Hiking, biking trail eyed for D&H tracks

By Dev Tobin

Railroad tracks are level and free of motor vehicles, so they would make perfect hiking trails if it weren't for those pesky trains.

to abandon it, according to Mark King, senior natural resource planner for the Albany County Planning Department.

King, a hiking enthusiast, said that the rail line would make an excellent bicycle and hiking trail.

"It's a golden opportunity," King said.

Trails, whether or not on old rail beds, have become popular not just for the obvious exercise benefits, King said.

"Trails reconnect people with the natural environment and bring them back to a human scale, vs. the high-speed isolation of cars," King said. "Trails also build a sense of community — people invariably say 'Hello' when they pass on a trail."

The Delanson-Voorheesville spur has not been used for rail traffic for several years. As a trail, it offers outstanding scenery of the Helderberg escarpment, the Bozenkill Ravine and the Black Creek Wildlife Management Area, one of the top bird-watching spots in the state, King said.

Well, those pesky trains are no longer running on the 13 miles of D&H track from Delanson to Voorheesville, and the Canadian Pacific, current owner of the D&H, has applied for federal permission

Breslin targets tax cuts

Ringler says much more can be pared

By Mel Hyman

In the ongoing battle over who can provide the deepest tax cuts, Democratic Albany County Executive Michael Breslin vows to continue trimming the county work force in order to achieve his goal of a 5 percent property tax reduction next year.

Part of that work force reduction will come from his own office, Breslin said.

"I'm convinced there will be significant reductions for the county executive's office (for 1996) compared to what there was in the previous budget," he said.

The 1995 county budget that Breslin inherited from former Republican County Executive Michael Hoblock allotted $1,093,695 for the executive's office. Breslin spokeswoman Susan Pedo said $40,000 less than the budgeted amount will actually be spent this year.

There are 13 employees in Breslin's office, including the county executive himself.

About $690,000 in savings has already been realized from eliminating about 30 county jobs since Jan. 1, Breslin said, and further attempts will be made to shrink the work force as the year goes on through attrition and early retirement. About 3,300

Hoping to build upon the support he received during last year's race for Bethlehem Town Board, Democrat Bill Burkhard is turning his sights on the county Legislature seat held by Republican James Ross of Elsmere.

Burkhard has been given the Democratic nod to oppose Ross this November as all 39 seats in the Albany County Legislature go up for grabs.

Ross has been representing the 35th district, which encompasses Elsmere and Glenmont, for the past 12 years.

"I feel Bill will make a good candidate for that office," said town Democratic chairman Matt Clyne. "He did very well in that district during the last election."

Burkhard to challenge Ross for seat

Burkhard, 60, said he's buoyed by the depth of support he has received.

Since he is recently retired from his job as an occupational health and safety specialist with the state Department of Health, Burkhard said he will have no problem putting in the time necessary to beat someone of Ross' stature.

Burkhard said he will press Ross to take stands on some of the hot issues affecting Bethlehem politics at the moment, such as the new $13.9 million water system for the town that draws on an aquifer underneath the Hudson River.

While not questioning the purity of the new source, Burkhard said the all-Republican town board erred in moving ahead

□ CHALLENGE/page 20

In 1994, Burkhard polled more votes on the Democratic line than Councilwoman Doris Davis received on the Republican, but Davis prevailed with help from the Conservative Party line.

V'ville school ballot includes $12M budget

By Dev Tobin

When Voorheesville Central School District voters go to the polls Wednesday, June 7, they will decide the fate of a budget with the lowest estimated tax increase in seven years.

The $12.2 million spending plan for 1995-96 would raise the tax rate in New Scotland by an estimated 2.16 percent, and even less for district residents in Guiderland and Berne.

"It's a good budget — preserving class sizes in areas that are educationally responsible, balanced with a very low tax increase," said John Cole, board president.

The enrollment increase for next year is "not as large, and the way it's distributed helps a lot," Cole noted. "We've also done a good job managing the more than 70 percent of the budget that is personnel costs."

A recent fact-finder's report on the nearly two-year-old impasse with the Voorheesville Teachers Association recommended raises, including increment, in the 4 percent range, about half the prior contract, Cole noted.

Money has been added to the budget over the past two years in anticipation of a settlement, so there will not be a "shock" when the new contract is finally agreed upon, Cole added.

The budget also preserves spending on several initiatives, including improving technology, creating a middle school, improving delivery of special education services and School-to-Work, Cole noted.

The initiatives are "very low cost — getting a lot out of a few people," he said.

Also on the ballot are two propositions — for buses and capital projects.

The $121,200 bus proposition will fund two 60-passenger buses and one five-passenger van. State aid will reduce the net cost to Voorheesville taxpayers to an estimated $51,200.

The $261,000 capital projects proposition will fund underground fuel tank replacement, new water softeners, pool filter replacement, exhaust ventilation, computer data wiring, and replacement of some asbestos floor tiles at the elementary school.

With about 61 percent state aid and leftover funds from a previous construction proposition, the capital projects proposition will have no net impact on the taxpayers.

Included in the budget is a $1.2 million performance contract for energy improvements and roof replacement. The estimated annual costs of the contract, after state aid and energy savings, will be about $30,000 a year for 10 years.

Two people are running unopposed for two five-year board seats — incumbent Cole and newcomer Robert Baron.

The polls are open from 2 to 9:30 p.m. in the foyer of Clayton A. Bouton High School, Route 85A.

Water restrictions crimp summer daytime sprinkling

Restrictions on lawn and shrub sprinkling in Bethlehem are now in effect and will continue through the end of October.

Residents are prohibited from watering their lawns or shrubbery between the hours of 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. The regulation is designed to conserve water and lessen peak hydraulic demands on the system.

"The municipal water system is not an irrigation system," said town Public Works Commissioner Bruce Secor. "The reasons for this are that it makes little sense to spray water on a lawn during the middle of the day only to see it evaporate and, secondly, to help balance the hydraulic demands of our water system.

"It is important to have periods during the the day when we can refill tanks and even out water flows," Secor said.

It's the older areas of town such as Delmar and Elsmere where the problem becomes most evident, according to Secor. "You've got a lot of old iron pipes with small diameters put in a long time ago when the system was designed as a water system. Only a certain amount of water can get through to these areas" and excessive demand "upsets the system's hydraulic balance," he said.

The best time to do your lawn watering is in the early morning, said Councilman Fred Webster.

"Water early in the morning, before 10 (a.m.), and it'll soak in all," he said. "They (landscapers) tell you not to water at night because it can create a type of fungus on your lawn."

First-time violators of the ordinance will be issued a warning ticket. Subsequent offenses could mean fines.

RCS budget holds tax hike under 2%

By Dev Tobin

The Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk Central School District budget for next year increases spending by 3.6 percent, but the estimated tax rates for the four municipalities in the district are all up less than 2 percent.

According to district estimates, the tax rate hikes will be 1.47 percent for district residents who live in Bethlehem, and 1.74 for district residents in New Scotland, and even less for district residents in Coeymans and New Baltimore.

