Election special

Because of postal and printing deadlines, this issue of The Spotlight went to press before election results were available. However, a special election supplement, with complete results of the Bethlehem and New Scotland contests, is inserted in newsstand copies of this issue. A recap of the election will appear in next week's issue.

The politics of signs

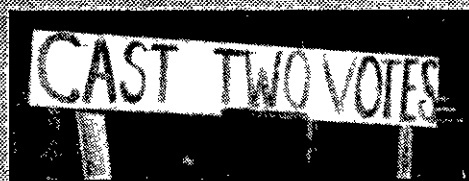

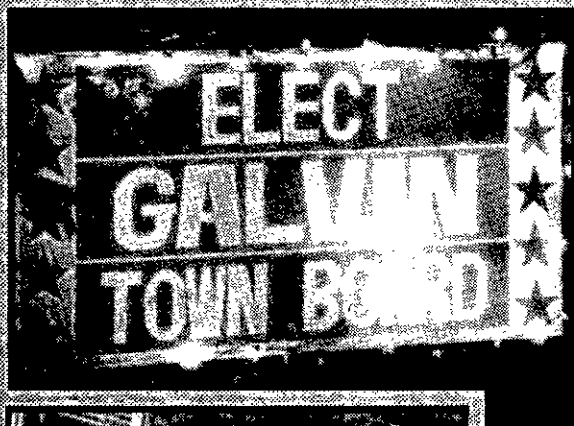

By Mark Stuart

Now that the 1989 election year has come and gone, one of the most talked-about issues may actually be considered by the politicians — is there a need to regulate political signs?

The most visible of all the political signs are the lawn signs, which could be found scattered everywhere in the towns of Bethlehem and New Scotland. Lawn signs have replaced the once-popular bumper sticker as the medium for increasing a candidate's name recognition and have become big business in the political fight.

Take Bethlehem for example. According to rough estimates based on financial disclosure statements for the Sept. 12 Republican supervisor's primary and the Nov. 7 town board race, at least $10,000 has been spent on lawn signs or the sticks that hold them up.

Airport sale fogs budget

By Patricia Dumas

With a balanced Albany County budget hinging on the lease or sale of the county airport, a sense of urgency is upon the negotiators and the possibility of a heavy workload hangs over budget technicians.

By Dec. 21, the budget must be adopted into law, ready for translation into funds for county services and expenses and into bills for property owners.

If the anticipated airport sale money is not available, County Executive James J. Coyne's proposed 1990 budget could undergo major revision.

Under the scenario dictated by law, tradition, and the predictability of politics, the county executive's "recommended" budget, by this time in the calendar year, would almost be law. After approval by the county legislature's finance committee, the budget would be authorized by the legislature, scheduled for discussion at a sparsely attended public hearing, formally adopted, and become the official budget.

But this year a sum of $17 million counted among expected revenues has clouded the picture.

The amount is part of a $25.5 million down payment that the county would receive if it accepts a lease/sale arrangement from a British American/Lockheed Terminal partnership interested in developing and operating the county airport.

New Scotland's new bridges have rustic touch

By Bob Hagyard

Residents of one of the Town of New Scotland's more exclusive neighborhoods appear satisfied with county plans to replace two bridges over Onesquethaw Creek.

One-lane spans for Rowe and Onesquethaw Creek roads have been on the drawing board the past two years, County Engineer Paul Cooney told a packed boardroom at New Scotland Town Hall last Wednesday. The old spans, designed for "haywagon" loads 60 years ago, were declared unsafe by the state this spring.

The county would install pre-fabricated trusses made of an unusual steel alloy, he went on. A "weathering" steel with a high copper content, it oxidizes to a point, then seals itself, he said. "It's actually stronger," Cooney said — capable of handling an axle load of up to 25 tons, meaning "any piece of fire equipment the town may ever buy." Cost: about $45,000 each, not counting engineering and approach-and-abutment work.

"They look attractive, very rustic," said Supervisor Herbert Reilly.

Cooney recommended against wooden bridges at a slightly higher cost (about $60,000) because steel guard rails would require their own support. Major cost item of each estimate: removing the old stone abutments, pouring concrete, then filling back in with stone to simulate the old bridge corners.

Original plans called for "30-foot, two-

□ Lawn signs

Currently, there is no political sign ordinance in Bethlehem or New Scotland. In Bethlehem, this year's election and primary brought out one of the largest sign blitzes in memory. New Scotland, on the other hand, had a rather mild lawn sign season compared to prior elections.

The only laws that control political signs in Bethlehem are state laws that prohibit the placing of signs in the right-of-way along state roads. But that didn't stop the sign patrols. On some mornings, commuters driving along the Delmar Bypass could see state road crews taking down the signs that had been put up during the night. (In the last days of the election one candidate sent his forces out to the major thoroughfares to hold up his signs for commuters.)

With no law on political signs, theoretically nothing could stop a merchant from posting a monstrous billboard with flashing lights on Delaware Avenue that alerted customers to a business's location. The sign would presumably be legal if it included a small message asking people to "Register and Vote on Nov. 7." The business owner could probably argue that even though the sign attracts business, it is political in nature.

The fact that any political sign of any size can go up in the town of Bethlehem without any enforcement has some officials considering a political sign ordinance.

"I'd like to see an ordinance to prohibit them," said Bethlehem Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick. "I really see no use for them and they just clutter up the town."

Hendrick, who is retiring when his term expires in December, said he would prefer to see the Democratic and Republican committees work out an agreement not to put the signs up; however he admits that such an agreement would be flawed since it would not involve any third party that may form in the future.

Town Attorney Bernard Kaplowitz, who is also chairman of the Bethlehem Republican Committee, said there has never been a formal proposal before the town board to regulate political signs, only informal discussion outside of town hall.

"Two years ago I considered approaching Bill Burkhardt (then-chairman of the Bethlehem Democratic Committee), but never did," Kaplowitz said. "I would certainly be in favor of a law because pretty soon, we're going to reach a point where people are going to start putting them up in July. For years we only put them on lawns. Now they're showing up all over the place."

Art Brown, chairman of the Bethlehem Democratic Committee, said that he favors regulating political signs but also defends their value in the political process. "Yes, I would favor and ordinance controlling political signs," he said. "I think they're very unsightly and somewhat dangerous when placed in certain intersections."

"However they are a political fact of life," he added. "It's almost like you have to use them otherwise the name recognition of your candidate will suffer."

Brown said some signs, including a lighted mobile sign that has been used by the GOP in this year's town board race, are probably already in violation of the zoning code.

"I'd even be willing — although I'm not saying that I'd agree to anything right now — to discuss eliminating the overall number of signs," Brown said. "The Republican party in this town has almost $30,000 right now and could use all of that money for signs. It's almost like dealing with nuclear warheads: how many warheads they have versus how many we have."

Several Capital District towns have adopted political sign laws. Under Guilderland's Local law No. 3 of 1987, political signs are only allowed to be put up "not more than 21 days" prior to an election and must be taken down no later than four days after the election. The sign must be no larger than 12 square feet in area for a single-sided sign, or 24-square feet if double-sided. The signs may not be attached to fences, bridges, utility poles, trees, traffic signs and "shall in no way obstruct" a motorist's vision or create a safety hazard.

Prior to Guilderland's 1987 law, the town's 1972 ordinance prohibited political signs until 30 days prior to an election and required that they be removed the day after the election.

In the town of Kinderhook, Columbia County, political signs may not be displayed until four weeks prior to the election and must be removed five days after the election. No such sign may be attached to a utility pole or tree and there are no restrictions on size.

In Clifton Park, there is a limited political sign ordinance, which the town is currently in the process of rewriting. According to Frank Tarbell, director of the Clifton Park Building Department, political signs are referred to in the town ordinance as "Signs in the Public Interest or Incidental to the Legal Process." Under the current ordinance, any sign over eight square feet is required to go through the building permit process and there are no established dates for posting.

In Coeymans, there is no specific sign ordinance for political signs. There is a broad regulation for all signs which requires sign approval from the Zoning Board of Appeals. According to a spokesman in the Coeymans Building Department, permission to place signs depends upon neighborhood zoning and subdivision conditions of approval.

Two arrested for DWI

Two motorists will answer misdemeanor driving-while-intoxicated charges Nov. 21 in Bethlehem Town Court, according to town police.

At 4:09 p.m. Saturday, police were called to an apparent accident scene on Route 144 near the Air Products facility. There, they found a vehicle stopped in the center of the pavement, stalled and in gear. Behind the wheel, police said, was Curtis L. Sloan, 38, of 34 Price St., Springfield, Mass., who admitted to driving the vehicle.

Labels for less

"Supermarket Sense" will be presented by Arthur Copeland on Monday, Nov. 13, at the Bethlehem Public Library, 451 Delaware Ave., in Delmar.

"Supermarket Sense" will acquaint participants with the basics of product labeling, recommendations for fat, sodium and cholesterol, and a process for properly determining product fat content.

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. For more information, call 439-9314.

WILD workshop

Five Rivers Environmental Education Center will hold an Aquatic Project WILD Teacher workshop at the center, Game Farm Rd., in Delmar, on Wednesday, Nov. 15, from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The workshop, open to all teachers and youth leaders, will introduce Project WILD, the environmental education program which emphasizes water and the creatures that inhabit it.

For more information, call 453-1806.

Police said that Price appeared intoxicated and disoriented; he failed a pre-screening device test, was arrested for DWI, and taken to police headquarters at Town Hall where a blood-alcohol test was administered. A passenger in the vehicle who appeared to be highly intoxicated was rushed to St. Peter's Hospital, where he was treated and released. Sloan was released on $200 bail pending his reappearance in Town Court.

At 1:19 a.m. Saturday, Michael L. Wolfe, 21, of 514 Elm Ave., Selkirk, was stopped for allegedly running a stop sign at the intersection of Fernbank Avenue and Wisconsin Street. Police said the driver appeared to be intoxicated and administered pre-screening and field sobriety tests, which he failed. Wolfe was arrested for DWI and taken to Town Hall where he was administered a blood-alcohol test, then released to the custody of his mother pending his Nov. 21 reappearance in Town Court.

NOTICE

"ALL WE WANTED TO DO WAS TO BUILD A POST OFFICE"

Domenick DeCenzo formerly of Zoning Appeals Board and now a member of the Bethlehem Planning Board made a statement at a Board Meeting held Nov. 14, 1988. DeCenzo said he could think of NO MORE HORRENDOUS PLACE to put one (Post Office) than where it currently exists because of the traffic.

DeCenzo then mentioned the proposed Price Chopper Site (BTR site located across from Head Station on New Scotland Road) and that the Post Office might wish to locate there in the future. Has the Price Chopper Deal been done even though Town Citizens overwhelmingly rejected it? Did the Planning Board encourage the Post Office to engage on our contract?

In Flanders fields, and on...

You'll still find stalwart citizens among us who can remember "the boys in blue" — the dark blue, that is, of the Grand Army of the Republic. And in fact you can find the letters "G.A.R." carved above the doorway in the Albany County Courthouse north wall. Those were the boys of "Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching," and "We'll rally 'round the flag, boys; we'll rally once again — shouting the battle cry of freedom." And that was the same war that gave the nation one of its more stirring summonses, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," with ne'er a thought of that wall between church and state.

But it was the war to end all wars, the one that began in the Balkans in the summer of 1914 and enlisted "Yanks" and "doughboys" three years later, which inspired the November observance. All but forgotten now is the critical date of November the 11th ("11 minutes after the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month," schoolkids used to announce) when that war — yes, the one to save democracy — officially came to a close. That date became the hallowed Armistice Day. For years thereafter, small boys reenacted the defeat of the Huns, and patriotic, hushed assemblies heard "My Buddy" and "Roses of Picardy" once again.

Armistice Day (the "armistice" being what the victors granted to the Boche) was firmly

Time for magnanimity

Now that every ballot has been cast and counted, and those people and parties whose numbers turned out to be the greatest are grinning while others are grimacing, most of us just plain citizens are hopeful that voices will be lowered, words chosen more judiciously, and insinuations excised from vocabularies.

To at least some bystanders, the 1989 by-election in our towns has turned out to be progressively mean-spirited on almost all sides. Some claims and some allegations have been made that, in calmer moments

No thanks, Jim

County Executive Jim Coyne, whose financial embarrassments continue to multiply, was on the radio last week talking about his reaction to the latest revelation.

Coyne said he is leaning against running for another term in 1991, and announced that for the remainder of his current term he has decided not to talk to the Albany Times Union, the paper which broke the story regarding his daughter's $10,000 scholarship from an Albany Patroons owner.

Thus, he said, it will be a bad year for the Times Union and a good year for the rest of the media.

Mr. Coyne appears to be the only public

Hold that line!

Almost every statistic—as well as instinct—helps to bring about a reasoned position contrary to the idea of permitting the construction of coal-burning energy plants in the Capital District.

In these days of a multi-threatened environment, it seems all but unthinkable that responsible individuals could propose such installations seriously. Yet that is just what is pending in an area generally north of us — the Town of Halfmoon, Saratoga County — and generally east of us, in the city of Rensselaer.

fixed on Nov. 11. Then, somehow it turned out that all wars hadn't been ended, after all, and democracy had to be saved again and again.

And so we substituted Veterans Day, in the expectation that those who served — and especially those who gave their lives in the successive causes — would be honored, regardless of which war. Finally, the Congress of the United States was moved, some 19 years ago, to make Veterans/Armistice Day a movable event, in order to give holiday-loving Americans another three-day weekend, just like what once was Memorial Day on May 30.

This year, fortuitously, the 11th falls on a Saturday and so most observances will occur on the proper date. But whatever the date, Americans who have been rallying around our flag can well afford the additional moments to grant thanks, honor, and appreciation to all those men and women who have served their country gloriously in hours of special need.

and from cooler heads, might preferably have been stifled.

As the yard signs come down, let's hope that hands will be extended in true expressions of trust and goodwill, and cordial gaze can meet smiling eyes directly. In order to carry out the public's business, the citizens who are entrusted with that responsibility must be able to work together in good faith and good humor. Starting now. . . .

