Changes bring rewards

Bethlehem receives $776k grant from state efficiency program

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

The Town of Bethlehem was the only municipality in the Capital District to receive a share of efficiency grants handed out by the state last week.

The town received $776,107 through the state's Local Government Performance and Efficiency Program. The grant was officially received for "departmental restructuring of the town's payment system and maintenance staff," but Supervisor John Clarkson said it was specifically for consolidation efforts between the Parks and Recreation and Highway Departments.

Clarkson said the decision was made last year to move four employees of the Parks and Recreation Department into the Highway Department. Those employees still work a majority of the time as park employees, but by making the change those same workers can also help plow snow in the winter.

"We felt it was a way for those people to be better utilized," said Clarkson.

Bethlehem first applied for the grant through the efforts of a graduate intern who recognized the town may have fit the requirements.

Other considerations submitted by the town were about $445,000 saved through the attrition of six employees,

Town, police settle dispute

Agreement over staffing levels involves undisclosed monetary settlement

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

The Town of Bethlehem and one of its police unions have come to an agreement after several of the department's detectives filed a grievance against the town.

In April of 2012, a grievance of improper practice was filed through the state's Public Employment Relations Board because detectives felt they had to spend an excessive amount of time on call due to staff shortages. After positions were eliminated through attrition, there were only two detectives in the department's adult unit with a third on sick leave. There are an additional two detectives in the department's Family Service's Unit.

"An officer's life can be greatly affected if they're constantly on call," said Bethlehem Police Benevolent Association President Officer Mike Berben. "They can't travel with their family or have a drink if they want. They needed to be compensated in some way."

The town's Director of Human Resources Mary Tremblay-Glassman said based on the successful contract the town and PBA agreed to in March of this year, town officials thought it was in everyone's best interest to try to negotiate instead of going

UAlbany unveils RNA Institute

State-of-the art facility will be home to genetic research on Alzheimer's, HIV, cancer and more

By ZAN STRUMFELD
strumfeldz@spotlightnews.com

A unique, state-of-the-art concept turned into a reality Tuesday, June 11, when the University at Albany opened the doors to its brand new biomedical technology development facility.

After three years of building the $9.4 million project, the RNA Institute at the University of Albany is ready to be the home of work on drug discovery, technology development and diagnostics. The 15,000-square-foot building will house 60 biomedical scientists, technicians and administrative employees in the north wing of the Life Science Research building on the university's uptown campus.

The institute is set up to focus on RNA, or ribonucleic acid, which is a fundamental molecule that plays a vital role in all living organisms. Researchers will concentrate on treatments for viruses, infections and diseases including MRSA, Alzheimer's, HIV/AIDS, ALS and some of the more difficult types of cancers.

Several university and state officials spoke before a large crowd at the unveiling of the new facility. The institute secured $32.7 million in combined public and private investments through state, federal, corporate and the university partners for the project, including $15.4 million in NYSUNY 2020 and University at Albany investments. NYSTAR matched $400,000 to the $5.4 million NIH American Recovery and Reinvestment Act construction award. The Capital Region Economic Development Council designated work on the facility as a priority project.

In 2012, the institute received a $2 million grant from Empire State Development as part of Gov. Andrew Cuomo's Regional Economic Development Council initiative. He also connected the new facility to his Tax-Free NY proposal, under which businesses located on and partnering with universities would operate tax-free.

"The 'Tax-Free NY' model will help the RNA Institute and similar centers across the state to take the next step in becoming economic hubs for innovation and commercialization, attracting new business and investment to Upstate New York," Cuomo said in a statement.

Partnerships with global corporations have also been established, including computers provided by Dell, Inc., rare online molecular libraries and a student-venture program.

Congressman Paul Tonko called the new facility a "golden crown jewel for the campus at Albany."

"What we're delivering here, in my opinion, is hope: the greatest commodity that government can help inspire," he said.

Inside the facility, natural lighting fills the labs. RNA Institute Director Paul F. Agris said the innovative building has moveable walls, a heat recovery system and will meet Silver LEED certification requirements for energy efficiency. Every surface of the facility, including the countertops and floors, can tolerate nitric acid.

Some of the work that will be done in the facility includes developing probes to image RNA in cells, RNA's control of gene expression and virology.

Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences Elga Wulfert said she couldn't contain her excitement for the project.

"We have come a long way in a very short period of time and we have much to celebrate," she said.

While the institute is still waiting to receive its instrumentation, it will officially open and be fully staffed by this fall. The institute is also affiliated with 57 other labs and 350 researchers nationwide, including Binghamton University, Yale and Williams College.

RNA Biochemist Ronald Breaker described the new institute as a race car.

"You have some of the best pieces of equipment. What do you do with a race car? You drive it hard. Go out, be creative. But don't break it, we want it back," Breaker said. "RNA biologists, start your engines."

Old Songs plucking on

Acoustic roots music festival welcomes families, keeps traditions alive

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

Music's unplugged roots might seem a far cry from today's auto-tuned, bass bumping pop music, but this weekend you don't have to dig too far to find them.

Traditional acoustic music will once again be played at the 33rd annual Old Songs Music Festival, which kicks off Friday, June 28, at 3 p.m. and ends Sunday night at the Altamont Fairgrounds. There are three larger concerts held each day and during Saturday and Sunday, there will be around 120 performances, dances and workshops. Performances will feature the genres of folk, blues, world, bluegrass, old-time, Gospel and Celtic music, but listening to music is only part of the festival.

Old Songs is a "musical petting zoo" that allows anyone to get their hands on a variety of folk instruments, including in an Artisan Area, which includes instruments makers. In between activities, you can also visit a diverse range of food concessions offering many different cuisines.

Roger Mock, art director for Old Songs, said the festival started after the Fox Hollow Folk Festival in Vermont ended in 1980 after it ran annually for 14 years.

"That festival was a real gem at the time, people went to it especially for traditional music as opposed to the singer-songwriter movement that was growing at the time," Mock said. "That community has stayed central to our festival and has grown over the years ... generations have been to it now."

Andy Spence started Old Songs along with her husband, Bill, in 1981. The community around the festival is what has kept it going for more than three decades, Mock said.

"It has a very strong community sewn through it. It is like a magical little community that happens overnight and then goes on for three days."

At the festival, you'll likely hear the same style of music you would have heard years ago, Mock said, because it's still music that's "under the radar" and is generally not played on most radio stations or television.

Typically, around 3,000 people attend the festival, with peak attendance topping out around 4,000 in recent history. Mock said people wouldn't feel "overwhelmed" going to the "nice little festival."

But what really sets Old Songs apart is interactivity. Through workshops, singalongs and dances, the audience gets a chance to be a part of the festival and not just spectate.

Lea Gilmore, who is performing Sunday, will also lead a series of Gospel Choir sessions that culminate with the attendees performing a few songs at the festival. She, along with other performers, is also a leading a Gospel Sing.

This will be Gilmore's third time at the festival, which she said is an "amazing gathering of musicians and talent." Gilmore said the festival is above all simply just fun.

"I'm looking forward to just being surrounded by so much great music from all around the world. The audience is so appreciative of the music," Gilmore said. "They come to this festival to hear all different types of music ... there is something for everyone here."

Gilmore is a classically trained pianist and an award-winning blues, gospel and jazz singer. She has also appeared in more than 45 musical and dramatic theater productions.

One fond festival memory she has is watching the gospel choir perform on stage even as the electricity went out.

"There was so much joy, so much pride and I will never forget that feeling of oneness and unity that was created during that moment," she said. "It was just a magical feeling. We often hear so much bad news, so to have a weekend of just joy from different cultures is like a utopia."

Gilmore also remembers an older woman coming up to her after the performance and thanking her for "changing her life." The woman told Gilmore that she could now express herself and not be ashamed to do it.