The proposed $23.5 million budget "is very responsible and represents a tremendous amount of work on the part of the staff and the board," said Sarah Hafensteiner, board president.

Hafensteiner noted that the board tried to hold spending down to zero growth "to keep the tax increase as small as possible."

On the spending side, next year's closure of Ravena Elementary School will result in cutting one administrative and one secretarial position, and two elementary teachers. Also eight special education aides will be cut, in an effort to provide those services more efficiently, Hafensteiner said.

Two new teaching positions, in elementary reading and high school English, will be added, along with a new district director of technology, Hafensteiner noted.

One revenue source that helped hold down the tax rate is the payment in lieu of taxes from Selkirk Cogen, which will increase from $735,000 this year to $1,080,000 next year. Estimated state aid is up modestly, about $120,000, from last year.

Also on the ballot are two propositions, for school buses and instructional technology.

The $350,000 bus proposition is for seven buses — three 65-passenger, two 30-passenger and two 18-passenger. The net cost of the buses to the district will be offset by 68 percent state aid.

The $395,000 technology proposition, the first installment of a six-year, $2.4 million Joint Education and Technology plan, will provide funding for hardware, software and staff training.

Hafensteiner said the proposition includes wiring all four district schools, a 25-computer lab for the middle school, 25 computers at each of the elementary schools, and about $50,000 for staff training.

Four people are running for three three-year board seats in an at-large election. The candidates are incumbent Mona Selover and Gerald DeLuca, Deborah DiPerna and Nanette Mayes.

The polls at RCS High School on Route 9W are open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, June 7.

Town improves intersection sightlines

The Bethlehem Town Highway Department recently completed a major safety improvement at the intersection of Blessing and Krumkill roads in North Bethlehem.

Two large earthen embankments — along with all obstructing vegetation — were removed to improve the sight distance at the intersection.

"Any motorist traveling this area will certainly notice and appreciate the better visibility," said town Highway Superintendent Gregg Sagendorph.

The intersection of Blessing and Krumkill roads has been the site of numerous traffic accidents in recent years as the volume of cars traveling the Blessing-Krumkill-Schoolhouse road corridor has increased greatly.

The town's traffic safety committee requested certain changes be made in this area. In addition to removing the embankments, the committee recommended a reduction in the speed limit along Krumkill Road, which was enacted last year.

It is hoped that these improvements will substantially reduce the number and severity of accidents at this location, said Police Lt. Richard Vanderbilt, chairman of the traffic safety committee.

In December 1993, there was a fatal accident at the junction of Blessing and Krumkill roads, Vanderbilt said. "Evidently one driver didn't see the other when he pulled out."

Sagendorph expressed appreciation to Albany County, which had jurisdiction over part of the intersection, and the four property owners whose lands were affected by the improvements.

"They were all instrumental in the successful completion of this project. All we're doing now is waiting for the grass to grow," he said.

New Scotland water district moves forward to final phase

By Dev Tobin

Despite a vocal minority opposed to paying for public water when their wells are OK, the New Scotland town board decided to move the Northeast Water District forward by formally asking the town's consulting engineer to prepare a contract for the second and final phase of the project.

At last week's informational meeting, several homeowners, mostly along Route 85A, complained that they would be getting nothing for the estimated $500 annual per-unit cost of the district, since their wells are adequate now.

Bob Cook, chairman of the town's water committee, explained that even those who do not want to tap into a main in front of their property are benefitting from the main being there, and will be required to be part of the district.

Their costs will be about $80 per year less (the estimated annual operations and maintenance charge for 80,000 gallons) if they do not connect to the main, Supervisor Herb Reilly said, but all district residents would be responsible for paying the district's capital costs.

Reilly added that the district could be redesigned to bypass Route 85A properties between Appleblossom Lane and Route 155, but that there would be no way to redesign the district to accommodate the minority of property-owners between Appleblossom and LeVie's who do not want water.

The original impetus for the district was the poor water quality in Orchard Park, Reilly said, but "We have tried to expand it to only need chlorination, Simcoe added.

According to petition results, each of the three phases of the district — Orchard Park, Forest Drive and Route 85A to LeVie's — has the required majority of property-owners who want public water. The overall majority is in the 65-70 percent range.

And Edward Sossner, attorney for the Hilton estate, where the district's wells are, said that his client would probably want water service for the two parcels it owns in the district.

Councilwoman Victoria Ramundo reported that one or two people who had signed the petition now want to be taken off.

"My main concern is to try to work out a compromise where possible" between proponents and opponents of the district, she said.

The next phase of the C.T. Male contract will include preparing a map, plan and report of the district's final boundaries; applications for the necessary state and county permits; and overseeing drilling a back-up well and final construction.

The board will likely schedule a public hearing on the district at its next meeting on June 12.

My main concern is to try to work out a compromise where possible.

Victoria Ramundo

accommodate the needs of people on Forest Drive and 85A."

Also, several people questioned whether the water from a well north of Smith Lane may not be plagued with the same water quality problems found in adjacent Orchard Park — methane, iron, sodium and hardness.

The water quality for the district's well, between Smith Lane and the D&H railroad tracks, is much better than other wells further south and west, according to Bill Simcoe, project manager for C.T. Male, the town's engineering consultant for the district.

And, unlike the sophisticated and expensive treatment systems many residents currently have for their wells, the district's well will

Matters of Opinion

Budget process stinks

According to Webster's New World Dictionary, the verb "stink" means "to be very offensive; to be hateful or abhorrent; to be of low standard or quality; be no good." Any and all of these meanings apply to the budget process as it is being practiced by our lawmakers.

Editorials

The state budget is two months overdue, and the meetings grind on, at great cost to such segments of our state as businesses, school districts, and taxpayers. The state comptroller, H. Carl McCall, reports that the state has missed nearly $3 billion in payments to date as a result of the late budget. Certain purchases, postage, for example, haven't been made, which makes it difficult for state operations to run smoothly. Also, the state isn't paying for purchases that are being made, such as leases, food and fuel. He says that "State government has been frozen in budget never-never land."

It isn't only our state government that suffers because there is no budget. Our communities are suffering, too, because of uncertainty about what the budget will contain when it is in place. Just ask the fellow who trims your trees, the woman who owns the local furniture store, or the car dealer on Central Avenue—they'll all tell you that this uncertainty results in reduced spending and a depression of our local economy. And businesses and employees are hurt.

How distasteful it must be for our elected representatives Sen. Michael Hoblock and Assemblymen John McEneny and John Faso to go on holiday while people we never voted on to represent us—Sen. Bruno and Assemblyman Silver—decide how we will be taxed.

Because of the three-man shenanigans in the Capitol, 48 states have higher credit ratings than New York. The governor withholds state workers' salaries and the workers sue to receive their pay. The upshot of this lamentable, embarrassing, harmful and totally unnecessary exercise in futility is that New Yorkers are losing faith in the ability of their elected representatives to govern (see Point of View on this page). Yes, the budget process stinks. It's obviously no good.

