Bethlehem forum could liven up race

Only face-to-face meeting of candidates

By Mark Stuart

Bethlehem voters will be given the only opportunity to see a face-to-face forum between the town board candidates tomorrow (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Bethlehem Town Hall, 445 Delaware Ave., Delmar.

The forum will be sponsored by the Bethlehem Citizens For Responsible Planning and will follow a question and answer format. The candidates will be asked questions submitted by community, social and civic groups. "The questions will be broad-based questions with broad representation," said Sylvia Ponemon, one of the coordinators of the forum. "It will be similar to our forum of two years ago."

The town board race between Democrat John Smolinsky and Republicans Charlie Gunner and M. Sheila Galvin is the only contested campaign in November's town election.

At Thursday's forum, each candidate will have three minutes to respond and will be given time for opening and closing statements.

Voorheesville grant to cushion tax bite

By Bob Hagyard

The $1 million asbestos grant won by the Voorheesville Central School District "will go right back to the taxpayers," Superintendent Alan McCartney announced last week.

Actually, the money would be applied to reduce the debt load incurred by the $8.9 million asbestos removal/reconstruction bond issue approved by district voters last spring. At the Oct. 10 Voorheesville school board meeting, McCartney suggested the district apply part of the grant to the upcoming first-year payment — "smooth out the load," in the superintendent's words. With the rest, the district would set up an investment fund and apply the proceeds to reduce the debt burden over a period of years.

The district was one of only six to receive asbestos abatement grants from the state Education Department. Under terms of the program, a district could receive up to 60 percent reimbursement for the cost of asbestos removal. In Voorheesville, 60 percent would amount to about $1.9 million.

Board members, surprised and delighted at winning half a loaf, readily endorsed the superintendent's idea.

Apple farm surrounds Ten Eyck homestead

by Allison Bennett

The brown shingled rambling farmhouse of Peter and Rose-Marie Ten Eyck is nestled amid green fields and fragrant apple orchards and is surrounded by the acres that are devoted to Peter's love and livelihood, The Indian Ladder Farms. This apple farm in Voorheesville is a well known landmark to locals and to hundreds of school children who tour the complex regularly each year, reveling in the bright red and green apples and the great tasting cider and doughnuts.

Apple farming is a chancy business what with fighting bugs and worms, late May frosts, and hail and wind storms. To augment the revenue one of the large barns has been turned into a farm store where delectable home-baked goods are sold to the public and a delicious lunch menu offers respite and sustenance to those who come to shop for apples. This barn is only one that once served the five farms that were put together to form the farm complex of today. The first farm was purchased by Peter Gansevoort Ten Eyck in 1915 and others were acquired up until the 1940's.

Coyne's budget: sell airport or raise taxes

By Patricia Dumas

Albany County Executive James J. Coyne is asking county legislators to choose between turning the county airport over to private management or cutting back on expenditures for road improvements and jail facilities.

The proposed $302 million budget he is submitting to the legislature calls for a property tax increase but it can be kept low, Coyne said, if the county receives money from the airport lease/ sale plan he favors.

Republican legislators claim that the choice Coyne is giving them stems from mismanagement and neglect.

The proposed 1990 budget, made public last week, provides for a tax levy of $26 million which translates to a tax rate of $3.70 per $1,000 of full valuation. It means that there would be a 6.5 increase in property taxes, an amount Coyne termed "modest."

The increase is being held down, Coyne said, because his budget "assumes immediate income from a long range lease arrangement at the county airport to subsidize an increasingly uncontrollable budget gap."

Albany County

He blamed the budget gap on "an abhorrent state budget, pressing local needs, and a sluggish state economy."

"Since the executive budget is merely a recommendation of a plan of spending and an estimate of income, and given that I have come to prefer a lease arrangement with an airport operator, it is now up to the county legislature to decide the future of the airport and the size of the 1990 property tax levy," Coyne said.

Coyne favors leasing the airport to British American-Lockheed Air Terminal, a partnership that has offered a 40-year lease at $50 million, with $24.5 million to become available immediately if the county accepts the proposal.

Coyne's budget message states that "without the privatization of the airport, jail expansion and infrastructure repair would be delayed at least five years and would require sizeable cost increases."

Including the $25.5 million lease payment in his revenue projections, Coyne used $17 million of the amount "to subsidize an otherwise equivalent increase in the tax levy." The remaining $8.5 million, he said, would be kept in reserve.

W. Gordon Morris Jr. of Bethlehem, the county legislature's minority leader, said the Democratic administration's attempt to balance the budget "is an example of gross mismanagement."

"The county executive is putting into his budget money we don't even know we're going to get," Morris said. He said that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has yet to rule on whether lease money would have to be reinvested into the airport.

Morris said, however, that if the airport has to be sold, he favors privatization instead of ownership by an authority, which was Coyne's recommendation in prior years. Coyne at one time wanted the airport to be sold to the Capital District Transportation Authority.

Asked about the pending FAA ruling, Coyne said he is confident that the FAA will authorize the county to use the lease money for budgeting needs.

Morris said the administration has long ignored the county's needs, knowing full well that cut-backs in state-funded programs would require "prudent management of county budget funds."

He said that instead of bonding for road improvements, the county should have annually budgeted for such public works projects.

"We are facing huge tax increases every year from now on," Morris said, "and if we have money to balance the budget this year, what about next year?"

Republican legislator Edward Buhmaster of Colonie called Coyne's budgeting proposal "an example of deficit financing in the worst way." Buhmaster said he wants the county to keep the airport, and make it work as a county operation.

Coyne said that transfer of airport operations to private management "is a significant first step toward addressing the broadening and often uncontrollable fiscal pressures we face."

In his budget message last year, Coyne leaned toward privatization and in this year's message he states that "future privatization will help meet future needs by providing reliable revenue sources."

Listing the fiscal problems facing the county, Coyne said that sales tax receipts, traditionally a dependable revenue source, will fall short of estimates and noted that the local share of mandated social services programs will increase by $2 million.

The largest single cost increase under the 1990 budget is in debt service for the county's recent $67 million bond issue which provided money for jail expansion, highway improvements and part of the Knickerbocker Arena expense. The debt for the jail expansion and road reconstruction comes to about $6.2 million.

According to Coyne, the budget shows a $500,000 reduction in net spending for the arena. He said that $4.6 million in debt service for the arena will be partly covered in hotel-motel taxes and in the lease of corporate boxes and retail space.

The budget recommends a 6 percent salary increase with a cap of $2,500 for county employees not covered by a collective bargaining contract and a 15 percent increase in the cost of health insurance for covered county employees.

Coyne called on the legislature to lobby against state-mandated costs for welfare and medicaid. He said New York is one of the few states in the country requiring counties to share in those costs.

□ A homestead among the apple trees

These farms are all positioned near and along the Voorheesville Altamont road and belonged originally to James, William and Addison Beebe, and Jacob Wormer, all early settlers in the area. Originally Peter G. Ten Eyck kept dairy cattle on his farm and also operated a fruit farm with crops of apples, peaches and pears. In the early 1920's his son, Peter G.D. Ten Eyck, decided to switch the crop solely to apples and that has been the focus for almost 70 years.

Peter G. Ten Eyck, grandfather of Peter Ten Eyck II, was what we would today call a "Renaissance Man". He had tremendous interests in many things and graduated from RPI as a civil engineer. He began making signal devices for the railroad, with a shop in Albany. The shop burned to the ground and Ten Eyck had no insurance. This prompted him to start an insurance business of his own that is still operating as The Ten Eyck Insuring Agency, Inc., in Albany. Mr. Ten Eyck was the first Democrat in Albany elected to public office after the fall of the Republican, Barnes Machine. In 1913 he was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives. While there his interest in transportation was shown by his concern in getting the Hudson River deepened for ocean-going ships. He was instrumental in getting a bill passed that would do that very thing and because of that he was made the first port commissioner and was a moving force in securing the construction of the Port of Albany. Meanwhile, he was also busy with his agricultural pursuits in the shadow of the Helderbergs. Because of this interest he was appointed by Gov. Herbert Lehmann to be the State Agricultural Commissioner. He also put together two barns on the farm property that were transformed into the huge main house on the property. That house was sold out of the family a few years ago.

The particular farm that Peter and Rose-Marie live on came originally from the patroon ship of Stephen Van Rensselaer and was conferred by lease from the Patroon to William Davis on December 8, 1813. It was later transferred to Andrew Witherwax in 1818 and to Elijah Comstock with 100 acres in 1826. Peter has an interesting document that shows that the farm was subject to rent payment to Walter S. Church. Church was the much hated land agent of the Patroon's heirs, who assumed much power over the affairs of the estate after the death of Stephen Van Rensselaer in 1839.

The house itself was constructed about 1830 and is in salt box style. The kitchen is at the left side of the main house and was once lived in by an elderly woman who supposedly kept her cow in the back. It has come to be known as "Granny's Kitchen." The ceiling beams are exposed and the natural woodwork compliments the wooden cabinets and the brick patterned flooring. A large old wooden table makes a nice place to enjoy breakfast while looking at the pond from the bright windows.

From the kitchen one steps up into the main block of the house to the dining room. The room is furnished with mahogany pieces, many in the Federal style with some pieces from the Centennial period. These reproductions were made about 1875 to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of America. This room has low ceilings and wide board floors. There is a lovely eighteenth century sideboard and on it are two antique decanters that came from Holland and are marked Utrecht and Gelderland, for two Netherlands provinces.

The living room is beyond the dining room and the front entrance door is located here. The house does not have the usual center entrance colonial plan that we see in so many early houses. Here an oriental rug covers the pine floors and the room has a chair rail moulding and four panel doors with original hardware. The big fireplace has a Dutch oven to the side and probably in the early years this was the "keeping room" in the house — used for entertaining, eating, working cooking and even sleeping. Behind the living and dining rooms is a long hall that has been divided into smaller rooms and beyond that the former back porch has been converted into a lovely enclosed porch that faces south. The large windows let in plenty of winter sunlight and the flagstone floor adds a country touch. A wood stove gives extra warmth in the winter and on one wall hangs an early map of the Whitehall farm property of the Gansevoorts, dated January 1790. This farm of Leonard Gansevoort, an ancestor, was located at the borders of the present day city of Albany along the Normans Kill Road, and the present Albany Street, Whitehall Road, takes its name from this farm. A study complete with desks and computers is located beyond the porch and behind the kitchen.

There are three interesting portraits of Ten Eyck ancestors in the house, companion portraits of Magdalena Gansevoort and her husband, Jacob Ten Eyck, and a portrait of General Peter Gansevoort. General Gansevoort served in the Revolutionary War and was in command at Fort Stanwix in New York State during the campaign of the summer of 1777. At this time Gansevoort was a Colonel. The three part British pincer movement was stopped at Fort Stanwix in the west by the combined efforts of General Herkimer, Colonel Gansevoort and General Benedict Arnold.

Peter Ten Eyck II and his wife, Rose-Marie, have made their old house into a comfortable home, furnished with some antique pieces and country touches that make it warm and friendly but that does not lose the aura of a country farmhouse.

Hepplewhite sideboard topped with antique Dutch wine decanters and mahogany knife boxes in the dining room of the Ten Eyck home. The dining room and chairs are "centennial" pieces, made in 1876.

—20 Years of Service and Reliability—

The fan dancer

Like a true artiste in the Sally Rand tradition, our County Executive always has one more fan to cover his act.

Earlier this year, he emerged into the blue spotlight holding two glamorously feathery proposals with which the county's budget could be balanced: new taxes but of a kind that no one would really notice much less feel. One would be an additional tax on your telephone bills, and the other an additional nickel to be added to every gallon of gasoline.

