Activists petition to keep formaldehyde plant out

By Mel Hyman

Concern over a formaldehyde plant in Bethlehem has prompted local activists to start a petition drive aimed at stopping the project dead in its tracks.

Bethlehem Citizens for Clean Air, an ad hoc citizens group formed within the past two weeks, is circulating petitions urging the town board to take whatever steps necessary to keep Spurlock Adhesives, a Virginia-based chemical company, out of town.

Spurlock plans to build a $9.5 million facility on a 55-acre parcel off Route 144 in Glenmont for the production of liquid formaldehyde and formaldehyde-based resins used in furniture and building products.

A public hearing on the proposal is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 12, at Bethlehem town hall. Members of the Bethlehem Industrial Development Agency will conduct the hearing because they have been asked by Spurlock to authorize the issuance of $7.5 million in tax-exempt municipal bonds to help fund the project.

The people who sign the petitions will have an opportunity to be heard at the public hearing, and we will listen.

FEMA check good news for N. Scotland budget

By Dev Tobin

The road and bridge repair hole in New Scotland's 1996 budget has been filled with a $308,521 check from the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

The good news comes as the town board is reviewing Supervisor Herb Reilly's preliminary budget for 1997, which had included a tax increase for the first time in six years, largely due to uncertainty about the FEMA reimbursement.

Board members will discuss the good news tonight (Wednesday), when they meet for their second budget workshop, at 7 p.m. The board will convene in the new meeting room in the town hall in addition for the first time.

The federal funds will pay the town board for about a dozen eligible road and bridge projects related to the extraordinary January thaw and a couple of damaging spring storms.

In October, the town board had approved borrowing $90,000 in a short-term note to pay for some of the FEMA-related work while awaiting the FEMA check.

"We can now pay off the note and complete our work on the town highway projects before winter sets in, said Darrell

Duncan, town highway superintendent.

Duncan said his department's paving schedule was thrown off by the emergency work.

"It's been a weird year," he said. "I don't want another like it."

Road work spells relief for business

By Mel Hyman

With the Delaware Avenue road reconstruction project nearing completion, Bob Shafer of Bob's Produce at 65 Delaware Ave. is hoping that business will pick up.

"Between (the road widening project) and the bridge, it's been a tough three years," he said. "I had barricades in front of my store for awhile (during construction of the new bridge over the Normanskill), and it was just terrible. It was a bad two years, and while this year hasn't been as bad, business is still way off."

One of the few remaining year-round vegetable/fruit stands in the Capital District, Bob's Produce is something of a local institution in Delmar.

"My father started it in 1952, and I took it over in 1979," he said. "Fortunately, I've managed to hang on, unlike a few others

(on Delaware Avenue)."

Shafer said he likes the way the thoroughfare looks now, although he wishes the road reconstruction could have extended a bit farther.

And he is not the only one thinking that way.

She had all the potential a young person could want or hope for.

The sudden death of high school freshman Sarah Renee Whiting has the Bethlehem community reeling once again.

Struck by a car last week while jogging on New Scotland Road, Sarah, 14, is the third Bethlehem Central High School student to die from an accident this year.

"It's horrible," BCHS Principal Jon Hunter said. "I'm a parent, so I know what her parents are going through. And I'm also watching whole groups of kids hurting. For many of them, it just rekindles the raw emotions left over from just a few months ago (with the death of 16-year-old Lindsey Baron in another car/pedestrian accident) and from the middle of last winter (with the death of 18-year-old Timothy "T.J." Smith in a skiing accident).

"(Sarah) was a very good musician (on piano) and involved in Bethlehem music for a very long time," he recalled. "She was also a soccer player. Around school, these were her two loves."

Sarah's brother Corey, a senior at BCHS, is also a soccer player and "one of the kids that makes BC great," Hunter added. "Sarah seemed to be just a mini version" of him.

"This is a very caring and supportive family," Hunter said. "They allowed her organs to be donated."

"Sarah was a beautiful and bright young lady with everything to live for," said Bethlehem Central Middle French teacher Joyce Schreiber. "She stood out because of her gentleness and her excellent work."

"When we find ourselves grieving for kids we've lost like Sarah, Lindsey Baron and Andy Jukins (a ninth-grader killed in a car/pedestrian accident, also on New Scotland Road, in 1993), I find myself feeling most sorry for the people who will never get to know them," said BCMS music teacher Frank Leavitt.

BC Superintendent Leslie Loomis said he knew Sarah from the Bethlehem Soccer Club travel team.

"She played on the same team as my daughter," he recalled. "She was an outstanding person and always gave 100 percent. She brought commitment and quality to everything she did. She was liked and respected by her peers, without exception."

BCMS teacher Jesse Braverman said he felt "privileged to have had the opportunity to coach Sarah (on the junior varsity soccer team). She was

Soccerplex gets $10K from Reebok price-fixing settlement

By Mel Hyman

It takes a lot of raffle tickets to raise $10,000, so receiving ten grand from a legal settlement is like manna from heaven for the Bethlehem Soccer Club.

A check for that amount last week from Reebok International will help the club finish its 20-acre soccerplex facility on Wemple Road, according to club president Tom Rood.

The check, part of a price-fixing settlement between Reebok and the state attorney general's office, couldn't have come at a better time, Rood said, because now that construction of the five new fields has been finished, there is still a need for improvements to the parking lot and additional grading along the perimeters of the parcel.

"The Bethlehem Soccer Club is absolutely delighted that the funds have arrived," Rood said. "We have Assemblyman (John) Faso and Attorney General (Dennis) Vacco to thank. In addition, I'd like to mention two members of the club, Don Dzekciorius and Jeff Cohen, who were very instrumental in shepherding the proposal through the grant review and approval process.

"The club is deliberating right now on the best use of these funds, because there is still an awful lot of work that needs to be done to the soccerplex," Rood said.

Reebok, the nation's second largest seller of athletic footwear, agreed to pay the money to the state to settle claims that it inflated prices of its athletic footwear in 1993.

Under terms of the settlement, according to Vacco spokesman Chris McKenna, the settlement divides at least $8 million among the 50 states to be distributed to government or nonprofit groups for sports-related projects.

As lead state in the lawsuit against the company, New York is expected to receive about $600,000 of that amount, according to Faso.

"When we (as state legislators) became aware of this settlement, we had a very short turnaround time in which to generate proposals," Faso said. "Since I had been previously aware of the soccer club's need to get additional funds for work on their site, I immediately thought of them and asked them to submit an application to the attorney general.

"I'm proud of the fact that we were able to get funding for them and three other organizations in my district. Given the number of kids that they serve, they certainly deserve the money."

The Bethlehem soccerplex officially opened for practices this fall, and full-scale competition will begin next year. About 1,800 children participate in the club's programs, making it the largest youth sports organization in the town of Bethlehem.

The club offers a broad array of activities such as spring and summer soccer, travel teams and indoor soccer, Rood said.

"This money helps us take the next step in our dream of developing a first-class facility for the children of the town of Bethlehem," Rood said.

New Scotland town hall reopens for voting

By Dev Tobin

Some New Scotland voters got a preview peek at the new town hall addition yesterday, but final completion of the $300,000 project, which will double the size of the current facility, is behind schedule and still weeks away.

The meeting room in the new part of the building is finished and hosted voters for the first time. But much work remains to be done in the front part of the building, where the old meeting room and supervisor's offices are being divided into several offices.

After project architect Christopher Bovenzi reported in September that the addition was behind schedule in most areas, general contractor Joseph Futia assured town officials that the work would be completed by Nov. 2.

Supervisor Herb Reilly has begun moving desks and files into his new office in the new part of the building, ending a more-than-month-long transition during which he has been working out of his home in Voorheesville and part of a small room off the town clerk's office, which has remained open throughout the construction.