As Edmund Burke said, "Magnanimity in politics — the truest wisdom."

person of any political persuasion who believes that a "scholarship" to a member of his family by a businessman doing business with the county isn't a legitimate news story. Whether he committed a criminal act remains to be seen, but certainly the incident — in combination with all of his other financial indiscretions — diminishes Mr. Coyne's ability to operate as an effective public official.

His petulant attempt to "punish" one newspaper and "reward" others simply lowers his credibility at a time when he needs every advantage he can get. Thanks, Jim, but no thanks.

The rest of us can be thankful that within the municipalities immediately affected strong opposition has arisen. From our somewhat more advantaged, but nonetheless vulnerable, situations, we can assist the opponents' causes, perhaps, by helping to ensure that the appropriate state agencies and officials bring effective support to local authorities such as Rensselaer's Mayor Harrigan.

The effluence of a bituminous-burning bygone era is not the proper prescription for today and the future.

Get busy recycling: here are some ways

Editor, The Spotlight:

I disagree with Larry Merington's (American Ref-Fuel's representative) letter of Oct. 11, when he writes that Bethlehem Work on Waste has "contributed nothing that will help this region solve its waste-disposal crisis." Let me set the record straight. We are not trying to solve the region's waste problem but rather concentrating on our own town's solid-waste dilemma.

While impatiently awaiting the implementation of Bethlehem's mandatory solid-waste program, we are seeking information pertinent to the issue and dispersing it to the proper authority, as much as our "voluntary" time and "meager" funds allow us to do. We have been taking our glass and plastics to recyclers — some are listed in the phone book — and encouraging others to do the same.

Elimination of catalogs and unwanted mail is another battle. Write: Direct Marketing Association, 6 East 43rd St., New York, N.Y. 10017, requesting removal of your name from future mailing lists. Use the envelopes in catalogs, add Mail Preference List to the address, and write a brief note asking them to take your name off their list.

The major plan is to reduce what comes into one's home, reuse as much as possible those things which are already there, then recycle (at the very least) newspapers, glass, plastics, food scraps, and yard waste. The end result will be a lightened load of trash going to the dump, and a saving of valuable, reusable resources.

There is no law in Bethlehem prohibiting reduction, reuse, or recycling. BFI, which claims it recycles much waste in the Capital Region, does not recycle Bethlehem homeowners' waste (except newspapers) because we do not have a mandatory law! What kind of reason is that! We want to recycle, and do!

If you're ready to recycle and want to know how, please join Bethlehem Work on Waste at the Bethlehem Public Library, Delmar, on Thursday, Nov. 9 from 7 to 9 p.m.

A plea for attention to traffic problems

Editor, The Spotlight:

Seeing the car parked in front of church with the ticket on the windshield has prompted me to write this letter. For close to five years, I have tried to convince the town of Bethlehem that there is a traffic problem on my street. I have used the channels from the bottom up: a neighborhood petition for stop signs or traffic control, a visit to the Town Board meeting, where our petition was presented; calls to the supervisor's office to follow up, and I even spoke at the public hearing on stop signs, which was held in July 1988.

What has been done to eliminate the speeding, the joyriding, the passing of cars by others, and the constant use of Kenaware Avenue as a convenient cut-through by countless cars and trucks? We

UNCLE DUDLEY

A photo-op too perilous?

You've heard the expression "sitting duck." Or "ducks," as the case may be. The expression leapt quickly to mind the other day when our President announced that he and the Soviet leader are to meet next month on a couple of gunboats floating in a body of water just as though the Mediterranean were still mare nostrum — a sea belonging to one nation or is shared by another.

The catch is that the Mediterranean is hardly the property of either the United States or the Soviet Union. All kinds of nations other views of it rim the sea or are situated somewhere in the neighborhood. Libya, to name just one.

But here are the two men who at the present time represent the world's best hope for stability planning to sit down on adjoining chairs for hours at a time. . . within easy, almost tantalizing range of a variety of objects. If I were Qaddafi. Or the troublemaking Syrians. Or one or another of the Shiite tribes. Or the Palestinian terrorist factions.

The chosen site seems to have been conceived in madness. What kind of gyrations must the Secret Service and the KGB be experiencing, not to say the respective military forces charged with defending their nation's chiefs. It's a true challenge. Is the presently planned showmanship (which some people suspect may be only a "photo op") just too great a challenge? A challenge to the forces that must protect the two presidents; on the other hand, a different kind of challenge. . . virtually a dare. . . for all the evil-minded men who hold control of weapons of death and destruction.

Should President Bush & Gorbachev confer at sea?

When FDR, Churchill, and Stalin held their wartime conferences amid some of the world's hottest spots, they went and returned before the fact of their meetings was announced. But here are the great leaders giving a month's notice to the forces that despise them but love trickery and worse.

We can hope that better sense may prevail, and the sudden summit will be moved to a less vulnerable spot. FDR liked to use the term Shangri-La, and maybe that would be a good place for a peaceable, profitable gathering of the clans.

A friend who was widely and admiringly known as a gentle, kind, and wise man succumbed one recent day to a malady that has been known as incurable since it was identified a half-century ago.

He was a great raconteur, a world-class storyteller. It was always a pleasure to be in his company — for many reasons, including the certainty that one or a few of his yarns would be part of the conversation.

For some weeks, I had wanted and intended to visit with him, and hear again some of his wisdom. Something always seemed to intervene, not at all to my credit. I just didn't get there. Now it's too late. Regrets serve little purpose, do they not?

I guess that the lesson, which apparently must be learned many times over, is. . . don't put important things off, even for the rationale that one's days are filled with "important" requirements.

As his friends were saying their final farewell, I was again diverted by the obligation to help some family, arriving by air but needing transportation to another city where a relative lay desperately ill. She is a good lady, whose days are numbered. Will she be feeling blessed by the knowledge of three fine sons, among whom I am privileged to know one best, a true prince among men.

The other day, coincidentally, I came across these lines:

"Oh, write of me, not 'Died in bitter pains,'

But 'Emigrated to another star!'"

CONSTANT READER

No room for resistance

There were times when good books might be priced at a dollar. In these days of mediocre thrillers at $19.95 and significant works at up to $10 more than that, a dollar book is hard to imagine — much less the era when that was possible.

Well, here's a $1 book (for which I recently paid, happily, $3.50.) It's entitled "Lines of Least Resistance," and it was published in 1941 by the major publishing house of E.P. Dutton. There's more than a bit of a tale about the book and its current going price.

Admittedly, it's a thin volume — 64 pages, and that's counting all the frontispieces, dedicatory pages, and so forth. Within it are no more than about 18 verses and essays, as well as perhaps a score of cartoonish illustrations.

The reason that I snapped up "Lines of Least Resistance" was that I discovered it on one of the shelves of the incomparable Bryn Mawr Bookshop in Albany ("Rare and Used Books"). The shop itself, if by some chance you're not familiar with it and its treasured delights, is tucked away unobtrusively in a lower floor of the former Harmanus Bleeker Library on Dove Street just off Washington Avenue. (Actually, the way in is a door onto Spring Street, around the corner. I say, "the way in," because there's no way out without at least one book under your arm.)

But that's getting slightly away from the point. I snatched up "Lines of Least Resistance" partly because I knew that the reading would be good — clever and diverting, though admittedly slightly dated — but more principally because of its creator, Laurence McKinney.

Laurence McKinney was an Albanian, true, but actually he was a man of the world (who had made an earlier and unforgettable stop at Harvard College, Class of 1912). His occupation was in the McKinney Steel Company, but his true profession was in other areas —

Lighthearted verses recall a warm memory

his writing (countless contributions over the years, for instance, to FPA's "Conning Tower" column in the Herald Tribune); his three volumes of collected verse and musings; his long leadership at the Albany Institute of History and Art (the McKinney Library of the Institute catercornered from the Bleeker Library at Washington and Dove honors his great influence), and in general his intellectual dominance of the Albany scene in which he moved.

(I can remember pondering at length one summer's day a quarter-century ago, "What would Albany be like without Laurence McKinney?" Now I know, and it's not nearly so colorful and interesting.)

of Note" (couplets sketching in miniature the instruments of a symphony orchestra and their players; illustrated by Gluyas Williams).

It has occurred to me that perhaps Laurence McKinney's profession should have been as an advertising copywriter. I recall one year when a downtown building was being constructed of poured concrete and its progress was agonizingly slow to watch over months. On a nearby corner another building was started and finished — with a steel frame that took shape with dramatic rapidity. Across it was a large sign of his devising. Pointedly, it read (in three lines): THIS IS STEEL/SEE HOW FAST/IT GOES UP!

I've added a shout (!) there, but I doubt that he would have approved, for he was discriminating in the precise use of words and symbols. There were certain words one would not wisely use in his presence, and I certainly would not defile these pages by mentioning them here.

But I stray far from the intent of this "Constant Reader" piece, which was to quote several lines from two or three verses of "Lines." That will have to await some other week. Some of my readers, however, will recognize the individual mentioned in the author's "special acknowledgement" — to "Miss Betsy Marvin for her help and research in many lines." That's a line I couldn't resist — with much pleasure.

A multitude of Points of View

Anniversaries provide a neat form of stock-taking, and this week happens to be the start of the third year for the Point of View

Point of View guest editorials in The Spotlight Newspapers. (Obviously, it's actually a shorter time — six months — in which the column has been published in the Colony Spotlight.)

During the first two years, approximately 100 different citizens — with differing points of view — have contributed to this column. (About 25 in the Colony Spotlight.)

We reviewed the lot of them this past week, and decided to reprise several of the more pungent observations by our guest editorialists. Here goes. . . We think you'll find them interesting in their variety as well as in their respective insights.

"Book-learning alone and head-learning alone have their point, but we are rightly alarmed to see them separated from the education of the voice and the rest of the person. Too often we have used phys ed to produce winning teams and have let the bodies of intellectual students atrophy. Similarly, learning by heart and reading aloud as disciplines for all students have been neglected because we have failed to remember that the heart and the voice are part and parcel to whole people." — Thomson H. Littlefield.

"We need to reexamine our policies (on solid-waste disposal) and develop regulatory approaches that speed the decision-making process. If changes are not made, we will be facing within the very near future the prospect of having no local disposal facilities whatsoever." — Assemblyman John Faso.

"As one reflects on the affairs of the County of Albany and its more than a half-century of Democratic rule, we must meet face-to-face the bottom-line question: Does it really matter to the voters of Albany County what their county legislators do?" — Robert G. Prentiss, a county legislator.

"As more is done in space, it will be increasingly useful to get rid of wasteful commuting problems by placing more and more people in space more or less permanently. We would, in short, build space settlements. Building materials for these observatories, laboratories, factories, and settlements could be obtained almost entirely from the moon." — Isaac Asimov.

After 100 or more guest editorials, it's time to cull some thoughts from among their points of view

"As a society, we are too wasteful. Manufacturers dress their products in needless packaging in an attempt to sell their merchandise; consumers often have no idea how the convenience of throw-away goods leads to mountains of trash; companies produce products based on their expense with no thought to their disposability." — Lee Wasserman.

"I think of the Creator of this autumn festivity who summoned me out of sluggishness to participate in this subtle morning drama, and of how I was granted marriage to a quick-eyed amateur naturalist who taught me more of the grace of a bird's wing than I could ever express in theology to him." — Diane Stevens.

"Many Americans who want to protect our flag from defilement justly fear tampering with our 200-year-old miracle (The First Amendment to the Constitution). They would prefer to find a way to accommodate both values: our respect for the flag as the unique, tangible symbol of the nation, and the irreplaceable freedom of speech. I believe there is such an accommodation." — Gov. Mario M. Cuomo.

"The old leaders of China are being challenged by younger men as a result of the Students' Revolution of 1989. The yearnings of the college youths for democracy and free speech brought them into a clash with old men raised in tougher times." — Albert J. Abrams.

"Because of historic preservation, and only because of historic preservation, the travel industry is the single largest industry in Europe. It employs nearly 10 percent of the work force, supplying the nations of Europe with a steady, stable source of income. Impervious to the vagaries of other forms of commerce, it is unaffected by economic trends in other continents." — Lynn Dunning-Vaughn.

If we care to help our children with their movement into adulthood, we need to accept our responsibilities for them, and to reverse the trends toward adult withdrawal from stating and enforcing expectations of them. Adults need to summon courage, conviction, and compassion in order to connect with adolescents even at the cost of painful confrontations and temporary rejections." — J. Briggs McAndrews.

have had two speed surveys. The surveys have actually inspired more recklessness, since most of the offenders swerved around the sensor in the road, thereby endangering anyone who happened to be driving in the other direction or standing by the side of the road.

If stop signs and surveys don't work, perhaps I may suggest some ideas that might. First, to be effective, law enforcement must be designed to correct or prevent problems. Not to collect revenue. Ticketing a parked car in front of church on Sunday morning, or pulling over someone on his way to work on a pre-dawn deserted road, is easy, but does it deter the truly dangerous drivers?

Second, enforcement must be varied, and tuned in to the changes in traffic. A radar car at the same place, week after week, soon gives itself away. Kenaware Avenue is a regular cut-through for people going from Kenwood to Delaware and vice-versa, but it has never been patrolled, even after our petition was presented.

Third, existing signs in the town must be made visible to drivers. There are many stop signs and speed-limit signs that can't be seen because of overhanging branches or too-close bushes.

Fourth, trucks that are not on a delivery should be banned from using residential streets as a short-cut. They are too big, they often drive too fast, and they really don't care.

Finally, let's crack down on the careless drivers who cross the double yellow lines, who refuse to use their turn signals, who cut short their left turns into the oncoming lane, and those cars are missing headlights, taillights, and brakelights. I hope that our new administration will make these suggestions a priority, and show that it is interested in the safety and well-being of our town's residents. Our present one has not.

Work on Waste usefulness cited

Editor, The Spotlight:

This is in response to a letter in the Oct. 11 Spotlight from Larry Merington, project development manager for the proposed American Ref-Fuel incinerator.

