Parks and rec seekes new AEDs

Director Nan Lanahan says replacements needed by the first of the year

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

New automated external defibrillators are needed for the Bethlehem Parks and Recreation Department.

As part of their partnership, the Friends of Bethlehem

Parks and Recreation are seeking members of the community to sponsor the purchase of the AEDs. The new initiative was started last month with one local business already stepping forward to buy one of the three needed.

"We have two old ones right now, but the ones we have are obsolete, and service is no longer available for them," said Director of Parks and Recreation Nan Lanahan.

The two AEDs the parks department has are now rotated between certain locations. The hope is to be able to purchase a third one so it can be kept in the office all year long, while the others rotate between the pool, maintenance and sports fields.

For now the current defibrillators are fine, but new ones need to be purchased by the first of the year.

Lanahan said the town will soon be facing the same problem and will need to purchase more as their contracts expire. However, they are working to get more for the Parks and

Family-owned market in Guilderland shuts its doors after nearly 65 years; owes $15k in property taxes

purcellj@spotlightnews.com

An iconic neighborhood market abruptly closed its doors in Guilderland more than a week ago, with more than $15,000 of outstanding taxes on the property.

Greulich's Market closed Sunday, July 27, with apparently little warning to longtime customers of the family-owned business. A message was posted to its Facebook page that afternoon informing customers of the decision, with many people leaving surprised comments.

"It's a sad day for Greulich's today, we sadly closed. We will let you know what we decide to do," read the Facebook post.

Bonnie Greulich, co-owner of Greulich's Market, declined to comment when contacted by Spotlight News about the closure.

Bonnie and Arthur Greulich Jr. are listed as property owners for the grocery store located at 3403 Carman

New 214-acre preserve formed along Bozenkill

Dr. Becker's wish granted after his death

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

Dr. Milford Becker spent the last years of his life trying to preserve some of the land he owned, but he did not see his vision realized. Almost seven years after passing away, his wish is coming true.

Becker, who was a Guiderland veterinarian, reached out to Mohawk Hudson Land Conservancy 15 years ago inquiring about how to preserve his land. Becker died in August of 2007 at 91 years old, with his wife, Mary, also passing away before a deal was finalized. The Becker family, though, kept pursuing perseverance efforts and MHLC recently purchased the 156-acre Becker property.

Milford Becker's daughter, Linda, said her family lived at the corner of Bozenkill and Westfall roads for 42 years. She said they would walk to property almost every day.

"My parents loved the land and especially the birds," said Linda Becker. "My mother knew the call of every bird, and my father knew every tree on the property."

Mark King, executive director of the MHLC, said conservation efforts usually involve a long process.

"Land protection and conservation efforts tend to take a long time. They are expensive, and it is hard to get people to agree," said King. "Sometimes it seems like a miracle when it all comes together, and we couldn't be happier that it did."

MHLC also acquired 27 acres of neighboring land several years ago, which expands the preserve to 214 acres, including more than a mile and a half of stream frontage.

"It is a good amount of land, and it is really the conglomeration of three different acquisitions," said King. "It is a remote and very intact natural area."

The Bozenkill is one of the major tributaries of the Watervliet Reservoir, which supplies water to Guiderland and the City of Watervliet. The preserve includes heavily forested areas, steep wooded slopes, small fields and extensive stream frontage.

"These acquisitions will eventually allow access to a beautiful stretch of the upper Bozenkill and Bozenkill Ravine — areas that were inaccessible to the public," King said in a statement. "We look forward to adding parking and trails that will make this an outstanding nature preserve within walking distance of the Village of Altamont."

According to Charles Gehring, director of the New Netherland Project, Bozenkill is a Dutch term; "kill" refers to a stream and "bozen" means angry or raging. The name becomes especially appropriate following heavy rains or during spring runoff.

Kim Elliman, president and CEO of the Open Space Institute, said preserving the 156-acre Becker property is a testament to the Beckers commitment to conservation efforts.

"As responsible stewards and lovers of nature, Dr. Becker and his family recognized the natural beauty and conservation significance of this special landscape. The designation of their homeland as part of this new preserve provides a wonderful tribute to them and their legacy of stewardship and generosity," said Elliman.

The Open Space Institute provided significant financial support for the project, according to King, and holds a conservation easement over the property ensuring its permanent protection.

Map courtesy of Mohawk Hudson Land Conservancy

The Nature Conservancy also supported the project through the Doris Saunders Plant Strategic Acquisition Fund, which the late Henri Plant and his family created to help protect the upper Bozenkill area. Henri Plant was closely associated with another preserve along the Bozenkill, the Christman Sanctuary, which spans 120 acres in the Town of Duanesburg.

Plant's daughter, Suzette, was pleased to see more land around the Bozenkill preserved.

"Forty years ago, a small group of people first set out to keep the Bozenkill forever wild," said Suzette Plant. "It is wonderful that despite the number of years it is taking to acquire additional land, people are still committed to making the dream come true."

The MHLC paid approximately $110,000 for the 214 acres of land, with an additional $40,000 set aside to care for the property, according to King. An official name for the land has not been determined, but King said it would likely honor the Becker family.

"We don't anticipate the real public opening until the spring," King said, "because we have to do some planning and figure out where to best locate trails and put in a parking lot."

An official announcement of the preserve formation will be held on Tuesday, Aug. 12, at 10 a.m., at the corner of Westfall Road and Bozenkill Road in Guiderland.

Woman found dead in Bethlehem home

Results of autopsy point to natural causes

Bethlehem police say the results of an autopsy performed Saturday, Aug. 2, indicate the woman who was found dead at her Delmar home on Friday died of natural causes.

Police received a call to respond to 63 Union Ave. around 10:30 a.m. Friday after an acquaintance stopped by the home and found the deceased, who police have identified as homeowner Nancy Purcell, 60.

On Saturday, an autopsy was performed at Albany Medical Center Hospital by Pathologist Dr. Jeffrey Hubbard. According to a statement from Detective Sgt. Adam Hornick, based upon the autopsy, and the dozens of interviews and leads completed in this case, the cause of death has been ruled to be natural causes with no indication of criminal activity.

“The in-depth

investigation into the circumstances that caused initial concern at the residence have been thoroughly examined and found to be consistent with the cause of death,” Hornick said in the release. “This information was also confirmed by the completion of over 30 investigative leads and interviews of subjects in three different states.”

On Friday, police were investigating the scene, as well as the manner of death and the amount of time the deceased has been in the residence. State Police were called in to help with the investigation because “there were things that aren’t consistent” in the house that had raised some concerns.

The investigation was conducted jointly by the Bethlehem Police Department and the New York State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation, and further assisted by the Albany County District Attorney’s office.

On Friday, Aug. 1, Bethlehem police were investigating an unattended death at a home on Union Avenue. Police were called to the scene at about 10:30 a.m. after being notified by someone who had stopped by to check on the deceased, who police have identified as homeowner Nancy Purcell, 60. Her death was eventually ruled to be the result of natural causes.

Suspect arraigned in Coeymans murder case

The Albany County District Attorney's Office announced that Brandon Biers, 24, of Coeymans, was arraigned on one count of murder in the second degree in Albany County Supreme Court.

A grand jury previously returned an indictment alleging that between May 24 and 25, while at a residence on Biers Road in the Town of Coeymans, Biers caused the death of his mother by means of strangling her.

Biers was arraigned before Judge Thomas A. Breslin. He pleaded not guilty to the charges on Thursday, July 31, and was remanded into custody without bail.

Assistant District Attorney Shannon Sarfoh, bureau chief of the Special Victims Unit, is handling the prosecution of this case.

Car crash knocks down power lines

A Vestal woman had to be extricated from her vehicle after crashing into a telephone pole on Western Avenue, according to police.

