The newly opened Rail Trail plays host to a

By TRICIA CREMO

BETHLEHEM — The first charity run to be held on the Albany County Rail Trail comes to Delmar in two weeks.

Cancer Crusher 5K, combination run and one-mile walk, will be held Saturday, June 18, from 9 to 11 a.m., starting at the Nathaniel Blanchard American Legion Post in Delmar. The run will directly benefit Ellie Hall Minnis, a woman currently battling cancer.

Minnis is the mother of event organizer Corina Santoro, a Bethlehem resident for the past 12 years.

"I wanted to do something to help, and to show how cancer impacts finances so negatively, whether the person beats it or not," said Santoro.

The Rail Trail, with its central location and newly paved trail provided the perfect location.

■ COPS, COURTS AND EMERGENCY CALLS

Woman flees crash, falls down cliff

On Tuesday, May 24, at approximately 8:49 p.m., sheriff's deputies responded to a report of a property damage automobile accident on Thacher Park Road in the Town of New Scotland.

Erika A. Barkman, 38, of Voorheesville, was reportedly driving the vehicle when it crashed into a guard rail. A witness at the scene stated the car had been seen driving erratically prior to the crash. Barkman then allegedly climbed over the rail and fled into the woods.

Albany County Sheriff's later received a call from a resident on Thacher Park Road who reported that a female who smelled of alcohol was at his door, asking for help and allegedly claiming she was being "chased by the cops." Deputies arrived to find Barkman had allegedly fled behind the residence and into the woods toward a cliff.

Sheriff's deputies began yelling for Barkman, and could only hear her calling for help from below, where they were unable to see her. The Sheriff's Search and Rescue Unit located Barkman and rescued her from the base of a 60-foot cliff, before transporting her to Albany Medical Center for treatment of non-life threatening injuries.

The original crash is still under investigation, and officials believe that alcohol may have been a contributing factor. Anyone with information can contact the Albany County Sheriff's Office at 765-2351.

Three-year contract agreement reached

Town, PBA leaders pleased with compromise

By MICHAEL HALLISEY

halliseym@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — An ongoing labor dispute, mired by roadside signs and barbs traded during last year's political season, has finally come to an end.

Bethlehem's town supervisor and police supervisor's union jointly announced before the Town Board Wednesday, May 24, that the two sides have come to an agreement nearly two years after their contract expired.

"I am very pleased that we were able to come to terms with the Supervisors Union," stated Town Supervisor John Clarkson. "This agreement is a good compromise, with benefits for labor, management, and most of all the public."

The new, three-year agreement calls for union members to receive a two percent cost of living increase, retroactive to 2015 and continuing on for 2016 and into 2017. Additional step increases are also worked into the agreement.

The most apparent change is visible through a revised work schedule, calling for shift supervisors to work 12 hours instead of eight. In turn, the number of scheduled days is staggered over a two-week period — where 60 hours would be worked one week, followed by a 24-hour week. Rather than working five eight-hour shifts weekly, each sergeant is to work seven 12-hour shifts every two weeks. Built into that schedule is seven days off, including Friday, Saturday and Sunday, every other week. In his statement, Clarkson said, "it will provide the sergeants more weekend and other days off, which we hope will be a lifestyle improvement for Bethlehem Police Department's management staff."

Sgt. Steve Kraz, president of the Bethlehem Police Benevolent Association, noted the new schedule addressed multiple factors concerning union members,

"I would like to thank the Town Board for their support and openness to reach this agreement. I would also like to commend my colleagues for their patience throughout the process as there is no 'perfect' agreement, but this is an agreement which should benefit the union and the town."

quality of life and supervisor coverage. "This schedule, by design, will settle these issues," he said. "In essence, we're working more but clocking in less often."

Another factor focused on supervisor coverage. The new schedule, which will likely go into effect in September, overlap during peak patrol periods. It's supposed to improve supervision and provide coverage when sergeants are out. This is also expected to reduce overtime costs, a subject the town had focused upon throughout the dispute.

In addition to issues involving wages and the new 12-hour shift, both sides came to terms over changes in health insurance premiums and copays and to end all current labor grievances.

Kraz said he was pleased both sides could come to an agreement after "a long matter."

"I would like to thank the Town Board for their support and openness to reach this agreement", said Kraz. "I would also like to commend my colleagues for their patience throughout the process as there is no 'perfect' agreement, but this is an agreement which should benefit the union and the town."

BCSD schools placed on lockdown

BETHLEHEM — The Bethlehem Central School District had each of its schools placed on lockdown Thursday, May 26, without incident.

A "lockout" is when no one may enter or exit the school building, but the school day continues as usual inside the school.

"All schools in the Bethlehem Central School District were temporarily in lockdown over information that was received and caused concern to school staff and police," stated Bethlehem Police Commander Adam Hornick. "In an abundance of caution the lockdown was initiated to ensure the continued safety of the students and staff. The information was thoroughly investigated by Bethlehem Police and determined that there was no threat, or criminal activity that had taken place."

The lockdown lasted nearly an hour, initiated at approximately 11:17 a.m. and ultimately lifted at about 12:10 p.m.

The district's website cited a domestic dispute as the catalyst behind the lockdown. While Bethlehem Police denied that was the cause, Hornick confirmed the focus of the investigation was off school grounds.

BETHLEHEM — In the wrestling ring, Zack Clayton is a bad guy who is willing to do everything he can to win.

Outside of the ring, Zack Carpinello is a man in his early 20s willing to do everything he can to reach the top level of professional wrestling.

Carpinello — a.k.a. Clayton — is currently climbing through the lower ranks of professional wrestling and training at Johnny Rodz's Wrestling School in Brooklyn. The Bethlehem Central High School graduate is hoping to reach World Wrestling Entertainment someday.

"The end goal is to get to WWE — to be a champion there, to be the best I absolutely can be," said Carpinello.

A football player at Bethlehem, Carpinello started down the professional wrestling road while attending Hudson Valley Community College.

"After high school, I always knew I wanted to do it," said Carpinello. "I was an athlete all the way through high school, up until college. I knew I didn't want to continue football.

"I watched (pro wrestling) ever since I could remember. And looking at these guys on television, they were just huge — absolutely huge men, and how could ever be that big? How could you ever do what these guys are doing? The athleticism they had, for being so large, was incredible."

Carpinello began building a larger physique in the gym, but it didn't prevent him from gaining the bumps and bruises that comes with training to be a professional wrestler.

"The ring hurts — all about it, everywhere," said Carpinello. "Contrary to popular belief, it's not an easy, nice landing surface ... It's called taking bumps when you first hit the mat. It was shocking. Everyone is shocked that wow, that actually hurts because you see it on TV,

Delmar woman turns 105 years old

Alice Baker credits her longevity to tea, genes and activity

By ALLISON FRY

intern@spotlightnews.com

BETHLEHEM — Last Friday marked the 105th birthday of Alice Baker, who resides at Atria Senior Living in Delmar. A London native, the birthday girl sat down with us to discuss the last century of her life and share her secrets for making it this far (here's a hint: it involves a hot beverage and a fiery attitude).

Baker marvels at how old age runs in her family, saying "My father, he lived to 92. I also had twin brothers and one of them lived to 91. He didn't smoke, but his twin brother died at 54 — smoked like a chimney."

She recalls when she tied her first cigarette at only 17, and her immediate abhorrence for the act, and remembered having a similar experience with alcohol. "That's one thing I know, to stay off the booze. Like everybody else I tried it, and I thought 'oh how can people drink this stuff, get me a cup of tea!'" Still an avid tea-drinker to this day, perhaps the avoidance of such common vices have helped her get this far.

But diet and activity aren't the only contributing factors to her longevity; she's a self-proclaimed fighter as well. "Nobody's ever gotten the better of me. Well one girl and seven brothers, you want to tell me I didn't have to fight at some point?" Baker mused, as she remembers her family, and her mother in particular: "She was the boss. That's where I get a lot of my fight from. Well we were two females I should say against 8 men — we won."

Over the last 105 years, Baker has lived quite the life, with her first job starting at only 14 years old (in a field we might have a certain partiality for). "I never remember having a single job, there were always two jobs. I was at work at 14, I worked for the Daily Express newspaper. And that was the second biggest newspaper in London, because we had no radio in those days." Baker also recalled the newest technology of the time, "That was very interesting. First of all I had to take messages and all that. I remember typewriters coming in you see."

