Bethlehem likely to see tech upgrades

Efficiency grant would fund the purchase of items that would save time and money townwide

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — The town may soon be receiving long-awaited technology upgrades in almost every department through the use of grant funds.

In June 2013, the town received $776,107 through the state's Local Government Performance and Efficiency Program, because of efforts in 2012 to consolidate some employees within the Parks and Recreation Department with the Highway Department. This allowed more workers to help with plowing in the winter.

Some of the grant money has already been used to fund tax-relief efforts and to pay for new sidewalks in parts of Glenmont. However, as part of this year's budget, Supervisor John Clarkson is asking that a portion of the money be spent on technology upgrades.

Although the budget has yet to be approved, Clarkson said he expects most Town Board members and residents will agree the upgrades are needed.

"I think this is a very appropriate use of the efficiency grant money," said Clarkson. "Many of our employees are still searching through paperwork and filing it by hand, and we need an updated database of our records."

Townwide upgrades

Director of Management of Information Services Jeffrey Dammeyer and his staff are handling the majority of the work. One of the largest upgrades is a new times and attendance system called Kronos.

"The reason to upgrade that is because the current system uses paper or time clocks," he said.

About $97,000 is proposed to pay for the system. Labor employees in Highway, Parks, and the Water and Sewer Departments will clock in and out using their fingerprints. Clerical staff will use a new website. All of the information will then automatically be sent to payroll.

The new system will come with a dashboard interface for managers so they can see when employees are in the office. They can also more easily arrange schedules and time off to prevent overtime.

The new system is expected to be installed by mid-December.

The Town Board already approved about $28,000 from the efficiency grant for new security cameras throughout the inside and outside of Town Hall, and other town buildings. The cameras will be of better quality and allow for the video to be stored for some time for review purposes if needed.

Assessor

The second largest project is in the assessor's office.

About $30,000 has been set aside to modernize the office and help complete the new database from the recent assessments. Town officials also want to do more to get employees out into the field. An iPad has been purchased for the department to access the new system and enter

A turkey's tale

Glenmont resident's book for children inspired by a real-life avian visitor to the neighborhood

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

GLENMONT — A wild turkey showed up in a small Glenmont neighborhood two years ago and surprised residents when it tried to make friends with a neighbor's group of free-range chickens.

Members of the Chadwick Square community would watch for the turkey each afternoon, and they were enthralled by its interactions with the local chickens. Eventually the chickens were moved indoors when the weather turned cold, and that's when the turkey stopped coming.

"I began to imagine why he came in the first place and why didn't he leave sooner and where did he go in the end," said Loretta Mello Simon. "So then I began to write the story for my grandchildren."

Simon, who eventually turned that story into a children's book, is a former public school art teacher. She is also an environmentalist and historic preservationist, who has written several advocacy pieces and works of nonfiction in the past.

The book, released in September, tells the story of a brave young turkey who loves to explore and meet new friends. He becomes a local celebrity among the chickens, but he must return home to his family when winter comes.

Simon said her grandchildren were involved throughout the process of writing the book. The original ending was changed because it did not get their approval.

"I had thought Tommy could stay and have found a new family, because we talk so much about all the different ways we can make a family, and we recognize that more," said Simon, 74. "But my grandchildren were very upset he wasn't going to go home, and said his parents would be worried about him."

So she changed the ending, and while writing the story Simon also began to work on the illustrations.

Each bird and animal in the story was created using a collage technique from bits of magazines. After they were finished on the page, Simon would go back with pen and ink to create the landscape. This helps to showcase the vibrant colors of the animals, while also setting the scene.

As she worked, Simon would show the story to her friends.

"Over time, more and more of them said they would like their own copy and asked me to get it published," said Simon.

"Tommy Turkey's Great Adventure" was eventually self-published through The Troy Book Makers. For the first run, Simon had 100 copies made, and only about 25 are left. She's now trying to decide whether to have more printed.

"I think the book came out more beautiful than I could have imagined," she said.

Although Tommy Turkey's story has already been told, Simon said she now has the idea of possibly writing two more books due to the local popularity of the first. She is housebreaking a new puppy for her grandchildren because their parents both have full-time jobs. She thought that story could be a fun book for kids. She also has an idea for a story about a kitten.

"It's really been a great experience so far," said Simon, who's excited by the possibility of future books.

"Tommy Turkey's Great Adventure" can be found at The Book House in Stuyvesant Plaza and Amazon.com. Simon said she hopes to soon have it available in I Love Books in Delmar, and it can also be purchased directly from her.

G'land proposes $33.3M budget

While within tax cap, preliminary plan increases spending 3.5 percent, taps more fund balance

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

GUILDERLAND – Town officials kept next year's proposed budget within its tax levy limit, but the spending plan holds a 35 percent increase in fund balance allocation.

Guilderland Supervisor Ken Runion submitted the preliminary 2015 town budget to little fanfare on Monday, Sept. 29. The proposed $33.32 million budget holds a property tax levy increase of 1.52 percent. It increases spending by 3.52 percent, or $1.13 million, while keeping taxes down through tapping $2.31 million from its fund balance. Projected revenues are increasing 2.21 percent, or nearly $429,000, and total $19.8 million.

"During my entire tenure we have had very conservative budgets, and I believe this one to be fiscally conservative as well," said Runion. "We have done very well, and we still maintain the lowest tax rate in the county."

Runion pointed to the town's most recent fiscal stress score of 0 percent from the state Comptroller's Office as proof of its strong financial health. The score was based off the fiscal year ending in 2013.

This year's budget allocated almost $1.71 million from the town's fund balance, but next year would see an additional $600,000 tapped. The overall fund balance has roughly $11 million, which exceeds typically recommended minimums.

"I usually feel very comfortable on the fund balances," said Runion, "because over the last several years, while we have appropriated fund balance, I haven't had to use it."

Runion previously said the state Comptroller's Office could criticize the town for its fund balances being too large, as opposed to the normal qualm of it being too low.

Part of the increase in fund balance appropriation stems from the upcoming roof work at Town Hall, estimated to cost $180,000. Capital improvements included in next year's budget are not being bonded, according to Runion, so fund balances will be used to cover those added expenses.

The largest spending increase across all the town's funds was in the Highway Part-Town Fund, which is increasing 3.2 percent and totals almost $4.6 million. Increasing fuel and blacktop material for paving roads is the largest cost driver, according to Runion.

Overall assessed value of property in the town has increased for new commercial construction and residential housing developments. The taxable value of properties in the town increased 1.39 percent and totals almost $3.05 billion in next year's budget.

Town officials appear to have skirted what state Town Law requires during the budgetary process.

State law requires the budget officer to file a tentative budget with the Town Clerk by Sept. 13 annually. The Town Clerk is required to present the tentative budget to the Town Board during a regular or special meeting by Oct. 5.

The Town Board would review the budget, making changes if desired, and then approve a preliminary budget. There is no deadline to approve a preliminary budget.

Runion did not file a tentative budget, nor was a meeting held to present a tentative budget to the board. The board also did not vote to approve the preliminary budget, which was filed with the Town Clerk on Sept. 29.

Runion said the board has "never" voted on a preliminary budget during his tenure as supervisor, along with a tentative budget not being filed before the preliminary. He is serving his eighth two-year term.

Board members held two budget workshops, which were open to the public, before the preliminary budget was filed this year. There was another workshop held after the board's meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 7.

The Town Board must approve the budget by Nov. 20. If the board fails to approve it, then the preliminary budget becomes the budget for next year.

There was a two percent salary increase included for all town employees, said Runion, which includes elected officials. He said there were no layoffs included in the budget.

Salaries of the elected officials will be published in the legal notice for the Nov. 6 public hearing, which is required by law. The legal notice was scheduled to be posted on the town's website after The Spotlight went to print.

Runion does not expect any major changes to the budget before its approval. The board planning to vote on the budget on Nov. 6 following its public hearing.

"I don't believe any of the board members have any changes from what you see online," he said.

This is the first time the "detail sheets" of the preliminary budget have been filed online. Only a summary of the budget was previously filed on the town's website. Anyone can view the complete budget documentation at Town Hall.

"In the past we have had complaints we haven't put the details on (the town website)," Runion said.

He said the detail sheets provide residents with a lot of information, allowing them to look at every line of the budget. It also provides some historical information, showing what actual budget lines have come in at for prior years.

Battle for the 46th continues at debate

Tkaczyk, Amedore differences clear at LWV forum in Altamont

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

ALTAMONT —

Displeasing looks aplenty were cast between candidates during a recent debate for the hotly contested 46th Senate District, as each listened to the opponent's answers.

Cecilia Tkaczyk, D-Duanesburg, and George Amedore, R-Rotterdam, met for an Albany County League of Women Voters candidate forum on Wednesday night, Oct. 15, at the Masonic Temple in Altamont.

Cars lined Maple Avenue outside the building as people tried to find some place to park for the forum. Inside, the Masonic Temple was filled to capacity, possibly over, with people standing along the walls of the room and spilling out the door. Even though applause or cheering is discouraged at LWV forums, the crowd couldn't hold back their enthusiasm at times.

Unlike the previous debate in Schenectady, questions for the opponents were only gathered from attendees. Similar topics were discussed, such as New York Women's Equality and hydrofracking, but there were some new questions brought forth.

One asked how each candidate would work to create trade jobs, such as electricians and plumbers.

George Amedore, R-Rotterdam, answers a question during the League of Women Voters candidate forum in Altamont.

Tkaczyk said many of the jobs needing to be filled today are still open because workers don't have the necessary skills.

"I support programs that provide training and training on the job. That's why I think workforce development funding is a good thing," said Tkaczyk.