"There's no phone and no heat, but it's better than the kitchen table," Reilly quipped Friday.

The furnace was due to be turned on before Election Day, Reilly said.

Town board meetings, including a workshop tonight and the regular monthly session next Tuesday, will be held in the new building, Reilly said.

While the meeting room and his office are close to finished, the same cannot be said for rooms which are due to be occupied by building and assessor department employees, whose offices in New Salem no longer have central heating, Reilly noted.

When the furnace in the New Salem building failed last December, the town bought a larger furnace that could be used to heat the new town hall addition, Reilly explained.

The new furnace has been installed under the addition, and the New Salem office has a few electric space heaters for now, but that situation cannot continue into the really cold weather, Reilly said.

Committee considers traffic safety measures

By Mel Hyman

Traffic counters will soon be put out on Roweland Avenue, which was the site of a fatal vehicle/pedestrian accident this summer.

The counters log the number of cars traveling the street on a daily basis. In June, a 16-year-old Delmar girl walking on Roweland was struck and killed.

No charges were filed in the incident, and speed was determined not to be a factor.

At the same time, however, local residents have expressed concern about the need for safety improvements to Roweland and other suburban streets in town where there are no sidewalks and pedestrians and joggers share the roadway with cars.

In an application to the traffic safety committee, Donald and Janice Burriesci of 31 Roweland Ave. asked the committee to "evaluate additional safety measures" for the street such as adjusting the speed limit, installing stop signs and building sidewalks.

Parts of Roweland already have sidewalks, but there are stretches that do not, and the Burriescis said that at times the volume of traffic appeared to be high and the speed fast.

If a stop sign is erected, it would be at the junction of Roweland and Pinedale avenues, which is a "T" intersection.

"No one has come to me personally," said Supervisor Sheila Fuller, "but I heard that some individuals on Roweland were discussing the need for more sidewalks and that there had been a meeting in the Bethlehem Public Library about it."

Since the accident, Fuller said she has received inquiries from residents in other neighborhoods around town requesting sidewalks and stop signs.

"They're concerned about the safety of walkers and other people who use the street for recreation," she said. "I'm glad the traffic safety committee is looking into this."

Another recent traffic accident — in which a child was struck on his bike at the intersection of Elm and Delaware avenues — spurred the traffic safety committee last week to request installation of crosswalk markings at that intersection.

Since Elm Avenue is a county road, town highway superintendent Gregg Sagendorph will request that a county highway department crew do the work.

In the northern part of town, the traffic safety decided to recommend to the town board that several stop signs be erected in the vicinity of Marie Rose Manor in North Bethlehem.

Stops signs will be recommended for the intersection of Marquis Drive and Clifton Way, on Beverwyck Lane where it intersects Marquis Drive, and on Beverwyck Lane where it intersects Clifton Way.

V'ville school board looks at space needs

By Katherine McCarthy

Voorheesville school district officials say continued growth in residential housing will stretch district facilities beyond the breaking point.

Anthony Marturano, Voorheesville assistant superintendent for business, and committee member Bob Vollaro recently presented Part I of the Facilities Study Committee Report.

"The facilities committee has been meeting for a year," Marturano noted before Vollaro presented the enrollment projections that made up the first part of the report.

At the next board meeting on Nov. 18, the committee will present its evaluation of current facilities and recommendations for further action.

In 1990, there were 1,180 children, K through 12, in Voorheesville; last year's enrollment was 1,361. Superintendent Alan McCartney's projections for the next five years — which do not include the impact of new construction — show an enrollment of 1,474 students by the school year 2000-01. McCartney's estimates represent a 1.2 percent increase in the grade school, and a 16.3 percent increase in the high school.

To compile his enrollment projections, Vollaro looked at the historical experience of the school district, as well as Albany County birth data that will determine enrollment for the next six years.

To get a sense of the population increase that would result from new construction, Vollaro spoke with developers and builders with projects in the planning stages in the school district.

Among these are Claremont Estates, two Swift Road developments, Tall Timbers and Weatherfield III. In all, there are 322 proposed lots, 111 of which will not yet be developed by the year 2001. Should the schedules proceed as planned, Vollaro estimated there will be 32 more children in the schools in 1997, 52 in 1998, 57 in 1999, 42 in 2000 and 38 in 2001.

The greatest variable, Vollaro pointed out, is the Tall Timbers project, with 170 proposed houses starting at $240,000. Developer Bob Iovinella has not yet made a formal application for the project, and Vollaro said he did not get a clear sense from the developer whether the project would go forward.

Board member C. James Coffin said nothing in these data frightened him, and he questioned the need for new building in the district.

"I don't see anything here that should put us into a panic situation," he said. "Also, there's a soft (real estate) market, and a doubt even in developers' minds that construction will take place."

Marturano pointed out that the committee had taken a conservative approach, estimating 1.5 children for houses costing less than $240,000, and less than one child (.8) in houses costing more than $240,000.

"The bottom line is that we keep using the term 'at least,'" Marturano said. "The high school classrooms are at 100 percent now; if we add 150 more students, the flesh on the bones of this problem becomes very real. We have to do something in the planning process to accommodate the number of students."

Board member Thomas Thorpe wondered whether new developments would increase the tax base or affect the wealth ratio used in state aid calculations.

"Housing developments don't increase the tax base," McCartney said. "If a house has just two kids, state aid and taxes wouldn't cover enough for 1.2 (children)."

McCartney also emphasized the strain on existing facilities, especially the high school.

"There are 126 kids in seventh-grade for 100 spots," he said, adding that few people move out of the Voorheesville school district. "There's a major crush on facilities — bathrooms, where kids sit to eat, classrooms for requirement courses."

"This committee is not telling you to build a building," Marturano said, stressing that it was important to be talking about "needs coming up."

McCartney will also present his data on population by class at next month's meeting.

Matters of Opinion

No laughing matter

The recent bomb threats to Bethlehem Central High School are beyond anyone's idea of a prank. It is a most serious matter that school officials and the police must cope with and attempt to solve. It is terrorism at the grass-roots level, when a high school is emptied because someone calls and says a bomb is somewhere on the premises. And it is a matter that should be dealt with to the fullest extent of the law when the culprit or culprits are apprehended. We trust the police and Bethlehem school administrators to mete out punishment that fits the crime.

Unlike the Fonda-Fultonville school board in Montgomery County, which recently allowed members of the football team to play after they were charged with felonies stemming from the making of home-made bombs, Bethlehem should not knuckle under to pressure from parents if it turns out the bomb threats came from a disgruntled student, no matter what the excuse is.

BC administrators tend to follow the letter of their policies. Several years ago when a BCHS football player hosted a party where alcohol was served, the school, coach and the board stood by its policy, despite public pleas for leniency, and the offender was kicked off the team. Perhaps a stern lesson, but one that sends a loud and clear message to the youth of the community.

The pity in Montgomery County is that youth there have gotten the message that anything goes — as long as you're a member of the football team. If these kids made bombs, they are thugs, not "good kids," and they surely should have been kicked off the team.

A bomb threat is not just a "kids will be kids" matter, and more than a slap on the wrist is warranted for the perpetrator.

On the road again

State Department of Transportation road work on Delaware Avenue is nearly completed, and residents and business in Delaware Plaza and along the avenue are likely breathing a big sigh of relief.

All summer long and throughout the fall, getting in and out of the plaza and other nearby businesses was an adventure, with all the equipment road cuts, blockades and other inconveniences that occur when construction is under way.

Business, we trust, will now pick up, just in time for the holidays. Whether or not the $650,000 project cuts down on accidents remains to be seen. The road actually doesn't look a whole lot different than it did before, but it's nice to be able to drive down Delaware Avenue on a smooth surface without traffic delays.

Make holiday meaningful

Observance next Monday of Veterans Day should be more than going to special sales at malls and other retail centers.