"We are doing a lot more than ... just singing some songs," Gilmore said.

Tickets are now on sale, with discounts offered for seniors and students. Adult tickets for Friday and Sunday are $40. Saturday tickets are $70, but a $30 refund is offered to anyone who leaves before 7 p.m. If you are planning to attend all three days, all-festival tickets can be purchased at a discounted price. Children 12 years old or younger get in for free.

Police Blotter

Ravena man charged with sex act against 14-year-old

Coeymans police have arrested a 20-year-old man who allegedly forced a 14-year-old girl “to perform sexual acts” at knifepoint. Police charged John Deyo, of Ravena, with criminal sex act in the third degree, a felony, and the misdemeanors of two counts of menacing in the second degree and two counts of endangering the welfare of a child.

Police said the victim had reported the incident to a friend’s parents, who took her to the police. It is alleged Deyo had asked a 15-year-old to threaten a witness with the same knife used in the incident, then directly threatened the witness himself with the knife.

Coeymans Police Chief Gregory Darlington said the incident did not involve intercourse, and that the alleged victim knew Deyo. He said other charges may be filed, but police do not think there are any other victims.

Deyo was arraigned in the Village of Ravena Court and remanded to the Albany County jail without bail. He was scheduled to return to court for a felony preliminary hearing on Tuesday, June 25.

Vehicle stolen from funeral home

Guiderland police stopped an Albany man for a traffic violation only to discover he had allegedly stolen a vehicle from a funeral home and possessed other stolen items.

Police said Rayshawn R. Cole, 23, of Albany, left Fredendall Funeral Home in Altamont and traveled down Route 146 into Guiderland Center on Thursday, May 16. Police stopped Cole for failing to keep right, stopping in the road and passing a red light. Police then discovered Cole was wanted by the Albany Police Department.

An investigation led Guiderland police to determine Cole allegedly stole the vehicle from the funeral home. Cole also stole a 32-inch flat screen TV, Playstation, Playstation games and an Apple laptop from an apartment he was visiting, according to police.

Cole was arrested and charged with grand larceny in the fourth degree, a felony, with the filing of further charges expected.

Thruway stop results in pot bust

State Police arrested a Brooklyn man on drug charges after he was pulled over for speeding in the Town of Coeymans.

Police pulled over a 2006 Infiniti G35 sedan on the Thruway at about 9:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 20. The driver, Ismael Almontaser, 20, was allegedly driving 93 in a 65 mph zone. Police said he handed over an incorrect driver’s license and gave a false name. After detecting a “very strong” odor of marijuana, police searched the car and allegedly discovered a large black duffle bag containing 14 pounds of marijuana that was broken up between 13 packages.

Almontaser was charged with criminal possession of marijuana in the first degree, a felony, criminal impersonation in the second degree, a misdemeanor, and several vehicle and traffic law infractions.

Almontaser was arraigned in Coeymans Town Court and remanded to Albany County jail without bail. He is scheduled to reappear in court on Tuesday, June 25.

Other arrests

Guiderland police arrested William E. Leary, 57, of 117 Arcadia Ave. in Albany, and charged him with driving while ability impaired by drugs on Sunday, June 9, at approximately 9:58 p.m. Henry Klein, an off-duty Coeymans police officer, called police and said Leary was crossing over the double yellow line, almost hit other vehicles, had his headlights off and passed a red light. Police located Leary in a parking lot at Crossgates Mall, where he allegedly was sitting with his keys in the ignition and the car in drive. Police said he failed sobriety tests. Leary allegedly told police he dropped off two boys at the mall, an 8-year-old and 10-year-old, and was supposed to bring them back home. Police said he could not provide the names of either boy, but did provide their mother’s name. Greene County police checked the mother’s home and found both children. Klein agreed to a chemical blood test and was scheduled to appear in Guiderland Town Court on Thursday, June 13.

Guiderland police arrested Lee Quentin Russell, 24, of 240 Executive Drive, Guiderland, and charged him with forgery in the first degree, a felony, on Thursday, June 13, at approximately 4:30 p.m. Police said Russell visited the Western Avenue Price Chopper on June 4 and passed seven counterfeit $20 bills. Police also allegedly found 31 individually packaged bags of marijuana and another bag of loose marijuana at his home on June 10.

Guiderland police arrested Adam T. Tracy-Ireland, 20, of 2964 Consaul Road, Schenectady, and charged him with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of drugs, operating a motor vehicle impaired by alcohol, unlawful possession of marijuana, failure to stay in single lane and illegal signal on Saturday, June 15, at approximately 2:34 a.m. Police said he was driving eastbound on Western Avenue and was stopped for traffic violations. He allegedly had impaired motor coordination, the odor of alcohol on his breath, glassy eyes, abnormally large pupils, an “excited rate of speech” and the odor of marijuana coming from the vehicle. Tracy-Ireland allegedly told police he was diagnosed with ADHD and took his prescribed Adderall around six to seven hours prior to be stopped. A chemical tested reveal he had a BAC of 0.07 percent, according to police. He also submitted to a blood test. He was scheduled to appear in the Guiderland Town Court on Thursday, June 27.

Guiderland police arrested James Joseph Crisalli, 36, of 222 County Highway 143, Northville, and charged him with DWI, aggravated unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle in the third degree and passing a red light on Friday, June 14, at approximately 11:41 p.m. Police said Crisalli was driving eastbound on Western Avenue from Crossgates Mall and drove through a red light leaving the mall. Police stopped him for the traffic violation and said he had bloodshot, watery eyes and an odor of alcohol on him. Upon exiting his vehicle for sobriety tests, police said he was “very slow moving” and “unsteady on his feet.” Police said he failed all tests and was taken into custody, processed and released.

New Scotland zoning change official

Town Board rezones, will pursue further refinements

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

New Scotland has officially become a lot less industrial after a significant portion of the town's industrial-zoned land near the railroad tracks was rezoned.

The Town Board on Wednesday, June 12, unanimously approved a widespread zoning change intended to better reflect the character of the community and what the land is suited to contain. The rezoning changed 163 acres of Industrial-zoned land to Residential Conservation (R-2), and another 43 acres of Industrial-zoned land to Residential Agricultural (RA). A pocket of 24 acres of Commercial zoned land below New Scotland Road was shifted to Residential-Hamlet (RH).

There was only a minor change made after a public hearing was held. A property owner with commercially-zoned property along the railroad tracks asked town officials to include it with surrounding RA zoning. The Town Board agreed to the change, for the small parcel of land. Before the zoning change to commercial for the property it had been RA, so the town was essentially reverting the zoning. Another public hearing wasn't deemed necessary by the town.

"It wasn't considered

– Councilman William Hennessy

a significant change that would have to start up the process again ... because it's a request of the property owners and there is no real significance to the change," Deputy Supervisor Douglas LaGrange said.

The rezoned industrial area had lacked needed infrastructure because only a limited amount of land is connected to the town's water supply and the town's sewer does not service the area.

Board members Town Supervisor agreed to continue investigating any possible refinements or further zoning changes.

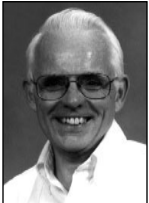

"I personally don't really think we are done here with this area. We still have some industrial zone there that may not be appropriate for that area," Councilman William Hennessy said. "I still think there is a question of going down that road a little bit further even as you cross the tracks."

Town pays fine for sewer leak

Corroded pipe let small amount sewage into Krumkill in May

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

The Town of Bethlehem has paid a fine to the state Department of Environmental Conservation after an unexpected sewer leak.

