Dems lose exec spot in last hurrah

By Kathleen Shapiro and Sal Prividera Jr.

Voters resoundingly answered Republican Michael J. Hoblock's call for change in Albany County government, electing him to the post over Democrat Robert G. Lyman by a more than 17,000-vote margin, with most of the votes tallied.

"We brought two party government back to Albany County after 70 long years. We have taken our county government out of the hands of a few and given it back to all the people of Albany County," Hoblock said in his victory speech at the Desmond America late Tuesday night.

"I wish him luck," said Lyman, shortly after phoning Hoblock to concede defeat. "He'll need it. The county has a lot of challenges ahead, and I sure hope everything goes well. I wish him only the best term in office."

"Honesty for a change" was the theme of the Republican's charge for the top county seat, which also targeted the leaders of the Albany Democratic Party. Throughout the campaign, Hoblock focused much of his attention on the need

Open door policy

In a statement to The Spotlight Newspapers, County Executive-elect Michael J. Hoblock declared that the "openness and fairness" he promised in his successful campaign "will become evident from the start." His statement is published in full in the Point of View column on page 7 of this issue.

"One of my first priorities will be to restore confidence and pride in county government," he said, adding that "honesty, integrity, and ethics... are a credo by which I plan to base my stewardship in the County Executive's office."

"The County Executive's office will be open to all and closed to none. I will seek citizen input and in some cases expertise in many areas."

"Before we buy, contact, agree to, or build, the residents of Albany County will know what we are doing and why we are doing it."

GOP takes it all!

By Susan Wheeler

In a landslide victory, Bethlehem Supervisor Ken Ringler took the town in typical GOP fashion to win election to a second term.

"I'm very grateful for the support of the Bethlehem residents," Ringler said Tuesday night at GOP headquarters in Town Squire Shopping Center in Glenmont.

"I'll do my best to live up to their high expectations," he said.

Ringler, 43, was pitted against Slingerlands Democrat William F. McGarry Jr. According to the Albany County Board of Elections, Ringler garnered 6,543 votes on the Republican line and 405 Conservative votes. The tally for McGarry, 54, was 3,908.

"The people spoke," McGarry said. "We ran a campaign we thought was right. We'll come back. I might give it another shot."

GOP Committee Chairman Bernard Kaplowitz said Ringler's "numbers were phenomenal." "It's more than two to one," he said. "They say if you have more than 60 percent, it's a landslide."

In addition to Ringler's victory, all Republican candidates beat their Democrat opponents by nearly two to one.

Republican incumbents Sheila Fuller and Frederick Webster took the town board seats with 7,349 and 6,833 votes respectively. Democrats Anthony Cornell and James Banagan received 4,401 and 4,715 votes respectively. Republican incumbent town justice Peter Wenger received 7,167 votes, and his opponent, Democrat John Dorfman, garnered 4,621.

Republican Kathleen Newkirk received 6,965 votes for the town clerk seat being vacated by the retiring Carolyn Lyons, while Democrat Florence Derry received 4,154. Receiver of Taxes and Assessments Republican Kenneth Hahn received 7,732 votes, to 3934 for Democrat Michael Mogul.

Republican Gregg Sagendorph, receiving 7,677 votes, will replace the retiring Martin Cross as the superintendent of highways. His opponent, Democrat Thomas Skultety, received 4,335 votes.

"We're very pleased certainly," Kaplowitz said. "It's a gratifying experience for all the Republicans."

Bethlehem Republicans ran a "good slate of candidates," according to Democratic Committee Chairman Matthew Clyne. "I wish them the best of luck."

According to Albany County Board of Elections April 1991 data, the total number of registered Bethlehem voters in its 27 districts is 16,504, of which 4,393 are enrolled as Democrats, 7,606 as Republicans and 111 as Conservative. No party

Republicans shrug off town board challenge

By Susan Graves

Bethlehem GOP town board members handily defeated Democratic opponents in Tuesday's election. Incumbent Frederick Webster garnered 6,833 votes and Sheila Fuller, appointed to the board in June, received 7,349.

"I am very happy. We did very well," Fuller said, "I'm pleased it's over."

Webster and Fuller were challenged by two political newcomers, Democrats James Banagan and Anthony Cornell. Banagan and Cornell received 4,715 and 4,401 votes respectively. The Democrats had waged an energetic campaign, enrolling almost 600 new voters, but were unable to penetrate the Republican stronghold in Bethlehem.

Only one Democrat, Robert Burns, had been elected to a board seat in this century. Burns resigned from the board last spring after accepting a position with the Monroe County probation department.

Both Fuller and Webster, who ran door-to-door campaigns, said residents were generally happy with town government.

Fuller, 47, said she is looking forward to serving her first full term. Before she assumed the town seat, Fuller served as president of the Bethlehem school board. "I am looking forward to all the challenges ahead and I feel I will give 100 percent of my effort. The community deserves nothing less," she said. "Their support has been very gratifying to me."

"I'm proud to have run with her (Fuller)," Webster said. "Sheila Fuller worked very hard and I think the results showed that."

Early today, Matthew Clyne, Bethlehem Democratic chairman, said the outcome of the county executive race affected the town results. "I think the county executive race definitely impacted on results in the town," he said.

"It's been a tough year for Democrats," he said. But he conceded the Bethlehem Republicans "did run a good slate." Clyne said that "the people are satisfied with the present administration."

Webster, 64, said there weren't a lot of issues in the campaign. "Most of the issues the Democrats used were already our accomplishments, and I think the people realized that," he said.

Webster said he is looking forward to continue working to solve difficult issues such as solid waste. "I'm hoping we can find solutions and satisfy the people's needs," he declared.

Info for Vets on tax exemptions

Veterans interested in learning more about their tax exemption options and how they will apply in the revaluation process are invited to attend a meeting being at the American Legion Post on Popular Drive, Elsmere, on Thursday, Nov. 7, at 7:30 p.m.

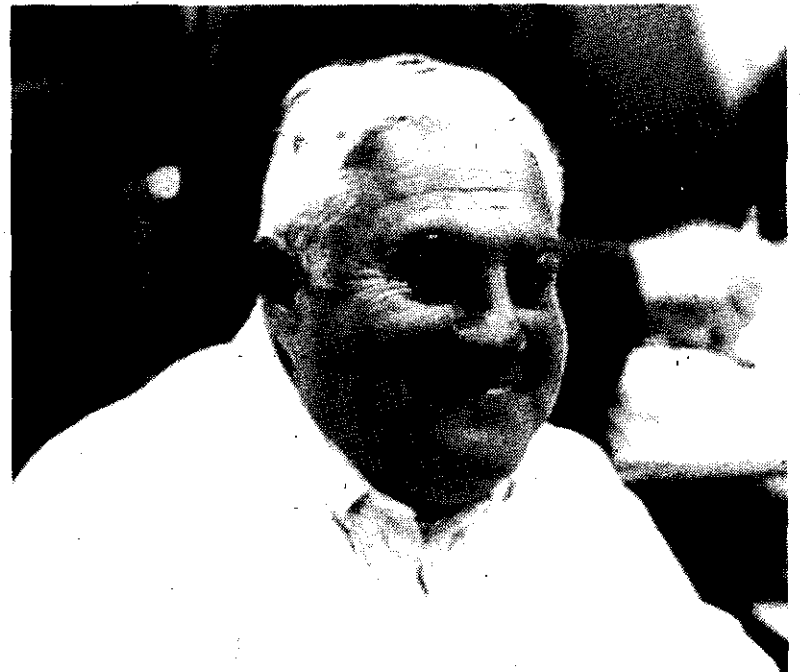

Any veteran, age 60 and over, who would like to attend this meeting, but is without transportation, should contact the town's Senior Services office at 439-4955.

Owens manager to address chamber

Owens Corning Fiberglas is hosting a reception and presentation at the facility on Route 32 in Selkirk on Tuesday, Nov. 12, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Plant Manager Craig Burroughs will speak to Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce members about the plant and its role in the community.

Reservations are required. Call the chamber hotline no later than Monday, Nov. 11, at 439-0512.

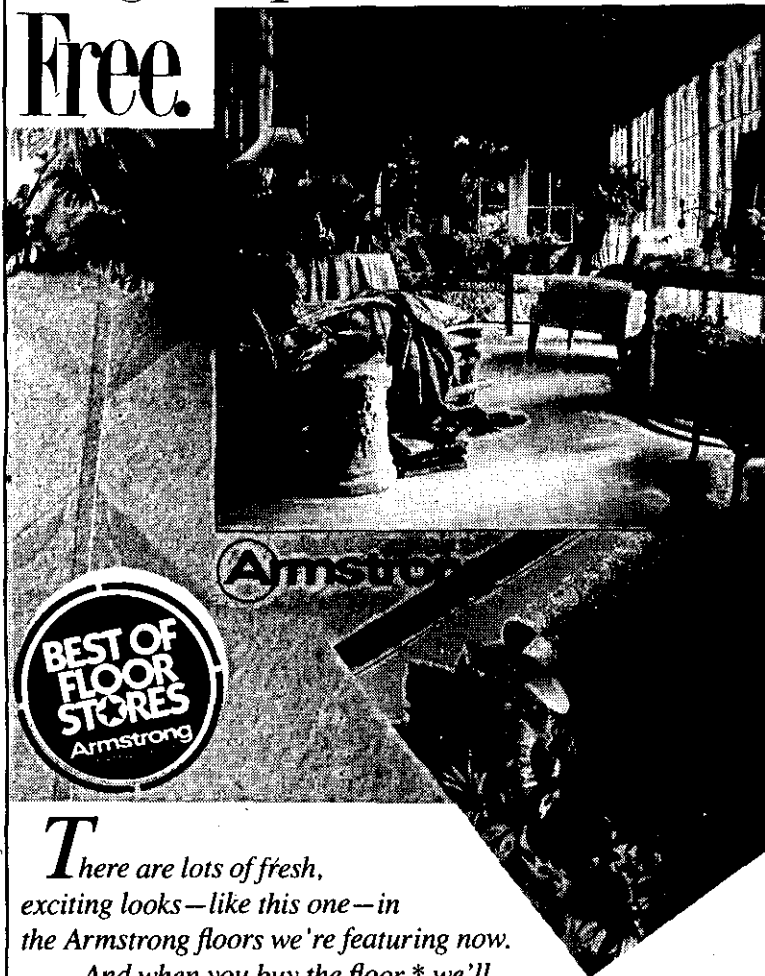

Bethlehem Republican Committee Chairman Bernard Kaplowitz (above) couldn't be more pleased with town tallies Tuesday night. Town board members Frederick Webster and Sheila Fuller are also happy with election results. Webster will serve his second term. Fuller, appointed in June to fill the unexpired term of Democrat Robert Burns, will serve her first full term. The two admit they are glad the election is over. The GOP slate swept all town races. Democrat board majority sweetens Reilly victory

By Mike Larabee

New Scotland voters brought a decisive end to Republican rule in the town Tuesday, electing a first-ever Democratic majority to the town board by a wide margin.

Two-term incumbent Herbert Reilly easily outdistanced Republican Harry Van Wormer, sweeping all seven town election districts on the way to an unofficial 2,576 to 1,479 victory, according to the Albany County Board of Elections.

Democratic Town Board member John Sgarlata was re-elected and will now be joined on the board by fellow Democrat Richard Decker. Unofficially, Sgarlata and Decker tallied 2,277 and 2,049 votes respectively, to top Republicans C. James Coffin and Robert Vollaro, who garnered 1,708 and 1,665.

"Everybody said this was a bad year to be a Democrat," Sgarlata said to a cheering crowd of party members at Democratic headquarters at the New Scotland Elks Club on Main Street in Voorheesville. "Did we show 'em or what!"

GOP headquarters at the American Legion Hall up the street was more subdued, as Van Wormer and party members recorded losses in district after district. "I don't know how to explain it," said Roz Robinson, a Republican committee person. "I'm surprised. They just stayed on the Democratic line for those three races."

Robinson said she knew the election was going badly as soon as she got vote totals from District 1 (the New Salem/Indian Ladder Farms area), her home district and traditionally a Republican stronghold. "When I got my results and saw they lost in that district, I knew that they didn't have a chance."

Unofficially, the closest Van Wormer came to carrying a district was a 44 vote gap in District 4, where the GOP holds a 119 enrollment advantage. Reilly won District 5, based in Scotch Pine, and District 6, which is centered in Salem Hills, by combined totals of 759 to 366. Districts 5 and 6 are the strongest town districts for the Democrats.

"We got our clocks cleaned there," Robinson said.

Reilly said he was buoyed by the margin of victory.

"It feels great," he said. "We've got a nice team here. We're going to show the people that we can give them their money's worth."

The change in board control could mean bad news for Republican-appointed Town Attorney Frederick Riester as well. Reilly said he would take action to replace Riester as soon as Decker joined the board. Reilly has often charged that Riester drags his feet on town projects, and said Tuesday night that he feels he would be better served by an attorney selected by his own party.