Those fans just sort of disappeared into the wings, where the properties man apparently lost 'em.

Came May, and we were treated to the shimmering revelation that the county was going to continue to pay for infrastructure maintenance (bridge repairs and replacements, highway upkeep and such petty nuisances) by selling bonds with due dates in the future rather than having to bother with budgeting for them on pay-as-you-go anticipation.

Last week the County Executive peered around the curtain long enough to announce a budget for the forthcoming fiscal year. Yes, there'd be a tax increase, he teased us, but it'd be only 23 cents (per $1,000 of assessed value).

All that's underfoot

The term "infrastructure" is a daunting one, and all it turns out to mean is the quiet stuff we count on to bring us water, carry off our wastes, takes us smoothly along ribbons and over supporting piers — everything we confidently expect to be there, in good working condition and without any slight inconvenience to us. Perhaps someone should make a movie, "That's Infrastructure!"

Two very recent experiences with non-working infrastructure in our areas come to mind. Probably they'll come to mind for most of the readers of these lines, too.

The mile-long segment of Kenwood Avenue from Delmar's "Four Corners" to Cherry Avenue had warning signs of "Rough Road" for the last year of its sadly deteriorated state. For years, the state's DOT couldn't pull itself together sufficiently to fix that dreadful surface where many thousands of shock absorbers were tested daily. Now the signs are down, the surface is smooth except for several odd glitches (with some runoff problems). But wary travelers learned a good lesson about infrastructure — involuntarily.

Honoring Chief Currie

Basking in reflected glory is not always an attractive habit, but residents of Bethlehem will be pardoned if they take particular pride in a special recognition that has come to Police Chief Paul E. Currie.

Chief Currie has been presented with a certificate by the crime and correction committee of the State Senate noting his invaluable contributions to establishment of a new law enforcement agency accreditation

Editorials

Another — and much more significant way of expressing the figure is that it's just about a 7 percent increase. That's a tax boost stated in a more straightforward manner. And a relevant, understandable way. As the pit orchestra plays on (the recurrent tune is "Three Coins in the Fountain"), we are given to understand that the tax boost would have been much more humongous except for creativity by the choreographer. An unrealized asset is penciled into the calculations — some $22 million that someday, maybe, a prospective purchaser might be paying the county for its airport. (A capital item siphoned off for current expenses — legal?)

Mirrors now have been added to the act. Now you see it, now you don't. And it must be noted that beyond the questionable dollar-signs are questionable tactics. Does this budgetary ploy contrive to slyly force an action that otherwise wouldn't be taken? Is it intended to help deliver the airport to Lockheed/British American? Will it?

For possible answers, ask your county legislator. Meanwhile, the candy butcher will pass among you.

Many of the same travelers, and lots of others, have had a basic course in Infrastructure 101 when proceeding along Delaware Avenue to and from Albany. It's been a full year (plus), believe it or not, that minions of the DOT have struggled with the puzzle of repairing the modest little bridge above the Thruway just inside the city's limits. Now the monumental task seems to be finished (but keep your fingers crossed, friends).

The inconveniences, the long lines often slowed to a creeping halt, are gone, but hardly forgotten. What really should remain with us is the unsettling question of "What next?" The breakdown and stalemate on the rather remote Jericho Bridge provides one graphic possibility of how bad things can become when our governmental bodies are inattentive to wear and tear.

Like it or not, ours is a society that's very vulnerable to the ravages of time and circumstance. We need to be able to expect that our public officials will be alert enough to foreclose catastrophe.

program. The law and program are the first of their kind in the nation.

Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick observed that the chief has been "a tremendous asset to the town" in his more than six years at the head of the department, including having instituted modernizing policies. Chief Currie has 35 years of law enforcement experience. The Senate committee's recognition of his efforts is only a fitting tribute.

Words for the week

Pithy: Precisely meaningful; cogent and terse.

Macho: Machismo; that is, an exaggerated sense of masculinity, stressing such attributes as physical courage, virility, domination of women, and aggressiveness or violence.

Butcher: (as in candy butcher or peanut butcher)

a vendor who moves around with his wares, as in a theater or train

Ploy: A stratagem or artifice to obtain an advantage over one's opponent.

Incarceration: Confinement; shut in; being placed in jail.

Bullet-vote tactic defense presented

Editor, The Spotlight:

As campaign manager for the Committee to Elect John Smolinsky, Democratic candidate to the Town Board, I would like to respond to the Spotlight article of Oct. 11, which discusses the "bullet" vote and an editorial calling for a campaign based on issues.

The Democratic party has an obligation to let voters know that they have a choice. Each voter will then be able to make a well-informed decision as to how she/he can best assist the candidate of choice.

John Smolinsky is the only Democratic candidate running for the Town Board against two Republican candidates. There are only two seats available. The voters who want John to win a seat on the Town Board must know that they can help improve his chances tremendously through the voting process. By casting one vote only — the lever for Smolinsky — the voter makes a choice. There is certainly nothing wrong with that!

As for the criticism that the Democrats are not running a full slate, the committee felt that it is of utmost importance that our candidate be competent, qualified, and really wants to do the job. John Smolinsky certainly meets those qualifications. We recognize that we are a minority party and our first victory in 194 years was a dramatic victory. We know that in order to be victorious again, we must maintain the high standards set by Bob Burns. We also know that our candidates must be independent. Since the Democratic

Gunner is supported by former student

Editor, The Spotlight:

I write this letter in support of Sheila and Jim Fuller's statement that Bethlehem has a "unique opportunity" with Charlie Gunner running for Town Board.

I graduated from BCHS in 1988. Although I got myself in trouble a few times and had to meet with Mr. Gunner as an administrator, I also went out of my way to speak to him on a social basis. I will always remember how fair he would be during our encounters. He always treated me with respect and was objective, and always open to suggestion.

During my four years at the high school, I saw the school spirit change dramatically. In my freshman year, there was very minimal school spirit, but by the time I graduated, the majority of the students showed pride in their school.

Charlie Gunner was always enthusiastic. He also gave merit (in the form of Eagle Awards) to people who helped make the school a better place. He always made himself available to students whenever they needed help or just needed someone to talk to, regardless of the hour of the day.

I feel that Bethlehem needs a person like Charlie Gunner to serve on the Town Board. I know that most of you who graduated during his 15 years of service feel the same, and I encourage you to remember him on Election Day.

Who'll be responsible?

(From Page 4) Little news items happened to catch my eye in the past week, and each launched a little train of thought.

One was a story in the sports pages, noting that a major league ballplayer (I've forgotten his name, which isn't important here) had been found guilty of drunken driving and was placed on two years' probation. You can be sure that the ball club that employs him is going to be keeping a close check on his habits in the future.

You'll recall, for instance, that when Dwight Gooden was confirmed as having used cocaine a couple of years ago, his employer, the Mets, stepped in and saw to it that he received appropriate treatment. It was very much in their interest to do so, to say nothing of Doc's welfare.

Here's the thought that follows: In these times, many individuals are, unfortunately, landing in courts as a result of alcohol and other drug abuse. Some are being imprisoned, which is truly a sad outcome. Others receive some ineffectual slight penalty. Neither is a useful remedy to straighten out lives that are troubled and perhaps doomed.

Furthermore, the nation and each community are very much in need of suitable alternatives to incarceration in a wide variety of violations.

How many cases of drug/alcohol abuse might be more effectively handled in the courts if there were a provision for employers (or some other responsible party other than family) to come before the judge and formally accept responsibility for the future conduct of the person in custody? On a humane basis, and also when considered in terms of conserving an investment, almost any employer has a stake in the employee's future, as much as a baseball team has in the recovery of one of its players.

Salvaging lives could be among employer duties

Salvaging lives surely is one of the most significant privileges we can be given.

The other news item originated in Washington, and reported the views of certain jurists in response to Chief Justice Rehnquist's proposal to speed up the march from death row to the chair. The article noted that conservatives tend to be in favor of that proposal.

What (I wondered) links conservatism with putting people to death faster than judicial processes now permit? For that matter, what links conservatism with the death penalty, at all?

My favorite dictionary defines conservatism this way: "The disposition in politics or culture to resist or oppose change or innovation." A conservative is said to be one tending "to favor the preservation of the existing order and to regard proposals for change with distrust."

Associated words include: moderate, prudent, cautious.

Seems to me that today's true conservatives (let's say of the Coolidge/Hoover variety, for example) might look with distrust at the latter-day recruits whose guiding principle seems to be that they don't like certain people.

Amid all the chatter about the future of the Albany County Airport, we locals may forget how important the facility is to a much larger region. It was brought home to me the other day when I was standing about waiting for a family member's arrival on USAir.

Off the same plane came Bob Stafford, the former Senator from Vermont, en route up to Middlebury to chair a session of the college's trustees (he'd been in D.C.). A few steps behind came Congressman Arlan Stangeland of Minnesota, en route to a weekend conference at the Sagamore.

Speaking of Senator Stafford, did you know he's one of only 100 persons in the nation's history who has been, successively, governor of his state, Congressman and Senator. It's an exclusive club, with just about as many members as we've had justices of the Supreme Court.

Physicians, heal thyselfes?

Capital magazine for October seems to have stirred up quite a lot of comment on its cover story, "The Doctors' Doctors." The comments which I have happened to hear have been skeptical at best, reflecting disappointment that what the article actually says, in relation to the build-up about "meta-physicians"; and (from doctors) a 3-A verdict: either annoyance, anger or amusement.

Well, read it for yourself if you haven't already. My personal reaction is, first, one of surprise... surprise that the piece would have been under taken in what seems to have been a very offhand manner. What was it intended to be or to accomplish? Was it to be a guide to what the physicians seek out for the very best in diagnosis, treatment, and care? Or to titillate by playing with professionals' reputations? Or... what? The flip, once-over-lightly treatment given to the quite serious subject-matter really doesn't do justice to the interests of the lay public or to the serious approach of the physicians, both those mentioned and the corps of unmentioned.

The same staff writer, Amy Poe, also contributed the one other article in the "Special Health Issue." This a history of the demise of the Troy Birthing Center.

A little more on the subject of health: A recent issue of Business Week (Oct. 9) put us on with a cover headline that demanded: "Can cornflakes cure cancer?" And then went on to add, "Of course not. But health claims for food are becoming ridiculous. Here's what you should know."

Supporting the blurb are some 10 pages of articles on such topics as: "The great American health pitch" ("Have food companies gone overboard in adopting that old parental refrain: 'Eat it, it's good for you?') And other topics: "Sure, you're busy; that's no reason not to eat right."

Health: a major concern of many magazines today

Also, "Where does the health end and the hype begin?" ("Making sense of oat-bran mania, the sugar blues, and other dietary disputes.") And, "Blood pressure is rising in the cholesterol debate" and a useful clue: "Now that I've read the label, what's in the package?"

I found these several articles informative and helpful. Here are some pithy quotes: "If companies are going to claim that cereal protects against cancer or that muffins can prevent heart attacks, supporting facts should be on their labels. Hype tells us nothing. The health of Americans is too important not to give consumers full and accurate nutritional information in the foods we buy."

I'm sure you can find this back copy at the library, if it's not handy elsewhere.

The magazine called "M" for October has one of those diverting but meaningless little features, "Who's macho, who's not."