Still a spry young thing after all these years, Baker has quite a few left in her, as she jokes "Somehow I knew I was going to live to be old, I was getting too much out of life. I'm not ready to die now, I don't think He's ready to take me on."

Local dealership faced steep fines for not representing company brand

By TRICIA CREMO

cremot@spotlightnews.com

GLENMONT —BMW of South Albany in Glenmont could have been fined $350,000 if the town did not approve their plans for an illuminated sign.

On Wednesday, May 18, the Zoning Board did, granting the dealership a highly sought after zoning variance.

BMW of South Albany, located at 617 Route 9W, Glenmont, had applied for a zoning variance to construct an illuminated roof-mounted sign in a district where internally illuminated signs are not permitted. Roof mounted signs are not permitted in any zoning district in town.

Without approval, the dealership would have been fined $350,000 for not meeting BMW brand standards.

"Long story short BMW pays significant bonuses to the dealer as a result of meeting all of the BMW brand standards," said applicant John Barber, car manager of BMW South Albany. Referred to as Added Value Programmer (AVP), these guidelines include specific directions on preferred signage at individual dealerships.

"Not meeting all of BMW's standards results in a 20 percent reduction in our bonus money. This would equate, in 2016, to approximately $500 per new car delivered. Our 2016 forecast is 700 new cars, representing $350,000 [in losses] for not representing BMW brand standard," Barber said at a Public Hearing for the request on Wednesday, May 4.

This penalty would have been placed on the dealership year after year.

Precedent had been set for Bethlehem Zoning Board to deny BMW of South Albany's variance request, as the board has denied several sign variance requests over the past year, many of which came from stores on the 9W commercial strip in Glenmont.

Just three months ago, Cumberland Farms on 9W was denied the same request for an internally illuminated sign, just as Speedway on Delaware Avenue was, several months before that.

Board members said the request from

BMW of South Albany asked the town for a zone variance for a new sign. Had it been turned down, the dealership could have been fined as much as $350,000 from BMW.

BMW of South Albany was different because of the penalty the company would have faced. The dealership had previously been operated under a different name, and, now that it had become a BMW dealership, the penalty for not meeting brand standards could have been placed at any time.

Zoning Board members also felt that because the dealership is located in a fairly rural section of Route 9W, the effect on the neighborhood would be minimal. BMW of South Albany is located in a rural section of Route 9W between the commercial section of the road and a section of housing developments.

Albany County Planning Board had deferred to local consideration on the zoning request, with an advisory given, as is added with all variance requests, "to consider the precedent-setting nature of administering significant signage variances in a commercial zone," explained Zoning Board Chariman Dan Coffey.

Coffey was the sole Zoning Board member to vote in opposition to the request, and only to the section requesting for the sign to be internally illuminated, he said, because precedent had been set by the prior denials for the same request. Coffey voted in favor of granting a variance for the sign to be roof-mounted.

With a four-fifths majority from the board, BMW of South Albany was approved for both the roof-mounted sign variance and the internally-illuminated sign variance, but only after ownership agreed to lower their proposed sign location from the roof to a location on the lip of the roof.

The illuminated letters, to read "BMW of South Albany," will be placed on the lip of the roof, and will not extend above the roofline, as approved by the Zoning Board.

The dealership owners had also, out of request from the Zoning Board, attempted to gain approval from BMW corporate offices to build a sign that adhered to town signage laws but, as General Manager of BMW South Albany Louis Pavone explained, the process proved too difficult.

All such requests must go through BMW North American corporate offices, then through German corporate offices, who Pavone said, rarely grant such requests.

Utica Sign and Graphic will construct the sign. Bethlehem Zoning Board will move to approve a resolution approving BMW of South Albany's zoning request at its next meeting, June 1.

Fears diminished for tree farmers

NEW SCOTLAND — The bad weather may not have been as bad as once feared by apple farmers.

A late-season snow storm after a winter full of nothing but warmth and sunshine had left farmers, especially apple growers, who had just seen their trees begin to bud, in a panic, as Spotlight News reported in April.

As the plants are most vulnerable to cold weather at the budding stage, fears were especially high, and were heightened even more by the fact that many local farms are still recovering from a late frost in April 2012, which ruined an entire season of crops.

Those fears have now diminished, however, as trees at Indian Ladder Farms in Altamont seem to be in perfect health so far.

"Baby animals and apple blossoms - what could be better?" wrote Indian Ladder Farms owner Peter Ten Eyck in a Facebook post on Wednesday, May 11, accompanied by a lovely picture of his trees in bloom.

"The apple blossoms have lasted almost 2 weeks. That's a long time and the good news is the bees have more time to pollinate. ... If the rest of the month is anything like today hopefully the news will be good."

From page 1 ... Cancer Crusher

"It's such a beautiful spot, and since the run won't be held on a road, no streets need to be shut down. I pitched it to Albany County, the town and Bethlehem Police and got everyone's approval very easily," said the organizer.

Plus, with the mile-long walk component, Santoro is aiming for a family-friendly atmosphere, with participation available for all ages. Revenues this year will directly benefit Santoro's mother, who was diagnosed with cancer just two months ago. Santoro hopes to hold the event every year, and donate to a different local person battling cancer.

To the event organizer, an avid runner and mother of three, donating directly to their emotional support and prayers after a cancer diagnosis, finding ways to aid financially (an impact felt just as much as the physical and emotional impacts) can be more difficult.

The medical co-payments for Minnis' treatment are already large, and come with costs not covered by insurance, such as cost of travel. And, with Minnis no longer working and her husband having taken a leave of absence from his work to help her through the treatments, financing these costs is difficult.

"No one wants to say [cancer treatments] are taking all their money, but because I've seen it happen so many times," said Santoro, who has also had a person battling cancer was a way to help offset not only costs of treatment, but the myriad of other expenses that come along with a person's fight for survival after cancer diagnoses.

"Donating to the American Cancer Society and other cancer organizations is fantastic," said Santoro. "But in my heart, it was more important to donate to the individual lives, so that is what this was designed to do." There will always be someone that needs financial aid because of cancer, Santoro said, so finding people to benefit from the future Cancer Crusher 5K runs she has planned will not be difficult.

This fact is made especially true, as many people diagnosed with cancer can be either too ashamed, unwilling or without the tools to ask for financial help - a situation she has dealt with many times over, with her mother's cancer diagnosis being only the most recent to directly impact Santoro's life.

In March of this year, her mother Ellie Minnis was diagnosed with throat cancer - the same throat cancer that eventually led to her father's death over 15 years ago.

Cancer had stripped Minnis bare when her husband died. Having barely enough income left over after dealing with the costs of treatment, Minnis managed to move from California to Ithaca, New York, close to where her sister lived. There, she remarried some years later and continued a life of charity work, giving to other through her job at a local nursing home and by donating her off-time to charities in her community, all before her cancer diagnosis made these acts impossible.

"Once again, cancer is stripping her bare," described Santoro. "She faces daily radiation and periodic chemo," which will cause her significant long-term damage to her teeth, throat and hearing. But, "Through it all, she smiles, she perseveres, she is determined to crush this cancer."

While many will reach out to offer close friends and close relatives diagnosed with cancer, "I know it's a reality and something I can change. In the big picture, it would be awesome if this could become a model that people could follow." Santoro envisions others holding their own Cancer Crusher 5K races (a name she coined herself) to aid their own friends and relatives through the financial burden cancer leaves. Santoro is hoping for a modest turnout of between 100 and 200 persons in the first year of the race, and hopes the event will grow in participation in the coming years.

The American Legion Delmar post will provide runners a parking lot for the event. Runners will begin at the trail head at the post, run to the right for half of the 3.1 miles, then turn around to complete the second half. Walkers will begin in the opposite direction, starting to the left at the trail head, then turning around halfway through the mile-long walk.

Similar trail runs have been held on other refurbished train track trails, so Santoro was not worried about whether the trail would have enough room for all of the runners. Grassy overflow space is also available to the sides of the trail.

With a month left to sign up, Santoro is working hard to get the word out, and is hoping that the town's strong history of participation in local charity runs, alongside her run's strong emotional ties will incentivize greater participation.

"Everyone knows someone who has been affected by cancer," said Santoro. "Whether you run or walk, this event is something the entire family can get behind to make a difference."