She also said schools need to have the resources to provide such educational opportunities. Working with area businesses in the classroom can ensure students are getting those skills.

"Not everyone is going to college," she said. "Helping those kids that aren't maybe wanting to go to college to get into a skilled environment is a great thing."

Amedore said the first thing needed in education was to stop Common Core and allow local teachers to develop a curriculum. Amedore, who owns Amedore Homes, said he also understood the skills children need to learn to enter a trade job.

"It's too hard to find good people," said Amedore. "We don't have a workforce that is properly being trained at an early age. What we need to do is institute, immediately, vocational educational experiences at a young age."

The candidates were split on the SAFE Act, with Tkaczyk believing reform is the right route while Amedore wants outright repeal. Tkaczyk was not in office when the legislation was passed.

Tkaczyk said there were some positive elements to the SAFE Act such as rules surrounding background checks, which she said could protect people from domestic violence. She also supported the law establishing harsh penalties for people who murder first responders.

"I am open to reforming aspects of it, and I support both revisions that changed the SAFE Act," she said. "I do not think we should outright repeal it because there are things in there that protect all of us."

Amedore said he

supports fully repealing the law, because it's a "bad bill," with parts of it that are not enforceable and unconstitutional.

"This is a complete infringement on our Second Amendment right," he said. "We need sensible gun control and legislation."

Many residents within the senate district have likely seen a political ad regarding the race, which each candidate has said is distorting their positions or record. At one point, candidates were asked what they could do to make things "more positive."

Amedore said the only thing negative in the campaign is Tkaczyk's voting record.

"We have a representative who has been representing New York City interests 97 percent of the time," said

Cecilia Tkaczyk, D-Duanesburg, answers a question during the forum. Two years ago she won the then newly created 46th Senate District seat in a hotly contested race with George Amedore.

Amedore. "What I believe we should be doing is having campaigns that are based on their record."

Tkaczyk countered that she is not being negative; it's Amedore's record that's negative.

"You voted 10 times against women to get equal pay for equal work," Tkaczyk said to Amedore. "When you look at George's record it doesn't fit. He says now he is for women's equality, but he voted repeatedly against many of these bills time and time again in the Assembly."

Veto override fails to gain support

Only 15 legislators supported the move to ban tobacco sales in pharmacies, far under the supermajority need to pass

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

ALBANY COUNTY — Tobacco can still be sold in local pharmacies after county legislators stood behind County Executive Dan McCoy’s decision to only ban the display of such products in those businesses.

Proponents of the proposed local law to ban the sale of tobacco at pharmacies on Tuesday, Oct. 14, urged the Albany County Legislature to override County Executive Dan McCoy’s veto of the bill, but lawmakers offered less support for the override than when they passed the ban. The bill would have banned the sale of tobacco at any store with a pharmacy, which included supermarkets. McCoy had claimed the ban would be unenforceable.

The legislature had passed the ban 21-17, but overriding the veto required a supermajority of the legislators, meaning three more votes were needed. Only 15 legislators supported the override.

Legislator Tim Nichols, D-Latham, announced his push to override the veto a week before the Tuesday meeting.

“If I thought amending the proposal to address the concerns expressed by the county executive was a better approach, I would amend and start the process over,” Nichols said in a prepared statement. “But the fact is, any proposal that includes the requirement of tobacco retailers to cover up tobacco advertising displays will almost certainly trigger a lawsuit against Albany County.”

Several advocates of the ban cited health concerns surrounding smoking and the dichotomy of selling cigarettes at a business focused on health.

“In this county, 15 percent of the incidents of cancer are lung cancer, but 30 percent of the deaths in the county are from lung cancer,” said Michael Burgess, a Delmar resident who is state advocacy director for the American Cancer Society’s Cancer Action Network. “We got involved because we saw this law is working in other communities.”

Nichols urged legislators to “make a statement” in support of public health, but some lawmakers questioned if the county was overstepping its authority through regulating what retailers sell.

Legislator Mary Lou Connolly, D-Guilderland, said she was in favor of getting rid of tobacco at all businesses, but not banning the sale at certain stores.

“How many kids go to Stewart’s or their convenience store for their ice cream cone or whatever, and when they go in, they are blasted with displays because these stores make a lot of their income from where the signs are posted,” said Connolly.

She added cigarettes are legal and the ban does not create a “fair playing field” for grocery stores, because customers would then have to purchase them at another business.

“Smoking cigarettes is not illegal. Are you going to stop selling beer in the grocery stores? That is not healthy either,” said Connolly. “If we do something, it should not be just the grocery stores for the signage. I think it should be across the board.”

Legislator Richard Mendick, R-Selkirk, said the legislation is about banning a certain group of retailers from selling tobacco and not cutting down the number of smokers.

“I don’t know of one smoker who, if they can’t buy it in one store, won’t walk to the next store and buy it,” said Mendick. “The claim that it’s going to stop people from smoking is just not there. There is no real research to prove that.”

Legislator Herbert W. Reilly Jr., D-Voorheesville, said he supports the ban because of the destructive quality of cigarettes being sold at businesses promoting health care.

“They didn’t call those things cancer sticks for nothing,” said Reilly.

Chairman Shawn Morse,

D-Cohoes, said he would support banning the sale of cigarettes altogether or the display of tobacco products, but not the legislation proposed. Morse also used the ice cream analogy Connolly mentioned.

“I had to ask myself why would I allow one organization who has children in it all the time to sell cigarettes and then try to ban it from another organization, who I believe have been the best stewards and protecting people from smoking because they put all of their cigarettes under lock and key, with no display,” said Morse.

Morse also said cigarettes are not sold at the pharmacy but often at the other end of the store.

He questioned whether emotions were playing a role in those supporting the ban.

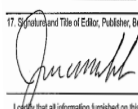

“When you legislate with emotion, you make the wrong choices,” said

Bringing the library home

Books to People is Bethlehem Public Library's free delivery service provided for patrons living within the Bethlehem Central School District who are unable to visit the library. If you qualify, a librarian selects items from our collections based on your interests. These items are delivered every other week by the Bethlehem Public Library van.

Choose from a wide variety of new and classic fiction and nonfiction in several formats: print, large-print, audiobooks and Playaways. (A Playaway is an audiobook and player in one neat package.)

You can also choose magazines from our periodicals collection, which includes general-interest publications as well as specialty magazines devoted to science, health, sports, nature, gardening, home design, travel, cooking, knitting and more.

Our music CDs encompass everything from classics to jazz, rock, pop, folk and world music. You can borrow DVDs, as well — feature films and documentaries or health, travel, and how-to films.

The library also has a variety of e-readers available for loan. Some contain all books by individual authors such as Nora Roberts, Sue Grafton and Lee Child. If you would like to borrow an e-reader, call 439-9314 and ask your librarian to request one.

You qualify for Books to People if you live in the Bethlehem Central School District and if you have a permanent or temporary physical disability or medical condition that prevents you from coming to the library. There is no age restriction. The library van will make deliveries to your home every two weeks and pick up materials ready for return.

To request the Books to People delivery service for yourself or someone you know, call the library at 439-9314. A librarian will take your name, address and phone number, ask about what you would like to receive and set up a delivery schedule. Deliveries will begin shortly after your request is processed. You can end the service at any time.

YMCA kicks off Annual Campaign

The Bethlehem YMCA kicked off its 2015 Annual Campaign last Thursday night in the Y gymnasium. Thanks to the generosity of Y volunteers, staff and people in our community, the Annual Campaign is able to fund scholarships for thousands of people in need in Bethlehem to participate in Y programs.

The kickoff event featured inspirational stories from four YMCA members. Seven-year-old Jazzlynn Blanding told the crowd how much she loved going to the Y's summer camp, something that would not have been possible without assistance from the Annual Campaign.

Bruce Plotsky talked about his battle with Parkinson's disease and his search for a wellness program that would provide relief. After trying several different programs, he found the Y's Pedaling for Parkinson's program that gives people afflicted with the disease much-needed relief. Bruce is now certified as a spin instructor for the Pedaling for Parkinson's program, which is made possible by the Annual Campaign. "The people at class have become an extended family for me," Bruce said. "The YMCA gives me an opportunity to learn, share and help."

In an impromptu and emotional moment, the Hupe family — Rella, Matthew and Daniel, a Circle of Champs family for more than eight years — made an impromptu donation to the Circle of Champs program for children fighting cancer in honor of Rella's mother, who passed away last month.

Sonia Parikh has a long history as a YMCA member and has three kids on the BAY Rays swim team. Sonia home schools her children and told the audience about a tough financial setback suffered by her family and how the Y was there to help. "YMCA programs are a huge part of my family life," she said. "Without assistance, we couldn't do all the things we do at the Y. Now, my kids have a safe place to learn and grow."

Those are just four individual stories about how the Bethlehem YMCA — through the assistance of our Annual Campaign — has helped individuals and families in our community. There are thousands of stories just like these: stories about help for families that suffered job losses and financial hardships; programs and summer camps that bring a smile to the face of a young child; and wellness classes that provide relief to people combating serious illness such as our Circle of Champs program for kids with cancer. At the Y, no one is ever turned away due to an inability to pay.

Our community has been incredibly generous

It was all smiles at the Bethlehem YMCA Annual Campaign kick-off last week. Pictured are seven-year-old Jazzlynn Blanding of Bethlehem and Capital District YMCA Executive Director Derek Martin. Jazzlynn told the crowd at the event how much she loved the Y's summer camp, which she was able to attend thanks to a scholarship from in supporting our Annual Campaign, however the gap between our fundraising efforts and community need continues to widen. This year, our goal is to raise $125,000. Every dollar given will stay in our Bethlehem area benefiting people of all ages in the community you care about. Together, we help children and families with the financial support needed to participate in programs such as Circle of Champs, Black and Latino Achievers, Youth and Government, Livestrong, ICan, Pedaling for Parkinson's, Diabetes Prevention, youth arts and humanities and swim lessons, summer camp and simply enjoying all our facility has to offer.

