No holds barred in supervisor race

By Mike Larabee

Among their other differences, Herbert Reilly and Harry Van Wormer disagree over who threw the first stone in this year's race for New Scotland town supervisor.

Reilly, incumbent Democrat running for a third two-year term, says Republicans have tried to make him appear personally responsible for the problems of a board they control by a 3-2 majority. But Van Wormer argues Reilly is the one doing the finger pointing in an effort to evade responsibility that properly belongs in the supervisor's office.

Reilly, who admits he is physically tired, said "the gloves have come off" in a battle against a candidate he said has run the most active campaign against him of the three he has experienced.

"The gloves are off only because Van Wormer is making accusations that are unfounded, and I have to respond to them," he said, accusing the Republican GOP chairman of "half-truths, mistruths and actual lies."

The "half-truths," Reilly said, are arguments that he should bear blame for slow movement this year in budget adjustments, the Clarksville water district and other areas, despite the fact the town board is controlled by a 3-2 Republican majority.

As for "lies," Reilly points to Van Wormer's claim that he is a licensed real estate agent, arguing Van Wormer's license became invalid when he left Century 21 earlier this year. Van Wormer shrugs off the charge, saying he left work to run for supervisor full time and that his license is good until December 1992. "If he spent as much time on town business as these details, he'd be doing a great job," Van Wormer said.

Van Wormer maintains he's tried to stay positive and issue-oriented throughout the campaign, and says it's Reilly who's trying to run the race on personal attacks.

"What he's trying to do is sucker me," Van Wormer said. "I've been very careful to keep this a clean campaign, because he's spending more time himself on finding negatives." He said the criticisms he's made have been directed against "the supervisor," as distinguished from Reilly as a person.

"Herb Reilly is a very nice guy," Van Wormer said. "I won't fight that. But as supervisor he can't do the job. What he's trying to do, and I won't have it done, is tie the two together."

"They're not connected," he said.

Though town party enrollment figures fall in the Republicans' favor, the numbers are improving for Democrats. When Reilly was first elected, the GOP held a 481-voter edge. The margin now, according to

Gunner: 396 ban just a start

By Susan Wheeler

A resolution to ban tractor-trailers on Route 396 is only the beginning of what needs to be done over the long haul according to Bethlehem town council member Charles Gunner.

Last week, the board unanimously voted to recommend to the state Department of Transportation that tractor-trailer traffic be banned on Route 396, but the resolution, presented by Gunner, also calls for DOT to implement the development of plans for a Route 396 bypass. Gunner said the resolution outlines short-term solutions to the problem while the bypass is being planned. Banning truck traffic from the roadway is a necessary short-term answer. "We need to keep the heat on the Department of Transportation ... to take action," he said. "The road needs close attention."

Interim measures included reducing the speed limit from 30 mph to 20 to 25 mph, adding state troopers to enforce the new limit and developing sidewalks along the state right-of-way in the hamlet of Selkirk, according to the resolution.

"The Department of Transportation has not taken Route 396 seriously, or given it a low priority," Gunner said. "It's a long-term problem. We need to solve it right, or else we'll be sitting there in two to three years with the same problem."

Suit filed on landfill forms

By Susan Wheeler

Selkirk resident Michael J. Murphy Friday filed papers in state Supreme Court against the City of Albany to have property owners' survey forms regarding the ANSWERS regional landfill siting process made public.

Murphy, who is also attorney for Citizens Lobby for Alternative Waste Solutions, a grass-roots organization against ANSWERS, wants access to forms which city officials in mid-June asked landowners to fill out. CLAWS and Murphy are trying to determine those property owners that will allow ANSWERS representatives on their land.

Murphy, of Beaver Dam Road, said he was denied access to the forms. A Freedom of Information request Murphy filed in July was denied.

Harold H. Greenstein, Freedom of Information appeals officer for the city, denied Murphy's appeal in September.

Ravena schools move to whole language study

By Regina Bulman

Drilling school children on ABC's and reading about Dick, Jane and Spot is a thing of the past in Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk elementary classrooms.

The district has moved from a more traditional reading method to a whole language learning process, according to Nancy Andress, RCS director of instructional services. Andress and A.W. Becker Principal Diane Kilfoile made a presentation to the board of education recently about the progress of the district's new reading program.

According to Andress the district started making the move away from the more traditional teaching technique, called the Basal reading method, four years ago. The Basal technique involves drills on letter formation and phonics, worksheets and isolated sentences or paragraphs highlighting particular words or sentence structure.

Andress says the new goal is to create a literary environment which teaches children reading, writing, listening and speaking skills with more creativity and imagination. The key is reading with meaning.

In slides Andress and Kilfoile presented to the board, a variety of learning activities were featured. On a visit into any of the district's elementary school classrooms on any given day, Kilfoile said one could find a teacher reading to a group of students gathered on a carpet in a reading circle, two students reading a book they selected from the library together, older children reading to a group of younger children, or a beginning reader reading to a group of older children.

"There is reading going on in many different forms all the time," Kilfoile said. "We also talk about reading as a daily activity. We talk about what kids like to read at home and what their parents read."

Kilfoile said children are encouraged to draw pictures to explain what they have read and reading topics are used as a theme for teaching many other subjects such as history, science and math.

Writing is also a major focus and children are encouraged to keep journals, experiment with poetry, brainstorm ideas and write drafts.

To chart a child's progress, teachers have been putting together work portfolios, which may include drawings, writing samples or a list of books the child has completed. The portfolios are designed to be passed along to parents and the pupil's next teacher.

Budget hearing set

The Bethlehem Town Board will hold a preliminary budget hearing, scheduled for tonight (Wednesday), Oct. 30, at 7:30 p.m. in town hall.

Full slate to participate in forum

By Mike Larabee

Despite undergoing open heart surgery just three weeks ago, Democratic New Scotland council hopeful Richard Decker said Saturday he believes he will be able to participate in a candidate forum at Voorheesville high school of Sunday, Oct. 3.

If Decker attends, that means all six of this year's town council and supervisor candidates will take part in an event that two weeks ago was in danger of degenerating into a one-party affair.

"It's my intention to be there," Decker said. But he added he couldn't say with absolute certainty that he will be well enough. "There's a lot of healing yet to do," he said. "I'm coming along. Everything is fine."

Decker had heart valve surgery in Boston on Oct. 10. He would have preferred to postpone the date until after the election, he said, but chose to go ahead because the surgeon who performed the operation wouldn't have been available again until February.

Milena Leukhardt, voter service chairperson of the Albany County League of Women Voters, which will conduct the forum, said Saturday the other five candidates have agreed to participate.

Planners approve Elsmere development

By Susan Wheeler

In a 4-1 vote the Bethlehem Planning Board recently gave section one of Colonial Woodlands, an 11-acre subdivision proposed for Elsmere, conditional final plat approval.

The vote came following board member Gary Swan's advice to make a decision, however difficult. "We need to bite the bullet and acknowledge we have a rational problem that requires a rational response," he said.

While newly-appointed board member Doris Davis, who prior to her appointment organized opposition to the development as it was originally planned, refused to vote on the action, board member Marcia Nelson said she never liked the plan "from the beginning" and also abstained. Board member John LaForte, who voted against the development's revised layout in April, cast the negative vote.

Colonial Woodlands is planned for a parcel on the south side of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, east of Rose Court and north of Greenleaf Drive in a Residential A zoning district.

Before voting on the proposed 29-lot subdivision, the board discussed the development's street layout and names, tree preservation plan and construction on traffic roads. Chairman Martin Barr reminded the board that the vote should reflect whether the plan before them was in "substantial agreement" with the plan which was granted preliminary approval in mid-April. "The purpose of conditional final is not to re-evaluate what was approved at the preliminary approval," Barr said.

Delmar land surveyor Lindsay Boutelle, whose firm is representing Albany developers Carl Paulsen and Swift Development Corp., said the developers have retained a professional forester who will identify trees for preservation and to move valuable trees in accordance with a prior commitment to do so. "We will mark those to keep so the lot has good coverage," he said.

Town Planning Consultant Edward Kleinke suggested the board set forth guidelines that give the developer and forester direction about what trees to retain.

After much discussion, the board voted to recommend changing the name of Poplar Drive from Elsmere Avenue to just past Rose Court to Blanchard Drive.

In addition, the board addressed residents' concern about the impact of construction equipment on existing streets. The board did not identify specific streets to be used for construction traffic.

From 6 to 6:30 p.m., league members will accept and review questions submitted by audience members.

The supervisor candidates will speak first, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. There will be 10 minutes for opening statements (five minutes for each candidate), 44 minutes for questions, answers and rebuttal and 6 minutes for closing statements (three minutes for each candidate.)

The council candidates forum will follow a 15 minute break for refreshments and will be conducted under a similar format. The council forum is scheduled to run from 7:45 to 9 p.m.

Albany resident Aimee Allaud will moderate the event. Jan Livingston of Guilderland will be timekeeper.

The New Scotland forum is one of 11 conducted by the Albany County chapter of the League of Women Voters this year, Leukhardt said.

Retiring Tanner's expertise lauded

By Susan Wheeler

Bethlehem Central School District Transportation Department Supervisor Gardiner Tanner, who is retiring, is a gentleman who has enjoyed his job and his expertise, say district officials, will be missed.

Tanner, who has been with the district since 1952 and supervisor since 1972, spent 14 years as a bus driver, then moved on to head mechanic. From there he supervised the transportation department and watched the district grow.

"It's been quite a job," the Clarksville resident said. "Any job you enjoy you don't look at as a tough job. I never thought of it as a tough job. And I've done it to the best of my ability."

Superintendent Leslie Loomis said the district's tradition of transportation safety and service is due "in large measure" to Tanner's leadership. Through the years Tanner has built "an operation dedicated to serving the students of the district in the very best way," he said. "He's a gentleman, a person whose values symbolize what this community is about. We're going to miss him in every way."

Tanner said his years as bus driver are memorable, especially because he enjoyed seeing the children "first thing in the morning and last thing at night." He said he could tell when some of the kids got on the bus upset. "I'd talk to them, in a second parent type of way," he said. "I'd help set them straight."

Years later, when dining in restaurants with his wife, Virginia,

Gardiner Tanner

Tanner said he has been approached by individuals who know him. It turns out they rode on his school bus through the Glenmont and VanWie Point areas. He said he treated the children who rode on his bus "fair, but didn't let them get away with murder."

When Tanner began in the district, there were just six district bus drivers. Two buses were assigned to cover the Glenmont area for elementary school pupils. The district has undergone changes during the years, gaining pupils in some areas and losing them in others, he said.

The district, 52 square miles, now has 56 buses to cover its 49 routes, according to Tanner. Seven to eight buses currently cover the Glenmont area. While Delmar proper has grown, the Euclid Avenue area, once full of elementary school age children, now has just a few, he said.

As department supervisor, Tanner's responsibilities include purchasing new equipment and buses, as well as overseeing bus maintenance. He said because the state Department of Transportation inspects each bus every six months on a rotated schedule, inspections are performed every month. He also spent time updating himself and department personnel on new regulations, he said.

According to Franz Zwicklbauer, assistant superintendent in charge of business, the district will miss Tanner's expertise. He noted that Tanner's knowledge of buses and bus repair led the district to complete repairs itself, saving money through the years.

"Gardiner is very dedicated to the district and very loyal," he said. "He ran the department as if it was his own. He was very particular about where the money was spent."

The biggest regulation change Tanner said he saw through the years were the regulations regarding drivers. Earlier years were more lenient than they are today, he said. Drivers must participate in a pre-service training course and a 20-hour course during the first year of service, he said. They must also become certified by the Department of Motor Vehicles and pass annual and biannual tests, he said.

Despite the stricter regulations, many of the drivers who begin in the district remain there for most or all of their careers, Tanner said. "Most of the drivers that come there don't leave."

Two other department personnel are retiring. Among the three there is approximately 100 years of service, according to Tanner.

One of his reasons for staying in the district for 39 years is the people, Tanner said. "I don't know if I could have worked in a better area," he said, noting that parents and employees are "good people."

With more free time on his hands, Tanner, a charter member of the Bethlehem Traffic Safety Committee, said he'll continue with hobbies such as carpentry, furniture refinishing and hiking. He said when he was a bus driver he did carpentry work during the summer. Now he can begin taking on little jobs again.

Tanner and his wife, a noon-hour aide at Clarksville Elementary School, have planned on taking "side trips," possibly to visit one of their two sons in Phoenix, Ariz.

However, for Tanner, "There's no place like home. My roots are here."

BC graduate honored

Slingerlands resident and 1991 Bethlehem Central High School graduate Kristen Jones has been selected to the Prince/NHSACA Girls High School Tennis All-America Honorable Mention Team for 1991.

The honor is in recognition of outstanding performance in high school interscholastic tennis competition. Jones was the Section II doubles champion for two years and was the runner-up in the Section II singles championship.

Jones is now attending the University of Illinois on a tennis scholarship.

Library conducts tall tale contest

Do you like to stretch the truth? If so, Register by Monday, Nov. 4 for the "Taller Tale" contest at Bethlehem Public Library.

The library wants to find out if you can tell a taller tale than those you read. An appointment will be made for a videotaped reading of your tale on Monday, Nov. 11. Our TV studio staff will then combine the tall tales with music and pictures.

Invite others to a "Friday Nite Sneak Preview," with popcorn, at 7 p.m. on Nov. 15. The contest is limited to 10 participants. Families with school age children are welcome to come to the sneak preview. Register by calling 439-9314.

While at the library, don't forget to toss a wish for a favorite book into the wishing hat. A lucky wisher will be announced after a drawing at the sneak preview.

The raffle is open to children ages 2 to 13, who live in the library service area. There is a limit of one wish per child.

BC play wins honor

Last year's Bethlehem Central High School production of "The Tempest," directed by James Yeara, has been named first runner-up in the Shakespeare category of Bravo's 1990-91 National High School Theater competition.

The top three entries were selected in each of three categories — Shakespeare, Gilbert and Sullivan and original. Portions of these winning performances will be shown on Bravo's ArtsBreak program on Sunday, Nov. 3, at 7 p.m.

Matters of Opinion

Down to the wire

If you were to take the daily newspaper's reporting seriously, you might be persuaded that the most significant contest is in one Albany district, but that's far from the case in these 1991 elections.

The nature of Albany County's government is at issue in the County Executive contest between Republican Michael Hoblock and Democrat Robert Lyman. As is true in all races on which our readers must make a choice, The Spotlight has presented the credentials and arguments for the candidates evenhandedly in the confident belief that an informed voter is capable of selecting those who most closely reflect his or her expectations.

In the County Executive election, Mr. Hoblock has been able to seize the aggressor's role, putting the Lyman campaign on the defensive for the greater part. The Coyne legacy has provided that opportunity. How effective the Republican strategy will prove to be is problematical, but it appears certain that Mr. Hoblock will do better than past candidates for the office.

Just as evidently, Republican hopes of materially improving the party's representation in the County Legislature are falling short of early aspirations. Individual candidates have rarely exhibited the attractiveness and credibility that would be needed to overturn Democratic incumbents throughout the county. Pointing up the Republican Party's lack of overall leadership within the county is

At the top of the ballot

As a Spotlight editorial noted last week, the Nov. 5 ballot will lead off with three propositions on which we are asked to vote.

Each obviously comes before the voters with a background of considerable support, else they would not have been passed by the State Legislature on two different occasions. But, inevitably, one person's "good idea" is someone else's "terrible idea."

Proposition One proposes that the Job Development Authority receive a 50 percent increase in its bonding powers, the better to finance facilities that could improve employment opportunities in New York. It was the subject of last week's Point of View column by Secretary of State Gail Shaffer, who wrote in favor of its approval. The "Establishment"—government and business—supports the JDA amendment, but late accounts suggest that past accomplishments with JDA funds are somewhat less than advertised.

Environment and conservation organizations take the "terrible idea" approach to Proposition Two. A letter from the Sierra Club, published on our editorial page last week, denounced it as "ill-conceived, unnecessary, and contrary to the very existence of the Forest Preserve."

Proposition 3, about which there has been considerably less noise, is said to be supported by a broad spectrum of citizens, both those who make use of the state's canal system and others of us who are relatively disinterested (see Peter Wiles' Vox Pop letter). The proposition involves changing concepts about barge canal lands and fees that are charged. Creation of a fund that would restrict proceeds of fees and tolls to maintaining the canals seems to take the curse off the proposed tolls.

Editorials

the absence of a Republican candidate in the 14th legislative district, where Richard Meyers' is the only name on the ballot.

On the other hand, the presence of a woman on the Republican ticket—Monica Bell is seeking to win the county comptroller-ship—is considered by some to be a plus not only for her own prospects but for the ticket's.

In local elections, Bethlehem Supervisor Ringler, seeking reelection for the first time, has shown even more than the customary Republican resiliency. His "management by objectives" administration is in a strong position.

Bethlehem Democrats, however, should be congratulated for having brought forward a complete ticket composed of residents willing to comment on a variety of topics. To their credit, they have not waged a one-note campaign.

New Scotland's electoral turmoil, reflected in the desperate—and ludicrous—campaign both parties are waging along roadsides, probably will not provide that severely divided town with a long-term solution this year. Personal antagonisms tend to overwhelm legitimate concerns and place the benefits of all the rancorous electioneering in doubt.

Here are the ways the propositions will appear before you on the voting machine next week (slightly edited here in the interest of clarity).

Proposition One

Shall the proposed amendment to Section 8 of Article X of the Constitution be approved, to increase from $600 million to $900 million the maximum for which the Legislature may make the State the guarantor of bonds issued by a public corporation such as the Job Development Authority, to assist in financing construction acquisition, rehabilitation or other eligible facilities, to improve employment opportunities in the state?

Proposition Two

The proposed amendment to Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution would authorize the state to convey to the Town of Arietta 50 acres of forest preserve land within the town for public use in providing for extension of the runway and landing strip of Piseco airport and providing for maintenance of a clear zone around the runway. In exchange the town would convey to the state 53 acres of forest land. Shall the proposed amendment be approved?