The budget must be passed on time.

Our representatives must represent us in the budget process.

Our state must regain a reputation for fiscal responsibility.

End of a class act

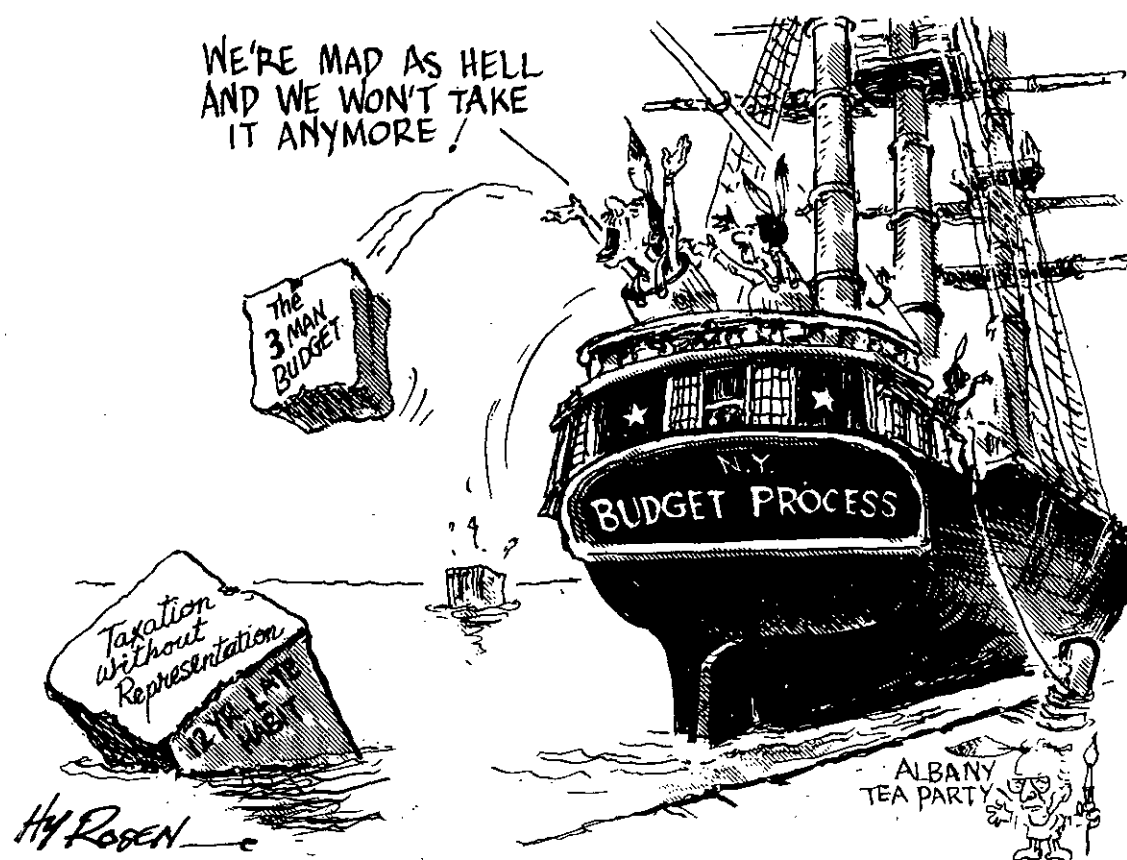

Eileen Schuyler, owner of the Village Furniture Company in Delmar's Main Square, has decided to call it quits. By the end of June, the doors will close forever.

One reason is that people's buying habits have shifted from patronizing locally owned stores to shopping multi-store chains which have great purchasing power and huge advertising budgets. Another is that among many of the people who might normally patronize her store, including a substantial number of state workers, there is a distinct feeling of insecurity because of the delayed state budget and the future of state jobs. On top of all this are state taxes and regulations that make it more expensive and less profitable to run a small business. The closing of the outstanding tasteful and classy Village Furniture Company will be felt in Delmar.

Good riddance

The collection of hazardous waste materials on Saturday, May 20, was an extremely successful venture. It provided the people of Bethlehem with a legal way to dispose of many kinds of environmentally unfriendly materials. The 750 cars representing 850 households that traveled to the town garage on Elm Avenue East where the materials were collected were good evidence of the need for such a recycling program. For this project, a vendor from Massachusetts was hired by Bethlehem and four other nearby areas, including Colonie. This cooperative venture saved us money and made it possible for us to get rid of a lot of dangerous and difficult-to-dispose-of clutter.

Fiscal integrity and our lawmakers

On Nov. 4, 1997, New Yorkers will be asked to vote on whether a convention should be called to consider revision of our state constitution. Two years ago, the Temporary New York State Commission on Constitutional Revision was created to learn from people in the state what their views are on the condition of our state government and whether the people want a constitutional convention. The commission's final report has just been published.

The commissioners found that we New Yorkers want change and real improvement in basic state functions that aren't working well. One of the key issues identified was the deep concern people had for "the assurance of fiscal integrity in government at both the state and local levels."

Commission members found "a nearly universal impatience and anger with government's perceived failure to move systematically and effectively" to deal with the issue of fiscal integrity. A case in point is our lawmakers' ongoing mishandling of the state budget process.

The commission's statement on fiscal integrity follows:

Executive budgeting in New York State is constitutionally based and defined. Regarded by some as the most important innovation in American government practice in this century, the executive budget process adopted here in 1927 was emulated by other states and the national government.

But New York has ceased to be a model. Fiscal discipline has eroded. The Constitution specifies a date for submission of the budget but not for its adoption. In the last decade and a half, failure to adopt a budget by the start of the fiscal year has become the norm in New York. Stopgap methods have been improvised to continue state operations past the beginning of the fiscal year without a budget. Some budgets have been not days but months late, bringing into question the capacity of state government to govern and costing local governments millions in additional financing costs.

The Constitution requires the state budget as submitted to be balanced. But it does not require balance upon adoption, nor does it mandate multiyear planning for fiscal balance in later years. Artful, one-shot arrangements to close budget gaps on paper leave structural imbalance unaddressed and delegitimize state government. Disputes among key budget players about the amount of available resources (each backed by sophisticated, independent revenue projection models), consume limited time and complicate the budget process far beyond what was expected when it was designed. In fact, budgets frequently have been adopted that were significantly and transparently out of balance.

Moreover, budgetary delays

Waste collection team effort

Editor, The Spotlight:

A special thank you is due the many people who helped to make the Town of Bethlehem's first Household Hazardous Waste Collection Day a huge success. The event was held at the Town Highway Department's garage facility on Saturday, May 20.

First, to the volunteers, a group that included many town officials and members of the Bethlehem Police Department, the Bethlehem reserve Police, the Glenmont Job Corps, Selkirk Fire Department, Passonno Paints, and Bethlehem Work on Waste members.

Second, to Highway Superintendent Gregg Sagendorph, recycling coordinator Sharon Fisher and the employees of the Bethlehem Highway Department and Laidlaw Environmental Services, who all worked into the early hours of Sunday morning handling the waste.

