"As we learn what he has done for this country and we stand before this man, are we not humbled by his heroism?" asked Albany USPS District Manager Luke Grossman.

Currey received the Congressional Medal of Honor at just 19 years old for heroism and bravery during World War II. His actions on Dec. 21, 1944 in Belgium, led to the rescue of five American soldiers who were trapped in a home under heavy enemy fire. The German soldiers were forced to withdraw from the area after suffering heavy casualties because of Currey's efforts.

Another local business is attempting to purchase the Bethlehem Central School District's property at 90 Adams Place, and this potential tenant appears likely to meet the approval of neighborhood residents.
The Stram Center of Integrative Medicine, currently at 388 Kenwood Avenue, is hoping to move to the larger location. A use variance is still needed from the town in order for the sale to be finalized because the only allowed uses in the neighborhood are for a private home or telecommunications office. The town's Zoning Board of Appeals set a Nov. 20 public hearing for the project at its most recent meeting.

"The sale is proceeding as planned, and the district is hopeful the Zoning Board review will move swiftly so we can finalize the sale of the building," said BCSD

The school district had filed a lawsuit against the town in July after the Zoning Board denied a use variance to sell the property to School's Out, Inc. The local daycare provider had been looking to purchase the district's property at 90 Adams to relocate its headquarters, but the variance decision halted the sale.
However, the lawsuit has since been dropped because another potential buyer

District plans to bring in K9 for locker searches; prior school shooting almost attempted

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

Guilderland school officials are implementing several measures to address safety issues, but the one attracting the most attention involves man’s best friend.

The Guilderland Board of Education met with the town’s police department in September to explore the possibility of introducing K9 search dog “Rocky” into its school buildings for potential drug and weapon sweeps, said district Superintendent Marie Wiles.

“In the context of that conversation, we realized our school district — in concert with the Guilderland Police Department — does a tremendous amount of work together on the topic of school safety,” Wiles said.

The Board of Education heard a program report on school safety from high school Assistant Principal Lisa Patierne and district Resource Officer Nick Ingle on Wednesday, Nov. 6.

The presentation focused on the district’s partnership with the police department, why the district needs to be more sensitive towards safety issues and the strategies implemented, along with what safety initiatives are being planned.

“We can’t inspire, we can’t cover the common core, we can’t do all those things we need to do as a school if first we don’t keep our students, our staff and our faculty safe and secure.”

- District Superintendent Marie Wiles

Wiles said the issue of school safety is “at the center” of the district’s goals, with it appearing in the first sentence of the district’s vision statement.

“It is so important to put this in the context of all the work that we do in our school district and this might be a night where we talk about school safety, but it is in the context of our overall mission,” Wiles said. “We can’t inspire, we can’t cover the common core, we can’t do all those things we need to do as a school if first we don’t keep our students, our staff and our faculty safe and secure.”

Part of the district’s approach to increasing the police presence in the schools involves bringing in “Rocky” to search for drugs and weapons.

Patierne said when a dog search is undertaken, all students and staff would be locked down in classrooms, and only a designated area of the building would be searched. Lockers would not be opened unless “Rocky” detects something and district administrators choose to open that locker.

The searches would be at a “random times” throughout the school year, Patierne said, and “certainly would not be every day.”

Patierne started her presentation sharing a statement from the National Center for Analysis of Violent Crime, which said, “Forms of school violence are not just a school problem or law enforcement problem. They involve schools, families and the communities.”

Patierne said the district has partnerships with many community organizations tackling several different issues such as bullying prevention, individual wellness and mental health, community enhancement and helping high school seniors transition to secondary education.

School shootings increasing
Patierne said between 1992 and 2004, the victimization rates for students 12 to 18 years old declined, but “targeted school shootings” have been increasing.

In the 1970s there were four incidents of targeted school shootings, with the number only jumping to five the following decade, Patierne said. In the 1990s, there were 28 targeted school shootings. In 2000, there was 13 shootings, which increased to 15 in 2007, 18 in 2008 and 37 in 2009 — a high for that decade.

“That is very concerning,” Patierne said. “As you can imagine, fear has a direct impact on higher brain functioning needed to learn, and school shootings have a profound impact on the county and community.”

Ingle said in 2001, a senior at Guilderland High School had planned to commit a school shooting, which he said most people were probably unaware of. Andrew Hernandez, who murdered his mother, wrote a plan for the attack which involved bringing guns into school wrapped in an American flag.

“He had names of students that he was going to kill and use as hostages, human shields,”

Ingle said. “He was going to then walk to the resource officer’s office and kill the officer because he knew he had a gun. Then, he was going to take an elevated position on the roof and shoot first responders as they came in.”

Ingle said on the night before Hernandez’s planned attack, he decided to “test” himself and shot his mother. Hernandez then went to Crossgates Mall to see a movie, Ingle said. Later that night, Hernandez turned himself into police.

“This school was hours away from having it happen,” Ingle said.

Wiles said the presentation was aimed to provide the board, school staff and community members with a broader picture of measures undertaken by the district.

Police Blotter

Police: Man stole electronics from vending machine

Surveillance footage allegedly captured a Schenectady man stealing from a vending machine that held items much more valuable than snacks or refreshments.

State Police said around 3:15 a.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 6, it received a report of a damaged vending machine at the Guilderland Thruway Service Area. The machine held electronics from Best Buy such as iPads, cameras and cell phone charges, according to police.

Police said a man was clearly seen removing items from the machine and employees at the service area identified the individual as their coworker Dominick Lisi.

Police questioned Lisi, 48, at his Schenectady home and he allegedly cooperated and turned over the stolen items.

Lisi was arrested and charged with petit larceny and criminal possession of stolen property in the fifth degree.

Lisi was released and issued an appearance ticket to return to Guilderland Town Court at 5 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 14.

Other arrests:

• Guilderland police arrested Jimi D. Hawes, 38, of 29 Wilan Lane in Albany, around 11:35 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 17, and charged him with felony DWI for having a previous conviction and leaving the scene of property damage. Police received a call claiming a vehicle had run over the lawn and bushes in front of a Gipp Road home. The property owner said he allegedly left the scene, but his vehicle's license plate fell off his vehicle at the incident. Police went to Hawes home and he answered his door in a bathrobe, claiming he just returned home from Cumberland Farms. He allegedly told police he drove off the road into some bushes and that he consumed two beers before driving to the store. Police said a chemical test revealed he had a BAC of 0.13 percent.

• Guilderland police arrested Olonjadae M. Rouse, 20, of 382 Madison Ave. #2 in Albany, at 6:40 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 24, and charged him with grand larceny in the fourth degree, a felony. Rouse was released from Albany County jail on an active arrest warrant for the charge.

• Guilderland police arrested Anthony J. Palma, 44, of 3211 Phillip St. in Schenectady, at 2:10 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 20, and charged him with DWI, failure to stay in a single lane, failure to keep to the right and speeding. Police said Palma was operating his Buick in an "erratic manner" and attempted to come to a "screeching" stop in the middle at a red light at the intersection of Route 155 and Old State Road. He allegedly passed through the light and turned onto Old State Road. Police said he didn't show any signs of complying to pull over "for a period of time" before slowing down and putting on his passenger-side blinker, slowing into the shoulder, and back into the lane to continue down the road. Police later pulled him over on Kings Road.

Police said he had an "intoxicated glaze," slowed actions and reactions, impaired motor coordination, slurred speech and a strong odor of alcohol coming from his breath. After asked for his license and registration, police said he "continuously" attempted to provide a GlobalFoundries ID card believing it was his license. After his third attempting at offering the ID card, police said informed him his license was required. He allegedly fumbled with his license and registration, along with then forgetting both were requested.

Palma allegedly admitted to consuming alcohol before driving, police said. He had trouble opening his door and then used his vehicle for balance after exiting, police said. After police asked him to step away from the vehicle he appeared to become "top heavy" and allegedly almost lost his balance. Police said a pre-screen device tested positive, but he refused to take a chemical test.

• Guilderland police arrested Philip O. Ayoreh, 28, of 11 Firehouse Lane in West Sand Lake, around 3:55 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 20, and charged him with DWI, operating a motor vehicle with a suspended registration, failure to keep right and speeding. Police allegedly observed Ayoreh speeding up and slowing down, from 52 MPH to 38 MPH, and driving in the right and left eastbound lanes on Western Avenue. He allegedly did not stop until a half-mile after police activated emergency lights and sirens. Police said he had bloodshot eyes, slurred speech, impaired motor coordination and "was very obvious (he) just used a type of mouth wash." A chemical breath test revealed he had a BAC of 0.16 percent.

• Guilderland police arrested Christina D. Jager, 34, of 418 Route 146 in Guilderland Center, at 12:15 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 19, and charged her with DWI, speeding and failure to stay in a single lane. Police said Jager was allegedly driving 13 MPH over the speed limit on Western Avenue, along with crossing into the curb lane and crossing markings to the left. Police said she had a "strong odor" of alcohol coming from her, glassy eyes and vomit on herself and in her vehicle. She allegedly fumbled with her license and registration. Police said a breath test revealed she had a BAC of 0.15 percent.

Two arrested for animal cruelty

Bethlehem Police discover malnourished horses at farm

The Bethlehem Police Department executed a search warrant at 80 Waldenmaier Road on Monday, Nov. 11, as a result of a multi-week investigation into complaints of animal cruelty and neglect of horses.

Police said upon arrival to Stone Brook Farms, 33 horses were found on the property. After an investigation, some horses were allegedly found to be in various stages of neglect and malnourishment.

Karen Burrows

Others were allegedly found to be without water. All horses were examined by licensed veterinarians and as a result of the examinations eight horses were seized to undergo further evaluation, treatment, and care. Police said the seized horses will be stored at another location until further ordered by the Town of Bethlehem Court.

As a result of this investigation, Karen A. Burrows, 49, and William J. Trianni, 25, both of 80 Waldenmaier Road, were arrested and charged with eight counts of failure to provide sustenance, a Class A misdemeanor under the New York State Agriculture and Markets Law. Both subjects were released on appearance tickets and are due to return to the Town of Bethlehem Court on December 3 at 4 p.m.

Halloween event a spooky success

Editor, The Spotlight:

On Friday, Oct. 25, Elsmere Elementary School PTA hosted their annual Halloween Happenings event at the school. Halloween Happenings offers Elsmere Elementary School students and their families' safe and fun Halloween activities. Activities included a DJ and dancing in the gym, storytelling and crafts in the library, and pizza and treats in the cafeteria. A Halloween themed bake sale was new to this year's event. Local businesses generously donated goods and services to be raffled.