Proposition Three

The proposed amendment to Article 15 of the Constitution would: (1) authorize the state to grant leases for occupancy or use of barge canal lands; (2) require that all funds derived from disposition of any barge canal lands be paid into a special revenue fund of the treasury which shall be expended only for maintenance, constructions, etc., of the canal; (3) delete the prohibition against tolls on persons or property transported on the canals. Shall the proposed amendment be approved?

Do police really need semi-automatic pistols?

Editor, The Spotlight:

Maybe I've missed something but I don't remember seeing any coverage in The Spotlight in recent years of incidents involving the use of weapons by our local police officers—certainly nothing to justify their request for semi-automatic pistols that would allow for more rapid firing and quicker reload.

My concern for such an expenditure by the Town Board does not reflect any disapproval or lack of appreciation for the responsibilities we place on our police.

I have great respect for our police department and recognize the value of appropriate protection. I cannot, however, see the need for semi-automatic weapons for a police force that seldom, if ever, is called upon to defend it.

The third 'Tri-Village'?

Never forget ELSMERE

Editor, The Spotlight:

What is the "Tri-Village"? I used to think "Delmar, Elsmere, and Slingerlands." But few recognize "ELSMERE" anymore. They took down the sign entering ELSMERE from Albany. A new store describes its location as just over the bridge in Delmar. (I don't know of a bridge to go over in Delmar). A policeman told me they don't recognize "ELSMERE." A drug-store employee, in ELSMERE, thought I was kidding when I told him the store is in ELSMERE. Even the ELSMERE Fire Department lists its address as Delmar.

Personally, I like to maintain the history of the area I grew up in. I live in ELSMERE. My mailing zip code (12054-1219) brings my mail to me. Only the "Tri-Village Directory" lists addresses according to location and not where the post office is located.

Start a new trend! Recognize ELSMERE!

self from any gunfire. It's easy to say that the criminals have these weapons and therefore our police officers should have them too, but perhaps we should look at the reality of life in Bethlehem and decide that arming our police with semi-automatic weapons is not in keeping with our lifestyle.

An expenditure of some $11,000 for unnecessary and unwanted firepower should be given greater consideration and should not be approved simply because we can probably afford it.

Donors to 'Pit' are commended

Editor, The Spotlight:

The board of directors of The Pit, Inc., would like to express its gratitude to the Main Square Merchants Association and J.A. Stone Construction Co., Inc., for their generous contributions to the start-up and operational costs of The Pit.

Located in Bethlehem Central Middle School, The Pit is a recreational area for our Middle School youth, complete with three pool tables, two Ping-Pong tables, music, snack bar, graffiti wall, and space just to "hang out."

The Main Square Merchants and Stone Construction are to be commended for their generosity and commitment to our youth. Any other businesses or individuals wishing to contribute can send checks to The Pit, c/o BOU, Box 492, Delmar 12054.

Will the real prince stand up?

I frequently envy the friend of mine who suffers neither radio nor television within his Albany dwelling, regularly consults no daily paper, and in fact confines his newspaper reading to what his Spotlight subscription brings him.

This has spared him from the indecisiveness of our Governor, Mr. Cuomo, on whether to be or not to be a candidate for the presidency. He is likewise able to miss the persistent speculation in the press about the state of the Governor's mind. (A "media feeding frenzy," it is described in The New York Times.) Otherwise astute correspondents scurry about for dropped hints like so many biddy hens scouring the turf for corn and worms.

In his day, Adlai E. Stevenson was derided for his characteristic hesitancy and "either/or" approach to decisions. But Mr. Stevenson's dithering amounted to steadfast pursuit of his goals, in comparison with the seven-year itch that has publicly afflicted Mr. Cuomo ever since he won all that applause for his address to the party's convention in 1984.

Am I worthy? Isn't there anyone better equipped to run? How can I be sure of that? Would I be equal to the presidency? What of my responsibility as Governor? If I run, should I resign?

Uncle Dudley

Those are a few of the soul-searching meditations that we are told the Governor is carrying on in private—though they have in fact regularly spilled over into public awareness and conjecture.

The Democrats have been yodeling "Some Day Our Prince Will Come" for so long that a personality with Mr. Cuomo's vinegary vigor does indeed seem princelike in a swamp full of frogs.

Now we are led to believe that at least by the rising of the next full moon he will have vanquished vacillation. In the highest tradition of the lamas, he will summon the questing faithful to Mansion Hill, and there reveal the fruits of seven years' meditation.

William Safire, the conservative-oriented observer, has devoted one of his famous columns—accounts from within the head of another person—to analyzing Mr.

Cuomo's own presumed assessment of the outlook—all on the positive side. But in conclusion Safire/Cuomo asks, "What am I waiting for?" When Safire is being Safire, not Cuomo, his prose is full of barbs; one interpretation of this question is that he's speculating that within the Cuomo head are reasons for genuine reluctance and not merely more games to tease the press and pols.

Quite a different scenario has the Governor somehow able to continue his Hamlet-like diffidence right up to next summer's convention. At that point, this supposition goes, the frogs will be so discredited that an insistent call will go out for the prince. By acclamation—the delegates' demand for The Man Who to say "yes"—Mr. Cuomo will dramatically emerge like a rodeo cowboy plunging out of the chute. One version of this scenario has it that all this is to be staged with the connivance of the party's leaders, whoever they may be.

But do you suppose that the Kennedys will stand by and let a mere in-law assume the mantle as keeper of the flame? Better Arnold Schwarzenegger, some may say.

Chocolates and other compulsions

Conservatively reckoned, at least 50 catalogs have arrived in our mailbox this month. October is not really a typical month for catalogs, since it's the beginning of the Yuletide. And though there's a letup in the supply in some other months, just think of what's about to arrive in the next several weeks.

Without question, catalogs have become the most reliable reading matter in many houses like mine. Family and friends may forget to write; publishers may keep irregular delivery schedules—but the entrepreneurs behind those catalogs can be counted on to keep 'em coming. (Who cares about the ultimate impact on the landfill—catalogs provide the stuff of dreams for the moment and for the early hours.) As a writer expressed it recently, "Catalogs are the source books for the trees and roses I will scatter through the countryside, the castles I will build in the air, and the chocolate-covered chocolate truffles I will hide beneath my pillow."

That quote is from Jeanine Larmoth, who wrote a nicely

In its October issue, "Mirabella" offers a short feature on catalog buying, noting that 54 percent of adult Americans shopped by mail in 1990, responding to 13.6 billion catalogs sent. Among the observations: Catalogs are giving space, money, and time to protecting the out-of-doors and are offering products for those concerned with the environmental consequences of what they consume, such as The Body Shop's botanically based hair and skin-care items.

crafted piece in the October "Town and Country," calling it "The Catalog Compulsion." The issue of that magazine is now passe, but you'd be rewarded by looking it up, in the library if need be.

"Today, looking at catalogs takes far more than a few days in spring, fall, and winter. It's an all-season occupation," she writes. "As the year moves toward Christmas and the days get shorter, so does my workday. I cannot possibly begin working until the rubble of mail is, at least, organized to be gone over in the evening."

"What if I miss something?" she thinks apprehensively rather than toss the catalogs immediately. This is true (for her, probably for all of us) even though we never make any purchases, never intend to, and can't imagine a use for much of the merchandise, much less spending $425 for a framed sepia print of Sam Snead lining up a putt or $295 for a "vintage leather baseball glove" framed in a shadow box. Or even $4,200 for a "bomber jacket" leather sofa.

Ms. Larmoth milks just about every thought about catalogs that you might imagine. A key question arises during her exhaustive discussion:

"The mystery is not why I'm getting catalogs so much as why I'm getting the catalogs I'm getting." In other words, "Who sold my name?" She finds a clue to the avalanche of wholesomeness that descends "from Vermont or some other bedrock New England state where the only kind of public seating is cracker barrels"—these, she suspects, are branches off an L.L. Bean tree. She figures this out because Bean sends her a dozen or more annually even though she buys very little; so "Bean can hardly be blamed for wanting to get its money back somewhere."

Around our house the most flagrant repeaters have to be Talbot's (a new one just about every 10 days), Horchow's, and Neiman Marcus. But as I write this, I have an assortment at my left hand: Smith and Hawken, Tweeds, Hold Everything, F.A.O. Schwarz, Best Sellers, Tiffany, Saks Fifth, Bergdorf, Blooming's, Magnin, Magnum, Gardener's Eden, Hammacher, Pottery Barn, Williams-Sonoma, Anyone Can Whistle, J. Crew, Lillian Vernon, Eddie Bauer, The Paragon, and not to overlook American Express.

In the real world, perhaps the best of all are the museum shop offerings—the Metropolitan's, for instance, and the Museum of Fine Arts. No castles in the air, really, or even chocolate truffles, but quietly pleasing oddments for—relatively speaking—tuppence.

Not too late, I hope, to mention that the October "Gourmet" offers a full page of recipes for using cider in this great season. Included: Apple cider Indian pudding, cider cupcakes with cider cream cheese filling, mulled cider sorbet, warm cider and bacon dressing, mulled cider with orange and ginger, and cider, onion, and raisin chutnev.

Democracy that works:
The school board

The contributor of this Point of View is superintendent of the Bethlehem Central School District, a position he has held since July 1987.

By Leslie G. Loomis

Governor Mario Cuomo has proclaimed the week of Oct. 28-Nov. 1 School Board Recognition Week. In his words, "School boards are the voice of their communities, serving the interest of school children and preparing them for the future." Since the early 1800s, boards of education have been providing leadership in New York State's school districts.

From the vantage point of the superintendent's role, I want to offer some observations about the institution and the individuals whom we honor during School Board Recognition Week.

Before going further, let me be honest and state that the seven members of the Bethlehem Central Board of Education are my bosses. While this is a concept which is difficult to convey to the district's elementary students, it is something I have no trouble keeping in mind.

Any superintendent will tell you that it is not always easy to work with the school board, but I am convinced that the board represents a form of governance which serves our students and communities well. At a time when Americans are critical of certain aspects of our democratic system, the school board symbolizes democracy that works.

I can think of no other democratic institution which is so directly accountable to various constituencies. School board elections and the yearly budget vote tie board members to the voters. Since our parents are articulate communicators and since our teachers are the key to quality education, school board members also listen carefully to these constituents.

Seldom are the needs and views of the adults who have a stake in education neatly aligned. Perhaps the delicate balance of democracy in a school district is most clearly evident at budget time. When finances are tight, as they are right now, school board members are caught in a vise between the needs of the students on the one side and the limitations of the taxpayers on the other. Money is not the only source of conflict on the school board agenda, however; redistricting, personnel problems, and union issues also test the school board's skill and stamina.

In the face of all this, why does anyone want the job? It is not the dollars—school board members work for free. Every board member whom I have known serves with one central purpose in mind: to make a difference for children. This motivation draws some of the community's most talented and committed individuals to the school board.

Bethlehem Central is blessed, as are communities throughout the state and nation, with school board members of vision and capability. The seven members of the BC Board of Education come from Harvard and Yale, from the university system and State government, from the business sector and the classroom. Bill Collins, Bernie Harvith, Lynne Lenhardt, Dennis Stevens, George Sussman, Peter Trent, and Pam Williams represent the district and the community with competency and class. Above all else, the institution of the school board attracts individuals of unquestioned integrity.

Because the superintendent's role involves constant interaction with the board, I am aware of the imperfections of the system, but in much greater measure, I am aware of the system's success. On the occasion of School Board Recognition Week, I hope you will take a moment to honor the contributions of your school board members. They are part of an enduring democratic tradition that works.

Town Board tax record, role cited by Ringler

Editor, The Spotlight:

As the campaign for Town Supervisor draws to a close, I would like to thank my opponent, Bill McGarry, for conducting his campaign in a manner which is representative of the Town of Bethlehem. I have always felt that the residents of Bethlehem can disagree without being disagreeable and, I think, our campaign has demonstrated that to be the case.

I do, however, have to comment on recent statements by my opponent. In a Spotlight interview, Mr. McGarry indicated that the town government should "look into the jurisdiction on school taxes and find out why it costs people so much in school taxes." By law, the Town Board has no jurisdiction over school districts within our town; they are separate governmental entities. The school districts are accountable to the public through their elected school board. In addition, our residents are allowed to vote on the school budget each year. To interfere in the school district budget would be improper and illegal.

My opponent has also called for a change, citing recent tax bills as a reason for change in the Town of Bethlehem. Perhaps there has been some misunderstanding on his part since our town tax bill also includes the county tax allocation each year. During the five years that he is pointing to, the county tax has increased from $25.91 to $43.46 per thousand, a total of 68 percent or 13 percent per year. In the Town of Bethlehem, the town-wide taxes for the general fund and highway were $26.43 in 1987 and $30.81 in 1991, a 16 percent increase or 3.2 percent per year. Perhaps these facts explain why there is momentum for change at the county level rather than in the Town of Bethlehem.

Our residents should be assured that, as Supervisor, with the support of the Town Board, we will monitor the expenses of the Town of Bethlehem very carefully and will continue to provide the services that our residents expect in the most economical manner possible.

Kenneth J. Ringler, Jr.

Food Pantry receives Main Square donations

Editor, The Spotlight:

Main Square's fourth annual Fall Festival on Oct. 13, was a great success even though it was held on the raindate. In spite of the windy weather everyone enjoyed a terrific day of food, music, and family fun.

Donations of money and food went to the Bethlehem Food Pantry which received over $900. Our thanks to all who attended and who made this event possible.

BCHS Class of '75 seeks help for a little girl's operation

Editor the Spotlight:

The Bethlehem Central High School Class of 1975 is seeking donations to a fund for Ashley Sellner, the daughter of Kent Sellner, one of our classmates. Ashley, who is three and one-half years old, has chronic myelocytic leukemia and needs a bone marrow transplant, which will be done in Boston. The costs will exceed $40,000 beyond what the Sellners' medical insurance will cover.

Ken and his wife, Cheryl, have two children and live in Clifton Park. Through his employer, Adirondack Beverage, and a local charitable organization, Karing for Kids, a fund has been set up for Ashley to help with costs of this procedure.

All money contributed will be used for Ashley. At Kent's request, an contributions that exceed the cost of the bone marrow transplant will be given to another child who may need money to offset similar expenses.

All checks should be made out to: Karing for Kids, and sent to Karing for Kids, c/o Randy Bombard, 701 Corporations Park, Scotia, N.Y. 12302. The assistance not only of classmates but of the public will be greatly appreciated.

Neighborhoods' concerns ignored by candidates

Editor, The Spotlight:

Where are the issues? As we scan the current election for Bethlehem Town Board, the campaign is absent of any discussion of issues that will affect the future residential character of this town. Two years ago, the candidacy of John Smolinsky centered on essential planning and development issues of concern to all residents. Mr. Smolinsky's advocacy of protecting the residential character of Bethlehem led to a most spirited campaign.

Mr. Smolinsky took a strong and well-articulated stance, arguing that what was good for the neighborhoods was good for the entire town. Although a Democrat, his views attracted voters of all persuasion. This gave rise to "Republicans for Smolinsky," which was deemed quite controversial in this Republican town.

His views and approach stand in sharp contrast to Democrats campaigning for Bethlehem Town Board this year, who talk of the need for development and rezoning of residential areas for commercial expansion. Mr. Smolinsky's candidacy offered hope at a time when Republicans were not generally addressing neighborhood concerns. This year, it would appear that neither Democrats nor Republicans are interested in planning and development issues. As a result, most voters appear not interested in the current campaigns.

While some may applaud the absence of a spirited campaign, it is an opportunity lost. Maybe voters who are concerned with the future of their neighborhoods will have a better chance two years from now. Maybe next time some candidates, Democrat or Republican, will reach out to the various neighborhood associations and seek their views on issues that affect them. This would be a significant difference from current circumstances where vote-seekers are telling the residents what changes they must accept and endure instead of asking what they want for their communities.

School board must cope with growing burdens

Editor, The Spotlight:

There has existed a structure to provide schooling for our children ever since the Mayflower dropped anchor at Plymouth Rock. It was not until just before the Civil War, however, that the use of a school board to govern our schools came into existence. Since the inception of local control of schools in 1647 in Massachusetts, public criticism of shortcomings in our educational system and their funding practices has become intense.

This changing environment has placed an unprecedented burden on the leadership in our state's schools. Substantial demands are being placed on available fiscal and human resources, and our Boards of Education are expected to cope with them.

The members of our respective school boards perform a job that demands more time, energy, and study than any traditional volunteer ever gives. Members are lay citizens who serve without remuneration and are responsible for the education for our children.

They are the link between the community that supports our schools and the professionals which conduct the schools. They must see and understand both sides and interpret each to the other.

Serving on a school board is one of the privileges of being an American and is one that our present members, C. James Coffin, John Cole, William Parmelee, Steven Schreiber, Judith Shearer, Thomas Thorpe, Jr., and Mary Van Ryn, readily accept because they know what is at stake... the preservation of our children's future.

As we observe School Board Recognition Week, I would like to express my appreciation to the members of the Board of Education of the Voorheesville Central School District, both past and present, for their enthusiasm and dedication to our children and community.

Alan R. McCartney

Voorheesville Central School District

Canal Proposition 3 'Yes' vote is favored

Editor, The Spotlight:

It is seldom that the Legislature, the bureaucracy, and the private sector come to an agreement. It seems that the best deals are those where all parties will benefit. The third proposition on the Nov. 5 ballot, concerning New York's Canal System is one of these rare events—almost as rare as an eclipse.

This proposition recognizes the canal system as an asset. The Legislature, in bipartisan fashion, is custodian of this asset. The public who uses the canal is overwhelmingly in favor of proposed user fees. When was the last time you heard of a taxpayer in favor of a tax? I doubt if that would be the case today except for the fact that the proposition mandates that the money received must go into a fund dedicated for canal use.

Non-users support the proposition because they will be relieved of some of the burden of maintaining that system.

New Scotland recycling policies gain defense

Editor, The Spotlight:

For two weeks, rash claims made by New Scotland Republican candidates have included me personally, therefore I must respond. Statements are being made that the cost of solid waste disposal in the town is exorbitant and can be reduced significantly by "a more aggressive recycling effort to reduce the volume of trash." Also it is claimed that we have "an inadequate solid waste and recycling program."

Since I am the recycling coordinator for the town and have been in that position for the past nine months, I know that the statements are irresponsible, providing campaign rhetoric without any basis in fact whatsoever.