The DEC fined the town $1,000 after a small amount of sewage leaked into Krumkill Creek on May 4. The fine was negotiated with the DEC by the town's attorney and a consent order was approved by the Town Board in executive session on June 12.

Town Director of Public Works Erik Deyoe said the town was first notified of the sewer leak on Krumkill Road through a police dispatch. He said a crew from the DPW's Field Operations Unit was immediately sent to respond to the call and found a minor leak in the pressure main there.

"We called the utilities in to come and mark their lines and that took several hours," he said. "By the time that was done it was dark and we couldn't work at night. The repair was fixed by noon the next morning."

Deyoe said crews were

"(It is) a pressurized sewer, so when the pumps kick on ... there's a lot of force to contend with."

– Director of Public Works Erik Deyoe

unaware that any of the sewage had leaked into the creek, because the sewage went through a pipe and into a separate area that led to the creek. If the leak had been spotted making its way to the creek, Deyoe said a crew would have made an effort to cut it off.

A resident made the initial call to the DEC after witnessing the leak. The town was cited for a violation to the state's conservation law for allowing sewage discharge to run into a stream.

Deyoe said although the problem has been fixed, crews are still keeping an eye on the area. He said the leak occurred because of corrosion, and a small hole appeared in the pressure main.

"(It is) a pressurized sewer, so when the pumps kick on ... there's a lot of force to contend with," he said.

From the Editor's Desk

To the Class of 2013: Four more years!

Congratulations!

To quote a meme that's been making the rounds on the Internet, you've gotten through the easiest part of life!

We kid. Well, maybe there's a little truth to that. But that's no grounds for despair. It's kind of just how life is, really. The past four years have been spent preparing you for the next four – which will be a lot harder but also a lot more rewarding, trust us – to be followed by the next block of life, and so on and so forth. There's apparently supposed to be a point where you get to lie around and sip lemonade, but we're pretty sure that's mostly just for investment firm commercials.

The big four years of high school are over. So what about the next four? The majority of you will be heading off to college in the fall, and others will be launching into careers. We'd remind you to work hard and eat your vegetables, but you're probably getting a lot of that kind of advice from all corners. Instead, may we recommend the following: be open to new experiences, pursue what excites you and above all, embrace change.

The gravitas of the word "change" might have been deflated somewhat thanks to a certain politician, but it's the most important word for this stage of your life. A lot can change in four years. The Class of 2013 was heading into its freshman year of high school in 2009, for example. Barack Obama had just been inaugurated for his first term in office. The economy was in an absolute tailspin that makes today's troubles look laughable. Detroit automakers were filing for bankruptcy. The new iPhone 3GS had just been released. And the nation was embroiled in a fierce debate over the future of health care (well, some things never change).

We'd warrant over the course of these past four years, the members of the Class of 2013 have changed, as well. They've powered through adolescence and are ready to step into adulthood, ready to find out who they really are.

We say that because at this point, many graduates might feel that they have only a vague direction to pursue, without a real comprehension of where it might lead. For some teens – whose social, extracurricular and academic activities have been meticulously scripted for years – this might be a daunting thought. But the trick to life is to realize and embrace the excitement of that unknown, not be paralyzed by it. Be ready for change. To lock yourself into expectations now is not only unrealistic, it's unfair.

The great successes of any era didn't get to where they wanted to go by doggedly sticking to an itinerary. They learned and adapted, were willing to admit faults without shame and turn them into victories. Facebook creator Mark Zuckerberg's early software creations were hardly major successes. But through hard work and adaptation, he's worth an estimated $13.3 billion at the ripe old age of 29.

Zuckerberg's story is, of course, off the standard charts. But he and others of the Silicon Valley "hacker" set share a common dogma that we could all learn from – that experimentation, up to and including the point of failure, is a worthy endeavor. That doing is far better than planning. By this mode of thinking, starting down a road and being unable to finish is not a disaster, it's an opportunity to grow.

It's an idea that's easy to absorb and far more difficult to live by. But don't worry. You have the next four years to work on it.

Time to clean house in Bethlehem GOP

Editor, The Spotlight:

Jared King is correct; the County Republican Party leadership is thoroughly corrupt.

Answering last week's article, King "has regularly derailed meetings. ... There are members who have walked out when he's gone on his diatribes and disrupted meetings."

Republican leadership is not acting Republican. Voters wonder why we endorse Democrats. Do Republicans stand for anything? The leadership manipulates, but Jared always stays straight, so they abuse him and lie about it.

At the endorsement meeting, it was obvious "the fix was in." I said, "For shame! This is not even a decent Kangaroo Court hanging." One committee member left the meeting saying, "I can't take what they are doing to him anymore. I'm leaving."

What's your point?

The Spotlight welcomes longer opinion pieces for the Point of View section. Point of View submissions should be around 600 words and can be submitted via email to news@spotlightnews.com with "POV" in the subject line.

Immediately after the meeting, one of the decent leaders on the committee said to me, "I hope you don't think that the meeting was fixed?" "Of course it was!" I said. "Kermani said that 'This is not a debating society.' That's just wrong. Discussion of ideas is exactly what this committee should be doing."

Jared continually tries to introduce ideas because he has a notion of where the party should go. However, the leadership's personal agenda won't let Jared speak for fear that he will gather additional support.

At the endorsement meeting Jared said, "Mr. Chairman, I rise on a Point Of Order..." Chairman DiMaggio immediately shouted, "Jared, be quiet. I won't let you disrupt this meeting. If you don't sit down I will call the police and have you thrown out." Mr. McKim, the parliamentarian, grinned and nodded, letting Fred know that he had followed instructions correctly.

Why is this serious? Enlightened societies use Robert's Rules to conduct civil discourse. The leadership breaks the rules of decency by not allowing other voices to be heard. Those at the bottom are expected to do the work, pay tribute and lick boots, while at the top, ensconced in ego, leadership seeks to enhance their power, influence and rewards.

Jared sought to inform the committee that the meeting was illegal as not all members had been notified. When Jared said, "Point of Order," the leadership responded, "Shut up!" which Parliamentarian McKim dishonestly characterized to The Spotlight as a "diatribe." McKim labeled Jared's utterance as "dilatatory," without hearing the point. Disgusting! Worse, I'll bet this lawyer sees himself as a judge.

Mr. King doesn't raise his voice, follows Roberts Rules scrupulously, including the rule on decorum, yet is blamed for being disruptive. It is laughable. The leadership has such nerve: They yell, intimidate, lie and like all good autocrats, label opponents with the traits that they exhibit. It's classic 1984 doublespeak.

We should all be grateful to Jared for enduring these phony attacks to his reputation. We all know that it is character which matters and IMHO Jared King has "the right stuff." Members of the Bethlehem Republican Party should rally to Jared King's candidacy.

I am no longer willing to tolerate the bad behavior on the Bethlehem Republican committee. It is time to clean house!

Have you visited the new library?

The new library is quiet and spacious. Computer users no longer need to tune out the sounds of preschool play or socializing teens. Each book collection is separately shelved, and new books face the entrance. The community room is at one end of the one-story building – no more steps or hallways. Please visit if you haven't already!

New summer family storytime

July 10, at 6:30 p.m. will be the first weekly family storytime. This drop-in program will combine books, stories and crafts. It's designed for families with children ages 2 through 8. The program will run 30 to 45 minutes, leaving plenty of time for the entire family to participate in the Summer Reading Club.

Holiday hours

The library will close at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, July 3, and will remain closed on July 4 for the Independence Day holiday. Regular hours resume at 10 a.m. on Friday, July 5.

Summer at the library

School is over! If you haven't made plans for summer activities for your children, there's still time. The library has a variety of reading, writing and media programs for the children of all ages.