Albany County, the Town of Bethlehem and the Bethlehem Police Department have each given their support to make the event possible.

Registration for the event is $25 for both the 5K and mile-walk. Registration ends June 16. To sign up, visit runsingup.com/Race/NY/Delmar/CancerCrushers5k.

Ferris will take on the role of an Armed Forces officer and host of the show, featuring letters from soldiers and their sweethearts, the hottest tunes of the day, period advertising spots, a war bond promo, and news from both fronts.

Ferris has performed his show, "Until It's Over, Over There" all across the region and beyond. A one-hour coffee and social hour will follow the performance.

The Anonymous People

Some 23 million Americans are living in long-term drug and alcohol addiction recovery — a startling reality that is the subject of the acclaimed documentary, "The Anonymous People," being shown at GPL on Tuesday, June 7, at 6 p.m.

This compelling story is told through the faces and voices of citizens, leaders, volunteers, corporate executives, public figures and celebrities who are laying it all on the line to save the lives of others just like them. This passionate new public recovery movement aims to transform public opinion, engage communities and elected officials, and finally shift policies toward lasting solutions.

YMCA's Togetherhood

Hot fun in the summer time. Words to a popular summer song, and words to live by as we enter the all-too-brief part of the calendar when we in the Capital Region get outside more to enjoy the warmth and sunshine.

Like many of our members, the Bethlehem YMCA uses this time to bring our charitable mission efforts beyond our walls and out into the community through our Togetherhood program. Togetherhood is a YMCA volunteer community service program where we identify a specific need, and our members work with others in the community to help address that need. It is a simple, fun and rewarding way for members to identify ways they can give back and support their neighbors through their own skills and energy.

The Bethlehem Y's Togetherhood program has quickly become a nationally recognized mission model. In past years, we have helped Bethlehem senior citizens by cleaning up senior vans; provided much-needed supplies and gear for young, first-time mothers; helped students in search of an educational challenge; spruced up hiking trails; and much more.

This year's Togetherhood program is just coming together ... no pun intended. Togetherhood committee members are planning some fun, exciting and rewarding projects for the coming year and are looking for people to join them for Christmas in July; building a community garden; a soccer program for refugees; and a mission targeting youth education and development.

Togetherhood service projects are designed to make a meaningful impact in our community, while also being convenient and fun. It's an example of how the YMCA's mission is expanding to achieve stronger community relationships and ownership in the Y.

Togetherhood is not just for YMCA members; it's for anyone in the community that would like to help out. Please join us. For more information on Togetherhood, call Shawn St. James at the Bethlehem YMCA at 439-4394.

Until the fall

This is the last Spotlight YMCA column until September. I want to thank regular readers of this space for their kind comments. I appreciate the feedback and your support of the Bethlehem YMCA. If anyone needs to find a previous column of mine, please go to my blog at Baycolumns.blogspot.com.

My Bethlehem YMCA blog has generated thousands of views from people all over the world. And while I'm not really sure why, it's become somewhat popular in Russia, Brazil, Germany, Ireland and Romania, as well as getting clicks from readers in Indonesia, China, Angola, Ghana and other far-flung spots on the globe, word of the Bethlehem YMCA's mission, our great programs and good deeds is truly spreading all over the world!

However, it's the readers in Bethlehem — those who are members of the Y or are thinking about becoming members — who are most important. I look forward to bringing you new columns this fall about the exciting activities and programs at the YMCA and what the Y is doing to strengthen our community by promoting youth development, healthy living and social responsibility.

Again, thanks for reading and have a great summer. The YMCA column will return in the fall.

Welcome to Albany

City officials and local artists work together to create a more welcoming and vibrant city

By ALI HIBBS

hibbsa@spotlightnews.com

Bluebirds return to downtown Albany.

ALBANY— Soaring Eastern Bluebirds, the official bird of New York state, can now be seen gracing the northern-facing side of the Quackenbush Parking Garage on Orange Street in downtown Albany by commuters driving into the city. Part of a mural measuring approximately 25 feet high and 85 feet wide, the birds symbolize a collaborative effort by the Albany Parking Authority and two nonprofit arts institutions "to create a welcoming gateway into Downtown Albany that will buoy the ongoing expansion of the city's bustling business district."

"The past two weeks have been great," said the mural's curator Tony Iadicicco on Tuesday, May 24. "It's exciting driving in to downtown Albany and seeing Michael [Conlin] at work. Each day, he's bringing his vision to life, and the process has allowed thousands of travelers a chance to see a work in progress."

Iadicicco is the Executive Director of Albany Center Gallery on nearby Columbia Street and said that he and the Albany Barn were approached by the Albany Parking Authority and asked to participate in the mural program. He was asked to curate the wall and immediately knew that Conlin, a commercial artist at Conlin Studios, was at the top of his list of potential artists. Conlin, who is an Albany native, specializes in hand painted artwork and his work is on display throughout the Capital District at locations such as Capital Roots in Troy, Wolff's Biergarten in Albany and Hamlet & Ghost in Saratoga Springs.

Barker Park starts in July

TROY — The Troy Savings Bank Music Hall Corporation recently announced the line-up for its annual Barker Park Kids' Summer Series.

Every Tuesday at 11 a.m., starting July 7 to August 25, a new performer or activity will be presented in the park, located on the corner of 3rd and State Streets in downtown Troy.

The series launches with Ramblin Jug Stompers (pictured above) on July 7. With banjo, mandolin, guitar, washboard and more, New York state's premier jug band fuses the ragtime sounds of the 1920s with the bluegrass edge of the '40s; mines the manic energy of '60s folk revival acts; and adds a contemporary comic sensibility all its own. It's funky American string band music.

Concerts dedicated to city director

Powers Park Concert series dedicated to the memory of the late Bill Chamberlain

By VITO CICCARELLI

news@spotlightnews.com

Troy events have come a long way since their inception more than a decade ago.

What started as just idea's, were embraced by the general public, and made into what they are today — HUGE!

My friend Tony from Catskill summed it up best last season when he said, "Troy events have a more relaxed, laid back vibe than any other city across New York state."

At Powers Park, for instance, you can have guys like Ty Smith (one of my favorite cartoon characters), sitting next to a County Judge. People of all different demographic groups come together each week, with never a hint of a problem. This was a goal of ours when we began, to offer people great entertainment — in a trouble free setting.

The Powers Park Concerts will kick off its 13th season Monday, July 4, with a double-billed performance by Troy favorites Super400 and the Blue Machine.

Saturday, July 9 brings a night of blues with guitar virtuoso Matt Mirabile.

Saturday, July 23 marks the 12th appearance of Al Bruno headlining, 'Oldies Night'.

Blue Hand Luke, with the enigmatic Tommy Love, hit the Neil Kelleher Stage for the first time in eight years Saturday, July 30.

The biggest name in local country music, Skeeter Creek, returns to the historic park Saturday, Aug. 6, with the iconic Refrigerators once again taking no prisoners, Tuesday, Aug. 13.

'Sinatra under the Stars' is the theme for Saturday, Aug. 20, with local throwback singer Nick Coluccio performing all the hits of Old Blue Eyes.

The season finale features local rock royalty, Emerald City, Saturday, Aug. 27.

Rocco Mazzarello and Adirondack Sound Systems will once again be handling the sound tech chores.

Sponsorship for the concerts is provided by local businesses — folks that give back to the community that supports their endeavors. Special thanks goes out to John Murphy of Snowman, Mike Gabriel of Lansingburgh Laundry, Val Fiacco of the Beverage Barn, Robin Luce of Perfection Painting, Russ Gamache of Collar City Masonry, Don Fane of Warren W. Fane Inc., Chris Chenes of the Tri City Valley Cats, Matt Bertrand of WellCare, Maureen Yee of Whitney Young Health/Troy, Advanced Auto Parts, and the Friends of 112th St. Without their support, the concerts would not happen. Media support, as always, comes from the Troy Record, and WVCB 88.3fm The Saint. Weekly 50/50 raffles are a big part of the concert experience. Organizations such as the Lansingburgh Boys & Girls Club, Rensselaer County Hero's @Home, Tyler Jarosz Scholarship Fund, Rensselaer County Backpack Program, Veterans Miracle Center, and the Tri County Viet Nam Vets, will all benefit from concert-goers' generosity this season. As always, festival foods, and non-alcoholic beverages are available at each show, as is face painting for the kids. There are no pets allowed, so please leave the dog, iguanas, ferrets and snakes at home.

