Schools address student steroid use

By ROB JONAS

Steroids and performance-enhancing drugs in professional sports have garnered plenty of attention at the national level — to the point where Congress is holding hearings on the subject.

But Bruce Svare, a Delmar resident and director of the National Institute for Sports Reform, said that not enough attention is being paid to preventing younger athletes from falling into the steroid trap.

"My concern is that what's not getting through to the youngest levels is that there is a line you cannot cross to have success," Svare said.

Michael Barry, a senior on the Niskayuna boys track and field team, said that he doesn't feel enough has been done to educate athletes at his level.

"I don't think we've really been directly (told)," he said. "Indirectly, in general, we've been told drugs are bad."

Svare, a University at Albany professor, cited a study done by the Mayo Clinic and the National Institute of Drug Abuse, which estimated that upwards of 1 million middle and high school students experimented with steroids in 2003 and usage by females

Sheriff arrests victim's daughter

By LIBBY SCHIRMER

A month-long murder investigation into the strangulation death of a New Scotland 86-year-old woman has culminated in an arrest of the woman's daughter, almost to the hour the investigation started, officials said.

Police say Jean Balashek, who was found in her home by her daughter on March 13, was killed by that daughter, who was also living with her at 2038 New Scotland Road, for financial reasons.

"I haven't gotten really into too much detail about that other than to say that we believe it was over a financial disagreement with her mother," Albany County Sheriff James Campbell said.

Corianna Thompson, 45, was arrested Sunday morning on a charge of second-degree murder by Albany County Sheriff's deputies at

Bethlehem extends moratorium

By LIBBY SCHIRMER

The yearlong residential moratorium will last at least a few months longer, thanks to a unanimous decision by the town board in a special meeting last Tuesday.

The first local law of 2005 means that the moratorium, which was set to expire April 8, will stay in place for six months or until 30 days after the comprehensive plan is adopted, whichever comes first.

The language will also allow developers whose projects have been in the pipeline but stalled because of the moratorium to move along with administrative tasks during the extension.

The law's language reflects a compromise town board members found agreeable, after board member Thomas Marcelle raised a concern at the March 23 meeting that a six-month extension seemed excessive.

"Within 30 days of the completion of the schedule, we should be ready to accommodate what comes to us."

George Leveille

"I didn't want to be a stick in the mud. But this is a reasonable, split the baby down the middle, compromise," Marcelle said, thanking the town attorney and other board members for working on the language. "I'm happy with the language."

Director of Economic Development and Planning George Leveille said the 30-day mark would get enough things moving to be ready for developers and even new applications after the plan is adopted.

"Believe me, we've already started the process of preparing ourselves. We're also in the midst of designating engineers to assist us in review, so that should open (up our capabilities of handling applications)," Leveille said. "Within 30 days of the completion of the schedule, we should be ready to accommodate what comes to us."

Leveille said he expects a majority of the projects to start popping up at the 60- to 90-day mark.

"We don't expect an onslaught of activity immediately," he said.

That could happen as early as September, if the comprehensive plan is adopted by the end of July.

Youth challenges cops' use of Taser

By MARY LANNON

The nationwide controversy concerning Tasers, a type of stun gun, has come to the Capital District.

Last summer, a New York Times article fueled controversy when it reported that little independent testing is done on Tasers and that some believe they may cause deaths in those with underlying medical conditions. In February, controversy flared again when, in Chicago, a 54-year-old man died and a teen went into cardiac arrest after being Tased within days of each other. The incidents caused the Chicago police department to hold off on adding 100 more Tasers to their force. More recently, a plan to sell Tasers to the public has generated debate around the nation. Taser International, seller of the gun, has vehemently defended its product, arguing that it has conducted numerous safety tests and has found no evidence that its gun has directly led to a single death.

Locally many police departments including Albany, Guilderland, Colonie and Bethlehem have deployed Tasers for a year or more with little public notice until last

Luxury car dealer leaving New Scotland location

By LIBBY SCHIRMER

A local business that's been a stronghold in the economy here for more than 50 years will undergo a restructuring that will send the business to Halfmoon by the end of this month.

New Salem Saab in Slingerlands, in phase one of its move, will be consolidated and renamed New Salem Saab of Halfmoon, necessitating the showroom's closure this week.

New Salem's President and Owner Darryl Carl is aware what the move means for local customers.

"It's a poor location for customers (in other local areas). But it's an excellent location for our closest customers in the New Scotland corridor," Carl said. "So we've created some new programs, and expanded some existing ones, so they are not inconvenienced by us moving."

A pick-up, drop-off program has been created, Carl said, in which employees will pick up customers' cars, bring them to Halfmoon for repairs and return the cars to the customers' workplaces or homes. Carl said the program would probably be provided for customers within a couple of miles of the facility, up to 30 a week or five a day.

Eventual goals of the plan are to move back to a more central location, perhaps on Auto Row on Central Avenue in Albany or on Route 9 in Latham.

First established as New Salem Garage, Inc. in 1947, Carl's grandfather's business was bought by Saab in 1961 and split into two subsidiaries.

Carl said other programs were also expanded to accommodate loyal customers, including an expansion of a shuttle service into Albany. A rental car program will also be expanded in the form of an extended rental car program with Enterprise.

"I've spoken to customers in the New Scotland corridor. They realize it's a normal, appropriate business decision," Carl said. "They weren't really surprised, they understand and admitted, in their own words, that they've become a bit spoiled. It's almost been a non-issue. They've been delightful."

No job positions will be affected by the transition.

"We've offered and 99 percent of our employees in New Salem have agreed and will be rolled into (the Halfmoon store)," Carl said.

April will be full of busy weekends, Carl knows. Even though cars will still be accepted for repairs through April 30, the showroom's closure was scheduled for this week. Carl will spend the time before the move tending to administrative tasks and finalizing the move to Halfmoon, which should take up all of the 30 days he's set aside.

A grand reopening has been scheduled at the Halfmoon store, Carl said, which should coincide with the release of the new Saab product, which is Saab's take on the four-wheel drive, sports utility vehicle.

Carl said the move could indirectly result in a larger product offering, then perhaps a bigger customer base because of the increased services.

"But our main concern is taking care of the customers that are here in this area, and have been for years," Carl said.

Volunteers brave rain, mud to save migrating salamanders

By MARTY BANNAN

More than 30 Friends of Thacher Park found their way through the fog and rain on a recent spring night to help some of nature's smaller and slimmer critters.

Each year, early spring's warmer rains start softening the ground and salamanders begin their nocturnal migration to the ponds of their birth. They come out from below, working their way to these vernal pools to mate and lay eggs. Along the way, there are predators and automobile tires to face. To give them a fighting chance, the John Boyd Thacher Park volunteers partake in their annual salamander rescue along Route 157 in the park. The volunteers pick up the icky, yet cute, creatures and carry them safely across the road.

Most common of these is the yellow spotted salamander, a species otherwise unseen the rest of the year. Another common species that migrates along the escarpment is the gray, less attractive Jefferson Salamander. These salamanders live under rocks, logs and leaves. They only come out on damp, rainy nights.

Sometimes people find them in dirt basements in old homes, but most people never see them unless they either look hard or volunteer during the migration.

"We saved 100 salamanders the first night," said Nancy Engel with the Emma Treadwell Thacher Nature Center at Thompson's Lake. "They keep crossing the road after volunteers leave but we try to save as many as we can early in the evening when traffic is higher."

Engel added the rescue attracted a lot of extra volunteers, especially families with children. Doug Fraser, a biology professor at Siena College who serves on the Friends of Thacher Park's board of trustees, explained the salamanders' spring sojourn.

"The ponds are vernal bodies that dry out later in the season," he said. "Here, salamander eggs cannot be threatened by fish and are less vulnerable to other predators. After mating, salamanders generally leave the pond and stay nearby. There is no back migration. Four to six weeks later, the eggs hatch."

While salamanders can survive in captivity for 20 years it is unknown how long they live in the wild, according to Fraser.

"Up to 10 years is a reasonable guess but we do not know for sure," he said.

Salamanders live on invertebrates and end up on the menu of snakes, burrowing birds, skunks, shrews and other small mammals.

"We don't interfere with this hazard," Fraser said.

In other areas, salamanders enjoy more elaborate assistance. On Meadowdale Road near Voorheesville they migrate through tunnels constructed to allow safe passage under the road. It is, however, not known how many of the critters actually take this route. After a few rainy nights the migration ends, Fraser said.

For another year, the yellow spotted salamander goes into seclusion, an enigma of Mother Nature right in our own backyards.

Local trains for triathlon for cancer research

By KATHERINE MCCARTHY

When 17 residents of upstate New York and Vermont head to Memphis, Tenn., on May 22, they won't be going to Graceland. Instead, they'll be participating in a triathlon to raise money to fight leukemia and lymphoma.