We are told again, several times, that Bethlehem Work on Waste's ability to solve the region's waste problem is at best negligible, for we can hope to educate only if our goal is to offer a forum for experts to speak on issues and not confuse or misinform the public. It is interesting that our speakers have not spoken on the issues and have supplied misinformation. I find that interesting because Mr. Merington was at our Sept. 14 meeting to hear one of our speakers who spoke on the issues and supplied no misinformation. Our speaker was Bernard Melewski, counsel and deputy director of the Legislative Commission on Solid Waste Management for New York. He spoke at length on our solid-waste problem and showed the film "1992." The film was of course, produced by the State of New York. His talk was well-received and helpful.

What else have members of Bethlehem Work on Waste been able to do to help to solve the solid-waste problem? One member is on the town's solid waste committee that has been effective in getting recycling started in our town, and has studied the problem specifically in our area at length.

Another of our members was a strong backer of the "Bottle Bill" and helped to get it passed into law in 1982.

I spent all of Oct. 10 at the Moreland Act Commission hearings on the effectiveness of the Returnable Container Law (Bottle Bill). I testified before the commission at those hearings. Some of my suggestions were as follows:

1. Redirect unclaimed bottle deposits (estimated to be $80 million yearly) to support recycling and pertinent education in small communities like our own.
2. Expand the bill to cover wine and liquor bottles.
3. Shift "initiation" of deposit from the distributors to the brewers.
4. Increase deposits on small bottles to 15 cents and deposits on quart size or larger to 25 cents. Maintain the 5 cent deposit on refillables to encourage their use.
5. Create an independent agency outside the Department of Environmental Conservation to distribute funds to local governments.
6. Hand over responsibility of enforcement to the Department of Agriculture and Markets, which has more experience with enforcement of laws that regulate food and beverage manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers.

In answer to Ref-Fuel's commitment to the effect that critics always know how to get there but they seldom know how to drive," let me say members of Bethlehem Work on Waste know how to get there (that is, solve our solid-waste problem) and we are all experienced drivers, so to speak. We believe that reduction, reuse, and recycling is the way to solve our solid-waste crisis and we are doing something about it (if you can see what I'm driving at).

Creative Coynage

Editor, The Spotlight:

Kudos for your editorial on the budgetary legerdemain of our county executive. None of these fiscal ploys are new to us who foot the bills in Albany County, but it is refreshing to see a newspaper like yours direct attention to the deft manipulation of public funds practiced by a county leader with the compliance of a puppet majority in the county legislature.

The full story of the financing of the Coyne Majal, as the downtown dome to be dedicated in February has come to be known, may never be told, but the arena itself, twice as large and four times as costly as it need be, will stand as a permanent reminder of the creative accounting of its prime mover.

But perhaps we shouldn't be too harsh with our county CEO for checkerboard bookkeeping, shuffling budget items among a maze of categories, and floating bonds to sidestep standard operating and maintenance procedures. With the exception of the notorious London bus deal, he isn't the only one who does funny things with public moneys. You have only to look at school boards all around us.

Pick any one, especially the tax-eating suburban districts, and you will find school administrators adept at sliding creative budgets past the unseeing eyes of board members, mostly energetic parents with little or no experience in business management or standard fiscal practices. We've endured this for years, and there's no end in sight.

Vox Pop

Like school district budgets, the Albany County budget will be approved with only token opposition. The public, technically anyway, has a vote in the former, none in the latter, but what's the difference?

For dog's safety, keep it controlled

Editor, The Spotlight:

The other evening around 8 o'clock I watched in horror as a dog running loose near the corner of Kenwood Avenue and Adams Place was struck straight on by a pickup truck. In the rain and the dark, the driver never saw it.

Miraculously, the dog fell between the wheels and tumbled end over end as the truck passed over him and away. The dog survived to struggle up and run frantically away. Most dogs aren't so lucky in similar circumstances.

I was frightened for that beautiful animal and angry. . . and I still am. Owning a dog involves more than simply providing food, water, and a door to the outside. It involves taking responsibility for his or her safety and well-being throughout his or her natural life. Dogs don't know about roads or traffic, cars or trucks, injury or death. And anyone expecting them to understand such concepts certainly isn't qualified to be a dog-owner.

I hope that dog running loose was simply an accidental adventure and not another demonstration of someone's irresponsible and inhumane treatment of a loving and loyal fellow creature.

Airport's emergency ability questioned

Editor, the Spotlight

As a user of the facilities at the Albany County Airport, I am shocked by newspaper articles quoting Donald Fialka about the condition of security measures and procedures at the airport. Like Mr. Fialka, the Republican candidate for Sheriff, I begin to question the security and safety of an airport that does not maintain a full-time security force.

The blame for such a condition must be placed on the present Albany County Sheriff's Department. The lack of available security personnel from the Sheriff Department illustrates a problem that exists and must be eliminated. Without the proper authority and staffing, the facility does not have the resources to respond to emergencies. Such emergencies may include evidence of tampering with aircraft, smuggling of narcotics, missing children, and thefts of luggage.

Whoever is chosen as sheriff of Albany County should pay greater attention to security measures and procedures for a facility that experiences extensive use by Albany County residents, businessmen, government officials, and visitors to the area.

Where Mr. Gunner was all that time

Editor, The Spotlight:

I feel compelled to use this column to pass along some information to John W. Finn of Slingerlands. Mr. Finn was wondering where Mr. Gunner was during the beginning stages of the development of LUMAC. Obviously he knows nothing about Charlie Gunner.

In answer: Mr. Gunner, at that time, was busy putting in 10 — sometimes 15 — hour-days devoting his time, energy, compassion, and knowledge to the students of Bethlehem Central High School and their families.

I think those 15 years of selfless giving during his principalship make clear Mr. Gunner's concern for the community and its residents.

If anyone in town was ever looking for Charlie Gunner, he wasn't hard to find.

Further more, I am outraged that The Spotlight would publish such a personal attack against him.

I refer to a letter submitted by Nancy Relyea, of Slingerlands. Obviously, Mrs. Relyea used this column as an avenue of personal feeling rather than to address any particular viewpoints on political platform.

I cannot expect such a person to act responsibly. Rather, I question the responsibility of The Spotlight and its staff.

What was your motive in printing such a blatant string of untruths? Why was Charlie Gunner not allowed the same respect as John Smolinsky in responding to such a vicious, inappropriate attack?

You owe Mr. Gunner an apology. And not only Mr. Gunner, but the majority of Bethlehem residents who know him and respect his true character.

Cornucopia Kids message worth hearing

Editor, The Spotlight:

We were delighted to see Bruce Baldwin's work The Cornucopia Kids reviewed by Constant Reader in the editorial section of the Oct. 11 issue of The Spotlight. As you may recall, The Bethlehem Networks Project, along with other community action groups organized a presentation by Dr. Baldwin at Shaker High School this past May. We have also run excerpts of his work in "The Youth Network" column found in the family section.

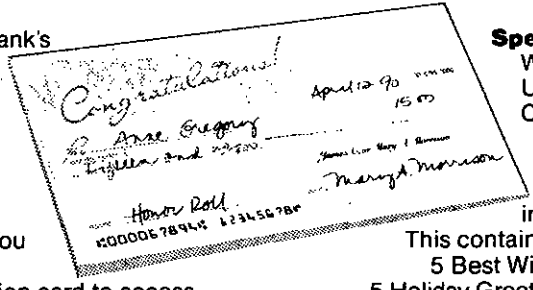

Dr. Baldwin's message is clear. If parents give their children too much, give in to their pleadings, ignore rude behaviour, don't set clear limits, or don't follow through

Airport, county budget

Coyne used the $17 million anticipated money in order to subsidize what he said would be "an otherwise equivalent increase in the tax levy."

The remaining $8.5 million would be kept in reserve.

In early October when Coyne's recommended budget was made public, the lease/sale arrangement was seen as almost an accomplished fact. The other competitor for the airport, the Capital District Transportation Authority (CDTA) had lost priority status although, originally, Coyne had suggested that the airport be turned over to that authority.

By month's end, the CDTA was back in the competition.

The legislature's majority leader, Harold L. Joyce, who heads the finance committee, the legislative sector in charge of recommending or disapproving the executive budget, announced he favors the CDTA as buyer. Two weeks later, the CDTA announced that it had authorized its negotiating team to return to the table with county officials. Meanwhile, Lockheed officials were popping up to issue reassuring statements about their proposal, and the airlines were meeting with county officials and business leaders to lobby for the CDTA sale.

The British American/Lockheed proposal would give the county immediate money and subsequent lease payments over a 40-year span. A major difficulty has been lack of approval from the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) for use of the sale revenue in the county budget. The CDTA offer of $24.5 million did not involve a lease and did not include up-front money.

Joyce, in his role as legislative majority leader, usually backs Coyne but now he says that "my feeling is, in the best interest of the people of the county, the CDTA should be the one to operate the airport."

In his budget message, Coyne states that "since the executive budget is merely a recommendation on a plan of spending and estimate of income, and given that I have come to prefer a lease arrangement with an airport operator, it is now up to the county legislature to decide the future of the airport, and the size of the 1990 property tax levy."

County Budget Director Jack Sullivan said last week that, if the lease arrangement does not go through, "the possibility exists for a major revision of the budget."

"Certainly", he said, "every item will have to be carefully reconsidered."

Bourke article

Jason Bourke, a 1984 graduate of Bethlehem Central High School recently published an article, "Mergermania", in The Nation. Bourke, a graduate of Harvard, is director of Harvard Watch a group founded in 1986 by Ralph Nader that monitors the university's policies and practices.

with consequences when rules are broken, they rob their children of the opportunity to learn about responsibility, self-control, and successfully working toward a long-term goal. As well-meaning parents strive to give their children "more than we had" and attempt to protect them from tough situations, they are actually setting the stage for great pain and failure in the adult world as these children do not learn skills such as self-sufficiency and responsibility.

Many of the characteristics of "Cornucopia Kids" — a deep need for acceptance by others, self-indulgence, a need for constant stimulation, a strong present orientation — are fertile ground for alcohol and other drug abuse.

Onesquethaw church burns its mortgage

Editor, the Spotlight:

On Oct. 22, the members of the Onesquethaw Reformed Church celebrated a very special occasion: the burning of the mortgage for their parsonage. It was a 20-year mortgage, but it was paid off in four and a half years. The members of the church wish to thank all those who contributed so generously toward fulfilling this financial obligation.

The ceremony was held in the church hall and was presided over by the Rev. Boyd Heldring, the church's pastor. Mr. Heldring delivered a meditation on the theme "Going Not Knowing," drawing his text from Genesis 12: 1-3 in which God commissions Abraham to set out for the promised land. Like Abraham, he observed, the members of the church undertook a mission when the church purchased the parsonage, for there was no certainty about how the mortgage would be paid off. During the ceremony the parsonage was presented as a "sacred trust" to the people of the church to be used currently by Mr. Heldring and his wife Sue.

After the mortgage-burning ceremony, the congregation left the church hall to tour the parsonage. It was especially satisfying to see the parsonage occupied and in mint condition because the congregation had spent many hours renovating the building last summer. The church wishes to thank all those who gave their time and energy to repair, paint, and remodel the building.

As dumping spreads, let's reduce trash

Editor, the Spotlight:

I've been noticing more dumping along the roads in our town — bags of trash and even big items like refrigerators. If we want to preserve the beauty of our town, we should report to the police anyone whom we see dumping trash on our roads, and resolve to dispose of our own trash legally. While we're at it, why not also try to reduce our own trash and recycle what we can? That will help our planet as well as our own town!

Incidentally, the last bags of computer paper I saw along the roadside were right in a patch of poison ivy. I would like to think the dumper has an itchy reminder to go to the town dump!

Bethlehem budget slated for approval today

By Mark Stuart

The Bethlehem Town Board will vote tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. on the town's 1990 Preliminary Budget.

The budget includes a modest overall tax increase, including a one percent tax increase for the general fund, a 1.75 percent tax increase in the sewer fund and a five percent tax increase in the water fund. There is no tax increase proposed for the highway fund, due in part to the mild winter last year.

In a brief public hearing Thursday night, the town board heard only four questions about the proposed $15.9 million preliminary budget, which is roughly $1 million more than the 1989 budget.

John Smolinsky, Democratic candidate for town board, asked what positions would receive raises in excess of the five percent adjustment for all town employees. Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick said that no elected official would receive a pay raise in excess of the five percent increase. He said the only positions that would exceed the five percent would be positions that receive the five percent increase in addition to a grade promotion, which follows the state civil service promotion guidelines.

Noting the increases in health and dental insurance which have elevated the town's insurance to comprise 10 percent of the general fund, Smolinsky asked whether the town has ever considered competitive bidding for insurance programs. Hendrick said that the board has established an insurance consulting board to investigate whether the town should invite new proposals from carriers.

Councilman Fred Webster, who serves on the committee, said the committee is also looking into whether the town is overinsured, underinsured and whether or not the town is duplicating policies with different insurers. The committee consists of Webster, who retired from Travellers Insurance in June, town Controller Phil Maher, Bert Anthony of Bert Anthony Associates in Delmar, Doug Brownell of Brownell Agency, Inc. in Delmar and Charles Bryant of Bryant Asset Protection in Slingerlands.

Hendrick said that if the town were to seek new policies, it would have to wait until the 1991 budget is drafted. He added that in recent years, insurance companies have dropped offering coverage for municipalities and that "We have been very fortunate" to have been retained by The Hartford Insurance Company.

Maurice Groves of Delmar asked why repairs for the Rockefeller Road bridge weren't included in the 1990 highway fund. Hendrick said that the bankrupt Delaware and Hudson Railroad owns the bridge and is solely obligated to repair it by law. "We couldn't repair it even if we wanted to," said Hendrick.

Craig Sagendorf of the Highway Department added that the town is only responsible for repairing the "wearable surfaces" of the bridge on town roads and, in some cases, the guiderails or fences.