While Decker Tuesday night wouldn't commit publicly to a vote to oust Riester, he said he intended to "support" Reilly on the question. Sgarlata, who has three times in the past offered motions to fire Riester, first said only that he would consider replacing the attorney. But later, while addressing the Elks club crowd, he was more definitive.

"The first of the year they're going to see some changes at town hall," Sgarlata said. "There's going to be an opening for a town attorney."

Van Wormer said he was proud of the GOP's conduct throughout the campaign, and that he had expected a tighter race.

"I'm disappointed," he said. "We worked hard. It's hard to fight an incumbent who's been running a campaign for four years on a daily basis."

The theme of Van Wormer's campaign was that the town needs leadership and direction it hasn't gotten during Reilly's tenure. Reilly had countered that he has often been stifled by opposition from the board's three Republicans, and had called on voters to elect the unprecedented Democratic majority.

Decker will assume the seat vacated by longtime GOP board member Wyman Osterhout.

Sgarlata said that now that the Democratic Party has board control, they'll have to follow through on campaign promises. "We asked for a majority and they gave us a majority," he said. "Now we have to produce."

The Republicans won all four of the other town races at issue Tuesday, according to the county board.

Incumbent Highway Superintendent Michael Hotaling, who was running unopposed, led all vote getters with 2,775. Town Justice Kenneth Connolly turned back first-time candidate Michael Mackey 2,604 to 1,273 and former clerk Corinne Cossac reclaimed the post she held for 12 years until 1987 with a 2,087 to 1,743 win over Democrat Patricia Thorpe.

In the closest of the non-policy making post races, Republican Tax Collector Marilyn Holmberg was re-elected over Democrat Patricia Shultes, 2,055 to 1,740.

Young wins three-way county race

By Mike Larabee

Guilderland Republican William Young emerged victorious in a three-way 33rd District race for Albany County Legislature, outstripping Democrat Edward Donohue and incumbent Michael Ricci, who was running on the Conservative Party line.

Young easily won the Guilderland portion in the geographically-divided district and stayed close enough in New Scotland to beat Donohue by 182 vote margin Tuesday. Young finished with 1,541 votes, while Donohue tallied 1,359 and Ricci won 816.

Donohue lost for the third time in three tries for the seat. He said Tuesday that he doesn't plan to run again.

In a September primary, Young beat Ricci by 30 votes to win the GOP nod for the seat. But Ricci, a 24-year incumbent who had earlier been endorsed by the county Conservative Party, continued to campaign actively for re-election.

"I was very disappointed that he continued to run after I was the designee of the party," Young said. "He ended up third and anybody who wanted to listen to me during the campaign, I told them that's where he was going to end up."

According to unofficial results, Ricci won 615 votes in New Scotland and 203 in Guilderland. Donohue captured 1,012 New Scotland and 347 Guilderland votes, while Young won 771 votes in New Scotland and 770 votes in his home town.

Both Ricci and Donohue live within New Scotland in the Village of Voorheesville.

Young said the fact that his vote was split evenly between the two towns indicated he had "broad-based support" among the electorate. In addition, he said he felt he was helped by Republican Michael Hoblock's win as county executive.

"I really am looking forward to getting to work on the issues and getting to work with Mike in the county legislature," Young said. "I think it's going to be an exciting time for government in Albany County. I think it's going to bring a lot of these decisions back before the people so that the people know what goes into the decision-making process."

In the 38th district, Democrat incumbent Charles Houghtaling beat Republican Louise Benigno, 1,892 to 1,051, according to the county board of elections.

The 38th district includes the southern half of the Town of New Scotland and all of the Town of Westerlo.

Democrats take Supreme Court justice seats

Voters elected three Democrats to serve as justices on the state Supreme Court Tuesday.

James B. Canfield, Thomas W. Keegan and Edward O. Spain were voted in over Republicans H. Clark Bell, Robert A. Smith and Michael E. Stafford.

With a majority of the votes counted, Keegan led the vote total, followed by Spain and then Canfield. Stafford led the way for the Republicans, but fell short of Canfield.

Keegan, 51, of Albany, is currently an Albany County Court judge. Prior to being appointed to that post in 1989, he served as Albany Police Court justice for 16 years.

Spain, 51, a lifelong Troy resident, has 14 years of experience on the bench. He was elected Rensselaer County Police Court judge in 1977 and re-elected in 1983. He also was a part-time assistant district attorney for Rensselaer County.

James B. Canfield, 51, a lifelong Troy resident, has been practicing law since 1965. He was elected as Rensselaer County district attorney in 1985. He has also served as Rensselaer County assistant attorney, assistant district attorney and assistant public defender from 1975 to 1985.

He maintained a private practice in Rensselaer County until his 1985 election. Canfield has been on the Troy Zoning Board of Appeals for 11 years.

Hoblock

for honesty, integrity and fiscal responsibility in local government, repeatedly pointing to his opponent as "a principal stockholder in the 'go-along, get-along gang'" of Democrats that had run the county for the past 16 years. Hoblock also campaigned on the record of County Executive James J. Coyne, who was indicted in July on 28 felony counts of bribery, extortion, conspiracy and fraud.

"Tonight, my pledge to you is run an open, honest and accountable bipartisan government," Hoblock said, adding "The future holds great challenges... we need to turn things around and do a better job."

Hoblock set a goal of making Albany County government the model that other county governments would want to imitate.

Facing a Democrat-controlled legislature, he called for all in county government to "put aside party affiliations" and form a coalition to create a successful government.

He noted operating the county government will be difficult in times of reduced revenues and great demand for services. He put out a call for county workers "to work harder and care more," and for the community to support them.

Lyman and other county Democrats admitted that Coyne's record may have been a major factor in the county executive's race and other Democratic defeats across throughout the area.

"I think Coyne played a very significant role," said Lyman. "There's no question (the party) had a lot to overcome from the outset."

"Jim Coyne did more to hurt Bob Lyman than anyone else in the county," said Legislative Ma-iority Leader Richard Meyers. "His effect on the whole Democratic party was devastating."

Lyman said he was disappointed with the loss, but conceded that the voters' desire for change may have been a factor in his defeat. "It makes you feel pretty bad when the voters say you're not what they're looking for this time around," he said.

Lyman said he was pleased with the campaign, despite the final results. "If I had it to do over again, I would have liked to win," he said. "Other than that, I don't know what else I could have done differently."

Rather than breaking the party, County Democratic Chairman Harold Joyce said the Lyman defeat would only serve to make it stronger. "We're just going to come out tomorrow morning and work a little harder," he said.

Joyce also praised Lyman for his hard work throughout the campaign. "He did a monumental job," said Joyce. "(The party) had a lot of things to overcome, and we didn't. Maybe we will in the future."

Tuesday night, Lyman had maintained a strong showing in the City of Albany, but lost large portions of the vote in several areas, including Watervliet, Coeymans, Cohoes and the Town of Colonie. "We really couldn't overcome what happened in the suburbs," said Lyman.

A Loudonville resident, Hoblock, 48, is a partner in the Albany law firm of Zubres, D'Agostino, Hoblock and Greisler.

He is a member of the Colonie Town Board and former state assemblyman for seven years. He also served in the Marines during the Vietnam War.

An Albany resident, Lyman, 51, has served as commissioner of the Capital District Transportation Authority for the past 12 years, and was formerly county attorney for nine years.

During the campaign, the two candidates sparred over issues like the need for change in county government, local spending and management of county facilities such as the Albany County airport, Knickerbocker Arena and hockey training facility in Colonie.

In the past several months, Hoblock has called for tighter county spending controls, the establishment of an advisory panel to develop recommendations for selling or leasing the Knick arena, and a budget process that would include more bipartisan cooperation between legislators and the county executive.

Hoblock wins local towns

Republican county executive victor Michael Hoblock easily outdistanced Democrat Robert Lyman in both Bethlehem and New Scotland.

According to Albany County Board of Elections figures, 8,552 Bethlehem voters cast ballots for Hoblock, while Lyman received 3,150 Bethlehem votes.

Lyman received 1,306 votes in New Scotland, while Hoblock won 2,654 in the town, according to the board.

Bethlehem voters gave Albany County Comptroller incumbent Democrat Edward Stack 3,834 votes and Republican candidate Monica Bell 7,448 votes. In New Scotland, Stack won 1,572 votes, while Bell tallied 2,232.

A majority of Bethlehem voters said "no" on state-wide ballot proposition one. The proposition concerned bonding capacity of the state's Job Development Authority. In all, 4,178 Bethlehem voters voted "yes," while 5,078 voted "no."

On proposition two, which was to permit an exchange at Pisco Airport in Hamilton County, 5,770 Bethlehem voters said "yes," while 3,746 said "no."

Proposition three, concerning New York's barge canals, won approval of 6,770 Bethlehem voters, while 2,755 turned thumbs down on the proposal.

Ringler

designation was specified for 4,299 Bethlehem residents.

According to Republican Committeeman Richard Olson, of South Bethlehem, about 70 percent of the seventh election district of South Bethlehem and Selkirk voted for Ringler and Republican county executive candidate Michael Hoblock. "It's a great turnout for an off-presidential year," he said. Approximately 418 voters of the 584 registered cast a ballot in the seventh district, he said. "It's an exciting year— if you're a Republican."

Ringler, who lives on Harrison Avenue, Delmar, with his wife and daughter, has a degree in finance from Siena College. The former New York Army National Guard captain is president of Del Lanes, Inc. and the Delmar Car Wash, Inc. He served as planning board chairman from 1988 to 1990.

The Albany County native and Bethlehem resident since 1973 is a Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce member, served as the chamber's vice president and president and as a Town Government Committee member. In addition, Ringler was a claims adjuster in the insurance industry and specialized in the state's unemployment insurance program at the Department of Labor.

Matters of Opinion

The Hoblock victory

Michael Hoblock's election as Albany County Executive provides sharp testimony to the revulsion that large numbers of citizens have felt about the recent conduct of that office. The challenge to him now is to turn disillusion around and, through decisive efficiency and clear-cut open dealing, re-establish public pride and confidence. He should now do for the county what Mayor Thomas M. Whalen III has accomplished in the city of Albany. Though of different parties, they may well work in harness when the public good calls for coordination.

Mr. Hoblock's victory will be satisfying for many people, far beyond Republican partisans; namely, all those who have been turned off by the arrogance, insensitivity, and inattention that has characterized the administration of James J. Coyne. Robert Lyman's failing in this campaign was his inability to find ways to separate himself from the stigma.

In winning, Mr. Hoblock joins a small squad of Republicans who have managed to carry Albany County since 1920: Nelson Rockefeller, Daniel Button, Walter Langley, Cherchez les femmes

That's something the movers and shakers, the ticket-shapers, of the Republican and Democratic parties need to do more of locally.

In this week's voting, the scales were heavily weighted with male candidates. Out of the scores of people running for various offices: Judicial seats, county-wide positions, County Legislature seats; and Supervisors, other town offices and boards, no more than a relative handful were women.

For example, among the many lawyers who happen to be female, none was sought for the State Supreme Court, for which some obviously are fully qualified. This is in keeping with long-standing tradition in the area. The same is true of Family Court, where a woman might well be considered to have abilities equal to most men and perhaps insights that would be superior.

Another office for which women clearly are qualified—and eminently available—is the County Legislature. In the legislative districts that The Spotlight Newspapers cover, where some 15 seats (with 30 candidates) were open, only four women were on their respective tickets. One of these was a Republican incumbent; two were Democrats in Republican districts; one was a Republican in a Democratic district. In fact, the County Legislature itself is notorious for its lack of women members.

The presence of Monica Bell on the Republican ticket opposing the incumbent Comptroller, Ed Stack, was a welcome

Take 'em off, take 'em off

Those ubiquitous election placards (some also call them obnoxious and pernicious) have served their time. And now it's up to the responsible parties and candidates to remove them promptly. Left standing, they are a blot on the landscape that imposes on the good nature of all residents and visitors.

Predictably, some neat and conscien-

Arnold Proskin, and Teresa Cooke. It now appears that his personal success was unable to assist many of his running mates. This suggests anew the need for restructuring the party's county leadership. Strength concentrated in a couple of towns is not adequate. And, conversely, Democrats committed to governing effectively — as well as simply winning elections — presumably will think about checking some of their own baggage.

The results in Bethlehem are a strong endorsement of Ken Ringler's direct approach to emerging problems and issues. The town's Democrats under Matt Clyne, however, are to be commended, for offering a complete ticket.

In New Scotland, with greater focus on personalities, reelection of Supervisor Herb Reilly, together with other Democrats' gains, may clarify the tangled picture there.

innovation. But it also adhered to a long tendency in her party to "permit" a woman to run for offices that are viewed as long shots at best. (Frequently, the women thus recognized do better than originally expected.)

In the towns, the office of Town Clerk is the historic refuge of women. In Bethlehem, New Scotland, and Colonie, all six candidates were women; two were incumbents. The only other town-wide office in those three towns that was contested by women was for New Scotland's tax collector; both candidates were women (one the incumbent).

