Five Sure Stay residents arrested

The five arrests and subsequent charges stemmed from four separate incidents at the hotel and a local business.

In the most recent incident Colonie police responded to the hotel this morning at 6 a.m. to make an arrest for a sexual assault that allegedly occurred yesterday.

After an investigation, police charged Simrandeep Singh, 21, whose address is listed as a room at the hotel, with rape in the third degree, a felony. That charge is lodged against someone who did not have consent to have sex with another person, but did not use physical force.

In the police report, Singh is listed as an employee at the hotel, but is not legally allowed to live in the country. The manager of the Sure Stay was not available when Spotlight News called.

Colonie police confirmed multiple reports that Singh is from India, not here legally and does not have a passport.

He was arraigned in Colonie Town Court this morning by Judge Norman Massry and remanded to the Albany County jail without bail.

It is unclear how he was legally employed at the hotel, and police said they have notified Immigration and Customs Enforcement that he is in custody.

“When he is released from custody, he will be picked up by Homeland Security,” Lt. Daniel Belles said.

When asked about his employment Belles said, “That is a good question. We are aware of that and are investigating.”

Belles said that the alleged incident is not related to the migrant issue taking place at the hotel, but did occur there.

“Now the owner of this hotel is employing people illegally,” Colonie Supervisor Peter Crummey said. “These employees are from India, I am told. They have access to keys and rooms, which expose these [migrants] to even more harm.”

Crummey said he expects that Homeland Security will be investigating the hotel in addition to the local investigation.

“I have said this from day one, Mayor Adams does not give a hoot about the people he dumped here,” Crummey said. “This hotel was a problem before [migrants] got here. Over the last 18 months, the Colonie police have had over 300 calls to that hotel.”

I have said this from day one, Mayor Adams does not give a hoot about the people he dumped here. — Peter Crummey, Colonie Town Supervisor

Colonie police also responded to the Cricket Wireless store on Central Avenue for a shoplifter who was assaulting employees yesterday at 7:46 p.m. When officers arrived at the store, they witnessed Andres Yaraure, 21, who is a migrant living at the hotel, allegedly removing money from the register.

“The incident began with a disagreement over buying or selling equipment, and he decided to take money,” Belles said.

Yaraure was charged with robbery, a felony, and petit larceny and criminal mischief-recklessly damaging property. He was arraigned by Colonie Judge Norman Massry and sent to the Albany County jail without bail last night. He is scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing on Wednesday, Oct. 4.

This was not the first time Yaraure has been arrested.

On July 29, he was arrested in Queens for assault and obstruction of governmental administration, both misdemeanors. On Aug. 19, he was arrested again in Queens in a separate incident and charged with criminal possession of a forged instrument, a felony. It is unclear the adjudication of either case. Yaraure was then relocated to the Sure Stay in Colonie.

He will be picked up by ICE when he is released from jail, Belles said.

On Sunday, Oct. 1, at 3:30 a.m., Colonie police responded to the Sure Stay for the report of a large fight at the hotel.

“It was a chaotic scene with a handful of people engaged when officers arrived, and there was blood on the walls,” Belles said. “Two people were attempting to assault others with a knife.”

Belles said it was later identified that the blood was from one of the suspects arrested who cut himself with a knife and needed hospital treatment.

The investigation was hampered by a language barrier, but Colonie received help from a Spanish-speaking officer from Schenectady police.

“We have a few officers who speak Spanish, but they were not on duty that night,” Belles said. “It is much better to have an officer who speaks Spanish conduct an investigation. We were thankful that Schenectady PD helped us out.”

After the investigation, police charged Michael Rodriguez-Cortez, 26, and Jhonathan Pena-Quintero, 26, both have room numbers at the Sure Stay as addresses, with attempted assault with a weapon, a felony, and menacing with a weapon and criminal possession of a weapon with intent to use, both misdemeanors.

Pena-Quintero was transported to the hospital, but returned and was arraigned with Rodriguez-Cortez. ICE picked them up and detained them after arraignment.

On Friday, Sept. 29, Colonie police responded to the Sure Stay at 6:41 p.m. for a domestic incident.

According to reports, an investigation revealed that Cleiver Manzanilla-Morales, 18, who is a migrant living at the hotel, allegedly hit a person with keys, causing a cut and injury to a victim.

He was charged with assault with intent to cause physical injury. Manzanilla-Morales was arraigned and ICE picked him up after arraignment.

Albany County Sheriff Craig Apple confirmed that Homeland Security Investigators have filed detainer warrants for Yaraure and Singh. That documentation will have jail personnel notify ICE if the two are released for any reason.

“[Adams] is just dumping people in a place that is a hotbed of criminal activity and it has only gotten worse,” Crummey said.

The recent investigations have also strained local police.

“We had to call in most of our patrol and detective divisions in the past two days to handle the two incidents,” Deputy Chief Robert Winn said.

Winn said they had to obtain multiple search warrants and deploy investigation assets during this time.

Jury returns quick guilty verdict in Rabadi murder trial

District Attorney's Office will seek 25 years to life for convicted killer Jacob Klein

By MEREDITH SAVITT
news@spotlightnews.com

ALBANY – Following a three-week trial, an Albany County jury convicted Jacob Klein of second degree murder for the April 2022 killing of 35-year-old Philip Rabadi.

After having deliberated for two hours on Oct. 4, the jury convicted Klein when it reconvened the next morning. The guilty verdict was announced at 10:21 a.m. to a packed courtroom that included Rabadi's father, Shaw Rabadi, who appeared emotional when the jury verdict was read and reached for tissues in his pocket. As the jury exited the courtroom, he nodded his head toward each of them as if to thank them.

Assistant District Attorney and lead prosecutor in the case, Jessica Blain-Lewis, said she was feeling "relief" at the guilty verdict.

"You never know what the jury is focusing on," she said. "There was a mountain of video evidence. ... I have never seen anyone spending so much time planning something like this."

Judge William Little, who oversaw the three-week trial, asked Klein if he wanted to say anything, but Klein declined. Klein, who represented himself, made the decision not to testify on his own behalf during the trial.

When asked whether

Klein's decision to represent himself handicapped his defense, Blain-Lewis said, "Do I think he took a different tact than an attorney would? Probably. Did he focus on things an attorney might not? He may have."

However, she said that his rights were protected because he was instructed numerous times by the judge that he could exercise his right to counsel and he had two legal advisors present in the courtroom.

During the trial, two jurors were dismissed from the panel – one due to illness and one who reported that they had overheard conversation in the courthouse that led them to feel they could no longer be impartial. Those jurors were replaced by two of the four alternate jurors who had attended the trial from the beginning.

Sentencing is scheduled for Dec. 8, and Klein was remanded to the Albany County jail pending sentencing.

Blain-Lewis said her office will ask the sentencing judge to impose the maximum sentence of 25 years to life.

Shortly after Rabadi was found dead in his New Scotland home on April 13, 2022, investigators honed in on Klein for the killing of Rabadi due to a prior relationship Klein had with Rabadi's wife.

Klein was captured two days after the murder and arraigned in Virginia and then extradited to New York. He was re-arraigned in New Scotland Town Court on April 21, 2022, where he entered a not guilty plea on a felony charge of second degree murder.

On April 25, 2022, he was indicted by a grand jury. Because he was charged with a felony, he was sent to the Albany County jail to await trial.

Will Klein appeal?

Klein has 30 days to file a notice of appeal from the date of sentencing. Blain-Lewis said she expects that he will.

"That's normally in the course of things what happens," she said.

However, as to the viability of an appeal, she said that although she would not speak to the legal issues, she made clear that during the trial, "we do everything we can to protect the record relative to a potential appeal."

In a joint statement released by the Rabadi and Radin families after the guilty verdict was handed down, the families thanked the "community for the unwavering support and love we have received since our beloved Philip Rabadi was tragically taken from us."

In honor of Philip Rabadi's memory, the families have established the Phil With Love Foundation, which is dedicated to honoring and spreading "love, kindness and compassion" and to "ensuring that Philip's legacy and light continues to shine in the lives of those who will follow in his footsteps and in the lives of those in need."

"We are very pleased that we can bring some comfort to the family who suffered this incredibly terrible tragedy," Blain-Lewis said.