Groves also asked whether the town had ever considered repairing the McCormack Street bridge over the Normanskill as a way of relieving traffic problems between Albany and Delmar. Bruce Secor, commissioner of Public Works, said the bridge was removed "at least 12 years ago" and the North Street Corridor Study showed that a McCormack Road link-up would not adequately relieve traffic problems between Delmar and Albany.

The 1990 preliminary budget includes a:

- Highway fund of $2.9 million, up $240,654.
- Water fund of $2.7 million, up $219,648.
- Sewer fund of $2.4 million, up $367,766.
- Special funds of $9,994, down $110.

Proclamation to make Nov. 13 "Grando Day"

Bethlehem Town Supervisor J. Robert Hendrick tonight (Wednesday) is expected to proclaim Monday, Nov. 13 as "Grando Day" in recognition of Grando, the Bethlehem Police dog for the apprehension of three suspects in Coeymans on Aug. 12. Grando and his trainer, Officer Wayne LaChappelle and Police Chief Paul Currie will travel to Fort Lauderdale, Fla. on Monday where all three will receive the Award of Honor from the International Narcotic Enforcement Officers Association in recognition of the actions of LaChappelle and Grando.

During the Aug. 12 incident, Grando was struck in the head and suffered a concussion while protecting LaChappelle from a suspect armed with a knife.

Elks collecting hides

Once again the deer hunting season is upon us and the call goes out "We Want Your Hide." The Bethlehem Elks this year are again collecting hides to be used in leather crafting kits for disabled veterans at the VA hospitals throughout the state. Gloves are made by patients and then sold with proceeds going to Elk sponsored programs in the hospitals.

To contribute, call Don at 767-9288, Ken at 731-2916 or the lodge at 767-9959. Donations are considered charitable contributions and you will receive a receipt for $35. Gloves can also be purchased by contacting the lodge.

There's still time

Tickets are still available for the 50s and 60s dance to be held on Saturday, Nov. 18 from 9 to 1 a.m. at the Ravena Knights of Columbus Hall. Music by the Frankie Dale Trio will provide plenty of nostalgia for dancing and listening pleasure. Included in the ticket price will be soda and beer, munchies, veggies and dips, antipasto, and other finger foods. Tickets are $25 per couple and $15 per single and are available by calling the After School Activities Program at 756-3933 or 767-2373.

Clothing drive

The A.W. Becker PTA will be kicking off their Native American Winter Clothing Drive for residents of the St. Regis Reservation in Northern New York. Contributions of used or new warm clothing can be dropped off at Becker Elementary School. Clothing for adults and children is desperately needed.

Craft fair set

Faith Lutheran Church of Glenmont will hold a Holiday Craft Fair on Saturday, Nov. 18 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the church on Chapel Lane behind the Towne Squire Plaza. Homemade baked goods, handknit sweaters, Christmas ornaments, a Sweet and Sour Booth (jams, jellies, preserves) and a soup and sandwich lunch will be available. In addition a white elephant table will be displayed.

Seniors dance

A senior citizens dinner dance will be held on Sunday, Nov. 12 at the Bethlehem Elks Lodge. A boneless breast of chicken dinner will be served at 2 p.m. and dancing will begin at 3 p.m. ending at 6

PTA meeting

The A.W. Becker PTA will be holding their November meeting on Tuesday. Childcare is available at a nominal fee. The PTA wishes to thank everyone who made the book fair-craft fair-toy sale a big success.

Olana lecture

The Bethlehem Historical Association will be presenting a talk and slide presentation on Olana, the home of artist Frederick Church. Church, an artist of the Hudson River School, modeled his estate after a Persian palace. The presentation will be given by Robin Eckerly, who is the education director at Olana. The meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. at the Schoolhouse Museum on Route 144 and Clapper Road. The public is invited.

School happenings

Many happenings have been keeping everyone busy at Ravena Elementary School. Mrs. Mulligan's class created a 'Bat Cave' to provide a quiet reading center, first graders from Mrs. Leonardo's class will be sending letters to their pen pals in Mrs. Riccardelli's class at Glenmont Elementary, first graders from Mrs. Taranto's class picked pumpkins from a pumpkin patch and discussed what they liked best about Halloween, Mrs. Westover's class went to Indian Ladder Farms and made applesauce, apple crisp and caramel apples.

Sunshine meeting

Sunshine Senior Citizens will meet on Monday, Nov. 13, at the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem at noon. Please bring a covered dish and your own tale service. The business meeting will start about 1 p.m. Mr. Strumpf will show pictures of his recent trip to the western states.

Shopping center approved

By Mark Stuart

The proposed Glenmont Shopping Plaza on Feura Bush Road and Route 9W received site plan approval Monday night from the Bethlehem Planning Board after a two-year wait.

David Rosenberg, attorney for Capital District Partners, project developers, said that the names of the tenants of the 135,848 square-foot shopping center would be made public in two or three months.

The project was originally presented to the town in 1987 but was not accepted because some town officials said they felt the project was too large for the size of the property. The project was also delayed by a nine-month moratorium imposed during the Route 9W Corridor Study.

The project has been revised to conform to the regulations of the proposed Route 9W Overlay District law currently under consideration by the town board. The project is located in a CC-Commercial Zone.

The planning board tabled a site plan application for the construction of a NAPA auto parts store located on the lands of Henry Digeser on Route 9W in a Light Industrial Zone near Asprion Road.

Based upon a memo from Assistant Town Planner Melanie

Schmidt, the board requested that Digeser revise several aspects of his plans, including changing the access from Route 9W from an angled driveway to a perpendicular driveway, with paved access as required by the Route 9W Overlay District law, moving existing diesel gas pumps away from the anticipated flow of traffic, increasing landscaping for a buffer along Route 9W and removing an existing cyclone fence that would impede access to a fire hydrant.

The board also requested that the site plans include an external lighting plan.

Linda and Michael Dole, neighbors of the proposed store, asked the board to consider improving a buffer between the parking lot and their home.

The board granted site plan approval to Drs. Tulio Mereu and Julie Pasternack for construction of an addition to the waiting room of the Delmar Medical Building at 785 Delaware Ave.

The addition required and received Board of Appeal approval earlier this year because it would be located 4.9 feet from the New York State right of way along Delaware Ave. (state Route 443).

The board required as a condition of approval that old parking stripes be eliminated and that a gravel portion of the parking lot be paved.

The next regular meeting of the planning board will be Nov. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

Support for couples

Support for remarried couples will be held at the Diocesan Pastoral Center, 40 North Main Ave., in Albany, on Friday, Nov. 10 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Larissa Estates stalled again

By Bob Hagyard

Drainage plans for Larissa Estates, the 32-unit single-family subdivision proposed by Peter Baltis in Voorheesville, have hit another snag.

Under an agreement reached by the developer and the Voorheesville Planning Commission, the village would acquire title to lands lying below the stormwater catch basins north of Voorheesville Avenue. Because the land lies in the Town of New Scotland outside village lines, the Town Board would have to approve that arrangement.

Last week, Councilman John Sgarlata's motion to approve failed to achieve a majority with Sgarlata and fellow Councilman H. Allyn Moak in favor. Abstaining were the remaining three board members — Supervisor Herbert Reilly and Councilmen Wyman Osterhout and Craig Shufelt.

Approval may be reconsidered at the town board's special meeting Thursday (tomorrow) night at the Wyman Osterhout Community Center, New Salem.

That approval has been too slow in coming, Douglas DeDe, chairman of the village planning board, complained to the village board last Oct. 28 and again to the town board last week.

In buying the land, DeDe said, the village would assume liability for damages to downstream property if the system floods after a heavy rain — a responsibility the town does not want, the trustees were told.

At first an agreement stipulating the village's liability was drawn up, said DeDe. Then, Village Attorney Don Meacham was told by John Bailey, planning board counsel, that the phrase wasn't necessary since the village would own the property.

Town Attorney Fred Riester would not give his informal okay without conferring with Bailey, hence the three abstentions.

"The town's vacillation is affecting the planning process in Voorheesville," DeDe told the trustees. "Inasmuch as the land would belong to the village, I can't see how we'd not be liable."

Since straightening out the drainage question in August, DeDe reported to the village that "the applicant (Baltis) has been more than cooperative." Drainage plans were the cause of two delays in the planning commission's consideration of the project following the public hearing last June.

The site lies on 58 acres north of Voorheesville Avenue east of Grove Street.

Village considers aesthetics

By Bob Hagyard

Voorheesville should form a committee to establish long-range planning objectives for the center commercial district in the village.

That was the recommendation of Douglas DeDe, chair man of the village planning board, at the Oct. 28 meeting of the village board.

Old library building sold

By Lyn Stapf

The former Voorheesville Public Library building on South Main Street was sold this week to two village residents.

Submitting the low bid were Andrew and Kathleen Michaels of Salem Hills. Sealed bids for the building were opened at 7 p.m. Monday at the monthly meeting of the board of trustees at the new library building on School Road. The low bid was announced the following noon.

Vying for ownership was Dr. Michael Jarvis, who maintains a dental office two doors away at the intersection of South Main and Center. Jarvis bid $72,000 while the Michaels offered $76,000. Bidders were required to include 10 percent deposits with their bids.

Last month, the library building was offered for bid with an upset price of $120,000, having been appraised for that amount by a commercial appraiser. At that time, no acceptable bids were offered.

Although the Michaels have no immediate plans at this time, they said they would like to open a small family business some day.

During the past few months the building served as the administrative office for the Voorheesville Central School District while the high school building underwent renovation and asbestos removal work.

In Selkirk The Spotlight is sold at Convenient and Bumby's Deli

The district's architecture dates to the establishment of Voorheesville as a railroad center before the turn of the century. Another committee, under the chairmanship of Robert Cureau, is considering ways by which the village may regulate new construction and renovation of existing buildings to preserve the area's aesthetic qualities.

The second panel would look into aesthetic — "what storefronts should look like," DeDe explained. Committee members would include store owners in the area, village citizens from the area and outside, planning commission members — "a good cross-section," the planning chairman suggested.

"We might blend it in with the (other) committee," Mayor Ed Clark suggested. "We also should have residential owners in the area. In any case, let's not have (the recommended aesthetics) so beautiful, no one can live there."

DeDe had one final suggestion for the village fathers: "No Parking" signs along both sides of South Main Street near Sponzie's Pizza. "People are parking on both sides, which makes the road too narrow for two cars to go through," he said. "We're going to have a tragedy."

"You can put up the signs, but (business) people are going to get upset," commented Bill Hotaling, public works commissioner. Further, noted Trustee Dan Reh, the sheriff's department will not enforce village parking regulations, even though Main Street is officially a county highway.

Reminding DeDe of the aesthetics study, the mayor directed him: "Put that first on your list."

Peace of mind

Ever carried an umbrella for peace of mind just in case it rains?

A Personal Liability Umbrella policy provides peace of mind too — $1 million or more of coverage in addition to your personal auto and Homeowners liability limits. The Personal Liability Umbrella policy can protect you from:

- Huge liability suits because of injuries or property damage,
- Court decisions and legal defense costs that could exceed your basic policy limits, and
- Certain uninsured losses that may threaten your life savings, future income or retirement benefits.

This extra protection — so necessary in today's legal environment — is much more affordable than carrying $1 million limits on each separate policy you have on your home, auto, boat, etc.

School district lists priorities, goals

By Bob Hagyard

Voorheesville school board officials have set general timetables for discussing major educational concerns of the district.

"The district seems to be on the right track now. At least everyone is pointed in the same direction," said Superintendent Alan McCartney. Monday's special school board session on district goals was the second such meeting this month.

Conducted by Mary Van Ryn, the session included the setting of timetables for each priority the board expects to address this year.

These included:

Long-range planning: An administration/board group will propose a planning process within the next two months on fiscal issues and program evaluation.

Policy development and review: A state school boards association representative will be invited to address ways and means at a future board meeting.

Staff assessment: A committee will form and report back to the board in February. Staff assessment procedures are contained in the current district teacher contract, which expires on June 30.

Review: of the effectiveness of the board's program subcommittee This will be included on the Nov. 13 board meeting agenda. A review of the 1988-89 budget committee's work will be conducted at the Dec. 11 meeting.

McCartney and Anthony Cashara, assistant superintendent of business, assumed their positions earlier this year. Without prompting from the board, they are studying a number of initiatives.

One could alter class scheduling to create a "school-within-a-school" for grades 5-8. Another might lead to creation of an association of districts with the same fiscal problems: declining enrollment, moderate property wealth, moderate income, stagnant property tax base, small school staffs (hence poor economies of scale) and state basic aid sums that decline in absolute terms each year.

McCartney and Cashara have identified over 35 such districts. Each district will receive a letter suggesting a common lobbying effort in Albany during the next budgetmaking season in an effort to improve the basic aid formula.

The next board meeting will be held on the evening of Nov. 13 at the high school library.

Tea-riffic Bethlehem event

The Women's Association of the Delmar Presbyterian Church will hold a "friendship tea" for all Bethlehem area women on Friday, Nov. 10, from 1 to 3 p.m., at the church, located at 585 Delaware Ave., in Delmar.

A selection of hand crafted items including Christmas ornaments, home baked goods, and "nearly new" items will be for sale.

For more information, call 439-5807.

Bridges

lane steel and pre-stressed concrete structures permitting a top speed of 55 mph," Cooney reported as audience members gasped.

"Where community input is needed," said one resident, "is where the approaches will go and its attendant effect on the speed of people cutting through (the neighborhood)."

Cooney and at least one town official will meet with a committee of residents to take suggestions on new approaches.

Other matters

Scheduling conflicts forced changes in the date and site of the budget hearing. It is on for Thursday (tomorrow), 7 p.m. at the Wyman Osterhout Community Center, New Salem.

The board also:

- Heard attorney Cynthia LaFave's review of zoning cases brought by the town versus alleged junkyard owners. James Smith, for one, signed a stipulation to remove over 200 cars from a secluded site west of New Salem. He has not complied with the conditions within the six months allotted, and LaFave has filed in state Supreme Court for enforcement at the owner's expense. The Terhunes, LaFave reported, will represent themselves in a separate state Supreme Court action originally filed nearly three months ago. "Both have indicated they would like to settle," LaFave said.