Guilderland police responded to a car crash near Stuyvesant Plaza around 3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 3. Police said Elanor McClellan-Mead was driving east on Western Avenue when she allegedly drove off the right side of the road and struck a wooden telephone pole. McClellan-Mead's vehicle then overturned and she became trapped inside it.

Members of Westmere, McKownville and North Bethlehem fire departments extricated her from the vehicle. McClellan-Mead received medical attention from the Town of Guilderland Paramedics and Western Turnpike Rescue Squad. She was the only person in the vehicle.

Police said she was transferred to Albany Medical Center with serious injuries.

Western Avenue was closed for an extended period of time because of downed power lines.

Guilderland police on Sunday evening said the crash was still being investigated.

Major drug bust in Albany County

On Friday, July 31, members of the Sheriff's Emergency Response Team executed two search warrants with the assistance of the Albany County Criminal Investigation Unit and special agents from the ATF, DEA and the Colonie Police Department. The search warrants were executed at 1779 Central Ave., Colonie, and 2185 River Road, Coeymans.

The search found 15.6 ounces of heroin, $32,000 in cash, as well as some cocaine and marijuana.

Albany County Sheriff Craig D. Apple said four Albany men were arrested on drug charges following a four-month investigation by members of the Albany County Sheriff's Criminal Investigations Unit along with special agents from the ATF.

The investigation revealed that the organization was selling heroin at local malls — in the food courts and Dave and Busters. As the organization grew, so did the methods of operation. According the investigation, local cab drivers were solicited to transport the drug dealers around the Capital District.

The organization was allegedly paying to lease the taxis and also paying the drivers in cash and/or heroin and even had them working in shifts. Investigators and special agents assigned to the case conducted hundreds of hours of surveillance and were able to identify more than 20 members of the organization.

The men arrested were in Friday's raid were: Irving Prado, 40, of 1779 Central Ave., Albany; Donte Joseph, 23, of 2185 River Road, Coeymans; Cheick Sakho, 30, of 2185 River Road, Coeymans; and Nicholas Vervos, 60, of 20 Rensselaer St., Albany.

All four were charged with criminal possession of a controlled substance in the first degree, which a class A1 felony. Judge Peter Lynch of the Town of Colonie arraigned all four in the Albany County Court. More arrests are expected in the case.

Other arrests:

- Guilderland police arrested Dylan R. Lafave, 20, of 28 Inman Ave. in Albany, around 4:10 p.m. Friday, July 18, and charged him with criminal contempt in the first degree, a felony, and criminal mischief in the fourth degree. Police said Lafave allegedly broke a wooden chair by throwing it. He was taken into custody without incident, according to police.
- Guilderland police arrested April M. Jubrey, 38, of 4678 Western Turnpike in Altamont, around 1:30 a.m. Sunday, July 20, and charged her with DWI, failure to dim lights, failure to keep to the right and failure to stay in a single lane. Police stopped her after allegedly witnessing her commit traffic infractions on Windingbrook Drive. Police observed her to allegedly have an odor of alcohol on her breath and glassy, bloodshot and watery eyes. She allegedly told police she consumed one beer at nearby bar. Police said she used the driver's side door to assist herself exiting the vehicle, and she almost fell over. She failed several standardized field sobriety tests. A chemical breath test revealed a BAC of 0.24 percent.

- State Police arrested Vipulkumar R. Desai, 39, of Guilderland, on Thursday, July 31, and charged him with DWI. State Police were refueling their vehicle at Stewarts, located at the intersection of routes 20 and 146 when a person approached them to report a man consuming alcohol in a vehicle in the parking lot. As police approached the vehicle, Desai allegedly drove off but was later stopped. Police allegedly observed him to have slurred speech, bloodshot and glassy eyes, along with possessing an open alcoholic beverage in his car. Police said he allegedly had a BAC of 0.08 percent.
- Guilderland police arrested David Charles Buckner, 34, of 21 Brookedge Apt. A in Guilderland, around 3:20 a.m. Saturday, July 19, and charged him with DWI, failure to obey a traffic control device and failure to keep right. Police stopped him for alleged traffic infractions on Western Avenue and allegedly observed him to have an odor of alcohol on his breath, impaired motor coordination and glassy eyes. He allegedly failed two of the four standardized field sobriety tests administered. A chemical breath test revealed a BAC of 0.1 percent.

Your Opinion in The Spotlight

Selkirk waiting for sidewalks

Editor, The Spotlight:
According to your article in the July 23 edition about sidewalks for Glenmont, it says that Mr. Clarkson is interested in pedestrian safety for the whole Town of Bethlehem.

We, the residents of the hamlet of Selkirk, were promised, and money was appropriated for, sidewalks during Supervisor Theresa Egan's term, yet they have never been placed and the money went elsewhere. Somehow the money always goes to other areas in town.

The sidewalks for Glenmont are going where no through truck traffic is allowed, but here in Selkirk, we have as many as 800 trucks a day. We are also tax paying residents and deserve a safe place to walk. We have, at present, a space 6 inches to 12 inches wide outside the white line, and Route 396 (Maple Avenue) is just barely the width limit for commercial traffic, according to New York state law.

Mr. Clarkson, if you are truly interested in pedestrian safety, please start at the most hazardous area in town — Maple Avenue.

Bossism trumping good government

Editor, The Spotlight:
Did you know we have a Town Board where three of the four councilmen are also officers of the Bethlehem Democratic Party? Read on, it gets more interesting.

On July 23, the Board met in Supervisor Clarkson's absence for its regular biweekly meeting. The visual was stunning as we saw the chairman of the Bethlehem Democratic Party, Jeff Kuhn, chairing the meeting. Mr. Kuhn, by the way, enjoys his post as party chairman as a result of a Bethlehem Democrats intra-party fight for reform. At that time, "Reform Democrats" placed an end to "bossism" high on their list of priorities, and their revolt resulted in a purge in the party's leadership and the election of Supervisor John Clarkson.

Mr. Kuhn, who had been elected to office with the support of the "bosses" he now derided, became the Bethlehem Democratic Party chairman. Later, he was also tapped to become the Bethlehem's deputy supervisor.

I suppose someone could make the case that this type of inbred governance, with the Democratic Party controlling the Town Board makes for good government. I, for one, would love to hear the case made. Until that day, I will continue to believe that one-party rule in the town can only lead to dysfunction.

We saw this recently when the entire board turned a deaf ear to residents' complaints and their presentation of documented errors made in the course of the town's reassessment. The Board's indifference has the look and feel of bossism trumping good government.

When I ran for the Town Board on a multi-party ticket last fall, I did so because I believed that opposing ideas should be given a voice and consideration at the highest level in town government. Having an elected "someone" to represent those ideas is the only way to ensure this happens. But we now have elected a Board of Democrats who are hamstrung by the Democratic Party.

Here in Bethlehem, we have a wonderful town, and we have talented people who are capable of doing much that is good. As a community, we should be grateful for our blessings but we should never stop in our quest for fairness and a political process that is open to everyone regardless of race, religion, national origin and/or political affiliation.

Putting Big Brother in his place

Police departments are increasingly turning toward technology to help them fight crime. It's only natural, considering the role technology plays in all of our lives. Officers can't be everywhere at once, so they are turning to video cameras to help them locate law breakers.

But at what point do these devices and the information they collect become an intrusion on our right to privacy? Sadly, we think that time has already come.

Think back to last year's scandal surrounding the National Security Agency's surveillance of cellphone conversations. Despite the NSA's claims that it was in the nation's best interest to monitor phone calls to locate possible terrorist activity, many of us felt violated because those were our private conversations its agents were listening in on.

Fast forward to 2014. The City of Albany is considering installing red light cameras to catch potential traffic law violators, while the Town of Colonie is installing license plate readers along Fuller Road to monitor who is coming and going — just in case one of those drivers had committed a crime somewhere and happens to be passing through that part of town.