While she hoped the family can have some sense of closure, she also recognized it would be hard for them.

Stram Center to mark 20 years with open house

Organization celebrates success of bringing functional medicine to the community

By MEREDITH SAVITT
news@spotlightnews.com

DELMAR – The Stram Center For Integrative Medicine at 90 Adams Place in Delmar will celebrate 20 years of integrative care on Oct. 21 from 1-5 p.m. with an open house. The anniversary celebration will include live medical talks, opportunities to try hyperbaric oxygen therapy and acupuncture, plus food, door prizes and cooking demonstrations.

The center offers a variety of services to manage chronic illnesses, Lyme disease, pain, weight and diet problems, women's health and cancer care, emphasizing functional medicine.

"We are celebrating a success, not our personal success, but success in integrative medicine and the success is of people demanding this kind of medicine," said Nadine Stram, the center's business manager and new patient navigator.

The center already received over 100 RSVPs and she expects more. Two tents will house activities, such as NIA and yoga. Attendees are invited inside to speak with team members or to attend talks on treating lyme and chronic illness, nutrition, regenerative injection therapy, acupuncture, women's health, or IV Therapies for wellness and chronic illness.

Opening in 2003 at 388 Kenwood Avenue, the center moved in February 2015 to Adams Place.

"We opened in Delmar because we wanted to give back to the community," Dr. Ronald Stram, the center's medical director and founder said. "I wanted to feel I was the hometown doctor in a way I envisioned health care in my beginning."

The Stram Center, which now employs 20 people, started with just Nadine and Ronald Stram and its current acupuncturist Rebecca Rice.

The new location allowed the center to expand its practice areas and to create a home-like atmosphere.

"We call ourselves the 'Stramily,'" Nadine Stram said.

That's because not only do she, her husband Ronald Stram, their daughters Danielle, a psychotherapist, and Rachel, on social media, work there. The Strams strive to make their employees and patients feel like family.

Nadine Stram said she spent so much time thinking about color schemes and flooring for the Adams Place office that she was dreaming about them.

"We wanted to create a feeling like you are not walking into a medical facility and that when you walk in that this is something different and not just another medical journey because our patients have been to so many doctors, but are still sick," she said.

When asked what changed most in 20 years, Rice said, "When I first started as an acupuncturist, I would speak to many other doctors and people in the community who didn't know what alternative medicine was and now it is more commonplace and doctors are referring people to me."

The practice, built by word of mouth, draws about half its patients from the Capital District, mostly from the towns of Bethlehem and Guilderland. The remainder come from other regions in New York and other states.

"We even have Amish patients who don't use telephones or electronics so we have to communicate with them by letter," Nadine Stram said.

Over 20 years, the center has seen more than 15,000 patients. A couple of thousand are active at one time. Twenty years ago the patients were predominantly female, but now the practice is split about 50-50.

The center can see about 100 patients a day across therapy areas, but Ronald Stram sees only four to five patients daily.

"Traditional medicine is time based; by contrast we give time," he said.

That focus on patient time led the center to stop accepting insurance (but it provides billing codes so patients can apply independently to their insurance companies).

"We used to take insurance, but it was mandatory that it did not pay past a certain amount of time," said Ronald Stram. "We never falter in giving time to people. ... If someone cannot complete their treatment [because of cost], we might offer discounted rates."

However, he believes most people will find a way to pay for services.

"We find that people may have little means, but they are in such poor health, poor quality of life that they look to improve their quality of life," he said. "If you can't work and then you can become functional, this investment is worth it."

As for the next 20 years, the center will continue to "push the envelope to see what else is out there," said Ronald Stram. "A lot of what we do may not be insurance approved because it has to be FDA approved and it doesn't mean the FDA did it right."

He said he also wants to "do more outreach, mission work both in Albany and overseas because I want to promote this type of medicine."

"This should be the medicine of the future, not merely thought of as alternative or integrative," he said.

At 65, Stram said he has no plans to retire. He recently met an 80 year old physician. "That'll be me," he said.

"It's an intense practice," he said. "People come here, sick, desperate, and they need hope and we don't want people not to continue to provide that."

Police, Fire And Emergency Calls

According to reports, an employee at the store alerted Bethlehem police that Aaliyah Stout, 26, was attempting to leave the store with unpaid items and detained her.

After an investigation, Stout was found to have an outstanding warrant from Schenectady and taken into custody. Walmart declined to press charges for the theft since it received its merchandise back.

This was not the first time Stout has been charged with stealing from local stores.

On March 1, at CVS on Delaware Avenue she was arrested for shoplifting and, at that time, had an outstanding warrant and arrested again six days later for stealing from Walmart. It was the same night she was to appear in court for the first incident.

Stout and another woman were located a short distance from the store after loss-prevention staff called police describing her in connection with the theft of a bluetooth speaker.

She was charged with petit larceny, processed on that charge, given an appearance ticket and released.

The merchandise was recovered in a nearby field and Stout and another woman were taken into custody.

In the CVS incident, Bethlehem police responded to a report of a shoplifter leaving the store with bags of stolen items. Officers located Stout a short distance away with the items in a backpack and garbage bag. Police also found needles and drug pipes in the bag.

A check of Stout's identification, at that time, showed she had an outstanding warrant in Schenectady.

This time she was processed on the warrant and transported to meet Schenectady police again.

Stout was in possession of needles, a crack pipe and a knife this time.

NOTICE OF SUBMISSION OF ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT AND CONSTRUCTION PLAN FOR CHAMPLAIN HUDSON POWER EXPRESS

Please take notice that, on October 2, 2023, CHPE LLC and CHPE Properties, Inc. (collectively referred to as "CHPE") submitted an Environmental Management & Construction Plan ("EM&CP") for Segment 10 of the proposed Champlain Hudson Power Express ("CHPE") Project. This EM&CP includes installation of approximately 20.9 miles of buried overland cable beginning in the Town of Bethlehem (Albany County) and ending in the Town of Catskill (Greene County), primarily along railroad rights-of-way.

On April 18, 2013, the NYS Public Service Commission (Commission) issued to CHPE a certificate of environmental compatibility and public need (Certificate), pursuant to Article VII of the Public Service Law (PSL), to construct and operate the CHPE Project. The Certificate requires that, prior to construction of any portion of the Project, CHPE submit an EM&CP for review and comment.

Details of the planned work locations, including an overview map of the proposed route, is available on the Project website at: <https://chpexpress.com/overview-of-public-documents/environmental-management-construction-plan/>. In general, construction activities for this Segment is anticipated to commence in late 2023. Where possible, construction will generally occur during daylight hours, though some limited activities would extend to later hours as needed.

The EM&CP provides detailed information regarding how this Segment of the Project will be constructed, the specific locations of the proposed permanent right-of-way, Construction Zones, and temporary work areas, as well as descriptions of work to be performed, plan and profile drawings depicting the Project, and protocols to be used during construction to protect the community and the environment, and to comply with the CHPE Certificate. The EM&CP must be reviewed and approved by the PSC before construction on this Segment can begin.