In Bethlehem, one woman sought election to the Town Board (she already was a sitting member, having been appointed during the summer). One Town Board member in Colonie likewise was seeking reelection.

And that's it. This is the extent to which the male bench-warmers in our towns have moved aside enough to give a few Designated Hitters their turn at the plate.

(Guilderland has just elected a woman Supervisor, choosing her over another woman, incidentally.)

In a world that can produce the Golda Meirs, the Indira Gandhis, the Margaret Thatchers, the Corazon Aquinos, and the heads of some other nations, it does seem as though our local offices — as eminent and demanding as they parochially may seem to us — might well be filled very satisfactorily by qualified members of this Not-So-Silent Majority. They probably are not so very hard to discover.

tious ex-candidates may already have been out taking down the colorful cards. Good for them, and thanks! So let's encourage all the others to do so now and thus further indicate that as citizens they're good enough to warrant having sought elective office. Backing up the clean-up effort should be the town and county party organizations, when necessary.

Our coverage underscores Spotlight's role as a forum

Editor, The Spotlight:

Congratulations on the extraordinary series of The Spotlight and The Colonie Spotlight over the last three weeks. Your extensive coverage of the candidates and their perceptions of the issues was quite a feat.

This was a most important public service. The candidates' essays were informative and generally well focused on the issues that confront our communities and our county. Your interviews with the competing candidates, a major undertaking, provided important personal perspectives.

I hope your comprehensive coverage will encourage more residents, those who elect as well as those elected, to use The Spotlight as a public forum to address public policy issues that have a local and county focus. All of us must accept this responsibility which is part of our heritage, "Where the people have liberty to admit or reject their governors and to require the rule by which they shall be governed and judged . . ."

Property owners victim of shifting tax burden

Editor, the Spotlight:

I have sent the following comments to the Bethlehem Town Clerk for inclusion in the record of the Oct. 30 public hearing on the budget (which I was unable to attend):

The Supervisor's summary of the 1992 tentative budget indicates a significant reduction in state aid and county sales tax revenue, with total appropriations increasing from $16,619,608 to $16,854,882 (or 1.42 percent).

The local property tax to support this level of expenditure will increase from $8.04 million to $8.87 million (or 10.5 percent). The increases range from 4.5 percent for the sewer fund to 50 percent for the town general fund. If, as predicated, reassessment increases taxes for one-third of the taxable property, many older homeowners may find their taxes will be increasing from 20 to 30 percent.

The reduction in state aid and the increase in the employee retirement contribution rates has shifted an unbearable burden to the property owner. The fiscal situation at the state level suggests a continuation of reduced state aid in the future. How long can the local tax base support the shifting of the tax burden to the property owner? Fiscal prudence suggests limiting property tax increases to the rate of inflation.

One argument for reassessment of property was the alleged inequities in property assessment. It appears likely that inequities may exist in the way the water and sewer property taxes, water rents, sewer surcharges, and front-footage assessment are established without Town Board approval and a public hearing process.

Over 56 percent of the budget's local property tax revenue is derived from water and sewer property tax, rents, surcharges, and assessments and about 44 percent from general town and highway property tax.

In the tentative budget the sewer fund estimated revenues from the property tax is $2,291,345. This includes the charge of $1.23

First term over, seeking reelection

Your Uncle Dudley never has been very good at keeping things under his hat, so I'm almost certainly not revealing any secret when I mention that this week's contribution will wind up four years of Dudleyisms.

It was in the second week of November that the column began to appear in the pages of The Spotlight, and with the exception of a couple of issues missed because of the sniffles this byline has occupied this space ever since.

That's just about 200 weekly columns, each of them approximately 700 words in length. Your abacus will inform you that, accordingly, Uncle Dudley has provided something like 140,000 well-chosen words to the world's literature. Not quite as much as, say, a Norman Mailer novel or even GWTW, but really a quite respectable length in comparison with many of the best-sellers that you're likely to pay $22.95 for.

On the subject of things literary, two developments within the past few days have cheered me greatly, giving me courage to enter the fifth year. (It's a little bit like George Bush or perhaps Jimmy Carter or Herbert Hoover, each having completed a four-year term in office, deciding to seek a renewal on the lease.)

The encouraging developments: First, next week will see

Peril strikes the veterinary surgery

With the certainty of a timer's stopwatch, Dick Francis has come through once more with the annual mystery. He has been doing this for the past 30 years, and probably everyone reading this column knows that each book is set against a racing background.

The most recent is "Comeback," and it is one of the most engrossing, according to my tastes. Those familiar with Constant Reader's habits and preference are aware that I am a Dick Francis fan, unalloyed; in fact, on more than one occasion a Francis book has been noted in the column.

I own a copy of every single one of the 30, though some of the earlier ones are in paperback, inasmuch as I hadn't caught on to his writings back in the '60s and have had to pick copies up through diligent but random searching.

If the underlying theme of them all is horse racing, the overriding common element involves the months of first-hand research that the author spends each year in order to familiarize himself with intricacies of a new occupation around which to construct a highly specialized plot.

The particular aspect around which "Comeback" is woven is veterinary medicine, as practiced in Gloucestershire. But the principal character is, instead, a youngish diplomat who happens into an exceedingly messy situation. On his way from Tokyo to a new posting in London, he has decided the publication of a book titled "The Runaway Soul," on which a writer, Harold Brodkey, has been working for the past 27 years. It is his first novel, runs 836 pages, and for much of the past quarter century has been referred to as "the greatest novel never written." Perhaps the work will receive the acclaim that some critics are suggesting, but the truly wonderful part is the boost that this gives to all of us who have been "working" on an unfinished masterpiece for years and years (not approaching, yet, 27). It was only 10 years ago that I received the inspiration for my own novel that remains "in progress" — sporadic progress, perhaps, but its status now has been stabilized by the Brodkey Effect.

Second, word has come that a manuscript that was also begun many years ago by James Michener, but then misplaced and considered lost, has been retrieved and the novelist is at work on updating, revising, and completing. But the very best part of the account was the incidental mention that Mr. Michener has written all those books on an old manual typewriter. He shuns such devices as "word processors," computers and all that jazz. Because I am among the benighted who likewise decline to be turned into an attachment for a funny little screen, I was vastly cheered by the Michener position. I've never liked his books very much, but now my mind is in the process of being amended. Anyone who agrees with one of my prejudices must be all right, I always say.

cause I am among the benighted who likewise decline to be turned into an attachment for a funny little screen, I was vastly cheered by the Michener position. I've never liked his books very much, but now my mind is in the process of being amended. Anyone who agrees with one of my prejudices must be all right, I always say.

And two other bits of news were welcome in days just past. One is very personal: the arrival of a new granddaughter. She is the fifth girl among seven grands, and she has been given the name of Anna. It has no family connection, but the parents just thought it a pretty name — and it certainly is not one that's being overdone. I think of Anna Karenina, Anna and the King of Siam, and my fifth-grade teacher. Since there is another granddaughter whose name is Susannah, I am going to have to concentrate on keeping them distinct in my mind as I slip farther and farther into my dotage. Anna was born on Navy Day, which not coincidentally is Teddy Roosevelt's birthday, all of which is fine too.

Otherwise, one of the funniest news stories was the fact reported from the Madrid conference that Israeli and Arab delegates wouldn't shake hands with each other but instead each group agreed to shake the hand of the King of Spain.

genuine—at least for me. Meanwhile, the detail of equine surgery as described in a couple of lengthy passages is engrossing in itself—another example of the degree to which Dick Francis immerses himself in peculiarities of the various professions and trades that lie behind his expert plotting.

In previous thrillers, for example, the various principals have had occupations (all having been mastered by the author in the interest of accuracy and flavor) such as physicist (in "Twice Shy," 1982); wine merchant ("Proof," 1985); investment banker ("Banker," 1983); travel writer ("Longshot," 1990); inventor ("High Stakes," 1975); newspaperman ("Forfeit," 1969); accountant ("Risk," 1977); security operative ("The Edge," 1988), and of course several in which he's a jockey (sometimes being retired due to severe injuries or other trauma (as in "Straight," 1989; "Reflex," 1981; "Bolt," 1987; and "Enquiry," 1968).)

The action is by no means always in England. I have read his mysteries with Russia, Italy, Finland, South Africa, Australia, and the United States as the setting. The protagonist invariably is a youngish male, early 30s, and just as inevitably there's a sophisticated subplot involving romance to leaven the basic intrigue.

"Comeback" is published by G.P. Putnam's at $21.95. And don't bother asking about borrowing it or one of the 29 earlier ones. I never lend a Dick Francis book.

Hoblock's top priority: Restore confidence, pride

The contributor of this Point of View is the Albany County Executive-elect.

By Michael J. Hoblock

On this day after history has been made in Albany County, it is very difficult for me to completely digest what has taken place as it relates to me personally and to the citizens of our county. I do know this, however:

Things will never be the same in Albany county government or politics again!

I can think of no words or no way for me to adequately express my thanks and gratitude for the honor which a majority of voters have bestowed upon me by electing me their next County Executive. As I said in my acceptance remarks just a few hours ago, the people of Albany County have spoken and it's clear that they indeed felt it was time for a change.

As one of my first actions as County Executive-elect, today I intend to stand at the entrance of 112 State Street, the Albany County Office Building, and shake the hand of each and every employee and county official who goes in or out. Regardless of whether they voted for me or not, I want the vast majority of county employees to know that they have nothing to fear from a Hoblock administration. Also, that they have important, meaningful, work to do during what will become a critical transition period.

That word "transition" will be heard a great deal during the coming weeks. After I wrap up some important campaign loose ends, I intend to take a few days to "unwind" and to redirect the focus of my life as it relates to my public career. Hopefully, by the time I return, I will have sorted things out, focused on the immediate tasks ahead and be rested and ready to take on the challenge.

An early task will be establishing a transition team and mode. The County's employees will have important, meaningful work to do during this critical period.

Certainly, one of the first tasks will be a transition team and mode as we head into 1992. It is obvious that the "transition" will be a delicately balanced affair in light of the political realities and the fact I will be only the second County Executive in the history of Albany County.

There is no precedence. It will almost be like starting over.

While I cannot be too specific at this point, because I've had time to think of little except this extremely long and sometimes grueling campaign, I'm sure that one of my first priorities will be to restore confidence and pride in county government. We talked a great deal in this campaign about honesty, integrity, and ethics. Those are more than "buzz words," they are a credo by which I plan to base my stewardship in the County Executive's office.

I promised the voters and people of this county that my administration would be based on openness and fairness and they will become evident from the start. The County Executive's office will be open to all and closed to none. I will seek citizen input and in some cases expertise in many areas, as I stated in the campaign. Before we buy, contract, agree to, or build, the residents of Albany County will know what we are doing and why we are doing it.

For now — one day after the election — suffice it for me to say "thank you" once again: thanks to the over 500 volunteers who helped me win this and to my "kitchen cabinet" and paid staff who worked so hard; thanks to coordinators and political leaders in all camps and from all areas of the county for their help, and to the generous offers of help and prayers to make this possible.

I said at the very beginning of this campaign — standing outside 112 State Street — that this would be a campaign about change versus the status quo. Well, the change is here and the status quo cannot survive. Now — after just a small bit of rest — it's time to march forward. Please join me in this effort.

Here's how you can help Food Pantry for seniors

Editor, The Spotlight:

The Board of Bethlehem Senior Projects, Inc., wishes to thank the Main Square Merchants' Association, Boy Scout Troop 75, and the community for support of the Bethlehem Food Pantry at Main Square's Fall Festival.

Donations, ride receipts, canned goods, and produce collected during the festival (an estimated value of $1,000) all went to help support our community food pantry.

Bethlehem Senior Projects, Inc., is a non-profit corporation that works with Bethlehem's municipal senior services department to help the elderly of the community remain as residents through the funding or sponsoring of additional services and programs.

The Bethlehem Food Pantry, one of over 41 food pantries within Albany County, is located within the Town of Bethlehem's Senior Services Department. It is stocked and coordinated by Bethlehem Senior Services volunteers.

The pantry can accept canned goods but, as a municipal department, cannot accept monetary donations. Through the cooperative efforts of Bethlehem Senior Projects, Inc., and Bethlehem Senior Services Department, checks can be received by the corporation and used to purchase items not already available.

Canned goods can be taken to the Senior Services office at Bethlehem Town Hall (between 8:30 and 4:40 weekdays). Checks payable to Bethlehem Senior Projects, Inc., can be left at the office or mailed to the corporation at 445 Delaware Avenue, Delmar.

Like most other food pantries, the use of our pantry has increased during the past year. We depend on community support to keep the pantry stocked, and appreciate the continued support.

A Delmar host sought by girl from Germany

Editor, The Spotlight:

I am an exchange student from Hamburg, Germany, and I have been in America for about 10 weeks. I am a girl, 17 years old. I now stay with a family in Ravena but I am very much wanting to attend school in the Bethlehem School District. I already have made some friends in the Bethlehem High School and would like to complete my studies there. They have many courses I would like. I will be in the senior class.