The Elsmere Elementary School PTA would like to acknowledge the following community individuals and businesses for their generous support: Balance Massage, BCHS Key Club, Bounce-A-Lot Party and Music Rentals, Choices Hair Studio, Delmar Printers, Dunkin Donuts, Elsmere School PTA volunteers, Elsmere School KTA, The Floral Garden, Four Corners Pharmacy, Hannaford Supermarkets, Honest Weight Food CoOp, I Love Books, Joyelle's Jewelers, Katie Diamond/Mary Kay Consultant, Murray's Pizza, Nelson Dental Healthcare, The Paper Mill, Peaceful Inspirations, Peyster Street Designs, RCS Student Volunteers, Shogun Restaurant, Tiny Tots Tea Room, and Wild Sage Designs.

Thank you to all who contributed to this being another successful event.

Thank you, Bethlehem voters

Editor, The Spotlight:

I want to thank Bethlehem's voters for allowing me the privilege of serving as Town Supervisor for another term. It is a great responsibility, not entered into lightly, and I will do my very best to reward your choice.

Of course, as in any election, there are disappointed candidates and voters. Please be assured that I will always strive to represent all of the citizens, and the entire town. Political parties and campaigns are a necessary component of democracy, but after the election we must all turn to governance, and partisan politics should play no role. Similarly, everyone in elective office must represent, serve, and respect the views and interests of every area of town. It's my job as supervisor to do so.

I hope and expect that together with the Town Board, the wonderful town staff we have, and with robust participation in decision making by the public, that town government will continue to at least meet and very often exceed your expectations. As I've said many times, Bethlehem should lead, and if we are not setting the standard in every area of town government, we've not yet reached our potential. There is always more to do.

Thank you again, and please accept my very best wishes for a wonderful holiday season for everyone.

Meredith thanks his supporters

Editor, The Spotlight:

I write to express my sincere thank you to the residents of Bethlehem for their support of my candidacy to become Bethlehem's next Highway Superintendent. I am gratified and humbled by the overwhelming support I received on Election Day and I pledge to devote all of my energies, skills and talents to assure that our town's Highway Department is efficiently and effectively lead. I am looking forward to January 1, when I will officially take the helm of this important town Department.

I also want to express my appreciation to my fellow candidates who also sought this elected position – Frank Zeoli, Howard Hyer and Terry Ritz. Seeking election is a humbling experience and one that involves hard work, determination, perseverance and a thick skin. Each one of us made a decision to put ourselves out in the public domain to seek this office – and for this reason – I have the utmost respect and admiration for my colleagues and I salute each one of them for their efforts.

Now that the election is over, I look forward to moving forward and working closely with Howard and Terry, who both hold important positions in our town government. My priority above all else will be to do everything I can to assure that the Highway Department is exceptional in all respects – in the services it provides to our community and in the work that it focuses on.

Finally, I want to say a special thank you to those of you in our community – old friends as well as supporters who have become close friends and mentors – I greatly appreciate your guidance and belief in me. I also want to say thank you to my family – my wife Joanne and our four children – who worked tirelessly alongside me since I decided to run in June – it was a great and unifying family experience.

I look forward to serving our community as Bethlehem's next Highway Superintendent.

Honored by the support at the polls

Editor, The Spotlight:

I want to sincerely thank the many residents of Bethlehem who elected me to be the next town justice. I am truly grateful for the outpouring of support I received on Election Day and pledge to dedicate myself to the role of town justice for the next four years. During my term, I will work tirelessly to continue our town court's excellent reputation for fairness and justice.

I wish to express my respect for my two opponents, Dale Desnoyers and Jim Kelly for the honorable, fair and tireless campaigns both gentlemen ran this year for this important town position. Dale and Jim are excellent attorneys and they and their supporters worked hard over the last several months. Our interactions on the campaign trail were always pleasant, cordial and in keeping with our shared commitment to the highest ethical and professional standards.

I wish to thank my family, friends, neighbors and supporters throughout our community. Without their ongoing help, advice, support and commitment my election would not have been possible. I asked much of them-organizing events, preparing mailings, making numerous telephone calls, and walking with me through Bethlehem's many neighborhoods. My supporters gave their time and energy to my campaign and I am humbled by their tremendous efforts.

I would like to extend a special thank you to my law partner and mentor, Tom Conway. Simply put, I would not be the person I am today without his guidance and support over the last twenty years. The very qualities of integrity, hard work and professionalism that Bethlehem voters saw in me were largely instilled by Tom. I am glad he can share in my election success, for a large part of it is owed to him.

In closing, I am very excited to serve as your next town justice, and over the next four years I look forward to bringing the same experience, integrity and professionalism to the bench that I employed as your town prosecutor. Bethlehem can rest assured that its newest judge will endeavor to serve the community with the fairness they deserve, and the character they expect.

Don't ignore the other side

Last Tuesday's elections in Bethlehem, Guilderland and Colonie yielded similar results, as Democrats won the supervisor's seat in all three towns and received the lion's share of votes for their respective town boards.

We applaud all of the voters who took the time to head to the polls and become engaged in their town government, and we'd like to believe that, whether they backed the prevailing candidate or not, their voices will be heard.

Throughout the campaign season, Republicans in all of the communities we cover took a stand against "one-party rule." We don't believe that a single party in power is, in and of itself, a bad thing as long as there was a choice. At the end of the day, it's the voters who have spoken, and if they don't like it, they can speak again when it's time to vote next year. We only hope that come January, those in power keep in mind the ideas and questions brought forward by their opponents during the campaigns. After all, those ideas did resonate with a fair number of voters in all of our coverage areas.

For example, there were a number of ideas tossed around during the Bethlehem candidate's forum on Oct. 22 regarding the Vista Technology Campus off Route 85. Supervisor John Clarkson has indicated he intends to continue pursuing high-tech tenants for the space, and some of his opponent Fred DiMaggio's solutions about aggressively reaching out to those companies could prove useful in that goal.

While his attacks on what he called a lack transparency and fiscal responsibility in Supervisor Paula Mahan's administration did not resonate with most voters, Colonie Republican supervisor candidate and small business owner Todd Drake's background did make him qualified to speak about encouraging economic development in town.

And finally, although Guilderland supervisor candidate Mark Grimm never had the opportunity to engage incumbent Ken Runion in a debate, some of Grimm's ideas – as seen on his campaign's website – have merit. Those include raising the town's online profile with a more interactive Facebook page and an opt-in alert system to keep citizens informed in times of crisis.

We know that in every election, there are winners and there are losers, but even in the wake of the overwhelming results in all three towns, there are some ideas from the other party worth taking note of.

A Civil War soldier's story

By Bill Howard

The author is a historian and author who graduated from Bethlehem Central High School in 1979. A lifelong student of history, he has authored several books and published many articles on historical topics. His latest book, "The Civil War Memoir of William T. Levey," is available from the Northshire Press.

A rare document that recalls the military service of a Civil War soldier from the town of Bethlehem was recently discovered for sale on an online auction website.

The document, an officer's commission dated June 1, 1864, appointed Bethlehem resident Leonard Lasher to serve as a Second Lieutenant in the 43rd New York Volunteer Infantry. The document was signed by New York Governor Horatio Seymour and was purchased by a private collector.

Leonard Lasher was born in 1845, and his parents were Anthony and Anna (Litchfield) Lasher. When the 43rd New York was recruiting volunteers in the summer of 1862, Lasher enrolled to serve three years. Although the military records list his age as 21, he was actually only 17 when he enlisted.

He had an interesting, if convoluted, career with the famed 43rd New York, a regiment known as "The Albany Rifles." Lasher was initially made a Sergeant in Company H of the Regiment shortly following his enlistment in the fall of 1862, but was later returned to the ranks and made a Corporal. He was not promoted back to non-commissioned rank until early in 1864, but then lost the Sergeant's promotion again when his company of the regiment the 43rd was consolidated with another unit.

On June 1, 1864, Governor Seymour signed his commission as Second Lieutenant, but Lasher never served in that rank. He was put on the rolls of another regiment, the 59th New York Infantry, in December 1864, but never joined the unit. This may have been a bureaucratic courtesy to allow for the award of his commission.

The 43rd New York served in the Union Army of the Potomac and was composed primarily of Albany County men – although there were two companies formed in New York City and two others in other New York State counties. The Regiment fought in some of the Civil War's bloodiest battles, but was only lightly engaged in the three-day fight at Gettysburg, where it lost one officer and three men. During its service, the 43rd lost a total of 15 officers and 229 enlisted men.

Corporal Lasher was wounded during the Second Battle of Fredericksburg in May 1863, but the Albany newspapers reported that his wounds were slight; one paper reported him as wounded in the "arm, not seriously," and another reported wounds to the "head and arm." Most of these newspaper accounts were based on letters that were sent home by officers and men serving with the Regiment in the field, and the specific details were not always accurate.

Captain David H. Burhans, another Bethlehem resident who served in the 43rd Infantry, wrote in a letter to his brother after the Salem Church battle in May 1863 that "Corporal Lasher has a slight wound in the arm [and that] no Bethlehem boys [were] hurt in the fight that I know of, excepting Corporal Lasher." Burhans would later be killed in action at Spotsylvania, Virginia on May 10, 1864.

After the Union army's hard fought campaigns in the summer of 1864, Lasher was finally promoted to Sergeant in November. He had been given an officer's commission to the rank of Second Lieutenant in June 1864, but was never formally mustered into the position. In a statement provided to the Bethlehem town clerk long after the war, Lasher indicated that he had "served thro' all of the campaigns of the Regt. [and had] been promoted 2d Leut. and then 1st Leut."

Lasher returned to Bethlehem after the war and was engaged in farming. He married the former Mariah L. Kimmey and received a federal invalid pension in 1890. When he died in 1914, his wife was awarded a widow's pension. The couple is buried in the Elmwood Cemetery in Selkirk in a lot that features an impressive stone obelisk. His gravestone notes his service with the 43rd New York Infantry.

Caporizzo speaks at the library Friday

V'ville FOL sponsors New York City trip

For News 10 meteorologist Steve Caporizzo, “raining cats and dogs” is more than a metaphor.

This Friday, Nov. 15, at 1 p.m., Caporizzo will be at Bethlehem Public Library to talk about his two great passions: forecasting the weather and rescuing homeless pets. He will share information about his career in meteorology, his volunteer work with area pet rescue organizations and his program, Pet Connection. The talk is open to seniors and other interested adults, and is cosponsored by Bethlehem Senior Projects, Inc.

Library asks patrons to bundle up International Games Day

Bring your favorite sweatshirt or a fuzzy sweater this week when you come to the library. We are airing out the library after two days of releasing the residual chemicals from the carpeting.

Over the Veterans Day holiday, we heated the floor of the library to “bake” the carpet adhesive that we think has been the source of an unhealthy odor. Now, we are keeping the windows open to speed the ventilation process. We expect this ultimately will improve the situation. If not, back we go to the environmental engineer.

