Hudson River spill could have been worse

Cleanup crews work in Bethlehem

By Bob Hagyard

The 1,000-gallon oil spill along the Hudson River happened too early in the migratory season to inflict significant damage to waterfowl, according to first reports from the State Department of Environmental Conservation.

Sometime Friday night, the barge Cibro Philadelphia, owned by Montauk Fuels of Long Island, moored at the Port of Albany, suddenly began gushing heating oil into the river for reasons yet to be explained.

The slick that resulted spread downstream to the Thruway Berkshire Spur bridge — along a major flyway for ducks and geese just as the annual migratory season began. The spill was reported to the U.S. Coast Guard, which has jurisdiction over the estuary. Officials closed the river at 5:30 a.m. EnCon officials arrived to assist the Coast Guard investigation and assess the damage to wildlife. Clean Harbors of Glenmont and Domermuth Environmental Systems of Clarksville, two cleanup firms on retainer with the state, were called in.

"This is the beginning of the migration season," noted Edward Feldmann, En-Con spokesman. "Ducks and geese follow the course of the rivers, and that's" (Turn to Page 3)

Smolinsky the Democratic candidate, Ringler gets free ride for supervisor

By Tom McPheeters

Putting the best face on the situation, Bethlehem Democrats last week unanimously nominated John Smolinsky as their sole candidate in the November town election.

"We feel he's already done the job," said Arthur Brown, chairman of the Bethlehem Democratic Committee. Smolinsky, who recently resigned as chairman of Bethlehem Citizens for Responsible Planning, started nearly five years ago to build a network of activists concerned about growth and overdevelopment in the town.

"He's put in his time at the meetings," said Brown. Smolinsky will face two non-incumbent Republicans, former high school principal Charles Gunner and attorney M. Shiela Galvin, a member of the board of appeals. Theoretically, having one candidate gives the Democrats the chance to target their votes — so-called "bullet voting" — a tactic that paid off two years ago in the election of Bob Burns as the first Democrat on the town board.

"There certainly was no intent to repeat the story of '87," said Brown, who took over the party reins after Burns' victory. "My personal inclination is to run a full slate, but we won't run candidates unless they are capable of winning and serving," he said. "That doesn't give us any credibility."

Meanwhile, the two contestants in the Sept. 12 Bethlehem Republican primary breathed a sigh of relief after a grueling summer and left for vacations. Kenneth Ringler, the winner who now has a free ride in November, promised again "to be the supervisor of all Bethlehem residents." He said he will be "reaching out to you for help in addressing the issues confronting us now and in the future."

Ringler also thanked his opponent, Sue Ann Ritchko, for "engaging in a campaign which focused on the issues" and for committing herself to support him in the fall. The final tally in the primary was 2,484 for Ringler and 1,619 for Ritchko. Ringler also captured the Conservative line, as did all of the other Republican candidates.

Ringler, who is chairman of the Bethlehem Planning Board but has never held elective office, was endorsed by the Republican Committee prior to the primary, and enjoyed heavy support from committee members and from town employees — in many cases the same people. He thanked the committee and "the hundreds of volunteers who helped bring our message to the community. Your dedication and enthusiasm will never be forgotten."

The Democrats and Brown had been hoping that Burns would accept the party's nomination for supervisor, but he declined, citing his promise when he ran two years ago to complete a full four-year term if elected.

"I understand why Bob made that decision, although I was disappointed that he did," Brown said.

Brown said he expects Smolinsky's campaign to focus on controversial developments such as the proposed BTR shop-

Cable TV goes rural

Spurred on by the possibility of competition, Cablevision is stringing cable to Clarksville, Feura Bush and will be picking up some of the more rural areas of Bethlehem in the near future.

Crews from Cablevision, which recently bought out Adams-Russell Cable Television, began working their way along Delaware Turnpike from Bethlehem Central High School to Clarksville last week. Cablevision's area manager, George Smede, said Tuesday the company plans to pick up all areas, including side roads, where the density is at least 20 houses per mile. In addition, a line will go down Rt. 308, the Feura Bush-Unionville Road, to Feura Bush so that hamlet can be wired, Smede said.

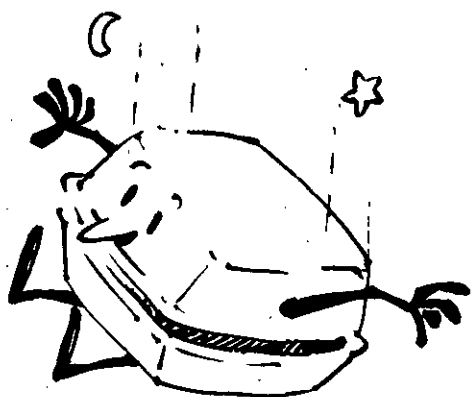

Cablevision, or its predecessors, has a non-exclusive franchise in New

CONGRATULATIONS CAPITAL REGION!

TOGETHER, WE'RE MAKING RECYCLING WORK.

We're happy to be part of a real success story—the beginning of full-scale recycling in the Capital Region.

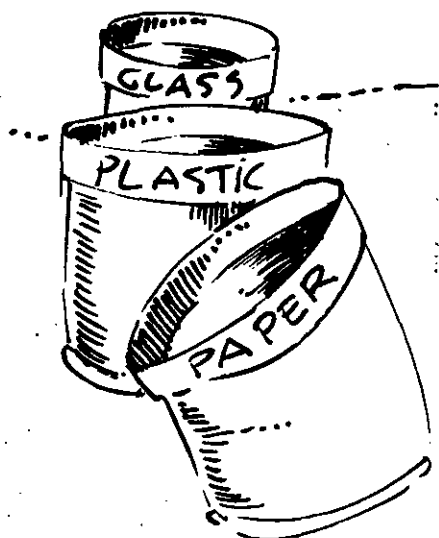

After only one year, BFI is collecting over 50 tons of newspaper each week from residents in the towns of Bethlehem, Clifton Park, East Greenbush, Guilderland and Scotia/Glenville. In June, we started picking up plastic in Guilderland, and in the near future we expect to be collecting glass and metal from Capital Region residents.

The real success story is the 15,000 households that are actively participating. Without our customers doing their part, our efforts couldn't have gotten off the ground.

Our commercial customers are joining in, too. We've recently begun a program to recycle the corrugated cardboard used in packing boxes. The new program lessens the waste stream, and in many cases it saves businesses money by reducing the tipping fees we have to pay.

With regional landfills closing, it is becoming ever more important to reduce our waste stream and reuse what we can. BFI and the Capital Region are off to a good start.

The battle of Slingerlands — is it over?

By Tom McPheeters

Encouraged by last week's Republican primary, the developers of the proposed Bethlehem Village shopping center on New Scotland Rd. are stepping up their drive for public support of the project.

The latest development is the release by the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce of its survey, taken last spring, of its members regarding the controversial shopping center that would include a Price Chopper supermarket. According to chamber President Douglas Brownell, 20 percent of the chamber's members responded and 75 percent of them said they support the project. Twenty-two percent were opposed and three percent were undecided, he said.

Brownell said the respondents included "a cross-section of the Bethlehem business community." A Slingerlands resident himself, Brownell said the survey indicates agreement "that Bethlehem Village would have a beneficial impact on the economy and quality of life in our town."

The project has been highly controversial since proposed last year by BTR, a Maryland-based development firm, and Price Chopper. It would be situated on vacant land on the west side of New Scotland Rd., bordered by the end of the Slingerlands Bypass on the north and LaGrange Rd. on the south.

The original plan would have included a large shopping center, office buildings and a housing development, all served by an extension of the Slingerlands Bypass. Early this year the plans were scaled down to a 134,000 square foot shopping center (slightly smaller than Delaware Plaza) and a residential development with 82 single-family lots and 64 town houses. A corridor for the bypass extension would be dedicated to the town, but not built.

Nevertheless, opposition to the plan remains strong, and it was an issue in the Sept. 12 Republican primary for supervisor. Candidate Sue Ann Ritchko, who recently retired as a vice president for Price Chopper, took a position against the plan. Her opponent, Kenneth Ringler, who is chairman of the Bethlehem Planning Board, said he favors allowing the rezoning proposal for the project to be considered.

Ringler said he met with members of the executive committee of the Slingerlands Homeowners Association late in the campaign, and refused to change his position on whether the rezoning should be considered. Shortly thereafter, he said, one member of the executive committee took out a full page ad in The Spotlight urging support for Ritchko. Ringler said he sent a letter to Slingerlands Republicans explaining his position.

Ringler won the primary, and carried the two Slingerlands election districts in the process. He won District 1 by 30 votes and District 15 by five votes.

"Obviously, we were very encouraged by that," said Bruce Preston, BTR's vice president in charge of the project.

Preston said the company has heard nothing from the town since March, when the town board referred the rezoning proposal to the planning board for its recommendation. He said he understands the town's planning staff has been swamped by other projects, including the Rt. 9W Corridor and the Land Use Management Advisory Council, which is working on a master plan for the town. He said he hopes for consideration in the near future and thinks public support is strong.

"I have been speaking to several groups in Bethlehem and people are still upbeat," he said.

ping center on Rt. 85 in Slingerlands and the town's Rt. 9W planning district. "Basically it's going to be planning and development, which as recently as six years ago the Republicans were saying were no problem," he said. Brown said pressure from citizens — and Democratic candidates — on those issues was largely responsible for the more recent town actions to establish a planning department and begin work on a master plan.

Brown said despite the difficulty in getting candidates at the local level, his organization is in excellent shape for the fall campaign. Every committee post except one is filled, the executive committee has been meeting regularly and there are lots of volunteers. The committee even has its own computer system, purchased after

Kenneth Ringler

Brown took over last year, which makes keeping track of voters and volunteers a lot simpler. Gone are the days of "six volunteers sitting around the kitchen table licking envelopes," he said — now campaign workers can concentrate on getting out to see the voters.

we're particularly concerned about this incident. Waterfowl have declined to low numbers."

Dr. Ward Stone, EnCon wildlife biologist, reported only one casualty as of midday Monday, a herring gull. Rescued from the slick and cleaned were 10 Canada geese, one mallard duck and one cormorant duck. Whether they will survive depends on how much, if any, oil they may have ingested.

Some wading birds, such as herons and egrets, were also found with oil in their feathers, but were seen fully flighted by EnCon staff, according to spokesman Feldmann: "Since (waders) don't immerse, that's not such a problem as with ducks, which do immerse."

Cleanup activities will cease around the end of the week, Feldmann noted, "except for some hot spots onshore."

Scotland so no town permission was needed for the move, Smede said. The franchise does not require the company to serve areas with a low density. Smede admitted that a proposal by an independent cable operator, Haele Communications, as well as a new "broadcast cable" service, speeded the decision to go rural.

"We've been talking about this for three years except the cost was prohibitive," Smede said.

With higher rates in place, the company expects to break even on the new areas, he said. Both Clarksville and Feura Bush have or are getting water, so "we think this is a good growth area," Smede said.

In Bethlehem, the company will also extend service to the few remaining rural areas, Smede said. These include sections of Rt. 144 including Corning Hill and Cedar Hill, and also the hamlet of West Albany, where a reopened Jericho Bridge may mean growth, he said. "Basically, in Bethlehem we just try to keep up with all the new developments," he said.

OGS opens bids for 15 projects

The New York State Office of General Services will open bids in this month for 15 new contracts, representing 13 projects, which will provide work in 11 counties. The estimated total value of the contracts is over $2 million.

The OGS commissioner requires that affirmative action be taken to encourage the participation of minorities and women and minority and women-owned firms in the OGS construction contract program. The full involvement of such persons and businesses is essential to the achievement of social and economic equality and improvement of the state's economy.

OGS construction contracts for Albany and Essex announced recently the apparent low bid, submitted by Triangle Mechanical and Electrical Co., Inc., of Delmar.

Beyond the primary

The Spotlight congratulates Ken Ringler on his solid victory in the Republican primary to become the party's nominee for Bethlehem supervisor.