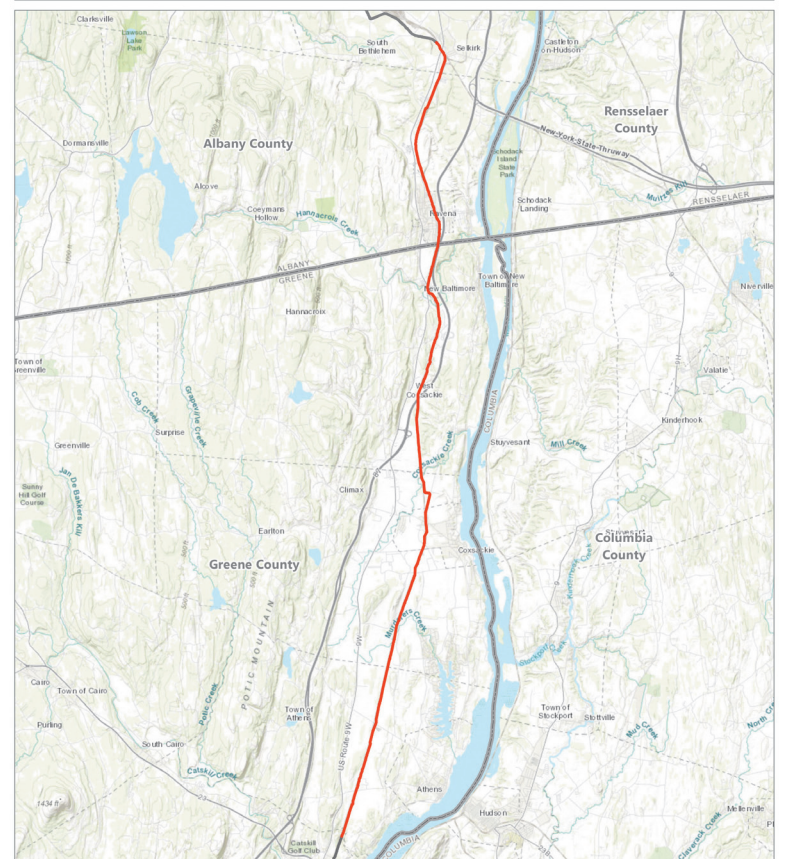

The full Commission docket for the Project can be accessed via the Commission's website at: <http://documents.dps.ny.gov/public/MatterManagement/CaseMaster.aspx?MatterCaseNo=10-T-0139> and electronic copies of EM&CP documents also will be available on the Project website at <https://chpexpress.com/overview-of-public-documents/environmental-management-construction-plan/>. Paper copies of the EM&CP submissions will be available for viewing at the following local document repositories: Bethlehem Public Library, 451 Delaware Ave., Delmar, NY 12054; RCS Community Library, 95 Main St., Ravena, NY 12143; Heermance Memorial Library, 1 Ely St., Coxsackie, NY 12051.

Comments related to this proposed EM&CP should be submitted to the Commission Secretary by email at secretary@dps.ny.gov or by mail to Michelle Phillips, Secretary, NYS Public Service Commission, 3 Empire State Plaza, Albany, NY, 12223, within 30 days of the EM&CP segment's filing with the Commission. All comments should reference Case Number 10-T-0139.

LIBRARIES

Safety improvements to begin

This week, the library has begun making improvements to the plaza walkway leading to the parking lot entrance. If the weather cooperates, we will start replacing the bricks on the walkway with asphalt to improve traction and allow better access into and out of the library on winter days. In past years, it has been a challenge to keep the bricks ice free, even when other areas of library property have been treated and cleared. We are pleased to be making this change for the safety of our visitors.

During this project, you may notice some disruption during the brick removal and paving process. At times, the parking lot entrance may not be available. We encourage those who are able to use the entrance facing Delaware Avenue, however, we will have an alternate entrance available through the library garage facing the parking lot. Curbside pickup will also be available.

We'd like to thank all of our library visitors for their patience as we move forward with our walkway improvement project, which is being done in partnership with the Town of Bethlehem. Comments or questions? Give us a call at 518-439-9314 or email us at info@bethpl.org.

Our favorite star

The Sun is special to us. It is the ultimate source of everything that makes life possible on Earth. But the Sun, astronomically speaking, is just a normal, yellow, middle-sized star. Unexceptional in every way. And yet its birth, life and likely death, illustrate the incredible ways in which our universe builds itself. Join Dr. Mindy Townsend, Dudley Astronomer at Siena College, Tuesday, Oct. 17, at 7 p.m. as she discusses our fantastically normal star.

Visit bethlehem.librarycalendar.com to sign up. This is the second event in our Look to the Skies series.

Two charged in thefts at BC

Charged with grand larceny and trespass

DELMAR – Bethlehem detectives arrested two men for stealing copper and aluminum from outside a maintenance building in August after an investigation.

According to reports, workers at the facility noticed a heating coil was missing on August 25 and called police. Video of the exterior of the building showed that two men in a rental truck pulled up at 11:03 p.m. on August 24 and allegedly removed the coil.

They allegedly returned to the building at 2:44 a.m. to take other material located in the same area. The value of the heating coil taken was $4,210.

Detectives identified one of the suspects as Robert Mancucci III, 41, of Schaghticoke, and interviewed him at a parole office in Albany on September 18. During the meeting, Mancucci admitted involvement in the theft and the second person was Jacob Hoskins, 39, of Saratoga Springs. Mancucci was taken into custody at that time.

On Thursday, September 28, detectives traveled to Saratoga to interview Hoskins and, after an interview, took him into custody for the thefts.

Both men were charged with grand larceny - over $3,000, a felony, and trespass, a violation and arraigned in Bethlehem Town Court. Mancucci was sent to the Albany County jail because he had prior felony convictions. Hoskins was released on his own recognizance. They will be back in court on Tuesday, Oct. 17.

Boy hit by car on Kenwood

GLENMONT - A 12-year-old boy was hit by a car near the intersection of Kenwood and Hoyt Avenues on Monday, Oct. 2 at 6:54 p.m.

According to reports, the boy was sitting stationary in the eastbound lane of road talking to a friend, was not wearing reflective clothing and did not have any lights on his bicycle. He was struck by an eastbound vehicle.

The boy was wearing a helmet and did sustain injuries to his leg and face. He was treated by Delmar-Bethlehem EMS.

According to police, the driver of the vehicle, an 18-year-old man from Delmar, did not see the bicyclist. During the investigation, the man, admitting to talking on a cell phone and police found that his vehicle did have a headlight out. The man was ticketed for traffic violations and the condition of the boy is unknown.

Grand larceny at Lowes, two warrants

GLENMONT - A 32-year-old Catskill man was arrested by State Police on an outstanding warrant from Bethlehem for a September 2 theft at Lowes.

According to reports, Nathaniel Picardi allegedly took two Dewalt planers from the shelf at the store and left without paying for them. The value of the merchandise was $1,248.

Picardi was identified by several law enforcement agencies after officers circulated surveillance images of the suspect. He was involved in thefts at other Lowes locations in the Capital District.

Bethlehem Judge Andrew Kirby signed an arrest warrant for Picardi on September 2.

He was charged with grand larceny, a felony, arraigned, released on his own recognizance, then transported to Colonie police investigators.

Picardi is scheduled back in Bethlehem Town Court on November 8.

Warrant

GLENMONT - A wanted man was arrested by Bethlehem police after he contacted the agency to inquire about getting his vehicle released on Tuesday, Oct. 3.

Christian Markus, 31, who is homeless, was looking to get his dump truck back after it was towed by police. He had an outstanding warrant from the Town of Colonie and was processed on the warrant and transported to meet Colonie police.

Autumn in the orchard

Local farms suffered a devastating late frost, but visitors can still enjoy the fall bounty

ALBANY — Apple-picking, hay rides, fresh cider doughnuts, and brilliant autumnal foliage are iconic to New York State. With abundant local orchards and farms, the chance to explore the great outdoors during this time of year is never more opportune.

However, after a late frost in May, orchards in the Hudson Valley and Champlain Valley have found themselves in the position of having to rebound late in the season. In mid-April and May, apples mature and the petals fall off, making them vulnerable to temperature changes. This year, the frost arrived just when the apples began to form.

Summer festivals made the arts accessible

By AMARIS FORD
news@spotlightnews.com

ALBANY — Local organizers are calling the 2023 summer festival season a success, citing rising attendance numbers and a growing number of new vendors.

“Albany is a huge spot for tourism with all of these festivals that we have,” said Keith Morales, Special Events Coordinator for the City of Albany Office of Cultural Affairs.

Morales said attendance at local festivals has continued to rise, with this season returning to 2019 numbers.

“It’s the new normal, so not everything is back, but it has recovered,” he said.

Ryan Murray, director of marketing for Troy Savings Bank Music Hall, said attendance was robust at the Barker Park Kids’ Series summer events.

“We could see it growing and growing,” he said.

Morales said the summer festivals are important for the local economy.

“Not only are people coming out, but we’re seeing new vendors pop up all over the place,” he said. “People are coming back and starting new businesses or adjusting their previous businesses into something else.”

An essential aspect of the Troy Music Hall’s Summer in the Square series was its proximity to local restaurants and outdoor dining. Farmers markets and vendors are a core component, providing guests with a taste of local cuisine during the festivities.