This will be the first season that my friend, City Director of Operations Bill Chamberlain will not be around to bail me out when I hit a snag with something — as he was tragically taken from us last December. Bill was a guy who I could always depend on to troubleshoot any problem that inevitably would arise during the course of our event season. He used to call the concert series, "Vito's Gypsy Fest," but was always right there whenever I needed an assist. Working closely with him on all events, Bill was an amazing guy to watch in action. We would kick around ideas every year, trying to enhance and streamline the process. To say that it feels odd doing this without him would be an understatement. The worst part of losing him the way we did is that we never had a chance to even say goodbye.

The 2016 Troy event season is dedicated to the memory of Bill Chamberlain.

CONCERT REVIEWS

Joywave brings Destruction

By WES THOMAS
news@spotlightnews.com

ALBANY — Joywave's BandWagon pulled into Albany Sunday, May 22 to a capacity crowd at the Hollow Bar and Kitchen. This was to be its third visit to Albany in less than two years, and it seems as though its hard work building its brand is paying off in a big way — just trying to figure out what that brand is, is another story.

But, what I do know is that when the band took the stage on Sunday, I couldn't have cared less if it was disco, electronica, chill wave, electro-pop or any genre of the day, because the infectious sound of "Destruction," the band's most recent single, filled the packed house. Not a person could remain still. We all knew we were in for a treat and the crowd responded to Daniel Armbruster, Joywave's eclectic, sarcastic, nerdy leader by making the room shake!

I'm not sure if it's lucky or unlucky for us that the audience responded because normally at a Joywave show, if the audience doesn't move during "Destruction" the band switches to repeat and replays the track until the audience is sufficiently participating. It took five replays in Dallas!

Next up was "True Grit" from its 2012 EP "Koda Vista." A lush, shimmering, synth-laden sound that paved the way for Armbruster's smooth and frequent textbook falsetto which naturally adorns much of Joywave's sound.

As Joywave continued its way deeper into the set the band served up alt radio faves "Now" and "Somebody New" as well as introducing us to a new song "Alice" they had written for the new "Alice in Wonderland" film.

Bringing the 15-song set to a close, Armbruster explained to the audience they would be playing two more songs, the last song and then the encore. Joywave broke into "Tongues", probably its biggest song to date. The room began to jump up and down at Armbruster's direction, clearly demonstrating who owned this night. The set came to a close with one more version of "Destruction," just to make sure we were all sufficiently sweaty!

Opening the show was Kopps and apparently nobody told the band it wasn't the headliner. This four-piece electro-dance group out of Rochester put on an amazing show, with quirky choreography and dance moves that we couldn't decide whether to laugh at or cheer for: I chose both.

The second band on the bill was Cheerleader from Philadelphia. I think Cheerleader, while a solid band, was a little out of place on this bill. I'll need to give it another chance once the band returns to the area soon.

Rock fest invades Schaghticoke

By SKYLER GILBERT
NYSmusic.com

"Who here is actually from Schaghticoke?" asked Lizzy Hale, the lead singer and guitarist of Halestorm, to a crowd of thousands on Saturday night. "Like, 10 of you?"

She had a point. The rural Rensselaer County village has an official population of 592, per the 2010 U.S. Census.

But at this weekend's Rock 'N Derby festival at the Schaghticoke Fairgrounds, the small town could be heard for miles around. Over 50 metal bands — defined liberally enough to classify Lamb of God and Collective Soul under the same umbrella — performed over three stages and three days in the first-ever iteration of the festival.

The top stage, the Derby Stage, may have been a bit far, located at the other end of the property from the other performance sites — the Rock N' Stage and the Arena Stage — but it was worth the walk, especially with bands that appealed to the younger crowd. Five Finger Death Punch, A Day to Remember and Shinedown each had a night to headline and play hits to the enamoured patrons banging their heads in the lawn.

The latter two groups each paid acoustic homage to Lynyrd Skynyrd with A Day to Remember jamming to "Sweet Home Alabama" and Shinedown getting its crowd to sing in on the band's now-famous rendition of "Simple Man."

But the crowd was more than a chorus; it looked the part too. Speckled in the audience were masks matching those of Ghost and Hollywood Undead, locks of hair that covered faces like Claudio Sanchez from Coheed and Cambria and Capital District heritage representing the area's own State Champs, who played their punk rock on Saturday afternoon.

At the Rock N' Stage, the first generation of metal fans found its home. On Saturday night, Anthrax and singer Joey Belladonna turned the calendar back to 1987 with "I Am the Law" and "Caught in a Mosh." The upstate New York vocalist's energy was apparent throughout, straining his vocals as the crowd echoed his chants and fistpumps.

On Sunday, the second stage rocked out to Sixx:A.M., led by Mötley Crüe bassist Nikki Sixx, before Megadeth arrived in an atypical somber mood, given the circumstances.

In the light of the previous night's news — the passing of the band's former drummer Nick Menza — the performance was emotional, including a 30-second moment of silence in Menza's honor, before a drum solo that perhaps honored the man just as well. Candles and flash-lit iPhones waved in the wind as Dave Mustaine's voice trembled for his original bandmate.

Inside the Arena Stage screamed the loudest bands of the weekend, as the tattooiest metalheads of all moshed and danced in the dust of the indoor venue: a horse stable. Amid the smell of dung and hay, bands like Beartooth and Rings of Saturn ricocheted their heavy sound waves off the metallic ceiling, creating an environment that was insane at best, and insufferable at worst.

But that was not the only instance of metal crashing on a dirt floor in Schaghticoke over the weekend. On Saturday and Sunday afternoons, an on-site demolition derby provided for an exciting diversion from the noisy rock shows. Cars crunched and engines flared — with volume and with flame — as the drivers fought to the death of their automobiles.

A Day to Remember bassist Neil Westfall tried his luck himself in the treachery as a special guest driver, but the headlining member's fortunes were quick to fade, finishing 15th in his heat of 18 cars.

Although not guaranteed to turn into an annual festival, Schaghticoke's first metal weekend seemed to be a success. Some complaints existed — maybe sweep the media barn next time? — but local vendors made significant profits and visitation numbered in the thousands. For those thrilled to see dozens of their favorite bands in the Albany area, Rock 'N Derby was not only a Day to Remember, but perhaps a Weekend to Remember.

▲ A Day to Remember played to an energized crowd Saturday night.

▼ Trivium's hard rocking performance followed the next day.

Night: Lynyrd Skynyrd and Peter Frampton

ALBANY — Rock and Roll Hall of Fame members Lynyrd Skynyrd and Grammy Award-winning guitarist Peter Frampton have been touring together since the 70s and will kick off their next joint tour in Albany at the Times Union Center on June 3 with special guest Jack Broadbent.

Lynyrd Skynyrd's legacy began some 41 years ago in Jacksonville, Florida, and halted for a decade by the 1977 plane crash that killed three band members, including Ronnie Van Zant and Steve Gaines. Since then, the band tragically lost Allen Collins, Billy Powell, Leon Wilkeson and Hughie Thomasson, yet Lynyrd Skynyrd rocks on with original member Gary Rossington joined by Johnny Van Zant, Rickey Medlocke, Mark "Sparky" Matejka, Michael Cartellone, Johnny Colt, Peter Keys, Dale Krantz Rossington and Carol Chase.

With a catalog of over 60 albums, sales beyond 30 million worldwide and their beloved classic American rock anthem "Sweet Home Alabama" having over two million downloaded ringtones, Rock & Roll Hall of Famers Lynyrd Skynyrd remain a cultural icon that appeals to all generations.

Peter Frampton remains one of the most celebrated artists and guitarists in rock history. At 16, he was lead singer and guitarist for British band the Herd. At 18, he co-founded one of the first super groups, seminal rock act Humble Pie. His session work includes collaborations with such legendary artists as George Harrison, Harry Nilsson, David Bowie, Jerry Lee Lewis, Ringo Starr, John Entwistle and many others. His fifth solo album, the electrifying Frampton Comes Alive!, is one of the top-selling live records of all time.

Doors open at 5:30 p.m. for the 6:30 p.m. concert.

Tickets are available online at www.ticketmaster.com, by phone at (800) 745-3000 or in person at the Times Union Center Box Office. Floor seats are $75.50, lower level seats are $60.50 and upper level seats are $45.50.