Since January, the town has added to newspaper and plastic container recycling glass, tin cans, and corrugated. We are now recycling everything recyclable. In addition, the town is now being paid for certain types of glass and for plastics containers. Prior to January we were paying the recipients for taking our recyclables.

The recycling program is still in a voluntary status. It is acknowledged that greater volume of recyclables can be achieved by curbside pickup. This, however, requires more cost to accomplish than the revenue that would be realized, or the saving in tipping fees. Based on candidates' statements to the press, I believe it safe to say that they have not done their homework and probably know little to nothing about recycling and the relative costs involved in the entire solid waste disposal program. Their statements are made to influence the voters, irrespective of the substance in what they say, which is tantamount to an endeavor to pull the wool over our eyes.

I urge New Scotlanders to read all claims carefully and seek definitive proposals; do not be misled by scare tactics, name-calling, charges without proof, empty promises, and proliferation of campaign signs.

Accessibility of members, meeting is important

Editor, The Spotlight:

School Board Recognition Week is a good time for all of us to recognize our local school board of dedicated men and women who devote many hours and much effort on behalf of the children in the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Central School District.

I am probably in a better position than most to know of the time and energy school boards use in performing the required tasks. As if this were not enough, many boards—including our own—go well above and beyond what simply must be done. Their accessibility, their attempts to make board meetings more "public friendly," and their continuous engagement in activities to increase their own level of competence are most impressive.

In these days of shrinking resources and increased expectations of schools, board members must be particularly sensitive to community aspirations for education—along with the taxpayers' ability to pay. The challenge is a great one, and is met admirably by our school board.

As a school superintendent, as a parent, and as a taxpayer in our school district: "Thank you" to Wayne Fuhrman, Maurice Satin, Bill Craft, Jim Feuerbach, Sarah Hafensteiner, Barry Jones, Mona Selover, Mark Sengenberger, and Russ Sykes for a job well done. I know I speak for many when I tell you how much we appreciate your efforts in promoting excellence in education for all our children.

Your Opinion Matters Great! We're all invited to BMA's Pops Concert

Editor, The Spotlight:

The parents and faculty members of the Bethlehem Music Association take this opportunity to invite all the community to attend the first school concert of the year—the High School Pops Concert on Monday, Nov. 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the BCHS auditorium.

This annual event, which presents traditional and light concert music, features the award-winning Bethlehem High School wind ensemble, symphonic band, orchestra, choral groups, and jazz ensemble.

Tickets are available at the door, for a donation of $2. Senior citizens are invited without charge. Your donation helps defray expenses of the many Bethlehem musicians who have been selected to perform at the New York State School Music Association area all-state program. Refreshments will be available; proceeds from food sales augment the Bethlehem Music Association scholarship fund.

This is a wonderful opportunity to hear our outstanding young musicians perform, and we especially encourage families with younger musicians to come hear the accomplishments of our high school students!

Business Council backs amendment on JDA

Editor, The Spotlight:

On November 5, voters will have a perfect opportunity to help attract new businesses to New York State and to help companies already here to expand. Ballots will ask voters whether to allow the New York Job Development Authority (JDA) to provide $300 million more bonding authority to help stimulate growth and new jobs. Rather than cost taxpayers money, JDA's work pays off in new business activity and new employment. That's why the business community supports JDA so strongly.

Small and medium-sized manufacturers are the main beneficiaries of JDA financing, but they are by no means alone. Sheltered workshops, child-care centers, and other nonprofit groups have also used JDA financing to provide important jobs and services. Since its creation in 1961, the agency has helped meet the financing needs of more than 1,600 companies that employ more than 150,000 New Yorkers.

To help hold down new taxes, both Albany and Washington have reduced direct financial assistance to employers. That means the kind of help that JDA offers is more important than ever. The Business Council urges New Yorkers to "Vote Yes For Jobs" on Proposal Number One this Election Day.

Green arrow is perplexing

Editor, The Spotlight:

When the directional green arrow was installed a few months ago at "The Four Corners" in Delmar, I was among very many motorists, I'm sure, who welcomed it.

However, I note two odd aspects of the activating of the arrow for traffic heading north on Kenwood and approaching Delaware Avenue. In the first place, the green arrow follows the green light for all Kenwood traffic to move. The result is the traffic trying to turn left onto Delaware toward Albany still must wait for the southbound traffic to clear the intersection.

More frustrating (and dangerous) is the irregular discontinuance—on no apparent schedule, either—of the green arrow.

BETHLEHEM SUPERVISOR

DEMOCRAT

William F. McGarry, Jr.

A principal reason for my running for Supervisor in Bethlehem is the alarming rate at which our property taxes continue to escalate while the overall quality of life enjoyed by town residents deteriorates.

Over the past 20 years, the town has been allowed to grow haphazardly, with little or no thought to the consequences. The result has been increased traffic congestion, commercial development lacking in rhyme or reason, the absence of a competing supermarket, and inadequate and politically unacceptable solid waste program, and an overburdened residential tax base. All these conditions are attributable to poor planning and lack of initiative on the part of successive Republican administrations.

I don't pretend to have all the answers. However, it seems to me that some fundamental changes must be made if we are to retain the benefits of suburban living at a realistic cost.

To begin with, the town must reach some hard conclusions, and rather quickly, concerning the expansion of its tax base. This becomes all the more imperative in light of the lawsuit by Niagara Mohawk to reduce the tax assessment on its Bethlehem property.

Secondly, the town must resist the ever-present temptation to embark upon new and extravagant projects. I cite as two examples last year's proposal to construct a $6 million recreation facility and this year's proposal for a paid paramedic program.

More immediately, the town should adopt the optional five-year phase-in of the town-wide revaluation. This appears to be the fairest method of equalizing our tax rolls while sparing our long-time residents, many of whom are on fixed retirement incomes, the financial jolt of a sudden tax shift.

I have a great love for my community, and I want it to be a place where both the young and the elderly can enjoy suburban life.

BETHLEHEM

DEMOCRAT

Anthony Cornell

Two of the most pressing issues presently pending for resolution by town government are real property evaluation and solid waste disposal. Both issues have been addressed by the Democratic candidates for town office in paid political statements which have been printed in several recent issues of The Spotlight and which accurately reflect my views. Consequently, I would like to use this opportunity to set forth my thoughts on the future direction of town government in Bethlehem.

The Republican party has completely controlled life in the town for over one hundred years. The post-World War II years have seen continuous and unprecedented growth without appropriate corresponding planning. The complacent attitude of successive town administrations has resulted in areas of over-development which has created chaotic traffic problems on Delaware Avenue and other major thoroughfares within the town.

Much of the commercial development has been to benefit a few favorites at the expense of many. A perfect example is the Main Square shopping complex. The

REPUBLICAN

Kenneth J. Ringler

Each day since taking office, I seem to find a new problem or crisis that needs immediate attention.

As with most communities in the State of New York, we were faced with the requirement to proceed with a townwide revaluation of property assessments. The process is underway and should be completed early in 1992. Appropriate action has been taken to insure that transition to new assessments will be done in an equitable manner.

The Town Board has also taken action allowing senior citizens to take advantage of all exemptions allowed by the State.

We have applied to New York State to become an Approved Assessing Unit, which will allow us to take advantage of laws that prevent a substantial shift of taxation from commercial to residential. This action will also allow us to implement the five-year transitional assessment program if we find it appropriate. This particular law has never been used by a community in the state and many questions remain to be answered before we would consider adopting it.

Bethlehem was one of the first communities in Albany County to implement mandatory recycling. The Solid Waste Task Force is now making recommendations for long-term trash disposal. Requests for proposals are being submitted to adjoining communities to see if they have an interest in participating in a smaller, regional solution to the problem. We are also submitting requests for proposals to private enterprise to see if there is any interest in building facilities in our community. We continue to move forward but we will not make premature, politically expedient decisions regarding solid waste.

The list goes on and on, but space limits further elaboration of issues that I have been discussing during my campaign. I wish to thank the residents in the Town of Bethlehem for their continued support. Local government is the government closest to the people and that is one of the things I enjoy about it most. I will continue to reach out to you and talk to you, listen to you, and do my best to provide the type of government that our residents have come to enjoy.

time has come to adjust our priorities. The town should no longer be the private domain of favored developers or special-interest groups. I do not want to see the Town of Bethlehem turn into another Colonie.

Another major concern for the residents of the town, especially those on fixed incomes, is the ever-increasing tax burden that is making Bethlehem a place that may well become just too expensive to live in. The cost of town government must be reined in if we want to keep our long-time, now retired, residents who have every right to remain here.

One-party rule certainly has not injured to the benefit of the majority of residents of this town. Taxes go up and services go down. As a lifelong resident of the Town of Bethlehem, I believe that I can make a difference in shaping the future of town government if elected to the town board.

BETHLEHEM TOWN BOARD

DEMOCRAT

James E. Banagan

This year the Democratic Party has fielded a complete slate of candidates for town and county offices. Moreover, those candidates, and more specifically the town candidates, have endorsed a platform which has been documented and publicized in our literature and advertisements. We have attempted to give Bethlehem voters the chance to elect officials who are committed to and can be held responsible for a certain political philosophy. The highlights of that platform, in simplistic form, are:

1) The removal of the Town from the ANSWERS project and the establishment of a more responsible solid waste treatment alternative. This platform item certainly invisions complete opposition to the placement of an ANSWERS treatment facility within the town.

2) The adoption of the optional five year phase-in program to equalize the upcoming change in real property taxes as a result of the recent town-wide property revaluation. This program would have the effect of spreading out both the increase or decrease in those taxes over the five year period.

3) To actively solicit the placement of alternative competition to the existing supermarket.

With respect to the "economic competition" issue, it is a fact that the cost of our government will continue to rise. To minimize the cost of increases to the average taxpayer, elected officials must either cut spending, increase the tax base, or both. A new supermarket would expand the commercial tax base and provide much needed economic/price competition. The town has remained economically dormant for long enough, and spot interest groups have secured a benefit to themselves at the expense of the entire town.

Lastly, and as a personal "platform plank", I have campaigned for and promise to promote the creation of a youth center where the town teenagers can go when he or she tells his or her parents that he or she is "going out" as we all probably once did. Our teenage youth must be given the opportunity to congregate and participate as a group in a safe and semi-supervised setting.

BETHLEHEM

REPUBLICAN

Sheila Fuller

As I have pursued my door-to-door campaign for Bethlehem Town Board, I have shared and discussed with our residents their concerns about a variety of topics. At the same time, I have been gratified that they feel good about the way Bethlehem town government functions and responds to them. That's very important to me because in my 13 years as an elected member of the Bethlehem School Board, and now as a member of the Town Board, I have made it my business, above everything else, to be available to the residents I was chosen to represent.

Four major topics present themselves:

1. Growth, and its impact on Bethlehem as a community: Properly dealing with growth means planning, and planning means careful thought and extensive community input. Growth means dealing with traffic, both commercial and

REPUBLICAN

Fred Webster

The people of Bethlehem face many critical issues and opportunities in the coming year. I believe my experience as a member of the Town Board will benefit my decisions and help me to be certain that the town moves forward aggressively and thoughtfully to achieve an agenda that will meet these issues.

The Town Board has taken a position of total commitment to the solid-waste issue; we realize our responsibility and we are willing to accept our share of this responsibility. Our Solid Waste Task Force is working on this problem under Town Board direction, and has just issued its initial report providing the board with conclusions that could be our agenda for a fiscally sound solution to the problem.

During the past four years the board has continued to monitor our sewer and water needs for the next 50 years. We have agreed on, and put in place, a program for upgrades of our sewer treatment systems, to cover this period and beyond. Having received notice from the City of Albany that our water contract would be cancelled in five years, we are now exploring our own water sources, with initial results indicating that we can become completely independent for water from all outside sources.

We have continued to monitor traffic problems, having just received the planning department's report on Route 396, which has been passed on to the Selkirk Neighborhood Association for input. The board is awaiting completion of the reassessment process so that we might adopt the most equitable means of implementation.

As a member of the Town Board I am proud of the community we are fashioning together. With the continuation of the leadership provided by those currently holding town office, and with your help, we can be assured that Bethlehem will remain a very special place to live.

non-commercial; water; sewers; taxes; the environment; senior and youth services; cable service and/or the lack of it; and much more.

2. "Reval": People are understandably concerned about this court-ordered requirement, but we need to get the word out that its impact on a majority of our citizens will be positive rather than negative and, further, that our town government is and has been reviewing every possible means of reducing any serious impact on long-time residents.

3. Solid waste: We need a well-planned, comprehensive approach. The answer may not be "ANSWERS" and clearly the "only" solution shouldn't be to use suburban towns as a "dumping ground." Arbitrary or unilateral siting of a regional landfill in Bethlehem is absolutely unacceptable.

4. Experience: I have worked as a volunteer or in elective office in Bethlehem for a combined time of over 20 years. I know our concerns, our needs, and our aspirations. I have been doing what my opponents promise to start doing. I urge residents to judge me on my record of public service. I would appreciate their support on Election Day.

BETHLEHEM HIGHWAY SUPERINTENDENTDEMOCRAT*Thomas C. Skultety

My decision to run for Superintendent of Highways is based upon my belief that the town can and should do more to coordinate its highway planning with the State, which controls many of the more heavily travelled roadways in the town, such as Delaware Avenue, the Delmar By-Pass, and Route 396 in Selkirk.

The increased volume of traffic on our roadways has placed increased demands upon their original design and construction. Certain areas now pose a safety hazard because their original design simply cannot accommodate today's traffic. The intersection of Hudson Avenue and Delaware Avenue by Tool's Restaurant is a good example. There are also instances where poor planning has created unnecessary risks and inconvenience to motorists. Perhaps the best example is the decision to install red lights on Route 9W near the Stewart's Shop. The safety and convenience of our highways depends on more than simple maintenance. Sound planning and a coordinated effort with the State are also essential.

Another way in which the town could improve the quality of its highways is to develop some system for prompt removal of dead animals. There is no reason why a dead animal should remain in the roadway until pulverization and decomposition accomplish what could be done in a matter of minutes at slight cost to the town.

BETHLEHEM TOWN CLERKREPUBLICAN*Kathleen Newkirk

The position of Town Clerk for Bethlehem will be both challenging and rewarding.

I want to put my 14 years of experience and knowledge of the Town of Bethlehem to work for you as Town Clerk. I have had numerous opportunities to be a part of committees within town government, as well as working with the Board of Appeals and the Town Board. These experiences have afforded me the opportunity to become familiar with how the departments interact with the town government and with the citizens of Bethlehem.

The Town Clerk position requires that one be familiar with a wide variety of technical, legal, and general information. The office performs varied duties, including (but not limited to) licensing, accounting tasks, and reports required by various State and local entities.

As a candidate for this office, I feel the Town Clerk's position is one of the most important in town government particularly because of the record-keeping responsibilities. In addition, all birth and death records are recorded and maintained as Registrar of Vital Statistics for the town. The scope of records management is very broad and requires that the individual be a certified records officer.

Bethlehem, in my experience and contact with other towns, is one of the most efficient and up-to-date in New York State. We constantly seek to be knowledgeable with regard to changing laws and procedures. As Town Clerk, I will continue to keep abreast of these changing laws and procedures to best serve the citizens of the town.

REPUBLICANGregg A. Sagendorph

In recent years, the role of the Highway Superintendent has become much more diversified than just the person in charge of filling potholes and plowing snow.

Few people realize the Highway Superintendent is also the fleet manager, in charge of repairing and maintaining over 180 town-owned vehicles. This includes everything from police cars to backhoes to the senior vans.

He oversees operation of the Rupert Road Transfer Facility and the Materials Reprocessing Facility where the recyclables are taken. He manages the yard waste and leaf-collection programs and supervises composting of leaves at the highway garage facility.

The superintendent, with a workforce of over 50 employees, carries out a yearly program of major road reconstruction, blacktop paving, guide-rail installation, sign maintenance, road striping, and many related functions.

This position should be held only by someone who, along with a thorough knowledge of highway practices, knows the functions, inner workings, and routines of the Bethlehem Highway Department. With an associate degree in civil technology and over 19 years of first-hand experience and personal involvement as a Town Highway Department employee, I am that person.

I have found my work—which at times takes place in the worst of weather conditions, at all hours of the day or night, seven days a week—to be rewarding and worthwhile.

As a father of three school-aged children, I sometimes find them pleading with me not to send crews out to plow roads on a cold, snowy Sunday night, hoping for a "snow day" on Monday. From this I learn that you will not please everyone all the time—but with good judgment, knowledge, and, most of all, experience, the Highway Superintendent will gain the respect and support of the residents of Bethlehem.

BETHLEHEM TAX COLLECTORREPUBLICAN*Kenneth P. Hahn

I am blessed to have had the privilege of being Bethlehem's Receiver of Taxes for the past 28 years. In return, I have initiated and implemented systems and practices which make payment of school and property taxes and water-rent payments as easy as possible.

The reminder card, used to encourage timely payment of taxes, has prevented hundreds of people from paying substantial additional late charges. This service item, in use for over 25 years in our Bethlehem Tax Office, was adopted in 1990 as a mandatory requirement by New York State for all Receivers of Taxes. I am pleased to have been in the vanguard of its use and acceptance.

The use of this reminder card for taxes has also resulted in Bethlehem's collection percentage being the highest in Albany County for the past several years.

I am one of only a few tax collectors willing to give written projections of future taxes, long before next year's tax rates are actually known. This practice allows better personal budget planning

BETHLEHEM TOWN JUSTICEDEMOCRAT*John E. Dorfman

In my meetings with Bethlehem residents, I have been frequently asked what is the Town Court and why am I a candidate for judge.

Bethlehem Town Justice Court is truly a "People's Court." For most citizens it may be the only contact they will have with the judicial system. While the greatest percentage of cases involve vehicle and traffic charges and other criminal matters, the court also handles small claims disputes, landlord/tenant cases, and enforcement of local ordinances, such as "leash laws."