We would also congratulate him on now having an apparently unobstructed road to election in November. But in a strictly non-partisan spirit we must regret that the local Democratic party's leaders were unable to come up with a candidate at their last-hour caucus. We are for a strong two party system in suburban towns as well as in city and county. A Democratic candidate could have pressed Mr. Ringler to describe more imaginative and concrete specifics than the primary induced him to commit himself to.

Having won with the all-out endorsement and active support of the Republican party's governing establishment, Mr. Ringler presumably can be expected to provide an administration quite similar in goals and deeds to those of his immediate predecessors. A sizable portion of Bethlehem's residents clearly are comfortable with the current perceptions and style of governing. We

Red sales in the sunset

The barely muffled moans and the accusatory finger-pointing that have followed the departure of the VWs and the bananas from the Port of Albany have the appearance not only of gloomsaying but also of scapegoating.

Some self-accredited authorities in international trading were first to cast a stone or two, and the local daily newspaper published acres of attempted analysis and denunciation.

Never mentioned was one of the most significant developments in the entire history of the port. Exactly 18 months ago a comprehensive master plan and development study was completed, submitted, and reviewed at a public meeting. The plan was developed by an engineering consulting firm which maintains offices in Albany but also in 23 other cities ranging from Kuala Lumpur and Cairo to Miami and Houston. The work was done under contract to the State Department of Transportation and with the supervisory assistance of a 28-member policy committee that numbered in its ranks several public officials (the mayors of Albany and Rensselaer, local legislators, county executives), eight representatives of various businesses located at the port and four labor unions involved with work there, and people from DOT and other State agencies.

The report systematically looked at the port's past, present, and future.

Unhappily, a look at its past is important — and disconcerting: "The mid 1970s saw many failures in the port's infrastructure. Only through the efforts of the State Legislature to obtain funding for dock replacements and building repairs was Albany able to continue to serve the port's users.

"The early 1980s were in many ways also difficult years for the port. Cargo tonnages were stagnant or declining, and revenues were depressed. The physical condition of its facilities suffered from years of deferred wish the new supervisor all the best as he shapes a program and prepares to take over the big responsibility. His record suggests an openness that's all to the good.

One medium-sized issue that he will have to confront is allocating his time and energies between his business duties and the demands of what has become thought of as a full-time governing post.

We also want to offer thanks and good wishes to Sue Ann Ritchko, who carried out a spirited, energetic — and nervy — primary campaign. With some 40 percent of the vote within her party, she not only made a very decent showing but made some telling observations and raised many more issues than hackles. If some of her nettles did sting, they may well ultimately prove beneficial. And she will gain the commendation of many for sticking to her promise to support the winner.

maintenance, and other evidence of advanced physical deterioration was apparent. Marketing efforts were generally insufficient to generate major new business. Tenant leases disadvantageous to the port seriously limited its revenue generation potential. In short, the port was not self-sustaining, and had become a significant financial burden to the cities of Albany and Rensselaer.

"By the mid-1980s the overall health of the port showed substantial improvement through the efforts of the Albany Port District Commission and the policy members guiding this study, and assisted by the capital resources provided through the Rebuild New York bond program.

During this time the port took a number of steps that enabled it to carry out port functions safely, more efficiently, and more dependably.

"Since 1985, the port's docks have been improved with other improvements scheduled for the future. The port has been operating more as a business enterprise, and as a result, its financial condition has shown a marked improvement."

The report adds that "while great progress has been made, more remains to be done." The truth of this axiom comes pungently clear in descriptions of how the master plan's goals are to be achieved, how to enhance revenues, the realities of the port's possible growth, marketing plans, maintenance plan, capital projects, and a short-term and long-term financial plan.

Clearly, the Port of Albany has a systemic illness that has limited its viability for many years. Scurrying after the recently departed importers would have been unavailing. The numerous remedies proposed in the report and master plan, however, provide hope for happier days down by the river side. Some are already in effect. Certain of those proposals will be reviewed in a future Spotlight editorial.

Autumn in New York

Ask just about anyone, and you'll be assured that autumn is the nicest season of the year. So we are entitled to welcome fall on Friday with cheery expectations of bright days, crisp nights, crisper apples, and ample

Homeowner describes 'unfair' assessment

Editor, The Spotlight:

I'm sure my story of our tax assessment will sound familiar to many Bethlehem residents. Almost 10 years ago we moved into our new house and were promptly reassessed. The new assessment was a huge increase, so we filed a grievance. Our assessed value exceeded the purchase price multiplied by the equalization rate, and similar nearby houses were assessed at one-half to two-thirds ours. We thought we had a great case, but we were denied a decrease. This left us with a very bad feeling about our new town. We preferred not to go to court, so we burned in silence and paid up.

Now as we get ready to sell our home, our realtor supplied us with a list of comparable homes to help us set the price. The list included the current taxes on seven comparable homes. They are as follows: $1,259, $1,730, $1,818, $1,932, $2,100, $2,350, $2,678. Our taxes are $2,875 — and sure I'm mad! These numbers certainly are at odds with our town's position that it has a fair assessment system.

My thanks to The Spotlight for your recent editorials on reassessment. We should all demand a full, speedy, and fair reassessment. It's only right!

Screwing the news into the ground?

Editor, the Spotlight:

Newspapers are a strong influence on the politics of the area they cover. This is not as great through editorials and endorsements as it is through the slant they give the daily news.

The Times Union is a perfect example. Everything Albany's Mayor Whalen or Mr. Coyne do is presented in the worst possible light; while Mr. Scaringe is always fully quoted, as is Mr. Morris. Letters to the Times Union in any way giving praise to the Albany city government or the county government are never printed.

The paper switches 180 degrees in regard to state politics. Governor Cuomo's picture is in the T.U. almost daily along with his latest pronouncements. The paper switches so fast from its position on county politics to its position on state politics that someday it may get spinning and screw itself into the ground. Is this what happened to the Knickerbocker News?

Life's little perplexities

It was a summer afternoon, a big multi-family reunion was being held, and my mother, my sisters, and I were en route to the interurban trolley that would carry us out to the country and the big park where uncles and aunts and cousins were swarming. (Remember, this was back in the 20s, when people often went their way from town to town on trolleys.)

I was all of about 4 years old, and for this special occasion I was dressed in a white suit. All this comes clear to me, all these years later, because my sister has been regaling me with accounts of a few of life's more embarrassing moments.

Before reaching the trolley stop, I went headlong, face down, into a large mud puddle. The white suit, in which I was to make such a fine impression, was white no more. Sort of a fudge ripple, I gather. And I understand that the subsequent effect on the aunts and grannies didn't bother me in the slightest; the embarrassment, of course, was my mother's.

My sister's recounting of this little event (magnified over the years, naturally) has put me in mind of some later embarrassments that I do recall more vividly.

There was the day out at the desert town of Indio, California. I was visiting an elderly gentleman named Floyd Odum at his rather elaborate spread not far from town. Floyd Odum may not ring many bells today, but half a century ago he was the Atlas Corporation, which was what might be called the first of the conglomerates. The Atlas Corporation had made Floyd Odum a name to conjure in financial circles; it had made him a bundle; and it had made it possible for him to retire in splendor to Indio ranch life with a considerably younger wife. Her name was Jacqueline Cochran, and except for Amelia Earhart she was probably the earliest and best-known aviatrix (what a word!) in the world. (She later became a mogul herself, in the cosmetics trade, as you may remember.)

Our business conversation, Floyd's and mine, paused for a lavish lunch. There was an empty chair at the third plate, because Jacqueline (she was in residence at the time) didn't show. Throughout the afternoon she was nowhere to be seen. By dinnertime, she also failed to put in an appearance, though Floyd obviously was expecting her to be the hostess. He was chagrined, I was embarrassed for him — and our session wound up quite a bit less promising than it

And then I recall a day down the river near the village of Hyde Park. I had received a terse telegram saying only, "Come Thursday at 2 o'clock." I arrived promptly, and we settled in for our talk, my interviewee and I. There were a number of topics and multiple questions radiating from them. But after perhaps 20 or 25 minutes I realized that the interviewee was not responding to the most recent question. So I waited quietly until the little snooze was finished, and we resumed without any indication on both our parts that there'd been an interruption. This was repeated at small intervals every 10 minutes or so. Consternation was my middle name — was I to just wait without even clearing my throat? Well, that's what happened, all afternoon long. I resorted to petting a small black dog who sat patiently between our chairs. Over and over, the conversation flagged and then resumed without missing a beat. Finally, all the nervous questions were put and answered. I gave Fala one final pat, offered my heartfelt thanks and farewell to Eleanor Roosevelt, and took my leave.

Anyone who didn't experience that strange afternoon hardly can imagine the difficulty that this interviewer knew. But, withal, what a rewarding afternoon!

It was another of those overcast days in Saigon, and I needed to replenish my never-very-large cash supply. So I altered my usual morning route to detour to the bank where I had some kind of account. As I recall, it was one of those gentlemen's kinds of banks, where conversations were held in hushed tones, and the managers were ultra-dignified with all the proper countenance except monocles. Would I be good enough to wait these few minutes while things were properly checked out and put through, don't you know? So I settled in with that morning's edition of the Saigon Post, to read about the most recent gains by the government's troops and General Westmoreland's latest dispatch from inside the tunnel. (The light ahead surely had been sighted this time.)

Before long I became aware of another bank patron standing about. He was much less starchy than my hosts the bankers, and somehow we struck up a conversation. He turned out to be, indeed, a Yank himself; in fact, from New York, it appeared. We chatted for several minutes about weather, war, and other trivia; my cash was presented to me, and I departed, hearing my new acquaintance call out, "Say hello to my brother in Albany."

Who? I mentioned this little puzzlement later in the day to Ambassador Lodge. He seemed to choke just a bit on his salad, and said with just a hint of a smirk, "Well, I daresay that was a Chase bank where you were. And the brother, that would be Nelson, wouldn't it? Because I'm sure you were chatting with the chap who owns the bank. That was David Rockefeller. He does come by, I understand, now and again."

These columns are written in the assumption that most of their readers are interested in what appears in the fascinating realm of magazines and of the often-fascinating people who make them.

For such individuals, I want particularly to point out an instructive and entertaining (and somewhat appalling) article in The New York Times Magazine for Sunday, Sept. 10. It's a penetrating look at some of the magazines in the Conde Nast group that is owned by the Newhouse family.

That list has been growing, and it includes some of the most illustrious, renowned, and successful periodicals in the country today. One recent acquisition, for example, was The New Yorker. A revived Vanity Fair is spectacular. A recent start-up is called the Conde Nast Traveler. Vogue is a prime example of hugely successful publishing. A younger upstart, also notably successful, is Self, which has been undergoing a facelifting after just a few years. Then of course there's the large monthly known as HG, which is a name it was endowed with by a passing editor who had been employed to put out a magazine formerly given the old-fashioned title of House and Garden.

The Times Magazine's long article is well worth the reading, and even worth the trouble to look up this back issue. This is true if only for the insight a reader can gain into the world of super-publishing and some of the currently dominant personalities. In this case, the principals are S.I. Newhouse (known as Si) and two of his female editors, both of whom happen to be British birds. They are responsible for Vogue and Vanity Fair.

And on the subject of Vogue: If you can lift it, you can still find the September issue around. This is an amazing book (that's the best word for it) of more than 800 pages. Except for the Sears catalog and the phone book, you've never seen anything like it. What a stunning tour de force for any periodical's staff.

What's particularly amazing me is the quite high percentage of those pages that are in editorial copy (including the scores upon scores of fashion art) — and even more of a plus for the casual reader (viewer?) are the numerous articles that are far removed from style and beauty. Many of these are associated with "culture," but small amount of that never hurt anyone, according to records dating back to 1875.

Tidying up trash

by Lisa Barron

Point of View

I met my friend Marv at the recycling center yesterday. Marv's a PR man for Wastemore Unlimited, a builder of trash incinerators, among other things. He is a storehouse of information about the latest hi-tech on solid-waste disposal. I asked him about Wastemore's plan to build an incinerator in Town B for four-county trash and an ash landfill in Town C.