Categories (you'll surely be interested to know) are New Macho, Old Macho, and New Sissy. Among the gentlemen in the first group are such people as Michael Jordan, C. Everett Koop, Nicholson, Bush, Gorbachev and a lady, Margaret Thatcher. Old-style includes Robert Mitchum, John Huston, Bogart, Hemingway, Eastwood, LBJ, David Brinkley. The "new sissy" bunch takes in people like Trump, North, Rose, Donahue, Koch, Alda, Tyson, Downey. (All my listings are selective from a much larger gang.)

Then there's the exclusive "New Macho Hall of Fame," with six members, two of whom are dead (Joe Louis, Ed Murrow), plus Muhammad Ali, Ted Williams, Sean Connery, and Norman Mailer. If you want to steer some lad to a suitably macho job, here are a few to suggest: Goalie, catcher, mercenary, DEA agent, demolition expert, pearl diver, or test pilot.

Extended consideration as examples of "smart macho" is given to Secretary Jim Baker, rancher/novelist Thomas McGuane, and Brazilian race driver Emerson Fittipaldi.

So now you know.

The unpopular tax

The writer of this Point of View guest editorial is a member of the boards of the Robert Schalkenbach Foundation and the Center for the Study of Economics, both of which espouse the philosophy of the great American economist Henry George, who believed that by taxing land poverty could be ameliorated. A resident of Slingerlands, he is an architect by profession.

By Albert S. Hartheimer

Point of View

No tax has ever been credited with winning a popularity contest. Even so, it's not easy to try to explain why the tax on property seems to be the most unpopular of all.

I suggest that perhaps it's because the property tax is levied locally — one on which we feel we ought to have some control.

Since most taxes are levied by the state and federal governments, we recognize that we have less direct influence on them. We know, though, that if the town or the school district spends more money, our taxes go up; but if we can exert more control and cause those expenditures to be reduced, the tax goes down.

Then there's the frustrating realization that if you improve your property with your hard-earned after-tax dollars you have also managed to increase your own taxes. We actually penalize the people who improve our community. That's pretty silly when you consider it.

On the other hand, if you own a vacant lot or some acreage and you do nothing with it the tax is very small. And as the years go on taxes on buildings in town increase while your tax on the vacant land remains quite small. And every year you really pay less tax relative to people who build. In addition, the land becomes more valuable each year. In fact, people who do nothing with such idle property are rewarded by our policies.

Another thing I find strange is that land speculators make no contribution to the community. They sit and wait until the value of the land rises. Only then do they sell and capitalize on everyone else's investment. We are often very kind to speculators. We build schools, we pave roads, and do other costly things which help increase the value of land held by speculators. Then they sell and cash in on the investments made by the community.

Well, that really does seem strange: Here is a tax that penalizes people who build and improve; but rewards those who speculate by keeping their land off the market. No wonder people hate the property tax. It seems backwards. Shouldn't it be the other way around? Shouldn't we reward those who build and penalize those who do nothing for the community?

But the way it is has always been the way we do things taxwise. Is there any other system?

There certainly is! Pennsylvania has a law that permits the tax rate on land to be higher than the tax rate on buildings.

In keeping with that law, Pittsburgh's tax rate on land is more than five times higher than its tax rate on buildings. Pittsburgh was picked recently by Rand McNally as the best place in the country to live. And what's more, housing costs there are lower than in any other comparable American city. Pittsburgh started to raise its land tax rate 75 years ago, in 1915.

Last year, Aliquippa, Pa., raised the tax rate on land to $8.05 per thousand, and lowered the rate on buildings to only 50 cents per thousand. Most homeowners in Aliquippa enjoyed a reduction in their tax, and furthermore they know that if they add a bedroom or put in a swimming pool they won't be penalized by higher taxes.

All well and good, but it would seem at first glance that a higher land tax would result in all the land being built upon. What would happen to our lovely countryside? But things are not always what they seem at first glance. After World War II the nation experienced a great demand for homes. Undertaxed land close in to cities was held for speculation, forcing builders to go farther and farther into the clean and green country side to find available, affordable land.

The result: hopscotching; that is, developments built far out that required more roads, more schools, more time and energy wasted for commuting. And on and on.

A land tax would reverse that. Heavily taxed land close to the city would become available, taking the pressure off the countryside. A land tax is great for conservation of land.

Is it equitable to tax land? Consider that where there are no people land has no value. It's where people congregate and build cities that the value of land rises because of the community's investment in roads, water, sewers, schools, hospitals, and other facilities. The land's value rises as the result of community investment; therefore it is equitable for the community to obtain a return on its investment by taxing land values.

When you build a house that's your personal investment. For the community to tax your investment is not equitable. You should receive a return on that investment.

Can we change the present inequitable situation? We certainly can. A simple law change would permit taxing land at a higher rate than buildings.

Seize the day! Let's go for it!

□ In defense of bullet voting

party is a party of the people, John Smolinsky, the citizens' advocate, sets a fine example.

His interest in the activities of the town has been a positive influence on the way the town does its business.

On the other hand, the two Republican candidates have yet to demonstrate a track record of continued interest or involvement in town government. Clearly, as usual in Bethlehem Republican politics, both Republican candidates were appointed to town positions (one two years ago and the other only months ago) — as chairperson and vice chairperson prior to announcing their candidacy for public office. Sound familiar? Well, what is not familiar is neither of these candidates has attended Town Board or Planning Board meetings over the last few years, or even now. But John Smolinsky was there — listening, learning, voicing the concerns of community members and offering solutions for the important issues confronting our town.

The Spotlight editorials have called for a campaign based on issues. Hopefully, John will have a chance to be heard. Having rarely missed Town Board or Planning Board meetings for several years, he knows first-hand the issues facing our town government. He's been there, he's done the job!

'Lack of balance' in article alleged

Editor, The Spotlight:

It is hard to imagine an article more biased than your Oct. 11 front page story on so-called bullet voting in the upcoming Bethlehem election. You seem to have cast aside a basic precept of sound journalism — that both sides of an issue must be presented.

The article's lack of balance is revealed in the fact that only Republicans are quoted. Can it really be the case that your reporter could find no Democrats willing to speak to the issue? I don't believe that could be true.

Thus, the Republican point of view is presented without opposition. To take the worst case, the chairman of the Republican committee, Bernard Kaplowitz, declares — with no one to contradict him — that bullet voting is "immoral" because "it's an attempt to disenfranchise people." The next sentence in your article echoes his claim: "It may seem immoral..." It seems not to have occurred to Mr. Kaplowitz or — worse — to The Spotlight that one might also question the morality of a Democratic representation in town government until the recent election of Bob Burns. That's a form of disenfranchisement, too.

Sheila Galvin, a Republican candidate, is also quoted, giving her the chance to present herself, while the Democratic candidate is not afforded the same opportunity. Moreover, one of her quotes is set up in a way that appears to cast a direct and unfavorable spotlight on the candidacy of John Smolinsky. Speaking of her reliance on her own funds, she says she wants to maintain her "independence." It seems obvious to this reader that the quote is meant to reflect unfavorably on Mr. Smolinsky's sources of financial support, which are described in the immediately preceding paragraphs.

This article, so biased in favor of the Republicans, seems at war with the spirit of your editorial in the same issue on political competitiveness. At long last, Democrats are able to wage competitive campaigns for some town offices. Just in time, for the issues before our town — most notably, those involving growth and the quality of town life — require that the lopsided Republican dominance of the past be ended. But political competitiveness and our town are not well served by partisan journalism in the pages of The Spotlight.

A reader contends 'bullet' missed target

Editor, The Spotlight:

I can't imagine that many people who read your front page article of Oct. 11, "Will Voters Bite The Bullet For Democrats?" understood what it was all about. It mentioned "bullet" voting several times, but never defined or explained the term for readers (voters). The bar graphs only served to confuse the reader even more. I found the article an example of careless journalism, probably written in one draft. Read it again and ask yourself: did it really clarify the issue for voters? Whatever happened to writing for the reader and the four C's of good writing: completeness, correctness, conciseness, and courteousness?

Aggressive stance is Smolinsky promise

Editor, the Spotlight:

I am proud to be the Democratic candidate for Bethlehem Town Board and pleased that I have an opportunity to continue my efforts to improve the Town. For several years, at dozens of town meetings, I have voiced citizens' concerns on planning and development issues, but it has taken years of petitions and pleas before our town hired professionals and began a planning process. I will bring a more aggressive and responsible style to the Town Board; one that will challenge tradition and that will emphasize citizen participation.

Planning and fiscal responsibility must begin at the grassroots level. Citizens, through elected officials, must decide the future of our town. I will advocate plans and policies that define our needs and identify solutions. The plans must address our road system and locate areas which are convenient and acceptable for affordable senior housing, grocery shopping, and other needed services. An aggressively solid-waste plan is also essential. Plans that are developed and adopted by the Town Board must be enforceable and above all, they must preserve the characteristics of our community that we value.

Your Opinion Matters

Some of the problems affecting Bethlehem are regional. I propose that the Town Board members take on greater responsibility for coordination with the state and local governments.

It is important for our citizens to be assured that our elected and appointed officials as well as our town employees meet the highest standards of honesty and integrity. I intend to pursue a tough ethics law and recommend that it be applied to all town officials. Conflicts of interest are simply unacceptable. I will also propose an open appointments policy including public announcements of openings, interviews of candidates, and public input. I believe that will ensure that we find the best people to serve town government.

I have a clear history of speaking out for citizen concerns and I want residents to know that I will continue to be their advocate when I am on the Town Board. It will be a pleasure to join Bob Burns and provide a better balance on the board and for our town.

Smolinsky described as caring candidate

Editor the Spotlight:

I am very pleased to have John Smolinsky as a candidate to the Bethlehem Town Board, for truly here is a man who cares about the community and has taken part in Town Board and Planning Board meetings to influence quality community action and accountability.

John has demonstrated through his active participation, over the years, a serious commitment to a well-managed local government, to his community, and to his neighbors. He exemplifies the kind of person who will provide responsible leadership in a town that has grown in leaps and bounds over the last decade.

John brings to the candidacy a broad range of experience in the areas of budget, planning, and ethics in government. I believe that to elect him to the Town Board on Nov. 7 can only serve to protect and enhance the town I have grown to love over my 10 years of residence.

Recalling doctors of years gone by

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am frequently reminded by my senior citizen patients of the doctors who have cared for them over the years. They discuss Drs. Thomas Holmes, Harold Brown, Ben Myers, John Gainor, Frank Maxon, George Smith, Robert MacDowell, Frank Little, Robert Barbagelott, and others.

George Frank Little, D.D.S., was a special one for me going back to 1938, when he began practicing dentistry opposite Applebee's at the Four Corners.

Recently he sold his farm in New Scotland and moved back to Delmar. One day he told me, "I miss dentistry and my patients." He had given up his dental chair at the farm.

I offered Dr. Little the use of my office for his special old patients and he has been doing some denture work when the spirit moves him.

How fortunate we have been in this area for doctors of such dedication.

I would like to please use The Spotlight's letters columns to send this open letter to a woman whose identity I don't know.

She was driving a green VW Rabbit on Kenwood Ave. on Monday evening, Oct. 9. She stopped after seeing a bicycle accident, picked up my son, and took him to a friend's house nearby.

Thank you! It's heartwarming to know that there are still Good Samaritans in this "rush-rush, don't stop for the other guy" world.

Town to buy South Bethlehem park land

By Mark Stuart

Last Wednesday the Bethlehem Town Board authorized Town Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick to enter into an agreement to purchase a 10-acre parcel in South Bethlehem for use as a town park.

Upon the request of David Austin, administrator of the Park and Recreation Department, the town will purchase the land from Russel Hunter of Bridge Street. The closing of the sale could be as early as January, according to a letter from Austin to the board.

