, riders travel a loop including Lark Street and the central business district downtown.

For more information about tours, group rentals or special events, call 465-3632.

Canal cruise planned

The Hudson Mohawk Industrial Gateway will sponsor a cruise of the North Hudson and Champlain Canal, on Saturday, July 15. The tour will lead participants through the communities of Mechanicville and Stillwater, ending in Schuylerville during the annual Charter Day celebration.

Participants will board a cruise boat at Lock 2 in Waterford at 8 a.m. for a four hour trip to Schuylerville.

The cost of the trip is $22.50 or $20 for Gateway members. To make a reservation, call 274-5267.

Sage program features study of Shakers

Russell Sage College will host a study of the American Shakers during the year's "Elderhostel" program, July 16 through July 22.

The "Shaker Adventure" will focus on many aspects of Shaker life, such as theology, communal living and Shaker arts.

"Elderhostel" is a unique college program for senior citizens that includes boarding, meals and education.

For more information, call 270-2246.

said. Since then, Forsythe has been creating her own designs to present in the show.

She says she is not a clown. Her balloon sculpting is art embellished with a puff of magic. In her show she uses rabbits and doves to add an extra dimension to her creations.

Forsythe has gotten plenty of media attention over the past 15 years and has travelled throughout Canada and the Eastern U.S.

She has found that people of all ages love her show and has performed at senior citizens centers, shopping malls, colleges, and nightclubs, along with libraries and parks. Last week she did a show at the Bethlehem Town Park.

"I really love performing in libraries," Forsythe said. "There's an intimate and educational aspect to the show."

Forsythe has created her own balloon creatures and is particularly proud of her baby in a cradle, 7 ft. tall giraffe, lobster, and grasshopper.

"I like to do this," she said. "If I see a really shy child in the audience, I'll try to bring him out. Make him see the light."

Great work!

That's what we say hundreds of times a day to our hundreds of students, because that's what they do.

Patient encouragement, expert skill building, properly timed challenges... all suited individually to individual students give these students the confidence we all need to achieve success.

Before you know it, they're saying it in school too.

Great work!

Shakespeare

Hedderman, who is playing Laertes in this production, said he is a kind of "entrepreneur."

"We have a tiny budget," he said, "I spend Saturdays working with the tech crew. We pull screws back out of old sets and use them again. We save every scrap."

"Ideally I would like to be able to make a living doing theater work, but primarily I do it just for fun," the 30-year old actor, said.

Hedderman is part of a cast of 14 area actors, including Skye McKenzie of Clarksville who plays Horatio. Hedderman believes the company is a tremendous value to the community and would like to see its season and its repertoire expanded.

"The reaction (from audiences) has been overwhelming," he said.

"We would like to do more plays," including contemporary works as well as expand the season, Hedderman said. But for this year, "Hamlet will be performed tonight through the 23rd and on July 26 through the 29th.

John Velie, who along with the late Lewis Swyer cofounded Shakespeare in the Park, is directing "Hamlet."

Eric Villani of Schenectady is playing Hamlet.

New York City Ballet starts second week

The New York City Ballet is now in its second week at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center. This week's performances include the Saratoga premiere of "Donizetti Variations" on Thursday, July 13 at 2 p.m. and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at 8:15 p.m.

On Friday, July 14 at 8:15 will be The Gala featuring several ballets. After 24 years of dancing with the New York City Ballet, Patricia McBride will dance for the last time in "Valse Triste," one of the presentations at the gala.

On Saturday, July 15 at 2 p.m. there will be a performance of "Donizetti Variations" and at 8:15 p.m. "The Four Temperaments."

Museum offering fun family activities

There's plenty of air-conditioned fun to beat the heat for youngsters and adults weekends at the State Museum this summer.

"Live Reptile Shows" give kids the opportunity to meet some of their favorite crawling creatures as Dean Davis, founder of the Living World Ecology Center, brings in snakes, lizards, turtles and other reptiles. Shows are at 1, 2, 3, and 4 p.m. every weekend through Sept. 24. Admission is $1.

Famed Disney songwriter and storyteller Dan Crow will appear in concert on July 15 and 16 at 1 and 3 p.m. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for children.