- Tabled a resolution supporting the Rensselaer Committee Against Coal in opposition to a proposed coal-burning plant at the Port of Albany or across the river in Rensselaer.

- Authorized the supervisor to write Cablevision, Inc., in support of an extension of cable television service further down Route 32. Requesting service is David Briscoe, a Route 32 resident. Cablevision, Inc., holds the exclusive cable franchise from the town.

- Referred to the building inspector a complaint about the deteriorated condition of Clarksville properties near the corner of Route 443 and Plank Road.

- Approved Supervisor Reilly's list of prospective historical commission members: Elizabeth Mason, town historian Robert Parmenter, Madelon Pound, Marion Raymond and Voorheesville village historian Dennis Sullivan.

Views On Dental Health

DR. GEOFFREY B. EDMUNDS, D.D.S.

IF TOOTH KNOCKED OUT BY INJURY

Tommy was riding his skateboard down the driveway. He lost his balance and fell on the pavement. He wiped the blood from his mouth and found his upper front tooth in his hand. What do you do? Luckily, your dentist can deal effectively with this kind of dental emergency. But he'll need your help.

Collect the tooth and replace it in the socket at the site of the injury. Have your child (or you) hold it there until you reach the dentist. This will keep the tooth in its natural environment and extend the opportunity for a successful replantation. The next best method of preserving the tooth is to place it in the Tooth Preserving System, a special kit designed to keep the tooth healthy until it is reimplanted. If this is not possible, wrap the tooth in a wet cloth or place it in a glass of water, or better yet, cold milk. Don't linger!!! The chances for a successful replantation are best if done within 30 minutes to an hour after the mishap.

Some parents rush their child to the dentist, but in their haste forget to bring the tooth. DON'T FORGET THE TOOTH!!! And don't try to clean it yourself - even if it looks messy. What you think is dirt may actually be soft tissue that will help the healing process.

New library to be dedicated

The board of trustees and the Friends of the Library will host the dedication of the new Voorheesville Public Library on Sunday, Nov. 12 from 2 until 4 p.m. There will be a formal dedication and family activities including films and crafts. There will be a concert featuring local musician Paul Strausman. The ceremony will also kick off two community-wide events hosted by the library including the "logo contest" and raffle of the friendship quilt made by the villagers with help from local residents. All are welcome to join the festivities.

Birthdays girl

Area youngsters are invited to help the literary "Madeline" enjoy her 50th birthday at the Voorheesville Public Library. Through Nov. 17, youngsters in grades 2 and younger will have a chance to enter a drawing for a Madeline sweatshirt. The drawing will be on Nov. 18. Each time a child checks out a book, his or her name will be entered to win the prize shirt painted by local artist Barbara Vink. A coloring contest is also part of the festivities, with coloring sheets due Nov. 11. Finally the big birthday celebration will be on Saturday, Nov. 18 at 1 p.m. when young readers in the course offered by local storyteller Mary Murphy unveil their works. For more information, call Young People's librarian Nancy Hutchinson at 765-2791.

Heritage fair

The 14th annual Heritage Fair sponsored by the Helderberg Business and Professional Women will be Saturday, Nov. 11 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Farnsworth Middle School on Route 155 in Guilderland. The public is welcome to come view the large selection of hand crafted items to be displayed by over 70 craftsmen. Admission is free. A bake sale will also be held.

The Helderberg BPW also recently announced the winners of the group's annual scholarships. They are: Vicki Indilicato, a 1987 graduate of Guilderland High School who is a student at Providence College majoring in business administration; Debra Sherman, a 1988 graduate of Berne Knox Westerlo attending Paul Smith's majoring in chef training, and Jennifer Ramsey a 1987 graduate of Voorheesville High School majoring in psychology and business at Ithaca.

A new scholarship awarded to a student who has delayed furthering their education was presented to Diane Kennelly a 1981 graduate of Bethlehem Central who is a student at the College of Saint Rose in the field of special education. Funding for the scholarships is obtained from proceeds of the craft fair.

Voorheesville News Notes

Lyn Stapf 765-2451

PTSA to meet

The Voorheesville PTSA will hold its monthly meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 14 at 7 p.m. in the elementary school. This month's program will feature area storyteller Susan Spivak, in connection with the ongoing PTSA sponsored Parents as Reading Partners Program at the grade school. All elementary school students and their parents are invited. At that time there will be a special drawing of 20 $5 gift certificates to the upcoming PTSA book fair. All children who successfully completed the PARP program will have their names entered in the drawing. The book fair at the elementary school will be held in December.

Meanwhile the PTSA and the Junior High Student Council will sponsor a book fair for grades 7 and 8 on Nov. 14, 15 and 16. Students will be able to purchase books during lunch and English classes as well as after school. Parents are needed to assist with the event between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Anyone interested in volunteering should contact Donna Welker at 765-3100.

Invitation to parents

Peter Griffin, principal of Clayton Bouton Junior Senior High School invites all parents of students in grades 7 through 12 to come and observe classes during American Education Week, from Nov. 13 through 17. Parents are kindly asked to stop by the office to sign in.

Club lecturer

A reminder that the Helderberg Garden Club will welcome Jan Gaumond to their monthly meeting on Thursday, Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. The public is invited to the lecture entitled "Composting for the Home Horticulturist."

For more information, contact President Mary Beth Portanova at 765-4544.

Ticket drive set

Theatre Fun for Young People is sponsoring its annual ticket drive for the 1989-90 season. Students at the Voorheesville Elementary School will view the first performance of the year on Nov. 15 when "Foolproof follies" will perform for students in grades K through 6. To support the in-school performances sponsored by the non profit group, send the $5 ticket fee to school for children in grades 1 through 6 or the $2.50 fee for kindergarten students. For more information about the program, which will also include performances of Gramesque and Festival Woodwinds, contact Mary Jackstadt at 765-4328 or Jeanne Knouse at 765-2136.

Seniors trip

All area senior citizens are invited to sign up for the town's final trip of the year to be held on Tuesday, Nov. 28. The day's itinerary includes a visit to Fultonville with stops at the Poplars to see the Christmas display, the Daniel Greene Slipper Factory in Dolgeville, Rubin Gloves in Gloversville, the St. Thomas Leather Factory and the Johnstown Knitting Mills. The group will stop at the Poplars for dinner. The list for the free trip will be posted on Friday, Nov. 10 at the Town Hall and will remain there until Nov. 17. For more information, call coordinator Lois Crouse at 765-2109.

American Legion meeting

The Voorheesville American Legion Auxiliary Unit #1493, Department of New York, will meet on Thursday, Nov. 9, at 7:30 p.m., in post room on Voorheesville Ave. For more information, call 765-4306.

Clarksville meeting

The Clarksville Neighborhood Association will meet tonight, Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Clarksville Community Church. All residents are encouraged to attend.

Voorheesville dedicates new library

The Board of Trustees and the Friends of the Library will host a dedication ceremony at the Voorheesville Public Library, 51 School Rd., on Sunday, Nov. 12, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Family activities including films and crafts and a concert by Paul Strausman will be featured.

Guilderville swimmers finish 13-0

Reaching into adjacent Section 9 to give his girls a needed challenge, Guilderville swim coach Larry Dedrick sent his strongest lineup to the blocks at Kingston High last week.

"I didn't know what they (Kingston) had," he said. "All I knew was that they were sectional runners up last year and 8-2 this year. And I wanted to prepare the girls for the sectionals."

As it turned out, he should have been arrested for packing loaded guns on the Thruway. All that live ammunition was too much for the downstaters, and the tourists had a ball. They made off with everything but the 50-yard freestyle and the lane markers in a 103-66 breeze.

There were three triple winners, accounting for the medley relay and six individual firsts. That might not have been so surprising, but the freestyle relay quartet did raise a few eyebrows. With freshmen manning the getaway split and the anchor, they won the 4x100 in 3:58.71.

That made for a happy ride home, courtesy of Jenny Houle, Katrina Hansen, Nicole Leach and Amy Hilton. Houle is a Voorheesville freshman, Hilton a ninth grader in Guilderland.

As usual, the power punch came from Angela Washburn, Cathy Jo Dedrick, Becky Hilton and Maggie Bintz, Section 2 medley relay champions closing out an unbeaten season in Aqua League dual meets. That set the tone for Angela to win the 200 and 100 free, Cathy Jo the backstroke and 200 IM, Becky the fly and the 500, and Maggie the breaststroke.

The meet, the farewell scholastic dual for Angela and Becky, was the team's 25th straight victory. They finished the season at 13-0 atop the league, heading into the sectionals this weekend at RPI.

These girls make winning fun

By Nat Boynton

They're a frolicsome group, laughing and playing tricks on each other, 22 teenage girls mixing fun and hard work in a borrowed pool.

Some of the pranksters are a bit devilish, Maggie Bintz for example, but the camaraderie is close and the togetherness highly visible. This is the last week of practice for the Guilderville swim team, champions of the Aqua League and the best high school team within a hundred miles in any direction.

The best, clearly, but also the most free-spirited. A visitor at a late afternoon workout at the Bethlehem Middle School last week asked their coach, Larry Dedrick, if all the practices were like this, so spirited, more like a family picnic in August at the Thatcher Park pool.

"Pretty much," he said. "Of course, now we're tapering for the sectionals, loosening up after working very hard all season, but you're right. These girls really are like a family. It's remarkable how close they are, coming from two schools. They're always together, in or out of the pool."

For some years now, Guilderland Central, which has no pool, and Voorheesville Central, which has a pool but an enrollment too small to field a full team, have teamed up under the name of Guilderville. This year, with their home pool undergoing extensive renovation, this banner season was made possible by Bethlehem Central, which granted them the use of the Middle School facility.

"I don't know how we can ever thank them enough," says Dedrick.

A banner year indeed. They had only one close meet (with Shaker) in posting a 13-0 record and extending their undefeated string in dual meets to 25 over two seasons.

That included a convincing win over Kingston High, a top team in neighboring Section 9, last Friday, an exercise arranged by Dedrick as a sharpening tuneup for the sectionals.

Now these happy mermaids are only two days away from the Section 2 championship meet, which starts Friday at RPI's eight-lane pool in Troy. From there, some of them, perhaps as many as six, will go on to the state meet.

But in their last week as a full team, in the countdown to the

BC girls, 7-4, head for RPI

By Nat Boynton

An easy win and two cliff-hanging losses wrapped up a 7-4 season for the Bethlehem girls swim team heading into this weekend's sectional meet at RPI.

The two defeats were heart-breakers, both on the road and both coming down to the final two events where third place made the difference.

At Shaker last Tuesday, BC clung to a slippery lead through eight events until the Bison caught up at 71-71 with a 1-2 in the backstroke. Merideth Dix delivered a second in the breaststroke, but in a photo finish for the crucial third-place points, BC's Anne Byrd was touched out by three-tenths of a second. With a two-point lead at 80-78, Shaker won the free relay and the meet, the Eagles' 2-3 falling short by 88-84.

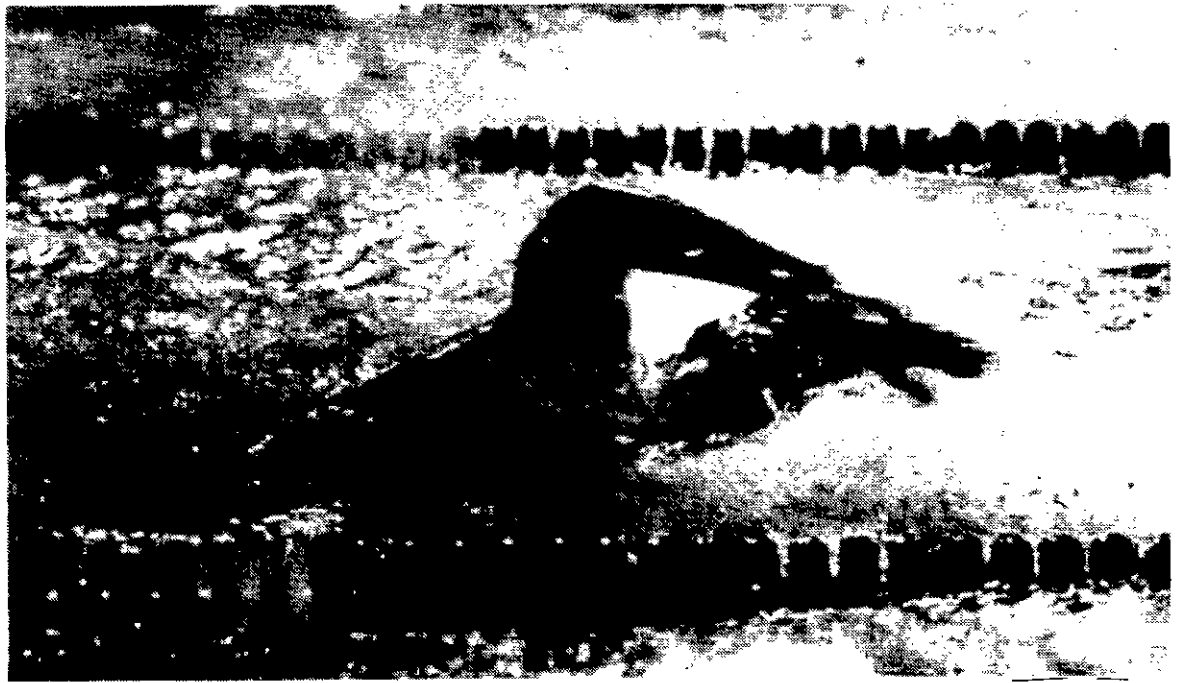

On Thursday at Burnt Hills, Dix and Byrd went 1-4 in the breast, giving BC a four-point margin at 81-77 going into the relay and needing a 2-3 to win the meet. Christina Rudofsky, Georgia Butt, Stacy Rosenblum and dependable Katie Fish delivered the second in 4:06.12, but a rare disqualification for a BC swimmer leaving the blocks a fraction of a second too soon nullified an apparent 4:23.40 third place and the clincher. The final was 87-85, the closest possible in a dual meet.