Summer reading club

Dig into reading this summer and earn prizes for reading with the library summer reading club. The library brings books and creative activities to town recreation programs in Bethlehem, Coeymans and New Baltimore. Kids not attending these programs can sign up at the library to receive their reading logs and a special bag to keep track of their library books. Prizes will be available beginning the week of July 8.

Writing and media for kids

Sign-up continues for My Writing Project, Young Writers Workshop/eBook Creator and my.media. project. The library has added two afternoon sessions of the video media project. Session four will begin on Thursday, July 11. Session five will begin on Thursday, July 25. Afternoon sessions will meet from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

RCS COMMUNITY LIBRARY

Free teen tech programs

This summer the library will offer three technology programs exclusively for teens. Each program focuses on a hot topic in technology. Pre-registration is easy by phone at 756-2053 or email at info@rcscommunitylibrary.org. Please call the library if you have any questions.

- Small Science, presented by the Children's Museum of Science and Technology, is a teen-level introduction to nanotechnology in which participants experiment at nanoscale and investigate real-world applications of nanotechnology. Tuesday, July 9, 4 p.m. at the library.
- Artbots is a hands-on introduction to robotics with Kathy Ceceri, author of Robotics: Discover the Science and Technology of the Future. Participants will construct and personalize tabletop robots that scribble their way across flat surfaces on felt-tip legs. Monday, July 29, 1:30 p.m. at the library.
- Digital Illustration with artist Ira Marcks, begins with a session on techniques on Wednesday, July 10, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the Library. Learn techniques to enhance hand-drawn work and create original digital art. Sign up for the July 10 workshop to be able to work independently on the library's teen computers and the Wacom Touch© pad over the summer.

Mr. Marcks will return on Wednesday, July 24, for more instruction and problem-solving. Art work will be stored on flash drives and lanyards which the library will supply. The library plans to compile an online collection of work done during this program.

Pre-register by phone at 756-2053 or email at info@rcscommunitylibrary.org.

What's New? New Children's Picture Books

"The Best Thing About Kindergarten" by Jennifer Lloyd, "Hooray Parade" by Barbara Joosse, "Max and the Tag-Along Moon" by Floyd Cooper, "When Miles Got Mad" by Samantha Kurtzman-Counter, "Yoo-Hoo, Ladybug!" by Mem Fox.

It's not too late for summer reading program

Registration continues for the library's summer reading program. Young people who join the summer library program keep their minds active and enter school in the fall ready to learn and ready to succeed. "Dig Into Reading" is our theme for 2013. Come help us celebrate the wonders under our feet from garden vegetables, buried treasure, dinosaur bones and more. Our programs are free and open to all. Check our library web site for up-to-date information about our programs, reading lists and the many ways to discover the treasures of your library. Prizes will be highlighted in the display case for July and August.

- On Monday, July 8, at 2 p.m., children in grades k-3 will join educator Anita Sanchez and "Dig into the Past" to find out what it was like to play, work and go to school two hundred years ago.
- On Tuesday, July 9, at 6:30 p.m., the library will host a "Math Fair" for pre-schoolers through third grade. This family program will have math-friendly book-related activities. Participants will play card and dice games and enjoy art activities. Think of stories of three: Three Little Pigs, Three Billy Goats Gruff or the Three Bears, and you will have a clue to some of our counting. Here are some of the concepts: pattern, number sense, shape, size and measurement and problem solving. We will have refreshments so we can learn about fractions. Registration Requested.

- Join the fun on Thursday, July 11, from 1 to 3:30 p.m. for the Seed & Soil Detectives.

The library has partnered with 4-H to offer a fun and educational gardening program, which will include gardening and nutrition lessons and activities. Nutritious and delicious fruits and vegetables will be served. Grades 4-6. Registration is required.

These programs are supported in part by Federal Library Services and Technology Acts funds, awarded to New York State Library by the Federal Institute of Museum and Library Services.

Jackie the Magician

Save the date for Jackie the Magician on Tuesday, July 2, at 7 p.m. Audiences enjoy her magic, quick wit and stand-up comedy with ventriloquism and juggling. She engages a crowd and specializes in mixed-aged audiences. All are welcome to this family program.

New online resource

A new online resource, eSequals database, indexes work by character, location and subject as well as author and title so you can identify a series, even when you just can't recall the name. Check it out on the library website/online resources/reading suggestions.

See the art gallery

This is the last week to stop by and enjoy Encaustic Paintings by Paul Steinkamp. Next month, our July gallery will display Watercolors by Barbara McGeachen. Whether it's animals, landscapes or people, Barbara tries to capture moments in time that warm her soul. We hope that you enjoy them as well.

Callanan’s upgrades draw National Grid grant

After completing construction on a new power substation, Callanan Industries has received a $250,000 grant from National Grid as a capital investment for replacing its aging infrastructure.

The award comes from National Grid’s Capital Investment Incentive grant program, which “provides funding to help offset costs associated with upgrading utility infrastructure to support a business expansion or attraction projects located in National Grid’s Upstate New York service territory.” The grant is given to applicants who plan projects that will improve National Grid’s electric or natural gas system.

The paving materials supplier is in the midst of a $24 million capital improvement project at its South Bethlehem site after moving the majority of operations to Ravena in the 1990s. Last year, Callanan moved its asphalt and stone operations back to Bethlehem and later decided to upgrade its energy infrastructure. The company was founded by Peter Callanan in 1883 in South Bethlehem as an aggregate mining company.

“We are excited about the move back to South Bethlehem and how it has helped Callanan maintain a strong presence in the Capital Region,” said Callanan President Jonas Havens in a statement. “We look forward to continuing our service to communities in our area that will realize the benefits of our recent business expansion.”

The company purchased and constructed a state-of-the-art asphalt pavement plant and a new primary crushing system was designed to increase efficiencies. Havens said the former substation was a “pile of rust” and needed to be restored. So the company committed to building a new one with power provided by National Grid.

In return, National Grid spent $100,000 to upgrade and maintain the transmission lines that provide the substation with power. To replace the entire 2.5-mile line, the utility is expected to spend about $2.5 million by completion in 2015.

National Grid also extended a new high-pressure gas service more than 800 feet. It will provide fuel-to-heat aggregate in the asphalt plant, the lab building and offices, and is said to be a cleaner, more cost-effective alternative to the waste oil that the company was previously using.

This old house

Group looks back three decades to start of Pruyn House renovations

By ZAN STRUMFELD
strumfeldz@spotlightnews.com

When architect Vincent J. Lepera stood before the Casparus Pruyn House in 1983, he knew he had his work cut out for him.

The Troy architect, now of Architecture Plus, needed to completely restore the dilapidated historic home within a four-month span and a budget of merely $200,000. The bricks on the house were ready to fall out and the floor was rotting away. But Lepera said he's always liked a challenge, and this was another one to add to his list.

"It was pretty ambitious for the budget we had, and a challenging project," he said on Wednesday, June 12, before a small crowd at the Pruyn House on Old Niskayuna Road. "This place was full of surprises."

Lepera spoke of his experience using a slideshow last Wednesday as part of a kickoff event to celebrate the Pruyn

House's 30th anniversary, hosted by the Friends of the Pruyn House. The two-story, 15-room mansion sits on 5 ½ acres of land and now serves as a cultural and historical museum that hosts events, weddings, tours, classes and more.

The home was built in the 1800s to serve as a summer home for tax collector Casparus Pruyn and his family. After a slew of owners throughout the years, the Town of Colonie, under then Town Supervisor Fred Field, decided to preserve the historic site by purchasing the home and accompanying acreage for $110,000 in 1983.

"A lot of people thought the town acquiring this was an unnecessary expense. And then there were others that thought it was a remarkable idea ... to give the community a sense of history," Lepera said.