From the Albany Latin Festival to the Albany Tulip Festival, free events and music highlight the importance of having accessibility to the arts within the communities.

“I don’t think people realize how much free programming is out there during the summer for families,” said Murray. “I think it’s important for us to engage with families and show them that this is a place where children can get that art exposure. Everyone has seen how art programs are diminished and budgets have been slashed. It’s important for organizations to reach out, especially to the community surrounding them, and engage with them in a positive way.”

“I think it’s one of the best things that a community can get. Live music and art is such a different experience from just watching a live show online or listening to music on a streaming platform,” said musician Roni Kaspi, who performed at the Albany Riverfront Jazz Festival with her band.

The drummer and singer, who is set to debut her single “Mistakes” in October, said she especially like that the festival was free to attend.

“Everyone could just come and listen to music.

They brought great bands for this lineup,” she said. “We could feel onstage that the people were really enjoying it. They didn’t have to pay anything. They could have just decided to get up and go, but they stayed. The overall vibe was very free, open, and like a community.”

Kaspi encourages audiences to support artists by being open-minded and ready to try new genres of music.

For those interested in getting involved, Morales noted the importance of volunteering.

“A lot of our events are put on by a small staff of four to five people, with 20 volunteers,” he said. “It’s a great way to get involved with the community.”

“I feel like it’s important for every community to have events like this because it connects people and makes them happier. It’s enriching your own thoughts, and live music makes you feel good,” added Kaspi.

“That’s what we’re here to do: engage with people, give them opportunities to see world-class artists, and engage with those artists and each other,” said Murray.

normal, but we're doing OK," said Isabel Prescott, whose family has owned and operated Riverview Orchards since 1944. "We feel fortunate to have apples at all; a lot of the farms got major freezes."

Half of the Riverview Orchard crop survived the frost, which she considers "lucky."

"It's been really hard on the apple industry," she said. "If you depend completely on your income as a farmer on one crop, life can be rough when you don't have that crop. It's a whole year's worth of pay down the drain. You have all of the expense involved, but none of the return. Some are going to be OK, but some won't be."

Laura Ten Eyck, manager of Indian Ladder Farms, said this kind of late-season freeze hasn't happened before in her memory.

"In the past, we experienced spring frosts happening during the bloom, not after fruit had begun to develop," said Ten Eyck, whose family has

This kind of late-season freeze hasn't happened before in my memory.
— Laura Ten Eyck, Manager of Indian Ladder Farms

operated the farm at the property for more than 100 years.

The farm wants people to know what to expect.

"You'll see some surface scarring on some of the fruit based on when the frost hit it during its development," said Ten Eyck. "Some of that scarring will create grooves in the shape of the fruit or marks, or just on the surface of the skin. You can still eat the fruit, as well as bake with it."

New York is the second-most prolific apple-producing state in the country, with Washington in first place. Prescott said she wondered if those statistics may change this year.

For visitors to Riverview Orchard, it's the education about farm life that is an important part of the experience. Prescott recalled from her childhood how visitors rarely used to take part in aspects of farming, feeding the animals, or education. Now, it is the backbone of their work and essential to their future.

"We try to give information on farms and local food sources, which are the best," she said.

An observation bee hive educates people about the importance of honeybees for pollination and the food chain.

Visitors to Riverview can watch the award-winning apple cider doughnuts being made, feed the goats, go apple-picking, and take a free hayride on the weekends. The farm also sells pumpkins and other locally grown, seasonal products.

"When people come here, we try to make it obvious what's going on," she said. "That's one of the beauties of coming to the farm."

At Indian Ladder Farms, they take pride in how there is something for the whole family to enjoy, whether hand-picking produce, visiting farm animals, exploring the nature trails, or enjoying a beer or hard cider made with ingredients grown on the farm.

The farm encourages patrons to utilize the Pick Your Own Hotline before coming out to the farm to know what apple varieties are available at which times. The number is 1-866-640-PICK.

Indoors, the farm's bustling Farm Store offers visitors its signature hot cider doughnuts. In the months ahead, their calendar is busy with their planned Hawaiian Oktoberfest, Wet Hop Festival, Halloween Pet Costume Contest and Parade, and more.

Despite the difficult year for orchards and farms throughout the Capital Region, Prescott highlighted the resilience of the local farming community.

"All of us [farms] are pretty unique, because there's not that many," said Prescott. "Each one of us has our own particular lifestyle, concerns, or hopes for the future. It's a farm; it's what we do. We all have the same goal: We're producing food, food for the public, and we really believe in that."

She said the best way to support farms is to buy locally.

"Farms like mine are small; we don't sell to major food chains or internationally," she said. "That's not the goal of these small local farms in this community. We depend on our local community to buy from us. The community is the one supporting us, and we support them through what we do and what we produce."

Night of the Living Red in Troy

Music and camaraderie highlight gathering of 'gingers'

By AMY MODESTI
modestia@spotlightnews.com

TROY – A sea of redheads were enjoying a night out in the Collar City at the Night of the Living Red, Part X event held Wednesday, Oct. 4, at Ryan's Wake which brought families, friends and even non-redheads together for camaraderie, good times and live music from singer Sofia Corts.

The community event was put on by the League of the Extraordinary Redheads headmaster Duncan Cray. Cray wanted to put on an event where all redheaded individuals could come together in solidarity and have a really good time.

"So I wanted to make an event that was based on 'call in culture,'" Cray said. "All right, we are different, we are 'the other', but we're not going to get offended by your treatment of us. ... Instead, we're going to have fun with this and have a really good time."

Cray has organized and run the social gatherings for 11 years. One year, the event didn't occur due to COVID.

Guests who attended the gathering had a good time and felt safe amongst their peers. The young children of redheaded and non-redheaded families also felt great, Cray said.

The Night of the Living Red, Part X included many activities for attendees to immerse themselves in. All participants gathered outside Ryan's Wake for a group picture taken by Montclair, N.J., photographer Neil Grabowsky, and listened to Corts perform two original songs, "Spring Cleaning" and "Temporarily," and a cover of Rhianna's "Love On The Brain."

Corts covered "Spring Cleaning" on the acoustic guitar. Pianist Peter Islein accompanied Corts on piano in her vocal renditions of "Temporarily" and "Love on the Brain" in front of an impressed audience.

Even non-redheads got involved in the fun by trying on red wigs and posing for

According to Cray, redheads far and wide have attended his events. Guests have traveled to Troy from Buffalo, Saranac Lake, New York City, Boston and Providence, R.I., in previous years. The event has also attracted international visitors from the Netherlands and Ireland.

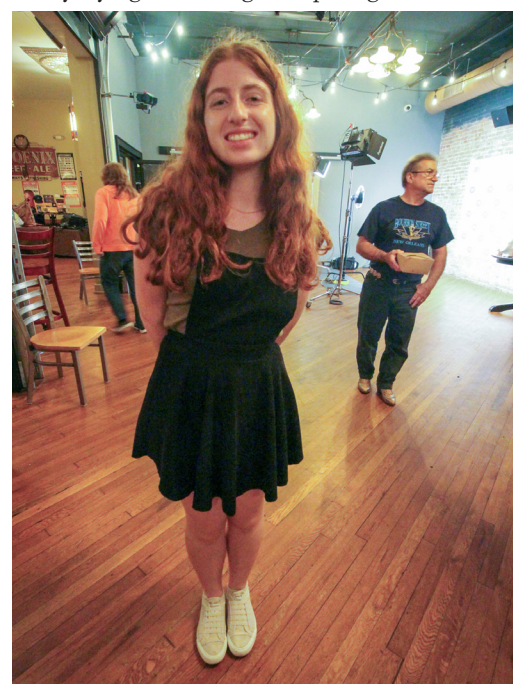

Karina Spivak from Brooklyn traveled up from New York City to the Capital Region for the gathering. She said she is always looking for unique events to attend in New York City and didn't want to limit herself to just her home base.

Spivak said she loved her time spent in Troy.

"I love it! Duncan Cray took me around to meet everyone in Troy. Troy's very cute and very nice," Spivak said.

A waiter at Ryan's Wake told Spivak to also check out other Troy hangouts where young people hang out, and she took that advice to check things out.