One of those people is 54-year-old Glenmont resident Joan Oliver, who signed up to be part of the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society's Team in Training because she had always wanted to participate in a triathlon and saw a chance to meet that goal while doing some good.

"I've had a sedentary life, but I heard about a Team in Training meeting in January and went to it," Oliver said. "It's one of those things: you get to mid-life and have regrets about things you didn't do, but I don't need to have regrets. I can do it."

Since that January meeting, Oliver has been following the training regimen that Team in Training suggests. Since the triathlon consists of a 1-mile swim, a 25-mile bike ride and a 6-mile run, Oliver started by training for an hour a day.

She usually drops her eighth-grade son, Alex Mangeri, at Bethlehem's middle school for its 6:30 a.m. optional exercise time, then heads for the pool at Albany Academy, where the upstate New York/Vermont Team in Training Coach, Bonnie Morse-Gillham, is the aquatics director.

In the evenings, Oliver rode a stationary bicycle or ran during the winter months. With the arrival of good weather, she has taken the training outside. Most team members train on their own during the week, but get together on the weekends to train.

The group does interval training, which means they work at different levels of exertion.

Oliver said she's the oldest person in the group, which puts her in a unique position. "Some of the people in their 20s are in this to compete, to increase their time," Oliver said. "I'm in it to finish."

"I feel great," Oliver said, "but that's not to say it's not hard. When I get up, I'm stiff. Some days you're like lead, some days it's easier."

When it gets tough, Oliver thinks of her honored patient, Tim Johnson. Team in Training members all have an assigned person they honor by participating in the competition. Oliver is also competing in Johnson's honor.

Sixty-seven-year-old Johnson is a Ballston Spa resident whose sister-in-law, Carol Smith, is a friend of Oliver's. Since being diagnosed with lymphoma last December, Johnson has had five of his six chemotherapy treatments.

"I have an inoperable tumor in my stomach," Johnson said. "The deal is that the doctors gave me one to two months to live without chemo. With chemo, I have a good shot of going into remission."

Since the diagnosis, Johnson has been struck by a series of mishaps that he said sound like "a wacky story." He broke his shoulder trying to haul a garbage can from the ditch it had frozen to; a blood clot formed as a result of the port put into his chest to deliver his chemo; he fell and incurred a concussion; and he recently came out of the hospital after a bout with double pneumonia.

Still, with his sixth chemo treatment scheduled for this week, he perseveres.

"After the first three chemo treatments, the tumor had shrunk by a third," he said. "I'm trusting in God; he'll do whatever's in his plan." Johnson said he was honored that Oliver is competing in his name.

"So many people in this world have cancer," he said. "The treatments are tough. I have the support of family and friends. I'd like to tell anybody that goes through this, don't give up, just keep trying."

Johnson inspires Oliver, as does the memory of her father.

"My own father died of lung cancer when I was 21," Oliver said. "You didn't talk about cancer then, so it was all very quiet. Meeting Tim by phone and talking with him about his cancer has given me a kind of healing around my father's death."

Like Johnson, Oliver's not quitting, either. Morse-Gillham is confident that Oliver will finish the triathlon. Morse-Gillham is a Delmar resident who's been coaching Team in Training for the past four years, which makes an upstate New York/Vermont chapter of the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society possible.

"I've enjoyed this," Morse-Gillham said. "It's more conducive to train when it's a group."

Oliver keeps the faith as she prepares for the triathlon. Laid off last fall from her job as a grant writer with the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology, she took it in stride.

"My philosophy is that everything is in divine order," she said. "When I got laid off, I thought that something great would come of it. I'm consulting about 20 hours a week now and making more money than before. I also have time to train. Things come full circle. When it's hard, I think of Tim, my father, and a girlfriend who just died. When I feel like I want to quit, I say a little prayer."

Team in Training donations can be made to the Upstate New York/Vermont chapter of the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society at 6 Automation Lane, Albany 12205-1658. For information, call 438-3583 or visit the Web site, www.lls.org/ny.

New restaurant would mean burst of color to Delaware Avenue

By LIBBY SCHIRMER

An area entrepreneur who's made a living in the Tex-Mex food industry for about 22 years wants to bring a takeout tacqueria to an abandoned business on Delaware Avenue, leading planning board members to debate: how much Southwestern flare is too much?

Mr. G's Deli shared a wall and a parking lot with the popular My Place and Co. restaurant at 241 Delaware Ave. before the deli closed. Rick Lamperelli, proprietor of Garcia's on Central Avenue in Colonie, is proposing a change to what would be his half of the structure, in both facade and signage. Garcia's in Colonie is a full-service restaurant, but Lamperelli's new undertaking would be 99 percent take-out. He's expecting a largely "moms on the go" customer base.

"We're coming to the suburbs and want to make a statement," Lamperelli said of the importance of having a standout facade. "Families may have a hard time driving to the city for dinner, so we'll bring it to them."

The town is on middle ground in terms of the new comprehensive plan, which is drafted but not yet adopted. The planning board is aware of the process and of some of the major points of the plan. Lamperelli and his representative, Dan Dembling, said the board could not legally hold them to standards in a document that's not yet actual local law.

The established facility on Central Avenue in Colonie boasts bright lights and an awning based on Mexican blankets. A smaller takeout facility is in front of the Bethlehem Planning Board.

The planning board seemed evenly divided about whether some of the aspects of Lamperelli's design — including bright reds and blues and some earthy tones and galvanized metal on the side of the building — are too garish for a part of town with Elsmere Elementary School and nearby neighborhoods. The design includes a 16-square-foot sign with an awning of southwestern patterns and hues and earthy tones, gooseneck lamps and two rows of LEDs, which are electric lights, in bright blue and bright red tones. These light sticks, can be found in the area on many major restaurant chains, including Applebee's and Chili's.

"The idea is that people will recognize the store," said Dembling, a Delmar resident and architect with Dembling and Dembling Architects in Albany.

The store would include a counter with six stools, though no liquor will be served. Lamperelli said he doesn't expect the store to be open much later than 10 p.m. Both Lamperelli and Dembling told the board that the building needs to be a bit "louder" and more noticeable to cars passing by because it has low visibility to cars headed west on Delaware Avenue. This is because of how the existing building sits, with the portion that houses My Place jutting out a number of feet.

"It's a cool, fun way to make your presence known," said board member Brian Collier, who later expressed his affinity for the project. "Most businesses that come in spend so much money (on the interior) that by the end, they have enough money, maybe, for a gaudy sign. It's an inviting, interesting look for a facade."

Planning board chairman Parker Mathusa wondered what Lamperelli's limits were, noting he'd like a more muted look, but still allow the tacqueria to stand out to potential customers.

"We can't be just another place to eat," said Lamperelli, who would be running the tacqueria himself. "To handcuff ourselves out of the gate when we don't pop, don't sizzle, I'd be tentative about my next year."

The plan is due back in front of the planning board at its next meeting, April 19.

Hurry up and wait for life's wonders to happen

By KATHERINE MCCARTHY

When my freshman year in college started, my desk was the one right in front of the window between our two beds. Before my and Sally's own design style emerged, that desk was as much a daydreaming and waiting spot as it was a work place.

One gray winter Saturday, I waited for a group of friends from home to arrive, pretending to conjugate German verbs while peering surreptitiously out the window every time a car pulled up outside. The Green Mountains kept their own quiet watch over me all that year as I watched the light play in different ways over the buildings and lawns as the seasons shortened, then lengthened the days.

A friend wandered by as I kept my vigil that day. "You spend a lot of time at this window waiting," she said.

When Christopher was first born, and I made the transition from working full-time to being an at-home mother, time also hung heavy for a little while. I confessed to another new mother in another town that I often invented errands, or thought up ways to stretch them out, so that I had a purpose to my days beyond feeding, diapering and soothing this new little blessing in my life.

I do precious little waiting these days and when I do, it makes me tap my toes and hum impatiently. Life as a middle-aged, part-time working mother makes me paraphrase Emily Dickinson's poem: Because I could not stop for death, he kindly stopped for me.

Please God, death is a long way off, but there are a lot of things that must stop for me since I'm too busy to tend to them.

In this spring, most of the waiting has to do with cleanup. The lawn waits to be raked of winter debris and seems content with the half-hour it gets each weekday evening. The garage waits to be cleaned out so we can get at the bicycles I vow will be our primary mode of transportation in the face of ever-increasing gasoline prices.

The inside of the house waits, too. The upstairs room off our bedroom was the whole reason we bought our house and it has become a storage site. It waits patiently for me to clear it out and organize it so that we can move

The boys' dad and I have only one piece of advice for our children as they wait for their dreams to play out: Go for it. the desk from the guest room upstairs and I can finally write the Great American Novel.