In both cases, law enforcement officials have said the use of these devices is strictly for investigating crimes. But after what went down with the NSA, we know that, even under the best intentions, that data can be misused. We should be able to drive on the streets of our cities and towns without feeling like we're being watched to see where we're going and what we're doing like every one of us is a potential criminal.

In Albany, there is a movement to stop the installation of the red light cameras. Protesters showed up at City Hall last month with nearly 250 signatures on postcards made to look like traffic tickets to voice their opposition to the cameras that have already been approved by the state Legislature. That might seem like a drop in the bucket when you consider the city's population is more than 97,000, but it proves there are those out there who don't want their privacy compromised. And we feel there should be more who feel that way.

The Fourth Amendment in the United States Constitution protects us from arbitrary arrests and unreasonable searches and seizures of property. But it doesn't protect us from having what we do on a day-to-day basis being taped and held in a computer database for law enforcement officials to review at their discretion. They may need to go through the proper channels in order to gain access, but they can still see what many innocent people are doing in the hunt for one criminal.

We understand that the police and other law enforcement agencies need to do their jobs to protect the peace, but we believe an overreliance on mass data collection compromises the privacy of law-abiding citizens.

Big Brother doesn't need to watch us all to find the few bad seeds in our communities.

Creative ways to teach manners

By JENNIFER STEUER

The writer authors the “Triple Threat” column in Capital District Parent Pages. This column is an entry in her “Triple Threat” blog on www.cdparentpages.com.

Teaching kids manners is something that doesn't happen in one conversation. Manners happen when your kids see how you behave and how others behave. Certain situations are easy enough to prepare kids for: dinnertime, elevators and the ‘magic’ word please. What about the situations that may not be all that common? There are several situations that my kids have found themselves in that we hopefully prepared them for by giving them a few ideas.

Religious services can be stressful for kids because they have to be quiet and still. They can be stressful for moms and dads because they are trying to keep the kids quiet and still. We have been taking our kids to synagogue since they were two months old. Shocking, I know. We started early because we didn't want to miss services. As the kids got older, they learned different prayers and when it is a good time to make a bathroom run. As of now, our kids have been to a bar mitzvah, a bat mitzvah, a wedding and many very formal services. We gave them the information needed to fit in if they didn't know what to do: look at the adults around you and see what they are doing. As adults, don't we do the same things when we aren't really sure what to do?

Teaching kids manners is something that doesn't happen in one conversation. Manners happen when your kids see how you behave and how others behave.

I am not saying my kids sit nicely in their dress clothes and behave all the time. There have been plenty of times when I have taken the kids out and let them get rid of some energy before going back to the conclusion of services. I know that my kids have limits. I know how annoying kids can be when they lean over repeatedly and whisper in that not so quiet voice: How much longer! Are we done yet?

Part of the reason my trio does well during religious services is because they like going as a family. We get to spend time together. We learn things together and talk through the different questions they each have. As a family, we observe rituals at home and the kids ask questions about that. There are so many questions. Imagine any child and the number of questions that he might ask in a day... and now multiply that by three. Sometimes, I feel like I am being cross-examined by some very stealthy lawyers.

My kids are not perfect. Shoot! They are some of the most whiney and contrary bunch of kids on some days. I have to admit that I am not the perfect parent either. So, we work together as a unit trying to make this one part of our week better. We talk about what is expected, if there is anything new happening and sit in a place that makes a run to the bathroom less noticeable.

Another situation that seems to make kids into little demons is the waiting room. Any waiting room is a place for disaster. Or is it? I make a plan before I go anywhere that we might be sitting for a little bit. I have books, notebooks, pens and game ideas. We do the usual ‘I Spy’, tic-tac-toe, hangman and practice handwriting. We also do quick math problems, spelling quizzes and draw pictures. I have a one subject notebook for each of the kids and they write stories, questions and try to stump each other with made up words. We have gone through many notebooks, and I keep them for when they get older. I like the one subject because they are cheap, and the kids love having something that belongs to them. Sometimes, we put stickers on them and decorate the cover.

No child is going to be an angel all day. I am sure that my kids drive other parents crazy sometimes, and I am sorry for that. I am doing the best I can ... just like everyone else.

Reception recognizes writers and video makers

Participants in the Writers Workshop and my.video.project, and their families and friends, are invited to attend the annual end-of-summer reception. The evening begins at 7 p.m. on Aug. 14 in the library's Community Room and includes presentation of completed books by the writers, along with viewing of six randomly chosen completed video projects.

Following the evening, the published books will be on display at the library until Labor Day. Take the time to sample the writing of the community's up and coming authors.

Chill at the library
The weatherman won't report it, but Aug. 21 at 11 a.m. will bring a change of seasons to the library.

RCS COMMUNITY LIBRARY

The Community Room will become a "Frozen" wonderland of games and crafts related to the popular movie. Feel free to dress up as your favorite Frozen character, and bring your singing voice for a sing-a-long.

Lego time
The Lego Construction Zone returns to the library on Friday, Aug. 22 and 29, at 10:30 a.m. "Construction workers" of all ages are invited to a free-play session with the library's greatly expanded collection of Legos and Duplos. No registration is required. Bring a friend and your imagination for a morning in the library's Lego land.

Computer classes: learn the basics

Never got the hang of the computer? Do you struggle with email? Look to the library for guidance. Its weekly computer classes address many needs. Class size is small, so your questions will get answered. All classes are free and take place in the library. Registration is required: call 756-2053, or email info@rcscommunitylibrary.org

Understanding My New Computer: Move the Mouse & More — Learn the basics. In this class, we will review turning the computer on and off, using the keyboard and mouse, changing the date and time and personalizing the screen to help you find those handy programs that are hiding "somewhere" on your new computer. Thursday, Aug. 7, at 6:30 p.m.

Beginning Internet: Going Online for Beginners — Learn how to navigate the web in this beginner's class. Understand what the address bar is, how to type in a url, and add a page to your favorites. Mouse skills required. Wednesday, Aug. 13, at 11 a.m. or Thursday, Aug. 14, at 6:30 p.m.

Master Your Inbox: Folders, Filters and Webmail — Want to know how email sites like Yahoo and Gmail work? Learn how to navigate typical email folders, send messages, reply, forward, and attach files. Please note: This class is not to sign up for email, but to learn how email is used. You may come in prior to the class if you would like help to sign up for an email account. Wednesday, Aug. 20, at 11 a.m. or Thursday, Aug. 21, at 6:30 p.m.

The New World of Tablets. iPods, iPads and more — Have fun exploring the features and possibilities of tablet computers like the iPad or iPod. Bring your own in or experiment with an iPod or iPad at the library. Wednesday, Aug. 27, at 11 a.m. or Thursday, Aug. 28, at 6:30 p.m.

Rewarded for reading
Adults and teens continue to enter for their chance to choose a prize from the Rewarding Readers prize basket. Carol Palmer was this week's Rewarding Readers adult prize winner, and Zaia Ivan's name was drawn for the teen prize.

Teens and adults can enter a coupon for every three books read this summer in the Rewarding Readers weekly prize drawing. Each Friday, the library draws the name of a teen and an adult winner.

Science expo at library

It's been a summer chock-full of reading, learning and fun. We're set to celebrate with a Science Expo at Bethlehem Public Library on Thursday, Aug. 21, 2:30-4 p.m. Attractions for all ages include dancing, face painting, crafts, slime making, composting demonstrations and The Energy Bike! MakerBot, our 3D printer, will also make an appearance; demonstrations of this cool technology will be ongoing in the lobby that afternoon.

Kids and teens can still sign up for the summer reading program until the week before the party. Call 439-9314, option 4 or visit www.bplkids.org or www.bplteens.org.

We've still got lots of summer activities on our schedule; information is available in the library and online. Come on in.

Spotlight online
We've added a new feature to our website for local history researchers and others. Our obituary index is now linked to corresponding issues of The Spotlight, and in most cases, to the correct page. All available issues of

The Spotlight, 1955-2011, are accessible online from our local history page. In another development, all can now be searched simultaneously.