Austin will meet with South Bethlehem and Selkirk residents to get input on park development and community needs on Monday, Oct. 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the Selkirk Firehouse on Bridge Street

Included in the purchase is a 60 by 300-foot parcel to serve as access to the land, which is located adjacent to the Onesquethaw Creek and South Albany Road in South Bethlehem. The deal includes an option to purchase four additional acres at a later date for an amount that may be negotiated at a later date.

The purchase will cost the town $5,000 because of a prior agreement with Callanan Industries of South Bethlehem for the company to purchase the former South Bethlehem park on Route 396 for $10,000. In addition, Callanan Industries also agreed to donate $20,000 to the town to be used for the purchase of a new park.

In other business, no one spoke in favor of the proposed Route 9W Overlay District at a continuation of a Sept. 27 public hearing.

Several people spoke in opposition to the law because of the effect it would have on the resale value of their property. The law is designed to modify the existing zoning code by revising site development standards and road hierarchy and is based on recommendations made in the town's Route 9W Corridor Study.

The board agreed to send Officer Wayne LaChappelle and Police Chief Paul Currie to Fort Lauderdale on Nov. 13 to receive the Award of Honor from the International Narcotic Enforcement Officers Association, Inc.

The total expense to the town of sending both men will be approximately $1,000.

The award will be presented to LaChappelle and the Bethlehem Police Department as part of the opening ceremonies of the International Drug Conference in Hollywood, Fla.

The board discussed a petition requesting the construction of a storm sewer between the intersection of Orchard Street and Brockley Drive and 202 Orchard St. The board agreed to refer the request to the Department of Public Works.

Forum

Ponemon said that although one of the candidates, Smolinsky, is a past president and one of the founders of the Bethlehem Citizens for Responsible Planning, the format will be presented in an unbiased manner and the questions have been submitted from organizations other than BCRP. "We are trying very hard both in the procedures and the forum to be objective. The candidates will be briefed and each candidate equal opportunity to respond to the questions."

The forum will be the first real public meeting with any of the candidates. Unlike when Sue Ann Ritchko and Kenneth Ringler met with the community at highly publicized meetings, the town board race has had no informational or campaign meetings to speak of.

Along those same lines, no issues have been truly raised through the media or in face-to-face forums. Members of the Slingerlands Homeowners Association reportedly interviewed all three candidates at separate times two weeks ago, but not before any public audience.

All three candidates have used planning as a central platform for their campaign, although they cite different goals as their reason for running.

All three candidates are currently involved in the town's planning process, either directly or indirectly. As president of the BCRP, Smolinsky has been an active advocate of developing a master plan and rarely misses a planning board meeting. Gunner was appointed this year to be chairman of the town's Land Use Management Advisory Committee (LUMAC), which is charged with developing the town's master plan. Galvin, who has served as a member of the Board of Appeals for four years, also serves on the LUMAC committee.

Smolinsky takes the stance that a more aggressive approach is needed to tackling problems such as traffic and lack of a master plan. "One of my main interests is not only good government, but better government," he said.

Gunner takes a general approach to his campaign, saying "I'm just an ordinary citizen who would like to have the opportunity to serve my community."

Galvin has based her campaign on a strict conservative approach to planning. As she has stated at Board of Appeals meetings, she favors strict interpretation of the zoning code and zoning districts and is "very much opposed to the granting of special use variances." Galvin voted against the special use variances that were approved for the Samaritan Shelter home on Beaver Dam Road and the Association for Retarded Citizens facility on Krumkill Road.

Card party for historical association

On Thursday, October 26 at 7:30 p.m. the Bethlehem Historical Association will hold its annual card party at the Bethlehem Elks Lodge, Route 144 and Winne Road.

Harry Huckins and Charles Alford are planning a busy evening with door, table and raffle prizes of various merchandise, a boutique and gift table, entertainment by the Sweet Adelines, and

News from Selkirk and
South Bethlehem

Cheryl Clary 767-2373

apple pie and coffee. Guests are invited to bring cards or games. Committee members include Barbara Muhlfielder, boutique; and Evelvn Alford, Jean Lyon and Mary E. VanOostenbrugge, tickets. Tickets are $3 each. For information, call 731-6885 or 767-9919.

Performance set

"One Foot in Heaven" will be performed by the South Bethlehem Players as part of the bicentennial celebration of the South Bethlehem United Methodist Church. This comedy is about the trials and tribulations of a minister in 1910 as he moves to a new church.

The performance will be Friday, Oct. 20 and Saturday, Oct. 21 at 8 p.m. at the church on Willowbrook Avenue.

Richard Wager plays the pastor and Carol Savery is Mother Hope.

Robert Mayo will be playing the role of Dr. Romer.

Tickets are still available by calling Marion Fross at 767-3147 or members of the cast.

Parent programs

As part of the RCS Reach Program this school year, there are three scheduled parent programs scheduled for Nov. 2, Feb. 6 and May 1. The first meeting will feature speaker Stephanie Tolin, a novelist who has written books for young children and young adults. She has become very active in working with parents of gifted children and is co author of "Guiding the Gifted Kids." To make arrangements for the best facility to present this program, a letter has been sent home with children for parents to reply indicating interest for the Nov. 2 meeting.

Pancake supper

Pancakes will be served with a variety of other home cooked goodies at the United Methodist Church in South Bethlehem on Saturday, Oct. 28 from 5 to 7 p.m. Pancakes, sausage, bacon, apple-sauce, juice and coffee will be available for $3.50 adults, $2.50 children and kids under 3 are free. Proceeds go to the Bicentennial Fund.

Or perhaps spaghetti

If spaghetti is more to your liking, on Sunday, Oct. 29 from 1 to 6 p.m. St. Patrick's Church of Ravena will hold its annual spaghetti dinner in the RCS Junior High School cafeteria. Take out dinners are available but containers must be provided. A bake sale and bazaar will be held during the dinner.

Pastor installed at Onesquethaw Reformed

The Rev. Boyd B. J. Heldring was recently installed as the pastor of the Onesquethaw Reformed Church, Feura Bush.

Presiding at the service were the Rev. Kermit G. Hogenboom, president of the Albany Classis of the Reformed Church of America; Dr. Joseph A. Loux, Jr., pastor, Second Reformed Church, Coxsackie, who served as moderator during the church's search for a new pastor; and Rev. Arvin W. Schoep, pastor of the Clarksville

The Rev. Boyd B.J. Heldring

Community Church. Frederick Crouse, vice-president of the Onesquethaw Reformed Church, assisted in the service.

Rev. Heldring was born in Canada and at the age of seven moved with his parents to the Netherlands. He received an R.N. degree in 1976 and that year returned to Canada and continued his education. After extensive travelling and work, including work trips to Israel and Honduras, he entered the Western Theological Seminary in Holland, Mich. He received his degree in Divinity Studies in 1985. He then accepted a call as the Associate Pastor at Trinity Community Church in Brown Deer near Milwaukee, Wisc. In May, 1989, he married Susan Mary Bolz, who grew up in a suburb of Milwaukee. She is employed by the Albany Savings Bank.

The Onesquethaw Reformed Church is a country church situated on Tarrytown Rd. in Feura Bush. Sunday service is at 9:30 a.m. and Church School at 10:45.

A 'spook-tacular' Halloween

Children's librarian Nancy Hutchinson has lots of fun planned for area ghost and goblins during the next few weeks at the Voorheesville Public Library. On Wednesday, Oct. 25 a special Halloween Bedtime Story Hour will be held at the library beginning at 7 p.m. Not to worry parents, stories won't be scary just fun. In addition regularly scheduled story hours on Oct. 27, 30 and 31 will also have a Halloween theme.

Finally a "spook-tacular" Halloween Bash will be held on Saturday, Oct. 28 at 2 p.m. Everyone is invited to bring a pumpkin to decorate for the contest. Films, crafts and goodies will also be featured. All are invited to don their finest costumes for these Halloween happenings.

Writing workshop

The first session of a writing workshop led by area storyteller Mary Murphy will be held on Monday, Oct. 23 from 4 to 5 p.m. at the Voorheesville Public Library. Entitled "Are You Ready for This?" the workshop is open to students in grades 3 and up. Children will read their finished stories on Nov. 18 at 1 p.m.

Program on Korea

The Voorheesville Public Library will host a program on Korea on Tuesday, Oct. 24 from 7 to 9 p.m. Guest scholar Dr. Won Z. Yoon, of Siena College will present a lecture and lead a discussion on the new immigrant experience. This program is only one of the "American Visions" lectures which are part of the "World of Difference," a national program to reduce ethnic prejudice and stereotyping. For more information about this or any other library program, call 765-2791.

Committee to meet

The creative playground committee of the Voorheesville PTSA will hold its first meeting of the school year on Thursday, Oct. 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the elementary school. Anyone interested in helping with this project is encouraged to attend. For more information, contact committee chairpersons Elaine Burns at 765-4898 or Debbie Baron at 765-9371.

Also flyers concerning the groups first big fund-raiser were sent home with elementary school students last week and are available to high school students as well. The brochures offer a multitude of items from candy to wrapping paper which will arrive in time for the holidays.

Officers elected

The Voorheesville Vikings 4-H club recently elected new officers for the 1989-90 year. The following were selected: Amy Fike, president; Cindy Law, vice president; Renee Parmalee; secretary and Sherry Shafer, treasurer. They will be installed at the club's next meeting at the Voorheesville Methodist Church on Oct. 27. Welcomed as a new member was Krystal Dergosits. Other members are Tricia Doyle, Gretchen Gies, Wendy Reynolds, Amy Stroehmer and Shannon Shafer. To join a 4-H group, contact the Albany County 4-H department at 765-3540.

Fall trash pickup

It's cleanup time in Voorheesville. Fall trash will not be picked up during one week only, but rather on a routine basis in accordance with new state and county regulations. The village is now required to sort all materials and stockpile them until they acquire a minimum supply. Letters detailing instructions were sent to all village homes during the past few weeks. For more information, contact the village office at 765-2692.

The Kiwanis Club of New Scotland invites all youngsters from pre-school through grade 4 to come to the annual Halloween party on Sunday, Oct. 28 from 1 to 3 p.m. at Voorheesville Elementary School. There will be costumes contests, games and refreshments. Admission is free.

Reception for candidates

A reminder that the Democratic candidates will hold a reception at the home of Cathy and John Biscone this Friday, Oct. 20 from 6-8 p.m. Donation is $15 per person and $25 per couple. To make a reservation, contact Dick Decker at 439-5201. Those not having reservations are welcome to stop by that evening.

Students in orchestras

Once again, Bethlehem Central School District has one of the largest numbers of students in both the Empire State Youth Orchestra and the Empire State Repertory Orchestra. Several students have been named principal players.

Youth orchestra members include: Jeff Ballou, principal trumpet; Meg Bragle, violin — concertmaster; Lauralee Butt, oboe; Marilyn Kirk, principal flute; Lou Lazarus, French horn; Keith Lenden, trombone; Nancy Leonard, principal double bass; Suzanne Rice, French horn; Dan Roberts, percussion; Brigid Shogan, viola; Melissa Warden, viola; Jessica Williams, violin.

Members of the Repertory Orchestra are: Joyce Aycock, violin; Lisa Ballou, violin; Marion Borgia, cello; Davis Brewer, trumpet; Alicia Cacciola, violin; Kirsten Jones, cello; Naomi Kubo, flute; Kathryn Leonard, cello; Tory McKenna, Trumpet; Rebecca Rice, viola; and Shannon Woodley, trumpet.

Doctors on special team

Two Delmar residents, Dr. Gerald and Virginia Winn, will leave Saturday for Haiti, where they will be part of a 19-member medical/dental team working for two weeks in a remote village on the island's southern arm.