"The Magic of Danny Orleans" turns magic into learning on Aug. 5 and 6 as kids chime in with the names of the colors in a rainbow emerging mysteriously from a blank sheet of paper, and the coins that drop mysteriously out of ears.

For music lovers, singers and composers Kim and Reggie Harris will perform pop-rock originals, jazz and traditional songs on Aug. 19 and 20.

Festivities to mark Shaker heritage of the West and South Family buildings still remain off Albany Shaker Road.

The North Family, located in the area that is now the Shaker Ridge Country Club, was established for members who could not become full members, either because they owned property or had a spouse living among the "world's people."

"The most devote Shakers were allowed to live in the Church Family," said Conroy-LaCivita. The Church Family land was purchased by Albany County in 1927. The Albany County Airport was later built on the farmland. Some of the buildings were torn down, and some were altered for use as a county health care facility.

At the current site of Heritage Park, the Shakers grew about 40 acres of roses for making rosewater, according to Conroy-LaCivita.

The Shakers believed in separation from the outside world, common ownership of property, celibacy, open confession of sins, non-violence, equality of the sexes and races, devotion to industry and perfection.

"They believed they were making heaven on earth. 'Hands to work and hearts to God' was their motto," said Alice Hotchkiss of Loudonville, a member of the Shaker Heritage Society. "They were very happy living this communal life."

In their effort to be independent of the outside world, the Shakers invented and produced most of the things they needed. Among their inventions are the flat broom, the clothespin, the circular saw, the water-powered washing machine and the revolving oven. Shaker surplus items, including furniture, brooms and woven goods, sold readily because of their quality, and simple, practical design. Conroy-LaCivita said the Shakers were the first to sell packaged seed.

The group became known as the Shakers because of the lively dancing common at their services.

At their height before the Civil War, the Shakers had about 6,000 members who lived in 19 communities from Maine to Indiana and Kentucky.

Competition presented by textile mills built in the mid-1800s was a key factor in the decline of the Shakers. The mills provided jobs and inexpensive machine-manufactured goods. The group's strict rules and belief in celibacy also contributed to the decline.

The last Shakers from the Watervliet community in Colonie left in July of 1938, when the South Family property was sold. The three remaining Sisters went to Mt. Lebanon.

The two remaining Shaker settlements in the United States are located at Canterbury, N.H., and Sabbathday Lake, Maine.

Anyone interested in serving as a volunteer with the Shaker Heritage Society may call 456-7890.

Whiteface lectures attract all kinds

You don't have to be a scientist to enjoy the summer public science lecture series at Whiteface Mountain which runs consecutive Tuesdays through Aug. 22. Sure, there will be scientists with impressive degrees, but meteorologist Ray Falconer says all types of people attend the lecture series he organized.

"We get them from all walks of life. They come from Paul Smith's College, camps by the mountain," he said.

Falconer started the summer lecture series in 1961 when he became a full-time staff member with the Atmospheric Sciences Research Center, the sponsor of the series. About 10 years later the program was expanded to include about 10 lectures in Albany and the program has grown ever since and is now in its 28th season.

"It's grown in popularity over the years," he said. Typical attendance is about 150-250 people, although it has been as high as 600.

Falconer serves as the master of ceremonies at the lectures and usually gives a "glorified weather briefing" using overhead transparencies and slides to educate the audience about any weather phenomenon which might be in the news.

His guests, who speak on a variety of science topics, are leading scientists and authorities.

The lectures are at 8 p.m. at the field station located on Memorial Highway in Wilmington, about 140 miles from Albany. Upcoming lectures are July 18, "A Tribute to the Wilderness," a slide show of the Adirondacks by Carl Heinmann, photographer and professional maker of hand-split snowshoes; July 25, "An Update on the Life of the Loon from Alaska to the Adirondacks," by Judith MacIntyre, professor at Utica College; Aug. 1, "Earthquakes in the Eastern United States and New York State," by Michael O'Rourke of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute; Aug. 8, "Exploring Glacier Bay Alaska by Kayak," by Rich Strimbeck, project manager of the Branch Project, Whiteface Mountain Field Station; Aug. 15, "Mines and Mineral Resources of New York State," by Donald Potter, professor at Hamilton College; and Aug. 22, "The Adirondack Wildlife Program Including the Canada Lynx Restoration Project," by Rainer Brocke of Syracuse University.