This digital archive replaces our bound volumes, allowing us to create more "people-space" in the library. The entire archive is also available on microfilm at the New York State Library. The Spotlight digitization project was funded almost entirely with a significant grant from our library Friends.

Get Your Game On Thursday, Aug. 14, at 2 p.m. Wii games and board games, from Super Smash Bros. to Pick-Up-Sticks. Grade 6-12.

Elm Avenue Park in Bethlehem is hosting a live music and “dive-in movie” Friday, Aug. 8, at 5:30 p.m.

The evening begins with live music by the Wheel, followed by a showing of “The Lego Movie.” All pools and the concession stand will be open until 9:45 p.m.

History hike Aug. 9 in Selkirk

There will be a history hike at Selkirk Park on Saturday, Aug. 9, from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m.

Hosted by Town Historian Susan Leath, hikers will walk along Thatcher Street and Maple Avenue and learn about American Revolutionary War veteran James Selkirk; Bethlehem’s oldest family-run business, Lehmann’s Garage; and the West Shore Railroad. Enjoy a mix of old and new architecture with Victorian era homes amid the ranch styles of the 1950s.

Pre-registration is required. For more information or to register, visit townofbethlehem.org.

Wellness Center shows ‘Happy’

The documentary “Happy” will be shown Thursday, Aug. 7, at 7 p.m. at the Delmar Wellness Center, 323 Delaware Ave. in Bethlehem.

“Happy” examines what makes people feel good about themselves. From the bayous of Louisiana to the deserts of Namibia and from the beaches of Brazil to the villages of Okinawa, the movie looks

Albany County establishes rail hotline

Peter Iwanowicz, Chairman of Albany County Executive Daniel P. McCoy’s Expert Advisory Committee on Crude Oil Safety, announced the launch of the County’s public reporting hotline in a campaign called “Uncommon Scents,” that provides a way for the public to report strong odors at local rail terminals and the Port of Albany. The number to call is 211, and the data collected by the call center will assist the county’s Committee on Crude Oil Safety in determining limits in air pollution monitoring and possible violations of state air pollution standards.

The movie is free, and reservations are required. Please bring a healthy snack or beverage to share.

For more information or to make a reservation, call 439-5077.

Thacher Park history hike

Local historian Tim Albright is hosting the third in a series of Thacher Park history hikes Saturday, Aug. 9, at 9 a.m.

Participants will meet at Paint Mine Picnic Area and hike to Outlet Falls to Overlook and back. Along the way, you’ll learn facts and hear stories of days past in this area of the park. The hike is easy to navigate and will last approximately two hours.

The hike is part of the park’s Centennial celebration series, “Exploring Thacher Park.” To register or for more information, call 872-1237.

Bees buzzing at nature center

Come and learn all about honeybees at the Thacher Nature Center’s “Honeybees Are Buzzin’” program Sunday, Aug. 10, at 2 p.m. at the center, 87 Nature Center Way in Voorheesville.

Participants will view a hive in the center’s indoor observation room. See how the busy workers, the specialized drones and the ever important queen bee work. Learn how to dance like a bee, and view the world from a bee’s perspective. Afterwards, take a walk to observe the honeybees at work in the gardens.

To register, call 872-0800.

AJCC accepting shoe donations

The Albany Jewish Community Center at 340 Whitehall Road in Albany is accepting donations of old shoes and sneakers to raise money for its camps.

Donations are being accepted through Sept. 30 at all entrances of the building.

Critter Hunt at Five Rivers

On Saturday, Aug. 9, at 2 p.m., families can work together to search for wildlife at Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, 56 Game Farm Road in Delmar.

Children and their parents are invited to join Five Rivers’ naturalists as they explore the trail with the best chance for animal sightings. Participants will look, listen for and learn about some of the animals of summer. There will be interactive games about animals, and people will keep a log of all the animals seen along the trail.

Earlier in the day on Aug. 9, Five Rivers will host a program about how birds are captured and how information about them is gathered and recorded. The program, which starts at 9 a.m., features biologists from the Monitoring Avian Productivity and Survivorship bird banding station at Five Rivers.

For more information on these two programs, call 475-0291.

Neighbors for Peace program

Bethlehem Neighbors for Peace is hosting a talk by Judy Bello and

Scott Williams called “US Intervention in Iraq and Syria, and ISIS on the Move” Thursday, Aug. 7, at 7 p.m. at the Bethlehem Public Library, 451 Delaware Ave. in Delmar.

Bello — a blogger and analyst — will talk about the current crisis in Syria and Iraq. She is a member of the Upstate Coalition to Ground the Drones and End the Wars, and she is a member of the UNAC Administrative Committee. She went to Syria as an election observer this spring and spent one month in the Kurdish section of Iraq in 2009.

Williams is a social justice activist with the International Action Committee, and he traveled with Bello to Syria as an election observer. He is also an organizer with International Action Center and the national coordinator of FIST — Fight Imperialism, Stand Together.

Bello and Williams will present a slideshow of images from their recent trip to Syria and then speak about their experiences in that part of the world.

Discover the Pine Bush

The Albany Pine Bush Discovery Center is hosting a 1-mile hike Sunday, Aug. 10, from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

The hike begins and ends at the center at 195 New Karner Road in Colonie. Experts will guide the hike over rolling sand dunes, where participants will discover the Pine Bush’s natural history, seasonal surprises and transformations.

Participants are asked to wear sturdy walking shoes, long pants and bring drinking water.

The hike is open to people of all ages. For more information, visit www.albanypinebush.org.

Gaining artful inspiration

“Beautiful Botanicals” is the next program in the Albany Institute of History and Art’s “Artful Mornings” series.

Participants will look for signs of plant life within the museum’s galleries and create their own art by painting landscapes and trees while trying out different perspectives and color schemes. They will also use real, natural items in collages and prints.

“Beautiful Botanicals” takes place Aug. 12-14 at the museum, 125 Washington Ave. in Albany. The cost is $45 for members and $60 for non-members.

McGrath brings the ‘Rollicking Teakettle’ to GPL

Renowned folk music performer and family literacy teacher Cathy McGrath will perform a special “Rollicking Teakettle” event just for kids on Friday, Aug. 8, at 2 p.m. at the Guilderland Public Library.

Ms. McGrath uses guitar, banjo, limberjacks, flute and penny whistle in her programs; she takes particular delight in getting kids to play traditional American singing games. You’ll clap, sing and dance in a celebration of creative movement, self-expression and friendly cooperation. Come join the fun and celebrate another successful Summer Reading Program. No registration required.

“Ten Percent on the Tenth”

Do you remember how delicious that meal tasted when you went to Juicy Burger for the Library

GUILDERLAND PUBLIC LIBRARY
www.guilpl.org

Foundation’s “Dining to Donate” event at the end of July? Whether it was a burger, a salad or those amazing wraps (and don’t forget the fries), you really enjoyed it. Well, you can do it again from 5 to 9 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 10, when once again Juicy Burger will donate 10 percent of all sales – “Ten Percent on the Tenth” – that evening to the Guilderland Library Foundation.

What does the Foundation do with the money it raises? It provides for library services not funded by your taxpayer dollars. Every time you use the Community Literary Garden – where we just had a jam-packed Family Fun Day – or your child browses in the children’s area, or you attend a Carol

J. Hamblin Notable Author Talk, you’re benefitting from the Foundation’s good works.

There are no coupons to bring and no secret passwords to utter. Just eat at Juicy Burger between 5 and 9 on Sunday, Aug. 10, and you’ll be a part of this worthwhile campaign.

Travel for Genealogy: The Old Country

Guilderland genealogy enthusiasts will gather at GPL on Thursday, Aug. 14, at 7 p.m., to share their experiences of traveling in pursuit of their family histories.

A panel will lead the discussion, and relate how their quests – which included visits to libraries, town halls, cemeteries, churches – were rounded out by meeting family members.