5K boot camp in Spa City

SARATOGA SPRINGS — Do you want to challenge yourself like never before while at the same time champion a wonderful cause? Then Taylor's Heroes 5K Xtreme Boot Camp Challenge is for you!

It's a race all about having fun while challenging yourself in a test of strength and endurance. Don't let the title be intimidating, the most important element is to have fun, laugh hard, work your body hard and celebrate at the end of a tough but friendly competition filled with mud pits, fire hoses, spider webs of rope, tire walls, and surprise Boot Camp stations. Whether you want to have fun as a family or with a group of friends, or you are a serious athlete this course is for you.

The course is like Taylor's Heroes mission — have fun while being active and disregard any obstacles. We encourage families to run together and make this an annual family day. What a great way to show your kids that exercise can be fun! Anyone can complete this course. If you think you can do it, or you think you can't — you're right!

Individuals and groups are now being sought to participate in the event. Past competitions have included school groups, co-workers from area companies banding together for the challenge and lots of individuals wanting to take the challenge and support a great cause for kids. Prizes will be awarded for the best team costumes. And as always, whacky couture is encouraged.

Taylor's Heroes is a non-profit organization created in 2011 in memory of the 2009 Saratoga Springs High School graduate. "The whole idea behind the charity is to help children get fit and learn the basics of nutrition while they have a lifetime to enjoy the benefits," explained Leslie Miller, board president and the mother of Taylor. Miller and a board of advisors came up with a plan of action to help kids and teens establish healthy eating and exercise habits they can carry through their lifetime.

The curriculum centers around a free 14-week fitness and nutrition program for children ages 8 through 18. The program is done in Biggest Loser fashion, but in a non-competitive environment.

Participants are given a free membership to the Saratoga Regional YMCA for three months; weekly group personal training; the opportunity to try any two sports; nutrition and cooking classes with their family; a food diary to track daily diet and activity; and an opportunity to win prizes at the completion of the program.

"We look for great kids like Taylor who are stuck in their bodies and aren't sure how to change. They're also intimidated by gyms and competitive sports and therefore avoid them. Overeating as a response to not fitting in only perpetuates the problem," said Miller.

Since beginning, the program has seen dozens of kids learn (and often cement) better eating and exercise habits. "To see kids come to the program apprehensive, and then see them leave fit and energetic with a perma-grin...it still gives me goose bumps every time," said Suzanne D'Iorio, Taylor's aunt and vice president of the board.

Summer so sweet

We've got some ideas for desserts this season

By DENISE BENNETT

news@spotlightnews.com

In my house, any excuse to break out some dessert recipes is a good enough excuse for me. Someone's birthday, a holiday, or even because it is Friday and everyone deserves to make their own sundae! With the summer season unofficially starting with Memorial Day, I figure we can talk confectionery ideas to get everyone in a sugar rush by the long weekends close. Ready to talk sweets? You know I am!

What is quick, easy and fun for everyone at your barbecue? Make your own ice cream sandwiches!

Now, you can go all out and make your own cookie, or you can grab a package at your local grocer. Either way, you're going to want to choose two large cookies and your favorite ice cream. I usually make mine with chocolate chips and French vanilla ice cream. Classic, creamy and loved by everyone. If you're making your own, grab your favorite chocolate chip cookie recipe — I always use the one on the back of the bag of chocolate chips — and bake some cookies.

Scoop yourself about a tablespoon or so you get a good healthy serving of cookie with your ice cream. The key is to make sure they are completely cooled when you assemble everything. Take a cookie and spread as little or as much ice cream on it. I will usually keep the ice cream between a quarter- and a half-inch from the edge. Take your second cookie and sandwich them together. That's why you want some wiggle room on the edge, so when you gently press the cookies together, the ice cream can evenly occupy that space.

The best part is then taking your sandwich and dipping the ice cream portion into some sprinkles. I love rainbow sprinkles and always have these on hand. If your container isn't large enough to dip the cookie, you can use a dessert spoon to sprinkle them over your sandwich. Once you have your sprinkles on your cookies, place them in the freezer to set them up.

With a standard batch of chocolate chip cookies, you can probably make a dozen or so sandwiches. Other ideas to dip the ice cream in are crushed Oreo cookies, mini marshmallows and shaved chocolate.

My second sinful dessert idea is for the peanut butter lover in your life; homemade peanut butter cups.

Super simple to make and even easier to munch on. I make them twelve at a time. Take a standard muffin tin and place twelve muffin liners into each cup. In a bowl, mix a cup of confectioner sugar with a cup of graham cracker crumbs. After it is thoroughly combined, add nine ounces of melted peanut butter. (Using the microwave to melt the peanut butter is fine.) When you add the peanut butter to the dry ingredients, I recommended first mixing with a wooden spoon. Then, once the peanut butter is cooler to the touch, just go in with your hands and mix it together. Make a nice thick paste and leave this in the bowl. Melt down chocolate chips or bars of chocolate, whichever you prefer to work with. If you are using the microwave, melt at 30 second increments as to not overcook the chocolate. There is no rule on the amount of chocolate to melt down. I probably go through two bags of chips when I make this treat.

Once you have your chocolate melted down, put that into the bottom of each muffin liner. Make a nice bottom layer. Even get it up on the sides. I hold my spoon in place and then move the liner around. Once you have all your cups filled with chocolate, add your peanut butter. No exact science, just fill up your cup with a healthy amount. Once the cups have been filled with peanut butter, add a final layer of chocolate covering. I even get creative and flick my wrist to get a decorative swirl with the chocolate. You can never be too flamboyant with chocolate.

Now some people have to have their fruit and whipped cream for outdoor barbecues and soirees, but I say life is better with chocolate and sugar. Whichever you prefer, just remember to enjoy the time with friends and family. Now go get baking!

Dickensian dining

Lessons learned after visiting two locations on a busy weekend

By ELIZABETH SCHAEFER
news@spotlightnews.com

It was a confusing weekend in the food world for us! There were some very highs, but also some very lows.

Let's start with Friday night. After a long week of heavy workouts, and a wicked Friday spin class, by the time I got home I was the epitome of "hangry". Once everyone was home, and settled, we decided to head out to Garden Bistro 24 in Latham. It is generally easy, tasty and relaxed. We called ahead to see if there was outside seating available, and headed out. Once we got there, the 10-year-old promptly decided that it was too cold to eat outside, so we headed in. We put in an order of poutine, as well as glasses of wine for both my boyfriend and I. The service was odd: two servers, one who was extremely friendly and another who seemed rushed and stressed, although there were only 3 seated tables.

Anyhow, our poutine arrived and it was delicious. I have had it there before, and it didn't disappoint. Cheese, gravy, caramelized onions and fries? Who could complain? It is a small appetizer for four of us, but it was enough to start to calm the "hangry". When we placed our order, my boyfriend went with two appetizers, the French onion soup and the season flat bread. The 16-year-old chose the bacon blue burger and the 10-year-old the hanger steak.

I was torn. I have had their burgers and they are outrageously delicious, but I wanted to try something a little different. So I ordered the Salmon Tartar appetizer – big mistake. I love raw salmon, such as lox, in sushi, really however it is served properly. Then my "dinner" actually arrived. I took one look, and honestly almost cried. I know, I know, getting that emotional about food? But I was starving. The salmon was quite clearly directly out of a can, and served in the shape of a can. I hate to say it but it looked exactly like something I would feed my cat. I took one bite and was accosted by a nauseating taste that isn't even describable.

I quickly made the decision that I needed to order something else, called the waiter over and calmly told him that "this was not as described" and he could feel free to wrap it up for us, but how long would the bacon blue burger take to get to me? He said he would rush it, so

I sat back and waited. In the meantime, I told everyone else to go ahead and eat. The 16-year-old was in love with her burger, and the 10-year-old's steak looked perfect. She was having trouble cutting it, and when I helped her, I saw that it was clearly a very nice cut of meat and cooked just right. The herbed butter sauce was plentiful but not overkill. Plus, it tasted wonderful; I couldn't resist a bite. My boyfriend eats equally fast in general, so I didn't get a taste but he said his soup and flatbread were really quite good.

Then, finally, blissfully, my burger

HEALTH & FITNESS

Surviving cook outs

By DAN ROMAND
news@spotlightnews.com

This past weekend was the unofficial start of summer. And with it comes the family gatherings, barbecues and so on.