And finally, to the residents of Bethlehem for their participation in this worthwhile collection day and their patience as the lines formed to make this one of the most successful programs in regional history.

Integrity

and fiscal decisions by the state cause havoc for local governments and school districts by shifting costs, imposing unfunded mandates, and creating conditions of uncertainty that throw local budgets into chaos. In 1992, state spending totaled $59.4 billion and total expenditures of all of New York's local governments (including funds from state sources) was $77.23 billion. The scale and interdependence of state and local government operations has made the absence of any provisions in the budget system governing this relationship a major problem. One consequence of these developments is that New York's credit rating is now ranked 49 among the states.

Artful, one-shot arrangements to close budget gaps on paper leave structural imbalance unaddressed and delegitimize state government.

New York needs a "taxpayer's budget," one that imposes discipline and tightens accountability in state public financing and presents clearly the combined state and local impacts of budgetary decisions. New York needs an annual budgetary process that produces true balance, and a related planning process that requires consideration of current fiscal decisions on budgetary balance in the future.

Toward these ends, the Commission recommends the creation of an Action Panel on Fiscal Integrity for New York to:

- review the process of budget preparation, submission, adoption, and administration in New York state, as it applies to the operations and responsibilities of both state and local governments; and

- recommend a package of legislative and constitutional changes to implement those recommendations.

More specifically, this panel should explore:

- whether the Constitution should require adoption of a balanced budget;

- whether the comptroller's duties should be revised to include certification of projected revenues or certification of the adopted budget as balanced;

- how the state budget process might be changed to make more likely the timely adoption of a balanced budget;

- ways to build multiyear planning, and periodic adjustment of multiyear plans, into the constitutional budget process;

- whether modifications should be made in the procedures for the issuance of state and state-related debt;

- consensus system of revenue estimating for New York, similar to that used by other states; and

- methods for mandatory, comprehensive, combined reporting of actual and proposed state and local spending in core functional areas of government, so that taxpayers can see the total picture of what they are paying for and what they are actually getting for their money.

Parents/educators seek solutions

Editor, The Spotlight:

Parent representatives from Glenmont Elementary School met with Dr. Leslie Loomis on Thursday, May 4, to discuss the relocation of the September 1995 Glenmont kindergarten to Slingerlands Elementary School. Present at the meeting were: Dr. Loomis, Don Robillard, Karen Dombrowski, Jeff Pesnel, Dorothea Pratt, Arlene Rappocci, Kim Ryan, Anita Stein and Janice Thompson.

We had a productive dialog with Dr. Loomis regarding the future of Glenmont Elementary School and the kindergarten in particular. To summarize our meeting, briefly:

Dr. Loomis suggested that we can expect about 120 additional students district-wide in grades 1-5 before the population peak in 1998-99. Based on these projections, each school will lose art/music rooms to accommodate enrollment.

District policy to use empty space at one school to house kindergarten from another school provides flexibility. However, loss of the art/music rooms should be done throughout the district, rather than at one school only, to ensure equitability for grades 1-5.

Dr. Loomis stated that the 1995 Glenmont kindergarten assignment was consistent with long-standing district policy. He indicated that, in his view, all five elementary schools should be K-5 schools. Studies regarding the population are ongoing, and we can expect more information after the census scheduled for fall '95.

Dr. Loomis raised the possibility of "modifying the elementary attendance boundaries" (redistricting) as a solution to the population growth. The administration will continue to assign new residential developments to schools that can house additional students.

We appreciated Dr. Loomis' candor and the time he spent in educating us in the difficult tasks facing the administration as it strives to accommodate the needs of a growing community. However, we are concerned with the lack of a long-range plan at the elementary school level.

While Dr. Loomis agreed that it would be unfair for Glenmont to be the only one of five elementary schools to be without a kindergarten, at this time there is no plan that indicates when kindergarten classes will resume at Glenmont. He did assure us that the issue will be addressed in the fall of 1995 as additional data will be available.

The administration's decision regarding the 1995 kindergarten is now history. But it has served as a catalyst for us to remain aware of and involved in the decision-making process. We look forward to the upcoming Long Range Planning Report, which we understand addresses the need for building enhancements at the middle and high school levels.

We strongly support any recommendations that will upgrade educational quality at the upper levels. We would like to see the Long Range Planning Committee continue with a focus now on the elementary level.

We believe that a proactive approach will elevate the confidence level of parents and serve the needs of the students. We are prepared to participate in such a process.

Our children deserve our best efforts. We will accept nothing less.

Your Opinion Matters

Animal rights activists should be more compassionate

Editor, The Spotlight:

After reading Mel Hyman's article, "Animal rights activists claim EnCon hearing was 'farce'," in the May 10 issue of The Spotlight, there is need to focus some background light on the May 3 incident.

Although I did not attend this year's meeting, I was there last year and in several previous years and have asked this year's attendees for specific clarification. There can be little question but that activists were there for one reason only—disruption.

Let's look at some pertinent facts. Hunting is legal in all 50 states and is an historical, moral and, as now controlled, ecologically-sound activity.

Exactly 100 years ago, the state legislature established the Division of Fish and Wildlife to serve as steward of wildlife resources to counteract the extinction or near-extinction of a number of wildlife species including wolf, lynx, deer, beaver, wood duck and passenger pigeon.

There were two main causes of this severe distress to mostly forest species: 1. over 60 percent of the forest had been "cleared" for farming, and 2. uncontrolled commercial hunting for meat, hides, fur and plumes was rampant. For example, hogsheads of partridge (grouse) were shipped regularly to New York City from counties along the Hudson River.

Regional waterfowl meetings have been held annually, with a set agenda, specifically so that waterfowl experts (stewards) can meet with sportsmen to impart the latest scientific findings regarding wildlife status. And it gives sportsmen the opportunity to express opinions and desires for next season, bag limits or zone changes so scientists can determine their merits and whether or not they comply with federal framework specifications. This is responsible stewardship to insure that hunting does not jeopardize perpetuation of any waterfowl species.

This brings us back to the complaints by Anne Muller and Marion Stark that they were not given time to protest against hunting. (Incidentally, EnCon announced this as a meeting, not a hearing as the article was titled.)

If animal rightists have a sincere interest in proper management of wildlife, why have they not published any articles by wildlife biologists or ecologists?

A review of publications shows there have been none. More to the point, if they lack knowledge, and they definitely do, about what hunting is and does ecologically, why have they not simply asked for an EnCon wildlife scientist to come to a meeting and describe it?

In view of their protests and the furor created, it seems only fair to ask Muller and Stark to let the readers of The Spotlight know the answers to a couple of questions. Why did they ask a local TV station to announce (at 8 a.m.) that the Committee to Abolish Sports Hunting (CASH) was holding a meeting at 8 p.m. at the Five Rivers Educational Center (the site reserved for the waterfowl meeting)? And why was the group carrying placards? It would appear they were expecting TV coverage and planned to stage a demonstration.