The YMCA is so much more than a gym. Our mission is to work for social responsibility, youth development and healthy living. The money contributed to our Annual Campaign makes it possible to accomplish that mission. Our staff and volunteers will be reaching out, telling you more about our campaign and how it helps people in Bethlehem, and asking for your support. We ask that you please consider making a donation because it will make a huge difference in someone's life.

Learn about family friendly nanoscience

Come to GPL on Thursday, Oct. 23, at 7 p.m., and meet Steve Stewart, who wears what looks like a space suit when he's at work. You might think he's an astronaut, but he works at the College of Nanoscience and Technology. Come see Steve put on his special gear and learn about nanoscience from a family-friendly perspective.

Paying for your child's college

As any parent or caregiver of a college-bound teen knows, the financial aid process can be intimidating. Get an edge on the system by attending "Paying for College" at GPL on Saturday, Oct. 25, at 2 p.m. Joe Gorman, from NYS Higher Education Services Corporation (HESC), will provide information about how to apply for financial aid and scholarships.

It's never too soon to start planning. Call 456-2400, ext. 2 to let us know you'll be attending this vitally important class.

Pinstripe Empire

As we wrap up the World Series, help us close out the Monday Night Baseball Series on Monday, Oct. 27, at 6:30 p.m. by welcoming baseball author Marty Appel.

Marty will be at GPL to talk about his most recent book, "Pinstripe Empire: The New York Yankees from Before the Babe to After the Boss." He will also discuss his work as the former public relations director for the New York Yankees, and his many books about our national pastime.

Please register for this program by calling 456-2400, ext. 2.

TNT at GPL

When we say "TNT at GPL" we mean "Tuesday Night Trivia" at the library, and you're invited. Join trivia master Joe Michon-Huneau and test your smarts on Tuesday, Oct. 28, at 7 p.m. in the Helderberg Room.

Prizes will be awarded to the winning teams. Teams should be made up of four or fewer people. No registration required – just come with your team. You'll have a dynamite time.

11/15 NYC trip sold out

If you missed out on the Nov. 15 trip to New York City – which sold out in record time – you can still reserve your seats for the Dec. 6 trip. But do it soon: this Dec. 6 trip has two buses, and the first one is sold out.

To reserve your seat online, go to the Chamber's website at www.guilderlandchamber.com, or call the Chamber at 456-6611. You can also use the reservation form printed on the back panel of the library's September-November newsletter. Reservation forms are available at the library as well.

The Dec. 6 trip enables you to enjoy all the holiday excitement that only New York City can create. The buses will leave the GPL parking lot at 8 a.m. and will drop you off in Midtown on 42nd Street, between 7th & 8th avenues. Planned arrival time is 10:30 a.m. You have all day to enjoy the sights, sounds, and celebrations.

For the return trip, the buses will meet you just before 7 p.m. in front of the McDonald's (again, on 42nd Street between 7th & 8th avenues). The buses will leave at 7 p.m., and get back to the GPL parking lot about 9:30 p.m.

Questions? Call Linda Fahd at the Chamber (456-6611) or Mark at the library (456-2400, ext. 112), and they will be able to help.

'Lions, and tigers, and books! Oh, my!'

"Lions, and tigers, and books! Oh, my!" is the Halloween theme at GPL on Friday, Oct. 31, when we hold a film festival of L. Frank Baum's most-loved work, "The Wizard of Oz."

The movie will be easy to find: Just come into the library and follow the "Yellow-Brick Road" through the doors of "The Emerald City." You'll find yourself in the Helderberg Room with comfy mats down front for relaxed viewing. And there will be popcorn, of course. Showings of the movie will be at 11:30 a.m. and 3 p.m.; the movie is 1 hour 32 minutes long, so stay for as long or as short a time as you want.

Be sure to say hello (or "We're not in Kansas anymore") to all the staff members who are dressed up as "Wizard of Oz" characters. You'll meet the "Good Witch of the North," the friendliest "Wicked Witch of the West" as ever you've seen, at least one "Dorothy" (maybe two or three), and the "Apple-Throwing Tree" (who, we promise, will not throw any apples).

We invite you to come in costume, too. It's going to be a lot of fun for everybody. Oh, and pay no attention to that man behind the curtain...

Create your own Halloween candy

Teens are invited for a Halloween Candy Craze creativity lab on Oct. 26 at 2 p.m. Make a candy corn catapult, paint with Skittles, explode some peep ghosts and, of course, snack too. Grades 4 to 6; please register.

Soup night

Bring your favorite soup, soup-friendly side or dessert to share on Monday, Oct. 27, at 6:30 p.m. Include a recipe card to display. Sign up at the information desk to let us know what type of dish you're bringing.

Teens Care: Thanking Our Veterans

All teens are invited to join us on Saturday, Nov. 1, at 2 p.m. We'll make and package sweet treats for veterans and their families staying at the Fisher House at the Albany

Stratton VA. Participants will earn two hours of community service credit. Grades 6 and up, please register.

Elder law presentation and Q&A session

On Sunday, Nov. 2, at 2 p.m., students from the Albany Law School Pro Bono Society are offering a free presentation and Q&A session on legal resources important to senior citizens, their family, caregivers and elder care professionals. Topics will include Medicaid, advance directive documents, avoiding senior scams and estate planning. Please register.

Meet the author

The library is proud to welcome former U.S. Army Captain and New York Times bestselling author Luis Carlos Montalván and "Tuesday," his Golden Retriever and service dog. Capt. Montalván and Tuesday will visit the library on Friday, Nov. 7, at 6:30 p.m. What a terrific way to commemorate Veteran's Day.

Luis Carlos Montalván, a 17-year Army veteran recovering from physical wounds and post-traumatic stress disorder, helps other veterans do the same. He will discuss his bestselling memoir, "Until Tuesday," and share the story of how together, he and Tuesday began the healing process. The book also brings to light the challenges veterans and all people with visible and invisible disabilities find difficult to talk about. Copies of "Until Tuesday" and "Tuesday Tucks Me In" will be on sale for signing at the program.

This program is sponsored by the generous support of the Friends of the Library and New Scotland Kiwanis. If this date is not convenient, Luis and Tuesday will also be at the Schenectady Public Library on Nov. 5 at 4 p.m. for "Tuesday Tucks Me In: The Loyal Bond between a Soldier and his Service Dog," and on Nov. 6, at 6:30 p.m. to speak about "Until Tuesday: A Wounded Warrior and the Golden Retriever Who Saved Him."

Mark your calendar

Join local author and historian Dennis Sullivan as he guides you on a journey through your own history. The program will be held every other Tuesday evening at 6:30 p.m., from Jan. 13 through March 24. The sessions offer the opportunity for you to share what you are writing with the group and receive a helpful critique of your work. Limited seats available, so register early.

Upgrades to impact efficiency information while in the field.

"This will make sure we have updated data each time we visit a property," said Clarkson.

The plan is that by the next time the town does a reassessment, which should be in about five years; a digital sketch is available for each property in town. Money will go to update this system since during the last assessment, GAR Associates only provided the service for commercial properties.

The target date for this upgrade is late 2015.

Building

The Building Department will be seeing similar upgrades. About $18,000 is being sought for three iPads and support software to allow greater access while out in the field.

The information collected can then be shared with the Assessor Department and vice versa.

Highway

After a pilot study was done last spring, it was found that installing a GPS system into the cars in the Highway and Parks Departments would be beneficial.

The new GPS system could track where the cars go. A new no-idle policy would also help to cut down on fuel use. Highway Superintendent Brent Meredith said $270,000 was spent on fuel between the two departments last year. It is estimated the new policy and vehicle tracking could cut fuel costs by 12 percent. About 50 vehicles would have the new GPS installed.

"Anything we can do to cut fuel costs is good," said Meredith.

A similar system may be proposed for the town's police department in the future.

The system will cost about $12,000, with an annual fee of $8,000, but the company allows for the GPS in some vehicles, like the town's snow plows, to be turned off for some portions of the year. The department is foreseeing an annual savings of about $20,000.

Town clerk and comptroller

An additional $10,000 is being sought for software upgrades for the Comptroller's Office to better sort the town's financial data in different ways to help find cost savings.

For the town clerk, $12,000 is proposed to digitize all the town's records.

This will cover the scanning of all the documents and the cost of a new retrieval system, which can be accessed by various departments when needed. The new system will be able to link residents' documents so they can all be found in one place, and will have an easier keyword search.

The next budget discussion is set for 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 22, at Town Hall.

Retired police officer gets help from trained dogs to help fight heroin use

By MARCY VELTE
veltem@spotlightnews.com

CAPITAL DISTRICT — If someone had asked retired police officer Dave Harrington years ago if he'd like to become a K9 handler, the answer would have been yes. The problem was, and is, funding.

Most local law enforcement agencies can't afford their own dogs, and when one is needed, they have to call in the county sheriff's department or state police. The Bethlehem Police Department hasn't had a dog since the early 2000s.

"I'd been involved with a lot of the training sessions, but I'd never handled a dog in that capacity until I reached out myself," said Harrington.

A former Bethlehem Police officer and D.A.R.E. instructor, Harrington started his company, Specialized K9 Detection Service, in 2013. He was still on the police force at the time but knew he was going to retire soon. He began doing research on certifications and soon bought his first dog, Willie, from a kennel in North Carolina.