In 20 years of practicing law, as a prosecutor and as an attorney in private practice, I have acquired experience and familiarity with the wide range of matters which are heard in Town Court. In 1971 I was appointed an assistant public defender, representing indigent clients. In 1975 I was appointed assistant district attorney by Albany County District Attorney Sol Greenberg. In this position I prosecuted all crimes, including murder, drug cases, white-collar crimes, and DWI's. I served as lead prosecutor in the cases culminating in the conviction and closure of Adult World Book Stores in Albany County.

Since 1982 I have been in private practice with the Albany firm of Bohl, Clayton, Komar, and Della Rocca, P.C., where I am managing partner. I have been honored to be appointed special prosecutor by Judges Joseph Harris and John Turner. I have also been appointed special counsel to the City of Hudson.

I consider myself very fortunate to be in a position to use my 20 years of experience to serve the Bethlehem community. If elected, I will faithfully and impartially perform all the duties of my office with courtesy, dignity, and fairness.

I firmly believe that an understanding of people and the sensitivity to truth and fairness is critical to the type of Town Court we must have.

for homeowners and for banks setting up escrow accounts.

Our practice of seeking out new owners of property at the earliest opportunity, has saved them thousands of dollars of late payment fees that would have fallen in place if tax bills were not directed to the new owners promptly.

My office has accepted the need and the willingness to assist mortgagors in figuring out their escrow analysis forms received from their banks.

I would like to ask each voter's permission and support on Nov. 5, to allow me to continue serving you and disbursing your moneys in the manner which I have done for 28 years.

My only promise to you is that I will give the job 110 percent of my interest and devotion and accept it as a trust made possible by the people of the Town of Bethlehem.

The Spotlight has opened its pages in the past three weeks for publication of statements by major-party candidates for town and county offices. They have been printed as submitted in response to an invitation sent to all candidates. Any who are not represented did not choose to provide the statement. We thank all those who participated in this non-partisan information effort.

REPUBLICANPeter C. Wenger

Town and village courts are where most people have their first contact with our justice system. They may be there as a result of traffic or parking infraction, a misdemeanor charge such as assault or DWI, or as a litigant in a civil matter such as a landlord-tenant dispute or small claim. The judge's role is to be an impartial mediator between the prosecutor and the defendant in traffic or criminal matters, and between the plaintiff and defendant in civil matters. The judge must assure that each party is accorded his or her rights, has a meaningful opportunity to be heard, and that the proceedings are orderly, fair, and impartial. It is essential to our system of government that all those appearing in court feel that they have received fair treatment.

During my 11 years as Town Justice, I have endeavored to achieve these ideals. I have worked to expand the availability of Town Court to our residents and to increase its efficiency and effectiveness. The Court now meets three times a week and holds hearings in both the afternoon and the evening.

I am pleased with our creative sentencing innovations, particularly the use of supervised community service as an alternative or addition to fines or incarceration in appropriate cases. Community service provides positive aspects for both the community and the defendant.

I have expanded the use of counseling and other types of treatment to help our young people and other defendants deal with their problems and avoid behavior resulting in repeated violations of law.

While fairness, impartiality, and sensitivity are basic qualities necessary for competent and fair administration of Town Court, a Town Justice today must go further to meet the needs of our community. It is necessary to have the interest to "go the extra mile" to help defendants make positive changes in behavior.

I have the knowledge, experience, and interest to continue my record of accomplishments as Bethlehem Town Justice. I look forward to continued service to our community.

SUPREME COURTDEMOCRAT*Edward O. Spain

The work of New York State's Supreme Court has an impact on every individual in the community. The work of each of its justices requires a background and experience in the law. In this judicial district, a Supreme Court justice handles primarily civil matters including negligence, products liability, malpractice, contract disputes, and matrimonial actions. The court also has jurisdiction over criminal cases.

The position calls for a person who is committed to hard work and who is firm yet fair. As a practicing attorney and later as a judge serving in two very busy courts for the past 14 years, I have the necessary experience to be an effective member of the Supreme Court bench.

If elected I pledge to conscientiously work to insure that the Supreme Court continues to dispense justice in a fair and effective manner.

I respectfully request your vote on Nov. 5.

SUPREME COURT DEMOCRAT

James B. Canfield

Except for practicing attorneys, most Americans try diligently to stay away from courts and judges. Most people see courts as places of conflict and controversy, usually involving a lot of expense, and they would much prefer to keep their distance.

However, life is not that simple, and frequently ordinary people have no choice but to seek redress, or to defend themselves against another's claim. At such time it is important that these ordinary people be put at ease, that the supposed mystery and austerity of the courtroom be presented to them on terms they can deal with and be comfortable with. They have quite enough on their minds without being intimidated by some judge or court personnel who make them feel they are imposing upon the court's valuable time.

The truth is that the courts exist for the litigants. It is the only forum in any civilized society in which they can properly seek restitution or adequately defend themselves.

Thus it is of paramount importance that a person who has a firm grasp of these truths hold the position of judge.

Our society honors judges. We call them "Your Honor," which when you think about it, is a very dignified and lofty appellation. And we must keep that term, "Your Honor," in mind when we determine just who our judges should be. The key word is honor. Those who are the judges of our society must, above all, adhere to what is honorable, what is true, and what is just. We call judges "Your Honor" because it is in them that we place all of our trust and confidence and an impartial arbiter of our problems.

This is the way I see and intend to fulfill the position of Justice of the Supreme Court.

Thomas W. Keegan

As a Democratic-Conservative candidate for the office of Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, and as a judge currently sitting on the Albany County Court bench, I am keenly aware of the problems and the crisis facing our court system today.

The budgetary limitations placed upon all of us pose a severe threat to the orderly and expeditious processing of the ever-increasing criminal and civil caseloads.

The statutory and constitutional requirements of speedy trial of criminal cases will, of necessity, cause a delay in the disposition of civil matters before the courts as personnel and materials are shifted from the civil to the criminal courts to fill vacancies and shortages.

The importance of the Family Court, and the absolute need for timely decisions in matters involving our youth, family offenses, delinquency, and the need for monetary support, will take an additional toll on the assets of the civil courts.

It is therefore imperative that if elected, I work to encourage settlement and negotiation in the hope of avoiding expensive and time-consuming civil trials. I plan to actively participate, as I always have, in the resolution process, guided by the belief that a settlement reached by the parties involved is far preferable to one imposed upon them.

I hope this course of action will alleviate an already over-crowded calendar.

SUPREME COURT REPUBLICAN

Robert A. Smith

While judicial candidates cannot directly comment on disputed political issues, the issues of fairness and impartiality are fair subjects for comment during a judicial campaign.

In the past several weeks, I have campaigned actively in the seven counties of this Judicial District and I have heard it said repeatedly that political leaders of the Democratic committees of Albany and Rensselaer counties have inserted themselves into the process of selecting and electing judges.

This concerns me. If the charge is true, the impartiality of the courts becomes tainted. Even if this charge is false, it creates an appearance of impropriety. I believe that any political tinkering with judicial races undermines the public's confidence in the judicial system, and if this is so, no matter who may win in November, we all lose.

In August it was suggested that both political parties agree on three candidates so the most qualified individuals could ascend to the bench, spared the expense of time and money of active campaigning. I encouraged that. According to some newspaper stories and editorial comments, this cross-endorsement proposal was rejected by a party chairman who vowed retribution for a judicial race five years ago.

The public's perception of political wheeling and dealing for judgeships has been further underscored by current accounts that the same political organizations are actively raising funds to support judicial candidates, and are commingling such funds with other political monies in violation of the canons of judicial ethics. This is alarming. With due respect to the candidates themselves, this misguided fundraising effort suggests to the public that successful Democrat candidates will somehow "owe" their judgeships to those political organizations.

I believe that selection and election of judges should be free from any taint or appearance of deal-making and smoke-filled back rooms. To mount this race for Supreme Court, I formed a campaign committee, and that committee has raised funds from family and friends, and from the professional and business community. Volunteers in my committee have reached out by phone to the public; my committee has run an aggressive and strong campaign, independent of any political organizations.

I take the Code of Judicial Conduct very seriously. While there may come a time when judges are appointed instead of being elected, that day is not yet here. The independence of the courts requires that judicial races be completely separate from partisan political parties and from races for legislative and executive positions. While it is unfortunate that others must apparently rely heavily upon political parties and their massive fundraising capability, I can promise the people that my tenure on the bench will be as fair, as impartial and as independent as my campaign has been.

Justice candidates stress court role in youth matters

By Mike Larabee

New Scotland town justice candidate Michael Mackey is trying to repeat his party's 1983 victory, when Cynthia LaFave knocked off one-term incumbent Kenneth Connolly in the Democrats' first-ever win in an election for a town seat other than town board.

Connolly, after winning back the post from LaFave, is again running as a one-term incumbent. While acknowledging Connolly has the advantage as current justice, Mackey said he feels he can take the seat. "I'm hoping to win," the first-time candidate said.

"I think it's the fulfillment of any lawyer's career to be a judge," he said. "Basically, I feel I'm qualified for the job. I'd work hard at it. I'd be energetic."

First elected in 1979 (following his appointment a few months previously), Connolly lost his 1983 re-election bid in what was regarded then as a major upset. But he ran again against LaFave in 1987, and won back the seat 2,063 to 1,840.

NEW SCOTLAND TOWN JUSTICE

Connolly is also Voorheesville Village justice, which he believes makes a him better New Scotland judge because it's easier to keep track of repeat local offenders. He has been village judge since 1986.

Connolly said he tries to conduct the court with an attitude of dignity and courtesy, understanding that "Nobody wants to be there in the first place."

"Often times people have something to say, and I just let them speak what's on their minds," Connolly said.

Both candidates emphasized the role town court must play with regard to a young people having their first experience with the legal system. "I think that's one of the most important functions of the town justice's job — young people," said Connolly.

Mackey agreed, saying town court is often the place "where a kid who's maybe used bad judgment gets his first experience with the law."

"I think it's important to make the proper impression on a subject," Mackey said.

Connolly said he likes working as judge in a small community because it permits him time to give personal attention to individual cases, allowing him to delve into circumstances behind the legal problems of younger defendants. He said he tries to make sure the defendants are aware of that luxury as well.

"I think it's important that they understand that and hopefully get the message that they're getting a break and if they're not wise enough to take advantage of that fact the break probably will not be there the second time," he said.

Both candidates said they believe in community service and other alternative sentences for young offenders, each citing the same rationale. "What you often have is parents paying the fine," was how Mackey put it. "I don't think that really makes an impression on the individual."

Connolly said there are now more domestic and family disputes in court than when he began, and that he usually tries to resolve them through counseling.

Michael Mackey

"There's a lot of agencies out there that we can make use of," he said.

Connolly, 53, was New Scotland GOP committee chairman for one year in the mid-1980s. He served as Voorheesville village trustee in the early '70s.

The New Scotland town justice post pays approximately $13,600 annually, according to Connolly.

Mackey, 35, is a partner in the Albany firm Feeney and Mackey, which he described as a general practice firm. Prior to going into private practice in 1986, he worked two years as confidential law clerk to county Judge John Clyne, an experience he said he would draw upon if elected to the New Scotland justice post.

"I think it gives me a good background," he said. "I think I have a good mix of experience for Mackey graduated from Albany Law School in 1981. He moved to Voorheesville in 1986.

He is the on Continuing Legal Education committee of the Capital District Bar Association. He is a member of St. Matthew's Church in Voorheesville.

Connolly has been counsel to the state Senate Codes Committee since January 1990, where he is responsible for the draft and review of criminal justice legislation. Before that he was partner in the Albany office of the Syracuse-based firm Hiscock and Barclay. He attended law school at St. John's University, graduating in 1967. Connolly was recently elected secretary treasurer of the Capital District Trial Lawyers Association.

He is a member of the New Scotland Elks and Kiwanis clubs, and is a lector and lay minister at St. Matthew's Church in Voorheesville.

The remote and beautiful Kingdom of Nepal:

From the eternally snow-clad splendor of the high Himalayas to its fertile green valleys adorned with countless shrines, the Kingdom of Nepal is a land blessed with many wonders. The mountains have inspired and the valleys have nourished a great richness of culture that manifests itself in temples and palaces ornate beyond belief.

It is in the valley of Kathmandu, home to the Kings of Nepal, that the arts have truly flourished. Working through the centuries under Royal patronage, legions of highly skilled craftsmen in precious metals have produced a remarkable legacy of the jeweler's art.

Kathmandu — city of silversmiths

Few places in all the world have such a concentration of silversmiths as Nepal. The techniques used today in Kathmandu to fashion the raw silver bars into delicate ornaments were perfected there centuries ago, and have changed little over the years.

Scattered throughout the older districts of the neighboring cities of Kathmandu and Patan are innumerable tiny ateliers, from which comes a strange cacophony of sounds — a backdrop of small hammers rhythmically beating the silver, overlaid with the hissing of the blowpipes which direct the melting fire.

In these shops, the term "made by hand" takes on its true meaning. To make silver wire, the jeweler uses pliers to pull beaten silver through the successively smaller holes of a steel template which he cradles in his bare feet. Once the wire has acquired the preferred length and thinness, he uses his pliers to twist it or braid it.

When granulated silver is required, the jeweler will cut beaten silver into tiny bits — perhaps literally thousands of them. Using his own breath and a blowpipe, he will point the flame onto each separate bit. As it reaches melting temperature, it naturally forms a perfect silver sphere, which the jeweler will later solder onto the jewelry.

Hand-crafted silverwork — as fine as lace

Filigree work is another rare specialty of the Kathmandu valley. Countless minute silver twists and curlicues are cut and laid carefully onto the backplate, then fired and soldered with a precision that defies reason.

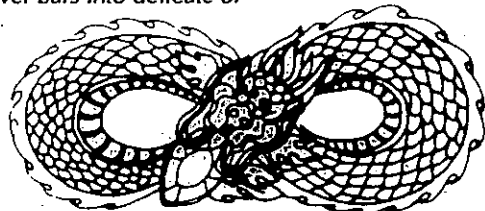

For pierce-work a design is pencilled onto a plain silver plate. Pinpoint holes are then drilled, fine saw-blades inserted, and the design cut out slowly and with infinite care. After cutting, the silver which remains forms delicate lines which bring to mind the finest lace. Pierce-work is a demanding technique, with few masters, as the slightest slip of the hand can ruin the piece.

From these most simple of tools and technologies emerges the distinctive glow of hand-work that stands as the final testimony to the jeweler's skill. The high standards of craftsmanship are a source of family pride, and are passed on and maintained through generations.

For more than ten years, Plum Traders has worked closely with the twenty small family workshops in Kathmandu which produce its Nepali jewelry. Each family has its particular talents and specialties. While most of these families are kept busy the year round working for Plum Traders, each workshop remains completely independent and autonomous, with co-operation as their basic connecting theme.

Plum Traders carries an assortment of traditional designs based on Nepali and Tibetan motifs alongside an everchanging array of original designs created by Eric Wiele, a partner in Plum Traders. In both cases, Plum Traders strives to provide the North American consumer with articles of personal adornment that will be worn for years, retaining their value and beauty.

Halloween Safety Tips

1. If you're wearing a costume, make sure it's light colored and flame resistant. Tell your parents to use retro-reflective tape so car drivers can see you better.
2. Make-up is better than a mask. A mask with small holes for your eyes makes it hard for you to see.
3. Wear a short costume so you don't trip. And no bike riding, your costume might get caught in the spokes.
4. Be really safe - carry a flashlight so you can see in the dark and be better seen.
5. Trick-or-Treat on one side of the street, then the other side. Never criss-cross the street.
6. Go out with a parent or other responsible adult. Older children should go out in groups.
7. Discuss your route with your parents and what time to be home.
8. Never go inside a strange house, apartment or car.
9. Have a parent check your treats before you eat any. Remember to have a snack or meal before going out.
10. Know the Block Parent homes in your area in case you're frightened, lost or hurt.

Straw men descend on A.W. Becker school

More than 70 scarecrows, designed and built by A.W. Becker pupils and their families, are on display at the elementary school through Halloween.

Each Becker school class designed their own scarecrow, while families of pupils have also brought in personal creations. Families who designed their own scarecrows must retrieve them from the school on Friday, Nov. 1.

Halloween events

A.W. Becker will also host a book character parade on Halloween at 2 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday). Children will dress up as favorite book characters, or in ethnic costumes following the theme of the school's "Reading Around the World" program. All

At Some Banks, If You Don't Have One of These,

Say Goodbye to Free Checking.

If your minimum balance for "free" checking feels more like a downpayment, come to Trustco Bank. With just an average available monthly balance of $250, you can get free checking, a free first order of checks, high interest rates, and no charges even if your balance falls below $250 for a few days. We'll even transfer your account from that "downpayment bank" and open your Trustco NOW account, absolutely free.

That makes much more dollars and sense.

After all, why say goodbye to a small fortune for free checking, when you can say hello at Trustco for a whole lot less.

Auditing firm gives RCS above average rating

The Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Board of Education received an "above average" rating for its last audit, according to a representative from the auditing firm of Stulmaker, Roach, and Dorfman.

The representative, Tony Rohmeier, presented the report to the board at a recent meeting saying that bookkeeping procedures are "very clean" and this year's audit was the smoothest of any done in the past four years.

Rohmeier said there were no serious problems but minor recommendations for change. Comparing RCS to other area school districts, Rohmeier said RCS is more automated than others.

Four new staff members also attended the meeting to introduce themselves to the board.

Board members were also treated to a slide show from RCS junior Michelle Boehlke on her recent Futrue Homemakers of America (FHA) National Youth Leadership Meeting in Washington D.C. Boehlke is the president of the local FHA chapter and state FHA vice president.

Board members also reversed its earlier approval of an admission charge for music concerts at the high school.

The board had approved a music department request last May to charge a small admission fee for high school concerts to offset the cost of the band's trips to perform at the Empire State Plaza in Albany and to possibly set up a music scholarship program.

According to district officials, since it was later discovered that state law prohibits such revenue from being specifically earmarked, the department decided against charging admission.

The next board meeting will be on Monday, Nov. 4, at 7:30 p.m. at the board office on Thatcher Street in Selkirk.

Voting machine display at town hall

The voting machine display for Election Day, Nov. 5, will be open to the public on Friday, Nov. 1 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Bethlehem Town Hall, room 106. Anyone interested in viewing the machine is welcome to come between these hours.