"There are people that I was talking to that did not know that this event was happening in Troy," Spivak said. "There are parents that don't have red hair that are showing up with their little ginger babies and their little ginger kids."

1944) is best known for his vivid depictions of love, anxiety, and death. Raised in a strict religious household, one impacted by the early loss of his mother and sister, Munch once poetically stated “sickness, insanity, and death were the black angels that guarded my cradle.” The artist has been understood as an isolated and melancholy figure, and his early years were indeed marked by struggle as he faced critical censure and battled addiction and mental illness. By his mid-thirties, after Munch sought natural cures and medical attention, he found emotional stability and commercial success at home and in Germany, where he lived for many years. When he returned to Norway for short stays, settling there permanently in 1909, Munch lived in a variety of rented and purchased residences in the countryside, preferring natural surroundings to the urban environment. New York State Museum Unveiled: Wedding Wear in 19th-century New York

In choosing their wedding clothes, brides and grooms are influenced by fashion, economics, technology, religion, geography, celebrity, personal taste, and their role in society. This was as much the case in 19th and 20th centuries New York as it is today. Wedding clothing holds memories, and pieces—dresses, shoes, suits, and head wear—are often preserved and passed to subsequent generations. A couple’s choices reveal historical information about both the individuals who wore them and those who made them. Some garments find their way to museum collections. This exhibition will unveil stories of select New Yorkers. Exhibit is on going until December 2023 Museum hours: Tuesday–Sun, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; 222

Is Schenectady a quiet country town or a bustling riverfront hub? What is the proper role of women in this new society? Jessica Kirson

Jessica Kirson is a powerhouse on stage. She's a hilariously relatable performer of sheer silliness, vulnerability, and ridiculous characters. Her countless comedic character videos have racked up over 50 million views on social media. Her audience is multigenerational, creating an excuse for large groups of friends and families to spend a night out together. In an era where only 10% of all touring comedians are female, Jessica stands out as one of the strongest comedians regardless of gender. Jessica produced FX's Hysterical, a feature-length documentary that premiered at SXSW 2021. The film explores the changing landscape of women in stand-up comedy and features Margaret Cho, Nikki Glazer, Chelsea Handler, Fortune Feimster, and other notable comedians. Her one-hour special Talking to Myself was executive produced by Bill Burr and debuted on Comedy Central. In 1979, he formed The Racquette River Rounders with Danny Gotham and Michael Hadfield. Then in 1984, along with Michael Hadfield and Frank Carattera, Kribs formed Johnny & The Triumphs, a roots/rockabilly band, opening for blues artists including James Cotton, Johnny Copeland, Eddie Shaw and the Wolf Gang (from Howlin' Wolf), Hot Tuna, Robert Cray and others. Kitchen Dwellers

W/S/G Fireside Collective

Kitchen Dwellers twist bluegrass, folk, and rock through a kaleidoscope of homegrown stories, rich mythology, American west wanderlust, and psychedelic hues. The Montana quartet—Shawn Swain [Mandolin], Torrin Daniels [banjo], Joe Funk [upright bass], and Max Davies [acoustic guitar]—have captivated audiences at hallowed venues such as Red Rocks Amphitheatre and performed alongside everyone from Railroad Earth and Twiddle to The Infamous String Dusters in addition to playing festivals such as Northwest String Summit, WinterWonderGrass, and more. They've released two critically acclaimed albums. A quintet who cheerfully disregard every kind of one-dimensional label that might be attached to their music, Fireside Collective has been on a roll since emerging from the fertile roots music scene of Asheville, North Carolina. In quick order, the progressive bluegrass group released its debut album, won the 2016 Band Contest at MerleFest, earned an International Bluegrass Music Association Momentum Band of the Year nomination and embarked on an ambitious touring schedule that's earned an enthusiastic reception from traditional bluegrass to wide-ranging, eclectic music festival audiences alike. North Mississippi Allstars

Nothing runs deeper than family ties. Brothers, sisters, fathers, mothers, sons, and daughters understand one another at the purest level. When families rally around music, they speak this oft-unspoken bond aloud and into existence. After 25 years, twelve albums, four GRAMMY® Award nominations, and sold out shows everywhere, North Mississippi Allstars open up their world once again on their thirteenth album, Set Sail [New West Records], welcoming other family (by blood and by the road) into the fold. As legend has it, Luther and Cody Dickinson started the band in 1996 as a loose collective of like-minded second-generation musicians who shared a local repertoire and regional style. Over the years, the lineup shifted by design, and each subsequent record offered up a different combination of collaborators. This time around, they mined the talents of Jesse Williams on bass and Lamar Williams, JR. on vocals. During the Allman Betts Band Family Revival, the Dickinsons first linked up with Lamar, son of the Allman Brothers bassist Lamar Williams, Sr., becoming fast friends and collaborators and eventually paving the way for Set Sail. This show will be October 14th at 8 p.m. only at the Cohoes Music Hall, 58 Remsen St., Cohoes.

Jonathan Richman

A singer and songwriter who has stubbornly (and joyfully) followed his muse in a career that began in the early '70s as leader of the punk rock band Modern Lovers, Jonathan Richman's solo career as an acoustic balladeer, is known for passionate tunes in Spanish as often as in English and purposefully naive music that revels in a childlike love of the world around him. Jonathan performs his one-of-a-kind songs accompanied by Tommy Larkins on the drums. Catch this show October 14th at 8 p.m. at the Egg, Agency Building 1, S Mall Arterial, Albany.

Monuments

One of two bands (Tesseract is the other) to be born out of the dissolution of British djent pioneers Fellsilent, London-based transcontinental groove/progressive metal outfit Monuments originated as a side project of John Browne (Fellsilent) and Josh Travis (Tony Danza Tapdance Extravaganza) before morphing into a full-blown touring and recording entity. The group's 2012 Century Media debut, Gnosis, garnered international attention with its heady blend of djent-fueled riffing and hook-laden yet incredibly complex melodies, resulting in the group expanding to a quintet in 2014 with the subtraction of Travis and the addition of Chris Barretto (Periphery), Olly Steele, Adam Swan, and Mike Malyan. Come see the show October 11th at 8 p.m. only at Empire Underground, 93 N. Pearl Stree, Albany.

Muscadine Bloodline

Hailing from Mobile, Alabama, and based in Nashville, Tennessee, the contemporary country duo Muscadine Bloodline certainly sound Southern, but they don't necessarily seem beholden to either hometown. At times, the pair of Charlie Muncaster and Gary Stanton can recall the plainspoken sound of Texas Red Dirt country, sometimes they kick up a bit of Southern rock, and sometimes they have the polished songcraft synonymous with the Music City. All of this is evident on their eponymous 2017 debut EP and 2022 full-length Dispatch to 16th Avenue. Come see the show October 13th at 8 p.m. only at Empire Underground, 93 N. Pearl Stree, Albany.

Galactic Empire

Galactic Empire is a quartet of prog-metal musicians who came up with a novel idea for a group: turn the music of the Star Wars universe into vehicles for metallic shredding, then perform dressed as Darth Vader, Boba Fett, Stormtroopers, and other Sith lords. Guitarists Josh Willis, C.J. Masciantonio, Chris Kelly, drummer Grant McFarland, and bassist Carson Slovak -- Willis and Masciantonio both played in Unparalleled Height; Slovak and McFarland were in Century -- unveiled their Galactic Empire act via YouTube in December 2015, debuting with a version of the Star Wars "Main Theme," which was followed in the spring of 2016 by their take on "The Imperial March." By May, the group had started a crowdfunding campaign to record an album and tour, hitting their targets in the middle of summer. Rise Records signed the band and their eponymous debut arrived in February 2017. The following year saw the release of the aptly named Episode II, which focused on the Star Wars sequels. Come see the show October 14th at 7 p.m. only at Empire Underground, 93 N. Pearl Street, Albany.