Bethlehem YMCA kicks off support campaign

On Thursday, Nov. 21, at 6 p.m., the Bethlehem YMCA will host a special event to kick off our 2014 Annual Campaign — one of the premier charitable fund-raising efforts in our community. You are welcome to stop by to enjoy food and beverages, but most importantly, to hear the stories of people whose lives have been changed for the better by the YMCA, all because of the support of generous members of the Bethlehem community.

Now you might be saying, “Wait a second ... Annual Campaign? What’s that?” For many years, the Y’s scholarship program was called “Reach Out For Youth,” and it helped thousands of low-income families in Bethlehem use Y programs — from child care to summer camp to wellness programs — that they could not otherwise afford.

The Annual Campaign is a new name for this fund-raising and scholarship effort, but its mission remains the same. The new name better reflects the wide range of people who benefitted. The program encompasses more than just kids; it benefits adults as well.

For example, an older adult with Parkinson’s Disease could have their symptoms eased by the Y’s Pedaling for Parkinson’s program, or a middle-aged man facing serious health problems can get in healthier shape through the 50 Moving Forward program or the Diabetes Self-management program.

Yes, the Annual Campaign will still reach out to the youth in our community; not just through camp and day care, but also through academic advancement programs, sports programs and more.

The new name — the YMCA Annual Campaign — better reflects the overall mission of the Y to promote healthy living through programs that encourage a healthy lifestyle; promote social responsibility by investing our time and efforts to address local needs in the Bethlehem community; and by supporting youth development by helping young people realize their full potential.

So on Nov. 21, one week before Thanksgiving, stop the by the Bethlehem Y at 6 p.m. to hear people tell their story about why they are thankful for the support they received from the Y and its generous staff and members, and the thoughtful people in our community.

Diabetes prevention program

Data from the Gallup-

Healthways Well-Being Index indicates that the adult obesity rate in our country has reached 27.2 percent, compared with 26.2 percent in 2012 and 25.5 percent in 2008. The rising obesity rate means more Americans are at risk for developing Type 2 diabetes. Besides being overweight, other risk factors include not exercising regularly, high blood pressure, low ‘good’ cholesterol, being over age 45 and having a family history of diabetes.

If you have some of these risk factors, the Bethlehem YMCA has a comprehensive, effective, diabetes prevention program that can give you your health and your life back. The program gathers people with common risk factors into a small, supportive group that focuses on healthy eating, increased exercise, and weight loss. This simple approach has been proven to prevent or delay the onset of the disease by more than 58 percent. Physical activity is also important for your overall wellbeing, and can help with many other health conditions.

Nancy Moorby of Bethlehem participated in the program and said, “Now that I am more physically active and eating healthier, I have met my goal of losing twenty pounds. The Diabetes Prevention Program has really helped me to change my life, and I feel great.”

You can prevent or delay the onset of Type 2 diabetes through a healthy lifestyle. This Y program can teach you how to change your diet, help increase your level of physical activity and encourage you to maintain a healthy weight. With these positive steps, you can stay healthier longer and reduce your risk of diabetes.

Working together in a small group is also an important part of the Diabetes Prevention Program. Participant Carolyn Heidt said, “We encouraged each other with praise when we lost weight and offered advice when we needed some assistance. More sharing can happen in small groups.”

In a classroom setting, the Y’s Lifestyle Coach will create a supportive environment where the participants come together for 16 one-hour sessions that focus on topics such as nutrition, how to get started with physical activity, how to overcome stress, breaking bad habits and staying motivated.

The goals of the program are simple: each participant will lose seven percent of their body weight and gradually increase their level of physical activity to 150 minutes per week. After the initial 16 weekly core sessions are complete, the program transitions into the maintenance phase where we meet monthly for up to a year to track your continued progress.

If you would like additional information on the program, please contact Shawn St. James at the Bethlehem YMCA at 439-4394, ext. 1425. It’s one call that can change your life for the better.

The stamp booklet will not be the first commemorative Medal of Honor piece to bear

Postal Service officials said the release of the stamp booklet took longer than expected. The original plan was to place the pictures of each of the 12 living recipients on the actual stamp. It was later decided to place the men's faces on the booklet and depict the medal itself in order to honor all veterans who had received the medal.

The ceremony in Colonie was also meant to honor Gerald Cahill, a supervisor at the Waterford Post Office who served in active duty with the Army for 11 years. He also served in the Army National Guard for 20 years, with a callback to active duty in Iraq and Kuwait.

Grossman said Cahill's tale "speaks to the story of so many postal employees who have served our great country."

Cahill said it was an honor to be commemorated in the same ceremony as Currey, who will also travel for another presentation in Washington D.C.

A place for peace or play?

Opponents of proposed sports complex say it would destroy serenity of the adjacent cemetery

By BILLY DeLAP
delapb@spotlightnews.com

A local developer is hoping to build a sports complex next to Memory Gardens, a memorial park on Watervliet-Shaker Road, but opponents say such a move would destroy the serenity of the place.

Much of the outcry from the public and Memory Gardens' board of directors stems from concerns that cheering crowd noise could interrupt a funeral service or a solemn moment as someone is paying respects to a loved one.

Afrim Nezaj, the owner of Afrim Sports, Inc. who is seeking a variance from the Colonie zoning board to allow him to build the multi-use sports complex says those concerns are misplaced.

Nezaj compared the worries of the board of directors to those of a child who thinks there is a monster under the bed.

"All the things they think are in the closet or under the bed aren't really there," Nezaj said, adding that he thinks Memory Gardens is beautiful place, and he would most likely be buried there. "I respect what they do; they should respect what I do."

Opposed to Nezaj's plans for a sports complex is Latham resident Zelda Golden, 83, who purchased four plots at Memory Gardens in 1950. Her husband is buried in one of them.

"I think it would be too boisterous next to a place of dignity and respect. I could see myself at a funeral service and hear cheers go up; it just makes me go cold," said Golden.

Cheryl Rebhan, who is vice president of the Memory Gardens board of directors said she believes noise from an adjacent sports complex would destroy the peacefulness of the memorial park.

"People go there to read, eat lunch by the pond. It's very serene and quiet. To take all that serenity from people, it's hard to fathom that," Rebhan said. "There is a man who comes in and will sit next to his wife's grave all day and read the newspaper or a book. I can't imagine how he would feel if there was cheering in the background."

Memory Gardens sits on 200 acres on a ridge that is one of the highest points in the town of Colonie and is the final resting place

A similar dome in Bethlehem

Afrim Sports is scheduled to go before the Bethlehem Zoning Board of Appeals on Wednesday, Nov. 20, in an effort to obtain a use variance for a similar dome project in partnership with the Bethlehem Soccer Club at their property on Wemple Road. Some neighbors are also opposed to this project, citing a loss or property value and that the structure will obstruct their views of nature. Read more about this in past stories posted at spotlightnews.com.

of approximately 36,000 people. There is room for at least another 140,000 burial sites. There are fountains, ponds and well-manicured landscaping throughout the grounds.

Afrim Sports is applying for a land use variance permit so it can build four soccer fields and an 86,865-square-foot dome. Currently, the land on 969 Watervliet Shaker Road is zoned for commercial and office buildings. The variance permit is required because a law passed in the Town of Colonie in 2007 would classify the new complex as a major amusement area. The zoning board will be taking a look at the variance request at its Thursday, Nov. 21 meeting.

Nezaj said he believes the land next to the memorial park would be ideal for a number of reasons.

"When I went there, I saw flat land and a cemetery next door. It has the least amount of people it would affect," said Nezaj.

There is a ridge lined with trees that borders the property line and separates where the field would be and the burial sites, but at their closest point, the field is less than 100 feet away from a gravestone.

Rebhan said she is not against the sports park, just the proposed location.

"It's just the noise," she said. "I'm all for sports; kids need a place to play. I just don't think this is the right place."

Andrew Carroll, director of the cemetery, echoed Rebhan's concerns.

"We usually have anywhere from 10 to 20 burials a week, with Saturday being the busiest day." Carroll said. "It's not that we don't like soccer or kids playing sports; we just think it's too close."

Nezaj said the proposed location is important for the sports complex because the Colonie soccer teams need to be where other teams can easily get to the field. He said that in order to play the teams that they need to play, they need a big facility that will draw in teams from other areas. He said he wants teams to come here instead of going to places like Maryland or Connecticut.

"For any facility to be successful it needs to be someplace easily accessible. I know I could go someplace cheaper or different, but people won't go," Nezaj said. "These four fields could be the pride of the Capital Region."

In an attempt to ease citizens' concerns about noise, Nezaj hired Chazen Companies to test the sound levels at various spots at the Rotterdam soccer facility while five youth games were being played. Those recordings found the decibel levels were all below the normal level of conversation, which is 60.0 to 65 decibels.

There is no proposed announcing system nor are there any bleachers planned that would add people and noise, said Nezaj who will be presenting his findings at the Nov. 21 Zoning Board meeting. He said he encourages Memory Gardens to hire its own contractor to run a test if they don't agree with his findings.

While opponents of the field cite noise as one of their biggest concerns, the visual impact of the dome and the 75-foot-tall lights has also been part of the discussion. Memory Gardens staff are also worried people would drive into the cemetery to park and walk to the fields, which would be closer to the fields than the proposed complex's parking lot.

Nezaj said those are non issues.

"If we have lights, it won't bother them because they'll only be on at night," he said. He also said there are ample parking spots planned, and he doesn't think seeing the fields will be an issue because of the ridge and the trees that separate the field and the cemetery.

Meanwhile, Memory Gardens has a created a petition on Change.org which has currently been signed by 1,354 people. They have also sent out letters and asked people to write to newspapers and voice their opposition.

Despite the organized opposition to the sports complex, Nezaj said he has been getting a lot of positive feedback to his plans.

"A lot of people are coming up to me who say, 'I've got people buried there, and I support it,'" said Nezaj.

There will be a zoning board meeting held at the Public Operations Center on Thursday, Nov. 21, at 7 p.m., at which time the public can comment on the proposed sports complex.

Running for fun

A dozen Capital District elementary schools, including three from Guilderland and St. Thomas from Bethlehem, participated in the Just Run track meet at Tawasentha Park in Guilderland Wednesday, Nov. 6. Girls and boys, in third through fifth grade raced 1-mile and half-mile increments in staggered heats.

The track meet was the culmination of the fall season of the Just Run program, which is a nationwide program sponsored locally by the Hudson Mohawk Road Runners Club. Just Run aims to promote fitness and healthy lifestyle choices, and students in participating schools meet regularly as a group and track their running goals independently. The spring session will start up in March.

Ken Skinner, program administrator through HMRRC, said the running club has sponsored Just Run for four years.

“It has really grown over the years,” said Skinner, adding that participation has nearly doubled in the last two.

He said that while all Capital District schools are welcome to participate, rural and urban schools that don't have a lot of after-school offerings can benefit the most from the program.