Remember, these same groups participated in the many anti-trapping fur demonstrations during the past decade and are largely responsible for the recent raccoon cycle. Their intimidating tactics greatly reduced fur coat sales, which lowered fur values, which in turn reduced trapping and forced many furriers out of business.

These actions greatly reduced the control effect of human trapping on raccoons (beaver also) which now lack the predation formerly exerted by wolves and lynx. The consequence was a very rapid rise in raccoon abundance leading to an unprecedented high number of road kills from 1991 to 1993. Remember them?

What people didn't see were the high mortalities from epidemics of distemper, mange and rabies which were rampant at the same time. By 1994, raccoon abundance was down to a very low level. This is a very well-known and documented scenario.

This phenomenon has been described in EnCon publications, with principal reference to deer, for nearly 50 years. It also has been a major topic in EnCon's Environmental Impact Statements.

Causing many more animals to die, with much more suffering, in the guise of "saving" some from trapping (or hunting) is not only irresponsible and uncompassionate but inexcusable.

No ifs, ands, or butts about it

Editor, The Spotlight:

Ever wonder why smokers think it's okay to throw their cigarette butts out their car windows while driving around our town? Don't they realize that those plastic cigarette filters don't readily biodegrade? Can't they see that our beautiful community is no one's filthy ashtray? These offenders must be too lazy to clean out their car ashtrays or perhaps they store loose change in them.

Regardless, try this the next time you spot a "butt head" flicking his or her spent butt onto our roadways. Beep your horn for a few seconds. Let the person know you've identified him or her as a real "butt head."

Fine example of school spirit

Editor, The Spotlight:

The members of the Middle School Climate Committee wish to thank the community for supporting the Fourth Annual Craft Fair held at the school on Saturday, April 29. Profits from the fair will be used to fund the landscaping project and specific team projects which are not funded by the school district. Such projects will enhance the environment of our building. We hope that everyone will notice our improvements.

We are very proud of the many students who gave of their time to make the craft fair a success. Student organizations such as the Leadership Clubs, S.A.D.D. and Student Council made posters. Other students made jewelry and crafts which were sold at a special table just for children.

On fair day, some students arrived at 7:30 in the morning to assist the vendors. Others worked at the refreshment stand, the children's crafts table, and the raffle table, or helped take and deliver lunch orders to the vendors.

Approximately 100 middle school students had a part in the 1995 craft fair. This was a fine example of true school spirit. We recognize and thank them all.

Bethlehem police probe thefts

Bethlehem Police are investigating two burglaries that took place last Wednesday — both with apparently the same scenario.

On Wednesday, May 24, between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., robberies were reported at homes on Forest Road in Delmar and West Bayberry Road in Glenmont.

In both cases, the homeowners were in the back of their residences doing yard work, according to Police Lt. Frederick Holligan. When the Forest Road home-

BCHS graduation party in the works for June

The alcohol-free BCHS Graduation Celebration is planned for Friday, June 23, from 11:30 p.m. to 5 a.m. at the American Legion Post on Poplar Drive in Elsmere.

The party will feature games, prizes, music and dancing, as well as caricature-drawing by local cartoonist Ed Rosen.

Tickets will go on sale June 6 at the high school for $10, and will also be available for $15 at the door.

Donations are still needed to pay for the celebration, and can be sent to: Joyce Recene, 52 Dumbarton Drive, Delmar 12054.

owner finished her tasks, "She went into the house and encountered a woman in her 60s in the living room," Holligan said.

The perpetrator, who had a heavy accent, remarked that she had to leave and promptly exited the front door.

"She entered a large, brown sedan driven by a white male with glasses who also appeared to be in his 60s," Holligan said. The vehicle had a New Jersey license plate.

Upon checking the premises, the homeowner discovered she was missing a large amount of jewelry including earrings, gold chains and diamond rings.

No cash value was placed on the stolen items, Holligan said, but "It was considerable."

At the West Bayberry Road residence, the "same basic type thing took place." The homeowner was doing yard work and upon going back inside noticed that the dresser drawers in the bedroom had been ransacked.

Once again, a considerable amount of jewelry was taken including a set of sterling silver flatware and an expensive pocket watch.

Neighbors on the street reported seeing a woman fitting the same description as the perpetrator from Forest Road, Holligan said, "They also saw a vehicle similar to the one spotted in Elsmere."

"This happens every year around this time," Holligan said. "People out working in their yards forget to secure the house and fall victim to criminals driving through neighborhoods just looking for an opportunity. The only advice police can offer is to 'lock up,'" Holligan said.

"Once someone determines there's no one inside, it only takes a matter of minutes to slip in, head for the bedroom and clean you out," he said.

St. Thomas pupils win 5 awards in contest

St. Thomas the Apostle School in Delmar has five winners in the AAA Poster Contest in the national competition.

The awards ceremony will be held at 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 6, at the Days Inn, Route 9W in Albany.

Merit citations were awarded to Ryan Morse in grade-six, Kevin Neubauer in grade-five and Laura Salhoff in grade-seven.

Seventh-grader Jaime Hoose and sixth-grader Jared Marsh received honorable mention.

In the local contest, St. Thomas school had four winners, including a second place. The four winners were among 12 selected from 437 entries. Hoose won on both levels. "We are very proud of our artists and their success," said Sister Mary Frederick, St. Thomas principal.

This year, 74,003 posters were received from 2,665 schools in the U.S. and Canada. Since the program's inception in 1945, more than 1.5 million posters have been submitted.

"The AAA Traffic Safety Poster Program is a fun project for youngsters," said George I. Zeller, safety director of the Hudson Valley Auto Club, Inc., "yet it carries an important message. It teaches basic pedestrian, bicycle, safety belt, alcohol, helmet and driving safety."

V'ville checking life support systems

By Dev Tobin

In an ideal world, providing advanced life support, the highest level of emergency ambulance service, would be a no-brainer.

But in these days of tight budgets and angry taxpayers, additional government services must survive a political cost-benefit analysis.

In the town of New Scotland, the cost of ALS service (more than $100,000, leading to an estimated double-digit tax increase) provided through the county sheriff's department has thus far outweighed the benefits.

So the village of Voorheesville, within New Scotland, will take its own look at how to best provide ALS, especially now that the Albany Fire Department has decided not to extend emergency ALS service to outlying municipalities.

The village board discussed ALS options at last week's meeting, but came to no conclusions, said Mayor Edward Clark.

The options include going with the county system, which is slated to serve the Hilltowns, setting up a cooperative venture with Guiderland, contracting with Mohawk Ambulance, a for-profit service, or raising the Voorheesville Ambulance's level of service.

The village has roughly five calls a year where ALS is needed, Clark estimated. "But that's significant, because it's life and death."

The board has asked the Voorheesville Ambulance to sort out the pluses and minuses of various options and report back at a workshop meeting at 7 p.m.

before the board's next regular meeting on June 27.

In other business, the board decided not to take the low bid for solid waste pickup because it was unsure about the capability of the bidder to provide the service.