"First of all," he sniffed, "it's not an incinerator, it's a waste-to-energy plant that will convert your dirty refuse to nice clean energy. Your power company has to buy it whether anyone needs it or not. Now, that's a good deal!"

"Sounds efficient, but what about recycling? Our landfills are filling up. Isn't that the way to go?"

"Wastemore loves recycling. Cans and glass don't burn anyway. When we buy out the rest of the area's haulers we'll decide what will be recycled and what can be waste-to-energized. But frankly we get precious little cooperation from you people out there."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, just because we upped our charge for recycling collections, thousands of our customers quit us. And the market for recycled newspapers is enough to make you weep." He wiped a large tear. "Between you and me and the leachate pond, recycling only sounds good but nobody wants to bother."

"I see what you mean. You have to zap it."

We do have to be careful that this recycling and waste reduction thing doesn't get out of hand.

"Exactly! We do have to be careful that this recycling and waste reduction thing doesn't get out of hand, you realize."

"How so?"

"Well what do you think we burn anyway? There are no BTU's in rotten tomatoes. You have to bring on that excess packaging, and all those nice disposable diapers, more, more!" His eye gleamed and his brow became moist.

"I can see that if we have enough of your incinerators, er, waste-to-energy plants, I mean, we don't have to worry at all about waste reduction."

"It's those environmental fanatics who are making the trouble" he shouted, waving his arms. "They're greedy. We're going to whisk away their trash, no fuss, no muss (we'll discuss the cost later) and that's not enough. They want a guarantee about clean air and water. What do they think we are, magicians?"

"I see you have a few problems with people wondering where all the toxic stuff goes. But what about all that lead, mercury, cadmium, and dioxins in the stack emissions and in the ash?"

He became rather huffy. "Just because EPA says it's often toxic doesn't make it so. It's really a matter of labelling. DEC was very helpful; there's a good group. They called the ash 'Special Waste' and allowed dumping in a regular landfill. As a responsible company we don't do that sort of thing."

"I see you mean well. Actually what does happen to the leachate from the ash?"

"Not to worry. We have such a safe system that it is guaranteed up to five years, if the plastic liners aren't defective. We can hardly plan for every little accident, of course. We make sure there's a cap on our liability though. We protect our stockholders all the way." He was beaming.

"Didn't I read that Wastemore has a lot of criminal convictions and environmental violations?" I asked. "Don't you get some flak about those?"

He shrugged. "It's the price of doing business. Everybody has problems. Town pols don't seem to mind as long as they get a fast easy-looking solution to the trash piling up in the landfills. 'Read-my-lips-no-more-taxes' is the password for re-election. We advise people to talk about recycling before elections and incineration, oops, waste-to-energy, afterwards. We learned that in a little town up north that out-foxed us with some 'endangered eagle habitat' maneuver. Very sneaky."

"Still, it seems a bit unfair to stick a town with mountains of toxic ash that might contaminate water supplies," I mused.

"No problem. It's all planned for. Hi-tech is really wonderful. We just treat it and pump it to the nearest stream. Isn't the Hudson or the Mohawk around here? I hear they're already polluted, so what's a little more? Build a hospital or some low-cost housing nearby, put some plastic ducks in the pond and you're all set."

"Oh, I see, Leachate Towers?"

"Yeah, clever. Well, I'm off to McDonald's."

"Isn't it too early for lunch?"

"We're negotiating for a new product in a three-foot styrofoam container; burns like a dream, that stuff. Might call it a McToxic burger!"

Support is solicited for Bike-a-thon

Editor, The Spotlight:

Riders for the Saturday, Sept. 30, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital "Wheels for Life Bike-a-thon" are asking New Scotland citizens to pledge a contribution for each mile they ride.

Every mile the bikers go earns money that can bring us closer to a cure for cancer. The life saving study of childhood cancer at St. Jude has become critical to children all over the world.

Your generous pledge encourages riders. (After the event, help them get the money to us quickly.)

The ride starts at the Altamont Fairgrounds (Grand Street entrance). Between 9:30 and 3, riders can use the half-mile track in the fairgrounds or a four-mile course along the Helderberg escarpment beginning and ending at the fairgrounds. If you haven't been asked to sponsor a rider, but are interested, please call 872-0602 and a rider will contact you.

At the end of the ride, we check and sign to confirm that the rider earned what the sponsor pledged. Riders return to sponsors to collect the pledge.

Riders can still get sponsor/registration forms from Key Club members at the Voorheesville, Guilderland, or Berne-Knox-Westerlo high schools.

No to 'thank you'

Editor, the Spotlight:

I would send this suggestion directly to Mr. Kenneth Ringler except that I can't find him in the current telephone directory (or through directory assistance). Since I am unable to reach him that way, I am expressing my thoughts through The Spotlight.

I have taken the time to drive around the Delmar/Slingerlands area two days after the Sept. 12 primary election. I have noticed that not only have your campaign signs not been removed but your people have taken the time to put "thank you" on most of them.

I think that this time would have been better spent if the signs were removed and you found an alternate way of saying thank you.

Volunteer training offered

Information meetings are now being scheduled for individuals interested in volunteer positions with St. Peter's Hospice of St. Peter's Hospital in both Albany and Rensselaer counties. Potential volunteers who meet eligibility requirements will be accepted into the 3 day, 20-hour training program scheduled for Oct. 20-22. Volunteers are needed for the bereavement, home care, day care and pastoral care programs, as well as to assist with patient care in the Hospice Inn. Volunteers can also serve as clerical support staff in either the Albany or Troy office. Drivers for the Hospice Van and carpenters are also needed.

Information sessions will be held Sept. 25 through Oct. 15. Potential volunteers are encouraged to contact St. Peter's Hospice at 454-1686.

Walk for Pine Bush

Capital District group Save the Pine Bush is having a Walk the Pine Bush on Sunday, Sept. 24, 1-4 p.m.

The walk will begin at the entrance to the State Preserve at the end of Washington Ave. Ext. Participants are asked to bring water.

For information, call Mark Platt at 462-4062 or Rezsins Adams at 462-0891.

Program available for students

The Local Government Intern Program is an opportunity available to high school juniors and seniors attending schools within Albany County. Students are matched with local government officials to discover first hand how government works. Guest speakers, independent projects, seminars, legislative meetings, and field trips throughout the school are offered throughout the year. Students who successfully complete the program receive academic credit.

The program is sponsored by Cornell Cooperative Extension and the Albany County Legislature. For more information, contact Cooperative Extension at 765-3500.

Phonathon volunteers wanted

The Cerebral Palsy Center for the Disabled needs help to make this year's phonathon a success.

No talent necessary — just a willingness to want to talk to people and have a great time. Training is provided as well as a light supper. The phonathon begins on Sept. 25. Calls will be made between 6-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

For each dollar given, Pepsi Cola will match that dollar amount up to $30,000 in the spirit of the Cerebral Palsy Center for the Disabled's 30th Telethon Celebration. For more information, call 458-8810.

Slide presentation planned at library

On Tuesday, Sept. 26 at 7:30 p.m., the Bethlehem Public Library, 451 Delaware Ave., in Delmar, will present Al Restifo, who will present his slides featuring the scenery and nature of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

The slides feature lighthouses, dunes, and will be accompanied by music and sound effects.

For more information, call 439-9314.

Will CDTA represent all in airport deal?

By Patricia Dumas

A public hearing called by The Capital District Transportation Authority (CDTA) to sound out opinion on its plan for buying and developing the Albany County Airport brought questions about the authority's ability to represent the four counties it serves.

Although required to have at least eight members, according to the state's Public Authorities Law, the CDTA board has two long-standing vacancies, one each from Albany and Saratoga counties. The board has no Republican members and new appointments have been blocked by a stalemate between the governor's office and the State Senate, which must confirm the appointments.

Robert G. Lyman, authority chairman, said that line of questioning was not pertinent to the plan and later told reporters at the Sept. 13 hearing that "appointments to the board are not the call of this board. We don't have the right to make appointments. Vacancies are filled by the governor when he sees fit to make them."

Also at the meeting, the Airport Oversight Committee for the Shaker Ridge-Vly Road Neighborhood Association read into the record a lengthy statement noting reasons why they are opposed to the CDTA owning the airport.

Represented by its chairperson, Cecilia Ghandi, the association said that the authority ownership "would have an adverse effect upon sound transportation development policy and planning."

"It is too much to ask of anyone except the Albany County government to plan and carry out responsible airport development in a coordinated manner with street and highway restructuring," the association declared.

They also claimed that the proposed transaction "would only substitute political bickering on the county level with political bickering on a regional level."

John Simoni, chairman of the Saratoga County Board of Supervisors, and David Wickerham, Saratoga County Administrator, pointed out the lack of full representation on the authority board which is supposed to be representative of the four counties it serves with its transportation ridership — Albany, Rensselaer, Schenectady, and Saratoga.

Alluding to the fact that Lyman did not explain the vacancy situation, Simoni said.

"From the answers I received, I say we really need a more informed board."

Wickerham said all the authority members "are holdovers and could be replaced, raising the question of continuity, and its effect on airport management."

"It is conceivable that all of the members could be replaced at once," he said.

"Saratoga County," Wickerham said, "has grave concerns about the Capital District Transportation Authority."

The county plans to employ private economists to help officials decide whether to approve or disapprove the CDTA plan, Wickerham said.

Robert G. Prentiss, Albany County legislator representing his constituents in Colonie, recommended that a citizens advisory committee be formed if the CDTA takes over the airport. The committee would operate similarly to the committee that the authority now has to look after concerns of its elderly and handicapped ridership, Prentiss said.

He said "better management is the key. . . it makes no difference who owns the airport if it isn't run properly."

"At present, it is a public embarrassment."

Ghandi questioned the legality of the sale, claiming that the Albany County charter might have to be changed to permit the sale. The charter gives the county legislature authority to oversee management of the facility. Later, Lyman, who is a former county attorney, said he doubts that the sale would be illegal under the county charter.

Another spokesman, Ned Praeger of Albany, representing the Shaker Ridge Historic District which is close to the airport, raised concerns about the effect of airport development on the district.

He said there was a potential for an adverse effect, but that "there is not necessarily a conflict if development is considered and planned carefully."

The CDTA hearing was based on its proposal to buy the airport for a $24.5 million price and develop the terminal under a $115 million expansion program. A film presentation highlighted the development features.

CDTA is competing with a British American/Lockheed Air Terminal plan that offers the county an outright cash payment of $25 million and annual payments adding up to $90 million over the next 80 years under a lease renewal option.

Lawmakers okay arena contracts

By Patricia Dumas

Voting on what has become a common place agenda item, the Albany County Legislature last week authorized a series of payments to contractors for additional work on the Knickerbocker Arena.

A total of 36 "change order" contracts adding up to three quarters of a million dollars was approved, representing adjustments to previously authorized contracts for various construction details.

At the meeting, Democrats and Republicans joined to welcome back Minority Leader W. Gordon Morris Jr. of Elmsere, who returned to his post after recuperating from heart surgery.

Republican legislator Kenneth MacAffer, explaining his no vote on the civic center items, termed the expenditure "more money for the mausoleum," and Deputy Minority Leader Robert G. Prentiss said, "It's another example of pouring the taxpayers' money down the drain."

But although other Republicans voted against the additional spending and against other civic center related contracts, there was no debate as the legislators hurried through the agenda at their meeting Sept. 11.

Albany County

The other contracts went to Lektro-Kleen of Albany, for carpet/vinyl base at $25,424, to J & B Roofing, Inc. of Cohoes, for roofing work at $22,138, and to General Drywall Corporation, $497,239.

The legislature also awarded a $127,000 contract to William J. Keller & Sons Construction Corp. of Castleton for replacement of two bridges in the town of New Scotland. The Rowe Road Bridge and the Old Plank Bridge over Onesquethaw Creek will be replaced.

Other contracts approved were for additional work totaling $19,117 under a previously approved contract with Jackie Bombard to provide a 96-bed modular unit next to the county jail. The additional work is needed to comply with Latham Water District requirements for installation of water lines and sanitary sewers, and also for revisions to a service road and for bonding and insurance.