Guide for canners

For today's creative cook, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has issued the "Complete Guide to Home Canning."

With information on new varieties of fruits and vegetables, dozens of new home canning recipes and new diets, the guide sells for $11 and is available through Cooperative Extension offices or by writing to the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Julie Ann Corbett, former Delmar resident and 1984 BCHS graduate, has one of her performing dreams come true. A month ago she was called up onstage by singer-songwriter Barry Manilow at New York City's Gershwin Theatre to sing a duet. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Christiana, now of South Daytona, Fla., she now lives in New York City. A year ago she graduated from Adelphi College, where she majored in theater arts.

Glimmerglass Opera

The State Museum Associates membership group is sponsoring a tour of the new Glimmerglass Opera House in Cooperstown on Sunday, July 30.

Fees for the day, including transportation, lunch and the performance, are $72 for the general public and $65 for museum members.

Take a step back to the Renaissance period

Escape the frustrations of the modern day world and immerse yourself in the gaiety and triumph of England's Renaissance Era during Sterling, N.Y.'s Renaissance Festival, July 1 through August 13.

Where else can you experience a full day of revelry, royalty, music, theater, adventure and romance, while witnessing trial dunkings, jousting and combat demonstrations — and feast in the true Medieval way?

Several specials are being offered, including a less than half-price $2 admission for children ages six through 12, during the first two weekends of the festival, July 1-2 and July 8-9. Children under six will be admitted at no charge throughout the festival.

For tickets or information, call 315-947-5783.

Amusement park features two circus acts

There are two new acts at the Great Escape Fun Park's circus this summer.

The Flying Valencias, three brothers and one of their wives, are especially known for three of their tricks performed in the air — the passing leap, the Russian Swing and the triple somersault. They will be performing this month.

The Centrons, David Chabira and Sheila Carter, perform stunts while zooming around on a motorcycle.

The Great Escape is located on Route 9 in Lake George and is open 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m. daily. The circus performs three times daily. For information, call 792-6568.

WAMC takes bold programming steps

ive Gazette for the past year and a half, says the show will not be ideological in nature but focus on "women who have done unusual things." The program becomes the fifth to be produced locally by WAMC, joining its Public Health Show, the Public Radio Show, Knock On Wood and Living Well.

The innovative "51%" is just one of many indications of the growing vitality WAMC has manifested since Alan Chartock became executive director of the station nearly nine years ago. At that time the budget of the Albany Medical College station was about $250,000, and the station was fighting hard to stay out of bankruptcy court. Today, under Chartock's direction, the station sports an annual budget of $1.2 million and continues to expand in a variety of directions.

The station's news department, for example, has not only grown from two to seven full-time reporters but developed a reputation for quality reporting. Under the direction of Don Decker, emphasis continues to be placed on in-depth reporting rather than the vignette or snapshot approach characteristic of nearly every other station on the dial. Chartock is one who sings Decker's praises loudest. With a exhilarating sense of pride the station's chief honcho says, "For a little station, we supply a lot of news to the rest of the state."

Chartock, who also works as a political science professor in the SUNY system and comments on current affairs for WRGB television, says WAMC's current membership of 16,000 continues to respond positively to the station's quality programming. The membership, he says, provides feedback not only by phone and letter but with their pocketbooks when pledge time rolls around.

In addition, Chartock says that each time the station holds one of its three annual drives to raise $150,000, close to 1,000 new members are added to its list. Although there is some attrition each year with people moving away, Chartock is quick to point out, "Our renewal rate is unbelievable." And the drive takes increasingly less time away from programming. Last fall's drive, for example, was completed in six days — half as many as the year before.

The station relies heavily on its three membership drives because continuous expenditures allow WAMC to keep few reserves in the bank. "We only have $100,000 of a $1.2 million budget in the bank," Chartock says, "Our modus operandi is to take every nickel that comes into this station and to plow it back, giving the listener more for their membership dollar."

With two new frequencies recently added to the station, WMAK in Kingston and WCAN in Canajoharie, the station's programming can now be heard in as many as five states. That area will increase because the station has also filed for frequencies in Voorheesville, Middletown, Oneonta and in the north country.

An enthusiastic Engler suggests that radio listeners who have been put off by some women's shows because of their heavy ideological bent, will find "51% a refreshing alternative."