The evening’s session focuses mainly on travels outside of North America. There will be time for questions and answers, and commentary by participants.

Registration required; please call 456-2400, ext. 2.

SRC Prize Pick-up Day

Celebrate the end of another year of successful summer reading. Summer Reading Club participants are invited to GPL’s Helderberg Room on Friday, Aug. 15, to pick up your free books and gift certificates from local businesses.

We hope you enjoyed “Fizz, Boom, Read!” and “Sparked a Reaction.”

Is your child starting Kindergarten?

Get your child set for Kindergarten. Starting kindergarten is a special and exciting time for parents and children. Join us for a fun-filled program where soon-to-be kindergarteners hone their kindergarten-readiness skills and celebrate this important milestone.

This program is for children starting Kindergarten in September 2014 and a parent/caregiver. Register for the session of your choice: Tuesday, Aug. 19, at 10:30 a.m. or 6:30 p.m.; or Wednesday, Aug. 20, at 10:30 a.m. or 6:30 p.m. Call 456-2400, ext. 4.

Board Committees meet

The standing committees of the Guilderland Public Library’s Board of Trustees will hold their bimonthly working meetings on Thursday, Aug. 14, at 7 p.m., in various meeting rooms throughout the library. For further information on these meetings, call 456-2400, ext. 113.

Woman tailors new business to fit the fashion needs of office workers with hectic schedules

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

In a former life, Heather Dwyer was a senior executive at an investment firm in an office park. After 14 years, she decided to take a break.

"It was a great place to work, but heaven forbid you needed to run out and buy something," she said. "I never had the time. I didn't even buy my own clothes. My secretary did, and if I didn't like something or it didn't fit, it went out with the 5 p.m. parcel pick-up."

Dwyer decided to take a vacation from her busy life. She wanted to travel and have some time to herself, so she took a trip some might compare to the novel "Eat, Pray, Love."

It was while climbing through the Himalayan Mountains in Nepal, Dwyer finally thought she had decided to go back to work. She was thinking of hiring some new assistants, and was figuring out her new schedule when she stopped herself.

"I just thought it doesn't have to be this way," said Dwyer. "I can make a change."

Thinking back to her former hectic schedule, she came up with the idea for a mobile boutique that could travel anywhere but would especially cater to the employees of office parks. Dwyer was still on her trip when she began making plans and drawing sketches of the boutique.

The original plan was for the shop to be pulled on the back of a semi-truck. Those plans soon proved difficult, so she abandoned that idea but kept the name. Dwyer then opted to buy a large pick-up truck and had a custom-made trailer built to fit her needs.

"I wanted the inside to look like any small boutique one would see in downtown Saratoga or at Crossgates Mall," said Dwyer.

Although there are some products inside, most items are custom-made.

Semi-Lux specializes in dress shirts for men and women. There are a variety on the rack or there are books filled with different fabrics and designs that a customer can choose from. Dwyer will do the measurements on-site, and when the shirt is ready, it can either be shipped back or hand delivered.

Dwyer also offers business dresses, along with accessories for both men and women. Items include ties, socks, purses, jewelry and hats.

"Everything I sell is made in the USA and very high quality," said Dwyer. "I don't buy from someone unless I've been to the factory or the artist's studio myself. It's also not a forum for bargain hunters, but it's not as expensive as people think."

A custom-made men's shirt runs at about $129.

Dwyer will also set-up private appointments for those who would like an office visit. Certain items can be re-designed to meet specific needs, with very detailed measurements taken for each person's body type.

Right now, the business is based out of Menands, but really has no set home because it can travel anywhere. Dwyer, who lives in Albany, said she will travel anywhere from Saratoga to New Jersey if she gets a call that she's wanted.

"I recently signed a contract to partner with a real estate investment trust, so I'm allowed to park on their properties with office space," said

Dwyer. "That deal took me nearly six months, but that's just the first step. I still have to make the sales."

As part of her business, Dwyer is also partnering with Team Red, White and Blue to get custom-made shirts to disabled veterans. For every 10 shirts Dwyer sells, she will donate one shirt to a disabled veteran. Team RWB will work with Dwyer to find the veterans and get them in touch so the shirts can be designed and measured to fit their needs. The shirts will be especially helpful for job interviews.

"There's no reason a veteran should have to get a shirt from a big box store that doesn't fit their new physique," said Dwyer. "Someday, I'd like to be able to do a lot more."

Local veterans who participate in the Wounded Warrior Project have agreed to be her models.

For more information on how to visit Semi-Lux, contact Heather Dwyer at (518) 545-6296 or email her at heather@semiluxinc.com.

Heather Dwyer of Albany created Semi-Lux to bring boutique clothing and accessories to office workers who can't find the time outside of work. Her new business launched earlier this summer.

Altamont gets its own history book

Keith Lee releases book that includes more than 200 historic photographs

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

At least one image will come to mind for most area residents when thinking about the Village of Altamont — its annual fair. A new book aims to highlight a few more historic images, too.

Village resident Keith Lee's book, "Altamont," was released Monday, Aug. 4, as part of Arcadia Publishing's "Images of America" series, and features more than 200 historic images. There will be a book signing and reception held Sunday, Aug. 10, from 3 to 5 p.m., in the community room at Altamont Village Hall.

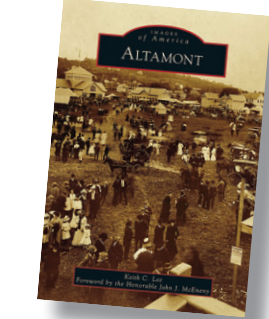

The book is broken into seven sections — beginnings, getting around, community, government, a summer retreat, rest and recreation, and the fair — featuring several previously unpublished images. The majority of images are from the village's Archives and Museum, which were primarily collected through donations over the years.

"There were times it was a bit of a challenge, but now that it is done, I am just so pleased to finally be able to show it to people," said Lee.

Marijo Dougherty, curator of the village Archives and Museum, spurred the idea for Lee to create the book. The "huge trove" of photographs provided a good starting point, according to Lee.

After getting the idea for the book, Lee, who is the longtime partner of Altamont Mayor James Gaughan, said he looked to see if anything had been done before. There was a small chapter included in Arcadia's book for the Town of Guilderland, but nothing as substantial as the now completed book.

"The residents, particularly the older ones, have a very definite sense of history," Lee said. "The people that became aware of the process of doing the book ... were encouraging and proud of the concept."

He said the most challenging aspect of the book was selecting images to use because each one had to tell a story.

"You have to imagine the story you can tell in 70 to 100 words per caption," he said. "Everybody has a story."

John McEneny, a former state assemblyman

Shortly after the proof version of "Altamont" went to the publisher, a photo of the village's two-story gazebo surfaced. Lee was able to swap the picture into the final version.

Submitted photos

representing part of Albany County, wrote the foreword for the book. McEneny described Altamont as a "unique American community," whose history is a "vital part of our heritage."

"The story of Altamont is the story of people from many backgrounds who have collectively created what is to so many residents and visitors a truly special place in our nation and in our hearts," McEneny said in the book's foreword.

Lee's favorite photo was one nobody in the village had seen for a long time, if ever.

He said there were some residents who claimed to remember a two-story gazebo, but a photograph of the image had never surfaced. Shortly after the proofs for the book were sent to the publisher, the long-awaited evidence turned up.

Guy Gamello Jr., who lives near Kinderhook, contacted village officials about a couple of images he found in the attic of his family's home. The image of the two-story gazebo was on a glass negative.

Lee quickly notified the publisher of the surprising discovery and was able to swap out one image and place the rare gazebo photo in the book. Lee said sharing the photo was a "nice achievement."

Seeing the completed book was a rewarding experience for Lee, who has lived in the village for 30 years and did extensive research on the community. He is a volunteer of the village Archives and Museum and writes the brochure for the Victorian Holiday Weekend House Tour.