By that time, Harrington was committed. The dogs, which come fully trained and already imprinted with the scents of specific drugs, cost between $7,000 and $10,000 each. Harrington then hired his friend, Aaron, to prevent any conflicts of interest until he eventually retired a few months later. He soon bought a second dog, Stone. Both of the dogs are four years old.

"This wasn't meant to be a retirement plan," said Harrington. "It's just David Harrington uses specially trained dogs to find drugs hidden in homes and businesses.

Submitted

something I've wanted to do. It's not really about the money but helping people."

In recent years, heroin has become a growing concern for not only the Capital District, but the entire state.

According to Attorney General Eric Schneiderman, Albany County ranks sixth in the state for opioid hospitalizations, and more than 2,000 residents have died from overdoses in New York since 2011.

Harrington said the majority of his contracts are with businesses who want to make sure drugs aren't being brought into work. Very rarely is anything found in these instances, he said. However, when dealing with residential clients, 95 percent of the cases involve heroin.

"I thought there would be more nosy parents out there who would want to know if their kids are smoking weed, but that isn't the case," said Harrington.

All of the company's sessions are confidential and performed without informing law enforcement. Police are only called if there is a public safety issue or if illegal weapons have been found.

Harrington said that addiction is a difficult problem to tackle, but the first step is finding out if there is a problem in the first place — that's where he and his dogs come into play.

"We're beginning to learn now that jail time doesn't work for an addict," said Harrington. "There are often times they are still able to get drugs in jail, which is a whole other issue, and they come back just as addicted as they went in."

The problem is, Harrington said, often people are scared to call the police for help or advice. If they do, they are afraid to give their names because of the likelihood a friend, family member or themselves will be arrested.

"People are concerned the information will get out," said Harrington. "They're (worried) about their safety and their children's, but more worried about what the neighbor will think. So many times, their biggest concern is ending up in the newspaper."

Most searches are done when the suspected user is out of the house. Before a visit, Harrington extensively interviews those living in the house who have concerns, but doesn't ask where they suspect drugs are hidden. This helps to ensure the dog's reactions are genuine. One dog is then brought through the home or business, followed by another search by the second dog to promote accuracy.

When the search is complete, Harrington provides a list of resources for the family or business owner. This can be anything from counselors to rehabilitation facilities. Harrington also offers to speak with the user if drugs are found.

"It's very sad sometimes, and you want to know how the person got to that point," said Harrington.

Authorities are now working hard to fight the epidemic.

In June, Gov. Andrew Cuomo launched his "Combat Heroin" campaign. The effort was meant to increase the availability to naloxone, a medication that reverses an opioid overdose. It also provided more support for parents, insurance reforms for those seeking treatment and decriminalized drug use for those who call in seeking help for an overdose victim.

Harrington said his business has become a success, and he is glad his services are being used to help others.

A production company recently contacted him to shoot a pilot for a reality television show. The first episode will likely be shot in the near future, but there's no guarantee it will be picked up to air.

"I think the thought is for it to be something like 'Intervention,'" said Harrington. "Participants could be blurred out if they wish, but how it goes is up to the production company."

If the show is picked up, Harrington said he would be searching for new clients who won't mind being filmed. If that were the case, services would be provided for free.

ALBANY COUNTY — The seedings for this year's Section 2 football playoffs came out Sunday, Oct. 19. And for two area teams, their seasons will continue on the road.

Bethlehem (5-2) and Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk (5-2) begin Sectional play with road games after coming in third place in their respective divisions. Bethlehem travels to Colonie to face Christian Brothers Academy (6-1) in the Class AA quarterfinals Friday, Oct. 24, while Ravena goes to Broadalbin-Perth (5-2) for a Class B playoff contest.

Voorheesville (7-0) is the lone area team with a home playoff game in the first round, and it promises to be a good one as the Blackbirds host Mechanicville (6-1) in a Class C quarterfinal Saturday, Oct. 25. Voorheesville needed a last-minute touchdown to beat its

G'land exceeds expectations

By ROB JONAS
jonasr@spotlightnews.com

GUILDERLAND – In what was supposed to be a rebuilding year, the Guilderland boys soccer team achieved more than it thought it would.

The Dutchmen (12-3-1, 16.5 points) wrapped up the Suburban Council South Division title with a 2-1 victory over Mohonasen Thursday, Oct. 16, in Rotterdam. The one standings point they earned for the win also all but assured them of the No. 3 seed for the Section 2 Class AA playoffs.

“We graduated 12 seniors from last year, so to get 12 wins and win the South (Division), we’re elated with that,” said Guilderland coach Mike Kinnally. “Our goal every year is to get at least 10 wins. With some programs, 10 wins is a lot, but that’s what we expect.”

Guilderland was to receive its official Sectional seeding Tuesday, Oct. 21, and Kinnally said he expected it to be an interesting meeting with former Big 10 schools Christian Brothers Academy, Albany, LaSalle and Schenectady all petitioning for seeds after playing independent schedules this season. In particular, Kinnally said, CBA (12-3-1) was looking for a high seed.

“It’s certainly going to be tricky because CBA’s schedule is so weak to begin with, and then they turned around and lost to LaSalle 4-0 and to Schenectady last week,” said Kinnally.

Guilderland and Bethlehem (10-5-1, 13 points) already knew where they stood within the Suburban Council hierarchy at the conclusion of the regular season. Guilderland had the third-most standings points behind North Division champion Shaker (14-1-1, 20.5 points) and North Division runner-up Shenendehowa (12-3-1, 18.5 points). Bethlehem finished fifth overall in the league, thanks to a six-game winning streak to wrap up the season.

Kinnally said his Guilderland team was “a little dinged up” with some minor injuries to a couple of players, but he expects the Dutchmen to be ready for their playoff opener later this week.

“We’re not afraid of anybody,” said Kinnally. “We just have to go out and play.”

Kinnally said the main focus this week will be to improve Guilderland’s offensive efficiency.

“We’re having trouble finishing our opportunities,” said Kinnally. “We’ve been in almost all of our games, but in the ones we’ve lost, it’s been because we just haven’t finished our shots. We have to take advantage of our opportunities when we have them.”

Guilderland does have one of the stingiest defenses in the Suburban Council, though. The Dutchmen posted six shutouts and allowed a total of 13 goals during the 16-game regular season.

“At this time of the year, it’s all about playing well,” said Kinnally.

Carey leads Dutchmen

By ROB JONAS
jonasr@spotlightnews.com

LATHAM – The Guilderland boys cross country team turned in a dominating performance at the Albany County Meet Friday, Oct. 17, at Colonie Town Park.

Noah Carey won the individual title, and two more Dutchmen placed in the top five to help Guilderland finish first in the team standings with 34 points. Colonie was second with 68 points, while Shaker edged Christian Brothers Academy 73-74 for third place.

Carey pulled away from Colonie’s Jake Johnson for first place. Carey won with a time of 15:26, while Johnson placed second with a time of 15:29.

Guilderland’s Noah Tindale finished third with a time of 16:18, while Bethlehem’s Simon Powhida (fourth place, 16:20) and Guilderland’s Jonathon Feil (fifth, 16:23) rounded out the top five runners.

The Dutchmen also received strong runs by Ethan McDonald (12th place, 16:52) and Jared Capuano (13th, 16:54).

Colonie had five runners in the top 20, led by Johnson’s second-place finish. Tyler Lipina (11th place, 16:51), Erick Bower (16th, 17:03), Jon Coogan (19th, 17:17) and Bryce Barber (20th, 17:18) helped the Garnet Raiders hold off Shaker and CBA for second place in the team standings.

Paul Nichols (sixth place, 16:31) and Tom Hale (eighth, 16:37) led Shaker’s pack with top-10 finishes. Liam O’Brien (ninth, 16:38) and Kevin LaFleche (10th, 16:40) made the top 10 for CBA.

Powhida’s run powered Bethlehem to a fifth-place finish in the team standings with 83 points. Dawson Homer (seventh place, 16:34) also cracked the top 10 for the Eagles.

Guilderland also claimed the girls division title with 46 points. Shaker was second with 65 points, and Bethlehem finished third with 68 points.

Shaker’s Maryanna Lansing claimed the individual title with a time of 18:13. Albany Academy’s Emily Acker placed second with a time of 18:29, and Guilderland’s Emily Burns was third with a time of 18:44.

Burns had plenty of company wearing red and white, as Guilderland placed five runners in the top 15. Sarah Forman was fifth with a time of 19:16, while Alyssa Jourdin placed ninth with a time of 19:31. Rebecca Miceli (14th place, 19:53) and Jennifer Hoffman (15th, 20:04) rounded out the Lady Dutch’s top five.

Payton Czupil (sixth place, 19:19) joined Lansing in the top 10 for Shaker. Shannon Fitzpatrick (17th, 20:28) and Anna Asch (19th, 20:34) made the top 20.

Keeley Hogan (eighth place, 19:27) paced Bethlehem’s pack.

Dutchmen face crossover game

Central Division rival 10-7 in their regular season meeting Sept. 20.

Bethlehem, Ravena and Voorheesville all earned No. 3 seeds for the playoffs. Bethlehem gained the No. 3 seed out of the Liberty Division after finishing in a three-way tie for second place with LaSalle and Colonie. LaSalle received the No. 2 seed based on quarter points, with Bethlehem earning the No. 3 seed and Colonie the No. 4 seed.