Currently WAMC is reported to be the second most powerful FM station in the northeast, an estimate that was made before the addition of the Kingston and Canajoharie stations.

Listening to Chartock talk about the inner workings of the station for just a few minutes, it becomes clear that what makes program and membership expansion possible at the station is the cooperative nature of the work experience at WAMC. "This is not an authoritarian operation," Chartock says, "There is a tremendous amount of sharing. The station is very much a collaborative effort with a lot of bright people participating."

Indeed it appears that at WAMC the quality of a person's ideas ranks higher than one's official status. Everybody is encouraged to offer ideas and opinions except that, as Chartock notes, "You've got to be able to defend your position." This free exchange of ideas creates a synergy so that, "We live from each other's energy," Chartock says.

While the non-hierarchical atmosphere of the station might create some risks for the executive director from time to time he says it's worth it because, "It's a place where people like to come to work."

51% born

With the kind of collaborative network that's nurtured at WMAK, it's no surprise to see an innovative program such as "51%" being given birth. The program is a "joint product in every way," Chartock says, even the naming of it after several thousand tries.

Beth Engler, the show's producer, as well as Chartock consider "51%" with its focus on women's day-to-day lives and life concerns to be unique. An enthusiastic Engler suggests that radio listeners who have been put off by some women's shows because of their heavy ideological bent, will find "51%" a refreshing alternative. She says that while the stories and interviews will highlight the concerns of women, they will not have a narrow focus or negative bent. They will be of interest to both men and women alike. "We want men to listen as well," Engler says.

Tomorrow night's opening show, for example, will feature non-fiction writer Amy Wilentz, who recently had published her life experiences in Haiti in The Rainy Season: Haiti Since Duvalier. Wilentz was selected for an interview, Engler says, because she is among the first women journalists to write non-fiction of this type.

The first show will also feature a story on women who find themselves in what Engler describes as a "care-giving" role. An increasing number of women in their late 40s, 50s and 60s, who have already raised their children, the producer says, now find themselves having to take care of aged parents at home. It's a bind some women find themselves in that deserves a look, Engler says.

The issue of gender bias in standardized tests such as the SATs will be included in one of the upcoming shows as well as an interview with Mary Cleave, one of only 13 woman astronauts in NASA's space program.

Only WAMC (along with WMAK and WCAN) will carry the first show, but Engler and Chartock are confident that many, if not most, of the station's 350 public radio affiliates will pick it up immediately to add to their weekly schedules. This, Chartock says, is the usual way of introducing a new locally-produced show on public radio.

"You put it out first, everybody takes a listen and they start calling you to say we're picking it up. So we don't know yet how many will carry it," he says.

To be sure, Engler and Chartock both will be listening attentively to comments about the new show from both men and women. As producer and executive director in a station with a mandate to serve the public, both are concerned about the comments from that membership. Chartock says part of his role as executive director is to constantly "keep your ear to the ground and find out what the public wants." However, Chartock says this is not as easy a task as it sounds, suggesting that, "There are a lot of different publics."

There may be one exception to this rule, however — A Prairie Home Companion, the crown jewel of National Public Radio for years when Garrison Keillor hosted the show live on Saturday nights from Minnesota. WAMC radio listeners who have not already heard will be pleased to know that Keillor will begin hosting the show live once again beginning Sept. 30.

In the meantime, the 350 public radio affiliates may have found a second crown jewel in "51%". It's just a matter of time to see how far the brightness of the new stone carries.

Five Rivers hosts ecology program

Mr. and Mrs. David Kavanaugh

Donna Mulkerne wed

Donna Marie Mulkerne, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Mulkerne of Delmar, was married June 24 to David Joseph Kavanaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kavanaugh of Albany, at St. Thomas the Apostle Church in Delmar.

Rev. James Daley officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Colleen Mulkerne of Albany, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Joanne Manion of Cranston, R.I. and Diane Kavanaugh of Mannassas, Va., and Susan Kavanaugh of Albany, sisters of the groom. Junior bridesmaids were Sarah Boone of St. Louis, niece of the bride, and Vicki Seymour of Delmar.

James Kavanaugh, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Thomas Conway, Paul Cahill, James Keegan, John Keegan and Matthew Karl, all of Albany. Ring bearer was Daniel Kurtz, nephew of the bride.