"It felt great to see it," Lee said. "I have read a lot of different Arcadia series books, but to have it — just the fact it is Altamont ... and I had a hand in it — is a great feeling."

Noted poet to appear at writers festival

This year's Rensselaerville Festival of Writers features two offerings by one of today's most admired young poets, Shin Yu Pai. A reading of her recent work will be offered in Conkling Hall on Saturday, Aug. 16, at 4 p.m.

A workshop where regional poets can interact with Ms. Pai and present their own works-in-progress will be available at the Rensselaerville Library at 10 a.m. that same day. Workshop attendance is strictly limited, with early registration strongly recommended.

The festival takes place Aug. 15-17 in several venues throughout the idyllic Helderberg hamlet of Rensselaerville.

Ms. Pai's appearances are banner events in the rich schedule of readings, workshops and receptions that make up the festival.

Festival proceeds benefit the historic Rensselaerville Library located at 1459 County Route 351 (Main St.), Rensselaerville. For full details, frequently asked questions, and to buy tickets, go to festivalofwriters.org or call 797-3949.

“They did not pay their school tax in September, so that amount was rolled over to the 2014 property tax in January,” said Buchanan. “The amount that was rolled over was $9,690.”

There was still $15,240 in back taxes owned as of Tuesday, July 29, according to county officials.

Bonnie Greulich also owns the residential property directly behind Greulich’s, listed as 3401-3405 Carman Road, and paid off its back taxes on April 30. She had owed about $3,200 in town taxes, which includes interest and penalties.

Most people will likely remember the store’s fiberglass cow, which stood on the market’s roof, serving as a community landmark.

Many people were also fond of its meat department. Several Facebook comments on the market’s closing talked about the quality of meat offered, along with its premade meatball mix.

Store employees reportedly told customers on Friday, July 25, the store

A hand-written sign was posted to the door at Greulich’s Market thanking loyal customers.

would be closing, along with a Facebook post that day stating it would be closed “for a little while,” according to The Daily Gazette.

The Facebook post is no longer on its page, but a post announcing a 50 percent sale on everything from that Friday is, which urged customers to “come quick before it all goes!”

No reason has been publicly given from storeowners for closing the store before The Spotlight went to press Monday, Aug. 4.

The store’s website, greulichsmarket.com, also was taken down, with a message from the host stating the domain name expired. It had worked until at least Friday, Aug. 1.

Recreation Department first because that’s where they are needed most.

“In our public places, we have a lot of seniors and children that are physically involved and in active sports,” said Lanahan. “AEDs save lives, and our first response is to have these in place for any initial incidents.”

Each AED costs about $1,500.

One has already been purchased through the help of the initiative. Albany law firm Brown and Weinraub said they would sponsor one defibrillator after they heard about the campaign, since some of their employees are Bethlehem residents.

“If someone is able to sponsor one of the AEDs, they are something really important to have in any sports and recreation facility,” said Friends of Bethlehem Parks and Recreation President Joan Gavrilik. “I know someone’s whose life was saved by one of these. We’d really like to have two more.”

Lanahan said because the Friends group is a nonprofit, it’s easy for someone to make a tax-deductible donation. She said the town is required to have an AED available in places of public gatherings.

“I think this is someone no one can argue is important for the town to have,” said Gavrilik.

The Friends of Bethlehem Parks and Recreation will also soon have the results of their online survey about park usage.

Residents were asked to take the survey over a three-month period, ending in July. The results have already been shared with the group’s board.

“We got a lot of good responses, so we think it will be helpful for the town and friend’s group in figuring out what projects to work on next,” said Gavrilik.

The group is working on putting together a report based on the findings, and it will be made public next month. Gavrilik said some of the responses were lengthy, and there were trends seen in many of the comments.

Lanahan said she and a new committee will soon be working on creating a new Parks and Recreation Master Plan for the town, and she believes some of the survey’s results will be used. The department is also looking to eventually replace the Elm Avenue Park playground, so at some point fundraising may begin for that project.

Those who would like to make a donation or sponsor an AED can email info@friendsofbethlehemparks.org.

The Spotlight

Highlights from a half-century ago

From The Spotlight, Aug. 6, 1964

- It seems every summer that everyone must be on vacation the first week in August. No matter where you go in the Tri-Villages, there’s an air of people being away. The shopping crowds are a little thinner; attendance at the country club is down; restaurants are a little less crowded during the rush hours.
- All this is true until the Plaza Merchants put on their annual Outdoor Sidewalk Sale. This year, it is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 8. And from 10 in the morning until 5:30, you’d swear that there was twice as many people living in this area as there actually are. Everybody is at the Plaza — whole families make it a holiday. They go early — and stay late.
- There’s a reason why so many people turn out. It’s the most fabulous sale the area has ever witnessed. It always looks as though Don Knotts had gotten hold of the price tags and wanted to see how much money he could save everyone. Yep, we believe the store managers put on blindfolds and pick the lowest numbers from a hat.
- The second century of thoroughbred racing at Saratoga’s Union Avenue course got underway on Monday, Aug. 3, for a 24-day meeting conducted by the New York Racing Association. This “Capital of Thoroughbred Racing” will present the finest horses in the country in nineteen stakes races with a total of $595,000 in added money.

This meeting bids fair to be one of the best on record at the Spa. Rivalries originated in downstate racing will be continued at Saratoga with four Saturday stakes events high on the agenda and many others contested during the week.

The Saratoga meeting has always enjoyed the highest caliber of racing possible as stables from all over America ship in to compete for championship honors. The public response to this high-type racing has been just as high. Saratoga ranks right with every major racing center in America which races in August, as witnessed by last year’s average attendance of 14, 592 and average handle of $1,091,989.

In recognition of this annual response to Saratoga, the NYRA will start work immediately after the 1964 meeting on a $3.5 million grandstand improvement program which will include a 550-foot addition to the present seating area.

Local non-profits partner to make play space for dogs at animal shelter

BY BILLY DeLAP
delapb@spotlightnews.com

A newly constructed play space for dogs at an animal shelter was created when four charitable and nonprofit organizations came together to help.

On Thursday, July 31, at the Mohawk Hudson Humane Society in Menands, officials from Habitat for Humanity Capital District, Seymour Fox Memorial Foundation and the Humane Society and CEO Youth Build, held a ribbon-cutting ceremony to celebrate the play space.

The dogs that are being held at the shelter are strays or part of animal cruelty cases. While they wait for their owners to pick them up or pending the outcome of a trial, the dogs need a safe place to exercise.

Bonnie Chavin, a board member for the Seymour Fox Memorial Foundation, said helping out with the project fell right in line with what the foundation supports.

Executive Director of the Mohawk Hudson branch, Brad Shear

“This project seemed a perfect way to carry on Mr. Fox’s kind acts. I know Mr. Fox would be grateful for the work by Habitat for Humanity and the Youth Build volunteers to make these yards a reality and for the wonderful work by the Humane Society to make it as pleasant and safe as possible for dogs under their care,” said Chavin.

When Chavin approached the Humane Society to find out what she could do to help the animals, Executive Director of the Mohawk Hudson branch, Brad Shear knew it would be a good partnership.

“It started when Bonnie Chavin was taking a tour of the facilities just to see if the foundation could help out in some way, and when she saw the dogs in this building, which don’t belong to us yet, didn’t really have a good place to get outside and run around, she felt like that was a real need that was in line with what the foundation wanted to do,” said Shear.

Seymour Fox was a trial attorney in Troy who dedicated his free time to helping families in the area. When he died at 84 in 2010, in his will, he made a bequest that he stipulated be used to support charitable organizations engaged in making the world a better place. In 2012, a private charitable foundation in his name was created to provide funding for public charities.

It was the foundation that donated the funding for supplies for the project.