An experienced architect who has worked on buildings such as the Troy Savings Bank Music Hall and at colleges like RPI, Lepera got to work with Zandri Construction. The list of renovations included exterior masonry restoration; interior flooring restoration; fixing the heating, ventilation, A/C and climate control; roof replacement; and window restoration.

Because the home had survived more than two centuries of use, neglect, weather and old-fashioned aging, Lepera said the restoration was "closely watched" by the New York State Office of Historic Preservation.

With the back of the house's brick wall, Lepera said they salvaged as much of the original brick as they could, buying new ones that resembled the old ones if necessary. When it came to the exterior of the house, Lepera said they washed the home with "gentle soap and water," which revealed a part of the window shade that had been painted white was actually a brown decorative stone.

"That brown stone doesn't want to be painted," Lepera said, and renovators let it be when they repainted the whole house.

The interior was a much bigger mess. Most of the

Before restoration, the interior and exterior of the Pruyn House was in shambles. The entire floor needed to be ripped out, walls redone and roof needed to be replaced. The interior of the Pruyn House required extensive renovations. Most of the wallpaper and plaster had peeled off and needed to be restored.

Submitted and file photos wallpaper and plaster had peeled off. None of the wallpaper could be saved, and it was difficult to tell what may have been the original wallpaper and what had been changed over the years.

"The floor was interesting. We took virtually every floor board out," Lepera said.

The house's 10 fireplaces were mostly intact and original. Lepera said the biggest – and best – surprise was finding the original bread and beehive oven in the basement.

"This is my favorite. This is really a find because there are very few examples in this region," Lepera said. "You will not find that very often."

While the house hasn't had another makeover since the early '80s, Lepera said maintenance still needs to be done often to keep the house in good shape. Friends of Pruyn House Curator Diane Morgan said work on the interior and exterior of the house is ongoing.

"I think it just requires constant observation, care and attention," Morgan said.

Friends of the Pruyn House spends about $15,000 on the house every year, and the Town of Colonie matches that.

Morgan said lately, she's seen some new cracks in the parlor wall and recently saw one of the outdoor shutters hanging off. The paint, too, is constantly peeling, she said. Over the years maintenance has included replacing the roof again, chimney repairs almost every year, repairing and staining the shutters and touching up the paint.

Last month, the white-picket fence that outlines the front of the house was taken to the town landfill when it completely rotted out. Morgan said they are working on replacing the fence. Other buildings on the land, mainly the Buhrmaster Barn and the schoolhouse, are in need of repairs and painting. Morgan said the Friends recently spent $9,000 to fix one of the barn's walls.

"We do feel it's worth all of the money we're spending ... tourists come to visit us. It's a lovely setting for cultural, educational and social events. It's part of our community," Morgan said.

Prince of planning stepping down

Morelli was Bethlehem's point man on major developments for past eight years

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

The Town of Bethlehem is looking for a new director of economic development and planning, as Mike Morelli approaches his retirement date at the end of this week.

Morelli has worked for the town for eight years and has spent his entire 33-year career in the public sector. He is set to retire on Friday, June 28.

"I've worked for a county, city, state and town," he said. "I joke that I should find a village to work for first to round out my resume."

Morelli said his career has been very rewarding, but has opted to retire to help his wife with a new health and wellness business she started out of their home.

"I've done this my whole life and it's time to pursue other interests," he said.

Over the past eight years, Morelli has played a key role in the development of major projects in the town, and there are a number in the pipeline he will pass the torch on. He could have retired two years ago, but decided to wait a few years because he wanted to see the Vista Technology Campus go "from a vision to reality."

"I had some goals and I knew we were really close to construction of Vista," he said. "So I thought, why not go a few more rounds and help get it off the ground?"

Morelli said Vista is one of the largest projects he's ever worked on and he's pleased with the way it is unfolding. He is happy that the infrastructure is in place and he saw businesses open before his time with the town was over.

He said it will take years before Vista is fully spaced out because there's fierce competition to attract tech companies from similar campuses in the area. But the site is now shovel ready and open for business. With most of the secondary use space now claimed by retail businesses, medical facilities and banks, the rest of the space will be filled by tech companies over time.

"I almost wish we called it something different, instead of Vista Technology Campus, because I think it confuses people," he said.

Other initiatives undertaken on Morelli's watch have been changes to the town's Comprehensive Plan and updates to the town's land uses code that have helped bring businesses to the town.

"The Town of Bethlehem, not unlike other suburban communities, developed the reputation that it's a hard place to do business," he said. "We work with developers, show them our issues, make sure it meets town, state and federal guidelines. We never have really been challenged."

Morelli said some of his favorite projects while he's worked with the town have been those involving redemptive reuse of old businesses. He cited the old Saratoga Shoe Depot that is now the new Berkshire Bank on Delaware Avenue and the former CVS site across the street, which is now Community Care Physicians. He also said Glenmont Plaza had over 100,000 square feet of vacant space, but has been completely redone.

"Adaptive reuse and in-field development is a goal of the Comprehensive Plan and we wanted to achieve that goal," he said.

Bethlehem Economic Development and Planning Director Mike Morelli is set to retire on Friday, June 28, after eight years with the town. Bethlehem officials are now seeking applicants to fill his position.

Marcy Velte/Spotlight

The Planning Department also has been working to diversify the types of housing in town to allow its aging population to find a more comfortable living situation but stay within Bethlehem. Morelli said a recent review of the Comprehensive Plan shows their plan is working and the town should stay on track.

The town is seeking applications for a new Director of Economic Development and Planning until the end of the month.

Morelli is in charge of two departments with a total of 11 employees. He said whoever fills his position next should be able to work well with people and know it's a demanding job. His departments have lost 24 percent of their staffing through attrition in recent years and everyone is doing more with less.

Morelli said he did not know if the new hire would also take on his work with the town's Industrial Development Agency. It all depends on who takes the job.

According to the town's posting, candidates will need a background in regional planning, economic development, or business management, with between six to eight years of experience. A master's degree is preferable. The position also calls for promoting the town to businesses for the purpose of economic growth.

Supervisor John

Clarkson said because of Morelli's retirement, the town and IDA would be pushing back a plan to hire a part-time employee in the Economic Development and Planning Department that would have been mostly funded by the IDA. Clarkson said it is more important to first find the appropriate person to fill Morelli's position.

"He has done such great work for us over the years and we will miss him greatly," said Clarkson.

Morelli said he believes he will miss the people he's worked with the most.

"I've formed a lot of friendships both within the town and with developers," he said. "And I can honestly say, there's been very few boring moments."

Dinosaurs! is open from June 29 through Sept. 29 at miSci in Schenectady. The exhibit features animatronic dinosaurs as well as hands-on activities created from the latest paleontological research. Submitted photos

18 animatronic dinos make Schenectady’s miSci home this summer

If you happen to pass by miSci (Museum of Innovation and Science) this summer, don’t be alarmed if you hear a loud roar – it’s just a lively group of dinosaurs spending a few months at the museum.

The prehistoric creatures are in town from June 29 to Sept. 29 and have brought the whole family along. Executive Director, William Sudduth, said the interest in dinosaurs never gets old.

“I think it’s because they are so mysterious,” he said. “They are all gone and we only know about them through science, through the study of earth and fossils.”

Despite the fact dinosaur exhibits have been finding their way into museums for many years, Chris Hunter, curator of collections and archives at miSci, said this particular exhibit highlights the latest in dinosaur research.

“As the paleontologists do more research, the exhibit will incorporate that research into the design,” he said.

Although scientists are continually researching the life of dinosaurs, they still have a lot to learn, explained Hunter. Scientists can make educated guesses, but no one will ever truly know, for example, what color a dinosaur’s skin was or how a dinosaur really sounded.