Barns Courtney

A British singer/songwriter who splits the difference between Ed Sheeran's sensitivity, the big-footed stomp of early Mumford & Sons, and a keen moodiness, Barns Courtney received a heavy boost in 2015 when his song "Fire" appeared on the soundtrack to the Bradley Cooper vehicle Burnt. It, along with the single "Glitter & Gold," brought attention to his 2016 debut album, The Attractions of Youth. Courtney ramped up the energy and gloss for 2019's 404, returning to that sound with 2022's "Supernatural" after a brief sojourn of introspection on 2020's Hard to Be Alone. Come see the show October 14th at 8 p.m. only at Empire Underground, 93 N. Pearl Street, Albany.

The Hawthornes

Capital Region purveyors of pop and rock music, THE HAWTHORNES, played their first gig at the Hollow Bar + Kitchen (Albany, NY) in 2021 to a sold-out crowd. The band has been winning over fans with their stylistically unabashed and playful mix of classic and contemporary songs. Long-time members Laura Paigo (vocals), Jeff Sohn (bass), Andy Hearn (drums), and Peter O'Hearn (guitar) welcome Michael Carapella (guitar), a 30 year veteran of the LA music scene (Betsy's Big Day, Glass House, G3 Band) who recently returned to the area See this show live October 13th at 7:30 p.m. only at the The Hollow Bar + Kitchen, 79 N Pearl St, Albany.

Say She She

The three strong voices of Piya Malik (El Michels Affair staple feature, and former backing singer for Chicano Batman), Sabrina Mileo Cunningham and Nya Gazelle Brown front the band. Following the NYC siren song, the trio was pulled from their respective cities — Piya from London, Nya from DC, and Sabrina from NYC — to Manhattan's downtown dance floors, through the Lower East Side floorboards, and up to the rooftops of Harlem, where their friendship was formed on one momentous, kismet eve. See the show live October 13th at 8:30 p.m. only at the Lark Hall, 351 Hudson Avenue Albany.

Biggie is Dead

Step into a world where time-honored melodies collide with urban poetry, where the rhythms of yesterday's legends unite with the beats of a modern era. Introducing "Biggie is Dead," the ultimate mashup tribute that seamlessly blends the Grateful Dead's signature grooves with the lyrical genius of Notorious B.I.G. Get ready for a sonic journey that defies genres and sparks new musical dimensions. At the heart of "Biggie is Dead" lies the powerful fusion of two iconic forces. The Grateful Dead's ethereal harmonies and improvisational magic interweave with Biggie's slick rhymes and storytelling prowess, creating a tapestry of sound that resonates with fans of both worlds. Each performance is a dynamic celebration of musical innovation, where "China Cat Sunflower" meets "Kick in the Door," and "Shakedown Street" flows seamlessly with "Hypnotize." See the show live October 14th at 8 p.m. only at Lark Hall, 351 Hudson Avenue Albany.

Soft Machine

Just like those earlier configurations, since they began recording and working live in 2004 as Soft Machine Legacy and the arrival of Theo Travis in 2006, the current lineup continues to defy easy categorization For Theo Travis, there's a rich combination of elements that combine to form what he believes to be Soft Machine's appeal. "I like the freedom, I like the variety of colors, the band improvisation. The fact that it has such a strong catalog of music going back over 50 years from which we dip into and play. With a lot of jazz stuff, you do it and people come up and say 'good gig' or whatever, but it's not like it means something in the same way as a band that has history and a cultural significance in the way that Soft Machine has. For me, it's a suitable combination of rock, jazz, improv, melody, risk-taking, textures, and experimental looping. It's pretty much all the things I like to play in." Catch this show October 12th at 8 p.m. only at The Linda WAMC's Performing Arts Studio, 339 Central Avenue, Albany.

Yam Yam w/ Hilltop

Yam Yam is dedicated to exploring and creating beautiful music together. The members bring a diverse range of influences to the group, including jazz, gospel, jam, and funk. Michael Dempsey plays piano and organ with a focus on jazz, gospel, and New Orleans boogie, while Xander Moppin provides the foundation of funk on bass. Tyler (Kokko) Fuller brings the pocket to the drums, and brother Tom Fuller adds his groove and ethereal and psychedelic soloing on guitar. Then finally, is the virtuous saxophone playing of Jason Meschia, bringing influence from Eddie Harris and John Coltrane among others. Together, they create a high energy, soulful, and psychedelic sound that is sure to get fans moving. The band had its start in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania and has since traveled throughout the U.S., bringing their music to wherever listeners may be. Hilltop is a four piece jam band from Albany, NY. Over the past five years they've made a name for themselves with carefully crafted originals, mind bending improvisation & fun, diverse covers. Each member offers a proficient, unique approach to their instrument that defines the musical experience. This band of young musicians is eager to spread their music and will continue to engage crowds wherever they go. New Halloween Attraction aimed to scare and attract Rensselaer County

modestia@spotlightnews.com

SCHAGHTICOKE - Located in upper Rensselaer County is Spooky Island, a haunted, mysterious place located inside Schaghticoke Fairgrounds. This brand-new attraction in the Town of Schaghticoke will have visitors spooked and enchanted by its creepiness and horror, with scary creatures lurking around the grounds during October.

Spooky Island officially opened to visitors September 29. Additional operation hours were added in addition to the opening weekend. The attraction runs Thursday through Sunday, 4-11:30 p.m. through October 29.

Who was it created by?

Spooky Island was created by Schenectady resident Michael "Mikey"

Guerra and Orlando, FL residents Claudia Verbaas (Art Director) and Dominic Zaworski (Creative Director). At a young age, Guerra went to Orlando, FL where he developed an interest in horror and filmmaking with a desire to bring his creepy nightmares to life.

Upon returning to his hometown, Guerra worked in the theme park industry in Orlando and helped create haunted houses in Central Florida. It was in Florida where he met and worked alongside Verbaas and Zaworski alongside other creative projects, including Spooky Island which the creators all call it their passion project.

"(Spooky Island), it's a great movie quality stuff and the on-driven storytelling is what we like to call it." Guerra said. "We're very proud."

Why was Spooky Island Created?

Verbaas and Zaworski have worked alongside Guerra and Tracy Christopher, media liaison for Spooky Island and event manager of the Schaghticoke Fairgrounds since January on bringing the project to its current site. Verbaas, Zaworski, and Guerra, who work in the theme park industry and had done some film projects together in Orlando, wanted to bring this new experience to New York State.

"When he (Dom) and I were visiting New York a few years ago, we thought that this is something that this area needs and then we've been working ever since figuring out how to do that." Verbaas said. "We're very lucky and happy to have this be what it is now, but it's definitely been a long road to get here."

It's been a dream of the creators to bring Spooky Island to life and the idea to bring people together to experience an evening of horror and haunted houses with friends and family while creating lasting memories is something that they wanted to achieve for years, she added.

Dom added, "We felt like there was nothing like this in the area because there's a lot of haunted attractions that you can go to but we wanted to be different. So we wanted to bring that." Everyone can come to this, everyone can enjoy it but also you can come and get scared if you want."

Visitors who attend Spooky Island can check out the haunted houses and dig deeper into its story lines or walk through its haunted streets and get scared by other Capital Region scare actors who are involved in the hauntings.

"We want everyone to start getting curious and realizing as you're walking through the house that it's telling you a story or walking through the streets that there's something going on. That's not just, oh, we're scaring. These are actors and we're trying to bring something to life." Zaworski said.

Why Schaghticoke, NY?!

"Schaghticoke is considered to be a small town, so it's like helping get the name out because you'd be surprised that some people in New York have never heard of this place but now they're like, wait, where is it? And now they're gonna start booking tickets to come here and bring business to this community." Zaworski said. "That's what we're trying to do. Even though we're not from this community, they've embraced us so well that we wanna try and give back as much as we can."

Zaworski and Verbaas have solicited the assistance of local businesses to vendor at the vendor hall by selling oddities, crystals, candles, and other Halloween oddities. In addition, the creators had reached out to Schaghticoke businesses and area towns to purchase items needed for their displays such as pumpkins, corn stock, and items from area farms and antique shops.

“What’s cool about this location, as you’re driving to the Schaghticoke fairgrounds, the first thing you see is all the lights from the carnivals and stuff like that but you can also see the tips of the tents. So as people are coming in, it starts to get that curiosity, which I think is already happening as we’ve been building a lot.” Zaworski said.

Why Schaghticoke Fairgrounds?!