Two contracts were awarded in connection with the sewer drainage system for de-icing chemicals at the county airport. Bubonia Brothers of Albany was given a $138,035 contract for the second phase of general construction on the project and T & J Electrical Corp. of Troy was given a $476,470 contract for the second phase of electrical work.

Grand opening slated

Profile Hair Design invites you to join them for their grand opening celebration, Saturday, Oct. 7, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Profile, located in Main Square will feature free consultations, drawings, and refreshments.

Earns promotion

Joanne Williams of Voorheesville was recently promoted to manager at the Colonie Branch Office of Trustco Bank. Williams joined the bank in 1984 as a teller and has worked at various branches as an assistant. She is involved in the Colonie Plaza Merchants Association.

Wins scholarship

Margaret Bragle, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bragle of Slingerlands, was awarded the Mu Phi Epsilon Scholarship for $1,000 at the conclusion of the 62nd season of the world-famous National Music Camp, Interlochen, Mich.

Bragle was a member of the camp's World Youth Symphony Orchestra and performed a lead role in the season's operetta "H.M.S. Pinafore".

She was among more than 2200 students, age 8 through 18, who came from around the world to study music, theatre, dance, and visual arts at the camp.

Leader attends workshop

Phoebe Kerness of Delmar, a La Leche League leader from the Capital District Area Chapter, recently attended a Leader Revitalization Workshop in Nyack. Guest speakers included Viola Lennon, a La Leche founder, and Barbara Heister, R.N., a lactation consultant who is a member of the board of directors of La Leche League International.

Lawyer elected to executive committee

Thomas P. Connolly of Delmar, a member in the Albany law firm of McNamee, Lochner, Titus & Williams, P.C., has been elected to the New York State Bar Association's 23-member executive committee which oversees the management and administration of the state bar within policies determined by the House of Delegates. He will serve as a vice-president representing the third judicial district.

Rt. 9W hearing date set

Town board discusses overlay district impact

By Mark Stuart

The Bethlehem Town Board will hold a public hearing Oct. 11 at 7:30 p.m. to discuss a proposed law to create the Route 9W Overlay District.

The overlay law is intended to modify the existing zoning law and help alleviate traffic problems, establish site development standards and eliminate land use conflict between commercial and residential uses. The Overlay District law is the first phase of proposed legislation to come out of the recently completed $47,000 Route 9W Corridor study conducted for the town by the planning firm of Buckhurst Fish Hutton Katz of New York City.

Town Planner Jeff Lipnicky presented a revised version of the law with changes based on comments presented at a July 19 public hearing of the planning board. Included in the revisions was a grandfathering clause that provides existing single family residences or current residential property owners an exemption from

One of the topics discussed by the board was frontage requirements. Lipnicky said that of the 381 residences that have frontage on Route 9W or Route 32 within the corridor, 230 would not meet the minimum requirements. "It sounds relatively high when you think about it, but what you have to keep in mind is that next to those little lots are large vacant lands," Lipnicky said.

Councilman Sue Ann Ritchko said she was concerned about the grandfathering clause since it did nothing to protect the residential homeowner in a commercial zone, whose property would become subject to the Overlay District restrictions when the homes are sold, thereby lowering the market value of the smaller lots which could not support commercial businesses.

"Those are the people whom we are harming the most, the people with residences in commercial zones," Ritchko said, "This is all they have, this is what they'll be leaving to their family, this is their legacy."

Councilman Dennis Corrigan said, "The intent of this law is to alleviate some of the problems that have been hurting people; there are going to be some people harmed by what we do and there are going to be people harmed if we do nothing at all."

Lipnicky also presented a revision to the minimum frontage clause that establishes a 150-foot minimum frontage along connector roads and a 250-foot minimum frontage along an arterial. The revision allows an exception for frontage roads, such as the road in front of the Glenmont Stewart's shop and the Stone Ends Motel.

Upon the request of Corrigan, Lipnicky revised a requirement that required a planting plan for parking lots. The revision now permits the planning board to require preservation of existing vegetation instead of a planting plan that may have meant the removal of existing trees.

Lipnicky said he thought the majority of concerns raised at the

Other business

The town board agreed to submit a revised plan for the proposed 36-unit Good Samaritan Nursing Home enriched housing program to the planning board for site plan review.

Architect A.J. Coletti said revisions were made to the water system and the parking space plans. The water system will connect with the water main on White Oak Road and not Rockefeller Road in order to distribute equal service in case of fire emergency. The Good Samaritan Home currently is tapped into the Rockefeller Road water main.

According to Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick, the planning board was scheduled to review the proposal last night (Tuesday).

The $2.5 million project will be funded through the New York State Enriched Senior Housing Turnkey Program and construction must begin before November.

Dave Austin, administrator of parks and recreation, submitted an application for review requesting a $125,000 grant through the state's Environmental Quality Bond Act. Austin said the money would be used in the development of the North Bethlehem Park.

The board awarded a bid of $25,318 to Mathews Bus Sales for the purchase of a senior services vehicle. The cost includes the trade-in value of the town's current vehicle.

The board appointed Lisa M. Bopp of Albany as a clerk-typist in the town planner's office.

The next regular meeting of the town board will be Sept. 27 at 7:30. There will be a presentation of the 1990 tentative budget on Sept. 29 at 4 p.m.

Becker PTA plans fund-raisers

The A.W. Becker PTA met Sept. 12 and discussed several topics regarding the 1989-90 PTA program. A possible craft fair/booksale/ toysale is being considered as a fall fund-raiser. Movie Night was such a success last year that the PTA is planning on holding four more this winter.

School pictures will be taken this year on Oct. 11 from 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. Volunteers are needed as "hair combers" to help the kids.

Santa's Secret Shop will be held again this Christmas season to allow the children to select gifts for family and friends. It will be on Dec. 11-15 this year.

The PTA approved a program submitted by fifth grade teacher Mary Nealon to bring the Junior Achievement Program into the fifth grade curriculum. The PTA will purchase materials for the program to better facilitate business and economics lessons for the students.

Albert Keating, Becker principal, requested funds to purchase a laminator and book binder to better preserve the original books published by the classes each year.

Cheryl Clary reported on the success of the After Schools Activities Program (ASAP) over the past year and invited everyone to a 50's and 60's dance to be held at the Ravena Knights of Columbus Hall on Nov. 18 to raise money for the ASAP program fund.

Cecile Kowalski reported on a program coming in November where singer/songwriter Curtis Lickman will perform songs from lyrics submitted by students. Admission will be $5.00 per person.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 10 at 7:30 p.m. Childcare is available.

Fall festival

It's coming to South Bethlehem this Saturday! The 12th Annual Fall Festival of the United Methodist Church that is. Beginning with two silent auctions beginning at 10 a.m. and a regular loud auction at 1 p.m., there will be booths and food and lots of old-fashioned fun. Rounding off the day will be a chicken barbecue with meals available for eat in or take out. Tickets can be purchased at the door and take outs can be picked up beginning at 4:15 p.m. There will be 14 great booths set up for your inspection all day.

Teacher retires

The community wishes Marion Koch a wonderful retirement as she leaves 31 years of teaching in the RCS school district. Koch has taught second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth grades.

Bridge work begins

Work began on the Route 32 Bridge over the Conrail yards in Feura Bush this week. Callanan Industries of South Bethlehem is building the $3 million span, scheduled for completion by the end of 1990. Traffic will be restricted at times but the roadway will remain open throughout construction.

Academic awards

RCS Senior High School has announced academic awards for the 1988-89 school year at an assembly last week. Highest final averages were held by James Grube, grade 9, 94.83; Robert Freurbach, grade 10, 96.5; and Cherie Vernol, grade 11, 93.25.

English awards, donated by the Frank Stolz Agency, were: English 9R1 to James Grube, English 9 to Allison Stooks, English 9S to Tammi Tune, English 10R1 to Amy Pass, English 10R to Catherine Bestler, English 10S to Dawn Duncan, English 11R1 to Cheri Vernol, English 11R to Missy DeFlumer and English 11S to Ami Wilber.

Information for volunteers

The principals from the three elementary schools in the RCS district are holding an informational meeting for new volunteers at 10 a.m. today at the Board of Education Building in Selkirk. The meeting will address qualifications and required time commitments.

Invitation to parents

This year parents of A.W. Becker students are invited to eat lunch with their children. Lunch can be brought from home or purchased for $2.50. If you care to join your child or grandchild, please call the school before 9:30 a.m.

Also of note: Parents Night will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 26 beginning at 7:30 p.m. After an introduction of the staff, parents will be surveyed to find out what areas of the school serve their children well and where they feel improvements can be made.

LUMAC to meet

The Land Use Management Advisory Council will meet on Tuesday, Sept. 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the Bethlehem Town Hall.

LUMAC members will summarize information gathered from the committee's five public participation meetings held during the summer.

October auction

The First United Methodist Church of Voorheesville will conduct its 38th Annual Auction-Bazaar on Saturday, Oct. 7, between 10 a.m.-4 p.m., rain or shine.

Areas will be set up at the church for crafts, snacks, white elephant materials, plants, toys, and books. Games for children will be set up on the upper parking lot area of the church. The auction begins at 11 a.m. in the lower parking area. Food service will also be available.

Donations of good used items are needed. Arrangements for pickup can be made with acquisitions chairman Lee Flanders at 765-2682. Drop off of items is not recommended because of storage problems.

Mended hearts group schedules meeting

The Mended Hearts of the Capital District will meet on Sunday, Sept. 24 at 2 p.m., at the Cusack Auditorium of St. Peter's Hospital in Albany.

Bethlehem Lions seek funds for Albany Med eye center

The Bethlehem Lions Club has made a commitment to raise $25,000 over the next five years for the Lions Eye Institute at the Albany Medical Center. The club's gift will help meet the $1 million goal for the capital campaign of the institute.

Clark D. Briggs, Lions Eye Institute capital campaign chairman and past district governor of Lions District 20-Y2, said the group is joining many other Lions by getting back to the basics of Lionism — serving the community by raising funds for sight conservation programs and aid for the blind.

"In 1925 Helen Keller challenged the Lions to become Knights of the Blind," he said. "Not only are New York's clubs rising to that request, we are doing so with clear conviction and enthusiasm."

The Bethlehem Lions Club will raise its capital pledge through corporate solicitations and individual gifts.

The $1 million capital campaign is being organized by Lions District 20-Y2, which has more than 2,000 members from areas throughout a 12-county area of Northeastern New York and falls within a 50 mile radius of the Capital District and the Mohawk Valley west to Utica.

The Lions Eye Institute at the Albany Medical Center will offer innovative patient care and provide staff ophthalmologists with the latest in research equipment and clinical facilities, said Dr. J. Richard Gaintner, president and chief executive officer of the Medical Center. All patient care for eye related illnesses at the Medical Center will be consolidated in one location within the new ambulatory care facility, which will be constructed at the front of the complex.

The Lions Eye Institute, under the direction of Dr. Richard S. Smith, professor and chairman of the department of ophthalmology at the Medical Center, will specialize in the diagnosis and treatment of major eye trauma, severe infectious diseases of the eye, chemical injuries, degenerative retinal disease and ocular problems caused by diabetes and refractory glaucoma, diabetic retinopathy, glaucoma research, new treatments for cornea disease, occupational and sports ophthalmology, and laser surgery techniques.

Patients served in the Lions Eye Institute at the Albany Medical Center will come from throughout New York State, as well as from parts of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Vermont.

Albany's institute will be the seventh established in the United States. Others are in New Orleans, Chicago, Philadelphia, Louisville, Ky., Eugene, Ore., and San Francisco.

Delmar student earns honors

Maura Schnurr, daughter of Herman and Janet H. Schnurr of Delmar, has been named to the 1989 edition of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Schnurr was also named to the president's list for the highest level of academic achievement in both the fall and spring semesters.

Y launches annual Black History contest

The Albany YWCA has launched the 10th Annual Black History Contest, which is open to all youth ages 8-18.