Hunter said a common question from people visiting the exhibit is how scientists reach these conclusions.

“A lot of it is actually based on surviving reptiles and amphibians,” he said.

The dinosaurs in the exhibit are created based on existing patterns from fossilized dinosaur skin. In addition to 18 animatronic dinosaurs on display, visitors can learn about the prehistoric creatures in a dino dig site, fossil rubbing station and other hands-on discovery areas.

Sudduth said the museum looks for topics that people in the Capital District would find interesting.

“We do lots of audience research and a survey on our website on different topics,” he said. “With kids out of school and more leisure time, we wanted to have a couple of exhibits that would really appeal to audiences.”

In addition to the dinosaur exhibit opening on June 29, Notion of Motion, a year-long exhibit which opened on June 15, offers 30 interactive exhibits all about motion.

“We like to think of the museum as sort of a library – a library of exhibits – we want everyone to come find exhibits that they like,” said Sudduth. “I like to think we have something that appeals to everyone in the family.”

The Dinosaurs! exhibit is open from June 29 through Sept. 29, at miSci, located at 15 Nott Terrace Heights in Schenectady. General admission to the museum is $6.50 for children ages 3 to 12, $8 for seniors 65+ and $9.50 for adults. General admission includes access to all exhibits including Dinosaurs!

Family Day at Bethlehem Public Library

Kick off the Fourth with a reading of the Declaration of Independence at the Bethlehem Public Library, 451 Delaware Avenue, Delmar on Thursday, July 4, brought to you by Boy Scout Troop No. 58, the Bethlehem Public Library and the Town of Bethlehem. Patriotic singalong, cake and ice cream.

The festivities begin at 10:30 a.m. at the library's outdoor stage (event will be held in the Library Community Room if it rains). Following the declaration reading, come to Elm Avenue Park Pool for some fun and festivities.

Geurtze's Famous Chicken BBQ at noon; 12:15 p.m., magic show; 1 p.m., Old Time Base Ball Game with the 1864 NY Mutuals vs. the Bethlehem BRAVES Team (Elm Ave Park Field No. 5); 1 p.m. balloonist and air bounce rides; 2 p.m., About Face air brush face painting and live music by Katsura.

Events in the pool area require a pool admission.

The Zucchini Brothers

Bethlehem Parks and Recreation presents The Zucchini Brothers, Thursday, June 27, at 7 p.m. in Elm Avenue Park.

Often called "The Beatles of kid's music," this zany trio will present a musical show which will keep you on your feet and dancing. Free. In case of rain, the event will be moved to the Elm Avenue Park large pavilion.

Route 85 closure

Motorists are advised that Route 85 at Stovepipe Road in the town of New Scotland will be closed until July 8 to replace a large culvert.

The closure includes Route 85 and the intersection with Stovepipe Road. This piece of Route 85 is located between Route 157 and Route 443, and through traffic will need to follow the detour. Additionally, Stovepipe Road will not be accessible from Route 85 during this closure.

During the closure, through traffic will be detoured from Route 85 onto Albany County Route 308 (New Scotland South Road) and State Route 443. All properties in the area will remain accessible to residents and emergency responders. Additionally, local traffic will still be able to use local roads during the closure.

Farmer's Market showing senior appreciation

On Saturday, July 13, the New Baltimore Farmers Market, held at Cecil Hallock (District 2) Park on Route 54 between 9 a.m. and noon, will be having a Senior Appreciation Day.

There will be special drawings with various gifts awarded to several lucky recipients whose names will be drawn at 11 a.m. from the free chances, which will be available at the "Senior Appreciation Table." Also on hand will be a variety of information, pertinent to seniors for the taking.

Entertainment will be provided by Steve Schwebler and his one-man band.

Reassessment workshop

In an effort to ensure fair and equitable property assessments, all properties within the Town of Bethlehem will be reassessed for the 2014 Assessment Roll. To assist in this effort, GAR Associates, Inc. has been retained as contractor for the Town.

GAR and Town Assessor, Patricia McVee, IAO will conduct a workshop on Saturday, June 29, at 10 a.m. at Bethlehem Town Hall, 445 Delaware Avenue, Delmar, as part of the ongoing effort to keep property owners informed throughout the project. For more information, call (866) 910-1776.

Community blood drive

Residents of Guilderland and the American Red Cross will join together for a "Communities That Care"

Bethlehem High wins the Masterminds championship

The Masterminds championship was held at LeMoyne College in Syracuse on Saturday, June 9. 130 high schools from Albany to Buffalo competed in this academic competition, and this year the Bethlehem High School team won. Bethlehem went undefeated, winning 20 games and ultimates the New York State Masterminds Championship. The winning team from left to right includes: Tom Li and Ian Masters in front, and Tom Sheridan, Ben Weinstein, Jonah Goldberg and Phil Groenwegen in back.

blood drive on Monday, July 1, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Guilderland Public Library at 2228 Western Avenue. A "Communities That Care" blood drive is a Red Cross initiative to engage local citizens and boost regional blood supplies by enlisting community support.

The Red Cross is asking all eligible donors to donate blood during the Fourth of July holiday week. Although the holiday is a time to enjoy family and friends, the Red Cross asks donors to remember that the need for blood never takes a holiday. It is the blood on the shelves today that helps save lives tomorrow. Your blood donation will help ensure that an adequate blood supply is available to your fellow Americans at all times.

One donation can help save up to three lives and it only takes about an hour of your time. Blood is an essential component for patient care in area hospitals, and the only source of blood is a healthy, volunteer blood donor. All presenting donors at this blood drive will receive a T-shirt. Additionally, all presenting donors during the month of July will also receive a coupon redeemable for $2.50 off the purchase of a 48oz. container of Turkey Hill's

All Natural Ice Cream. Walk-ins are always welcome, but donors are encouraged to schedule an appointment in advance by calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or by visiting redcrossblood.org.

Millions of years on view at hike

The layered rocks of Thacher Park preserve 30 million years of the ancient past. The fossils and rocks tell of ever-changing life and environments, from tidal flats and coral reefs to deeper water. Take a walk through time with Dr. Chuck Ver Straeten, NYS Museum geologist, and see how Thacher Park and eastern North America changed.

Saturday, June 29, at 10 a.m. Meet at Paint Mine picnic area. The parking fee is $6 per vehicle. Call 872-0800 for more information.

'Summer Quest' program at the State Museum

The New York State Museum introduces "Summer Quest," a new educational program designed for summer camps and organized groups. Drawing upon the Museum's vast resources in research, collections and exhibitions, "Summer Quest" provides two-hour educational programs with hands-on activities in the fields of biology, astronomy, anthropology and history.

"Summer Quest" programs have been specifically designed for large camp and school groups with a minimum group size of 20 children, ages 7 and older. Programs are offered from June 25, through Aug. 16, Tuesday through Friday in both morning (10 a.m. to noon) and afternoon (1 to 3 p.m.) sessions. The registration fee per child is $2.

There are four "Summer Quest" programs this summer. "Who Lives in that Longhouse?" runs from June 25 through July 5 and allows children to explore artifacts, games and stories of the Iroquois. "Games and Heroes of the Civil War Era," from July 9 through July 19, offers children the chance to discover the role New Yorkers played in the Civil War. From July 23 to Aug. 2 is "Whales, Mastodons and more Marvelous Mammals" in which children explore the world of whales and examine mastodon remains. "Moon and Stars" is the last program, running from Aug. 6 to Aug. 16, and allows children to explore the night sky inside the Museum's planetarium.

For more information, visit the "Summer Quest" website at www.nysm.nysed.org/summerquest. Pre-registration is required. Call the Museum at 474-5843, or email summerquest@mail.nysed.gov.