Voorheesville's No. 3 seed wasn't cut and dry, either. Despite being one of two undefeated Class C teams, the Blackbirds were passed by Class C South Division champion Fonda-Fultonville (6-1) for the No. 2 seed. Defending Sectional champion Hoosick Falls (7-0) received the No. 1 seed after winning the North Division title.

Ravena had a chance to earn the No. 2 seed out of Class B's Reinfurt Division, but Cohoes (4-3) snatched the game and the seed out of the Indians' hands by rallying for a 27-16 victory in the final game of the regular season Friday, Oct. 17. Shelton Alston ran for two touchdowns in the fourth quarter for Cohoes, which scored 20 points over the final 12 minutes.

Quarterback Dave Warnken rushed for one touchdown, threw for another and added a two-point conversion pass for Ravena, which lost two of its last three games.

Bethlehem and Voorheesville enter their respective playoff games off impressive wins. Bethlehem knocked off Columbia 33-12 Friday, Oct. 17, while Voorheesville cruised past Stillwater 48-7 Saturday, Oct. 18.

Ben Zonca rushed for more than 130 yards and a touchdown, and Bethlehem's defense returned two interceptions for touchdowns in the Eagles' win against Columbia (1-6). Jared Barends took a second-quarter interception 28 yards for six points, and Tommy Ganle sealed the victory by returning a fourth-quarter pick 31 yards to the end zone.

Matt Feller and

Robert Denman were Voorheesville's stars in Saturday's win against Stillwater (0-7). Feller gained nearly 200 yards on the ground and scored three touchdowns, while Denman passed for 112 yards and rushed for a touchdown in the 41-point win.

The lone area team not involved with Sectionals this year is Guilderland (1-6) following a 44-14 loss to Empire Division champion Shenendehowa Friday, Oct. 17. The Dutchmen finished one game behind fourth-place Ballston Spa (2-5) for the final Class AA playoff berth from their division.

Shen quarterback Ryan Van Galen threw three touchdown passes, and tailback Matt Taft rushed for 167 yards and a touchdown. Quarterback Andrew Sentz and tailback Ryan Gallup recorded Guilderland's touchdowns.

The Dutchmen have two crossover games to conclude their season. Their first is Friday, Oct. 24, at Schenectady (3-4).

An undefeated season

BC girls volleyball ready for Sectionals

BETHLEHEM — The Bethlehem girls volleyball team may have a long wait before playing again.

The Lady Eagles were in line to receive the No. 2 seed in the Section II

Class AA playoffs when seedings were announced Tuesday, Oct. 21. A No. 2 seed would give Bethlehem a bye into the semifinals, which won't be played until Oct. 30.

Bethlehem finished the Suburban Council season with a 12-4 record and posted an overall mark of 14-5.

"I think we just have really good athletes on the team," said Bethlehem coach Lisa Kniffen. "I have a lot of basketball and softball and track athletes, and I think we've found a really good fit this season."

Man nabbed for 2 attempted G'land break-ins

Guilderland police arrested a 29-year-old man a day after he allegedly attempted to break into the homes of two town residents.

Adam F. Rappaport

Police investigated two attempted burglaries on Monday, Oct. 13, which reportedly occurred around 10:45 a.m. and 11 a.m. The first location was on Church Road and the second was on the intersecting street, Newman Road. There was no one inside the first home, but a woman was inside the Newman Road home.

Police said there was no entry gained at the Newman Road home, or confrontation between suspect and woman in the home.

Police arrested Adam F. Rappaport, of Albany, on Tuesday, Oct. 14, and charged him with attempted burglary. He was arraigned in Guilderland Town Court the same day and remanded to the Albany County Correctional Facility on $25,000 bail.

Man faces arson charges

In the early morning hours of Sunday, Oct. 19, Guilderland police, along with the Westmere, Fort Hunter and McKownville fire departments responded to a call for a fire in the bathroom of a home at 407 Vesper Court in Slingerlands.

The fire was put out without any injuries, but a subsequent investigation determined that it was allegedly intentionally set in the master bathroom during a dispute.

Guilderland police arrested Jeremy P. McGowan in connection with the incident and charged him with arson, three counts of reckless endangerment and criminal mischief.

Half of duo pleads guilty in car part theft

Jesse J. Nadler, 32, of Schenectady, pleaded guilty on Wednesday, Oct. 15, to criminal mischief in the second degree, a felony, in Albany County Court, according to county District Attorney David Soares.

Nadler and alleged accomplice Joseph Cranker, 31, of Altamont, reportedly approached a parked car in the parking lot at 3 Cerone Commercial Drive in the Town of Colonie around 1 p.m. on Sept. 17. Nadler opened the hood of the car and acted as a lookout while Cranker allegedly slid underneath the car and sawed off its catalytic converter, according to police.

Jesse J. Nadler

A witness reported the incident to the Colonie Police Department. Police eventually pulled over a vehicle matching the witness's description for the suspects and the witness identified the pair as the two who committed the alleged crime.

Nadler faces up to two to four years in State Prison and must pay restitution totaling $3,728 when sentenced on Dec. 10, according to the District Attorney's Office.

Soares said the case against Cranker remained open and pending as of Friday, Oct. 17.

Man stole car, drove drunk

Terry L. Brown, 49, of Schenectady, pleaded guilty on Thursday, Oct. 16, to felony DWI and criminal possession of a stolen property in the fourth degree, also a felony, in Albany County Court.

Brown was driving a stolen vehicle on Sept. 11 when he approached the Exit 25 Thruway Tollbooth terminal around 9 p.m. and crashed into another vehicle, according to county District Attorney David Soares. A tollbooth collector advised Brown to pull over to the side of the road, but he turned around and headed toward Thruway Exit 26.

A tollbooth collector later observed Brown pulling his vehicle off to the shoulder near Exit 26 and walking into the nearby woods. State Police eventually found him allegedly unable to stand without assistance, and he failed standardized field sobriety tests.

Brown faces up one to three years in State Prison for the felony DWI and up to one-and-a-half years in State Prison for possession of stolen property when he is sentenced on Dec. 11, according to the District Attorney's Office.

Other arrests

• State Police arrested Robert A. Kleamovich, 47, of Selkirk, around 9:25 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 12, and charged him with aggravated DWI. Police observed Kleamovich fail to stop at a stop sign while exiting the Thruway at Exit 22. He then allegedly failed to keep right on State Route 144 and was stopped by police. Police said Kleamovich was "highly intoxicated" and a chemical breath test revealed he had a BAC of 0.22 percent.

• State Police arrested Jason M. Coons, of Slingerlands, on Friday, Oct. 17, and charged him with DWI and driving with a suspended license. Police said Coons was stopped after he was observed crossing into the opposite lane on State Route 85. He allegedly failed standardized field sobriety tests and a chemical breath test revealed he had a BAC of 0.1 percent.

Morse. "I wrestled with this for weeks and weeks. ... I don't believe that what you're doing changes smoking. I almost think that it makes it worse and pushes towards a whole different venue of people. Shifting the paradigms doesn't always solve the problem."

Nichols argued the legislation was brought forward from public health advocates focused on tobacco control, who felt the ban was the right step. He argued if an exemption for grocery stores could be carved out, he'd support it, but such a measure would sink the law in court.

"I have to trust the people that do this every day and look at the evidence," said Nichols. "It may not have a great impact just in Albany County, but ... if everybody does it, it will be a big impact."

New Voorheesville trustee sworn in

Board member resigns following move to Guilderland

By JOHN PURCELL
purcellj@spotlightnews.com

VOORHEESVILLE – A roughly decade-long draught without a woman serving on the Village Board of Trustees is ending following a board member resigning.

Trustee David Cardona resigned from the village board on Tuesday, Sept. 30, because he bought a home in the Town of Guilderland, and his Voorheesville home is up for sale. Mayor Robert Conway quickly acted to fill Cardona's seat and appointed Florence Reddy the following day. She was officially sworn-in at the board's workshop meeting Wednesday, Oct. 15.

"I've known Flo a long time and thought she'd be a good addition ... bring a different perspective to the board," said Conway. "We certainly wanted to diversify the board, too."

Conway said he was disappointed to see Cardona resigning, but understood his decision. Cardona had previously talked to Conway about his possible resignation, so it wasn't a total surprise to him.

"It's a good, cohesive board, so I think we're all a little saddened to see him go," said Conway. "I think what was kind of the tipping point for him was he realized he was spending more and more time out of the village. That's when he realized, in fairness to the people that he served, it was probably best that he step aside."

Cardona could have stayed on the board, since he still owns his home in Voorheesville. His four-year term would have ended next April. If Reddy chooses to run for election, it would be for a full term.

Cardona said the move to Guilderland was a personal change, and he will miss serving on the village board. He has lived in the village for 17 years and Florence Reddy was appointed to the Voorheesville Board of Trustees following David Cardona's resignation. Reddy was sworn in at the village's workshop meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 15.

John Purcell/Spotlight

served on the board since 2004.

"I felt because I was in the process of moving to Guilderland on a full-time basis, it was time for me to resign," said Cardona. "I enjoyed representing the people and feeling like we could make a difference on the board."

Cardona said one of the most challenging tasks of being a trustee was crafting the annual budget. He also served as budget liaison for the board, working closely with the mayor. He would have liked to see the long awaited "Quiet Zone" through to completion, but feels it's headed on the right track.

"What I enjoyed the most was working with the parks and recreation and the summer program," said Cardona. "We had a safe atmosphere for the kids to come to and enjoy themselves in the summer program. That was always rewarding."

Cardona attended the village board workshop meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 15, to watch Reddy being sworn in.

"I have known Flo for a long time. She is hard working and cares for her community," said Cardona. "I have all the confidence in the world she will continue to make all the right decisions for the people in the village."