The boys have a closet linking their room which could be an archeological dig revealing the evolution of their taste in toys. That room waits to be classified: the Ninja Turtle era; the Lego era; the Chattering Chimps era; the new suede bucks every Christmas and Easter before Chuck Taylors were the only shoes that got worn ever era.

The kids wait too most afternoons and days, even if I have organized my work life so that any dreams of a full-time career are deferred so I Can Be Home When My Children Are Home.

Cormac's permission slip waits to be signed; Christopher waits to study his Latin vocabulary; we'll check the school Web site to make sure all the homework assignments came home in just a minute. The danger lies in waiting too long and everything will get forgotten as we move on to the next task.

And what great matters of state happen that make spring cleaning and homework details get forgotten? The routine details of everyday life demand attention. Permission slips wait while the dishes go into the dishwasher. Latin verbs wait just one second while I throw in the laundry so there are clean pants for tomorrow. Start checking the Web site while I make just this one phone call.

The boys wait for bigger things to happen than laundry and dinner. They have time to daydream and to think about what their lives will be. Cormac's folders and backpack hold loose pages of paper, covered in words.

"Don't lose that!" he'll say in a panic as a piece of paper flutters to the floor. "That's my movie!"

When he's not scribbling his stories or setting up his Gundams in scenarios that could get filmed some day, he's spinning tales of what he'll do with the millions he'll make from the movies he knows will rival George Lucas'.

In my old age, my waiting will go from checking on the spin cycle to waiting for the private jet to pick me up for my long weekend in Australia — or Japan or China or Hawaii — with Cormac and his children. He will build a palatial estate and will allow his brother to live there.

This is probably a good thing, for Christopher's dream job these days is to be a Norse linguist. Long a huge fan of any sort of mythology and ancient civilization, Christopher is waiting to fill out his days in Scandinavia, home of all things Viking. His current query is why languages live where they do; how did all those European countries develop separate languages?

The boys' dad and I have only one piece of advice for our children as they wait for their dreams to play out: Go for it. "People will tell you that it's hard to be a movie maker or you'll never make any money as a Norse linguist," I said once. In unison, Chris and I answered with the phrase that only people who have listened to other people's well-intentioned advice rather than their own hearts would use: "Don't listen to them."

Like so many parents, our waiting has to do mostly with the kids. We wait for the immediate — homework to be done, report cards to come home — and the long-term: where will they go to college? What careers will they choose? Where will they live?

While I sat at that freshman desk all those years ago, I wove my own dreams. They had mostly to do with a high-powered big-city career, a penthouse apartment and regular international travel.

Surely that would be having it all.

Life is funny, isn't it? I live in a 1920s bungalow in a small town, work part-time, pass by my kids and their friends playing Dungeons and Dragons or Gundam Wing in the afternoons while I head out to rake the lawn for a few minutes before I start supper.

And I count my blessings that in fact, I ended up having it all.

To Life education series continues

To Life! has announced its Spring 2005 education series, which will address a number of topics from enhancing health with humor and music to advances in conventional cancer therapies to Medicaid and Medicare.

On Wednesday, April 13, participants can learn how music therapy can achieve rehabilitation goals. The presentation will feature Margie Wood, a breast cancer survivor, humorist and motivational speaker. Rachelle Vishneowski, a music therapist at the Veterans Administration Hospital will also speak. The event will be held at the Holiday Inn Express at 1442 Western Ave., a quarter-mile east of Stuyvesant Plaza. Check-in will be at 5:30 p.m., with the program scheduled to follow at 6 p.m. Pre-registration is requested by calling 439-5975 or e-mailing info@tolife.org.

Participants will hear about two healing methods used for cancer patients, one regarding a radiation therapy that's designed to spare surrounding organs and tissue and one that combines the best practices of conventional and complementary medicine to maximize the body's potential for self-healing. Featured speakers will be Sarada Reddy, a radiation oncologist and Eliot Edwards, a doctor of naturopathic medicine. The event will be held at the Krause Center on Burdett Avenue in Troy. Check-in will begin at 5:30 p.m., the program scheduled to follow at 6 p.m.

Pre-registration is requested. Call 439-5975 or e-mail info@tolife.org.

On Tuesday, June 7, the annual Gary Schwartz Health and the Law Forum will be held. This year's topic is Medicaid and Medicare Under Fire. Tricia Asaro and Louis Pierro will present at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in Albany. Check-in is at 8 a.m., with the program scheduled to run from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m.

This program is free and open to the public. Attorneys seeking credit for attending will be charged a fee.

Legacy of possibility

As the world celebrated the life of and mourned the death of Pope John Paul II, we were struck by the gestures of good will shown at his funeral Friday in Rome.

The pope obviously had the ability to bring people from all countries and faiths together, and we needed to know this is possible in our usually all too contentious world, where religious and civil differences seem more the norm than the exception.

The pope was a leader who lived by his beliefs and led by his example. He was considered conservative by most, but highly respected throughout the world.

We'd like to think John Paul's legacy is one of possibility for mankind to be able to create a peaceful and understanding environment.

We hope the next pope will not only serve as a religious leader, but one who will embrace some changes in the Catholic faith.

We could not help but notice the sea of men presiding over the pope's funeral. Even the choir was solely boys and men. The hope that women can embrace higher office in religious orders, in America at least, seems feasible.

There are women ministers and rabbis who have established themselves as capable leaders. The only sign of a woman of the participants in the funeral service was the letter M on the pope's simple coffin. Jesus Christ's mother Mary served as an inspiration for Pope John Paul II and her symbol will be with him forever.

For now, it's hard to imagine another pope taking over the reins of the papacy. And yet we know the church will embrace its new leader once he is elected.

Even though Pope John Paul leaves enormous shoes to fill, we believe he would encourage his followers to support the new pontiff.

Still, Catholic and non-Catholics alike will sorely miss John Paul. His ease in relating to people was nothing short of inspirational. He clearly enjoyed himself among the masses that adored him. His vibrancy in communicating with people all over the world was remarkable. His smile was contagious and his manner gracious, and his spirit will live on in the hearts of millions.

This gentle, kind and brilliant man from humble and strife-ridden beginnings has left a mark on the world that will not soon be forgotten.

May he rest in peace, knowing he has made a deep and lasting mark on all humanity.

The role of nurse practitioners

By VERONICA ARMBRUSTER

The writer is a family nurse practitioner.

Gov. George Pataki has proclaimed April "Nurse Practitioner Month." As a family nurse practitioner practicing for 10 years in the Albany area, I have witnessed dynamic nurse practitioners (NP) provide high quality, cost-effective holistic health care.

As president of the Albany Chapter of Nurse Practitioners, I feel it is imperative to recognize NPs as the effective health care providers we are and how our role has made a positive impact on the health care system.

In defining what NPs are, it is important to state what NPs are not. We are not "mini-doctors" or "the next best thing to seeing a real doctor" or "doctors' assistants." We are quality professionals in our own right.

Nurse Practitioners are master prepared nurses with advanced clinical experience. To ensure high quality care, NPs are nationally certified and participate in an ongoing recertification process.

More and more people are choosing NPs for their regular health care provider because NPs are health professionals who provide holistic health care services that include history-taking, physical examination, assessment, diagnosis and patient management.

NPs explain the details of health problems, medications and other topics to help people fully understand how to take care of themselves. NPs focus not only on health problems but also on the effects health problems have on people and their families. In this way NPs add to the traditional role of medicine by providing assessment of wellness and health risks: teaching and counseling about health maintenance and disease prevention; and management of responses to altered health status. As an independent licensed health professional, the nurse practitioner is responsible and accountable for all aspects of patient care.

Research shows that NPs provide high quality and cost effective care and a unique approach to health care which results in a high level of patient satisfaction. Investigators at Columbia University in New York conducted a study to determine whether patients received the same quality of care from doctors as from NPs. The study authors reported that, in these cases, patient outcomes were not significantly different for these two groups of medical professionals. NPs are licensed in all 50 states, and they can prescribe medicines independently.

The NP role was first de-necessary

- plan your child's care with you and your child's health care team

- perform some tests and procedures

- answer questions about your child's health problems

- treat common childhood illnesses

- change the plan of care with your child's doctor as needed

- teach your family about the effects of illness on your child's growth and development

- teach your child about self-care and healthy lifestyle choices

- write prescriptions

- order medical tests

- teach other health care members and local groups about child health care

- provide referrals to community groups.

NPs do more than direct patient care. Many NPs are also actively involved in education, research and legislative activities to promote quality health care for all people in the United States.