Bethlehem Dems sweep election

Clarkson beats DiMaggio 5,684 to 4,064

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

With the Democrats sweeping Tuesday night's general election, only one Republican continues to hold an elected office in the Town of Bethlehem.

Supervisor John Clarkson beat Republican candidate Fred DiMaggio 5,684 to 4,064. Clarkson said the election's results signify a unified Democratic party in Bethlehem. Democratic candidates won all races including town board, highway superintendent and town clerk. The lone Republican in elected town office is receiver of taxes Nancy Mendick, who was not up for re-election Tuesday.

When I first decided to run, we weren't a healthy party," said Clarkson on Tuesday night. "We had left the voters. We have now reconnected with the voters."

In 2011, Clarkson chose to run for Supervisor against Town Board member Kyle Kotary after Sam Messina made it known he would not be seeking re-election. Messina's decision left Kotary the sole candidate, who was endorsed by the town's Democratic, Republican and Independence parties.

The following year, Clarkson played a key role in helping develop the town's Reform Democrat movement, which continued the perceived split in the party after some longtime committee members were replaced.

"I think the majority of voters realize that we're now trying to move the town in a positive direction," said Democratic Chairman and Councilman Jeffrey Kuhn. "I think this demonstrates how unified the party is now. The new members of the committee rallied around the nominees and delivered a resounding endorsement."

On Election night, many of the candidates also thanked Messina for his advice and leadership during the past several election cycles.

DiMaggio said the reason he opted to run for office is because he did not feel comfortable with a one-party majority in the town's elected offices.

"I don't think one-party rule is a good thing," he said. "It wasn't good for the last 150 years with the Republicans, and it's certainly not good for the past 10 years with the Democrats."

Kuhn argued the main function of a political party is to get their candidates elected to office.

DiMaggio led a multi-party coalition called "Bethlehem United" that was endorsed by the town's Republican Committee. DiMaggio said the coalition came together in the spring after it was announced a referendum would take place to decide if the town should abolish the elected position of highway superintendent and place those responsibilities under the commissioner of public works. The referendum failed 3,086 to 1,969.

The GOP endorsed candidates for Town Board were Linda Jasinski, a Conservative, and Dan Cunningham, a member of the Independence Party. The group's main goals consisted of cutting taxes, lowering the town's fund balance to provide tax relief and promoting economic development.

"When you talk about tax cuts, it doesn't affect everybody the same," said Cunningham. "So maybe the issues that we focused on were not as important to the people as we thought they should be."

Julie Sasso and Councilman Bill Reinhardt were endorsed by the Democrats, and won with about 28 percent of the vote each.

Reinhardt said he was happy the Democratic Party remained positive throughout the campaign and Clarkson agreed.

"We don't need to rely on false alliances. We don't need to create fictions. We are the majority party. We are the responsible party," said Clarkson to committee members during his victory speech. "The intelligent electorate we have in Bethlehem, they do not take easy answers, they do not take kindly to negative politics, and they certainly don't want to see low-grade attack literature arriving in the mailboxes."

DiMaggio said he felt the Democrats did their fair share of "mudslinging" as well, and did not feel all the blame should be placed on him.

"I don't think there were major mistakes made in the campaign," he said. "I think there were equally nasty and vindictive responses from the other side."

Kuhn later responded that the Democratic Party did not send out "one negative mailer, email, or website link that had personal or misleading facts."

"I don't think there is any basis for that comment," said the Democratic chairman.

Looking to the future, DiMaggio said he would continue to be involved in the town's Republican committee but did not think he would go back to being the party's chairman because he felt it was time for a new voice.

Clarkson said now that the Democrats had won, their responsibility is to leave the town a better place for future generations.

Guilderland Republican bids fall short

Democrats sweep town races, Runion reelected to eighth term as supervisor

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

Guilderland Republicans presented a full slate of candidates for the first time in a decade but failed to pick up any seats against Democrat incumbents and newcomers.

Town Supervisor Ken Runion defeated Republican challenger Mark Grimm and secured his eighth two-year term. Runion received 4,855 votes, or 53 percent, with Grimm garnering 46 percent of votes and trailing by around 580 votes, according to unofficial election results.

"I have a good record, and as we were going door to door everyone seemed to be very happy with the town, they were very happy with the services we provide, and how the town had been managed over the last 14 years," Runion said.

Grimm's bid marked his return to politics after not seeking a second four-year term on the Town Board. Grimm had often clashed with Democratic board members and Runion.

Grimm said he knocked on 9,200 doors and received "a ton of support," but he was not sure why he fell short on Election Day.

"I really don't have an explanation for it," Grimm said. "We are going to have to study the numbers and see what happened."

Grimm did point to voter turnout as a possible reason for falling short.

"I think there is a difference between how people feel and how many people vote," Grimm said. "There is an issue with turnout tonight ... maybe it was a series of last-minute negative attacks that in many cases I wasn't even aware that may have depressed the vote for me and for my team."

Runion said town Democrats sent out last-minute "responses" to residents on Republican campaign literature that arrived at some homes the weekend before Election Day.

"I believe they felt there would be no response," Runion said. "It contained misinformation about me and about the town, but we obtained those letters on Saturday and framed responses to two of the three letters. ... Our letters were not negative; our letters were responsive."

Runion said he believe those Republican mailers backfired and emboldened voters, who otherwise would have not come to the polls.

More voters did turn out on Election Day this year than when Runion faced a challenger in 2009. Runion ran uncontested in 2011 after Grimm, who was then a Town Board member, withdrew his bid.

If everyone in town had voted, Grimm believed he would have won.

"Too many people stayed home," he said.

Runion said he believed the race was going to be close from the beginning, because of the town Republican's campaign tactics.

"It's probably the nastiest, most negative campaign I have ever seen ... it was terrible," Runion said. "We talked about the things we have done over the last several years."

Runion did not express concerns that he won by a tighter margin than in his last election challenge.

"In the end it isn't the margin of victory, it is the victory," Runion.

Democrats nab every seat

Town Board incumbent Patricia Slavick secured 4,833 votes (26.9 percent) and fellow Democrat Paul Pastore garnered 4,646 votes (25.8 percent). Republican Lee Carman, who is an Albany County legislator, captured 24.6 percent of votes and held 227 fewer votes than Pastore. Republican Mark Livingston's first bid for office yielded 4,073 votes, falling around 22.7 percent.

Democrat Jean Cataldo was elected town clerk and had 5,800 votes (64 percent), with Republican Jason Wright receiving 3,231 votes (36 percent). Democrat Lynne Buchanan was elected receiver of taxes and had 5,262 votes (58 percent), with Republican Bryan Best receiving 3,737 votes (42 percent).

Democrat Denise Randall was reelected Town Justice with 31 percent of votes and fellow Democrat Richard Sherwood was elected to the newly created Town Justice seat with 30 percent of votes. Republican candidates fell short, with Christopher Aldrich holding 20 percent and Stephen DeNigris at 19 percent.

DeNigris, a registered Democrat, said he plans to become a registered Republican.

"Tomorrow I change parties," he said. "As I got into this race even more I started seeing that the people that I thought were protecting our interests really weren't protecting our interests. Now I've got to the point where I couldn't even look at them anymore."

Town Republican Committee Chairman Matthew Nelligan said the party had "great candidates" and he was not disappointed in the campaigns.

"The effort we put forward is making a difference; it is showing residents that the Republican Party is alive," Nelligan said. "Our message is not going to die down. We are going to continue to raise the issues publicly and challenge the other side whenever there is problem. ... I do promise you we will be back."

Grimm echoed Nelligan's remarks and said the party is stronger.

"We did make progress. We had a competitive race ... and we gave people a choice," Grimm said. "We haven't convinced them yet that we are the right alternative. ... There are going to be better nights ahead for us and I hope to be a part of that."

SNAP cuts will mean busier regional food pantries

Less support from government program creates higher need

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

Food banks throughout the country could be in need of additional donations this holiday season because of a recent decrease to all Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program benefits.

With Thanksgiving weeks away, cuts to SNAP have come at an inopportune time. As of Nov. 1, all recipients of SNAP benefits will see an average decrease of $11 per person, per month. It is now expected a greater number of people will need to supplement the loss through the use of food banks.

“We are definitely expecting an increase in usage,” said Natasha Pernicka, director of The Food Pantries of the Capital Region, a coalition of 53 food pantries from across the region. “Many pantries are already reporting a record number of families seeking assistance.”

Pernicka said the cuts could be catastrophic for some families. The benefits are supposed to be used as a supplement to the recipients’ income, but oftentimes, tough decisions have to be made between paying essential bills and food. These decisions often leave people with less food to eat than desired.

The decrease to SNAP benefits come as the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 expires. The act was passed during the recession to help those in need during the economic downturn. Many SNAP recipients saw an increase of 13.6 percent in their allotment.

Ann Malak, a managing attorney at the Legal Aid Society of Northeastern New York, said unfortunately the economy hasn’t returned to the same level.

Paralegals at Legal Aid help clients to navigate the food stamp application process. Malak said they too are waiting to see what the outcome of the expiration of ARRA will be. Some may opt to not bother signing up for the benefits because taking the time to do the paper work may be perceived as too troublesome for the amount they receive in aid.

Along with the average person seeing a cut of $11 per month, the minimum payment was reduced from $16 to $15 per month. Malak said her organization is now working with recipients to better educate them about budgeting their benefits, as a family of four would see a reduction of $44.

“It’s possible it hasn’t hit some people yet that they have less money until they get to the end of the month and it’s gone already,” said Malak.

Mark Quandt, director of the Regional Food Bank of Northeastern New York, said it’s hard to know what the fallout will be, but past experience has been whenever programs are cut or the economy takes a turn for the worse, the number of people using local pantries tends to increase.

“I would assume that it will have a negative impact on peoples lives,” said Quandt.

Pernicka said the Food Pantries of the Capital District have seen a 52 percent increase of use since 2008. She said about 65,000 people in the greater Capital District struggle with food insecurity on a regular basis. The coalition serves enough food to provide 2.5 million meals annually, reaching about 50,000 local people.

Because of the expiration of ARRA, many who volunteer at local pantries are opting to take the SNAP Challenge from Feeding America. For a week, those who take the challenge can only live on $4.50 a day for all food and beverages.

Pernicka took the challenge for five days, as did Jane Sanders from the Bethlehem Food Pantry. Pernicka said she attempted to eat healthy by using a lot of her allotted funds to buy bulk vegetables, but at the end of the day, she continued to be hungry.

“Now, I realize I was being optimistic,” said Pernicka. “I found I didn’t have enough food and had a feeling of constant hunger. I never felt satisfied after eating my meals. I was not starving, just never satisfied.”