I am needing to find a host family in the Delmar area for attending the Bethlehem school. I like sports, going out with friends (cinema, concerts, shopping, dancing, etc.), music, and reading. My most favorite hobby is basketball. So far I am loving the USA and living with my host family is helping me to be more independent. My English is considered quite good.

If I could be part of your family, for the rest of the school year perhaps, I would be very happy. Please call my host family in Ravena at 756-8073 as soon as you can. Thank you.

Bring memorial stones Sunday, youths urged

Editor, The Spotlight:

Sunday, Nov. 10 between noon and 5 p.m. is the time selected for New Scotland youth to bring stones (five pounds or less in size) to the Swift Road Town Park, to become part of the proposed new veterans memorial.

The spirit is exemplified by a letter received by us from Joan F. Siler of Selkirk R.D., noting that her granddaughter, Anne Siler, intends to contribute three stones dug from the family's property in New Scotland.

Tax Burden

per 100 cubic foot of metered waster usage. How can this surcharge be considered a property tax? Water used for car washing and lawn sprinkling contributes nothing to the sewer plant, yet the user is charged. This sewer surcharge amounts to over 50 percent of the charge for water. Why such a high rate? Shouldn't all properties, including developed and undeveloped land in established sewer districts, pay a more equitable share of the sewer charges?

One-third of all appropriations is listed as "contractual expenses." It is understood that these items range from office supplies, heat,

The monument will include a plaque with an inscription honoring our veterans. The estimated cost is $2,500. We have already received some sizable donations, which we greatly appreciate. We need more $5 and $10 donations to finish the project. A member of the post will be at the park Sunday afternoon to accept any monetary donations. light, and up to $25,000 or $50,000-plus for engineering or legal services. Listing over $5.5 million only as "contractual services" fails to give the board or the public an opportunity to comment, particularly on "big ticket" items.

It is urged that the Town Board consider the following:

1. Report the percentage increase in the local property tax instead of reporting the percentage increase in expenditures, and limit property tax increases to the increase in the rate of inflation.

2. Urge the Association of Towns and Villages to better anticipate and advise local governments of increases in employee retirement contribution rates and decreases in state aid.

3. The Town Board to review and approve or confirm on an annual basis all property, water, and sewer tax rates, water rents, sewer surcharges, and front-foot-age assessments.

4. The "big ticket" items in "contractual services" particularly personal services should be identified.

Although the town budget does not include the costs to the residents for trash pick-up or cable TV, their costs have also increased at a rate much faster than the increase in the rate of inflation. The Town Board, with the franchising authority, has direct or indirect control over the provider of these services. The Town Board should evaluate the rising costs for cable TV and trash pick-up services and within its authority either directly or indirectly limit the costs.

Bethlehem Recycling Corner

By Sharon Fisher, town recycling coordinator

Did you know that a packed lunch should save money over eating out? Are the lunches you bring to work in reusable containers and waste free? How many students pack a trashless lunch for school each day?

Some of Bethlehem's elementary schools have started a trashless lunch program. On a particular day, students measure and weigh cafeteria garbage. Measurements are charted and compared week to week. The goal is to reduce trash by utilizing reusable and recyclable items, rather than individual packaging and other throw-away materials.

Here are some suggested substitutes. A small tote bag or specially purchased resealable canvas "brown" bag makes an attractive as well as permanent carry-all for food. And instead of individual desserts and snacks, buy large packages and divide in several resealable and reusable containers. (Tupperware® is often mentioned but clean yogurt, cream cheese and margarine containers work as well.)

Theatre group stages reading

The Friends of the Bethlehem Library will sponsor a reading of "Lovers and Other Strangers," performed by the Village Stage, Inc. on Friday, Nov. 8, at 7 p.m. at the library.

One billion single-serving juice boxes are thrown away yearly because the nearest recycling facility is hundreds of miles away.

Instead, substitute recyclable aluminum juice cans or a refillable thermos.

Cloth napkins and real silverware will keep throw-away paper napkins and once-used plastic utensils out of the trash. If you use plastic bags, they can be taken home, washed and reused. Remember, the idea is "Once Is Not Enough."

Packing lunches to reduce trash saves money. Buying in bulk cuts down on costs, in part because $1 of every $11 spent on food pays for packaging.

Don't wait. Reduce waste before it's too late. New habits are hard to form but not impossible once started.

• Note — Save all magazines and catalogs for a special recycling day on Saturday, Dec. 7. The program will be sponsored by students in Bethlehem Central schools. Watch for details.

The reading, directed by P. Adam Thomas, will be followed by refreshments.

The event is free.

BETHLEHEM PUBLIC LIBRARY

By Anna Jane Abaray

The Bethlehem Public Library has installed an upgraded sound system in its community room.

The system includes three assistive listening devices for use by the hearing impaired at library programs in the community room, the library's largest meeting space.

The wireless receivers amplify sound coming from the speaker's microphone or other audio input. They are easy to use and available to the public without charge.

For more information, contact the library at 439-9314.

Concerts scheduled

The new sound system will be in use at two upcoming concerts.

On Monday, Nov. 11, at 7:30 p.m. fiddle player Phiney Brugman, with Bob Cates on piano and R.P. Hills on hammer dulcimer, will play traditional American and Canadian dance tunes. RSVP at 439-9314.

On Sunday, Nov. 17, at 2 p.m. the Delmar Community Orchestra will present a program of light classics and popular music by, among others, Victor Herbert, Rimsky-Korsakov and Vaughan Williams. The concert, featuring guest vocalist Marie Franke, is free and open to the public.

Sign language services available at lecture

The library will offer sign language interpretation for the deaf at several upcoming programs.

A sign language interpreter associated with the Capital District Center for Independence will sign the library's second Theodore C. Wenzl lecture on Sunday, Nov. 10. The 2 p.m. lecture will be given by Rosemary Nesbitt. Nesbitt will speak on "The Lost Treasure of American History."

Ravena celebrating book week

The Ravena Free Library will celebrate National Children's Book Week, which runs Monday, Nov. 11, through Saturday, Nov. 16, with a series of story hours.

Readings of classic children's stories, including fingerplays and crafts, are scheduled as follows: Monday, Nov. 11, 1:30 p.m. — "The Very Hungry Caterpillar," Tuesday, Nov. 12, 10:30 a.m. — "Madeleine," Wednesday, Nov. 13, 1:30 p.m. — "Barbar," Thursday, Nov. 14, 10:30 a.m. — "Where the Wild Things Are," Friday, Nov. 15, 1:30 p.m. — "Curious George," and Saturday, Nov. 16, 10:30 a.m. — "One Fish, Two Fish."

Children's book week readings at the library are aimed at preschoolers.

In addition, on Wednesday, Nov. 13, the library will host a free seminar on home improvements. Don Persico of Persico Oil in Ravena will conduct a discussion entitled "Winterizing Your Pipes."

ing in Grand Union's yellow and Price Chopper's pink register tapes.

Through a program sponsored by the market chains, the tapes can be exchanged for school computers and computer equipment. Parents can send the tapes to school with their children.

Contact the school for a complete list of stores participating in the program.

The next PTA meeting will be Tuesday, Nov. 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the Becker school.

Library friends hold membership drive

The Friends of the Ravena Free Library will hold a membership drive this month. Money raised will be used to build up the library's book collection.

The next meeting of the Friends of the Library will be Tuesday, Nov. 12, at 7 p.m. in the library.

Historical association holds card party

The Town of Bethlehem Historical Association will hold its annual card party on Thursday, Nov. 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the Bethlehem Elks Lodge on Route 144 in Cedar Hill.

There will be refreshments, door and raffle prizes and a harvest table. Proceeds will go toward museum upkeep.

Becker school holds clothing drive

The A. W. Becker School PTA will continue its Native American clothing drive until Friday, Nov. 15. Clean, undamaged clothing can be dropped off at the school during school hours. Collected clothing will be donated to the Onondagas Indians from the Syracuse area. Small donations, which will be used to offset delivery costs, will also be accepted.

PR firm moves to larger quarters

By Susan Grayes

Mary Scanlan Public Relations has moved to larger quarters.

The firm, formally located in a 600 square foot area in Main Square, is now occupying about a 2,400 square foot area in the Toll Gate Corners in Slingerlands. Scanlan, who renovated the building, which housed the former Antiques at the Toll Gate, said she moved because of the need for more room. "We just ran out of space," she said.

The new offices were designed to create an "open space" effect to better function as a team. "We're very pleased with it," she said, "Environment is key to the quality of the product" the firm provides to its clients. Patrons of the former antiques shop might not recognize the building with its new look. The space inside has been opened up to allow easier communication among the staff. Modern comfortable furniture is complemented by attractive wall posters including one by Georgia O'Keeffe. New windows on the side of the building add to the sense of openness and light.

Scanlan said she is hoping to eventually have a "slightly larger staff" which could easily be accommodated in the new quarters. The firm currently has three full-time employees and a college student intern.

Scanlan's goal for the business is to continue to cultivate an even greater mix of clients. Currently she said the firm now serves clients involved in health care to fashion to banking to human services. She said she is hoping to soon enter the international market.

"I guess I have some kind of Messianic cause to help people communicate with each other," she said.

Scanlan, who started the business in 1987 from her home, said there is an increasing need for effective communications specialists. With today's sophisticated technology, "We have to learn to clarify messages," she said.

Scanlan is a member of the national Public Relations Society of America, and is on the board of directors of the Upper Hudson Planned Parenthood and the Albany League of Arts.

Scanlan and her husband, William, live in Glenmont. They have two grown daughters.

Police arrest two for Selkirk theft

Bethlehem police recently arrested two Selkirk teenagers on felony burglary charges in connection with an Oct. 16 theft at M & J Tavern, Selkirk, according to the department.

Several bottles of alcohol were reported missing after the Bell Crossing Road tavern was broken into, police said.

Kurt G. Brozowski, 19, of Currey Avenue, was arrested Oct. 16 after he left the scene of an accident on Bell Crossing Road, ac-ording to a police report. The police found Brozowski's motorcycle at the accident scene.

Patrick Michael Bliven, 16, of Currey Avenue, was arrested Oct. 30 on a warrant following a police investigation, according to the report.

Brozowski and Bliven are scheduled to appear in Bethlehem Town Court this month, police said.

Drivers arrested on DWI charges

Bethlehem police recently arrested two drivers on misdemeanor charges of driving while intoxicated.

Michael T. Lyden, 26, 208 Astor Court, Delmar, was arrested for DWI Saturday, Oct. 26, at 4:32 a.m. after he was stopped for failure to keep right near the intersection of Route 443 and Rowland Avenue, police said.

Juhan Kahk, 29, 1098 State St., Albany, was arrested for DWI Sunday, Oct. 27, at 1:24 a.m. after he was stopped for failure to keep right on Route 443 near the intersection of Elsmere Avenue, police said.

Yono's Restaurant wins top award

The New York State Restaurant Association has announced that Yono and Donna Purnomo of Yono's Restaurant have been named "Restauranteur of the Year for 1991."

The award has special meaning to all winners because it is given by their peers, other prominent local restauranteurs.

Thirty-five restaurants in the Capital District were nominated and chosen as finalists.

Other awards were presented to Jim Casey of Casey's East; Geoff and Anne Thrimble of La Serre; Carol Philippi of Old Journey's End; Garry Petrie of Parc V Cafe; Carmella Daubney of Sam's Italian-American Restaurant; Kathleen Murray and Scott Lynch of Shipyard Restaurant, and Dale Miller of Stone Ends.

Yono's is located at Robinson Square in Albany and specializes in Indonesian Cuisine.

Town to collect recyclables at curb

By Mike Larabee

As the state-mandated deadline for mandatory recycling approaches, the Town of New Scotland has moved to begin curbside collection of recyclable items.

The town should begin glass and newspaper curbside collection in the spring, Supervisor Herbert Reilly said Monday. Curbside collection would be a precursor to mandatory recycling, according to Highway Superintendent Michael Hotaling.

State law requires New Scotland have a mandatory recycling program on the books by September 1992, he said. The town's recycling program, which includes newspapers, glass, plastic, tin and corrugated cardboard, currently is conducted on a voluntary basis.

At present, town residents can drop off newspapers at collection bins at five locations. In addition, there are collection bins for glass, plastic, tin and corrugated cardboard at the town's Flat Rock Road refuse transfer station.

The town recently removed plastic bins from town hall and Houghtaling's Market in Feura Bush because too many non-recyclable items were being deposited there. Closing the bins forced residents to use the Flat Rock Road facility, which is monitored by town workers.

According to Reilly, curbside collection would be paid for by creation of a special townwide recycling district.

Reilly estimated curbside recycling would cost $50,000 for purchase of a recycling truck, and an additional $25,000 annually for salary and benefits for a new town worker.

Currently, New Scotland refuse crews pick up about 45 tons of garbage per week from 2,100 households, Hotaling said. New Scotland garbage is taken to the City of Albany's ANSWERS landfill and incinerator.

N. Scotland budget hearing at Osterhout center Thursday

By Mike Larabee

A public hearing on New Scotland's $2,636,596 preliminary 1992 budget is set for Thursday, Nov. 7, at the Wyman Osterhout Community Center on Old Road in New Salem.