Friday's junket to Johnstown was a businesslike 95-77 win, the younger swimmers filling in behind front-liners Sarah Toms, Fish, Dix, Jennifer Mosley and diver Chrissie Mann.

The Eagles opened all three meets with strength, winning the medley relay with three different combinations, and keeping the pressure on throughout the meet. At Latham they gave up a 1-3-4 in the 200 free and a 1-3-5 in the IM, but roared back in the 50 with 12 points to regain the lead as Mosley, Rudofsky and Emily Church went 1-2-4. When Mosley, Rudofsky and Amy Budliger went 1-2-5 in the 100 free and Fish and Rosenblum added a 1-4 in the 500, the Eagles led by 67-59.

But even with a sparkling 1:06.81 by Toms in the backstroke, the Eagles could not ward off a 1-2-4 by the Bison. Dix swam a 1:15.87, one of her best ever, for second in the breast, but the fractional touch-out cost the Eagles the vital third place. That set the stage for the relay, and there were not enough front-liners to man two relay teams.

Two days later at Johnstown Fish won the 200 and 500, Mosley the two sprints and the Eagles collected enough seconds and thirds to protect a four-point advantage going into the backstroke. The teams broke even in the last two individual events before the climactic relay.

Discussion on race strategy

Dale Keenan of the Hudson Mohawk Road Runners Club will speak about race strategy for runners tomorrow night (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Schenectady YMCA on State Street.

His hour-long talk will include pre-race preparation, adjusting for each race according to race characteristics, pacing, and environmental considerations. Dale is one of the area's premier runners.

The event is free of charge and sponsored by the Hudson Mohawk Road Runners Club and is being held in conjunction with the Sports Expo at the Mohawk Mall, Schenectady on Nov. 11.

sectionals, Dedrick has been lenient in directing the "taper" process. In such a scenario Maggie Bintz and Amy Hilton have more leeway to pull their pranks, most of them directed at little Jenny Houle, a pint-sized freshman.

The horseplay spirit enlivens meets as well as routine practices, notably their favorite prank, a "wedgie" (grabbing the back of the swimsuit and yanking downward). In the Scotia meet Jenny was again — and literally — the butt of a wedgie, and the little (5-foot-1) speedster had to go to the starting blocks in three events with a rip in the nether portion of her suit.

And Jenny can kick up a mean wake in that water. This Friday she will fling all of her 103 pounds into the water in three events at the sectionals, the versatile 200 IM, the gruelling 500 free and the slam-bang 400 free relay.

"They pick on me because I'm so small," she told the visitor, flashing a smile as wide as her happy face. "But Becky and Cathy Jo protect me from Maggie and Amy."

Oh, boy, now you're talking top-level swimmers. Becky Hilton and Cathy Jo Dedrick, the envy of rival coaches. Becky, a Guilderland senior in her fourth year on the team, is a 5-foot-10 power swimmer who will be defending her sectional championships in the 200 and 500 free, and will swim the fly on G-V's top-rated medley relay entry. Small wonder she is being recruited by Division I and II colleges.

As for Cathy Jo, here's another standout with power. Voorheesville's sophomore, age 15, fourth year on the team, went to the state meet as a seventh grader in the backstroke, is defending sectional champion backstroker and leadoff on Guilderville's unbeaten medley relay quartet. She won the 200 IM at the sectionals as an eighth grader, but was touched out last year by Angela Washburn, a teammate. Even so, she went to the state meet in three events as a ninth grader.

Ah, Angela, so strong, so versatile. With several No. 1 types on the team, it's hard to say that Guilderville has a leader, but this blonde Voorheesville senior may be just that. She set sectional records in the 200 and 500 as a 10th grader that still stand. Last year she was a triple winner (200 IM, breaststroke, medley relay), giving her the rare distinction of earning sectional golds in five events. This weekend she will go back to the 200 and 500. She will also anchor the medley relay quartet that is a shoo-in for another shot at the state title.

At some point in Saturday's finals Becky, Cathy Jo and/or Angela will encounter Richelle Depold of Scotia, the only unbeatable in this area, but that won't deter any of them. As for Angela, she's headed for St. Bonaventure next year, which is why they're dancing in the streets in Olean.

Then there's Katrina Hansen, a 15-year-old Voorheesville exchange student from Australia with a lot of nicknames. Her teammates call her Aussie, her father calls her Oz and young Jennifer Osterhout calls her Tree. Dedrick calls her Smiley because, he said, the only time he's ever seen her without a smile was when he scolded her for being late for an event. In the lanes she is a strong flyer who also does the individual medley. Under Dedrick she has done well in the 500 among other assignments.

What about this crazy bunch of girls, Katrina? That is, compared to Australia?

"Oh, they're a lot of fun. There's more horseplay and loud chatter. Down home they're more restrained in their cheering. I lost my voice several times this year, and I've never done that before."

This is the last time this effervescent crew will be together, but all but three will be back next year. The losses are substantial — Angela, Becky and Smiley — and half a dozen of the younger swimmers will be taking their places along with future standouts like Amy Hilton, little Jenny Houle, and Lee Foster, a Voorheesville freshman who does the sprints. And, of course, there will be Maggie Bintz, the prime prankster who has been to the state meet on G-V's championship relay team, and hopes to make the trip this year as an individual in the breaststroke.

Win or lose at RPI this week, it has been a memorable year.

"Don't think it's always like this," Angela cautioned the visitor at practice. "We worked hard all season, 2,000 yards every day, sometimes 3,000. One time we got up to 5,000."

"In one day?" marveled the guest.

"Yeah, everybody did five thousand. But this week these are fun workouts. We get relaxed, and it helps with the 'psych.' Some of the teams in the sectionals are uptight. We'll be loose."

"The coach keeps us under control," added Becky, the only other senior on the team. "We get our work done first. Coach keeps us together. He doesn't discriminate because of ability."

That wonderful togetherness extends beyond the pool. "They

Guilderville's 400 free relay quartet includes, from left, Katrina Hansen, Jenny Houle, Nicole Leach and Amy Hilton. Houle and Hilton are freshmen. Joe Futia even like the bus trips because they're together," points out Dedrick. That includes Jenny, who recalls relaxing in the dark on the long ride back from Johnstown when she felt Maggie and Amy caressing her face lovingly. "When I got home there was makeup smeared all over my face," she said.

On Halloween swimmers from both schools dropped in at Cathy Jo's house in Voorheesville, and last weekend there was a costume party at Maggie Bintz's in Guilderland. That was Katrina's introduction to the annual October hijinks in America.

How did Katrina dress for Maggie's bash? You guessed it: Crocodile Dundee.

BC runners look back on '89 with pride

By Michael Kagan

Before the start of the 1989 season, Bethlehem cross country coach John Nyilis said "a good year is when everyone does their best and fulfills their potential."

Based on that assessment, the boys team and the girls team had a pretty good year. They didn't have a good year on paper and probably didn't strike a whole lot of fear in the hearts of opponents, but no one can say they didn't fulfill their potential.

The girls did better on paper, compiling a 6-4 dual meet record, which was good enough for third in the Suburban Council's gold division. Nyilis had expected that the girls would do well in dual meets, but thought they would have trouble in invitationals.

At first, this appeared to be correct as BC came in fifth out of six schools in the Johnstown Invitationals. Then things started to look better. In the Grout Invitational, the girls finished fifth again, but this time out of 21 schools. Then, in the highlight of their season, the girls won their division in the Guilderland invitationals. However, that meet also marked the beginning of the decline for the girls. Annette Cashin hurt her foot during the race, starting a string of key injuries which prevented the girls from ever being able to repeat their feat.

The boys also had their share of adversity. Mike Kimelberg, who was expected to be Bethlehem's number one runner, did not finish a race until deep into the season and never was able to get into good enough shape to run as well as he is capable of due to a variety of leg injuries. However, in Kimelberg's absence a first year cross runner named Gary Hurd emerged as one of the areas best runners. He said the boys ran "pretty well, with all the injuries" and that he was "satisfied with how I ran" this season. The boys ran well in almost every meet, but were never able to win consistently in compiling a 3-7.

That was good enough for 4th in the gold division.

At the Suburban Council championships, the boys finished eighth. The girls' injuries caught up with them, as they were not able to field a complete team. Last Friday at the section two championship meet at Saratoga State Park, both the boys and girls did better. The boys finished ninth of fifteen schools. Although that does not look good on paper Hurd said they ran the best "we have all season." Hurd led the boys, finished eighth, cutting 13 seconds off his time at the Suburban Council meet a week earlier. Kimelberg finished 42nd and Matt Dugan, who cut 20 seconds off his time, 46th. Ken Watson, one of BC's most consistent runners, finished 50th and Brook Tarbell took 26 seconds off his time in coming in 70th.

The girls came in seventh, but if it were not for injuries would have been at least fourth, as they were only seven points out of fourth place. Nicole Mizener, and eighth grader who was Bethlehem's first runner for the first time, finished 12th, chopping off 35 seconds in one week. Julie Hammer and Kathy Saba finished 22nd and 25th, in that order. Meghan Faulkner came in 52nd and Kathy Leonard 71st.

On paper, neither the girls nor the boys were outstanding, but they both did their best and definitely fulfilled their potential, so it was a good year for Bethlehem cross country.

Clark, Rockmore soccer all-stars

Christian Clark and Todd Rockmore head the list of Voorheesville soccer players named to the 1989 Colonial Council All-star Soccer Team this week.

The two juniors were selected to the council's all-star first team. Clark, completing his second full season as starting center halfback, helped lead Voorheesville to an unexpectedly high third-place finish in the league (9-4-1). Including non-league matches, he rang up 6 goals and 6 assists, third best on the team.

Rockmore, brother of three-time all-star forward Andy Rockmore (1985-87,) scored 11 goals, second to team leader Rich Adams, and a team-high 7 assists.

In the voting for Colonial Council Class C Player of the Year, Clark placed third and Rockmore was fifth. Kevin Galuski of the championship Waterford team was the coaches' top choice, followed by Galuski's teammate, forward Tim Williams.

Adam Rose, VC's much-improved senior halfback, was named to the league second team. Earning honorable mention were senior Chris McDermott, a wingback; junior Adams, a center forward; and Eric Logan, a sophomore stopperback.

Late TDs rob Eagles of sectional berth

By John Bellizzi III

Two late touchdowns for Catholic Central High School spelled trouble for Bethlehem Central's varsity football team in Friday night's showdown for second place in the Metroland Conference Mohawk Division.

After jumping off to a quick 7-0 lead, the Eagles were held scoreless by the Crusaders for the final three quarters, allowing CCHS to come back for a 16-7 victory in the final game of the regular season, earning the Crusaders a berth in Class A sectionals this week.

The Eagles clearly dominated the first half, scoring the game's first touchdown late in the opening quarter. Bethlehem's scoring drive began with recovery of a Catholic Central fumble on a punt return just outside the Crusaders' own 10-yard line. Quarterback Scott Hodge's extra-point kick increased BC's lead to 7-0.

Bethlehem remained strong through the second quarter nearly scoring again after a 65-yard drive. After taking possession on their own 20, Hodge completed a pass to Craig Weinert for a 35-yard gain. Hodge, Klein and halfback Bo Acquario drove to the Catholic Central 15 on the ground, where Bethlehem was stopped at the line of scrimmage on three consecutive plays. Hodge's 35-yard field goal attempt on fourth down went wide. It was the closest Bethlehem would come to scoring for the rest of the game.

Bethlehem's game fell apart in the second half. Offensively, the Eagles just couldn't hang on to the ball, losing a fumble on the third quarter opening kickoff and again on their next possession. Even when the Eagles had the ball, they were hampered by poor field position and a revived CCHS defense, which held Bethlehem to under 20 total yards in the second half.

"You could even see the momentum starting to change in the latter part of the second quarter," said BC Coach John Sodergren, "Catholic Central did some things to really control the game upfront. Their line really started to control the line of scrimmage."

Bethlehem's sluggish defensive play allowed Catholic Central's aggressive offense to control the second half. After BC's second turnover in the third quarter, the Crusaders drove for 35 yards, scoring on a two-yard run by Bill O'Connor with 5:40 remaining in the period. A successful two-point conversion run gave the lead to Catholic Central, 8-7.

Catholic Central scored on another short rush early in the fourth quarter, securing another two-point conversion to effectively put the game out of reach for the Eagles. Bethlehem dropped to 4-3 in the Mohawk Division and 5-3 overall, good enough for a third place finish. CCHS finished second in the Mohawk Division with a 5-2 record (6-2 overall.)

Catholic Central's victory earned them a spot in Friday's Section 2 Semifinals, where they will host Hudson Division Champion Saratoga (8-0), with the winner advancing to the Super Bowl (Class A Finals) the following week. Colonie (6-2) and Mohawk Champion Amsterdam (7-1) will square off in the other semifinal game Friday night.

Though Bethlehem lost the playoff spot to the Crusaders, the Eagles will be playing a Metroland Conference Division Crossover Playoff Game Friday night at home against Guilderland, who finished third in the Hudson Division with a 3-2-2 record (3-2-2 overall).

The Dutchmen ended the regular season on a sour note last Friday with a loss to previously winless Schenectady 22-14. "We're confident in this week's game plan," said Sodergren. "I think Guilderland is a team we can beat." Last year, Bethlehem fell to Guilderland 14-13 in the Suburban Council Gold Division.

Five Rivers annual meeting

The annual meeting of the Five Rivers Limited will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 15, 7:30 p.m., at the Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, Game Farm Rd., in Delmar. The meeting will begin with the election of members to the Board of Directors.

At 8 p.m., a program entitled, "Islands of the Great Barrier Reef," will be presented by the Center's Senior Educator, Anita Sanchez.

Victorious Indians miss playoff bid

By Mark Stuart

The RCS football team played what many feel was one of its strongest games of the 1989 season when they defeated Mohonasen on Saturday 18-6.