The winning essays will be aired on local television stations.

Three copies of the essay must be received by the YWCA, 28 Colvin Ave., Albany 12206, between Oct. 1 and 6 p.m. Nov. 7.

Getting water out of rocks in New Scotland

By Bob Hagyard

Those wells in the vicinity of the Tall Timbers property — with a combined estimated yield of two million gallons per day — look more and more important to the Town of New Scotland with each passing week.

Now before the town is C.T. Male's report on the town's hydrogeology, its underground water resources. The document will become part of the zoning master plan now being drawn up by the planning board.

And the word is this: Except for the Tall Timbers wells, New Scotland's water resources don't amount to much. Up to 70 percent of the town has "no surficial resources of any value," the report said.

Robert Hampston, planning board chairman, said, "We could say to people moving into these areas, we will have to put on conditions: you will have to treat for methane, you will treat for hydrogen sulfide, you will treat for iron, you will, you will."

The Tall Timbers wells, a cluster of four, lie in the area considered for a 150-unit single-family development proposed by the Galesi Group, which has agreed to donate the site to the town. The Michaels Group is also considering a development in the area, and available water could make the area attractive to other developers as well.

Hydrogeology

The C.T. Male report appears to argue for limited land use everywhere in town: "Areas where water potentials are high must be regulated to protect the town's limited water resources. Those areas with minimal water resources should be kept at low densities and/or be designated for land uses that are not water-use intensive."

The report suggests these "non-intensive" uses: "forestry, some manufacturing and warehouse land uses, agricultural use that does not require irrigation or very low-density residential on large lots, where adequate water can be found and purified. These restrictions and regulations should remain in effect until such time (if ever) that it becomes economically and physically possible to service the areas with municipal water."

Of the town's five water districts, only one — Clarksville's — is served by local well water. The districts serving Font Grove, Heldervale (New Salem), Swift Road and Feura Bush purchase their water from the Vly Creek Reservoir, located in the town but owned by the Town of Bethlehem. The City of Albany also sells some of its surplus from the Alcove Reservoir to Bethlehem, which in turn sells some to New Scotland's Feura Bush, Font Grove and Swift Road districts.

There's a problem with buying water from the Vly Creek source, and it has to do with its reliability in dry seasons. That reservoir is replenished by a watershed measuring 12 square miles, explained James Besha of Besha Associates, who for years served the Town of Guiderland as technical consultant on water matters. By comparison, the Alcove Reservoir draws from a watershed four times as large, about 53 square miles. The Watervliet Reservoir, which serves Watervliet and Guiderland, draws from a 102 square mile watershed — practically drought-proof by comparison.

C.T. Male's report did not discuss potential surface water supplies, an omission that bothered Hampston. However, it pointed out what types of development would tend to limit the town's water resources.

Some, the report noted, tend to retard long-term production by harming the ability of aquifers to recharge, such as large parking areas, which also hasten runoff away from recharge areas. High-density development may lead to high-density well drilling, leading to overlapping cones of influence, draining the aquifer faster than it can be replenished, the report also stated.

Sewer districts which rely on local groundwater may discharge into a sewer system leading elsewhere, essentially exporting the water supply over the long haul. C.T. Male also pointed out that usable aquifers form in sand and gravel deposits; they may be rendered useless by sand and gravel quarrying, which removes the soil that traps the water, permanently lowering the water table.

Then, there are activities harmful to groundwater quality: leaking underground storage tanks, poorly designed septic systems, herbicides, pesticides and fertilizers, sand and gravel quarrying, unlined landfills, stockpiles of road de-icing salt, and spills and liquids discharged into the ground.

Planning board members previously received a proposed master plan chapter on demographics, complaining that the document was "hard to read," in the words of member Ann Richards.

Justice candidate

Kris Jackstadt, candidate for New Scotland town justice, sought and earned the Albany County Conservative committee endorsement last month, contrary to the report in last week's newsstand edition. The endorsement was not challenged by his Republican opponent, incumbent Donald P. Chase, or any other candidate, thus the absence of Jackstadt's name from the Sept. 12 Conservative primary ballot.

New Salem's big weekend is here

Everybody loves a parade and the New Salem Fire Department has several in store for the public as well as a number of other fun-filled events to suit young and old alike, all scheduled for this weekend when the fire department and auxiliary at the "gateway to the Helderbergs" hosts the 30th annual Albany County Volunteer Firemen's Convention.

The event will begin today, Sept. 20 as the New Salem Auxiliary hosts the ladies groups. New Salem auxiliary president Ellen Hunsinger will kick off the convention with a dinner for the ladies, followed by a business meeting led by Sheila Mears, president of ACVFA. The following evening on Thursday, Sept. 21 New Salem Fire Chief Fred Carl and convention chairman Pat Hunsinger will welcome the men with a dinner. Town of New Scotland Supervisor Herb Reilly will be on hand to greet visiting firemen and Rev. Bruce Weirks, pastor of the New Salem Reformed Church will deliver a memorial address. A business meeting led by ACVFA president Joseph Fahd will follow.

On Friday, Sept. 22 the public will be invited to join in the fun as a Mardi Gras parade featuring costumes and floats will step off at 6 p.m. The line of march will wind along Rte. 85A from Picard Rd. to the fire station, closing down Rte. 85A from Rte. 85 to Picard Rd. between 5 and 7 p.m.

On Saturday afternoon a full dress parade will show off the firemen's finest uniforms and vehicles starting at Martin Rd. and ending at the firehouse. With the parade beginning at 1 p.m. Martin Rd and all other roads in the parades path will be closed to traffic from noon until 2 p.m.

New Salem fire department patriarchs Walter Greene, Harold Lonnstrom, Wyman Osterhout and Peter VanZetten will act a co-grand marshals for both parades. Walter Eck, second vice president of ACVFA will serve as commentator for both events.

Carnival games and rides will be on Thursday starting at 9 p.m., Friday following the Mardi Gras Parade and on Saturday after the dress parade- all set up at the Punkintown Fair grounds on the firehouse property.

For adult game lovers a licensed casino will be run both Friday and Saturday evenings while dancing to "Crystal Image" on Friday beginning at 7:30 p.m. and "Bobby Dick and the Sundowners" on Saturday between 5:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. will delight hoofers of all ages.

A raffle featuring a 4 day Bahamas vacation and a host of souvenirs to remember the goodtimes will round out the fun.

Parents night

Parents will be returning to the classrooms next week as both the elementary school and the junior high hold their parents night programs.

At the Voorheesville Elementary School parents will be meeting their children's teachers on Sept. 25, Sept. 26 and Sept. 27. On Monday parents of students in kindergarten, the gifted and talented program, learning lab and the resource room will visit. While parents of pupils in grades 2, 4 and 6 will come on Tuesday. Finally on Wednesday parents of students in grades 1, 3 and 5 will attend the open house programs to meet teachers and learn what will take place this year in the respective classes. Programs each night begin at 7 p.m. and end at 8:30 p.m.

On Thursday, Sept. 28 parents of students in grades 7 and 8 are invited to visit the junior high where a similar program will be held. The junior high open house program will also begin at 7 p.m. Anyone with questions can contact either the high school at 765-3314 or the grade school at 765-2382.

The Voorheesville PTSA will be on hand for all parents night programs both to serve refreshments and to invite parents and faculty alike to join the Parent Teacher Student Association. With a busy year ahead the PTSA will be fundraising for a creative playground as well as working on many school-community programs including such popular events as the annual book fair, the Fall Apple Fest, and Parents as Reading Partners. Co-presidents Sue Vanderwarker and Cindy Silver encourage all community members to support PTSA and its many projects by joining the group and volunteering however they can to help with the numerous projects sponsored by the service organization.

Alumni homecoming

The Voorheesville Alumni Association invites all area residents to join them at their first annual Homecoming dinner-dance to be held on Saturday, Oct. 7 at the Holiday Turf Inn on Wolf Road in Colonie. The evening open to everyone will include a cash bar from 6 until 7 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m. and dancing from 8 p.m. until midnight. Cost of the evening is $25 per person with a choice of London broil or Cornish hen as entrees. To make reservations before the Oct. 1 deadline, contact Patti Duncan at 765-2551.

Join the pack

Boys in grades 1 through 5 are welcome to join Voorheesville Pack 73. Cubmaster John Cole invites all boys in grades 2 through 5 to join the Cub Scouts and boys in grade 1 to join the Tiger Cubs. Although the Pack held its recruitment night on Sept. 14 boys are still able to join the group. The adventuresome pack will hold its first event, a family pot luck supper followed by a campfire on Saturday Sept. 30 at the Panthen Farm off Hennessey Rd. To join the group, contact either Cole at 765-3308 or assistant Cubmaster Bob Pilatzke at 765-2932.

Boy Scout Troop 73 is also welcoming new scouts. A number of Webelos scouts from Cub Pack 73 will be crossing over into Boy Scouting next Wednesday, Sept. 27 at the troop's annual fall family pot luck supper. The evening program which begins at 6:30 p.m. will mark the end of the troop's

Harvest ball planned

The Voorheesville Fire Department and Ladies Auxiliary invites everyone to come kick up their heels at their annual Harvest Ball on Saturday, Oct. 14. The event to be held at the firehouse on School Rd. will include dancing to Gold Rush from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. as well as beer, mixers and snacks. Donation is $10 per person. To make reservations, contact chairman Ron Welker at 765-3100.

Library events

A reminder that the Voorheesville Public Library will host two interesting programs this week. This evening (Sept 20) Dr. Ronald Nathan will host a program on stress management and on Thursday, Sept. 21 Voorheesville Village historian Dennis Sullivan will present the first in a four part program on house genealogy. Both programs begin at 7:30 p.m.

The library will be displaying the pastel landscapes and garden scenes of local artist Lillian Longley this month. Longley whose works have previously been displayed at galleries in New York City was recently awarded the

Members of the quilters group invite anyone interested to come and assist them in putting together the "Friendship Quilt" which will be raffled off later in the year for the benefit of the library. Quilting sessions will be held on Monday, Sept. 25 from 10 a.m. until noon and on Wednesday evening Sept. 27 from 7 until 9 p.m. at the library on School Rd. For more information, contact the library at 765-2791

Finally a reminder that the price of all copier prints will be raised to 10 cents as of Oct. 2 to meet rising costs of operating the machine.

Students win DAR award

Tawasentha Chapter of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution offers to any area high school wishing to apply, a medal, a certificate of achievement and a monetary award for excellence in American History, or related subject, to be given a superior student. The 1989 winners of this award included: Lisa Babiskin, daughter of William and Joyce Babiskin, Delmar; Susan Cleary, daughter of Stephen and Jean Cleary, Delmar; and Thomas Kurkjian Jr., son of Thomas Kurkjian Sr., Voorheesville.

Delmar accountant named to committee

Gregory H. Lurie, CPA, of Delmar, was recently appointed to the Private Companies Practice Section Executive Committee of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA).

Lurie is founder of the Albany CPA firm bearing his name. He is currently president of the Northeast Chapter of the State Society of CPAs, a member of the advisory council of the U.S. Small Business Administration for upstate New York and former chairman of the Small Business Steering Committee of the Albany-Colonie Chamber of Commerce. Lurie also serves on several state-wide committees for the State Society of CPAs and is active in other civic and professional organizations. He has lectured nationally on professional topics.

Appointed to council

Gov. Mario M. Cuomo announced the appointment of Richard L. Olson of South Bethlehem to the Law Enforcement Agency Accreditation Council.

Olson is an officer with the Village of Ravena Police Department and executive director of the State Senate Crime and Correction Committee. He has been appointed to serve a term expiring in March 1991.

BEDROOM CENTER

A Fabulous Selection for Youth, Teen and Adult....

As some of you already know, after operating in Albany for 10 years under the name of Wood-Design, Hope Farm Furniture opened in Clifton Park in Sept., 1987. We feature quality furniture, primarily of solid wood. In a beautiful rural setting, our store is inside a large, renovated dairy barn a couple of miles outside the main shopping strip in Clifton Park.