Locally, NPs have been involved in working with health promotion for kids through the Healthy Kids Club and mental health assessment and suicide prevention at schools and disease prevention and disease awareness through the Ovarian Cancer Run.

It is my hope that as the nurse practitioner role continues to evolve, we will be invited to sit on boards such as CDPHP, MVP, YMCA and even hospitals.

The health care consumer must now more than ever support wellness promotion as a cost-effective way to prevent chronic diseases. NPs are leading the way in the "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" paradigm.

In conclusion, nurse practitioners work with people of all ages and their families, providing information people need to make informed decisions about their health care and life-style choices, while diagnosing and treating patients effectively.

veloped in 1965 at the University of Colorado in response to rural underserved areas. In the 30 years after the first NPs were educated, a number of NP specialties developed in an effort to make health care available to as many people as possible.

They include, but are not limited to, family practice, pediatric/child health, women's health, psychiatry, community health, emergency, gerontology/elder health, neonatal/perinatal, school/college health and occupational health. To date, there are 49,500 NPs authorized to practice in the United States.

Pediatric and family practice NPs can provide regular health care for your child. For example, an NP who specializes in pediatrics can perform the following tasks:

- document your child's health history and perform a physical exam

- collaborate with physicians and other health providers as

State's ranking should go up Many thanks to Delmar paramedics

Editor, The Spotlight:

The Spotlight performed a commendable job in following the New York state budget process this year and your April 6, editorial discussing the need for lawmakers to make good budgets in the future is right on the mark. It is worth pointing out that not all the news is bad for the state.

This is apparent when we view studies that rank the managerial performance of the 50 states. Governing magazine ranks the 50 states in terms of four groups of variables. These include finance and money issues, human resources issues, the condition of infrastructure and management information services. Each state is assigned a mark between A (the best mark) and D.

New York state received a B- in the rankings. Our neighboring states received the following marks: Connecticut C+, Massachusetts C+, New Jersey B-, Pennsylvania B, Vermont B. Some of the larger states received the following marks: California C-, Florida B-, Illinois C+, Michigan B+, Ohio B, Texas B, New Jersey B-, Virginia A-.

We can conclude from the rankings that New York state's mark was not that bad. There is good news, however, since the only areas of weakness for New York state related to problems in the area of the budget process, the structural imbalance in the budget and budgeting for performance.

As New York makes significant corrective action in these budgeting areas as The Spotlight calls for, we can expect to see New York's competitive ranking improve to an even higher level.

Editor, The Spotlight:

On the morning of Friday, March 18, my husband collapsed in our home.

He had not been feeling well for a while. I called 911 and in a matter of minutes the ambulance was there. We live on Wellington Road. As the paramedics worked on my husband, one of them introduced himself as Brian. I don't know the name(s) of the other or others.

I was busy getting dressed to go to the hospital. But the quick response and actions of the paramedics saved my husband's life, and I want so much to thank them and let them know how grateful I am to them.

If anyone knows who they are or perhaps if they themselves see this, know that they are truly appreciated for the work you do and the services you perform.

My husband had blood clots on his lungs, which restricted the flow of oxygen through his lungs to get to his heart.

weren't for the paramedics' quick response. Thank you so very much.

Yellow Brick Road is part of local historical landscape

Editor, The Spotlight:

After exploratory meetings with representatives of the Normansville Neighborhood Association and the town of Bethlehem, the Normansville Yellow Brick Road Enhancement Committee was formed.

It was spearheaded by Virginia Acquario, who led the effort to improve the Veterans Memorial Park.

Normansville sits on the shores of the Normans Kill below the Delaware Avenue viaduct. It formed during the 19th century as home to the workers in the mills and other establishments along the creek.

Today, the business enterprises no longer exist, most being lost to fire, Normanside remains.

The road that traversed the ravine and passed by the hamlet was established in 1805 as a toll road run by the Albany and Delaware Turnpike Company. In the early 1900s, the surface was paved with concrete blocks and a concrete bridge erected. During that time, a book entitled The Wonderful Wizard of Oz achieved popularity. The description of the "Yellow Brick Road" as the path to the magical kingdom of Oz may have inspired the paving of the road with yellow colored bricks, or, local residents adopted the name.

Either way, a local landmark was identified as part of the heritage of our town.

To heighten awareness of the area and provide a more pleasant environment for visitors, the committee plans to landscape and restore a section of the road leading to the old bridge. The bridge, which is owned by the city of Albany, is closed to traffic.

Donations are most welcome.

Checks should be made out to the Town of Bethlehem, with notation yellow brick road project and sent to Town Hall, c/o Theresa Egan, supervisor.

If you would like to buy an imprinted brick, call town hall or see the web site www.bethlehemfirst.com/yellowbrickroad/.

Garden Club appreciates support from community

Editor, The Spotlight:

We hope that over the last year and a half you have noticed a "growing" change in our town.

The Bethlehem Garden Club has been actively beautifying our town landscape by planting gardens at entrances to our community. The first garden we planted is at the intersection of Cherry and Kenwood avenues. The ornamental grasses have been waving at motorists driving by in all seasons, and the garden will soon blossom with spring color. The garden plant materials were chosen for their year round appeal as well as their hardiness, and to date have proven to be very successful.

Funding for this project came solely from proceeds from our annual June Garden Tour.

In August 2004 another garden was planted on Route 9W opposite Geist Auto Shop. Five Hawthorne trees were planted along with hundreds of the same variety of plants that are in the Cherry/

Kenwood avenues garden. Look for spring with the yellow daffodils that will be blooming soon. To enable us to fund this garden, we had significant donations from many businesses: The VFW, Slingerlands Price Chopper, Hannaford Supermarkets, Nigro Companies, Capital Cities Imported Cars, Durant Funeral Home, Patroon House, Cherokee Ridge Animal Rescue, Glenmont Econo Lodge,

Roberta's Gift Shop, Farm Family Insurance, PIA, Monro Muffler Brake and Service, Mayone's Wine & Liquors, Schuyler Real Estate, CVS, Estes Express Lines, Wal-Mart, Lowe's, Glenmont Car Wash, Petrol Gas Station, Stewart's Shops, Wendy's Restaurant, and Cumberland Farms. Their generosity was overwhelming, and these donations have allowed us to proceed with our beautification projects more quickly than would otherwise be feasible.

The Town Highway Department, with input from the state DOT, has been extremely helpful in preparing and amending the soil for our gardens, as well as assisting with the actual planting.

Their help and enthusiasm has been most valuable.

Keep your eyes open later this spring for yet another garden to be planted on Delaware Avenue across from Hoffman's Car Wash, next to the "yellow brick road." Again, we will use native plants that are salt, drought and deer resistant, as well as low maintenance.

We hope these gardens will calm the visual stresses of traffic and everyday activity.

We are also eager to develop planting plans in the southern part of town and at other highway entrances and high visibility locations.

Many community residents have told us how much they enjoy the Bethlehem Garden Club's beautification efforts, and that is very gratifying.

As mentioned above, we have funded these projects through our annual Garden Tour and contributions from businesses. Any additional funding would advance the beautification goals of the Garden Club.

Please consider the community value of this effort and support it with any size donation. Please send a contribution to The Bethlehem Garden Club, P.O. Box 485, Delmar 12054.

Mark your calendar for June 15 for this year's Garden Tour.

Let's keep our town blossoming!

Bethlehem kids rally to help tsunami children

Editor, The Spotlight:

We wanted to share with you the extraordinary things that can happen when children want to make a difference in the world.

After the terrible disaster of the tsunami, many children in the Bethlehem community wanted to help. Pushed by our children, local efforts were undertaken throughout the community in many of our schools.

Our children worked hard through January and February and together have made a tremendous impact.

The students from the middle school really embraced the project. The students coordinated a Dollars for Disaster, ran a loose change drive, held a donut sale and Read-a-Thon, hosted a Staff Basketball Charity Game and created Penny Wars where different homerooms competed to raise the most money.

The winning classrooms got to choose the color that Principal Dave Ksanznak had to dye his hair. We understand pink was the winning color.

At Hamagrael Elementary School, students collected donations class by class. Many donations arrived in envelopes stating "Kylie earned $3 by shoveling the walk," "This $10 was Joey's Christmas money" or "This 46.76 was all of the money from Trevor's piggy bank."

The money donated was not a pile of checks written out by parents, but rather came from the hearts of our children. Hamagrael also raised money by hosting a skating party at the YMCA, and the fifth graders donated profits from their school store.

The children from Elsmere Elementary School held a gently used book sale where children donated their gently used books from home. The students held their own book sale with great results!

Glenmont Elementary School raised money through a bake sale, and many children did chores at home to raise additional money. All of the children worked hard and were eager to donate the money they raised.