Reddy said she was excited Conway asked her to join the board. Reddy had never thought about running for a board seat, but now she is likely going to running for a full-term.

"To be honest, it kind of took me by surprise in a good way," she said. "I'm just kind of learning as I go."

Reddy has lived in Voorheesville for 25 years with her husband and raised three children in the village. She, along with her husband, owns Reddy's Delicatessen & Grocery in Guilderland Center. She handed off day-to-day operations of the deli and works as an office administrator for Prudential Manor Homes in Delmar.

"I get along with all different types of personalities and I feel like I work well with people," she said.

■ LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Walk highlights state's failure to protect the disabled

Editor, The Spotlight;

Michael Carey, whose son Jonathan was killed by a caregiver at Oswald D. Heck Developmental Center in Schenectady County, and Tom Cavanagh, a victim of childhood domestic abuse, are traveling across New York — Cavanagh is walking most of the way — to call attention to widespread mistreatment of developmentally challenged people in state institutions and group homes, to government's obligation to protect people with specials needs from harm, and the failure of The Justice Center for the Protection of People with Special Needs to provide such protection.

While my old bones won't allow me to hike 600 miles across our state, I can at least write letters to the editor in support of the Jonathan Carey Foundations in Delmar, and in support of what Carey and Cavanagh are trying to accomplish.

In a May 30 letter to Gov. Andrew Cuomo, Assembly Minority Leader Brian Kolb wrote, "Approximately 7,500 calls to the Justice Center abuse hotline are made on average every month and approximately 11 deaths are reported on average every day. These statistics are staggering considering the Justice Center has failed to call 911 or notify authorities in order to ensure proper medical attention is received and criminal investigations are pursued when appropriate. It is clear the Justice Center is failing, and thus we are failing to protect people with disabilities, our most vulnerable, from abuse and neglect."

Because so many nursing homes in our state received poor ratings from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, Families for Better Care has given New York (and 10 other states) an F grade on its nursing home report card. Brian Lee, FBC's director, said, "New York represents what's terribly wrong with nursing home care and oversight in America."

Our officials need to do a much better job of providing good care for our most vulnerable citizens. Camera surveillance is one way to accomplish this. Such monitoring would help deter abuse and detect abuses when they occur. Without camera monitoring, fear of reprisals — sometimes violent ones — are realities that often prevent the reporting of abuse and neglect witnessed by conscientious but fearful care providers.

Corcoran stands out as a solid choice for Supreme Court

Editor, The Spotlight;

On Nov. 4, you will have the opportunity to cast a vote for Justin Corcoran for Supreme Court Judge.

Justin was born and raised in the Capital District area, graduating from Voorheesville High School in 1986. After being recognized with academic honors at SUNY Binghamton, Justin attended Albany Law School and once again stood out serving as the Associate Editor for the Albany Law Review.

Over the past 20 years, Justin has handled thousands of complex civil cases in Supreme Court while also trying countless jury trials to verdict. Justin has also served as a Special Prosecutor for Albany County and has distinguished himself as the Chairman for the Albany County Ethics Commission.

Justin's law firm was recognized by the Albany County Women's Bar Association with the "Family Friendly Firm" award. His firm has also been recognized by the New York State Bar Association with the President's Pro Bono Service Law Firm Award in recognition of outstanding contribution of time, resources and expertise to the provision of free legal services to the poor.

Justin's accolades have included being recognized as a preeminent civil litigator by Best Lawyers of America and Super Lawyers. Most importantly, as a judicial candidate, Justin was given the highest rating — "Highly Qualified" — by the Independent Judicial Election Qualification Commission, an independent, nonpartisan screening panel.

There is no other judicial candidate on the ballot who has been so recognized. I vouch for Justin Corcoran's legal competence and his ethical standards. Justin's intellect, temperament and strong moral compass will be assets to the Bench and to this community.