The low bidder at about $37,000, Reliable Sanitation of Poughkeepsie, "hasn't demonstrated reliability," Clark said.

Waste pickup "has to happen like clockwork," he said, adding that the village has not been able to adequately check Reliable's references.

The bid is for a new level of service, Clark said, including pickup of all recyclables at the curb.

The next lowest bidder at about $51,000, BFI Waste Systems, "is a well-established firm," Clark said.

Workshops to focus on surviving cancer

"I Can Cope," a three-session educational program for cancer patients, their families and friends, will be held on Wednesdays in June at St. Peter's Hospital, 317 South Manning Blvd., Albany.

Workshops will focus on "Legal and Insurance Issues" (June 14); "New and Upcoming Treatments," and "Radiation Therapy in the Treatment of Cancer" (June 21); and "Cancer Survivorship Issues" (June 28).

To register for a session, call the American Cancer Society at 438-7841.

Because state law requires all bikers age 14 and under to wear helmets, participants in that age group must wear an approved helmet to take part in events. Some helmets will be available for loan.

have compiled a bibliography, "Memoirs and Diaries from the Holocaust," a selective listing of the library's resources. Ask for a copy at the reference desk.

Call 439-9314 for reservations for the program.

Seniors from the "Monday Meals" nutrition program for Bethlehem residents age 60 and over will visit the library from noon to 1 p.m. on Monday, June 5, for a tour and orientation to the library's services for senior citizens.

Following the program, participants will have a box lunch in the community room. For program and/or meal reservations, call Bethlehem Senior Services at 439-4955.

Children ages 3 to 6 are invited to the preschool films program on Friday, June 2, at 10:30 a.m. The short films "Here Comes the Cat," "The Great White Man-eating Shark" and "Why Mosquitoes Buzz in People's Ears" will be shown. Registration is not required for the 30-minute program.

Anna Jane Abaray

Shapiro will discuss the literary and historical significance of the complete version of the diary, published this year by Doubleday on the 50th anniversary of Anne Frank's death. The edition, based on a new translation of the original Dutch text, restores nearly 30 percent of the diary omitted from the 1947 edition.

It gives a more comprehensive picture of an adolescent struggling to find herself amid armed occupation and war.

For 10 years, Shapiro has directed the Holocaust Survivors and Friends Education Center in Latham. She co-authored the Readers' Companion with the Anne Frank Center, USA, a non-profit educational organization which supports programs that examine and challenge discrimination. Shapiro is co-author and editor of Truth Prevails: Demolishing Holocaust Denial and is co-editor of the journal Justice.

She is an adjunct professor at the University at Albany School of Education where she conducts a course on "Teaching and Learning about the Holocaust."

Shapiro has conducted seminars and programs about Holocaust education throughout the state and developed exhibitions and programs such as "Confronting Bigotry: Kristallnacht," teaching the dangers of prejudice to students. She has organized a unique program in support of the children of Bosnia, the Anne Frank Children-to-Children Appeal to Bosnia.

Recently, Shapiro was honored by the board of regents as recipient of the 1994-95 Yavner Award for teacher of the year in Holocaust education.

In conjunction with Shapiro's presentation, reference librarians Meryl Norek and Karen Levi Lausa

The Voorheesville girls softball team avoided being victims of a first-round upset in sectional play by ousting Fort Plain 2-0.

Although the Lady Hilltoppers (10-13) remained in contention for most of the game, Voorheesville only needed two runs in the third inning to seal the victory and eliminate the number nine seed. Larina Suker's RBI double broke a scoreless tie. Suker then scored on a throwing error for the second run.

The Lady Birds powerful offense only could manage four hits as a team. They had trouble moving base runners and hitting the ball where their opponents weren't. Voorheesville stranded runners on third base three times in the game and a runner on second base once. Other batters to reach base on hits were Kristin Dougherty, Jen Delaney and Lauryn Lloyd.

"I am happy to get through the first round," said head coach Nadine Bassler. "I was impressed with Fort Plain and knew coming into the game that they had played in a competitive league (Tri-Valley)." "We just didn't hit the ball well," said Bassler. "From what I saw, the team looked tight and nervous and we can't afford to let that happen anymore."

In addition to her RBI double, Suker was masterful on the mound. She only surrendered one hit and fanned 13 batters.

"Larina thrives in tough situations," said Bassler. "Whenever the game is on the line, she comes through. Her veins are full of ice water."

On Monday, May 22, Voorheesville played its final regular season league game against Holy Names. Sara Growick's RBI double in the top of the seventh inning broke the game open and started what turned out to be a 12-run inning. The Lady Birds shut out Holy Names 12-0.

Delaney and Kelly Griffin were the stars of the game. Delaney slugged three singles and Griffin added two singles. Suker held her opponents to one hit and recorded 12 strikeouts.

"There are no easy games left in this tournament," said Bassler. "Hopefully, we will hit the ball better vs. Canajoharie. They have a solid defensive infield, but I feel our pitching may be the difference."

Helps Davies turn back Jawbreakers

Rasowsky hurls no-hitter in TVLL

By James A. Williams

Twelve-year old Avi Rasowsky, the left-handed ace of Davies Office Refurbishing, notched the first no-hitter of the Tri-Village Little League season on Thursday, May 25. Rasowsky also helped with the batting chores, hitting a triple and single, as Davies defeated the Jawbreakers in a low-scoring game, 2-0.

In defeat, Jawbreakers' pitcher Matt Treadgold did well, giving up only five hits to Davies - the triple and single to Rasowsky and three other singles.

This was a split of the two teams' series. The Jawbreakers won the first encounter 1-0, on May 6.

Rasowsky's speed and control on the mound accounted for 14 strikeouts. "Avi went through their lineup like a machine," said his team manager and proud father Bernie Rasowsky.

The no-hitter was briefly in doubt late in the game after Rasowsky walked the second of only two batters for the day. The Jawbreakers' Evan Cammissa-Frost smacked a line drive that looked like it was headed to right field. But first baseman Morgan Gmelch leaped high to snag the ball and doubled the runner off base for a double play, ending any scoring threat.

Elsewhere in the holiday-shortened fifth week of Little League play, Seth Cuzdey struck out 11 batters and his teammates tapped out six hits as Howard Banner, DDS defeated Burt Anthony Associates 4-1 on Monday, May 22, to give each team a win in the two-game series.

Burt Anthony's pitcher, Ian Grovenger, did well despite the loss, notching 10 strikeouts.

Mike Banner and Mason Jones each hit doubles, while Banner, Dan Smith, Ben Norris and Ryan Williams also collected singles.

Also last week, Messina-Cahill lost two games, the first on Sunday, May 21, to Friedman's Flyers 15-6; the second to Klersey Building, 13-5, on Wednesday, May 24. Farm Family Insurance beat Horticulture Unlimited 8-1 and Jeffery Levine, CFP, clipped the Jawbreakers, 11-2, on Sunday, May 21.