Fire department hosts haunted house party

The Slingerlands Fire Department will host its annual Halloween party and haunted house on Thursday, Oct. 31.

The event will be held at the firehouse on New Scotland Road from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

There will be candy, cider and doughnuts, and an expanded version of the departments haunted house.

The department conducts the event as an annual community service. There is no charge.

Parking restrictions to take effect Nov. 1

Parking on all Town of Bethlehem streets and highways between the hours of 1 a.m. and 7 a.m. from Nov. 1 to April 15 is prohibited, according to Article 4, Section 5 of the town's Traffic Ordinance.

Violation of the ordinance can result in the vehicle owner's arrest and towing of the vehicle, according to police.

JDA bonds, canal leasing & airport lands on election ballot

Aside from a myriad of races for town and county offices, there will be three statewide propositions on the ballot Election Day.

The proposals need approval by referendum because they would alter the state constitution. The League of Women voters has published an explanation of the propositions, as well as a summary of arguments for and against approval.

JDA bonding

Ballot proposal number one would increase the bonding capacity of the state's Job Development Authority from $600 million to $900 million, according to the league. The goal of the JDA is to stimulate growth of private sector employment in the state through low-interest loans and bank guarantees. The loans are designed to help finance the construction, acquisition and improvement of state business facilities. According to the league, it is estimated that the JDA's present $600 million bonding capacity will be exhausted by the end of 1991.

• Why vote yes? It is estimated that 150,000 people are employed in companies helped by the more than 1,900 loans made by the JDA since it was created in 1961, providing private sector payrolls totaling more than $4 billion per year and producing more than $319 million in state and local taxes. The amendment doesn't entail direct budgetary implications because loans are repaid with interest at no cost to taxpayers.

• Why vote no? The amendment increases liability in an already debt-ridden state. If the economy deteriorates, many JDA-financed companies may default on loans, ultimately costing taxpayers millions. Incentives for business development should come through tax credits, deductions and similar programs.

Airport land exchange

Ballot proposal number two, if approved, would permit an exchange of land to facilitate the expansion of Piseco Airport in Hamilton County. According to the league, the land acquired for the small airport would be used to extend its runway into lands designated "forever wild." Ballot approval is needed because the state constitution prohibits the state from leasing, selling or exchanging any state lands constituting the "forever wild" forest preserve, the league said.

• Why vote yes? Proponents maintain the question hinges on safety concerns. The airport is said to be threatened because tree growth at the end of the runway has limited visibility. Since it is unconstitutional to trim or remove trees in the preserve, the amendment is needed to ensure continued airport safety.

• Why vote no? The amendment isn't needed to continue operation at the airport. A land exchange violates the ideas that safeguard the very existence and survival of the forest preserve; approval of the amendment would open the door for further weakening of the "forever wild" article of the constitution. Further, the land to be substituted for the Piseco acreage is not of equal quality either monetarily or ecologically.

Canal administration

Ballot proposal three would permit the legislature to authorize long-term leasing of state-owned lands along New York's barge canals. According to the league, currently only short-term permits are authorized. In addition, it would repeal the 1882 prohibition of canal tolls and other user fees and would create a special canal maintenance and development revenue fund.

• Why vote yes? The state's canal system is under-utilized. Development of the system as historic landmark, tourist attraction and recreation site will create jobs and generate sales and income tax revenue. User fees are the fairest way to pay for development.

• Why vote no? Commercial development of canal lands will destroy the scenic beauty of the historic waterway. The amendment does not provide for a master plan to guide development and protect significant resources. Use of canal facilities should be free to state taxpayers; tolls may discourage use of the canals.

Polls are open from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m., Tuesday Nov. 5.

Sgarlata says end partisanship; Decker lines up with Reilly

By Mike Larabee

In an election loaded with partisanship, the two New Scotland Democratic candidates for town board are split in their views on the role of party politics in town government.

While first-time candidate Richard Decker has aligned himself closely with Supervisor Herbert Reilly's call for an unprecedented 3-2 Democratic town council majority, incumbent John Sgarlata says it's time for town officials to stop thinking along party lines.

"My stand is that it's no longer Republicans and Democrats," Sgarlata said. "We're beyond that. It costs too much money in terms of tax dollars to play politics on this board."

"I'd like to see the board go to three Democrats because I'd like Herb to have the opportunity with a majority to work a number of his programs," said Decker.

Both Decker and Sgarlata agree the board has been bogged down in partisan bickering in the recent past, and that problems in reaching agreement have cost the town both time and money. By way of example, both point to the long-delayed Clarksville water district, where the board's Republican majority blocked attempts by Reilly and Sgarlata to fire the project's chief engineer.

But the candidates disagree on the best way to change the situation, with Sgarlata insisting party affiliations should be set aside and Decker calling for Democratic control of the board.

"It is not reasonable to expect him to do it all," Decker said of Reilly. "To reflect on his leadership when he is in the minority is not reasonable. Here's a man who is truly dedicated but is frequently thwarted by politics."

"Since when is any issue a Democrat or Republican issue? It's a town issue, period," Sgarlata said. "There is no party line. It's what's best for the town."

Decker, 55, is recently retired from a 34-year career in state service, which included 10 years as deputy director of the Office for Local Government. He is emphasizing his background while on the campaign trail, maintaining the board needs someone with firsthand experience on the state side of the relationship between state and town government.

"If I'm elected, I will bring a level of experience and expertise that will complement the backgrounds," of other seated council members, he said. "I have the time, I have the ability, I have the desire."

Decker's partisan stance is in part a response to acknowledged Republican campaign attempts to convince voters that perceived "chaos" in New Scotland government is a reflection of Reilly's leadership skills. Reilly is facing an energetic challenge from Harry Van Wormer.

Decker has a close personal relationship with Reilly and the two have pooled campaign efforts in both sign and newspaper advertising.

"Herb Reilly has tremendous integrity, and I am running to support him, to help him," Decker said.

Sgarlata was initially elected in 1987, when he edged Republican Blanche Stickley and fellow Democrat David Teuten to take second in a four-way contest for two council seats. Wyman Osterhout, who led the 1987 council field, is not seeking re-election, making Sgarlata the only incumbent in the race this year.

Sgarlata is alcoholism services coordinator for the county Community Services Board.

Sgarlata, who was 29 when first elected, said his 1987 victory came as a surprise. "I was floored, absolutely floored," he said. He said he views his campaign this year in terms of voter opinion of his service so far.

"To me this is a critical election," he said, adding that a win would "validate" his efforts as a New Scotland community and town board member over the last eight years.

Sgarlata said his primary goals for a second term are the creation of a townwide water authority and the establishment of better communication between town, Voorheesville village and school district officials.

"As it is, we don't even wave at each other," he said of the latter. "This is nonsense." He said it's important to acknowledge the way issues with the village, and especially issues with the school district, are related to basic town board concerns.

"Why aren't we talking with everybody?" he said. "Everybody's waiting for the first one to blink. OK, I'll blink. I'll go to the village, I'll go to the school boards. I'll talk with them."

Sgarlata said a town water authority, which he conceives as constituted by the town board, would help make it easier to establish town water districts. He said the development of town water resources is crucial to efforts to bring commercial enterprise to town and ease tax pressures on residential property owners.

Decker agrees with Sgarlata on the importance of water to New Scotland. He said he thinks the best opportunity for town development in the near future lies with properties near known Hilton Road well fields.

Republican board hopefuls target Reilly leadership

By Mike Larabee

James Coffin and Robert Vollaro, Republican candidates for New Scotland town council are up front about the fact that their sights aren't set on their Democratic campaign counterparts.

Though they are opposing Richard Decker and John Sgarlata in the best-two-of-four race for Sgarlata's and retiring Councilman Wyman Osterhout's town board seats, Coffin and Vollaro have aimed their sharpest criticism at Supervisor Herbert Reilly.

"I started out running as a candidate for town council," Coffin said. "I've got to tell you, I'm now running against Herb Reilly."

"I want that man out of office," he said.

In an interview last week, Coffin called a recent Reilly campaign advertisement, which emphasizes a need for "ethical leadership" in New Scotland "almost libelous."

The ad ran in the Oct. 23 issue of The Spotlight and makes reference to a disagreement between Reilly and Coffin over engineering costs for Coffin's Whispering Winds Route 85 subdivision. While Coffin says he is only looking for an explanation of the policy behind an outstanding $555.85 bill for town review of the subdivision, Reilly says he has provided the explanation and threatens legal action if the bill isn't paid.

The ad read, "A Republican councilman candidate has not paid as of 10/21/91, the Town engineering costs incurred for his subdivision in 1989 ... Who will the Republicans listen to after election?"

"I'm asking simple questions about policies," Coffin said. "Why isn't it that people can't sit down and give me the basis for the reasons they developed the policy?"

"He's had that information since last spring," Reilly replied.

James Coffin

"And he has never come back to me with what I supplied him with and said he needs more clarification on this or that item," Reilly said by focussing on him, the Republicans show how "desperate" they are to win the supervisor's seat back so "they can have their good ol' boy days back at town hall."

Vollaro's criticism of Reilly is directed specifically at what he sees as the supervisor's inability to take command of the town board.

"A guy who can lead, who has leadership ability, would be able to galvanize the board into a unit that could deal with taxes, water, reval, etc.," he said. "That board is the most ungoverned body I've ever seen." He said he can understand the perception that he is running against Reilly instead of the Democrats' council candidates.

"It's probably a dumb thing to say politically, but I'll say it anyway," said Vollaro. "I think John comes down most times on the right side of the issues. He's got a good mind, and he seems to be well grounded."

"John's a good man," Vollaro said. "He's going to be very hard to beat."

Coffin would not comment on Sgarlata's council performance, except to assert that past votes by the Democrat against Herb Reilly is further illustration of Reilly's inability to lead the board.

Coffin, 49, currently sits on the Voorheesville school board, and was its president during recent long-running teacher contract and budget adjustment negotiations. He said one reason he is running for council is to get the chance to address town government's share of responsibility for rising Voorheesville school property taxes. He maintains his experience conducting the board through "one of the worst years for education in the history of New York state" would be an asset on the town board.

He said town government must address the fact that New Scotland lacks an expanding tax base. It needs to bring in new sources of tax revenue to help the school system keep pace with escalating education costs, he said.

"We're (the school board) put in a very difficult situation trying to maintain a program that's comparable to other school districts in the area," he said. "We're running up against a brick wall right now."

"Unless the town does something about its tax base, we're heading for some real problems," he said.

Vollaro, 62, said he feels the solution is active solicitation of business interest on the town's part. "You can't sit in New Scotland and say I hope somebody shows up on our doorstep because as sure as God created the earth, they're not going to show up," he said.

"You have to go find them."

Both candidates view water as crucial to development. "Water is going to be the means ultimately to building up an industrial base," was how Vollaro put it. Coffin called New Scotland "thirty years behind the times" in terms of its infrastructure.

"We've got to move New Scotland into the 20th century," Coffin said. "If we don't get somebody to help pay the bills, our quality of life is going to go in the tank anyway." Without new commercial enterprise, Coffin said, rising taxes will force out longtime residents.

Born in Brooklyn, Vollaro moved to Voorheesville in 1979. He is recently retired from 10 years as an independent engineering and marketing consultant. He has worked for a number of private companies. Before going into business for himself, he worked in marketing and business for Grumman Aerospace Corporation and a firm called United Technology. He served in the Navy and saw action in the Korean War.

A New Salem resident, Coffin has lived in the town for 22 years. He works for the state Division of Educational Finance and Management Services in the Education Department with his primary responsibilities centered on providing technical assistance to school district administrators with regard to new state aid initiatives, he said.

Voorheesville Public Library

By Christine Shields

The Voorheesville Public Library has been selected by the Modern Poetry Association and the American Library Association as one of 20 new national demonstration sites to host "Poets in Person," a reading, listening and discussion program on modern American poetry.

Sponsored by the MPA, the ALA and the National Endowment for the Humanities, the project seeks to rekindle interest in poetry and revitalize the place of humanities in American society. The grant includes three components; a series of "Poets in Person" audiocassettes on American poets and their art, a stipend to purchase modern poetry for the library's collection and a stipend for a local scholar to coordinate poetry reading and discussion programs at the library.

Dr. Charles Rossiter of Delmar has been named as the local scholar for the program.

Rossiter has a doctorate in speech communications from Ohio University and is a Certified Poetry Therapist with a degree from St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D.C. Currently he is employed as a poet, teacher, writing consultant and poetry therapist. Rossiter has published two books of poetry, "Thirds" and "The Man With Two Days Stubble," and has been included in many poetry anthologies and journals. In addition, he produces and hosts "Poetry Motel," a weekly TV show on the Bethlehem Channel, which appears on cable television locally and in selected communities throughout the state.

A three person project team including Rossiter, Library Director Gail Sacco and Poetry Liaison Barbara Vink will attend a national training session in Charleston, S.C. in November. The library's program will then serve as a model for others throughout the state and nationally beginning in the spring.

Sacco says the library is "hoping to plan programs which will appeal to some of the established poetry groups in the area including those at the library, the high school and the elementary school."

Special events

The Voorheesville Public Library will show the 1973 movie "Westworld" on Friday, Nov. 1, at 7 p.m. Richard Benjamin, Yul Brenner and James Brolin star in this science fiction tale about a resort where visitors pay to have their fantasies indulged by robots. Benjamin chooses the wild west but begins to fear when one of the robots malfunctions. The film is rated PG.

Story hours are held each week on Mondays at 10:30 a.m. Tuesdays at 10 a.m., Wednesdays at 4 p.m. and Fridays at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. All ages are welcome and no registration is required.

A special Halloween story hour will be held tonight (Wednesday), Oct. 30, at 7 p.m. Dress up and join the fun for "Ghostly Giggles," a collection of funny, but not scary ghost tales!

Oil paintings by Barbara Mungall of Delmar will be on display at the library throughout November. Her works include still lifes and landscapes of downtown Albany. A graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design, Mungall is currently pursuing a Masters of Fine Arts at The University at Albany. She has previously exhibited at Greenhut Galleries, the Stuyvesant Invitational Arts Festival, the Rensselaer County Council for the Arts and the Rice Gallery. The exhibit may be seen Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the library at 51 School Road. For more information call 765-2791.

The library will be open regular hours on Election Day, Tuesday, Nov. 5.

In Voorheesville The Spotlight is sold at Stewarts, Voorheesville Pharmacy and Voorheesville Mobil

According to a Sept. 4 letter addressed to Murphy and written by Greenstein, alderman for Albany's 14th Ward, the city will not disclose the names and comments of landowners who responded to the City of Albany's questionnaire on property access for ANSWERS authorities.

To disclose the information "would violate and invade their personal privacy in that it may cause economic or personal hardship to them," he wrote.

Murphy said Monday CLAWS requested all the survey responses "because we want to have a complete view of where the property owners and town stand on this issue." He said the group would like to "narrow down where the city is heading."

The ANSWERS "wasteshed" report, published this summer, identifies nine potential regional landfill sites in Bethlehem and three in Coeymans. Three sites in Guiderland were removed in July from the list of potential areas for a regional landfill.

The ANSWERS Regional Solid Waste Planning Unit currently accepts waste from 14 municipalities and is controlled by the City of Albany.

Murphy claims Willard A. Bruce, planning director for the City of Albany, said at a public informational meeting on the report that the results of the survey forms would be made public. The petition states that neither an informational letter from the city on the siting process nor the survey form was to be kept private.

Albany Commissioner of Public Works George Nealon said all information would be made public once it was reviewed, according to an Aug. 7 Spotlight article.

The case is expected to be heard in state Supreme Court Nov. 22.

HVCC to present training programs

Hudson Valley Community College will present a series of hazardous material training programs for Capital District companies that must comply with Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and Office of Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) regulations.

The training will be held at the Albany Days Inn on Route 9 in Glenmont on Nov. 4 through 8. Participants can register through the HVCC Corporate Programs Office.

All persons who are directly or indirectly involved with hazardous materials must comply with EPA/OSHA regulations. That includes administrators, workers and supervisors; contractors; transporters; police and fire fighters; plant managers; security personnel and Emergency Medical Technicians. The incident command training and hazardous waste operations training will meet all RCRA and 29 CFR 1910.120 requirements.

Among the topics to be covered are: Emergency Response Plans; Decontamination; Site Safety; Toxicology; Hazard Recognition and Coordination.

For information, call the HVCC Corporate Programs Office at 270-1592.

1990 county Board of Elections voter enrollment figures, is 266.

Despite the advantage, Van Wormer faces a candidate who's demonstrated staying power. In 1987, running after 10 years as a councilman, Reilly beat Corrine Cossac 2,201 to 1,670 to become the second Democrat to hold the New Scotland supervisor's job in the history of the town. In his 1989 victory, Reilly easily beat then-Councilman H. Allyn Moak 2,528 to 1,336.

Reilly said he's running again this year because he wants the chance to see unfinished town projects, the Clarksville and proposed Orchard Park water districts in particular, through to resolution.

"I've done a good job as supervisor, under a very difficult situation," Reilly said of his tenure. "I've put so much effort into this and things are not finished yet, I'd hate to turn the reins over to someone I think is incapable of doing the work."

Van Wormer, 48, is a first-time candidate emphasizing the argument that New Scotland government lacks leadership and direction. Born in Albany, he moved to town in 1969, becoming active in town politics in the mid-1980s as co-founder of Concerned Citizens for New Scotland, which opposed the Larned Tall Timbers gravel mine.

He is currently president of the New Scotland Kiwanis Club and is town Republican committee chairman. He has been involved in numerous other community service committees and clubs, he said.

"We're getting too many words and not enough action," Van Wormer said. "There's no activity going on in town, and it's costing us money. There's no tax base. The town board has to stop pointing fingers at each other and just go out and do the job."

"It's not that hard," he said.

Van Wormer said the town has a reputation as "anti-development" and difficult to do business with, and he makes much of the fact that New Scotland has grown by only 163 people over the last 10 years. He said as supervisor he would appoint a "business ombudsman" to act as liaison between business representatives and town officials in order to improve communication and, ultimately, bring in new enterprise.

"I'm going to guarantee good, positive, results-oriented government," he said.