The bride is a 1982 graduate of Bethlehem Central High School and graduated from the State University College at Morrisville in 1984. She is employed by the Travelers Insurance Company.

The groom is a 1982 graduate of Bishop Maginn High School in Albany and a 1986 graduate of Siena College. He is a student at Western New England School of Law.

A reception was held at the Bavarian Chalet. After a honeymoon at Sanibel Island the couple will reside in Delmar.

Library evening series offers diverse events

The Electric City Chorus, a barbershop quartet and chorus, will perform tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. at the Bethlehem Public Library.

The performance is part of the library's summer-long Evening On The Green series. On Wednesday, July 19, the Western swing band "Rage of The Sage" will perform.

The library will present Ruth Pelham of the Music Mobile and Dennis Kobray on July 26 and Aug. 2, respectively. Kobray will portray a student of the composer, Scott Joplin.

Shelley Warnken Warnken-Tracey

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Warnken Jr. of Delmar have announced the engagement of their daughter Shelley to Richard J. Tracey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Tracey of Coeymans.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Bethlehem Central High School and attended Hudson Valley Community College. She is currently employed with the Travelers Insurance Company as a benefits specialist.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk High School. He is employed by Tracey Welding Company.

A summer 1990 wedding is planned.

Wetlands program set at Five Rivers

The Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, Game Farm Road in Delmar, will hold a program on the ecology of wetlands on Thursday, July 20, at 9:30 a.m.

Center naturalists will lead participants through an investigation of the plant and animal life in a wetland.

For more information or to register call 453-1806.

Bethlehem seniors receive AARP awards

Darwin Hinsdale, community representative for the Bethlehem Tri-Village Chapter 1598, of the American Association of Retired Persons, recently presented awards of saving bonds for community relations activities to Bethlehem Central seniors, Sean Nixon, son of Drs. Jesse and Suzanne Nixon of Elsmere, and Tammy Guarino, daughter of Arthur and Barbara Guarino of Delmar.

Senior Citizens

Ballet for seniors

Lunch at the Ashgrove Inn in Saratoga Springs and the performance of the New York City Ballet will be sponsored by Bethlehem Senior Citizen Services July 22nd.

Transportation will be provided via bus from the municipal parking lot at approximately 10:30 a.m. The group will be transported to Saratoga Springs for lunch and the ballet.

There are a limited number of reservations. For information or to place a reservation, call Joyce Becker at the Senior Services Office at 439-4955.

V.F.W. picnic

The annual V.F.W. picnic will be held on Thursday, Aug. 3, at the Slingerlands Fire Pavilion. A chicken barbecue lunch will be served at 12:30 p.m. There is no charge for this event, but reservations are required. Transportation will be provided.

For transportation information and reservations, call the Senior Services Office at 439-4955.

Barbershop on the Green

Come join us for an evening performance of the Electric City Chorus (barbershop quartets and chorus) at the Bethlehem Public Library. The Evening on the Green Concert series is free. Transportation for seniors provided by the Bethlehem Senior Van from your home. For reservations and information, call 439-5770.

Community Corner

Onesquethaw Volunteer Fire Department Country Carnival

The Onesquethaw Volunteer Fire Department will hold their annual Country Carnival on Friday and Saturday, July 14 and 15, from 6 to 11 p.m.

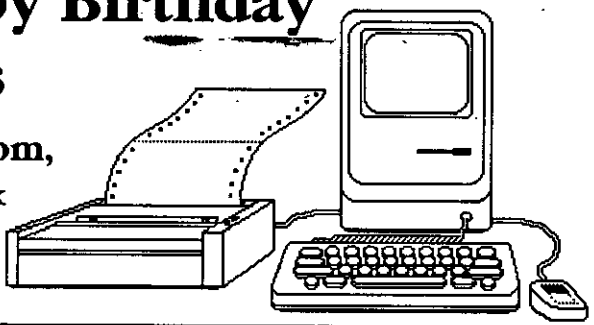

The Carnival will be located at the Unionville Fire House at the corner of Delaware Turnpike and New Scotland South Rd.

Bring the family for an evening filled with games, a chicken barbecue and free children's rides.

For more information call 439-3167.