Owens routs Otto Olds behind Evan McQuide

In recent Bethlehem Babe Ruth League action, Evan McQuide twirled a one-hitter and went 4-for-6 at the plate as Owens Corning blasted Otto Olds, 21-2. Greg Bartoletti went a perfect 4-for-4 in support of the winners.

Farm Family continued with its offensive assault against league pitching in humbling Sorensco, 24-6; Matt Elfeldt pitched two scoreless innings and contributed two singles in the romp.

Patterson had a key hit to rally the losers.

Owens Corning edged Good Sports, 11-10. Rory McInerney doubled in Bartoletti in the bottom of the seventh with the winning run. Jon Burroughs pitched a complete-game victory for the winners.

Davies beat Brunswick, 6-4. Mike Carney pitched five strong innings, striking out seven. Dennis Clark and Dan Santola each contributed a single.

Babe Ruth

In 13-year-old action, Davies Office Refurbishing split two games, beating Schenectady, 9-7. Ben Odell pitched a strong, four-pitch innings to garner the win. Zach Capobianco had two singles and Steve Watt a triple to highlight the offense.

In a thriller, Anaconda edged Davies, 4-3. Ryan Venter struck out 16 and drove in the winning run for the victors. Alex Voetsch's daring base running set up the decisive tally. Chris Wilson gave up only five hits in defeat and Whit

The proposed rail trail would also help move forward the Long Path, a walking trail that begins in New York City, from its present northern terminus in Thacher Park.

The Canadian Pacific has indicated that it also plans to stop using the Voorheesville to Albany part of the line, King said, because needed repairs to the bridge over the Normanskill are prohibitively expensive given the low level of traffic.

Using the D&H line to "link the Long Path to Albany and the Hudson River Greenway trail would make a tremendous system," King said.

Government at some level would have to find "somewhere in the low millions" to buy the 26 miles from Delanson to Albany for recreational uses, King said, adding that the state Department of Transportation has the right of first refusal for any sale of abandoned rail lines, and DOT can assign that right to other governmental units.

While the salvage value of the rails and ties would equal the cost of removing them, installing a suitable surface for bicycles would add to the project's costs, King noted.

On the revenue side, studies have shown that rail trails generate tourism and collateral economic activity in stores and restaurants, King said, and also raise the value of adjacent property.

King noted that a rail trail, unlike the county's major recreational investment, the Knickerbocker Arena, would be "available to everyone, not just those who can afford it."

A rail trail "would be wonderful," said New Scotland Supervisor Herb Reilly. "I've hiked it with the Boy Scouts and it's a beautiful trail. It would be a shame to give up that light-of-way and have a hodgepodge there."

Bethlehem Supervisor Sheila Fuller said that her town is interested in a recreational trail, and would also like to pursue using about one mile of the D&H right-of-way as a two-lane road.

A new road connecting Delaware Avenue and Cherry Avenue Extension would "divert some traffic off Delaware" and solve one of the town's most serious traffic problems — "the lack of sufficient arterials in Delmar."

Fuller noted that an extra-wide shoulder would be part of the plan for the road, so that bicycle and hiking uses could continue safely there.

King to lead hike on D&H tracks

On Saturday, June 3, rail-trail booster Mark King will lead a hike on about five miles on the D&H tracks, including the Bozenkill Ravine west of Altamont, as part of National Trails Day festivities at Altamont Village Park on Main Street.

"You would never see this area of the Bozenkill Ravine unless you were trespassing," King noted.

You would never see this area of the Bozenkill Ravine unless you were trespassing.

Saturday's one-way hike includes free transportation from the park to the starting point at 9:30 a.m. The hike will take place rain or shine.

Wear sturdy shoes and dress for the weather, King advised.

Once the hikers return, there will be a silent auction of hiking gear, music (featuring farmer-poet-guitarist Harry Garry) and refreshments in the park from approximately 1 to 3 p.m.

The festivities are sponsored by the Long Path North Hiking Club, which is working to extend the Long Path from its current terminus in Thacher Park to the Mohawk River.

people are currently on the county payroll.

Under terms of an agreement reached in 1993 that extended the 8 percent sales tax through the end of 1995, the county is required to pare 80 jobs from its work force by the end of this year.

Breslin also said his 1996 budget would cut nonessential travel and postpone equipment purchases as part of his effort to reduce the tax levy at least 5 percent for 1996.

Breslin also cited savings of about $600,000 this year in Medicaid outlays, attained by actively encouraging Medicaid clients to enroll in managed care health plans.

But former Bethlehem Supervisor Kenneth Ringler, the Republican candidate for county executive, refuses to take a back seat to Breslin on the subject of taxes. He continues to push his own proposal, calling for the return of an additional $8.6 million in county sales tax receipts to the cities, towns and villages.

Breslin is "offering to cut (the budget) by $2 million and I'm saying that we can reduce it by $8.6 million," Ringler said. "It's a sham to say that we couldn't achieve this by making government run more efficiently."

Ringler said that the management audits recently conducted of county departments identified $5 million in savings right off the top.

The Republican minority in the county Legislature is apparently ready to back Ringler fully on his tax proposal, lining up behind his plan during a meeting of the Legislature's Audit and Finance Committee. The Ringler plan was dismissed, however, during committee deliberations last week.

While acknowledging that the county has realized significant savings by steering Medicaid clients into managed care, Ringler continues to maintain that this was an initiative put in motion by Hoblock. Hoblock resigned as Albany County executive on Jan. 1, 1995, to enter the state Senate.

Breslin, who was appointed executive when the office became vacant, does not refute this. But Breslin also said he has been more aggressive in trying to convince Medicaid clients to make the switch.

Breslin also stated his intention this week of continuing the management audits begun under Hoblock. The initial round of audits covered the six largest county departments, including Social Services, Mental Health and Public Works.

The next round will encompass the remaining departments and cost the county about $500,000.

with the project "without obtaining public approval."

On the county level, Burkhard said, "If it made good business sense," he would not be averse to selling the Knickerbocker Arena, which drains the county treasury of millions each year in debt service.

"Albany has a reputation of being fickle with regard to supporting its sports teams," which county officials should have realized before they went ahead with the $66 million civic center in 1989, he said.

Burkhard predicted a gentlemanly campaign against Ross, who he described as "a personal friend of mine." But nevertheless, he said, "It's time we get some new blood in there."

Since Ross failed in his attempt to attain a leadership position in the Legislature's Republican minority in 1994, Burkhard contended, "He really hasn't taken much of an interest in the job."

Ross, who defeated Frank Rooney of Delmar in 1992 by a healthy margin, responded that it was only two years ago when he led the Republican effort to make management audits of county agencies a condition of extending the 8 percent sales tax.

"That was leadership," he said. "That was an accomplishment."

Decisions, decisions

Good parenting means helping our children make good decisions.

It is important to discuss decision-making skills with your child. Give your children opportunities to make choices and help them learn to live with the consequences.

Practice using decision-making skills. Involve young children in decisions about menus and what games to play. Older children can help make decisions about birthday parties, clothing and how to decorate their rooms.