New Baltimore Farmer's Market

On Saturday, June 29, the New Baltimore Farmer's Market will run from 9 a.m. to noon at Cecil Hallock Park (District 2) located on Route 54. Featured vendors will include: Black Horse Farms with vegetables, fruits, bedding plants, strawberries, NYS cheeses and hanging plants; Good Day Honey with honey and honey products, maple syrup and maple cream, fresh eggs, hand towels and stress hot packs; J & J Farms with fresh vegetables; Amy's Lavender Tea Room with brownies, cookies, fruit tarts and other luscious baked goods; Susie's Climax Creations with jams, jellies, marinated and pickled items, quail eggs, mushrooms, chicken and duck meat and eggs; New Baltimore Reformed Church Heavenly Bakers with yeast breads, cinnamon rolls, gluten-free selections and weekly rotating specialty breads; and Crimson Valley with a wide selection of plants and shrubs.

Entertainment will be provided by "Spiral Tango" performing tango, classical and more on flute and classical guitar. The market table will be offering a selection of t-shirts, garden and cook books, and other items, including a 50/50 raffle which helps support the music program.

For additional information, check out the Market's website at www.newbaltimorefarmersmarket.org

Hike to Hang Glider Cliff

On Saturday, July 6, at 10 a.m., join a hike to the Escarpment in the northern zone of the Thacher Park. The 3-mile route is on mostly level terrain. Meet at the Nature Center to carpool to the trailhead, where parking is limited. Call 872-0800 to register.

“The PBA now has a very effective leadership that is willing to work with us,” she said.

“The town decided it was cheaper to settle than to litigate,” said Berben. “We agreed, because if we had litigated it would have cost us money as well.”

"We have staffing shortages that have caused this demand on our on call," he said. "The whole force is being affected and there are staffing concerns. I think this agreement is the town coming to an understanding that the shortages are a Tremblay-Glassman said as part of the negotiation, the union agreed the deal was one-time only and no compensation would be given for similar situations in the future. She added the union cannot negotiate staffing.

"The town and the BPA have turned a corner in our ability to work through things," said Tremblay-Glassman. "It shows an understanding of their new leadership and their commitment to work with us now in realizing our financial constraints."

Foundation doles out grants to BC teachers

$9k from donations go to teachers for innovative learning projects

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

The Bethlehem Central Community Foundation is looking to ease some of the burdens put on teachers through a grant program now in its second year.

This year, $9,000 in awards were presented to teachers for 11 different projects through the group’s Classroom Innovation Grants. The prizes were awarded through a competitive process to faculty and staff from all levels of Bethlehem Central schools for projects to be implemented in the next school year.

“I guess my first reaction was how really impressed I was with the projects,” said BCCF Trustee and Middle School Principal Mike Klugman. “I consider myself to be pretty innovative when it comes to education, but some of these projects I’ve never heard of before.”

Some of the ideas that were approved include money to purchase a green screen to be used during announcements at the middle school, helping students learn graphic design; funds to purchase iPads for struggling readers at Elsmere Elementary; a recycling project at Eagle Elementary; and equipment for the middle school’s garden.

Klugman said as word has spread, more teachers applied for the grants this year. The foundation was also able to hand out more money. Last year, about 10 teachers applied for three grants of $1,000 each. This year, Klugman said applications tripled.

“We were very excited about that,” he said.

Klugman said the BCCF thought the classroom grants were needed because of budget cuts and growing state mandates on lesson plans. Little money is left over for innovative ideas, he said. The foundation looks for proposals with a research base that will help to provide insight into positive teaching methods.

The BCCF also gave away scholarships to 20 students this year.

The foundation was established in 1998, but the group had little initiative to go out and do a large funding campaign because donations were not tax deductible. Many trustees felt there wasn’t enough incentive for people to donate to the organization. That has changed, however, and with the group’s new nonprofit status all donations are tax deductible.

This past year, trustees worked towards a goal of raising about $10,000 through a mailing effort and smaller fundraisers.

The scholarships and grants were made possible through membership donations and fundraising. Klugman said a successful year of fundraising allowed the group to give a greater number of grants and scholarships than ever before.

“We’re very thankful for that,” he said

Teachers with a project idea who would like to apply for a grant next year can do so beginning in January 2014. For more information, visit www. BCCommunityFoundation.org.

Classroom Innovation grant recipients

• BCMS teachers Rebecca Beiter and Maureen Lewicki – A project to help visually-impaired students to learn challenging Earth Science concepts with the help of three dimensional models.

• Eagle Elementary teachers Katie Charvat and Joanna Crawford – Students will develop upper body strength, social and cognitive skills on the new climbing wall to be purchased for the physical education program.

• BCMS teachers Tim Connelly and Amy Ludik – The purchase of a green screen for students to learn graphics and design skills used in several industries.

• BCMS teacher Jeff Klamka – Grant will be used to purchase resources to help middle school students develop foreign language proficiency via the method of storytelling.

• Elsmere Elementary teacher Anne Marie Lasky – Struggling readers will be able to use iPad literacy applications to help develop new skills.

• BCHS staff member Marna Meltzer – Grant will support the purchase of the “Friends of Rachel’s Club” support package, which includes curriculum and lessons about character, compassion and other elements of the Rachel’s Challenge anti-bullying program.

• Glenmont Elementary kindergarten teachers Linda Nortz, Patty Quirk and Jody Keese – Help incoming students develop the foundational skills of grasp, bilateral coordination, thumb skills and eye-hand coordination that are needed for success in writing and classroom activities.

• Eagle Elementary teachers Chris Porter and Dianna Reagan – Students will expand their recycling efforts to reduce school waste and create greater environmental awareness.

• Glenmont Elementary faculty members Peter Rawitsch and Michelle Lavigne – A mini-library will help young children talk with teachers and family members about difficult social and emotional issues.

• Eagle Elementary teacher Barbara Riegel – Fifth-grade students at Eagle Elementary will develop podcasts for book talks, a digital log to track the development of trout in classroom tanks and practice math fluency.

• BCMS staff member Mark Warford – Award will support the purchase of equipment to be used by students and staff to maintain the BCMS Community Garden.

Clarkson said. The town also implemented a digital Lockbox system for the processing of some resident bills.

“The reward is based on a formula of how much saved and town population,” Clarkson said. “I was cautious with telling my expectations to the public when we applied, because I didn’t think we would receive that much.”

The New York Department of State gave away a total of $12 million to 13 municipalities. The LGPEP “rewards local governments for undertaking significant and innovative actions that reduce the property tax burden confronting residents.”

“This program is an integral part of Gov. (Andrew) Cuomo’s agenda to improve efficiency and reduce costs at all levels of government,” said New York Secretary of State Cesar Peralas in a statement. “The governor is yet again applying a competitive process to stimulate creativity and innovation among decision makers, and the big winners are the taxpayers who will benefit from smart, cost saving investments in their communities’ futures.”

The two biggest winners were Nassau County with a $5 million grant for reducing personnel within its police department and consolidation of precincts, and the City of Rochester with about $1.9 million for “neighborhood and business development consolidation.” The projects presented by the 13 applicants were expected to amount to $38.2 million in combined annual savings.

The award will be paid out over three years. Clarkson said the money may be used to address some of the town’s capital needs or may be used to provide some temporary tax relief as the town’s new contract with its EMS providers kicks in.

“We have a contract that could result in $200,000 in savings, but we won’t see that money for the first year,” said Clarkson. “We could use some of the grant money to see the savings up front that you are expected to see in future years, and then tax less to provide that service using those funds.”

Clarkson said the grant could also help the town in other ways.

The supervisor said he would like to look at the efficiencies achieved by other municipalities that won grants to see if they could be implemented in Bethlehem.