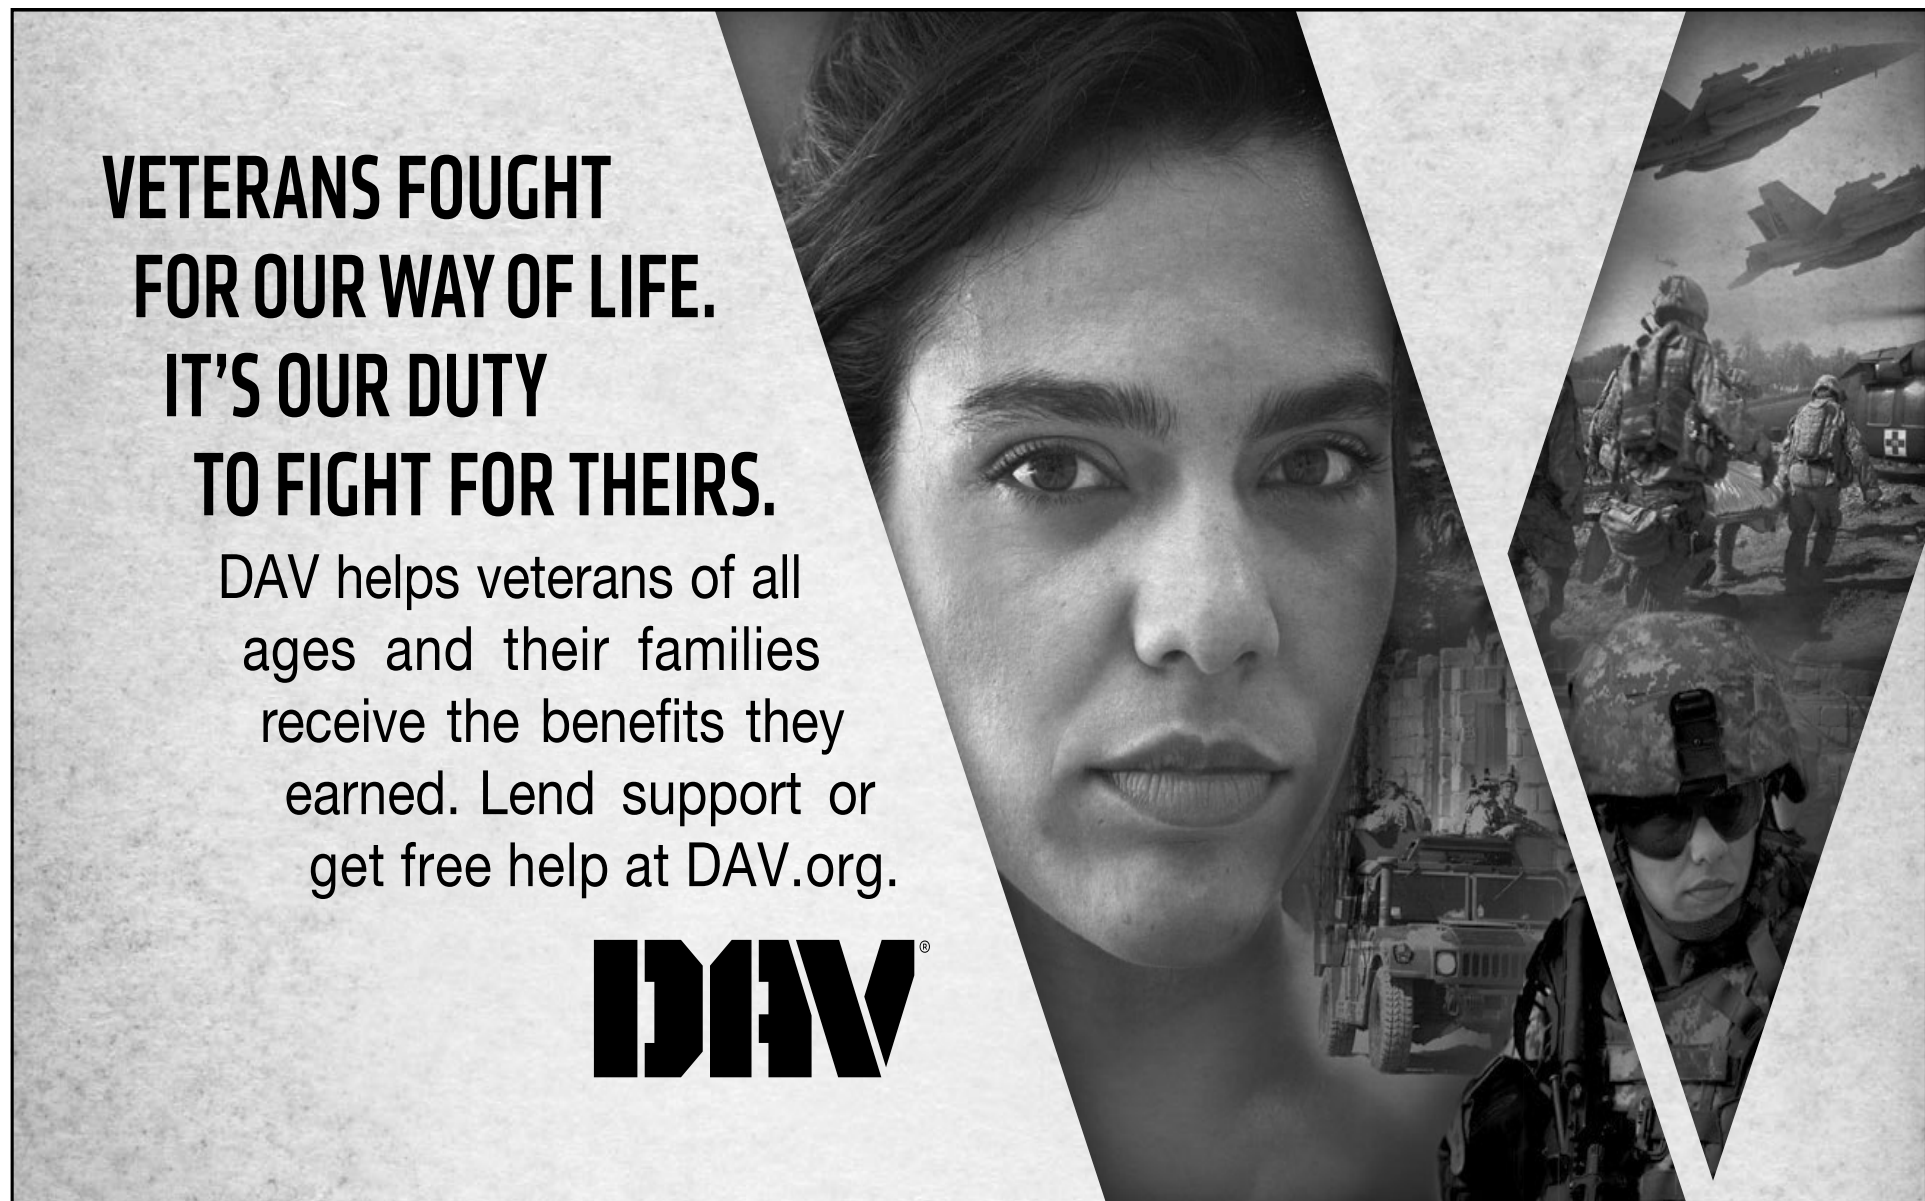

On Election Day, vote for Justin Corcoran for Supreme Court Judge.

■ FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

The start of something big Business development does not move quickly or easily in New York. Projects are proposed and either die on the vine or are abandoned before they come to fruition. Blame the sluggish economy or the state's many hoops companies must jump through to get approval.

So, it's understandable Bethlehem town officials were overjoyed with Monolith Solar's announcement it was moving its headquarters from Rensselaer to the Vista Technology Campus. After all, a tech-based industry in Vista has been a long time coming, and Monolith's clean energy focus fits well with the values of the town. Plus, Monolith's success story — growing from garage-based startup to industry giant in a few short years — will hopefully bring a momentum that spurs further growth at the tech park.

Vista had been in the works for several years before it finally opened in 2012, but, until Monolith's announcement, one thing it didn't have was a tenant that put the "tech" in tech park. A handful of retail businesses and medical offices were making themselves at home, but for the most part, there was a sense of incompleteness for a project that was first touted as a magnet for technology-based businesses, an industry that had been growing by leaps and bounds in the previous decade.

However, when the economy stalled, so did Vista. Fewer high-tech companies were setting up shop in the Capital District, and those that did chose sites such as the University at Albany's nanotech campus and Luther Forest in Malta.

After a failed bid to bring Breonics — a biomedical firm — to Vista, people began openly questioning the tech park's purpose. Some wondered if enough was being done to attract high-tech companies and said the tax breaks given to retailers setting up shop in the park were unfairly disproportionate to what others were getting. To many, it felt like Vista would become nothing more than a fancy strip mall.

Then, along came Monolith Solar — a company that, since its founding in 2009, has grown to be the third largest solar panel installer in New York. It needed space to expand its operations, and Vista Tech Campus ... well, it had plenty of that. It took an incentive-laden package from Columbia Development Corporation to build a 16,000-square-foot office building, a 10,000-square-foot research facility, and a 3-acre solar array that will power the park. The company already received state incentives and will also be applying for tax breaks from the town's IDA, a similar package to what was approved by the IDA under the Breonics proposal.

Hopefully, landing Monolith will justify those incentives and create a renewed buzz about Vista Technology Campus. At least it gives us a glimpse of what was intended for this little spot in the woods when a tech park in Bethlehem was first proposed.

his partner, Mark Fobare. An engineer at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, Fobare had already started his business, Monolith Solar. Erby also had his own company, and the two decided to temporarily merge the businesses for a short time as they figured out how to install alternative energy systems into each of their own homes.

"We had wanted to do our own houses and then go our separate ways, but we soon realized all of the paperwork and installation was more for one person to handle, so we decided the companies should stay merged and we set-up shop in my kitchen," said Erby, Vice President and Co-founder of Monolith Solar.

With a young son, Fobare said his wife wasn't happy about him starting a new company, but she went along with the plan. The pair eventually hired a few employees and outgrew Erby's kitchen in East Greenbush, so they moved into his retrofitted garage.

With the new space, the idea was the company could last for about five years within the garage. But Monolith Solar continued to grow and within two years had more than 20 employees.

"I came home one day, and there were three tractor trailers lined up on my road waiting to make deliveries to my garage," said Erby of the solar company. "It was then we decided we should move to make sure my neighbors didn't get mad."

In 2012 the company moved to Rensselaer thinking the 9,000 square foot space would last for 10 years, but within six months more space was needed and they expanded to a second location to house the company's panel installers in Albany. Now, they are maxed-out again with two people to an office.

Vista

It was announced at a media event Wednesday, Oct. 15, Monolith Solar will be the first technology tenant with the Vista Technology Campus in Slingerlands. The project includes a 16,000 square foot administration building, a 10,000 square foot production and research center and an additional solar farm to provide energy throughout Vista.

Any local tax breaks sought by Columbia Development for the new project would need approval from the Bethlehem IDA. Empire State Development is providing the company with a $400,000 grant and $400,000 in performance based tax credits from Excelsior Jobs Program, which are tied directly to job creation and investment commitments.

In April, the Bethlehem Industrial Development Agency removed the enhanced abatement status for a similar project when a deal with Breonics, an organ regeneration research company, fell through.

At the time, it was announced there was another prospective technology tenant for Vista, but developers were not ready to announce who it was. The new building and expansion will be known as 85 Columbia, with 65 Columbia continuing to remain open next to it as the site for another tenant.

"We're excited to be able to accomplish so much so quickly," said Fobare, Monolith Solar's President and CEO, at the event. "It's been a wild ride."

Bethlehem Supervisor John Clarkson said the announcement was a long time coming. The idea for Vista was first conceived nearly 10 years ago under the Sheila Fuller administration as part of the Comprehensive Plan. The project moved forward in 2011 under the IDA and former Supervisor Sam Messina, with approval of an infrastructure bond and Shoprite as a retail tenant.

Clarkson said in a later interview there had been talk of a few other tenants besides Breonics, but none of them came to fruition.

"Economic development, like fishing, takes patience," said Clarkson. "And you don't land a fish every time. Though, I hope this is the beginning of a new trend."

During the event, Columbia Development President Joe Nicolla referenced the criticism in recent years of the tax breaks given to Vista's retail tenants.

"The tech sector is alive in the Capital Region. It may have taken a little bit longer than expected to reach Vista, but it proved in the final analysis that the retail and associated services which were first built were one of the largest factors that brought Monolith here today," said Nicolla. "When they checked that final box, it was because of what's out front."

Empire State Development President, CEO and Commissioner Ken Adams said the provided incentives show the state's growing commitment to renewable energy.

"Indeed at some point, I think we shouldn't be calling things like solar or renewables an alternative energy," said Adams. "Think of not too far in the future when solar power or other renewables are the standard form of energy, and people talk of using fossil fuels as an alternative – inverting where we are now in our consumption of fossil fuels."

Expansion

The $4.9 million project is expected to retain 49 jobs, with the possibility to create 76 additional jobs. The project is going through the town's Planning Board for final approvals, and then on to the IDA. Erby said the hope is to break ground in November or December, with the project completed within the next six months.

Solar panel production will take place at Monolith's new headquarters, but the company has its eye on opening additional satellite locations as it expands throughout the state and country. The company turned down significant tax breaks from Missouri to instead relocate its headquarters to Kansas City, where it already had a small set of employees.

Fobare and Erby said the decision to stay in New York was about more than the incentives.

Not only are they both from the area, but the market in the Capital District has been increasingly accepting of solar energy. The majority of their contracts are with small businesses looking for alternative energy sources to help lower their utility bills, like Spectrum Theatre in Albany or Glenmont Self Storage.

"We like to think of the businesses we work with as more than customers, but energy partners," said Erby.

Monolith Solar will soon be working on some larger projects with local school districts like Colonie and the City of Albany.

Erby said another factor of staying in the Albany region was the ability to hire skilled employees from nearby schools, which have added more technology courses in recent years. The thought is some employees, who now live as far away as Utica and Binghamton, will move to the area. There is also talk of satellite locations near Utica and Syracuse.

Fobare currently lives in New Jersey. He spends the week in the Capital District before returning to the Garden State each weekend. Erby said he is unsure if his business partner plans to move, but that decision may come with time.

"We have some great opportunities ahead of us," said Erby. "I think naturally as we start to hire more people, they will want to move closer to Bethlehem and that will continue to help the local economy."

As a veteran-owned business, Monolith is also taking part in County Executive Dan McCoy's local partnership with the Soldier On initiative. Erby said the company is looking to hire more local residents, as well as veterans.

"We want to reinvest in our soldiers," he said. "We're looking to hire, and we want to return the favor for those who serve and protect us."

Down and derby

The Hellions of Troy bring women of all backgrounds together to compete in a sport known to inflict a few bruises all in the name of fun

halliseym@spotlightnews.com

With competitors named Viper Martini, Bonnie Doom and Trixie Firecracker, the sport of roller derby still carries the air of showmanship it is known for, but the game is far from the blood and glitter reputation that sometimes still follows it today.

It's a sport that requires physical skills and strategic thinking. To make it more interesting, it's full contact."