This day, Nov. 11, commemorates the sacrifice of men and women who served or are serving in United States armed forces during peace and war.

Through the years, servicemen and women have been put in "harm's way" in more ways than fierce battles. Bombing attacks on their barracks by terrorists, or peace-keeping in a war zone, and even mopping up after battle have proved hazardous and life-threatening.

Recently, it has been learned that upwards to 20,000 servicemen and women were affected by poison gas unwittingly unleashed by American troops when cleaning up enemy bunkers in Iraq after the "easy" Gulf War.

As a major power in the world, we will continue to have troops at its farflung corners, maintaining equilibrium. They should be honored for the dangers they face in preserving the freedoms we cherish.

Serving those who served our country

By Michael Breslin

The writer is Albany County executive and a decorated Army veteran of the Vietnam War.

Veterans Day is an opportunity for us to honor the men and women who have served our country in the military. As a Vietnam veteran, I am proud to celebrate this holiday with a special tribute to the 30,000 veterans who live in Albany County.

Most of our veterans — about 10,000 — served in World War II. More than 8,000 Vietnam-era veterans reside in Albany County.

The county is also home to some 5,000 men and women who defended our interests in the Korean War, 1,000 who bravely served in the Persian Gulf and several thousand peacetime veterans. We are also fortunate to have a number of World War I veterans, who served as early as 1917, living in Albany County. These living legends remind us that every generation of 20th-century Americans owes a debt of gratitude to those who fought and died for our freedom.

We remember these heroes not only on Veterans Day, but every day of the year, through programs and services offered by the Albany County Veterans Service Bureau. The bureau, located in the County Office Building at 112 State St. in Albany, offers information and assistance to those who have served our country and their families.

Veterans can turn to the bureau for help when applying for benefits, compensation, education and training, and other services. The bureau also assists in processing and recovering lost documents to ensure that veterans and their families receive all the benefits to which they are entitled.

Transportation to the Veterans Administration Hospital is available to elderly and disabled veterans through a volunteer van service.

Point of View

Our veterans have earned these benefits, and we in Albany County are proud to be able to provide all the assistance we can to those who served their country. Unfortunately, many of our family and friends who answered the call are no longer with us. Albany County makes a special effort to remember our deceased veterans as well, through monthly Honor-a-Veteran ceremonies.

We should be proud of those who have gone before us, and tell our children the stories of their courage and sacrifice so that we can continue to live in a society "with liberty and justice for all."

This week, Albany County held its 40th Honor-a-Veteran ceremony, recognizing Sgt. George C. Mills of the U.S. Army. In the tradition of Honor-a-Veteran ceremonies, I presented the Mills family with a proclamation memorializing Sgt. Mills' service during World War II and his subsequent service to his community.

Congressman Mike McNulty also presented a flag that had been flown over the United States Capitol. That flag now flies in front of the Albany County Office Building for the month of November.

Honor-a-Veteran ceremonies are held at the Albany County Office Building at 8:30 a.m. on the first Monday of each month. The public, particularly the family and friends of the veteran being recognized, is always welcome to join in honoring Albany County residents who served in the military.

The next Honor-a-Veteran ceremony will be Dec. 2. It will be a tribute to Private Hugh J. Hastings, a World War I veteran who was wounded twice while serving in Europe. Coxswain Edward R. Delehanty Sr., an Albany police officer who served in the U.S. Navy during World War II, will be the first veteran to be honored in 1997 at a ceremony on Jan. 6.

Over the past several years, veterans from all parts of Albany County have been recognized for their brave efforts. We should be proud of those who have gone before us, and tell our children the stories of their courage and sacrifice so that we can continue to live in a society "with liberty and justice for all."

Brigadier General Martin L. Neary Jr., of Colonie, was honored at the April Honor-a-Veteran ceremony. He first answered the call to duty in 1940. His 37-year military career included a tour of duty in the South Pacific during World War II. Neary later served as the commandant of the Empire State Military Academy at Peekskill and as a federal personnel officer at the state Division of Military and Naval Affairs. He died Dec. 10, 1994, at Stratton Veterans Affairs Medical Center.

James Brockley was born in Albany and raised in Bethlehem before being inducted into the Army in 1943. Brockley rendered medical treatment to injured soldiers before being wounded in action at the Battle of the Bulge.

Upon returning to the United States, Brockley settled in Delmar and married former Army nurse Helen Kendel, who had cared for him during his recovery from wartime injuries. Brockley received the Purple Heart and Combat Medical Badge for his service. In 1978, he was honored by Gov. Hugh Carey for his service to people of New York state, and died Oct. 24, 1985.

Every veteran has a family and a story. We must never forget them and their contributions. This Veterans Day, let's each make a special effort to remember those who have served our country and our community.

Resident voices concerns on adhesives plant plan

Editor, The Spotlight:

As a 31-year resident of Bethlehem, I am concerned about the speed with which the proposed Spurlock Adhesives plant is moving toward approval.

I am concerned about increased pollution generated through its production of formaldehyde, especially in combination with airborne chemicals from nearby industry.

I am concerned that input from Bethlehem citizenry, even residents of neighboring localities, as this will affect them too, has not been examined.

I am concerned that Bethlehem's Industrial Development Agency is willing to relinquish lead agency status to EnCon, thereby removing responsibility from town residents.

Editor, the Spotlight:

If you don't want formaldehyde in Bethlehem, write to: William Clark, NYS DEC Region 4, 1150 North Westcott Road, Schenectady 12306.

The Bethlehem Industrial Agency has waived lead agency status to DEC to avoid its own responsibility. The lead agency will decide if an environmental impact statement will be prepared.

This decision will give us our Change library parking restrictions

If library employees used the back parking area and let patrons use the spaces nearer the library, it would be extremely helpful.

Make no mistake. Formaldehyde is a highly toxic substance. A few jobs, even a brownfield cleanup, are not worth long-term health risks.

The IDA should activate its lead agency status immediately and refuse to grant Spurlock a building permit and any monetary assistance.

Cancer group: No chemicals

Editor, The Spotlight:

As cancer survivors, we were stunned to learn that our town has encouraged Spurlock Adhesives, a chemical company manufacturing liquid formaldehyde and formaldehyde-based resins, to locate on Route 144 in Glenmont.

Bethlehem town officials, in their eagerness to have Spurlock clean up a brownfield and obtain economic benefits that cannot be qualified at this time, certainly have their priorities out of line.

Formaldehyde, a highly suspect cancer-causing agent in humans, is listed by the federal government as a hazardous substance, a highly flammable liquid/gas and a dangerous fire hazard.

Adiagnosis of cancer is a "wake-up" call and life-altering experience. It turns us into instant "Chicken Littles" and makes us search our past and present, questioning everything we drink, eat, breathe and touch. Cancer makes us think in terms of generations and what kind of environmental legacy we will leave behind. Cancer survivors realize there is no such thing as a "safe level" of exposure to a carcinogen like formaldehyde.

We encourage Bethlehem residents (and adjacent communities) to call, write and tell Supervisor Sheila Fuller, IDA Chairman Ted Putney and town board members that we do not want a potential cancer-producing plant in our town.

Come to the public hearing Nov. 12 at 7 p.m. at town hall. Tell them before it is too late.

Public official decries negative advertising

Editor, the Spotlight:

Recent editorials in local newspapers, including yours, have decried the flood of negative advertising employed in this year's election. As an elected official who has been the target of such negative advertising by my opponents in the past, I was constantly urged to "fight back" in the same way, but I chose not to do so. My question is, what is this newspaper willing to do to discourage the practice?

The solution lies in creating incentives for candidates to focus on their own credentials, beliefs and ideas, rather than name-calling. Newspapers, including yours, have a powerful tool to slow or stop the mud: a candidate whose advertising avoids any mention of her or his opponent should know that taking the "high road" will reflect favorably on him or her at endorsement time.