Verbaas and Zaworski formed a good relationship with Christopher who was a great asset for them to speak to about doing Spooky Island. The duo shopped it around to some different areas and after a while, felt that with the space and timing of the event that Schaghticoke Fairgrounds was the perfect place for them, Verbaas said.

“We really think that by starting this (Spooky Island) up, the community around here has been amazing at adopting it and embracing it so I’m definitely glad that we decided to do this where we did.” Claudia added.

What Will Spooky Island Include?

Visitors who purchase tickets to attend Spooky Island can anticipate seeing carnival rides and games, food vendors, craft vendors at the visitors hall, and live entertainment on the fairgrounds stage. In addition, there will also be two haunted houses, Tunnel of Blood and Spook-E-State and three scare zones, Tribe of Terror, The Upstate Ripper, and Disciples of Darkness. At the Disciples of Darkness Zone, visitors can take selfies with the town’s oldest ambulance that is now used as a prop for their fictional doctor, Dr. Damon’s sketchy looking surgery car, along with a hearse.

Visitors can also take selfies with various spooky decor on display throughout the island destinations and can tag their photos online on social media using the hashtag, #spookyislandny .

In addition to the craft vendors, visitors can also purchase Spooky Island souvenirs ranging from t-shirts, beanie hats, and hoodies.

Not too often, apart from the annual fair events, benefit tractor pulls, and other non-fair events, does Schaghticoke Fairgrounds have another festival on its grounds. Spooky Island will be the first festival post-Schaghticoke Fair to occur.

“When we were creating this event, we thought of what we would want. If we were to do something like this, what would we want to be there and everything that we thought of as benefits that we saw in other events.” Verbaas said. “We’ve been to a million haunts and we’ve pretty much taken notes from everything and thought of everything that we think would make a perfect night out.”

The Story of Spooky Island

“The story of Spooky Island goes that this tribe is basically in a place in time that doesn’t really exist. It’s not anything that you could really pinpoint intentionally. The tribe created these portals to other scary situations to put you in to harvest your fear. So they thought of all these things that are going on over here and brought all these creatures to Spooky Island to scare us.” Verbaas said.

How to Obtain Tickets/ Parental Advisory

Due to frightening moments

throughout the event, some of the haunted houses and scare zones are not recommended for children aged 12 and under, parental discretion advised. It is also not recommended to those who have health impairments that could be affected by strobe lights and disorienting smells inside the haunted houses and scare zones.

Parking for Spooky Island is free and is located in the field in front of the fairgrounds’ grandstand. Extra parking is also available for all vendors, scare actors, and participants and is free for visitors. Tickets for Spooky Island can be either purchased online at www.spookyislandny.com . Ticket prices are $39.45 including a $4.45 fee via eventbrite.

FOOD & VINO

Test your culinary chops with quiche

Quiche Lorraine

Serves 6 to 8

TART PASTRY

- 1 1/3 cups all-purpose flour
- 8 tablespoons cold, unsalted butter, cut into eight pieces
- 1 egg
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 tablespoons cold water

FILLING

- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
- 2 eggs plus 1 egg yolk
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
- Pinch of freshly grated nutmeg
- 1/4 pound ham (boiled, baked or smoked), diced or 8 strips of cooked bacon, crumbled
- 1/4 pound Swiss-style cheese, such as Gruyère or Emmentaler, diced, sliced, or grated (about 1-1/3 cups)

Cheese is a comfort food that boasts a sizable fan base. There are all sorts of appealing cheeses to cater to any craving, ranging from soft varieties like ricotta or brie to hard cheeses like Pecorino Romano or gorgonzola.

Cheese features prominently in many dishes, including quiche. Quiche is a rich, cheese custard tart that originated in France. While there are many varieties of quiche, Quiche Lorraine is perhaps the best-known and the blueprint upon which all other quiches are based. Individuals who want to try their hand at crafting this beloved dish can utilize this recipe for “Quiche Lorraine” from “French Classics Made Easy” (Workman Publishing) by Richard Grausman.

1. Preheat the oven to 475 F with the rack set in the middle position.
2. Place all of the tart pastry ingredients into the bowl of a food processor fitted with a metal blade and process until the mixture blends together to form a mass, about 20 seconds. If it doesn't form a mass after 25 seconds, add another teaspoon of water.
3. Turn the pastry out onto a lightly floured work surface, dust the pastry lightly with flour and begin the blending or kneading process known as “fraisage”: With the heel of your hand, push the pastry down and away from you a little at a time and repeat this process three or four times or until the pastry is smooth and does not stick to the work surface.
4. Lightly dust the pastry with flour and shape into a flat round, much like a thick hamburger. The pastry can be used immediately, unless it is too warm and soft. In which case, wrap it in plastic wrap and refrigerate for 10 to 20 minutes.
5. Line a 9 1/2- or 10-inch tart pan with removable bottom with the pastry.
6. Prick the pastry, line it with aluminum foil, and weight it with 1 pound of dried rice or aluminum pie weights. Bake until the edges of the pastry begin to color, about 20 minutes. Remove the pan from the oven and remove the foil and beans from the pan. Spread the mustard over the bottom of the pastry. Lower the oven temperature to 425 F.
7. In a bowl, beat the eggs and yolk lightly. Blend in the milk, salt, pepper, and nutmeg.
8. Spread the ham and cheese evenly over the bottom of the tart shell. Pour the custard into the tart shell to within 1/8-inch of the top of the crust. Holding the tart pan by the outer rim (so as not to dislodge the bottom), place the pan in the oven.
9. Bake until the custard puffs, 25 to 30 minutes.
10. Unmold as soon as possible. Allow to cool for at least 10 minutes before cutting into wedges and serving. The quiche is delicious served at any temperature.

Dig into these facts about a vegetarian diet

Vegetarians adhere to plant-based diets, primarily avoiding meat and poultry in lieu of alternative protein sources. The World Animal Foundation reports there are approximately 1.5 billion vegetarians across the world, making up roughly 22 percent of the global population. The organization Cook Unity reports that, as of 2022, 5 to 8 percent of the United States population declares themselves as vegetarian.

People who are considering switching to vegetarian diets may not understand how to transition to a new way of eating. Experts say that a vegetarian diet can be very healthy if it is approached in a way that ensures individuals consume a nutritionally balanced diet.

Type of vegetarians

Vegetarianism breaks down into a few different categories.

- Lacto-ovo vegetarians: These vegetarians consume eggs and dairy products but do not eat any meat, poultry or fish.
- Lacto-vegetarians: These vegetarians consume dairy but avoid eggs, meat, fish, and poultry.
- Ovo-vegetarians: These vegetarians omit meat, fish, poultry, and dairy products but consume eggs.
- Pescatarians: These vegetarians eliminate meat and poultry from their diets but allow fish.
- Vegans: Individuals who are vegans eliminate all animal-based and animal-derived products.

Can vegetarians meet their nutritional needs?

Harvard Health Publishing says in recent years the pendulum into the study of vegetarianism has swung from the direction of pointing out potential nutritional deficiencies to confirming health benefits of meat-free eating. Today, plant-based eating is recognized as nutritionally sufficient and a way to reduce chronic illnesses.

The American Dietetic Association says a vegetarian diet should be "appropriately planned" and nutritionally diverse. While a diet of pizza and chips certainly can be billed as vegetarian, it is not a healthy way to gain nutrients. It is essential to make sure that a wide variety of fruits, vegetables and whole grains are consumed.

Pay attention to specific nutrients

Depending on which foods are eliminated, people adhering to vegetarian diets may experience nutrient deficiency. Therefore, attention should be placed on vitamin B-12, calcium, vitamin D, protein, omega-3 fatty acids, iron, zinc, and iodine, which largely are found in animal-based products. Seaweed can be a vegetarian option for iodine; enriched cereals can provide iron and zinc; walnuts and olives can provide omega-3 fatty acids; and soy and legumes can fill in protein deficits. Individuals can work with doctors or dietitians to plan balanced, plant-based meals.

People considering vegetarian diets can educate themselves about the lifestyle and how to maintain optimal health.