Their son, Dr. Mark Winn, who is a medical officer in the Army stationed at Fort Drum, is also on the team. As a resident of Watertown, he has become active in a church group that is sponsoring this expedition.

The Wwins have been participating in an orientation program over the past eight months in preparation for their service and also to prepare them for living conditions in the mountains.

Shouldn't you know
who's behind
the mask?

You can!

St. Peter's Hospital has just made it easy for you to find the skilled and caring physician you need. Our new Physician Referral Service uses an advanced computer matching system to provide you with the names of physicians from our staff whose services meet your individual needs.

year. That, Teuten said, inconvenienced some who waited until that day to pay up. Taxpayers who failed to pay by that date are subject to a 2 percent penalty.

- Learned that as of Oct. 1 the district had collected 91.8 percent of the tax levy, according to Treasurer Sarita Winchell. Collections totaled $5.1 million, compared to $2.3 million collected by Winchell's office by the same date last year.

- Added one bus driver position to the staff in line with the district's effort to provide busing to students previously served through contracts with private bus companies. It's "budget-advantageous," said Anthony Cashara, assistant superintendent for business.

Planners delay Swift Estates

By Bob Hagyard

New Scotland Planning Board members will consider preliminary plat approval for Swift Estates next Tuesday.

Proposed by Donna Baltis, owner of the 23-acre tract since 1971, plans call for 11 single-family homes on hilly terrain a few hundred feet southwest of Swift Road Town Park. At an Aug. 22 public hearing, seven neighbors voiced objections to proposed plans for drainage, water, sewage disposal and roads.

When the board reconvened Oct. 10 to discuss approval, the length of Baltis Drive became the focal point. It would stretch 1,300 feet, far over the 500-foot limit spelled out in the town subdivision regulations. At the hearing, Baltis' representatives pointed out that, given the topography, a 500-foot road would render the project unfeasible from a rate-of-return standpoint.

The board may override the requirement, advised counsel John Bailey, who later suggested that any board member wishing to vote against Swift Estates on account of the cul-de-sac should consult with him first. Board member William Childs then suggested reconsideration of the issues at the next meeting, and his colleagues agreed.

The board also:

- Delayed action on a special use permit request by Edward Gendron to establish New Scotland Auto Plaza, a used car sales/service area on Route 85 opposite Stonewell Plaza, until next Tuesday.

Unanimously recommended that the zoning board approve a variance request by Robert Mitchell of Delmar to build a 32-foot high barn to house a large recreational vehicle. Town regulations call for a 20-foot maximum height for new barns.

- Discussed the Galesi Group's plans for Phase I (52 homes) of Tall Timbers, originally presented to the Town Board the week before. No action was taken, since the Town Board is serving as lead agency for the proposed project.

Spotlight on the Services

Army National Guard Private Michael A. Trombley, son of Malcolm A. and Susan G. Trombley of Voorheesville, has completed basic training at Fort Dix, N.J.

Trombley is a 1988 graduate of Clayton P. Bouton Junior/Senior High School, Voorheesville.

Air Force Capt. Beth E. Robie, daughter of Richard P. and Arloa J. Canuteson of South Bethlehem, has arrived for duty at the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Robie graduated in 1977 from Ravena Coeymans Selkirk High School, and received her medical degree in 1985 from the University of Connecticut Medical School.

Five arrested for DWI

Bethlehem police arrested five motorists for misdemeanor driving while intoxicated last week.

At about 6:23 a.m. Monday, Herman G. Noel, 53, of Laguna Park, Texas, was traveling south on Murray Avenue, Delmar, when he allegedly ran the stop sign at Feura Bush Road and left the pavement. When police arrived, the driver reported he did not see the sign. Police said they noticed a strong odor of alcohol on the driver's breath and that he then failed both pre-screening device and field sobriety tests, experiencing difficulty standing or walking. He was then arrested for DWI and taken to police headquarters at Town Hall. When a blood-alcohol test produced a .33 reading (3.3 times the state DWI standard), he was rushed to Albany Medical Center Hospital. He was ticketed to appear in Town Court Nov. 6.

At 9:51 p.m. Sunday, Matthew J. Panza of 14 Woodridge Road, Elsmere, was stopped by police for an alleged lighting violation. After failing pre-screening device and field tests, he was arrested for DWI and taken to Town Hall where a blood-alcohol test was given. He is scheduled to appear in Town Court Nov. 4 to answer the DWI and light violation charges as well as a ticket for operating an unregistered vehicle.

Shortly before 3:15 a.m., Saturday, Daniel R. Morin, 21, of Route 32, Feura Bush, was stopped on Route 140 near the corner of McCormick Road, Slingerlands, for traffic violations when police reported noticing the driver's eyes were glassy, his speech slurred and movements awkward. He then failed pre-screening device and field sobriety tests, was arrested for DWI and taken to Town Hall where a blood-alcohol test was administered. He will reappear in Town Court to answer the charge as well as tickets for failure to yield and failure to approach a left turn in the left lane of a four-lane highway.

Last Friday, police questioned Gene Minshell, 26, of South Vagele Lane, Glenmont, seated behind the wheel of a car parked along Hudson Avenue, Delmar, near Delaware Avenue, engine running. Police said that as they approached, Minshell got out of the car to report striking a deer, noting front end damage to the vehicle. Police said they also noticed a strong odor of alcohol on the driver's breath and that he had difficulty walking, at which point Minshell reportedly admitted to consuming two beers. After failing a pre-screening device test, he was arrested for DWI and taken to Town Hall where a blood sample was taken for testing and he was ticketed to appear in Town Court Oct. 17 (yesterday).

At 4:23 p.m., Oct. 17, police stopped Jerry F. Pierce of Houston, Texas and Hunter (Greene Co.), whose car was observed crossing the center line of Route 85 near Blessing Road. Police reported noticing an odor of alcohol on the driver's breath and that his eyes were bloodshot. After failing a pre-screening device test he was arrested for DWI and taken to Town Hall where a blood-alcohol test was administered. He was scheduled to reappear in Town Court on Oct. 17.

Program on reverse mortgages

Cornell Cooperative Extension will present a program on "Reverse Mortgages-History and Future in New York State," on Thursday, Oct. 19, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The program will be held at the William K. Sanford Library on Shaker Rd. in Colonie.

To register, call 765-3500.

Closing reception

A closing reception will be Friday, Oct. 20 from 3:30-5:30 p.m. for an exhibition of traditional Chinese watercolors by Gu Le-Fu, an exchange art student at Union College.

The exhibit is in the atrium and gallery in the Arts Building at the college, and is open to the public.

Bicycles stolen

Two bicycles were stolen from the bicycle rack in front of Bethlehem High School in Delmar this month, town police report.

Last Friday a boys' 20-inch blue model, parked at the rack at 10 a.m., disappeared sometime before 2:15 p.m. The bike was valued at $420. Then the following Friday, a boys' 24-inch black bicycle valued at about $250 was taken from the same location.

Police said neither bike was secured.

Indians scalp Academy with rousing finish

By Mark Stuart

Call it anything. Miraculous. Dramatic. Rousing.

Just don't call it easy.

Final score: RCS 22, Albany Academy 20.

By putting together 48 minutes of solid football, the underdog Ravena varsity football team charged ahead against the monstrous Albany Academy on Saturday with awe-inspiring spirit and drive that legendary games are made of.

Football

"That's as great a win as I've ever had," RCS Head Coach Gary VanDerzee said to the team moments after the final whistle.

By earning their third win in a row and raising their record to 3-1-1, the Indians are tied for first place in the Capital Conference Colonial Division with Academy, Lansingburgh and Mohonasen.

VanDerzee said Saturday's game was "one of those games where whoever had the ball last won." RCS last score capped off a spectacular 80-yard drive.

Following an Academy touchdown at 6:00 in the fourth quarter that made the score Albany Academy 20, RCS 14, Julio Colon took the short kickoff at the 30-yard line and returned it to Academy's 47.

Following an unsuccessful first down pitch to running back Larry Roe, Paul Morehouse threw a short seven-yard pass to Roe, who started the play from the slotback position. With the ball on the Academy's 42, Morehouse threw an incomplete pass to make it fourth and four from the 42.

VanDerzee wasn't going to back

Unbeaten BC girls head to Sectionals

After posting a 9-0 season record and capturing the Suburban Council championship, the Bethlehem girls tennis team will begin team sectional play Monday as the top seed in Section II.

The girls will defend their 1988 crown behind No. 1 singles player Kristen Jones, who will be the top seed in the Section II individual tournament that begins Monday at Central Park in Schenectady.

Bethlehem has had several Section II doubles champions over the years, the last being Jones and her elder sister Jodie in 1985 and 1986. The last Section II singles champion from Bethlehem was Anne Weber in 1979.

Babe Ruth signups

Bethlehem Babe Ruth registration will be held Saturday, Oct. 27, at Town Hall between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. for the 1990 season. All boys who will be 13, 14 or 15 years old by Aug. 1 are encouraged to register.

The league will also give out awards at 11 a.m. to the division winners as well as to individual team players. Also on hand will be the team that won the Lansingburgh tournament under Jesse Braverman.

Training is provided and includes orientation to the historic house museum and its collection. Volunteer positions include benefits such as discount on admission and gift shop items, meetings with historian speakers and field trips.

For more information, contact the Volunteer Department at 434-4791.

Weather, Devils rain on Falcons

On Saturday night, the Bethlehem Pee Wee Falcons played another tough game against the East Greenbush Blue Devils. Weather dominated the game which was called early in the fourth quarter with the Falcons trailing 18-0. Falcon defense was led by Josh Naylor's pass interception and Paul Patane's fumble recovery. Solid blocking by Andre Ellman and Adam VanDuzer sparked the offensive line. Due to the weather conditions the Junior Midgets game versus Shaker was canceled and rescheduled for Oct. 29 at home.

Defense was the highlight of Sunday's contest between the Bethlehem Midget Eagles and the Belmont Red Raiders. The Eagles won, 22-19, behind the outstanding defensive play of Bob Helligrass. Six fumble recoveries and one pass interception proved too much for the Red Raiders. Two of the fumble recoveries were turned in for touchdowns, a 10-yard run by Shaun Walmsley and the second a 51-yard scamper by Joe Capobianco. Rick Sherwin's 26-yard blast over the right side of the line accounted for the third touchdown. The margin of victory was assured by the foot of Sean Brewer, who made two of three conversion attempts.

Next week the Falcons travel to Albany on Sunday while the Hawks visit Niskayuna. The Eagles have a bye weekend.

In Pop Warner action two weeks ago:

A Bethlehem losing streak can to an end, with the Pop Warner Eagles' victory over arch-rival Albany.

Opening last Saturday's double-header night games, the Hawks played an undefeated team from Colonie and were shut out, 22-0.

The highlights of the evening was the 26-6 Eagles' victory over Albany. After giving up a touchdown to the visitors early, the game saw no other points until just before halftime when the Eagles scored and added the two-point conversion for a 8-6 lead at the half.

The second half was a different story. The Eagles capitalized on the outstanding blocking of Bob Helligrass, Sean Brewer and Brian Ragone and racked up 303 yards rushing. Rick Sherwin had two TDs while rushing for 134 yards; Shawn Walmsley had 157 rushing yards with one TD.

College Athletics

John McNiff of Slingerlands scored two touchdowns and rushed for 130 yards for Cornell University on Saturday as Cornell defeated Harvard University in Division I Ivy League football action.