The youth group from Glenmont Reformed Church recently hosted a luncheon for all the parishioners. The children not only made the lunches but served the lunch as waitstaff.

All profits were donated to a tsunami relief program.

We also know the children from St. Thomas School, Slingerlands Elementary School, the Early Learning Center and Clarksville Elementary School all coordinated their own tsunami relief collections — all with outstanding results.

To date our children in Bethlehem have raised over $9,255 and still counting!

It's exciting children as young as first grade were able to participate and took action to make a difference for hurting children across the globe.

We would like to thank all of the teachers, parents and especially the children who worked together at all of the schools who made such an important contribution. We should all be every proud of our children.

If the next generation is learning that they can make a difference, then the world truly will be a better place.

Taser

On Tuesday the New York State Civil Liberties Union called a press conference and sent a letter to the Guilderland Police Department to announce its opposition to the department's use of the guns on youth at Crossgates Mall. The NYCLU call comes in response to an incident involving two teen-age boys that took place on March 11 at Crossgates Mall.

Tasers used at a distance shoot a 50,000-volt shock into the body, which interrupts the electric shocks that control the voluntary muscle system, causing a suspect to fall down. At close range, as the Tasers were used in the controversial incident, Guilderland Police Lt. Curtis Cox said the shock does not affect the whole body but only a localized area.

Cox and Police Chief James Murley defend their officers' use of the Taser in such situations, saying it prevents injuries to both officers and suspects. In his response to the letter, Murley said that his department continuously reviews its policies, including those concerning Tasers, and that the NYCLU's description of the March 11 events was inconsistent with the facts. Executive director of the Capital District chapter of the NYCLU Melanie Trimble said that her organization's next step would be to request a meeting with the Guilderland Police.

The two sides agree that two teen-age boys were Tased at the mall around 9 p.m. on March 11, but beyond that their accounts of the incident differ substantially. Perhaps more importantly, the two sides have a fundamentally different view of the proper philosophy for Taser use. In its letter the NYCLU called for the stun guns use to occur only one step below the use of lethal force.

"Certainly there are some significant situations in which a stun gun would be better used instead of a gun," Trimble said. But, she added, the Taser is being used in situations where increased verbal negotiation should take place.

But the police see the option differently. One of the main advantages of Tasers, Colonie, Guilderland and Bethlehem police have said, is that they reduce injuries.

Last week, Murley said that department policy allows for Tasers and pepper spray before the use of billy clubs and instead of physical force in some cases, meaning that depending on the situation officers can use the stun gun after verbal commands fail.

This continuum of force mirrors that of the Colonie and Bethlehem police forces.

Like other human rights organizations the NYCLU is calling for the police department to suspend its use of Tasers until more research on their safety are conducted. But Murley said that while the decision to deploy Tasers is difficult to make, his reading of the research suggests that they prevent injuries.

Trimble also said that better training of officers is needed. Guilderland, Colonie and Bethlehem all have training that includes officers learning both about the Taser and having a first-hand experience of it. Only Bethlehem requires an annual re-training of officers on the Taser.

According to the NYCLU, the two boys, Stephen Bishop and Mario Villarreal, had agreed to leave the mall. As they tried to leave, police put them in handcuffs and Tased them, Trimble said.

"The use of near lethal force such as this in minor situations is dangerous, in our opinion, unnecessary, cruel and inhumane," according to the letter sent by Trimble.

Murley and Cox tell a different story. Guilderland police officers repeatedly warned both teens to leave the mall or be arrested. The boys were also warned they would be Tased if they did not comply with police directives. Villarreal was arrested first. Bishop was arrested after following the arrested Villarreal down an escalator and ignoring their orders.

Guilderland's 36 officers have used the Taser 28 times since obtaining four of them in November 2002, Cox said. Police in Colonie with 109 officers have used them 44 times since May 2003, said Lt. John Van Alstyne. In Bethlehem, with a force of 42 officers and 10 stun guns, police have used the Taser twice since spring of 2004, said Lt. Thomas Heffernan Jr.

Comparisons of the two town police forces, despite their similarity in size may not be fair, Heffernan said, because Bethlehem has no equivalent of the crowded Crossgates Mall.

Eagles soar out of the gate with two wins

By FOB JCNAS

One week into the 2005 boys lacrosse season, the Bethlehem Eagles are looking better than they have in a long time.

The Eagles opened the season with back-to-back victories over Shaker and Colonie before suffering a 14-12 non-league loss to Guiderland last Saturday.

"(That) was a pretty disappointing loss," Bethlehem coach

Dave Rounds said. "Early on, we made some mistakes defensively that led to their goals."

Andrew Kelleher has had one of the best individual starts to the season in the Suburban Council. The attackman has 12 goals and seven assists in his first three games.

Rounds said Kelleher wouldn't be doing quite as well if he didn't have help from his teammates, though. Ryan Eder and Matt

The big number:*28

Combined number of goals scored by Andrew Kelleher, Ryan Eder and Matt Johnson in the first week.

"What they've done is they've improved their play so much since last year, teams can't focus on just Kelleher," Rounds said of Eder and Johnson.

Opening the season with a 9-6 victory over Shaker last Tuesday was a welcome change of pace for Bethlehem. The Eagles hadn't defeated the Blue Bison in several years, and three of their last four losses to Shaker have come in overtime.

"We just played pretty good defense," Rounds said. "We got out to an early lead, and once we got our second wind, we shut them down."

The victory over Shaker nearly drained Bethlehem of its energy for Thursday's 14-7 win against Colonie. The Eagles trailed 2-1 after the first quarter, but they picked up the scoring with a seven-goal second quarter to take command.

The Colonie game turned out to be an omen for Bethlehem's non-league contest with Guiderland, though. The Eagles were flat out of the gate again, and the Dutchmen took advantage by outscoring Bethlehem 6-1 in the first 12 minutes.

"We didn't play a great game," Rounds said. "Once we settled our defense down ... we got back into the game."

The Eagles looked to rebound from their first loss when they played Suburban Council newcomer Ballston Spa Tuesday.

"They had a big win against Columbia (last Thursday)," Rounds said. "They've struggled a little bit with Shaker, but I've seen them play a few times and they're pretty good."

Lady Eagles start Tuesday

The Bethlehem girls lacrosse team's season began Tuesday with a Suburban Council game against Shenendehowa.

The Lady Eagles's original opener against Averill Park last Monday was postponed due to poor field conditions. The game will be played April 27.

Veterans lead softball team to undefeated start

By ROB JONAS

The Bethlehem softball team hasn't faced any of the top teams in the Suburban Council yet, but the Lady Eagles are hoping that by that point, they will also be considered one of the best.

Bethlehem is off to a promising start after winning its first two games, including a 6-2 victory over previously unbeaten Guilderland last Friday in its first Gold Division contest.

"I had a lot of players coming back, so I thought we would be competitive in the league," Bethlehem coach Deb Elmendorf said.

Bethlehem finds itself in a revamped Gold Division after the Suburban Council went to a three-division format with the addition of Ballston Spa. The Lady Eagles are paired with Guilderland, Niskayuna and perennial power Columbia.

"I think it's a good spot for us to be in," Elmendorf said. "Our goal is to win enough games to get into Sectionals and take it from there, as always."

Though the Lady Eagles have a veteran line-up, they are breaking in two new pitchers after Katie Dombrowski elected not to return to the pitcher's circle. Dombrowski has since switched to first base, where she joins veteran infielders Kate Fischer (second base), Dana Affinati (shortstop) and Erin Fitzpatrick (third base).

"I think that we're very strong defensively," Elmendorf said. "I think the outfield is pretty tight, and the infield is very tight."

"I think they both have their own style ... and I think there's just some variety there," Elmendorf said of her new pitching rotation.

Bethlehem faced a tough test Monday when it played another Suburban Council power, Saratoga. The Lady Eagles close the week with games against Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake and Niskayuna, both of which are still searching for their first win.

Safe at home

With vacation approaching, parents may be considering leaving their pre-teen or teen-age children home alone for short periods. Here are some things to discuss ahead of time to keep them safe:

- Develop and review emergency plans. These plans should be kept near the phone. Include home address and phone number, a phone number to reach you and a trusted neighbor to contact if needed
- Make sure your child know how to use 911 for police and medical emergencies
- Make a list of safe activities that your child can do while alone at home
- Have simple snacks available that don't need appliances to prepare them
- Leave a flashlight on the counter in case of a power outage.
- Discuss with your child what they should do if the phone rings, if someone rings the doorbell or if they get scared. Answer questions they may have such as, "Can friends visit? Can I play outside? Can I use the microwave?"

Challenger baseball league starts second season May 7

Colonie Little League is hosting the New York District 13 Challenger Division program for the second consecutive year.