Reilly, 55, has lived in town since 1963, and owns Reilly & Son Funeral Home Inc., with locations in Voorheesville and Colonie. He was first elected to the town board in 1978, and like Van Wormer has participated in a long list of community service activities, including Kiwanis and the Elks club.

Reilly points to a new computer system he maintains has streamlined the town's budget process and progress on bringing a water system to Orchard Park as accomplishments over his last term. A recent $50,000 grant awarded by the state Senate has brought monies available for the project to $220,000, he said. He views the district, and the potential to run lines outward to other undeveloped properties as crucial for growth in town.

"You really can't bring in business until you have some water to work with," he said.

Epilepsy association seeks "Winning Kid"

The Epilepsy Association of the Capital District is seeking a youngster between the age 6 and 11 to represent children in the area affected by seizure disorders.

Each year, one "Winning Kid" is chosen to dramatize the fact that many people with epilepsy can lead relatively normal lives with the help of medication and better understanding of the disorder.

CALORIES AND CAVITIES

A recent study has shown that Americans are consuming just as much sugar today as they were 10 years ago, and even more corn sweeteners, a common ingredient of packaged foods.

In fact, each year Americans consume the average person's weight in table sugars and corn sweeteners, about 129 pounds' worth. These are called "empty calories" because they contain essentially no nutrients.

What is all this sugar doing to their dental health? The same thing it did to the Dutch 300 years ago. Many of the paintings of the Dutch painter Rembrandt show people with decayed or missing teeth, or no teeth at all. This was in the 17th century when the Dutch were bringing back large quantities of sugar from the New World. By 1661 Amsterdam had 60 sugar refineries and had become the "carbohydrate capital" of Europe. Before then, cavities and missing teeth were much less common and so was the use of sugar.

Good dental care today, with regular checkups, can help prevent loss of teeth. It also calls for moderation in sugar in-take to help keep cavities to a minimum.

Cousins square off in race for clerk's post

By Mike Larabee

The new face to replace New Scotland Town Clerk Edita Probst, who resigned last month, could in fact turn out to be very familiar.

The clerk's race pits Democrat Patricia Thorpe against Corinne Cossac, who left in 1987 after 12 years in office to challenge then-Councilman Herbert Reilly for town supervisor. Cossac was New Scotland Town Clerk from 1975 to 1987.

When Cossac ran against Reilly, she was the first woman candidate to run for supervisor. Reilly won 2,192 to 1,682.

In a race between two members of the same family (Thorpe and Cossac are cousins), both candidates are emphasizing experience and job qualifications.

Cossac said she feels her experience is the most important aspect of her candidacy, and believes she could provide continuity in the transition to a new clerk.

"I think that's probably my best credentials, the experience in office," she said. "I'm very aware of both the workings of the office and the community."

Thorpe has 14 years of secretarial and clerical experience, both at the Visiting Nurse Association and her current post as secretary to the director of admissions at Maria College.

Corinne Cossac

"My skills are secretarial, and that encompasses a lot," Thorpe said. "You have to be able to work with a lot of people. You have to be able to put a lot of personal feelings aside in order to do your job if you want to be effective and efficient."

Cossac said the town clerk must possess good secretarial skills and a knowledge of basic governmental functions, have solid accounting skills and be able to maintain a good rapport with the public.

NEW SCOTLAND TOWN CLERK

"There's a lot of responsibility because not only are you functioning in the secretarial and custodial capacity; you're also functioning as a PR person," she said.

"A lot of the calls come in where people are looking for information from the town clerk's office," she said.

The town clerk's job pays $23,872, according to Reilly.

Cossac, 60, and Thorpe, 41, are not the only members of their family on the line in this election. Cossac is the younger sister of Michael Ricci, longtime incumbent in the Albany County Legislature's 33rd district, who is currently running on the Conservative line for re-election.

Cossac said she doesn't believe her 1987 race against Reilly would affect their town hall relationship if she wins the clerk slot and he is re-elected. "My job is clear cut," she said. "We're there to serve the public, not to be at odds with each other."

Probst and Reilly frequently disagreed publicly during Probst's tenure as clerk, and Thorpe said reading newspaper accounts of their confrontations was the main reason she decided to run for the office.

"I've been reading about them in the paper for years," Thorpe said. "I found that frustrating. It seemed like that was taking so much away from the day-to-day work that needed to be done."

"In reading of all the conflict I kept thinking somebody has got to get in there who can work with Herb, and work with the board as well," she said.

Cossac currently is a cook at the Voorheesville Diner on Voorheesville Avenue. She is a lifelong resident of New Scotland, and said she has always felt it important to participate in community activities and associations. At present, she is president of American Legion Post 1493 Auxiliary and is vice president of the Helderberg Business and Professional Women's Club.

She is also a licensed notary public.

Thorpe grew up in Voorheesville and graduated from Voorheesville high school in 1968. She has been co-director of St. Matthew's Church youth group and is a member of the American Legion Auxiliary. In the 1970s, she was part of the committee that worked to bring cable television to the village, and she is currently part of New Scotland's User Fee Committee.

The Bethlehem Public Library, at 451 Delaware Ave., will show films for preschoolers on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 1 and 2, at 10:30 a.m.

No registration is necessary for the half-hour film program. The program is designed for children ages 2 to 5 and accompanying adult.

How to choose the best in children's video will be the topic of a discussion on Thursday, Nov. 7, at 7 p.m. Lists of recommended children's videos will be available.

Delmar church hosts old-fashioned fair

The First United Methodist Church in Delmar will present an "Old-Fashioned Country Fair" on Saturday, Nov. 2, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. A portion of all fair proceeds will be donated to organizations benefiting the homeless.

Highlights of the fair include handcrafted toys, baked goods, jams and jellies. A service auction, in which a wide variety of services performed by church members are offered for bid, is a popular feature. There will be a pancake breakfast beginning at 8 a.m. The church is located at 428 Kenwood Ave.

BETHLEHEM PUBLIC LIBRARY

By Anna Jane Abaray

Local history writer and dramatist Rosemary Nesbitt will give the Bethlehem Public Library's second Theodore C. Wenzl Lecture on Sunday, Nov. 10, at 2 p.m. Nesbitt, the author of two historical novels and 15 plays for children, will speak on "The Lost Treasure of American History."

The lecture will be sign-language interpreted for the deaf. Following the program, there will be a reception by the Friends of the Library. All are invited to this free, special event. Those planning to attend should RSVP by calling 439-9314 by Friday, Nov. 8.

Nesbitt is a Distinguished Teaching Professor of theater at the State University of New York at Oswego. She is a gifted and entertaining speaker with the ability to relate events in our nation's history to each one of us in a way that is personal and touching.

Her writings have centered on local history during the French and Indian War and the American Revolution. Her family has inspired her writing. As a parent, she learned that children have difficulty understanding American history because figures like Washington or Lincoln seem too large and remote. She felt that history would mean more to children if they could relate to it on a local or even a personal level. Her book "The Great Rope" tells the true story of how her husband's great-great-grandfather, as a boy of 12, participated in the Battle of Oswego during the War of 1812.

Her books emphasize the principle of individual commitment in the founding of this country. She has received many accolades for her writing, including the George Washington Gold Medal from the Freedoms Foundation, and the Jefferson Award from the American Institute of Public Service.

For the contributions she has made to her community, she was named Citizen of the Year by the Oswego Jaycees in 1974. She is also founder and director of the H. Lee White Marine Museum and chairman of the board of the Port of Oswego Authority.

The lecture was inaugurated in 1990 and is named in recognition of Theodore Wenzl's 40 years of service on the library board of trustees. Wenzl first became a member of the board on May 10, 1950 and has been re-elected eight times. He served as president from 1952 to 1980. Wenzl oversaw both a major addition to the original library building in the late 50s and the construction of the present modern facility.

Election Day tours slated at BC schools

Student-guided tours will leave periodically from Bethlehem Central school polling locations on Election Day, Nov. 5, between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Bethlehem Central School District invites residents to take this opportunity to see the work completed under the $11.6 million bond issue, as well as any other areas in the school.

Polls are established at six of Bethlehem Central's seven schools — Elsmere School, Glenmont School, Hamagrael School, Slingerlands School, middle school and high school. For those wishing to tour Clarkville School, which is not a polling place, student guides will be stationed in the main lobby.

Police make four DWI arrests

Bethlehem police recently arrested one driver on felony DWI charges and three drivers on misdemeanor charges of driving while intoxicated.

Joseph Walter Narzyski, 44, of Ravena, was arrested on felony charges of DWI Tuesday, Oct. 22, at 9:15 p.m. after he was stopped for veering to the right side of the road, police said.

Timothy Burke Kainer, 26, of Mieliks Trailer Court, Selkirk, was arrested for DWI Sunday, Oct. 20, at 3:25 a.m. after he was stopped for failure to keep right and drove over hazardous road markings on Route 9W at county Route 53.

Richard P. Lydon Jr., 36, of Main Street, New Baltimore, was arrested for DWI Friday, Oct. 25, at 1 a.m. after he was stopped for failure to keep right and following too closely on Route 144 in Selkirk.

Edward J. Hauf, 36, 434 Feura Bush Road, Delmar, was arrested for DWI Friday, Oct. 25, at 6:31 a.m. after he was stopped for failure to keep right on Route 9W at Route 396, police said.

Johnston Road bridge reopened to traffic

The Albany County Department of Public Works announced recently that the bridge carrying County Route 203 (Johnston Road) over the Normanskill in the Town of Guilderland is open to all traffic.

Unopposed candidate speaks out against budget reduction

By Mike Larabee

Though he's running unopposed, Republican New Scotland highway superintendent candidate Michael Hotaling is willing to talk about a central election issue.

The issue is money, and for him the question is: Does New Scotland want to pay a little now, or a lot later?

Hotaling said the $220,000 allocation for highway maintenance proposed in Supervisor Herbert Reilly's tentative 1992 budget, a $30,000 reduction from Hotaling's requested $250,000, will not be enough to keep pace with town road deterioration.

"I really feel it's a mistake to reduce the highway repairs by that much money," he said. "You may not notice it for the next couple of years, but down the road we're going to end up with a big repair bill."

"Maintenance is a lot less expensive than rebuilding," he said.

Hotaling said he has always emphasized preventive maintenance as highway superintendent in an effort to head off expensive long-term problems with the town's infrastructure. While he said he understands present budget pressures facing New Scotland, he made his case for more money at last week's town board budget workshop.

"I think preventive maintenance is really important," he said. "If I can get a good maintenance program going, hopefully we'll be able to reduce the major total road rebuilding projects down to a minimum." He said the board listened to his concerns, but made no commitment to reallocate the cut funds.

NEW SCOTLAND HIGHWAY SUPER

Complicating matters, Hotaling said, is the fact that highway aid funds are based on town outlays for repair and maintenance, and as such are reduced as town spending is reduced.

"I'm always looking for ways to do things that are cost-effective," he said, citing recent bridge rehabilitation projects that were completed in-house at a savings to the town. He said he's also concerned that there isn't enough money allocated in the budget for recycling.

Reilly, who is running for reelection this year, said he sympathizes with budget pressures on Hotaling, but feels there's no choice but to cut the maintenance allocation. "He may be on the mark about," the hidden costs of the cut, Reilly said, "but the fact is we don't have the money."

Reilly said the reduction "is not set in stone," and that he was interested in hearing Hotaling's comments at the budget workshop.

Hotaling, 36, has worked for the New Scotland Highway Department since 1974, when, at the age of 19, he was hired as an equipment operator. By 1985 he'd worked his way up to Deputy Highway Superintendent, and when then-superintendent Peter Van Zetten left the department to join the town board in 1989, Hotaling was appointed to take his place.

He was first elected to the office in November 1989 without opposition.

Hotaling's cousin, William Hotaling, is Voorheesville's public works superintendent.

The highway department includes Hotaling and one office assistant, a work foreman, a mechanic and 10 workmen. The department's annual budget is slightly more than $1 million, he said. The superintendent's job pays $31,304, according to Reilly.

The New Scotland Highway Department maintains the town's 124 roads, totalling 78 miles.

Another project Hotaling wants to continue through another two-year term is the installation of new guide rails along town roads. He said he's trying to finish one major guide rail project each work season. "There again it's safety," he said, "trying to make it safer for the residents."

Thomas Dolan, New Scotland Democratic committee chairman, said the party isn't running a candidate against Hotaling for two reasons. "We basically felt he was doing a competent job and we weren't able to find a candidate who has sufficient qualifications that we felt we could endorse him or her," Dolan said.

Ladybirds win 9th straight

Face stiff competition in sectional tourney

By Greg Sullivan

Voorheesville's girls varsity soccer team received a second seed in the class CC sectionals. With a final record of 16-1-1, the Ladybirds obtained a bye in the first round and were scheduled to play third-seeded Cobleskill on Tuesday. Voorheesville was placed in what would appear to be the tougher of two sectional brackets. For a Section II championship, they would eventually face the likes of Cobleskill or undefeated Tamarac.

Heading into the sectionals, Voorheesville has won nine consecutive games, including a 3-0 victory last Monday over previously undefeated Lansingburgh in which the Ladybirds simply outplayed their opponent.

"The girls needed no incentive, they were ready to play," said

Voorheesville coach Jim Hladun. All three Voorheesville goals came from senior Nicole Solomos, who upped her career total to 93 goals. Her first-half penalty kick dampened Lansingburgh's spirits while her second goal, only minutes later, seemingly put the game out of reach of their struggling opponent. Solomos later banged home her third goal of the game and handed Lansingburgh its first loss of the season.

As sectionals approach, Voorheesville seeks to continue the high level of play that they have been enjoying in the past few weeks. "Our defense is solid and our offense is beginning to churn" pointed out coach Hladun, in hopes of capturing the team's first Section II championship. Goals against Voorheesville have been hard to come by this year due to the veteran defensive efforts of goalie Donna Zautner, sweeper Kate Depasquale, fullbacks Kate Ramsey and Erin Sullivan and stopper Beth Lucia. In addition to tough defense, the Ladybirds will rely on the goal scoring capabilities of strikers Nicole Solomos and Nicole Weston. Midfielders Pam Harms, Kate Pakenas, Lyra Colfer and Renee Parmelee will be counted on to control the tempo and flow of the game.

BC girls take second in section tennis finals

By Josh Norek

"BC has gone to the finals for sectionals 13 out of the last 14 years," says BC Girls Varsity Tennis coach Grace Franze. "We may not have won this year, (but) we're still number two."

Indeed, coming in second place is a remarkable accomplishment for a team that lost seven of 12 starting players a year before. Bethlehem's season ended when it was defeated 8-1 at the Section II finals by Saratoga on Monday, Oct. 21.

BC's only winners were doubles partners Maggie Plattner and Kathy Bleymen, a duo that began playing together halfway through the season. They won their match 7-6, 6-3.

Individual sectional matches were played Oct. 16. Originally planned top seed Tory McKenna was replaced due to illness by Sara Novick, who lost. Neither of the doubles teams fared well either, with Karen Yaffee and Penny Silk falling in the first round and Nikki Reidy and Maggie Plattner falling in the second.

While the team will lose five of its starters to graduation next year, this season's success indicated that youth can still prevail over experience.

Commented coach Franze, "We had a young team with quite a record. No one expected it. I'm very proud of the way they played."

Four Gambelunge TDs pace easy Eagle win

By Michael Kagan

Mike Gambelunge scored his 14th, 15th, 16th and 17th touchdowns of the season to take back the Section II scoring lead, as the Bethlehem Central Eagles rolled over Troy High on a warm Friday night, 35-7.

The Eagles are now 1-2-1 in the Metroland Conference's Division II (4-2-1 overall), which puts them in a tie for fourth.

Division leading Amsterdam, Bethlehem's opponent this week, boasts a 4-0 league record (7-0 overall).

The game began with both teams digging deep into their bag of tricks, before BC finally took control. After driving to its own 45 on its opening possession, Troy attempted a fake punt on fourth and three, but the pass was incomplete.

BC proved much more proficient at trickery. On their first play from scrimmage, halfback Tim Mooney completed a reverse flea-flicker to wide out Bill Karins for a 22-yard gain. A Gambelunge run moved Bethlehem to the Troy 13, from which he rushed for his first touchdown of the night. Adam Perry, who finished the day at six-for-eight passing out of the quarterback position, had his extra point attempt blocked, making the score 6-0.

Troy came right back, putting together a nine-play, 76-yard drive, highlighted by a 56-yard sideline pass, to go ahead 7-6. But it was the first and only glimpse anyone would see of an effective Troy offense.

Early in the second quarter, Bethlehem opened after receiving a punt from their own 29-yard line. On second and nine from the thirty, Perry hit Karins for 53 yards. Gambelunge eventually closed out the drive with one-yard TD run, which he capped off by crossing the line again on the Eagles successful two-point conversion.

The second half was no different for BC. Gambelunge danced into the end zone a third time in the third quarter to give the Eagles a 21-7 lead. He scored his fourth touchdown of the night to finish a 99-yard Bethlehem drive and stretch BC's lead to 21.

On Troy's next offensive play, Karins intercepted an errant pass

with 8:54 remaining in the game. Four consecutive rushes by the Eagles brought up a first and goal at the seven. Gambelunge appeared to have scored his fifth touchdown, on a sweep, but a holding penalty brought the ball back to the 17. Gross, however, showed he could find the end zone as well on the next play, and Perry's ensuing extra point ended the scoring. It was Gross's fifth touchdown of the season.

Gambelunge now leads Section II with 104 points scored, to go with his 17 touchdowns. He averages almost 15 points a game. Perry ranks second in the area among kickers, with 22 points.

PopWarner squad wins first

Sunday saw the Junior Midget Hawks win their first of season against arch rival Albany 14-12.

Tim Brozowski led the way with 2 TD's including a 75-yard kickoff return. Chris Hemstead's 2-point conversion was the margin of victory. Shawn Arnold had a solid game blocking while Chris Thornton and Matt Quackenbush led the defense.

The Junior Pee Wee Condors traveled to Cohoes and lost a 20-18 decision to the Tigers. The offense was sparked by the play of Peter Hemstead and Billy Noonan along with Vinnie Livieri's two TDs and Brendan Griffin's TD. Don Mordel had a great defensive game.