McNiff has become an important key to Cornell this season. He was named the Ivy League Sophomore Player of the Week for the week of Sept. 30 after rushing for 135 yards on 29 carries, receiving two passes for 24 yards and scoring one touchdown in Cornell's defeat of Bucknell University, 20-9.

After sitting out the 1988 season with a broken ankle, McNiff made his debut on the Cornell varsity football team this season as a fullback and is considered an athletic sophomore. He is a 1987 Bethlehem Central graduate and in his academic junior year majoring in math and economics. He is the son of Kevin and Alicia McNiff of Mayfair Drive, Slingerlands.

RCS beats Academy

down and neither were his troops. On fourth down, Hale took the ball on a handoff and broke free from the sea of black jerseys at the line of scrimmage and rambled to the 31. Add to that a 15-yard face-masking penalty against Academy, and the Indians had a first-and-10 at the 16.

With 3:52 left in the game, Adam Leonardo opened the drive with a two-yard carry. Morehouse put up an incomplete pass on second down. On third down, Morehouse dropped back into the pocket, peered through the towering Academy lineman and after shopping around the field for an open green jersey, spotted tight end Chris Hagen on the sideline and connected for a 12-yard gain to the 4.

With 2:34 remaining, RCS scored on a Hale carry to tie the game at 20. VanDerzee, who never settled for a one-point conversion on Saturday, ordered a two-point try although all he needed was one easy kick for the win.

The crowd was on the edge of its collective seat.

Morehouse took the snap, faked the handoff, dropped back and in the cool-hand style that kept RCS in the hunt all through the game, rainbowed a completion to Colon to give RCS its first lead of the game.

Two plays after RCS' kickoff, Roe picked off a tipped Academy pass on second down at 1:13 and returned to Academy's 43-yard line to give RCS the assured win.

Academy running backs Jason Heath and Matt Owens dominated the Academy running game and scored all of Academy's TDs, including a 49-yard run by Owens.

The other RCS TDs came courtesy of Hale on a Morehouse pass in the third and on a bootleg by Morehouse in the second quarter.

The key to Saturday's upset was RCS's never-say-die attitude and the disciplined execution by both the offense and defense. Morehouse was given adequate time to throw and when he wasn't, remained calm as he looked for a hole in the secondary. The bottom line was that he didn't give up any interceptions. The only RCS turnover came in the second quarter on a QB option when Morehouse pitched out to Roe, except Roe wasn't looking at Morehouse but rather was turned upfield to block.

Academy, on the other hand, gave up the ball on one interception and two fumbles.

Vanderzee credited his offensive line with the win, saying that Morehouse was given the time to find his receivers and was only sacked once. "We haven't thrown the ball well all season, and have had to use our running game," he said, "Today, they both clicked."

Next week RCS will go on the road against Schalmont followed by Watervliet and Mohonasen.

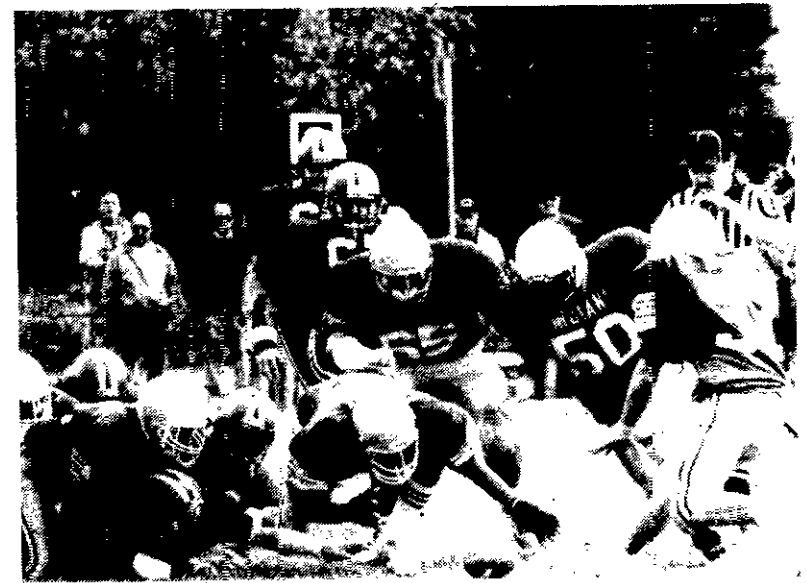

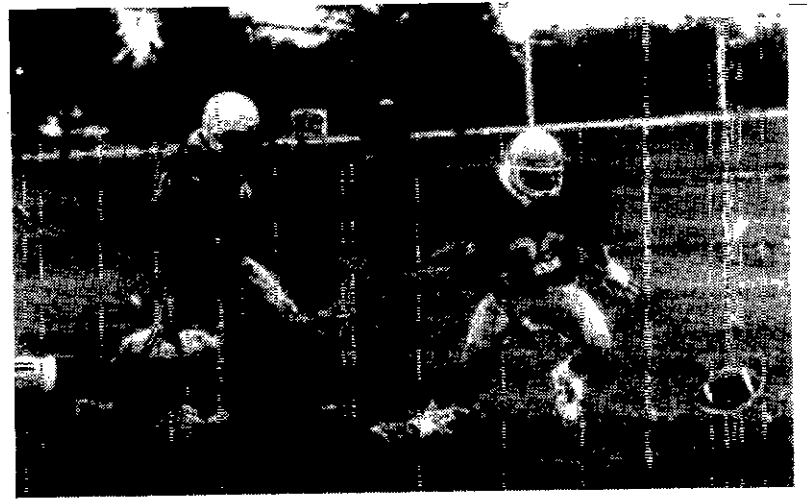

Despite the overwhelming feeling of accomplishment by the Indians, VanDerzee offered this simple caveat to his players: "Please, please, please, don't stop playing like that. That's championship football, you showed some real guts out there today. The only thing that can stop us now is ourselves. Remember, we still have half a season to go. Enjoy this one."

Church to hold mortgage burning

A worship service at the First United Methodist Church of Delmar on Oct. 22 at 9:30 a.m. will include burning the mortgage and celebrating the completion of payments on the renovation of the church's sanctuary.

Rev. Arthur F. Hagy, Jr. senior pastor, will preach on the topic "Unless the Lord Builds."

The morning service will also include church school classes at 9:45 a.m., youth and adult classes at 11 a.m., and nursery care from 9 a.m. to noon.

BC defense stalls at Amsterdam

By John Bellizzi III

For the second time in as many weeks, the Bethlehem Central High School football machine stalled out on Saturday. A lack of offensive production on Bethlehem's part and a tired fourth-quarter defense resulted in a 21-0 victory for Amsterdam in Saturday's Metroland Conference game.

The win puts the Rams (4-0 league, 4-1 overall) in first place in the Mohawk Division, while Bethlehem (2-2 league, 3-2 overall) drops to fourth in the division.

This does not completely crush Bethlehem's hopes for a playoff berth, however. Catholic Central's 14-8 upset of previously undefeated

Football

Burnt Hills on Saturday may indicate a tight race for first in the Mohawk Division in the last three weeks of regular season play. Burnt Hills (4-1 overall) and CCHA (3-2 overall) are currently tied for second in the Mohawk Division with 3-1 league records.

The outcome of the Oct. 27 showdown between Amsterdam and Burnt Hills, in addition to the results of Bethlehem's last three games (especially Nov. 3 against CCHA) will determine whether BC will be able to finish in the top two in the Mohawk Division, thereby earning a spot in the crossover playoffs with the Hudson Division.

If the Eagles want a chance at a playoff berth, they need to break the streak of bad luck that has plagued them for the past two Saturdays. One major factor in Bethlehem's two consecutive losses has been very unimpressive offensive performances.

BC's other big problem, against Burnt Hills, as well as against Amsterdam on Saturday, was defense. Bethlehem's first two games showed that they have one of the strongest, hardest-hitting defenses in the Metroland Conference. Twice in a row, though, the Eagles were so worn out by the fourth quarter that they allowed two touchdowns. On Saturday, a 7-0 game suddenly became 21-0 as Amsterdam scored twice on successive possessions early in the fourth quarter, putting the game out of reach of the Eagles.

Friday evening's homecoming game at Bethlehem Central should provide the perfect opportunity for the Eagles to snap their losing streak against Niskayuna (0-4 league, 0-5 overall). Bethlehem defeated the Silver Warriors, 35-6, last fall. Friday's game begins at 7:30 p.m.

Wait til next year: Burnham

By Nat Boynton

Dave Burnham has a few words for crepe-hangers and doomsayers predicting the end of Voorheesville's football program.

"We'll have an excellent varsity next year, you can count on that. This year we have a very strong JV team playing a varsity schedule. Next year we should be able to field a modified program with the Pop Warner kids coming along."

Burnham, a classroom teacher who will give up coaching after 20 years to embark on a career shift into school administration, was unshaken by the 27-0 shellacking his troops absorbed at Mohonasen last Saturday. Nor is he disheartened by the prospect of another of the same at Lansingburgh this Saturday.

"Sure, it was a physical game and we've got a lot of kids banged up. But we moved the ball on them, and these kids played their hearts out. Their time will come, you can bet on that."

Maybe not this week, nor even this season, but these young Blackbirds show promise. Burnham put in a new offense this week, firing from the shotgun formation, and Charlie Russo did so well that Tom Gianatasio didn't get a chance to play his designated backup role.

In Rotterdam the Blackbirds came out throwing, as promised. They gave up an early touchdown to the Mohons' superior power, but on their second possession, they drove from their own 15 to the enemy 2-yard line. Russo connected on 8 of 10 passes in his best drive of the season, but on the fateful 11th he threw to the wrong uniform on an out-pattern to Ryan Brennan. The interception became an 84-yarder that set up the second touchdown.

Voorheesville stormed back, but that familiar bugaboo, annoying penalties for holds, clips and procedure, plagued them, and the Warriors hammered out another score for a 20-0 lead at intermission.

Again Russo came out throwing, directing an offense so new that Burnham put the plays on armbands in the field. But the pass rush was too strong, the blocking broke down under heavy pressure, and in the second half both coaches let their bench players go at it.

At Sunday's weekly wake, Burnham had praise for the foe as well as his own stalwarts. "Mohonasen was a very clean team, they just had too many stickers for us. Our four seniors deserve medals for what they're going through. The whole team had a good game, especially (Greg) Roman and Brennan and Chad (Hotaling). Charlie (Russo) was fine, and I thought Dave Washburn played a fantastic game on both sides of the ball. He's a defensive end, but we put him in at fullback when Trampas (Talavera) was hurt, and his blocking was tremendous."

And Denny Lucia's punting was good enough to remind Blackbird fans of Bruce Kinisky, which is praise indeed.

Talavera is a doubtful starter this week with a bone bruise in his thigh, but Washburn's knee injury should not keep him out of Saturday's game.

Meanwhile, former head coach Pete Douglas has agreed to fill in for assistant coach Chuck Farley, who suffered a heart attack last Monday. Farley was still in the intensive care unit as of this Monday, but was reported in stable condition.

Guild to meet

The Capital District Embroiders' Guild will meet on Oct. 18 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Delmar United Methodist Church, Kenwood Ave., Delmar. The evening study group will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. at the home of Marylyn Kaltenborn.

Featured will be a slide lecture and a workshop on "Needlework and Expression of the People of Greece" by Joan Petrakis, a needlework artist and lecturer.

Members not taking part in the workshop are asked to bring articles of ethnic cross stitch in needlework for a "Show 'n' Share."

Guests are welcome to attend the general meetings for a $1 fee. A bag lunch is suggested for the day session. Guild membership is open to the public. For information, call 356-3149.