“They had the funding to get the materials. They got in touch with Habitat for Humanity, and they had the construction skills to put it up, and they brought in CEO’s Youth Build students to actually do the manual labor,” said Shear.

Habitat for Humanity is currently working on a project just across the Hudson River from Menands at Fox Hollow in South Troy, where the CEO Youth Build program is helping to build homes.

“Youth Build is a program for young people, 16 to 24, who have dropped out from a traditional school setting and are selected into the program by Commission of Economic Opportunity (CEO),” said Kristin McGivern, director of program operations at CEO.

The project took about four and a half days to complete and consists of a large fenced-in area attached to the building so the dogs can run freely or play with volunteers without the fear of them escaping.

Habitat representatives said the organization was eager to help with the project.

“When our Habitat children are asked about what they are most looking forward to when moving into their new home, we are delighted to hear, ‘Mommy said I can have a puppy or kitten.’ It made perfect sense to partner with our friends at the Humane Society to improve the conditions for our furry companions, as well,” said Mike Jacobsen, the executive director of Habitat for Humanity.

Dutchmen's season ends in division semifinals

Mohawk Valley fends off Albany rally to advance

By ROB JONAS
jonasr@spotlightnews.com

The Albany Dutchmen saw their Perfect Game Collegiate Baseball League season end one win shy of the East Division finals.

Mohawk Valley scored three runs in the bottom of the fifth inning and held on for a 3-2 victory over Albany in the divisional semifinal Thursday, July 31, in Little Falls.

Cameron Miller's two-run single in the top of the eighth inning gave the Dutchmen hope for a comeback, but the Diamond Dawgs recorded four straight outs to hold on for the win.

Albany clinched a playoff berth at the beginning of last week without playing a game. Glens Falls – the team that had been chasing the Dutchmen for third place in the East Division – couldn't get its doubleheader at Utica in Monday, July 28, which left the Golden Eagles without enough games to catch Albany in the win column. The Dutchmen's game was also canceled by the rain.

Glens Falls took some solace in beating Albany 3-0 Tuesday, July 29, but the Dutchmen rebounded with a 7-4 victory over first-place Amsterdam Wednesday, July 30, at Bob Bellizzi Field to finish the regular season with a 21-24 record. Ernie Clement and Sean Aspinall each had two hits to lead Albany's offense against Amsterdam.

The Albany Dutchmen and Spotlight Newspapers honored the seven winners of this year's Spotlight Player of the Week awards with a ceremony prior to the team's final home game Wednesday, July 30, against the Amsterdam Mohawks at Bob Bellizzi Field. The winning players each received a plaque from Spotlight Newspapers sports editor/associate editor, Rob Jonas.

before (Sunday)."

The Athletics grabbed a 1-0 lead in the top of the second inning on a hit by pitch with the bases loaded. Starting pitcher Ryan Harper made that lead stand up until Stanton unloaded in the sixth inning for his third hit of the afternoon. Stanton singled and doubled earlier in the game to account for half of the Bluehawks' six hits off Harper.

Altieri said his team didn't do itself any favors.

"We had three major base running blunders, and then in the fifth inning we couldn't execute a sacrifice bunt," said Altieri.

Ryan Gauck added a pair of singles for the Bluehawks, who advance to their first Stan Musial World Series appearance.

The Athletics had a chance to redeem themselves against the Bluehawks Monday, as the two teams were scheduled to meet in the second game of the Albany Twilight League semifinals. The Athletics defeated the Bluehawks 7-6 in the first game of the best-of-three series Wednesday, July 27.

"It's not the opportunity we were hoping for," said Altieri. "We're not going to the (Stan Musial) World Series, but we still have a chance to play for a league title."

The Athletics reached the Stan Musial regional finals for the fifth straight year by winning their first three games of the double elimination tournament. They edged the Long Island Gamecocks 4-3 and handled the Waterford Nationals 9-1 to get through the first day undefeated.

The Athletics then shut out the Bluehawks 5-0 Saturday, Aug. 2, to clinch a berth in the finals. However, the Pelham Mets spoiled the Athletics' bid for a perfect run to the final with a 6-1 victory.

The Bluehawks needed a victory over Pelham Sunday, Aug. 3, to advance to the finals.

now, I'd say they're the favorite to advance (to the Babe Ruth World Series), but you still have to play every game."

Bethlehem got off to a strong start in the Mid-Atlantic Regional with a 5-4 victory over Metro New York representative Great Kills Saturday, Aug. 2. Two Bethlehem pitchers had a combined no-hitter going into the bottom of the seventh inning, when Great Kills scored twice to close the gap to a single run.

"We pitched extremely well in that game," said Kniffin.

Great Kills took a 2-0 lead with single runs in the first and third innings. In each case, Great Kills got a runner on base without the benefit of a hit and sacrificed him around to bring him in. Bethlehem rallied for four runs in the fourth inning to pull ahead, and it added an insurance run in the seventh.

Bethlehem's Monday doubleheader began with a 9 a.m. contest against Bear, Del. (0-3). That was to be followed by a 7 p.m. contest against Frederick, Md. (1-2).

Dutchmen Player of the Week

Nick Jewett was named the Albany Dutchmen's Spotlight Player of the Week for the week ending July 30. The first baseman had a big weekend in helping the Dutchmen clinch a Perfect Game Collegiate Baseball League playoff berth, including a 3-for-5 day in a 16-4 victory over Mohawk Valley that included his first home run of the season.

N. Syracuse stymies Bethlehem

Eastern New York champs still in the running for regional title

By ROB JONAS

The Bethlehem Babe Ruth 15-year-old division all-stars ran headlong into a baseball team that could do everything well.

Western New York champion

North Syracuse made all the clutch plays it needed to defeat Bethlehem 10-0 in a Mid-Atlantic Regional pool play game Sunday, Aug. 3, at Niskayuna's Blatnick Park.