This summer, we have undergone a major expansion, practically doubling our floor space. This new showroom area will be devoted entirely to bedroom furniture. On display will be about 20 complete bedroom suits, including accessories (bedding, quilts, lamps, prints, etc.) ranging in style from clean, white contemporary to Victorian oak reproduction. In between will be a wide variety of sets in oak, cherry, pine and ash, in traditional, country, and contemporary styles. In addition to this stunning display of bedroom furniture, there will be many more new and exciting pieces — desks, entertainment centers, dining sets, gift items and much more.

With due humility, I honestly think that Hope Farm Furniture will soon be known as a landmark store in the Capital District, a store which will attract people from far and wide. And just think, we are right in your back yard!

Work on Feura Bush bridge starts

The replacement of the Route 32 bridge, leading to Feura Bush is under way.

"The utility poles along the hamlet of Feura Bush have already been relocated due to the widening of pedestrian sidewalks and most wires have been restrung," said Robert Cherry, a Department of Transportation civil engineer.

He said Callanan Industries, contractors from South Bethlehem, will first work on the water main vicinity of the Conrail tracks "so the water will be accessible to the town maintenance before the construction of the bridge."

According to Cherry, the new bridge will be much shorter, approximately 350 ft. in length, almost one half the size of the existing bridge.

The state anticipates most of the embankment work to be done this fall with a three month settling period.

Cherry said, "We anticipate the erection of the steel sometime in the spring." The entire operation is expected to be completed by late fall or early winter of 1990.

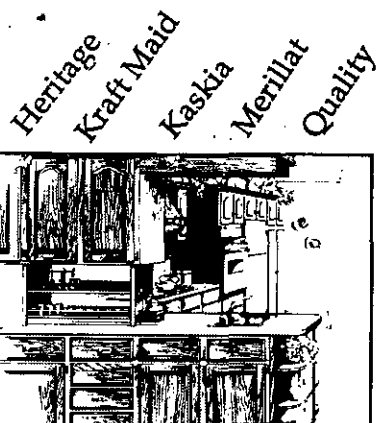

Cherry said traffic will remain "normal." The workers will channel the traffic and use what Cherry refers to as a safe and efficient manner to assist the motorists. He said, "We recognize the fact that it is a busy route and it would be too much to shut it down and reroute." There will be two-way traffic at all times. Cherry also said, "Traffic should remain constant through fall, however slight traffic pattern changes will occur in early spring. The traffic will be put on a slightly different alignment for one to two months depending on the contractor and their progress."

The estimated cost of rebuilding is $3.7 million, which includes the resurfacing, widening and the new structure over the Conrail tracks.

Cherry said, "The original structure was built in the 1920s. It has fulfilled its life expectancy. With the new structure we're pretty much guaranteed a life expectancy of 50 years. It was economically feasible to replace rather than rehabilitate."

Patience pays for Blackbirds

By Bob Hagyard

Voorheesville's soccermen, having solved some but not all of their first-week problems, now confront the top three teams in the Colonial Council.

In this year's league, Albany Academy and Waterford are the favorites with Lansingburgh and Voorheesville the dark horses. Now check the Blackbird schedule: at Lansingburgh Wednesday (today); at Academy Friday, at Waterford Oct. 2.

Voorheesville began a couple weeks ago with a strong midfield, question marks on defense with newcomers filling all five positions, three more question marks on the front line—and above all, no depth anywhere. VC soccer watchers are now seeing good answers to those question marks. After an 0-2 first week, the team rolled off two wins, 6-0 over Watervliet and 3-2 over Cobleskill. Monday, they dispatched Schalmont, 4-2.

Improved up front

One surprise for coach Bob Crandall has been the play of senior Adam Rose at midfield alongside Christian Clark and Todd Rockmore, the two names that come up first in any discussion of the team.

Versus Cobleskill Saturday night, Clark lined up for a free kick deep on the right side four minutes after the opening whistle. He ripped a low arc towards the top left corner of the penalty area where Rose, on a dead run, lined it into the net from 15 yards out, one touch. An astonishing play. For starts, it happened on a field that by game time (6:45 p.m.) was slick from an afternoon-long drizzle. By 7 it began to pour. Now, picking out a lob from the other side of a soccer field in a downpour under artificial lights is something of a feat. Timing a 20-yard run to meet the bottom of that arc on the dead run is another. Meeting that ball with the instep of the correct foot—the left foot, the weak foot for most people—is another feat. And doing all this in a large mudhole with players falling down all around—well, it ain't shabby.

Jeff Freyer wins ball from group of Watervliet defenders as Bill Kerr (16) looks on.

It was remarkable in another way, too. As a coach, Crandall is notoriously patient with kids who don't produce right away. Sometimes, it's a case of a youngster with talent only the coach can see, a youngster who no matter how hard he tries produces nothing tangible, which leads to a lot of grouching from the fans.

What this has to do with Adam Rose is this: Through all 20 games last year, Crandall penciled his name into the starting lineup for every game. Rose's stats: 0 goals, 0 assists. First two games this year, same thing.

Rose went on to play the game of his career so far, carrying the ball out of the defensive zone and feeding the offense, forcing Cobleskill to redirect its offense the other way.

Another improved player is Jeff Freyer, a 6-1 junior. Midway in the first half, Crandall sent him in for Japanese exchange student Hiroshi Tomikawa at left wing. Five minutes before intermission, he converted another Clark serve to put the team up, 2-0.

Cobleskill tied it up, 2-2, on defensive blunders two minutes apart early in the second half. Rockmore won it with 3:01 left in regulation with a fine left-footed shot from an Eric Logan feed.

Voorheesville outshot the Red Devils 23-6 and took an 8-4 advantage in corner kicks. Erin Sullivan recorded two saves for the Birds while Bob O'Connor, starter for the Adirondack scholastic team at the summer Empire State Games, collected five.

Defense

One Voorheesville fan who witnessed Monday's contest said it best: "Last year, it was weak offense and good defense. Now it's good offense, weak defense."

Agreed Crandall: "We're still trying to come up with a defensive combination. We'll need one to win the league this year. You can't give up goals like we have. Right now, everything that goes into the box (VC penalty area) becomes a scoring threat."

Saturday, Tomikawa was benched because, in the coach's words, "he wasn't doing anything." Monday he returned to the lineup and racked up three assists to power the team over Schalmont. Scoring two goals each were Rich Adams, the team scoring leader (6 goals, 0 assists going into Lansingburgh) and the No. 2 offensive player, Todd Rockmore (5 goals, 2 assists). Eric Logan assisted the first Rockmore goal early in the second half.

Phonathon volunteers wanted

The Cerebral Palsy Center for the Disabled needs help to make this year's phonathon a success.

No talent necessary—just a willingness to want to talk to people and have a great time. Training is provided as well as a light supper. The phonathon begins on Sept. 25.

Calls will be made between 6-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

For each dollar given, Pepsi Cola will match that dollar amount up to $30,000 in the spirit of the Cerebral Palsy Center for the Disabled's 30th Telethon Celebration. For more information, call 458-8810.

New facility celebrates opening

The Albany County Association for Retarded Citizens recently celebrated the opening of their new facility on 334 Krumkill Road, Slingerlands.

The new facility houses a day treatment and day training program and administrative offices. This 72,400 square foot facility, constructed on a 20.2 acre parcel of land, is a single-story, steel frame structure with brick veneer and textured masonry.

The day treatment program of the Albany County ARC has as its major purpose the provision of programs for people who reside in community residences, with their families or in family care settings. Daily programming includes training in independent living, self-care, and recreation. Medical, psychological, social, and nutritional services are also a part of the continuum of services. Clinical services such as speech, physical, and occupational therapies are also available.

Offense alive for BC booters

By Michael Kagan

13-0. Impressive score for even one game win, but that was the cumulative score of last week's three wins in as many games by the Bethlehem Central Soccer team. The Eagles beat Schenectady 2-0 on Tuesday, dominated Mohonasen 9-0 Thursday, and then closed out the week by handing a tough Scotia team its first loss of the season 2-0 on Saturday to improve their record to 2-0 in the Suburban Council and 3-1 overall. Their one loss was to Fort Ann in the first game of the season.

The highlight of the week was the win over Mohonasen. In that game Bethlehem got off 48 shots, compared to Mohonasen's three. Sean McDermott, who led the team with 12 goals last year, scored five times. McDermott had a total of eight goals during the week.

Mark Petherbridge, a starting forward, said that the Eagles

"settled down" and played more "patiently" this week than in the first game. He said that in the first game BC took a lot of "wild shots", but that "we played more as a team this week."

The Schenectady and Mohonasen wins were on the road, but the Scotia game was at home.

On Tuesday, BC will play an away game at Burnt Hills, play at home against Guiderland on Thursday, and then travel to Niskayuna on Saturday. Petherbridge said he thought the Eagles would continue to play well. He said that because "we didn't make sectional last season, this is the last chance for most of the team, so we have the drive to win."

The Eagle defense deserves a lot of credit for last week's success. Over four games this season, opponents have scored only once. That goal came in the game against Fort Ann.

Other scorers last week were Mike Peters and David Van Gelder both with two goals and Nick Materesse with one.

Church slates annual sale

The Slingerlands Community Methodist Church, 1499 New Scotland Rd., Slingerlands, will hold its annual rummage sale on Saturday, Sept. 23, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

There will also be a coffee shop and bake sale available. For more information, call 439-2209.

BC harriers: We'll be better

By Michael Kagan

"We can only get better." At least that's how varsity runner Mike Kimelberg sums up his hopes for the Bethlehem cross country team. Last year BC finished a mediocre 10th in the Suburban Council.

But the question is, how much better? Their first meet, the Johnstown Invationals, didn't answer that. The boys finished sixth out of nine and the girls ended up fifth. Two key injuries, however, hampered both teams' performances.

Kimelberg, who coach John Nyilis thinks will end up being the boys number one runner, could not compete due to leg cramps. He says he should be able to race again in a week. For the girls, Julie Hammer, last year's Albany County champion, tripped on what is called, appropriately, "Agony Hill." She could not finish the race and had to be taken out of the woods by truck. Fortunately, the X-rays turned out negative and she probably won't miss a meet, according to Nyilis. Hammer was in fifth place at the time of the fall. Nyilis said that the girls would have probably finished third and been awarded a trophy if Hammer had not gotten hurt.

Both the girls and boys did show some promise. Garry Hurd, a sophomore finished third with a time of 17:28 to lead the BC scoring. Nyilis said he may be able to challenge Kimelberg for the number one position. Hurd said, "I was surprised that I did that well." Ken Watson finished 18th, improving his time 1:29 on the same course from last year. Matt Dugan finished 28th and Jason Wilke 37th.

Nyilis said that Wilke could have run a better race and that he and Watson are the two most improved boys from last year. Brooke Tarbell finished up the boys scoring, coming in 40th.

Kathy Saba led the girls, finishing ninth. She said she didn't think she ran very well, but will hopefully be able to crack the top five regularly as the season progresses. Kelly Walsh, a very promising eighth grader finished 18th. Annette Cashen, who Nyilis said is the most improved of the girls, finished 27th. Megan Faulkner, a ninth grader, also finished in the middle of the pack, coming in 32nd. Kath Leonard, an eleventh grader in her first season of cross country, ended up 62nd.

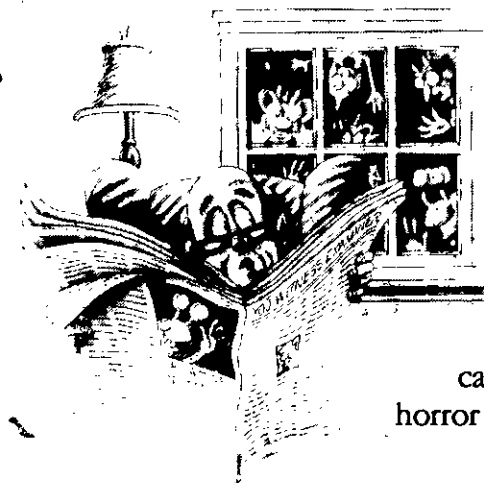

Kimelberg said, "We have a lot of new runners and based on our performance (at the Johnstown Invationals), I think we'll do pretty good." However, Kathy Saba said that because there are many young, new runners, it's hard to say how well BC will do. She did say that the girls "could do well if our top five stay healthy."