Revived Birds face Waterford rematch

By Bob Hagyard

Just as Voorheesville's soccer men seemed ready to roll over and die, they sprang back to upset Albany Academy, 1-0, last week and knocked the Cadets out of first place.

As predicted in this space, Voorheesville was effectively eliminated from the Colonial Council title. Lansingburgh did the honors by handing the team a rare home loss Oct. 10, 2-1, in overtime. Birds now enter the season's final week 7-3-1 in the league, two games behind front-runner Waterford (9-1-1), one and a half behind Academy (9-2).

Only one game between these three top teams remains on the schedule: this Friday, 4 p.m., at Voorheesville with Waterford, the guest team. If the Fordians do win the league title, they'll have to win it then and there. Meanwhile, VC gets a chance to play the spoiler.

Three Birds stood out versus Academy: Erin Sullivan, Eric Logan and Christian Clark.

Sullivan, sophomore goalie, ran up 11 saves, five on shots by Academy's Blaine Legere, the league's dominant player of 1989 (21 of his team's 39 goals, assisting most of the rest). Six were eye-catching: a Legere bullet 10 minutes into the second half which Sullivan played over the bar, a Legere blast 10 minutes later that he hung onto, then a sprawling dive on a breakaway chance by the same player with 3:08 left in regulation.

Logan then contributed Voorheesville's defensive play of the game. With about a minute left, Legere, Kevin Kavanaugh and a third Cadet pressed hard around the Blackbird cage with the Blackbird defense all askew and Sullivan well out of the net. Kavanaugh sent Sullivan sprawling again on the first shot, which bounced to Academy for the followup into the open net. Out of some corner of the field came Logan, a sophomore stopper, to scissor-kick the ball out of bounds, similar to a feat that highlighted the Sept. 22 matchup between these teams. On the ensuing corner kick, Sullivan stopped a Tom Krackeler shot labeled for the far corner of the net to force overtime.

Seven minutes into the first OT, Clark got his fourth goal of the season on a direct kick from less than 20 yards. The teams switched ends of the field and Sullivan came through once more, on another Legere rocket from 25 yards that Krackeler redirected to the opposite corner from point-blank range, producing another miraculous stop.

In contrast to Sept. 22, Voorheesville clearly outthrustled the Cadets, who uncharacteristically whined about the refereeing early in the second half.

"I didn't think we were going to win this one," admitted coach Bob Crandall. "But I knew they were in trouble when they started conversing (with game officials).

"I'm really proud of the kids," he went on. "I sat them down (the day after the Lansingburgh loss) and we talked about playing 300 minutes of soccer in three days and showing one tie for the whole thing. And I emphasized that we needed some luck, maybe.

"Christian Clark has been snake-bit all year long," he continued. "That (goal) was a nice shot. The (defensive) wall took the goalie's view away on that side, the goalie (Chad Sprinkle, a senior, probably the best in the league) was perfectly positioned, but the shot (just over the wall) was perfectly placed."

Clark spent most of the game dogging Legere, who Crandall calls "one of the best players in Section II, not just this league.

Helping Clark were Chris McDermott, Justin Perry and Kevin Taylor, who took turns in the left wingback spot. Sweeper Bill Stone, who possesses not a tenth of Legere's speed, rode Academy's No. 11 off the ball at least four times.

Designing silver-bullet defenses to stop Legere is an old topic, yet VC's coach was modest about what happened: "It wasn't anything we designed, other than making sure we knew where he was."

The one big backline play, though, was Logan's. Said Crandall: "That's just smart, heads-up play and you can't teach that. You can instruct that but it has to come from here" as the coach placed fist over heart.

Substitutions were frequent. Every Blackbird on the roster saw playing time except Mark Mirabile, who reinjured his ankle two days before yet was well enough for ball boy duty versus Academy. He should be back at left striker by the time you read this.

Filling Mirabile's spot was Eric Rose, taking turns with another senior, Aaron Williams, and junior Josh Vink. At center forward, Bill Kerr spotted Rich Adams while Jeff Freyer and Japanese exchange student Hiroshi Tomikawa alternated at right wing. Matt Hladun appeared at times at wingback, his starting position when the season began.

The junior varsity Birds tied Academy, 1-1, Thursday on a goal by Kevin Meade.

Monday, the Birds visited Cohoes (score unavailable), then Mechanicville for a night game

Wednesday (today) before wrapping up the league campaign Friday versus Waterford at home. Next Tuesday comes an opportunity for the team to even its record against Queensbury (Birds are now 1-2 against the perennial Class B sectional champs) in the last 1989 game scheduled for the Clayton A. Bouton High School ballfield.

The Class CC sectionals begin the following Saturday with Voorheesville assured a berth, the ninth straight for the school in the boys soccer.

The Oct. 10 varsity loss to Lansingburgh snapped a 19-game, two-year unbeaten streak on Voorheesville turf. Clark opened the scoring with a first-half penalty kick. The team then gave up a tying goal early in the second half, then the game-breaker early in the second overtime. Previous home loss: 4-2, to Schalmont, Sept. 21, 1987.

Girls soccer team is undefeated for week

By Matt Hladun

Voorheesville's girls soccer team notched up three victories last week, the team's first undefeated week of the season.

The team played with the additional pressure of needing a victory in all three games to keep their hopes alive for sectional play. They defeated Cohoes and Holy Names in league play, and then knocked off Greenville in a non-league matchup. Their record now stands at 4-6-1 in the league, and 5-7-1 overall.

The Birds began the week at home against Cohoes. They had lost earlier this season to the Tigers in overtime. Similar to the first game, they dominated from the start. They fired shots in from all directions but could not capitalize. Then, at about the 25-minute mark, Nicole Solomos knocked in a Lynn Meade cross to give the Birds an early lead.

They finished the first half with a 14-2 shot advantage, but only a one-goal lead.

They continued to dominate the second half and finally got the insurance goal at 26:40 of the half. Laura Pierro pushed a left foot shot into the corner of the goal for the Voorheesville victory.

Goalie Donna Zautner had to make just four saves as Cohoes managed only six shots.

They then faced Holy Names in a game that gave Coach Jim Hladun a lot of concern. They had defeated Holy Names in their first meeting in a close 3-2 game. Hladun knew that their opponents would be out for revenge.

But Holy Names never got into the game. The Blackbirds started off fast. Tracy Avgerinos got her first goal of the season off a cross from Meade within the first 10 minutes. Pierro added another goal five minutes later off another Meade cross. Solomos added two more goals. Her first came on a direct kick from about 20 yards out. The second came on a breakaway, when she pushed the ball by goalie Veronica Michaels. The Birds managed to score four goals on just five shots.

The second half's momentum seemed to shift to Holy Names, as they forced Voorheesville to play in a defensive shell. The Blackbirds tallied up yet another goal when Pierro got her second goal of the game on a cross by Solomos. Holy Names did manage one goal about a minute later. But Voorheesville was on their way to a 5-1 victory, their biggest goal production of the season.

They scored five goals on just seven shots. Zautner made 13 saves in goal for the Birds.

The next morning they played Greenville, the Schoharie County League leaders. Both teams were tired at the end of the first half due to games the previous day. Meade found her way through Greenville's defense with about 10 minutes to go. She pushed it by the goalie and gave the Birds the lead.

Four minutes later, Meade got her fourth assist of the week off yet another cross when she found Pierro in front of the goal putting the girls in front by two goals.

They held Greenville off in the second half, and Solomos boomed a shot in from 25 yards with 15 minutes left giving the Birds the 3-0 victory.

BC booters win three in a row

By Michael Kagan

It was expected that the Bethlehem Central soccer team would defeat Mohonasen Saturday, but no one expected the abrupt end.

Five minutes into the second half, Sean McDermott scored a questionable goal. In protest, Mohonasen coach Mike Cser pulled his team from the field. The goal did count, and BC won the game, 3-0. McDermott put in the other two shots for the Eagles.

Craig Christian, a starting half-back for Bethlehem, did not think the ball went in, but Coach Zachary Assael said, "From my angle, it appeared to go in." Despite the disagreement, both would rather have had the game played for the full 80 minutes.

Regardless, last week was pleasing for the Eagles. On Thursday, BC played a thrilling game against Saratoga, coming back from a 2-1 second half deficit to win, 4-2. McDermott had three goals in that game and Mike Peters had one. After that game, Assael said that he was "generally impressed" by the Eagles' play.

The Eagles outshot Mohonasen (who they defeated, 9-0, earlier this season), 24-0 in the abbreviated game. Assael said he was pleased with how the boys played and that they moved the ball well.

BC has now won three in a row, after being victory-less over the previous six, bringing its record up to an even 5-5-1 in the Suburban Council and 6-6-1 overall.

To make sectionals, the Eagles must win at least two of their remaining four games. Christian said, "At the beginning of the season, we were all thinking about sectionals and we were losing. The last few games, we've just been taking one game at a time."

Bethlehem could clinch a sectional appearance by winning two of this week's three games. On Tuesday, the Eagles travel to Scotia, whom they defeated at home, 2-0, earlier in the season. Then they will go up against Burnt Hills at home. In the fifth game of the season, they tied them in overtime, 2-2.

Soccer openings for under-12 girls

The Bethlehem Soccer Club is looking for girls born in 1978 or 1979 and interested in playing soccer for the 1990 spring season on an under-12 girls team. Contact Mr. or Mrs. Gisotti at 439-1779 before Nov. 8.

Girls bow to Guilderland

The Bethlehem girls soccer team started the week with a disappointing 6-3 loss to Guilderland. Britta Wehmann scored two goals, and Jessica Williams had the other. Michelle Rightmeyer and Suzanne Spinelli had a tough game in goal. Team co-captain Wehmann said, "Bethlehem had an off game because of lack of communication, but we should beat them when we play on our home field on Saturday."

On Wednesday, the team had another disappointing defeat, 4-2, to Saratoga. Goals were scored by Wehmann and Williams. Marissa Seletti had a good defensive game as halfback. Co-captain Courtney Macomber said: "Saratoga's forward line was very fast and took advantage of our few mistakes."

The week ended on a good note with a 4-1 scrimmage victory over Ravena. Maggie Franzen and Erin McDermott both scored a goal, with Wehmann contributing the other two. Assists by Trixi Worth, Franzen and Macomber helped put the ball in the net. Defense played

Guilderville churns toward aqua crown, sectionals

By Zack Kendall

Since last week's sensational victory over Shaker, the Guilderville girls' swim team has defeated two more schools to bring its record up to 19-0. On Wednesday, Troy fell to the undefeated powerhouse, 42-34. Later in the week, Scotia-Mohonasen crumbled, 53-23.

The highlights of the Troy meet included Nicole Leach's first in the 100 free with 1:01.52, and Amy Hilton's first in the 200 free with 2:09.24. Maggie Bintz won the 100 breast with 1:14.44, and the medley relay team of Nicole Weston,

Swimming

Bintz, Katrina Hansen and Jennifer Novak easily took first in 2:10.54.

At Scotia-Mohonasen, Coach Larry Dedrick kept his older girls out of most events to give the less experienced a chance. The results were pleasing: Weston took second in the 100 back, with 1:13.02, as well as in the 50 free, with 27.25. Lea Foster was split seconds ahead of Weston in the 50 free, taking first with 27.19. She followed Amy Hilton in the 100 free; together they made a 1-2 win, with 59.37 and 1:00.68.

Coach Dedrick put Maggie Bintz, Becky Hilton, Angela Washburn, and Cathy Jo Dedrick in the medley relay, and took another win with 1:57.52.