But afterwards, they were helpless to change their destiny as they heard that Albany Academy had defeated Cohoes 28-8 to capture the Capital Conference Colonial Division title.

The Ravena Indians (5-2) finished third in the final Colonial Division standings behind Academy (6-1) and Lansingburgh (5-2.) Since RCS and Lansingburgh have identical records, second place goes to Lansingburgh, who beat RCS earlier in the season. Ironically, RCS was the only team to defeat Academy this year when they topped the Cadets 22-20 two weeks ago.

Ravena will play its crossover game at home Saturday at 1:30 p.m. against Hudson.

If Cohoes had upset Academy, RCS would have met LaSalle in Saturday's Buckley Cup Championship Game, the championship game between the top divisional teams of the Capital Conference. But going into last Saturday's Cohoes-Academy match-up, Academy was the heavy favorite against the Cohoes team that had only reorganized in 1988 after being unable to field a team in 10 years.

RCS started off last Saturday's game on the wrong foot when, after an errant long snap on a punt, they fell deep within their own territory and Mohonasen's Scott Hartman scored on a three-yard run to give the visitors their only lead of the game at 6-0.

The Indian offense got their wake-up call at the 2:52 mark of the second quarter when quarterback Frank Morehouse connected with split end Julio Colon on a 40-yard pass to tie it up at 6-6.

Morehouse again would find Colon for a touchdown connection, this time for an 80-yard strike at 4:19 in the third quarter.

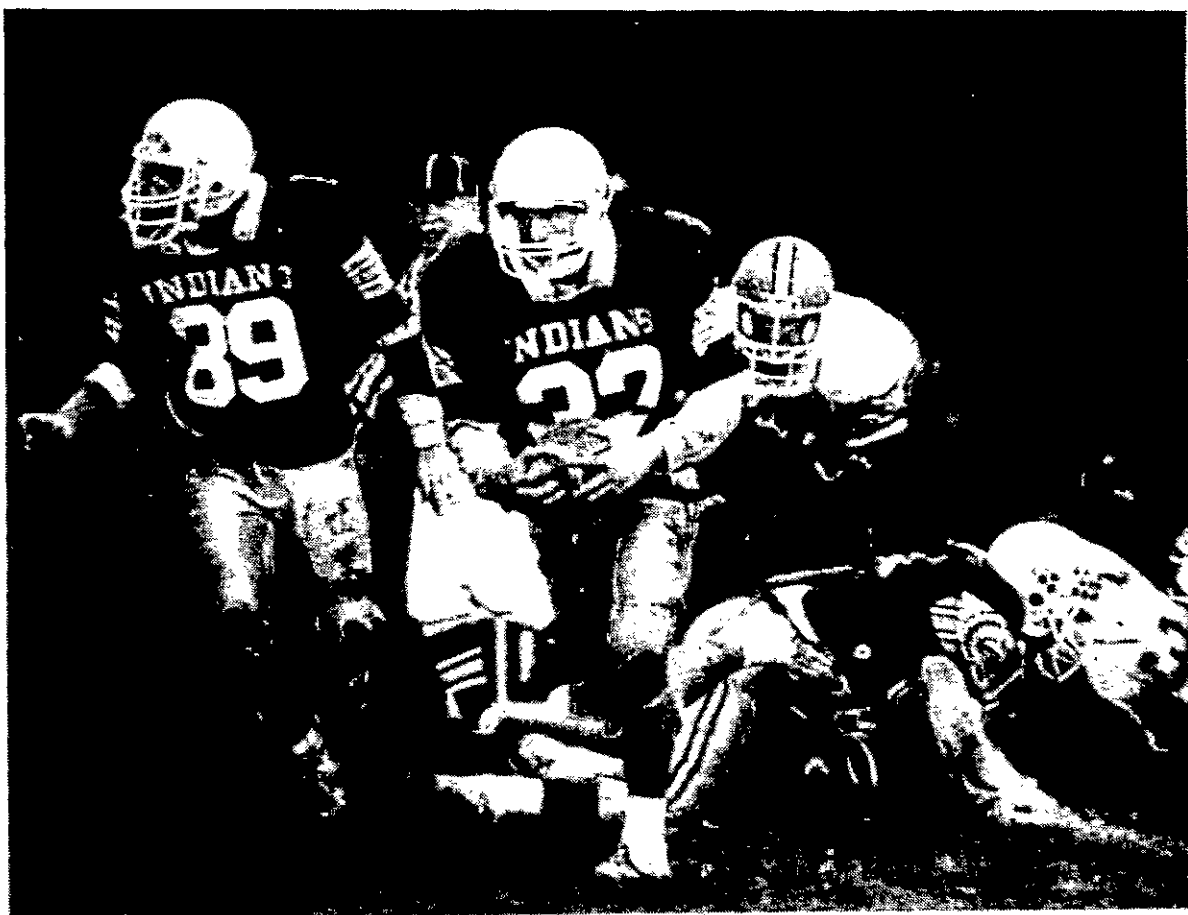

In the fourth quarter, Morehouse took advantage of wideout Frank Maiorana's height over his Mohonasen defender and looped a high pass over to Maiorana for a 25-yard touchdown.

Neither team was able to score on the point-after attempts.

In the end, Colon wound up with two TDs and 122 yards receiving. He also collected an important interception to halt a third quarter Mohonasen rally.

The defense played a major role in the RCS win, holding Mohonasen's standout running back Dan Benaquista to only 48 yards rushing.

There were several outstanding defensive plays of the day, including Colon's third quarter interception. Tom Spadaro recovered a Mohonasen fumble in the third quarter. At 9:28 of the third quarter, defensive back Lorin Edmunds grabbed a Mohonasen interception at the Mohonasen 45 and ran it back to the 25. In addition to a QB sack, linebacker Larry Roe fought his way through a well-organized screen play on the RCS 47 to break up what may have been a key series for Mohonasen late in the second half.

Adam Leonardo (32) broke through Mohonasen defense on this punt return before he was pushed out of bounds 24 yards later. Joe Futia

One last try for Birds

Win over Coxsackie would salvage season

By Nat Boynton

The longest season in Voorheesville's proud football history comes to a merciful end this Saturday on Buckley Field. Coxsackie, cellar dwellers in the Southern Division of the Capital Football Conference, will be in town for a 1:30 matchup of two teams that have endured more adversity than any of their rivals in the current campaign.

Despite the credentials, or lack thereof, the pairing is an interesting one well worth the price of a ticket. Coxsackie is 1-7, showing only a 13-12 victory over Voorheesville in the season opener. The Blackbirds, down from 31 to approximately 20 players certified as reasonably healthy, are 0-8 with a genuine chance to win a game.

"We should've beaten them the first game," says Dave Burnham, Voorheesville's incumbent strategist and resident optimist. "I think we can do it this time. We're pretty well banged up, but the spirit is upbeat. We want to win this one for the seniors. I look for good things to happen."

There are only four seniors. Co-captains Ryan Brennan and Charlie Russo, Bob Galusha and Matt Fairbank are all in good health. Burnham considers Russo the best defensive end in the league and Brennan an all-conference line-backer, but on a chronic loser these things often go unnoticed.

The Blackbirds absorbed another pasting last week, 28-6, at Watervliet, giving up three touchdowns in a dismal first half. "We had a hard time blocking, and we weren't filling the gaps," Burnham said.

After the break it was a lot better, even with a sizeable population of sophomores and freshmen manning the fort. Several readjustments bolstered the defense, and with Russo connecting on passes and Brennan and Scott Renker carrying, the Blackbirds executed a nice scoring drive in the third period. Brennan took the ball in from the 14 on his most picturesque of many twisting runs, cradling a pitchout from Russo on the right, shaking off five tackles and threading his way into the end zone.

There was another promising drive in the fourth that ended with a fumble. Considering that most of the juniors are on medical leave and many sophomores hurting, it wasn't such a bad day on the field.

The casualty list was also down after losing six players the previous week. Joe Tyrrell, a 6-4 junior who goes both ways at end, got a free ride to the hospital with severely bruised ribs, but should be ready for this week's finale.

Burnham said Monday he was planning to make this week's practices "short and snappy." Most of the participants have never experienced playing in a winning game (last year's JV was 0-9), leaving only the four seniors and two juniors, Renker and Chad Hotaling, as holdovers from last year's 1-8 varsity.

Such is life on a JV team playing a varsity schedule.

Pop Warner season ends

Bethlehem's Pop Warner regular season closed last weekend with one win and two losses.

The Eagles finished the season with a fine 5-3 record as New Scotland's midget team forfeited to Bethlehem.

Meanwhile, the Hawks traveled to Guilderland on Sunday and lost by a score of 12-0. All scoring occurred in the first half on fourth and long plays. In the second half

Cheerleaders win medals

In only their second year, the Bethlehem Pop Warner Cheerleaders earned the most medals of all the teams in the Albany Federation during competition this year.

Competing against 34 other teams, the cheerleaders took home three awards at the Albany Federation Cheerleading Competition held at Columbia High School on Oct. 21.

The PeeWee squad finished sixth overall and won the Spirit Award. The PeeWee Girls were coached by Katie Carazza, Kerry Feller and Janis Schoonover.

Members of the PeeWee Girls were Theresa Consentino, Clarissa D'Ambrosio, Janelle D'Ambrosio, Rachel Deyoe, Kimberly Foster, Mandy Genovese, Kelly Gerber.

Also Stephanie Goeldner, Erika McDonough, Jill Pappalardi, Kiley Shortell, Shawn Snyder, Gretchen Sodergren, Danielle Torre, Linda VanDyke and Krista VonRonne.

The Midget girls finished second out of 10 teams overall and won the Spirit Award. However, due to competition rules no team finishing first or second overall can win the Spirit Award and so the Midget Girls placed second in the Spirit Award category.

The Midget Girls were coached by Carly Cushman, Mary Lou Flynn and Kristen Minor. Members of the Midget Girls squad were Gianna Aiezza, Sarah Bylsma, Sandi Consentino, Kristen Cushman, Erin Cykoski, Shannon Flynn, Suzanne Hansen, Tricia Kandefer, Tammy Kaplan, Danielle Leonard and Stephanie Malow.

Also Amy Russell, Siobhan Sheehan, Nicole Sherrin, Melissa Trent and Jaimie Williams.

Mascots were Nicole Comi and Elizabeth Walmsey.

The Junior Midget Girls, coached by Lori Frazier, Marie Frazier, Erin Hallenbeck and Gretchen Seaburg, placed fourth and received the Spirit Award.

Members of the Junior Midget Girls were Jessica Baird, Jennifer Browe, Doryen Bubeck, Danielle Furman, Ali Greenfield, Torre Hallenbeck, Theresa Jeram and Andrea Kreiger.

Also, Tina Morrell, Beth Norton, Alie Ostroff, Karen Recene, Jennifer Scott, Lisa Seaburg, Kristina Westfall and Catherine Whitbeck.

both defenses took charge and neither team crosses the other's 30-yard line. Nate Kosoc had an interception while Matt Thornton, Steve Demarest, Greg Sack, Bill Conway and Jeff Haefeli provided standout defensive plays.

The Falcons closed out their season at home hosting Colonie.

When the final gun sounded Colonie had won 19-6. Leading the Falcon offense was Mike Follis with 100 yards rushing and one touchdown. Joe Engle and Chris Dimuria provided excellent blocking for the offense.

Paul Weiman, Gary Osterhout and Ryan Koch played outstanding for the offense. Led by Steve Euler, the defensive squad of Paul Patane, Matt Quackenbush, Dan McGuire, Justin Marshall and Jessie Brozowski all turned in a fine effort.

On Saturday the Hawks and Eagles host North Colonie and Watervliet respectively at 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. in Bethlehem's first Friendship Bowl.

Obituaries

Ruth McHugh

Ruth V. O'Connor McHugh, 84, of Elsmere, died Thursday, Nov. 2, after being stricken at home.

Born in Glens Falls, she was a graduate of Glens Falls High School and the College of Human Ecology of Cornell University in 1927. After graduation, she was an assistant manager of Lincklaen House in Casanovia, Madison County.

She moved to Delmar in 1943, where she was active in the Cornell Club. She was active with the White Christmas Festival, a charitable organization.

Mrs. McHugh was a past president of the Church Women United, the Delmar Progress Club and the American Association of University Women, of which she was also the state legislative representative. She also served as third district director of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

She served on the boards of the Capital District Council of Churches, the Albany League of Arts and the Capitol Hill Choral Society.

She was a communicant of St. Thomas the Apostle Roman Catholic Church in Delmar, where she was involved with religious education. She was a tutor at St. Thomas School. She sang with the church choir, the Festival of Praise and the Master Works Chorale, a group that gave concerts throughout England and Ireland.

The widow of Arthur C. McHugh Sr., she is survived by two sons, Arthur C. McHugh Jr. of Oxford, Md., and Robert F. McHugh of Albany; two daughters, Virginia Beach and Mary Esther Haggerty, both of Alexandria, Va.; a sister, Mary McCarthy of Camillus, Onondaga County; 11 grandchildren and a great-granddaughter.

Services were from the Daniel Keenan Funeral Home, Albany, and St. Thomas the Apostle Church. Burial was in Union Cemetery in Ft. Edward.

Contributions may be made to St. Vincent de Paul Society, St. Thomas Conference, in care of St. Thomas the Apostle Church.

Albert Kirk

Albert Kirk, 93, of Slingerlands, died Tuesday, Oct. 31 at Albany Medical Center.

Mr. Kirk was a piano and furniture mover for Steinway and Son in New York City for many years before moving to Slingerlands.

He was a member of the Delmar Reformed Church, Delmar.

Survivors include his wife, Frida Zage Kirk; a son, Frederick Kirk of Slingerlands; a brother, Otto Kirk of West Germany; and a granddaughter.

Services were from the Applebee Funeral Home, Delmar.

Burial was in Livingston Cemetery.

Frances Pera

Frances M. Pera, 81, of Kenwood Ave., Delmar, died Tuesday, Oct. 31 at her home.