— Brittany Beyus, league marketing director

Ask anyone their perception of game, and they are likely to conjure up images of vicious elbows, flying kicks and opponents tumbling over the railings of banked roller rinks. However, that's only a small window into its history.

It all started in 1935. Roller skating was a popular recreation, as was bicycling — more specifically, bicycle racing. In fact, the earliest dimensions of the original Yankee Stadium were configured, in part, to accommodate bicycle racing. Combining the two pastimes was the brainchild of a Chicago man by the name of Leo Seltzer. Seltzer made a fortune hosting dance marathons,

Redemption time

Pro wrestling event in Troy raises money for charity while fans raise their voices in fun

By MICHAEL HALLISEY
halliseym@spotlightnews.com

TROY — Rumor has it that there's going to be a few fights at the Boys and Girls Club of Troy on Saturday, Oct. 25, and no one will be there to stop them.

Dynasty Wrestling is presenting a seven-match event at the club's 1700 Seventh Ave. location entitled "Redemption" to help raise money for local charities.

"It benefits the club and gives something for the kids to enjoy," said Patrick Doyle, chief professional officer of The Boys and Girls Club of Troy. "It's a fun atmosphere. It gives wrestling fans a place to sit up close and personal."

It's not the first time wrestling has been hosted at the club. Doyle said they first hosted an event a few years ago, when one of their own basketball coaches, who also moonlighted as a wrestler, presented the idea.

He said he was impressed with the family-friendly atmosphere.

"The Dynasty is bringing high-quality, low-cost professional wrestling back to the Capital Region for the first time in nearly two years," said Dynasty founder Chris Envy.

Envy, a 12-year wrestling veteran, founded Dynasty Wrestling with partner Tom "Ugly" Burnell in 2013.

"We want families to have a reason to get away from their televisions, to come out and see some real, live entertainment," said Envy. "When was the last time you encouraged your child to scream and yell at the top of their lungs?"

Whether you're cheering or booing, it's all about having a good time — a time that's fun, entertaining, safe and family oriented."

Several local wrestlers will compete against a Dynasty lineup that includes Troy native Foxx Vinyer.

Vinyer has played a significant role in bringing pro wrestling back to the area, said Envy, including involvement with the now defunct 787 Wrestling.

Also wrestling are local favorites Charles Fritze (under the name Chuck Deep) and "Too Rad" Kyle Brad.

"Redemption is not only about wrestling," said Envy. "It's about kids, about families, about nostalgia. It's about charity and helping others. A portion of proceeds from

At left, "Too Rad" Kyle Brad faces down an opponent during a 2013 match in Troy. Brad will be wrestling once again at the Oct. 25 match.

Redemption will be donated to the YMCA's Circle of Champions foundation, which is a charity for helping terminally ill children and their families. Proceeds from the next event in December will be donated to Toys for Tots and Coats for Kids."

Dynasty Wrestling works in conjunction with Fenris Fortune and Tom Miller, of Happy Vibes Management and Happy Vibes Photography.

The opening bell is at 7 p.m., preceded by a Meet and Greet at 5 p.m. Advanced tickets are on sale for $8, and can be purchased on the day of the event for $10. Tickets and information are available at www.brownpapertickets.com/event/836226.

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Roller derby a physical sport but ultimately, he'd be the grandfather of the sport that inspired the 1975 James Caan film, "Rollerball." The game itself would later match the theatrics of the World Wrestling Federation instead of the legitimate competition he initially invented.

Leo Stowell knows all the history. The Clarkson University grad, who played intramural hockey in the remote North Country, has been a fan of the game for years. At a recent practice inside Robison Gym on the campus of Russell Sage in Troy, he drops Seltzer's name. He credits the family for pulling the popularity of the sport through the '50s and '60s. As manager of The Hellions of Troy Derby League — "a man, literally, in a women's world" — he and his players fight the stigma of a game once known for dramatic storylines and bouts with predetermined outcomes.

The Hellions of Troy started competing in 2008 as members of the Women's Flat Track Derby Association. The WFTDA is the governing body of a network of 260 leagues spread worldwide. The league's marketing director Brittany Beyus had high praise for Stowell, who has been with the team for about two years.

"He is just a very likable person," said Beyus. "He has a lot of passion for the league, and it shows. He's the kind of person that would put the needs of the league before his personal opinions, which is very important as a manager."

The Hellions of Troy league is made up of two teams. There is the Hellions of Troy, which shares its name with league. The other is the Herculadies. Both names are a play on stories from Greece's Age of Heroes, where oftentimes women, such as Leda and Helen, fall victim to the will of men. But, not the Hellions.

"(There's) lots of hitting," said 24-year-old Felony Femme. Players adopt pseudonyms for their bouts. "Lots of contact. Lots of bruises. Lots of fun. ... I definitely wouldn't call roller derby a safe sport."

Felony has a sports background that also includes hockey and golf, and she has a sister in Pittsburgh who is involved in roller derby too.

"I was an ice hockey player in high school, so I always liked skating. And, then I was like, 'Hey — roller derby!'" said Felony.

The physicality of the sport has served to be cathartic for her, as well. Roller derby allows her to let go of the frustrations from her job as a speech language pathologist at a school for children with multiple disabilities.

The professional backgrounds on the team range from engineer, medical professional, pharmaceuticals, information technology, tattoo artist and more, representing an eclectic array of educated, talented women. In fact, the engineer and tattoo artist are one and the same.

"We have a wide range of ages on our team," said

Beyus, who is a 23-year-old rookie who goes by the name Camel Ribs. "The age range in our league is approximately 18 to 45. There may even be a few who are older than that, but honestly, looking at them, you would never know."

The league incorporates a developmental program for safety reasons, allowing a skater to hone her skills before entering competition. WFTDA rules have eliminated the use of punches and elbows, but that does not prevent the occasional black eye.

"This face is brought to you by roller derby," said skater Trixie Firecracker, who oversees the new recruits.

She recalls talking to her mother about getting involved in the sport. "When I first told my mother," said Trixie, "she said, 'You're going to wear a mouthpiece, right? I paid too much money for that smile.'"

Despite the prospect of pain, there is an attraction to the game.

"The allure of roller derby for me is that it's not like other team sports," said Beyus. "There is no ball. We don't have goals posts. It's not a race. It is a relatively simple concept with many moving parts that make the game challenging to play and interesting to watch. It's a sport that requires physical skills and strategic thinking. To make it more interesting, it's full contact."

At 42, Bonnie Doom is a veteran of the league, having started her career in the San Francisco Bay Area before moving to the Capital District a few years ago. She started in roller derby six years ago, after a co-worker told her she should sign up. She looked it up online, attended a bout, and became "smitten." But the draw to the game goes beyond the competition for Bonnie.

"Just the importance of women's athletics and also acknowledging the hard work that goes into this sport," she said.

The league is a non-for-profit organization. One in which each player has a position, either in title or within a committee, that maintains the logistics behind the organization. Scheduling, recruiting, marketing, fund-raising — are all done through a player-owned league.

"We do everything ourselves, so we run the business," said Bonnie.

The Hellions of Troy and the Herculadies play their final bout of the year Saturday, Nov. 8, against the Hartford Area Roller Derby at the Rollarama in Schenectady. Advance tickets are on sale for $10, $12 at the door, and children 12 years and younger get in for $3. For more information, visit www.hellionsoftroyrollerderby.com.

Get a glimpse of the world at annual Festival of Nations at Empire State Plaza

By MICHAEL HALLISEY
halliseym@spotlightnews.com

A long-standing Albany tradition continues when the Empire State Plaza Convention Center hosts the 43rd annual Festival of Nations on Sunday, Oct. 26, in downtown Albany.

Organizations representing 27 different nations will attend the annual event, which dates back to 1972.

Argentina, Armenia,

Bangladesh, Burma, China, Dominican Republic, Ethiopia, Greece, Hungary, India, Indonesia, Israel, Italy, Korea, Liberia, Lithuania, Mexico, Nigeria, Pakistan, Philippines, Poland, Puerto Rico, Russia, Scotland, Taiwan, Turkey and Ukraine – will all be represented this year.

"It's a trip around the world for $5," said Manoj Ajmera, festival chairman. "You get a glimpse of the world, and it's fun with the family."

Music, dance and food, all unique to each country, will be on display. For some festivalgoers, it will be an introduction to a brand-new culture.

As much as people will find something unique about a culture, Ajmera said, many will also the similarities among nations. For example, he said, where neighboring countries may have differences politically, such as India and Pakistan, they often share similarities in how food is prepared.

Ajmera, 73, has participated every year since the inception of the festival.

He said there are three main goals to the festival. The first is to prove that people from diverse backgrounds can work together. The second goal is to present a glimpse of the world to Capital District residents. The final goal is to promote an appreciation of one's heritage among the children.

Another area participant calls his involvement with the Festival of Nations, a "labor of love."

Rafi Topalian, who is President of the Capital District Armenian Cultural Organization, said world politics and prejudices are left at the door during the festival. What remains are the strong characters of each individual.

"With such division taking place around the world today, it is nice to have our community here in Upstate New York unify to appreciate one

A Miss Festival of Nations will be crowned at the conclusion of the event.

Submitted

another's culture," he said. "This is America. We learn together, and we have a lot of fun."

The day will begin at noon with a parade of the 27 nations represented. In addition to a stage full of native dances and music, the convention hall will be full of unique crafts and ethnic foods to enjoy. The day concludes with the crowning of the Miss Festival of Nations.

General admission is $5 for adults and $2 for children ages 3 to 12. For more information about the Festival of Nations, call (518) 371-3737 or visit www.festivalofnations.net.