Newspapers have the advantage here, both because the electronic media rarely endorse candidates, and because these cat fights usually take place on TV or on radio. It may be that the profits made from such advertising battles minimize the electronic media's interest in fostering cleaner campaigns.

The public, too, needs to send a message on this question. If we really want to end negative campaigning, we need to be less "entertained" by cute and clever attack ads, and we need to tell the candidates directly.

Thanks for soccer club help

Editor, The Spotlight:

My tenure as the director of the Bethlehem Soccer Club Intra-club Program came to an end with the last games played on Nov. 2. I decided that it was time to transfer those responsibilities to others.

I cannot leave without first thanking parent volunteers who have helped me over the years, as well as my fellow board members.

Dave Austin and Nan Hinman of the town parks and recreation department and Supervisor Sheila Fuller have also provided valuable assistance over the years.

Thanks to all!

Toastmasters conquer fear of public speaking

By Susan Graves

Do your knees knock at the thought of getting up and speaking in front of a group of people? If so, then the Bethlehem Toastmasters might be just the kind of club to help chase the jitters away.

Honing public speaking skills can turn a nightmare into something enjoyable, according to Mick Olmstead and Andrea Modney of the Bethlehem chapter of the International Toastmasters Club.

Olmstead said he joined the local club about a year ago when it was formed.

"I just kind of enjoyed it. For me, it was a lot of fun," said Olmstead, whose background is in advertising and public relations.

And even if you are nervous in front of a crowd, Modney said, "A little bit of an edge is good" for most speakers.

Members cut their teeth on various forms of public speaking, from a short speech called an ice-breaker to extemporaneous comments to longer prepared speeches on both humorous and Andrea Modney with the trophy she received for a humorous speech and fellow Toastmaster Mick Olmstead.

ing her speaking skills.

"It's fun, cheap, interesting and a way to socialize. I'm improving a lot more than public speaking," she said.

Club members critique each other's work at meetings, offering tips on how to do better, but never make the speakers feel uncomfortable.

"They also tell you what you're doing right. You never feel devastated," Modney said.

The Bethlehem Toastmasters meet on the second and fourth Wednesdays at First United Methodist Church on 428 Kenwood Ave. in Delmar at 7:30 p.m. Visitors and new members are always welcome.

Visitors are always given an opportunity to talk, but are not required to speak, Olmstead said.

Slingerlands native releases second CD

If you're a fan of hard rock, then you probably won't be interested in the new compact disc being put out this month by Slingerlands native Michael Eck.

Titled "Resonator," the disc is totally acoustic. Eck, who now lives in Albany, is comfortable with this style — regardless of whether it appeals to the masses or ends up being a best-seller.

Accompanying him on the album — and at a special release concert scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 16, at the Steamer 10 Theater in Albany — are Bethlehem musicians Rick Bedrosian, Adrian Cohen, Jim Haggerty and Mark Foster.

Foster plays with the Albany Symphony Orchestra, while Bedrosian is best known for his involvement with the popular Irish singing group, the Mackrells.

Eck, whose first album "Cowboy Black" was also acoustic, said music that's easy on the ears is making a comeback.

"We could be seeing something of a backlash," he said, "because rock music today is so similar to each other. It might have started with all the unplugged albums that came out on MTV."

Opening for Eck and company at Steamer 10 will be blues/folk artist Beth Jochum. Also taking part will be Roseanne Raneri, who recently opened for Roseanne Cash at a concert in Albany.

"I'm pretty thrilled about it," Eck said of the release concert. "A lot of these people are musicians I listened to when I was first starting out, and now I have a chance to play out with them."

Police arrest teens for pellet gun prank

It was a relatively quiet Halloween in town except for an incident in Dowerskill Village in which a pellet gun was allegedly pointed at the head of a young girl.

Town police responded to the Glenmont development around 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 31, and arrested two 15-year-old boys who allegedly threatened the girl with the weapon even though it was not loaded. They were both charged with misdemeanor counts of criminal possession of a weapon, according to Bethlehem Police Lt. Frederick Holligan.

The suspects, who are eligible for youthful offender status, were released and will have their cases heard in Albany Family Court.

Notable books cover broad literary range

Walk to the right of the reference desk and around to the phone books and you'll find the special collection called notable books. Started last year, the collection includes about 230 volumes, representative of a broad range of important current and classic literature.

This literary array is targeted to a larger audience than its predecessor, the college bound collection. The collection is designed for adults returning to school, as well as the general adult audience who would like to increase the depth and breadth of their reading.

High school and college students can also participate, of course, but the aim to the collection's marketing strategy was to move away from the elitism suggested in a body of books earmarked for academics.

Titles were selected from high school reading lists in the Capital District. Other schools and library staff were solicited for suggestions. The current collection includes work in several genres — novels, science fiction, short stories, plays, poetry — reflecting both timely and classic literature. Multi-cultural and third-world authors find a place here along with Holocaust literature and slave narratives of the Civil War era.

Notable books differ in kind, though not in quality, from the Great Books type of literature. Whereas the Great Books program provides an excellent base in the classics of Western civilization, notable books are chosen with an eye to cultural diversity and a contemporary time frame.

Many of the books are new, good-quality paperbacks. It is an adjunct collection, supplementing hardcover versions of the same works found on the regular library shelves. "This collection is constantly evolving," said reference librarian Karen Lausa, who oversees its acquisitions. She is planning an annual evaluation and expansion of the collection. Library statistics show that the collection is consistently used.

A good read comes in many textures and timbres. Browse through our notable books. You'll find that the songs of this earth are sung in a wonderful variety of voices.

Equinox hosts turkey day again

The largest and longest running Thanksgiving Day feast in the country takes place in Albany once again.

On Thursday, Nov. 28, Equinox Community Services, with help from more than a thousand volunteers, will prepare and serve dinner to more than 5,000 hungry, homeless and homebound people.

The Thanksgiving Day Hotline operated by Equinox is already up and running, so to volunteer, make contributions and request a home-delivered meal, call 434-0131.

Cash contributions are used to supplement food contributions. A $15 contribution allows a family of six to receive a delivered meal, while a $50 contribution feeds about 20 individuals.

Any amount is appreciated and checks should be sent to Equinox, 306 Central Ave., Albany 12206.

Winter parking ban goes into effect

The Bethlehem Police Department reminds residents that the town's no parking ordinance is now in effect and will remain so through Tuesday, April 15.

Parking on local streets between 1 and 7 a.m. is prohibited so streets can remain clear for fire protection, emergency medical service and snow removal. Cars parked in violation of the ordinance may be ticketed and/or towed.

Pine Bush volunteers needed

Volunteers are needed to help the Albany Pine Bush Preserve Commission with the Invasive Species Management project in the Albany Pine Bush Preserve.

On Thursday, Nov. 14, and Tuesday, Nov. 19, volunteers will be working with commission staff to remove black locust trees.

Both workdays are from 9 a.m. to noon. All tools and equipment will be provided.

The Albany Pine Bush is the gently rolling sand plain between the cities of Albany and Schenectady. It is home to the globally unique pitch pine-scrub oak barrens that provide habitat for many rare plants and animals, including the endangered Karner blue butterfly.

To register or for more information, call the Albany Pine Bush Preserve Commission at 464-6496.

First sectional final for Eagles in 22 years

Guilderland halts Eagles' title march

By Annette Grajny

For the Bethlehem boys soccer team, it was a case of being so close, yet so far away.

The Eagles took on the Guilderland Dutchmen at Blecker Stadium Saturday for the Section II, Class A championship and came up short, 4-2.

This was the first sectional final for Bethlehem since 1974, and the players and coaches considered that to be a great accomplishment in itself.

Coach John Bramley admitted that Bethlehem was just outplayed by Guilderland.