Nyilis says there are no rebuilding years. However, if there were, this would certainly be one for the Bethlehem cross country team. They should do alright this year, but the next few years will hopefully be something to look forward to in cross country.

Last quarter air attack wins for Eagles

By John Bellizzi III

Bethlehem Central, whose wishbone offense is best known for its ground game, took to the air Friday night with a 42-yard pass from quarterback Scott Hodge to Kevin Keparutis, setting off a fourth-quarter scoring drive that led the Eagles over visiting Shaker 7-0 in the season opener.

Bo Acquario's 12-yard touchdown run finally broke the scoreless tie with 5:11 left to play in the defense-oriented non-league contest.

The Eagles' only other big drive fell just short of a touchdown toward the end of the first half. Bethlehem took possession on their own 35, and picked up a first down after runs by halfbacks John Bobo and Acquario. Another Acquario carry and a short pass from Hodge to Craig Weinert preceded a 16-yard run by fullback Pete Klein, which brought the Eagles well inside the Bison 30 yard line. A 17-yard carry by Acquario brought BC to the Shaker 11. Bethlehem managed five yards on three short runs, but Hodge was sacked on the fourth down.

Football

Another good offensive opportunity was lost on the first play of the second half, when Shaker recovered a Bethlehem fumble near midfield. BC fumbled twice Friday night and lost possession both times. In addition, several penalties hurt Bethlehem's progress.

In the fourth quarter, Bethlehem took over on their own 25 after a Shaker punt. Carries by Acquario on the next three plays brought the Eagles another first down. Hodge's pass attempt on the next play was incomplete, but he turned right around and tried again — this time hitting Keparutis for the 42-yard gain. On the first down at the Shaker 15, Klein picked up a small gain, followed by a short Acquario run, and then Acquario's 12-yard touchdown jaunt. Hodge kicked the extra point for Bethlehem.

BC's defense dominated much of the action, holding Shaker to only 40 yards on the ground. BC's pass defense was also strong, including an interception by Klein late in the game. Bethlehem managed 181 yards on 38 carries, led by Klein (75 yards on 12 carries) and Acquario (76 yards on 16 carries).

At present, the Eagles are gearing up for their first league game in the Mohawk Division of the Met-roland Conference, against Christian Brothers Academy of the old Big Ten. CBA is 1-0 after defeating Albany High 14-7 in their non-league opener. BC will host CBA Friday night under the lights at Eagle Field.

RCS fumbles away chances

If a tie is like kissing your sister, a scoreless tie with lots of turnovers — the kind played Saturday by Ravena at Averill Park — has to be football's version of mono.

"You can't expect to win and give up the ball five times," said Coach Gary VanDerzee. But a strong defensive showing has VanDerzee convinced his Indians can do better this Saturday when they visit Lansingburgh.

The 'Burgh also lost Saturday, 16-8 to Tamarac, but has a good crop of juniors and seniors, many of whom were on a championship jayvee team two years ago.

"They've got some talent there if they can get it together," VanDerzee said. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, VanDerzee will be working to get his offense together. The passing game Saturday was respectable — quarterback Paul Moorehouse was nine for 19 and 139 yards — but the running game garnered only 20 yards. Five of Moorehouse's passes were caught by running back Larry Roe, who accounted for 115 yards.

Both teams had chances to score, and Averill Park even had an apparent TD pass called back because of a penalty. Ravena's best chance came in the fourth quarter, when the Indians penetrated to the opposition 20 — only to cough up another fumble.

For VanDerzee, the story was the defense. The Indians shut down Averill Park in the air and allowed 126 yards rushing. Mike Losee led the team with 10 tackles, five unassisted. Defensive end Mark Winnie added six tackles. Tom Spadaro intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble, and Roe also had a fumble recovery.

Things could be looking up for undermanned Blackbirds

By Nat Boynton

Voorheesville lost a football game Saturday but gained a lot of respect, confidence and experience, things a young undermanned team needs at the start of a season.

The Blackbirds were beaten by 13-12 at Cossackie, but they showed enough potential to fan the hopes of their hardy fans.

For instance:

- Charlie Russo threw only four times on a rainy day, but one went for a touchdown and two others hit receivers on the hands and were dropped. On a clear day he will throw more.

- Voorheesville has a running game with Scott Renker and Trampas Talaverra. Resanker peeled off an 82-yard touchdown run on the Blackbirds' first play from scrimmage, and wound up with 111 yards on 7 carries. Talaverra, a 185-pound sophomore fullback, had 44 yards in 8 carries. All told, Voorheesville gained 254 yards on the ground, not too shabby for a team that didn't have much offensive promise in the pre-season dope sheets.

The defense was, in the words of Coach Dave Burnham, "fantastic." Everybody played well, he said, especially Bob Galusha and Ryan Brennan, who let people know they were in the defensive backfield. Galusha, said Burnham, "is a striker. He knocked people back four and five yards. He played his heart out."

One of Burnham's happiest revelations in the season's opener was the work of some of his youngest operatives. On a team with only four seniors, picture a team that has sophomores at both defensive ends. Also, both starting linebackers are sophomores.

"They did a helluva job, David Washburn and Steve Lapinski at defensive end and Tom Gianatasio and Mike Galvin at linebacker," said Burnham. "And you should mention two freshmen, Mark Chiarello at noseguard and Buddy Deschenes, who went in at half-back in passing situations."

Unlike last season, when the Blackbirds couldn't get anything started, they opened the 1989 season like national champions. On the first play from scrimmage, they sprung Renker loose for an 82-yard TD romp. The speedy junior took the handoff from Russo, ran off tackle, got key blocks from Galusha, Galvin and Mark Fairbank, cut to the left and scampered down the sideline untouched.

Cossackie took a 7-6 lead in the second period, but Voorheesville came back with another good drive. From the 14, Renker dropped a Russo aerial in the end zone, but moments later Russo hit Joe Tyrell for six points and a 12-7 bulge at intermission.

That was the last offensive burst for the Blackbirds. The second half was played in Voorheesville territory, where a major defensive let-down permitted a 40-yard run for the winning TD.

Russo was on crutches all last week, but played a strong game on Saturday. "I think Charlie came into his own," Burnham said. "We'll throw a lot more against Academy this week, and we may pull a few surprises."

There is also work to do to improve the kicking game. The punting was weak, and Talaverra missed an extra-point placekick by inches.

Albany Academy will bring in a veteran team for the Blackbirds' home opener this Saturday. "They lost to LaSalle, and they'll come in snorting and blowing and everything else," Burnham said. "But they shouldn't take us lightly. Our kids showed a lot of character in that first game, and we're going to mature fast."

Tour Basin Harbor

There are a few openings for the tour to the Basin Harbor Club at Vergennes, Vt. Oct. 6-9.

The tour committee of the Women's Council of the Albany Institute of History and Art is sponsoring the trip. The tour will allow plenty of time to enjoy the many facilities of the Basin Harbor Club. There will be a guided tour of Burlington's noted historical districts and the Ethan Allen Homestead, a 90-minute cruise by boat on Lake Champlain, and a visit to the art museum of the University of Vermont. Also included will be a visit to the Shelburne Museum.

An all inclusive price of $486 per person includes transportation, three nights accommodation at the Basin Harbor Club, all meals, all admission fees, cruise fare, taxes and gratuities and a $25 tax deductible donation to the Albany Institute of History and Art. For more information, call 463-4478.

Pop Warner teams lose

On Saturday night the Bethlehem Pop Warner Midgets traveled to Colonie and were defeated 21-6 in a hard-fought game.

The Eagles scored on a 12-yard touchdown run by Jon Pesnel. The line was led by John Svare and Rob Keparutis and the defense by Bob Helligrass.

On Sunday both the Pee-Wee's and Jr. Midgets played against the Troy Patriots. The Falcons lost 18-0 despite strong play on offense by Hank Tripp and Matt Quackenbush and tough defense by Anson Mooney and Mike Ragone.

The Hawks lost 18-6 in their season opener to an experienced Troy team. Ron Hollins scored on a 35 yard run around the left end. Defense was sparked by Keith Riccio who had two fumble recoveries and a blocked punt. The line was led by Liam Walmsley and Eric Bartoletti. All three teams play at home this weekend.

Bethlehem Pop Warner said the tin can drive this weekend was a success.

Voorheesville girls welcome new coach — the hard way

By Matt Hladun

When a coach looks back at the previous week and sees his team outscored 12-6, outshot 62-41, for an 0-3 record to start the season, he tries to forget about the whole week. But Voorheesville's girls soccer coach Jim Hladun will long remember last week, not only for it being his first week of coaching girls soccer, but for being a learning experience for him and his team, as his team faced a team of equal skill (Cobleskill), an aggressive team (Watervliet), and one of the best teams in the section (Mechanicville).

Hladun took his team to Cobleskill last Monday for a non-league game, which they lost, 3-2, on an open-net goal with seven minutes left. Lynn Meade and Nicole Solomos tallied for Voorheesville; the team outshot Coby, 20-14, but could not capitalize. Further, starting fullback Katie Ramsey was lost for two weeks with a knee injury.

Wednesday at Watervliet against a strong, physical Cannoneers squad.

Early in the first half, stopper Pam Harms was "run over," in Hladun's words, by a Vliet forward. After that, several VC players noticeably shied from the ball and the team found itself down, 4-0, early in the second half. Meade (2 goals) and Solomos scored later on, but it wasn't enough to stave off a 5-3 loss.

Friday was the real test, facing defending state Class B champion Mechanicville at home.

The Red Raiders came out firing, and finally scored six minutes into the game on a goal by Sue McBride, one of the team's more gifted players. They continued to control the first half, and scored again with 10 minutes to go on a corner kick that was dropped to the feet of Kim Munger, who put the ball in the net. Down 2-0 at half, the Birds were not out of it completely.

Eight minutes later, the Blackbirds finally got things going, when Solomos perfectly placed a direct kick over the goalie's head. This goal rejuvenated the Birds. They played aggressively and controlled the Raiders for about 15 minutes, when Mechanicville finally shut the door on Voorheesville's chances, when Pugliese tallied her second goal of the game, and gave them a 4-1 victory.

Hladun felt his girls showed a lot of poise in coming back like they did.

He complimented sweeper Kate DePasquale, who was "all over the field." Harms and Jen Willey did an outstanding job of shutting down the Raiders' leading scorer Melissa Lynch. He also noted the performance of Kelly Donahue and Solomos, who each did a fine job of holding the midfield together.

Voorheesville was once again outshot 21-13. Zautner made 17 saves in goal.

"Though it was a tough week," Hladun add, "the girls haven't given up." He is also impressed with the play of the girls even when they fall behind. "I think they like playing under pressure." Hladun said this week will be somewhat easier as they travel to Cohoes on Tuesday, and play Holy Names at home on Friday.

Where's The Fire?

By Cathi Anne M. Cameron

Anyone wanting access to the New Scotland hamlet of New Salem this Friday night or Saturday may have some interesting traffic to compete with — from 60 to 80 firetrucks and about 3,000 marching firefighters.

The trucks, firefighters and other activities are all part of the Albany County Volunteer Firefighters Convention, hosted this year by the New Salem Volunteer Fire Department.

According to Craig Shufelt, assistant chairman of the event, approximately 35 volunteer fire companies will participate in this year's festivities. About 30 of the groups will be from Albany County, the rest from outlying areas of New York State.

The fire companies participating range in size from a department with two or three firefighters and one vehicle to a squad of 50 volunteers. Shufelt said that each squad is allowed to bring up to three vehicles, so it is possible that more than 80 vehicles will be included. "The newest truck will be a 1989, and this year, I think the oldest will be from 1923 or '36," he added.