The hearing will begin at approximately 7:30 p.m., following hearings on town emergency service districts, according to Supervisor Herbert Reilly.

Originally announced at $2,597,000, new outlays were added to the budget following a series of town board workshops at town hall, Reilly said.

The budget's tax impact is estimated to be an 11 percent increase for Voorheesville property owners and 10 percent for New Scotland property owners, Reilly said. He had originally estimated the tax increase at 4.2 percent for Voorheesville and 4.9 percent for New Scotland.

The total budget is still less than the 1991 original $2,774,000 spending plan (the 1991 budget was subsequently cut in response to state revenue sharing reductions and other new expenses and lost revenues).

At a workshop last week, the board voted to reinstate $26,200 Reilly had cut from the Highway Department's maintenance budget, while it eliminated two town positions — recycling coordinator and assistant to the planning board. The positions were budgeted at $4,000 and $7,200 respectively.

Scouts collecting food

This month, when food seems so plentiful, Scout Pack 73 of Voorheesville will participate in a nationwide food collection for the needy.

On Saturday, Nov. 9, Cub Scouts will distribute bags to New Scotland and Voorheesville residents. Then, on Saturday, Nov. 16, Boy Scouts will gather bags and their contents and bring them to the former Grand Union market parking lot on Maple Avenue.

Individuals who didn't receive bags can bring items to a drop-off truck at the parking lot. The truck will be at the parking lot until 3:30 p.m.

Only non-perishable dried or canned foods are being collected. Don't include foods in glass containers.

Donations will be distributed by St. Matthew's Church Human Concerns Group and the Albany United Methodist Church.

Save those bottles!

Save those bottles because Cub Scout Pack 73 will conduct a bottle drive at the Grand Union lot on Saturday, Nov. 9, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Boy Scouts to host equipment exchange

Boy Scout Troop 75 will host its 17th annual "Sportsmart" on Saturday, Nov. 23, at Bethlehem Central High School in Delmar.

The mart, the area's largest sports equipment exchange, has traditionally provided a meeting ground for buyers and sellers.

Outdoor enthusiasts can find a wide assortment of bargain-priced equipment at the event. Hundreds of downhill and cross-country skis, boots, poles, skates, sleds, gloves, ski racks, athletic shoes, camping equipment, bicycles and more will be available.

Sellers should bring items to the school from 9 to 11:30 a.m. on the day of the sale. The sale is scheduled from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Admission is free for sellers, and $1 for others. All admission proceeds will be donated to local food pantries in keeping with the nationwide "Scouting for Food Program."

The sale enables Scouts to experience a variety of challenging outdoor activities.

RCS board weighs repair options

By Regina Bulman

The question no longer seems to be whether or not Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk taxpayers will soon face a bond issue for extensive repairs at Ravena Elementary School, but how much they will be asked to finance.

Whether to make minor repairs, totally revamp the building or abandon it altogether and construct new additions on the district's other elementary schools was discussed at a recent public forum hosted by the RCS Board of Education.

The options come nearly a year after broken steam pipes at the school caused extensive floor and ceiling damage and prompted board members, teachers and parents to take a closer look at the 70-year-old building.

A study commissioned by the board indicated that tough choices will have to be made soon.

Board member Barry Jones, chairman of the district's buildings and grounds committee, outlined options to approximately 40 residents at the forum. According to Jones, the district can make the necessary roof repairs and only those repairs mandated by the state Education Department for a cost of about $118,000, make a partial commitment to the building by doing the necessary repairs plus some others recommended by the department for about $1.2 million, make a 15 to 20 year commitment to the building by taking care of all existing problems at the school at a minimum cost of $3 million, or close the school and consider adding a wing to one or both of the other district elementary schools.

While board members have been hesitant to suggest abandoning the school, residents who attended the meeting seemed to favor closing the school and starting new construction.

Residents also seemed less concerned that a bond issue financed by taxpayers would be necessary than how the district could ensure its approval.

A bond issue totaling more than $9 million, which included renovations to A.W. Becker and Pieter B. Coeyman's elementary schools, was defeated twice by voters in 1988 and 1989 respectively. But according to Jones, any upcoming bond issue regarding the Ravena school would include only the "bare basics" and not what some residents apparently viewed as extras in the 1988 and 1989 votes.

"I see this as a community problem, not a board problem," said Board Member Sarah Hafensteiner. "It is going to take the community as a whole to decide what to do and to help everyone understand what it involves."

A committee to address the issue has been formed, and board members are now looking for more input from residents.

"A SWEEP IN TIME CAN SAVE MINE."

Ben Franklin Knew His Wood Stoves.

WHEN I INVENTED MY Franklin stove I made a mistake. I should have said, "A sweep in time can save mine."

But instead I said, "A stitch in time can save nine."

What a silly mistake. I knew a chimney fire from a dirty stove can be fatal. And that's a lot more important than a ripped seam.

No quick cure for 'pain' in Bethlehem budget

By Susan Wheeler

Bethlehem Supervisor Ken Ringler last Wednesday reminded residents the proposed $16.9 million budget has "a lot of pain in it."

At the preliminary 1992 budget hearing, Ringler said both taxpayers and town employees, whose normal salary increments will be delayed in 1992, will feel the budget pinch. He said the "small increase" over 1991's $16,619,608 budget, 1.5 percent, is due partly to the town board's decision to delay those increments, as well as delaying employee cost of living increases until the second half of the year. The budget provides a 3 percent salary adjustment as of July 1, he said.

Revenues for 1992 are projected to be lower due to poor economic conditions, Ringler said. In addition, state aid has been reduced by approximately $375,000, he said.

Revenue losses have impacted the general fund tax rate, causing an increase from $8.11 per thousand of assessed value to $11.86 per thousand, or a $3.75 increase, Ringler said. The 1992 budget includes a $1.15 increase in the highway fund. The $2,562,145 sewer budget shows a $73,282 increase. Water and sewer increases would be approximately four cents and 30 cents per thousand respectively.

Although department heads kept appropriation requests at or below 1991 levels, some expenditures were beyond town control, according to Comptroller Phil Maher. A 1990 change in New York State Retirement billing is responsible for a $190,000 increase in the 1992 budget.

A $26,414 increase in police department spending is due to a 1990 union contract settlement, according to Maher. One of two personnel positions in the department will be filled, unless economic conditions change, he said. The purchase of new weapons, Glock .40-caliber semi-automatic pistols, will cost approximately $7,000. Ammunition and training costs are estimated at $4,000, he said. The weapons would give officers more rapid fire and quicker reload time.

In response to South Bethlehem resident Louis Dushek's question regarding an effort to bring industry into the town to help the tax base, Ringler said a $100 million Cibro Petroleum modification project could add to the town's tax base. Ninety percent of the corporation's facilities are located at the Port of Albany, he said, but after the modifications, 90 percent would be located in Bethlehem. Also, an approximately $150 million GE-Selkirk co-generation facility project would help offset the revenue losses by adding to the tax base, he said.

Body builders to flex muscles at BCHS School district sponsors lecture series

By Michael Kagan

Deltoids, biceps, and abdominal "six packs" all will be popping out at Bethlehem Central High School, 700 Delaware Ave., Delmar, on Saturday, Nov. 9, at the 1991 Eastern States and Capital District Bodybuilding Championships.

The event is co-sponsored by Mike Mashuta's Training Center and the Bethlehem Athletic Association. All proceeds will be donated to the association.

The co-sponsorship is in response to Arnold Schwarzenegger's call for the bodybuilding community to sponsor efforts which promote the physical fitness of youth. Schwarzenegger is chairman of the President's Council on Physical Fitness in Sports.

Approximately 45 area businesses have joined in the sponsorship.

Some of the money raised will benefit Project Adventure, a physical fitness program for all ages located at the Bethlehem Central Middle School.

Several local body builders will be competing. Lisa Dunston of Delmar and Colleen Wells of Ravena will participate in the women's events, while Rich Filkins of South Bethlehem and 17-year-old James Cornell, a student at BCHS, will be competing with the men.

Contest judging will begin at noon. Following that, at approximately 2:30 p.m., Mike Ashley, a professional body builder, powerlifter, nutritionist, trainer, and 1990 Arnold Schwarzenegger Classic Winner, will give a seminar on natural bodybuilding. The finals will begin at approximately 7 p.m.

Tickets bought in advance for prejudging and the seminar are $7.50, and $10 at the door. Tickets for the finals are $10 in advance, $12 at the door, and all-day tickets are $15 in advance, or $17 at the door. Tickets may be purchased by calling Mashuta's Training Center at 439-1200.

Bethlehem Central residents are invited to attend any or all sessions or a workshop series, "Genocide: Our Collective Guilt."

Sponsored by the school district and its social studies department, the sessions feature guest lecturers and meet on Thursdays, from 4 to 6:30 p.m., in room 46 of the high school. For information, contact Dominick DeCecco at 439-4921.

The treatment of Native Americans in North America is the Nov. 7 topic of Frank Sundown Abrams, a principal program specialist in the Governor's Office for Indian Relations. The series will conclude on Nov. 14 when Dr. Peter Balakian of Colgate University discusses the Armenian genocide.

Voorheesville church to show film Sunday

The movie, "Cry from the Mountain," will be shown at the Mountainview Evangelical Free Church on Route 155 in Voorheesville on Sunday, Nov. 10.

The film is a World Wide Pictures production, set in the wilderness of Alaska. The screenplay was written by Daniel L. Quick.

TOOTHACHE or TENDER TEETH

There's a world of difference between a toothache and tender teeth. Occasionally, some people will experience the discomfort of a tooth that has suddenly become hyper sensitive. It hurts when you sip a hot or cold drink, suck in cold air, or eat foods that are sweet or sour or acidic. This happens more often to children because their teeth are more sensitive.

Usually, the tooth is tender only for a short time. The sensitivity soon goes away. But not when someone has a toothache. This can begin like the tender tooth syndrome, when eating hot or cold foods or when you are chewing vigorously. But the toothache doesn't go away. It stays and becomes worse, until you get the treatment you need. The pain becomes intense. The jaw begins to swell up and you may experience fever. This usually means an abscess has formed in the affected tooth. Decay has entered through the pulp and infected the gums and hard tissues. There may be a pocket of pus around the root.

Don't waste any time in getting help from your dentist. He can stop the pain, treat the tooth, and save it with prompt treatment.

Bethlehem woman connects with her readers

By Mike Larabee

Personal connections, lives and losses — the underground rivers of the soul and heart — are the material and inspiration for a collection of poems by Bethlehem resident Jean M. Wood.

Wood in April published a 112-page softcover collection of 44 poems called "Prisms," which she said is selling well at readings and local bookstores. She said her life has been changed by the depth of reaction she's received from listeners and readers.

"The book has really enriched my life," Wood said. "The people that I'm reaching, the experiences that I'm having — I feel really grateful."

Written over a period of two years, Wood published 1,100 copies of "Prisms" with $6,000 of her own money (they sell for $14.95). Though she said she's always had an interest in writing, she traces the source of the work back to an initial burst of creativity that came to her while visiting New Hampshire's Gregg Lake.

Jean Wood

The final poem in the book, "Gregg Lake as Seen from Granite Lady Cove," was one of a group she said she wrote during that time. "Day Lilies and the Storm," the poem that immediately precedes it, was the first of the group.

"It was a real peaceful time," she said her Gregg Lake writings. "I felt a lot of serenity."

Later, she said, at the urging of her friends, she decided to publish her poetry in book form.

"Once I knew that I was going to do a book, I knew what I wanted it to look like," she said.

Seventeen original drawings in the text by Vesna Kornicer Lorusso illustrate selected poems. Wood said she views Lorusso's contributions as a crucial component of "Prisms."

Wood will be reading and signing copies of "Prisms" at the Colonie Public Library on Saturday, Nov. 9, from 11 to 5 p.m. In addition she will read at Critics Choice bookstore in Glenmont from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 17, and at Friar Tuck Book Shop in Delaware Plaza in Delmar on Saturday, Nov. 23, from 1 to 5 p.m.

"I love readings," she said. "There's a lot that happens at a reading. It's been exciting because now it's not just people that know me and love me," who are moved by the book.

"Now it's strangers."

Wood said she has been surprised especially the number of men who've responded to the book with enthusiasm. She said she's found that a lot of men who say they normally don't like poetry have enjoyed the book. "When it touches people that way, that's very meaningful to me," she said.

Wood, 53, lives on Elm Avenue East.

VCHS boys beaten in finals

By Erin Elizabeth Sullivan

The old saying goes, "All good things must come to an end." This was the case last Saturday night, Nov. 2, as a very talented Voorheesville varsity boys soccer team lost its first post-season game in two years.

After winning the State Championship last year and their first two sectional games this season, the Birds were upended in overtime by Cobleskill at Bleeker Stadium in the Section II Class CC finals.

Coach Bob Crandall said he had expected a lot from a squad made up of mostly underclassmen this year, and felt they "did an admirable job." Crandall said he felt his was the better team despite the defeat and sees many bright things in the future for Voorheesville.