“Several counties also won big awards for privatizing their nursing homes, which is something I think our county should focus on,” he said.

In related news, Bethlehem fared well on the recent State Comptroller’s Physical Stress test, with the town’s finances ranked among the best in the county. Clarkson said the good score was because the town was operating on a surplus with fairly low debt. The town has also built up its reserves and implemented a new multi-year budget projection system.

“In very many ways, we’re receiving indications elsewhere that the steps we’re taking are correct,” Clarkson said. “We’re on the right course, it seems.”

Top honors for Altamont resident

At Capital Region Career & Technical School’s Schoharie campus, the 2013 Outstanding Student of the Year Award went to Joshua Von Haugg of Altamont, a senior in the criminal justice program. He was honored for growth in achievement of skills in criminal justice, citizenship, work ethic, leadership ability and pride in his chosen occupation. Von Haugg, who is also graduating from Berne-Knox-Westerlo High School, was described by his Criminal Justice teacher David Zafonte as “an extremely wonderful student who will be very successful in pursuing his law enforcement career because he has the skills, knowledge and work ethic. His dedication to learning criminal justice is remarkable.” Von Haugg is a high honors student who was inducted into both the National Honor Society at Berne-Knox-Westerlo High School and the National Technical Honor Society at Career & Tech. He was awarded the 2012 Berne-Knox-Westerlo Board of Education Award and served as co-captain of his high school’s varsity soccer team. Von Haugg is pictured here with Zafonte.

a bases-loaded double to drive in three runs, and Ramon Laureano followed with a two-run homer for a 6-2 Golden Eagles lead.

Albany rallied for three runs on an error and an RBI groundout in the bottom of the seventh inning to get close to Glens Falls, but reliever Kevin Cowan got the final out to preserve the Golden Eagles' victory.

The Dutchmen began the weekend with Friday's 4-3 victory over Mohawk Valley at Bellizzi Field. Matthew Dacey's two-run pinch-hit single highlighted Albany's three-run rally in the bottom of the eighth inning.

Albany took a 1-0 lead on Remillard's RBI single in the bottom of the first inning, but Mohawk Valley's Landon Thibodeaux turned on a Sean Spicer pitch for a two-run homer in the top of the second inning to give the Diamond Dawgs a 2-1 lead.

Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake grad Mike Fischer helped Mohawk Valley expand its lead in the third inning. Fischer scorched a leadoff single to right field, moved to third as Spicer loaded the bases and scored on a wild pitch.

Albany got its breakthrough in the eighth inning, though. The Dutchmen loaded the bases on two singles and a walk. Wietlispach drove in one run with a groundout, and Dacey brought in the other two runs with his single.

the Sectional title. After losing in last year's final, the Dutchmen edged the Eagles 5-4 to claim their second Class AA team championship over Bethlehem in the last three years.

Guilderland's tennis success continued in the Sectional doubles tournament as the team of Erick Kopff and Alex Fedorov defeated their fellow Dutchmen—Michael Zhu and Bill Dong—6-1, 7-6 (7-3) in the finals.

"We just tried to treat them the same way as any other team we face," said Kopff. "We treat them with respect, and we try to win the match."

Elsewhere, Voorheesville caught fire in the baseball playoffs for the second consecutive year. The Blackbirds cruised past Fort Plain 14-4 in the Section II Class C finals and reached the state semifinals before losing to Geneseo 2-1.

Bethlehem's greatest success came in boys track and field, where Drew Duguid and Noah Bell won Section II Division 1 titles. Duguid finished first in the high jump, while Bell claimed the 3,000-meter steeplechase crown. Steve Booker also qualified for states with a second-place finish in the 1,600-meter race.

Guilderland's Kendra Lizzote earned her first Section II Division 1 title in the girls pole vault, and she tied Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake's Kalli Manly for fifth place at the state track meet.

School wins Sectional championships in softball, girls lacrosse and tennis

By ROB JONAS
jonasr@spotlightnews.com

The spring sports season brought three Section II titles to Guilderland High School.

The softball, girls lacrosse and boys tennis teams all earned Sectional championships to highlight a successful year for Guilderland. The baseball and boys lacrosse teams each made it to the Sectional semifinals.

Guilderland won its first softball championship since 1998 at the expense of its neighbor, Bethlehem. The Lady Dutch scored six runs in the first three innings on their way to an 8-3 victory over the Lady Eagles.

"I coach a lot of those (Bethlehem) girls in summer ball," said Marino. "It's hard, but I'm glad they were there and they were happy for us. It's kind of a unique situation."

Jenna Cubello led Guilderland in the championship game with an RBI double and a bases-loaded single.

The Guilderland girls lacrosse team ended a three-year gap between Sectional championships by beating Shaker 15-8 in the Class A finals. Morgan Hardt had five goals, and Rebecca Golderman tallied four times to help the Lady Dutch avenge their 9-8 loss to the Blue Bison in last year's Sectional title game.

"The past two years, they are what they are," said Hardt. "We put them as a chip on our shoulders."

The Guilderland boys tennis team continued its back-and-forth battle with Bethlehem for

Athletics remain unbeaten

Three consecutive complete games for league leaders

By SPORTS STAFF
jonasr@spotlightnews.com

The Albany Athletics remained undefeated in the Twilight League with three wins last weekend.

The Athletics (12-0) defeated Lids Team Sports 7-2 Saturday before taking both ends of Sunday's doubleheader against Capital City Diamond Kings by scores of 12-0 and 8-0.

The Athletics never had to go to their bullpen to win their games, either. Shawn Ryan, Chris Salamida and JJ Pearsall all threw complete games in the three victories.

Derick Horn led Albany with three hits, two RBI and three runs scored in its 8-0 victory over the Diamond Kings.

The Albany Thunder picked up four wins in two days last weekend. They defeated the Troy Haymakers 8-2 and Nolan Propane 17-7 Friday, and then they swept a Saturday doubleheader against the Haymakers by scores of 4-1 and 7-4.

In all, the Twilight League played 14 games between June 18 and 23.

Albany rallies for a pair of home wins to remain on top in PGCBL

By SPORTS STAFF
jonasr@spotlightnews.com

The Albany Dutchmen ended a brief losing streak by doing what they do best: getting a clutch hit.

LaSalle Institute graduate Zach Remillard's pinch-hit single in the bottom of the seventh inning drove in Jack Wietlispach with the winning run in first-place Albany's 2-1 victory over Glens Falls in the nightcap of Sunday's Perfect Game Collegiate Baseball League doubleheader at Bob Bellizzi Field.

Albany (10-3) took a 1-0 lead on Joe Purritano's RBI single in the bottom of the first inning, but Glens Falls (10-6) tied the score in the top of the fourth when Braxton Martinez doubled and came home on Raphael Gladu's single.

A pair of Golden Eagles errors in the bottom of the seventh inning put runners in scoring position for Remillard, who became the latest Dutchmen player to get a walk-off hit. Albany had two walk-off hits over the previous three home games.

Albany's win ended a two-game losing streak against Glens Falls. The Golden Eagles defeated the Dutchmen 2-1 last Saturday in Glens Falls and took the opening game of Sunday's doubleheader 7-6 in Albany.

James Smith belted a solo home run in the third inning, and Spencer Johnson added a double and a run for Glens Falls in its Saturday victory, which ended Albany's four-game winning streak. Zach Hopf pitched shutout ball until the seventh inning, when Chris Suseck drove in Albany's lone run with a two-out single.

The Dutchmen got the early jump on Glens Falls in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader. Anthony Marks belted an RBI double, and Bradley Noland added an RBI triple in the bottom of the second inning for a 2-0 Albany lead.

Glens Falls got one run in the top of the third inning before exploding for five runs in the fifth. Bryan Ramirez belted