Ellen Hunsinger, New Salem Ladies Auxiliary president, explained that the activities really begin on Wednesday night with a dinner for all of the departments' auxiliary members.

"It's a steak dinner for 200 of our volunteers," she said. "We have about 30 auxiliaries in Albany County and in addition to supporting our volunteer fire companies, we provide scholarships for two students to study fire science, and contribute to the Burn Unit at the Albany Medical Center. Part of what we raise helps to purchase equipment used in the care of burn patients," she said.

Hunsinger added that a wine and

Getting with the program

When back to school meets after school

By Cheryl Clary

Many of the elementary school-age children in the Capital District now have the opportunity to attend childcare programs at their own schools, town youth centers, church halls or community centers.

As a seasoned working parent who uses childcare providers, I was very interested to learn more about the recent increase in after school care programs in our area.

Although they are not district-run programs, Kid's Place in Voorheesville, After School Activities Program (ASAP) in the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk district and the Colonie Schools operate programs right in the school buildings.

School's Out in the Bethlehem district operates a before school program in the district's elementary schools, but it's after school program is held in the Methodist Church in Delmar.

Colonie, because of the sheer number of schools in its district consolidates some of their programs at the Town of Colonie Youth Center, transporting youngsters from the Lishakill and Sand Creek Schools.

Operated as the After School Latch Key Program and run by the Colonie Youth Bureau, children are attended to by 55 staff members under the direction of Nikki Allen, the after school coordinator. Beginning it's fourth year of operation, the program provides care on school days as well as over the Christmas and April school breaks. The current costs for the program are $25 per month for one day a week, $45 per month for 2 days a week, and $65 for 3 or more days.

The Colonie program offers enrichment activities by bringing in outside contractors to provide such activities as gymnastics and dance. Story tellers are hired during the year, and field trips have been taken to the Schenectady Planetarium and the Scotia Glenville Museum.

Openings were available in most South Colonie Schools, Forrest Park, Shaker, Roessleville, Boght Hills, Hebrew Academy and Loudonville schools.

At this time, there are waiting lists at the other schools, but they are updated continuously.

Parents wishing to register their child should call 869-2135 for information on availability at their site.

Another after school program which may be the best kept secret in the Capital District is operated at the Albany Jewish Community Center (JCC) on Whitehall Road.

Having a ball at the JCC daycare program in Albany.

A non-sectarian, United Way-supported facility, the JCC has become more involved in the business of childcare.

No longer just serving as a babysitting service for those who come to use its extensive facilities, the center offers full time daycare, nursery school and an after school program, as well as a summer camp.

Assistant Executive Director of the Center, Jay Baron, stresses that the after school program is "after school enrichment, not babysitting".

ment, not babysitting".

All of the facilities of the center are available to the children, including one indoor and two outdoor pools, music rooms, playgrounds, a gymnasium and other facilities.

Qualified staff teach swimming, cooking and crafts.

"We have the facilities and the staff already here so we are just maximizing use of our resources," Baron stated.

The Great Escape is located on Route 9, four minutes from Exits 19 and 20 of the Adirondack Northway. For more information, call 783-1333.

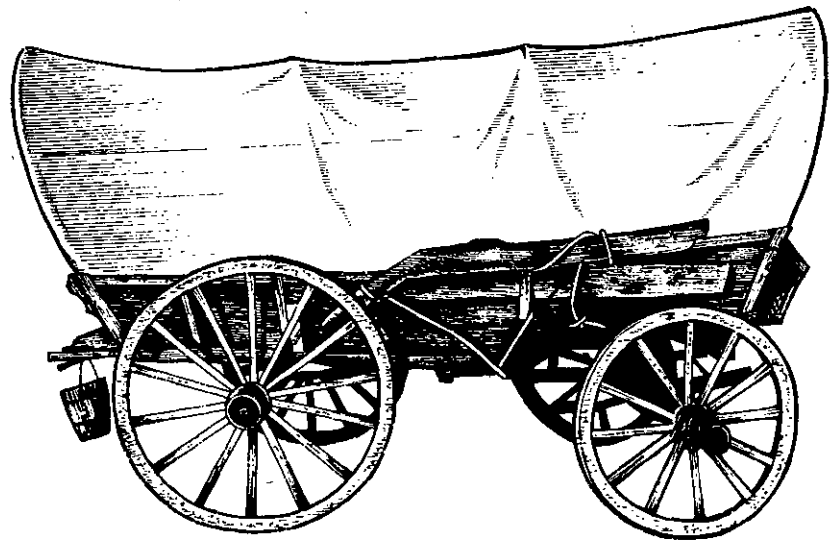

Apple festival slated

The fifth annual Stuyvesant Apple Festival, sponsored by the Stuyvesant Plaza Merchants Association and WNYT-TV 13, will take place on Saturday, Sept. 23 from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and Sunday, Sept. 24, noon-5 p.m. at Stuyvesant Plaza.

The festival features apple orchard concessions by Gould Orchards and Yonder Farms, a farmers market, craft demonstrations, pony and wagon rides, classic cars, historic site exhibits, strolling musicians, jugglers and clowns, a bake-off on Saturday and a professional baking competition on Sunday, all judged by local celebrity judges. In addition, many of the stores will be offering demonstrations and specials throughout the weekend.

The donation is $18 per person, and can be obtained from Gerry Danielski at 482-8903.

Saddle 'em up

Talk to anyone about Junior League fund-raisers, and you can almost guarantee that women's barrel racing would be the last thing to come to mind. Or steer wrestling and roping. But this year, there has been a change.

Saturday and Sunday the Junior League of Albany is sponsoring Real Western Rodeo and Country Days at the Altamont Fairgrounds.

Saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding, steer wrestling and roping are just some of the Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association-sanctioned events scheduled. Several of the nation's top rodeo contestants will be competing, including Congressman Bob Smith of Oregon.

There will also be sheep shearing, weaving, and other demonstrations, a Brooks barbecue dinner and country and western entertainment by Mirinda.

And don't miss the bull riding — these aren't mechanical!

THE YOUTH NETWORK

NETWORKS

The Bethlehem Support Group for Parents of Students with Handicapping Conditions was formed in June of 1987 out of a need to improve communication with the school district, share ideas and concerns, and obtain information about educational programs for handicapped youngsters.

The Bethlehem Support Group provides programs of emotional support, information and advocacy to parents of students with handicapping conditions. It encourages parents to become more active participants in their children's education, and offers special assistance during all stages of the educational planning process. The Support Group sponsors social and recreational events for both parents and students.

The group meets monthly at the Bethlehem Town Hall or other locations as announced. These meetings often feature guest speakers on topics of common interest; or simply offer a forum in which parents can share personal experiences, frustrations, and hopes for the future.

The group has also established a resource file for parents at the Bethlehem Public Library. This file contains a important information on programs available to handicapped students, legal rights, and how to develop an Individual Educational Plan. To obtain this file, ask the Reference Librarian for "Handicapped, Education," which is located in the Pamphlet File.

New members and visitors are always welcome to join the group. Membership is open to parents of children with handicapping conditions, as well as to other interested persons.

Kids

The program at the Jewish Community Center is open daily from 2:30 until 6 p.m., and all day during school vacations. "Mini-meals" are served to the children each afternoon, as the center is already equipped to provide Meals on Wheels and senior citizen lunches and dinners daily.

Children are picked up at their home schools by van and transported to the center. Some of the schools currently being served are Bethlehem, Guilderland, Hebrew Academy and several of the Albany City Schools.

If there is interest in other areas, "We will see what we can do about serving those children. We would like to have at least two or three children picked up at a particular school to make the stop viable," Baron said.

Baron explained that he feels the public schools will eventually take over the after-school care as part of their regular hours of operation.

Membership fees to the center make up a great deal of the operating budget and families are required to become members of the JCC to have their children participate in the program.

The cost of the program is $35 per week, plus a $12 dollar transportation fee. Add to that the approximately $8 per week membership cost (yearly family membership runs $450). Single parents and those who qualify can apply for scholarships to offset costs.

Jay Baron emphasized that the JCC "will work with people who need assistance".

And children need not alter their routine too much at the end of the school year. A day camp program is available at the center when school lets out for the summer.

For additional information on JCC programs, call the center at 438-6551.

Clary is a founder and president of the After School Activities Program in the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk school district.

The fee is $45 per person, pre-registration required.

For information, call 474-5801.

The apple of your eye may win you some money

Entries are now being accepted for the 1989 Stuyvesant Apple Festival Bake-off as part of the Stuyvesant Apple Festival to be held Sept. 23 and 24 at the plaza on Western Avenue and Fuller Road in Albany.

Entry categories include apple recipe, pies, cakes, desserts and junior bake-off for kids 16 and under. Final judging will be done by local celebrities on Sept. 23 at 2 p.m.

First, second and third place winners will each receive $100, $50, and $25 Stuyvesant Plaza gift certificates respectively.

Fire

cheese party is planned for both male and female conventioners at the end of Wednesday evening.

Thursday evening it is the gentlemen's turn for dinner, and Friday the real fun starts. The highlight of the convention is the parades held on Friday and Saturday.

Friday night, Mardi Gras is the theme as candy and prizes will be tossed from floats and trucks. According to Shufelt, 19 units will take part in the evening's festivities with floats, trucks and ambulances. Firefighting themes will be featured, and trophies awarded.

LeRoy Cooke of the Delmar Volunteer Fire Department said his squad's float, which won trophies in recent Lake George and Schodack parades, will be in use once more.

"It's an 1890s to 1900s theme, with men in period uniform and the ladies in straw hats etcetera. We have a wooden house, with flames in the window and smoke coming out. The olden-days firefighters are putting the fire out from the back, while the modern ones are putting it out from the front. We'll also probably have our 1934 Mack firetruck, and the new pumper we got in June with us," he said.

Peter Plord, from the Midway Fire Department in Colonie, said the most interesting part of the convention for many firefighters is meeting people from other companies.

Last week there was concern as to whether two other Colonie fire companies, Colonie Village and Fuller Road, would be able to take part in the parade due to the possible contamination of their equipment at a fire at the Mereco mercury refining plant. However, over the weekend the equipment was deemed safe to use.

After Friday night's fun, it's all spit-and-polish for Saturday's more somber affair.

"Saturday is a serious competition," Shufelt explained. "After seeing the squads on Friday night, a lot of people don't understand that Saturday, if they talk or get out of line, it means demerits for the company. Everything they do on Saturday is judged towards the trophies," he said.

The trophies number 21 this year, ranging from best appearance to an award for the company travelling the farthest distance to participate. "With companies like Utica and Medusa's there is always competition for that one," Shufelt said.

Saturday's full-dress parade will include the 35 companies, their auxiliaries, their vehicles, horse-mounted units, and more than 10 fire and drum and marching bands.

While kick-off is at 1 p.m., Shufelt suggests arriving at noon or before to ensure a good vantage point, especially if you have children.

To guarantee parking, school buses will be running from the County Highway Department garage on Rt. 85A near Clayton A. Bouton High School in Voorheesville to the fire house in New Salem.

The parade's path, from Picard Rd., along Rt. 85A to the Fire Station will be closed from noon until 2 p.m.

If the parade itself isn't enough, carnival rides and games will be set up on the Punkintown Fair grounds behind the station, and an adult casino will run both Friday and Saturday evening.

The bands Crystal Image and Bobby Dick and the Sundowners will provide the weekend's music on Friday and Saturday respectively. And if that isn't enough, perhaps the win of a four-day trip to the Bahamas will cap your weekend.

"We've been working three years for this weekend," Shufelt said. "There should be something for everyone, all day long. Next year I think it will be at the fairgrounds in Altamont, with everyone in the county responsible, because it is a lot of work."

The work has reaped some rewards, however. "The money we make will go into upgrading, especially equipment and uniforms, and to improving the inside of the firehouse," he said. "Anything else will go towards saving for another truck. But a lot has gone back into the set-up for all of this, too."

And how are all of the over 3,000 marchers, their various vehicles and other equipment going to come through all of this?

"One at a time," Shufelt said. "One at a time."