The program — a separate division of Little League Baseball — is open to children age 5 to 18 in Albany County with mental or physical disabilities.

Teams are set up according to abilities, rather than age, and can include as many as 15 to 20 players. There are three levels available: tee ball, coach pitch and player pitch.

Last year, more than 30 children participated in the Challenger Division program at Colonie Little League.

"We would like to double that number this year," program director Mark Keegan said. "Anyone with a disability that prevents them from participating in the other Little League programs is eligible, including children in wheelchairs. We will not turn anyone away."

The season begins Saturday, May 7, at 10 a.m. at Colonie's Cook Park. It concludes June 11, and there will be an awards picnic June 18.

For information or to register, contact Mark Keegan at 869-7020 or Milt Schmidt at 869-8445. Registration forms are also available at www.coloniell.com.

Wildcats win shootout

The Capital Wildcats 14-and-under basketball team completed an undefeated run through the Adirondack Community College Timberwolves' Spring Shootout by defeating Guilderland in the finals. The team is, from left, (front) Sam Clement, Bobby Smith, Riley McGraw and Will Baynes; and (back) coach Packy McGraw, Donald Wilson, Andrew Clement, Tom Bell, Kevin Wendth and Ryan Prinzo.

* The 4-month introductory rate of 2.99% APR is the corresponding APR for variable rate advances for the first 4 billing cycles only if variable rate advances totaling at least $10,000 (exclusive of variable rate advances used to repay a residential mortgage loan from us in whole or part) are obtained when the line of credit is opened. After the first 4 billing cycles, the corresponding APR for variable rate advances may vary from one billing cycle to the next based on changes in the prime rate but will not exceed 15.9% and, subject to that cap, will be the prime rate minus .50% if the line of credit is from $50,000 to $250,000 and the variable rate advances obtained when the line of credit is opened total at least $10,000 (exclusive of variable rate advances used to repay a residential mortgage loan from us in whole or part) or the prime rate minus .25% if the line of credit is from $25,000 to $49,999 and the variable rate advances obtained when the line of credit is opened total at least $10,000 (exclusive of variable rate advances used to repay a residential mortgage loan from us in whole or part). (The prime rate for any billing cycle is the highest prime rate published by The Wall Street Journal in its "Money Rates" table on our last business day of the month before the month in which the billing cycle begins.) If the line of credit is from $10,000 to $24,999 or the variable rate advances obtained when the line of credit is opened total less than $10,000, the corresponding APR for variable rate advances may vary from one billing cycle to the next based on changes in the prime rate but will not exceed 15.9% and, subject to that cap, will be the prime rate plus .50%, beginning with the first billing cycle. The corresponding APR for any fixed rate loan will be a fixed rate that will be based on the prime rate for the billing cycle in which we receive the request for the loan. The fixed rate will be the prime rate plus 2.50% if the term of the loan is 12 to 72 months or the prime rate plus 2.75% if the term is 73 to 180 months. As of 3/31/05, a corresponding APR of the prime rate minus .50% was 5.25%, a corresponding APR of the prime rate minus .25% was 5.50%, a corresponding APR of the prime rate plus .50% was 6.25%, a corresponding APR of the prime rate plus 2.50% was 8.25%, and a corresponding APR of the prime rate plus 2.75% was 8.50%. The rates shown are available to new line of credit customers only. The rates shown assume that the ratio of the amount of the line of credit to the appraised value of the property securing it does not exceed 80% and that minimum payments under the line of credit are automatically deducted from a checking account with us; higher rates will apply if the ratio exceeds 80% or the minimum payments are not automatically deducted. You must carry insurance on the property that secures the line of credit. If we require mortgagee title insurance to open the line of credit, the fee for the insurance generally totals between $324 (for a $10,000 line) and $1,125 (for a $250,000 line). If the property that secures the line of credit is owned by a trust, you must pay $200 to our attorney to review the document creating the trust. If the line of credit is less than $15,000, there are additional fees to open it that generally total between $175 (for a $10,000 line) and $217.50 (for a $14,999 line). Beginning with the 13th billing cycle and every 12th billing cycle after that during the period you may obtain variable rate advances, you must pay us an annual fee of $50 if at the end of the billing cycle the total of all outstanding variable rate advances and all outstanding principal of fixed rate loans is less than 25% of the credit limit for the line of credit. You must pay us a lock-in fee of $50 for each fixed rate loan. If the line of credit is $15,000 or more and you cancel it within 4 years after the date it is opened, you must reimburse us for certain fees we pay to third parties in connection with its opening. Those fees generally total between $317.50 (for a $15,000 line) and $2,075 (for a $250,000 line). We reserve the right at any time without any prior notice to change rates, fees and other features of the home equity lines of credit we offer. Consult your tax advisor for details on the tax deductibility of interest on the line of credit.

Bethlehem Library notes National Library Week with display

This is National Library Week, and we will be joining other libraries in the region at the Empire State Plaza Concourse Tuesday through Thursday, April 12 to 14, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Exhibit tables will highlight Bethlehem Public Library programs, services and staff. If you're downtown this week, look for us — at the Capitol Building end of the Concourse or at the entrance to the nearby Legislative Office Building.

This is the third year of this celebration of New York State libraries, library systems and related organizations at the Empire State Plaza.

The event is sponsored by the

Check It Out Bethlehem Public Library

New York State Legislature and the New York State Library.

Upcoming programs

• Guitarist Erik Sootes will perform original music from his latest CD, Spring, at the library this Sunday, April 17, at 2 p.m., accompanied by a slide show of complementary images.

Sootes holds a Ph.D. in music theory from St. Petersburg Conservatory of Music. At age 18, he won first prize in the International Guitar Competition. He writes and arranges music for guitar, participates in music festivals, teaches and performs across the United States.

The concert is sponsored by Bethlehem Senior Projects.

• Some exotic, mysterious and very real animals will accompany youngsters on an imaginary trek into the rainforest next Tuesday, April 19, at 2 p.m.

Presenter Beth Bidwell is an educator with the Wildlife Institute of Eastern New York, which participates in the BOCES Exploratory Enrichment Program.

The program is appropriate for grades K and up.

Call 439-9314 to register for these events.

Exhibits in April

This month, the Bethlehem Art Association exhibit works in a variety of media at its semiannual art show in our entrance hallways.

The hallway exhibit case holds a variety of pitchers from the collections of staff members Susan Baker and Janis Dominelli. Both have been collecting pitchers for many years; some are family heirlooms.

The simplicity, functionality and historical quality of these elegant items make for an attractive display.

The youth services case features Emily Bianchine's models and memorabilia of that lovable lizard, "Godzilla, King of the Monsters."

Bus trip reminder

Friends of Bethlehem Public Library is sponsoring a bus trip to Boston on Saturday, May 14.

Reservation deadline is May 2. Cost is $32 for members and $35 for nonmembers.

The Way Out.

Steroids

has doubled in the last decade. He said by those numbers, anywhere from 5 to 10 percent of high school athletes are using steroids.

Athletic directors at Voorheesville, Shaker, Ballston Spa, Guiderland and Scotia-Glenville high schools said that they haven't seen any recent indications of steroid use among their athletes, but Scotia-Glenville Athletic Director Tom Bried said that doesn't mean it isn't a problem.

"We've had a couple of cases over the last 15 years where we have been aware and caught it, but is it continuing? I'm not naïve enough to say no," Bried said.

Ballston Spa Athletic Director Art Cotugno said though he's had his suspicions over his 27 years as an educator, he's never had definitive proof that any of his school's athletes have used steroids.

"Steroid use is detectable. There are certain things you can look for — sudden weight gain, acne on the back, violent mood swings," Cotugno said. "You're not going to see a kid injecting themselves with steroids in public."

"Always at our preseason meetings, I tell my coaches to keep an eye out for signs of use of steroids or supplements, but other than that we don't test," Guiderland Athletic Director Wayne Bertrand said. "Our strength and conditioning coach, Craig Jensen, is very good at keeping an eye on that stuff. He knows everything that goes on in that weight room."

Over-the-counter supplements are another concern, said Voorheesville athletic director and varsity football coach Joe Sapienza.

"We advise them not to use them, and we've had discussions with certain parents and athletes about not using them because they're under the assumption that if I can go and purchase this stuff over the counter, that it's 100 percent safe," Sapienza said.

"We have had in the past one (steroid case) years ago, but we've tried to do a lot of education here," Shaker athletic director David Herman said. "One of the things we've recently talked about (to the student-athletes) is Creatine use."

The five school athletic directors surveyed all said steroids are covered in their schools' athlete codes of conduct, which all students involved in sports must sign before they can play on a team. However, it is not specifically mentioned in those codes of conduct.