Thoughts on inflation cycles

It has to do with cycles. Economic cycles. Interest rate cycles. The economy was in a disinflationary cycle from 1981 until just prior to the pandemic. Now, inflation rates are rising. We think there is an inevitability to that cycle, but the pandemic was the point when it became apparent. If the pattern holds, this inflation could last fifteen, even twenty years, with the interest rate cycle mirroring that. But there is something different with this period of inflation. The labor cycle. This country's labor force is comprised of everyone over age 16 who is not institutionalized. Within that labor force, not all can work or want to work. The labor force peaked in 1998, with 73% of people working or looking for work. Today that number is less than 63%. This was not caused by the pandemic. Part of the cause is artificial intelligence. Go to

McDonald's and you will see two or three kiosks where you can place your order. It is just a matter of time before it is all kiosks. Our aging population also plays a part. We have a lot more people consuming these days, but significantly fewer people in the labor force contributing toward those goods and services.

Regardless of what you hear about this period of inflation, do not overreact. It is human tendency to get caught up in the suddenness of what is "in" and what is "out." You do not want to buy something simply because it is going up quickly. It may not be sustainable. A successful investor is going to be able to execute their strategy with discipline regardless of what is going on. Remember, whether it is a pandemic or inflation, there will always be something going on.

Do not use any economic situation as an excuse to attempt to time the market. As Warren Buffet said, "The stock market is designed to transfer money from the active to the patient." Chasing returns is a form of market timing. Switching from stocks to bonds can be another. Our company does not engage in market timing in any way. We study companies and buy for the long run. We do not simply sell to buy something that looks better.

We tell our clients not to expect inflation to be cured in the short run. Each time it comes down, it is likely to eventually go up higher, resulting in a pattern of higher highs and higher lows. When people spend a higher percentage of their income on necessities (or entertainment), two things get shortchanged, healthcare and retirement — two things everyone is going to need. If a couple is alive at 65, one will likely live into their nineties. That is a long time to go without a raise or a bonus. Ultimately, we must spend less. We must save more, and we must invest in something that earns more than the inflation rate. If you are not getting more than the inflation rate, you are really losing money.

Star Roofing helps customers find the solution

Staff provides an alternative to the cookie cutter approach to roofing

By CHEYENNE WALLACE
news@spotlightnews.com

ALBANY - With winter right around the corner. Star Roofing wants to help its customers find a solution for their roofs.

There are roughly 60 days left in the roofing season, the time to call to get a roof done this year is now. While it is possible that the roofing season could extend into December, it is difficult to tell with the weather patterns. After that construction will return in March 2024.

“Star has employees and crews to accommodate those folks who have waited to get their roofs done,” Peter Wall said. “We’ll do everything in our power to get their roof done by winter.”

Regardless of what time of the year a roof is being worked on, Star Roofing has every solution for its customers. With Star, there is no cookie-cutter, one-size-fits-all solution. Every roof is unique, and Star has an in-depth discussion to ensure they meet the customer’s needs and expectations.

Meeting with Star about their roofing solutions is very quick and a collaborative process. 24 hours after the in-home visit, a detailed written proposal will be given to customers. There is a constant give-and-take between Star Roofing salespeople and their customers.

“We’re basically looking at the situation and making recommendations and getting the homeowner’s feedback and input to put something together for you,” Wall said.

From roofing trends to systems, shingles, and other materials, everything is a collaborative process. For those who don’t know much about roofing, Wall says they are more than willing to lead customers in the right direction of a long-term solution. This process is more than a sales call to Star Roofing.

Star Roofing continues to offer an extended warranty on all roofs they work on. The materials and systems Star uses are created using the most up-to-date technology that will only help protect customers’ roofs over time. Star remains dedicated to its customers, as well as the protection and safety of the roofs they work on. That includes individualizing every re-build to that customer.

“We try to understand what our customers are looking for, and based on that, we send out the appropriate estimator or salesperson with expertise with the situation,” Wall said.

“We try to understand what our customers are looking for, and based on that, we send out the appropriate estimator or salesperson with expertise with the situation.”

— Peter Wall

A tale old as time, weather remains unpredictable. However, if a roof needs to be done, the time is now. There is no telling if Star can extend their building season well into December or they will have to stop at its start. As soon as temperatures drop below 38 to 40 degrees, it is not recommended to install shingles. Once the temperature drops below 38 degrees, shingles may not seal, which will only cause damage and leaks to occur.

If a roof needs repair or a customer is looking for a collaborative process throughout, Star Roofing is the place to call now. Wall and his team are ready to complete roofs by winter. Before it’s too late, call Star Roofing today.

Period to shop for health plans begins for Medicare recipients

Between October 15 and December 7, Medicare enrollees can change their Medicare Advantage or prescription plans for 2024.

"This period allows Medicare enrollees to shop for a health plan most closely matched to their doctors, prescription medications, travel plans and, of course, budget," said DGAicorn & Associates General Agent Dan Alcorn. Based in Niskayuna, this team of local and licensed agents specializes in Medicare plans and believes "healthcare is local."

What does that mean?

"While Medicare Advantage and Part D drug plans are governed at the federal level, each plan is offered on a statewide, regional or county level," Alcorn said.

"Our team of local agents live in the communities they serve and are more aware of the local healthcare environment than a representative on the other end of a toll-free number."

An example would be a letter Albany Medical Center recently mailed to its patients announcing it would not be accepting a certain Medicare plan after January 1. "Our agents, in the community, became aware of that letter right away and will consider that when helping clients select a Medicare healthplan for 2024. No telemarketing representative would know that degree of detail about what is happening at a local level."

Another example is the New York EPIC plan or how Medicare Supplement eligibility rules differ in New York compared to Florida. "I am licensed and serve clients in multiple states, and New York rules definitely are definitely beneficial to the individual member," said Alcorn

Along with your annual physical, "we encourage Medicare enrollees to have a local licensed agent help with your health plan checkup, too. Select your local agent at www.dgalcorn.com and visit one at a community presentation or request a telephone or home appointment to have your questions answered and explore options for 2024."

Millview Homes Creates a Home Away from Home

By CHEYENNE WALLACE
news@spotlightnews.com

LATHAM - It is difficult for a family to decide to place their loved one in an assisted living facility. Millview does its best to make that decision comforting rather frightening and overwhelming.

Millview Homes is an assisted living community that offers services to about 50 residents and is all one floor, allowing the residents to move around freely and create friendships with their neighbors. Millview prides themselves on the affordability of care to their residents.

“We are a non-tiered facility, which means that the price won’t increase as your loved one needs more assistance,” Alica Dooris, Administrator and Director of Operations at Millview, said.

With the smaller number of residents and the smaller pool of staff, a close relationship becomes second nature. It doesn’t take long for residents to get to know the entire staff and for new staff to know the residents.

With staff getting to know residents, they also form a close relationship with the residents’ families. This relationship builds trust with family members and a sense of knowing who is taking part in their loved one’s care and that they are being well taken care of.

“One of the most rewarding things about working at Millview is that we get to help our residents age with dignity and respect while forming close relationships built on compassion and understanding,” Dooris said.

One of the significant things Millview believes in is continuing the independence of their residents for as long as possible while in assisted living. Often, residents feel like their independence has been stripped away once they move into an assisted living facility. However, Millview encourages their residents to do as much as they can on their own, for as long as they can.

Millview staff will step in when assistance is needed but try to motivate residents to do things themselves. Residents can also participate in activities inside and outside the facility that Millview offers. It is highly important to Millview that their residents maintain their independence for as long as possible.

“We like to say ‘move it or lose it’ and motivate our residents to maintain their independence, whether it’s walking around the building, joining in for exercise class or playing a game of cornhole,” Dooris said.

Assisted living facilities are essential as they allow loved ones to remain safe and taken care of as they age. Sometimes the removal of everyday tasks as a homeowner is essential for the safety and wellbeing of loved ones.

“Assisted Living communities allow people to remain as independent as possible while removing some of the tasks that become difficult to do in your home as you age, such as; cleaning, laundry, cooking, lawn care, and snow removal,” Dooris said. “It also allows people to socialize with others who have gone through similar situations and can relate to how they may be feeling.”

For Millview, safety, dignity, and independence are the stepping stones to making their residents comfortable to live in their care. Aging is a part of us all, assistance should be comforting and not scary.

When you’re here you’re home!