The week before the Shaker victory, the team defeated Burnt Hills, 47-29. Highlights of this win are Jenny Houle's second in the 200 IM with 2:09.16, and the medley relay team's 1-2 win. Weston, Bintz, Hansen, and Leach led with 2:07.05, and Amy Hilton, Foster, Houle, and Novak clinched the win, with 2:09.21. Jennifer Osterhout took first in the 100 fly, with 1:12.63. This was not only a personal best for her, but it qualifies her for the sectionals.

The sectionals take place on Nov. 10 and 11, and competitors must meet qualifying times. As the date draws nearer, you can expect to see a great deal more said about this event. This week the team faces Johnstown away and Saratoga at home.

BC swimmers lose Shen meet 'by a touch'

By Nat Boynton

Third places count only one point in a four-lane pool, and last Friday they made all the difference as Bethlehem Central swimmers came up just short in a spingler at Shenendehowa.

In a meet where the lead changed hands five times, the Eagles came down to the finale needing a first place in the freestyle relay, but the Shens had saved their big guns for last and won by 40-36.

Up to the 4-by-100, it had been a see-saw affair between two Aqua League powers, the two coaches resorting to chessboard strategies in maneuvering their swimmers for maximum points. Both Ken Neff of BC and Tammy Maher of Shenendehowa had several Sectional champions and state qualifiers in their specialties, and it boiled down to which events to concede to the other's strength and where to send their best head-to-head.

In the end it was Maher who had saved the most ammunition for last, a luxury made possible by taking the critical third-place point in five straight events leading up to the final relay. The key races came late in the meet, the backstroke and breaststroke, which produced photo finishes won and lost by inches and narrow hundredths of a second on the timers' watches. In pool patois, that's known as "by a touch."

Katie Fish had pulled the Eagles even at 26-26 by taking the 500, and there were three events to go when the backstrokers set up for the starter's gun. Sarah Toms won that in 1:07.30, not her best but good for four vital points. Shen's Pam Trefethen took second, but BC's Michele Russo, a versatile swimmer assigned to spot duty, was touched out by 17/100ths of a second by Shen's Erin Glock for third place. That single point kept Shen within one of BC, 30-29, instead of trailing the Eagles by 31-28.

Now it was the breaststroke, an event conceded to the home team's Jen Wadsworth, who qualified for the state meet last year. Merideth Dix delivered a second for Bethlehem, but once again the Eagles were touched out for third place. Anne Byrd shaved nearly three seconds off her previous best time, but lost by half a second to Lindsay Reed.

So it came down to the relay with the Shens up by 34-32, but the cards were already stacked. Maher had her first-line freestylers ready, led by Sandy Kaupang, a Sectional champion, followed by Erica Reed, their top sprinter, Glock and Wadsworth. Even with BC's talented Emily Church and Katie Fish in the adjoining lane, the Shens won by half a length to remain undefeated at 5-0 in the league.

It was a stirring performance by BC, the Eagles' best of the season. Jen Mosley turned in another triple, taking the 50 and 100 free and a split in the winning medley relay. Fish, Toms and Church had a good meet.

From Russia with love

Bronislava Shteyngart and Rachel Cohen

By Ruth Dickson

The Russians are coming! The Russians are coming!

The fact is, they've already arrived.

The recent relaxation in the granting of exit visas from the USSR has permitted a sizable number of Russian emigres to establish themselves locally, much to the delight of their American hosts.

Having received their exit visas in July, one such family from Kiev found themselves settled in the Latham home of Rachel Cohen, herself a former resident of the Soviet republic of Moldavia.

In response to her rabbi's request, Cohen volunteered to share her Brookwood Dr. home with the Gilelaks — Igor, Nina, and their children, Elina, 9 and Vilya, 4.

In conjunction with the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society, Cohen and 15 other Capital District families chosen from local synagogues are acting as halfway houses for the immigrants until permanent employment and housing can be arranged. "Most of the people who used to come here already had families, but that is not so much any more, so they need a place to stay," said Cohen.

While the Gilelahk family arrived only recently, they give new meaning to the word "assimilation".

Igor has already acquired a driver's license, having learned enough English to pass the written test.

Elina is enrolled at Southgate Elementary school, in the same third grade class as Philip Cohen, the seven year old son of her hostess. (The diminutive blond said that going to school is the best part of coming to America, especially the math classes, which she cites as her best subject.)

Elina is fascinated by the family's computer, which Philip is teaching her to operate, and expressed a desire to have one of her own someday. Despite the language barrier, the children communicate well, each teaching the other his/her native tongue and otherwise using the universal language of children everywhere.

When asked if she felt crowded by the addition of four more people to her household, Cohen, remembering her Russian roots, laughed and replied, "after living in one room with three generations of family members? We have a whole house! How could we feel crowded?"

Jewish Family Services is the coordinating agency for the placement of emigres, overseeing their well-being and education.

Most of the children are placed at the

Glasnost gallery

What would have seemed impossible just a few years ago becomes a reality this week as a collection of Soviet posters goes on display at the College of St. Rose in Albany.

Titled "The Contemporary Soviet Poster," the show features more than 100 artists whose work covers a wide range of subjects, from social to cultural to political.

Originally conceived in 1987 by Brown University President Howard Swearer, the exhibition opened at Brown's Bell Gallery and has been travelling to various colleges and universities since then.

The posters will be hung at the St. Rose Art Gallery in Picotte Hall from Oct. 18 through November 5, giving local residents an opportunity to see glasnost in action.

Although the collection includes the traditional publicity posters on behalf of cultural pastimes, such as dance and theater productions, there are others with distinctly political overtones.

Protests against nuclear missiles, the militarization of space and Star Wars can be seen along with several satirical comments on Soviet government, none of which would have been possible before Gorbachev's policy of openness. Other previously forbidden subjects include drug and alcohol abuse, women's liberation and environmental pollution — social problems which have traditionally been hidden from international view.

The artistic styles of the posters vary as much as their subjects, from traditional realism to the more contemporary photo-collage, surrealism and pop art. Remarkably, there is a conspicuous absence of portraits of Soviet leaders — a sign that Russian artists are finally feeling free to express their thoughts and feelings without constraint or the need for adulation of the power structure.

The Saint Rose Gallery, located at 324 State Street in Albany, is open from 11:30 to 4:30 Monday through Friday and from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sundays.

For further information, call 432-6990.

Hebrew Academy, although there is some controversy in this area, stemming from the suppression of religious practice in the USSR. Since Jewish law states that the religion is passed to children maternally, several have been refused entrance to the Academy because of Jewish fathers and Russian mothers, despite the religious preference of the families in question.

Vroman's Nose climb offers fall delights

Looking south from escarpment of Vroman's Nose

Bob Hagyard

By Bob Hagyard

The gentrification of the Schoharie Valley — expensive wood and glass hillside homes for vacationing tourists — is barely noticeable here on Vroman's Nose.

Thanks to a preservation corporation formed to save it, Vroman's Nose, a heavily wooded geological landmark rising 600 feet above the Schoharie Valley floor, continues in its natural state.

At the top is a hiker's dream: a sandstone rock, flat as a table and roughly 20 by 40 feet, with a 150-degree panorama south to the southern Schoharie hills and the northernmost range of the Catskills.

Back in the summer of 1983, a luxury residential complex was planned here. After a hue and cry, the landowner agreed to sell the hill to a hastily formed Vroman's Nose Preservation Corp. The group raised the down payment on the property and took title that fall.

"Vroman's Nose is open to everyone who wants to walk it," said Harold Vroman, now in his 70s, a descendant of the settler who farmed its flatlands in the 1720s.

As he spoke, he gazed over the escarpment edge where a dozen other hikers caught their breath. Their attention was focused on the Icelandic exchange student attending the high school in Middleburgh.

With Vroman was Wallace Van Houten, another descendant of early settlers, who maintains the information center at the base of the cliff.

This was Vroman's Nose Day, held to commemorate the takeover by the not-for-profit group and raise some money. On hand were hikers and nature lovers from Voorheesville, Albany, Schenectady, Cobleskill, Oneonta, Boston and places in between.

Most sunny days the site doesn't attract much of a crowd, which suits the typical backpacker just fine. Not that the

Russians

These children, like Elina, are attending public schools, while their parents are learning English at the International Center, and Jewish lore at their local temples.

Many of the recent emigres are professionals—doctors, dentists and engineers.

Bronislava Shteyngart, 42, arrived 10 days ago from Kiev, where she was an immunologist and teacher of physician efficiency. With Cohen interpreting, she told a horror story of persecution and ostracization at the hands of her neighbors, to the extent that she was forced out of her job, at which point she applied for a visa.

It took a year to obtain, but she said the wait was more than worth it. She wants to practice her profession here, and will take classes "For as long as necessary" to become certified to practice in the United States.

A single woman, Shteyngart and her 84 year old mother are also living with a local family, who took her to synagogue for Rosh Hashanah services recently. It was the first time in 70 years that Shteyngart's mother had attended services and "she burst into tears when the rabbi escorted her to the Ark," she said.

The entire congregation burst into applause as the staunch old lady thanked God and her new friends for the freedom she had finally found.

As for the Gilelahks, another move is already under way — to their own place on Ontario St. in Albany, and a new future in a new world.

THE YOUTH NETWORK

Coping with Stress II

This article is the second taken from the book Substance Abuse Prevention Activities for Elementary Children by Timothy Gerne, Ed.D and Patricia Gerne, R.N., C.A.C.

Some stress reducing techniques:

Relaxation: Quick Calming Response

1. Turn inward to "see" your happy face, or "listen" to a word or sound that you have previously chosen to be used.
2. Slowly take a deep breath and slowly let it out. Sense the "tense air" going out, and the "calm air" coming in. Repeat the breathing three times.

Relaxation Response

1. In a comfortable chair, in a quiet environment, with eyes closed, do the following for 5 - 10 minutes, if a child and 15 - 20 minutes if an adult.
2. Concentrate on the breath going in and out. You may choose to concentrate on a particular word or sound instead. Don't let your mind wander.

Progressive Relaxation

1. Sit in a comfortable position, in a quiet atmosphere, with eyes closed.
2. Relax each muscle group, beginning at the toes and working toward the forehead.

Visualization

1. Sit in a quiet place, in a comfortable position with the eyes closed.
2. Visualize yourself in a scene that gives a feeling of happiness and pleasure. Be specific about the scene. Stay there for 10 - 20 minutes.

Positive Statements and Imagery

1. Replace negative statements with positive statements about oneself or about a situation.
2. Replace negative images with positive ones such as winning or making a good performance.

Exercise and Recreation

Expressing Feelings

1. Talking to others.
2. Keeping a journal or drawing pictures.
3. Develop a support system.

walk is that tough — about two dozen senior citizens hiked the old wood road to the top with ease on Vroman's Nose Day. But the three trail heads are hard to find, which keeps the numbers down.

On a clear, still Friday night in July, the strains of band music can be heard from the summit: the village has hosted the concerts every Friday in July since the late 1860s,

Below the table rock, the Schoharie flats stretch in a gentle five-mile curve of fruit farms, half-mile long rows of corn, oats, clover and the occasional stand of fruit trees. A century ago, a different set of crops predominated: hops, used in beer-making, and a variety of plum known as the Middleburgh plum, grown in such profusion that a railway was built to the produce out, and the valley prospered a while.

Unfortunately, every monoculture tends to be fragile, and pests and fungi did this one in. Black knot annihilated the Middleburgh plum while blue mold wiped out hops from the valley. The land was then given over to dairying.

Today that way of life, too, is dying. At least for now in the Schoharie Valley, the the farms, and the wildlife, dominate still.