Sanders said she tried to shop carefully, but she ran out of money for some of the things she wanted and had to put items back. She got a pre-cooked turkey breast, some cheese, yogurt and frozen vegetables because she was also trying to eat healthy.

“It was an eye-opening experience,” said Sanders. “Obviously, we can’t get things from food pantries for ourselves. It gave me an appreciation for people living on a very limited budget.”

Although extra food donations to your local pantry are appreciated, most have said monetary donations can go further. For every $1 donated, food pantries can purchase 6 pounds worth of food. # Guilderland swiftly adopts $32M budget

Spending plan holds tax decrease, expenses and budgeted revenues increasing

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

Days after a contentious election cycle, the Guilderland Town Board quietly adopted next year’s budget.

The Town Board held a public hearing on its proposed 2014 budget Thursday, Nov. 7, but no residents shared any remarks on the nearly $32.19 million spending plan. Following the lackluster hearing, the board unanimously approved the budget holding a tax levy decrease of approximately 1.4 percent, or just over $153,000.

Town Supervisor Ken Runion said the adopted budget falls around $415,000 below the town’s state imposed property levy tax cap.

“I think that just goes to show how well we are doing here,” Runion said.

Runion described the town as being in “great shape” financially even after coming out of the worst of the recession starting around 2008.

“We are seeing increased revenues. We have reduced our costs here, and so I think the future is very good for the town,” Runion said. “I think we are probably the only municipality in the Capital District that has a tax cut. If we continue to budget and monitor our costs the way we have we may see additional tax cuts in the upcoming years.”

Part of the tax levy decrease was achieved through an additional $195,000 of fund balance allocation, which totals more than $1.71 million.

The town’s reserve funds totaled approximately $14 million at the end of 2012, which has increased from around $11 million in 2009, according to Runion. Last year, the town’s fund balances increased by $2 million.

“We appropriate some of our fund balances every year, but we have not used the appropriated fund balances in the last three years,” Runion said. “We put it in there to make sure we keep our tax rates level.”

He also said revenues are “always” budgeted lower than what is actually realized.

“Our sales tax revenue is ahead of what we projected for last year,” he said, “and if that trend continues, we may not have to use the appropriate fund balance.”

Spending is increasing by around $378,000, or 1.19 percent, as revenues are budgeted to increase more than $313,000, or 1.64 percent.

The budget includes a 2 percent raise for union and non-union employees, as well as for elected officials. Runion said salaries had not increased for two years and several retirements have also led to hiring new employees at a lower salary.

Runion said health insurance costs are increasing around 5 percent, which is less than previous years when it increased around 8 to 11 percent. State pension costs are dropping by about $83,500 from this year to total $205,585.

Runion also wanted to shift duties of the town attorney and deputy attorney, which will have the deputy attorney taking on night court duties. This effectively had no change in expenses, he said, because the new town attorney’s salary will be lower as the deputy’s is increasing.

“There is a little bit of a savings there, but not much. It is really just a reallocation,” he said.

Councilman Brian Forte said the budget saves residents “some money” while maintaining town services.

A summary of the town’s adopted budget is planned to be posted to its website at www.townofguilderland.org. The complete budget can only be viewed at the Town Clerk’s Office.

Chamber

Friday, Nov. 8, to become executive director of Community Caregivers, which is a not-for-profit offering home-based, non-clinical services for Albany County residents.

“We are confident that Erika Gauthier has the capability to lead the chamber through the transition,” Chamber Board of Trustees President Jenni Bliven said in a statement.

Gauthier has worked at the Guilderland Chamber for four years and started her career at the Montgomery County Chamber of Commerce focusing on tourism. After a year at the Montgomery Chamber, she worked in marketing at corporate and small businesses. She also has worked with the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce on membership issues.

Gauthier said since she already knows chamber members, the transition should be an easy one.

“I am excited for this opportunity to get to lead the chamber during this time,” Gauthier said in a statement.

Gauthier’s new position will see her getting out of the office more, she said, as she steps up to become the “face” of the chamber.

Not only is the chamber transitioning to a new leader, but health insurance reforms through the Affordable Care Act are affecting all chambers over the next year, according to

“The challenge of the chamber ... is really going to be to show our members, businesses and our community that we are more than just health insurance. We are still here as a community organization, and I think that is going to be the challenge in the near future.”

— Erika Gauthier,
interim Guilderland Chamber president

Bliven.

The Guilderland Chamber has about 500 members, and many take advantage of health insurance plans offered through the chamber. Members that are sole business owners will have to go through the state health insurance exchange under the new regulations.

“The challenge of the chamber ... is really going to be to show our members, businesses and our community that we are more than just health insurance,” Gauthier said. “We are still here as a community organization, and I think that is going to be the challenge in the near future.”

Gauthier said the chamber, along with others, has offered high-deductible health insurance plans, but the ACA mandates 10 points of coverage for every plan. Many of the high-deductible plans did not offer all needed points.

Gauthier said she talked to a member on Friday, Nov. 8, that’s seeing their plan increase from $330 a month to around $900.

“We can still help them enroll in the exchanges, and there is a couple different ways they can still go through a carrier, but they will not be eligible to get a tax break,” she said.

There are many services and opportunities the chamber offers that Gauthier does not think people are aware of, such as community events, networking events, seminars, and low-cost advertising through its website and email blasts.

She said the larger events like Souped Up on Guilderland are growing in size every year, while smaller events like mixers have been remaining flat. The chamber is going to be looking at what events members would like to see more of and how to best network with fellow business owners.

“I think in the last few years with the recession ... people are really kind of taking a step back and prioritizing what is really important,” she said.

The Chamber’s Board of Trustees will be forming a Planning Committee to develop a strategic plan for the organization’s future as it searches for a new president.

Stram

has been found.

If the sale goes forward, the district would be selling the property for $50,000 less than what was asked for from School’s Out. The district previously said it had trouble selling the property because of its location and because renovation costs and soft costs were deemed to be “economically infeasible” by other potential buyers.

To obtain a use variance, the district had to prove a lack of return on investment, that the hardship to the property was unique, that the use variance would not alter the character of the neighborhood and the alleged hardship was not self created.

In the case of School’s Out, most board members had agreed the hardship was unique and the school district did not create the problem, but said the sale would change the neighborhood’s character, mostly due to traffic. Neighbors argued buses and parents dropping off students at School’s Out would lead to an unsafe environment. They also said quality of life would diminish for residents, and the move would destroy the unique character of the old Delmar neighborhood.

The district’s lawsuit challenged the Zoning Board’s determination that the building’s purchase by School’s Out would change the character of the neighborhood. The district also claimed the Zoning Board failed to consider the property’s size and how the district first received the building from the library in 1931, before existing zoning regulations were adopted.

In the application submitted to the town at the Nov. 6 Zoning Board meeting, The Stram Center indicated about 4,500 square feet of the building would be used to treat patients, while 2,303 square feet would be turned into offices. They also said the available 20 parking spaces would be adequate because the medical office currently shares a parking lot of 24 with popular businesses like Perfect Blend, I Love Books and I Love NY Pizza.

The Stram Center is also only open from 8:30 to 5:30 p.m., with two days open until 7 p.m. for acupuncture, as opposed to the early mornings and later afternoon of School’s Out. In addition, most sessions last 30 to 45 minutes with typically just a patient and family member in attendance at appointments.

Stephen Malinowski, who has acted as a spokesperson for the group of Delmar neighbors living near the property, previously had stated residents felt a medical office would be suitable in the location. His wife, Lyn Malinowski, said in a phone interview that she believed most living in the area approved the sale of 90 Adams to The Stram Center.

The public hearing has been set for Wednesday, Nov. 20 at 7:10 p.m.

Scout Troop 75
hosts Sportsmart

Boy Scout Troop 75 in Delmar will hold its annual fundraiser, Sportsmart, on Saturday, Nov. 23, at 1 p.m. at the Bethlehem Central High School cafeteria.

Sportsmart is a sale of various sporting goods, with an emphasis on winter sports and equipment such as skis, ski boots, snowboards, skates, snowshoes and hockey equipment. There are other goods for sale including soccer cleats, golf clubs and bags, clothing, bikes, and lacrosse and baseball gear.

People can bring their sporting goods for sale, set a price and if the item sells, receive 75% of the sale. The troop receives 25% of each sale. People can also donate items or buy sporting goods. There will also be an outside vendor supplying new and used skis, snowboards, winter clothing and snowshoes, among other items.

Doors will open at 8:30 a.m. for those bringing items to sell. The sale lasts from 1 to 4 p.m., and people can pick up their items and checks for any items sold between 5 and 6 p.m.

Sportsmart will also hold a silent auction and raffle for a number of items and packages. Additionally, the troop is asking everyone coming to Sportsmart for a minimum $1 donation to the Regional Food Bank.

Wreath-making workshop

The Emma Treadwell Thacher Nature Center in Voorheesville is holding its annual holiday balsam wreath making workshop on Saturday, Nov. 30, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Participants can create a 24-inch holiday wreath from freshly-cut balsam greenery, pine cones and ribbon. Participants should bring a pair of garden sheers for cutting greenery. Limited pairs of garden sheers will be available for use, if needed.

The workshop is appropriate for people ages 14 and older. The fee is $18 per wreath, and pre-registration is required as the class fills up quickly.

In the event of inclement weather, the workshop will be held on Sunday, Dec. 1.

Red Cross sends cards to military personnel

The American Red Cross of Northeastern New York Region will be holding a number of card signing events throughout the month of November and early December to support the annual "Holiday Mail for Heroes" program.

"We hope everyone will take the time to attend at least one of our card signings," said Gary Striar, CEO American Red Cross Northeastern New York Region. "While it may not seem like much, a handwritten note to a service member, who can't be home for the holidays, has such a huge impact."

From now until Dec. 6, people can create and send cards to service members, veterans and their families who will receive cards from across the country and from around the world.

The Red Cross invites the public to send messages of thanks and holiday cheer by mailing them to: Holiday Mail for Heroes, P.O. Box 5456, Capitol Heights, MD 20791-5456.

Northeastern New York Chapter card signings will take place on the following dates:

- Friday, Nov. 22, Crossgates Mall, 1

Crossgates Mall Road, Albany, 2-8 p.m.

- Friday, Nov. 29, Colonie Center, 131 Colonie Center, Albany, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

- Tuesday, Dec. 3, chapter office, 33 Everett Road, Albany, 5-7 p.m.

The following hotels in our region are also supporting "Holiday Mail for Heroes," The Desmond Hotel, The Hilton Albany, Holiday Inn Western Avenue and The Marriott Residence Inn, Saratoga Springs.

To ensure that cards are delivered in time for the holidays, they must be postmarked no later than Dec. 6. Individuals are asked to refrain from sending letters, monetary donations or any other kinds of inserts with the cards. Please also refrain from using glitter.

For information, visit redcross.org/holidaymail.