The squad had advanced to the finals with a 1-0 win over Schoharie League Champs, Schoharie, last Tuesday night, Oct. 29, under the lights at Mohonasen. While Schoharie was a much larger and more physical team, the skilled play of the Birds allowed Voorheesville to control the ball throughout most of the game.

The Birds peppered the Schoharie goalie, who made many outstanding saves to keep his team in the game. Voorheesville finally managed to score early in the second half when a Joe Race shot from 25 yards in front squirted off the goalkeeper and into the net. Race, Eric Logan and Brad Rockmore completely controlled midfield in leading the team to victory and into the CC finals.

The Cobleskill game was much the same — skill vs. size and strength. While Cobleskill was considered the best Class C team in the area this year, the Blackbirds proved on the field that they were their equal.

After a scoreless first half in which play favored the Birds, Voorheesville broke through early in the second half, when senior Joe Race scored his fourth goal of

Ladybirds fall 2-1 in CC championships

By Greg Sullivan

The Voorheesville girls soccer team bowed out of sectional play last week, suffering a hard-fought 2-1 loss to Tamarac in the Section II Class CC tournament finals.

The Ladybirds had advanced to the final round with a surprisingly easy 4-0 win over highly regarded Cobleskill.

The loss concluded a very fine season for Coach Jim Hladun's squad, as they advanced further in tournament play than any previous Voorheesville girls team and ended with a 17-2-1 record.

The Birds were sent to the finals when, after a first round bye as second seed, they overwhelmed Cobleskill at home last Tuesday, Oct. 29. Cobleskill's high-scoring contingent didn't manage a single goal for the first time this year and were out-shot 18-5. In spite of being double and triple teamed most of the afternoon, Voorheesville offensive standout Nicole Solomos still managed two goals as did senior Nichole Weston.

Voorheesville's defense, led by seniors Kate DePasquale, Kate Ramsey and Erin Sullivan, stifled Cobleskill continually, preserving goalie Donna Zautner's 15th shutout.

On Saturday, Nov. 2, the Birds met undefeated Tamarac (19-0) with outstanding area goal scorers Nicole Roberts and Meghan Wurster. Roberts and Wurster combined for more than 100 goals this year.

Hladun felt his team was a little nervous and somewhat tentative at this point. Tamarac began strong and broke the ice on a Roberts scored. But Wurster went down with an injury shortly after and her loss served to slow Tamarac. The Birds came back to tie the score when Solomos rifled career goal 96, a clear shot past the Tamarac goalie to make it 1-1 at the half.

The Birds continued to control play in the second half, but could not put the ball in the net. Tamarac iced the game when, with 13 minutes left, Roberts was taken down on a breakaway leading to a freekick. Tamarac's Heather Mastolong converted on a perfect shot into the top right corner of the net that ended the Blackbirds season.

Hladun said he was proud of his team's effort and complimented Tamarac.

Hladun will be losing a whole lot this year. Four year varsity players Solomos, DePasquale, Zautner and Pam Harms will be leaving, as well as fullbacks Sullivan and Ramsey, striker Weston and halfbacks Lyra Colfer and Jen Fisher.

However, this year's team had a blend of seniors and underclassmen, which will be a benefit to Hladun next year. A season ending banquet is scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 24.

post-season play. Moments later another apparent goal by Greg Sullivan was ruled a "no goal," as the Cobleskill goalie pulled the ball back over the line after it had seemingly crossed. The goal would have put the Blackbirds in the driver's seat.

With under ten minutes left in the game, Cobleskill's Ted Conklin converted a nice left-foot shot that beat goaltender Erin Sullivan to send the game to overtime. Momentum shifted toward Cobleskill and away from a tired Voorheesville team, and Cobleskill scored twice in overtime to end the Bird's season.

Coach Crandall said his team "had a lot to be proud of" and that he felt they were a better "tournament team" than Cobleskill, but gave credit to Conklin for his end of game play. Crandall also said his squad will miss the play of seniors Erin Sullivan, Eric Logan, Joe Race and John Wallbillig.

Sullivan and Logan were three-year starters.

Cross country skiing club presents meeting on preventive exercises

The Capital Area Ski Touring Association, the area's only ski club devoted to cross country skiing, will meet tonight (Wednesday) at 7:45 p.m. at the German American Club on Cherry Street in Albany.

Physical therapist John Repsher will give a special presentation on preventive injury exercises for cross country skiers.

For information, call 489-2275.

Runners place in season finale

The Bethlehem Central cross country team finished out its season with an impressive showing at the Section II Tournament at Saratoga State Park. The girls squad finished 10th overall, while the boys placed seventh out of 16.

The girls were led by the efforts of Kristen Ruso, who finished 20th, and Nicole Mizener, who took 28th. Meghan Faulkner took 47th and Katie Lillis placed 69th. Overall the team turned in its best personal times for the year.

The boys were led in their attack for the final time by senior Garry Hurd who battled his way to a 10th-place finish. Following Hurd were Matt Dugan in 38th, Ken Watson in 55th, Mike DeCecco in 63rd, Ryan Lillis in 59th and Ryan Dunham in 66th.

SERVING THE CAPITAL DISTRICT FOR OVER 19 YEARS

PLEASE READ

Thanks for your attention. We simply want to tell you about dirty chimneys. In one year more than 60,000 chimney fires burned in the United States with deaths from these fires increasing at a rate of 69%.

Dirty chimneys can burn—and take human lives. That's why you should give us a call for an inspection of your solid fuel heating system. The inspection could reveal a dangerous chimney.

If it does, we'll sweep that chimney with precise brushes and our powerful "SootSweeper" Dust Collector. Cleanliness guaranteed!

Four Pop Warner teams make a clean sweep

All four teams in the Bethlehem Pop Warner football league won their games last Sunday. The Jr. PeeWee Condors traveled to East Greenbush and bested the Blue Devils, 6-2. Vincent Livreri's opening drive touchdown was the margin of victory. Adam Domer-muth, Bobby Piel, Scott Lasky and Dan Tripp, spearheaded the defense.

The PeeWee Falcons went to Schenectady and routed the Belmont Raiders, 32-12. The offense was sparked by touchdowns by Omar Feliciano and Chris Dorlington and the running of John Wissener. Mary Brozowski and Gary Osterhout were the big hitters on defense.

At home, the Jr. Midget Hawks shut out the Belmont Raiders, 12-0, with Dan Conway, Jason Greer, and Greg Pape shutting down the Belmont offense. The offensive punch was delivered by the running of Jesse Brozowski and Tim Brozowski's two touchdowns.

In the second offensive explosion of the day, the Midget Eagles bombed Ballston Spa, 34-6. The touchdown parade included Brian Fryer's two touchdowns, and scores by Steve Demarest, Hank Tripp and Mike Follis. The Eagles' defense was led by the interceptions of Joshn Naylor and Shawn Brozowski.

In the recent Pop Warner cheer-leading competition, the Jr. PeeWee and Jr. Midget squads placed. The Jr. PeeWee Condor squad of Lauren Atwood, Nicole Battle, Jessica Blackwell, Victoria Boughton, Jessica Brereton, Juliet Clark, Kathryn Coulon, Kate Feller, Tara Gerber, Heather Gilmore, Alexis Hansen, Kelly Hasselbach, Emily Maher, Elyse McDonough, Tara Orrowski, Melissa Swan, Elizabeth Walmsley, Kelly Younger and Alice Boughton (Mascot) took third place.

The Jr. Midget Hawks squad of Dawn Blodgett, Kelly Boughton, Amanda Brozowski, Christine Cedilotte, Meghan Fitzpatrick, Heather Gill, Kate Link, Nadine Maurer, Erika McDonough, Katie Mooney, Tara Rooney, Joelle Rosenkrantz, Beth Scott, Rebecca Turngreen, Alyce Smith, Anneliese Vogel and Rebecca Watt took fourth place.

Blackbird ground attack swamps Chatham, 22-13

Justin Cresswell

Bringing their ground game to new heights, the Voorheesville varsity football team last Saturday collected 294 yards of offense and played inspired defense to end four weeks of frustration with a gritty 22-13 home victory over Chatham.

Blackbird halfback Trampas Talavera was again a force, carrying 14 times for 133 of VC's 243 rushing yards. Talavera, one of 12 seniors playing their final home game, praised the team's intensity.

"We were fired today," he said. "We really had our way out there, just running up and down the field. It feels good to go out a winner here."

Unlike weeks past, Voorheesville was able to loosen the Panther's defense, which focused on stopping Talavera early, by utilizing the option. The first time the Birds called it, quarterback Nick Iarossi showed his speed on a keeper up the right sideline for a 47-yard touchdown to put VC ahead early, 6-0.

"We had been hesitant to run the option because Nick's a sophomore," Assistant Coach Joe Sapienza said, "but he made excellent decisions today. That really opened things up for Trampas."

Chatham didn't get on the board until late in the half when linebacker Ray Walton snatched an Iarossi pass out of halfback Tom Gianatasio's hands and dashed 25 yards into the end zone for a 7-6 Panther advantage at the half.

Talavera and Iarossi then teamed to rally the Blackbirds in the second half. Early in the third quarter, VC launched a 14-play, 80-yard drive during which they converted twice on fourth down. Facing fourth-and-4 in Chatham territory, halfback Mike Rouke, who Sapienza called a "speed demon," darted around left end to keep the drive alive. Three plays later, on fourth-and-17 at the Panther 28, Iarossi linked up with split end Jack Brennan for their fourth touchdown connection in as many weeks. Talavera then sliced in for the two-point conversion and a 14-7 VC lead.

"I just lofted it towards the goal post," Iarossi said, "and Jackie made a beautiful sliding catch. He's great, he just runs under everything."

It was then the defense's turn to shine, limiting Chatham to a single first down from that point on after giving up six in the first half. They were tough on both Chatham's running game and Panther quarterback Craig Tooker, sacking him four times in the game, holding him to 3-of-8 passing and one very timely interception in the second half.

Early in the fourth quarter, Tooker dropped back to pass on first and goal at the VC ten, and found end Jason Daigle on a crossing pattern. Just as the pass arrived, Brennan delivered a crushing hit, knocking the ball into Bird linebacker Mike Galvin's grasp to end the Panther threat, seal the game, and fulfill Galvin's prediction.

"He picked off a couple in practice this week," Coach Chuck Farley said, "and he kept saying he was going to get one in the game."

The Blackbirds (3-4, 3-5) will probably play Ravena (4-3, 5-3) next week in their Capital Conference crossover game.

Romano perfect in RCS romp

Kevin VanDerzee

Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk traveled to Cohoes to play the Tigers in their last league game of the year. The Indians got back on the winning track after a loss to league champion Albany Academy last week.

Five different players scored for Ravena, as they won 33-0 to improve their record to five wins and three losses. Chris Romano led the Indians with a perfect day at quarterback, completing six of six passes for 146 yards.

Romano has thrown for more yards this season than any other RCS quarterback in the past 10 years.

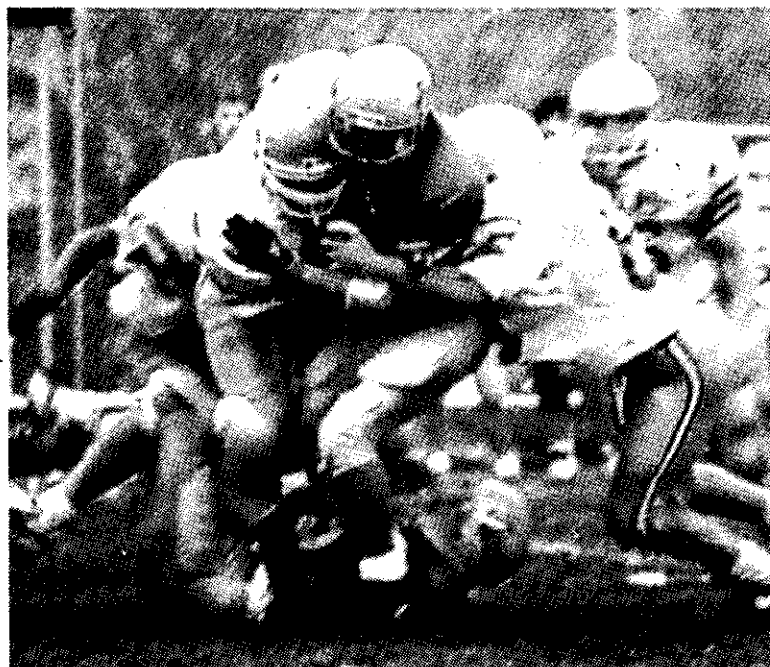

Joe Salin was one of two for five yards in passing. Salin threw a touchdown to Mike Hale on a flea-flicker, but the play was negated because of an illegal man downfield.

Eric Powell led all rushers with 96 yards on 12 carries, while Peter Gamino added 29 yards on five carries.

Mike Hale had a big day with a touchdown reception for 74 yards. Dan Gallagher had one catch for 33 yards with a touchdown and Powell had two receptions for 37 yards.