Truth is in my experience summer is the time when people gain the most weight. Yes, you read that right...

More weight will be gained in the next two-three months than at any other time of the year.

And yes that includes the Thanksgiving to Christmas season.

I'm sure that surprises many of you because conventionally the belief is that people are doing more things outside therefore they shouldn't gain weight.

But in my experience it's quite the opposite. Oh sure people are out and about more, but are they exercising at all? Or if they are, is it at the same level they do during other times of the year.

Sadly the answer is no. The proof... walk into any gym during the summer and see how empty it is.

The cardio equipment will be empty; classes will have sometimes only one or two people in them and the weight area a barren wasteland.

As mentioned, most people avoid going to the gym and instead say they are out riding their bikes, jogging or walking.

Now that's not to say those aren't beneficial activities but more often than not they are doing them at a much lower intensity than they would working out at the gym.

Add to it very few continue to strength train during the summer, instead focusing on the "low and slow" cardio which doesn't burn anywhere near the calories people think it does.

Also, people aren't working out anywhere near as often as they think they are.

Let's face it after a long day at work when the weather is beautiful the temptation is to relax on the porch or near the pool and just unwind. Not to get out and exercise.

So those who hit the gym 4-5 times a week in the winter suddenly only "workout" 1 or 2 times during the summer. If that...

And it isn't just exercise that goes by the wayside. Good eating habits go right out the window too.

Family events and barbecues are a trap that few can avoid. Think about it for a moment. The typical menu at a summer party includes things like: chips and dips, potato/macaroni salad/coleslaw all made with lots of mayo, grilled meats, cookies, ice cream and other sweets and so on.

And, let's not forget the alcohol. Lots and lots of alcohol.

It's not just what we eat but how much we eat that comes into play.

A few years back I had some of my clients track what they ate on Memorial Day. On average they ate over 4000 calories in just that one day with one person eating and drinking over 7500 calories!

Another client tracked the entire weekend and found she ate almost 15,000 calories in just 3 days... or almost 4 times the number of calories she should have been eating!

And these were folks focused on losing weight!

If you want to stay on track with your health you need to be vigilant. Keep going to the gym and working out. Or if you choose to workout outside make sure you do it at a level that is challenging.

Most importantly focus on eating some of the great foods that are in abundance during the summer like fruits and vegetables instead of those salads swimming in mayo. Keep the portions under control and savor nature's bounty instead of mindlessly eating everything on the table.

You can get thru the summer without gaining weight. You just have to resist the temptations and stay on track.

From page 15 ... Dickensian dining

arrived. I really like some red to my meat, and it was cooked perfectly rare/medium-rare. They pride themselves on their burgers and there is clearly a reason why. It was just what I needed and I finally was able to calm down and enjoy.

Once the bill came (more than $130), and we saw that they had not done anything about the so-called salmon, we didn't fight it, but I decided to let the waiter know just how disappointed I was. I was calm, but honest.

So if you are heading to Garden Bistro 24 – stick with that they are known for and you will be happy. Otherwise, I can't make any promises.

Now, on to the second mixed experience of the weekend. We had planned on Sunday brunch after the gym at a place in Schenectady that ended up being full and not taking any more walk-ins, which was a let-down, but at least they knew what they could and couldn't handle for volume. That can't quite be said about our next stop. After a quick trip through the Farmers Market, we went over to More Pereccas. This time it was just my boyfriend, the 10-year-old and myself. They split some sort of bun at the Farmers Market because they were making me crazy about how hungry they were. Boy, am I glad they did that.

Pereccas was crowded, but they seated us right away. Once they seated us, and after they took our drink orders, they let us know that it was going to be a "bit of a wait." That ended up being a very mild way to put it. My mimosa arrived quickly and, really, they have one of the best mimosas around. In large part because the orange juice is so fresh and they don't skip on the prosecco. We ordered quickly, the 10-year-old chose a BLT, the boyfriend went with their famous Eggs in Purgatory and I went with an Italian frittata, made with egg whites. Huge plus in my book: when I asked for egg whites, there was no eye rolling, no "let me see," just an easy going "ok, great."

Twenty minutes later, one mimosa down, and it became quite clear (as we watched the tables around us) that our food was going to way longer than "a bit of wait," we asked we could have some toast. Our server was wonderful and brought it over immediately. Once I knew I would have the toast to soak up some of the prosecco, I ordered a second mimosa.

Another 30 minutes later, with still no food in site, we were starting to get a bit antsy. Then, without any prompting, our server came over with a massive cupcake, and told us it was for being so patient with the wait. With a 10-year-old at the table, that made a huge difference!

I should note, when I made a trip the ladies room, I witnessed a server coming in the from the porch, with a check and 10 separate credit cards that a party had asked him to ring through on the bill. They did it graciously but, first off, that really annoys me (10 cards?!?) and, second, it shows just how busy it was — even outside.

Eventually our food arrived and true to Pereccas reputation, it did not disappoint. My frittata was exactly as I ordered it — mushroom, caramelized onions, some Fontina. Plus, it was fresh off the stove, which I am kind of a stickler about. I love their side potatoes because they mix in sweet potatoes, which you don't see much!

My boyfriend devoured his Eggs in Purgatory (a poached egg dish with spicy fradiavlo); he has had it before, and this time it was just as good, if not better than prior. I always like to have a tiny taste of his — it was quite spicy but, oh, it really was good. The heat isn't there just to be hot, it has a purpose for the flavor — and they do a wonderful job with that. The 10-year-olds BLT was standard and she liked it, so I was happy.

So the moral of the weekend, be careful if you order something that an establishment is not known for, you may end up highly discouraged. Second, if you are told its going to be a bit of wait, ask just how long "a bit" is.

We will return to both places but we will be sticking to those rules. No salmon tartar, and how long is long?

From page B1 ... Welcome to Albany

"I am honored to have been selected to paint this mural. It is a symbol for so much positive movement that has happened in Downtown Albany as of late," said Conlin. "This is the biggest project I've ever taken on and it's humbling to know that my work will be seen by tens of thousands of people every day."

The mural, done with primary and exterior latex and spray paints, is most visible when exiting from I-787 southbound via Exit 4B onto Clinton Avenue, just south of the exit ramp that ends on the corner of Clinton Avenue and Broadway—a primary point of entry to the Downtown Central Business District. Conlin's inspiration for the birds, portrayed in various stages of flight toward Broadway was, in part, due to his vision of downtown Albany as a gathering place that people "flock" to. The exit from I-787 creates a landing place for all who enter the city and is meant to further underscore that Albany is a welcoming place to visitors.

Iadicicco said he expected the mural to be completed during the coming weekend (of May 28) and that there are tentative plans to hold a commemorative event under the bridge—"with music, refreshments, lighting show and complete mural. We're still working on the logistics."

"Art inspires people to visit and explore communities," said Iadicicco. "It is a connector and something that truly benefits everyone. There is no reason Albany can't have an even more vibrant arts scene. The mural will quite literally paint the picture from the interstate that Albany is a city that has embraced the arts."

Iadicicco and Albany Center Gallery, a non-profit art space dedicated to exhibiting skillful contemporary art of the Mohawk Hudson region, worked closely with Albany Barn, which operates an incubator for creative content entrepreneurs and community arts center in Arbor Hill. "The involvement with the Barn has been very important," said Iadicicco. "We've been working with them on artists contracts and support for marketing and outreach and messaging for the project. Jeff [Mirel, president of Albany Barn's board of directors] and Kristen [Holler, the Barn's executive director] have been great, and it just goes to show how important collaboration is."

In addition to providing one of its parking structures as the 'canvas,' the Albany Parking Authority is funding the installation. "We wanted to create a unique welcome to New York's Capital City," said Albany Parking Authority Chairman Kevin O'Connor. "Our garages are a blank canvass perfect for talented artists like Michael Conlin. His vision is perfectly aligned with many of the existing efforts here in Albany. The arts can be a driver for economic vitality and excitement, and we want our garages to be a part of that excitement."

"When Kevin O'Connor reached out we were more than eager to assist in pulling together this project," said Holler. "Albany Barn strives to advocate for creative professionals, ensuring they have a seat at the table when talking economic development and community revitalization, and providing the skills and resources necessary take advantage of opportunities like this – to partner with business and government on a project that highlights the rich creative economy in our region and transforms a major gateway into our City."