New Baltimore
Seniors
Christmas party

Once again, the New Baltimore Senior Committee will be hosting a Christmas party for all senior citizens living in the Town of New Baltimore. This event is being proudly sponsored by the Town of New Baltimore for the pleasure of its senior residents.

The party will be held at Pegasus Restaurant, located on Route 9W in West Coxsackie, on Wednesday, Dec. 4, beginning with a social time (cash bar) at noon.

The lunch, at 12:45 p.m., will be served buffet style and will include a relish tray, soup, salad and two main entrees: pork loin and chicken parmesan. Dessert and beverage are also included.

Following the meal, there will be drawings for prizes.

Seating is limited to 50 people and will be by reservation only, on a first come/first served basis. To reserve, call Conrad or Dorothy Jurgens at 756-8076. If you need transportation, please make that known when you reserve.

Reservations must be made by Nov. 26 at the latest, and only those who have made reservations will be able to attend.

Help For Homeowners In Foreclosure
New York State Law requires that we send you this notice about the foreclosure process. Please read it carefully. Mortgage foreclosure is a complex process. Some people may approach you about "saving" your home. You should be extremely careful about any such promises. The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure. There are government agencies, legal aid entities and other non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about foreclosure while you are working with your lender during this process. To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by the New York State Banking Department at 1-877-BANKNYS (1-877-226-5697) or visit the Department's website at www.banking.state.ny.us. MCINTOSH; MORTGAGE ELECTRONIC REGISTRATION SYSTEMS, INC., AS NOMINEE FOR CAPITAL ONE HOME LOANS, LLC; PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK; ALBANY HOUSING AUTHORITY; UNITED STATES OF AMERICA; "JOHN DOES" and "JANE DOES", said names being fictitious, parties intended being possible tenants or occupants of premises, and corporations, other entities or persons who claim, or may claim, a lien against the premises, Defendants.
TO THE ABOVE-NAMED DEFENDANTS:
YOU ARE HEREBY SUMMONED to answer the complaint in this action and to serve a copy of your answer, or, if the complaint is not served with this summons, to serve a Notice of Appearance on the Plaintiff's attorney(s) within twenty (20) days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, where service is made by delivery upon you personally within the State, or within thirty (30) days after completion of service where service is made in any other manner, and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.
NOTICE
YOU ARE IN DANGER OF LOSING YOUR HOME
If you do not respond to this summons and complaint by serving a copy of the answer on the attorney for the mortgage company who filed this foreclosure proceeding against you and filing the answer with the court, a default judgment may be entered and you can lose your home.
Speak to an attorney or go to the court where your case is pending for further information on how to answer the summons and protect your property.
Sending a payment to your mortgage company will not stop this foreclosure action. YOU MUST RESPOND BY SERVING A COPY OF THE ANSWER ON THE ATTORNEY FOR THE PLAINTIFF (MORTGAGE COMPANY) AND FILING THE ANSWER WITH THE COURT.
YOU ARE HEREBY PUT ON NOTICE THAT WE ARE ATTEMPTING TO COLLECT A DEBT, AND ANY INFORMATION OBTAINED WILL BE USED FOR THAT PURPOSE.
TO THE ABOVE-NAMED DEFENDANTS:
The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an Order of the Honorable Michael C Lynch of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, signed on September 18, 2013, and filed with supporting papers in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Albany, State of New York. The object of this action is to foreclose a mortgage upon the premises described below, executed by LUZ PEGUERO AKA LUZ E PRATT and JOHN PRATT to MORTGAGE ELECTRONIC REGISTRATION SYSTEMS, INC., AS NOMINEE FOR HOMESTEAD FUNDING CORP. Help For Homeowners In Foreclosure
New York State Law requires that we send you this notice about the foreclosure process. Please read it carefully. Mortgage foreclosure is a complex process. Some people may approach you about "saving" your home. You should be extremely careful about any such promises. The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure. There are government agencies, legal aid entities and other non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about foreclosure while you are working with your lender during this process. To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by the New York State Banking Department at 1-877-BANKNYS (1-877-226-5697) or visit the Department's website at www.banking.state.ny.us. The State does not guarantee the advice of these agencies.

Guilderland advances to next Saturday’s state semifinal against Section V champion Fairport in Middletown, a place Kinnally knows well.

“I used to live in Middletown, so I’m going to see some friends down there,” said Kinnally.

Capollari leads Dutch
Kledis Capollari was a young man of mixed emotions last Monday night.

On the one hand, he was happy to help Guilderland win its first Section II Class AA boys soccer title in five years. On the other hand, it came against an Albany team he had a close connection to.

Capollari scored a goal and assisted on two more to lift the Dutchmen (15-4-0) to a 4-1 victory over the Falcons in the Sectional championship game at Colonie Central High School.

But after celebrating with his Guilderland teammates and fellow students, Capollari had nothing but hugs and words of encouragement for the Albany teammates he left behind when he transferred to the Suburban Council school as a freshman.

“I’ve known all these (Albany) guys for a long time. We came up together,” said Capollari. “These (Guilderland) kids have been brothers to me ever since I transferred over four years ago, but I’m still close with those guys.”

Capollari had been one of the Dutchmen’s top scorers during the regular season, but he was fairly silent through the first two playoff games as he managed one goal in wins over Niskayuna and Shaker.

That changed in last Monday’s final. Capollari assisted on Rubin’s goal less than eight minutes into the first half that gave Guilderland a quick 2-0 lead. Then with Albany trailing 2-1 and applying consistent pressure on Guilderland’s defense, Capollari broke free on a counterattack and fed Keagan Ciaschetti for a key insurance goal with 27:05 left in the second half.

Capollari provided the finishing touch himself late in the second half when he redirected O’Brien’s free kick past Albany goaltender Lucas Phayre-Gonzalez to give the Dutchmen a three-goal cushion.

“Connor O’Brien played a great ball in, and I happened to be there to knock it in,” said Capollari.

O’Brien got the Dutchmen going less than three minutes into the first half when he sent a free kick into Albany’s penalty box. Jack Hanlon broke in on goal and bodied the ball past Phayre-Gonzalez for a 1-0 lead. Nearly five minutes later, Rubin tallied to make it a two-goal advantage.

The early flurry fazed Albany, which had allowed a total of 10 goals entering last Monday’s final. But it didn’t deter the Falcons, and soon they started applying pressure on Guilderland’s defense.

“You know what they say – 2-0 is the worst score in soccer because you know it won’t stay that way,” said Kinnally.

Albany’s pressure paid off 1:55 before halftime when junior midfielder

Eagles punch their ticket back to Glens Falls

Bethlehem takes six out of seven sets in regional action

By ROB JONAS
jonasr@spotlightnws.com

The Bethlehem boys volleyball team is heading back to Glens Falls.

The Eagles (27-1) took care of business in the Division I regionals, as they defeated Section III's Oswego and Section I's Suffern last weekend to qualify for this weekend's state tournament at the Glens Falls Civic Center.

It's the fourth straight year that Bethlehem has reached the state tournament, but the Eagles have yet to make it out of pool play. They came close last year as they needed a win in their last game to advance to the finals, but they allowed a late lead to slip away.

"You hope they've learned from that," said Jason Wood, Bethlehem's first-year coach. "I wasn't there, but I remember the situation where they were up 21-17, and if they won that game they would have made it to the finals. I'm hoping they take what they learned from that situation and apply it to this year."

Bethlehem was in fine form during Friday's regional match against Oswego at Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake High School. After getting through the first two games 25-22 and 25-21, the Eagles beat Oswego 25-18 to sweep all three sets.

"I was very pleased with our performance against Oswego," said Wood. "I thought we played with a lot of high emotion, we played under control and we played with a lot of determination."

Aaron Carrk had 16 kills, and Kevin Mahar dished out 38 assists for Bethlehem in Friday's match. John Sica contributed 10 kills and an ace, and Dan Ball added five aces and four kills.

The Eagles ran into a little trouble closing out Suffern in Saturday's regional final at Hudson High School. After taking the first two sets 25-17 and 25-13, they dropped the third set 25-15.

"You prefer to keep the momentum going and close it out in three (sets), but Suffern got on a roll and we got caught up in the emotion of it," said Wood.

Bethlehem made certain Suffern got no closer than that, as the Eagles closed out the match and the regional title by winning the fourth game 25-11.

Mahar had 49 assists for Bethlehem in Saturday's regional final.

In other volleyball news, the Voorheesville girls team punched its ticket for Glens Falls by

The boys' portion of the state volleyball tournament takes place Friday at the Glens Falls Civic Center. Bethlehem begins pool play at 2 p.m., and the top two teams advance to the state finals at 6 p.m. The girls' portion of the state tournament starts Saturday.

Erick Kwizera struck a shot from the top of Guilderland's penalty box that tucked inside the crossbar to trim the Dutchmen's two-goal lead in half.

"I thought we dominated the first 20 minutes, and then they dominated the last 20 minutes of the first half," said Kinnally.

The Falcons continued to dominate possession of the ball through the first 12 minutes of the second half, but they were unable to get anything else past Weeden and the Dutchmen defense. And once Ciaschetti scored, the balance of play shifted back Guilderland's way.

"I was waiting for that (momentum) to swing our way again," said Kinnally.

Guilderland's Emily Burns and Jenna Robinson had top-50 finishes in the girls Class A race. Burns was 47th with a time of 19:01.0, and Robinson placed 48th with a time of 19:01.3.

Section II was fourth in the girls Class A team standings with 390 points.

Senior's free kick sets up winning goal against Baldwinsville

By ROB JONAS
jonasr@spotlightnews.com

It's reaching the point where opponents will have to avoid fouling Guilderland or allowing corner kicks because sooner or later, Connor O'Brien will find a way to make them pay.

The senior defender sent a free kick on net, and teammate Chris Connolly knocked the ball over the goal line less than five minutes into the first overtime period to give the Dutchmen a 2-1 win over Section III's Baldwinsville in Saturday's Class AA boys soccer regional final at Colonie Central High School.

FINAL SCORE

- Guilderland Dutchmen, 2
- Baldwinsville Bees, 1 (OT)

"I like to think about it as my specialty," said O'Brien.

"We've been just riding the restart wave as far as we can," said Guilderland coach Mike Kinnally.

O'Brien was closer to the midfield stripe than he was to the penalty box when he launched the free kick into the penalty box. But, he could see where he wanted to place it.

"I saw them (the Baldwinsville defenders) on the back post, so I knew if they could get past their defenders and they could lay it across for one of our guys down the middle, it would work," said O'Brien.

Connolly saw the ball arcing towards him, so he got to it and knocked it past Baldwinsville goaltender Nicholas Lindovski for the game winner.

"I just knew I had to hit it," said Connolly. "Great ball by O'Brien."