"We didn't deserve the win because we didn't play as well as they did. They were definitely the better team on Saturday night."

Bethlehem started out strong, with Jason Seymour tying the game at 1-1 off a penalty kick. But by halftime, the Dutchmen mounted a 3-1 lead that Bethlehem could not overcome.

Seymour scored a second goal for Bethlehem right after the halftime break, but it wasn't enough, as Guilderland scored an insurance goal on their way to capturing the Section II title.

Standout efforts for Bethlehem — put in by Dave Levine, Kevin

"Sometimes we play well and sometimes we don't. Saturday night was not one of our best performances", Bramley said.

Maher added that "even though the loss was a tough one, our season was still great, one of the best which we've had in a while."

It was the first time ever that Bethlehem finished its regular season without losing to the always powerful Shenendehowa.

To reach the final round, Bethlehem defeated Niskayuna in the semi-finals. Seymour scored the first goal off a direct kick.

Schwartz scored off an assist from DeMarco with 3:30 left in the first half, and Bethlehem emerged with a 2-1 victory.

It was the first time this year the Eagles were able to defeat Niskayuna.

Next year, the team could be weaker with the loss of Levine, Schwartz, Maher, Samelson-Jones, Smith, Teresi, Walsh, Corey Whiting and Ryan Walker.

BC's Jason Seymour controls the ball during the Eagles' sectional title game against Guilderland Saturday at Blecker Stadium. Doug Persons

Bethlehem boys finish 2nd in section

Cross-country teams sparkle

By Seth Carr

The season is over, but the Bethlehem boys cross country team left its mark by placing second out of 14 teams in the Section II, Class A meet on Friday and capturing the sectional runner-up plaque.

The Eagles lost to Shenendehowa, now ranked 16th in the country. Senior Matt Clement placed eighth in the race, qualifying him to run in the State Championships to be held next week at St. Lawrence University.

The top eight runners qualify and Clement's time was 1.1 seconds faster than the runner who placed ninth.

Bethlehem cross-country coach John Nyilis said, realistically, Clement can finish somewhere between 20th and 30th place in the state.

It was a tremendous victory for the Eagles, beating out rival Niskayuna by a single point. As an example of how close the scoring was, Scott Rhodes, who placed 24th, beat the 25th place runner by only seven-tenths of a second. Dave Austin placed 23rd, Tim Kavanaugh came in 26th and Andy MacMillan finished 30th.

Nyilis estimated that MacMillan "must've run past eight other runners in the last 600 yards." He finished one second ahead of the last runner he passed. Alex Voeitch and David Harvey also ran, representing the varsity for the first time.

Meanwhile, the Lady Eagles placed eighth out of 12 teams and would likely have done better had it not been for a back injury suffered by one of the team's leading runners, Kelly Youngs, which kept her from competing. Tracy Messina placed 42nd, Courtney McMahon was 51st, Kristen Kvam came in 54th, Marielle Postava-Davignon finished 61st and Amber Ryan placed 79th.

"They ran as well as they could; we just couldn't have done any better," Nyilis said.

The girls also had trouble at the recent Suburban Council

Championships, placing ninth overall. Nyilis emphasized that although the girls ran well, recording all-time bests, they didn't run well as a team. The time between the first and fifth runners was more than two minutes.

At that same meet, the boys experienced similar difficulty, as they fell from an expected third place down to fifth.

Nevertheless, Nyilis was pleased with the teams' performance this year, particularly in the invitational meets.

"If you take away that one-point loss in the county meet, we would have had an outstanding season."

Nyilis is optimistic about next season because the boys' varsity will only lose two members, one of whom is Clement.

On top of that, all members of the girls team will be coming back next year. Nyilis said the girls' squad made tremendous improvement during the season, especially considering the league Bethlehem is in.

Eagles drop CBA, 6-0

By Jessica Fein

The stands may have been frosty Friday night, but the Eagles were hot as they battled CBA in the last football game of the season.

Early in the first quarter, the Eagles scored the only touchdown of the game on a short run by junior Mike Smith.

The offensive line played solid and senior Matt Quackenbush "ran the ball when he needed to," said BC head coach John Sodergren. But it was the Eagles' defense that dominated the game.

Outstanding performances by junior Darrin Huggins, seniors Phil Poczic and Don Richter, and co-captains Steve Euler and Andy Karins, contributed to the shutout against CBA.

BC didn't let the Brothers even come close to scoring. Juniors Scott Kind and Andy Karins had key interceptions, and with 1:01 left in the game, Richter came up with a key fumble recovery for the Eagles.

"Tonight really summed it up," said Sodergren. "We got a shutout against a quality team. There's a natural rivalry with CBA, and I'm glad we came up big."

The Eagles went through a series of quarterbacks this past season before they came together under Geoff Hunter. "Geoff really worked out for us," Sodergren said. "We brought in a new group this year, and ended up with some experienced players for next year."

Starting quarterback junior Rory McInerney, out for the season due to injuries sustained in the opening game, is also excited about next year's season.

"It was really tough to just sit and watch," he said. "I definitely want to get back into the game."

Other players to watch out for next season include Dave Raab, Justin Riccio, Matt Hill, Sean Battle, Andre Ellman, Mike Quackenbush, Brian Davies, Will Reagan and Mike Thibdeau.

Volleyballers stand tall

By Tim Kavanagh

After completing its best season in recent history, the Bethlehem boys volleyball team is basking in the glow of success.

After knocking off various opponents in the regular season, the team stampeded into the Suburban Council tournament and ripped apart a strong Colonie team before being beaten by the number two seed, Shenendehowa.

In the match against Colonie, the entire team put forth a maximum effort, and the Eagles came away with a win in two straight games, 15-13 and 15-6.

Tom Hitter led the charge for BC with 14 kills and three digs. Jeremy Deyoe also delivered a strong performance with 12 kills and 22 digs.

Jeremy Muhlich, with seven thunderous blocks, and Jimbo O'Keefe, with an awesome 22 assists, were standouts as well.

The win sent the team into a second-round clash with powerhouse Shen. Despite the defeat, O'Keefe (with nine assists), Muhlich (with five blocks), Hitter (with seven kills) and Deyoe contributed all-around strong performances.

With the season complete, first-year coach Jim Lemire said, "This was (the best team) in a while."

The 1997 squad will be led by returning starter Dave Winters, as well as starting setters O'Keefe and Alex Weber, who Lemire regards as "two of the best returning setters in the area."

Also returning for next year's team will be juniors Nick Berry and Josh Spencer, both of whom played great ball all year.

The seniors on this year's team were Hitter, Chris Danchetz, Dana Reid-Vanas, Deyoe, Matt Mimura, Muhlich and Devon Hedges.

RCS looking to capture sectional crown

By Meghan Smith

It's on to the sectional championship game.

Sixteen seconds into the semi-final match against Mohonasen, Matt Frese ran for his first touchdown of the game, and only minutes later he scored again to give Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk an early 14-0 lead.

Robert Nieves caught an eight-yard pass from Steve Ross to make the score 21-0 at the end of the second half.

"Ross played an excellent game, scoring a touchdown in the third quarter, having two interceptions, and throwing for two touchdowns," said RCS coach Gary Vanderzee.

B.J. te Riele and Ryan Merritt

each scored TDs to bring RCS's final advantage over Mohonasen to 47-7. Frese racked up 156 yards on 17 carries. The Indians capitalized on five turnovers made by their opponents, turning them into easy scores.

RCS will play Hudson-Falls on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Colonie Central High School for the Section II, Class B championship.

"Both teams are undefeated," Vanderzee said, "and this is a very important game to the team. It will be a real good ballgame. Both teams are run-oriented."

"The winner that walks off the field will be the team that controls the line of scrimmage. Hudson Falls has a much stronger team physically, and they have a very strong running team."