"We have our policy that includes illegal drugs, and steroids fall under that category," Herman said. "So, we would consider that an illegal drug."

Without it being specifically mentioned in the athletes code of conduct, Bried and Herman said there is the possibility that an athlete could construe that to mean it is acceptable to use steroids. But, Bried said that he and his coaches make it clear to the athletes that steroids are unacceptable.

"What we also do is that we have a parent-student orientation before each season where steroids are mentioned verbally," Bried said. "And in the coach's handbook, we mention steroids so that coaches have some information — both the pros and the cons because there are some obvious pros, but also some very serious cons with regard to health issues. The cons do outweigh the pros."

Information on steroids' effects isn't as complete as Svare would like it to be, mainly because the federal government hasn't done enough to fund research, he said.

"Back in 1988 following the Ben Johnson Olympic steroid scandal, I was picked to be a member of the National Institute of Drug Abuse," Svare said. "I was picked to be on their technical review board, along with other leading scientists. We convened for a period of three days, listening to experts about what was known and what wasn't known. What was known was very little, even though there was evidence of use of steroids before World War II. Now, people were concerned because of what happened with Ben Johnson.

"The conclusion of our committee was we had to sink more money into research so we can learn about what effect those things have. The amount of money spent on research has not changed much since then. What that means is we are lagging behind what the (pro) athletes know, and what they know is a lot."

Federal funds are also in short supply for another thing Svare wants — education programs on steroids for schools.

"Just because (Congress is) having hearings now (on steroids in pro sports) doesn't mean there's going to be money for research or for educators to come up with preventative programs," he said.

Representative John Sweeney, R-Clifton Park, is hoping to change that. He is introducing legislation into the House of Representatives that would create a federally funded national program to educate children about steroids.

"I've got an appropriation bill to be run first as a demonstration project through the ONDCP (Office of National Drug Control Policy) and Health and Human Services for fifth graders," Sweeney said. "But in order to catch up, it will go from fifth grade up to 12th grade, as well as their teachers and coaches."

For now, the task of educating students about steroids up to the individual school districts.

"The best way to battle this is to educate our students about the dangers of steroids," Cotugno said. "What we just have to get through to kids is that in the short time they have to participate in sports, as compared to the rest of their lives, it's not worth it." While Shaker and Voorheesville talk to their athletes about the dangers involved with steroids and other supplements, Scotia-Glenville takes matters to another level by including a section on the subject in their health curriculum.

"When they talk about drugs, that should be included," Bried said. "It would be silly not to include it, what with all the dangers that they have reported on."

Moratorium

The language allows for a semi-productive building season, board members said, which was an issue Marcelle had brought up at the last meeting. "This is a big help (in getting developers' shovels in the ground before the end of the building season)," board member Tim Gordon said.

Republican board member George Lenhardt noted the eventual passage of this law could be indicative of something less tangible. "This is an excellent example of public debate in action. We set a goal, and as a result of discussion, we met the goal, while at the same time addressing the needs of developers, board members, residents," Lenhardt said. "I like that it places emphasis on an event rather than being time specific."

Board member Daniel Plummer agreed the language was "very fair." About an hour-and-a-half after the board passed the extension, the planning board, holding a regular meeting, heard a presentation from Egan and Leveille bringing them up to speed on the planning process. On March 21, the Bethlehem Planning Advisory Committee, the group mandated with developing the comprehensive plan, voted 7-1 to send the draft on to the town board. The town board is reviewing the bulky document — Egan said Lenhardt has read the document cover to cover — including an executive summary that was added recently to clear up any confusion and to key to the main objectives.

If there are any inconsistencies between the language in the body of the draft plan and the executive summary, town officials and residents can look to the executive summary language, Egan said. A schedule of expected progression for the next few months, along with the final draft of the plan that the town board will vote on, is on the town's Web site, www.townofbethlehem.org. BPAC is currently looking at the zoning codes of the town, not to rewrite but to solve inconsistencies with what town officials have called "outdated" zoning codes.

Daughter

Samaritan Hospital in Troy, where she was admitted on April 7 from 180 Columbia St. in Cohoes after an apparent attempted drug overdose. Thompson, formerly Balashek's son Corey Wayne who has a previous manslaughter conviction, is being held in Albany County Correctional Facility without bail. Campbell said that Thompson was cleared by mental health officials and is not under a suicide watch. A preliminary hearing was scheduled in New Scotland for Monday afternoon, though Campbell said Thompson's attorney, E. Stewart Jones, possibly waived it.

Efforts to reach Jones and the Albany County District Attorney's office were unsuccessful. There is no indictment yet.

"There is no testimony, yet, for the grand jury," Campbell said. Grand jury proceedings will be going on this week, but Campbell couldn't speculate whether this case would make it.

Police attribute the arrest to more than 150 interviews and 220 leads, including statements allegedly made by her to her friends and evidence secured by the police.

"We don't know if (the 220 leads) is a lot because we don't have that many murders," Campbell said. "We conducted 150 interviews, which is a lot, but we've had help from the State Police. They've been working with us from the beginning."

The Albany County Sheriff's Department never publicly named a suspect, though they said Thompson was a person of interest in the case.

"We never want to name a suspect, let's say, until the time all of the evidence is collected," Campbell said.

More arrests could follow, Campbell said. No subsequent arrests would have anything to do with the physical murder itself, Campbell said. "It would have to do with individuals who lied during the course of the investigation," Campbell said.

A letter to the community from Dr. Clifford H. Casey

After 46 years of practicing medicine in the nicest village I know, the time has come for me to retire.

Effective June 1, I'll call it quits. My wife, Shirley, and I plan to travel, spend time at our house in Maine and watch our six grandchildren grow.

It's been a privilege to have been invited into so many of your lives and has given me memories that will last forever. Over these years, patients change into friends.

We're grateful to have lived and worked in a place like Voorheesville and to have raised our two sons in its friendly environment. We've watched the community grow, but keep its small-town charm. It's an orderly place that values family, neighbors and education. I owe a great deal to the many who have made it so.

The years have sped by like the freight trains down at the crossing; but unlike those trains, we plan to stay right here among friends in the white house across from the park.

I will be glad to help you transfer records to new doctors. Please supply me with a written release and give me a call.

Ravena library plans spring vacation break activities

Craft activities will be held Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 1 to 3 p.m. during the spring vacation break at the Ravena Coeymans Selkirk Community Library. Come when you can.

Barbara Goetschius will be your craft guru.

Story time with Lori Nunziato will be held Wednesday at 11 a.m. The story time is a special multi-age program that school-age children as well as little ones will enjoy.

Continuing activities

• Preschool Stories & Crafts for Kids with Miss Kathy continues through the school year on Thursday at 11 a.m.

• Romp & Read with Miss Lori continues its neighborhood schedule for very young children and their caregivers. The Romp & Read schedule is: Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Selkirk Fire House; Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at A.W. Becker School; Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at P.B. Coeymans School; and Fridays at 10 a.m. at Ravena Coeymans Selkirk Community Library.

Both story hours follow the RCS school district calendar.

• Wednesday Chess for school-age children meets from 3:45 to 5 p.m. at the library. Josh Meyer presents puzzles or teaches new skills and strategies at 4 p.m. We have a dozen elementary age players. Some are beginners and some are familiar with the game. Our middle school players are looking for more experienced challengers.

We'll meet during spring vacation week. For information, call Judy Felsten at 756-2053.

Budget hearing May 9

The library director and trustees will present the library's 2005-2006 budget at the Ravena High School during the school district's budget hearing.

The library trustees and budget are completely separate issues from school district items but appear on the same ballot on May 17.

The budget hearing is a week earlier on Monday, May 9, at 7 p.m.

Book sale in June

The library is planning to have a book sale on June 4, Village

Yard Sale day.

During May, donations of books in good condition will be welcome. Storage space is very limited until then. As always, we cannot accept encyclopedias or textbooks.

Graffman performs with ASO

The Albany Symphony Orchestra and Music Director and Conductor David Alan Miller will present "Glorious Graffman!" on Friday, April 15, 8 p.m. at the Troy Savings Bank Music Hall. The event features celebrated left hand pianist, Gary Graffman.

Graffman has been a major figure in the music world since winning the prestigious Leventritt Award in 1949. For the next three decades he toured almost continuously, playing the most demanding works in the piano literature both in recital and with the world's great orchestras. In 1979, however, Mr. Graffman's performing career was curtailed by an injury to his right hand. His performances are now limited to the small but brilliant repertoire of concertos written for the left hand alone, most of them commissioned early in the century by Paul Wittgenstein, who lost his right arm in World War I. Graffman promises to delight ASO concertgoers with his performance of Ravel's Piano Concerto for the Left Hand.