O'Brien was a big part of most of Guilderland's quality scoring chances. Whether from the corner or from the middle of the field, O'Brien's kicks consistently landed in places where his teammates could generate shots on goal.

"They had maybe one poor service all day," said Baldwinsville coach Tim Scheemaker. "They were just so good on services all day."

O'Brien's first service led to Guilderland's first goal. O'Brien sent a corner kick into the penalty box, and Chris Czekay sent it on to Connor Rubin, who knocked it past Lindovski for a 1-0 first-half lead.

Scheemaker said he was surprised by the way his team reacted to the play as it unfolded, especially since Baldwinsville had been on a six-game shutout streak entering Saturday's regional.

"There was no reason for that goal to be scored," said Scheemaker. "We just stood around and watched it happen."

Baldwinsville didn't pull even until the 64th minute, and it too was off a corner kick. The ball came out to Braden Miles, who launched a long shot that bounced off Guilderland goaltender Kedrick Weeden's hands. Connor Ross was there to knock the rebound in to tie the score at 1-1.

"We don't go to the net well, but he's one of the few that does go to goal," Scheemaker said of Ross.

Guilderland slowly took control of the game after Ross' goal, and it resulted in Connolly's tally with 10:57 left in the first 15-minute overtime period.

Booker leads Section II at state meet

BC senior nips Saratoga rival for fifth in Class A race

By ROB JONAS
jonasr@spotlightnews.com

Stephen Booker got what he wanted.

The Bethlehem senior nipped Saratoga Springs' Aidan Tooker at the finish line to place fifth in the boys Class A race at Saturday's New York State Public High School Athletic Association Cross Country Championships at Queensbury High School.

"I was ranked seventh (in the state) going in, so I was hoping for a top-five finish," said Booker. "I'm very happy with my performance."

Booker and Tooker were neck-and-neck over the final 100 yards of the 3.1-mile race — a big difference from their two previous meetings on the Queensbury course, where Tooker finished ahead of Booker by more than 10 seconds at both the Queensbury Invitational and the Section II championships.

"He came up fast on me at the end, so I gave it everything I had," said Booker, who finished with a time of 15:16.6.

Booker said he used a different strategy at Saturday's state meet to help him stay strong at the end. "I'd been going out aggressively the last two weeks, but today I took it out conservatively," said Booker. "The pack just led me along."

Booker's performance helped the Section II team take second at the state meet with 256 points. Section III — led by state champion Fayetteville-Manlius — finished first with 150 points. Bethlehem's Alex Carlson (52nd place, 16:24.0) was also part of the Section II squad.

Nutcracker Tea returns

The event features a one-hour performance of the classic ballet, "The Nutcracker" by Northeast Ballet Company.

Other highlights include an elaborate English tea with mini sandwiches and cookies, holiday photos, raffle and a gift for each child.

"The Nutcracker" is a fairy tale ballet that tells the story of a little girl's journey through a fantasy world of fairies, princes, toy soldiers and an army of mice.

The event will take place Sunday, Nov. 17, at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Tickets for both performances are $60 for adults and $25 for children and can be purchased online at spac.org or by calling 584-9330, ext. 115.

WHAT'S COOKING?

Tweaking the pumpkin tradition

By JODIE FITZ

When I was young, the tradition was Thanksgiving at my grandmother's, and I often had the opportunity to help her prepare. I'm so thankful for both the time and the memories. As time has passed, I "inherited" hosting all of the holidays for our family, and I have to admit that I secretly love every chaotic moment that comes along with that role.

I've kept many traditions handed down and think fondly of the time I had as a child, but I have also created many new ones that I hope some day my children will treasure; at least in memory if not in practice.

Much to my husband's dismay, making a traditional pumpkin pie is not one that I have kept; however, my mom typically buys him one. Instead, my newly instituted tradition is experimenting with pumpkin and serving it in various forms each year.

*Jodie Fitz is a Capital District wife and mother of three, who juggles food, family and chaos one recipe at a time. She is also the creator of the Price Chopper Kids Cooking Club. Thaw the whipped topping. Fold together the pumpkin, sweetened condensed milk, whipped topping, cinnamon and vanilla until the ingredients are fully mixed together. Pour the entire batch into a freezer friendly storage container and freeze over night before serving.

This is a great recipe for kids to assist in making, because it's quick and easy and most ages can handle the process from beginning to end.

Dish it Up: If you are looking for a little added fancy for your Thanksgiving table, you can make phyllo dough bowls to serve it in ahead of time.

non-stick cooking spray. Cut approximately 3 sheets of phyllo dough so that you can gently lay a strip in a muffin tin and then cut several layers to fit crisscrossed on top so that in the end you fill the muffin tin. Repeat this process until you have filled all 12 cups. Baste the phyllo dough with a very light layer of canola oil. Bake the cups for approximately 5-7 minutes. The phyllo will be lightly browned. Removed the pan and let the cups cool completely before removing them.

Give thanks to area farmers, businesses by buying local ingredients

purcellj@spotlightnews.com

A bounty of area businesses and markets make shopping local for all the ingredients of a customary Thanksgiving dinner a relatively easy task.

The turkey is the star of the show on Thanksgiving, and the Delmar Farmers Market, now held indoors at Bethlehem Middle School, is a good place to find one. Frantzen's Scenic Acres Farm, a family-operated farm located in Knox, takes preorders for its heritage turkeys at the farmers market. Heritage turkeys are allowed to breed naturally, opposed to commercially bred turkeys.

Frantzen's breeds their turkeys on its farm, along with incubating the eggs on site. The turkeys are raised on grass, and their diet is supplemented with natural, locally grown grains.

"Most store-bought meats and poultry have been bred for the convenience of the breeders and the convenience of the stores ... and not for the well-being of the animal and not for the quality of the product," Paul Tick, manager of the Delmar Farmers Market, said. "The heritage breed is something that has been allowed to breed naturally and of course without artificial hormones added to it and artificial feed. It makes for a much tastier and much healthier animal, and we think that is a better product for the consumer."

Falvo's Meat Market owner Joseph Robilotto said hundreds of people come to his store every year looking for a

A mermaid's tale

V'ville middle schoolers' latest production is a team effort

IF YOU GO

- What: The Little Mermaid, Jr.
- When: Friday, Nov. 15, at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 17 at 2 p.m.
- Where: Voorheesville High School, 432 New Salem Road, Voorheesville
- How much: $10 adults, $6 students and children

In the Voorheesville School District, drama club is not only about the actors performing on stage; it's about a school community coming together to work as a team.

"Every single person associated with a production, from cast to crew, from student to adult ... we all have one single purpose: to create the best product we can," said Steve Suriano, Voorheesville Middle School's drama director.

Auditions for this year's middle school production of "The Little Mermaid Jr." began in early September when 60 students showed up to sing and read lines. By the end of the audition, 60 students remained.

"We don't cut anyone," Suriano said. "It's a policy the school has. If you want to be in the show, you are in the show."

Suriano said it's common to see some of the more experienced students helping the newcomers.

"Because we are united to produce the best product we can, everyone pulls for everyone else," he said. "All in aim of making everyone shine on stage."

Eighteen students will be playing lead roles in the production, while the rest of the cast will be part of the ensemble.

Since not everyone can be a lead, Suriano said they like to incorporate the student's individual talents into the show. He said "The Little Mermaid Jr." has a nice combination of dialogue and music with large ensemble numbers allowing multiple students a chance to be on stage.

"We have about a dozen kids that have been dancing for eight or nine years, and we try to feature them in special numbers to highlight the talents that individuals have," he said.

In addition to the lead roles and the ensemble, Suriano said there is quite a bit that needs to be done backstage.

A Southern spin on Turkey Day

Acorn Bites have a lot of flavor in a small package. Jodie Fitz

Acorn Bites
Mini no-bake pumpkin
cheesecake bites

By JODIE FITZ

- Mini fillo shells
- Melting chocolate (or morsels)
- Chopped pecans
- 4 ounces whipped cream cheese
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 tablespoon confectioner’s sugar
- 7.5 ounces 100 percent pumpkin
- ¼ cup light brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- ¾ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon allspice
- 4 ounces whipped cream

Place the chopped pecans in a bowl or plate. Melt ¼ cup of the melting chocolates at a time in a glass bowl in the microwave by following the directions on the package. Dip the top edge of the mini fillo cup into the melted chocolate and then immediately in to the chopped pecans. Continue this process until they are all rimmed with chocolate and pecans. Let them set on a flat surface until they chocolate has fully set. Note: This can be done the day before you plan to serve the Acorn Bites.

Mix the whipped cream cheese, milk and confectioner’s sugar together. Then add in the pumpkin, brown sugar, vanilla, cinnamon and allspice. Mix all of the ingredients together.

Fold in the whipped cream. Note: You can make the filling ahead of time and let it set in the refrigerator, but don’t fill the mini fillo cups until you are ready to serve.

Place the pumpkin mixture into a Ziploc lunch-sized bag and seal it. Clip a corner with a pair of kitchen shears and pipe the filling into each cup just before serving. The filling will fill approximately 30 mini fillo shells.

Growing up right here in Watervliet, Thanksgiving was the holiday I looked forward to the most. I guess I was a “foodie” even then. The event started early in the morning with Mom stuffing the bird and making all the sides.

I moved South after college and married into a Southern family. The traditions were quite different from my Upstate NY upbringing. That’s when I learned to how to make Southern recipes — chicken and dumplings (recipe below), corn casserole, biscuits and gravy, and green beans (cooked to death with ham hocks) and country ham with red eye gravy.

So today, my Thanksgiving meal is pretty much the same as my mother’s. It is nice, however, to switch it up every once and a while and surprise folks with some Southern downhome goodness.

— From Cindy Williams at Viola’s Cafe in Latham

Southern Style Chicken and Dumplings

- 4-5 bone-in, skin-on chicken breasts
- 3 stalks of celery, diced
- 1 large onion, diced
- 4-5 large carrots, diced
- Put all ingredients in a large pan and cover with water. Let simmer until the chicken is completely done (almost falling off the bones). Remove the chicken from the stock. Let cool, then remove the chicken from the bones and discard the skin.
- Make the dumplings
- 3 cups of all-purpose unbleached white flour
- 1 tablespoon salt
- Pepper to taste
- 1-1/2 cups water

together with a fork to form a soft dough. Turn out onto a floured surface and knead the dough until incorporated, soft and elastic. Roll out on a well floured surface until thin. Dust with additional flour and use a sharp knife or a pizza cutter and cut the dough into rectangular noodle size pieces. Dust with additional flour.

Bring the chicken stock back to a rolling boil and drop the dumplings in one by one. The stock will then thicken to a more gravy-like texture. All the cut up chicken to the pot and continue to cook for 15 minutes. Add a handful of chopped, fresh parsley.

Serve and enjoy a bit of southern comfort!

This will also be on Viola Café’s winter menu, from Dec. 21 through spring.