"The key to Saturday's game will be to contain David Winters," Vanderzee continued. "This is a very special team to me. When we played Academy and Fondá, it was very emotional for everyone."

"We wanted to win, and we did. On Saturday we have to walk onto the field in the same manner."

Hawks soar into playoffs

The Bethlehem Pop Warner Junior Midget Hawks on Saturday posted a 12-0 victory over the East Greenbush Blue Devils, sending the Hawks into the playoffs as the strongest defensive team in Capital District Pop Warner.

Because of the bitter cold, it took the Hawks offense until the third quarter to get warmed up. After Pat Heenan and Aaron Griffin gained significant yardage on consecutive plays, Dan Hazen barreled into the end zone for the first six points of the game.

Strong defensive performances by Jon McCardle, Steve Sanchez and Mike Spinelli, including a fumble recovery by Jeremiah Giacone, helped keep the Devils in check.

Offensively, the Hawks Brendan Hughes, Brendan Munnely, Noah Bacon and Coe Wilson were able to keep moving the ball with the help of Shane Cassidy, Brian Danchetz, Matt Hennessey, Ryan Livingston, Dave Marsh, Eric McCardle and James Wheeler.

Just after the four-minute warning, Mark Bulger hit Brian Geurtze with a touchdown pass for the game's final score.

NS Pop Warner sets registration times

The New Scotland Soccer Club is holding registration for its 1997 spring traveling soccer season at Voorheesville High School on Saturday, Nov. 9, from 10 a.m. to noon and Saturday, Nov. 16, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Players are needed for teams in all of the age groups, starting with the under-8-year-olds. A copy of the player's birth certificate and a photo that can be mounted on an ID card, together with a registration fee, are needed to register.

Girls' stellar season comes to abrupt end

By Andy Macmillan

The Bethlehem girls soccer team lost to Shenendehowa in the semifinal round of the sectional tournament last week.

After beating a tough Saratoga team on Saturday, the Eagles had hopes of knocking off Shen on Tuesday for another chance at top-ranked Niskayuna in the finals.

BC came out flat in the first half, however. Shen scored an early goal and the Eagles never recovered, as Shen went on to record a 4-0 win.

"Shen is a very good team that just outplayed us on that day, and we can accept that," said coach Britt Miller.

Though the team was disappointed, Miller is proud of the squad's highly successful season and is optimistic about next year.

The Lady Eagles 16-4 mark breaks a school record for wins in a season, and the only teams that BC lost to all season were Niskayuna and Shen, both nationally ranked.

Next year looks to be promising. Both the freshman and junior varsity teams were successful this season and the varsity will have many players coming back.

Those expected back are Katie Smith (the team's leading goal scorer), Emily Haskins, Emma Samelson Jones, Addie Blabey, Karly Decker, Diana Woodworth, Melissa Kanuk, Kerry VanRiper, Lily Corrigan and Karrie Getz.

This year's graduating seniors include captain Lisa Engelstein, goalie Winne Corrigan, Meg Stevens, Katie Fireovid, Leah Gissotti, Caitlin Deilly, Meredith McNeil, Sarah Svenson and Heather Mann.

Hoop clinics slated

Basketball clinics for girls in grades three through six will be held on the following Sundays: Nov. 10, Nov. 17, Nov. 24, Dec. 15, Jan. 5, Jan. 12, Jan. 19, Jan. 26, Feb. 2 and Feb. 9 from noon to 2 p.m. in Bethlehem Central High School gymnasium.

The cost of the clinics is $70 and applications are available in the BCHS athletic office, BCMS nursing office, the elementary schools or by calling Kim Zornow at 439-6241 or Jim Murray at 439-2007.

Dolphins begin winter with a bang

Members of the Delmar Dolphins Swim Club started off the Winter Short Course season in a big way at two meets on October 26-27.

More than 30 swimmers from the club attended Schenectady Swim Club's annual Trick or Treat Invitational in Amsterdam.

Medalists (the top eight finishers in each event) included MacKenzie Glannon, who won the 8-and-under girls 25-yard freestyle, was third in the 50 free and fourth in the 25 back.

Ann DeLucco won the 25 back, was fifth in the 25 fly and seventh in the 25 breaststroke.

Patrick Shaffer was sixth in the 10-and-under boys 50 fly.

Among the 11-12 year olds, Becky Corson finished second in both the 100 and 200 freestyle, third in the 50 free and fifth in the 100 individual medley (IM).

Courtney Arduini was third in the 50 back, fourth in the 50 fly, fifth in the 50 free and eighth in the IM. Teresa Rosetti was third in both the 50 fly and 200 free and fourth in the 50 breaststroke. In the boys' division, Ricky Grant finished third in the 50 back.

Jon Sousa took eighth in the 13-and-over boys 200 free.

The Dolphins fielded two 11-12 girls 200-yard freestyle relay teams. The team of Corson, Rosetti, Arduini and Katie Van Heusen took second place, while Sarah Richardson, Larissa Suparmanto, Ellen Bandel and Caitlin Sousa placed eighth.

Other Dolphins who turned in excellent performances included Greg Blendell, Justin Murphy, Steve Blendell, David Richardson, Kevin Perazzelli, Caroline Kelly, Kristin Link, Michael Blendell, Niek Velvis, James Traylor, Caleb Bonvell, Joseph Cardamone, Anna Amaro, Jeanne Drucker, Hannah Gold, Jay Sousa, Courtney Endres and Katie Richardson.

Four of the Dolphins recently ventured south to compete in the West Point Swim Club Fall Classic.

Kathryn O'Donohue finished seventh in the 200 free and ninth in the 200 IM. Reid Putnam was second in the 200 free and 100 back and Brian Strickler was second in the 100 fly and seventh in the 50 free.

Obituaries

Sarah Renee Whiting J. Kevin McNiff

Sarah Renee Whiting, 14, of Pinecrest Drive in Slingerlands, died Saturday, Nov. 2, at Albany Medical Center Hospital.

Born in Baltimore, Md., she lived in the Capital District for most of her life.

She was a ninth-grade honor student at Bethlehem Central High School. She played on the junior varsity soccer team, was a member of the Bethlehem Central Symphonic Orchestra and a member of Key Club.

She was a member of Congregation B'nai Shalom and Beth Emeth Youth Group.

She was a multiple organ donor.

Survivors include her parents, Donald and Shari Whiting; two brothers, Andrew Whiting and Corey Whiting of Slingerlands; and her paternal grandparents, Donald and Helen Whiting of Port Orange, Fla.; and her great-grandfather, Robert Leonard of Glens Falls.

Services were from B'nai Shalom Reform Congregation in Albany.

Burial was in Bethlehem Cemetery in Delmar.

A period of mourning will be observed at the Whiting residence through Thursday evening.

Arrangements were by Ginsburg Memorial Chapel in Colonie.

Contributions may be made to Sarah Renee Whiting Fund, Community Foundation for the Capital Region, Executive Park Drive, Albany 12203.

J. Kevin McNiff, 64, of Delmar died Saturday, Nov. 2, at his home.

Born in New York City, he was a graduate of St. Joseph's Seminary. He earned a master's degree from the University of Rochester.

He was a member of the state Board of Parole for 11 years, retiring last year.

Mr. McNiff devoted his life to working with the poor. He was an ordained priest for 10 years, serving Spanish-speaking people in the inner city parishes in New York City. He began one of the first street programs in East Harlem. He also taught at high schools in Rochester and was a counselor at SUNY Brockport. He was an evaluator of bilingual programs in the Rochester school district.

Mr. McNiff campaigned for former Gov. Hugh Carey and was named director of education for the state prison system. He was then promoted to deputy commissioner of correctional services. Working with the state Education Department, he replaced the first-through-eighth-grade curriculum in the prison system, redirecting it toward adult learning.