Mrs. Pera, a homemaker, widow of Paul J. Pera, is survived by a daughter, Annette Schiavo of Delmar; a sister, Laura Grover of Tonawanda, N.Y.; three grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Services were from the Apple-bee Funeral Home and St. Thomas the Apostle Church, both in Delmar. Burial was in Bethlehem Cemetery, Delmar.

Gertrude McCaffrey

Gertrude M. McCaffrey, 78, of Colonial Acres, Glenmont, died Wednesday, Nov. 1, at home after a long illness.

Born in Hudson, she was a graduate of Emerson College in Boston and a Glenmont resident for the past several years.

Mrs. McCaffrey was a trustee and member of St. Thomas the Apostle Church in Delmar and active in church and civic organizations.

Survivors include her husband, Edward McCaffrey; a daughter, Mary Kathleen Murray of Delmar; three sons, Edward McCaffrey Jr. of Tivoli, Dutchess County, and Kevin and Timothy McCaffrey, both of Delmar; and three grandchildren.

Services were from St. Thomas the Apostle Church, with burial in Calvary Cemetery, Glenmont.

Contributions may be made to the St. Thomas Church Memorial Fund, the St. Vincent de Paul Society in Albany or St. Peter's Hospice in Albany.

Arrangements are by the Applebee Funeral Home, Delmar.

Kathryn Raynsford

Kathryn W. Raynsford, 94, of Voorheesville Avenue, died Thursday, Nov. 2, at her home after a long illness.

Born in New Scotland, Mrs. Raynsford had lived in Voorheesville most of her life. She was a member of the Voorheesville First United Church and a former member of the Voorheesville American Legion Auxiliary.

The widow of Raymond Raynsford, she is survived by a son, Wayne S. Raynsford of Voorheesville; and two grandchildren.

Services were from Reilly and Son Funeral Home, Voorheesville. Burial was in New Scotland Cemetery.

Stanton L. Bulson

Stanton L. Bulson, 79, of New Scotland Road, Slingerlands, died Oct. 27 at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany, after being stricken at home.

Born in Grafton, he lived in the Albany area all his life. He retired in 1951 as a sergeant with the New York State Police after serving on the force for 20 years. At the time of his retirement he was assigned to the Catskill barracks.

In 1951, he opened Red Bulson's Restaurant (later Pvt. Benny's, now the Gold Coin) on Route 85 east of Slingerlands, retiring in 1969. Later, he worked for 10 years as a part-time security guard for Child's Hospital, Albany.

He was a member of the Association of Former New York State Troopers; Bethlehem Lodge 1096, Free and Accepted Masons, Delmar, and Rensselaer Elks Lodge 2073.

Survivors include his wife, Alice V. Ogren Bulson; a daughter, Donna L. Tice of Slingerlands, and a grandson.

Services were from the Philip J. Frederick Funeral Home, Albany. Burial was in Memory's Garden, Colonie.

More on Eva Marie

Part two of Jack Rightmyer's profile of Delmar native Eva Marie Saint, continued from last week's Spotlight.

By Jack Rightmyer

Eva Marie Saint's first feature film, On the Waterfront, was shot on the New Jersey docks during extremely cold weather, and the hours were awful, according to the actress. Director Elia Kazan often kept the cast and crew working 12 hours overtime, but Saint enjoyed everything about the experience.

"I didn't feel intimidated working with Brando, and Kazan is not the kind of director that allows the star treatment anyway. Everyone was treated the same. Brando was a prince of a man. He had a wonderful sense of humor, but I haven't seen him since we made that film. Some people think actors see each other all the time, but that's not true. Most of my friends aren't actors, they're painters and college professors," she said.

Saint credits her work in television for her success in films. "One thing I learned working in live television was that you needed to concentrate during a scene," she said. "Throughout my entire career I've always done a lot of television. Sometimes television has more interesting stories. In fact, I just got back from Italy, where I was filming a mini-series with Burt Lancaster about the terrorist takeover of the Achille Lauro (cruise ship). I play Mrs. Klinghoffer, the wife of the man who was murdered," she said. The piece will air some time in May.

Saint will also narrate a documentary on Sister Corita Kent, the artist who did "Make Love Not War" among others. The production will air on PBS sometime next year.

"I've been working on that with my husband," Saint said. "It's been a labor of love because she was such an inspiring person."

Although the roster of stars she has worked with includes Brando, Kazan, Gish, Burt Lancaster, Cary Grant, Bob Hope, Alfred Hitchcock, Paul Newman, Jason Robards, Yves Montand, James Garner, Otto Preminger, Jackie Gleason, Tom Hanks, Cybill Shepherd and other Hollywood luminaries, Saint warns not to expect a 'kiss and tell' autobiography any time soon. She has only kind things to say about each of them.

"Cary Grant was a true gentlemen," she said. "I enjoyed working with Cybill Shepherd in 'Moonlighting' (as her mother). That was kind of a yuppie show and it introduced me to a new viewing public. Paul Newman is like a brother to me, and Hitchcock was like a teddy bear. I've heard all those stories about how he used to dominate his blonde leading ladies, but he never did with me. Maybe it was because I was happily married."

In fact, Saint's marriage of 38 years to Jeff Hayden, a television director, is somewhat of a Hollywood milestone in comparison to that area's averages. "If I knew why we've had such a long marriage I could make a lot of money, couldn't I?" she added.

Saint met Hayden in the late 1940's, when they were both struggling to survive in television. "Maybe one reason why our marriage has worked is because he's a director and I'm an actor. We're not in competition. We respect each other," she said. "He has always felt women should be independent and make their own decisions, which is good for me, since I've always been an independent type — maybe because I was born on July 4th."

Eva Marie Saint

Saint's marriage and family have always been her first priority.

"Jeff and I have always wanted to spend time together, but we don't smother each other. We are both family-oriented because we came from close families. My parents were married for 40 years and his were married for 45. We both know it can be difficult to live with another person, and I feel there must be a certain determination to stay together. Too many young people split before they actually give their marriage a chance," she said.

Saint also became a working mother 20 years before it was in vogue. "I was lucky because by the time I began acting in movies I had the chance to pick and choose which ones I wanted to be in," she said. "This gave me the opportunity to spend a lot of time with my two children when they were young. Acting is not a nine-to-five career, but I think I probably spent more time with my children than most working mothers do today. Often

Around the world in an afternoon

Feel like a trip to Argentina? How about a jaunt to Germany, or a ramble through Russia?

You can visit them all — in one day— on Sunday, Nov. 12, during the 18th annual Festival of Nations at the Empire State Plaza in Albany.

Eat your way through Indonesia, Ireland and Israel as you sample the cuisines and cultures of 18 nations, from the Ukraine to the U.S.

The festivities begin at 12:45 p.m. with the Parade of Nations, featuring representatives in full ethnic costume.

In addition to native delicacies, a wide variety of performances will take place throughout the day in the adjoining Convention Center. Crafts from around the world will also be available for early Christmas shopping.

Represented in this year's festival are Argentina, Armenia, China, Canada, Germany, Hungary, India, Indonesia, Ireland, Israel, Lithuania, Pakistan, Poland, Russia, Scandinavia, Syria, the Ukraine and the original 13 colonies of the United States.

The festival runs from noon until 6 p.m. Tickets at the door are $2 for adults, $1 for children ages five through 15. Parking is free of charge. Happy travels!

THE YOUTH NETWORK

Siblings — can they get along?

The first of a series of parenting seminars sponsored by the Bethlehem Networks Project and the Bethlehem Central School District was held last month on sibling rivalry issues. The seminar provided the opportunity to not only learn about strategies for dealing with sibling rivalry, but also allowed parents to discuss particular problems they face in their own families and brainstorm possible solutions.

The seminar was based on the work of Adele Faber and Elaine Mazlish. The first recommendation they give in dealing with sibling rivalry is that brothers and sisters need to have their feelings about each other acknowledged. When children say they hate each other, wish the other were never born, and other negative statements, parents are often quick to say, "You didn't mean that," or "You don't hate your brothers, tell him you love him." As upsetting as it might be to hear one child's rage toward another, it is important for parents to allow its expression. Kept repressed, the feelings may reappear in other forms, such as physical symptoms, emotional problems, or they may simply intensify to a more explosive act.

Parent's need to acknowledge their children's feelings, including the negative ones. They can do this with words that identify the feelings (You sound angry), by describing what the child wishes at that moment (You wish your brother wasn't around right now), or by involving the child in a symbolic or creative activity (beating a pillow or drawing a picture of how they feel). By acknowledging the feelings and allowing them to be expressed, parents begin to diffuse the situation and will have better success at resolving the conflict.

The paradox is this: Insisting upon good feelings between children leads to bad feelings. Allowing for bad feelings between children leads to good feelings.

The next parenting seminar will be held Thursday, Nov. 16, at 7 p.m. at the Bethlehem Public Library Community Room. The topic will be Age-appropriate Behavior. For more information call 439-7740.

Saint

times, I'd be working for two months and then I'd be home for four," she said.

Saint's children are both married, and she has two grandchildren. "I worry about young people today," she said. "They seem to feel so much pressure. I see young actresses who've had face lifts at 30 and feel middle-aged at 35. I remember having a lot of bad days when I was young, but today many young people think they're not supposed to feel bad, maybe that's why so many of them are taking drugs."

Saint has traveled throughout the world, and is worried about the state of the country today. "I'm worried about the fate of America. I get a sense that our country is spiraling into oblivion," she said. "We seem to think that money is everything. I just returned from Italy, where people close up their shops at midday and go home to see their families. They seem to understand how important the family is."

Eva Marie Saint has achieved fame and has accomplished what she set out to do after her graduation from Bowling Green. She has the respect of her peers, and more importantly, the respect of her husband and two children. She has received an Academy Award and has been nominated for two Emmy Awards, but does she regret anything?

"There was a doll house that my father made for my sister and I," she said. "When I grew up, I heard that the doll house was donated to one of the elementary schools in Delmar. I don't know what happened to the house, but it's special to me because my father made it. I don't know if it's around any more, but I'd love to get it back. I'd love to give it to my two grandchildren. That would mean a lot to me."

Unlike many of her other classmates, Delmar resident Janet Jones has seen Saint in person since they graduated.

"Quite a few years ago I saw her doing summer stock at the Ogunquit Playhouse in Maine," Jones said. "More recently I saw her perform in a play in Stockbridge. Both times I went backstage with my husband and visited with her. She was very cordial—as though we'd seen each other the day before. We're all delighted to see how well she's done, and we'll always remember her acceptance speech the year she won the Oscar and said hello to that 'good old Bethlehem Central.'"

Lois Bub of Elsmere didn't know Saint very well in her Bethlehem Central days, but she has fond memories of their most recent encounter. "I was driving by my son's house on Euclid Avenue," she said, "when I noticed a white limousine parked in front. . . A woman was peering into one of his windows, so I decided to check it out and we stopped our car. Well, the woman was Eva Marie Saint, and she explained that she had lived there once. She was with her husband. They were both delightful. I took them around to the back so she could see where she used to play. I had a key to the house and brought them inside. Much of the house had been renovated, but she remembered that the upstairs linoleum had been the same as when she was a girl."

Bub and Saint spent about a half-hour reminiscing. "She saw a picture of my red-headed daughter-in-law, and she told me that she had a red-headed grand daughter. She took some pictures of the home and of us together. A few weeks later she sent a letter to my daughter-in-law and included a few photos with it."

According to Bub, Saint has not changed, despite her accomplishments.

"She is still beautiful, and you can't help but like her. She still has a great personality," she said. Perhaps a fitting way to remember the woman that Bethlehem's class of 1942 picked as having the perfect high school girl's charm.

Little did they know where it would lead her.

Performances for students scheduled

Children in grades K-5 will see three in-school performances this year, sponsored by The Elementary Children Theatre Committee. Performances are scheduled in the Bethlehem Central Middle School and high school auditoriums.

Why I like to commute:

- ✓ I don't have anything better to do with those 46 minutes a day.
- ✓ I like to see if I can still find KDKA on my car's radio.
- ✓ Waiting in line at the stop lights and roadblocks helps me to be more patient.
- ✓ By running out of the house in the mornings I can avoid K.P.
- ✓ I like to read cute bumper stickers and vanity plates.
- ✓ Now that winter's coming, I can look forward to that good old scraping and shoveling. (Alternatively, I don't mind standing on the corner waiting for the bus to show up.)
- ✓ I really don't have anything better to do with those 46 minutes, and anyway I hate the idea of walking down the street to work.

If you agree with 5 or more of those great reasons, you're a born commuter and won't be interested in what Capital Hill Condominiums has to offer you.

BUT if you aren't so sure about your life as commuter, give us a call. We will be happy to tell you about Capital Hill, the newly opened condo in midtown Albany (the one with the lovely appointments, spacious comfort, security, strolling convenience to the Plaza and all manner of offices and businesses.)

Capital Hill Condominiums are available today for purchase from $58,500 to $144,000, plus some great penthouses, slightly higher, with ready mortgages, and nominal inclusive monthly carrying charges (heat, taxes, common fees) that start at $188.76.

From your aerie at 352 State Street (corner of Lark) you can forget all about the wonders of commuting. You'll be able to spend those 46 minutes impressing your friends and associates with how shrewd you were in latching on to such a great deal.

Call Mary at 426-8111 and make an appointment to visit an apartment that'll steal your heart.

Capital Hill Condominiums, Inc.

The complete terms are in an Offering Plan available from the sponsor. File No. (1)-89-0085

Just Around the Corner

★ Chrysler Motors and People Magazine honor Marshall's Garage Inc., Ravena, NY as one of the five "Top Dealers In America." Marshall's is one of the "Best of the Best" in the most important criterion of all ... Customer Satisfaction.

Marshall's was nominated by Chrysler Motors and independently judged by the Michigan State University of Business under a grant provided by People Magazine as noted in the October 23, 1989 issue. Marshall's is a proven "People Pleaser." And part of the reason Chrysler Motors has the highest customer satisfaction of domestic passenger cars for the third year in a row.

MARSHALL'S SAYS...

Way to go Chrysler-Plymouth!