Place flour, salt and pepper in a large bowl. Add water and stir

“This recipe for corn bread became a staple at thanksgiving about 5 years ago when a friend shared it with us. Everybody including the kids eat it until it was gone now we make two batches.”

— Ron Champion, Voorheesville

Corn Bread
Casserole

- 1/4 pound melted butter
- 1 15-ounce can creamed corn
- 1 15-ounce can whole kernel corn, drained
- 1 package Jiffy cornbread mix

- 8 ounces sour cream
- 2 eggs
- 1/3 cup sugar

Mix all together. Pour into a 2-quart casserole dish. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees. If doubled, use a 9-by-13 dish.

turkey from Jaindl Farms, a family-owned farm in Pennsylvania.

“They don’t even ask the price; they just order the turkey, and they know what they want,” Robilotto said. “This is a good turkey, and it does show that they are satisfied with them since they keep asking for it.”

The National Turkey Federation has selected Jaindl Farms’ turkeys as the “grand champion” for more than 40 years, which designates what turkey is served at the White House on Thanksgiving.

Preordering a turkey from Falvo’s is recommended to ensure the size of turkey desired. Around 90 percent of the sales come from preorders, Robilotto said. The store is located directly off Route 85 on Route 85A in Slingerlands.

The turkeys come in “at the last moment,” Robilotto said, so it is “really fresh” and will not need to be defrosted.

Falvo’s has also been selling their own sausage stuffing for more than a decade.

“It is an old fashioned sausage dressing just like my mom used to make,” Robilotto said. “We use good, fresh seasonings and the meat is not loaded with fat, so it is not going to be greasy.”

Also at the Farmers Market in Delmar are more than 40 vendors offering vegetables, starches and other sides. Tick said there is “every sort of green imaginable, and all vendors are from about a 35-mile radius of Delmar so the selections are fresh.

Tick encouraged people who have not been to the market before to check it out for “the taste and quality of the products ... and the fact that buying local supports our local farmers and crafts people” and boosts the local economy.

“The interest in local has been tremendous, and when we are outdoors we attract up to 2,000 people a day,” he said. “Between five to 10 new businesses have sprung up from the market. They end up with a following ... and they are able to open outside the market with the own shop.”

Tick said buying from local businesses benefits a community as a whole, because those businesses return around three-quarters of every dollar to the community, while chain store typical return less than half of every dollar.

At the farmers market in Delmar, shoppers can find fresh, local ingredients for their Thanksgiving feast, as well as locally crafted products to serve the meal in.

Traditional Thanksgiving dinners also wouldn’t be complete without a tasty pie, and Grandma’s Pies and Restaurant on Central Avenue has made that their specialty.

“We have been here so long that we are an icon in Colonie for pies,” Grandma’s co-owner Ron Raylinsky said. “It is really our fresh ingredients, and it is the quality. We have real whipped cream, and not many people have real whip cream anymore.”

Raylinsky said the store serves up so many pies, somewhere in the “several thousands,” that the day before and on Thanksgiving, the restaurant is closed. Police are usually out front directing the influx of traffic, too.

Raylinsky said the top selling pies annually for Thanksgiving are apple, pumpkin and chocolate cream. Outside of the favorites, he recommended people try the five fruit pie or apple walnut pie.

Grandma’s started taking preorders at the start of the month and ordering ahead of time is recommended if someone wants a particular pie. Call the restaurant at 459-4585 to place your order.

For those seeking a simple solution to serving up a delicious meal, Grappa ’72 Ristorante is offering a complete feast without the hassle.

Grappa’s holiday meal includes the turkey, stuffing, mashed potatoes and sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce, candied carrots, sweet buttered corn, vegetable medley, fresh rolls with butter and of course a freshly baked pie.

The meals are offered in portion sizes for six, 12, or 20 people. Orders must be placed by Monday, Nov. 25, at 8 p.m. and will be available for pick-up from noon to 10:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 27. ### Here’s How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Thanksgiving Traditions

Camp Chingachgook Thanksgiving Bread Pudding

- 5 Slices of bread cubed (I use whole wheat but almost anything will do)
- 1 16-ounce can of crushed pineapple with juice
- 1 stick of butter melted (but I cut it back to three-quarters of a stick and it's still fine)
- 3 eggs slightly beaten
- 1 cup of sugar
- Couple dashes of cinnamon

Mix all the ingredients in a bowl with the bread last, then lay it out in a casserole.
Bake at 350 for 45 to an hour, should crust on top.

Camp Chingachgook bread pudding became a tradition in our family about 10 years ago when we had an odd Thanksgiving where we didn't have plans with either my husband's family or mine. Instead we spent the day at Chingachgook (or first experience with the camp) and my family of four was seated at a table for 10 with another family. Although the camp had everything prepared, the family we sat with had brought their Thanksgiving special dish that they had to have every year – bread pudding. One taste and we were sold. We've never been back to Chingachgook for Thanksgiving since, but that dish we discovered that day has since become a Thanksgiving standard in our house, and I've even made it in mini loaf pans one year as gifts for friends who loved it. The beauty of it is that it tastes so good, but it's so easy to make.

Turkey and Squash Soup

- 2 teaspoons canola oil
- 2 leeks, trimmed, chopped, rinsed
- 1 red bell pepper, chopped
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 4 cups reduced-sodium chicken broth
- 1-1/2 pounds butternut squash, peeled, seeded, cut into 1-inch cubes
- 2 tablespoons minced fresh thyme or 2 teaspoons dried thyme
- 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cumin
- 1 pound turkey cutlets, cut into 1/2-by-2-inch strips
- 2 cups frozen corn kernels
- 2 tablespoons lime juice
- 1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Freshly ground pepper to taste

Heat oil in a Dutch oven over medium-high heat. Add leeks and bell pepper; cook, stirring often, until the vegetables begin to soften, 3 to 4 minutes. Add garlic and cook, stirring, for 1 minute more. Stir in broth, squash, thyme and cumin; cover and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to medium-low and cook until the vegetables are tender, about 10 minutes. Add turkey and corn; return to a simmer, 3 to 4 minutes. Add lime juice and crushed red pepper. Season with salt and pepper.

Candied sweet potato casserole

- 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar, divided
- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
- 1-1/2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice, divided
- 3 pounds sweet potatoes, peeled and cut into 1-inch pieces
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 cups miniature marshmallows

Preheat oven to 375 degrees.
Mix 1/4 cup brown sugar, orange juice, vanilla and 1 tsp pumpkin pie spice in a large bowl.
Add sweet potatoes; toss to coat.
Transfer to a 9-by-13 dish.
Dot with 2 tablespoons butter.
Cover and bake for 45 minutes or until potatoes are slightly

“We have probably another dozen students who do lights, sounds and backstage that are part of the crew from both the middle school and the high school,” Suriano said.

Lights and sounds is not the only place high school students can be found.

Tenth-grader, Stefanie DeFronzo, who has performed in a number of school shows and community theater since elementary school, and two other Voorheesville High School students, Jaynie Parmenter and Noah Robinson, decided to take their theatrical skills off stage as student directors for this year’s middle school production.

“It’s very rewarding getting to share with the kids what the people in community theater have taught me,” Stefanie said.

Suriano said the three students are not considered assistants, but work alongside him, the musical director and choreographer.

“They have been involved in every aspect, including the audition process,” Suriano said. “They have as much input in the casting of the show as did me, Brian as musical director, and Kelly as choreographer. We are six equal voices ... that is how much I value their judgment.”

DeFronzo, Parmenter and Robinson work with students individually and in groups on dialogue scenes, songs, dances and movement. They also help the choreographer and music director.

“I trust them to help a student bring out the personality needed for a character,” Suriano said. “They are phenomenal. They have vision for directing. They are self motivated.”

Suriano said the whole group works very well together.

“This is probably the best overall group we have worked with as far as interest, excitement, behavior and enthusiasm,” he said. “Every year is talented, but the overall group has been an absolute delight for not only myself but everyone with the production.”

Suriano adds that the talent brought to the show by the lead roles this year is outstanding.

“Ariel has an incredibly beautiful voice; Sebastian, Flounder and Scuttle’s personalities are outstanding ... they are all characters in their own right when not characters; and Ursula oozes evil ... she does evil like nobody else and has an incredible voice as well,” Suriano said.

Eighth-grader, Cassidy Danz, who plays the part of Scuttle, said she didn’t originally audition to be the boisterous seagull, but finds that she is morphing into her part fairly well.

“He’s crazy and loud and doesn’t know when to stop,” Danz said. “In some aspects I am the same, but something clicked when I read for him. I enjoy getting to be a different person that I usually am. I get to be crazy and interact with other characters.”

Lucas Wilson who plays Sebastian, a Jamaican crab, prepared for his role by watching videos on YouTube.

“I went on the internet and looked up how to talk Jamaican,” Wilson said.

The eighth-grader played the main role as Aladdin last year and said he is enjoying the change of pace with the part of Sebastian.

“Aladdin was more serious, and Sebastian is crazy,” Wilson said. “He’s fun and exciting, and I think that’s my personality.”

Emma Ries is the only sixth-grader with a main role in the production playing Flounder. Ries said she is glad to have the opportunity to meet the seventh- and eighth-graders. In fifth grade, Ries was a part of the “Wizard of Oz” production in the elementary school.

“It’s a lot different,” she said. “I get to interact with tons of people that are so nice. Last year we just did it with our grade, so it’s different.”

Suriano adds that in addition to the cast and crew, the parents are crucial to the production.

“Every year we have phenomenal parent help,” he said. “You can’t do this without parent help. We have parents that are basically not getting any sleep for the last month at all.”

One of the jobs the parents take care of is making costumes; however, there is one costume for this year’s production that didn’t need to be made.

“Thanks to Barrington Stage in Massachusetts, we have an incredible costume for Ursula the sea witch that uses black light, and it is absolutely amazing,” Suriano said.

Morgan Galvin who plays Ursula said the costume can be a bit heavy.

“It has six tentacles in black light paint. There are six people operating them,” she said.

Galvin who has played the role of a stepsister and the stepmother in “Cinderella” and the wicked witch in “Wizard of Oz,” said she enjoys playing the evil roles.

“I actually really like it,” she said. “It’s not really like me, so it’s a challenge and it’s pushing me to do something that’s out of what I do everyday.”

Suriano said the benefits go way beyond adding “drama club” to your transcript.

“No. 1 is the sense of community,” he said. “And the confidence you see developing in students right before your eyes. I have to think that the confidence to stretch themselves in theater spills over in other areas of their life ... sports, clubs and academics,” he said.

Catch the “The Little Mermaid Jr.” at Voorheesville High School, 432 New Salem Road, Voorheesville, on Friday, Nov. 15, at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 17 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $10 for adults and $6 for students and children and are available at the door.