Defensively Jason Demerest had 11 tackles at defensive end while Chad Rooney had 10 at inside linebacker.

Ravena kicked off and set the Tigers deep in their own territory to begin the game. Cohoes drove to the 40 yard line, where they fumbled and the Indians recovered. The visiting Indians drove to the seven yard line of the host team, but fumbled as well. Ravena then forced them to punt after three plays. Powell returned to the thirty, and the Indians rolled to the one. Tune carried into the end zone for the game's first score. Roe kicked the extra point and the game was 7-0.

Ravena scored twice in the second quarter on two passes. One was the 74-yarder, Roman to Hale. The other went to Gallagher for 33-yards. Ravena led the game 20-0 at the half

The Indians received the ball on the opening kickoff of the second half and drove to the one, where Powell scored his team leading seventh TD. The game remained 26 to 0 until fullback Lenny Watford scored from three yards out. That would be the last scoring of the game, as Ravena won 33-0.

RCS plays Voorheesville in the crossover playoff game next Saturday at home. This will be the last game of the season for both teams.

Rams top Eagles

By Michael Kagan

The Bethlehem Central Eagles were given a taste of their own medicine by undefeated Metroland Division II leader Amsterdam 29-7 on the road Friday night.

BC, which all season has been led by scoring demon Mike Gambelunge, was victimized by another scoring specialist, Section II's all-time leading rusher, Amsterdam's Justice Smith. Smith scored two touchdowns in the Ram victory.

Bethlehem (1-3-1, 4-3-1) did manage some offense early in the game. Trailing 7-0 after a 47-yard Smith touchdown, tailback Gambelunge participated in a touchdown in an unfamiliar manner, throwing his first ever varsity touchdown pass, a 31 yard strike to wide out Bill Karins off a flea-flicker.

But Bethlehem was unable to muster much else offensively. Gambelunge did not score a touchdown for the first time this season, although he rushed for 62 yards.

Quarterback Adam Perry threw for 64 yards, completing three to Tim Mooney for 48 yards, but there was little more for Eagle fans who made the lengthy trip to Amsterdam for the game.

By the end of the first period, Amsterdam led 13-7, and the Rams added one touchdown in the second quarter, and one in the third. Amsterdam also passed for two two-point conversions.

Bethlehem, which opened the season at 3-0, finished near the bottom of Division II, ahead of only Bishop Maginn in overall record. The three teams the Eagles lost to, Amsterdam, Christian Brothers Academy and Catholic Central High School, had a combined regular season record overall of 18-5-1.

The three teams ranked in order at the top of Division II. Division II teams were by far the strongest in the Metroland Conference, posting a combined overall record of 28-16-4, compared with Division I (22-24-2), Division III (24-22-2), and Division IV (17-29-2). Division II teams posted a 14-2-2 non-divisional record.

BC seniors chosen for music conference

Thirteen Bethlehem Central High School seniors were recently selected to play in the 1991 New York State School Music Association's All-State Conference.

The conference is an opportunity for select student musicians from across the state to gather and rehearse with guest conductors. The musicians will work toward performances on Dec. 3 and 4 in the Imperial Room of the Concord Hotel in Lake Kiamesha.

Musicians were selected on the basis of auditions and recommendations from their school directors.

Bethany Slingerland, Brigid Shogan and Lisa Ballou will perform with the All-State String Orchestra.

Suzanne Rice, Jennifer Matuszek, Kevin Romanski and Kelly Jenkins will play in the All-State Symphonic Band.

BC will be represented in the All-State Wind Ensemble by James Pierce and Romanski.

Rachel Noonan, Tory McKenna, and Erin Mitchell will sing in the All-State Mixed Chorus.

Jessica Williams and Melissa Warden will represent BC in the All-State Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Kimner

Williams, Kimner wed

Kerri-Lynn Williams, a former Guilderland resident, daughter of Harold L. and Kerry Ann Williams of Albany, and Stephen Alfred Kimner, son of James H. and Beverly Kimner of Virginia, were married Aug. 17.

The bride is a graduate of Keene State College and Plymouth State College. She is employed by Amherst Middle School.

After a wedding trip to California, the couple resides in Milford, N.H.

Rev. Terrance O'Neill and Father Joseph Cotugno conducted the service at the McKownville United Methodist Church.

Kelly Jean Williams was maid of honor. Susan Kimner, Donna DiPerri, Patricia Gulbrandsen and Patrice Goodnow were bridesmaids.

Scott Kleinschrodt was best man. Kevin Williams, Michael Kimner, Thomas Kimner and William Kimner were ushers.

The groom is a graduate of Keene State College.

THE YOUTH NETWORK

Improv group dramatizes effects of drug use, abuse

A group of 14 teenagers lounges on the floor, halfheartedly forming a circle. In the center, Rebecca, who is Mao Zedong, tries to control her pet ant, Nick. Emily suddenly yells "Freeze!"

Is this a cult? A drug bust? Insane students at Bethlehem?

We're actually Mao's Ant Improv Theater, performing a scene from the theater game, "Freeze," that gave our motley crew its name. Our mission? To present an anti-drug message to parents, peers and middle schoolers through humor. What else do we do? Have a tremendous amount of fun.

We meet for two hours Tuesdays after school and develop our improv theater program. This year our framing device is the Wizard of Oz. We use its characters to separate the myths and realities of drinking, smoking and LSD use in Bethlehem.

To help us, we've had speakers come in and discuss the health implications of smoking and drug abuse. The speakers were arranged by Mona Prenoveau of Bethlehem Networks Project, our financial backers. She keeps us on track with the help of James Yeara, an English/drama teacher at BCHS, who is our fabulous director.

Keep your calendar open for laughs with Mao's Ant Improv Theater at the high school on Jan. 6, 1992.

This week's Networks article was written by Cheryl Davies, a senior at BCHS. Cheryl is vice president of Mao's Ant Improv Theater and a real drama fan.

Tsokanis family members, Matthew, Gus, Katherine, and Lisa, kneeling, take a break from their work at Tool's Restaurant in Delmar. Elaine McLain

Tool's celebrates 32nd year

By Susan Graves

Tool's, a family run restaurant with a homey atmosphere, is celebrating its 32nd anniversary in Delmar.

Gus Tsokanis and his family — his wife, Linda; daughters, Elizabeth and Katherine; and son, Matthew — took over the Delaware Avenue business from the Tool family seven years ago.

Gus Tsokanis said one reason he decided to buy the business was because of the location. "There's a lot of warmth in the area," and as luck would have it when the place became available, "I just happened to stop by."

Tsokanis is the former owner of Mike's Restaurant in Albany, which closed to make room for the Knickerbocker Arena.

"I was captivated by the atmosphere (of Tool's and the town) and the size and type of operation," he said. He also said he has tried to adhere to the philosophy of the longtime town eatery. "I stood by the policy of giving the maximum at the lowest possible cost to the consumer," he said. Tsokanis said he's had an offer on the property from a national chain, but wouldn't think of selling out.

Elizabeth, better known as Lisa, said she decided to make a career in the restaurant business even though she has a degree in math and science. "I liked the free enterprise — being my own boss — the work is hard but it's what I chose to do," she said.

Tsokanis said he has no special plans to celebrate the restaurant's anniversary. "For us, every day is a special day," he said. On a regular basis, Tool's features daily specials including a full-course prime rib dinner with a glass of wine for $8.95.

Tsokanis said the second half of this year has been the most successful in his seven years at Tool's. "The trick is this, I do what I know and I don't experiment," he said. He said he believes the restaurant business is primarily a service industry, and therefore has an obligation to the public. "You're a client and I make my living making you happy for an hour," he said. Part of his motivation to maintain high standards, he said, is that if "I don't do well, my whole family doesn't do well."

Tsokanis has been in the restaurant business for 37 years and said he has served everybody from the "King of England to the King of Saudi Arabia." He came to the area from New York City in 1969.

Tool's can seat 110 patrons and will cater to small parties. During the week Tool's offers an all-you-can-eat international buffet.

Trees shedding their leaves and a sudden chill in the air are two signs that clue skiers everywhere into one thing: time to tackle the slopes! Area ski resorts and the vibrant fluorescent displays at ski shops are busy making it easier for skiers to picture stepping into bindings and head to the top of the mountain.

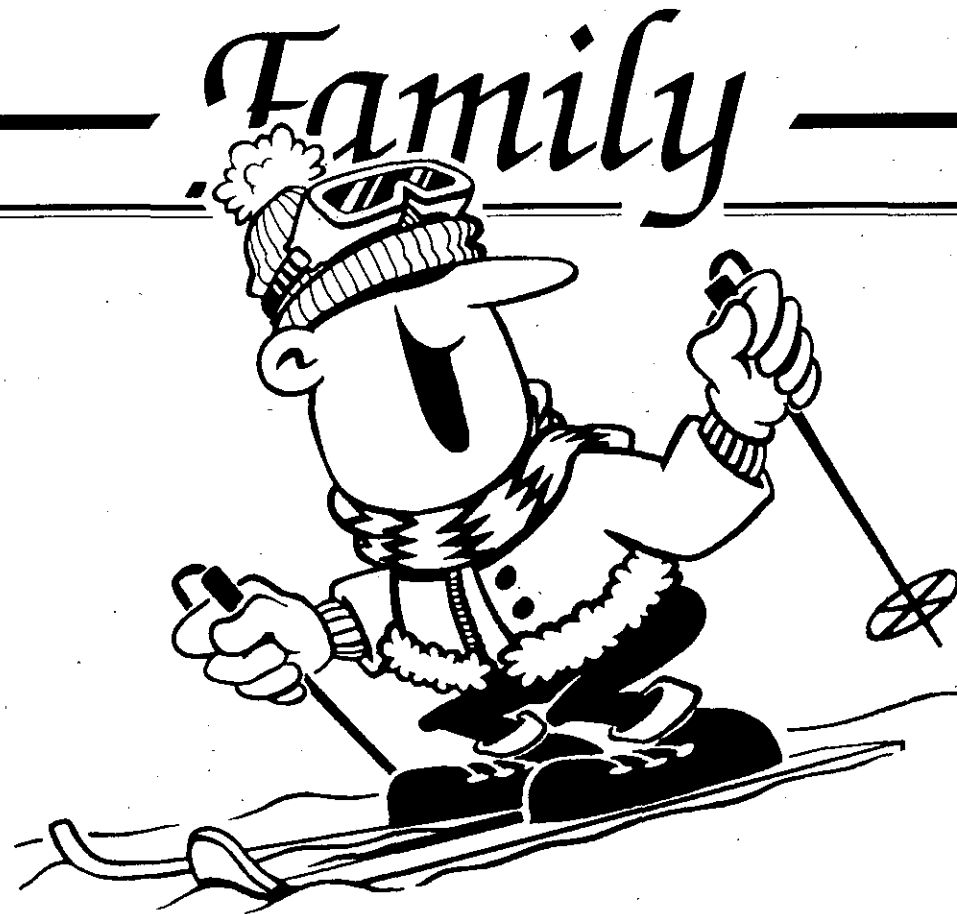

Opening day for the 1991-92 ski season at Hunter Mountain is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 9, and the resort has already begun accumulating its white base on the trails. "The old myth in the area that one must go north to ski is now a fallacy," said Orville Slutzky, general manager at Hunter Mountain. "We are now the world's snowmaking resort in the world." Hunter was also recently ranked 42 out of the 45 top ski resorts in the country.

However, from year to year, there is no set date for the kick off of the ski season. "I am a virtual optimist," said Slutzky, "there are many risks involved in the skiing business. Our season depends significantly on the weather."

Hunter has been busy expanding since April of the 1991 season. Twenty elevated snowguns were added to bring the total to more than 100. A new summit trail, "The Mad Box," will also be introduced this season. "This trail will connect all trails to the top of the mountain," said Slutzky.

Due to the requests of many snowboarders, another addition to Hunter will be a permanent 600 foot half-pipe. "Last year and the year before, the half-pipe was made out of snow," said Slutzky. "This year we have constructed one out of earth. This will make the half-pipe faster and easier to maintain."

A highlight of the Hunter ski season will be its eighth year for the Silver Series of ski racing. The Silver Series is a series of recreational races for skiers. Each registered skier receives a bag of skiing paraphernalia, and prizes and trophies are awarded at a ceremony.

Slutzky had two tips for skiers: Condition and take lessons! "Skiers cannot watch experts and attempt to copy their moves," he said. They must have the reflexes and instincts to know what to do in a given situation. Also, skiers should not have their friends teach them. Because they must incorporate movement and skill into their skiing, first time skiers should see an instructor to schedule a lesson."

For those who are not willing to put the future use of their limbs on the line, Hunter offers several off-the-slope activities. Along with the many restaurants, there is a Ski museum, containing relics of skiing's colorful past, the Hunter Ski Hall of Fame, recognizing the contributions of skiers, and "The Gallery", Hunter's ongoing art show and sale.