The concerts also includes Chris Theofanidis's "Rainbow Body," and ASO's world premiere of Stephen Dankner's Dark unto Light and Shostakovich's Symphony No. 6. Vanguard-Albany Symphony, the volunteer auxiliary which serves and supports the Albany Symphony Orchestra, invites the public to bring lunch and a friend and join Miller and guest composers and soloists for an entertaining hour, discussing the upcoming "Glorious Graffman" on Thursday, April 14, at noon at the Albany Public Library. Coffee and desserts will be served.

In addition, Maestro Miller and guest composers and soloists, conduct a free informal 30-minute talk one hour before the upcoming Glorious Graffman Concert on Friday, April 15, 7 p.m. at the Arts Center of the Capital Region, 265 River Street, Troy.

Advance ticket sales for "Glorious Graffman" are available by calling the Troy Savings Bank Music Hall at 273-0038.

On April 23, the world's most famous detective will appear once again on the stage of the New York State Theatre Institute in a world premiere mystery-comedy, Sherlock's Legacy, by NYSTI's Associate Artistic Director Ed. Lange. The production officially opens on April 24, in the Schacht Fine Arts on the Russell Sage College and runs through Saturday, May 7.

The new play takes place in 1920 after Holmes has retired to his country cottage overlooking the English Channel and taken up the peaceful life of beekeeping. He and his old friend and colleague, Dr. John Watson, both in their sixties, are enjoying a relaxing game of chess when Daria, a teenage neighbor bursts in with exciting news. Before long, Holmes' peaceful retirement is shattered by murder, danger, and a mystery more twisting than the morning glory vines in his garden.

Sherlock's Legacy was written by Ed. Lange whose other plays for NYSTI include the book for the musical drama Magna Carta, stage adaptations of two mysteries by Mary Higgins Clark, Bye Baby Bunting, and The Body in the Closet, and the historical drama, The Heart of Troy.

NYSTI brings new Holmes mystery-comedy to stage

The show will run at 8 p.m. on April 23 and 30 and May 1, 6 and 7. There will be a 2 p.m. on April 24.

Tickets are $20 for adults and $10 for children through age 12, with a discount from the adult price for senior citizens and students. A $10 "student rush" ticket, depending upon seating availability, is offered 30 minutes before curtain time. Special rates are available for groups of 10 or more. The production is recommended for ages 11 and older.

Performances will take place at the Schacht Fine Arts Center in Troy. Information is available through the NYS Theatre Institute Box Office (voice and TDD), 274-3256 and their Web site at www.nysti.org.

Will your bones live as long as you do?

Osteoporosis threatens 28 million American men and women, causing their bones to deteriorate and weaken. The scary part is, the disease can develop unnoticed over many years - so the time to prevent it is now. Include an abundance of calcium and vitamin D in your diet. Avoid smoking and excessive alcohol use. And perform weight-bearing exercises like walking, jogging or dancing, every day. To learn more, call 1-800-824-BONES, visit www.aaos.org, or visit www.nof.org.

upper gymnasium of the Bethlehem Central Middle School, 332 Kenwood Avenue, Delmar, Albany County, New York, at which time the polls will be opened to vote by voting machine on the following items:

1. To adopt the annual budget of the Bethlehem Central School District for the fiscal year 2005-2006 and to authorize the requisite portion therefore to be raised by taxation on the taxable property of the District.

2. To elect three (3) members of the Board of Education to a three (3) year term commencing on July 1, 2005 and expiring on June 30, 2008 to succeed Jonathan Bartow, Warren Stoker and Robin Storey, whose terms expire on June 30, 2005.

3. To adopt the annual amount to be raised by taxation on the taxable property of the District for the Bethlehem Public Library.

4. To elect three (3) trustees to the Board of Trustees of the Bethlehem Public Library, two (2) for a five (5) year term commencing on July 1, 2005 and expiring on June 30, 2010 to succeed Aaron Baldwin and John Hathaway, whose terms expire on June 30, 2005; and one (1) for a partial two (2) year term commencing on July 1, 2005 and expiring on June 30, 2007, to complete the unexpired portion of a vacancy created by the resignation of Randy Fisher.

5. To vote on the following propositions:

PROPOSITION #2
RESOLVED, that the Board of Education of the Bethlehem Central School District, is hereby authorized to (1) acquire school vehicles at a cost not to exceed $844,000, which is estimated to be the maximum cost thereof, (2) expend such sum for such purpose, (3) levy the tax necessary therefor, to be levied and collected in annual installments in such years and in such amounts as may be determined by the Board of Education, taking into account state aid received, and (4) in anticipation of the collection of such tax, to issue bonds and notes of the District at one time or from time to time in the principal amount not to exceed $844,000, or enter into a lease-purchase agreement at a principal amount not to exceed $844,000 to acquire such vehicles.

6. To transact such other business as may properly come before the meeting pursuant to the Education Law of the State of New York. The election and budget vote shall be by voting machine or absentee ballot. The hours during which the polls shall be kept open shall be from 7:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. prevailing time or for as long thereafter as necessary to enable qualified voters who are in the polling place at 9:00 p.m. to cast their ballots. AND FURTHER NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a copy of the statement of the amount of money which will be required to fund the School District's budget for the 2005-2006 school year, exclusive of public monies, may be obtained by any taxpayer in the District during the fourteen days immediately preceding the Annual Meeting except Saturdays, Sundays or holidays, at the Educational Services center, 90 Adams Place, Delmar, New York, and the offices of each Elementary School, the Middle School, and the High School of the District between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., prevailing time and also at said District Election.

AND FURTHER NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT petitions nominating candidates for the office of member of the Board of Education and for the office of Trustee of the Bethlehem Public Library shall be filed with the District Clerk at the District Clerk's office at the Educational Services Center, 90 Adams Place, Delmar, New York, not later than April 18, 2005 at 5:00 p.m. Each petition must be directed to the District Clerk, must be signed by at least sixty-two (62) qualified voters of the District and must state the name and residence of the candidate.

LEGAL NOTICE

A copy of such petitions may be obtained at the Office of District Clerk in the Bethlehem Central School during regular school hours. AND FURTHER NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that applications for absentee ballots will be obtainable between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, except holidays, from the District Clerk. Completed applications for absentee ballots must be received by the District Clerk at least seven (7) days prior to the vote if the ballot is to be mailed to the voter, or the day before the election, if the ballot is to be delivered personally to the voter. Absentee ballots must be received by the District Clerk not later than 5:00 p.m. on May 17, 2005.

A list of all persons to whom absentee ballots shall have been issued will be available in the office of the District Clerk from 8:30 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. prevailing time on each of the five days prior to the day of the election, except Saturday, May 14 and Sunday, May 15, 2005, and on the day set for the election. Any qualified voter may challenge the acceptance of the ballot of any person on such list by making his/her challenge and reasons therefor known to the Inspector of Election before the close of the polls.

AND FURTHER NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the qualified voters of the School District shall be entitled to vote in said annual vote and election. A qualified voter is one who is (1) a citizen of the United States of America, (2) eighteen (18) years of age or older, and (3) resident with the School District for a period of thirty (30) days next preceding the annual vote and election. The School District may require all persons offering to vote at the budget vote and election to provide one form of proof of residency pursuant to Education Law section 2018-c. Such form may include a driver's license, a non-driver identification card, a utility bill, or a voter registration card. Upon offer of proof of residency, the School District may also require all persons offering to vote to provide their signature, printed name and address.

AND FURTHER NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that pursuant to a policy adopted by the Board of Education in accordance with Sections 2035 and 2008 of the Education Law, any referendum or proposition to amend the budget, or otherwise to be submitted for voting at said vote and election, must be filed with the Board of Election at the Bethlehem Central School on or before April 18, 2005 at 5:00 p.m., prevailing time; must be typed or printed in the English language; must be directed to the Clerk of the School District; must be signed by at least two hundred fifteen (215) of the qualified voters of the District; and must state the name and residence of each signer. However, the School Board will not entertain or place before the voters any proposition if its purpose is beyond the power of the voters or is illegal, or any proposition requiring the expenditure of moneys which fails to include specific appropriations for all such expenditures required by the proposition or any proposition which must be included in this notice of the annual meeting and was not received at least 60 days prior to the annual meeting.

For many children the chance to grow up and live a normal life depends upon receiving complex heart surgery performed only at advanced centers like the Heart Institute of Albany Med.

The look of a hero.

With success rates comparable to the best centers in the world — exceeding 98% — the Heart Institute gives new hope to so many of our young patients and their families. Albany Med's commitment to continuous learning and recruiting highly qualified specialists has created a team that provides children with access to life-saving treatment before it's available elsewhere. That commitment has been rock solid for nearly fifty years. And it's why I'm here.