In 1980, he was appointed chairman of the Commission of Corrections. He was appointed as a parole board member in 1985 by former Gov. Mario Cuomo.

Survivors include his wife, Alicia McDonald McNiff; a daughter, Meg McNiff of Valley Cottage, Rockland County; two sons, John McNiff of New York City and Eamon McNiff of Delmar; a sister, Kathleen Pederson of Rockway, N.J.; and two brothers, Charles McNiff of New Milford, N.J., and William McNiff of Lancaster, Pa.

Services were from the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle in Delmar.

Burial was in Bethlehem Cemetery in Delmar.

Arrangements were by the Applebee Funeral Home in Delmar.

Contributions may be made to St. Peter's Hospice or the American Cancer Society.

Petition

IDA to be issuing these bonds," said Bethlehem Citizens for Clean Air spokeswoman Sigi Moriece of Delmar.

Moriece said she got involved in the issue because "I was interested in buying a piece of property on Simmons Road off (Route) 144, which is about 1.6 miles south of the site. Now I feel sorry for the people who own that property.

"I've never been political in my entire life," she said. "Then I thought that I just couldn't sit back and allow this to happen. The town board should have had a hearing on this before they ever invited them into town."

The state Department of Environmental Conservation has been designated lead agency in the environmental review of the project by the town IDA. IDA chairman Ted Putney, who is also a member of the town board, said the action was taken at EnCon's request since the agency is responsible for issuing four permits for the plant, including the all-important air pollution control permit.

Town board members are taking a wait-and-see attitude toward the project.

"The people who sign the petitions will have an opportunity to be heard at the public hearing, and we will listen," Councilwoman Doris Davis said. "This is only the beginning of the process, and I plan to look at it carefully right from the start. Right now, we really don't have any technical or scientific data to go on."

Councilman Robert Johnson said he had no problem with EnCon being lead agency for the SEQR (state environmental quality review) process.

"My management style has always been to seek out the experts and to trust their judgment. Since I'm never going to be an expert scientist myself, and I pay a lot of state taxes to support DEC, I think I should trust their judgment. That's what they're being paid for.

"If I had a child who was serious about tennis, I'd send her to (environmental activist) Linda Burtis, who is considered the best in her field," Johnson quipped

"It's not a question of ducking the issue," he added. "I will be listening very carefully to all of the evidence that's presented."

Moriece said there are nonresidents as well as resident petitions circulating, "for people living in Albany and East Greenbush, since they'll be impacted as well."

According to a 1991 booklet published by the Regents of the University of California titled "Toxics A to Z: A Guide to Everyday Pollution Hazards," the fallout range for formaldehyde emissions is 12.5 miles, she said.

Spurlock executive vice president Phillip Sumpter said the company had no comment on the opposition to its project.

Davidson inducted by college honor society

Julie Davidson, daughter of Richard and Judy Davidson of Glenmont, has been inducted into Phi Eta Sigma at SUNY-Geneseo.

Students must have a 3.5 average in their freshman year of college to qualify for induction into the honor society.

Davidson graduated from Bethlehem Central High School in 1995 and is currently a sophomore studying elementary and special education.

The town received more fiscal good news recently, as the third quarter sales tax check from Albany County was 2.7 percent higher than the check from the third quarter of 1995, Reilly said.

The increase, from $317,756 last year to $326,310, is "not enough to warrant changing" the sales tax estimate in the 1997 budget, but "it's going in the right direction," Reilly said.

In a related matter, Duncan said the state Department of Environmental Conservation had informed him that the Game Farm Road bridge over the Vly Creek, in the midst of EnCon's Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, will close for reconstruction Nov. 11.

The bridge, which has had a weight limit imposed on it following discovery of structural deterioration, will be closed for about six weeks, Duncan said.

Girl Scouts looking for Trefoil candidates

The Hudson Valley Girl Scout Council is seeking nominations for its annual Trefoil Awards. Individuals and corporations demonstrating commitment to the community through their actions are eligible for the award. Nominees need not be involved in Girl Scouting.

Nominations are due by Nov. 11.

For a nomination form and information, call the council at 439-4936.

Sengenberger named to receive scholarship

Jessica Sengenberger, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sengenberger of Feura Bush, was recently awarded the $500 David Nestlen Scholarship from the Bethlehem Lutheran Church.

The scholarship is awarded to a student who plans to enter the ministry or teaching.

Sengenberger is a freshman majoring in English at Union College.

commenting on how nice Delaware Avenue looks now that the road has been widened in the area in front of Delaware Plaza.

At the same time, "Many people have asked why they didn't improve the road all the way down to the bridge or south to Elsmere Avenue," she said. "That's a legitimate point, but when (DOT) held the public hearing last year, that wasn't the consensus."

DOT's original plan would have widened Delaware Avenue to five lanes between Mason Road and Plymouth Avenue, about 2,100 feet. After a January 1995 public hearing during which spirited opposition to the plan surfaced, the project was scaled back to about 1,300 feet.

The project was undertaken because of a high accident rate on Delaware Avenue in the vicinity of Delaware Plaza. Motorists trying to turn into the plaza were often rear-ended, since there was no turn lane away from the normal flow of traffic.

Bill Logan, DOT Region 1 traffic engineer, said, "Ideally, we would have created a turning lane from the railroad bridge all the way to the Normanskill Bridge, but there's wasn't the money for that. That would have required a lot of drainage work and right-of-way acquisition."

Norris Macfarland, co-owner of the plaza, also questioned whether it made sense, in retrospect, to have scaled back the project.

"It would have been nice if they had extended it a bit farther, but what they've done has alleviated a lot of the tangled traffic in front of the plaza," he said. "The traffic situation out front has improved immensely, although whether the accident rate goes down, we'll have to see.

"We've had a lot of comments from people about how nice it's looking now that all this mess is done," he added, but there are still finishing touches to the project that should spruce up the area.

"There will be row of trees planted along the new sidewalks in front of the plaza, plus there will be some trees planted along the main entrance to the plaza," he noted.

As far as the plaza itself, Macfarland said a new sign on the facade of the strip mall would be erected shortly. And the freestanding plaza sign, which dates back to the 1950s, is being studied by Grand Union (owner of the sign) and plaza management to see what can be done to improve its appearance.

Across from Delaware Plaza on Bethlehem Court, Dennis O'Shaughnessy, owner of the Delmar Car Wash, is also relieved to see the end of construction.

"Between the bridge and the work on Delaware Avenue, it certainly adversely affected our business, which probably went down about 30 percent over the past two years.

"I'm glad it's finally over," he said. "Now our customers have a safe and easy access to Normanskill Boulevard and our car wash."

Other parts of the project yet to be completed include:

- New bus stop shelters in front of the plaza, along with flowering trees to dress them up.
- New hedge rows to screen views of asphalt parking lots and parked cars.
- Construction of a decorative brick wall in front of the Dormitory Authority building.

The target date for completion of the $650,000 project, including all of the landscape improvements, is Dec. 31.

a completely unselfish team member whose only goal was the success of the team. She was a leader through the example she set."

Athletics was not her only forte, however.

"She was a top-notch student," said BCMS teacher Barbara Bemis. "She was very hard-working, and she always had a smile on her face."

Sarah was struck at about 4:38 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 31, while jogging in a westward direction along the shoulder of New Scotland Road in Slingerlands.

She was hit by a westbound car driven by M. Judith Fox, 51, of Troy, when she apparently turned toward the roadway looking to cross, said Bethlehem Police Lt. Richard Vanderbilt.

No charges were filed against the driver, who according to witnesses, appeared to be travelling at about 45 mph, which is the speed limit for Route 85, Vanderbilt said.

She is survived by her parents, Donald and Shari Whiting; two brothers, Andrew Whiting and Corey Whiting of Slingerlands; her paternal grandparents, Donald and Helen Whiting of Port Orange, Fla.; and her great-grandfather, Robert Leonard of Glens Falls.