These are some questions you can suggest they think about when faced with a decision:

- What are my choices?
- Why is a choice best for me?
- What will happen now if I make this choice?
- What will happen later?
- Will anyone be hurt?
- Do I need to talk to an adult I respect?
- How will I feel if I make this choice?
- Will this work?

The sky's limit at Albany planetarium

By Joshua Kagan

Weekends this June, the Henry Hudson Planetarium at the Albany Urban Cultural Park Visitors Center will present star shows that will entertain and educate audiences of all ages.

The planetarium, at 25 Quackenbush Square at the corner of Broadway and Clinton Avenue in Albany, will present two family star shows every Saturday in June, June 3, 10, 17 and 24.

"Planet Patrol: Solar System Stake-out" will be presented at 11:30 a.m. on each date. The audience will be led on a search through space for the source of unusual transmissions by Planetary Investigator Sam Snork and his assistant Elmo.

"They're fun. They're cartoon detectives making their way through the solar system," Urban Cultural Park Director Mollie Maloney said of the show's characters, who will go "cruising for clues."

"Through their adventures, they learn about other planets and what makes Earth special," Maloney said. "It's a spoof on detective shows."

The 40-minute show is appropriate for children in third-grade and older. Maloney said it attracts mainly younger children.

The second show, "Albany: New Star on the Hudson," will focus on the early history of the city. A special emphasis will be given to early explorers, especially Henry Hudson, and their use of stars to navigate.

The 30-minute show will describe the Dutch colonization of the area and formation of Fort Orange from European and Native American perspectives and outline Albany's history up to the present. The show is supplemented by local history exhibits in the visitors center.

"Albany: New Star on the Hudson" will be presented at 12:30 p.m. on each date. It is appropriate for children in kindergarten and older and attracts more of a mixed audience in terms of age, Maloney said.

The planetarium presents family star shows every weekend throughout the year. The shows change each month. Additional shows are scheduled during school vacations and group shows are available on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Tickets to each show cost $4 for adults and $2 for children and senior citizens. For information, call the visitors center at 434-6311.

Cats, a perennial favorite, makes stop at Proctor's Theater June 6

While Proctor's Theater took a beating this past season with cancellation of shows and stars, the management could count on the touring company of Cats to arrive as promised to do its two performances June 6 and 7.

This will be the seventh season that Cats has appeared in Schenectady and the Andrew Lloyd Webber musical about cats hanging around a used car supply dump seems as popular as ever.

The musical is still running in New York since the early 1980s and beginning in 1983, there have been road companies criss-crossing the country and spanning the world.

The Proctor's management can use this shot in the arm after a season when a whole host of previously-booked shows and entertainers cancelled out for various reasons.

The musical, Tommy, was one of the big cancellations and Proctor's had to scurry to appease disappointed fans of The Who.

Productions and performers such as Alan King, another cancelled star, have clauses in their contracts which permit them to cancel within a certain period before the performance date.

With these problems in mind, general manager Gloria Lamere has booked next year's season with a few safety nets.

Tommy has been scheduled again (it had road difficulties this past season which are supposed to have been cleared up), and is due to arrive at Proctor's in November.

An old favorite, Fiddler On The Roof, with Theodore Bikel playing the lead, is also due this fall for two performances.

Other musicals include Webber's first musical, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, which has been enhanced with a large chorus and different staging. This will be the longest running production at Proctor's next season with eight performances scheduled Dec. 19-24.

Other two-day musicals include State Fair with John Davidson and Andrea McArdle (the original Annie) Jan. 30 and 31; Beauty and the Beast Nov. 3 and 4; and the touring Jekyll and Hyde en route to New York. It appears at Proctor's Feb. 14 and 15.

A whole host of entertainers, including Victor Borge, Mitzi Gaynor, Rosemary Clooney, Hal Linden, Maureen McGovern and Mort Sahl are also booked next season.

More information is available at 346-6204.

Summer's not here yet but MacHaydn's in full swing

Before summer hits the area, the MacHaydn theater in Chatham will have two of its "summer" shows done already.

The well-known tribute to the Continental Congress, the musical 1776 opens tomorrow (Thursday, June 1) for a two week run, following by days the closing of the theater's initial show of the season, Dames At Sea.

Martin P. Kelly

The cast had barely arrived in Chatham when they were quickly ushered into rehearsals for the opening show and given scripts for the second show, 1776. It's the way with summer theater, there's always another show in rehearsal even as the actors play a different show in the evening.

It's also a reason why the cast is generally young and full of vitality. Older actors might break under the pressure although at some time in their careers, they did much the same thing.

Information on 1776 available at 392-9292.

Capital Rep closes out season with final performances of Beau Jest

In a season that saw a changing of the administrative guard with artistic director and executive producer Bruce Bouchard and Peter Clough, the theater's founding fathers, leaving for other endeavors, Capital Repertory Company completes its six-play season with performances through Sunday, June 4 of the comedy Beau Jest.

The final play of the season has given the theater a boost with its charming byplay with a daughter trying to fool her parents into thinking she's engaged to a man whom they want for her. It's a plot that has held up since Abie's Irish Rose back in the 1920s.

The new regime has yet to announce a season of plays for next season. When it does, it should reflect the thrust of the theater as it goes through its second decade of operation.

Tickets to Beau Jest at 462-4534.

Production debuts on Thursday

'1776' comes alive at Chatham playhouse

Pride and patriotism, rousing and romantic songs, history that comes alive, it's all at the Mac-Haydn Theatre in Chatham from June 1 to 11 as the play "1776" takes the stage.

In 1776, it was "hot as hell in Philadelphia," as the First Continental Congress battled heat, flies and each other in debates leading to declaring independence from Great Britain. Their differences and determination make a stunning show as they play out the historic moments leading to the stirring finale, and the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Michael Replogle returns home to the Mac-Haydn to play John Adams. Replogle started his local career by starring as Henry Higgins in "My Fair Lady."

Mary Grace Gordon, Alexander Oleksij and Rob Richardson make their Mac-Haydn debuts as Abigail Adams, Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, respectively.

Gordon's lush voice and warm stage presence have led to a long list of leading roles. In addition, she has sung for Presidents Carter and Reagan.

Oleksij's repertoire includes roles in national tours, dinner and stock theaters throughout the country.

Richardson has been a feature performer at Carowinds Park, and has leading role credits with many Southern theaters.

"1776" will be performed June 1 to 4 and 7 to 11. Performances scheduled during the first week include Thursday at 2 and 8 p.m., Friday at 8 p.m., Saturday at 5 and 8:30 p.m., Sunday at 2 and 7 p.m.

Second week shows include Wednesday at 2 and 8 p.m., Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m., Saturday at 5 and 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2 and 7 p.m.

Tickets are $17.90 and $18.90. All matinee seats will be $16.90. Discounts are available for senior citizen groups and children under 12.

MasterCard and Visa are welcome. No cancellations or refunds. The Mac-Haydn is a fully air conditioned theater. Call (518) 392-2929 for information and reservations.