At home, the Albany Titans beat the Pee Wee Falcons' 20-12 despite Geoff Linstruth's 140 yards rushing and one TD and Chris Darlington's 11-yard TD run, a org with play of Omar Feliciano and Marty Brozowski. Tom Walmsley had a solid defensive effort.

In the second game, the Midget Eagles crushed the Scotia Tartans 28-7. Steve Demarest and Brian Fryer scored two TDs, including Fryer's 50-yard punt return. The defense was led by Shariff Kabir's interception and the hitting of Adam Holligan and Kyle Hogan.

Bethlehem girls volleyball squad finishes year

By Robin Bellizzi

The Bethlehem Central varsity girls volleyball team ended its regular season with a record of 13 wins and three losses, placing third in the Suburban Council, behind Burnt Hills and Shenendahowa.

Last Tuesday, the girls played their final game, losing to Burnt Hills. As anticipated, it was a tough afternoon for both teams. After losing the first game 6-15, BC came back to win the second 15-13, but then lost the final two 7-15, 8-15.

Last week the Lady Eagles competed in the Suburban Council Tournament. They started off on a good note Thursday evening, winning against both fifth place Colonie and eighth place Saratoga. They weren't as successful, however, in Saturday's semi-final round, falling to both Shenendahowa and Burnt Hills, their two arch rivals throughout the season. They will have a chance to avenge those losses at the Section II Tournament, which began last night (Tuesday) with quarter-final competition. Tomorrow (Thursday) are the semi-finals, and the finals will take place on Saturday.

The junior varsity team also walked away with a winning season. With a record of 14 wins and two losses, the team tied for first place in their league with Burnt Hills.

Blackbird coach says opponent ran up score

By Justin Cresswell

With hopes of spoiling the Titan's homecoming festivities, the Voorheesville varsity football team made the trek to Taconic Hills last Saturday.

However, their hosts had a different agenda planned. It was one that seemed to include running up the score as quarterback Bob Pectal tossed a school-record five touchdown passes and fullback Kent Rossman set a Titan rushing record with a 16-carry 222-yard performance, propelling the Titans to a 42-13 victory.

VC trailed only 14-7 at the half, but couldn't counter the balanced Titans offense, which got 28 points in the second half. But the Taconic Hills offense was at least as decadent as it was efficient and effective. The Titans continued to go for the end zone with their starters, including Pectal, much of the offensive line and receiving corps with less than two minutes remaining and the game decided. Instead of running out the clock, or emptying the bench, Taconic Hills seemed intent on more records, points and padding statistics. Pectal leads Section II with 16 touchdown passes, but had none last week in a 23-0 loss to Tamarac.

"I don't understand what's going on in this league," VC head coach Chuck Farley said. "I mean this didn't happen a few years ago. I remember when our program was on the top, we didn't rub it in like this."

Perhaps overshadowed by the homecoming revelry and the records were some excellent individual performances by the Blackbirds. Halfback Trampas Talavara turned in another solid game, rushing 18 times for 80 yards and a touchdown. Talavara accounted for all 24 yards of a 24-yard, eight-play drive, rushing on every play and capping it with a one-yard dive for the score.

The Blackbird passing attack was also effective. Quarterback Nick Iarossi had his best game of the year, completing six of 11 passes for 113 yards, one interception and a touchdown. Iarossi connected with end Jack Brennan three times for 85 yards.

The highlight of the game for the Blackbirds came when Iarossi lofted a perfect pass from 11 yards out into the right corner of the end zone where Brennan made a lunging catch despite blanket coverage by Titan free safety Matt Miller.

Brennan also had touchdown-saving, open-field tackles in the first and third quarters, both times stopping Rossman after 60-yard-plus gains. Defensive end Dave Washburn made his presence felt as well, sacking Pectal twice and hurrying him three times.

Farley said that he'd like to move up in the standings to get a good opponent (possibly Ravena) in the crossover game by beating Chatham on Saturday (home 2:00). He also wants to send the seniors off on a winning note while getting more game experience for returning players.

Lady Indians top Cohoes, fall in sectional play

By Mike McNessor

After edging out Cohoes 4-3 on Oct. 21, the RCS girls advanced to Class B sectional play and defeated Mohonasen 4-1 on Thursday, Oct. 24. But they lost 3-1 to number one seed Lansingburgh on Saturday.

Early on in last Monday's match-up, it looked as if Cohoes had the upper hand, as Stacy Kennedy booted one into the RCS goal with 14:23 in the first half.

But after the break, Tina Gaylord pulled the girls out of their slump, scoring Ravena's first goal. Then, just six minutes later, a Deanne Marathakis score gave RCS a 2-1 lead. It looked as if the Ravena girls had the game in hand, but an obstinate Stacy Kennedy scored for Cohoes, tying the game 2-2 with only 1:21 left.

In the first overtime, goalie Allyson Stooks, who had four saves, came out of the game with an injury, and was replaced by Heather Ackert. Scores by Ravena's Mandy Nulton and Cohoes' Janis Corey brought the game to 3-3.

Tension mounted throughout the second overtime as it looked as if the game would remain tied. But a determined Mandy Nulton slipped her second goal of the game by Cohoes goalie Jen Fischer, giving RCS the victory.

Monday's victory against Cohoes was the Ravena girls last home game of the season. After their win against Mohonasen, and loss to Lansingburgh, the season total was extended to 9-9-2.

Ravena junior Danielle Marvelli pushes the ball upfield against Cohoes last week.

Cross country squad runs council meet

By Matt Dugan

The BC cross country team ran last week at Saratoga State Park in the Suburban Council Championships. The girls squad finished 8th overall while the boys team picked up seventh.

The girls were led by the efforts of sophomore standouts Kristin Ruso, who placed 19th and Nicole Mizener, who finished 25th. Meghan Faulkner picked up 42nd place, Katie Lillis took 47th, and Betsy Hallenbeck, who was hampered by an injury, fought to a 58th place finish. The girls were without Katie MacDowell, who was sidelined with an injury.

The boys seventh place finish was keyed by Senior Gary Hurd's 8th place finish. Next for BC was Matt Dugan in 30th. Following Dugan were Ken Watson in 33rd, Mike DeCecco in 48th, Ryan Lillis in 50th, Ryan Dunham in 51st and Steve Wolfe in 67th.

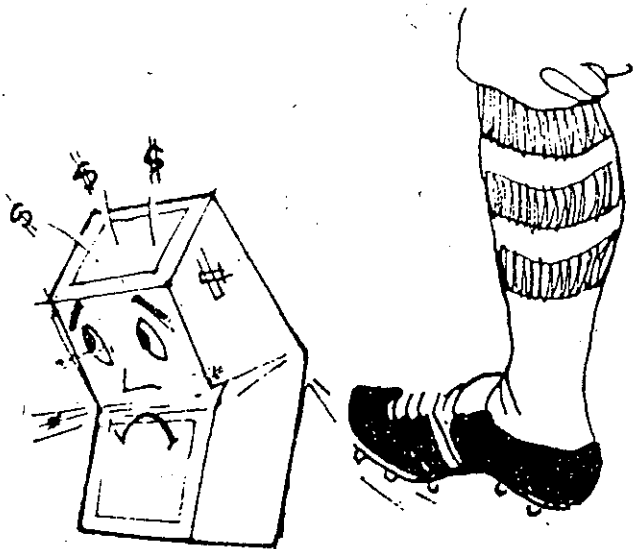

The JV boys rounded out their season with an outstanding performance. Mike Yovine led the team with a 47th place finish.

Friday will be the Section II Championships held at Saratoga State Park.

Birds start title defense with 3-0 win

By Erin Elizabeth Sullivan

The Voorheesville varsity boys soccer team entered sectional play this year in much the same way they ended the 1990 season as state class C champions. The Blackbirds routed sixth-seed Corinth 3-0 at home on Friday, Oct. 25, outplaying the north-country team by a wide margin while not allowing a single shot on goal.

The Birds received a third seed in the class CC division last week based upon a final 12-3-1 Colonial Council record. They won 12 of their last 13 games, concluding with a hard fought 3-2 win at Waterford last Tuesday, Oct. 22.

In the Waterford game, the Birds couldn't shake the tough Fordians as they handed out leads of 1-0, and 2-1 thanks to goals by Darren Ascone and sweeper Kevin Relyea. It wasn't until there were about seven minutes remaining that Joe Race decided the contest by heading a Brad Rockmore corner kick past the Waterford goalie to cinch the win.

The number three seeding allowed the team to play Corinth at home among comfortable surroundings and a cheering student body. The Birds controlled play, but had difficulty finding the net. The ever-persistent Joe Race finally broke ice with a long shot that caught the far corner of the net, but that was all the scoring in the first half.

In the second half, the Birds kept hammering away and were finally rewarded when halfback Tom Dutkiewicz fed an attacking Race with a pass right in front of the Corinth goalie. During the confusion that ensued, the ball squirted to a charging Greg Sullivan who finished the play for a 2-0 lead. Minutes later Race concluded an outstanding game with his second score. Rockmore and senior Eric Logan continually stopped the Corinth attack before it got started making for a very lonely afternoon for Voorheesville goalkeeper Erin Sullivan.

"We were much stronger than Corinth," said Coach Bob Crandall, "The score should have been higher, but goal scoring is hard. We had numerous opportunities at scoring, but it can't be forgotten that we also allowed Corinth no shots on goal."

Coach Crandall's squad continued into the semi-finals with a scheduled night game last night (Tuesday) against Schoharie. League Champion Schoharie, the physically bigger number two seed, was a 1-0 victor Saturday. Cobleskill is the number one seed and plays Hoosick Falls today (Wednesday). Both Schoharie and Cobleskill are undefeated in league play and are major obstacles to Voorheesville's defense of last year's crown.

BC spikers drop nail-biter

By Jared Beck

Sometimes, no matter how hard you try, or how well you play, victory seems impossible. That was the situation, Tuesday, Oct. 22, for the Bethlehem boys varsity volleyball team, as they suffered a heartbreaking loss at the hands of Colonie, in their own gym.

From the beginning, signs pointed to an even contest. The two sides exchanged hard spikes and points, and found themselves deadlocked at 11 in the first set. But from that point on, Colonie took control. The Eagles were unable to thwart their opponents powerful front line, despite several hard kills from Ben DiMaggio and Bill Spinner. Colonie came out on top after a long rally, to give them a 14-11 lead, and then had little trouble in achieving set point and winning 15-11.

The Eagles looked ready to fold up and die when they found themselves buried under an 8-2 Colonie lead in the second set, again frustrated by the consistent blocking and spiking of Colonie. However, with Brian Mullan serving, Bethlehem scored four unanswered points to pull within two. By going up 11-7, Colonie was ready to reclaim victory when Spinner drilled a spike off the hardwood giving the Eagles a side out. From that moment on, BCHS didn't surrender another point in the set. Jason Sibling keyed the dramatic comeback with six winning serves, and the Eagles reversed the results of the previous set, taking the second 15-11.

In the third set BC blew a 5-1 lead to five straight Colonie points. Colonie capped off a 14-2 run with a 15-7 win over Bethlehem, to win a truly exciting nail-biter.

Cadets stop Ravena, 9-0.

By Kevin Van Derzee

The RCS Indians hosted division leading Albany Academy Cadets in a must win game for the Indians. Ravena had to win in order to have a shot at the western division championship.

In a defensive battle, the Cadets scored a clinching touchdown in the fourth quarter and came away with a 9-0 victory.

Eric Powell led the ground attack with 51 yards on 10 rushes, while Elton Tune carried six times for 16 yards. Chris Romano had another good day at Quarterback, as he was 9 for 14 for 72 yards. Romano also gained 13 yards on the ground and 17 yards on one reception.

Mike Jordan had six receptions for 49 yards while picking up 10 yards on the ground. Joe Salin had two catches for 22 yards and one pass completion for 17 yards. Chad Rooney led the defense with 13 tackles while Patrick Rafferty pitched in eight tackles.

After the opening kickoff, the Academy drove into Ravena territory. On the eleventh play of the drive, the Cadets had a first and 10 on the home teams 17 yard line and were held to three yards on three plays.

They were forced to kick a 31-yard field goal to make the score 3 to 0.

In its only scoring threat of the half, drove toward the Academy goal line only to be pushed back to the 40, where they were forced to punt. There were no more scoring threats by either team until the fourth quarter when Albany Academy drove 61 yards on 10 plays that culminated with a 5-yard touchdown run. Bryan Sutton blocked the extra point to hold the score at 9 to 0. The Cadets clinched the western division title and a spot in the league's Buckley Cup title game against Watervliet.

The Indians travel to Cohoes Saturday to play their last regular season game at 2:30 p.m.

N. Scotland gets $50k water grant

By Mike Larabee

Supervisor Herbert Reilly announced last week that the Town of New Scotland will get a $50,000 state grant for the proposed Orchard Park Water District.

The source of the money is a legislative member item sponsored by Sen. Howard C. Nolan, D-Albany. According to Reilly, the grant brings to $220,000 the amount of money already on hand toward the establishment of a municipal water system for homeowners in and near the Orchard Park subdivision.

The development is located at the intersection of routes 155 and 85A. Many Orchard Park area residential wells are contaminated by salt and methane gas.

Reilly said the town hopes the Village of Voorheesville will pitch in the estimated $117,000 in funding still needed for the project. The village system is near capacity, and Voorheesville officials have been trying to establish a back-up source to its primary wells.

Voorheesville Mayor Edward Clark said New Scotland has made no formal proposal to the village with regard to the Orchard Park system. He said the village board has not taken a position on the proposal.

"Herb Reilly submitted a proposal that the village board found was far too vague for them to even say anything about," Clark said. "We sent back a list of questions, and we have not received a response."

Among other things, the board wants to know to whether Voorheesville would be viewed as a back-up system for the new district and whether the funding already in hand is secure, Clark said. There have been questions over whether $150,000 won in a legal agreement over the Larned Tall Timbers gravel mine can be used exclusively for the water district, he said.

The Orchard Park system would tap wells on the former Tall Timbers golf course on Hilton Road.

"Would we be an integral part of their system or would there simply be a valve that if we needed water we'd open the valve?" Clark said.

Reilly said he hoped to schedule a meeting on the district sometime next week with Clark, town engineering consultants, representatives of Orchard Park and representatives of developers proposing housing in the area.

Selkirk Fire District pay from the Building and Grounds Reserve Fund for expenses involved in the purchase of 122 Maple Avenue, Selkirk, New York, the following sums: Proration of taxes $1,217.83 and legal fees and disbursements $834.00. This resolution shall take effect 30 days after its adoption, provided a Permissive Referendum is not required pursuant to Subdivision 4, Section 6-g of the General Municipal Law."

By Order of the Board of Fire Commissioners of the Selkirk Fire District, Selkirk, Town of Bethlehem, New York
By/s/
Frank A. With, Secretary
DATED: October 21, 1991

Notice is hereby given, that at the General Election to be held in this state on Tuesday November 5, 1991 the following proposals will be submitted to the people for approval or disapproval: Ballot Proposals Number One through Three, Amendments.

ABSTRACT OF PROPOSAL NUMBER ONE, AN AMENDMENT

The State Constitution currently authorizes the Legislature to make the State liable for the payment of the principal of and interest on bonds of a public corporation, provided that the aggregate principal amount of such bonds does not at any one time exceed six hundred million dollars ($600,000,000). The proposed amendment would increase the aggregate principal amount of such bonds from six hundred million dollars ($600,000,000) to none hundred million dollars ($900,000,000).

A yes vote on the question below would indicate your approval of the amendment. A no vote would indicate your disapproval.

FORM OF SUBMISSION OF PROPOSAL NUMBER ONE, AN AMENDMENT IMPROVEMENT OF JOB OPPORTUNITIES IN NEW YORK - JOB DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY

Shall the proposed amendment to Section 8 of Article X of the Constitution, which would increase from $600,000,000 to $900,000,000 the maximum amount for which the Legislature may make the State the guarantor of bonds issued by a public corporation created pursuant to and for the purposes specified in Section 8 of Article VII, such as the Job Development Authority, to assist in the financing of the construction, acquisition, rehabilitation or improvement of industrial or manufacturing plants, research and development buildings and other eligible business facilities, to improve employment opportunities in any area of the State, be approved?

ABSTRACT OF PROPOSAL NUMBER TWO, AN AMENDMENT

LEGAL NOTICE

The State Constitution prohibits the State from leasing, selling or exchanging any lands of the State, now owned or hereafter acquired, constituting the forest preserve as now fixed by law, which are required to be forever kept as wild forest lands. The proposed amendment would authorize the State to convey to the Town of Aretta fifty (50) acres of forest preserve land within the Town of Aretta, for public use in providing for the extension of the runway and landing strip of the Pisco airport and providing for the maintenance of a clear zone around the runway, in exchange for which the Town of Aretta shall convey to the State fifty-three (53) acres of true forest land located in lot 2 township 2 Totten and Crossfield's Purchase in the Town of Lake Pleasant.

A yes vote on the question below would indicate your approval of the amendment. A no vote would indicate your disapproval.

FORM OF SUBMISSION OF PROPOSAL NUMBER TWO, AN AMENDMENT EXCHANGE OF FOREST PRESERVE LANDS

The proposed amendment to Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution would authorize the State to convey to the Town of Aretta fifty (50) acres of forest preserve land within the Town of Aretta for public use in providing for the extension of the runway and landing strip of the Pisco airport and providing for the maintenance of a clear zone around the runway, in exchange for which the Town of Aretta shall convey to the State fifty-three (53) acres of true forest land located in lot 2 township 2 Totten and Crossfield's Purchase in the Town of Lake Pleasant. Shall the proposed amendment be approved?

ABSTRACT OF PROPOSAL NUMBER THREE, AN AMENDMENT

With certain exceptions, the State Constitution currently prohibits the State from selling, leasing, abandoning or otherwise disposing of the now existing or future improved barge canal, including any of the terminals constructed as a part of the barge canal system or any portion of the canal system which existed prior to the barge canal improvement which forms a part of, or functions as a part of the present barge canal system. The proposed amendment would authorize the State, upon the enactment of appropriate laws, to grant leases for the occupancy or use of such lands or structures for periods of time as authorized by the Legislature.