"It is tremendous to see so many of these Albany organizations come together for the greater good of the city we all love," said Mayor Kathy Sheehan. "This mural is emblematic of our thriving arts scene and the economic growth and success we've all witnessed downtown. Simply put, it is another attraction to this entertainment district."

By ROB JONAS

GUILDERLAND — Malick Diamonde and Julia Nugent led the way for Bethlehem at the Section 2 Group 1 track and field championships Tuesday, May 24, in Guilderland. Diamonde had three top-four finishes on the boys' side, including a victory in the 100-meter dash, while Nugent earned a first- and a third-place finish in the girls' hurdle events.

Diamonde claimed the 100-meter dash title with a time of 11.29 seconds, placed third in the 400-meter dash with a time of 50.07 seconds and took fourth place in the high jump by clearing the bar at 6 feet to earn Bethlehem 22 of its 86 team points.

Cameron Davis also earned an individual title for the Eagles. Davis won the discus with a throw of 144 feet, 8 inches.

Lucas Culley, Greg Lenegar and Patrick Smith provided second-place performances for Bethlehem. Culley was the runner-up in the 3,000-meter steeplechase with a time of 10:04.83, while Lenegar finished second in the pole vault after clearing the bar at 12 feet, 6 inches. Smith took second place in the pentathlon by accumulating 2,534 points.

Bethlehem's 3,200-meter relay team also placed second at Sectionals with a time of 8:06.01, less than a half-second behind champion Shenendehowa.

Guilderland's boys 1,600-meter relay team won a Sectional title with a time of 3:22.65, and Clarence Skipper earned a victory in the triple jump with a distance of 44 feet, 5 inches. Skipper also took second place in the long jump with a leap of 22 feet, 0.75 inches and placed third behind Ballston Spa's Jack Fitzgerald and his Guilderland teammate, Zaviir Berry, in the high jump.

Noah Carey was second in both the 1,600- and 3,200-meter races behind Saratoga's Aidan Tooker, who finished the meet with three individual wins. Noah Tindale placed behind Tooker in the 800-meter race.

Nugent won the girls 400-meter intermediate hurdles with a time of 1:03.46, and she came close to winning the 100-meter high hurdles. Her third-place time of 15.19 seconds was .04 seconds behind champion Olivia Robbins of Shenendehowa.

Samantha Gifford contributed a second-place finish in the triple jump, and Sophie Lane garnered a second-place patch in the high jump for the Lady Eagles.

Guilderland's Isabella Bruno won the triple jump with a distance of 36 feet, 1 inch, and she was third in the long jump with a distance of 17 feet, 1 inch.

Dutchmen begin again

Albany starts PGCBBL season on the road against Amsterdam

By ROB JONAS
jonasr@spotlightnews.com

ALBANY — The Albany Dutchmen face their chief rival, the Amsterdam Mohawks, to start the 2016 Perfect Game Collegiate Baseball League season Wednesday, June 1, in Amsterdam.

The Dutchmen face the defending East Division champion Mohawks six times in the first month of the season, with four of those games taking place at Bob Bellizzi Field in Albany (June 8, 11, 26 and 29). They also play the Saugerties Stallions six times, and they have five games against the Glens Falls Dragons in June, which includes their home opener Thursday, June 2, at Bob Bellizzi Field.

Albany enters the season with a brand new roster comprised of mainly NCAA Division I players. Ole Miss, Baylor, Louisiana Tech and Indiana State are among the larger schools represented on this year's roster, as well as players from three local colleges — University at Albany, Siena College and The College of Saint Rose.

One player area baseball fans might recognize is Bucknell University pitcher Jack Grabek. The Guilderland native is coming off his freshman season with the Bison, where he posted a 1-3 record.

The Dutchmen's pitching staff also includes Siena freshman Dylan D'Anna and Saint Rose junior Joe Pokrentowski. UAlbany's Connor Powers is one of five outfielders on the opening day roster.

Powers is one of several players the Dutchmen will rely on at the plate this season. He led UAlbany in home runs during the regular season (five) and was among the team leaders in RBI (25).

Ohio Dominican infielder Justin Childers, University of South Carolina Upstate's J.J. Shimko and Azusa Pacific's Mychael Goudreau are also entering the PGCBBL season with good credentials. Childers batted .327 for Ohio Dominican with eight home runs, 10 doubles and 38 RBI, while Shimko posted a .292 batting average with 11 doubles, two triples, 27 runs scored and 23 RBI. Goudreau batted .330 for Azusa Pacific with 21 runs scored.

University of Pennsylvania red shirt sophomore Gabe Kleiman will be one of the pitchers to watch out for this season. Kleiman is coming off a college season where he posted a 3-3 record, a 2.24 earned run average and allowed a .234 batting average against him.

TRUSTCO BANK	VERIFIED COMPLAINT
	Plaintiff
-against-	Index# 3711-15 PREMISES 157 Glenmont Road Glenmont, NY 12077 Date Filed 7/21/15
DONALD R. ULICNY; "JOHN DOE" (said name being fictitious, it being the intention of the plaintiff to designate any and all persons in possession of the mortgaged premises)
	Defendant(s)

The plaintiff alleges:

- The plaintiff is federal savings bank.
- The defendant(s) set forth in Schedule "A" are made defendants in this action in the capacities and for the reasons set forth in said Schedule. Upon information and belief, any of said defendants that are corporations were organized under the laws of the state set forth in said Schedule.

3. Heretofore the defendant(s) named in Schedule "B" (Schedule "B" being a copy of the bond or note evidencing the indebtedness to the plaintiff) executed and delivered to the plaintiff a bond or note in the amount of money, with the terms of repayment and with the rights of the plaintiff all as more fully appear in Schedule "B".

4. As security for the payment of said indebtedness, the defendant(s) named in Schedule "C" (Schedule "C" being a copy of the mortgage) executed, acknowledged and delivered to the plaintiff a mortgage whereby the mortgagor(s) mortgaged the premises more particularly described in Schedule "E" (hereinafter called the "mortgaged premises") with the conditions, rights and duties as more fully appear in said mortgage.

5. The mortgage was duly recorded (and the mortgage tax due thereon was paid) in the proper county clerk's office at the place and time which appears thereon.

6. The defendant(s) named in Schedules "B" and "C" have failed to comply with the conditions of the note or bond and mortgage by failing to pay items of principal and interest, taxes, assessments, water rates, insurance premiums, escrow and/or other charges, as more fully appears in Schedule "F", and the plaintiff elected to call due the entire principal amount secured by the mortgage.

7. In order to protect its security, the plaintiff has paid, if set forth in Schedule "F", or may be compelled to pay during the pendency of this action, local taxes, assessments, water rates, insurance premiums, and other charges affecting the mortgaged premises, and the plaintiff requests that any sums thus paid by it for said purposes be added to the sum otherwise due and be deemed secured by the said mortgage and be adjudged a valid lien on the mortgaged premises, and that the plaintiff be paid such sums, together with interest thereon, out of the proceeds of the sale of the mortgaged premises.

8. By reason of the foregoing, there is now due to the plaintiff the sum set forth in Schedule "F".

9. Upon information and belief, the defendants herein have or claim to have some interest in or lien upon the mortgaged premises or some part thereof, which interest or lien, if any, is subordinate to the lien of the plaintiff's mortgage.

10. No other action has been commenced to recover any part of the mortgage debt.

11. The plaintiff has complied with the provisions of RPAPL §§1304 and 1306. Please find attached hereto as Schedule "D" copies of records complying with RPAPL §§ 1304 and 1306.

WHEREFORE, the plaintiff demands judgment:

(a) Adjudging the amounts due to the plaintiff for principal, interest, costs and reasonable attorneys' fees, if provided for in the bond or note and mortgage;

(b) That the defendants and all persons claiming by, through or under them, subsequent to the filing of the notice of pendency of this action, and every other person whose right, title, conveyance or encumbrance is subsequent thereto or subsequently recorded, may be barred and forever foreclosed of all rights, claim, lien, interest or equity of redemption in and to said mortgaged premises;

(c) That the mortgaged premises, or such part thereof as may be necessary to raise the amounts then due for principal, interest, costs, allowances, attorneys' fees, disbursements and any sums paid by the plaintiff to protect its security, may be decreed to be sold according to law;

(d) That out of the money arising from the sale thereof, the plaintiff may be paid the amounts then due on the bond or note and mortgage and any sums paid by the plaintiff to protect its security, with interest, costs, disbursements, allowances and reasonable attorneys' fees, if provided for in said bond, note or mortgage;

(e) That the Court, if requested, without notice during the pendency of this action, appoint a receiver of the rents and profits of the mortgaged premises;

(f) That the defendant(s) named in Schedule "B" may be adjudged to pay any deficiency that may remain after applying all of said money so applicable thereto; and

(g) That the plaintiff have such other relief as may be proper.