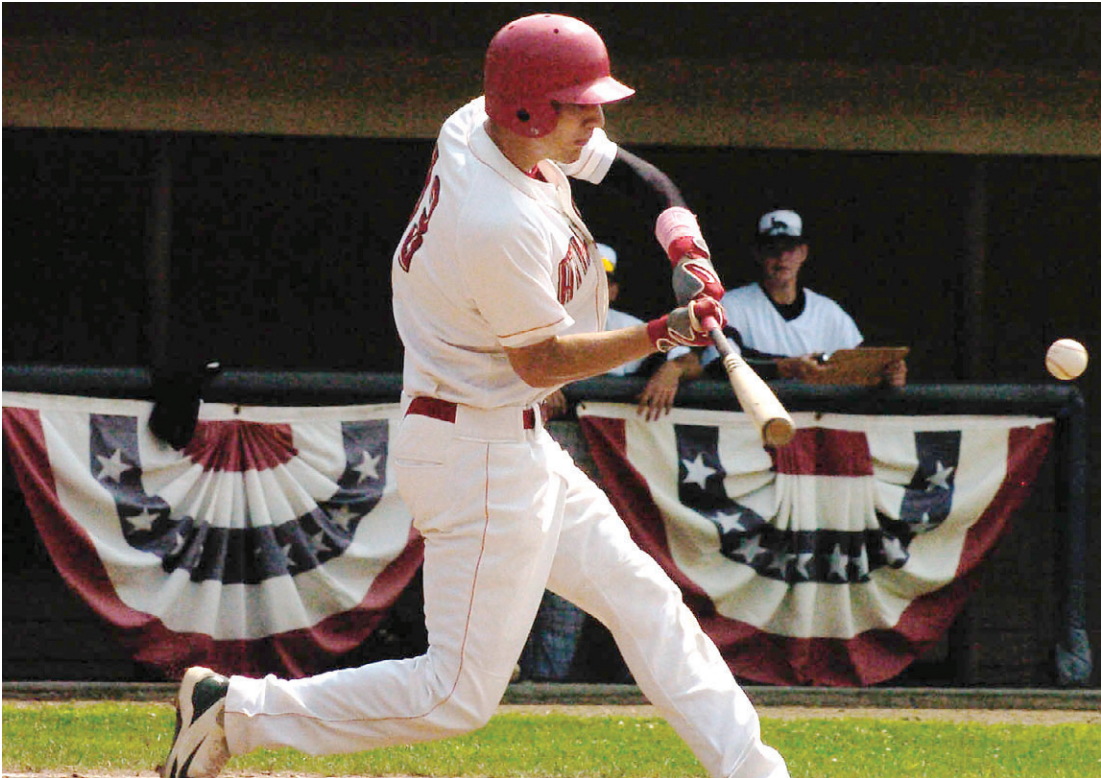

North Syracuse (3-0) extended its scoreless streak at regionals to 21 innings, and in the process forced Bethlehem (1-1) into needing to play in a quarterfinal game Tuesday, Aug. 5, to reach the semifinals – that is, as long as Bethlehem defeated either Bear, Del., or Frederick. Md., in its final two pool play games Monday, Aug. 4. "Playing four games in two days is going to be tough, but the kids understand that's what they have to do," said Bethlehem manager Scott Kniffin. "We're fortunate that we carry seven or eight pitchers on our roster, but it's still going to test our depth." North Syracuse plated three runs in the top of the third inning, and its pitching and defense thwarted several Bethlehem rallies to earn its third shutout in as many games. "We ran into a really, really good team," said Kniffin. "Right

Albany Athletics fall in North Atlantic Regional championship game

The Blue Stone Bluehawks ended the Albany Athletics' two-year reign as AABC Stan Musial North Atlantic Regional champions.

Andrew Stanton's two-run homer in the bottom of the sixth inning gave the Bluehawks a 2-1 victory over the Athletics in the regional final Sunday, Aug. 3, at Guilderland's Dutchmen Field.

"It's very disappointing. We were playing very well leading up to this game," said Athletics manager Joe Altieri. "We played the Bluehawks six times since June 28, and we beat them four out of the previous five times

The Noodle Pudding Players presents "Beau Jest" by James Sherman, to be performed at Ohav Shalom the second week in August.

"Beau Jest" is directed by Delmar resident Michelle Ungerman Sanders. The show promises to be "a lighthearted romp into marriage, dating, impossible parents and confused identities," according to Sanders.

The contemporary comedy introduces Sarah Goldman, a young school teacher who invents a perfect boyfriend whom she believes will please her traditionally minded, Jewish mother. When her parents insist on meeting him, Sarah hires an actor, Bob, to pretend to be her "beau."

The masquerade works out great for a time, thanks to Bob's charisma and improvisational skills. The antics that follow are laugh-out-loud funny.

The show will also feature local

Cirque

"We have a tradition for very poetic shows ... we broke that promise and went to the streets," said Gabrielle Pauze, director of communications for Cirque Eloize as she described "iD." "Director Jeannot Painchaud created something completely different than what the company had traditionally created — it's a very urban, high-energy explosive show."

The show was first presented in 2009 and has been seen by more than 500,000 people in 50 cities across 15 countries. Cirque Eloize has been traveling the world since 1993 with shows such as "Cirkopolis," "Rain" and "Nomade." The company, a leader in the world of circus arts, is known for its multidisciplinary artistic approach to contemporary circus, combining circus arts with music, dance and theater, and their latest creation is no exception — with something of an urban twist.

The show "iD" combines modern circus skills with urban dance, transporting the audience to a surreal metropolis with acrobats, break dancers and contortionists performing in front of eye-popping 3D projections.

"Up until 'iD,' it was all about the different types of circus disciplines which you still have with 'iD' — juggling and contortion — but in addition there is urban dance, hip-hop, extreme biking and rollerblading in the show," Pauze said.

She adds that it's not just the disciplines, but also the color and flavor of the show, including the music, which is rock, electronic and poetic all mixed up in one.

Painchaud's aim was to create a futuristic city combining comic books, science fiction movies and "the rich universe of graffiti." Tangled up in the chaotic realm of reality is a story about two street gangs, friendships, love and identity ("iD").

"There is nothing else like it," Pauze said. "Everybody will find something. If you are more used to theater, you will find something enjoyable about it. The younger audience I have seen sitting there being captivated because of the color and action. Teens will like it because it's different."

Pauze adds that "iD" it's not a typical family show, yet it's definitely a show that the entire family can enjoy each on their own level.

The company sets up shop each summer at Proctors. Last year, they brought "Cirkopolis" to the Proctor's stage. After its stop in Schenectady, "iD" will travel to South Africa, Russia and Italy.

Members of the company have been in town for weeks holding circus workshops for kids, teens and adults, doing community outreach projects and performing for youth groups. This is Cirque Eloize's second summer residency, as part of a five-year contract with Proctors.

"It's a way for people to enjoy the summer in a different way and also to discover circus arts," Pauze said. "One of our missions is to broaden people's knowledge of circus arts."

See Cirque Eloize's "iD" at Proctors in Schenectady through Aug. 10. For more information about show times, tickets and workshops, visit proctors.org.

Tickets are $15 for adults, $12 for students/seniors and will be available at the door. There will be a barbecue dinner option with show included for $35 on Sunday, Aug. 10. Dinner will be held at 6 p.m. (between the matinee and evening performances) and is by reservation only.

For reservations or information, call Nancy Pandolfo at 489-4706, ext. 10.

New planetarium projector at miSci

Planetarium shows at miSci have just gotten a boost. The Museum of Innovation and Science recently installed a new high definition, full-dome, computerized projector in the Suits-Bueche Planetarium. Using a series of mirrors to project on the full 30-foot dome, the new projector provides an immersive experience and allows for new planetarium shows, such as “Earth’s Wild Ride.”

“As the region’s science center, miSci strives to move forward with improvements for our visitors, and this projector brings visitors’ experience to a new level,” said miSci Executive Director Mac Sudduth.

The new projector will work alongside the planetarium’s existing GOTO Chronos Star Machine, which allows visitors to see 8,500 stars, close to the actual number of visible stars in the night sky. The GOTO Chronos can show the sky from any location on Earth and any place in the solar system; simulate the roll, pitch and yaw that astronauts experience on a space flight; and show the sky, for any point, 99,999 years in the past or the future.

The newest planetarium show, “Earth’s Wild Ride,” is currently playing at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 2 p.m. Sunday. Thanks to the newly installed projector, this show lets visitors explore the Earth as they’ve never done before – as observed by a fictional family relocated on the Moon. Discover crashing asteroids, erupting volcanoes, roaring dinosaurs, electrifying lightning and booming thunder. See eclipses, the ice age, Earth’s water cycle and the differences between the Earth and Moon on a roller-coaster-like ride through canyons of raging rivers and hot flowing lava.

“Earth’s Wild Ride” was produced in collaboration with Rice University, through NASA’s Immersive Earth Project. The first phase of a comprehensive planetarium renovation, the purchase and installation of the new planetarium projector has been made possible by major support from the Wright Family Foundation and a New York State Consolidated Funding Application (CFA). When the remaining funding is secured, other projects will include new carpeting, new seats, an upgraded sound system, and replacing incandescent light with LEDs.

An official NASA Space Place since 2005, the Suits-Bueche Planetarium at miSci welcomes thousands and thousands of visitors annually. In addition to offering a full schedule of public planetarium shows, miSci also offers planetarium specially designed shows for every grade level from pre-kindergarten through college for visiting school, scout and community groups. The Suits-Bueche Planetarium is a popular spot during miSci’s quarterly after hours special evening events and is also available for private rentals, during which it has been used as the setting or wedding proposals and anniversary celebrations.

The museum is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday and is located at 15 Nott Terrace Heights in Schenectady. Admission to miSci is $6.50 for children 3-12, $8 for seniors and $9.50 for adults; add $5 for a Planetarium Show. For more information, call 382-7890 or visit www.miSci.org.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