"HI, NEIGHBOR. HAVE YOU TRIED OUR CHEESE?"

Cabot cheddar cheese, butter and other dairy foods are offered with pride by your nearby dairy farmers. The same farmers who, together, own the Cabot Creamery.

And what that means is, every time you buy a Cabot product, you're helping to support 395 family farms near you in New York and throughout the Northeast. You're helping to preserve a way of life that's been important here for generations. And you're getting some of the freshest, purest, best-tasting dairy products made anywhere.

Since 1919, your nearby farmers have been working this land, tending the herds and gathering their milk. And as long as you keep buying, sharing and enjoying Cabot products, they'll keep right on doing it.

Disney on ice

Contemporary animated classic comes to life

By Alvaro E. Alarcon

The timeless love story of a beautiful young girl who discovers that true beauty lies within will come alive at the Glens Falls Civic Center in Walt Disney's World on Ice — Beauty and the Beast.

Opening on Nov. 13 and continuing for eight performances through Nov. 17, the $6 million production features a cast of international acclaim, a spectacular set and the romance that comes with any version of this old tale.

"When you see the story of Beauty and the Beast in the theater, you are a spectator," said Producer Kenneth Feld. "Walt Disney's World On Ice — Beauty and the Beast brings this classic fable to life. You experience the emotions along with Belle and Beast. The audience practically becomes participants in this wonderful production that young and old can share together."

The production has a world-class cast. Belle is played by Parisian skater Florentine Houdiniere. Skating director and choreographer Bob Paul said that "Florentine is Belle — her skating — her personality — her appearance."

Russian Victor Baryshevtsev plays the physically demanding role of the village braggart, Gaston, who has his heart set on marrying Belle. His sidekick, Le Fou, is played by Californian Joey Daysog. Disney will leave its touch on the tale by having Mickey Mouse, Minnie Mouse, Donald Duck, Daisy Duck, Goofy, Chip 'N' Dale, Baloo and Scrooge McDuck introduce the audience to the story.

The production closely follows the popular Disney film version, highlighting the award-winning Howard Ashman and Alan Menken score and the original group of voices. Feld adds a 38-member cast of international ice skating champions and stunning special effects.

This basic tale of enchantment and love between the beautiful young girl, Belle, and the hideous beast, Gaston, has a venerable history. The Greek mythologist Apuleius taught that one cannot always see the love within when he told the story of Psyche falling in love an invisible Cupid, who Psyche knows only through his amorous actions. The modern tale came to shape in 1550 with Italian author Giovan Straparalo's narrative of an ugly "Pig Prince" who must marry three women in order to rid himself of his unsightliness. By the 19th century the tale of Beauty and the Beast was known across the world. French film director Jean Cocteau successfully brought the story to the silver screen in 1946, and Disney's full-length animated film opened up in New York in 1991.

To get to the Glens Falls Civic Center, go north on Interstate 87, to Exit 18, and follow the signs.

Florentine Houdiniere is Belle in Walt Disney's World On Ice — Beauty and the Beast, which comes to the Glens Falls Civic Center Nov. 13 through 17.

Performances are on Nov. 13, 14 and 15 at 7 p.m., and performances at 11:30 a.m., 3:30 and 7 p.m. on Nov. 16, and at 11:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Nov. 17.

Ticket prices range from $10.50 to $15.50. Special rinkside seats are available. A $2.50 discount is available on opening night. Tickets can be purchased at the Glens Falls Civic Center Box Office and at all Ticketmaster outlets.

To buy tickets over the phone or for information, call 476-1000 or 798-0202.

Women's Press Club holds fund-raiser at Hello, Dolly performance tonight

The Women's Press Club of New York State will be honoring the late Beryl Spector tonight (11/6) at a performance of Hello, Dolly at Proctor's Theater in Schenectady.

The club has made the performance a fund-raiser for a scholarship the members instituted in memory of the late public relations executive who died in a Puerto Rico hotel fire in the late 1980s.

Money received from tonight's fund-raiser will go towards a scholarship for a student at the University at Albany.

Spector had long been director of public relations and promotional activities at public television station WMHT in Schenectady.

Well-known by all the media, her tragic death affected all who knew her, especially the members of the Women's Press Club of which she was a founding member.

As for Carol Channing, the renowned musical comedy star, she is appearing in what may be her farewell tour of her best known character, one she's played for more than 25 years on Broadway and throughout the world.

This musical comedy tour of Hello, Dolly is an offshoot of her Broadway revival last season and it will carry her again throughout the country.

At Proctor's she will be playing each evening with a matinee on Saturday. Tickets are available at the Proctor's box office.

New executive director hired by Empire State Youth Orchestra

Karen M. Perretta has been hired to replace Donna Slavik as executive director of the Empire State Youth Orchestra. Slavik retired as of October 28.

Perretta has been radio program director at WMHT Educational Telecommunications and has been with that operation since 1980.

SPOT IN THE LIGHT

By Martin P. Kelly

Slavik had been with the orchestra since 1991 and under her leadership, the Empire State Youth Orchestra grew from two orchestras and two ensembles to three orchestras and seven ensembles. An additional 100 student musicians were added to the orchestra in the last five years.

At the same time the new appointment was announced, a kickoff of a new fund raising effort to benefit the 17-year old orchestra, was also announced.

Slavik put together this fund-raiser in connection with JIMAPCO, Inc., the local map-making company which will give the orchestra a portion of the sales of the company's 17th edition of the Capital District Street Atlas prepared by JIMAPCO.

The orchestra will realize $6 from each sale of each Atlas at the cost of $15.95.

Latham church group presents musical cabaret Nov. 15

Starlight Cabaret, an "evening of nostalgia," will be presented Nov. 15-17 at the Calvary United Methodist Church in Latham by the Footlighters, a theater troupe active at the church.

Written as an old-fashioned musical variety show, the production staged by Jean DeLollo, is basically a reprise of a similar show presented eight years ago at the church.

Martin P. Kelly

The show will be offered at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights and at 7 p.m. on Sunday evening.

Ticket information and reservations available at 785-5142.

New hospice requiem to be premiered at a Troy Music Hall concert Nov. 16

Albany Pro Musica and St. Cecilia Orchestra will perform the world premiere of the Hospice Requiem In the Shadow of the Rainbow at the Troy Savings Bank Music Hall as part of the two groups' concert on Nov. 16.

This musical work, composed by Timothy Luby and conducted by David Griggs-Janower, was commissioned by Hospice board member Dr. Rudy Nydegger in memory of his father, Vernon, who was a lifelong professional musician.

Luby has called the work a musical expression of the human spirit in transition "as a personal memorial to a musical individual as well as a communal expression of our collective experience of life and death."

This performance of In The Shadow of the Rainbow is a celebration of National Hospice Month.

The program on Nov. 16 also features works by Barber, Puccini and Bach, as well as several Gregorian chants.

Tickets and information are available at 273-0038.

Albany Berkshire Ballet Company lists Albany Nutcracker performances

With a tour of 33 performances of The Nutcracker covering 11 cities in five states throughout New England, the Albany Berkshire Ballet Company will stop in Albany's Palace Theater Dec. 22 and Dec. 23 for a total of three performances of the famed century-old work.

The choreograph of the ballet with music by Tchaikovsky, is being done by company founder Madeline Cantarella Culp.

The local performances will be done on Sunday, Dec. 22 at 3 and 7 p.m. and Monday, Dec. 23 at 7 p.m.

MOVING AFTER THE RETURN

You can move to the net for a volley after hitting a return, but you need to move quickly - any hesitation will make you late getting into proper volley position.

Another option is to move to the center of the court. There you can wait for your opponent to hit a short shot, then move forward.