In addition to authorizing the lease of canal lands, the proposed amendment would require that all funds derived from any sale or other disposition of barge canal lands, terminals, terminal lands, or other canal lands and appertaining structures, or any other funds collected for the use of the canal or canal lands, be paid into a special revenue fund of the treasury which shall only be expended for the maintenance, construction, reconstruction, development or promotion of the canal, canal lands, or lands adjacent to the canal as provided by law. The Constitution's current requirement that all funds derived from any sale or other disposition of any barge canal lands, terminals, terminal lands or other canal lands and appertaining structures to be paid into the general fund of the treasury, is deleted by the proposed amendment.

The proposed amendment also deletes the Constitution's current prohibition against the imposition of tolls on persons or property transported on the canals; continues the requirement that the Legislature annually make provision for the expenses of the superintendence and repairs of the canals, and may provide for the improvement of the canals in such manner as shall be provided by law "notwithstanding the creation of a special revenue fund as provided in this sections", and adds to the Constitution's current requirement that all contract work or materials on any canal shall be made with the persons offering to provide the same at the "lowest price", that the price so offered be the lowest "reasonable" price as "provided by law." Deleted by the proposed amendment is the Constitution's current prohibition against the payment of extra compensation to contractors, as well as its current authorization permitting the superintendent of public works, upon application of the contractor, to cancel a contract, from any unforeseen cause, its terms prove to be unjust and oppressive.

A yes vote on the question below would indicate your approval of the amendment. A no vote would indicate your disapproval.

FORM OF SUBMISSION OF PROPOSAL NUMBER THREE, AN AMENDMENT LEASE OF BARGE CANAL LANDS

The proposed amendment to Article 15 of the Constitution would: (1) authorize the State to grant leases for the occupancy or use of barge canal lands; (2) require that all funds derived from the sale or other disposition of any barge canal lands or structures be paid into a special revenue fund of the treasury which shall only be expended for the maintenance, construction, reconstruction, development or promotion of the canal; (3) delete the prohibition against the imposition of tolls on persons or property transported on the canals; (4) establish certain provisions with respect to contracts for work or materials. Shall the proposed amendment be approved?

THE YOUTH NETWORK

We all have a part to play in substance abuse prevention

The good news about problems with substance abuse is that solutions are at hand. You can't do it alone, but it can't be done without you. The more others are involved, the lighter the burden becomes on each of us, and the greater our collective chance of making a real difference.

THE FAMILY — Develop an understanding of drug use and abuse, encourage discussion within your family.

EMPLOYERS — When accidents, absences and mistakes get out of control, look for signs of drug use. Establish contact with local agencies.

CLERGY — Understand the important role the clergy has in communicating information with regard to drugs and alcohol and developing effective responses.

ELECTED OFFICIALS — Develop local projects to meet community problems.

FRATERNAL AND SERVICE GROUPS — Understand and support local programs, they save lives. Provide positive alternatives for kids: trips, recreational activities, etc.

MEDIA — Focus public attention on what can be done to prevent substance abuse.

EDUCATORS — Realize your important role. We need to educate the whole person, and teach them to live in a society that exists, not in a society we wish existed.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Devote free time to community activities focused on substance abuse prevention.

POLICE — Unifying enforcement and educational components of substance abuse prevention is critical for success.

YOUNG PEOPLE — Learn how to think problems through, and understand drugs don't solve problems, people do.

This week's Networks article is adapted from a pamphlet of the state Division of Substance Abuse Services.

Hilda M. Gimlick, 69, of South Bethlehem died Sunday, Oct. 27, at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany.

Miss Gimlick was a lifelong resident of South Bethlehem.

Before her retirement in 1986, she was a bookkeeper for the Miller Paint Co. for many years. She had worked for the Sherwin-Williams Paint Co. in the Broadway Arcade in Albany.

Miss Gimlick was a lifelong member of the South Bethlehem United Methodist Church.

Survivors include a sister, Gladys M. Gimlick of South Bethlehem, and a brother, Russell W. Gimlick of Plattsburgh.

Services were from Applebee Funeral Home in Delmar. Burial will be in Mount Pleasant Cemetery in South Bethlehem at a later date.

Contributions may be made to the South Bethlehem United Methodist Church Memorial Fund.

County hopes to hire airport managing firm

By Kathleen Shapiro

Albany County officials hope to hire a construction management firm by the end of November to begin overseeing expansion and improvement plans at the county airport.

The county is considering eight responses to a request for proposal on the project, Airport Project Director Michael Polovina told members of the county's Mass Transit Committee last week.

Staff from the county attorney's office and county planning officials are already in the process of reviewing the proposals, and are expected to narrow the candidates down to three or four within the next few weeks, said Polovina.

The committee will hear formal presentations from those firms before making their final recommendation to the full legislature.

The companies being considered are O'Brien-Kreitzberg & Associates Inc., Gilbane Building Co., Day & Zimmerman Inc., Turner Construction Co., Huber, Hunt & Nichols, Ebasco Services Inc., Unzelman-DuBose, Wilmorite Inc. and Dick Enterprises.

Seven of the eight candidates are located in the northeast, and all have extensive national and international experience in airport construction, Polovina said.

"We've talked to a number of people around the country who've used these companies' services," he said.

The firm selected to act as construction manager will be responsible for reviewing cost estimates and bid documents, assisting development staff during the design process and overseeing actual construction work at the facility once expansion plans are under way. The project is expected to be completed in three to five years.

"It's a very key position in the overall organization of the project," explained Polovina. He said he hoped to have final approval from the legislature by the end of November.

The construction manager will also oversee management of the interim improvements going on at the facility, a task which is currently being handled by Polovina and his staff.

In other business, the committee awarded bids totaling $210,846 for the purchase of a rapid intervention fire vehicle used for airport emergencies, a four-wheel drive truck and a 2,000-gallon airport fuel tank. Federal and state funding will cover 98 percent of those costs, with the county picking up the rest of the tab, said Polovina.

Girl Scout cookie sale

It's Girl Scout cookie time and area residents can help support Girl Scouting through the cookie sale, which continues through Nov. 22.

The cookies sell for $3 a box and will be delivered in January.

This year's new cookie — golden nut cluster — is a chewy caramel and pecan cookie covered with a light maple coating.

Thin mints, samoas, trefoils, chalet cremes, do-si-dos, and tagalongs are also for sale this year.

Area residents who would like to place orders, but who have not been called upon by a Girl Scout, can contact the Hudson Valley Girl Scout Council in Delmar at 439-4936.

Chesterwood offers 'Angelic Christmas'

By Kathleen Shapiro

Antique toys, hot mulled cider and holiday decorations are all part of the festivities at the historic Chesterwood mansion, where visitors will be treated to a little bit of heaven on earth during the museum's upcoming "Angelic Christmas" exhibition.

Located 45 miles west of Albany in Stockbridge, Mass., Chesterwood is the former country estate of noted sculptor Daniel Chester French, who created the famous statue of Abraham Lincoln in the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C., the "Minute Man" in Concord, Mass., and the "Spirit of Life" in Saratoga Springs Congress Park.

One of French's professional passions, however, was sculpting angels. During his career, the artist completed 27 works in which angels were either the dominant figure or a secondary element. That same motif will come to life during the mansion's holiday exhibition, scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. beginning Saturday, Nov. 9, through Monday, Nov. 11.

Admission to the house is $5 for adults and $1 for visitors age 6 to 18. Members of the Friends of Chesterwood will be admitted free.

As part of the exhibit, many of the rooms in the 19th-century mansion, studio and barn gallery will be decorated to reflect the angelic theme, including an "Angelic Feast" motif in the mansion's dining room, "Golden Angels" in the living room and "Angels and Lace" in the master bedroom. Original plaster casts of French's work will also be on display.

"It's kind of a kickoff to the Christmas season," said Paul Ivory, museum director. "The decorations are just gorgeous. In fact, we have a lot of people who come to steal ideas (for home holiday decorations)."

Toys, games, dolls and books from the 19th and early 20th centuries will also grace the 20-room mansion. Loaned by collectors, museums and antique dealers in the area, exhibits will include antique train sets, Tinker Toys, teddy bears, a 1930s doll house and furnishings, roller skates, stilts, a 1938 Erector Set and a variety of dolls and doll accessories from around the world, including a Charlie McCarthy ventriloquist doll and figures made from bisque, papier mache and rags.

"It's a real treat for all ages," said Ivory. "It's very nostalgic looking at all the old toys. There's nothing plastic or modern."

The museum will also offer refreshments and free crafts demonstrations by local artists, including wooden Santa Claus carving on Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Christmas wreath-making on Monday from 1 to 3 p.m.

Visitors carried away by the holiday spirit can browse through the museum's gift shop for Victorian cards, Christmas ornaments, books, antique replica toys, reproductions of French's works and a variety of other holiday trinkets.

The Chesterwood mansion is located off Route 183 in the Glendale section of Stockbridge, off exit B-3 of the Massachusetts Turnpike. For information, call the museum at 413-298-3579.

Antique toys and holiday decorations will be part of the Chesterwood mansion's "Angelic Christmas" display beginning Nov. 9 through 11.

College fair provides chance to survey choices

By Robert Webster Jr.

As high school juniors and seniors around the country already know, the crunch time for filling out college applications has arrived. The January, or similarly close, deadline, is right around the corner, and if you still can't decide between the 20 or so colleges that look good, you've got a lot of writing to do.

However, if eliminating some choices from the competition in order to avoid filling out all those applications seems like a great idea, a last minute look at what is out there in the way of private, public and two- and four-year schools might not hurt.

The 18th annual College Information Program at the Convention Center in the Empire State Plaza on Wednesday, Nov. 6, will offer students, parents, transfer students and adults the opportunity to meet representatives from more than 250 colleges nationwide to discuss programs, costs, admissions procedures and financial aid in the world of higher academics.

Sponsored by the Hudson Mohawk Association of Colleges and Universities and the New York State Office of General Services, the program will allow individuals to gather information from several kinds of institutions, including two-year, four-year, public and private, which offer almost every field of study.

"It certainly has grown," said Margaret Reich, who has served as an analyst for the program for the last five years. "There were probably only 180 schools when it first started, around 200 when I came on, and now we're up to around 250. It shows how colleges are really out to recruit."

Colleges from all over the east coast, as well as schools from Florida, California and throughout the United States, will be on hand, said Mary Jane Sibincich, a member of the Hudson Mohawk Association. Representatives from West Point, the Air Force Academy and Army ROTC of the Capital District also will be present.

Area high schools will be providing buses and transporting juniors and seniors to the morning session, from 9 a.m. to noon, said Sibincich. An evening session from 6:30 to 9 p.m. will be offered for the parents of students, continuing education students, and adults interested in obtaining college credit.

The program is especially addressing the adult contingent of higher education this year, more so than in years past, said Reich.

She said the number of students enrolling in college has not declined over the years in the Capital District, although the number of 18-year-olds in the area has. Subsequently, the hole created by the loss of the typical 18-year-old freshman has been taken up by adults looking to supplement their education.

"There are real opportunities for the adult student today," said Linda Sweetman, director of admissions at Hudson Valley Community College. She said most adults come back to school looking to re-educate themselves after being laid off, or are trying to update themselves for survival in the ever-changing technological workplace.

"Some just need a course here or a course or two there to finish work on a degree or to update their individual knowledge in their field of work," said Sweetman. "They need to know the opportunity is there to return to school."

Additional services offered at the program include information tables on educational opportunities for the disadvantaged, disabled student services and several workshops on financial aid and athletic scholarships.

Representatives from the Higher Education Services Corporation and Norstar Bank, which is underwriting the program, will also be on hand to provide parents and students with tuition and financial aid information.

The sessions are free and open to the public.

For information, call the Hudson Mohawk Association of Colleges and Universities at 785-3219.

Annie proving to be hardy tyke as long-lasting theater favorite

Although the musical, Annie, has played professionally in the region a number of times and local community groups have done it, the story of the 1930s orphan continues to prove popular.

With less than a week before Annie appears once more in Albany (Nov. 3 at the Palace Theater), tickets have been selling very well.

This is in contrast to the recent one-performance production of Kiss Me Kate also at the Palace which sold poorly.

The plus for Annie is that it can entertain adult and child alike. Grandparents remember the popularity of the comic strip while parents have echoes of Tomorrow, the upbeat anthem so familiar to Annie audiences.

Children who see the show identify with the youngsters who play Annie and her sister orphans while adults can find some relevancy in the show's dealing with Depression era of the 1930s.

The National Touring Musicals production is making a series of one-night tours around the country from its home base in New York and features a non-Equity company which takes several musicals a year throughout the nation.

For more info, call 476-1000.

Heritage Artists introduces staff, cast for new season at Cohoes Music Hall

Tonight (Wed. Oct. 30) producing artistic director David Holdridge will introduce his new production and administrative staff which will formulate the new season for Heritage Artists at the Cohoes Music Hall.

Holdridge will also present the cast which will appear in The Little Shop of Horrors, the first musical of the season opening in mid-November.

During the summer, the staff consisted of one person, Holdridge. He and Dr. William Grattan, president of the Heritage board, and Albany County Health Commissioner, spent the last five months rounding up financial help so they could hire a staff which will both prepare the productions and also work with the community in gaining support and audience members.

Capital Repertory Company adjusts to economic downturn in area

With theaters struggling to find audiences, various marketing methods are being advanced. At the Capital Repertory Company in Albany, tickets prices are being adjusted to encourage a larger segment of the audience to attend.

For example, tickets for the rest of the season will be reduced at all performances for students, senior citizens and military personnel with valid identification. These tickets may be purchased one hour before performance for any available ticket at $8.

In addition, during this same one-hour period before curtain, the general public will be able to purchase any available ticket for half-price ($8.50 to $12).

Managing director Robert Holley also announced that audiences may attend a "Pay What You Will" night on the Sunday evening dress rehearsal prior to a show's opening.

Meanwhile, the theater's opening production, The House of Blue Leaves, closes its run this Sunday. For more info, call 462-4534.

RPI Players open two-week run of Tonight We Improvise

Luigi Pirandello's Tonight We Improvise opens Thursday (Oct. 31) at the RPI Playhouse as the first production of the RPI Players 62nd season.

Pirandello, an early 20th century Italian playwright fascinated with the actor's creative process, deals here with actors trying to "write" a play. It is similar to the playwright's Six Characters In Search of an Author, a clever exercise in dealing with characterization in a play.

Lee Ryan is directing this production which runs through Nov. 9. He has cast area college students along with RPI Players in the various roles of a group of actors dealing with a new play.

For more info, call 276-6503.

Around Theaters!

A Bedfull of Foreigners, a British farce, plays Friday through Sunday at the St. Andrew's Dinner Theater in Albany. (463-3811)... Faith Healer, Brian Friel's Irish play, at Steamer No. 10 Theater, Albany, Friday through Sunday, Admission free... The Ghost Story, 19th century tale at Shakespeare and Company, Lenox, Mass., Thursday through Sunday. (413-637-3353).

SPOTLIGHT TEENSCENE

By Michael Kagan

Area high school students have a chance to voice ideas toward solving today's energy problems, and can win U.S. savings bonds in the process.

The New York State Energy Research and Development Authority and the state Energy Office will be accepting project proposals until Nov. 6 for the eleventh annual Student Energy Research Competition. High school students in grades 9 through twelve, from both public and private schools, are eligible to compete. Projects may submitted be on an individual or group basis.

The competition has two rounds. Round one begins with students submitting one to three page descriptions of their research idea. The proposals will be judged by the Energy Authority and the Energy Office staff.

The top 105 projects will be selected to compete in round two. Awards of up to $500 will be given to teams for materials needed to get their projects ready for the second round.

Round two will take place from May 18 to 20 in 1992. Students and teachers will bring completed projects to the Empire State Plaza Convention Center in Albany for evaluation by a panel of experts from various energy related fields.

The final winners of the competition will be awarded savings bonds and medallions. Commemorative plaques will be given to winning students' schools.

To obtain competition brochures and applications, contact the New York State Energy Research and Development Authority Communications Department at 1-800-423-7283 (SAVE). Proposals should be submitted to the Energy Authority/Energy Office.

For high school juniors and seniors and their parents, the Hudson Mohawk Association of Colleges and Universities and the New York State Office of General Services will sponsor the 18th annual College Information Program at the Convention Center in the Empire State Plaza on Wednesday, Nov. 6.

Representatives from more than 250 colleges nationwide, along with branches of the military, will be on hand. Representatives from the Higher Education Services Corporation and Norstar Bank, which is underwriting the program, will be available to discuss tuition and financial aid.

Program sessions, set for 9 a.m. to noon and 7 to 9 p.m., are free. For information, call the Hudson Mohawk Association of Colleges and Universities at 785-3219, or read the article in this week's Spotlight Family section.

The Albany Jewish Community Center, at 340 Whitehall Road, will host its seventh annual Sherer Dance for Jewish teens on Nov. 3, from 6 to 10 p.m. The theme will be "Dancing in the Streets," and music will be provided by Partymaster. Teens are also needed to help organize and set up the dance.

For information, call 438-6651.

Museum to have Adirondack camp-in Families with youngsters ages seven to 12 can enjoy the thrill of wilderness camping without the chill at an Adirondack Camp-In at the New York State Museum on Friday, Nov. 8, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 a.m. the next morning.

Parents and their children will enjoy games and campfire tales, create creatures and hit the trail for a treasure hunt.

Breakfast will be served the morning after the overnight stay in the museum's Adirondack Hall.

Cost is $24 per person, with museum members paying $20. One adult is required per three children, and everyone is asked to bring a sleeping bag.

For information, call 474-5801.

Saratoga museum plans art workshop

The Children's Museum at Saratoga is sponsoring a intergenerational art workshop, beginning with Grandma Moses, on Saturday, Nov. 9, at 1 p.m. in the Community Room at the Adirondack Trust Company, 112 South Broadway, Saratoga Springs.

Drawing on personal memories of winters past, students of all ages will be encouraged to paint these images in a style reminiscent of Grandma Moses.

The paintings will be displayed in the Downstreet Marketplace during the Victorian Walk on Dec. 5.

Cost is $10 per child.

To register, call 587-8683.