Hunter Mountain is located in Hunter, N.Y. Lifts operate from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Lift tickets range from one to five day passes and range in price from $16 to $118, depending on the day of week and length of pass. Group rates are available. For information on any of Hunter's activities, call 263-4223.

During the ski season, one may wish to join a ski club or team. Willard Mountain, Greenwich, N.Y., offers this opportunity to skiers ages eight to 18. The club is divided into divisions one through five. Level one includes ages 17 and 18; level two includes ages 15 and 16; level three includes ages 13 and 14; level four includes ages 11 and 12; and level five includes all skiers under the age of 11. No try-outs are required to become a member of the roughly 50-member club. After a fee is paid to the mountain, skiers are off to competitions in Vermont under the coaching of Tom Sell.

According to Judy Klingebiel, whose daughter competes in the level two group, the skiers attend competitions from January to April. "The younger kids compete against clubs from Stratton, Bromley, Mt. Snow, and Killington. As they progress up in the levels, they compete throughout the state of Vermont."

Willard Mountain's ski club holds races that determine the skiers places on the team. Many participate in the Junior Olympics, each level has its own Olympics, hoping to qualify and be named to the Vermont state team.

Competition on the team is strong. "It is some of the best in the country," said Klingebiel. Vermont has sent more skiers to the U.S. Ski Team than any other state. Vermont also has many ski academies, where skiers board and ski daily." However while the team is competitive, participation in races is not required. "The number of races a club member participates in each year is strictly voluntary," Klingebiel added.

The Willard Mountain Ski Club will again sponsor its annual Used Equipment Sale every Saturday and Sunday this month, ending Saturday, Dec. 1, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The sale takes place in the lodge at Willard Mountain. Used ski equipment can be bought or sold at this Swap Shop. Children's equipment is abundant at the sale due to the fact that children outgrow their equipment so rapidly. The sale supports the Willard Mountain Race Team.

Information on the Swap Shop or skiing at Willard can be obtained by calling 692-7337.

As seen by the flashy ski displays in malls and specialty stores, a mountain ski resort is not the only place to buy or rent skis. The Sport Emporium, 154A Delaware Ave., Delmar, rents, as well as sells,

Bennington tours explore scenic New England

By Susan Wheeler

Pack a lunch, grab the kids, hop in the car and head toward Bennington, Vt., just about an hour's drive from the Capital District, for one of several scenic tours offered by the Bennington Area Chamber of Commerce.

This time of year when it's growing colder outside, an automobile tour of the Bennington area makes a sensible Sunday outing. For the more adventurous, the chamber also offers five bike tours. The scenic tours, outlined in brochures, are available from the Bennington Area Chamber of Commerce, Veterans Memorial Drive, Bennington, (802) 447-3311, for a $1 donation for each brochure.

The four back road tours of the Bennington area highlight the countryside, the historic district and other special interest areas. Each tour offers passengers scenic walks and learning experiences.

The 16-mile rural farm tour, fun for families with younger children, allows close encounters with sheep, cows, horses, and goats. The state fish hatchery, located on South Stream Road and open every day from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., is along the tour route. The hatchery's walking paths permit visitors to see fish in different stages of development. Fish pellets are usually available for feeding.

The historic tour, which begins and ends in historic old Bennington, includes three mid-19th century covered bridges, a waterfall, historical markers relating to the 1877 Revolutionary War's Battle of Bennington and views of the countryside and mountains. Many late 18th and early 19th century homes are located on the tour route, as well as the Bennington Battlefield and Bennington Monument.

The Shaftsbury tour, which heads north around West Mountain into the rural farmland in White Creek, N.Y., is for those who like bumpy rides. Much of the route is on narrow, unpaved roads. According to the brochure, the tour "is worthwhile, affording a taste of mountainous New England most road maps leave out."

The fourth tour takes visitors north on Route 7 out of Bennington to Arlington, which is rich in history, surrounded by countryside landscapes and offers shops along its back roads.

One of the sights along the tour, the Chisville Covered Bridge, is not only the second highest covered bridge in Vermont, but also appears in the movie "Baby Boom."

Other attractions on the Arlington tour include the Hill Farm Inn, one of Vermont's oldest farmsteads, settled in 1774 by a grant of King George III to the Hill family; the Norman Rockwell Gallery, which houses hundred's of Rockwell's Saturday Evening Post and Boy's Life cover illustrations and prints, and the "Hudson River" Gothic Church on Route 7.

The biking tours are created by local experts. Each riding loop is outlined on a map and accompanied by a descriptive commentary. The historic bike loop is 15 miles, the covered bridge tour is 16 miles, the Mt. Anthony bike loop is 13 miles, the town and country tour is 25 miles and for the real riding enthusiasts, the back roads and byways tour is a hilly 35 miles. The biking tour brochure describes regulations, as well as riding safety tips and parking suggestions.

SPOTLIGHT

By Martin P. Kelly

Special performance of Irish drama this Sunday at Capital Rep in Albany

If you're looking for an inexpensive peek at a relatively new Irish drama, the Capital Repertory Company offers an opportunity 7:30 p.m. this Sunday (Nov. 10) at its Market Theatre in Albany.

The theater's new "Pay What You Will" performance is a preview of Remembrance which opens officially November 15. Audience members pay whatever they wish to attend. Capital Rep is offering audiences this chance to see the romantic drama by Graham Reid Sunday as the first of several previews.

Martin P. Kelly

Reid's play, first done at the San Diego Old Globe Theatre after its American premiere at the Irish Arts Center in New York, is the second production of the season at Capital Rep. It will run through December 15.

Set in Belfast, Remembrance is a love story of a Catholic widow and a Protestant widower who fall in love as they tend the graves of children they've lost in the fighting that has devastated Northern Ireland for the past two decades. It develops into a reverse Romeo and Juliet as the surviving children of the two lovers attempt to tear them apart.

Capital Rep's artistic director Bruce Bouchard is staging this play that is written in the tradition of Synge and O'Casey where biting wit is threaded with stark drama.

For further info, call 462-4534.

Community theater flourishes in small towns and villages

Community theater as it was once is still carried out by local groups which use church halls and school stages.

Typical is the work of the Footlighters which will present Oscar Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest for two weekends at the Calvary United Methodist Church in Latham, beginning November 15.

An acting company which has been in existence for almost 20 years, the Footlighters have played in various schools and churches drawing most of their talent from Latham and neighboring Colonie communities.

The company will present the 19th century farce as part of a dinner theater arrangement where dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday on both weekends. For more info, call 785-5142.

An ambitious production of Lerner and Loewe's Brigadoon is being done by the Hilltown Players, an acting company that has flourished in lower Albany county for years.

This production will be offered Friday and Saturday nights (Nov. 8 & 9) at the Berne-Knox-Westerlo high school auditorium.

Another similar company is the Highlight Acting Troupe of Cropseyville in Rensselaer county. It continues Death By Chocolate Friday and Saturday nights (Nov. 8 & 9) at the Raymertown Lutheran Church in Raymertown.

This theater group has been in existence for a number of years also but was known as the Tamarac Players previously. It draws its members from the northeastern quadrant of Rensselaer county.

This Saturday performance is a dinner theater arrangement where a roast beef supper is served. For more info, call 237-6938.

In Stillwater, another local troupe, the Stillwater Players Among Others, will do the well-known play, Steel Magnolias, Friday through Sunday (Nov. 8-10) at the Stillwater High School auditorium.

The company has been an active theater troupe in Saratoga County for several years. For further info, call 371-1690.

Local playwright tells story of struggle to write play

When playwrights first type out the initial words of a play, they usually fall back on their own life experiences.

Michael Burns is no exception in his Close the Kitchen Door which opens Thursday (Nov. 7) for a two weekend run at Steamer 10 Theater in Albany.

Burns' play about a writer struggling to concoct a play about his own childhood, was first done at Cafe Lena in Saratoga last February. Since then, Burns has done some rewriting and now is testing the revised script at the small, converted firehouse at Lawrence Street and Western Avenue.

Although Steamer 10 Theater is known primarily as a children's theater, it is offering adult plays occasionally in the evenings. Burns play has adult subject matter, language and situations.

For more info, call 587-8890 or 438-5503.

Calling true stargazers — heavenly bodies can be viewed from the rural hill-tops of the George Landis Arboretum in Esperance on Saturday, Nov. 8 and 9.

The gathering will begin at 7 p.m. to view the double cluster in Perseus, the Ring Nebula or the Veil Nebula. For details, call 875-6935 for a weather update and dress warmly.

Celestial bodies and stars will also shine at the Junior Museum's planetarium introduction area, "Small Space," as part of its fall exhibits. Visitors will be introduced to the nine planets in our solar system, the constellations and phases of the moon, day and night. This show will explore outer space constellations and their various stories. Located at 282 Fifth Ave., Troy, the Junior Museum's general visiting hours are Saturday through Wednesday from 1 to 5 p.m.

If you're looking for a night of music and entertainment, the Innovative Teen Center at 2333A Western Ave., Guilderland, will present a "Music and Games Night" from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 8., Admission is free. Call 456-3634 for information

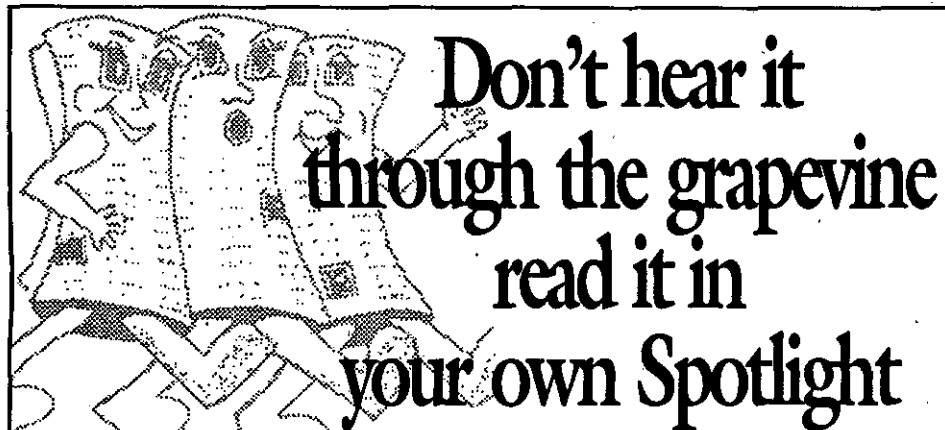

If outrageous car insurance rates are putting a serious strain on your savings, sign up for one of the Safety and Health Council's Defensive Driving courses. Completion of the course entitles motorists to a 10 percent reduction on automobile liability insurance and a 10 percent reduction on collision insurance — for a three year period — provided the motorist is listed as principal operator of the vehicle.

Each course, which consists of six hours of classroom instruction, will take place at the council offices, 845 Central Ave., Albany. Participants can take the program all at once, in a full-day session, or over two evenings in three-hour segments. The course will be held on Saturday, Nov. 9, and repeated on Saturday, Nov. 23, from 9 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. The two-part course will be on Thursdays, Nov. 7 and 14, and again on Tuesdays, Nov. 19 and 26, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

In addition to the insurance savings, participants will be allowed a four point reduction of traffic violations occurring during the past 18 months. To register, call the Safety and Health Council at 438-2365 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

☐ Skiing

ski equipment. While ski rental is available at almost all mountains, renting from a local store is perhaps the best bet for skiers, saving time in the rental shop and usually a good amount of money.

Boy Scout Troop 75 in Delmar is hosting its 17th annual Sports Mart on Saturday, Nov. 23, at Bethlehem Central High School on Delaware Avenue. Sellers should bring their items to the school between 9 and 11:30 a.m. The sale will be from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. There is a $1 admission charge.

Skiers should do some research before purchasing equipment. "Skiers should be sure to purchase equipment that is ideal for themselves," said Pete Rogers, owner of the Sport Emporium. "Many people assume that the best time to purchase ski equipment is at the end of the season sales, but the best time is when the weather is cold and snowy. Skiers should buy equipment when they are in the mood."

Just because November rolls around, it is not advised that skiers jump into their cars and buy the first set of skis that catches their eyes. "This is not true if there is no snow," said Rogers.

Pamper your car's engine to get start-up guarantee

If you pamper and protect your car — waxing to protect the paint, rotating tires to reduce wear, buying expensive seat covers to beautify the interior — you're one of the millions of Americans who spend billions of dollars each year on their vehicles.

However, today many car enthusiasts are discovering there's one simple preventative measure they can take to protect their car's most vital component — the engine — from damage caused by simply turning the ignition key. Millions of car owners have treated their engines to the extra protection of an engine formula.

Petrolon, Inc., manufacturers of a lubricant called Slick 50, claims its product will reduce ignition-based engine wear. Slick 50 users replace one quart of motor oil with a bottle of the Engine Formula during a routine oil change.

Petrolon recommends that consumers recycle used motor oil and the Slick 50 recyclable plastic bottle and cardboard box through a local collection center.

The engine is vital to the performance and longevity of your car. Protect the paint job and beautify the interior, certainly. But remember to protect what's under the hood too. It could save you time, money and aggravation.