The plaintiff further demands judgment reserving its right to share in any surplus money arising from the sale of the mortgaged premises by virtue of its position, if applicable, as a subordinate mortgage, judgment or other lien creditor excluding the mortgage being foreclosed herein.

FORECLOSURE RESCUE SCAMS
Be careful of people who approach you with offers to "save" your home. There are individuals who watch for notices of foreclosure actions in order to unfairly profit from a homeowner's distress. You should be extremely careful about any such promises and any suggestions that you pay them a fee or sign over your deed. State law requires anyone offering such services for profit to enter into a contract which fully describes the services they will perform and fees they will charge, and which prohibits them from taking any money from you until they have completed all such promised services.

and these guys are so used to it. It becomes like (second) nature, but it actually hurts. That took a minute to process.

“Being an athlete all my life and being into fitness all my life, I was hitting the ropes, I was taking bumps — learning the basics, what that’s called — it was just the most natural thing I’ve ever done. And for me to feel that and realize that so quickly was shocking to me.”

Carpinello had to develop a character for himself. He chose to keep his wrestling name close to his true identity — Clayton is his middle name — to “stay as authentic as I could,” he said. He also chose to make himself a bad guy.

“For me, it was kind of what I wanted to do because there was nobody telling me what to do,” said Carpinello. “It’s kind of what you do to get yourself out there. So, the saying in the business is you want to take the smallest part of yourself and blow it up to huge proportions. If you’re a bad guy, you might not really care what people think about you.”

Just because Carpinello chose to make his character a bad guy doesn’t mean he gets to remain one every match. “Wherever you go, they might have a specific job for you to do, so it’s not really always up to you of what you’re doing that night,” he said.

Thus far, Carpinello has wrestled mainly within New York state, alternating between the Capital District and New York City. His most recent bout was in Brooklyn May 21, and his next area appearance is scheduled for July 16 at Albany’s Polish Community Center. But, he knows the life of a professional wrestler can involve a brutal travel schedule.

“The guys that you see on TV, on WWE, travel 250-300 days a year,” he said. “There’s no other sport that does that. There’s no off-season for these guys.”

Still, Carpinello is willing to sacrifice his time and his body to reach the highest level of pro wrestling. He commutes between Albany and Brooklyn to train at Johnny Rodz’s gym, where he said he’s gaining the skills and knowledge he needs to take his career to the next level.

“You need to go where there’s opportunity, and within the last year I’ve really learned that to a T. I don’t do anything that won’t help me. I’m never satisfied. I want to get to the absolute top,” said Carpinello.

Fans can follow Carpinello’s progress through social media on his Facebook

Carpinello is looking to join a profession that will have him traveling on the road “250-300 days a year.”

Hope, and a bucket of paint

There are places we see during our occasional jaunts across the Capital District that could use a coat of paint. Tired, ragged, but not quite rundown. Albany may not be the first of those places that come to mind, but as a city it has certain pockets in need of a little TLC.

Well, that's exactly what's happening along the I-787 corridor, off the Clinton Avenue exit. Despite the current urban renewal effort around the Palace Theatre, Clinton Avenue still holds on to that stigma of decay. As motorists drive through the city and read the street name, they don't recognize the homage paid to the man who brought the Erie Canal to Albany — turning the Capital City into one of the most prosperous in the country for a time. No, DeWitt Clinton's name is more associated with abandoned buildings, broken glass and one of the few roadways leading into a crime infested Arbor Hill.

Michael Conlin is a part of something that's going to change all that. The Albany Parking Authority had an idea for a mural. They approached the Albany Barn and Albany Center Gallery, and Conlin's name came up for the artist.

Motorists turning down to Clinton Avenue from I-787 have noticed some immediate changes before approaching the red light that greets them into the city. There is Conlin, suspended more than a 100-feet in the air inside a cherry-picker basket. And, then there is his artwork on the facade of the parking garage that abuts the off-ramp. Each day, residents and visitors alike have been presented vignettes of a story unfolding before them, in the seconds it takes a car to travel hundreds of feet a 30 miles per hour.

"Art inspires people to visit and explore communities," said Tony Iadicicco, Executive Director of Albany Center Gallery. "It is a connector and something that truly benefits everyone. There is no reason Albany can't have an even more vibrant arts scene. The mural will quite literally paint the picture from the interstate that Albany is a city that has embraced the arts."

Conlin's bluebirds, an image of New York state's bird, not only adds color to a flat surface. To him, he said it serves as a symbol of the positive change that has transpired over the past several years.

Downtown Albany was all but abandoned decades ago during the suburban migration of the 50s and 60s. People are moving back in, whether to reduce one's carbon footprint, or to live in the same neighborhood one both works and wishes to play. Restaurants, high-end condos and a revitalized craft brewery business are bringing investors and people back to the city.

As Conlin's bluebirds take flight, hope is once again being associated with the name of DeWitt Clinton.

*Hometown: Colonie

What television series, if any, are you currently watching?

I don't get to watch much TV but I do enjoy the "Chicago" series, "Med," "Fire" and "PD." I am also a fan of the "Good Wife."

What is the most recent movie you've seen?

We actually saw the movie "Money Monster" recently and I thought it was somewhat comical, rather interesting and thought provoking. I actually enjoyed it.

Favorite music or musician?

I really enjoy older music, as you might assume. I enjoy Barbra Streisand, Michael Buble. I actually loved when the two performed the song "It Had To Be You" on a TV special a while ago. My mom loved all the old music and the Big Band Era, so I think we all picked that interest up

What are you reading right now? Would you recommend it?

This past winter, I read the book "New York, The Novel." It took me a while, but I enjoyed reading through the decades and the city's diverse history. My friend had recommended it to me, and I too, would recommend it.

Can you share a favorite local memory?

My favorite local memory for me personally, was when I was first sworn in to the Colonie Town Board. When I stepped up with my family to take the oath of office, I spotted several friends whom I did not know were planning on attending the ceremony. It was very touching that they cared enough to be there for me.

What would you consider an ideal vacation?

My ideal vacation would be spending time with our boys and their families on a quiet lake or beach, perhaps including a few friends. I think it is good for the soul to relax and re-group from time to time.

If you could have dinner with any human who has ever lived, who would it be and why?

I have always thought that Benjamin Franklin was ahead of his times with so much creativity and foresight. I believe he was a very honorable statesman. I think it would be very interesting to converse with a man of such intelligence and fortitude, although he would be amazed to see what we are today.

Priest pleads guilty

Faces misdemeanor for recording video of woman in thrift shop

COLONIE — Rev. Adam Egan, 35, of Bethlehem, pleaded guilty in Colonie Town Court Monday, May 23, for taking a video of a woman as she undressed at a local thrift store.

Egan was arrested by Colonie Police at approximately 3:40 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 23, on two felony charges of unlawful surveillance and tampering with evidence after he allegedly recorded the victim changing her clothes at the Salvation Army thrift store at 350

Troy-Schenectady Road in Latham.

At the time of the arrest, Egan served as rector of St. Stephen’s Episcopal Church in Delmar. He was originally facing two felony charges, including one for tampering of evidence. Egan has since pled down to one count of attempted unlawful surveillance in the second degree. The misdemeanor charge carries three years probation and would require he follow sex offender conditions during his probation. Egan is scheduled to be sentenced Monday, July 25, in Colonie Town Court.

Colonie Police had reported Egan held his cell phone over the dressing room divider, taking a video of a woman as she changed from her clothes. The victim caught him and snapped photos of him with her own cell phone before calling police. Police located Egan on Aragon Avenue about 10 minutes later, where he was arrested and his electronic devices confiscated.

Children at Play

The weather is warming up. Kids under sprinklers, or running to the pool. Here’s a playful scene captured last week just a stone’s throw away from Hamagrael Elementary School. Pinwheels greet motorists to the neighborhood, along with the yellow sign reminding all to be aware of children.
